ICE J. ALLEN

County Clerk

In Memoriam

This directory is the last one prepared by Lynn D. Allen before his death. He served Oakland County as its Clerk continuously from January 1, 1933, to May 31, 1958. That he was loved by many, counted his friends by the thousands and served his county well is eloquently attested by his long term of uninterrupted service.

His was a happy nature, evidenced by a contagious smile and a jovial disposition. He was an outstanding athlete, and an enthusiastic fisherman but never more happy than when in the Fall the impish vagaries of Nature painted the landscape in such a delightful array of colors.

Lynn enjoyed life because he liked people, and when the Great Spirit calls the roll in the Happy Hunting Ground, Lynn will answer the call. Truly it can be said of him, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant."

Delos Hamlin,
Chairman Oakland County
Board of Supervisors.

OAKLAND COUNTY FACTS AND FIGURES

By Joe Haas

My principal peeve is the fact that a great many of the people of Oakland County are not aware of its size in population or geographically. Nor do they understand its importance in an industrial way.

Consequently, it is suggested that they make this a year to look around their home surroundings. If they do this, they'll agree with the great majority of our residents that it is an ideal place to live.

As its underlying and very substantial foundation, our country was blessed by nature as were very few areas in our entire nation. On this foundation has been built an industry, business, agricultural and home superstructure without parallel.

Situated at the very heart of the greatest manufacturing section in the world, we have the factories to furnish the employment that is the core of the livelihood for a larger number than any similar area with no city of 100,000 population or more.

Our workers live on a much higher scale than those crowded into the tenement houses and other super-congested areas found in every large city. A greater percentage of these workers own their homes than can be found under usual circumstances.

Oakland County has kept pace with its marvelous growth in population in its construction of schools better than any other comparable area in the whole United States. New school construction has about overtaken the census.

In most sections of our county proper zoning has been established in time to head off the hodge podge architecture in homes and business houses found in other areas. Our thousands of new homes are far above the nation's average in cost and general livability. The shack is almost unknown.

Our churches, civic projects, and other betterment features are not excelled anywhere. Special schools are among the nation's best, and we soon are to have a university branch, so our young people can go to college at home.

Our public utilities are quite generally kept in anticipation of our growth, and are investing millions on a gamble with our county's future—and those people never lose out on what they plan.

While in second place among Michigan's 83 counties in population and in industry, we take first place in highway mileage and other features that make it a relief and happiness-builder to get away from the big city.

Our 423 lakes is the largest number in Michigan's 60 counties in its southern peninsula. And this is the greatest number in any similar area in the nation that is so contiguous to a large city.

These lakes in our county now are the year round homes of a large part of our population, people who live under circumstances that are the envy of all who are forced to live in a big population center.

The numerous cities we do have in Oakland County all have room to spread out in every direction. They are not hemmed in on one side by any large lake or river.

More homes are being built outside the limits of any city or village than are being erected within these limits. The public utility extensions give them the same privileges.

With more state parks and other recreational facilities than any other county in Michigan, we have become the playground for a good number of our neighbors. They have little to offer of a comparable nature. There are public landscapes in our county that cannot be surpassed.

Considering the above facts, I implore Oakland County people who are not familiar with them to get out and see for themselves. When you know more about your wonderful county you'll feel prouder to live, work, do business and pay taxes in it. The grass is greener on this side of the fence.

A sence of modesty that is not always commendable also seems to afflict many of our people who do not appreciate what our county really has to offer its residents. They hesitate to proudly expostulate its many advantages when talking to people from other areas. We surely have something (yes many things) to brag about. Let's do more bragging.
