Teacher Talks Deadlocked

The deadlocked negotiating teams for the Northville school district and teachers' association have turned to a state mediator

The two teams were scheduled to meet with the mediator for the first time yesterday the board of education Monday night that the (Wednesday) at 2 p.m. Issues remaining to be settled include: -Salary schedule and longevity steps; -- Duration of the contract:

-- School calendar, as the NEA sees it. Robert Benson, director of personnel for the school district and chief negotiator, told that "if we cannot settle the contract ourselves, we should get help". He said that he did not think the two teams were far apart on salaries, "but some issues on the table are dead as far as the district is concerned but the NEA (Northville Education Association) keeps bring them up". Al Jones, head of the NEA negotiating team, reported that he thought settlement at one stage was possible without mediation. Stores Move To Sidewalk

Northville's Annual Sidewalk Sale is rapidly becoming one of the community's most popular daylong celebrations-more like a Bazaar than a Sale! Saturday's event promises to be the biggest ever with 74 specialty booths lining the streets and sidewalks in addition to the regular bargains offered

Chairman Charles Lapham says that every available inch of space has been reserved and that additional booths may be set up in the Main street parking lot. Antique dealers will display their wares on North Center street; arts and crafts will cover the middle of Main street east of Center. Numerous organizations will share sidewalk space with merchants in front of every local store.

Lapham is urging shoppers to use the new doubledeck parking structure on Cady street. Parking is free

The Sidewalk Sale opens at 9 a.m. and continues until 6 p.m. If rain forces cancellation of the event, it will be re-staged in two weeks, Saturday, August 14 to

WINNING SMILE--Agnes Mitchell would have to serve a lot of soup at her Old Mill Restaurant to come up with a pay day like the one she enjoyed Saturday night at Northville Downs. She held the winning Quinella combination of 2.3.4 and 8 and received $5,585. Monday night she picked up her winning check at the Downs and joined other local officials and merchants in the special "Northville Night" festivities. Did she bet the Quinella again? Certainly. But this time her 3,5,6 and 7 combination only produced a winning pay-off of $285. Unfortunately for Agnes, the Downs closes its 35-night summer meet next Tuesday (see story and picture on page 14-A).

Watch for an announcement soon of the return of radar focused upon the moving vehicles in the city f Northville.

A three-year federal grant establishing a traffic division within the local police department calls for increased concentration on traffic accident prevention.

So in addition to studying highaccident intersections and the cause of accidents, the police will seek to better enforce existing traffic laws.

Esther, and their youngest son, This means that speeders will be ticketed, and hopefully traffic accidents will be reduced. Corky, visited Northville.

Slow down and beat the officer to the pencil and pad.

And maybe you'll also save yourself a dented fender, or an injury, or even a life.

Crime in Northville township must be increasing at a faster pace than anticipated.

 $\star\star\star$

In his "Master Plan" report for law enforcement in Northville township through 1975 submitted last October by Police Chief Ronald L. Nisun it was recommended that one fulltime man be added immediately to assist Nisum. His request was granted.

Three more men were to be added in 1972 "bringing the total force to five men".

Last week Chief Nisum asked the township board to add a third man immediately.

His request, although tabled, was bolstered by assurances from Clerk Eleanor Hammond that excess monies are available in the budget and could be spent for the police department through simple transfers of fund accounts. This week the board declined to approve the transfers.

In his report Chief Nisum calls for 11 men by 1975.

One of the first businessmen I became acquainted with after taking over The Record in 1956 was Roy Stone, owner of Gamble's.

Usually I could sell Roy a "3 by 10" if the advertisement was a little different; like the time we took picture of Christmas toys being unloaded at his store in July.

HERO...

One is led to the conclusion that Daniel Ellsberg released the Pentagon Papers because he believed he was acting in the best interests of the security of this country. Let us examine a few situations and "scenarios" (Pentagon Papers talk). There are a number of ways a country such as ours can go down the drain with the big

. Invasion by a foreign army. 2. Obliterated in a nuclear holocaust.

