

Army Band Slated To Play in Plymouth

One of the newest and most innovative entertainment programs touring the country will be presented May 20 at 3 p.m. in Plymouth's Kellogg Park.

The show is performed by the Studio Band and Soldiers' Chorus of the United States Army Band of Washington, D.C. It's called "Sing Out for America."

In the words of its creator, Lieutenant Colonel Hal J. Gibson, commanding officer and conductor of the Field Band, the program is a "musical extravaganza which puts the accent on youth with the music of today."

It includes the hard-driving, pulsating rock and modern jazz in a unique "big-band" manner, while the Soldiers' Chorus offers today's ballads in its distinctively velvety and subtle stylings.

The show was exposed to the general public for the first time during a tour of the South Central United States. The reception it received proved that Colonel Gibson's show had all the ingredients of a hit. Standing ovations rewarded the efforts of the Studio Band and Chorus at every stop.

Chatham Wins '71 Citation

Chatham Supermarkets has been named Certificate of Distinction winner in the Food Stores - Class I category of the Brand Names Foundation's 24th annual Retailer-of-the-Year competition.

The Chatham Supermarkets entry was sponsored by C.P.C. International, Inc. and won the award for its good retail citizenship, consumer protection and outstanding merchandising practices in 1971, according to H. Ford Perine, Brand Names Foundation President.

Jack Barr, Director of Advertising for Chatham, was quoted as saying, "It is the duty of all retailers to protect the consumer against false claims and misleading advertising. Truth in advertising has always been one element that has made Chatham one of the most outstanding retailers in the country."

In today's announcement of the judging panel's decision, Perine noted that the award will be presented at the Foundation's annual Retailer-of-the-Year Awards Banquet April 20, climaxed by a two-day gathering of manufacturers, retailers and advertising agencies and media executives at New York's Americana Hotel. The April 19-20 meeting will feature a "Great Ideas" theme, and promises "an unprecedented exchange of ideas among our membership," according to Perine.

Food Store Narrows Gap

Acting to "narrow the communications gap" between customers, employees and company management, Chatham Supermarkets brought together 50 representatives of its stores and offices last week.

Mrs. Margie A. Gibbs, head of the company's Consumer Affairs Department, the meeting was to explain a communications system to channel findings of the employee council to management and all other employees.

Concerns discussed included customer service, cents-off interpretation, store management-employee relationships, questions and requests, code dating, reasons for price increases, product availability, understanding of Phase II of the price freeze and employee courtesy.

"The Actuals"-Chatham's unit-pricing program was explained in depth. Monthly meetings are planned.

Friday's License Tab Deadline

The longest lines in nearly a decade are expected to form at Department of State and Automobile Club of Michigan offices for license plates tabs through Friday, March 31, the last valid days for displaying 1971 car plates.

Auto Club reports that its state-wide sale of license plate tabs is down 20 percent over a year ago with the annual practice of waiting until the last moment to get new plates cited as the major reason.

"There are approximately 750,000 Michigan motorists who have not yet purchased 1972 license tabs which must be affixed to last year's plates by April 1," States Auto Club Licensing Manager Joseph L. Ratke.

"Our 51 club offices which sell auto license tabs to members are prepared for a record final week when one of every seven state passenger car owners will buy license tabs," he adds.

What motorists need to purchase 1972 tabs are:

- The prepared registration form mailed to most car owners by the Department of State.
- Cost of tabs as stated on the registration form.
- If insured, brings proof of public liability and property damage insurance.
- If uninsured, have $45 for the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund.
- Car owners without the prepared form, however, must provide the following:
  - A self-completed registration form.
  - Car title plus proof of insurance.
  - Know your 1971 license plate number.

Cost of tabs which is the same as stated on the 1971 registration.

The $1 fee formerly paid by insured vehicle owners for the Motor Vehicle Fund is not in effect this year.

Things You Should Know... About Eggs!

Q. How can a quality egg be identified?
A. The "Grade" refers to its quality. Chatham specializes in Grade A eggs. When broken out of the shell, these high-quality eggs have a high-standing yolk tucked by a thick, up-standing white. The egg will spread only over a small area, but as they deteriorate, they spread over more territory.

Q. How can I determine which size is the best?
A. Egg size refers to weight as specified by law for jumbo, extra large, large, medium, etc. In buying eggs, consider the price difference between the various sizes. For example: If there is MORE THAN 1¢ difference in price between medium and large eggs, then medium eggs cost less per pound. If there is LESS THAN 1¢ difference in price between medium and large eggs, then the large size offers more egg for the money.

Q. Why do hard-cooked eggs sometimes have a dark ring around the yolk?
A. Michigan State University egg specialists tell us that the egg's harder they are to peel. To peel eggs easily, take them out of the refrigerator 24 hours before cooking.

At Outdoor-Ed Center Kids Learn Fast

A week of outdoor living and learning with emphasis on ecology, biology, and wild life was met with enthusiasm by the sixth grade students of Wixom Elementary School.

The outdoor education program in the Walled Lake School District has been part of the sixth grade curriculum for the past fifteen years.

In March of this year, completed the new Outdoor Education Center, a two year old building which now have the use of one of the first such centers in Michigan owned and operated by a school district.

For one week, students live and take all their classes at the Center. The usual "book learning" is put aside and all time is devoted to Mother Nature.

Because the Center is brand new, an extra course was added to the daily schedule. And, by far, it was the top favorite among the students.

The course is "site development," Miss Barbara Garbutt, director of outdoor education, explained that because the area is new it lacks trails.

To K & B, Smokler Council Postpones Payback Approval

Requests for paybacks from two area developers were stalled by the Novi city council Monday, as objections to terms of each of the payback agreements were raised by council members.

The two developers involved were Kaufman and Broad, who sought a payback for construction of oversized water lines through their Heatherbrae and Heatherwyck developments, and Smokler-Broquet, who sought a payback for construction of a sewer lateral to service the Country Place condominium development on Eight Mile Road.

At the time Kaufman and Broad (K&B) received site plan approval for their Heatherbrae and Heatherwyck developments, they were asked by the city to install 12 inch mains through the developments.

The city agreed to pay K&B the difference between the $2 and eight inch mains. That difference, K&B engineers reported Monday, is $7,800.

Granting of the request was stalled at the insistence of Councilman Edwin Pressnell. The water lines constructed by K&B, Pressnell contended, only supply to other K&B developments.

Councilman Raymond Evans agreed with Pressnell's contentions and action was postponed until such time as the city engineers and council can study water line maps.

Smokler-Broquet's request involved a sewer lateral constructed from 10 Mile Road down Meadowbrook Road to service their Country Place condominium development on Eight Mile Road.

Because the sewer line has an estimated capacity in excess of 700 taps and Smokler needed only 350 of them, the developer and the city entered into an agreement whereby the city would payback 50 percent of the cost of the construction.

At the time of that agreement estimated cost of the line was $170,000. Construction costs exceeded the estimate by roughly $30,000 and now the developers have asked the council to raise a $35 fee for the surplus $50 taps charged in addition to the regular sewer tap-in fee to finance the extra cost of the construction.

The council contends, however, that the original contract carried with it the implication that the 50 percent figure was based on the original $170,000 estimate.

"The reason the 50 percent figure was used in the contract," said Pressnell, "was because they led us to believe the cost could be less than $170,000."

The matter was referred to the city engineers and City Attorney Howard Bond for their review.

In other business, the council decided to look into the matter of fire hydrant rental from Oakland County.

objection had been raised, Councilman Raymond Evans took up the cause. "I've been complaining about that for the past five years," said Evans. The matter will be discussed further at a later date.

He opened three bids for a power broom for use in street cleaning and snow removal by the Department of Public Works. Bids for the power broom, which can be attached to a city-owned tractor, ranged from $1,000 by William Sell and Sons to $1,350 by International Harvester.

The three bids were referred to the City Manager and DPW for their review and recommendation.

Begin Plans For Gala Days

Gala Days are coming. Plans are already underway for the annual summer event sponsored by the Novi Jaycees.

Consideration for special events will be considered in writing and letters should include specific ideas and dates. In case of the submission of duplicate ideas, Lapham noted, the earliest postmark will be given priority.

For the over-18s the Jaycees will again hold their "beer tent" complete with nightly entertainment and a chicken barbecue for the entire family is also planned as a part of the festivities.

Organizations and civic clubs interested in sponsoring a Gala Day special event should contact either Jerry Forenberry or Phil Kozak by writing them care of Gala Days Publicity Chairman Bill Lapham.

Novi residents who have still not registered to vote will be given an extra opportunity to do so next week.

Register Voters

Novi residents who have still not registered to vote will be given an extra opportunity to do so next week.

City Manager George Athas announced Monday that the City Hall will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, April 8, and from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. every day Monday through Friday, April 10-14.

"The special hours," he said, "should give all unregistered voters ample opportunity to add their names to the rolls."

The city clerk, deputy clerk, and a typist will be present during those hours to register any new voters.

All voters wishing to participate in the May 14 primary, which will include the proposed one mill increase in Novi taxes, must be registered by April 14.

World's Largest Interchange

Construction is already underway on what may well be the world's largest freeway interchange. Located on the eastern edge of Novi, the interchange will funnel traffic along M-275 north through Oakland County to I-75; northeast along the existing I-696 (bottom right); west along the existing I-96 (bottom left); and south along the new I-96 along the existing I-96, shows the beginning stages of work on the interchange.

Running horizontally through the middle of the picture is Haggerty Road. The illustration below shows the proposed route of the interchange.

Jennifer Kastner Married

Jennifer Kastner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kastner of Donagel Court, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Steenberg. For her wedding, the bride wore an old-fashioned white gown of ivory satin trimmed with wide lace interwoven with pink velvet ribbon. An ivory picture hat, with pink velvet ribbon and fresh flowers, framed her face. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of mixed spring flowers. Amanda Taub of Dearborn, the bride's sorority sister, was maid of honor. Her flowered gown was floor length and she carried a basket of mixed spring flowers.

James Park III of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, a college friend of the bridegroom, served as best man. Ushers were brothers of the bridegroom, Larry and Richard Steenberg, with Mark Steenberg and Kurt Kastner serving as junior ushers.

Mrs. Kastner chose a pink dress and coat ensemble for her daughter's wedding. She carried a purse corsage with an orchid surrounded by spring flowers.

