Oakland mothers begin march against birth defects

Mothers' March Mothers in Oakland County are marching this week in the annual Mothers' March Against Birth Defects. Some 7,500 volunteers are involved in the program instituted by Franklin D. Roosevelt 40 years ago.

Book Discussion

The Novi Friends of the Library will hold a book discussion featuring "Your Erroneous Zones" by Dr. Wayne Dyer on March 7 at the Novi Public Library.

Partnerless Parents

Multi-Lakes Parents without Partners will meet tonight, Wednesday, March 1, at Venice of the Woods, 9361 Cooley Lake Road, Union Lake.

According to the county organization, the highest risk group of bearing birth defective children is the young mother. Alcohol is also proving to be the most dangerous addictive habit to this group.

A portion of the funds gathered in the Walled Lake-Commerce-Wixom area will be used to augment the already established teen-mother program in Walled Lake.

All marching mothers are identified by name tags and by the large pink kits they carry.

tion Department in cooperation with the Southfield Repertory Theater (SRT) will present its first production of this season's Young People's Theater with "Aladdin."

Geared for families with children in kindergarten through sixth grade, "Aladdin" will premiere Saturday, March 4, at 1:30 p.m. Following this performance, SRT will hold its unique "Red Pop Reception," affording the audience an opportunity to meet and mingle with the cast and staff of the theater in a fun and exciting atmosphere.

Parents who leave their children should pick them up at 2:45 p.m. The performance will be held at the Oakley Park Elementary School in the multi-purpose room. The cost will be $1.75 per person at the door. All youth seating will be on the floor. Chairs will be available for adults.

Financial Planning

A Payne, Weber, Jackson and Curtis investment seminar will be held at the Novi Public Library at Ten Mile and Taft Road on Thursday, March 9 beginning at 7:30 p.m.

An introduction to financial planning, the seminar employs the basic steps to coordinated planning using a balanced investment portfolio. A question and answer period will follow the program which is free to the public.

Workshops

A two session workshop dealing with puppetry and basic storytelling will be held at the Wixom Public Library on Monday, March 6 and Monday, March 13, from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The workshops will be geared to those interested in learning the arts of storytelling and puppetry for very young children. Members of the Institutional Services Department of the Wayne Oakland Federated Library System will lead the workshops.

The first session will be devoted to puppetry and will include discussions of puppet making, script writing or adaptation, and the taping of scripts. The second will feature basic storytelling guidelines including the use of flannel boards and finger plays.

Attendance is limited to 15 each session and is open to interested volunteers, preschool and kindergarten teachers and children's librarians. Registration may be made through Doris Goldstein at the Wixom Library by calling 624-2912.

It's Magic

The Walled Lake Library will hold a free magic show Saturday, March 4 in the fire hall directly behind the library on West Maple Road.

Children will be entertained with feats of magic by "Black Gold the Magician" beginning at 12:30 p.m. The show is expected to last approximately one hour.

Petitions filed for vote on incorporation

Petitions containing some 1,300 signatures have been filed with the State Boundary Commission, requesting an election on the proposed merger of Wolverine Lake and the Peninsular Park Subdivision in West Bloomfield Township to form a new city.

Village Administrator Bill O'Brien delivered the documents to the Boundary Commission's Lansing office Monday afternoon. However, it may take several months — possibly until mid-September — before the staff can validate the petitions and prepare a report for the Boundary Commission which will schedule the election on incorporation, according to James Hyde, commission administrator.

Field work still must be completed on five other annexation or incorporation matters before the agency can start its study on the village petitions, Hyde said. "It could be some months before we get to this," he added, "unless I can come up with some manpower."

Continued on Page 5-A. Action to schedule the election must be taken at a public meeting, the state administrator said, although the commission could take more than one meeting to discuss the issue. Hyde said the commission does not have a general policy on whether to schedule the balloting on incorporation for a regular primary or general election.

New lunch site opens its doors in Lakes Area

The new hot-lunch nutrition site in Commerce Township, sponsored by the Oakland-Livingston Human Service Agency (OLHSA), opened to a packed house last Thursday. Commerce Township officials recently gave the regional agency permission to use Township Hall as the lunch site until the senior citizens' community center is completed this spring.

The nutrition site is open from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Friday in the Township Hall, 2840 Fisher Avenue.

K-mart considers new store in fall

The Commerce Township Kmart store "should be open this fall," according to Michael Ward, executive vice-president of Ramco-Gershenson, Incorporated, developers of the proposed shopping center. Ward said last week that his firm anticipates receiving local approvals for the complex, to be located on a 12.4-acre parcel at Commerce and Union Lake roads, within 60 days.

Meanwhile, Long said last week that the Union Lake Action Committee, which is working with the four townships that include Union Lake Village, plans to ask the Kmart developers to use a nautical theme for the shopping center.

Vangieson named to city council

Former Mayor Val Vangieson's "leave of absence" from the Wixom City Council lasted just three months. Vangieson is expected to return to the council table as a councilman at the next meeting after having been appointed to fill a vacancy on the seven-member panel last week.

City Clerk June Buck announced at last week's meeting that Vangieson was the top vote getter in a secret poll of the council. Other candidates to fill the two-year vacancy were Charles Craig, Shirley Kujala, Margaret Ladd, Carlton Oldford, and Mary Parvu.

City Council members will fill the vacancy created by the election of former councilman and mayor-pro-tem Lillian Spencer to mayor in November. Mrs. Spencer was sworn in as mayor in January.

The appointment of Vangieson to fill the vacancy on the council marks a quick return to the local political scene for the former mayor. Vangieson was elected to a four-year term on the council in 1971 and subsequently became mayor-pro-tem. He became mayor in 1974 upon the resignation of former mayor Gilbert Willis and was then elected to a two-year term as mayor in the 1975 election.

Wixom to issue revenue bonds

Wixom's City Council has approved a request from the Ford Motor Company to issue approximately $3 million worth of Industrial Development Revenue Bonds to finance an industrial development project.

Act 62 also provides that a general election on the proposal to issue the bonds must be held if five percent of the registered voters file a petition within 45 days of the publication of the notice of intention to issue the bonds.

The lone dissenting vote in the 4-1 decision was cast by Councilman Robert Dingledey who argued, in essence, that he would not approve the proposal as long as the current assessment dispute between the city and the Ford Motor Company is still being contested.

Under the provisions of Public Act 62 of 1963, a municipality may issue bonds to finance an industrial development project.

The lone dissenting vote in the 4-1 decision was cast by Councilman Robert Dingledey who argued, in essence, that he would not approve the proposal as long as the current assessment dispute between the city and the Ford Motor Company is still being contested.

