This column is open to news of all breeds of horses and ponies. Send your questions, comments, and horse show news to "Horse's Mouth," care of South Lyon Herald, South Lyon, MI 48178.

Skin Ailments
The horse's skin is hypersensitive, rather thin, and alive with nerve endings and tiny muscles which permit him to move almost any part of it at will. The skin is also of importance in eliminating waste matter from the body, which is why the horse's daily grooming is more truly health care than a beauty treatment.

Skin eruptions may be caused by infections, nervousness, dietary upsets, chills, or allergies, and they are rarely serious or hard to cure. Usually they will clear up very quickly with a light laxative diet, good hygiene, and grooming. Irritated spots may be soothed by applications of witch hazel or a bland powder such as zinc oxide.

You can avoid chafing a sensitive skin by seeing that your tack is always clean, soft, and supple. Keep your horse's bed as clean as possible too, because his skin may become inflamed upon contact with irritating liquids such as urine. The horse is particularly susceptible to skin irritation of all kinds during the shedding season.

Insect, fly, and mosquito bites can be avoided by proper control measures, including screens, sprays and the use of fly sheets. See that your stable is always clean, disinfected regularly and that the manure pile does not become a breeding place for flies.

Appoint Committee to Revitalize Chamber

Twenty-three of Novi's business leaders met for lunch at the Saratoga Trunk Tuesday to decide whether or not there is a need or even an interest in establishing a new chamber of commerce for the city of Novi.

Their answer was a unanimous "yes," and to transform that mandate into an actual, functioning chamber of commerce, a nine member committee was selected.

The feelings of most of the business leaders present were expressed by Bernard Sullivan of the Rich-Sullivan Corporation, developers of the Novus-One industrial park on Nine Mile Road. "I don't think even we're fully aware of what we've got here in Novi. This community is going to be faced with unprecedented growth in the immediate future and there is a definite need for an organization that can convey the interests of the business community to the legislative bodies."

Novi has had a chamber of commerce for a long time, but as President Russell Button admitted to the businessmen Tuesday, that chamber has not been an effective body of late.

Impetus to revive the chamber of commerce was provided by the city council two weeks ago when they invited members of the Novi business community to a meeting at which the idea was proposed. From that original meeting, Tuesday's luncheon was scheduled to allow discussion of the proposal more fully.

"It's possible that we might have come away from Tuesday's meeting with a consensus that there was no need for a chamber," said Gary Johnson, West Oakland Bank president, who has been instrumental in the formative stages of a new chamber.

"I'm glad we received the response that we did," Johnson will assume temporary chairmanship of the committee charged with transforming the mandate into something more concrete.

Other members of the committee are Carl Evans of Evans Plumbing and Heating, Peter Phillips of the Saratoga Trunk, Warren Coville of Guardian Industries, C.F. Morreau of the Sugden Company, James Dinsler of Dinsler Greenhouses, Bernard Sullivan of the Rich-Sullivan Company, Russell Button of the County Cousins Mobile Homes, and Florence Harris of the Rosewood Restaurant.

The committee will attempt to arrive at a new set of by-laws and a new charter, as well as suggest candidates for a board of directors and establish contact with the national and state chambers of commerce.

"Most importantly," said Johnson, "we want to draw up some long term goals for this body to accomplish."

Once the committee's spadework has been done, the group will be reconvened to discuss further action.

The primary need for a strong chamber of commerce was seen as a lobbying force between the business community and the city council.

Several business leaders were critical of the council for adopting ordinances which were, in their opinion, unwise.

ADMINISTRATIVE TURNOVER—Handing over the keys to Novi's municipal offices is former city manager George Athas. Friday was Athas' final day on the job, as he has resigned to accept a position in private industry. Recipient of the keys to the city and the problems and responsibilities that go with them is Edward Kriewall, 31, who has been appointed by the city council to serve as acting city manager until a fulltime replacement is named. Kriewall has headed Novi's DPW department and served as Athas' administrative assistant.

To Trucks, Buses

Close 9 Mile Bridge

The bridge on Nine Mile Road near Ennishore Drive has been found to be structurally unsound and has been closed to truck and school bus traffic.

The announcement was made by Acting City Manager Edward Kriewall at Monday's Novi city council meeting.

Acting on Kriewall's report, the council took steps to repair the bridge as soon as possible.

"The paving of Nine Mile Road has generated increased traffic flow," Kriewall told the council in his report. "If we continue to use the bridge as it presently stands, we're asking for trouble."

The Nine Mile Road bridge matter came to light as a result of a study by Kriewall to determine the advisability of constructing guard rails on three Novi bridges: the bridge on Center Street between Eight and Nine Mile, the bridge on Tall Road between Eight and Nine Mile, as well as the Nine Mile-Ennishore Drive bridge.

"I thought it would be wise to have the structural soundness of all three bridges examined before putting up any guard rails," said Kriewall. "When the report came back it showed that the Nine Mile Road bridge should be closed to all trucks and school buses immediately."

To remedy the problem the city manager proposed removing the bridge deck, inserting new tubes of corrugated steel through which the water could flow, and then replacing the bridge deck and installing the guard rails.

Kriewall estimated the cost of the new tubes would be in the neighborhood of $3,000. In addition, he proposed that the work be done by the Novi Department of Public Works at a considerable savings to the city.

An objection was raised by Councilmen Edwin Pressnell, who stated that there was no doubt that something should be done as soon as possible, but that he felt the job should be contracted out rather than done by the city.

Council Weighs Request

A request from School Superintendent Gerald Kratz that the city council share in the cost of purchasing a used voting machine for use in a high school government class prompted an angry exchange of words between council members and threatened to bring to an end the period of relative calm in council-school board relations that has existed to date.

The council arrived at a general consensus to participate in the purchase of the machine, but decided to take no official action until such time as a set of rules governing proper use and storage of the machine can be agreed to by representatives from the city and school.

"I can't see agreeing to participate in buying a voting machine unless we have a need for it," said Mayor Crisp. "If we agree to buy this machine it must be because we can use it and an agreement with the schools that this voting machine would be available to us for a designated period of time before and after every election must be received."

The council arrived at a general consensus to participate in the purchase of the machine, but decided to take no official action until such time as a set of rules governing proper use and storage of the machine can be agreed to by representatives from the city and school.

"I can't see agreeing to participate in buying a voting machine unless we have a need for it," said Mayor Crisp. "If we agree to buy this machine it must be because we can use it and an agreement with the schools that this voting machine would be available to us for a designated period of time before and after every election must be received."

The voting machine issue prompted an angry exchange of words between council members and threatened to bring to an end the period of relative calm in council-school board relations that has existed to date.

Bride Sews Gown

For her marriage to Rendell Lee Thomas on September 8, the former Francis Faye Qualls fashioned her own wedding gown. The candle light ceremony took place at the First Baptist Church, Novi, with the Reverend Arnold B. Cook officiating.

Solos were sung by Mrs. Nina Bellamy and candles were lighted by the bridegroom's sisters, Judy and Beth Thomas.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Jack Johnson of Madisonville, Kentucky. She made her gown of satin and chiffon with satin lace. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lily of the valley.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Irene Jobe of Farmington. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Thomas of 46133 West Nine Mile.

Patty Bellefeuille, a friend of the bride, was maid of honor.

Larry King was his friend's best man. Acting as ushers were Les Thomas, the bridegroom's brother, Jim Dickey and Dennis Diem, both friends of the bridegroom. Following the ceremony, 150 guests were invited to a reception in the church fellowship hall.

MR. AND MRS. RALPH F. FOREMAN

Foremans Mark Golden Wedding

On October 21, 1922 Ralph F. Foreman and Carrie E. Johnson were married in Birmingham. The couple, now longtime Northville residents, will celebrate 50 years of marriage at an open house on Saturday, October 21, when guests will gather in their home at 5065 West Seven Mile Road.

He, a native of Freeport, Illinois, and she, a Dryden, Michigan, native, first met at a party held at the Northville home of his parents.

The Foremans have one daughter, Mrs. Melvin (Pauline) Mitchell with West Seven Mile Road, and two sons, Louis F. of Gregory, Michigan, and Ralph F., Jr. of 4921 West Seven Mile Road. They also have nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Foreman is member of Orient Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star and has worked for many years waiting on customers in the sales room of Foreman Orchards.

Foreman is a Past Master Mason of the Masonic Lodge in Northville, Past Patron of the Order of Eastern Star, past president of the Michigan State Horticultural Society and was a member of the Apple Commission for six years. The couple is affiliated with the Methodist Church.

After working at the family orchard in Northville during the summer, the Foremans spend winters in Florida where they enjoy fishing.

In Our Town

By JEAN DAY

THE SCARLET maples that contribute toward the brilliant color displays in Northern Michigan are one of the main lures that are taking area residents north for a "last" visit of the season to summer cottages.

That, at least, was the thought advanced by Mrs. Paul Beard after the Beards visited their hunting property near Hubbard Lake. Others who have spent October week ends at their cottages include the John F. Browns who go all the way to Rogers City area.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Williams and their five daughters gathered leaves last week end at their cottage near Lake City.

Among the first couples to go north on a color tour were the John Burkman's who traveled across the Upper Peninsula to the Porcupine Mountain region. Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Weber readied their cottage at Arcadia, near Frankfort, for the winter on a three-day vacation this month.

At Harbor Springs, it's not a cottage but their cruiser that takes the Fred Casterlines north. The Casterlines, incidentally, christened the boat with a clever, hyphenated play on their name.

SPAIN and North Africa were the far-away vacation destination of the John Federspills. During a vacation on the Costa del Sol, they rode one of the water-skimming hydro-folios across the Straits of Gibraltar to Africa.

If anyone needed a trip, it must have been the Federspills, whose move back into their home in Northville Estates coincided with the vacation. The family had been living in one of the cottages at Botsford Inn since their house fire August 14.

Since most of the damage was from smoke, Mrs. Federspill adds, cleaning and repairs took only six weeks.

THE WOMEN'S CLUB program this Friday has been arranged by Jeanne Federspill.

The program at 1:30 p.m. on NOW (National Organization of Women) will be held in the sanctuary of Northville Presbyterian Church as men of the church will be setting up tables in the fellowship hall (the regular meeting place) for the annual homecoming pancake supper Friday night.

Speaker for the "Bloomer Girl in Hot Pants" meeting will be Mrs. Loretta Stults Moore, a psychologist and board member of Detroit Chapter of NOW. She presently is a Ph.D. candidate at Wayne State University working on her doctorate in industrial psychology.

She received her master's degree from Wayne State in social psychology and has been engaged in research with the university's school of nursing. She is one of just two women in the United States who have been employed in heavy industry, having worked in personnel research for Ford Motor Company.

The Northville Business and Professional Women's Club, in its 25th year, is celebrating national Business Women's Week now through October 22.

The club's president, Mrs. Terry Danol has announced that a display showing some of the activities and objectives of Business and Professional Women's Clubs has been placed in the window of Travel Plans in Northville.

Among the aims of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women as explained in the display are the elevation of standards for women in business and professions, and extending opportunities to business and professional women along the lines of industrial, scientific and vocational activities.

According to Mrs. Danol, the Business and Professional Women's Clubs throughout the nation were active in securing the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment and have been working for a state ratification by various states.

The Northville Club has 37 members. Mrs. Danol said, and will officially celebrate its 25th anniversary in March, 1973. Meetings are held on the fourth Monday of the month at the Hillside Inn in Plymouth with a 6:30 p.m. dinner followed by a program.

The next meeting will be held on October 22, with Dr. Carol Geake who is a veterinarian as the speaker.

Mrs. Moore recently completed research on female identity and occupational commitment. She also had published in the Journal of Experimental Social Psychology an article on wage inequities.

A Lincoln Park resident, she is married and is the mother of two children.

The meeting is the club's second guest day of the year.

TWO COFFEES this morning are being given for area women to meet Olga Esch, wife of Congressman Marvin Esch, Mrs. E. O. Weber, 20360 Woodhill, has invited friends and neighbors at 9 a.m.

The events really are coffee "hours" as Mrs. Esch then is entertained by Mrs. Lawrence Wright at her home at 40241 Fairway at 10 a.m.

LUNCHEON IS Served—by Mizpah Circle of King's Daughters is on October 27 in the Presbyterian church fellowship hall. Planned in conjunction are a bazaar and white elephant sale of donations from members.

The women who work so actively for University of Michigan children's hospital and the Redford King's Daughters home for the aged as well as a Lake City KD camp are hoping for a sell-out luncheon.

They are planning to set 125 places for the three-course luncheon, which also includes door prizes. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Oscar Hammond, 349-039 or Miss Mildred Young, 349-104. The luncheon is $2 with reservation deadline this Friday.

Others working on the event are Mrs. C. Thomas Wheaton and Mrs. Dempsey Ebert. Handmade aprons and knitted articles will be featured in the bazaar.

Since the Mizpah Circle actually makes pledges to the institutions it serves, the Christmas for their baskets to the needy, it needs support for this project...so that it can support its holiday giving.

A FALL THRIFT sale is on the Northville Mothers' Club calendar for 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, November 4, at Northville First Presbyterian Church. Co-chairmen Mrs. Kalin Johnson and Mrs. Charles Fountain report there will be household items as well as clothing for both children and adults.

As in the club sale last spring, all skirts, blouses, dresses, coats will have one price tag (except for a boutique of designer-type items) so that early shoppers will find biggest bargains.

BASE LINE Quarters have been invited to the home of Mrs. John C. Burkman on old Base Line road for their October meeting at 1 p.m. Monday. Mrs. Thomas Lovett will present the program, but as Mrs. Edwin Langtry, president, points out, the antiquers always receive a "bonus" program in just visiting the Burkman's Victorian home and viewing their collection of early glass.

During the meeting, Mrs. Christensen presented the group with a plaque of appreciation from the President General of the DAR which verifies the chapters contribution in the national project which is the restoration of the second floor rooms of Independence Hall.

Esch, Stempien, Agree: 'End War Quickly'

Both favor a quick end to the war in Vietnam but the two candidates for the Second Congressional seat were full of fight when they clashed here Thursday night in debate.

Republican Congressman Marvin Esch and his Democratic challenger, State Representative Marvin Stempien, battled before the First Presbyterian Church Men's Club and its guests from other local churches.

Referee for the confrontation was John MacDonald, himself a candidate at the township level.

Challenged by Esch to disclose his formula to end the war, Stempien, noting that his opponent's last vote against the war in Vietnam occurred in 1969, called for immediate withdrawal (within 90 days) of all American troops and immediate cessation of bombing in North Vietnam.

"There is no simplistic answer to getting out of South Vietnam," Stempien conceded. "The French had a very difficult problem, too, but they were able to disengage and the U.S. has to disengage. There's one thing I see across this district in campaigning and it is that the people of this area want this war to end."

Explaining his 1969 vote was tied to the return of prisoners of war, Esch unlike the GOP administration, said he favored ending the bombing and setting a specific date for ending the war—provided "our prisoners of war are returned."

"But, again, it was a Democratic Congress that has controlled Congress for the past six years—and not a Republican Congress—and an anti movement away from escalating the war from over 500,000 men to where we are tonight was by Presidential action."

Esch said he seriously objected to Stempien's emotional appeal (his challenger had noted he had lost a relative in the war) and suggested that he is "better on the war" than himself.

Responding to a question as to who started the war, Esch said "I think we must be honest that the previous administrations, starting with Eisenhower, Kennedy and then Johnson all had a hand in that war. And the present administration is the first one to reverse the trend."

Two Democratic and one Republican president supported the war, agreed Stempien, but he emphasized that he did not support President Johnson in 1968. "I started to work for his defeat in the Democratic convention in 1967 and I supported a candidate named Bobby Kennedy."

