$3.5 million. Many of its architectural details were adaptations of several Tudor and Jacobean mansions. Some of the furnishings and details were incorporated from an unfinished mansion Matilda R. Wilson and her first husband, auto pioneer John F. Dodge, were building in Grosse Pointe Farms when he died in 1930. She and Wilson married in 1925.

In 1957 the Wilsons gave their 1,600-acre farm and an initial $2 million to Michigan State University to establish a public 4-year college. Until their deaths they enjoyed watching Oakland University grow from its charter class of 470 in 1959. Current enrollment is 8,169.

Collectively, the gifts of the Wilsons and from the Matilda R. Wilson Fund constitute the largest personal and private gift (excluding tax-exempt organizations) ever given to public education.

"Meadow Brook Hall offers something to all ages, from elementary school children to senior citizens with their experiences and knowledge of the past," states Eklund.

Future of Township Hall Remains Uncertain

By PHILIP JEROME

Most Novi residents pass it several times every day. "At any rate, all that activity at Novi Road and Grand River led people back down to this end of town. There was a Novi Hotel where the Standard station is now and my wife's father, M. J. Moeren, owned a general store where Dave's Hamburgers is now."

Actually, the history of the township hall itself can be divided into two major parts—pre-fire and post-fire.

"The original building was put up in 1876," reports Staman, after perusing some old books and records.

"Novi became a township in 1883 and for the first 24 years the town hall meetings were conducted in various homes and taverns in the community. Finally, the township officials decided they needed a building of their own."

The lot on which the building was constructed was donated to the township by C. C. Gage. According to Staman's records, the total cost of construction was $800.

"Of course, we didn't have the carpeting in those days," he adds, referring to the carpeted chambers in which Novi officials presently conduct their business.

"Today it is most frequently referred to as the 'old Township Hall.'"

"A lot of business was carried on in that building," says Staman. "Things got pretty hot in there at times, too," he adds.

Staman is a good one to talk about the hall. Not only is he its present owner, but he also served as Novi township supervisor through most of the 1950's and his knowledge of Novi goes back a good many years.

Today Staman is chairman of the Oakland County Road Commission.

"The center of Novi was originally at Grand River and Wixom Road," he says. "Your original Novi started right there because that's where the post office was."

"But the center of town gradually came to be Novi and Grand River, and the reason it changed was primarily because of Walled Lake."

"There used to be sort of a trolley line that carried people out to Commerce Lake. But as people began to get their own automobiles, they started driving out to Walled Lake instead and the best way to get there was by coming right down Grand River and then taking a right on Novi Road."

"There was a toll gate there, too," Staman continued, "but that business about Novi getting its name from Toll Gate No. VI is just not accurate."

"Novi was Novi long before they put up that toll gate."

"I just haven't decided yet if that carpeting helps them make better decisions or not. I always thought we did pretty well without it, though."

The original Township Hall was destroyed by fire in 1912. Both Staman and his wife Irene remember the occasion well.

"There was no fire department in those days," recalls Mrs. Staman. "When they rang the bell everybody came out to fight the fire."

At the time the fire took place, there were three buildings in close proximity on the west side of Novi Road—the Baptist Church, the Township Hall, and the house in which Staman's Insurance Agency is presently located.

"We had a very bad electrical storm that night," Mrs. Staman remembers, "and both the church and the hall caught on fire and burned. They rang the bell and everybody came out and formed a bucket brigade."

"They put wet burlap bags on the roof of this house and were able to save it, but the church and the hall burned to the ground."

The present town hall was rebuilt on the same site in 1914, two years after the fire.

Not only was the new hall the center for the township's official business transactions, it also served a certain social function.

"That's where they used to have the square dances," says Mrs. Staman with a smile on her face.

"They had a fiddler by the name of Green, and a man named Steve Hicks was the caller. Later Guy Nichols, who used to live down on Novi Road near Twelve and a Half Mile, was the caller."

"Those square dances were really big things in those days. Kids would come all the way out from Farmington for them."

"And your parents used to be able to ask you to do just about anything in order to be able to go. There was one time when my parents said they weren't going to let me go—I don't think I ever did so much work in a few days time to make them change their minds."

Taft Road Paving Sought by Council

Novi's Old Township Hall is All But Forgotten Though It Stands Within A Block of Novi and Grand River.

Admittedly "ashamed" of the condition of Taft Road, the Novi city council Monday decided to initiate steps toward the establishment of a special assessment district to pay for the paving of the road.

Specifically, the council directed Acting City Manager Edward Kriewall to present plans, specifications, and cost estimates for its study for the expressed purpose of setting the date for a public hearing of necessity - the first step in the city's lengthy special assessment process.

The action came during a flurry of suggestions for improving the city's roads after Councilman Edwin Presnell had opened the discussion by raising the issue of the condition of Taft Road between Ten Mile and Grand River.

Presnell, strongly supported by Councilman William O'Brien and the rest of the councilmen, stated that he was personally "ashamed" of the condition of Taft Road.

"There are a lot of roads in this city which are bad," he said, "but Taft Road is unbelievable. This isn't the spring when roads are usually at their worst, either. It's the fall when roads such as Taft are supposed to be in their best condition."

Presnell's suggestion was that action be taken immediately to improve the condition of the roads. "We may have to dump gravel or slag in there," Presnell stated, "but I don't care what it takes. Something has to be done."

Presnell's push for immediate relief was quickly lost among various other suggestions.

Kriewall informed the council that Novi's Road Committee was being reactivated with a top priority of proposing a means of paving Taft Road.

Councilman Denis Berry went one step further, however, and moved that a public hearing be set for January 3 as step number one in establishing the special assessment district to finance the paving.

His motion was approved by a 6-1 margin with Councilman Donald Young casting the lone dissenting vote. Berry later replaced his motion with the direction that Kriewall obtain the plans, specifications, and cost estimates for the paving project.

This is not the first time that the Novi city council has initiated public hearings for the establishment of a special assessment district to pay for the paving of Taft Road.

Perhaps the hottest political issue of the past year has been the Taft Road paving.

That the road be paved was proposed by the Road Committee in November of 1971. The special assessment procedure through to its completion was initiated and had proceeded as far as the fifth of seven resolutions which must be passed before the assessment district can be drawn up.

Reason for the failure of the council to see the assessment procedure through to its completion was that the Novi city charter which provides that the procedure be abandoned if more than 50 percent of the number of property owners in the assessment district object to it in written form.

The charter further provides that the objections of the property owners can be

Citizens Blast K & B, Ask for Accounting

A new episode in an ever-increasing list of unpleasant episodes between developer Kaufman and Broad and the people of its Village Oaks subdivision along with the Novi city council is currently being written.

At issue are K&B's obligations, legal and moral, to the city's R.U.D. (Rural Urban Development) ordinance under which the majority of the Village Oaks single-family residences were constructed.

In essence, the R.U.D. ordinance enable the developer to build on lots slightly reduced in size provided he returns the land saved from lot-size reductions to the residents in the form of common areas, or parks.

A sizable turnout of Village Oaks residents were present at the council meeting Monday to exert pressure on the council to exert pressure on K&B to fulfill its obligations under the R.U.D. ordinance.

The current brouhaha got underway two weeks ago when City Attorney David Fried told the council he felt Councilman Edwin Presnell was correct in his contention that K&B should be charged an additional $25-$30,000 for the paving of Meadowbrook Road.

Presnell's arguments were based on a city ordinance which requires developers to pay the full cost of paving half the road that abuts their property at the time they get final plat approval.

K&B has not yet come in for final plat approval on a section of its subdivision known as Heatherwood, Presnell pointed out, and when they do they should be made to comply with the ordinance.

After that meeting two weeks ago, a conference between Fried and K&B Attorney Barry Stulberg was set up to discuss the situation. Stulberg reportedly informed the city attorney that K&B would avoid having to pay the additional money by simply not coming in for final plat approval.

At the council's most recent meeting, Fried told the council he didn't see any way the city could force the developer to come in for approval and thus have to pay for half the road.

"I think we've been outmaneuvered," commented Councilman Denis Berry. Added Councilman Edwin Presnell: "I don't want to put

School Demands State Aid

Concurring with actions of Governor William Milliken and the State Department of Education as well as key legislators.

Letters outlining this demand are being sent to local area legislators.

And the board is urging citizens of the Novi School District to also write their state officials in marking similar demands.

State aid funds withheld from Novi approximate $40,000, according to School Superintendent Gerald Kratz. Action by the board followed receipt of a resolution by the Troy School District, which also indicated its insistence - that the money be dispersed.

The resolution was sent to the Novi Education Association, that the school grant teachers retro-active pay.

Monies involved are those withheld during the federal pay freeze.

Rennels' request was made in September and has been under study since that time. In recommending that the request be denied, Superintendent Gerald Kratz said, "It is the consensus of all administrators involved at the time that the package agreement reached with the representatives of the Novi Education Association, which in fact expressly spelled out that the increments reduced by the freeze 49 days on 1970-71 scheduled, effective November 15, 1971, were not to be paid and this was part of the total overall agreement."

Dr. Kratz reported that negotiation materials still available concerning retro-active increments and the tape recording of the Board of Education meeting when action was taken on last year's teachers contract were researched. In addition, the matter was discussed with former Assistant Superintendent Richard Hendrickson, he added.