The Ford Motor Company is presently contesting the assessment of the Wixom Assembly Plant. The plant is believed to have been assessed at $23 million by the city, while Ford officials maintain that the assessment should be substantially lower.

City Attorney Harold Bulgarelli advised the council that the action is permitted by Public Act 62 of 1963 and that the city is in no way liable for paying off the bonds.

The act states specifically that the "bonds and the principal and interest thereon will not be a general obligation of the city and will in no event be payable from any tax revenues or other general funds of the city, but will be payable solely and only from payments to be received from the (Ford Motor Company).

Under the terms of the proposed contract with the Ford Motor Company, the title to the equipment will be transferred to the Ford Motor Company. The agreement provides that any and all costs associated with the issuance of the bonds or the installation and maintenance of the equipment will be the responsibility of the company.

Under the terms of the proposed contract with the Ford Motor Company, the title to the equipment will be transferred to the Ford Motor Company. The agreement provides that any and all costs associated with the issuance of the bonds or the installation and maintenance of the equipment will be the responsibility of the company.

The bonds would be retired solely by payments from Ford. When the bonds are retired, the title to the equipment would pass to the Ford Motor Company. In opposing the proposal, Dingledey indicated that he would be willing to "play ball" with Ford Motor Company on the bonds if they would "play ball" with the city on the assessment dispute.

Dingledey's objections won little support from the rest of the council, however. Councilman Melvin Green said his initial impulse had been to agree with Dingledey, but that he had subsequently decided that "no good purpose would be served by driving up the cost of these bonds."

Curl resigns chief's post

Walled Lake Fire Chief Russell Curl has resigned his part-time city post. Curl's resignation took effect March 1. Other than confirming his resignation, the chief declined further comment to The News, except to say that Manager Peter Parker knew his reasons for quitting. Curl and Parker met last week with Police Chief Willford Hook to discuss a number of concerns the fire chief expressed in a letter that followed his resignation. The manager said yesterday that he expected to inform the City Council of Curl's letter at its meeting last night.

Novi makes selection of finance director

The selection of a city finance director was made by the Novi City Council March 6, naming Les Gibson of Norton Shores to the post.

Gibson will leave his post as finance director of the City of Norton Shores, where he has served for the past five years.

He will be paid $25,000 annually. Gibson replaces former Novi Finance Director Fred Todd, who now acts as controller for Ingham County.

Gibson, 37, graduated from Ferris State College with a B.S. in accounting. In a letter sent to City Manager Ed Kriewall, Gibson says "Municipal fi-

Novi council rejects two plats

The Novi City Council does not even stock developers anymore when they reverse planning board recommendations and reject proposed subdivision plats.

"No, I knew it was coming," said Curtis Kime, representing Pulte Homes, the developer of two proposed subdivisions that were rejected by council at the March 6 meeting. "I expected it."

Kime apparently had been made aware of a tendency in recent weeks for the council to completely reverse the decisions of the planning board on subdivisions proposing use of the lot-averaging or the open-space option.

Both of the subdivisions Kime was proposing — the 143-lot Lexington Green and the 250-lot Jamestown Green — sought the use of the open-space option, which basically allows the developer to reduce lot sizes if the rezoning request is used for a park accessible to all residents.

Kime was rejected two times by the planning board for open-space plans for the Jamestown Green development before an acceptable plat arrangement was reached. The development would be zoned R-4 (80-foot lots) with lot space reduced to about 75 feet with the inclusion of the park.

"They (the planning board) practically wrote this one for me and I still can't get you to approve it," Kime told the council after the open-space option had been rejected on the Jamestown Green plat. Councilmembers Jim Shaw, Ron Watson, Bob Schmidt and Guy Smith voted against the plat, while members Pat Karevich and Martha Hoyer voted for it.

"Can I ask, after spending six months on this thing, what I can do on this?" Kime asked. "I've been through many cities trying to get plats through and this has been the worst. It has really been a nightmare trying to get this thing anywhere."

A consensus was reached by council that Kime should come back with a plan that would more closely reflect their intention of the open-space option. Kime expressed some confusion as to what the council's actual desires toward the option were. He asked whether any open-space option would be approved by the council.

Councilmember Ron Watson said he

Meadowbrook zoning hearings due

Novi's Planning Board is slated to make a decision which could go a long way toward determining the future orientation of property on the west side of Meadowbrook Road between Eight and Nine Mile Roads next Wednesday (March 15).

The planners are scheduled to hold two public hearings next Wednesday on the rezoning request which could have a strong bearing on the future development of property in that portion of the city.

The hearings will be held in the Novi School Administration Building at 7:30 p.m.

"The question the planners will have to decide is whether the property should be developed under an R-2 or an R-3 zoning."

The R-2 zoning requires half-acre lots (minimum lot sizes of 21,780 square feet and minimum lot width of 120 feet), while the R-3 designation prescribes minimum lot sizes of 12,000 square feet and a minimum lot width of 80 feet.

At the first of the two public hearings, the planners will consider the request of Victor J. Gornall to have a 6.5 acre parcel rezoned from its present R-1 (one acre lots) designation to an R-2 classification.

At the second public hearing, the planners will consider the request of Fuller-Stone to have a 13.6 acre parcel rezoned from R-1 to R-3.

The Fuller-Stone parcel is located immediately north of the Gornall parcel on the west side of Meadowbrook Road between Eight and Nine Mile.

Although the planning board could decide to approve both rezoning requests in their present form, City Planning Consultant, Charles Calms of Villac-Leman is expected to recommend that the same zoning designation be placed on both parcels.

Calms told the planners on February 1 that they had an excellent opportunity to look at the entire area with both rezoning requests coming in at the same time. "Whatever you decide to do will affect both parcels could well determine the type of zoning that comes in on that land north of these parcels," he said at the March 1 meeting.

The planning consultant added, however, that he felt either the R-2 or R-3 was an appropriate zoning for the two parcels.

Country Place, a multiple family development, is located immediately west of the two parcels up for rezoning. The property along the east side of Meadowbrook Road opposite the two parcels is zoned both R-1 and R-2.

The Meadowbrook Manor Subdivision on the northeast corner of Eight Mile and Meadowbrook is zoned R-1, while the proposed Carriage Hills Estates Subdivision immediately north of Meadowbrook Manor is slated for development this spring under an R-2 designation.

Calms has told the planners that either the R-2 or the R-3 would provide

EPA sets super sewer meeting for March 30

The third public information and involvement meeting on the proposed super sewer system has been tentatively scheduled for March 30 in Woodhaven, according to Thomas Lera, senior environmental planner with the Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Region V office in Chicago.

The session originally was supposed to be held the week of February 20, but Wayne County public works officials bowed out of the meeting, citing other commitments.