"It would be foolhardy," Stempien continued, "for either of us to tell you that one Congressman can end that war...and it also would be foolhardy for a member of the minority party (Esch) to tell you that he is going to get the majority party to take that kind of action."

"A member of the majority party, however, can begin to put pressure on his own party to do that. I began in 1967 and I would continue in 1973 to do that."

Stempien viewed the Vietnamese conflict as an internal civil war "with both sides believing in the right to be where they are."

Esch said he disagreed with Stempien's "simplistic viewpoint."

"I do not believe it was simply an internal rebellion. The North Vietnamese have not only moved into South Vietnam but also into Laos and Cambodia. Now I can

Council Buys Property, Plans Public Housing

The on-again-off-again city purchase of property for senior citizen housing, on Fairbrook Street, is on again.

Following a report that the owner preferred not to hold up sale of his property pending a decision on rezoning, the Northville City Council voted 2-1 Monday night to purchase it without first securing the necessary zoning.

Two weeks ago, after a heated debate and a 2-2 deadlock, the council had decided to make its offer to purchase contingent upon rezoning from single family to multiple family housing zoning.

In the interim, however, the owner of the property, Conrad Langfield, who lives next door to the property in question, indicated to Mayor A. M. Allen and City Manager Frank Ollendorf that he did not wish to wait the two or three months it might take to secure rezoning.

"I'm sure that if he were really pressed Mr. Langfield would agree to a delay," said Ollendorf, "but I don't think it would be fair to him."

The manager noted that Langfield soon will be leaving the state for the winter, and, furthermore, he had better offers for purchase of the property, which is located on the south side of Fairbrook east of the Fairbrook Apartments and west of the Northville Laboratories. The property includes a house and a garage.

Councilman Paul Folino, emphasizing he strongly supports senior citizen housing, cast the lone dissenting vote because he opposed reversing the council's earlier decision on the matter.

Absent were Councilmen Kenneth Rathert and David Biery, who had indicated to the manager that one (Rathert) would oppose the purchase and the other would support it.

The property is to be purchased at the appraised value of $25,500.

Delay Plans For Rubbish

The planned new garbage-trash collection service due to start January 1 has been delayed until spring or later.

The delaying action was taken last week by the Northwest Sanitation Authority, serving the cities and townships of Northville and Plymouth because of a legal technicality affecting townships.

Township and Authority attorneys, following a question raised by Northville Township officials, agreed that under the existing law townships cannot charge residents special fees for collection services.

Without a means of offsetting the cost of this service in the two townships, neither is able to participate.

Ironically, while a new state statute requires municipalities of 10,000 residents or more to provide for adequate disposal of rubbish, the law does not give townships a means of paying for such service, according to City Council Paul Vernon.

Vernon and City Manager Frank Ollendorf indicated

IT'S OFFICIAL: Mayor A. M. Allen has proclaimed the hours of 5 to 7 p.m. on Tuesday, October 31, as the times for the annual trick-or-treat adventure by masked goblins. As for the mischievous "devils," Allen warns that beefed up police patrols will be out to deal with vandals.

DEMOLITION of the city-owned house at the southwest corner of Center and Cady streets is planned within the next two weeks. Presently vacant and rapidly becoming a public nuisance, the council authorized the city manager to have it razed immediately. Meanwhile, plans are going ahead with the demolition soon of the building located immediately west of the Drawbridge Restaurant. Both sites are to be used for parking.

EIGHTEEN YEAR OLDS can vote and now they can also drive taxicabs in the City of Northville. By action of the council this week, the minimum age for taxicab drivers was reduced from age 19 to 18 to conform with requirements of adjacent communities.

LINKLETTER LITTLE PERSON—While the Reverend Lloyd Brasure, left, and Art Linkletter were conversing at last Thursday's Town Hall luncheon, three-year-old Jennifer Wheatley walked up to Linkletter to say hello and shake his hand. Linkletter, long known for his rapport with children, couldn't resist picking her up to talk with her. Jennifer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Wheatley of Redford Township.

Art Linkletter Celebrity Opens Town Hall

Northville Town Hall began its 12th season last Thursday with a near capacity crowd gathered in the Northville High School Auditorium to hear national radio and television star Art Linkletter talk about his travels, speeches, fans and involvement in the American drug scene.

In introducing the new Town Hall season, the Reverend Lloyd Brasure of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville, called the annual event, "a wonderful contribution to the community."

Of Linkletter, Mr. Brasure said, "He has a wealth of experience. He has touched life on many points. He went on to say that what Linkletter could say and teach could be of 'value to young and old.'

Linkletter, known to most Americans through his "People are Funny" and "House Party" radio and television shows appeared at the podium with his familiar wide grin and "Hi" to the audience which was made up primarily of housewives and some high students.

He began his talk with some biographical information about himself and comments about experiences he's had with fans who recognize him on the street.

"One kid came up to me and said, 'you look better alive than on television,' he said. "People do say the darndest things."

Although he makes many speeches and gives numerous talks during the course of a year all over the world, Linkletter explained that he never knows what he is going to say to an audience until he gets out onto the stage. "I change the way I speak from audience to audience, and so do audiences," he said.

In speaking about the different kinds of groups to which he has spoken, Linkletter told about groups at the San Quentin penitentiary, a mental hospital, a Korean orphanage and at a leper colony in the Hawaiian Islands.

A speech at the United Nations, he added, was one rare occasion where the words had to be written beforehand.

"I was speaking on the International narcotics program," he said and explained that additional preparation was needed because "in speaking of drugs, no slang phrases could be used and some of them can't be translated into other languages."

"Also, I was speaking about drugs and drug abuse in America," he said, and the State Department was worried about how it was phrased, because Communist countries could take things out of context and use them in the press to put capitalism down."

There was more joking about audience and humorous anecdotes about his friends. President Richard Nixon and California Governor Ronald Reagan.

The President is a great human being," he said, and added that he has known the President's family for many years. "When I go to Washington, I stay at the White House and I want to thank all of you taxpayers," he quipped.

There was more light talk about many interviews with children over the 25 years his "House Party" program was on television and radio and then the talk became more serious.

"About three years ago," he began, "the fun and laughter ended for a while. I was in Colorado Springs getting ready to speak at the Air Force Academy and I received a telephone call saying my daughter had taken her life during a flash-back from LSD."

He said that with his own daughter the flashbacks from LSD had occurred previous to her suicide, but "she thought, as so many young people do today, that she was losing her mind."

When asked his age, Linkletter said, "I'm 60 years old. I used to think that was old but now that I'm here, 70 looks old."

Linkletter received an approving ovation from the women in the audience when he told them he was negotiating with a sponsor and "might be going back to television shortly."

On the subject of personal achievements of which he is most proud, Linkletter said his first is his family referring to his marriage of 37 years and the success of his children, "in spite of the Hollywood atmosphere."

He then talked about the development of his land in southwestern Australia from a desert to fertile pasture land with roads and schools and farms.

In answer to a question about the appearance of a generation gap between established stars in Hollywood and new stars, Linkletter said he is often "appalled at the crassness and vulgarity" on the movie and television screens by young stars.

"When you turn on your TV and someone drops into your livingroom practically uninvited, it's up to him to behave himself," he said.

Mrs. Jack Doherty, now in second year as Town Hall Chairman, closed the program and announced that the next speaker would be a unique expert—George Michael on November 9.

The fourth step according to Linkletter is to "get close to your youngster without being a buddy," he said.

Then, addressing mainly the students seated in the front rows, Linkletter told them to never take anyone else's advice on which drugs to take. "Any drug in your body can take a different effect, to put it there is like playing Russian Roulette," he advised.

His favorite hobbies he told the audience, are snow skiing and surfing.

Legion Observes Education Week

Making education the top priority is the aim of the American Legion Auxiliary during American Education Week.

Lloyd H. Green Post 147 Auxiliary will be observing American Education Week October 22 through 28.

School officials, parents, students and other interested persons are urged by the auxiliary to acquaint themselves with benefits and opportunities by reading the booklet "Need a Lift."

The booklet is placed in every high school library in Michigan by the Legion and its auxiliary and can lead students to scholarships, loans and part-time jobs.

In the spring of 1972, the American Legion Auxiliary Department of Michigan awarded 18 scholarships. Known as the Past-Department President's Memorial Scholarship, the awards carried a $500 scholarship.

This year, scholarship awards have been increased to $500 each. Daughters of veterans may apply for the scholarships through the Lloyd H. Green Post 147.

Applications may be obtained by calling 455-9133.

Auxiliary spokesmen explain that the sophomore year of high school is not too soon to begin preparing for college. They suggest beginning with a review of fields in which the student is interested.

High school programs should be planned to include courses required for entrance to college and the auxiliary notes that grades of "B" or better are needed for most scholarships or financial aid.

Hobbies and participation in school, community and church activities are often considered when judging scholarship applications, the auxiliary said.

Court Seeks Probation Help

The film "Help Me, Please" will be shown. All residents in the area are invited to attend the meeting. The 35th District Court includes both the city and township of Northville.

Esch, Stempien Agree: End the War

I've been a supporter of pension reform and I serve on the Education Labor Committee. Next year we'll have pension reform. But do you believe that the Federal government should control all the pensions in this country or should we keep the pension system in the private sector? "I think we should provide for vesting more quickly but I question whether or not the Federal government's role is to completely control the pension program and that's basically the position that the UAW supports and the other union special interest groups support, who in turn are supported by my opponent.

We can go on and discuss the issue of the pension program for Medicare. Do you really believe that we should have a Medicare delivery program in this country that costs $70 billion a year? Well, maybe it only costs $58 billion because the Finance Committee said it's somewhere between $58 and $70 billion a year.

"Do you believe that we should have a program costing $58 billion a year? If you do then you vote for my opponent and you deserve to do so, and why, because I think we ought to have a systematic review of tax reform. But do you believe that we should do away with the capital gains tax?"

"And directly related to tax is the question of pension.

But is it right for this nation to have a tax system that allows an oil depletion allowance, which provides a tax shelter for some industry in this nation...which provided some $700 million of profit for Atlantic-Richfield Oil Company, from 1962 to 1968, on which they didn't pay one dime in Federal taxes? "Is it right, also, that we have a Federal tax structure that allows other kinds of tax shelters through which people can avoid the payment of taxes? He (Esch) can shout all he wants about the bogymen of taking money from the middle income people and passing it down to the lower income people. But you know I've represented this area since 1965, with the exception of one term, and I haven't been taking the money from the middle income people and giving it to the poor people.

"I believe that everybody should pay their fair share of taxes, and that's not such a radical proposal, is it? We shouldn't have some people not paying taxes which we have got in this nation today. We should also be working for taxes that are not regressive, that are fair and equitable.

"We shouldn't have people on fixed incomes paying property taxes that they can't afford so that they have to sell their property, their homes. And I've represented senior citizens who have had that kind of thing happen to them.

"My opponent voted against giving them even a property tax exemption and then he says he is for senior citizens.

"Health care. It's going to cost some $70 billion, some $58 billion a year? We're paying now some $83 billion a year for health care services that aren't delivered adequately and that they need."

Bristling, Stempien said he does not try to hang all of President Nixon's programs "around his (Esch's) neck and I'd appreciate it if he does not do the same for me" relative to the programs of Senator McGovern.

He noted that one of the programs wholeheartedly supported by McGovern but opposed by himself is abortion.

Stempien contended that the Federal government has failed to meet its financial obligations to the states. Specifically, he said Michigan produces more tax revenue than it gets back from the Federal government.

One of his political platforms, he said, is that "the educational system of this state is entitled to get more financial support from the Federal government."

Esch, who arrived late because of the House vote earlier in the day that approved revenue sharing, emphasized that the Congressional action, which he supported even before the President took office, will mean return of tax dollars to local communities.

Similarly, he was successful in pushing through Congress the Environmental Protection Agency, he said. He also took partial credit in "developing the most recent (tax) reforms in 1969 in a program proposed by the President. And since 1969 individual income taxes are down $18.9 billion. Corporate taxes are up $4.9 billion. Excise taxes are down $3.5 billion.

"In 1972 it's true 106 people paid no taxes, and that's probably wrong. But in the same year in the over $200,000 income bracket 15,000 people did pay taxes and those taxes averaged $177,000."

Ripping Esch for failure to disclose amounts of Federal monies he has used in sending mail outside his Congressional District and suggesting that he is part of the secrecy in government element, Stempien said a major thrust of his role if elected will be for Congressional reform.

"That kind of change has got to come from the majority party, and the party that is to blame for this is my party—the Democratic Party that has controlled Congress for 18 years," he declared. "And I think it's shameful. The people have a right to know and I will fight to see that they have the right to know."

Esch replied that all expenditures of Congressmen are available and are a matter of public record. Furthermore, he said he, as

Openings Available Novi Park Board Activities Told

Know what a basketball player, a square dance enthusiast, a musician and a lady volleyball player have in common? The answer is that each of them can be participating in a program sponsored by Novi's Parks and Recreation Commission this winter.

The women's volleyball program got underway last week, and dates for the first meetings of the other three programs are all set for the immediate future.

There are plenty of openings in each program, according to Parks and Recreation Commissioner Ray Murphy, and interested people are urged to sign up. The first meeting of the

to Contact Donald Gorman at 349-2511. First practice session for the Men's Basketball League has been set for Wednesday, October 25, at the Middle School. Joe Poehner (349-1723) and Ed Butler (349-0828) are the people to contact for information about the program.

'Free and Female' Topic Of Schoolcraft Speaker

A science writer who has become a best selling author and articulate spokesman in behalf of women and their sexuality will lecture at Schoolcraft College on October 24.

BARBARA SEAMAN

Barbara Seaman has written The Doctor's Case Against the Pill, and more recently Free and Female - The Sex Life of the Contemporary Woman.

About Free and Female, Ellen Frankfort has written, "All women who want to understand their sexuality—especially those who have been misled by Dr. Reuben's books—should read this one. In other words before 'Any Woman Does,' she should read 'Free and Female.'"

Lucy Freeman describes it as "one of the most challenging and provocative books I have ever read. Barbara Seaman has given us a courageous new way of thinking about female sexuality."

And, from Betty Freidan, "We hope soon, all women will be liberated enough to be 'Free and Female' in Barbara Seaman's sense - to explore and affirm honestly their own sexuality as subject, not object, and to experience a fully human sexual relationship with man."

Miss Seaman is Child Care and Education Editor of Family Circle and vice president of the Women's Medical Center. A graduate of Oberlin College and Columbia University School of Journalism, she received an Advanced Science Writing Fellowship in 1967. She is married to a psychiatrist and has three children.

"It is important for a woman to view her gynecologist the way she does her television repairman. But often a trip to the gynecologist is a humiliating experience," she goes on. "For instance, instead of letting a woman pick her own form of birth control, he tends to decide for her. A few take great pride in diaphragms and go so far as to say, 'I've never had a diaphragm pregnancy.' Just whose pregnancy is it anyway?"

"Free and Female," has been called the first book to deal with sexuality from a feminist point of view. Originally, however, Miss Seaman says it was intended as a "bride's sex book."

Her lecture is being sponsored by the Cultural and Public Affairs Committee of the College.

It'll be "strike up the band" Monday, October 23, as the Community Band holds its first meeting at the High School. The band will play every Monday from 7-9 p.m. and all high school and adult musicians are invited to join regardless of their musical skills or number of years of experience in playing their instruments.

For information on the Community Band call Ray Murphy at 349-0376 or Guy Smith at 349-7055.

