City Manager Resigns Under Council Fire

Novi City Manager Dallas Zonkers, under council fire for several months, resigned Monday night effective April

The third manager in Novi's history, Zonkers, who doubled in the role as city assessor, is slated to leave for Washington, D. C. tomorrow on a two-week vacation. He was appointed city manager on November 1, 1969, and appointed city assessor in September of last year.

"It's just too much . . . I've explained that in the past," Zonkers said in explaining his resignation. "I was hired on as a manager and although I'll do the assessing job, they are both full-time positions and just too much for one man to handle."

Zonkers, who replaced Harold Ackley, said he was aware of no "bad feeling" of the council toward himself, and he took the position that there had been no internal pressure leading up to his resignation.

However, Councilman Denis Berry told this newspaper that intention of asking for Zonker's resignation had been pending with council for six months. "Two months ago," said Berry, "we decided that if his attitudes didn't change he would be dismissed."

being able to make decisions and not knowing the proper way to do things. Instead, the councilmen said, he was always "calling (Councilman) Don Young to find money for him in the budget or (Councilman) Edwin Presnell to assist him on assessing questions."

Zonkers replied that Berry was entitled to his opinion and that he was surprised that he (Berry) didn't "tear into me Monday night."

No immediate replacement for Zonkers is contemplated, according to Mayor Joseph Crupi, who indicated that for the present he would take over administrative duties while advertising for a replacement takes place.

Following his verbal resignation, councilmen expressed concern that the assessment role might not be completed, certified, and presented to county officials by the April 5 deadline without the assessor's presence.

City Treasurer Gerry Stipp told councilmen that all that remained to be done on the role was "to figure in the changes made by the Board of Review and total it."

She added that county personnel would be on hand to assist in the "especially since the county is helping

"They haven't complained about work not being done that should have been done," the mayor said.

Willis said that the assessment role should have been completed by the first Monday in March so the board members could have 10 days to review any inequities before their first scheduled meeting on March 9.

In addition to the staff cuts, the board is likely to trim the school program as well if the 4½ mill issue is defeated. Such cuts could mean, according to Hendrickson, elimination of elementary art and physical education, cutback in remedial reading, elimination of string instrument instruction at the high school and elementary level, and curtailment of extracurricular activities such as athletics.

Hendrickson emphasized that the board's action is not "a threat" but the current operational program. Add elsewhere.

Operation of Novi schools, particularly the two new ones slated opening next fall, without principals is seen as a "major problem." Principals could agree, without receiving additional salaries, to give up some teaching time for administrative duties, explained Hendrickson. But if this happens it would be purely voluntary, he said.

VINTAGE FINERY - Joan Batzer, right, receives compliments on her "new" lavender linen dress from Mrs. James Cowie. The blonde teenager acquired the dress at the Presbyterian rummage sale Saturday, lengthened it - and wore it to church Sunday. It was donated by Mrs. Cowie, who recalled that it was purchased at Siegel's in the mid-1930's by her sister, who was then May Christie, New, it cost more than $100. of Northville Presbyterian Church fellowship hall. They were bargains at $3.

Where can you buy a dress pattern for a penny, a girl's blouse for a quarter, a man's suit for $3?

For prices that sound like a newspaper ad of 1900, go to rummage sale. That's what bargain shoppers are doing in growing numbers from housewives to retired couples to antique hunters.

In addition to buying a lot-for-a-little, the sales are fun ... for those who attend and for those who work on them.

Early shoppers (and the best bargains are found right at opening hour) at the Northville Presbyterian Women's Association rummage sale last Friday and Saturday found a down comforter, a pewter bowl, and designer dresses.

One teenager found a lavender linen dress from the 1930's - and wore t to church the next day.

More than 50 men's suits, many fresh from the cleaners, were hung on the stage of the Presbyterian fellowship hall. The donation of Lapham's Men's Store, they were $3 each. Nearby were pairs and pairs of shoes - at 10 cents a pair. Cotton dresses were 75 cents while wools were tagged at $1.25.

In piles of clothing stacked on long tables, there were long underwear for men, wearable children's clothing that some youngsters had outgrown, gloves (3 cents), hankies and hats.

On others were toys and housewares. Donations by church members ranged from a pewter bowl to English china flowers and designer label clothes. Best donations, say rummage sale workers, often come from members who are moving and must dispose of many things.

Early morning shoppers Friday were buying armloads of clothing for a couple of dollars each.

The pennies and quarters add up, however. Association members, Mrs. Gordon Snyder and Mrs. Donald Williams, who were chairmen for the two-day event, were hoping that by Saturday noon they would have earned $500 for association projects. It's too late for the Presbyterian sale, but if you'd like to try your luck at finding a good book, an antique (at second-hand prices) or wearable clothing, try the Nearly New sile of Northville Mothers' Club slated for May 7 and 8 at the Northville Board o Education offices.

