Some 75,000 would reside in a suburban half of the community, with 25,000 living in the Metropolitan half, officials said Wayne State University's Dr. Hubert Locke, who directed the study, said the "paired-town" concept is an attempt to "make certain that future urban growth - both physical and economic - takes into account the needs of both the cities and the suburbs, so that one is not expanded and enhanced at the expense of the Suggestions within the study

The central city, according to the report, would be a single community of 25,000 residents, while the suburban component would be a trio of "villages" of 25,000 each, clustered into a "town" setting. A rapid transit system would link the two sites, with people mover transportation technology" operating within each

Ski Trip Spells Weekend Fun

by Nancy Dingeldey
This past weekend Bob and I had the pleasure of doing some good hard skiing. The place was a delightfully cozy ski lodge about a three hour drive north of here - Sheridan Valley by Lewiston. We were the guests of Faye one - her maternal great-grandmother,

We've really never had the opportunity of skiing on "virgin" snow but this time we got it. What a thrill and a good many laughs to boot. Olga and Walt Tuck and their son Dave, along with Frida Waara, completed our group but it was almost like old home week. Julie Tate, youngest daughter of the George McCollums, was a guest of the Chuck Longs, and also seen among the 'schooshers" was Marianna Karell the George McCollum's of Nalone. That's one way to see your George's brother passed away this past neighbors. A great group of people, lots of ski talk and the pleasure of seeing some really great skiers. And they do Saturday night. If all goes well, our start them out young - one little guy costume should be completed and was only 2½ years old and I wish you could have seen him go. We got rather used to watching the really young kids week I'll have a run-down on the take a hill with ease. Kind of makes Confidence grew as the day progressed so as my mentor Fred looked on I decided to show him my skiing skill. Off the hill I took just like "Superman" and hit a patch of powder dead center. Of course, this cut my speed in half which caused the body to pitch forward and I did a dive head first into the snow and executed a perfect summersault. Whoopee for me! the next boo-boo was great... I was being shown how to do a certain turn and I was to follow suit. Something happened and I wound up face first in the snow again only this time in a perfect spread eagle.

Don't get me wrong - those two little jolts to my vanity weren't bad for all the hours we were out on the slopes. It just kind of put a few giggles into the sport. I have found muscles that I didn't even know existed - just wait 'til next time. I won't forget to pack Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Skeltis and

SPEAKING for The Record By BILL SLIGER

The sad truth about humanity is that we never learn.

Our frailities are innocent enough at the beginning.

Mother says Johnny may have a chocolate. He clutches all he can hold, consumes them rapidly, grabs another handful, gulps them down, and wipes his hand clean on his shirt.

When confronted by his mother, he declares he "only had one." But the evidence would indicate otherwise.

Johnny ends up punished, usually sick and probably minus the freedom to help himself to an occasional chocolate.

Not many years ago local communities enjoyed the privilege of determining their own property assessments for purpose of levying local, school and county taxes.

Soon it became apparent, however, that all properties were not being assessed in the same manner. The property (house, lot, commercial or industrial building) of a lifelong community resident (who might be a friend of the assessor) frequently carried a remarkably low assessment when compared to the absentee property owner, or the large industrialist with a subsidiary plant in the

So a higher authority (in this case the state assumed the role of "mother") introduced the "equalization factor," which really didn't equalize things at all, but merely served to point up the many inequities in assessing practices.

Actually, application of the equalization factor was like giving Johnny a spanking. And it brought about widespread reappraisals of all properties based upon uniform standards established by a higher authority.

Simply explained, the "equalization factor" severely penalized those property owners who had not been given favorable assessments by increasing them to such heights that the inequities became obvious.

"Mother" responded with guidelines that removed another measure of independence from local communities.

Recently, it was pointed out in this column that abuses could lead to the loss of another power from local-level authority, namely

Northville Realtor Stan Johnston passed along a copy of the February 1 "Realtor's Headlines" publication which carries the same

"The implied threat of federal government intrution into local zoning matters presents a genuine challenge to Realtors and to citizens everywhere." the magazine quotes its new association

And the Realtor spokesman further points out that the loss of this local authority is almost certain to come about "unless local leaders change their attitude about housing for low-income families.' He sums up by urging community leaders to take corrective action "where the zoning laws are working against the common goal, where the low-income family seems to be squeezed out of an opportunity for housing where it might logically be feasible.

The same warnings are coming from George Romney's Department of Housing and Urban Development. It is urging the administration to take action against communities where zoning devices are being used to discriminate against low-income housing.