3. Loss of a representative form of government... Let us, next, consider the impact of the disclosure of the Pentagon Papers on these three possibilities.

The disclosure most certainly had absolutely no effect on case no. 1. No collection of people in their right minds would dare cross our borders; they couldn't afford our Case No. 2: We are, currently 30 minutes away from possible annihilation by nuclear attack. Neither, securing all of our classified documents behind ½ mile thick walls of steel, lead, and peanut butter, nor spreading the classified document as wallpaper on the walls of the Kremlin john changes this situation one whisker.

Case No. 3: The electorate made a decision in 1964. Within months after the election, it did not require a great deal of smarts to realize that the Vietnam policy being conducted was not the Vietnam platform presented to the electorate in the fall of 1964.

TRAITOR...

Daniel Ellsberg is no hero, and while he might not technically be a traitor, his actions in unilaterally deciding to release top secret documents to the press could have had and still might have serious consequences in our intelligence and diplomatic fields. If his actions are permitted to go unpunished then others having access to top secret documents might well follow his lead. This would be chaotic and I do not believe even Dr. Ellsberg's supporters would favor such a result.

Dr. Ellsberg has stated he is prepared to pay the penalty for violating his trust and the law in stealing and releasing these papers. Fine! This man, a civilian employee, was placed in a position of trust and he knowingly violated this trust. It is ironic that this man, who disagreed with the judgement of certain government officials in classifying these documents as top secret, can honestly see no wrong in substituting his judgement for theirs.

If Dr. Ellsberg had informed the government that he had these papers and intended to release them I am sure legal proceeding would have been instituted to prevent their release. The resultant judicial review of his position might well have upheld same. This method would have been greatly preferable to that chosen by Dr. Ellsberg.

In Brighton Multiple Theatre Underway Groundbreaking this week in Brighton for an automated, multiple theatre complex signals the re-entry into the entertainment field by one of the nation's most respected film families.

Brighton Argus THE SOUTH LYON

Wed. Thurs., July 28-29, 1971

The three-in-one theatre building in the new

Brighton Shopping Center at I-96 and Grand River, product of Krim Theatrical Enterprises, is expected to be completed and operational before the end of the year.

Each of the three theaters comprising the Brighton Cinemas will have 350 seats, announced Enterprises president Sol Krim, and will feature the newest automated projection and auditorium facilities in the world.

"A complete performance is preprogramed, freeing the projectionist for other in-theatre responsibilities," he explained.

"At a push of the button, the lights go on, the music starts, the curtain closes, and at a given time the reverse is in progress and the film appears on the screen. "The change over from one machine to the other is also automated without the necessity of the projectionist remaining in the booth." The $375,000 Brighton development represents the first of what is expected to be a Drinking's Contributor imper of new theatre ventures by Krim.

"We are currently negotiating for other locations," Krim said, "and are actively seeking prime locations, as part of a shopping center, within a mall or a free-standing theatre Ten years ago the last of its many theatres was leased by the Krim family to Trans-Lux of New York, with the Krim Theatrical Enterprises becoming landlords rather than theatre At one time the family operated as many as 15 theatres from New York to Los Angeles.

"We can sit and talk with a person who's on a habit, whether he's on barbs (barbituate), or speed, or junk (heroin), we can try to convince him that if he wants to stop, we can help him stop...we can be with him when he stops. After he's off the stuff we have people who will sit up with him if Association with the AA in the mid-Fifties, started a long way back for Foley and led eventually to speaking engagements before church groups, civic organizations, and community clubs throughout the country. In 1969 Foley was one of the organizers of A.D.E.'s fore-runner, T.A.D.E. (Teen Alcholol and Drug Education.) The program set up shop at Southfield's Northland Center in a trailer, much like the one in Walled Lake, with a similar philosophy: convince a man that he is the most important thing to himself. Because of staff problems, TADE folded after eight months, but not before a group of Walled Lake citizens who recognized a drug problem in the lakes area and who saw the potential in Foley's approach, convinced him to move his operation to Oakland County. ### Housing Efforts Showing Success

LANSING—A most significant area of government endeavor in recent years is housing.