Mrs. Steenberg wore a coordinating flowered dress. Her orchid and spring flower corsage blended with her dress. A reception was held at the Kastner home immediately following the ceremony. The couple will make their home in Holland where the bridegroom is a student at Hope College. He is majoring in education and expects to graduate in December.

The bride, a member of Sigma Sigma sorority is a 1971 graduate of Hope College with a degree in biology and is presently employed at Butterworth Hospital in Grand Rapids.

Parents Seek Party Funds

Donations from parents of Northville High School graduating seniors are being requested to meet the expenses of the all-night party "for seniors only" which is becoming a tradition following graduation ceremonies.

Scheduled for Tuesday, June 13, following graduation exercises, the party is being planned by a committee of parents under the chairmanship of Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell Pitak. Mr. and Mrs. Duane Butler, 21405 Summerside Lane, are party treasurers.

"It's just their party with only graduating seniors allowed," Mrs. Butler points out, adding that it offers classmates an opportunity to spend their final day together.

It is a nodate event and is held in the high school cafeteria, teachers' lounge, patio and pool areas.

Mrs. Butler reports she has received about 40 checks to date to meet party expenses. Parents of the 236 seniors were requested to send donations of at least $6 to Mrs. Butler by April 15. Checks should be made out to Northville High Class of 1972.

Girl Scouts Tap Novi Resident

Mrs. Robert Brooks of Novi recently was elected to the board of directors of the Southern Oakland Girl Scout Council.

Two hundred persons were present at the annual meeting, which included a performance by a Cadette-Senior chorus, a flag tabe, luncheon, and award presentations.

In other action at the annual meeting of the council, senior scouts (high school girls) were made members of the adult area associations and may elect delegates to the council.

For the past several years, senior scouts have been serving on adult administrative committees, providing the girls' viewpoint on scouting plans.

Another Novi resident, Mrs. Leslie Clark, was presented a Council Thanks Certificate for her outstanding work in Girl Scouting.

In Our Town

By JEAN DAY

THE SPRING recess of area schools is offering opportunity for many families to travel to sunshine or visit friends and family this week. Some already have returned from early vacations.

Back last week from a trip to Jekyll Island, Georgia, were Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Evans, daughter, Stacey, a student at Michigan State University, and Scott and Susie, Northville High students.

Before returning they spent a day with Mrs. Evans' mother in St. Petersburg, Florida, and visited son Steve, a 1965 graduate of Northville High who signed with the St. Louis Cardinal system. Steve also has been going to college when not pitching and received his degree from University of Michigan in December.

HOUSEGUESTS of the Evans family next week will be Mr. and Mrs. William Davis. The Davises are living in England while he is on assignment with Ford overseas. While vacationing in this country they have been visiting son Bill and his wife in Boston, Mrs. Davis' family in Arizona, his family in West Virginia and their son and daughter in Ohio.

Son Gary and his wife are at Wooster while daughter Andrea is in nurses' training.

Mr. and Mrs. Evans are hosting an open house next Saturday for Northville friends to visit with the Davises. The Davises still have their Northville home, which has been occupied by the Douglas Edwards family. They, however, also are on-the-move as he is being transferred to Dayton.

THE CHARLES YAHNES of Eaton Drive have been both west and north during the past weeks. Their trip west included a visit with daughter, Carol, and her husband in Sandusky near Albuquerque, New Mexico. After a short stay at Big Bend National Park they visited in Texas, Missouri and Illinois. In San Antonio, Texas, they saw Mr. and Mrs. Roger Sackett, Mrs. Sackett being the former Alice Eaton, daughter of the L.M. Eatons.

After a few days at home, the Yahnes went to Alpena to stay with their son William and his family for two weeks. Their son, a lawyer with the firm of Boyce, Yahne and Wenzel in Alpena, and his family moved there two and a half years ago from the Detroit area.

During their visit, their son and his wife, Janet, flew to the Bahamas with friends for a week of golf and swimming while the grandparents stayed with Beth and Deb.

SILVER SPRINGS Quilter chapter president, Mrs. Richard Foy, is looking ahead to the first week in May when she plans to attend the Quilters national convention in Indianapolis. She'll be taking with her the album quilt the chapter has been making through the winter to present as its gift to national headquarters for use in its Quince Street house in Philadelphia. Done in three colors on pale green, the quilt is composed of squares, each embroidered by a member with her name. The quilt also bears the chapter name and date. It has been pieced and now is being quilted.

It originally was the idea of Gloria Douglas, a former chapter member who was preparing a study paper on quilts and since has moved to Florida. "We had fun doing it," comments Mrs. Foy as she looks ahead to presenting the gift that has "sewn-in" sentiment.

BASE LINE Chapter, Northville's first Quilter group, also will be represented at the convention. President Mrs. Edwin Langtry, Mrs. Paul Beard and Mrs. Leonard Klein, who all also attended the national meeting in Philadelphia in 1970, plan to drive down.

At their meeting last week the Base Line Quilters studied another type of needlework as Mrs. Fred Wagoner presented a paper on crewel. Jean Schurch of Livonia, an expert in this field and an instructor on it in the community services program at Schoolcraft College, was a guest.

She brought some of her exquisitely-worked pieces and pointed out such crewel stitches as the "spider web" and "whip-and-wind." Crewel work, she added, is noted for its pleasing designs, which often feature shaded carnations and acorns.

It is satisfying, she suggests, as it works quickly in wool and is decorative used for pillows, wall pieces and footstools. Originally, the most beautiful crewel was worked for bed hangings, she noted.

She gave a hint for all needleworkers: Be sure to mark your pieces with your name or initials and the date.

MOTHERS' CLUB, which has provided a program of cultural enrichment in Northville's schools this year, can anticipate a "rich experience" of its own at its guest night meeting at 8 p.m. Monday, April 24.

Mrs. Robert Bogart, 46638 West Main Street, is opening her home for the evening.

Lillian Hicks, director of the Fisher Theatre speaker's bureau and performer on stage, audio and television, will speak on "The Theatre Today."

She began her theatrical career as an actress and over the years has appeared in many mediums as well as worked back stage and in the box office and knows the theatre and its greats. She promises to recall "hilarious and sometimes hectic anecdotes of theatrical greats."

She also will preview new shows of today, some of which may be presented at the Fisher in Detroit, where "No, No, Nanette" is playing until May 13. The production, starring June Allyson and Dennis Day, is included on her list, as is "Purlie," which comes to the Fisher May 15 through June 17 from two years on Broadway.

Arline Biery

She Banks on Volunteer Help

If Mrs. Elden Biery's telephone line is busy, chances are she's scheduling volunteers for a blood bank. If there's no answer it's a good bet she's assisting with other Northville volunteers in a bloodmobile.

Her official title is regional chairman, personnel development and staffing, for Red Cross blood banks. For three years she has been programming and staffing blood banks for the entire north-west area of Metropolitan Detroit.

On Arline Biery's shoulders rests the responsibility for making sure volunteers are on hand to assist the professional staff at area blood banks. One of the upcoming bloodmobiles is Northville's own, scheduled from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., May 5, at Northville First Presbyterian Church.

This is a purely volunteer activity paid only in "satisfaction" for the life-long Northville resident who now lives in a townhouse at 18363 Jamestown Circle, King's Mill.

She is the former Arline Richardson and was born in the house her father built at 217 Dunlap Street. Her son, David, and his family now live there.

The Bierys have two other sons, Dick and Don, who both live in Florida. There also are six grandchildren.

This Friday Mrs. Biery will have a team of Northville volunteers ready to assist at a blood bank at Western Electric on Sheldon Road in Plymouth.

With such slogans as, "Get Your Irish Blood Up," the volunteers were welcomed to the Schoolcraft College campus on St. Patrick's Day.

"We collected 107 pints of blood at Schoolcraft, and anything over 100 is a good day," reports Mrs. Biery. She points out that blood banks are receiving many first-time donations from younger people now because of the 18-year-old Age of Majority.

"It was always 21 before. Now donors are accepted between 18 and 65 years old," she adds.

Mrs. Biery presently has about 30 volunteers on call who have taken a basic two-hour Red Cross and two-hour blood bank training program. These uniformed volunteers register donors at blood banks, take temperatures, assist nurses on the floor or in the canteen area, working where needed.

"If it weren't for volunteers," she notes, "the Red Cross blood program could not go on." Each volunteer works about two times a month. One of Arline Biery's recruits, Mrs. James vanBuren, is most enthusiastic about the program, pointing out that advance scheduling lets her plan ahead.

She's also enthusiastic about Mrs. Biery — "She's simply tremendous — not only does she schedule the blood banks and work at them but she also does disaster work for the Red Cross."

Mrs. Biery explains that disaster work entails visiting families who have had "burn-outs" and finding out their plight. Then she signs requisitions for clothing and groceries to fill immediate needs. She has gone downriver to check on such requests but temporarily has asked not to be called as her husband recently was hospitalized and her time limited.

She hasn't given up her blood bank work, however, and stresses that the program "really needs more volunteers — so many of our long-time helpers are gone part of the year that we need younger women who stay in town during the winter."

She's delighted that her new volunteer recruits include workers like Mrs. vanBuren, Mrs. Roger Pyett, Mrs. Robert Cervin and Mrs. F.J. Collins.

"I spend hours on the phone," she admits, as she relates that the last time she staffed a bloodmobile 17 of the volunteers were out of town. She's hoping to add to the new recruits, who are enthusiastic about the satisfactions of their volunteering.

"We're still more fortunate than other communities who aren't getting as many volunteers," Mrs. Biery says, explaining that this is why the volunteers she calls go to Livonia, Redford, Plymouth, Garden City and Westland. Anyone interested in joining a most compatible crew is invited to call Mrs. Biery, 349-2665.

She's also hoping groups of individuals will call her to make a reservation for Northville's blood bank May 5. From 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m., groups mainly are scheduled to donate. Individual donors are scheduled from 2:30 p.m. on. The Red Cross points out that the gift of a pint of blood "protects a whole family." If 20 per cent of a group — club or co-workers — donates, it offers protection to the entire membership for a year.

Reservations also will be taken for the Northville visit of the bloodmobile by Mrs. Beatrice Carlson, 349-1330, or Mrs. C.C. Winter, 349-2361, both long-time volunteers.

CARNIVAL TIME—Main Street Elementary's annual carnival, sponsored by the fifth graders, was a great pre-Easter vacation send off for students last Thursday. A variety of games, including a softball throw, ring toss, spook tunnel and sponge throw, were set up in the classrooms. Organized by fifth grade teacher Jeff Lightfoot, the carnival raised more than $160 with proceeds going to support an orphan girl in India which the students sponsor each year.

