The use of knits is expanding to men's clothes, but manufacturers are uncertain about the styling approach to take, she says. There is a "discreet school" which copies woven fabrics in traditional styles. And there is the "bold school" which aims to develop and market men's knit outer apparel with unique fabric construction and innovative styling.

The specialist predicts that the textiles industry will develop knits for men's wear that are lighter and keep their shape better than currently popular fabrics for women. The new fabrics won't have a "lingerie feeling" and will be less susceptible to snagging. The men's tailoring trade, she says, will need to find new linings and interfacings. These fabrics must give stability without detracting from the require careful handling by pressers - vault was needed to provide temporary security for cargoes of ships in the silver fleets which were damaged in the North Atlantic after the turn eastward and prior to reaching the area of the Azores. The second hypothesis is that in trading with the natives of the Nova Scotia area, Spanish fishermen learned of the presence of gold in the area and the Crown built the installation in the expectation of the recovery of large quantities of the metal."

Wilhelm explains that the bulk of gold and silver shipped by the Spanish to Europe from the New World was moved in guarded convoys of ships from Mexico, Panama, and Colombia. On their projected "great circle course," vessels struck by storms from the south would be driven north toward Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. Prohibited from sailing alone, they would sometimes be required to await new escort and to make repairs. Like the Spanish colony maintained in Florida, the installation on Nova Scotia would be a haven for treasure vessels.

THE FIVE homes to be open on the annual home tour of Northville First Presbyterian Women's Association on September 23 have been selected for their variety.

Mrs. Timothy Eis, who is cochairman of the tour with Mrs. Donald Funk, said that homes for the 1971 tour were sought "that would interest every housewife."

They contain original features, many of which the homeowners have instituted themselves.

Included is the home of the William Dykes. The building originally housed a factory which since has moved to South Lyon. With an upper story living room that commands a view of the area, the home is definitely one-of-a-kind. Mrs. Dyke is president of the Presbyterian Women's Association.

One of Northville's old houses, the stone home of Dr. and Mrs. Russell Atchison, also will be open. The Atchison home and the Francis Gazlay home up the street were two original homesteads in Orchard Heights subdivision area, Mrs. Atchison believes.

BUDGET REVIEW continued this week as the city council prepared to get down to the nitty-gritty of paring parts of the proposed document of City Manager Frank Ollendorff. Two sections of the budget likely to receive closest attention will be the outlays for the police and public works departments. The latter represents the largest single expenditure of the city.

NEGOTIATIONS were underway this week between the city officials and Kenneth Rathburn on the possible city purchase of the property and building, owned by Rathburn, on Main Street that presently houses a bump shop. upholstery shop, TV shop, pool hall, and barber shop. The property has been appraised at $48,000.

TWO 15-year-old boys, students at Cooke Junior High, were suspended from school for the remainder of the year Monday night by the board of education. The boys have admitted to police to breaking into the junior high on February 28 and vandalizing the school. According to Superintendent Raymond Spear a total of $6,423.08 in damages, wages and lost education was caused during the vandalism. Of that amount, $2,588.05 in damage to the building and equipment is recoverable. Spear said one parent has agreed to make restitution and the district is investigating the possibility of a law suit against the other to recover damages.

an ownership agreement with the city covering the Fish Hatchery property Tuesday night and were advised a civil suit has been filed against the township contesting denial of rezoning to permit construction of a mobile home park.

Trustees delayed action on the Fish Hatchery until township attorney John Ashton could be present to answer guestions on the agreement. He has been working with City Manager Frank Ollendorff on the proposed agreement. Stromberg, Ashton recommended the city give the township a 99-year lease on the property upon being reimbursed for one half of the original purchase price. which totaled approximately $18,000. Ashton noted the lease would be an alternative to owning half the property and would avoid "the question of the township acquiring real estate without approval by the vote of the residents." Trustees Richard Mitchell, who opposed the lease, said "since we are splitting the cost 50-50 (for acquisition, development, and construction), half of the hatchery should be donated to us by the city and we won't have to pay a penny." He viewed this as a way of owning half the property without necessitating a vote of the residents. "If we are going to put taxpayers' money into property, then the property should be in our name, too," he said. "If we can't buy the land, then let the people vote on it and we'll see if they want us to buy the land or if they turn it down." Trustee Leonard Klein and Treasure

Joseph Straub indicated they were in favor of the lease but action was tabled on the agreement until the board's May 11 meeting.