Other groups, such as the Four-H, are saving items for sales. The Little Britches of Washtenaw will be holding a sale April 17-18 at 5490 West Seven Mile, South Lyon. The riding club also need donations. Anyone with items may call 437-2994 after 5 p.m.

CO-ED EXPLORERS - Mapping future plans for Northville Explorer Post 905 activities, which this year include participation of three girls, are William Berner and Donna Sandraco. The boys voted to "go co-ed" after the Detroit Explorer Council approved the movement a year ago. They are working on the committee for a fund-raising chicken dinner April 15 at the American Legion.

Girls Infiltrate Boy Scouting

Explorer Scout baiting a fishhook in their mothers. The post has voted to the next boat some sunny Sunday turns out to be a girl! Without so much as a "woman's lib" speech the girls with the boys' consent - have infiltrated the Boy Scout Movement, and at the top level.

The co-ed movement began nationally a year and a half ago, and a year ago in the Detroit Explorer Council. Northville Explorer Post 905 voted to admit the fairer sex this past year, and three of the 20-member post are girls. They are Donna Sandraco, Cindy Lotart and Elaine Flanigan.

"It's still a boy's program," Northville Post Advisor Troy Milligan points out.

He explains that the updating of the Explorer program nationwide was done to permit girls interested in "specialty post" projects to participate. A typical post, he said, would be one studying medicine. Originally, the girls had to have been Girl Scouts or Campfire Girls, but this requirement has been relaxed.

Other specialty posts in the Detroit Council have admitted girls first, Milligan reported. While the Northville Post does not have an established interest, it probably could be declared as "Citizenship," he said, "as it is sponsored by the Lloyd H. Green Post 147 of the American Legion.

The Legion home is the meeting place for meetings held on the first and third Tuesdays. The Legion Post also has assisted financially Milligan, who moved with his family to Northville from Northwest Detroit about a year and a half ago, had been a post advisor in Northwest Detroit for 10 years. His post, he mentioned, had been an active group, even traveling to Puerto Rico. Milligan now serves on the Detroit Area Council.

Word went out "strictly by word of mouth" that the Northville boys had voted to go co-ed. The girls, who are in the 14-15 age group, are ninth graders and are a little younger than the boys in the post.

They already have participated in a joint activity, serving as official couriers at the NCAA track meet in Detroit. They will do so again on April 27 and May 8.

April 24 the post plans to participate in a SOAR (Save Our American Resources) project, and May

Don't be too surprised if that 9 there'll be a breakfast in honor of take part in Michigan Week activities in mid-May

> First co-ed campout is slated for June 12-13 with other Detroit Council posts at Charles Howell Scout Reservation. There are lots of guidelines for such a project, Milligan adds. A married couple is to accompany every five girls and boys for the campout.

> Admittedly, there are many questions on the co-ed program. Mrs. Milligan says she doesn't expect the girls can be included in all activities planned by her husband's post, but she does feel the type of girl who enjoys outdoor sports is the one who signs up. The sponsoring Legion Post 147 doesn't participate actively in management of the Explorer Post, but did have to agree to try the co-ed arrangement. Even boys in the post are weighing pros and cons.

The girls so far seem to be overcoming obstacles. The matter of uniforms was hurtled for the road rally as the trio turned out uniformly in skirts and blouses.

And for those campouts – girls long ago adopted jeans!

Preliminary estimates of revenue are put at $300,860 in property taxes for example, which represents the nd $449,098 from all other sources for a total income of $749,958.

Thus, as the council begins budget studies it is looking at a proposal showing nearly $9,000 more in expenditures than in revenue.

According to Ollendorff, - his estimate of property tax income may be on the low side since it will not be known for at least another month what the new state equalized valuation of the city is. In estimating income he is guessing that the SEV will be Ollendorff's estimates include: 529,812,160-or more than $3 million more than the 1970 figure of $478; city clerk's department, $37,250

In estimated revenues (other than property tax income), increases are predicted in state income and sales taxes reimbursed to the city primarily because of Northville's larger population in the 1970 census. Figures released by Wayne County Bureau of Taxation this past week show that the City of Northville had the fourth lowest millage rate among the 34 cities in the county low of 7.0 in Novi, to Northville's fourth-place 10.3, to

But for the resident looking for the best tax break in the area, Novi offers the lowest millage rate of any city in either Wayne or Oakland county.

Novi offers not only the lowest city millage (7.0 mills) but its school tax rate (31.10 in 1970) was the sixth lowest in Oakland – and combined, the city and school millage rate of Novi (38.10) was the lowest of all 25 cities and villages in Oakland.

The City of Northville, part of which is located in Wayne County and part in Oakland county, offers the city millage rate larger than the largest school district fourth lowest city rate in both Wayne and Oakland with a rate of 10.3 mills.