A Square Dancing Club for both experienced and novice dancers is also being organized by the Commission. The Club will meet Thursday evenings at the Community Building. Residents interested in joining are urged to contact Donald Gorman at 349-2511. First practice session for the Men's Basketball League has been set for Wednesday, October 25, at the Middle School. Joe Poehner (349-1723) and Ed Butler (349-0828) are the people to contact for information about the program.

Park Employees Honored

Several employees of the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority were honored at the annual recognition dinner held at Roma Hall in Livonia on Saturday, October 14. Among those honored were: George F. Seeley, 64 of Brighton former head of the department of purchasing supply and equipment maintenance for the central Authority garage located in Kensington Metropolitan Park and has the responsibility for maintenance of all park equipment throughout the nine parks of the Huron-Clinton; Guy F. Fisher of South Lyon, a maintenance worker at Kensington Metropolitan Park, who joined the Authority on May 28, 1957.

Revitalize Novi Chamber

Continued from Novi, 1 necessarily detrimental to the interests of business. "We have a council that is more oriented toward the subdivisions than it is business," said Button. "We probably pay 50 percent of the taxes and yet have only one percent of the vote. By acting as a group I think we will be able to exert increased influence over the council's decisions."

A second need for a strong chamber was cited by Sullivan, who asserted that there is no place where potential business residents can get information about the city.

"Most of the industry we have now is because the owners had to research the area at their own expense. Novi is a very fine location because of its relation to major highways. Potential businesses shouldn't have to research this information by themselves. We should have it readily available to them. There's got to be a place where they can come and find enthusiastic support of the city," he said.

days of events falls heavily on Judy's shoulders. But she isn't complaining.

"It's a chance to meet and work with everyone in the community, both adults and students," Judy said enthusiastically. "This year we've had problems again with fire regulations and our band-concert plans, but I'm sure everything will work out as it did last year."

"We're planning a goldfish eating contest for the 'Flashback '80' party after the homecoming game," she continued, "and the Department of Health is squashing about THAT."

Leadership comes easily to Judy. During her freshman year at MSU she was elected president of her floor in her residence hall and as a sophomore she was elected president of the entire dormitory. Now that she lives off-campus at her sorority house she still maintains close ties with student government.

"Coming from a small town like Northville made things easy for me at a huge university like MSU," she explains. "I was active in high school and at college I stepped into the action with ease."

She is the daughter of Robert W. Bogart, 4638 W. Main, in Northville.

Charles A. Smith of Novi, a Northville Rotarian, will attend the 61st annual state convention of the Easter Seal Society in Troy October 26-28. Smith is one of 13 delegates elected to represent the Wayne County Easter Seal Society's board of directors at the convention where he will participate in meetings and panel discussions.

Class Planned In Esperanto

Want to learn an unusually easy "foreign" language? If so a class in Esperanto now in the formative stages here may be the answer.

The organizational meeting for both adults and high school students is scheduled for Thursday, November 2 at 7:30 p.m. in a Northville school not yet designated.

Having no outside sponsorship, the class is described as a "self-learning" experience with relatively little formal instruction, according to George Lockhart, an Esperantist who has volunteered to lead the class.

Lockhart was persuaded to launch the class by citizens of the community who recently voiced enthusiasm upon reading he is a strong advocate of this 80-year-old international language that is rapidly gaining in popularity in the United States.

"We can safely say that after very little classroom instruction and a minimal of practice at home participants will be able to both read and speak at least elementary sentences," Lockhart said.

No fees will be required, except less than $5 cost for instructional materials.

Lockhart will not be paid, getting his reward "from seeing others learn while correcting some of my own shortcomings in the language."

A piano tuner by occupation, 80-year-old Lockhart is a self-educated Northville resident who is convinced that Esperanto will one day be used throughout the world as the principal means of communication between peoples of different languages.

Most of the words of Esperanto have the appearance of common languages and hence are easily recognized even by those with little or no formal language training. Furthermore, there are far fewer rules and exceptions in this language than in English which makes for easier understanding of the grammar, he said.

Persons who may be interested in participating in the class but who might not be able to attend the organizational meeting are urged to call Lockhart at P1 9-1945.

Holiday Switched By Council

You won't be getting your mail Monday, October 23, and don't expect to be able to get into the banks.

But if you have business to transact at any of the Novi municipal offices, go right ahead.

Novi's city council Monday passed a resolution amending the city's policy of closing on Veteran's Day, giving city employees the Friday after Thanksgiving off instead.

The change was made at the request of the city employees, and was supported by City Manager Edward Kriewall, who told the council that this would put the city's policy in line with that of most developers and contractors.

In the past we've found that we have almost no business whatsoever on the day after Thanksgiving," he said, "because all of the contractors take the day off. I'm sure it would be much more profitable for the city to adopt the same policy."

The motion to amend the policy was passed 6-0, although Councilman Edwin Pressnell said his vote was a "reluctant" yes and expressed concern that Veteran's Day wasn't being properly observed.

David Fried, city attorney, informed the council that even though offices will be open Veteran's Day, law required that no legal business be transacted.

The city council will not be affected by the change, however, and will meet next Tuesday instead of Monday due to the fact that Veteran's Day is a legal holiday.

PTA Starts Sale of Tickets

Presale of tickets for "Once upon a Fairytale" will continue this Thursday and Friday in all Northville public and parochial elementary schools and at the Cooperative Nursery.

The musical, which is sponsored by the Northville PTA Council will be performed by the Plymouth Theatre Guild in the Northville High School Auditorium at 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, October 22.

Tickets are 75 cents each and will also be available at the door on the day of the performances.

George Enters 19th Race

Henry L. George, a former Novi Township trustee, has been named by the American Independent Party as its candidate for Congress in the 19th District.

Announcement of his candidacy was made by Harold Davidson, Oakland County chairman of the AIP. "Lloyd George of 4058 Malott Drive, Novi, a founder of the Oakland County Conservative Club," said

Davidson, "will provide voters of the 19th District with a hard-hitting alternative to the candidates of the Republican and Democrat branches."

Running on the Republican ticket is William Broomfield, and on the Democratic ticket, George Montgomery. George said, "I have entered this race because I am deeply concerned for the future of our society, when I see the very foundation of civilization being eaten away by the Socialist cancer that is being introduced into our national life under the guise of social reform.

"An example of what I am talking about is the proposal that will appear on the November ballot in Michigan, falsely labeled 'abortion reform.'"

George, 51, is a retired Air Force major and former Americanism chairman for the Northville American Legion Post. He served 12 years as a Republican precinct delegate.

The Novi resident was nominated by AIP at its state convention. Minor parties nominate their candidates for office, unlike those who file petitions for office in the two major parties.

Drip. Drip. Drip. A leaky faucet is an annoying noise. But it will annoy you even more when we tell you a water faucet leaking one drip per second will drip hundreds of gallons of hot water in a year's time. This means you're not only wasting water but probably wasting water heating dollars, too. Often, a new faucet washer and a few minutes of your time will cure the faucet drip. We've written a leaflet titled, "Keep Your Fuel Bills Down — Your Comfort Up." It's full of practical, do-it-yourself suggestions. This leaflet will help you to get every dollar's worth of energy you pay for. Pick one up at any Consumers Power Company office. It's yours free, with our compliments.

Novi High Holds Drug Abuse Talks

In conjunction with Drug Abuse Prevention Week, teachers at Novi High School Tuesday conducted seminars regarding the dangers of drug usage during second hour classes.

In a program initiated by Principal Hal Seymour teachers discussed problems of drug usage and distributed literature regarding drug abuse.

Stressed during the discussions were the attitudes that drug dependence is "wrong," a serious problem for the individual, and a serious problem for society.

In addition, students were made aware that there are various sources available in the community which can provide assistance and counseling when drug problems arise.

Commission OKs Party Store Plan

Site plan for the proposed party store on Eight Mile Road, east of the Boron service station at Taft, was approved by the Northville

Planning Commission Tuesday night. Action followed submission of still another site plan to planners, who earlier had rejected proposals because of the building's location on the property and because they failed to provide minimum parking.

Upon review of the latest plan, however, Commission Chairman Francis Gazlay reported it met all requirements. In approving the site plan and emphasizing that the architectural plan must still be presented to the commission, members urged the owner to consider an Early American design in keeping with the station next door.

In another matter Tuesday, the commission accepted the site plan for an addition to Northville Laboratories, and referred it to committee, and directed the owners to submit additional details prior to the commission's next meeting. The addition is to be used as a warehouse.

That next regular meeting of the commission, originally scheduled for November 7, has been changed to Thursday, November 9 because of the November 7 election.

Planners also refined a proposed ordinance by Planning Consultant Ronald Nino to control storage of recreational vehicles on residential property. After revising the proposal, the commission voted to put it to a public hearing on November 21.

Also to come up at that public hearing will be an ordinance amendment permitting the storage of recreational vehicles in M-1 (industrial) districts.

Planners also recommended several private street names for Thompson-Brown's condominium development at Eight Mile and Taft. Several of the names suggested by the developer could not be used because of the existence of similar street names elsewhere in the area. The commission chose names prominent in the Revolutionary War period to fit the street name theme.

City Manager Frank Ollendorf urged the commission to consider clarification of three zoning-permit matters:

• Parking of trucks in drives of residential properties.

• Determine what, if any, types of businesses (i.e., occasional hair dressing, washing, etc.) should be permitted in homes. • Determine whether or not site plans should be required of changing property uses where physical structure change is not made.

The latter suggestion rekindled an argument by Commission Chairman Thomas Wheaton that the ordinance, in his opinion, requires site plan review. Furthermore, as he has in the past, Wheaton challenged the city manager's right to grant occupancy permits to such businesses as Hartford real estate on South Main and Keim Realty on North Center since these businesses did not submit site plans to the commission.

Ollendorf, who contends the ordinance does not require site plans in use changes only, conceded differences of opinion exist and for this reason the commission should clarify the ordinance.

However, he suggested that if the commission is disturbed by specific cases it should seek a ruling from the city attorney. And if the attorney rules that site plans are required, Ollendorf

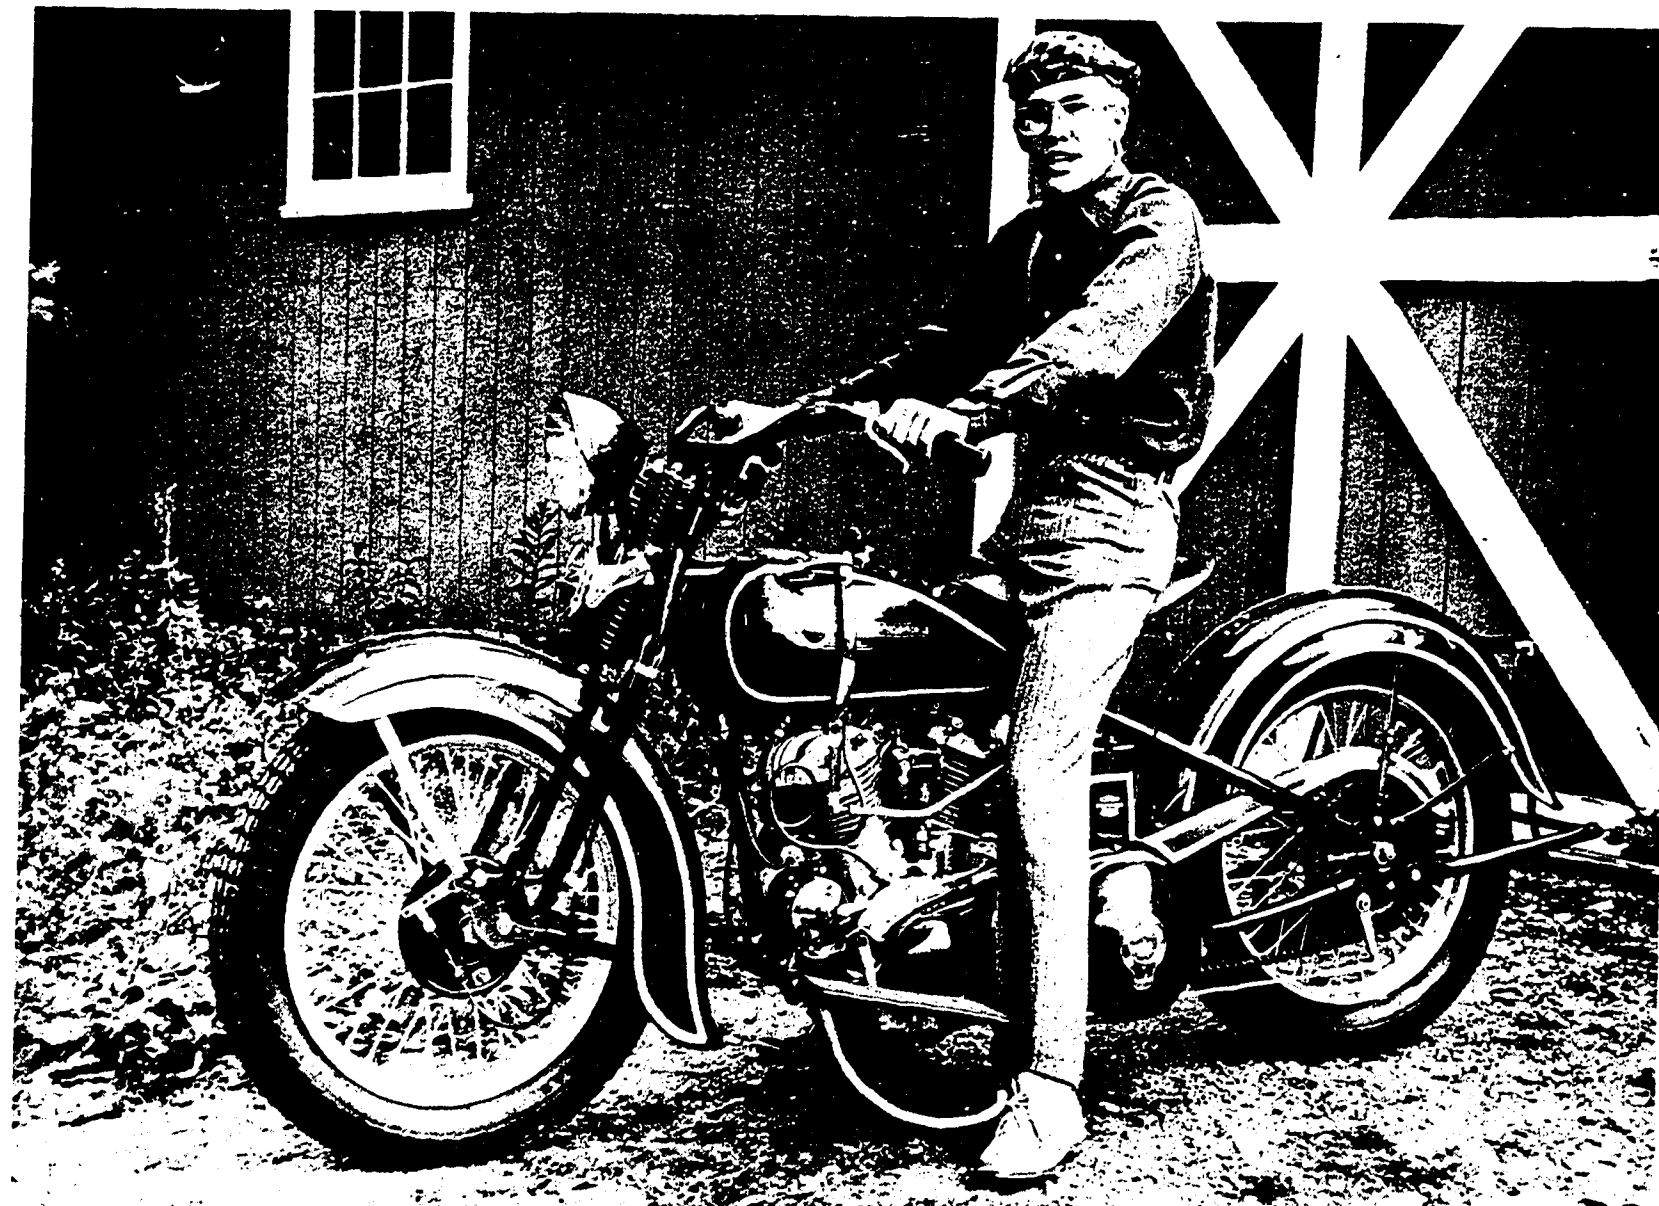

Commissioner Charles Freydl noted that presently businesses not located in Northville and not paying taxes are permitted, without license, to sell products and services, i.e., food, household items, dry cleaning, etc. as part of traveling sales routes.