The superintendent said he had been informed by the school district's attorney, Frederick Krauer, that under the law the retro-active pay may be granted but there is

City-State Near Contract For 13-Mile Interchange

It appears likely that the Novi city council will soon enter into a contract with the Michigan State Highway Department that will ultimately result in the widening of 13 Mile Road to five lanes.

Four representatives of the State Highway Department were present at the Novi council meeting Monday at the request of Acting City Manager Edward Kriewall.

Reason for their presence was to explain engineering plans for the proposed 13 Mile Road-M-275 interchange.

According to plans there will be entrance and exit ramps to the M-275 expressway at 13 Mile Road. As 13 Mile Road will have to be improved to provide easy access from the interchange to major thoroughfares both on the east and the west, the State Highway Department is attempting to arrive at a contract with the city for a plan that would be agreeable to both.

The plan proposed by the Highway Department called for the state to construct a five-lane road within the limits of the interchange, in exchange for the city's agreement to pave a two-lane road along 13 Mile from the westerly limit of the interchange to Meadowbrook Road on the west and from the easterly limit of the interchange to Haggerty Road on the east.

Furthermore, the city would be required to extend their two-lane extensions to five-lanes at the time dictated by traffic volume.

"If you decide not to enter into a contract with us," said Andreas VanCamp of the

In Our Town

By JEAN DAV

LAST FRIDAY was one of those dates when several community residents wished it possible to be in two places at once. The choice between attending a wedding and a surprise party is a difficult one.

The wedding ceremony at 8 p.m. Friday in Detroit united the Reverend George Parsons Jerome of Northville and Mrs. Lucille DeVew. The Reverend Lloyd Brasure of Northville First Presbyterian Church officiated at the service attended by family members.

The Reverend Jerome's colleague at Northville State Hospital, the Reverend Father Stanley Kukulski, Catholic chaplain, participated in the ceremony with a reading. The Reverend Jerome serves as Protestant chaplain at the hospital and at Detroit House of Correction.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. John Starkey, Jr., of Farmington. He is the bride's brother. She is the daughter of Mrs. John Starkey of Auburn Heights and the late Mr. Starkey.

Mrs. DeVew is a Detroit News staff writer in the Accent for Living section. The couple met last March through an assignment given Mrs. DeVew.

She was to do a story on how men alone (widowed or divorced) fare. She confided to former Northville resident Alice (Mrs. Richard) Kay that she was having difficulty getting men to talk. The Kays then arranged a dinner party with Mrs. DeVew and the Reverend Jerome among the guests.

There wasn't much opportunity, however, to talk about Mrs. DeVew's assignment; so they arranged to have an interview later...leading to many compatible conversations, and, finally, wedding plans.

The ceremony in the penthouse of the bride's Shoreline East apartment took place high above the Detroit River and lights of Detroit before families.

Included were Mrs. DeVew's son, Harden DeVew, Jr., of Traverse City, her granddaughters, Terri, Renee, Rhonda and Heather DeVew; her daughter, Mrs. Perri (Robin) Pappas of Taylor, two grandsons, Joshua and newly-arrived Lacharia.

The Reverend Jerome's family included sons David, Philip and John and daughters Jane and Nancy. Jane was home from Michigan State University where she is working toward her master's degree in social work. Also attending was Mrs. M. E. Enright, the mother of the late Ruth Jerome, Reverend Jerome's first wife.

A small reception for friends and family followed from 9 p.m. to midnight with the Richard Kays among the guests.

After a 10-day trip to England and France the newlyweds will make their home in a townhouse in Novi.

Both have served, it was pointed out, as volunteers with youthful probationers. They once also hosted an exchange student from Holland in their home.

Ellie Hammond, it was remembered, had the distinction of serving as the chairman of the first PTA carnival for the Northwest Child Guidance Clinic. (The carnivals were for many years the major money-raiser for Northville schools.) She also served on the coordinating council for the community.

She was promoter and first president for the Northwest Child Guidance Clinic. She was president of the Northville State Hospital Auxiliary, township clerk and church trustee.

They left Tuesday for New York and were to go on to England, where Mrs. McGranaghan was born. After a vacation in Italy, they will be home for Christmas with their children, who are four and six years old.

Marionette Adventure Set Here

A Saturday afternoon melodramatic adventure, complete with a villain, a heroine and a hero, awaits youngsters on December 2 at Northville High School.

That's the day puppeteer Ed Johnson brings his marionette cast of "Emmy's Cow" to town.

The play, which is being sponsored by the Northville Jaycees, is set in the 19th century. The plot concerns Emmy, the heroine, who lives with her elderly mother. The villain, Bazel Bub, schemes to marry the mother, hoping that she will soon die and that he will inherit her property.

Emmy, meanwhile, learns that her mother must have plenty of cow's milk to drink if she is to live. By coincidence, Corry, the hero, just happens to have one to sell. Bazel Bub attempts to kill the cow and the chase begins.

There are two performances scheduled, one at 1 p.m. and the other at 3 p.m. in the high school auditorium. Admission is 50 cents per person.

Tickets are to be sold in the Northville Public Schools and students will be receiving information regarding times and places within the next week. In addition to the school sales, tickets will be available at the door.

"Emmy's Cow", in addition to the marionettes and organ music, includes a part for the audience.

Adds Meaning to Ceremony Couples Write Own Wedding Vows

By MARTHA ROEMER

Long before the clergyman says, "I now pronounce you man and wife," couples begin to plan for weddings.

Months, sometimes years in advance, preparations are made to insure that the ceremony runs smoothly.

In recent years, those marriage preparations have included one arrangement that isn't on the list of "things to do before your wedding" as given in the etiquette books and bride's magazines.

To make the ceremony more their own or more relevant or unique, couples have been choosing to write their own marriage vows, and even in some cases, the whole service.

Ten, or perhaps even five years ago, the traditional marriage ceremony of the various denominations was the one accepted and preferred by most couples. Not so today.

According to at least five clergymen in the Northville area, the number of couples during to change the marriage ceremony in some way is growing. The degree to which change is allowed and the process of making the changes varies from church to church.

The Reverend Father John Wyskiel of Our Lady of Victory Church said that when a couple comes to him and expresses a desire to change the marriage vows, he explains to them how much of the service they are allowed to change. "There are certain concepts that they must incorporate in to the vows," he said, "then it is a give and take."

Adding that he is very much in favor of the changes within certain limitations, Father Wyskiel said, "At times our society places too much emphasis on the reception, but this idea of changing the vows to fit themselves, can have a good effect in that it draws more attention of the couple to the ceremony itself."

The Reverend Guenther Branstner of First United Methodist Church of Northville said he is open to changes in the marriage vows, but he finds that sitting down with a couple and explaining the standard service to them, often makes them change their minds.

"The ceremony is terribly relevant," he said, "and the average couple that comes to me before a wedding hasn't really looked at the service."

More than one wedding service has been altered by couples wishing to be married in the Presbyterian Church. The Reverend Lloyd Brasure of the First Presbyterian Church of Northville said he shows these couples first and then lets them decide whether or not they wish to make changes.

"Most couples have decided that what is in the book is relevant," said Mr. Brasure, "I open it up to them, and very often they decide to incorporate the two services."

The Reverend Cedric Whitcomb, pastor at First Baptist Church of Northville said that he is all for changes in the marriage ceremony, within the limits of the church.

"There used to be one way to be married," he said, "but today there are no cut and dried hard and fast rules." He added that a few years ago, he changed the marriage ceremony himself by "cutting the vows down to a bare minimum."

The Reverend Charles F. Boeger of St. Paul's Lutheran Church said he allows changes to be made in the marriage vows although "nothing radical" is permitted.

When a couple decides to write their own vows, he explains to them how much of the service they are allowed to change. "There are certain concepts that they must incorporate in to the vows," he said, "then it is a give and take."

about any changes that couples make in the marriage vows.

As to the intent of the vows and the changes permitted in them, Mr. Brasure said, "We are interested in the couple pledging themselves to each other in the context of the man and woman growing together."

According to Father Wyskiel, many couples married at Our Lady of Victory who have altered their marriage vows have done it to "magnify" or expand on various aspects of the vows.

In addition to the marriage vows themselves, couples are changing the music used to include popular tunes of today, and are adding the use of poetry to the marriage service.

Mr. Brasure said, "We are more liberal in the songs being sung. If it is meaningful to the couple and has a spiritual meaning to them, we permit it." He added, that the same holds for poetry and the words of Kahlil Gibran are often requested, in addition to or in place of scripture readings.

As far as music is concerned, Mr. Branstner said he permits the new songs to be sung at weddings as long as it is done tastefully, adding that "We've Only Just Begun," a Carpenter's hit, was recently used at a wedding in his church.

When poetry is requested, he said he always reads it aloud to the couple and often they change their own words reading instead on a biblical reading.

"Poetry is very good," said Father Wyskiel, "and there is always religious poetry."

One addition to the marriage service is the ceremony of the candles. Approval of this was expressed by each of the five clergymen.

Two lighted candles are placed on the altar on either side of an unlighted one. Taking a flame from the two end candles, the bride from one and the bridegroom from the other, the two illuminate the center candle. The side candles are extinguished and the pronouncement of marriage is made.

Tenants Told for New Complex

September Opening Scheduled

Hailing Northville Square as a "new type of urban shopping mall," the developers of the 80,000-square-foot Main at Wing street retail center held official ground-breaking ceremonies Monday.