Northville School District's 1970 millage rate (34.21) was the ranked 26th in Wayne County, 11th in Oakland County. Combined, the city and school district rate in Northville (44.21) was 16th or in the lowest half of the 33 cities in Wayne. In Oakland, the combined city-school millage rate of Northville is the fifth lowest.

City rates in Wayne County ranged from a low of 8.23 mills (in Belleville), to Northville's fourth-place 10.3 mills, to a high of 27.10 mills in Detroit

City-village rates in Oakland County ranged from a Wixom's seventh-place 11.31, to a high of 20.15 mills in Ferndale

School district rates in Wayne County ranged from a low of 18.45 in Ecorse, to Northville's 26-place 34.21 mills, to a high of 43.29 mills in Westland.

School district rates in Oakland County ranged from a low of 28.35 in Pontiac, to Novi's sixth-place 31.10 mills. to Northville's 11th place 33.9 mills, to Wixom's 13th place 34.23 mills, to a high of 39.01 in Bloomfield Hills.

Only two cities in either Wayne or Oakland showed a millage rate within their boundaries. They are Detroit, where the city rate is put at 27.10 mills and the school rate at 22.86 mills, and Ecorse where the city tax rate is 22.15 mills while the school district rate is 18.45.

Interestingly, Westland has one of the lowest city millage rates (10.30, fourth lowest) but the highest school district rate (43.29).

The Wayne County city with the lowest combined city-school-county rate is Woodhaven with 39.96 mills. Continued on Page 9-A

HAS CRIME no code of ethics? Someone broke into the district court office (which is located right above the city police department) last week and took 45 unpaid traffic tickets issued by the city and township police. According to police there were no signs of forcible entrance to the office and they believe a key may have been used. Will 45 drivers get off scott free? "No," say court officials who explain records of traffic tickets are kept "elsewhere."

Households which are to be interviewed are being selected at random in each area of the city and township, Rayborn explained. "The method of selection involves picking random house numbers from a isting of all streets, roads and house numbers in the area being surveyed.

"In order for the statistical sampling to accurately reflect the attitudes of the total community it is very important for each selected household to cooperative with the survey."

Some of the 67 survey questions to be asked include: So you feel that the following services are (1) excellent, (2) good, (3) average, (4) below average, (5) poor, (6) no response:

Wilkie Hurt In Vietnam

Private First Class Dennis R Wilkie, a 1967 Northville High School graduate and former Northville resident who was wounded last month in Vietnam, is in a U.S. Army hospital in the Ryukyus Islands.

Telegrams from the Red Cross and the Army have told his parents that his left leg has been amputated below the knee, his right leg was broken and two bullets entered his left arm. He also had hand, back and facial injuries. His mother reports that the face burns are healed

Through a snag in communications, however, Private Wilkie has not been receiving mail from his family or from Northville friends who wrote following last month's report of his injuries, his mother has written friends here.

She added that evacuation to the United States has been delayed for three to four weeks as cellulitis (infection) has occurred in the amputation. Friends, therefore, are being asked to write again. His address is Pfc. Dennis R. Wilkie, 386-50-1704, United States Army Hospital, Ward 5S, Ryukyus Islands, APO SF 96331.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Wilkie, now live in Lake Ann near Traverse City. In addition to seven telegrams from Vietnam, they have received a telephone call from their son and report he seems in good spirits.

Speaking for Myself

SPEAKING for The Record By BILL SLIGER

Northville's city council gave the planning commission an assignment last week that must be considered a little more difficult than the "run-of-the-mill"

City spirits are running high at the prospects of acquiring a three-to-four million dollar commercial development in the heart of the business district.

Tax revenues alone have been estimated at more than $100,000 annually for the city and school district, not to mention the boost such a complex would give the existing business district. One business observer stated that the proposed "Northville Square" would revitalize and preserve the downtown business district.

Eager to get rolling on the project, the council recognized several obstacles immediately. The first, and perhaps most difficult, was turned over to planners for solution "as soon as possible." The problem: How much parking should be provided for the proposed development; and where should it be located?

In surveying their own parking needs the developers have indicated that 500 spaces will be required. Their estimates cannot be discarded because the success of the project depends upon customers. And the developer arrived at his estimate of parking needs by asking prospective tenants how much parking each would require to satisfy their customers.

Offhand, planning commission members were inclined to believe this is conservative. Based upon floor space, something like 600 parking spaces might be more accurate. Use of floor space comes into play here, however, because retail area calls for more parking MAIN spaces than office or storage area, for example.

At any rate, the formula for parking spaces to accommodate a central business district development of this magnitude is not simple.

Even more complicated, however, is the location of the parking. And finally, the most delicate of the problems, who pays for the parking?

Fortunately for the planners, the council made it clear that it expected the planning commission to come up with the best solution it could for the parking requirement and location only.