Concerning Hartford real estate, commissioners informed Ollendorf that this business has not yet installed green belts as required by ordinance.

ANTIQUE MOTORCYCLE—Bruce "Chip" Thomas, 17, of Shadbrook is shown with the 1936 Harley-Davidson motorcycle which he completely restored in a year. On October 7, Chip was awarded second prize at the Antique Automobile Club of America's fall meet in Hershey, Pennsylvania. This was the second time he was awarded second prize in the antique motorcycle division. Chip's interest in restoring the motorcycle was fostered by the Thomas family's hobby of restoring antique automobiles. Another Northville resident, Ray Jackson, was awarded a first place prize at the Hershey meet for his restored 1933 V-8 Victoria Ford in a division for all 1932 and 1933 automotive products. Jackson has owned the car for seven years and it has taken him six of those years to completely restore it.

Colts Post 3 Victories

Northville's varsity little league football team ran its season's record to an impressive 6-0 with a 20-8 triumph over the Westland Rockets last week, but it was a good week all the way around for the Northville little league gridder.

As has happened all season long, it was the varsity which led the way against the Rockets. A 60 yard sprint in the first quarter and a quarterback sneak in the second gave the Colt varsity a quick 14-0 lead.

The Westland lads managed to push across a second quarter score also, however, to make the half time margin, 14-8. The Colts upped their lead to 20-8 with a third quarter touchdown and then get stung on defense to preserve the 20-8 lead.

The junior varsity defense was stingy from the onset as they held the Rockets scoreless and enabled the Colts to win 14-0. The Colts' minute of the first half sweep around the left end in the second quarter and an eight yard end-around play in the third quarter.

The Colt freshmen also posted a victory against the Rockets, as a 30 yard return of an intercepted pass in the last minute of the first half produced the game's only touchdown and gave them a 6-0 victory.

Wildman, who was arrested July 19 by township police, had been charged with drunken driving, a charge which was dismissed after he pled guilty to the added count.

The action came October 10 in 35th District Court.

Driving without a license resulted in a $29 fine for Kenneth L. Garrett of 111 West Main Street. Arrested September 19, he pled guilty to the charge.

Rodney R. Bidwell of Detroit was found guilty of driving without a license and fined $29. He was arrested in August on a warrant for the charge.

City police are investigating an assault on three Northville High students which occurred Friday.

The three reported they were shot at while working on science projects in a wooded area just off the high school drive near Eight Mile Road.

The incident took place at 1:45 p.m.

According to reports, two youths in a light green Dodge two-door shot at them with what appeared to be an air gun, striking the girl and one of the boys in the back.

The pellets did not penetrate the skin.

The two youths in the car continued eastbound on the drive to Center Street. Driver of the car was described as in his teens with long sandy brown hair.

Two prowler complaints were reported to police Friday night. A woman on Rogers Street saw a male, approximately five feet 10 inches run from her basement window shortly after 9:30 p.m.

Investigation into the death of Alger F. Quast, 37, is continuing this week following the discovery of his body last Wednesday night, October 11. Mr. Quast, who lived alone, was found in his home at 2000 Springwood Drive in Northville township at 9 p.m.

Township police were summoned to the home after Mr. Quast's secretary and her husband tried without success to contact him.

He was found in bed fully clothed, police said, and there were no signs of violence or forced entry. An autopsy revealed a high carbon monoxide content in his blood.

Police said Mr. Quast's car was in the garage with the ignition in the "on" position but the battery was dead.

Pills discovered near the body were found to be barbiturates, police said.

Destruction and theft of school property top the Novi police blotter this week.

Officers were summoned to the Orchard Hills Elementary School early Monday morning to investigate a report that several school windows had been broken.

Upon arrival they discovered that four large windows had been broken out sometime over the weekend.

Value of the destruction was placed between $300 and $350.

"That playground is a good play area for a lot of children," said Novi Detective Lieutenant Richard Faulkner. "It would be a shame if it became necessary to fence it off to protect against similar cases."

Faulkner also indicated that if the department discovers who is responsible for the damage, they, or their parents if a juvenile is apprehended, will be expected to make full restitution for the windows.

A breaking and entering of the Novi High School machine shop Wednesday resulted in the theft of several small engines and tools last week has been solved by Novi police.

Four juveniles were taken into custody and charged with the offense following an immediate investigation of the machine shop.

Faulkner said the four juveniles involved were all local residents and indicated that appropriate action would be taken in conjunction with their apprehension.

Arrested on charges of drunken driving last week were Steve Peter Kloop, 23, of Southgate; John Joseph Siegrist, 43, of 4022 Village Woods Road in Novi; George Stuart O'Dale, 51, of Detroit; Harry Louis Dace, 68, of 40217 Jefferson in Novi; Richard Frank Gourlay, 32, of Livonia; and William H. Powell, 41, of Belleville.

Police are investigating a larceny of building supplies from a construction site at 49800 Martin Drive.

The owner of the stolen supplies called police Wednesday, October 12, to report he had seen someone in a red jeep drive up to the site, load some supplies into the jeep, and then take off before he could be apprehended.

A routine investigation of an automobile accident led to the arrest of John Shouse of 2440 Diamond Court in Wixom on charges of drunken driving.

explained, will be using a specially prepared census sheet for taking the school census, the voting precinct information and the opinion on summer tax collection.

Separate year-round school questionnaires will be completed for each of the randomly selected 750 families on the census roll. In addition, all other families not included in the 750 family sample, will be given mail-back questionnaires.

"Every family with or without children not designated for the (year-round school) interview," explained Busard, will be given a questionnaire and asked to complete it and mail it back to our offices. However, enumerators will, if requested, hand carry the completed form back to us.

The questionnaires need not be signed.

In connection with the census, each enumerator will count all children from birth to 20 years of age. Age of children will be recorded as of May 31. (A child who will be 5 years of age on June 1 will be recorded as a year-old).

The count will include children of legal guardians and those persons, whose parents or legal guardians reside in the district, in the armed forces.

Also, enumerators will take a census of all handicapped children, age from birth to 21. Handicapped children are defined as those who are deaf, hard of hearing, blind or partially blind, mentally handicapped, and those with crippling diseases, i.e. heart disease, cleft lip and palate, cystic fibrosis, kidney disease, diabetes, etc.

This information, en-phased Busard, will be held by the district in the strictest confidence. "It is essential that we have it so that the district may determine the kinds of special education programs that may be needed to help these youngsters," he explained.

Parents needing information regarding the definition of a handicapped child may contact Busard or Superintendent Raymond Spear. Similarly, those who may have questions about any other part of the census may contact these two administrators.

Other specific information sought by the enumerators will include:

Names and addresses of parents; names, places of birth and ages of children; whether or not the family owns or rents its home; type of dwelling in which they live; i.e., single family home, apartment, condominium, etc.; the municipal precinct in which they live, i.e., Northville Township Precinct 1, City of Northville Precinct 3, etc.

By knowing the types of dwelling in which people are living, "we will have a more accurate picture of students coming from the various kinds of housing," explained Busard.

"We want to know municipal precincts in which voting procedures.

As objections to participating in buying the machine mounted. Evans handled interestingly upset with his fellow councilmen and finally said, "Let's just forget the whole thing if there's going to be this much trouble. I'll contribute the money to the school board in the name of the city rather than go through all this. For the fee of only $250 I think all this debate is ridiculous."

Target of his words were councilmen Denis Berry and Louis Campbell, who used the request to renew long-standing matters of dispute between the two bodies.

Said Campbell, "I don't expect the city to buy equipment for the school, any more than I expect the school to buy equipment for the city." Campbell then made reference to the school board's recently adopted $2 million budget.

Added Berry, "If we do let them buy the machine maybe the students will look favorably upon us and vote in a new school board that would be much more generous than the one we have now when it comes to pay for the paving of Taft Road.

Novi Officials Weigh Request

was raised two weeks ago when two students - Mel Stephens and Pat Boyer - from high school teacher Del Munson's government class approached the council for the use of the city's voting machine to use in a mock election.

Due to the complicated technical and legal implications of moving the machines, their request was denied, but the council suggested they consider purchasing a used machine they could have permanently.

Kraze letter to the council informed them that a used machine could be purchased for somewhere between $350 and $500. Suggesting that the machine could be utilized by the city as a back-up machine and that participating in the expense could help to ease the often-strained feelings between the council and the school board, Kraze asked the council to pick up 50 percent of the cost.

City Clerk Mabel Ash told the council that such a machine could be utilized by the city in elections, particularly for the counting of absentee ballots.

In addition, Mrs. Ash told the council that the time is rapidly approaching when there will be a need to create new voting precincts. "I'm very much afraid of what we're going to do this year with overcrowding on election day," she said. "We're going to have to find new locations for putting voting machines. Perhaps if we cooperate with the school on this, they'll cooperate with us when we ask to establish polling places in their school buildings."

Strongly supporting the request to pay for half of the machine was Councilman Raymond Evans. "The school board is apparently looking at us with the idea that we can cooperate with each other," he said. "Even though we've had our differences in the past, I'm perfectly willing to try again, and I think this would be a good way to do it."

Evans also stated that he

In his 6 years in Lansing, Marvin Stempien has given selflessly of his very considerable talents and energy in finding solutions to the very complex problems facing the people of Michigan. A strong advocate of consumer protection laws, he was instrumental in the creation of the Michigan Consumer Council and worked very hard in securing the passage of the State's present laws protecting consumers.

In his first term in office Marvin Stempien served as a member of the Governor's Blue Ribbon Commission on Court Reform. In this capacity he contributed in no small way to the reformation of the State's court system. A proponent of district courts, he was successful in contributing to the realization of the district court system.

Kindful of man's abuse of his environment, Marvin Stempien's dynamism exhibited itself in the passage of very significant legislation concerning natural resources and ecology. He was a cosponsor of the "Environmental Control Act of 1970" and the "Truth in Pollution Act of 1970". Recognition of his concern for the environment came in 1971 when he was nominated to receive the "Conservationist of the Year" Award by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs.

Evidence of his superb leadership qualities and devotion to hard work are amply attested to by his service as Majority Floor Leader and his membership in the very important House Committee on Appropriations where he is Chairman of the Sub-committee on General Government and on Computers. He is also a member of the Legislative Council and the House Fiscal Agency Board. In these positions he has demonstrated himself to be deeply concerned with legislative efficiency.

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

Northville township has approved the formation of a building authority which becomes effective January 1.

Legally speaking, such authorities are somewhat clouded by confusion in Michigan due to various court suits (including the Detroit sports stadium) and the upcoming election at which time voters may establish a limit on property taxes (that may or may not apply to building authorities).

But forgetting all the sideline games, the building authority as formed by Northville township means that the board can build almost anything it chooses and levy whatever tax is necessary to pay for it.

Right now it would appear that the board is split on the question of what should be built in the township.

All seven members agree that a fire station is needed in the southeast section of the township.

But a $500,000 township hall-fire police complex is proposed. Presumably, that's why there's been a delay in providing the fire station.

According to the supervisor, the township has enough money to build a fire station without issuing bonds or levying new taxes.

But a half-million-dollar project requires the formation of a building authority so that bonds may be sold and additional taxes levied over a period of 10 or 20 years to pay off the building bonds.

The supervisor said a fire station could be constructed for about $50,000 on township-owned land.

He indicated that he would favor staying in the present township hall and just building the fire station.

But he's leaving the board soon. And it appears certain that the new township-hall advocates will gain more support after the November 7 election.

So what recourse does the voter have who may believe that additional fire safety is essential and that present office facilities are adequate?

First, the formation of the building authority can be challenged in the courts. This must be done within 60 days of filing the articles of incorporation with the county clerk.

The filing date is not known, but it should be soon if the authority is to become a reality on January 1. There is no provision for calling for an election on the formation of an authority.

But another, more practical method for giving the public a voice on this issue remains when the board finally decides exactly what it proposes to build.

Petitions may be circulated calling for an election on the question of the proposed project. They must be filed within 30 days of the date of publication of the intent to issue bonds to finance a specific project.

In itself, the formation of a building authority is not bad. It may serve as a useful vehicle for financing projects needed and desired by the public.

It would be both costly and unnecessary to challenge the formation of the building authority by taking legal action. Further, the township attorney points out that legal action may be taken against any specific project even if petitions are not filed for an election (as in the case of the Detroit sports stadium).

The opportunity to file petitions calling for an election on any specific project gives the public its chance to let its will be known. And in reality, it would seem that boardmembers would find more comfort in proceeding with a $500,000 project if it carried the support of the majority of voters.

Unfortunately, the construction of a fire station in the southeast section of the township is being delayed. If the building authority method is used, the township attorney estimates it will be early spring before details could be completed and an advertisement placed on the intent to issue bonds.

Then more delay if petitions are circulated for an election.

Meanwhile, says the supervisor, the township could build the fire station by using some of the $200,000 it has on hand.

So who is holding up the township fire station?

Could it be those board members who insist on linking an unneeded township hall and expanded police facility to a needed fire station?

YES...

I agree wholeheartedly with the concept of full prosecution for teenage juvenile offenders involved in Major Crimes. An important facet that one should note is that the champions for juvenile freedom from prosecution are the same persons who are so feverishly engaged in gaining further constitutional guarantees for perpetrators of crimes, not for the helpless victims of those perpetrators.

In the great multitude of major crimes it appears that nowhere is any great concern exhibited by our interpreters of constitutional rights for the rights of the victims who die, and in many cases, are left physically or emotionally crippled. Does it matter to the victim if a person with an adult body, with a sense of legal reason, is fourteen, sixteen, or fifty years of age when loss, injury, and destruction is meted out to that victim? Would the same calm and methodical decisions on license for wrongdoing be granted so easily to some reasonably intelligent, husky young man who rapes, or murders one of those decider's daughter or wife? Would decisions be made which would grant him immunity from full prosecution solely because he had not yet attained his seventeenth birthday?

I will admit that my feelings on the issue are motivated in part due to my employment as a police officer. However, my oath as a police officer was to protect the lives and property of others. I feel that our forefathers designed the Constitution with the same thought in mind, regardless of modern liberal interpreters, and meant this protection to be from anyone who possessed sound reason. It was not meant to be a means for a perpetrator to circumvent the punishment due him.

I do not advocate blanket punishment to all criminals, be they juveniles or otherwise, if for some reason they are adjudged mentally unsound. I do advocate fair and impartial prosecution of legally responsible persons. In the particular case of a juvenile, the tool of full prosecution should be readily available to us, keeping in mind that each criminal and each crime should be judged solely by the merits, or demerits, of the particular case.

Walter LaMoria, Chief City of Brighton Police

NO...

The understandable concern occasioned by the increasing number of serious crimes committed by young people must not be allowed to bring about patterns of action which would inevitably be to the detriment of society and result in the destruction of individual lives. Those who would alter established procedures designed to protect the immature from the lot of those deemed adult do all concerned a great disfavor.