They predicted opening of the mall in September, 1973 and revealed that five tenant leases have been signed, two more are awaiting signature, and that letters of intent have either been signed or requested from nine other retailers.

A total of between 20 and 24 shops are anticipated.

R. H. McManus, who formed Northville Square Co., was the chief spokesman at the ceremonies. Mayor A. M. Allen, who called the project "urban renewal without federal government participation," took the first turn with the shovel.

McManus introduced his partners in the project, chief among whom are Ralph Thomas and Lawrence Dailey of the R. E. Dailey & Co., Detroit general contractors, plus several other investors, none from Northville.

A spokesman for Shopping Centers, Inc., which is handling both leasing and management of the mall, announced that the following retailers had signed leases: Harvi's Suburban Casual; Land of Hi Fi & Jazz; Elias Bros., family restaurant; Parkos Family Shoes; Max Gray's Men's Wear.

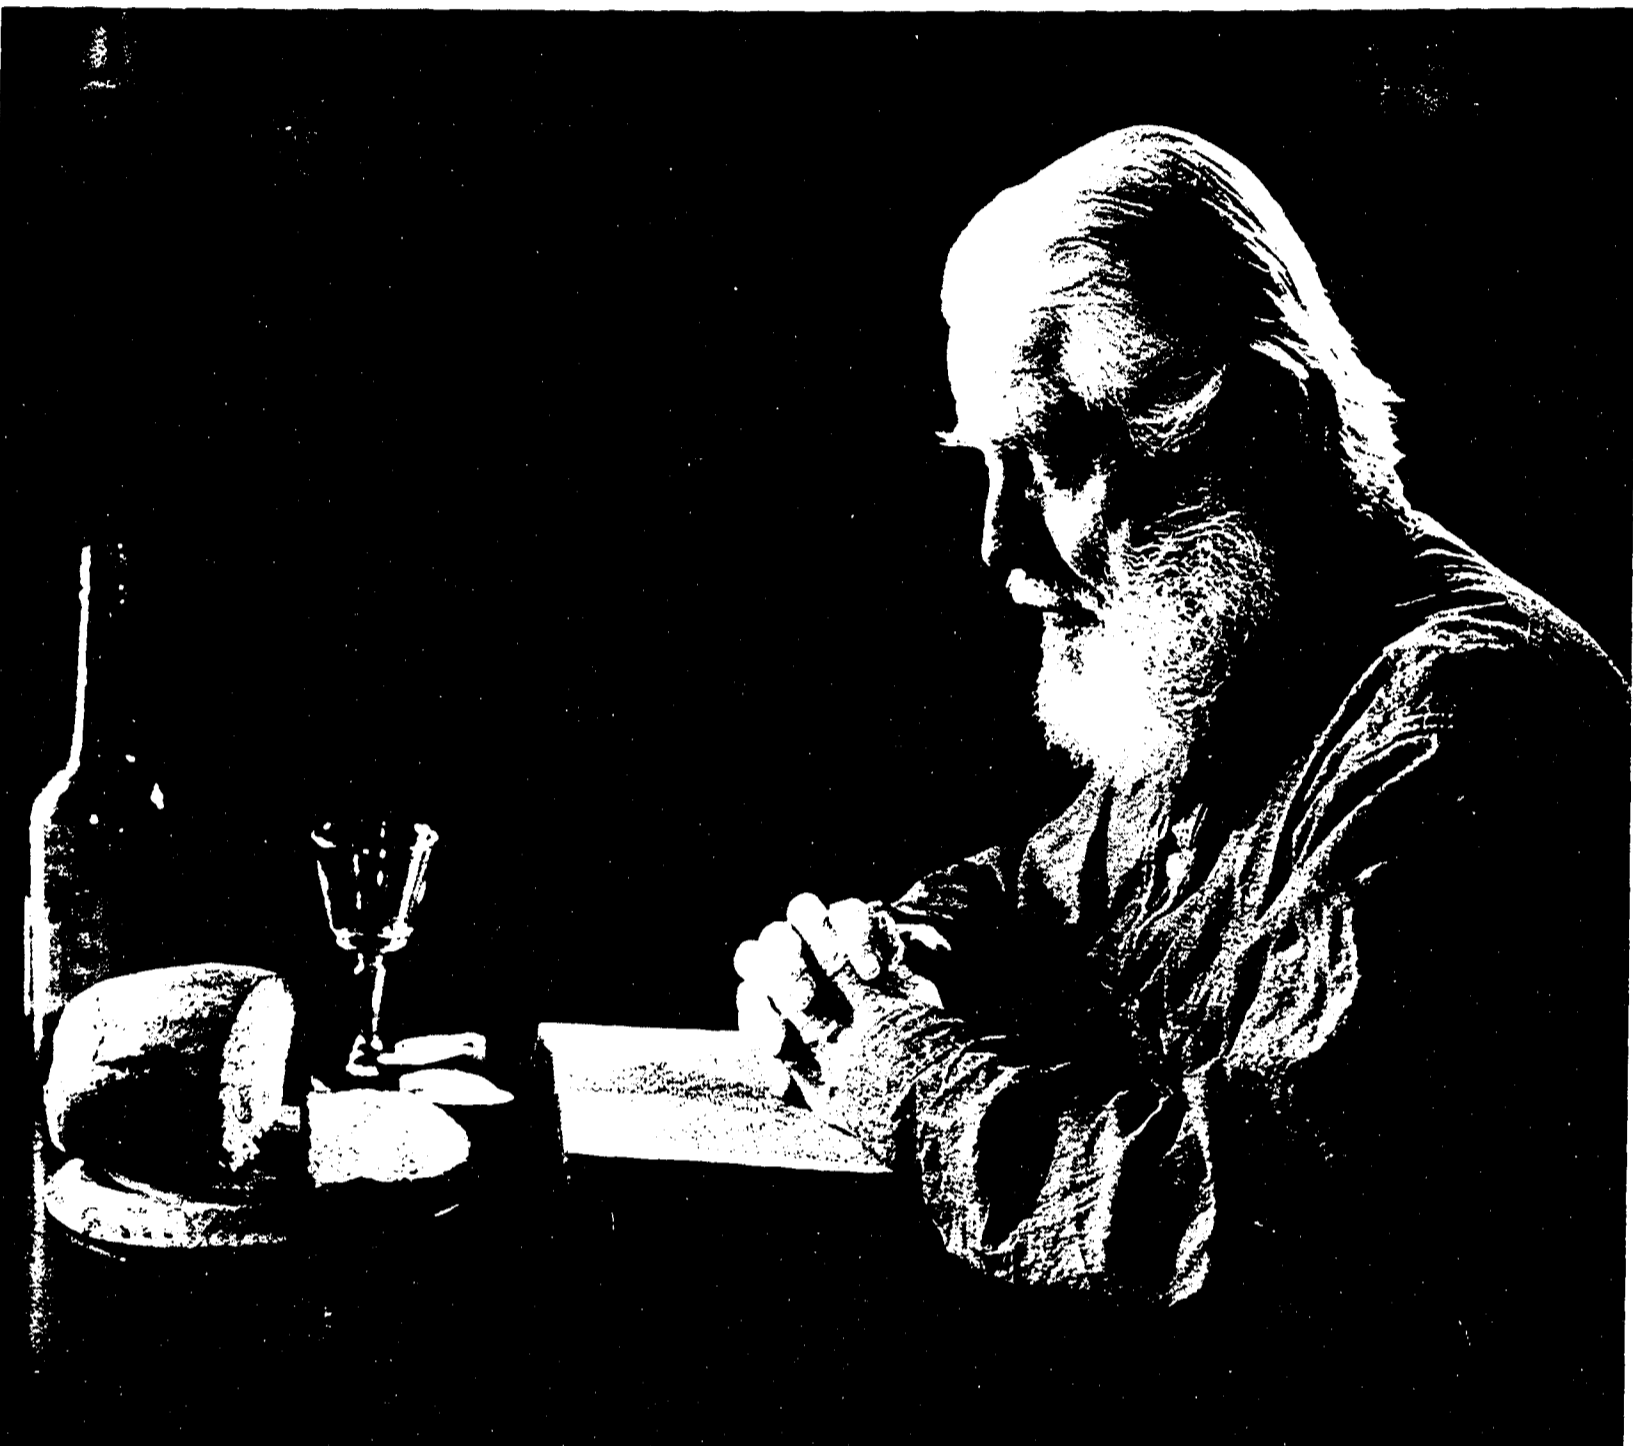

He said that leases are out for signature from Universal International Travel Agency and Crosby & Craft, owners of Intent have been signed, he added, by Coney Island, The Attic and Detroit Vital Foods. His list also included stores that have unsigned letters of intent, which are Nu Vision Optical, Libby Ann, Inc., T. H. Earlich Company, Orin Jewelers, Amien Carter and Kowalski's.

Architect Louis G. Redstone, head of the firm which designed Northville Square, stated that the bi-level structure is unique among today's shopping malls. He noted that the center has no large department store as its focal point. Rather, the concept is to provide personal attention to shoppers' needs through a collection of many smaller fashion shops.

And, unlike most centers, he noted, Northville Square is located in the middle of Northville's shopping district rather than on vast open spaces outside the town, thus draining off retail business from the older shopping section.