"We'll solve the financing problems. You provide the desired requirements for numbers and location of parking," the council stated

Planners must look north and south of the site proposed for Northville Square for parking. City Hall's on the west border and commercial buildings on the east of the site, located on the western half of the block bounded by Main, Center, Cady and Wing.

How much land is required for 500-600 parking spaces? About four acres.

Obviously, double or triple decking will be a necessity along the Cady street area.

Or. as Planning Chairman Tom Wheaton remarked, maybe the city should explore the idea of "remote parking" (at the track site, for example) with shuttle service transportation.

As for financing, in the past the city has shared the expense of providing offstreet parking for the business district. Just how far it is prepared to go with a major development of this kind remains to be seen.

But as Councilman Charles Lapham, himself a merchant, stated at a recent joint meeting of the council and planning commission, "we don't have many $4 million projects coming down the pike."

Despite the fact that the Northville community recreation program is receiving increased financial support from the city and township, Director Bob Prom must continue his practice of seeking sponsors for softball and baseball teams.

Each year merchants, industries, service clubs and veterans' organizations contribute from $40 to $225 for team jerseys or uniforms for boys' and girls' teams in age groups from 8 through 19.

Prom's looking for sponsors again this year. If you'd like to lend a hand and provide our community's youngsters with fun and competitive sports this summer, phone 349-2287. Bob Prom will take care of the rest.

I wonder how many Novi officials and citizens have noticed the Detroit newspaper ads for Kaufman and Broad's Village Oaks subdivision?

The firm's advertising agency does a masterful job of never mentioning that Village Oaks is located in Novi. Instead, the development is identified as being minutes from Farmington.

Maybe Novi needs a job of image-building.

Firms with the resources of Kaufman & Broad, one of the nation's largest developers, could help.

The company thought enough of Novi to buy land there. why can't it take a leading role in boosting the image of Novi?

C'mon, Kaufman & Broad, don't be ashamed to advertise your address!

Top of the Deck Fad Goes Up in Smoke

by JACK W. HOFFMAN

"What are our teachers teaching kids nowadays?" asked the disturbed parent sarcastically upon learning that high school students are regularly sneaking smokes in the school johns.

It was a natural reaction, I suppose, since we often are quick to blame the school system for our children's shortcomings while crediting ourselves with their attributes.

Concerning this matter of smoking, however, have just the opposite reaction as that of the above mentioned parent. I'm convinced that somewhere in the lower grades our kids are getting something that my generation never received.

How else can you explain the constant - and I do mean constant – nagging of my youngsters whenever I light up a cigarette?

"Must you smoke and pollute the air?" Or, "That cigarette is cutting some more time off your life." Or, "Can mother remarry after you are gone?"

And they buttress these remarks by hiding my cigarettes, breaking them in half, or by pinning little notes to the packages that say things like, "Go ahead and smoke if you want us to become orphans."

Other smoking parents are experiencing similar harrassment.

I haven't preached to them about cigarettes... so who has? My kids insist it comes from the classroom.

According to a school administrator friend of mine, there may be proportionately fewer student smokers today than a decade ago. There is just as much experimentation, he concedes, but it is no longer "in" to smoke - even among high schoolers.

Whether you agree or not with him, chances are you see the same signs as do I that today's ecology-minded vouth is beginning to look at smoking as the repulsive adult hangup that it is.

If smoking among teens has indeed lost its former appeal does this suggest that marihuana may one day go the same way? I think so. Take a close look at the teenager's talk about marihuana. It isn't so much an argument in favor of smoking marihuana as it is an argument against the adult world's double standard – marihuana versus alcohol.

Last week while listening to a "radical" speaker, Dick Gregory, who we adults would catergorize with the hippie-pot-swinging crowd, I looked for but did not see a single high schooler or college student smoking. Neither did I see them puffing outside the college auditorium before and after Gregory's talk. That would not have been the case in my day.

Furthermore, I heard nothing in Gregory's "radical" talk exhorting our youngsters to smoke pot. On the contrary, Gregory blasted the cigarette, the cigarette industry, and the society that promotes cancer producing smokers. Similarly, he had nothing but disparaging words about drugs.

And, believe it or not, his remarks were applauded by our "hippie" kids.

Say what you want about today's youth but if you are honest with yourself you must admit that there are more encouraging signs than discouraging ones.

When I was a youngster and wore a bandanna over my face it meant I was immitating an outlaw; last week when my son wore a bandanna in the house it was his way of telling me I was fouling up the air with cigarette smoke.

City Millage Low

Neighboring Plymouth ranks ninth lowest with its 12.36 city millage, 19th with its 33.60 school millage. In commenting on the city of Northville's low millage rate, City Manager Frank Ollendorff conceded that it reflects somewhat the revenue received annually from the state as its share of Northville Downs pari-mutuel betting funds. The city receives as much from these funds as it does from all of its property taxes. However, he emphasized that elimination of pari-mutuel funds would not necessarily mean that the city's millage rate would double. It is city practice to earmark all pari-mutuel funds for capital improvement such as park land acquisition and development, parking lot acquisition and improvement, major street improvement, etc., he explained. Elimination of pari-mutuel funds probably would mean some increase in millage along with elimination or scaled down outlays for capital improvements. Another way to look at its is that Northville could, if it eliminated all of its capital improvements, operate the city without levying a property tax millage simply by using pari-mutuel revenue for this purpose, he noted.