As a result of the delay, the fourth meeting, which originally was set for the week of March 20, has been pushed back to an unspecified date in late April, Lera added.

On the agenda for the March 30 session is a discussion of various alternatives and a description of the screening process which will lead to a proposed course of action, EPA officials said. Social, economic and natural environmental impacts of the alternatives will be discussed as a part of the program, Lera added.

The fourth meeting, according to EPA officials, "will focus on the environmental assessment process and the effects of the alternatives."

The series of meetings has been scheduled as part of the process of preparing a draft environmental impact statement (EIS) for the Huron Valley wastewater treatment facilities that will include the so-called super sewer interceptor line, running from Commerce Township in Oakland County to the southern tier of municipalities in Wayne County, and a treatment plant to be built near Lake Erie in southeastern Wayne County.

A draft EIS is expected to be presented at the fifth meeting in May or June, to be followed by a series of public hearings, before the final report is released in October.

WAFORA, Incorporated, a Chicago-based firm, is preparing the EIS for the federal agency.

Communities in the News-Record circulation area included in the super sewer study are Commerce, Walled Lake, Novi, Northville and Northville Township, Wolverine Lake Village and White Lake Township, both of which

Proposal studied

Commerce planners review zoning

The Commerce Township Planning Commission last week began work on a new zoning ordinance and received a report on the residential areas and recreation plans for a master land use plan update.

Planning consultant Steve Lehoczyk, of Community Management and Planning, presented both proposals to the commissioners February 27 at the panel's regular monthly work session.

The 150-page proposed zoning ordinance would replace the township's existing law, which was adopted seven years ago. Lehoczyk said the new ordinance and master plan could take effect by June.

Commercial, industrial and community factors plans for the master plan should be completed by the end of this month, the consultant said, and the major thoroughfare plan — complicated by the uncertainty over a state trunkline facility in western Oakland County — should be done by the end of April.

Public hearings on both the master plan update and the new zoning ordinance will be held later this spring, Lehoczyk said.

And, while the Township Board doesn't have to approve the master plan, the consultant said the board and Planning Commission will work together in considering the new ordinance and accompanying map, which the board must adopt, and the master plan.

The proposed ordinance, Lehoczyk said, is fair to developers, but also gives the township more control over development.

Under the proposal, three single-family residential districts would replace the present four districts, although a new category for duplexes has been added because of recent market demands for two-family structures, the consultant said.

The minimum single-family lot size of 9,000 square feet could be reduced by 20-percent, Lehoczyk said, if open space is provided.

A cluster residential district also has been added to the proposed ordinance to provide "options to the developers," Lehoczyk said.

The cluster district would afford developers the option of using a minimum amount of common space to provide more aesthetic surroundings, especially for wooded areas, he added.

The new multiple family district is stricter in terms of parking requirements, Lehoczyk said, but has less stringent density regulations, while the mobile home category has been expanded to include more provisions.

Originally, the present zoning ordinance included two commercial districts, but it was amended in May of 1975 to include six. While two were not enough, six proved to be too many, Lehoczyk said, resulting in a decision to include four commercial districts in the draft ordinance.

Those four districts include a local business area for convenience shopping, community business for larger developments, a general business zone that is basically a catch-all and a highway service area, which originally was supposed to be a freeway district until the Michigan State Highway Commission cancelled the M-275 freeway project, Lehoczyk said.

Cancellation of the freeway also has posed problems for the planners since M-275 was shown in the existing and proposed master plans, the consultant said.

As a result, the Planning Commission has designated the M-275 alignment as a "route under study" since one of the two alternatives now under consideration — the Commerce compromise or McConnell plan — calls for utilization of the original freeway alignment northwest of the Haggerty-Pontiac Trail area.

The proposed ordinance retains the present two industrial and one parking districts, while the present office classification would be covered by a commercial designation.

Missing from the new ordinance are agricultural and trailer-coach districts, although a new special purpose zone has been added to the draft, Lehoczyk said.

Deletion of the agricultural district reflects the fact that Commerce is no longer a rural area, the consultant said. He added, however, that the proposal allows stables and other agricultural-type facilities to remain.

Under a proposed special purpose district, which includes housing for the elderly, golf courses and similar uses, Lehoczyk said the new ordinance would give the township more restrictions for gun clubs, drive-in theatres and roadside produce stands.

Another feature of the proposed zoning ordinance is a requirement for an environmental impact statement on all proposed rezonings.

In addition to these changes, the con-

Police have suspect in fatal hit-and-run

Police believe they are close to "wrapping up" the investigation of the hit-and-run accident in which a 28-year-old Livonia man was killed in front of the Wixom City Hall last week.

Although tight-lipped about releasing information, police say they are actively seeking a manslaughter warrant for the alleged driver of the vehicle.

The victim, John Wayne, Jr., 28, of Livonia was struck by a vehicle as he was walking along the south shoulder of Pontiac Trail shortly before 8 p.m. last Tuesday. The accident occurred just east of the Wixom City Hall.

The accident is under investigation by both Wixom Police and the Oakland County Sheriff's Department. Police have asked that anyone with additional information call the Wixom Police Department at 624-6114.

A manslaughter conviction carries a 15-year sentence.

Wixom sets block grant priorities

The bulk of Wixom's fourth year federal community block grant will be spent on the city's proposed park pavilion and a housing rehabilitation program, according to Assistant to the Mayor Bernard VanOsdale.

Under the current application, the $151,000 total will be split almost entirely between the two areas with $75,000 each going for the park pavilion and housing rehabilitation programs. The additional $1,000 will be used for administrative purposes, grant preparation, and environmental review.

The decision to settle on the final figures came after two other proposals were discussed. One proposal suggested $100,000 for rehabilitation grants and only $50,000 for parkland development. Another proposal had the base $150,000 divided into three equal parts for the rehabilitation program, park program, and construction of a new senior citizen center.

The three way proposal was rejected because the senior citizens have been already granted use of the city's community building. It was then suggested that a senior citizens center be added to the proposed park pavilion, but that too was rejected on the grounds that senior citizens shouldn't be forced to mix with the general public at the park.

As it currently stands, the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development would have to approve the Wixom community block grant before either of the programs would go into effect.

If approved, the $75,000 for housing rehabilitation would be set aside for needy families in the city to make home repairs, while the $75,000 for parkland development would be used as part of the cost of city's proposed pavilion.

According to VanOsdale, criteria for the housing rehabilitation money would be established and then advertised in local papers. Still VanOsdale feels that some citizens may be reluctant to apply for aid.

After application, and if the applicant meets the criteria, an inspection would be made of the house and an estimate of repairs, new electrical wiring, or other home improvements established by the criteria.