"This was a visionary choice, and could conceivably have far-reaching effects on malls of the future. Many Americans are simply overwhelmed by the size and impersonality of sprawling, core-type centers. We think they're ready to return to Main Street," Redstone added.

Northville Square is the result of efforts undertaken more than five years ago by the Northville Area Economic Development Committee. The non-profit organization composed of members from both the city and township started assembling land at the

Joint Service Tonight

Communities Unite In Spirit of Thanks

Five Northville-Novu churches will join together in a community Thanksgiving service tonight (Wednesday) in the Northville High School auditorium.

Citizens throughout both communities, regardless of their religious beliefs, are invited to attend the 8 p.m. ecumenical service. It is the first of its kind to be presented here.

"The service is truly a cooperative community endeavor," said the Reverend Lloyd Brasure of the First Presbyterian Church, one of the participating clergymen. "It gives everyone a special opportunity to join together in offering thanks for our many blessings."

City Manager Turns Auctioneer

City Manager Frank Ollendorff is slated to become an auctioneer...temporarily. With the razing soon of two residential dwellings—one on Dunlap Street next door to the new restaurant under construction and the other at the southeast corner of Cady and Wing streets—the council decided Monday to publicly auction off parts of both buildings.

Sale of interior and exterior fixtures may help pay for demolition, councilmen reasoned. Neither building is suitable apparently for sale and moving, they learned.

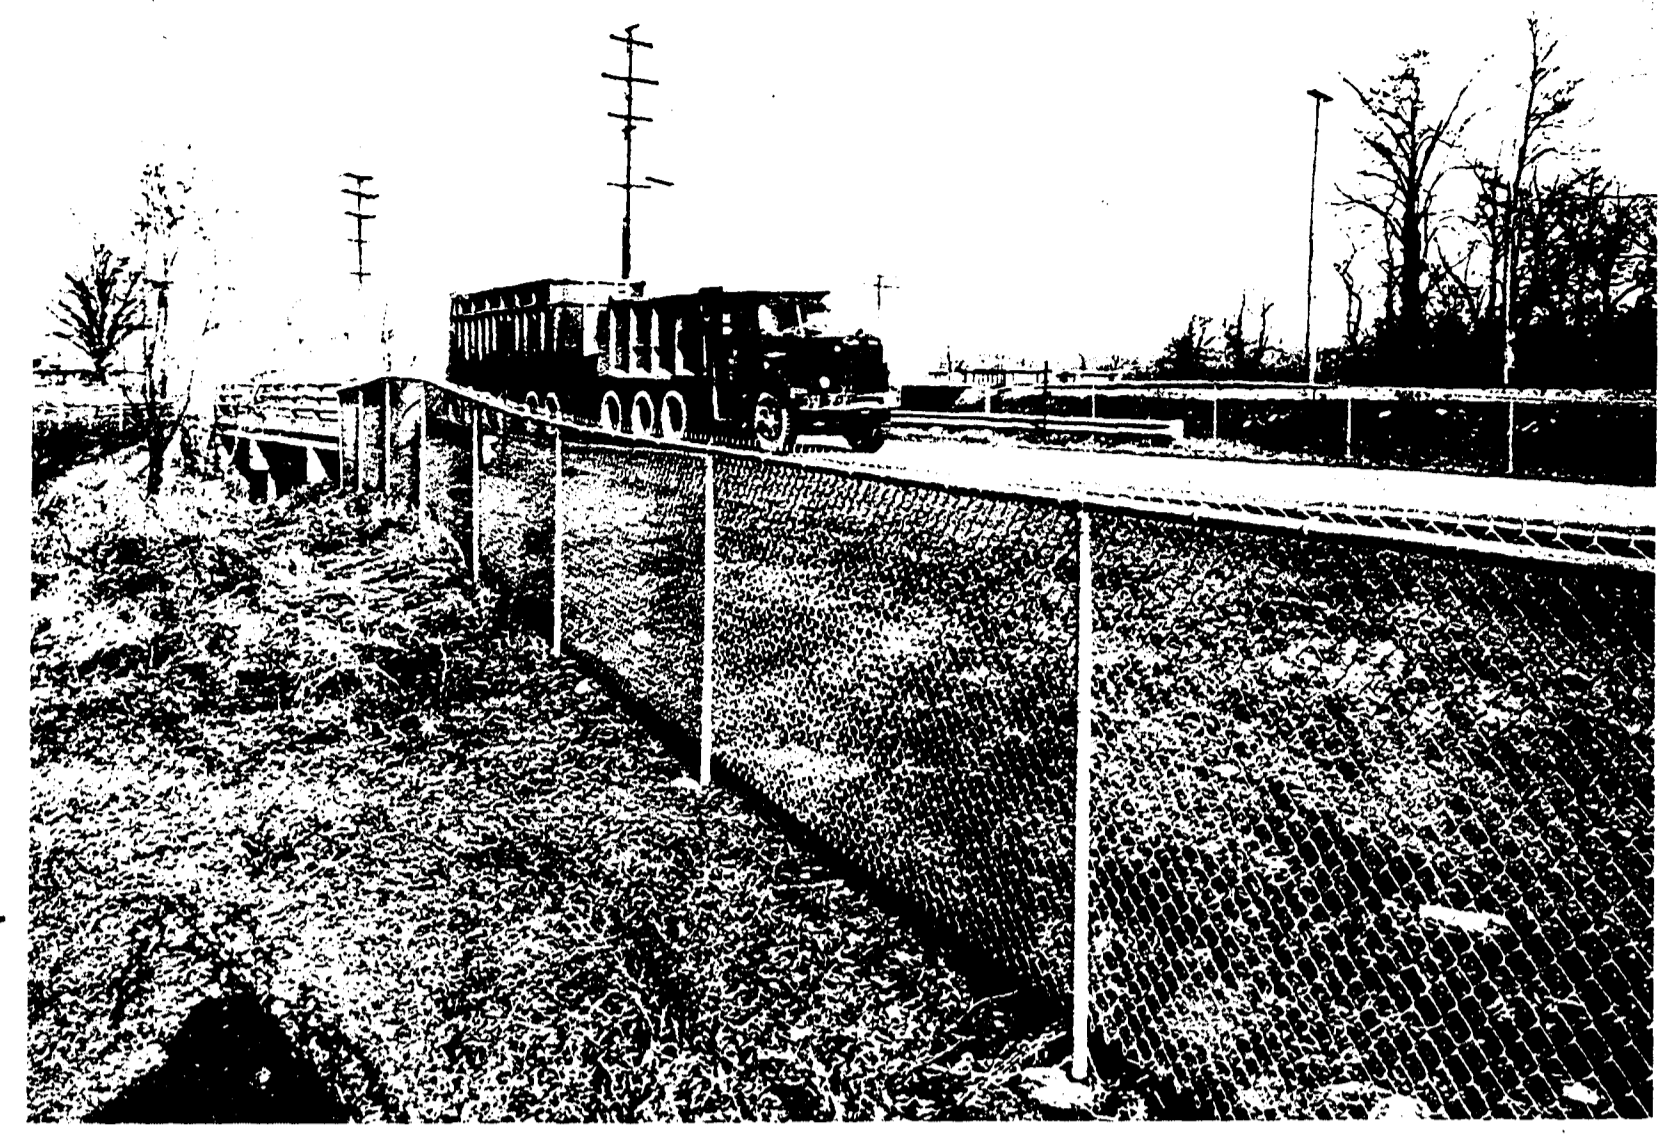

Both sites are earmarked for parking. Because relatively few saleable fixtures are involved, the council decided to give the job of auctioneering to the city manager rather than to hire a professional auctioneer.

Date of the auction has not yet been set. Interested persons should contact the city manager.

SAFETY FENCE—In hopes of discouraging youngsters from dashing across Novi Road, the City of Northville with the permission of Oakland County, recently erected a safety fence along both sides of the road at the bridge south of Allen Drive. City officials, encouraged by Superintendent Raymond Spear, ordered the fence following the death last spring of an eight-year-old Amerman third grader, David W. Austin, who was struck by an automobile. Other Village Green subdivision youngsters, who play along the stream, had been involved in accidents and near accidents while running across the road from one side of the bridge to the other.

College Awards Building Contract

Construction contracts totaling $173,350 were awarded last week for the addition to the liberal arts building at Schoolcraft College.

The architectural trades contract went to H. F. Good Building Company of Taylor for $91,400; mechanical trades to McDonald Plumbing and Heating of Detroit for $87,200; and electrical trades to Durand Company of Livonia for $14,750.

Contracts total $46,450 under the amount budgeted for the construction phase of the project, a college spokesman stated.

The 1973-74 general catalog contract was awarded to Edwards Brothers Inc. of Ann Arbor for a base bid of $6,566.

In other action last week, the board of trustees approved the appointment of Ernst & Ernst of Detroit as auditors for the college district during the 1972-73 fiscal year.

The appointment may be extended beyond the fiscal year, contingent upon satisfactory performance.

Also approved was the employment of Miller, Canfield, Paddock & Stone of Detroit as general legal counsel for the college district from January 1 to June 30, 1973. Extension of this contract also is contingent upon satisfactory performance.

College President C. Nelson Grote expressed his disappointment of recent proceedings in a Bureau of the Budget hearing in Lansing.