The Committee Opposed to established a target of 1,300 signatures.

The action was taken Sunday at the committee's weekly meeting, according to Chairman Angelo Chinni. The petition being circulated by the committee requests the Northville school board "immediately stop any further expenditures related to the study" of year-round schools.

In other business, the committee agreed to launch a petition drive to nominate Chinni for trustee in the June school board election.

Chinni also reported the committee is undertaking a study of the costs and procedure for a referendum vote on vear-round school. He said the referendum would be sought "in the event that Superintendent Raymond Spear maintains his present position of depriving the citizens of the right to vote on the question of year-round schools."

The committee said it will also be presenting basic questions to the public concerning the disadvantages of year-round school operation.

"We want to know why we have not been fully advised of the finding of the State Board of Education's study which indicates an increase in operating costs ranging from four to 11 percent," Chinni stated.

"Why hasn't the superintendent indicated the alleged savings in building costs will not be achieved until 10 or even 20 years from now?" he asked.

"Why hasn't the alleged dollar Year-Round Schools voted to continue savings been expressed in clear terms of its present petition drive and yearly tax dollar difference for individual taxpayers?" Chinni continued

> "And most importantly," he said, "why are elections suitable for millages, bonding issues and selection of board members but not suitable for a mandatory year-round school plan which will reorganize all of our lives?"

> Also under investigation will be what effect year-round school will have upon the real estate values in the school district.

NBD's four guideposts for better home tinancing.

Getting a mortgage to buy a home is serious business. It's only natural when you're making a down payment of several thousand dollars, and obligating yourself for years to come, to want assurance that you're acting in your own best interests. Here are four basic rules that will help.

1. Make certain that you won't incur a stiff penalty if you elect to prepay the principal. At NBD, we're known for our liberal prepayment policy. If you prepay your existing NBD mortgage through the sale of your home, then secure a new mortgage from us to finance another house, there's no penalty at all.

2. Know ahead of time what your closing costs will be. NBD gives you an estimate well in advance; and we're rarely off the mark, so you won't run into any unpleasant surprises.

3. Strike the best balance between the size of your monthly payments and the rate at which you build eauity. NBD will help you weigh these factors with full consideration for your particular financial circumstances.

4. Before you assume a seller's mortgage, be sure you're aware of any restrictions on prepayments to principal, special insurance requirements and the implications of assuming another person's liabilities.

Thinclads Win Sixth Mustangs

Better Mark

Thursday, April 1, 1971

At Eastern

For the season's opener, a sixth place berth in the tough Huron Relays isn't bad, at least that's the way Mustang cinder coach Ralph Redmond viewed his thinclads' showing Friday in Ypsilanti.

"Not bad" was apt description for the Mustangs whose sixth place slot is a three-notch improvement from last vear's ninth place showing.

"We had a lot of strong performances," said Redmond. "I think Friday's contest showed some previews of some tough contenders." Northville bested 59 teams as it piled up a second place two thirds and a seventh to glean the 23-point tally.

Holly won the meet with 57 The Mustangs were well accounted for as senior John Stuyvenberg sailed to the 21'3" mark for a second place in the long jump and then ran a third in the 60-yard dash (6.6). "The dash," said Redmond, "is not John's race, but he came through surprisingly well for us." Third place (8:40.1) went to two-milers Rick Bell, David Wright, Wayne Enders and Phil Guider.

"Guider's lead off leg, and Wright's anchor leg, both at 2:07, were real promising," said Redmond. "We look for a lot of hustle from both of those boys, chances are by mid-season time they'll both be extremely tough contenders."

David Mitchell, Brad Cole, John Stuyvenberg and Jamie Carter hung onto seventh place in the low hurdle contest (30.5) to round out Mustang scoring for the evening.

"We had a pulled leg muscle in that race and Stuyvenberg, who had never run the hurdles before, was forced to take over for Jim Darnell," said Redmond.

"We had a lot of boys who gave outstanding performances that were just short of the mark," the coach continued. "Steve French and Steve Hazlett turned a 2:18.5 and a 3:43 flat in the 880 and 1380 legs of the distance. edley," said the coach. French is a freshman, Hazlett was in "big competition" for the first time.

"We also had a good open mile in Tim Taggert who turned in his best time to date, a 5:07.7." Redmond said. The Mustangs go to East Lansing tomorrow for the Spartan Relays which are slated to run all day on Michigan States campus.

