INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT OAKLAND COUNTY

On May 6, 1812 Congress passed an act to make a survey of this territory. The report of that survey was in part:

"That with few exceptions the land was low and wet with a very thick growth of underbrush intermixed with very bad marshes, but generally very heavily timbered with Beech, Cottonwood and Oak in addition to numbers of lakes. The streams are generally narrow, and very deep compared to their width, the shores and bottoms of which are (with few exceptions) swampy beyond description, and it is with the utmost difficulty that a place can be found over which horses can be conveyed in safety. Taking the county altogether, so far as has been explored, and to all appearances, together with the information received concerning the balance, is so bad there would not be more than one acre out of a hundred, if there would be one out of a thousand, that would in any case admit of cultivation.

This proved to be a serious drawback upon the county which was very naturally considered as of little value for agricultural purposes, if not worthless altogether. But during the years of 1817 and 1818, a few venturesome pioneers braved the dangers of the forest and morass, and demonstrated the report of the surveyors to be untrue. And since that time the county's development has been rapid.

The County was organized in 1819, and on June 28, 1820, the Governor divided the County into two townships, Oakland and Bloomfield, which had a population of 300.

On April 12, 1827, the County was divided into five townships, Oakland, Troy, Bloomfield, Farmington and Pontiac, which had an aggregate valuation of $338.00, $849.00 in 1828. The aggregate township expense including its proportion of the County costs was $823.32.

The first Supervisors elected by these townships were Roger Sprague of Oakland, Stephen V. R. Trowbridge of Troy, Lemuel Castle of Bloomfield, Amos Mead of Farmington, and Jacob N. Voorhies of Pontiac, who were paid one dollar per day while the board was in session.

In 1831, the Townships of Southfield and Sagana were added to the County.

In 1833, Novi, Royal Oak and Grand Blanc.

In 1834, Mia, Commerce, West Bloomfield and Lyon.

In 1835, Waterford, Milford, Highland and Avon.

In 1836, White Lake and Orion. Grand Blanc and Sagana was then discontinued.

In 1837, Addison, Brandon, Independence, Rose, Springfield, Oxford, and Groveland were added, and Mia was discontinued.

On March 5, 1838, the Township of Holly was added to the County making a total of twenty-five townships.

In the early days the County must have been overrun with wolves as we find in the Proceedings of the Board of Supervisors that one of their first official acts was to increase the bounty on wolves. This cost the county considerable in payment of bounties for their destruction, as in the October session of 1831, the Board paid the County bills totaling $756.09, of which $235.00 was for bounties on 47 wolves. At the following session in March, 1832, bounty was paid on 46 wolves amounting to $230, while the total of all other County bills paid amounted to only $318.40. From 1827 to October, 1834, the County paid bounty on 412 wolves a total of $2,049.50. The bounty being $4.00 in 1827 was raised to $5.00 for wolves and $2.50 on whelps. By the 1840's this situation was pretty well taken care of, for we find that in 1843 there were bounties paid on only four wolves.

From 1820 to 1827, the County was governed by a Board of County Commissioners. These Commissioners were replaced by a Board of Supervisors in 1827, who governed the affairs of the County until Jan. 1, 1839, when again it was changed back to a Board of Commissioners who served until March 22, 1842. This Board consisted of Isaac J. Voorhies, George Brownell, and William Axford.

The pioneers of our County must have looked to the future of our County as a Manufacturing center, as well as a great Agricultural county, for we find in July 7, 1849, the Oakland County Agricultural Society was organized. The purpose of the organization was for the encouragement and advancement of Agriculture, Manufacture and Mechanical Arts.

During the years from 1836 to 1850, business in the County was carried on to a large extent by the transfer of County orders. As, for example, when one of the County officials was paid, he was given a County order by the Clerk. This order he would have split up in smaller orders—sometimes as many as twenty-five and thirty. These being the right amount to pay his bills. These orders would find their way back to the County Clerk's office, many times to be split up in the proper amount to transact some business. This would lead one to think that money was very scarce during those years. County officials were paid semi-yearly and some, yearly, during these early years, and their salary was very small. In 1831 the District Attorney was put on an annual salary of $75.00 per year. This was in line with salaries paid other County officials.

In 1851, the County was divided into five Representative Districts. At this time the population of the County was 31,267.

LATE FACTS

Oakland County is, with the exception of Sanilac County, the largest in the southern peninsula, having an area of 900 square miles, with 400 lakes with an area of over 20,000 sq. acres, or one lake to each 2 sq. miles. These lakes are stocked annually with approximately four and a half to five million fish, consisting of Blue Gills, Yellow Perch, Black Bass, Brook Trout, and Great Northern Pike.

In Oakland County, at Drayton Plains, is located a Fish Hatchery that is the largest of its "kind" in the world for the production of Blue Gills and Bass. This property consists of 87 acres, 50 of which is under water, capable of producing 5,000,000 Blue Gills and 250,000 Bass yearly.

Of the 57 State Parks in Michigan, with an area of 37,000 acres, 11 are located in Oakland County with an area of 1006 square acres.

There is, also, one County Park located near Davisburg with an area of over 600 acres.

These parks are all accessible by the network of good roads in Oakland County consisting of 288.10 miles of concrete, 105.25 miles of Black Top, and 244.40 miles of Gravel, all County roads, besides 189.30 miles of State and Federal roads divided as follows: Concrete, 158.84; Black Top, 20.26; and Gravel, 10.20 miles.

Oakland County has approximately 560 miles of established County Drains, consisting of 110 miles of closed drains and 450 miles of open drains.