The loss of zoning control at the local level would be tragic. Yet it may be the only solution.

The threat should serve as fair warning to all local zoning authorities and they should make every effort to re-examine their respective zoning maps to be certain they provide a reasonable ratio between all zoning categories.

And in fairness, if federal action is taken to usurp local authority in the area of zoning, let it be where abuses exist.

Take the candy away from Johnny, not his brothers and *******

One of the best ideas I've heard in recent local government history is the joint meeting called tonight between the city council. township board and recreation commission.

The latter will explain the need for funds in the up-coming budget while the two bodies controlling the purse strings can listen

In the past separate appearances were made before each governing unit and communication suffered.

It has been outstanding... so Congratulations to Bud Hartner and his diligent workers.

Speaking for Myself

Should The Flag Be Worn As Clothing?

Yes....

I answer yes to this, but a qualified yes. To dismantle a flag, then reassemble it or parts of it into

To use as an ornament in a degrading manner (such as sewing it on a jacket upside down or using it as a patch on the seat of a pair of jeans) - No! Never with disrespect

The rules of etiquette for the American flag indicate that it should not be used as part of a costume or on a uniform. Yet many police officers, military personnel – even our astronauts wear an American flag patch or pin. Certainly they are telling us, "I'm an American. I'm proud of my country! I will serve and support it."

Many of today's mod fashions are designed of red, white and blue, using a stars and stripes motif. This is really nothing new. It's been a favorite color scheme from military uniforms to marching bands to Easter finery. Even mothers have dressed their little sons in blue and white sailor suits with stars on the collar! The strongest advocator is our own Uncle Sam. How patriotic he is, in his red, white and blue. star spangled suit!

When I see our young people in striped "Uncle Sam" pants or wearing a stars and striped hunting scarf and mittens, I believe the "Spirit of '76" is still with us.

How fortunate we are to have colors so strong and patterns so secure to endure for almost two hundred years.

Patricia Thomas

No . . . .

First of all because it violates our national flag code. Our flag code says a flag should not even be draped ever a car, train or boat, certainly not over a person. When displayed flat, the folds are to fall free as if the flag was staffed-impossible on a pair of pants. The flag should never touch anything beneath it such as the ground, the floor, water or merchandise and should never be handled in a manner as will permit it to be easily torn, soiled or damaged in any way. As a piece of clothing how can these requirements be upheld? Further the flag should net be embroidered on such articles as cushions or handkerchiefs and the like, printed or otherwise impressed on paper napkins or boxes or anything that is designed for temporary use and discard or use as any portion of a costume or attactic uniform.

Our flag is the symbol of our country. The respect or disrespect we show this symbol is a reflection, maybe subconscious, but nevertheless it is a reflection of our regal attitude towards our country.

It is possible for people to display the flag wrong through lack of knowledge but wearing this greatest of all freedom symbols shows complete disrespect for all of these millions who have fought and died to uphold its wearing.

Name Stempien To Top Committee

State Representative Marvin R. Appropriations Committee in fiscal Stempien (D-Livonia/Northville) has been reappointed to the House Committee on Appropriations, the most powerful committee of the House

Again this year he has been esignated chairman of the General Government Subcommittee which reviews and recommends the budget for the following branches of state zovernment: Executive, Legislative, Judicial, Attorney General, Secretary of State, Civil Service, Civil Rights, Treasury and Administration. The appointment was announced by the Speaker of the House, William A.

Because of the importance of the Appropriations Committee and the not customarily appointed to any other standing committees of the House. In addition to the standing committee assignment, however, Speaker Ryan also named Stempien to the House Trustee Robert Wilkins told fellow Fiscal Agency Board. City Manager Ollendorff reported people in the district to tell me no on that Congressman Jack McDonald, 19th Congressional District including the necessary budget. Let's not try to Northville, is spearheading support of President Richard Nixon's revenue sharing proposal. The Congressman is one of the sponsors of the bill carrying the President's stamp, he said. Ollendorff, who had been told by state municipal representatives that McDonald was one of the Congressmen who had not taken a stand on revenue sharing, wrote McDonald urging him to back the legislation. McDonald replied that he long ago took a stand on this matter and, in fact, was sponsor of earlier proposed revenue sharing the law's sponsors, shares that hope. Initially, federal law makers hoped to prohibit mailing of all pornorgraphic literature but this approach was a virtual impossibility, explained Esch, because it meant a satisfactory (legal) definition as to what is or is not pornographic. And in view of Supreme Court rulings on matters of censorship, it was dropped. Similarily, legal cobwebs make prohibition of the sale of mailing lists to smut publishing houses difficult. Not only may names and addresses be purchased from book clubs, magazines, etc., but some federal agencies actually sell such lists.