Contract talks continue with Commerce union

Commerce Township officials still are hopeful that a new contract with the Commerce Township Firefighters Local 2154 of the International Association of Firefighters can be settled before the existing agreement expires March 31, according to Clerk Robert McGee.

Township Board and union representatives held a second bargaining session Tuesday, February 28, and "agreed on a number of things," McGee added.

Still to be resolved are issues involving salary, vacation and holiday time, and "some other minor wording," the clerk said.

"It's still possible that we could reach agreement before March 31," McGee said, "but I can't guarantee anything. I still see some optimism."

The next bargaining session between the union and the Township Board has been scheduled for Monday, March 13.

At the first negotiations meeting February 13, the parties agreed to 80-percent of the existing contract language, the clerk said, and settled on 10-15 percent of proposed new wording.

The union has asked for a state mediator to be assigned to the negotiations in case the parties reach an impasse, but McGee said the mediator hasn't been asked to enter the talks because progress has been made.

Under provisions of state law, a mediator must be requested by a certain time during the negotiations process.

Two years ago, differences between the union and Township Board were submitted to binding arbitration before a proposed contract was reached in October.

Providence facility to be on Lapham site

Providence Hospital will apparently construct its permanent facility in Novi on a three-acre parcel at the northwest corner of Ten Mile and Haggerty Roads.

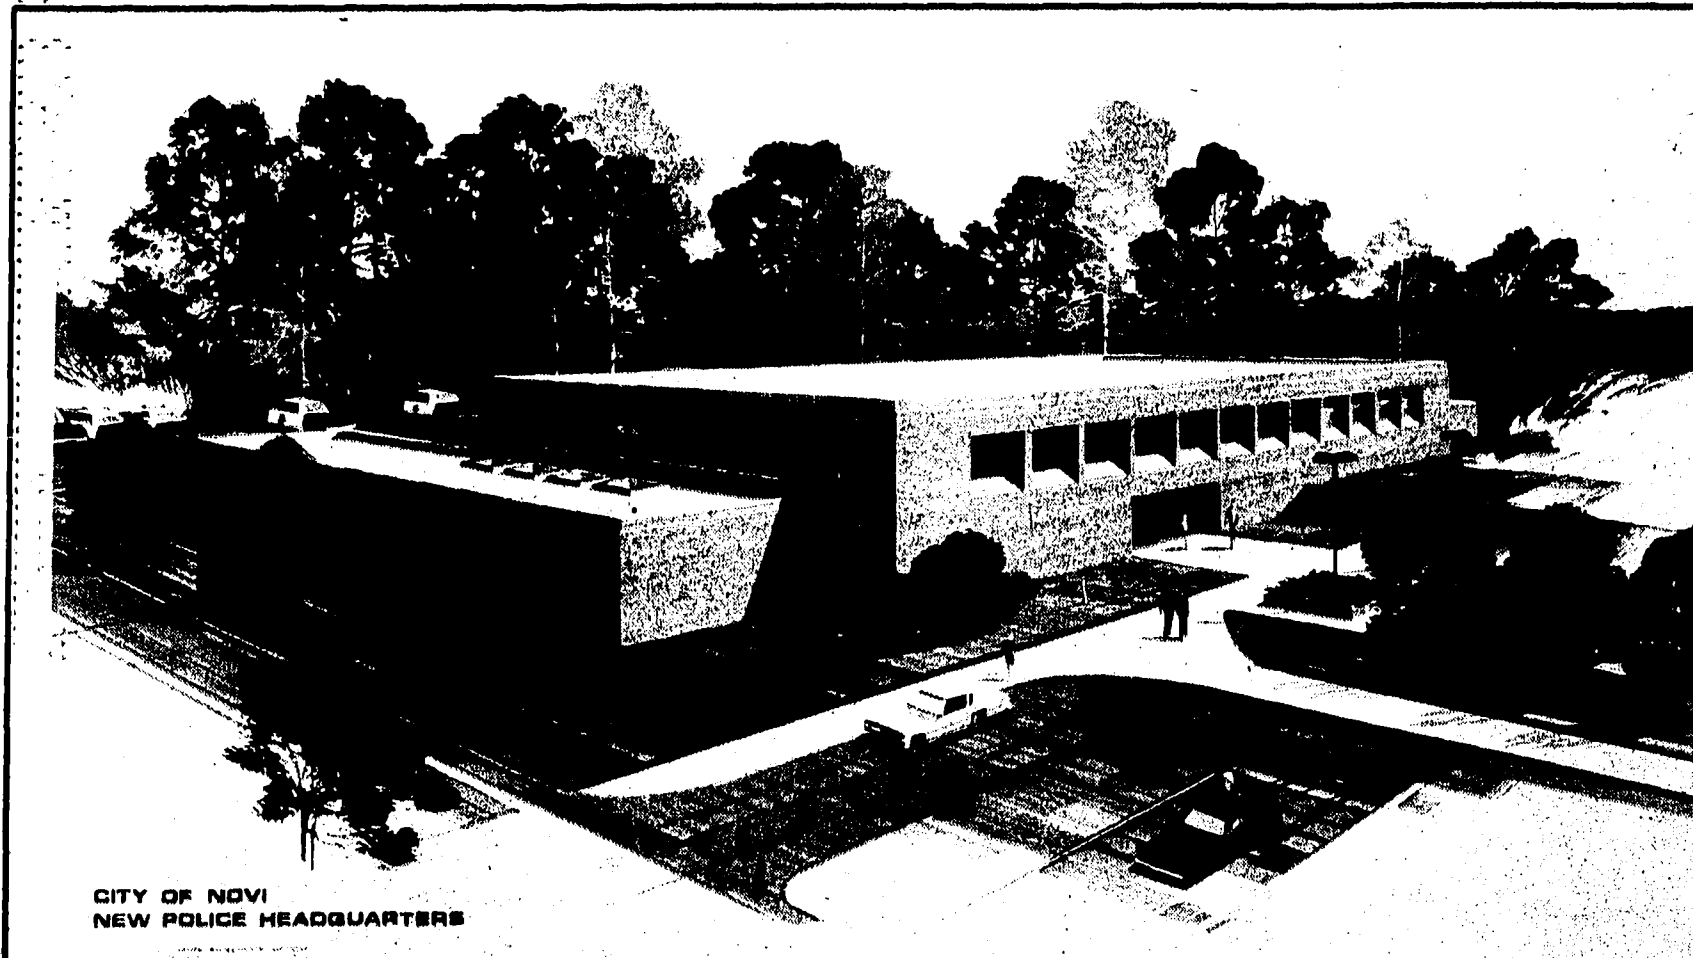

The selection of the site has been the only unanswered question about Providence Hospital's plans to locate a satellite ambulatory care facility in Novi since the State Department of Public Health approved the application for a Novi facility early in December.