Trustees were informed by Clerk Eleanor Hammond that the township was served with a civil suit last Thursday, April 8, protesting the board's action denying rezoning of 188 acres to permit construction of a mobile home

Instead, he accepted the proposal by attorneys for both sides and commended them for agreeing to resolve the matter without continuing

Board decision not to contest NDCL's suit was reached last week in an executive session. That decision took the form of a resolution, introduced by Northville's at-large member, Robert Geake, in which the proposal, accepted by the court, was spelled out.

Ironically, court action came just before a ruling of Attorney General Frank J. Kelley on the Constitutionality of the board's make-up. The attorney general had been asked for an opinion last year by State Representative Marvin Stempien. Kelley ruled the Schoolcraft board make-up discriminatory and unconstitutional since votes of electors are not equal. On the heels of Kelley's after-the-fact ruling, Stempien announced he had Police Chief Ron Nisun. ## for The Record

Governor Milliken has taken a bold approach in his recommendations for educational reform in Michigan. And it's exactly the treatment that should be prescribed for the state's ailing public school system.

Unquestionably, politically-motivated as well as legitimate flaws will be detected in the Governor's proposal as it comes under the scrutiny of the legislature.

But the ills of public education in Michigan are exposed in the Governor's special message to the legislature and a program for reform proposed.

Whatever those of us with special interests might say (and that takes in legions — from teachers to property owners to industrialists to high and low income groups), we cannot elude the fact that we have a very sick patient on our hands and some form of medication is long overdue.

Frankly, I like Milliken's medicine. It hits hardest at the most glaring weaknesses and proposes restoration through transfusions from our healthiest, most able resources.

Michigan has dwelled far too long on a program that drains blood from the anemic, turns educational administrators against teachers, compels boards of education to become tax solicitors. and transforms teachers into negotiators.

Our state's public education system does not offer an equal opportunity for education to all youngsters; it does not, as now constituted, promote better understanding and tolerance; in fact, it would be difficult to name any program, group or institution that equals the public education system when it comes to inflaming the citizenry and turning public meetings into shouting

While the condition may stand as healthy evidence of public interest and concern, it also suggests that our political leaders and educators might take a refresher course in education, defined as the process of imparting knowledge.

Outstanding in the Governor's proposals is the elimination of property taxes as a source of school operating revenue.

The inequities of the property tax levy are well known; further, the tax on property severely penalizes the elderly, retirees, farmers and owners of large parcels of land.

A tax based on income (ability to pay) is unquestionably fairer and permits the landowner to pay his fair tax share when he sells, rather than forcing him to sell his property so he might be able to

It should be noted that under the Governor's proposal, the property tax would remain for support of local government. But this millage is small when compared to the school tax.

The Governor has also suggested that local districts may, by vote of the public, levy up to six mills for enrichment programs or additional teachers, but not for higher teacher salaries.

Governor Milliken's program suggests that the state would take over teacher salary negotiations, probably on a regional basis. What a boost this would be to the board-administrator-teachercitizen relationship and morale.

It is imperative that any reform bill that substitutes a new tax for property taxes includes iron-clad guarantees providing limitations on property tax millage.

The taxpayer does not need another tax on top of the property tax. And the suspicion that the property tax might again slip back into the school revenue picture is one reason to oppose even the locally-voted "enrichment" millage.

Another important improvement in the proposed reform would be removal of the inequity between school districts. The amount of money spent per student now ranges from about $500 to $1,200 in districts throughout the state.

Although Governor Milliken's proposal does not set forth the method of distributing funds to local districts, it is evident that it would relate to the number of students and that the dollars-perstudent would be more nearly uniform throughout the state.

In addition to a 2.3 percent boost in personal income taxes, the state would gain additional revenues for school operating expenses from a value-added tax on business. This "VAT" levy would amount to 2 percent against the difference between the cost of producing goods and their selling price.

The Governor's proposal proclaims that these substitute taxes will assure that revenues for educational finance will grow more in line with needs.

It is significant to note, particularly in Northville where yearround school studies are continuing, that the Governor comments on extended school year programs.