Advocates of change seem to be under the impression that prisons rehabilitate. This is simply not true. Far from being houses of correction, prisons are schools for crime which embitter the incarcerated and provide top quality instruction in most forms of criminal activity. The person who comes out of prison is most certainly a changed person, but, with possibly a few exceptions, any change is decidedly for the worse.

The more reasonable reaction to the current situation would be to employ treatment methods designed to rehabilitate the offender. Constructive programs are in operation which could be adapted to a local situation. Not only would our youth be given the opportunity to become responsible adults, but much money would be saved as the cost of keeping an individual in prison for any period of time soon reaches a considerable sum which the taxpayer should be reluctant to pay when a viable alternative is available.

To the Editor:
I was interested to read in the Novi News that, "After several years of uncertainty and numerous minor squabbles over the use of the Novi Community Building," a Community Building Board had been appointed. It is my understanding that the new rules, as laid down by the board, are the same as those previously in effect except for the increase in rates and the smoking ban. The previous board consisting of Mrs. Mae Atkinson, Mr. Kenneth Bassett, and Mrs. Mary Louise Taylor very faithfully discharged their responsibilities and duties. I remember many occasions when someone from my family would run across the road (no matter what the time or weather) to shut off a light, or lock a door, or close a window at the Community Building. I was very disappointed when I learned that the board had been appointed. It is my understanding that

College Slates Classes on Taxes

Schoolcraft College has scheduled two classes to help small businessmen with their Federal income tax. Both Saturday morning and weekday evening sections will be offered.

The Saturday class begins October 21 and runs through November 11. Entitled "income tax seminar," it will meet from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. It will provide a concentrated review and update of income tax information, and should be a profitable experience for those wishing to cover a great deal of ground in a short time.

The same basic tax information will be covered in the evening section "income tax short course," which will be held Tuesday and Thursdays from October 24 through December 5. Meeting from 7 to 9 p.m., this class will enable a more in-depth study as well as time for individual problem solving.

Both classes will be taught by Gerard H. Brisse, B.B.A., a Livonia tax accountant. They are being sponsored by Schoolcraft's Community Services.

Tuition is $11 for residents and $22 for non-residents for the Saturday class, and $16.50 and $32 for the weekday evening section.

Authority Action Draws Criticism

To the Editor:

Proposed articles of incorporation for the Northville Township Building Authority have been approved by the township board. It is interesting to observe how the board avoided discussion related to financing the proposed structure. The politicians try to leave the impression that they have yet to decide if they plan to construct a fire station or a complete municipal office complex.

I favor the construction of a modest fire station which could be built at a reasonable price. One of the top priorities of township government should be that of providing fire protection for the residents. However, I am opposed to the construction of a complete municipal office complex, because this might result in an increase in taxes. Taxpayers deserve to know the exact amount that the township officials plan to spend on this project.

The meeting begins at noon Wednesday with a potluck dinner at the Plymouth Presbyterian Church.

No doubt in the amount of business conducted by the City Council and the Board of Education there are bound to be oversights and mistakes, but I wonder if everyone who voluntarily gives so much time and effort to their community is treated so discourteously and so ungratefully.

man commission charged with determining a location for and then financing and constructing a new municipal complex.

The matter arose when Mayor Joseph Crupi read a letter from Building Authority Chairman William Duesy asking that Athas, whose resignation from the city manager's post went into effect last Friday, be reappointed to the commission.

The council objected to the reappointment almost immediately.

Stressing that their objections had nothing to do with the qualification of Athas, the council questioned the legality of the appointment.

"It seems to me that the articles of incorporation for the authority call for the city manager to be one of the five members," said Councilman Denis Berry.

Crupi countered Berry's objection with a letter from former City Attorney Howard Bond, who had ruled that the appointment of Athas was not in conflict with the articles of incorporation.

It was at this point that Presnell charged that the council was being railroaded. In addition Councilman Louis Campbell said he would also like to see the opinion of city attorney David Fried.

In an attempt to resolve the matter a copy of the articles of incorporation was presented to Fried who said that he could see no provision which required the city manager to be a member and that Athas could indeed be reappointed.

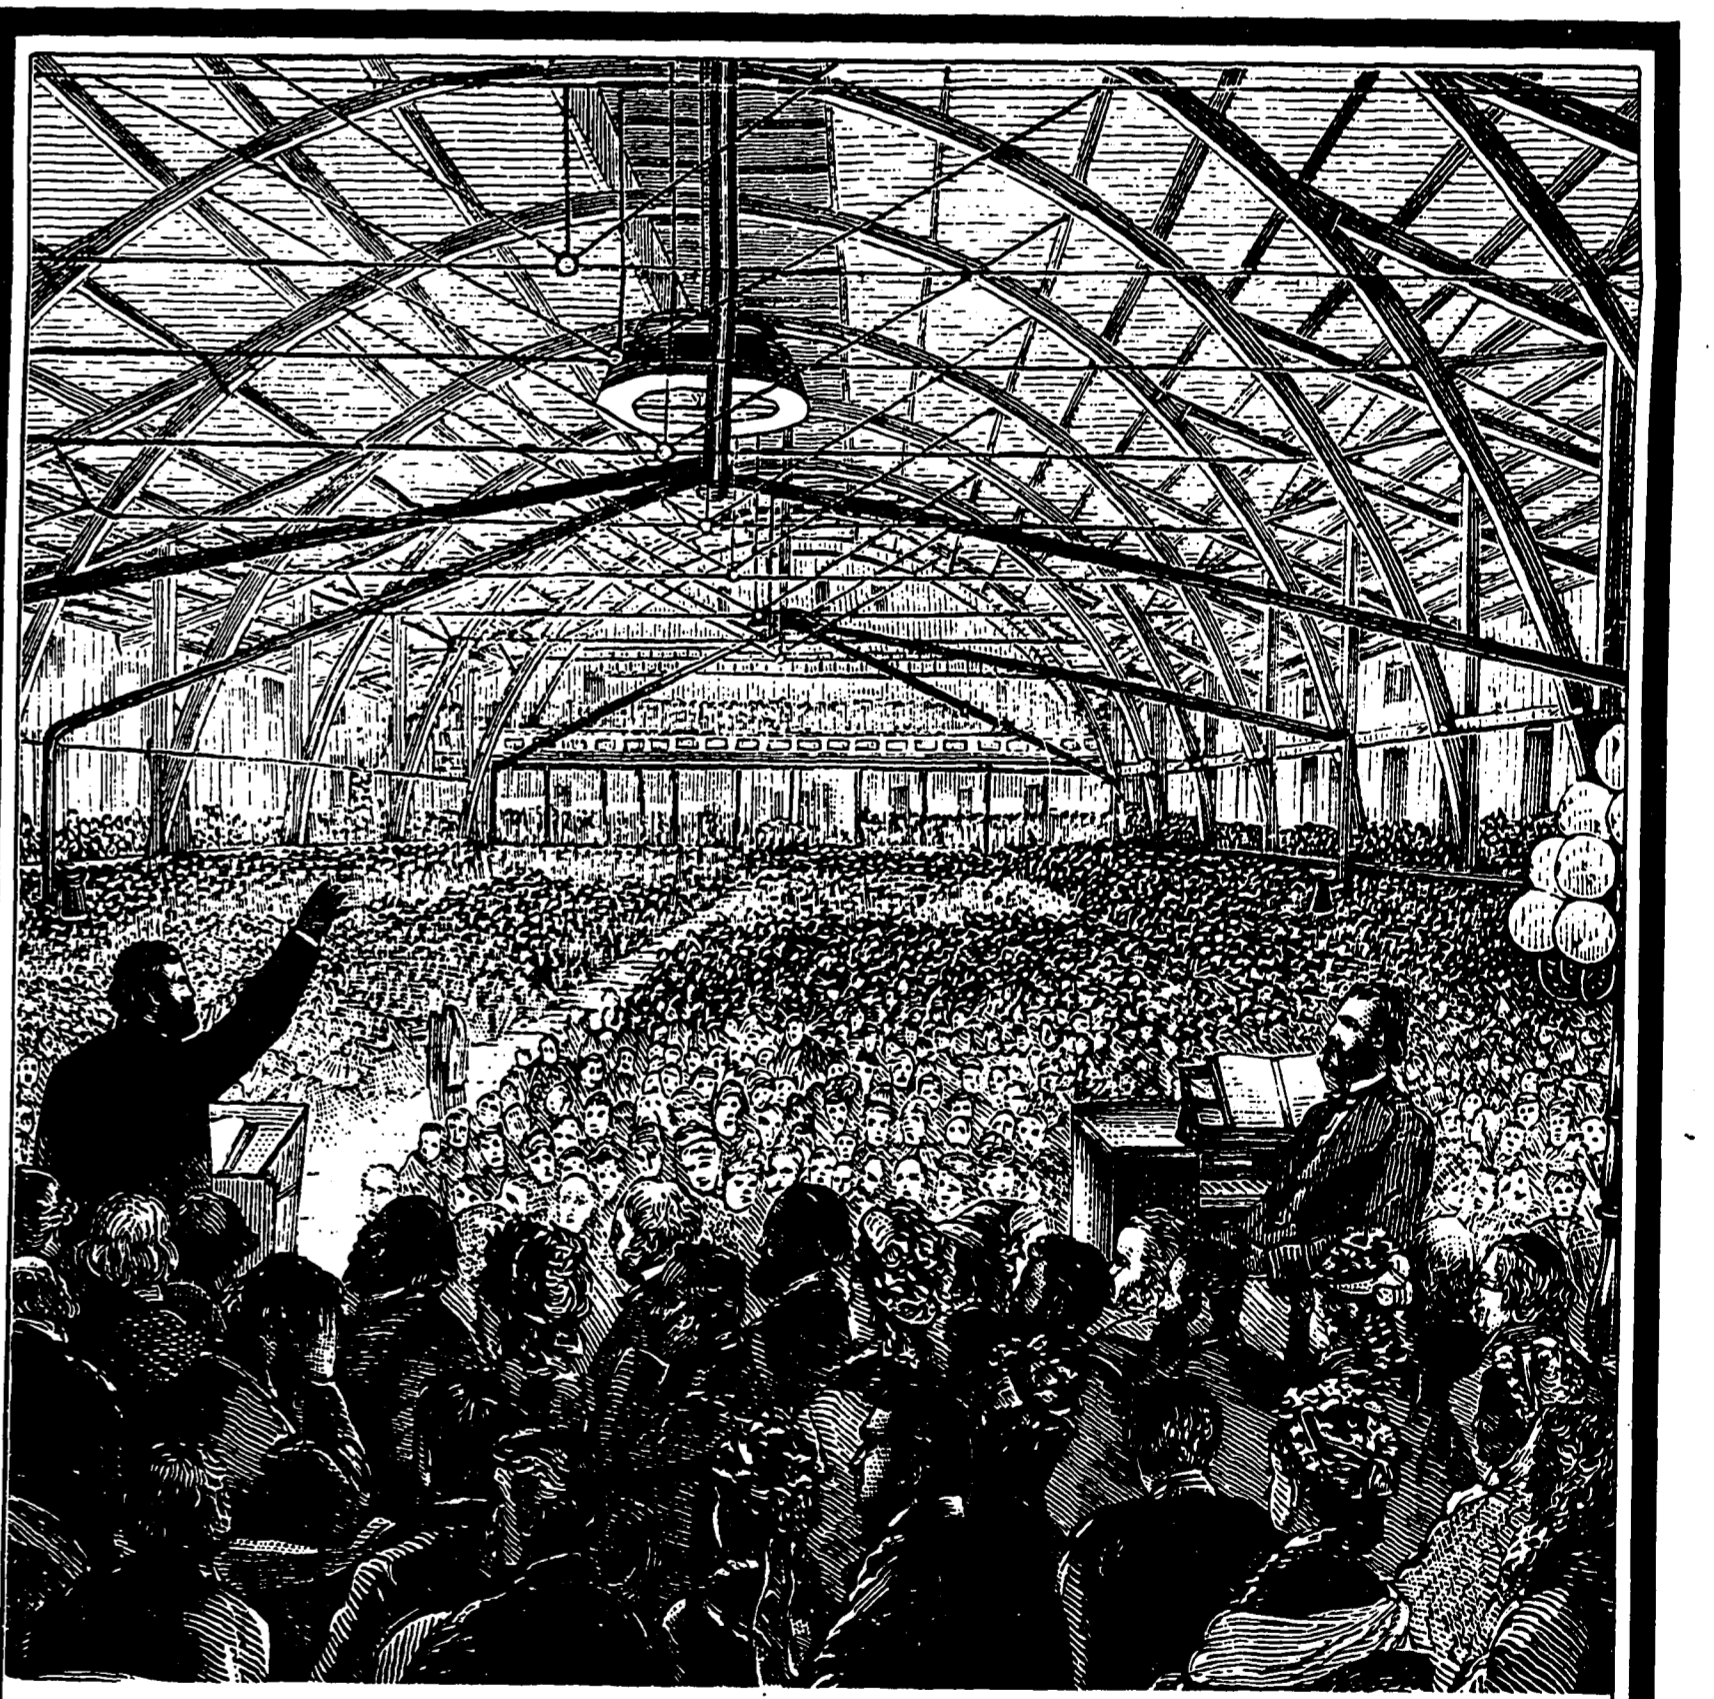

Still, the council referred the matter to Fried so he could have more time to pursue the articles of incorporation and not be forced to make a quick opinion.

Wildcat Defense Stops Chelsea Cold

It was a defensive victory and simple. Feel back the crowd-pleasing ramps and the thrilling aerial maneuvers and you'll find the core of Nov's decisive 35-0 triumph over defending champion Chelsea Friday night.

As a matter of fact an autopsy of each of the previous four games will disclose that Nov's defensive unit has been steadily grinding away at the opposition all along.

But Friday night the defense easily grabbed the limelight.

While the "Whistone" was piling up the 35 points, Nov's superlative defense smashed the defending champ's nerve center and paralyzed the opposition's game plan.

In the face of the blitz and Chelsea's bigger line simply could not cope with Nov's speedier linemen who forced Chelsea's offensive backs to hurry their moves and in the process the Bulldogs lost their poise.

By the end of the half, the Bulldogs had grabbed only 19 yards rushing and an equal number of yards through the air. At game's end, the host eleven had piled up just 59 yards rushing and 59 yards through the air.

Two of the six Chelsea punts were blocked, one of its passes intercepted.

Eight times Chelsea was thrown for losses.

The over-anxious Wildcats were penalized 130 yards—the best offense in the league was given up a single point. In the five games to date, the Wildcats have given up only 18 punts and 12 of these were racked up by the opposition's defense.

Chelsea's offense, meanwhile, has piled up 216 points an average of 43 points per game.

Eric Hanson set the stage for Nov's victory by blocking a Chelsea punt on the first series of plays in the game.

Taking over at the Chelsea 14, Nov's quarterback, Steve Lukkari, dashed for 13 yards, and then kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter, Rick Marchetti blocked another punt at the Chelsea 15 and Mike Riley covered the ball in the end zone for the touchdown. Again Lukkari kicked the extra point.

Less than two minutes later after taking possession at the mid-line, Nov moved to the 30 where, on first down and second to go, Lukkari fired a pass to End John Pantalone who went in for the six-point. Lukkari's kick was good.

Early in the third quarter, Tom Ford recovered a Chelsea fumble at the 23 yard line. Seven plays later, Lukkari again passed to Pantalone for TD covering 10 yards. Again the quarterback's kick was good.