Rumors have long persisted that the ambulatory care facility would be constructed on the Ten Mile-Haggerty site and that the Grand River-Meadowbrook location was being used as a secondary choice in the event that negotiations with the owner of the primary site, Charles Lapham of Northville, were unsuccessful. Murray Leipzig, an assistant administrator at Providence Hospital, reported that the hospital has an option to purchase the Lapham property contingent upon site plan approval.

The news has learned that the option expires on March 16 - one day after Providence officials are scheduled to appear before the planning board for site plan approval.

The ambulatory care facility will be a family practice center modeled after a small group practice with examining-treatment rooms, vision care area, laboratory and radiology area, physical therapy space, mental health area, an all-purpose room, and appropriate diagnostic facilities.

CITY OF NOVI NEW POLICE HEADQUARTERS

Council approves police station design

The Novi City Council has given its approval of the design development phase of the $2 million police facility to be constructed near Taft and Ten Mile Road.

The council gave its approval March 6 after listening to a presentation made by chief architect Jim Coquillard, detailing the proposed design.

The design must still be approved by both the library and school boards before it can be sent out for bids.

The exterior of the building will be made of face-brick similar or matching in color to the new high school. The building will be two stories, with capability of adding a third floor.

The building features a large lobby in front to aid citizens. Also featured is a communications room which is large enough to serve as a control center during periods of emergency.

Also planned are exercise rooms, shower rooms, debriefing rooms and four cells to hold prisoners. A back stairway will be constructed so that surveillance officers can enter unseen.

Coquillard said there were some questions raised about the manning of the station. He said he thought the station could be manned by existing personnel.

Assistant city manager Alex Allie later amended Coquillard's statement to say that the station would be able to be manned by personnel planned to be on duty when the police facility is finished in 1979.

Councilmember Bob Schmid asked Coquillard if the building were to be constructed in a fashion that would insure the efficient use of energy.

Coquillard replied that the building was to be constructed in one of the most energy-efficient methods available.

Leipzig said that the original plans are substantially intact and that both 10,000 square foot buildings would be constructed simultaneously.

The construction timetable calls for work to begin this year and be completed in time for a tentative opening date of late-spring or early-summer in 1979.

In addition, Providence Hospital is acquiring enough property so that the facility can be expanded to contain 60,000 square feet in six buildings.

Schools campaign for millage hike

Armed with an arsenal of figures and statistics, Novi school officials are busy trying to drum up support for its millage request to be decided by voters at the March 18 election.

The school is asking for the renewal of its millage for operating expenses, an additional mill to defray rising costs and another half-mill to be used for energy conservation measures.

The 13-mill renewal and the additional mill for operating expenses are substantially intact and that both 10,000 square foot buildings would be constructed simultaneously.

The millage requests have come at an unfortunate time for the school system - in the wake of county-induced property tax assessment increases ranging from four to 20 percent to homeowners in the city.

"I'm confident we can get them (the proposals) passed," says school board president and election chairman John Milam. "I think we will be able to get our message across and the voters will understand our needs."

Superintendent Gerald Kratz is also optimistic as the millage approaches, noting that the growth of the school district has helped keep the millage request relatively low.

In comparison, the Northville school district, facing declining enrollments, is asking voters for a 5.5 mill increase April 29 - and that just to bring the district to the level of operations enjoyed in 1974.

The amount of money the Novi district will need in the next three years is difficult to determine, especially in light of the city's construction boom.

To determine the amount of money necessary, the school board formed a financial needs assessment committee to examine projections of city growth and school needs. The committee was under the direction of Assistant Superintendent Dr. William Barr.

The committee projected an increase in enrollment in the Novi schools from approximately 3,100 today to 4,000 three years hence, for a total rise of 900 students.

Kriewall says it is the policy of the city to keep developing, hoping that when capacity is reached, a solution to super sewer will be reached.

The city manager said the letter was not meant to discourage development, but instead to let developers know what the situation is.

Mosher added a similar situation exists in Northville Township, another area experiencing great growth, and township officials sent out a similar letter.

The system serving most of the section of the city south of 12 Mile Road is the Huron Valley Sewer System.

The city has already approved the initial plans for super sewer, but several more hurdles must be cleared before it becomes a reality.

The federal Environmental Protection Agency is expected to complete an environmental impact study by the end of the year. If the environmental impact study should be favorable, applications will then be sent to the federal government, which would pay 75 percent of the cost.

Attorney questions agreement

Wixom delays approval of cooperative fire pact

Wixom's City Council has decided to table action on an agreement to participate in the seven-community Southwest Oakland County Fire Service Co-operative.

Specifically, the council voted unanimously (5-0) last week to refer the proposed agreement to City Attorney Harold Bulgarelli for review and recommendation.

That review could well entail significant revisions to the proposed document.

Farmington City Manager Harold Deadman appeared before the council last week to explain the pact which would establish the fire service co-operative.

In addition to Wixom, the communities of Novi, Walled Lake, Commerce Township, Farmington, Farmington Hills, and West Bloomfield would be included in the agreement.

The agreement has already been approved by four of those communities: Novi, Walled Lake, Farmington, and Farmington Hills.

Under the agreement, member communities will co-operate with each other to accomplish five major functions:

joint training, fire prevention, automatic response for multiple-alarm emergencies, long-range fire protection planning, and fire station location and equipment purchases.

A Board of Administration with a representative from each of the communities - probably the fire chief - will be responsible for administration and supervision of the co-operative, including the hiring of a fire service coordinator who would coordinate the activities of the co-operative.

In making his presentation to the council, Deadman said that the co-operative would be extremely beneficial to the communities involved in the agreement.

The present mutual aid agreement between the various communities is 20 years old and could be substantially improved, he said.

Deadman said that a sophisticated mutual aid pact would provide automatic back-up coverage. He noted that if firemen leave a community to assist a neighboring community, there is no back-up protection under the present agreement.

A regional fire service co-operative could alleviate this deficiency by putting all fire departments in the communities on notice when firemen from one community leave to assist a neighbor.

Deadman also said that the fire service co-operative could provide for standardization of equipment and coordinate equipment purchase to avoid inefficient duplication.

Although the council appeared to be generally favorable to the proposal, it decided to postpone ratification of the agreement on the advice of its attorney.

Bulgarelli told the council that he liked the concept in principle, but he has several reservations regarding the proposed document which would establish the regional fire co-operative.

Bulgarelli objected particularly to the provisions for withdrawal from the pact and subsequent financial responsibilities.