According to Dr. Grote, the hearing for all of the Michigan community colleges was conducted in a single day, with nine appearing during the one 1½-hour segment. The previous day, he noted, one small state four-year college received that much time.

Such a time distribution indicates continued second-class regard for community colleges, he charged.

The college, it was reported, has entered into an agreement with the American Red Cross to make college facilities available in the event of a major civil disaster in Western Wayne County.

Under the agreement signed October 25, the college agreed to permit the use of the physical education and liberal arts buildings for housing, feeding and providing emergency service to disaster victims.

Whenever college facilities are needed, disruption of normal schedules are to be kept to a minimum. Schoolcraft is the only designated disaster center in Northwestern Wayne County at this time, it was reported. Dr. Grote reported progress in adjusting the 1972-73 general operating budget downward to maintain balance in light of decreasing revenues.

The original budget of $6,615,178 has been revised to $6,466,510. This represents reductions of $148,668 from the seven spending centers of the college, he said. Overall, it is a 2.25-percent decrease.

Further reductions may not be necessary if the recruiting Task Force effort is successful in generating an additional 5,000 student credit hours during the remainder of the fiscal year, it was disclosed.

Snowmobile Club Offers Lessons

Snowmobiling classes for 12 to 15 year olds will be offered between 7 and 9 p.m. beginning Monday, November 27, at Cal's Gulf, 470 East Main Street.

Instructing the class will be Harry Wiser, president of Northville Snowdrifters. Assisting in the instruction will be Paul Vandenberg and Frank Kocian.

There is no charge for lessons, club spokesmen report. The class is required for all 12 to 15 year olds who wish to operate snowmobiles, the club explained, because January 1, 1973, a new law becomes effective in Michigan.

Under the law, no person between the ages of 12 and 15 may drive a snowmobile without a parent unless he has taken the class, passed the test and received a license.

Classes will be held twice weekly, on Mondays and Thursdays. Dates include November 27, 30, December 4 and 7.

Exam will be given Monday, December 4. For further information on the instructions, contact Wiser at 349-3409.

Snowdrifters will hold a Christmas dinner dance at the Plymouth Elks Club at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, December 2. Cost is $12 per couple. Persons interested in attending should contact Mrs. Frank (Mary) Kocian at 349-5186.

Time is also running out, spokesmen report, for the Kandahar Barn weekend in East Jordan. For reservations, contact Cal Cross at 349-1818.

Next meeting of the Snowdrifters was scheduled to be held Wednesday.

PUBLIC HEARING will be held Tuesday, December 5, at 8 p.m. on the proposed $314,000 sewer construction project for Grand View Acres in Northville township. While definite cost of the sewer installation to each homeowner has not been established, township officials estimate cost will range between $20 and $22 per front foot. The hearing will be held at the township offices, 301 West Main Street.

SEALED BIDS for the purchase of $750,000 Northville schools' building bonds will be opened Monday night at the school board's 8 p.m. meeting. Proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used by the district for options on future school sites, remodeling and equipping existing buildings and development of existing school sites. The meeting will be held at the board offices, 303 West Main Street.

NORTHVILLE SCHOOLS recessed for Thanksgiving vacation at the end of the school day Wednesday and will open for classes again on Monday, school officials announced. School board offices will also be closed for the long holiday weekend.

A MOVE to oust Mrs. Mary Dumas as secretary of the Schoolcraft Community College Board of Trustees because she allegedly "used the office to further her political career" failed last week in a 4-3 vote by trustees. Mrs. Dumas was recently elected Wayne County Commissioner and is due to take her county office in January. Meanwhile, the college board has requested a written opinion from the Michigan Attorney General regarding a possible conflict of interest when a member of the college board is also seated on the county commission with concurrent terms of office.

Novi Seeks Taft Road Paving reverted by the council, but only if it does so by a five-sevenths vote.

In the case of Taft Road, the property owners submitted petitions and the council failed to override the objections as three councilmen - Presnell, Young, and Louie Campbell - voted to abandon the district, leaving the council with an insufficient quorum to three margin.

Preliminary indications are that the council will be able to obtain a six-sevenths majority if the same circumstances arise this time around.

Presnell told the council that he was now ready to vote for the paving of Taft Road.

And Louie Campbell, whose negative ballot the first time around was predicated on the refusal of the school board to accept a share of the cost assessment, also indicated that he would vote in favor of the paving.

"I would hope that the school board would be willing to pay its fair share of the cost of paving Taft Road," he said, "but if they don't I've still got to look at this thing from the viewpoint of what's good for the community. And paving Taft Road is a necessity."

Campbell went on to say that it's time for the council and school board to forget past differences and work together for the general welfare of the whole community.

It appears likely, however, that unless the rate of assessment is changed to a figure that would result in an approximate cost of $6 per

School Notes Sale's Success

More than 3,000 books were sold within a two-day period last week during the elementary school book sale. Sponsored by the three elementary PTA's the book sales were held in conjunction with the school book fairs.

Students and parents shopped for early Christmas presents and recreational reading. Books placed on sale were selected for children's interests and abilities.

Profits from the sale will be used to set up library funds for materials such as books, filmstrips and supplies that will be used in the schools.

Directing the sales at the schools were Mrs. Richard Lyon, Main Street; Mrs. Marvin Yoder, American; and Mrs. Harry Earhart, Moraine.

Northville High School's first parent-principal meeting will be held Wednesday, November 29, in the material center conference room at the school.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the meeting is intended to acquaint parents with the high school. Parents are urged to attend the meeting and discuss any concerns they may have. Principal Fred Holdsworth said.

Parent-principal meetings are usually held the last Wednesday of each month.

Learning by doing is the emphasis of a new psychology course added to the social studies curriculum at Northville High School this year.

After attending a National Science Foundation Institute for secondary school psychology teachers, Northville High's Mrs. Jane Crawford has implemented many ideas she acquired from Dr. James Ryan who conducted the seminar.

Dr. Ryan is a member of the experimental psychology department of Wisconsin State University.

Students in the class at Northville High have measured steadiness both before and after ingesting caffeine and presently are conditioning fish to respond to particular shapes.

Within the next month, the students will begin extensive conditioning programs with pigeons.

It is hoped that at the end of the experiment, pigeons will be able to "read" signs instructing them to peck and turn. Mrs. Crawford said.

"After having experimented with various learning techniques, the last five weeks of the course will be devoted to applying concepts the students have learned," she explained.

"Working with their lab partners, each student will be devising learning aids for actual use in the elementary classrooms," Mrs. Crawford noted.

Speaking for Myself Who's Superior?

OLLENDORFF

SPEAKING for The Record

By BILL SLIGER

This is what the Columbia Encyclopedia has to say about Thanksgiving Day:

"National holiday in the United States commemorating the harvest reaped by the Plymouth Colony in 1621, after a winter of great starvation and privation. In that year Governor William Bradford proclaimed a day of thanksgiving, and the feast was shared by all the colonists and the neighboring Indians.

"Although similar observances were held locally, they were sporadic and at no set time. After the American Revolution the first national Thanksgiving Day, proclaimed by President Washington, was Nov. 26, 1789. Lincoln, urged by Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, revived the custom in 1863, appointing as the date the last Thursday in November. In 1939, 1940 and 1941 Franklin D. Roosevelt proclaimed Thanksgiving the third Thursday in November. When a contradiction arose between Roosevelt's proclamation and some of those of state governors, Congress passed a joint resolution in 1941 decreeing that Thanksgiving should fall on the fourth Thursday of November.

"The day is observed by church services and family reunions; the customary turkey is a reminder of the four wild turkeys served at the Pilgrims' first Thanksgiving feast."

So Thanksgiving is steeped in American tradition. It is not a holiday commemorating a hero, a war's end, a new year, or independence. Rather it was born as the result of survival from severe suffering during our nation's most primitive years.

Lloyd Brasure, pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Northville, believes that we Americans owe something to those who have given us this beautiful country.

And at Thanksgiving he believes that all Americans should join together in song and prayer and pay tribute to our forefathers and our nation.

He's a little tired of the bars sticking in America's hide, many self-inflicted.

He asks that we reflect momentarily on just how much the United States of America has given the world.

And he's concerned with our gross materialism, the mad rush that reduces "thanks" to a term uttered only by habit and without feeling or meaning.

So Reverend Brasure has been the sparkplug behind a program to bring as many community residents together as possible to pray, sing and give thanks together for the blessing we enjoy as Americans.

He's been joined by Father John Wittstock of Our Lady of Victory, the Reverend G. C. Branstner of the First United Methodist church of Northville, the Reverend Philip M. Seymour of the Novi United Methodist church and the Reverend Leslie F. Harding of the Holy Cross Episcopal Mission.

They're urging their congregations to attend an ecumenical Thanksgiving service tonight (Wednesday) at the Northville high school auditorium at eight o'clock.

I know Lloyd would give his first "thanks" if the high school parking lot were to be filled with cars bringing area residents to the brief, one-hour service.

The high school band and choir will provide the music and add to the voices.

There's room for over 600 voices in the auditorium.

So tune up and sound off!

"My country tis of thee..."

The question should not be "Who's Superior" but rather to what degree the Big Blue shall overwhelm Woody's boys.

Poor Ohio has already been beaten by a Michigan team, one that is having a losing season. What will happen when they play a team that is not only unbeaten but unbeatable? The only hope for Woody and his players is that Bo will take pity on them, since he must have some feeling for his old team and state.