"I strongly support this effort and urge your support of legislation to encourage districts throughout the state to develop extended school year programs which will better utilize facilities and better serve children," the Governor states in his message to

A solid starting point has been provided for legislators to bring relief to the state's sagging school system and weary taxpayer. Now they are accountable.

It would be refreshing to forget millage campaigns and elections, teacher negotiations and property taxes and concentrate attention instead on a team effort devoted to better education for children.

Three-Year Marriage Pact?

proposed in Maryland. It would be renewable at the end of three years, if both parties agreed and if no children

In nearly every common "truth" about marriage, there lurks the demon-notion that a physical whimsy is really the signal of spiritual commitment to a future of ecstatic lawn-mowing, bill-paying, and diaper-drying. Because Nature has provided us with complimentary anatomical features, we leap gaily over the divorce-court casebooks, spurred by our mutual desires to legalize our roaring passions. Well, it takes only two mornings of discovery to reveal the Horrible Truth: You have been Tricked! Behold! Her kisses-sweeter-than-wine are flavored with morning-mouth, and his dynamic charm has disappeared in a jungle of insecurities, weekend whiskers, and a blossoming paunch.

The difficulty, I fear, is a product of our bizarre belief that a relationship between man and woman must be sanctioned by the Church or State or both; and God only knows why our personal relationships are any of their business in the first place. Relationships "work" or they "don't work," but Marriage (in its legal or ecclesiastical sense) contributes nothing to the outcome of this strange chemical process we call real spiritual loving. Trial marriages? You bet your lawyer. A lifetime of mutual dissatisfaction is neither moral nor holy.

Novi Millages Need Support

How can anyone experience the many dimensions of love if he or she knows that in three years it can be called off? It takes at least that long to begin to know another person. Sure, marriage statistically, is not always synonymous with love; nevertheless, it is so dependent upon love, that it too, is like fine wine-it needs age and maturity before the rich taste can be enjoyed. We only

"play" at marriage for the first few years. Whoever said

The marriage contract binds couples together. It often is the only reason why some couples decide to responsibly understanding only one.

There's an ominous rumbling of citizen revolt brewing across the state and we're hoping it doesn't erupt in Novi Monday.

Having had enough of empty legislative promises for major tax reform year after year, property owners are in the mood for taking matters into their own hands. Their modus operandi, already used in a growing number of Michigan communities, is simple: scuttle local millage issues to dramatize the taxpayers' plight and to force action out of Lansing.

There is something to be said for this kind of leverage; afterall, many school boards are doing the same thing of late by threatening to fire teachers and principls unless lawmakers sweeten the state aid pie. Unfortunately, the result accomplishes about as much as chopping off a hand to save a finger.

We hope Novi taxpayers keep that in mind when they go to the polls Monday to decide two very important school milllage questions — one asking renewal of 41/2 mills and another asking the addition of 5 mills. Negative votes cast to pry reform out of Lansing will do little more than disrupt Novi's educational Novi is one of the few secondary school districts in the state that has never had a millage proposition defeated. One reason, for this unique position, we believe, is that conservative school board members there have asked for tax support of the schools only when these funds are an absolute necessity.

The two millage issues on Monday's ballot are cases in point. Both are necessities, both are deserving of support.

My only argument is with the proposed building's styling. Upon looking at the renderings of the building, it is hard to see any tie betweenit and the architectural feeling of the rest of the city (especially that of buildings in the immediate area such as the city hall, post office, etc.) with the possible exception that it fits the size of the site. In fact, it gives one a feeling that far from being designed for Northville, it was probably a plan previously used or proposed for another city (possibly somewhere in southern California).

ROTARY SPEAKER - Livonia Attorney John McCann, Northville's representative on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, presented a film on county government to members of the Northville Rotary Club at its Tuesday noon meeting. McCann also took time to review the status of the current Michigan State Police effort to lease two buildings on Sheldon road from the Wayne County Child Development Center to establish a police post and crime laboratory here. He said the HEW sub-committee, which he heads, had decided to delay action on the request until it was determined whether the county has any need for the buildings. There are five vacant buildings on the Center's property and the school's director has stated he knows of no need for the buildings in the immediate future. Although admittedly disappointed by opposition to the proposal from other county commissioners, McCann said he was doing all the "arm-twisting I can" and "I am hopeful that the question will come out of committee and be given a favorable vote." With only the mile relay left to be contended, the Mustangs held a narrow one point, 57-56, lead over their rivals. But with five points going to the winner of the relay, the outcome of the meet was squarely on the line.