Honors Retiree

Mrs. Ann Murdoch of Plymouth was honored recently at a tea at Northville.

"During the past two years, Mrs. Murdoch served as a supervisor. Personnel of the hospital's food service division presented the retiring supervisor with a plaque, which reads: "This is to certify that Mrs. Anna Murdock who was an employee for 15 years at Northville State Hospital has never been tardy."

"Mrs. Murdoch was the first and only employee of our Food Service to acquire 1,000 hours of sick leave," according to Director Nelson Rich.

Her husband, an employee of Wayne County General Hospital, expects to retire in a few years.

School Electors Vote on Saturday

Mill Hike, Bond Issue Proposed

Requests for 1.5 mills for one year and a $1.45 million bond issue go before Northville School District voters Saturday in a special election. Polls will be open in the board of education offices, 303 West Main Street, from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Keeping in line with past school district elections, the vote will be held Saturday to allow a larger turnout at the polls.

Slightly more than 1,500 of the district's 6,082 voters are expected to cast ballots in the election and all registered 18-year-olds are eligible to vote Saturday.

Superintendent Raymond Spear said the 1.5 mills "is for one year only and will facilitate added costs of operating Northville schools and provide funds to handle an expanding enrollment."

With a current enrollment of 3,520 students, the district anticipates 3,750 to 3,800 total students when school opens in September.

The 1.5 mill increase in operational millage will raise an estimated $12,000, based on an estimated state equalized valuation SEV of $95 million in 1972-73.

Explaining the one year limit on the millage request, Spear noted the "whole financial structure of the state is up for revision and may exclude property tax as a method for financing school districts."

The $1.45 million bond issue request will not require an increase in debt levy millage due to increased SEV of the district.

The bond issue is the first phase of a three-phase building program of two elementary schools, a middle school and a high school.

Included in phase one of the bond issue are:

- purchase of additional school site
- site development costs, including $45,000 for the elementary site in Highland Lakes;
- renovations and improvements at Main Street, Cooke Junior High and Annex, Amerman, Moraine and Northville High;
- alarm system in buildings, equipment inventory and lighting of tennis courts.

The 1.5 mill request in operational millage will be used to:

- handle an estimated 5.5 percent increase in operation costs of the district;
- handle an estimated 10 percent in enrollment;
- expand teaching staff to offset increased enrollment;
- make up anticipated loss of one-quarter mill from county tax allocation to fund Wayne County Community College.

• offset anticipated decrease in state aid per pupil for the 1972-73 school year; and

- finance salary adjustments of up to 5.5 percent.

"The district has got to ask voters for the money now," Spear said, commenting on placing both requests before voters at the same time.

"The property tax is overburdened," he noted, "but now it is the only way we can get the money to get the job done."

Currently, residents of the school district are paying 32.9 mills in school taxes - 22.9 mills for operation and 1.0 mill for debt retirement.

Township Deadlocks on Littell

Consider 3 Attorneys

Township trustees deadlocked over the method to be used in hiring an attorney to replace the firm of Draugelis and Ashton but finally agreed to form a committee of two to interview three possible choices.

Deadlock came Tuesday night after Treasurer Joseph Straub, supported by Clerk Eleanor Hammond, moved to hire James Littell as township attorney. Littell previously held the post of legal counsel for the township.

Voting for the motion were Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg, Clerk Hammond and Straub.

Casting dissenting votes were Trustees Leonard Klein, Richard Mitchell and Charles Schaeffer. They noted they wished the board to have an opportunity to speak with the three men being considered.

Also under consideration are attorneys Gene Schney and Thomas Brady.

Trustee Bernard Baldwin was absent from Tuesday's meeting.

Clerk Hammond proposed a committee of two be named to conduct the interviews and Stromberg and Schaeffer were appointed to the committee.

Straub voted against the committee approach, noting "They make a recommendation and I must accept it. I will not have a say and will be voting blindly."

Draugelis and Ashton notified the township last month that because of a growing private practice, the firm would not renew its contract which expired April 1.

A special township board meeting has been set for Tuesday, April 18, at which time it is expected the committee will have a recommendation on hiring an attorney.

In other action Tuesday night, trustees granted a Class C (liquor by the glass) liquor license to C. Thomas Schlicher of 404 West Dunlap Street.

Schlicher owns two and one-half acres of land on Seven Mile Road, formerly owned by Northville Coach Lines, and plans to operate a family restaurant called the "Track Room."

Mitchell voted against awarding the license, noting he was not convinced a liquor license should be granted for a site near a residential area. Trustees also:

- accepted the resignation of Carlo said the Downs, the

City May Pay For Moving

Although the council has not yet made a formal decision, it appears the city will underwrite the cost of moving the old library building and buildings the Society could then utilize its monies for site development.

An immediate Society expense, he said, would be installation of flood lights to insure safety of the buildings once they are moved.

The buildings are to be moved by representatives of the Northville Historical Society Sunday, it was concluded that if the city moved the buildings the Society could then utilize its monies for site development.

CHANGING LANDSCAPE—A major portion of Northville's downtown landscape will change soon with development of Northville Square (inside dotted lines) beginning next month. The old library building is to be moved and the remainder of the buildings will be razed.

Public Forum Disclosure

New Downs Barns Seen

Within two years horses and motorists won't be battling for right-of-way at the intersection of Sheldon and Seven Mile roads.

That's the prediction of John Carlo, executive manager of Northville Downs, who outlined future Downs plans at a public informational meeting in the city council chambers Thursday.

A near-capacity crowd was on hand for the meeting, which centered around plans for the Downs and for the proposed Northville Square shopping center.

Carlo said the Downs, the community's largest single taxpayer, hopes to construct a sufficient number of stables along the west side of River Street to eliminate the necessity of horses regularly crossing the Sheldon-Seven Mile intersection during the racing meets here.

Presently, horses and drivers traveling between the southwest corner often tie up traffic to the irritation of motorists using either Sheldon or Seven Mile Road, he admitted.

"I don't blame the people if they complain (about the horses crossing the intersection). It's not good," Carlo, who indicated that the track doesn't like it any more than the waiting motorists.

He indicated that the Downs plans to build from 150 to 200 winter stables along River Street. Furthermore, he said backlogging of all Downs parking lots are in the offing, and he indicated plans call for construction of a parking deck near Cady and Church streets. No time-table was given for the latter, however.

Arraigned on charges Tuesday morning was Ronald Johnson of Detroit, an escapee from Northville State Hospital.

He pled not guilty to the arson charge and bond was set at $25,000. A psychiatric exam has been ordered and pre-trial examination was set for Thursday, April 13.

Johnson also was arraigned Tuesday on a charge of vagrancy, pled not guilty and trial was set for Wednesday, April 12. Bond was placed at $100.

He said he is in various stages of signing leases with 20 tenants—all of whom, he emphasized, will represent the same "friendly, small-town kind of service" that is characteristic of Northville. He did not identify the tenants, but he indicated that they are merchants not already located here.

SEEK SUPPORT—Three Northville men, (l to r) Russell Amerman, Robert Weber, and C. A. Smith are seeking people willing to purchase tickets to enable boys and young men at Wayne County Child Development Center and the Detroit House of Correction to see the show, "For Pete's Sake."

Men Seek Contributions

565 May See Movie

If three Northville men have their way, 565 persons at the Detroit House of Correction and the Wayne County Child Development Center will have an opportunity to see a film titled "For Pete's Sake."

The three are seeking contributions to underwrite the cost of 565 tickets to the show slated for presentation at the Penn Theatre in Plymouth April 19-25.

They are Robert Weber, owner of Northville Camera Shop, Charles Smith, a retired industrialist, and Russell

Amerman, retired superintendent of Northville schools.

The film, a full-length dramatic motion picture, tells the story of Pete Harper, a young man who, through his relationship with God against the odds of life and loving in today's world.

"It is a comedy and a drama with an important message for our society," according to the three local men, "It deals with the manners and morals of today's youth in a realistic, straight-forward manner."

The film itself is sponsored by a committee of men and women from the northwest suburbs who are concerned about the youth of local communities and who are intent upon doing something about it.

"To aid them in obtaining ticket sponsors, the three local men are offering an eight-minute film clip about "For Pete's Sake" to local civic groups and clubs.

Club officers who wish to include the free program at one of their meetings are asked to contact Weber at 349-0105. Ticket outlets for the show are located at Northville Camera, 200 South Main, and at Del's Shoes, 153 East Main.

A special preview of the showing of the film was held for community and church leaders on March 21. Reaction was "very favorable," according to Amerman, who noted that Northville's present school superintendent, Raymond Spear, made the following observation:

"A very fine presentation with a deep meaning needed in today's society."

No contributions are being solicited for the film program itself, the three men point out, "but tickets can be purchased to be given to these two institutions."

Boyd Brothers broke ground for their new building on North Center Street Monday.

Monday night on the heels of downtown rain, a strong northwest wind brought the worst blizzard of the winter to the area. Drifts and heavy snow paralyzed all activity on railroads and buses and at schools. Trees were downed and telephone service knocked out.

FIFTY YEARS AGO The residence of Mrs. Mary Wilkinson in Bealton was the scene of a stubborn fire Wednesday noon. The building was badly damaged.

Just as soon as weather conditions permit work on digging the trenches, Northville's new sewer system will start.

The radio craze is taking hold in Northville. Receiving sets have been installed in a number of homes about town and nightly concerts are enjoyed.

Writes from Israel

Paul Recounts Travels

Editor's Note: Former staffer Paul Faters decided last fall to chuck it all "and go see the world." With little money in his pocket, a thin jacket, walking shoes, knapsack and a strong thumb he headed east. Following is his first letter to us since leaving.

What can I say - I really don't mean to be inconsiderate. I'm just a lazy letter writer. That is inexcusable because I love to get mail and suffer all sorts of galls when I don't return it.

As to where I've been: Three weeks in New York, then a plane to London (New York-East Coast strike killed all chances of working my way across on a ship), then a train to Paris, four days there while I tried to find Prudy (former Record staffer Prudence Hart, who is presently studying at the Sorbonne), but I couldn't find her.