Ohio State has some fine football players who do many things well. Michigan players also do many things well. The one difference is: Wolverines know how to win football games.

I must agree that this is the game of the year for Ohio but to Michigan it is just another warmup on the way to vengeance in the Rose Bowl.

We, the people and fans of Michigan, hope Woody and his team can provide us with a good preparation.

Neither Michigan State, Purdue nor all the rest shall keep the University of Michigan from its destiny. Least of all a four-letter word: Ohio.

Superior has eight letters; so does Michigan and the two are synonymous. Go Big Blue all the way to Pasadena so we can beat Southern California and receive our proper No. 1 designation.

Ron Evasic, U-M Alumnus and former grid performer

As an impartial, neutral observer who coincidentally attended Ohio State, it is apparent to me that Michigan partisans do not yet realize that Columbus, Ohio is the College Football Capitol of the World. I'd give Michigan about as much chance of prevailing in Ohio as George McGovern.

Michigan may be able to stay close by playing over their heads. This often happens when you are up against the best. Certainly our calm, unexcitable Coach Hayes will consider this and make sure his men are well prepared. We've got a freshman tailback who will probably gain more yards than Michigan's whole offense. Woody has recently opened up his offense, too: the Buckeyes now pass four or five times each game.

Michigan's national ranking is due, of course, to the recognition that "Ohio Bo" is now their coach, and that Michigan is really the Ann Arbor branch of OSU since it imports some of Ohio's outstanding players.

All we ask is that the referees not dress in maize and blue this year. (Michigan fans should note that the Buckeyes have ordered unbreakable markers for this game).

My suggestion for Bo and his Wolverines is that instead of secret, closed practice prior to the public game, the procedure should be reversed.

Swamp Wonderland

By JACK W. HOFFMAN

Some time ago this newspaper carried a series of articles about the artificial boundaries that separate citizens of this area.

If there was any major conclusion we reached in researching the series it was that these boundaries disrupt the unity of people who make up our communities and thereby thwart social, civic, religious, recreational and political cooperation.

And in no local area community was this disruptive element more apparent than in the City of Novi.

In Novi, for example, citizens are separated by city, township, school, postal service, telephone exchange and Scouting boundaries.

Even Joseph Crupi, mayor Novi, must contend with these boundaries. He lives in a portion of the city situated in the Northville School District and having a Northville mailing address. And even though his interests obviously are centered in Novi, many of his Novi neighbors are oriented to Northville. They pay Novi taxes but consider themselves Northville citizens—which they are not.

Similar situations exist elsewhere inside the City of Novi.

Separated by these artificial boundaries and as yet having no real central business district or civic-cultural center, many citizens find themselves turning to adjacent municipalities.

Unfortunately, there appears little likelihood that these boundaries will disappear very soon.

Nevertheless, the Novi Board of Education is on the doorstep of an excellent program that, in my opinion, can help develop the spirit of cooperative effort so essential to the well-being of the community. It will not erase the boundaries, of course, but it can smooth them out and help turn the attention of Novi citizens inward.

Novi councilmen, I hope, see the necessity of drawing their constituents together. And now they have an ideal opportunity to demonstrate their concern by encouraging and cooperating with, if not co-sponsoring, an exciting new program presently under consideration.

I'm referring to the proposal to launch a community education program that would serve not only citizens of the Novi School District but citizens throughout the City of Novi...and even beyond.

Patterned after the nationally acclaimed Mott Foundation-backed program in Flint, it is based on the premise that it is financially and educationally unsound to limit school building use from 9 to 5, five days a week, nine months a year.

Although plans for the Novi community education program are still in the infancy stage, proponents see it as offering a wide variety of educational, recreational and cultural classes and activities for all ages...a program sponsored jointly by the school district and the city or alone by the district.

City officials, in my opinion, owe it to their constituents to actively cooperate with the school board in seeing that this program comes to fruition. After all, they may have more at stake, perhaps, than does the school system; the esprit de corps of their boundary-split community may very well rest on its success.

the squeeze on Kaufman and Broad. But at the same time I don't want them to be allowed to circumvent the city's ordinance. They may be able to legally maneuver around paying for the road, but it's my opinion they have a moral responsibility to pay for the paving of the half of Meadowbrook Road which runs in front of their property."

One possible source of pressure which could be applied to K&B would be the residents of Village Oaks, Fried opined. K&B has made contractual agreements with them to provide so much land in common areas. The residents may be able to force them to deed the land to the common areas association.

"If K&B is now going to take the position that it will not plat the land the residents should insist that they either complete preparation of those parcels or post a bond that will cover the work," Fried said.

The American Academy of Family Physicians, representing more than 30,000 family doctors, is the only national medical group requiring members to take continuing study. The project was a private undertaking and solicitation for members was already underway although it was only in the planning stages. The Novi school board agreed to discuss a contract with an Ann Arbor firm to design a proposed secondary school. The building would be on an 80-acre site at Taft and 11 Mile roads. Novi police solved one of their most complex cases when they arrested four juveniles wanted for a series of breaking and entering, shoplifting and stolen automobile crimes. FIFTEEN YEARS AGO Eleven building permits were issued in Northville city in one week's time to the D & C Building company. The homes to be built are the first of 26 to be built in Yerkes Estates Subdivision number one. The subdivision is located at Novi Street and Base Line. The City of Northville became 220 acres larger while the size of Novi township decreased by the same amount. Voters in the city and township area approved the annexation by a large majority. The new 220-acre section of Northville included the land between Novi Road and a line 100 feet west of Taft Road and extended north to the 8 1/2-mile line. TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO The conducted tours of the Northville Recreation Committee furnished proof to its advantages offered and interest displayed in the classes offered in the village at Novi Street and Base Line. NOVI CAGERS - Coach Milan Obrenovich will be relying primarily on the talents of these five players to carry the 1972-73 Wildcats to a 10-4 record in the Southeastern Conference. From left to right are Steve Lukkari, Jim VanWagner, John Pantalone, Pat Boyer, and Mike Sumner. Lack of height is going to be a problem for the Novi

Lack of Height, Depth Cloud Wildcat Hopes

Milan Obrenovich has one heckuva backfield. He's got quarterback Steve Lukkari, running backs Jim VanWagner and Pat Boyer, and wide receiver John Pantalone gracing his roster. Obrenovich is the envy of every football coach in the SEC.

"The only problem is that our football team did so well," he continues, "that our fans are now expecting more." He adds, "Which is good. People will take one look at our roster and see how short we are, and underestimate us."

"The only problem is that our football team did so well," he continues, "that our fans are now expecting more." He adds, "Which is good. People will take one look at our roster and see how short we are, and underestimate us."

Tallest man on the squad is junior Mike Sumner, who stands just an inch over six feet tall; the rest of the SEC centers are made of. After Sumner Novi has a trio of six footers in Boyer, VanWagner, and Pantalone and just under the rest of the squad falls in the 5'8" to 5'11" range.

"I look bad," admits Obrenovich. "On paper we look real bad."

And then, changing gears, he adds, "Which is good. People will take one look at our roster and see how short we are, and underestimate us."

'Cautious Optimism' Mustangs Look Forward to '72-73 Basketball Season

Remember Walt Koepke's pre-season assessment of his 1971-72 Northville High School basketball team?

"They can't pass, they can't shoot, they don't hustle, and they don't play defense. I've never seen a less aggressive group of basketball players," he said.

That squad went on to post a 6-12 record, which may or may not confirm Koepke's assessment.

But why rehash Koepke's harsh analysis of his 1971-72 team?

The answer is that it reveals the Northville coach's flair for the blunt, occasionally over-critical, evaluations of his team's abilities.

And, it serves to bring a certain rosy perspective to Koepke's comment that he is approaching the 1972-73 season with "cautious optimism."

Koepke, it should be noted, is a perfectionist in much the same mold as, for example, a Jo Schembechler. His approach to the game of basketball is one of emphasis on basics—a tough, never-yielding defense and a "patient" to use his own words—offense which grinds out points through well-disciplined execution of fundamental patterns.

But back to the 1972-73 team.

"I have to preface the 'optimism' with 'cautious' for two reasons," says Koepke. "First, because we have a very tough schedule, and second, because I'm concerned about our defense. Defense was one of our weak points last year so we've been trying to emphasize it in practice but we don't seem to be coming along too well."

The Mustangs will play a 20 game schedule in 1972 as opposed to an 18 game schedule last year. Added to the list of opponents are Lutheran East, Livonia Franklin, and Warren Lincoln.

Tough schedules are a Koepke trademark, however. "You only improve by playing the best," he says. And to back up what he says he has had the Mustangs scrimmaging against teams such as River Rouge, Ann Arbor Pioneer, and Brother Rice with its 6'9" center.

It should be noted, however, that the schedule and schedule are the reasons for "caution," what then are the reasons for the optimism?

Once he starts, Koepke is continually stumbling on more and more reasons.

"Number one," he says, "is that we're a much better shooting team than we were last year, and number two is that almost all of our boys have improved beyond my expectations, especially Joe Bishop, Mike Brown, and Todd Eis."

"I have to preface the 'optimism' with 'cautious' for two reasons," says Koepke. "First, because we have a very tough schedule, and second, because I'm concerned about our defense. Defense was one of our weak points last year so we've been trying to emphasize it in practice but we don't seem to be coming along too well."