Linksters Start Fresh

Spring is said to be the season of new things, and in Novi the tradition couldn't be truer as Coach John Osborne leads "a young and inexperienced" golf squad onto the fairways.

"We've got 16 men, three of whom are returning," said Osborne who looked ahead to his second season as golf mentor, coach and the opportunity to improve last year's 4-10 league record in the tough Southeastern Conference.

"SE is a good golf league," Osborne said, "and our sixth rank showing last year came only at the expense of South Lyon and Ypsilanti Lincoln.

"We've got a junior Les Branch who is the defending southeastern league champion having gone twice under 40" Osborne continued. Two other returnees are junior Dennis McDermaid and senior Roger Johr. Besides his veterans Osborne has eight freshmen, one sophomore, one junior and three seniors. "Young and inexperienced," seems to be the word as the Wildcats have yet to test their mettle on the greens. "I'm not sure what they can do and I won't know until we can get out and play," said the coach. The local squad travels to Dundee

April 12 for its contest against Saline. Bowling Tourney

Local Squirts Drop Two in Final Series

Local hockey players defeated Redford 3-0 last weekend in Fraser's invitational suburban tournament action, but still wound up on the bottom as they went zip against Port Huron (5-0) and Trenton (2-0).

In the Redford game played Sunday, it was Ken Stelmach who fired scores at the begining and end of the contest.

Stelmach teamed up with Mike Ward for a net shot at 13-29 in the opening stanza and then capped Northville's scoring drive in the second period with an assisted effort that iced the 3-0 shutout.

Earlier in that second stanza Rod Michael got a good position from Doug Horst and slapped the shot for Northville's second goal.

Earlier, the Squirts were defeated twice Friday. In the Port Huron game, enemy goals came in the first and second periods with Bill Henry notching a brace.

It was the same story against Trenton later in the day as the Squirts fell victim to a two-point drive that did its work in the first and second period

Other hockey action of a less athletic nature saw Northville players with their parents and relatives at Plymouth's Thunderbird Inn Monday night for the annual Northville Hockey Association Awards Banquet.

Red Wing Guy Charron was the guest speaker, and Northville City Manager Frank Ollendorf shared special guest status with Recreation Director Robert Prom.

In a tongue-in-cheek commentary, Gregory said he was happy that President Richard Nixon was elected because, under him, the economy has adversely affected so many white people that they are beginning to look for sympathy from the blacks. It's gotten so bad that recently, upon sitting down in a plane next to a white man, he was addressed as "my brother," Gregory said. Eighteen months ago the construction workers were attacking the 'peaceniks'; 18 days ago the construction workers were in Iowa throwing snowballs at Nixon and his wife, Gregory noted. Things have changed, he repeated with obvious pleasure. What is the black man talking about today? "We're talking about the white folks' reaction to us. We don't understand it. AROUND THE HOME Lawn-Garden News Trees, Shrubs Attract Wildlife

With the spring planting season just around the corner, small landowners who like wildlife can attract animals and birds by planting shrubs and trees that provide food and cover.

"There are a number of plants suitable to Michigan soils which provide beauty, attract birds and wildlife and do not require extensive care," says Dr. Robert George, extension conservationist at Michigan State University

"Plants producing nuts and berries eaten by wildlife are best," says George, 'especially those that provide food in later winter and early spring when supplies are usually short.'

Two shrubs highly recommended by conservation authorities for erosion control and wildlife management are autumn olive and multiflora rose. Planted as hedges or screens with room to spread in sunny locations, they provide excellent food, cover and travel lanes for for songbirds, grouse, pheasant, quail and rabbits. Their red fruits are available from early fall well into winter.

In moist ground, especially near lake or stream, several species of dogwood and viburnum planted in groups will stabilize the soil and provide ood for wildlife. These medium high (8ft.-10ft) plants include: silky dogwood, red-osier dogwood, gray dogwood, nannyberry viburnum, arrow-wood viburnum and highbush cranberry Their fruits provide food for songbirds and small game and their twigs are browsed by deer and rabbits.

"Other plants tolerant of moist soil and considered excellent food sources for game and birds are common elderberry, June berry and common winterberry," says George. "These plants will grow medium-tall and require little care in a natural environment.

For drier soils the MSU conservationist recommends Staghorn sumac, fragrant sumac, Tatarian honeysuckle, wild plum, buffaloberry and Indian currant. Vines such as American bittersweet, Virginia creeper and wild grape produce food for more than 100 species of song and game birds, as well as rabbits, raccons, squirrels, oppossum and foxes.

Among fruit-producing trees attractive to the landscape and valuable to wildlife, George lists the Sargent crab apple, Siberian crab apple, European mountain ash, American mountain ash, Washington hawthorn and pin cherry. All will grow on a variety of soils and hold their fruit well into winter.