Following a Chelsea drive late in the third stanza, Lukkari rolled to the left and rifled a shot to Pat Boyer who outran Chelsea's secondary to the goal line and the final score of the game.

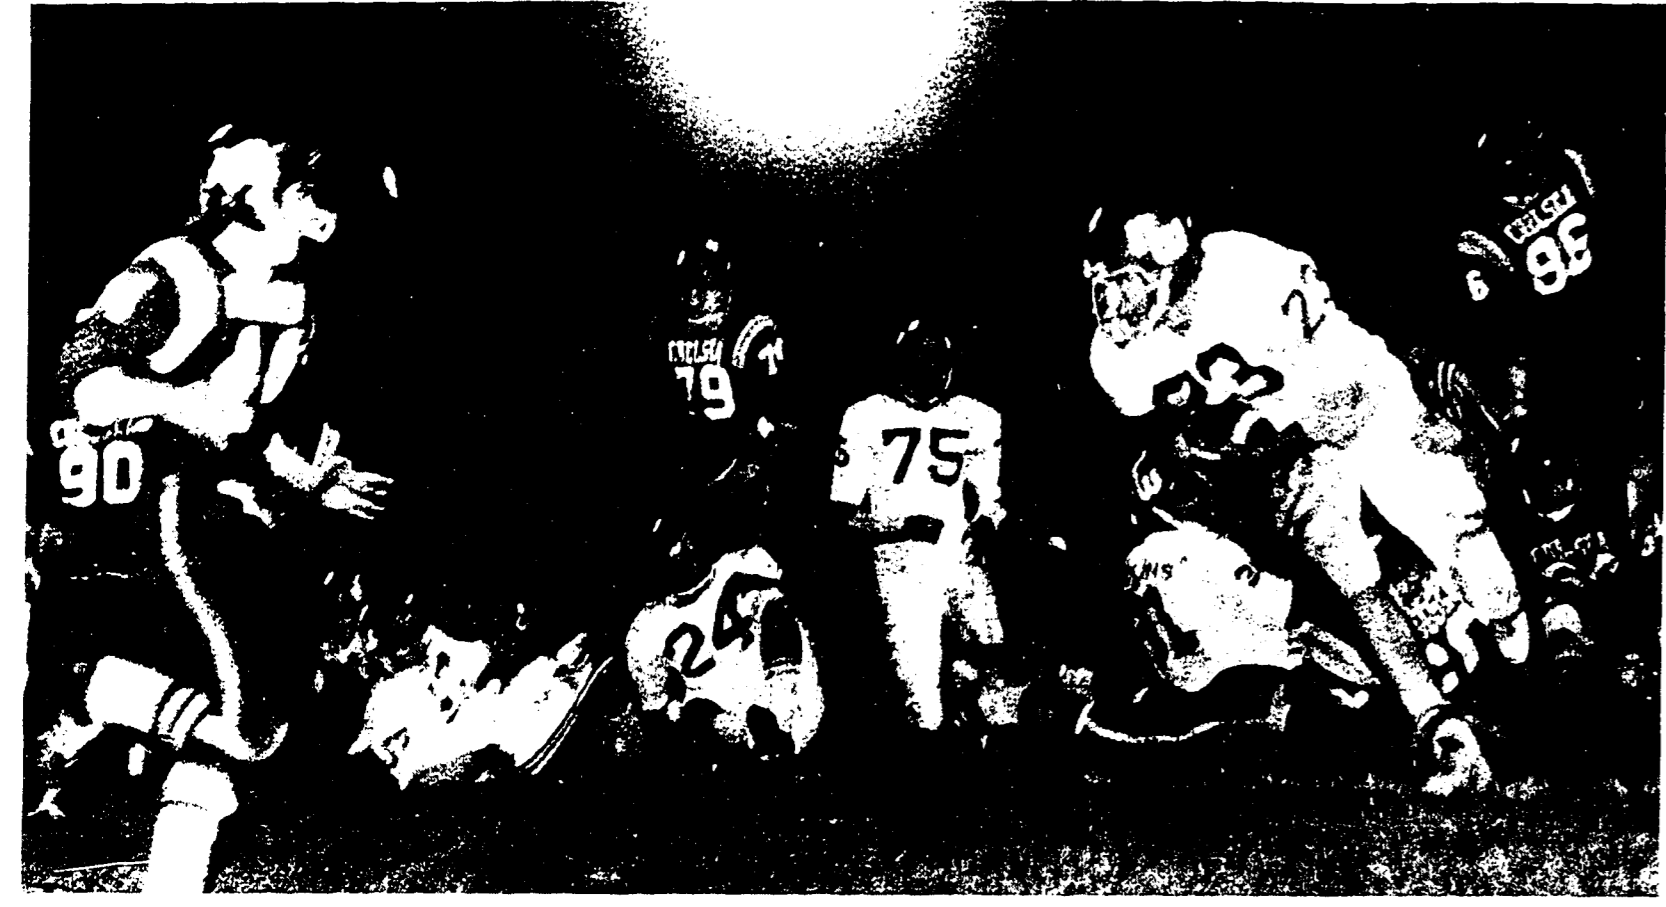

The play covered 65 yards. Lukkari made it a perfect night with his fifth straight extra point kick.

Chelsea, playing its homecoming game, mustered its greatest offensive threat early in the fourth quarter, marching from the 46 to the 38 where John Mann completed a pass to End Rick Miller, who bobbed the ball and Pantalone covered the ball in the endzone for a touchback.

TURNING THE CORNER—Pat Boyer, one of Nov's turning of outstanding halfbacks, turns the corner and heads up field after taking a screen pass from quarterback

Steve Lukkari. You'd never guess it from this picture, but Boyer managed to elude the Chelsea tacklers and sprint 65 yards for a touchdown.

REPLAY with John Osborne

Did he ever expect his Wildcats would be able to pile up enough points against perennial league champion Chelsea to enable him to play his reserves at the end of the game?

John Osborne hemmed and hawed with the question—between the truth and the unwritten code of what a coach should and shouldn't say about his opponents.

Finally, the Novi coach arrived at an answer. Honest he won out.

"I can tell you things during the week about how you're going to blow the other team right off the field," said Osborne, "and after you've said it I guess you just start to believe it."

"I'll tell you one thing, though. I didn't think it would happen the way it did. I thought we'd be able to move the ball offensively better than we did. Chelsea was able to cut off our wide staff and we scored our points on our passing and two blocked punts."

"What they were doing was taking advantage of their big 200 pounders in the middle of the line," Osborne continued. "They shored themselves in the middle and put just about everyone else wide when we passed."

Chelsea's preoccupation with shutting off Nov's running game led directly to quarterback Steve Lukkari's success through the air.

"They played a 5-3 defense," said Osborne, "and their two corner backs were coming up very fast. That put an awful lot of men near the line of scrimmage and gave our receivers a lot of area to work in. They simply took advantage of the opportunity Chelsea presented them with."

The true story of the game was, however, the Novi defense, and Osborne couldn't say enough about his defensive crew.

"I was truly amazed," he said. "Everything came off just right. Our execution was nearly perfect. It was without a doubt the finest defensive effort any team I've ever coached has made."

"For the first time our linemen were slugging like they should. One of our big advantages was that we are a quick backer than the big Chelsea line. Some of our guys were

To Win Cross-Country Title

Mustangs Must Upset Churchill

Ralph Redmond, Northville cross-country coach, set two goals for his team at the start of the season - to win the Western Six Conference Championship and to qualify for the state meet by finishing either first or second in the regionals.

The time of reckoning has come. Redmond's Mustangs will journey to Hickory Hills Golf Course next Tuesday to participate in the Western Six League meet, and the following Saturday is the date of the regional competition.

"We'll take them one at a time," said the Northville mentor, "sounding suspiciously like a big league baseball manager."

Frankly, Redmond and his harriers have got their work cut out for them and Redmond is the first to admit it.

"I don't think anyone would deny that Livonia Churchill is the team to beat for the conference title," he says.

"They're the defending champion and they've wiped everybody else in the league out in dual meets. If they don't win it, there will be a lot of very surprised people."

The Mustangs were handed a rather substantial 22-33 setback when they faced the Chargers runners early in the season, as the defending league champs took first, second, fourth, sixth, and seventh against them.

"We'll need a top performance from everyone on our team to even come close to them," said Redmond.

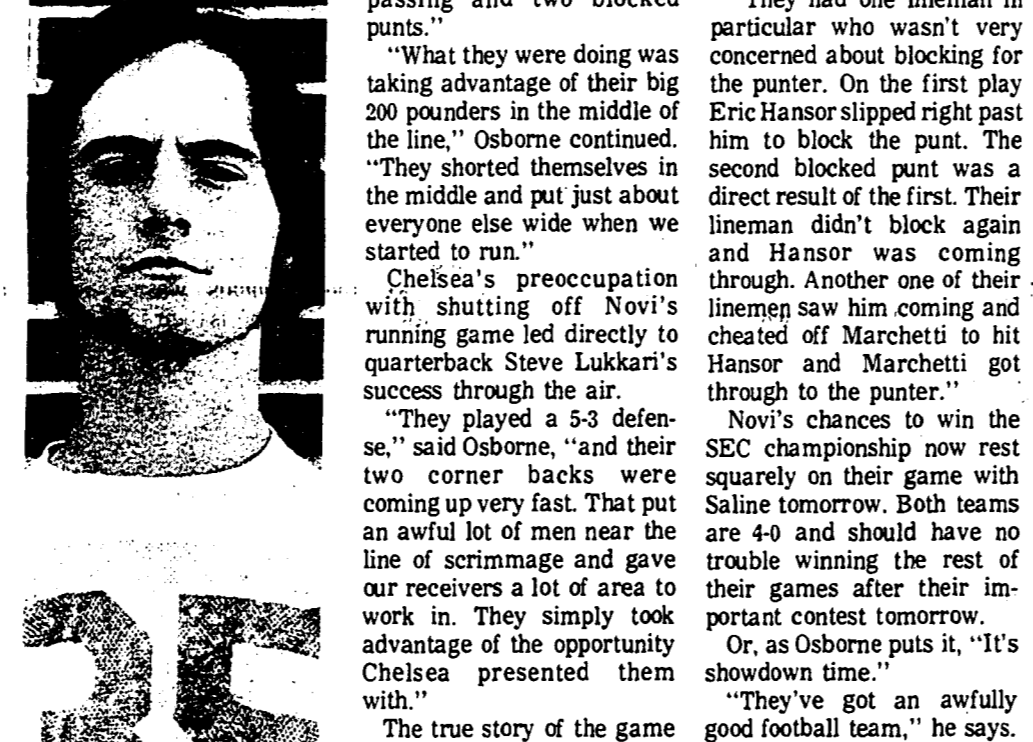

"We thought Guy Cole might be able to beat their Mark Kappler for the conference individual title, but when they met before Kappler beat him by a considerable margin."

Regardless of how the Mustangs perform in the conference meet, the 1972 season has been a relatively good one as Redmond's young charges have run up a 9-2 record in dual meets.

Two of those victories came last week.

Thursday Northville had a return meet against a

One more to go. One more victory and the Northville High School golf team will have completed perhaps the finest season of any golf team in the state of Michigan.

Unfortunately, that one more victory is the most important of all - the state championship.

"Somewhat the season won't be quite the same without it," said Al Jones, the Northville coach. "I don't want to take anything away from the season we've had, because I'm extremely proud of what this team has done. But still to really round out the season we're going to have to win the state championship."

Just what have the Mustang linksters accomplished this year?

You name it. They've won it. They've won every one of their dual meets and every major tournament in the state against Class A and B competition alike.

Last week they put two "important" victories into the belt, winning the Class "B" regionals at Brighton's Burroughs Country Club by 17 strokes to qualify for the state tournament and then winning the Western Six Conference championship.

But Jones is worried, nevertheless. The cause of his concern is the fact that the Mustangs were, quite frankly, downright lucky to win the league meet, edging out Waterford Mott by a single stroke.

"I'm afraid we might have peaked too early," said Jones. "We've been winning lately, but we've been winning by the skin of our teeth. We're flat. That's all there is to it. There's just no way we can win the state title if we play like we did in the league meet."

The Mustangs' victory in the regionals was a substantial one as their four-man, 72-hole total of 321 was 17 strokes better than the 338 recorded by second place Okemos. Jackson Lumen Christie also qualified for the state meet by finishing third at 339.

As has happened time and time again this year, it was John Hohenoc who led the Northville foursome and the rest of the field - byshooting a 75. Bob Simmons tied for the second medalist spot with a 79, while Brian Mills and John Marshall rounded out the Northville foursome with an 81 and an 86 respectively.

Northville's victory in the league meet was a far different story. At the turn the Mustang were in third place, five strokes behind Waterford Mott and four strokes behind Farmington Harrison.

The individual responsible for winning the league title was Brian Mills, who won medalist honors in the meet with a fine round of 76 over the Meadowbrook course.

Harrison's Jerry Costa was second with an 80.

But after Mills' rest of the Northville scores fell considerably. Hohenoc soared to an 85, Marshall had an 86, Brian Mills had an 87, and Jim Dales rounded out Northville's five man team with an 89.

Girl Swimmers

Swamp Plymouth

Northville's Girls' swimming team stroked to first place finishes in 12 of 13 events last Wednesday to swamp Plymouth 35-40 in dual meet competition.

Less fortunate, however, was the Northville girls' tennis team which was shut out by Plymouth 5-0.

Leading the Northville tankers in their victory were Cindy Bretz, Lisa Vanlengen, and Sandy Bacansny, each of whom won two individual events and swam a leg on a victorious relay team.

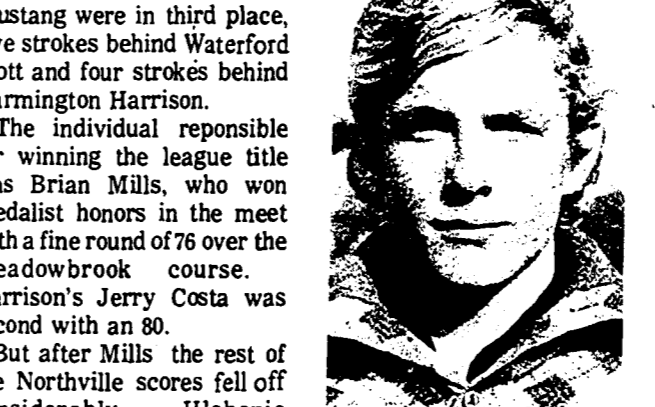

Cindy's victories came in the 200 yard freestyle and 50 yard butterfly. Lisa won the 200 yard individual medley and the 100 yard freestyle; and Sandy grabbed firsts in the 50 and 100 yard breast strokes.

Other Northville first place finishes were turned in by Bonnie Angell in the 50 yard back stroke, Suzie Evans in the 50 yard freestyle; Pat Sonk in the 100 yard breast stroke; and Sheila Corcoran in diving.

Also posting winning performances were the 200 yard medley relay team of Lisa Vanlengen, Pat Sonk, Cindy Bretz, and Suzie Evans and the 400 yard freestyle relay team of Suzie Evans, Teri Albus, Kathy Ryan, and Sandy Bacansny.

Five members of the Northville team have qualified for the state swim meet. They are Donna Guard, who has qualified in the 200 yard individual medley, 50 yard butterfly, 100 yard back stroke, and 200 yard medley relay; Cindy Bretz in the 400 yard freestyle; Lisa Vanlengen in the 50 yard backstroke, 50 yard freestyle,

Western Six Standings

Waterford Mott	2	0
Livonia Churchill	1	0
Farmington Harrison	1	0
Walled Lake Western	1	2
Northville	1	2

Northville and Churchill each won their fifth consecutive games of the season and their second conference game to set the stage for a showdown meeting tomorrow at Mott which will probably decide the conference championship.