Hitched through France, headed south along the north coast of Spain, then inland to Madrid, then up to Barcelona, then to Ibiza and Formentera (both islands off Spain), then south along the Mediterranean coast to Morocco, three weeks there: Marrakech, Casa Blanca, then Algeria, Tunisia, Sicily (played chess with Frank Sinatra's cousin), then Italy (with an overnight train ride), Greece (I was in Athens Christmas eve), and Israel, where I am now picking citrus fruit (oranges-lemons-grapefruit) on a kibbutz about five K's from Gaza Strip.

Kibbutz life is fairly simple. We get up at 7:30 in the morning, eat breakfast, pick a ton of citrus fruit in six hours or less, take a shower, and then everybody diversifies.

I read, write letters (not often though), lay in the sun, take walks, ride horses, play chess, eat dinner, watch movies, sit and think, or write poetry.

We get room and board, stationery, laundry, all the above entertainment facilities, and each other's company all free for as long as we want to stay and can keep up with the work.

Other jobs I've had include digging potatoes and taking care of the kibbutz chickens (some 18,000 hens and roosters), which means collecting eggs, shoveling manure, building nests, and killing chickens. I've discovered that I have an amazing talent for killing chickens. I can do it faster than kibbutz-niks who've been here 20 years.

All of it is fun, but I'm getting bored. I plan to move on soon and find a job.

As to how I've been: England and France were a drag because I was lonely and unused to the road. Four days in Paris were lovely - simply beautiful. I spent a day and a half in Notre Dame, simply fascinating. Chantres was beautiful, too. There's a cathedral there that is a popular pilgrimage site. Of course the French and Spanish country-side is lovely and typical. There are no billboards and it's clean. Madrid and Barcelona were exciting and I spent plenty of money.

Algeria and Tunisia were the same except no dope. All through North Africa, I had an exceedingly good time; but it was a constant hustle. Sicily was full of friendly people and Frank Sinatra's cousin. Stayed there two weeks. Beautiful land.

Greece was insane. Within 20 minutes of the Acropolis in Athens I met everybody I'd traveled with except one. We spent the next two weeks dancing, singing, drinking OZO. It was insane.

Saw Crete, too... it was a mass of Americans.

Moreoco was full of dope, American and Canadian tourists. Arabs and hostile stares, extreme poverty.

Came to Israel with $7.50 left to my name and here I am.

I would write more but I hesitate to deluge you with all I think about all of this. Let me say that every American girl I've met on the spot has been incredibly spoiled.

Say hello to everybody as you see them - BeGole, all the cops, Ella MacMillan, Osborne, Obrenovich.

I expect to leave here, as I said, around April. I'll write my new address.

Also, should you think of it, send me a copy of The Novi News. Be happy. I won't tell you not to work too hard.

Unification Talk Slated

Unification of Northville city and township will be the topic for the League of Women Voters at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. next Thursday, April 13, at the home of Mrs. John DeMott, 43905 West Six Mile Road.

For two years the league has been involved in a study of long-range planning for orderly growth for Northville and Northville Township.

In the study the geographical make-up of the two communities, the political and educational aspects, and present and projected costs have been considered and will be discussed. Library services, recreation, sewers, water, fire and police protection, planning and zoning, feasibility studies and methods of unification also will be considered.

Leading the meeting will be the league's community planning committee composed of Mrs. Steven Orban, president, Mrs. Kent Mathes, Mrs. J. Thomas Handy, Mrs. Joseph Kluesner, Mrs. Dwayne Butler and Mrs. Richard Lyon.

Mrs. Harold Wright will then lead a consensus of opinion on unification assisted by Mrs. John Pederspill.

Registration for the meeting will be held for prospective kindergartners Tuesday, April 18. The testing will be conducted at Novi Middle School on Taft Road, Novi.

Health forms which parents must have completed for the registration include a health history and physician's report. There must be proof of immunization against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, polio, measles and rubella. A tuberculin test also is required.

Proof of the child's age also is required. Questions concerning registration may be answered by calling any Novi elementary.

Novi Acts After Delay

An ordinance governing construction of condominium developments was adopted by the Novi city council Monday, but councilmen were far from pleased with the breadth of the standards imposed.

"I just don't think this is a good ordinance," said Councilman Edwin Pressnell. "It's not complete enough, but we've got to get something on the books governing construction of these things, and then we can add amendments to it later."

The condominium ordinance has been pending before the council for more than four months, as first one objection and then another has been raised to its adoption.

Three weeks ago, at the council's March 13 session, the ordinance was again on the agenda for approval.

Adoption was postponed, however, until a section governing community facilities could be added.

Since the ordinance for the addition of the section was the complaints of several Village Oaks residents, who claimed developers Kaufman and Broad had not abided by their agreements in providing community facilities.

When the ordinance was brought before council Monday, the section had been added and was passed by the council by a 5-0 vote.

Mayor Joseph Crupi and Councilman Lou Campbell were absent from the meeting due to vacations.

Applicants for building permits for condominiums must in the future file a performance bond or other guaranty with the city assuring the completion of all community facilities within one year after the issuance of the building permit in which the building is to be constructed.

An additional performance bond must be filed, guaranteeing completion of all community facilities within five years after issuance of the building permit.

The bond, to be determined by the city engineer, is to be for the amount required for the completion of the facilities.

Other items on the agenda included the first building permit, which was issued to a developer for a multi-section development (such as Village Oaks) within five years after issuance of the building permit.

In Walled Lake Pre-Schoolers Get Aid

Children who enter kindergarten or first grade underdeveloped in language are getting aid in the Walled Lake School District.

Through a federally funded pilot language arts program, children in Commerce, Dublin, Walled Lake and Wixom Elementary Schools are receiving special help in the development of language arts.

According to Dr. Charlotte Banas, project consultant, "The main objective is to increase success in language arts for each target child."

Although the children involved in the Title I program are approximately five from each kindergarten section and 10 in each first grade section, function with the regular classroom, "they are expected to have success in building confidence as learners through the program."

Dr. Banas added, "The program is essentially preventative in nature so the children will avoid problems or difficulties in the future."

Under the supervision of the classroom teacher, 12 trained para-professional or instructional aids work with individual children. Three consultants provide the basic framework or objectives with frequent in-service training sessions playing an important role in the overall planning.

Probably the strongest point of the program is the individualized instruction offered to the children. Dr. Banas explained. Each child can progress at his own rate in skill areas rather than

'Look in Book' Bell Tells Users

"Please look in the book first," says Michigan Bell as it began distribution of its 1972 phone directories in Farmington, Garden City, Livonia, Northville, Plymouth, and a part of Westland last week.

John Peard, local Michigan Bell manager, said the Northville suburban books contain some 136,000 numbers and other changes in the white pages listings since last year's publication.

All area numbers are up to date as of January 18, he said.

"For these reasons," Peard said, "we urge telephone users to use the new directory for looking up numbers instead of dialing our 'New Number Information' operators."

That service, he said, is for those customers who wish to reach the telephone numbers with new numbers since January 18. In addition, he said, that service is also for those located where no directory is available, where one simply cannot find a certain listing in the book and for the physically handicapped.

Peard said recent surveys showed that 10 percent of customers make about 50 percent of all calls to new number information.

Michigan Bell has ordered some 216,000 directories for distribution in the area. It will take 3,000 men and women more than three weeks to complete delivery of the phone books to residences and businesses in the tri-county area.

If any customer wants an extra directory for a telephone location in his home or business which hasn't been reached by the regular mail, he can call Michigan Bell's local business office and an extra copy will be sent to him.

Chevrolet Promotes Walton

Appointment of Harold R. Walton of Northville as area sales coordinator on the Chevrolet Central Office Financial Staff was announced this past week.

Walton joined Chevrolet in 1950 in a clerical position at the Buffalo (N.Y.) axle plant following his graduation from Allegheny (Pa.) college where he was a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

He moved to the former aviation engine plant at Tonawanda, New York, in 1951 where he held various positions until being named supervisor of accounts payable at the Tonawanda motor plant in 1954.

Following several superintending and auditing assignments at that plant, Walton was transferred to central office in 1957 and held a succession of positions. He was appointed director of government contract administration in 1963 and became general director of central office accounting and consolidation in 1970, the assignment he held until his current appointment.

Walton lives at 42396 Richards Court.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

EDITOR'S NOTE: Substituting this week for Publisher William Sliger, who is vacationing, is George Vilican, Jr. of Vilican-Leman & Associates, Inc., planning consultant for many communities in this area, including Northville Township, Novi, Wixom, Lyon Township, South Lyon and Brighton Township. In his guest column Vilican discusses the physical aspect of residential land use patterns.

By GEORGE VILICAN, JR.

Bill Sliger's invitation to do an article for the paper during his absence provided me with a real opportunity to discuss a most critical aspect of our daily lives, namely, the land we live on and the manner in which we use it. However, in the space allocated, I choose only to cover that portion dealing with the residential land use patterns, and will limit my article to the physical treatment we give our residential areas.

Regrettably, we as a people, have become enamored with the popular multi-media matter of ecology and the environment to a point where we do more battle in a reactive sense, and give little thought to accomplishing the nature of environment we want to live in. Doing battle to save a tree is often a worthy objective. However, the saving of a tree and the topping of a road widening could also represent retrogression, whereas a program leading to a street tree planting along our thousands of miles of streets anticipating their eventual widening will provide a truly worthy sense of accomplishment.

The long range perspective and outlook is greatly needed if we're to provide even the minimum of residential amenities in our communities. We must evaluate the residential patterns we live in by concerning ourselves with every aspect of our home environment. Do we have adequate open spaces and parks for the old and very young? Are our street patterns satisfactory, or have our improvement demands become so sophisticated that we can't afford basic necessities?

We, as community planners, have found that this matter of open space and recreational facilities is truly a marketable quantity, but we have also found that too often people will not or cannot pay for it. Furthermore, when the neighborhood level facility is municipally provided, it is generally not properly timed nor so located as to conveniently serve the residents it is intended for.

It would seem a fair statement if one were to conjecture that most families would look for such features as open space, stands of trees, parks, recreation areas, good street layouts, lakes, schools, well located shopping and other such amenities as representing an ideal home environment. It would be equally fair, therefore, to ask if the typically conventional subdivision most of us live in begins to provide for these amenities. How, then, can we provide for these facilities in advance of development? For, if they are not provided as an integral part of a new development, they will more than likely not be provided at all. It would be far more practical to provide these open spaces in the future residents of an area by building them into our subdivisions in their initial planning stage.

This technique has, of course, been successfully used and, to mention but a few, the residents of "Northville Commons" and "Highland Lakes" in Northville Township will benefit from this farsightedness.