"In addition to the berried plants, nutbearing trees such as black walnut, red oak, pin oak and shagbark hickory are also important," says George. He notes that several evergreens. particularly white and red pine, Norway and white spruce, jack and Scotch pine northern white cedar, prostrate juniper and ground hemlock provide good cover and nesting, as well as winter food.

People wanting to plant trees or shrubs to attract wildlife should contact their local nursery, soil conservation district office or county extension office to determine which species are best suited to their property.

What to Do in Case of Crabgrass

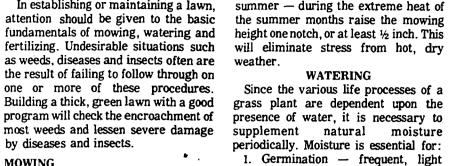

The best crabgrass control is proper lawn management, points out Al Turgeon, Michigan State University turfgrass specialist.

 $\star \star \star$

Some 500 million tons of soil are washed or blown off the land and into bodies of water annually in the United States. Systematic planting of trees, shrubs, and grass can prevent a large percentage of this loss.

Follow These Rules

Mowing a lawn gives "eternal youth" to the grass because of its unique ability to grow from the crown of the plant rather than from the tip of the blades. Though seemingly a matter of second nature, there are several practices that should be followed in order to derive the maximum benefit from a mowing.

1. Mow regularly - mowing before the grass has grown one-third above the normal cutting height lessens shock to the plant. When in shock, a grass plant is more susceptible to disease, insect, drouth and traffic damage. 2. Choose the correct mower - in maintaining quality turf at heights below 2 inches, a reel mower is preferred. For heights above 2 inches, the rotary mower is most desirable.

3. Keep mower blade(s) sharp — using a dull blade will tend to fray the blades. This can cause browning of the lawn, excessive water loss and stunting of normal growth. The blade of the rotary mower should be sharpened after each mowing. The blade of the reel mower will give a clean cut if sharpened once per season

4. Collect clippings following each mowing - this practice not only improves the appearance of the lawn. but also deters the buildup of thatch. Excessive clippings decompose very slowly and while decaying set up ideal conditions for disease and insect damage.

5. Alternate mowing patterns — by varying the direction of mowing, the grass blades tend to remain more upright. Continuous mowing in the same direction, particularly with a riding mower, can increase the possibility of compaction 6. Raise the cutting height during the oxygen a day. All of it is produced by plant life, on the land or in the sea.

PLANT A SOUND BARRIER – A row of trees or tall shrubs planted closely together will act as a sound barrier in your own backyard, reducing noises from adjacent highways, school grounds or industrial areas.

NUMBER ONE SAFETY RULE - The first rule of mowing safety according to the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI) is to read your owner's manual and heed the rules for safer operation. Free copies of the safety rules are available from your local power mower retailer.

STUMP REMOVER

In establishing or maintaining a lawn, summer - during the extreme heat of height one notch, or at least 1/2 inch. This will eliminate stress from hot, dry weather.

WATERING Since the various life processes of a grass plant are dependent upon the presence of water, it is necessary to supplement natural moisture periodically. Moisture is essential for: 1. Germination — frequent, light waterings are critical to enable the seedling to break through the seedcoat and begin its growth process. A continuous source of moisture is neccessary until the plant becomes established. 2. Photosynthesis - water, in combination with sunlight and carbon dioxide, is used by the plant to produce chemical energy. 3. Transportation of nutrients — water helps form the solutions which carry nutrients from the soil to all parts of the grass plant.

4. Turgidity - water exerts an expansive force within the plant which allows it to remain upright. Thus, when a grass plant has an insufficient amount of water, wilting occurs.

5. Resilience — when a grass plant is full of water, it has the ability to spring back after being walked upon. 6. Coolant - water on the leaf's surface or in the vascular system of a grass plant keeps the temperature

No one watering program will fit all lawns. In setting up a program the following situations should be considered

1. Type of soil — light, sandy soils require more water than heavier loam or clay soils because of the rapid penetration of water. 2. Direction and degree of slope south or westward facing slopes will dry more rapidly than north or eastward slopes because of more exposure to sunlight. Areas with any degree of slope should be watered slowly to avoid excessive runoff. 3. Shaded areas — although water loss may be less in shaded areas, additional water is sometimes necessary to satisfy the needs of both grass and trees.

The turfgrass specialist says the best chemical control for crabgrass is preemergence herbicide this spring so seeds will be killed when they ger minate. The lawn should be free of undecayed plant residues before application, he adds. Recommended herbicides for con trolling crabgrass include terbutol benefin, bensulide, DCPA and siduror These are sold under several trade names and some are combined with fertilizer. Sometimes it is easier to find a herbicide fertilizer combination than the herbicide alone, says Turgeon. When using weed-and-feed combinations. follow the direction of the manufacturer. Store herbidides in a cool, dry place out-of-reach of children and pets, warns

Automobile Club of Michigan has disputed national safety figures and explanations for the 1,1000-person drop in U.S. traffic deaths last year by revealing that almost one-third of this

One Man-One Vote Theory, Not Fact

It does mean that the process originally designed to permit democratic consideration of issues — a vote by the elected representatives of the people won't be used.