The legal question arises, when a citizen subscribes to a magazine and gives his name and address who becomes the owner of that name and instead to regulate the material at its sex-oriented literature out of their mailboxes. Furthermore, it requires the sender to place on the outside envelope warning that alerts the addressee that the mail contains sexually oriented advertisements. Hopefully, said Esch, the new law will withstand any Supreme Court test.

Here's how it works: A citizen opposed to the receipt of such material fills out a form at the post office stating his name and address and declaring that he does not wish to list for five years unless he requests in receive sexually oriented matter of fact, U.S. postal methods of handling this kind of mail just recently were ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court, according to Richard informs the sender that such mail is not to be sent. If, after such a warning, another letter is sent to the recipient and such is reported to the post office then the matter is turned over to the federal district court in the area where the mail originated, a restraining order is issued, and if it is ignored the sender can be held in contempt of court. It is a longer process that does not guarantee that sufficient presssure can be brought against the sender to make him desist, Jones said.

Nevertheless, postal patrons may avail themselves of both the new law and the old one by filling out two different applications. "I hope people don't confuse these laws," cautioned Steimel. "Their best bet is to fill out the new form." These forms are available at local post offices.

Putting Things In Order

In this age of medicare, social security and homes for the aged, sometimes people forget an important part of growing old—tranquility!

Yes, tranquility and peace are just as important in growing old gracefully as is sufficient insurance or all the other means with which we show our con-

Have you ever noticed that old people have a knack of putting things in order? In fact, they need everything tidy, neat and sure. Certainly their greatest need is for peace and security-but this can come only when they are at peace with God! If we want to read the harvest of friendship with God in our old age, then we must cultivate our relation with Him-when we are young and able. Regular church attendance and worship is your assurance of peace and tranquility during your own gentle lengthening years. It will be a heaven-sent reward and one which you cannot, will not, want

TIPS ON SHOWING IN HALTER CLASSES

Many horsemen lack knowledge of the correct showing technique for breeding classes, even though they may be quite professional in exhibiting in performance Breeding classes are shown "in hand" which means that they are exhibited at the halter or when wearing a bridle. The halter should be clean, properly adjusted, and fitted with a fresh looking leather or rope lead. If the horse is shown when wearing a bridle, the exhibitor should avoid jerking on the reins so vigorously that injury will be inflicted on the

The guiding principles adhered to by most successful horsemen when showing at halter are:

1. Train the horse early. 2. Groom the horse

4. Enter the ring promptly and in tandem order when the class is called; line up at the location requested by the ringmaster or the judge, or if directed, continue to move around the ring in tandem

5. Stand the horse squarely on all four feet, with the forefeet on higher ground than the hind feet. The standing position of the horse should vary according to the breed. For example: Arabians are not stretched, whereas American Saddle breds are stood with their front legs straight under them and their hind legs back slightly. Other breeds are generally stood in a slightly stretched position; somewhat intermediate between these

When standing and facing the horse, hold the lead strap or rope in the left hand 10 to 12 inches from the halter ring end in such a manner as to encourage a head-up position.

JUDGES LIKE PLEASANT EXPRESSION ON FACES. They also like good manners: boys who take off their hats when receiving trophies, riders making room for others who want to ride past them in the ring, being sure to keep far anough behind the horse ahead enough behind the horse ahead so as not to tempt him to kick.

J U D G E S L I K E

WELL-GROOMED HORSES AND WELL-GROOMED RIDERS. - Both boys and girls should have well-fitted, conservative clothes. Clean polished boots and hat. In the case of girls, their hair should be particularly neat. If long, it should be done up in a bun or if the girl is young, pigtails.

Its true in the A.M.H.S. rule book it states that a rider's ability rather than personal ability rather than personal attire should be judged.