In recent years, most of the developing communities in the Detroit Metropolitan Area have accepted the concept of some form of density zoning. As yet, it has not reached the form most Professional Community Planners feel would represent an ideal approach, that of controlling zoning without regard to housing type (i.e., single, multiple, cluster, etc.). This method of zoning can more easily "control the density of population" upon a given acre of land. With this as a tool, the planner can more accurately project the demands to be placed upon public facilities such as schools, parks, utilities and the like.

Another advantage of this method is that the flexibility allowed, insofar as dwelling unit types is concerned, would enable builders to more adequately meet the demands of the market. Density zoning would also result in the provision of much more open space than we now see in the rigid pattern of the conventional single-family subdivision.

This approach does not, however, suggest the opening of the gate valve permitting the typical multiple-family project so commonplace in our metropolitan area. Although most of these projects were proposed as innovative land use patterns, they exist as higher density developments with concrete scars for open weather parking. Little thought is given to the recreation needs of too often a large population concentration, including school age children. Density zoning would permit this overloading of land. All use types would result in one overall density.

Ideally then, in our new development areas, we should prescribe the maximum holding capacity of a land area so that we can in advance judge the number of people to be housed and provided for. The physical treatment given to the land should allow for flexibility of housing types and their space relationship to each other.

To extend this nature of flexibility to a developer, should demand in return a sound plan for recognizing wooded areas to be preserved, hills and valleys to be saved and not flattened by bulldozers, and should recognize the character of surrounding development. Side yards can often be deleted if we cluster our units so as to attach them and still provide for privacy and beauty. Front yards, as we know them, may become service courts.

We will have to recognize that our conventional home floor plans will need more thorough study so as to relate the rooms to outdoor living areas, if we're to recognize front yards as being obsolete. It is critical for the citizens of our communities to recognize the merits of flexibility if we're to enhance our communities and preserve our natural features. The watchdog attitude of protecting status quo is equally as detrimental as the production patterns of monotonous postage stamp lots in our single-family areas that, in fact, create the problems we're attempting to remedy. It is basic to good, sound development that we be open minded to the new development techniques being introduced in various parts of our nation.

Planned Unit Development and the clustering of units will permit our developers to preserve the natural topography and save whole stands of trees along with other worthwhile features. We must look upon our land as a resource that must be exploited with the greatest of concern and care.

YES...
It is not my intention to say that marked police vehicles are not necessary but it is my intention to show that semi-marked police vehicles are just as necessary. The semi-marked vehicle is useful in various duties. One aspect of the semi-marked vehicle is in the traffic division of which I am a member. It is much easier to give selective enforcement to an area or particular intersection in a semi-marked vehicle. If drivers know that there are semi-marked police vehicles in the area, they have a greater tendency to obey the laws, otherwise they will have a tendency to only obey the laws when they see a marked police vehicle.

Another need for semi-marked police vehicles is in the detective bureau. To get effective results in surveillance of someone or a particular place, it is absolutely necessary to remain inconspicuous thus making it necessary to use a plain or semi-marked vehicle. A matter of great importance in the use of semi-marked vehicles is the safety it affords the patrol officer. In many areas such as Detroit there are numerous incidents of marked patrol vehicles being fired upon. Plain or semi-marked vehicles would help alleviate this problem. My final reason which is near and dear to the taxpayer's heart is the cost of equipping a marked vehicle. The cost of visibars (overhead lights) is very high not to mention markings on the sides and rear. When a marked vehicle is traded in there are holes which need to be filled in and the markings need to be removed before the trade or take less on a trade.

Vote 'Yes' on Both Proposals

Northville School District voters will be asked to consider two tax proposals on Saturday—both of which this newspaper supports as being conservative but intelligent answers to meet an ever-present educational challenge.

• A proposal to increase the operational levy by 1.5 mills for one year. We are convinced this increase is essential if the current educational program is to be maintained in the face of increasing enrollment. Whether we like it or not, the school district continues to grow in population, and next fall an influx of new students will require an additional number of teachers. Without the proposed tax increase, school officials necessarily will have to cut back the educational program. We find that alternative objectionable.

Not only does the proposed millage increase represent a step that the board of education delayed for a year until it found the increase absolutely necessary, but the 1.5 proposal is given only a one-year life-time because of the uncertainty of future state-aid formulas and property tax reform packages. A less frugal board might have proposed a multi-year increase despite these uncertainties.

• A proposal to sell $1.45 million in bonds to acquire future school sites and improve existing physical facilities.

NO...

Marked police cars are a safety factor—when people spot a police car they immediately slow down, take things easy. As far as I am concerned, an unmarked car is nothing but a trap.

At an accident scene, an unmarked car is no more effective than a normal passenger car and is, therefore, useless to any police force that has limited funds and a limited number of vehicles.

Intelligence agencies, where important surveillance cannot be done when a marked car is used, have need for this type of vehicles. No average city's department has this need.

Radar and similar devices have been developed to the point that handling speeders has become much easier for local law enforcement agencies. Besides—and this is my main point—the presence of a car that is clearly a POLICE CAR, is one of the most important deterrents to speeding and reckless driving that a police department can have. If you spot a police car when you are driving 10-15 miles per hour over the speed limit, isn't your automatic reaction one of slowing down to the legal limit?

What I am saying is that there are definite applications for unmarked cars, but I don't believe these uses exist in an average community's police department.

People are more comfortable when they see a police car cruising through their neighborhood. They know the police are on the job and trying to make things safer for them.

Opposes Hike In Millage

To the Editor:
Here we go again. Every year we are told that more people have moved to the Northville area, and that they have many children. It must be getting very crowded, with several families to each home, because evidently, no new homes have been built for many years. Obviously no new homes have been added to the tax rolls, because almost every year, we are asked to pay more taxes for educating the additional children. I think it is long past time that the new families pay their own educational costs. I, for one, am tired of paying more to educate every new child in the school system. I am going to vote against the requested 1.5 mill hike for operation, and I certainly hope that many other voters in the Northville school district will do the same. There is currently a ceiling on salary increases for individuals. There must also be a ceiling on tax increases because with income limited, your cost increase means that we must do without something else. We have already cut out many of our own wants and needs to meet tax and other cost increases. It is time that the school system does the same and lives within its income.

Rips Columnist On Senior Trips

To the Editor:
There could well be many mothers who may wish to take you on in the "Punch her in the mouth" contest you want when someone says "Students have an equal opportunity to go by earning their trip money."

You sound like many other columnists who hide behind your paper, a little fearful of their mouths. First you attack the Novi School Board and Administrators for not drawing the line on senior trips and out-of-district Proms. Dissident parents, where were you when our board had their meeting on these subjects? It sure is easy to stay home and not be put on the spot! Where were your "Speak Up" friends when the Novi Junior Class presented their "Out of District Prom" at the school board meeting? They should have heard our administrators really getting down to the meat of the many "Whys!" They did not simply dodge their responsibilities; they acted on the facts presented. Personally, I was not for an out-of-district prom, but then our Novi High School Principal summed it all up by saying he felt it a very good experience for new "Young Adults" and that he thought it would be less expensive and more students could attend. Our school board and administrators then gave their approval but added that they wanted a percentage tally of attendance to ascertain how many are going. Do you call that a dodge? Further, you question the student's democratically voting to go flying off to the islands. Then you demand answers to why only half the class does attend, and the other half does not. My

This proposal will not, if approved, increase local taxes. Neither will it allow for a decrease in bonded indebtedness. Presently, the bonded millage levy is 7.07. Last year the bond levy was 7.25 mills. If Saturday's bond proposal is approved the levy will remain at 7.07. If it is disapproved, the levy will be decreased to 7.04. Monies from this proposal will be used to purchase additional school sites, provide for site improvement of the school property in Highland Lakes, improve existing schools, and provide for an alarm system, lighting of tennis courts and equipment inventory. The proposal represents the first of a three-stage building program to meet local school needs through the middle or late 1970's. Voters should be aware that late this year or early next, the second stage of the program calls for a $5 million bond issue to build two elementary schools and a middle school. The third phase of this program probably will mean still another bond issue vote—perhaps up to $8 million in 1973—to build a second high school. All of which suggests to us that the board of education is planning now for the inevitable growth of the district rather than risking our future to disjointed reactions. We applaud good, sound planning and hence we support the bond proposal on Saturday's ballot.

Stempien Explains Primary

To the Editor:

Much has been printed in the past few months about the Michigan May 16 Presidential Primary and Special Election but little has been said to clarify matters for the citizen who must vote for a number of local and state proposals, precinct delegates, and presidential candidates. Let me explain immediately that the election is a preference primary. This means that except for local and statewide proposals, the voter must vote for presidential candidates within the party (Democratic, Republican, or American Independent) of his or her choice. Presidential candidates filed for the Michigan Primary: Democratic Party: Chisholm, Hartke, Humphrey, Jackson, McGovern, Muskie, and Wallace. Republican Party: McCloskey and Nixon. Of these candidates, voters will be able to pick one only. If a voter is undecided about a choice for president, he or she may mark the place on the ballot which reads "uncommitted." I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation for the wonderful work of Rotarians and the Youth of Northville for their cooperation selling Easter Lilys for the support of Crippled Children. It was so wonderful to see so many students working so faithfully for the cause of handicapped children. Special thanks to Brader's for the wonderful assistance they have given so generously. Also many thanks to the Rotary Club and to Chuck Wood for his great help getting so many fine students.

To the Editor:

It was inevitable that the chain stores would move into our town and virtually destroy the small family businesses. This is progress! However, I believe it is an entirely different story when Northville's only news media obtains the services of an out-of-town firm thereby inflicting a possible serious wound to local businessmen, some of which have entrusted their advertising to the very pages that now turn about to speak, bite the hands that feed them. Maybe next year it will be the watch or shoemaker scouring by free repairs—or some enterprising merchant, giving away free subscriptions for his observer. Think about it! James Conklin 511 W. ### Citizens Protest Proposal

Drop Alley Blacktopping

A proposal to blacktop an alley between Center and Grace streets, north of Baseline, was scuttled Monday following a public hearing in which most citizens opposed it.

In the wake of citizen protests, the council took no action to implement the proposed assessment district and instead directed City Manager Frank Ollendorff to investigate cost and feasibility of installing gravel on the alley.

Ollendorff, who had proposed blacktopping provided it be paid for entirely by abutting property owners, contended the city should not share in the cost of any improvement—blacktopping or graveling—because, in his opinion, such an improvement would be of no direct benefit to the city.