Let's take a look at the stats of the Mustangs. They scored 300 points in 12 games, averaging 25 points per game. They had 12 touchdowns and 12 interceptions. They had 12 completions and 12 passes attempted. They had 12 yards rushing and 12 yards passing. They had 12 punts and 12 punts attempted. They had 12 fumbles and 12 fumbles lost. They had 12 penalties and 12 yards penalized. They had 12 points scored and 12 points allowed.

Churchill's Defense Topples Mustangs

Livonia Churchill is a team that will live and die on the strength of its defense, their head coach, Ken Kaestner, had predicted at the start of the season.

Ample evidence that Kaestner knew exactly what he was talking about was provided Friday afternoon as the Charger defense flexed its muscles and paved the way for a 20-0 victory over the Northville Mustangs.

Not only did the Churchill defenders hold the Mustangs scoreless, they also played an important role in the scoring of 13 of their team's 20 points.

Two key turnovers did the trick.

The first came midway in the first quarter when defensive end Jim Foster forced a fumble by Northville's attempt to throw a screen pass and hauled in Bill McDonald's job over the heads of the rest of the changing Charger line and returned it 27 yards to the Northville eight yard line.

The second turnover came at the end of Northville's first set of downs in the second half.

Paul Black broke through the Northville line to block Ted Fuertges' punt and Foster grabbed up the bouncing ball and hauled it all the way down to the one yard line before he was finally stopped.

Shades of the Minnesota Vikings.

Losing to Churchill is, of course, no disgrace. Led by their defensive unit, the Mustangs have won all five of their games this season and have yielded just nine points to their opponents. What's more, if they can get past Waterford Mott tomorrow, they will win the Western Six Conference championship.

The final score of 20-0, hardly gives an accurate picture of how closely the two teams played.

Northville entered the game without the services of Jim Porterfield, probably their finest lineman, who is resting a twisted ankle. And when senior co-captain Bill Norton was tossed out of the game on the first play for showing a defensive unit.

Nevertheless, the Northville defense played one of its finest games.

A quick look at the final statistics reveal just how close the game actually was. The Mustangs gained 50 more yards rushing (161-132) and completed four more passes (nine of 15) than Churchill (12-12). Churchill picked up two more first downs (nine to seven), and had nine more yards passing (77-68), and when the fact that McDonald was sacked seven times for 45 yards is figured into the statistics, had no more than a 25 yard edge in total yardage (229-181).

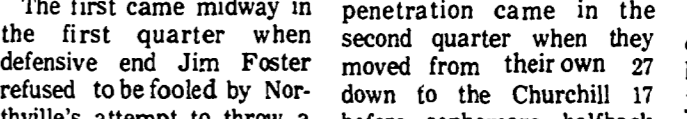

Hardly a 20-0 margin.

What the statistics didn't show was those turnovers.

Quarterback Bob Blaes put the Chargers on the scoreboard at the 4:14 mark of the first quarter after Foster's pass interception had put the ball on the Mustang's eight yard line. Phil Damaska, Churchill's top halfback, was sacked for a one yard loss on the first play. But Blaes sprinted the nine yards into the end zone on the second play, after he had faked back to pass and been unable to find any receivers open.

It was Damaska who took Northville's last chance to win their first Western Six Conference game this season will come next week when they host Farmington Harrison. The Hawks are 1-1 in league play, having lost to Churchill 23-0 and beaten Walled Lake Western 21-0. Game time is 8 p.m.

SPORTS ROUND

Do you know that the first night baseball game was held in September of 1880? Two amateur teams fought it out at Nantasket Beach, Massachusetts. Art lights strung across the field helped them get through nine full innings. The next recorded night game was on June 2, 1883 when the Quincys of Illinois beat home players of Fort Wayne, Indiana. Night games remained simply as exhibition feasts, however, until far into the twentieth century.

City Orders Sidewalks on 8 Mile

With but one more protest raised, a public improvement project and a rezoning request were approved by the Northville City Council following public hearings Monday.

Church and the Northville Green Apartments at Eight Mile and Tait roads.

Sheldon Gordon, wrote a letter of protest to the city, arguing that the sidewalk is unnecessary, difficult to install, and unfair to himself since other neighboring properties do not have sidewalks.

traffic has grown considerably in the past three years, warrant the sidewalk, adjacent properties have or are about to install sidewalks, and the contours of the land do not present any major construction problems.

A request by the Northville Jaycees for a temporary liquor license in connection with its November 17 Millionaires Party was endorsed by the council. Final decision is to be made by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission.

City Manager Frank Ottendorff and City Attorney Philip Ogilvie were directed to begin preparation of a sidewalk ordinance or code.

City Buys Property

Continued from Record. 1 property. Councilman Paul Vernon noted the Northville Housing Commission's recommendation that the property be purchased as a step to provide minimal public housing for senior citizens.

jections raised two weeks ago by three members of the audience, including a nearby resident—Leon Bonner, sought unsuccessfully to set aside the matter until a special public informational meeting was held. Allen, who was not present two weeks ago, reminded Folino Monday that all council meetings are public.

Bonner, who was present again Monday, restated his opposition to "public housing," and charged the council by purchasing the property prior to securing the necessary zoning would be making a "mockery" of the rezoning process.

lowest qualified bid—$18,510 by Terra Construction Company, Inc.—for installation of water and sanitary sewer lines in the area north of Silver Springs Drive (Mergraf Oil).

The oil company is to pay the entire cost of installation, recouping part of its investment as other properties are tied into the lines.

Specifically, he contended the council, once it owned the property, would by necessity force a rezoning despite objections of the public.

Responding to Folino's comment, Mayor Allen pointed out that he, along with other councilmen, had authorized an appraisal of the property. If the council had no intentions of purchasing it, why then the appraisal, he asked.

Admitting that he had made Langfield offer to purchase, Bonner dodged the repeated question of Mayor Allen: "Would you favor multiple zoning if it wasn't for senior citizen housing?"

Specifically, he contended the council, once it owned the property, would by necessity force a rezoning despite objections of the public.

Subsequently, it was moved to locations on the north side of Main Street, then to the south side of Main just east of Center before moving to its present location a decade ago, according to Frazer Staman, a former manager and now an Oakland County Road commissioner.

Staman was manager of the store for eight years, from 1928 to 1936. "One of the earliest managers," Staman recalled, "was E. M. Bogart (now a resident of Plymouth), who later started EMB Market in Northville."

The unfinished furniture line represents the largest outlet of its kind under one roof in the United States, Stone said.

Kelley Says

'Busing's A Cop Out'

Vigorously denying charges that he has waffled on the issue of massive school busing, Frank Kelley, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, lambasted his opponent as a champion of big business and the ultra-rich.

He placed the principle blame for what he termed "this distortion" at the doorstep of his opponent, incumbent Robert Griffin, and the Detroit News.

"What the Detroit News is doing is a typically, intellectually dishonest way editorially—they're treating me fairly on the news pages, don't get me wrong on that—but editorially they're playing intellectually dishonest games to support their own political candidate."

He charged that Griffin, however, has changed his stand. "In 1970 he was voting with pro-busing forces from Michigan in the United States Senate," Kelley declared.

"In April of 1971, almost a year after I was in court opposing this case (The NAACP case), in the United States Senate Robert Griffin stood up and voted against the Irvin amendment, which would have barred the use of school funds for cross district busing."

"The thrust of Kelley's campaign has been, and it is in his interview with Slinger Publications, that Griffin is inextricably tied to big business and the ultra rich."

As an example, he said, as Michigan attorney general, last year sued the three biggest retailers in the country, including Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck for what Kelley charged was "unconscionable interest rates on unpaid charge accounts per month."

The companies, he said, settled and gave up the practice, saving consumers of Michigan collectively millions of dollars.

Griffin: 'Settlement's Near'

Griffin told this newspaper in an interview this past week. "And I think if most citizens of Michigan were to search their conscience they might have to make the same confession. I did see the problem as a different problem when it was solek legislative battle against busing to achieve racial balance."

"I don't think there is any question that my outlook and attitude has changed somewhat since the (busing) problem came to Michigan," and maintained as a matter of law by the legislatures of the states and local school bodies. We haven't had that in Michigan and don't have it."

"Noting that his opposition to busing occurred prior to Federal Judge Stephen Rob's Detroit findings whereas Kelley supported busing following that decision, Griffin said his strong opposition was triggered by the "shocking" decision of the Federal court in the Pontiac busing case.

"I was shocked because my own brothers and sisters attended the Pontiac high school 20 years ago and they (schools) were integrated then and they've been integrated ever since. And when the Federal court said they're going to be busing in Pontiac because the schools are not integrated...at that point it became very clear to me that the courts were going far beyond any reason or logic."

Senator Griffin charged that Kelley, hiding behind legal framework of his office, has declined to state publicly how he would vote on legislation against busing.

"But the sure and most decisive difference (between Kelley's going to be busing in Pontiac because the schools are not integrated...at that point it became very clear to me that the courts were going far beyond any reason or logic.)"

Having just seen his effort to end a filibuster against anti-busing legislation fail, Griffin said it is becoming more and more apparent that a Constitutional Amendment is the only "sure answer."

There is no certainty, he added, that the nine-member Supreme Court, which includes only four Nixon appointees, will hand down an anti-busing decision.

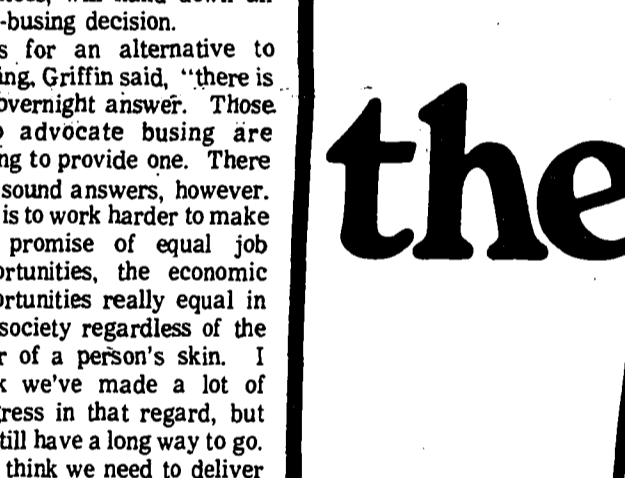

Griffin predicted his campaign cost will total about $1.2 million.

"An awful lot of money will be spent on his (Kelley's) behalf but will never be reported by Mr. Kelley's committees," Griffin suggested.

"I'm referring specifically to money that the UAW will pay hundreds and hundreds of workers who are already engaged in registration drives and who will be out on election day and who will be distributing literature and who have been and will be spending vast amounts of money that benefit Mr. Kelley but will not be reported by Mr. Kelley's committees."

Abortion

James H. Brickley, Lieutenant Governor of the State of Michigan, will discuss the issue of Abortion Law Reform at Farmington's Harrison High School, 2995 West Twelve Mile Road, on Thursday, October 19 at 8 p.m.

Brickley will discuss governmental responsibility in the area of Abortion Reform. As presiding officer of the Michigan Senate, he has witnessed the struggle concerning Abortion Legislation.

The Lieutenant Governor's appearance has been arranged as a part of the effort to educate the voting public on this vital issue. It is being sponsored by Citizens Concerned About Abortion Reform. There is no admission charge.

Dumas

Mary E. Dumas, Republican candidate for the 19th District office of Wayne County Commissioner, emphasized the need for restructuring of county government which would include provision for an elected or appointed full-time executive.

Speaking at a recent Janice candidate meeting, she outlined support for Senator Carl Pursell's County Reorganization Bill.

In addition, Mrs. Dumas said she would recommend the abolition or consolidation of some existing county boards and commissions, the change of some county offices from elective to appointive positions and, specifically, bringing the Road Commission more directly under the jurisdiction of the elected Board of Commissioners. Such reforms would make county government more responsive to the local community, more accountable to the voters.

Griffin

U. S. Senator Robert P. Griffin (R-Mich) urged the Senate Democratic leadership to call up a pending pension reform bill so that the Senate will have the opportunity to pass meaningful pension reform legislation in this session.

In a speech on the Senate Floor, the assistant minority leader told his colleagues that millions of American workers are basing a substantial portion of their future on the pensions they have been promised. It is the responsibility of this body to see that those promises are kept.

This is secret handling of special interests who expect favors in the future, Kuhn said. Reports were received from one celebrity right event interest of about $9.75, or almost $10,000. His expenditures from the primary running $2,685 was 13 times more than spent by Kuhn, the Republican said.

Kuhn

In the general election Kuhn predicts his total campaign budget will run less than $1,500. Kuhn further indicated he is proud to say that he has both directly and indirectly turned down campaign contributions from contractors whom he might be doing business with in the future, if elected.

"It is extremely important that whoever is elected to this office be totally free of special interest obligation whatsoever," Kuhn said. "I am free of obligation before the primary election and will remain free of obligation after the election. The only obligations Kuhn will have is to serve the best public interest of all citizens of Oakland County."

Kuhn also requested Richards to tell the public "Why he is spending over $30,000 to get elected to a post he is anxious to abolish? This kind of politics I cannot understand."

Patterson

More than 500 volunteers have signed up to work throughout the county in support of R.L. Polk & Company recently started delivery of its updated 1972 Plymouth-Northville city directory.

The directory contains four major departments along with an introduction and statistical and general review of the communities.

First, the classified section contains a complete list of the names and addresses of business and professional concerns, in both Plymouth and Northville, arranged in alphabetical order. The residents on every street are listed along with the telephone number at each address.

Jolly

It is a sad commentary on today's political life," he declared. "That a candidate is usually elected on what he promises rather than on his ability."

More than 500 working right now and I'm confident we'll have well over 1,000 workers before Fri. Oct. 20. This total combined with those workers signed up by the Democrats and Independents should give us a field force of 1,500 to 2,000 before election day."

A resident of Novi, Jolly discussed, too, a volunteer probation system which he would institute under the auspices of district judges and supervised of trained probation officers.

Truth Squad

Frank Kelley, Democratic candidate for the United States Senate, came under fire again this past week as William McLaughlin, Northville, member of the GOP "Truth Squad," challenged Kelley's statements.

Concerning Kelley's announcement implying that Senator Robert Griffin was guilty of wrongdoing on the subject of campaign financing, McLaughlin said "franking McLaughlin is the only one of the two that violated federal law by filing the Campaign Finance and Expenditure Report of his campaign 49 days late."

And although Kelley's explanation was that late report was a technicality, the state's highest law enforcement officer nevertheless "violated federal law," declared McLaughlin. "He continues to confuse you and the public. Let the record show that Kelley did in fact violate Federal Law."

Voters to Set National Tone

LANSING—Taxes and abortions are two of the most controversial subjects state governments in most parts of the country have dealt with in recent years. What to do about spiraling property taxes have vexed many people; and whether to permit abortions has been argued heatedly by even more.

Michigan voters have a unique opportunity Nov. 7 to help set the national tone for the discussion of both in coming years. The voters will decide on proposals which deal with both questions.

The manner in which the proposals were placed before voters says something about how the legislature is handling modern problems. Both had to be petitioned onto the ballot after political wrangling made legislative action impossible.

MORE EMOTIONAL of the two, by far, is the abortion proposal. It is being bitterly opposed by several groups spearheaded by the Roman Catholic Church, which opposes all abortion as a matter of religious principle.

The ballot proposal would allow any woman to have an abortion if she wanted it during the first 20 weeks of pregnancy.