Although this is right and proper, the attire of the riders will still play a considerable part in the exhibitor's over-all appearance, and this he or she will be judged on. If appearance is sloppy, it can't help making his performance help making his performance look sloppy.

appeal is taken and upon due cause shown. 23.05. JURISDICTION. The Board of Appeals, may, in specific cases, after due notice and hearing and subject to appropriate conditions and safeguards, determine and vary the application of the use, height and area district regulations herein established in harmony with their general purpose and intent, as follows:

A. ADVISORY OPINIONS. To

render an advisory decision, or opinion,

on any matter referred to it by the Building Inspector, whether or not such matter is expressly or clearly implied by the terms of this Ordinance as being within the scope of his power and authority to dispose of, when in his judgment, such action would be necessary or helpful in maintaining the spirit and intent of this Ordinance. B. VARIANCES. The Board of Appeals as herein created, is a body of limited power. The Board shall have power to vary or adapt the strict application of any of the requirements of this Ordinance in the case of exceptionally irregular, narrow or shallow lots, or other exceptional physical conditions, whereby such strict application would result in practical difficulty or unnecessary hardship that would deprive the owner of the reasonable use of the land or building involved, but in no other uses, except as specifically described. However, no variance in the provisions or requirements of this Ordinance shall be authorized by the Board unless the Board finds evidence that all the following facts and conditions exists: (a) That there are exceptional or extraordinary circumstances or conditions applying to the property in question, as to the intended use of the property that do not apply generally to other properties in the same zoning district.

(b) That such variance is necessary for the preservation and enjoyment of a substantial property right, similar to that possessed by other properties in the same district and in the same vicinity. The possibility of increased financial return shall not of itself be deemed sufficient to warrant a variance.

(c) That the authorizing of such variance will not be of substantial detriment to adjacent property, and will not materially impair the intent and purpose of this Ordinance or the public interest. (d) That the condition or situation of the specific piece of property, or the intended use of said property, for which the variance is sought, is not of so general or recurrent nature as to make reasonably practicable the formation of a general regulation for such conditions or situation 1. VARIATIONS IN YARDS. LOT AREA AND PERCENTAGE OF

LOT COVERAGE. To permit variation or modification of yard, lot area and percentage of lot coverage, and floor area requirements of this Ordinance as may be necessary to secure an appropriate improvement of a parcel of land which is such size, shape or dimension, or which has such peculiar or exceptional geographical, or topographical conditions that it cannot be appropriately improved without such variation or modification. provided, that the purpose and spirit of this Ordinance shall be observed, public safety secured and substantial justice

2. OFF-STREET PARKING VARIATIONS. Permit a variation or modification in the required location of off-street parking facilities, if after investigation, by the Board, it is found that such variation is necessary to secure an appropriate development of a specific parcel of land which has such peculiar or exceptional geographical or topographical conditions, or is of a size, shape or dimension that it cannot reasonable supply, at that location, the total amount of off-street parking space as is required for the particular use, as long as the remaining required off-street parking spaces are supplied with a distance of not more than five hundred (500) feet of the building. 3. VARIANCE IN USE PROHIBITED. In no case shall a variance be granted to permit a use other than a use permitted in that

C. EXCEPTIONS. The Board shall have authority to make exceptions as specifically set forth in this Ordinance, subject to the conditions and standards specifically described.

1. STANDARDS. The types of uses requiring Board of Appeals approval shall be deemed to be permitted uses in their respective districts, subject, as to each specific use, to satisfaction of the requirements and standards set forth in this section. Each specific use for which a permit is sought should be considered as an individual case and shall conform to the detailed application of the following standards in a manner appropriate to the particular DISTRICT REQUIRING BOARD OF APPEALS APPROVAL FOR A PERMIT shall be of such location, size and character that, in general, it will be in harmony with the appropriate and orderly development of the district in which it is situated and will not be detrimental to the orderly development of adjacent districts. In a rash of appointments Monday night, Novi councilmen named a replacement to a vacant board of review seat, set up a library board and appointed a city electrical board.

Named to sit on the board of review when it meets in March was Z. J. Dorosiewicz of 21709 Connemara Drive. He will replace Dicron Tafralian, whose term expires in March.

Dorosiewicz will fill a three year term and will be paid, with other board members, $24 per scheduled meeting. Councilmen elected a five member library board to serve independently and administer the 1/2-mill library

Helen McAskin will serve a one-year-term, Betsy Alcala two years, Arvie Athas three years, Philip Cozadd four years and Rose Howard five

A four-man electrical board was set up to review applications of those seeking electrical licenses from the city. As a board, the group will not conduct electrical inspections according to councilmen but will act as an appeals board in matters where electrical deficiencies are involved.

Herbert Fischer of 11 Mile Road, will serve as electrical inspector on the board, J. C. Currell of Farmington, as the representative of Detroit Edison, Robert Howey of Orchard Hills as journeyman and Elton Heathcock as electrical contractor.

In further business Monday night the council denied a request from Leon Zolkower of Kaufman and BBoard Developers to grant building permits prior to plat approval.

Zowkower wanted permits granted on building sites in Heatherwood and Heatherlea subdivisions, currently frozen by the city pending answer on sewage problems. Councilmen complained about