At least one citizen, however, argued that the city would benefit because motorists using the alley would no longer need to exit onto Center Street, opposite school property, and create a traffic problem.

Most abutting property owners commenting on the proposal saw no benefit to themselves since most have not and are not now using the alley. Most benefit was seen for the occupants of the new dwellings recently erected on Center Street.

Cost of the blacktopping project was estimated at $8,370.

Following another public hearing, the council voted 4-1 to rezone two lots at South Main and Beal Street from a residential to a professional office classification.

Casting the dissenting vote was Councilman Paul Vernon.

The lots are located between Beal and the Northville hotel.

Members of the planning commission had earlier recommended the rezoning following extensive discussion of the matter.

Concerning the Northville Hotel and Bar, 212 South Main, City Manager Ollendorff disclosed that a request for a liquor license transfer from the present owners, Joseph and John Manica, to Pepper Tree, Inc., is being reviewed by the police department and presentation to the council.

Sale of the business, one of the oldest in the community, is pending the license transfer. Principal member of the Pepper Tree corporation is Robert Ronk, former owner of the Pepper Tree restaurant on Novi Road.

Council voted to hold a public hearing on May 1 to consider amendments to the city's sign ordinance.

It also voted to deduct $386.54 from the blacktopping assessment against the school district and Eastlawn Consolidated Home because actual cost of the project on Base Line was under the estimate by that amount.

In still other action, the council voted to accept an

Community Building Problems Discussed

Novi's community building structure attached to the Novi Elementary School needs help.

That was the opinion of the Novi City Council and Monday it appointed Councilman William O'Brien to look into the problems confronting use and maintenance of the building.

The Community Building is jointly run by the city council, township board, and school board. There are those who contend, however, that the "troika-type" management results in no management at all.

The building is, in the words of City Manager George Athas, "deteriorating rapidly" and in need of considerable maintenance.

Councilman Donald Young pointed out that some people in the vicinity of these parks do not want the natural habitat disturbed.

development, he said, would complement and enhance the downtown area, with a wide, specially patterned walkway along the street frontage. Trees and street lamps are planned.

Shops, he indicated, would be located on two levels about a mall-like interior, with interior entrances to these shops through doors or sliding glass walls.

Some shops, he said, would have exterior windows. Interior signs would be controlled by a "building board of commerce."

An escalator is to be installed, the building will be climate-controlled, and there will be no exterior refuse disposal or storage areas, he said.

According to City Manager Frank Ollendorff, who introduced speakers, the McMans project is expected to generate from $70,000 to $100,000 in taxes in its first year.

Ollendorff explained that to assist in the development of the property, the city sold it at less than its cost and is providing half of the required parking space.

Part of this parking will be accommodated on the south side of Wing Street, between Center and Wing, he said.

However, the manager indicated that the council is not yet completely agreed upon how far south this parking should eventually extend.

Ollendorff said he personally does not envision parking extending more than several lots south along Center.

Officials noted that nearly all of the property needed to accommodate the downtown business area has been acquired or is about to be purchased.

Mayor A. M. Allen noted that while some citizens may criticize attempts by the city to provide adequate downtown parking, it is essential to stabilize business in the face of competition with development outside the city. While some small towns did nothing to aid its business community and hence suffered stagnation and decay, Northville is meeting the challenge, and thereby preserving a healthy, tax-producing business community, he said.

Planning Commissioner Wallace Nichols, who heads up a special committee that is presently reviewing the city's master plan, indicated that one of the committee's chief goals will be to preserve the Society plans call for the old library building to be converted to a community museum. The building, presently used by the township as the township hall on Wing Street, is to be moved to make room for the proposed Northville Square commercial development.

The 10-Percenters

They Snag Their Thrills By Tying Up A Hobby

They're a minority obsessed.

Some might call them lunatics. Who else would wander off into the brush, suffer the bites of insects, sweat trickling down limbs, the snap of branches in the face, water up to the waist and sometimes over the head?

But they wouldn't have it any other way.

What they are is fly fishermen. To them, there's only one way to fish—that's with a fly—tied with their own hands.

And there's only one type of fish—trout—Brown, Speckled and Rainbow.

Nelson Schrader of Northville is typical of the breed. "Anybody can get a fish to take live bait," he says, "but it's a real challenge to get a fish to take a fly."

Herb Goodchild of Brighton and Cliff Cook of South Lyon echo the same sentiment.

Goodchild and Cook are "old hands" who have been fishing since they could hold a pole. They fooled around with live bait for years, then they found fly fishing and were hooked. Goodchild, for instance, has been at it for 27 years, Cook for more than 30.

At 31, Schrader is a relative newcomer to the sport and he has been with it for 15 years.

Plain and simple, it's the challenge that snagged these men. No other type of fishing demands as much from the standpoint of knowledge and skill.

Each of them ties his own flies, which, in and of itself, requires no small amount of skill. Depending on the type of fly, it takes 10 to 20 minutes for one of these experts to tie one together.

There are two kinds of flies, Goodchild explains, wet and dry. The wet fly, he said, is designed to resemble the nymph or larvae of the fly as it drifts upward through the river water toward the surface. The dry fly resembles the fly as it hatches on the surface, flutters its wings to dry off and then takes off from the water.

Cliff Cook maintains that a person might get by with as few as six wet and six dry

Raking Gives 2 Treatments

Get two birds with one stone by treating your early spring lawn care program as a chance to get outdoors for some fresh air and exercise.

A few hours with a lawn rake will provide the exercise and give your lawn a head start by removing accumulated dead plant materials.

According to Michigan State University extension turfgrass specialists James E. Bogart and Robert C. Shearman, dead grass, leaves, small twigs, etc. will stop fertilizers from doing their job. They can build up as thatch—a layer of dead plant material between the grass blades and the soil surface, often leading to lawn diseases and poor turf health.

Once over with the rake in the early spring also helps your grass green up faster. You will have a better looking lawn and the turn will get a head start on week seeds which will germinate later in the spring as temperatures rise.

A session with lawn roller can improve the physical fitness of yourself and your lawn. Not only will it develop strong shoulder, back and leg muscles, but it will ease lawn tasks throughout the rest of the year.

According to the MSU turfgrass experts, rolling irons out rough areas caused by freezing and thawing. This reduces the chances of scalping the high spots with your lawn mower.

For best results, Bogart and Shearman recommended rolling early in the spring while the ground is still moist. Later rollings when the soil is dry won't level the lawn.

They also caution homeowners to avoid excessively heavy rollers on clay soils. A roller that weighs too much will compact heavy soil and hold back good lawn growth and turf health later in the summer.

Starter Solution Aids Transplants

Starter solutions get transplants off to a fast, healthy start, says J. Lee Taylor, Michigan State University horticulturist.

"A starter solution is a mixture of a water and a water soluble fertilizer," he explains. "The starter solution supplies transplants with nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium in a readily available form."

Starter solution fertilizers are more soluble in water and are more readily available to plants than regular fertilizers. Many starter solution fertilizer formulations are available at fertilizer dealers and garden centers. Most have a nitrogen-phosphorus-potassium ratio of 1-2-1. Other plant nutrient ratios are also available.

Since there are many different formulations, follow the manufacturer's directions closely when preparing and using the starter solutions.

Polishing Hairy Leaf Aids House Plants

Lamps Suggested

House Plants Need Light

Most house plants need plenty of light to develop good healthy foliage and stems, say Michigan State University horticulturists. High-intensity lamps, which come in various sizes and shapes, overcome many lighting handicaps.

Incandescent bulbs can be used, but they have one disadvantage. They produce heat and plants cannot be placed too close to them. The horticulturists recommend fluorescent lamps as far superior.

When growing an indoor garden, the experts suggest grouping the plants according to their light requirements; some require high light intensity, others require moderate or low light intensity. For example, Dieffenbachia or Philodendron plants which require low light intensity should not be grown with cactus, a plant that requires lots of light.

Certain also require a certain number of light hours each day, usually 12 to 16. Use a timer to control the length of illumination. Don't rely on your memory to turn the lights on and off every day.

You may wish to grow seedlings under artificial lighting. Because fluorescent lights are relatively cool, the young plants should be no more than 12 to 18 inches away from the light source. Begin seeding annuals for your flower garden in mid-March. Vegetables such as tomatoes and peppers can be started the first week in April. Continue growing these plants until they are ready for transplanting into the garden.

For additional information on how to construct indoor gardens and the light requirements of various houseplants, see your local county agent or write to MSU Bulletin Office, Box 231, East Lansing, Mich. 48824. Ask for bulletin 133, "Indoor Gardens for Decorative Plants."

Garden Plans Now Saves Effort Later

Although cold weather is still around, good gardeners are making plans for their spring and summer gardens.

Planning your garden now can save you time and effort when you're ready to plant, say Michigan State University horticulturists. Here are some things to consider.

In selecting a garden location, avoid shady spots, heavy clays and sandy soils. Vegetables grow best in an open, level area where the soil is loose, rich and well-drained. Avoid planting near trees and shrubs so your vegetables will not have to compete for nutrients and water.

Before the planting season starts, make a rough "blueprint" of your garden plot indicating the vegetables you will plant, which rows they will be in, distance between rows, expected planting date and any other information you feel would be helpful.

Plan to keep early vegetables, such as lettuce, radishes and onions together. This also applies to tall-growing ones like sweet corn and pole beans.

If you have a small garden plot, consider growing one or more crops after the first is harvested.

Growing several varieties of the same kind of vegetable helps extend the harvest period. Early, medium and late varieties of sweet corn, all planted at one time, will mature over a three-week period.

Order seed of recommended vegetable varieties early to avoid sellouts. Don't take a chance of old seed or seed saved from last year's garden. Many of the vegetable varieties are hybrids and seed saved from these plants will not come true.

Vegetables such as tomatoes, broccoli, cabbage, cauliflower, eggplant and peppers are usually difficult to start from seed. Plan to buy already-established seedlings from your local garden center and transplant them at the right time.

A quick analysis of last year's problems can give you an indication of what to guard against this year. If diseases such as wilt in cucumbers or tomatoes were present, rotate the crops in your garden and plant disease resistant transplants or seeds. Make sure you have a good duster or sprayer on hand for pest control.

Soil conditions might need some altering to provide more drainage or better fertility levels. Submit a soil sample to your local county extension service.