Instead we see some legislative procedures calculated to avoid this. This sort of maneuvering angers younger citizens who argue that the present government is not responsible to peoples needs. BACKERS of abortion reform aren't throwing in the towel, however. Like others who are frustrated with some workings of "the system," they are going to take their case to "the people" if they have to.

Only in this case, instead of marching in parades, they're going to start a petition drive if they have to go over the heads of the Legislature. The backers announced that if the bill doesn't pass, they will work to petition a proposed law on the 1972 general election ballot.

That device has already worked in one state -Washington — and they feel it will work here if they need to use it.

250,000 SIGNATURES are needed to get the issue on the ballot, but with all of the women's groups who are supporting abortion reform, that shouldn't be that big of an obstacle.

"Hell hath no fury like a woman scorned," goes an old saying. And there are a lot of women around who feel that they have been scorned by the Michigan House of Represen- Society. tatives

He waits for the answers, has an aide tally them up, and gets an idea of how the people of his district feel about things.

But some of State Rep Richard Friske's constituents decided he did more editorializing than asking in a recent questionnaire he mailed out

One question, for instance, asked, "Should the state ignore the principles of the Bible which is the law of God and morality, and legalize murder by abortion?"

Another asks. "Would you object to paying less taxes each year if you felt the government could — by trying a lot harder get along with less revenue?'

THIS PROMPTED the Petoskey News-Review to declare "officials elected to serve all of the people should not be sending taxpayers loaded questions to establish backing for any partisan line of thinking.

And a Charlevoix couple, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Haggard, complained in a letter sent to Friske and the newspaper, "It appears that you really do not want your voters' opinions but wish to force your own on those people you represent."

As for Friske himself, he has been causing a furor in his district ever since he won the Republican primary last August and it was learned he was a member of the German Luftwaffe in World War II and now is a member of the John Birch

On a lonely hill a man died slowly, nailed to a cross. His crime — goodness.

He walked the hills of Judea and the shores of Gallilee, healing and comforting, loving everyone He met. Confidently, simply, He spoke of the Kingdom of Heaven, and crowds hurried to hear His vital words.

To some, His clear, sure talk of the Kingdom and the Way and of Himself the Son of God seemed a threat. And so He suffered on a cross, while a faithful few huddled in its shade and wept at the sacrifice.

Today, the shadow of that cross circles the globe, as people gather in churches around the world to remember that first Good Friday and give thanks for Jesus, the gift of a loving Father. His life and death and resurrection point the way for every man to find joy in the reality of God's love.

Case Quits; Blasts Croft

Wixom assessor Robert Case admitted before a special meeting of the Wixom Council and a near capacity audience last week Wednesday that he had done a "sloppy job on the assessment role."

Case apoligized and submitted his resignation affective April 5.

Case also warned that should the city revert to the 1970 assessment figures, some of which reportedly have not been changed since 1960, the move would suit "vested interests" of Board of Review Chairman Lloyd Croft.

said, "you'll be assessing some property property. It was the 17th before any in the area that has sold for $17,000 at $1,500 or 10 to 15-percent of what it should be."

Case charged that some landowned by Croft, bordering the Ford assembly plant, would be assessed at an unfair rate compared to the true value of the land if the proposed roll-back were

Lake.

"You'll have your pockets picked o dollars," he told the audience, "and I can't abide that as your assessor."

Croft admitted that his land would not be assessed equitably but he claimed that the Wixom assessment roll -Case's assessment roll —was in such a "mess" that the entire city was in a similar situation.

The whole role is wrong," Croft declared later in the week. "We've been promised a new assessment roll for three years and on the ninth of March it was not ready for our board of review hearing. "If you roll back to 1970 figures," Case He (Case) didn't walk any of the notices were sent out. We just didn't have time to even look at it

> Case said last week that if the board of review would make 100 decisions the result would be "an equitable, fair uniform roll, but if the city goes back to the 1970 figures there will be more inequity and unfairness than in my

Wixom Mayor Gilbert Willis -- who in previous meetings defended Case, calling him a "qualified assessor" -laid the blame at his door Wednesday night saying "the resignation of the assessor indicates where the fault lies." As a body, the Wixom city council has nothing to say about the board decision to roll back to 1970 figures. Case predicted last week that the 'disportionate share" of the coming tax blow would lie on the shoulders of residential home-owners in subdivisions. It's not structures which are the determining factors here," Case said. "It's land. Those people who have more land — large tracts of acreage — will pay less over the long run, while those whose lots are smaller, as in platted subdivisions, will pay more."

"The role has been completed," Mayor Gilbert Willis said Tuesday, and forwarded to the county with the 1970 assessment figures."