Backers say that whether one favors the idea of abortion primarily, it is immoral for the state to enforce the viewpoint of one group—the anti-abortion faction—on the whole state. They point out the fact that thousands of illegal abortions are performed in Michigan every year, sometimes in wretched conditions, and that many women die or are permanently injured because they have been forced to see an illegal abortionist.

The ballot proposal, they say, merely makes available to the poorer segment of the population a medical treatment the more wealthy can go elsewhere for already.

OPPOSITIONS claim abortion is murder and that the removal of a fetus is the killing of a human being. They say approval of the proposal would be the legalizing of murder.

Since present abortion laws have been called unconstitutional by Wayne County Circuit Judge Charles Kaufman, the legality issue may have already been established. But voter reaction at the next election will express the feeling of those who go to the ballot box.

PROPERTY tax changes were petitioned onto the ballot by Gov. William G. Milliken and the Michigan Education Association. It would remove the use of local property taxes for the financing of school costs.

The governor proposed that the drop in property tax money be made up from an increase in the state income tax and levying of a value added tax on businesses. But that is something the legislature will decide if the proposal passes.

ONE SURE THING is that people around the country will be watching Michigan on both issues. In both cases the vote will be the largest test yet of public sentiment on the issue involved.

And Michigan, with its cross section of interests which closely mirrors the nation, is seen as a reliable barometer of feeling on both subjects.

With controversy now brewing about Michigan's gasoline tax and whether a tiny fraction of it should be used to help fund mass transit programs, it seems a good time to compare the state's present gas tax with other states.

Gov. William G. Milliken proposed that the tax be raised from 7 cents to 9 cents. Of the increased money, he would allocate 1.5 cents to accelerated highway construction plans and one half cent to mass transit. The current 7 cents would still go entirely for highways.

If Michigan raises its tax to 9 cents, it still won't have the highest gas tax in the country. That distinction belongs to Connecticut, which charges 10 cents for every gallon of gasoline sold in that state.

Eight states already charge 9 cents per gallon gas tax. They represent a broad section of the country, too, including New Hampshire, Washington, Maryland and Kentucky.

MISSISSIPPI raised its rate to 9 cents effective next July 1. Kentucky, Maryland and Virginia raised theirs to 9 cents this year.

Twelve states have their tax at 8 cents right now and three other pay 8.5 cents.

Hawaii is all alone at the lowest tax rate of 5 cents and is only one of seven states which haven't raised its gas tax since 1961.

It may not help your pocketbook much to know it, but Michigan certainly isn't alone in its need for more tax money.

Nixon's "remarkable job" in gradually withdrawing American forces from Vietnam without jeopardizing the well-being of South Vietnam.

"There is every indication now that we are very, very close to a settlement that will be much better than the alternative that Senator McGovern proposes. He proposes that 90 days after inauguration he will get the rest of our troops out of Vietnam. Well, that's fine except that doesn't end the war in Southeast Asia. The war will still go on. That doesn't get our prisoners of war back. All he says is that he will fight it for us."

"I think we are very close to a better solution, a solution that will really stop all killing in Southeast Asia, and we'll get our prisoners back."

"I can't say that's going to happen before election day. But serious negotiations are going on. It's not a charade. There has been movement and there obviously is very serious negotiations going on."

Aside from the differences between himself and Kelley, Griffin suggested that Kelley supports McGovern "96-percent of the time" and such support means he advocates disastrous cuts in military spending even while supporting McGovern's domestic proposals that will cost additional expenditures of $10 billion in the first year if Congress approves them."

Such expenditures, he continued, "inevitably will mean a tax increase for the American people," he said. "On the other hand I support President Nixon who is trying to hold the line on spending, who is against higher taxes, who is trying to get people who can work off the welfare rolls."

"I think President Nixon is going to be the president for four more years. A lot of those people who even want to vote for him think he is going to be president."

"Now I have 16 years of experience in Congress. I have six years of seniority in the Senate, and seniority is still a very, very valuable commodity. And furthermore I represent the state of Michigan, by the honor of my colleagues, from a position of leadership. I'm the second-ranking leader of my party in the Senate. This means my phone calls are answered at the White House, that I have constant contact with the President and members of his cabinet."

"I think I can do more for Michigan than a freshman Democratic senator who would start over again, particularly in a Nixon administration."

'It Must be True Love'

from the Pastor's Study

Rev. Richard J. Henderson
Assistant Pastor
First Presbyterian Church
Northville

Once upon a time there was a young man who had recently "gotten the faith" as they say. Filled with the enthusiasm of the change that had taken place in his life, he was anxious to tell others the good news that he had found. He decided to give every hour of his spare time to telling other people about the Christian faith. He wanted to reach out to the people who were not in churches, so he went out to meet people where they were. He began his new venture by walking through the streets and talking to people as he met them.

The first person he met was a ragged old man who was leaning against a building, mumbling to himself. He wore such tattered clothes that he had to put on two layers just to see the holes of the bottom layer wouldn't coincide with the open spaces of the top layer, and he could at least be covered all over. Our young evangelist approached the shabby old man and leaned down to talk to him. "Are you a Christian, old man?" he asked.

"Hu!" replied the poorly dressed man, without enthusiasm.

"I said 'Are you a Christian,' you know, do you have faith?"

The ragged man's reply was slow but eventually he said, "Faith? Are you joking, what I need are clothes! Can't you see how cold I am sitting out here?"

"But you don't understand," the young man answered. "Clothes aren't nearly as important as what happens to your soul."

The old man again answered, this time with a sad frown on his face. "I sit here shivering and you want to talk to me about my soul? If you can't give me any help then go away."

The young man walked away, not very pleased that his first attempt to help hadn't been appreciated. As he walked through the lonely streets feeling dejected, he saw a young woman rummaging through some garbage cans looking for scraps of food that had been thrown out. It was behind a restaurant and the young woman obviously was extremely hungry.

"Excuse me me' am. Are you a Christian?"

The woman, startled by his voice, jumped, then turned to him, looking embarrassed. "What did you say?"

"Are you a Christian?" the young man repeated. "Are you right with God? Have you cared for your soul?"

"My soul?" the woman looked perplexed. "I know that my soul is important but it's sort of hard to worry about your soul when your stomach is crying for something to eat. Could you get me some food?"

"The things of the body are not as important as the things of the Spirit," he replied. "Let me tell you about what God has done for me."

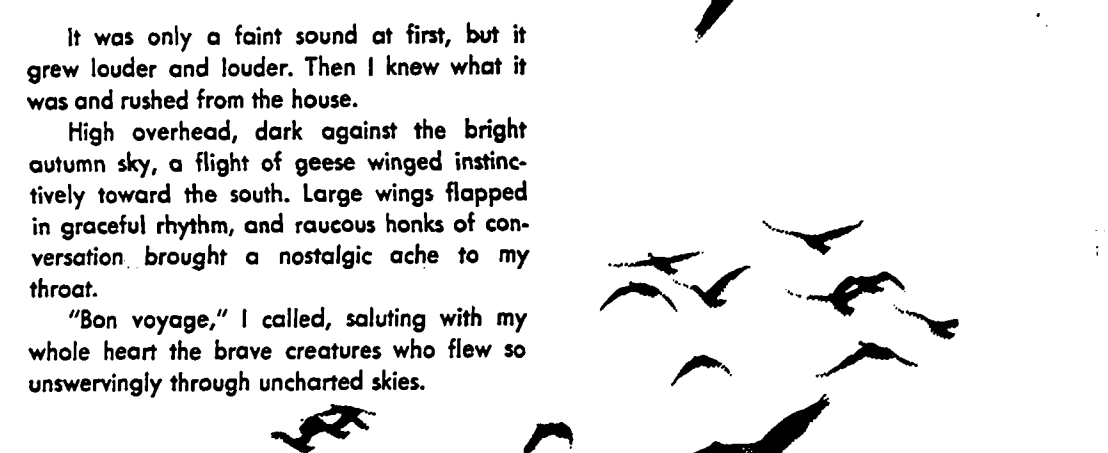

"But can't you get me something to eat?" she answered.

"Oh, yes, I can get you food," the man answered, "but first let me tell you about God and His Word. When you hear His Word you will be so concerned about your stomach because you will be filled in a new way."

The woman muttered something and put her head back down in the garbage can to dig for food once again. Since the young man was obviously being ignored, he walked on, more dismayed than ever.

The young man continued his work and met people in hospitals and prisons, in ghettos and mental hospitals, people who were poor and people who needed help in many different ways. But they all seemed to be more concerned about their physical needs than about the "good news" that he was bringing to them. The young evangelist just couldn't understand why he wasn't being heard.

"If a man is richer and sees his brother in need, yet closes his heart against his brother, how can he claim that he has love for God in his heart? My children, your love should not be just word and talk; it must be true love, which shows itself in action."

"Bon voyage," I cried, saluting with my whole heart the brave creatures who flew so unswervingly through uncharted skies.

And I wondered at us humans. How we doubt and fear and flail about, worrying about tomorrow and a dozen other things! Our course is not unknown. God promises abundant life if we follow Him.

Your church is your guidebook to God. Worship there and find the security that comes from within, the result of understanding God and one's relationship to Him.

An Ann Arbor riding school has been invited by Greenfield Village in Dearborn to stage a horse show on the outdoor historical museum grounds Sunday, October 22. Majestic Farm will sponsor the all-jumping show from 12:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and has invited five four-man riding teams from three other area farms to join the competition.

According to show manager Mike Mathews, the afternoon will feature team competition and two individual performance classes over jumps up to three feet-six inches. The teams will jump a modified Olympic course, including intricate combinations of jumps such as triple in-and-outs and jumps of up to four foot spread, with each rider making two circuits.

Individual competition will feature Choose Your Own Line and Six Bar Jumping events. In Choose Your Own Line, the rider plots his own course over 12 jumps in random positions riding against the clock. The six Bar Jumping course consists of six fences in a straight line 24 feet apart. A continuous jump-off elimination with fences raised after each round decides winners.

Judge for the show to be held under international rules will be Mrs. William Lewis of Ann Arbor. Robert Miller, Greenfield Village official, reports that this is the first time an all-jumping show has been held at Greenfield Village and it will be the highlight of the Fall Harvest Festival Weekend.

Schools competing in the show in addition to Majestic Farm are Stoney Ridge Farm of Chelsea, Whitehall Farms of Birmingham and Harvest Hill Farm of Walled Lake. Other features of the Harvest Festival October 21 and 22 will be a pony-pulling contest on Saturday, as well as performances by barbershop quartets, German bands, and Punch and Judy shows. Miniature steam trains, old pop-corn machines, Historic fire engines and antique threshing machines will be operating.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kline and daughter Karen, of Brighton, owners of the two-year-old Morgan mare, "Evelyn's Lady Maureen", came home with Grand Champion mare International All-Morgan Horse Show held in Syracuse, New York, on October 5, 6, 7 & 8. Sally Saddle

Greeting visitors to the Novi Jaycees' Haunted House is this frightening-looking 35 foot monster. The giant ghoul is only the first of the horrors which will confront visitors to the Haunted House, however. Inside guests will encounter the Doomed Tombs, Witch's Den, Headless-hanged Man, and the Monster-filled Maze. The House is located on Novi Road between Nine and Ten Mile Roads and will be open every night from now until Halloween. If you're uncertain as to the exact location, the Monster (above) will be happy to show you the way.

OK New School Study

Committee Formation Seen Soon

In the face of increasing enrollment the Novi Board of Education directed Superintendent Gerald Kratz Tuesday to prepare for the formation of a new building concepts committee. Recommendations from Kratz are expected to be presented to the board within four weeks. Once formed, the committee—which probably will include both professionals and citizens—is expected to spend the winter months deciding what new school building or buildings are needed next, gathering data and developing concepts for incorporation into these facilities, Dr. Kratz said. Development of building specifications probably will begin in the spring, it was disclosed. Dr. Kratz said he probably would consult the Bureau of School Services prior to making his recommendation next month, and he voiced hope that a representative of the Bureau would be available to make a presentation to the board at that time. Pressed by Trustee Robert Wilkins for his observations about the district's future needs, the superintendent said it appeared to him that a new comprehensive high school may have top priority. And if this proves correct, following study, officials will have to consider future use of the present high school, he added. Present Novi school facilities, Dr. Kratz told board members, will accommodate up to 3,000 students (present enrollment is 2,150). However, he noted that enrollment increased by 12.2 percent this September and the previous September, and the city's continued growth has necessitated increased the necessary accounting and other clerical functions in all departments. The council was informed. "In order to maintain internal controls it appears that certain systems and procedures should be revised and if possible automated." The recommendation made to the city council Tuesday as it heard the annual auditor's report. QUEEN CANDIDATES—One of these four pretty young ladies will be crowned Novi High School's 1972 Homecoming Queen during halftime ceremonies at the Novi-Dunee game Friday. From left to right are Denise Balint, Jeanine Miller, Cathy Krug, and Mary Lou Slattery. All four girls are seniors. Other members of the Homecoming Court will be Diane Frere, junior representative; Lucine Taffraian, sophomore representative; and Janet Cook, freshman representative.

Wixom Council

Veto Building Fees

Although it was the subject of considerable discussion, proposed new building fees for the city of Wixom failed to come to a vote by the city council due to lack of support. City building official Carlton Oldford told Council of the changes he made in the schedule during a public hearing granted the matter at the regular council meeting on Tuesday night. The fee for residential building permits was raised from $10.40 to $12 a square foot. This, Oldford said, was still not as much as surrounding areas asked of builders. He said that the communities of Farmington and Novi charge $18 and Southfield's fee is $18.50 for each square foot. The charge for a minimum building permit was raised to $15 from the former $5 because, Oldford said, he has to pay a building inspector $8 an hour and the city is losing money due to the low fee presently in effect. Oldford noted changes he proposed in the reduction of residential performance bonds. Presently, it costs $100 for a Wixom resident to build a structure valued under $15 from the former $5

Council Hears Audit

The need for a comprehensive study of Novi's accounting requirements and existing accounting capabilities with a view toward adapting and modernizing the present system was foremost among the recommendations made to the city council Tuesday as it heard the annual auditor's report. "The city's continued growth has necessitated increased the necessary accounting and other clerical functions in all departments. The council was informed. "In order to maintain internal controls it appears that certain systems and procedures should be revised and if possible automated." District Judge Candidates Clash over Court Procedures

Boyle
"I feel I am handling this court in both an efficient and an effective manner."
So spoke District Court Judge Martin L. Boyle, whose 1st Division bench serves the Novi-Wixom-Lyon-South Lyon area. The incumbent judge supported his contention by adding, "We have one of the heaviest caseloads in both criminal and civil areas of any district court in the State of Michigan and we are current in our caseload. We're within 90 days to trial in our civil cases. Our traffic trials come up within two to four weeks of receipt of tickets. Our misdemeanor trials come up without any greater time lag than that and of course our felony hearings come up within the 12-day limit set by law."
Judge Boyle claims the support of 200 practicing attorneys and cites 22 years of legal background in his bid for re-election.

Jolly
Terrance K. Jolly, candidate for 32nd District Court Judge, first division, serving Novi-Wixom-Lyon-South Lyon area, entered the race opposing incumbent Judge Martin L. Boyle because: "It appears, in my conversations with local law enforcement officials, that this court is currently not being handled in either an efficient or effective manner."
Jolly, a Novi resident who claims widespread area police support, has served as an assistant United States District Attorney under James Brickley (now lieutenant governor) and Ralph Guy. His primary area of operation in the Eastern Michigan district was in narcotics abuse, rehabilitation and enforcement. The 31-year old attorney believes that narcotics is responsible for "approximately 70 percent" of all crimes in Michigan. Combating narcotics abuse is Jolly's top priority in addition to being handled in either an efficient or effective manner.