"I don't see anything in here that says Wixom is a member of the group and it is not liable for expenses if it does not approve the budget," stated the city attorney.

Bulgarelli also said the agreement was unclear about financial obligations that would exist if one of the member communities decides to withdraw from the pact.

A proposed budget of some $45,000 has been prepared by the Ad Hoc Study Committee, including $24,500 for the coordinator's salary, $8,500 for a clerk-typist, $3,700 for fringe benefits, and $1,300 for training materials and equipment.

Under the proposed financing formula, the cost to each community, based on population and state equalized valuation figures, are as follows: Commerce $6,025; Novi $4,700; Walled Lake $1,348; Wixom $1,711; Farmington $3,422; Farmington Hills $16,301; and West Bloomfield $11,370.

However, an actual budget and cost sharing formula will be adopted at a later date.

The proposed agreement also gives member communities the right to withdraw from the pact. Such withdrawal must be accomplished by a majority vote of the governing body (city council, for example) and would become effective 90 days after the formal vote. Bulgarelli told the Wixom council that the proposed agreement did not prescribe the financial obligations that would exist if one or more members voted to withdraw.

Theoretically, all seven members could vote to withdraw from the pact. Bulgarelli maintained that the agreement should prescribe financial obligations if such a situation should arise.

"I'm all for this, but I don't approve of what's in here right now," stated the city attorney.

The council subsequently voted to refer the proposed agreement to Bulgarelli and asked him to propose changes in the document that would resolve perceived deficiencies.

Bulgarelli is expected to report back to the council at its next session (March 14).

Merchant cited for selling liquor to minors

For the second time in three days, Novi police have cited Wisam Khidir Mukhtar, the co-owner of the Willowbrook Party Store at Meadowbrook and Ten Mile roads, for allegedly selling alcoholic beverages to minors.

Members of the Novi police surveillance bureau and road patrol learned to make the citation February 28 after they reportedly saw Mukhtar sell two six-packs of beer to a sixteen-year-old boy without asking for any sort of identification.

The boy then took the beer to his car, where he was accompanied by a 16-year-old and two 14-year-old boys, according to police.

The boys told police that they had indeed purchased the beer at the store and they had not been asked for any sort of identification.

Three days earlier, on February 25, Mukhtar was cited for selling to a pair of 16-year-old girls without asking for identification.

The city ordinance violation will be handed at the 82nd District Court in Walled Lake. Mukhtar could be fined up to $500 or spend 90 days in jail.

Lieutenant Detective Richard Faulkner notes that Mukhtar, 21, and his brother, 23, have only been in the country for a year and a half and are not American citizens.

Faulkner said he phoned the LCC to find out whether aliens are allowed to hold liquor licenses and he was told the attorney general's office has issued an opinion stating it is allowable.

"I would like to see the attorney general's office reconsider that," Faulkner said.

Faulkner said many aliens come into the country and operate such party stores and seem unaware of the rules of conduct expected of them.

The detective noted the initial investment for such a party store may run as high as $100,000 and too often store owners disregard the rules in order to earn back their investment.

Faulkner said the Willowbrook Market instance is not an isolated occurrence, noting that the Novi Party Store was also cited for selling liquor to minors recently.

He stated the police have been on the look-out recently for stores that sell to minors.

Wolverine petitions for vote

Continued from Walled Lake, I election, but added that they cushion of some 560 names may be needed in case some of the petition signers were not qualified voters.

"The whole thrust in this has been that we wanted to have a show of strength," McEllan said.

"We've accomplished that and I'm very proud of the people who worked so hard on (the petition drive). This way, we'll be able to vote on our own."

McEllan added that residents of Fenicular Park Subdivision collected some 40 signatures on petitions that oppose the incorporation. Those documents also were presented to the Boundary Commission, he added.

Village officials launched the campaign February 15 after the Michigan Supreme Court refused to hear a further appeal of lower court rulings that upheld a 1972 Boundary Commission order on the proposed incorporation.

Under state law, residents in the affected areas had 45 days in which to gather signatures from five-percent of the residents in the township, village or city, Long added.

The area that could be annexed to Walled Lake, generally south of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks, apparently does not have 100 residents which means the Boundary Commission could order the land transfer without an election.

While village officials publicly backed the petition drive, an effort to maintain Wolverine Lake's status as a home-rule village, Commerce Supervisor Robert Long has said that the township "favors cityhood under the present circumstances."

Engineering firm changed

Continued from Novi, 1 he examined individually to determine whether a switch could be made.

Mosher commented that often the projects proceed in several stages and it is usually possible to break off the engineering plans at these breaks.

Councilmember Shaw asked Mosher the amount of work that was fed into Johnson and Anderson by the city last year.

Mosher replied "about $500,000." But, he added, he thought there was an unusually large amount of city engineering work last year and did not expect such high figures in the next year or two.

Mosher added the rate fee structure charged for engineering services would remain the same.

Shaw asked if the city might not be better off by hiring an in-house engineer rather than contracting on an individual project fee basis.

Mosher said such a proposal was discussed and judged unfeasible at budget sessions earlier this year. He said one problem with an in-house engineer would be the city would continue to pay him even when the work slacked off.

Members of the Johnson and Anderson firm were also in attendance at the meeting, although they did not take part in the discussion.

Novi hosts dobermans

The Doberman Pinscher Club of Michigan will be sponsoring an all breed conformation class beginning Tuesday, March 21, in the Novi Community Building. The community building is located at 28350 Novi Road.

Taught by Dale Oversby, the class will get under way at 7:30 p.m. and is open to dogs of all varieties. A second class will be offered if necessary.

For further information on the class call Pat Konoda at 346-1394 or 284-2549.

Sewer taps disappearing

House building halt foreseen

Novi's building boom may go bust soon.

At least that's the tenor of a letter drafted by City Manager Ed Kriewall and sent to all developers eyeing Novi for future construction.

Attached to the letter are reports noting that Novi has about 2,000 to 3,000 sewer taps left in the southern section of the city and 2,755 proposed housing units.

"The bottom line is that other planned developments on the horizon could accelerate the use of available capacity and cause a moratorium on building," Kriewall states. "You should be aware of this problem and be prepared with the potential stoppage of building activity."

Mosher wins contract on split vote

The Novi City Council gave approval to a switch in engineering firms at its March 6 meeting on a 4-2 vote, releasing Johnson and Anderson of Pontiac and hiring the newly formed company of Mosher and Mead.

The approval of the new firm is on a temporary basis and will be voted on again when routine checks of the firm's finances and insurance are made.

The new company will be under the direction of Harry Mosher, who has served as the Johnson and Anderson engineer in the Novi area for the past four years. Mosher's resignation from Johnson and Anderson became effective March 3.