Greg Mack Wins Football Contest

Just as Michigan State's upset of Ohio State the previous week had proved to be a MSU's loss to Minnesota this past week was a major stumbling block in the weekly football contest.

Nearly everyone picked the Spartans to win. But it was Minnesota, by a score of 14-10.

As it turned out all the winners missed this game as well as one other.

Taking first place by virtue of his better guess of Southern California's 24-7 win over UCLA was Greg Mack, 618 Fairbrook. He had Southern Cal winning 28-10.

In second place was Bruce A. Martin, 119 Ely Drive South. He had Southern California winning 21-14. And in third place, 11 points off the score were Mrs. Donna Engel, 941 Baseline, and H. W. White, 11846 Riverside Drive.

Finishing out of the money but also with just two mistakes were Joe Kritch, Jr., of Cincinnati, Ohio and John Holmwood, 49777 Eastman.

Kritch, incidentally, is one of the most frequent contestants even though he and his wife, Sandy, have moved from Northville to Ohio.

"You wouldn't believe our phone bill, explains his mother. "They called every Thursday to get the lineup and then give us their picks."

It's Mustangs vs Lions In Cage Opener Tuesday

The South Lyon team that takes the floor against the Mustangs in their season's opener next Tuesday will bear little resemblance to the squad that bombarded Northville's cagers 74-65 in last year's opener.

It's not that some of the same faces won't be around, mind you. Two key performers from the Lion's fine 1971-72 team - guard Tony Kern and forward Ed Segars - are still around to lead Coach Bill Tomas's squad.

What's missing is that overpowering eighth which carried the Lions to an overall record of 14-0 and their second consecutive state Class B district tournament title.

Gone from the 1971-72 team are 6'8" center Mike Muir, whose height alone made him a formidable force on the boards, and Jim McIntosh, a polished performer who could do it all, offensively and defensively.

Northville and South Lyon have traditionally opened the season against each other over the past seven years. The Mustangs hold a 4-3 edge in the series, but the Lions have clearly held the upper hand in recent years.

Northville won the first three games in the series, but since that time the Lions have clearly held the upper hand in the last four games, and, if they should win Tuesday, they'll not only even the series at four games apiece, but also make it three opening games wins in a row over the Mustangs.

In spite of the losses of Muir and McIntosh, South Lyon still figures to have a strong team. It was Tony Kern, who hurt

South Lyon last year. Though just a sophomore, Kern blazed the trails with 17 points in the first half as the Lions built up a huge first-half lead and then coasted to the victory.

Kern, a good ball handler and play maker as well as shooter, will direct the Lion's 1972-73 cage fortunes from the backcourt.

Just as valuable as Kern is forward Ed Segars. At 6'2", Segars is the tallest member of the Lion team. A good jumper, Segars is strong on the boards and a major scoring threat.

A third returning starter is forward-center Tom Hanson (6'11", 180 pounds). Kern, Segars, and Hanson are described as "bud chippers" by Thomas and he will build his attack around their talents.

The rest of the first team will come from a group of players that include co-captains Hobby Herrell and Roger Cash - a pair of guards; guard-forward Dave Williamson (5'11"); guard Gene Spencer; a transfer student who lettered for Novi last year; and 5'11", 200 pound junior forward Dave Hartman, who toiled for the junior varsity last year.

What will South Lyon do with this type of material?

Admitting that lack of height is a major problem, Thomas says he may use a triple post offense and plans to rely on better than average team speed. "We've learned to play together as a team these past years and that's a big plus," he adds.

What he means is - watch for Kern, Segars, and Hanson on the fast break they ran so effectively last year.

The game will be played in South Lyon. The junior varsity squads meet at 6:30 p.m. with the varsity game scheduled to get underway at approximately 8 p.m.

How well can the Mustangs expect to do?

A western Six Conference championship is extremely dubious at best with defending champion Livonia Chure on hand and apparently stronger than ever. And, as for overall record, Koepke, says: "We've got 20 games, and I think we have a good chance to win 10 of them."

SPORTS Go-Round

By Bob Moore

Motorcycle racing is popular in many countries especially the United States and England. Modern races are usually held on special tracks analogous to the raceways used for automobile racing. Motorcycles have been known to reach some very high speeds—the fastest can go well over one hundred miles per hour. Time trial speeds, of course, register well above that, some recorded at 150 miles per hour and over!

We invite all you good sportmen to see some of MOORE'S MOTOR SPORT INC., 21081 Pontiac Trail, So. Lyon, 437-2888. We are an exclusive SUZUKI dealership specializing in a complete line of SUZUKI motorcycles, snowmobiles, accessories, etc. For the best deal in used motorcycles, see us at MOORE'S. We're open from 10 'til 8 daily and Sat-Sun 12 noon 'til 6 p.m. We don't forget you after the sale.

The Jackson-at-Northville pairing series became a wide open affair as a result of Saturday night's action with four pacers now owning a victory in the series.

Favored Michigan Mack went down to defeat in the first division of the second leg as True Temper, driven by Jim McGarty made amends for a close loss to the Hillsdale hopeful the previous week.

It was the second, and presumably weaker division that provided the top excitement Saturday night as Knox about moved right to the front and never looked back on the way to a meet and series record time of 2:04.

Weather and attendance remained high, making up for three weather-plagued nights earlier in the week. Northville's new all-weather racing surface proved its worth with the first major storm of the year.

While the early-week storm caused cancellation of many events, including some racing in the Detroit area, the trotters and pacers went postward as scheduled.

Leon A. Slavin, president of general manager of Jackson's action at Northville Downs, has again scheduled his Thanksgiving Day holiday feast. Special prices for complete holiday dinners in the clubhouse and a buffet available for grandstand patrons, are planned. And children, accompanied by an adult, will be admitted free to either grandstand or clubhouse, with special children's dinner prices available.

Schoocraft Five Wins

Tom Luch scored on a lay-up with just three seconds left to give Schoocraft College a 95-89 victory over Concordia Lutheran College last week. The game was the season's opener for Schoocraft Coach Tom Roncetti's charges.

Luch's clutch basket ended a sea-saw battle that saw Concordia Lutheran leading 43-41 at the half.

Luch was high-point man for Schoocraft with 23 points, but all five Schoocraft starters finished in double figures as Craig Rosenhall had 18, Brian Dismore 16, and Mike Lewis and Leon Jackson each had 14.

HAPPY SENDOFF—Northville Township Supervisor Gunnar Stromberg (right center) and Township Clerk Mrs. Eleanor Hammond, honored at an open house program Thursday, were presented symbolic keys to the city by City Manager Frank Ollendorf (left) and Councilman Kenneth Rathert. Friends and fellow officials gathered Thursday at the township hall to wish the two long-time township officials happiness upon retirement from public office. Mr. and Mrs. Hammond will make their home in Northern Michigan and Mr. and Mrs. Stromberg will make their home in Florida. Both officials chose to retire rather than seek another term of office. On hand for the occasion were their newly elected replacements, Supervisor Lawrence Wright and Clerk Mrs. Sally Cayley.

 site bounded by Main, Wing and Cady streets and eventually sold to the city.
 McManus became interested in the site and proposed the mall, which covers the entire 58,000-square-foot parcel.
 Parking will be provided off the site, across Main Street to the north and across Cady Street to the south.
 The city agreed to pay half the cost of parking and assess Northville Square $200,000 ($20,000 per year at six per cent interest over 10 years) for the other half of the anticipated cost of some 400-plus parking spaces.
 The 50-50 split also was used by the city with other property owners in developing the Cady street parking deck and proposed off-street parking on Dunlap street.
 In addition to Mayor Allen, other officials attending the ground-breaking ceremonies were: City Councilmen Paul Folino, Kenneth Rathert and Paul Vernon, and City Manager Frank Ollendorf; Township Supervisor Lawrence Wright, Clerk Sally Cayley and Treasurer Joseph Straub; and School Superintendent Raymond Spear.

 Two solicitation drives—one by the Jaycees and the other for the annual Mothers March—were approved Monday.

Jaycees were given permission to conduct their third annual candy sale on downtown streets December 15, 16 and 18 for the purpose of raising funds with which to purchase gifts for the Child Development Center. Our Lady of Providence, and Plymouth State Home.
 The Mothers March is scheduled from January 31 to February 5.
 The council declined to join with Grosse Pointe Woods in calling for the abolishment of of the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments, taking the position that SEMCOG is a needed, effective regional organization.

 Nevertheless, Councilman Paul Veron suggested that the council examine in detail later why so many communities dislike the organization.
 A traffic survey of Clement Road at Thompson Brown's subdivision shows that traffic regulations are unnecessary, the council learned.
 The police survey was ordered after citizens in the area complained that motorists were speeding.
 Rather than drop the matter, however, the council decided to send a copy of the survey to the Lexington Commons homeowners' association and await its reaction.
 A revised parking assessment bonds resolution was approved Monday, and a public hearing was set December 18 on the city's annual street fund budget.
 Following Monday's meeting, the council reviewed in detail the financial statement of the city for the first three months of the fiscal year.

 Do you know that you can re-use nails? This, of course, is only possible if you can get them out of whatever they're holding together at present in good condition. To pull a nail out without bending it is an art; you must know exactly what to do. Use a claw hammer. Place the hammer head on a piece of wood or block laid against the surface of the work. Then pull slowly and carefully. This also will prevent marring your work with the hammer head.