Water and dipping the foliage. This should be followed with a clear water rinse to remove the detergent.

Milk and oil are not recommended because they clog the pores of the leaves and act as dust catchers.

Hairy leafed plants, like African violets and gloxinias, should be brushed with a camel hair brush to remove the dust and then rinsed with warm water. Wiping the leaves to apply a polish or to remove dust will destroy the plant's natural beauty by removing the hairs and creating a scuffed appearance, say the MSU horticulturists.

When nurseries are stocking their finest specimens of plant materials for spring planting, home gardeners should be mindful of a few pointers to help them pick the best plants for their landscape.

Before buying trees or shrubs, say horticulturists at Michigan State University, examine each plant for blemishes caused by insects, disease organisms or rough handling. Insect damage is usually obvious and off-color plants hint of disease damage or poor fertilization. Poorly withstanding local winter conditions, adaptability to local soil types and resistance to insects and diseases.

Unfortunately, we often allow the price tag at the nursery or garden center to be a major reason for plant selection. The horticulturists advise purchasing only a few high-quality plants at a time. Choose trees and shrubs that will give many years of trouble-free, year-round satisfaction, rather than leading up with rank, filler material.

Don't buy plants that have injury or sunken spots. These areas are ideal for diseases. Swellings or bumps on the crown or lower part of the stem are an indication of crown gall, a common

ITT's Intriguing

By ROLLY PETERSON

memo she had written, but she had written one.

It's axiomatic that truth is stranger than fiction. Living proof of it is dancing before the eyes of the public in the ITT memo case. Alfred Hitchcock is undoubtedly smarting with envy.

As most know, the whole controversy was sparked by columnist Jack Anderson when he reported a memo written by an International Telephone and Telegraph lobbyist clearly indicated an anti-trust suit against ITT was dropped because ITT had agreed to donate $400,000 toward the Republican convention in San Diego.

Richard Kleindienst was supposed to be privy to this alleged inner intrigue. And Kleindienst is now being considered as the next attorney general of the United States.

The central figure in this truer-than-fiction story is a lobbyist who reportedly penned the inter-office memo, Dita Beard.

It would have been an easy matter to have her testify and perhaps the truth will come out. But Mrs. Beard, as it so happened, was found in a Denver hospital, suffering from a heart attack and unable at the time to testify.

Here's where I get a little fuzzy on the details. Who wouldn't with so many contradictory statements being made. First it was denied that she had written such a memo. Next, she asserted the memo Anderson printed was not the was recuperating. While being questioned, however, she suffered heart complications which made it inadvisable in the opinion of her doctor, for her to testify further. Her doctors also asserted it would be months before further testimony by Mrs. Beard could even be considered.

On top of that, a doctor who had been attending Mrs. Beard asserted she was not a reliable source of information since she drank heavily and was given at times to exaggeration and distortion. The doctor reportedly had talked to administration officials before testifying before a Senate investigating committee.

In two months or more of charges, refutations and counter-refutations, no more truth has come to light. The public is still in limbo over the situation.

But if there hasn't been an illegal agreement between ITT and the administration, at least the whole affair has an odor of high intrigue. Here's one bet that the truth will never know the truth—and that a take-off on the whole affair will next be the subject of a movie.

JAPANESE HORSES
Following are some interesting facts about Japanese horses that the average American probably does not know.

The Japan Racing Association promotes racing, training and riding horses. They license trainers and jockeys, register horses, owners and colors and also serve as instructors.

The real heart of the Japanese horsemanship is Equestrian Park, a 51-acre horse facility located about 10 miles from downtown Tokyo. It is owned and operated by the Japan Racing Association. At present they have 120 horses, staff for a jockey school, riding school instruction and an equine health laboratory.

During the 1964 Olympics, the dressage competition was held at Equestrian Park. In the past year, the Japan Racing Association registered 4900 thoroughbreds, 4000 Arabs and Anglo-Arabs and 120 imported mares and stallions.

At one time they also registered trotters (Standardbreds), but there are no harness races in Japan so this registration was discontinued.

The first importation of thoroughbreds from the United States to Japan was made in 1872. Since then, Japan has brought $2 broodmares, 139 stallions and 86 race horses from the U.S.

LEATHER GOODS
Leather saddles, bridles, etc. are increasing in price. Here's why and what you can do about it.

Under Phase II of President Nixon's Economic Stabilization Program the price of leather has increased 27 per cent and is expected to go higher in coming weeks. The reason for this is that large meat packers have increased the price of raw hides 145 per cent in the past 12 months. Most of this came about after Phase II began. Hides are considered an agricultural commodity and exempt from Phase II controls.

The people who make leather goods need your help. They urge that you write your U.S. Senators and Representatives to call attention to the problem.

Mr. Nixon has the authority under Phase II regulations to limit the exportation of any goods.

Argentina supported their domestic manufacturers by placing an embargo on that country's hides last year. This is the major reason for the shortage of U.S. hides.

Therefore, our government must support our manufacturers by placing either an embargo on U.S. hides or at least a quota that will permit U.S. factories to operate within the controlled economy for which the President has called.

Dems Fear Governor Wallace May Split Party

LANSING — Democratic party officials are genuinely concerned about the threat Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace poses for them in the May primary.

"broaden the base of interested and involved citizens, and through their financial support, we can bring more qualified people into government."

By concentrating on getting contributions from more people, it helps "bring the party structure closer to the "grass roots," he says. Austin concurs, saying, "Enlightened interest in the common good will encourage employers to assist with voter registration in offices and to promote individual contributions to help finance the soaring cost of political campaigns."

THIS MONEY pinch is approached from the other direction at the same time in efforts to put ceilings on campaign spending. If you don't have to spend the money, after all, you don't have to raise it.

The theory is that a non-salaried person who has a regular job just doesn't have the time for statewide fund raising. And it's hoped that local people can shake a little more money loose from their in-house fund raising, rather than having one state finance chairman.

A COMPUTER is at work to help cut down on traffic accidents. Highway officials hope to pinpoint areas where the most accidents occur and figure out what causes them, then make improvements.

In the past year the department has spent more than $2.4 million for improvements at 49 different locations. The changes have resulted in accident reductions of as much as 50 per cent at the sites, the department said.

Failure to protect themselves at the precinct level would do serious damage to the party structure, they fear, by allowing Wallace backers, who were content to work in the American Independent Party in 1968, to take over the organization in selected counties and districts.

NO MATTER what issues they disagree on, there's one point where this country's political parties are unanimous: they both need lots of money to operate.

It is ironic that this Wallace surge is one of the side results of the McGovern Commission's recommendations to open up the party. It can be safely said the party hierarchy didn't have Wallace in mind when they were talking about opening the process.

UNFORTUNATELY for the parties, a slackening of the economy can create a serious drought in their income especially that which comes on a purely voluntary basis.

They have formed a "political United Fund" and named it the United Political Appeal. The fund is directed by Bob Manardo, director of finance for the Michigan Democratic Party, and Bill Cudlip, director of the Southeastern Michigan United Republican Fund.

HONORARY co-chairmen are Gov. William G. Milliken for the Republicans and Secretary of State Richard H. Austin for the Democrats.

Milliken says a program such as the United Political Appeal allow the parties to

U.S. Silver Prices Off Forecasted Levels

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass.—Silver prices moved off 1971 contrary to many forecasts, and by early November the price had fallen to 128.8 per cent Troy ounce, the lowest level since 1963.

That weekly silver sales by the General Services Administration were ended on November 10, 1970.

According to Handy & Harman's annual review of the silver market, industrial consumption of the precious metal in the U.S. last year moved off about 4 percent from the revised 1970 figure. The major categories registering losses were photography, brazing alloys, and jewelry.

The photography business still ranked first in silver consumption but accounted for only 35 million ounces or 29 per cent in 1970.

The industrial and coinage uses dipped less than 1 per cent last year from the 1970 level.

NEW PRODUCTION of silver last year (excluding Communist-dominated areas) receded to 239.7 million ounces from 251.1 million the previous year.

Thus, the production-consumption gap in 1971 amounted to 136.8 million ounces. This gap was filled from other sources of supply, including demonetized coins, reduction of speculative holdings and inventories, silver from India and Pakistan, and salvage and miscellaneous sources.

THE REBOUND occurred just as the price of silver was approaching the 125.0 cent-per-ounce level at which price the Treasury is required to buy the newly mined domestic metal under the provisions of the Commodity Act of 1955.

The Research Department of Babson's Reports feels that the price of silver will trend somewhat higher during the current year.

ASIDE FROM MONETARY factors, the important consideration over the long term will be the production-consumption gap.

Area dog owners were reminded this week of a "serious parasitic disease affecting dogs," by Dr. William A. Enell, president of the Veterinary Medical Association of Southeastern Michigan.

He asked the help of readers in preventing the further spread of this disease.

He pointed out that some areas of southeastern Michigan have been found to have a 40-percent rate of infection in dogs which are kennel out-of-doors.

flies. In other words, with these 12 flies he might get good results.

But Cook, like Goodchild and Schrader, doesn't stop at 12 flies. He has hundreds. And there's good reason. There are hundreds of types of flies, with certain types of flies indigenous to certain parts of the country.

There are hundreds of flies indigenous to Michigan alone, with certain ones hatching during certain times of the year in certain parts of the state.

It's not enough to tie an artificial fly which resembles the real fly shape, Goodchild says the color, too, must be exact.

"Contrary to what most people think," Goodchild says, "fish aren't color blind. Sometimes the color on the body will make the difference."

Some flies are large, some small and as a result, the fisherman must use different size hooks when tying a fly, Goodchild says.

Sizes normally used are numbers 10 through 16, although they may go as high as number 22, which is an exceedingly small hook.

An expert may tie as many as 12 artificial flies in one evening.

Plants Boost Value

Plants make a home more livable, attractive and valuable. According to Newton Glick, landscape architect at Michigan State University, an unplanted house is an unfinished home.

He points out that unlike most things you buy, plants become more valuable as they get older and accordingly increase the value of your property. And, says Glick, you also get shade, protection from the wind, food for birds in the winter, sound deadeners, dust catchers and cover-ups for undesirable views.

In planning this year's landscaping activities, Glick recommends that you consider the following four basic elements of good landscape composition:

1. Select good background plants that will silhouette your house against the sky.
2. Use trees and shrubs to separate your house from its surroundings, just as a frame is used to make a picture more attractive.
3. Use well placed accents to draw attention to the most important parts of your catchers and cover-ups for undesirable views.
4. Plan an attractive foreground: one that creates a pleasant setting of lawns, trees and shrubs for your home.