Mosher told the council he resigned from the company after many members of his crew were released by Johnson and Anderson. He said he doubted whether he could continue to provide the same level of services with Johnson and Anderson without the other members of his team.

Kriewall says the solution to the problem lies in a concerted effort by builders, developers, trade unions and government officials to exert pressure on legislators to get work on the super sewer completed.

Construction of the proposed super sewer would mean a new life to building in the city.

On the bright side, Kriewall noted the great amount of engineering work on-going.

Mosher is currently involved with the completion of the Novi road program and the construction of several water lines in the city.

Mosher told the council he thought there would be a smooth transition of engineering firms. He noted Johnson and Anderson would still be under contract for several engineering projects and they would probably finish these projects.

Among those projects the Johnson and Anderson firm is currently working on are the Patnales Drain and a sewer system evaluation survey.

Councilmember Ron Watson questioned City Attorney Dave Fried about the legality of such a switch in contracts. Watson asked whether the city was not indeed bound by contract on most of the engineering projects proceeding currently.

City Manager Ed Kriewall said he thought it would be difficult for the city to switch engineers at this point due to

Cost projections given for energy proposal

In response to requests made by several school board members, the Novi school administration has released figures for energy conservation measures and the projected savings for these expenditures.

Voters in the Novi school district are being asked in the March 18 election to support a request for a half-mill to be used to make school buildings more energy-efficient.

The half-mill would be levied for three years and would raise approximately $265,000.

Dr. William Barr, assistant school superintendent, showed members of the board at the March 2 meeting figures that projected the district would save the $265,000 in three and a half years if the energy proposal were adopted.

lights, the recruiting of the electrical system and the institution of a computer-run power management system.

Changing electrical circuits to gain greater control of what lights are needed would cost $10,000 and would result in net savings of $5,000 the first year, Barr said.

Recruiting would enable school officials to use only one light where one light is needed, instead of lighting a whole hallway where one light was needed.

The installation of insulation in the buildings was not projected at a great cost pay-out, however, with the initial expenditure being $132,000 and netting an annual savings of about $11,000.

Replacing the glass in the buildings with more energy-efficient insulated panels would cost about $15,000 and would result in a savings of about $1,000 a year.

The cost of a specific energy conservation study will cost about $6,000 according to Barr.

The request for the additional half-mill was approved by a 4-2 vote of the school board. Members Sharon Pelchat and Joan Daley both commented at the time they needed more information on specific cost pay-outs before they could support the proposal.

Parents of children who will be five years old by December 1, 1978 are asked to bring a birth certificate or other evidence of their child's age.

Millage approval requested

Milam has been distributing copper-colored buttons with a picture of Abraham Lincoln and the slogan, "Twenty cents for kids makes sense."

The slogan is based upon the amount of taxes that would be paid on a daily basis by a homeowner with a house assessed at $30,000 (50 percent of market value) for the additional mill and a half requested. The yearly cost would be $45.

Also pointed out in the presentation is that homeowners who pay more than 3.5 percent of their income in property tax are eligible for a 60 percent discount in state tax.

In addition a federal income tax credit is also available to some homeowners.

For a homeowner with three children and a house assessed at $30,000 and a household income of $28,000 total taxes by the mill and a half increase would be $45 and tax credits $41, for a grand total of a $4 increase.

The tax cost would naturally be greater if the homeowner did not have three children or had a more expensive house. But a chart provided by school officials shows that in most instances, residents will indeed be able to get a substantial tax credit for the increased millage payments.

School officials note that the renewal of the 13 mills will likely mean a reduction in teaching staff and the elimination of some course offerings. Class sizes may also have to be increased.

The renewal would not allow the school district to keep pace with rising energy and labor costs, school officials say.

The additional mill would give the district enough funds to hire additional staff for the anticipated increase in students and allow for the opening of the second middle school, which is the old high school on Taft Road.

The mill would also provide a fund of $82,000 in 1979 and $82,000 in 1980.

Masked armed robber nets $102 in 7-11 hold-up

In Novi
A man wearing a ski mask pointed a .45-caliber revolver at a clerk at the 7-11 Store near Ten Mile and Meadowbrook about 4:30 a.m. March 5 and told him to give him all the cash in the register.

The clerk gave him $102 and the robber told him to lie face down on the floor. The man then fled on foot. The clerk said he did not see any car before or after the robbery.

The thief was described as a white male in his early twenties with a medium build wearing a red plaid hunting-type coat. The ski mask was described as red and green.

Police have no suspects in the case.

Former Novi City Councilman Louie Campbell did a "le snooping on his own after he returned home and found his two snowmbls missing, and his efforts were successful in getting his machines back.

Arson is suspected to be the cause of a fire that broke out near the engine of a yellow caterpillar tractor parked on Meadowbrook Road near 11 Mile.

Steve Royhoner, the first fireman on the scene, said he took a burning gas can off the vehicle when he arrived.

A patriotic flag made off with an American flag hung outside the home of Kevin McKenna on Grand River.

The officer investigating the incident got a description of the flag as being red, white and blue with stars and stripes.

A Birmingham couple were the recipients of a police assist as a result of the new public drunkenness law in effect.

Also stolen were a bride, girl, saddle pad, and chaps. Total value of the stolen items was $535. The owner told police she had the items locked in a tackle box.

County lists surplus

Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy has announced a 1977 surplus of nearly $12 million.

"In a report to the Finance Committee of the Board of Commissioners, Murphy said the 1976 budgets are closed with an operating surplus of $1.275 million and that $700,000 has already been included in the estimated 1977 revenues for the 1978 budget. Murphy recommended that the $575,000 balance be placed in the contingency fund.

"Most of this surplus can be attributed to improved revenues during 1977 due to a more active economy," stated Murphy.

Oakland County surplus has shown a growth every year since the County Executive Department was established in 1974. The 1975 surplus was $21,000 and in 1976 it reached $2 million.

Beautification plan may obscure needs

Walled Lake's City Council has tabled a proposal for Mayor Gaspare LaMarca to launch a fund drive for the beautification of Maple Road.

The mayor reported that businessmen along the road and the Walled Lake Rotary Club have offered to donate money to the city to hire an architect to plan the beautification effort.

The council decided to table action on the proposal, suggesting that the city's Beautification Committee should come up with specific plans for the project before funds are sought.

We have no objection to the proposal whatsoever. In fact, the Rotary and the Maple Road businessmen are to be commended for their interest in improving the aesthetics of the commercial area.

However, we would caution city, civic, and business leaders not to let the beautification efforts obscure what we perceive to be concerns that could ultimately be much more pressing.