The subject has received few headlines, except for instances when it is mixed in with other controversial topics.

The reason may be that housing itself is a rather unglamorous subject and deals mainly with statistics and blueprints--things which cannot be easily dramatized into flashy pictures or big headlines.

It should be noted, however, that the state of Michigan is doing some significant things in an effort to make sure every resident of the state has a decent roof over his or her head.

ONE OF THE BEST examples of this came recently when the Michigan State Housing Development Authority made Michigan the first state to issue longterm revenue bonds to finance home ownership for low and moderate income families.

The Authority issued a total of $40 million worth of bonds-$15 million in 30-year bonds and $25 million in $40 year bonds.

The $15 million will be used to help finance the Authority's new home ownership program, while the $25 million will be used to retire short-term notes issued earlier by the Authority to finance rental and cooperative housing.

THE HOME OWNERSHIP program is expected to result in the construction of at least 3,000 single family homes this year. Homes financed by the Authority are for

Low Dividend's No Growth Certainty

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.,-Some investors consider that the growth trend of a company's earnings per share is a primary criterion in making investment decisions. It is natural for them to be on the watch for concerns that plow back most of this income rather than pay a large portion of it out in the form of dividends. It is hoped that families with low and moderate this process will generate still further growth in profits per share.

with a low dividend payout ratio are growth situations. Reinvestment of earnings does increase stockholders' equity (total assets less liabilities and preferred stock, divided by the number of common shares outstanding), but of even greater significance is the rate of return earned on this stockholders' equity. A healthy rate of return indicates a sound use of reinvested

Of course, not all companies funds and quite likely a company that will continue to expand. GROWTH situations are not necessarily suitable for all investors. Income-oriented accounts will find the low payout ratios of many growth companies unsatisfactory. Fixed-and low-income families can save on their telephone bills.

Actually, almost any family can reduce its telephone bill...by first understanding that increased bills come largely from increased telephone usage (not increased rates). Your present telephone rate structure is based on the idea that you pay for what you use. We think that's only fair. Now, if your family doesn't need to use your telephone too frequently, there is a money-saving plan that may be right for you:

Measured Budget Service for $3 a month . . . available statewide. Michigan Bell's two-party line Budget Service is not best for everyone, but can be just the thing for retirees or, perhaps, singles with minimal telephone needs. Because, you pay just $3 a month, if you stay within the monthly calling allowance on local and interzone calls. Also, in most areas a one-party line Budget Service is available at $4.50 a month.

Talk for a minute, pay for a minute, not three. Another way to save . . . with Michigan Bell's "pay for what you use" plan, you are no longer automatically charged for three minutes on long distance calls within Michigan. In other words, if you make a brief long distance call. you pay only for what you use. If you talk for one or two minutes. that's all you pay for. Plus, by dialing direct you can save 20% or 40% on long distance calls within Michigan.

For more information on economic use of your telephone. call your Michigan Bell Business Office. We want to help.

Babson Report

For aggressive investors, however, carefully selected stocks with an above-average record of growth can be rewarding if the uptrend continues to prevail. As a sweetener in such situations, there is a tax aspect. While dividends (after the $100 exclusion) are subject to tax at the same rate as ordinary income, long-term capital gains are more favorably treated.

WHILE CLOSE examination will reveal many growth situations, we have selected four stocks in several categories with sound growth rate trends. While these cannot be considered "cheap," they appear attractive for intermediateto long-term appreciation:

American Medical Enterprises operates 20 acute-care general hospitals in California, Texas, Flordia, and one in London. Annual revenues have advanced from $4.2 million in 1965 to $51.3 million in fiscal 1970, with net income up from $50,000 to $3.5 million. This uptrend seems to be continuing, as year-toyear gains of 16 percent in revenues and 34 percent in net were recorded for the first nine months of fiscal 1971, which ends August 31.