It is easy to "plant" a home site, but there is a challenge in creating a beautiful landscape, Glick adds. Make it a family affair, he says, and landscaping can be fun. For more information on landscape planning and selecting a home site, see your local county extension agent, or write the MSU Bulletin Office, Box 231, East Lansing, Mich. 48824. Ask for Extension Bulletin No. 549, "Landscape Planning for Residential Properties."

A special talk Sunday, April 9, will climax a week of ministerial training and Bible discussion for Jehovah's Witnesses in the Northville-Plymouth area.

Tying A Fly Takes A Pretty Steady Hand and Plenty of Creativity

Herb Goodchild Gets Set for Opener

Tie One Fly and It Leads to Another and.....

"Leave it set for 10 or 20 seconds," Goodchild said. "If you don't get any action, twitch it. Keep up the twitching through a slow retrieve."

Then, too, the manner in which the man-made fly must be handled will depend on whether you're using a wet or dry fly. The wet fly is submerged in the water and the objective is to duplicate the movement of the larvae coming to the surface. The dry fly stays on the surface, Goodchild explained, because the action must resemble that of a fly that has just hatched.

Water conditions must also be taken into consideration. "If the water is high and murky, for example," Schrader says, "you have to use a wet fly. The fish won't see the dry fly, so you have to tie something you can float right past their noses to get them to see it."

All three men—Schrader, Cook and Goodchild—have caught their share of trout. They've mastered the intricacies. They are probably among the select 10 percent that Cook spoke of. "About 90 percent of the trout are caught by 10 percent of the fishermen," he stated.

Is Family Breakdown Cause For Soaring Divorce Rate?

The U.S. divorce rate, which has reached an all-time high in the 1970's, does not necessarily reflect a breakdown in family life, Professor Paul H. Glasser of the University of Michigan School of Social Work takes issue with fellow social scientists who would package the two together and predict disaster upon both the individuals and society.

"There is no reason to believe the American family is less stable—or more stable—than it ever was," he speculates. A record 175,000 divorces were granted during the first three months of 1970, projecting a total of 700,000 for that year, according to Glasser. The previous peak occurred in 1945-46, an aftermath of countless impromptu marriages at the brink of World War II. The divorce rate subsided in the early 1950's, leveled off until the late 1960's and resumed its climb. Glasser co-edited with his wife "Families In Crisis," sees more evidence that a changing society has encouraged the divorce rate than that the divorce rate is changing society. He cites these factors: Moral values: "The stigma of divorce has diminished. There is less social pressure to remain in a marriage that is not mutually satisfying and fulfilling." The children's sake: "The divorce rate always increases when the economy falls. If a couple are having serious troubles, a crisis such as a job layoff can push them over the edge. A woman will put up with a lot from her husband as long as he is bringing home the paycheck.

"In my opinion, the American male image is more closely associated with the ability to make money than with sex. Particularly among the middle class but across the board, when a man's income is gone, his ego is busted." Women's liberation: "Nearly half the American women with children under the age of 18 are working, and they are proving to themselves and to non-working women that a wife needn't stay married out of financial dependence." The high rate of marriage: "The divorce rate is high in America because, concurrently, this is the most marrying society in the Western world. The divorced woman stands a better chance of remarrying than a single woman at most age levels. An estimated two-thirds of all second marriages, as first

Why Did God Give Us His Word?

Rev. Clarence K. Porter, Pastor
First Baptist Church
Brighton

"These Things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; THAT YE MAY KNOW THAT YE HAVE ETERNAL LIFE, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God." 1st John 5:13

There are many and various ideas as to the real value of the book we know as the Holy Bible. Some think it is just a book of beautiful sayings. Others believe it to be a book of history. It is that and much more.

I think the above verse tells us very plainly why God gave us his word; that you and I may know we have eternal life. I wonder just how many people are church members in our country who do not have this assurance. We do not arrive at this precious truth by baptism or church-membership. There is a route which we must travel to arrive at this truth. This truth comes as the result of realizing some other truths.

The first one is that all are sinners and have come short of God's Glory (Rom. 3:23). This simply means that the sin in our lives which is present in all has separated us from God. In our natural condition we are not eligible for heaven (1st Cor. 2:14). We are separated from God by sin and in ourselves we can do nothing to remedy the matter (Eph. 2:8,9).

The Bible also says that sin brings death (Rom. 6:23). So we find that in our natural state we are sinners, condemned to die. But thank God we read in the word that someone died for us (1st Cor. 15:3). We read that the just Jesus Christ died for us just to bring them to God (1st Pet. 3:18). Just as if you were condemned to die in the electric chair and someone offered to die in your place, Jesus is that someone who took your place and paid your sin debt. You would be very foolish to reject what he has done for you. There is no other way for you to escape hell!

The Bible tells us that except we repent we will perish (Luke 13:3). But something more than just repentance is required and that is faith (Acts 20:21). Through repentance of our sins toward God and faith in the finished work of our Lord Jesus Christ on the cross, we receive eternal life; the reason that God gave his word.

Perhaps you are one of those churchmembers who have never realized this. Remember, it is not what man tells you, but what God's word tells us that we must go by (Rom. 3:4). If you do not know that you have eternal life it is simply because you have not followed God's plan of salvation. May God help you to do so now!

SHEPHERD

Whoever he is, wherever he is — I respect this man. Naturally I respect anyone whose presence can bring calmness and peace where there could have been confusion and turmoil.

As for me, I'm just a writer. With others I've been writing on behalf of the Church — with conviction and enthusiasm — for many a year. Rarely until now have I written in the first person.

But this picture challenges one to identify himself. On this rocky hillside teeming with restless life only one is master, guide, guardian of all.

I share with you the common realization: I am not that one. We share too the simple faith that knows: The Lord is my Shepherd.

A Clue To Family Stability?

marriages, remain stable... Life spans "people marry earlier today and live longer... There is time for more than one marriage today in the space of one life time."

Marriages are most vulnerable at two stages. Glaser notes: during the first two years and during the middle years, when the spouses are in their late 40's and 50's.

One can interpret the high divorce rate as a good omen, Glaser concludes. People no longer feel compelled to settle for a union which is unhappy, empty or destructive.

Are prospects bleak for the family of the future? On the contrary, Glaser predicts that it will emerge a somewhat different but closer unit in the face of high pressured social change.

"But the family will not return to the patriarchal stereotype of the past," Glaser concludes. "It will be an equalitarian unit with increasingly less differentiation of sex roles."

"The family of the future will look and act different from the family of today but will continue to serve its members and society in the way only a small, flexible and adaptable social institution can."

LaLonde Murder Still Puzzles Novi Police

Decomposed, with a large black shogun wound in the back, the body of Clyde LaLonde was discovered face down in a clump of weeds in a rural section of Novi a year ago.

The area was sealed off and state, county, and local police searched the site for clues, some physical evidence that might tell them something about the body and how it got there, but there was nothing. No footprints, no finger prints, no tire tracks, not one shred of physical evidence to go on.

Today, a year later, police are only a little closer to a solution than they were that day. The body, of course, has been identified and much has been learned about the personal life of Clyde LaLonde, but Corporal Robert Starnes, who is in charge of the case says he's completely out of leads.

Why shoot a corpse? Why make it look like a shotgun murder if it wasn't a shotgun murder? It is one of the questions to which police still have found no answer.

Clyde LaLonde himself is something of a mystery. The son of a relatively wealthy Bay City man, he graduated from high school with honors and was president of the student council.

because he used to wake up like clockwork as a baby, they told police. But Clyde LaLonde had another nickname. Given to him by friends, it reveals a lot about his life after leaving his teacher's job in the Grand Rapids school system.

For after LaLonde left Grand Rapids he became a drug pusher. One of the largest in the area, police believe. It was not unusual for him to carry sums of money as large as $15-20,000 on his person and his dealings carried him everywhere from Pinconning to the inner city of Detroit to Jamaica.

Furthermore, LaLonde dealt in every type of drug with the exception of heroin, which he did not like. Everything else was condoned and LaLonde, along with his partner, had dealings on such a major scale that some of his purchases scaled all the way up to $100,000.

Another aspect of LaLonde's personal life is that he belonged to a strange religious sect in which any member who reveals anything about its doctrines becomes open game for other members of the sect.

Police know little about the religion except that it reportedly costs $1,500 to join and is run by a fellow who doesn't dare touch United States soil because there are so many warrants for his arrest.

LaLonde lived with a friend and his wife in Union Lake and would frequently take three and four day trips. Two of those trips were to Jamaica and occurred within the month and a half immediately preceding his death.

He made the first of those two trips sometime prior to February 15 specifically to "buy land," police say. His second trip was on March when a person calling himself "C. LaLonde" left Metropolitan Airport with a young girl. The Jamaica trips, police feel, were made to buy hashish.

Police now believe that LaLonde was at a party just hours before he was murdered and dumped in Novi. "We've talked with at least one person we believe had telephone contact with him just hours before he was killed," said Starnes.

Police are also attempting to locate the female companion who accompanied LaLonde on his second trip to Jamaica. "We think her last name may have been Crouse," said Starnes.

Police feel there may be a clue in the location where the body was dumped, a field that runs along Meadowbrook Road about one-quarter mile south of 13 Mile Road. "That Athas also told council he had received letters from six Department of Public Works employees saying they were not involved in the formation of a union.

At that meeting Athas will present state officials with a list of employees eligible for membership in the union. At the same time union officials will present the cards of employees stating interest in the formation of a union.

But the council refused to take any action whatsoever on the police. In fact, they refused to even discuss the matter and promptly voted unanimously to postpone the matter indefinitely.

Construction of the extension of the Wixom Sewage Disposal plant could be as close as a month away, according to Mayor Gilbert Willis.

Willis also informed the council of two slight snags encountered during attempts to secure a federal grant. As the need to begin construction of the extension became more and more important and the federal funding remained an uncertain proposition, Wixom authorized the sale of short term bonds with payment in interest only for five years.

Union Talks Halt Work

On Novi Personnel Policy. It didn't take long for the effects of the unionization movement among municipal employees to hit the Novi city council.

The item of business to appear on the agenda immediately after City Manager George Athas had informed the council of the unionization attempt was a review of the personnel policy that piece of legislation which designates employee benefits such as vacation time, accumulation of sick pay, etcetera.