Wayne Enders, Jamey Carter, David Wright, and Brad Cole carried the Mustang's baton and ran an extremely fine 3:36.3, but Lutheran West with a team that contained three members of the fourth-place mile relay team in the state last year ran an even faster 3.36.1 to cop the five relay points and the meet

As usual the Mustangs were paced by John Stuyvenberg, one of the top performers in state track and field. Actually, it was a pretty much typical performance for the senior sprinter. All he did was to win three events and anchor the winning 880-yard relay team to personally account for 161/4 points.

The familiar teachergrouped students situation is gone and the layman sees learners at tables and this with children coming and going and as: "How can she stand it?" or "How can they learn with the confusion?"

Mrs. Johnson, however, reassures those who visit her classroom (and hundreds do each week, adding to the din) that her students are under control, that they are learning, and that she finds her new role exciting and rewarding. Perhaps she has been "brainwashed" by the company or perhaps it is the change and the new challenge that excites her, but this teacher has become classroom instructor and who now, still an advocate of contract learning and Motivation, third ingredient Westinghouse's program, is the element of "contingency contracting." In simpler language, contingency contracting means about the same as mother's challenge, "When you eat your spinach, you may have your pie." The child is told that when he completes a lesson he may take a break in the adjoining activity area where he may play with games and toys, read or look at books, etc. Perhaps more than any other ingredient of performance contracting, the motivation concept is under fire. Some teachers and parents look at it as "bribery"--completely foreign to the educational process. Others will argue that motivation has always been basic to education, and they cite lesson grading,

On the plains, particularly, each yard and each farm needs to have its soil stabilized in order that the area as a whole will not be an easy victim to wind erosion. A few trees planted strategically on a lot can be of immense help in ensuring that topsoil will not be lost to neighbors or into nearby bodied of water.

Homewoners with property in the vicinity of streams and rivers can make similar contributions to soil protection by planting trees, shrubs and ground

Many Are Doing His Work

Lloyd G. Brasure First Presbyterian Church Northville

Christians are so used to being termed hypocrites and sinners that I wonder why so many (not so few) return to the Church. Is there no place they can go for a word of encouragement? The Bible promises forgiveness of sins to all who repent and come in the Name of Christ, for God is love, He is merciful, He is the giver of life and life eternal. He has called His people to do His work. Isn't anyone doing it?

I take this opportunity to express my belief that there are many who are but rather it says to the world that long range answers. taking Him as His word and are doing His work in this world. Homeowners Elect Officers

New officers and a new board of directors were elected last week Tuesday by the Meadowbrook Glenns Homeowners Association as the group held its annual membership meeting. Jerry Fortenberry takes over as president, Gary Roberts as vicepresident, Jo-Ann Lippert as secretary, and Gwen Cherfoli as treasurer. Township Slaps Annexation annex much of Novi Township to the city has stirred the ire of township officials. The petition, if decided favorably by the commission, would wipe out seven sections of the township leaving only some 40 to 50 acres of Brookland Farms subdivision in the township.

Under a state statute enacted earlier this year, the commission is empowered to "straighten out" municipal boundaries. It provides, however, that only those areas having fewer than 100 residents may be annexed without an election-which accounts for council's to request annexation during a noted. ## Council Weighs Plan prepared by Councilman Edwin Presnell for the proposed Grand River-Novi Road sewer system, was presented to fellow Novi Councilmen Monday into direct and indirect units with special charges levied on every foot of property fronting the sewer.

The new system as planned will be composed of 8-inch, 12-inch and 15-inch pipe. It will run from a point just south of the I-96 freeway on Novi Road, south to the area of the Flint Street intersection. An arm will travel east on 11 Mile, southeast down Grand River, and northeast up Grand River. In addition there will be arms to serve the areas north and south of Grand River and west Presnell's formula calls for $980 to be paid for every direct unit of benefit, $400 for every indirect unit and $10 for each front foot along the sewer.

Presnell defined direct benefit as a tap currently in use or under construction. Indirect benefit, he said, could be considered as anything in the stage of future planning.

"This means," said Presnell, "that a person with 300 feet of frontage wold be