A newly recognized disease of horses which so far been positively identified in two breeds is being studied at Colorado State University.

Present treatment for the fatal disease, called equine adenoviral infection, are not effective.

The adenoviruses are so called because they were first isolated from glanders, the throat. Thirty-two separate types have been isolated from humans and numerous types have been identified in different animal species.

of Agriculture, announced that retail meat counters in Michigan will soon be displaying signs which identify companies whose sausages and other meat products meet the Michigan Department of Agriculture's high standards for "Michigan Grade 1."

The signs are being distributed by Michigan sausage manufacturers.

Federal standards for comminuted meats permit the addition of such by-products as snouts, stomach, lips, ears, spleen, salivary glands and esophagi. There is no minimum percentage requirement, and the products may contain up to 10 percent added water.

Ball said much of the consumers' outrage is directed toward Armour, Hormel and Wilson, the three large out-of-state meat packers who filed suit in federal court in an attempt to force Michigan's higher standards down to the minimum federal requirements.

Of Building, Curriculum Needs Board Orders Study

An in-depth survey of the Novi School District, under the direction of the University of Michigan Bureau of School Services, was ordered Tuesday by the board of education. Tentatively scheduled for completion by March, the survey is to project long-range and short-range needs—both in buildings and curriculum adjustments—of the school district. Heading up the study will be Dr. Ray Kehoe of the U.M., who with four or five other Bureau staffers, will work with a 35-member citizens committee to be appointed later by the board of education. While it is not expected to consider the separate community education concept currently being proposed, board members are confident the study will provide important related data. (Superintendent Gerald Kratz is expected to make a recommendation relative to community education at the December 12 board meeting. Cost of the services of the U. M. Bureau has been pegged at $2,400. According to Dr. Kehoe, who spoke to board members Tuesday night, studies of this kind normally cost more but his department expects to use some of the findings of the North Central Accreditation investigation team at the high school, thus saving the district some $600. That high school investigation is North Central's first step in its accreditation of the high school. (Incidentally, the high school is presently accredited by the University of Michigan—and it is the Bureau of School Services that awards such accreditation.) Survey projections by the Bureau, according to Dr. Kehoe, will cover a 10-year long range and a five-year

Citizens See 'Open Doors' Program in Action

More than 40 enthusiastic school officials, city councilmen and citizens of the Novi School District toured community education facilities in Flint last week. The trip by school bus and tour was co-sponsored by Novi Jaycees and the Novi Board of Education. Following a dinner in the Flint schools food center, representatives of Flint's community education program and those connected with community education programs in adjacent school districts answered questions of the Novi guests. Later the Novi group visited one of Flint's community education centers—located in Williams Elementary School. During the question and answer period the following disclosures were made concerning community education: Cooperation between city and school district is essential to a successful community education program. A community divided splits defeat. Key element of a good program is the hiring of a professional community education director. Utilization of laymen from within the community as instructors is recommended. Non-paid volunteer instruction is possible at the outset of a program, but thereafter paid instruction very likely will become necessary. Academic instruction should be taught only by accredited teachers. Major ingredients of a program include adult education, with progress to a high school diploma; recreational-social activities for young and old; skill development; community organization activities. It's a pretty safe assumption that some 40-percent of a community's adult population does not have a high school diploma. Survey of the community is necessary to determine initial programs to offer; survey of those participating in the initial programs can assist in developing future programs. A community education director can serve also as a city's recreation director. Cost of community education is relatively inexpensive; it can be totally self-supporting. Generally, minimal fees are charged for classes, but senior citizens and those children or adults who are financially unable to pay are admitted free without disclosure of their names. A chief obstacle may be the custodian, who may dislike

Novi Rejects Plea For Fire Districts

With the threat of having to assume an $11 million sewer debt purportedly balanced precariously over their heads, the members of the Novi city council Monday shot down an ordinance that would have established fire districts within the city and thus forced developers to upgrade the quality of their construction. The action came after a specially-called forum in which developers involved in local projects had been invited to state their objections to the ordinance proposed approximately a month ago by Fire Marshall Ed McBride. Although the vote to defeat the ordinance was 4-2, it was apparent that several members of the council considered its defeat of utmost importance to the future of the city. In moving that the ordinance be rejected, Councilman Denis Berry suggested that the "council renew its faith in the integrity of the builders in this community to construct safe buildings." Likewise, Mayor Joseph Krup, in calling for the vote on Berry's motion, strongly urged rejection of the ordinance. "This ordinance would place a cloud on the future of this community," he said. "I think we should kill it right now." Voting to abandon the ordinance were Councilmen Raymond Evans, Donald Young, and Berry, along with Mayor Crupi. The two dissenting ballots were cast by William O'Brien and Louie Campbell. Councilman Edwin Pressnell was not present at Monday's session. In essence the proposed ordinance would have amended the B.O.C.A. Code, the basic building code throughout much of the United States, strengthening its basic requirements. Whereas "type four construction" is currently permitted in Novi for industrial buildings and multiple family residences, the new ordinance would have upgraded safety requirements by calling for "type one construction" for industrial buildings and "type two construction" for multiple family residences. Opponents of the ordinance claimed much more than the simple upgrading of safety standards was involved. As Mayor Crupi stated, "Opposing safety standards is a little like opposing the American flag, but there is much more involved here than just the question of safety." The apparent fear of the majority of the councilmen was that the increased safety requirements—particularly those relating to multiple family dwellings—would frighten off prospective developers. As Novi currently is faced with an $11 million debt for the construction of the Novi-Walled Lake sewer treatment plant and as the development of the north end of the city is being counted on to meet that debt, the council feared that the developers would abandon existing plans and thus leave the city with the debt and no means of paying it. As one councilman commented while leaving the meeting, "If the developers pull out now, Novi is in a heckuva lot of trouble." Fire Marshall McBride and Building Department Head Earl Bailey originally asked for the ordinance a month before the vote. Continued on Page 8-A

After High Speed Chase Police Apprehend 2

A 120-mile per hour chase down the I-96 expressway early Wednesday morning ended when the car being pursued by Novi police unsuccessfully attempted to evade a road block, travelled over an embankment, and then flipped and rolled to a stop. Apprehended were 17-year old William Calvin Brown of Detroit and a 13-year old female juvenile. Appletton and Harbin attempted to stop the car, but as soon as they turned their vehicle around the other car fled to Novi Road and then headed east on I-96. The two Novi patrolmen notified the station that they were in pursuit of the car and radio messages were sent to Patrolmen Gary Appletton and Herbert Harbin while on routine patrol of Novi's business district observed a car pull out from between the Bain Brothers Landscaping and Novi Hardware buildings and turn west onto Grand River. Harbin has been on the Novi force for just a little more than a month. Appletton and Harbin attempted to stop the car, but as soon as they turned their vehicle around the other car fled to Novi Road and then headed east on I-96. The two Novi patrolmen notified the station that they were in pursuit of the car and radio messages were sent to Farmington Township police requesting a road block on the expressway and to Wixom Police to investigate Bain Brothers Landscaping to determine if there had been a breaking and entering. Brown successfully evaded the road block set up by Farmington Township and Southfield police were consequently contacted and asked to set up a blockade at I-96 and Ten and One-Half Mile Road. Brown also attempted to evade the Southfield blockade, police reported, but was unsuccessful and his car flipped over after he had

On Charter Amendments Wixom Holds Action

Wixom's voters in the November 7 election approved an amendment to the city charter which granted the city council the right to grant severance pay to a municipal employee upon the termination of his employment. Well, not necessarily. City Clerk June Buck told the council Tuesday that she had received a letter from the Oakland County Board of Canvassers which indicated that the amendment, although approved by Wixom voters 477-354, had not received a sufficient number of votes for passage. The news took the council and City Attorney Gene Schmeel by surprise. "I know of no statute which stated that the proposal would have to receive a certain percentage of the overall vote in order to be passed," said Schmeel. "In my experience a simple majority is all that is required for a charter amendment to be passed." The council, as perplexed by the information as Schmeel, directed him to contact the Board of Canvassers for an explanation. Until the matter is clarified, the council tabled the appointment of a Severance Pay Committee as specified in the amendment. The severance pay amendment was only one of two of the recently approved charter amendments which ran into difficulty at Wixom's council session. Also tabled was action on the fifth of the charter amendments which called for the Wixom council to adopt a set of rules of order and business. Councilman Gunnar Mettala proposed that Robert's Rules of Order be adopted, but his proposal was immediately protested by Councilman Val Vangieson. Continued on Page 8-A

Novi Rejects Plea For Fire Districts

Thus, during the day both children and adults are utilizing school facilities, he said. Community services at Williams include: Adult basic education and adult high school classes; consumer education instruction; job training, senior citizens programs, enrichment programs; a neighborhood meeting place; community learning and study center; community referral services; extension branches for community-wide agencies. A continual center for community action and community information dissemination; programs and services for juvenile delinquents and juvenile delinquency prevention; child care center; transportation services; Expanded school children's health services; community health referral services; planned parenthood information and instruction; nutrition education, consumer education, and homemaker instruction; parental care and well baby clinic; paraprofessional health-related training programs; and dental health education services. Residents within the Williams school neighborhood are given first priority, but its programs are open to citizens throughout the school district, according to Brown.