We refer specifically to the need to take a long, hard look at potential traffic and parking problems.

Everyone is well aware of the heavy volume of traffic that uses Maple Road. And even though the traffic volume gives the Maple Road businessmen good exposure, it might also deter prospective consumers in the future who could decide to take their business elsewhere instead of fighting the congestion as traffic volumes grow in the future.

Related to the concerns with traffic are concerns with parking needs.

Maple Road was widened from two to three lanes last summer and Oakland County Road Commission plans call for the road to ultimately be widened to five lanes to meet the growing traffic demands.

Maple Road businessmen have already protested plans to alter the parking patterns in front of their stores which they, quite properly, believe has an important bearing on their financial wellbeing.

County Road Commission representatives have already warned the businessmen that the parking in front of their stores will be eliminated when Maple Road is widened to five lanes.

We believe these are critical concerns to the economic health of the community.

We applaud the proposals to launch a beautification effort along Maple Road. Our only concern is that these other issues are also addressed.

"Now we've been in the Senate 11 years and I think a lot of the challenge is gone and so has a lot of the eagerness that a new person has when he comes into office. In some ways it may be better for the state as well as me to have someone fresh come in with that eagerness you have when you first start out."

Those are the words of Senator Robert Griffin when he announced his retirement from the United States Senate on May 1, 1977.

I do not know that I can fairly term Senator Griffin's recent re-entry into the Senate race as a political ploy, but it certainly is a political mistake for the Republican Party.

I am determined to stay in the race and challenge Senator Griffin in what has to be a tough primary for me. I do so on principle.

Finally, to my Republican friends who say it is not proper to stay in the race when Senator Griffin changed his mind, let me point out one fact: When Senator Griffin first sought office in 1956, he took on and challenged a six-year incumbent Congressman by the name of Ruth Thompson and defeated her.

It was okay to do it then and it is okay to do it now.

Griffin re-entry political ploy?

WILLIAM McLAUGHLIN

NO . . .

As Party Chairman my responsibility with regard to candidates is two-fold.

First, to seek out the strongest candidates possible and encourage them to run for office. Secondly, to ensure that everybody that wants to run is given that opportunity. I feel I met both those responsibilities in the current U.S. Senate race.

As a strong candidate, I think everyone will agree that Senator Griffin is one of the most popular and electable Republicans in our Party. He has proven himself a capable Senator and an effective vote-getter. Throughout the year he has received thousands of letters asking him to reconsider his decision to retire. My feeling throughout that year was that if he wanted to retire that was his decision, but that if he did return I would be enthusiastic because it would mean added strength at the top of the ticket.

While there is little doubt of the strength of the Griffin candidacy, there may be some who ask it fair that he has re-entered the race. I would answer by saying, because other people entered the Senate race should Senator Griffin be prohibited from doing so? I think the answer is obviously in the negative.

Essentially Senator Griffin changed his mind and I believe everybody has the right to do that. In doing so he has done what a vast majority of Republicans have been asking him to do since he announced his retirement last year.

Ray's Say

By David Ray

The late Heywood Brown, immortal New York columnist, once was approached by a cub reporter who wanted a few suggestions for writing a daily column. Without hesitation, the paucity, cigar-chewing scribe replied:

"Son, there's nothing to it. Just sit, signing a typewriter every morning, open up your veins, and bleed."

That's how Nick Raar started his last "The Man on the Street" column for The Mellus Newspapers as his retirement as associate publisher 10 1/2 years ago.

And, while our paths crossed briefly at the then-Green Paper, I don't recall that I ever asked Nick for any advice on the newspaper business. I was always a bit afraid of Mr. Raar, as I called him; he was a stickler for correct grammar, while I'm lucky if I spell grammar correctly.

But we did talk politics. He was an incurable Republican; I was devoted Democrat. And, true to form, we wagered a one-dollar bet on the outcome of the 1968 presidential election.

Nick won the bet, at least I prefer that terminology to saying that Nixon won the election. I don't recall ever asking Orrin for any advice reluctantly took a $1 bill to Raar's modest home in Lincoln Park — not that I'm a poor loser — and proposed a double-or-nothing rematch for 1972.

Raar had Nixon. I took Ted Kennedy. Well, we all know what happened: I lost the bet and the Nixon loss to Richard J.'s imperial presidency.

Sad to say, I never paid up on that bet. And, even more sadly, Nick Raar died Sunday morning at the age of 70.

His family has suggested that donations should be sent to the Lincoln Park Historical Society. I think I'll pay off my debt to Nick, with interest added, to the Historical Society.

Nick Raar will be memorialized today in the Mellus papers and at his funeral service.

Yet, it seems to me that there is something wrong about waiting until someone is dead to say how much they will be missed.

With that in mind, I'd like to say a few kind words about Raar's successor, Orrin Wright, the man who gave me my first newspaper job 10 years ago this month.

I don't recall ever asking Orrin for any advice about the business, either, but it's probably fair to say that I learned more about newspapers and writing from him than from anyone else.

Orrin didn't write a column, but he took great pride in putting out a consistently good newspaper every week and twice a week during the Detroit newspaper strike of 1967-68.

He was an old Detroit Times-man, but I never heard anyone accuse him of sensationalism — a trait The Times was known for.

Wright was not the tough and blustery Lou Grant type; he was fatherly and patient. Wright was not your typical hard-drinking newspaperman — in fact, he didn't drink alcoholic beverages — but he spent many lunch hours in the Ram's Horn (later Fred Mary) bar playing pool.

Also, he was an avid gardener, baseball fan and choir director at his church.

Unfortunately, Orrin Wright was forced to retire when he turned 65, although he still works for the Mellus papers part-time as a writer and editorial consultant.

With all the talk about raising the mandatory retirement age to 70, I can only say I wish that had been done five years ago.

In last week's paper, we ran a story quoting Novi assistant city manager Alex Allie as predicting the construction of nearly 2,000 housing units in the city this year. Such a housing boom could conceivably bring in an additional 6,000 people to the city by next year.

Some people have disputed the figures as being perhaps a bit high, but they do give an indication of the interest developers have in building in Novi. And it certainly is no more optimistic than projections made by the city in a 1967 Master Plan. The authors of that master plan predicted there would be 21,000 citizens in Novi in 1980, 37,000 in 1990 and 53,000 in the year 2000.

The master plan projected there would be 124,000 people in the city by the year 2020.

But back to earth a moment here. Listen to this projection:

The Southeastern Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG), a planning agency that acts as a clearinghouse for federal grants, projects the population of Novi in the year 2000 will be about 29,000.

Why is SEMCOG so far below the other projections?

The reason is simple. SEMCOG, which is in the business of planning such things, does not want to give the City of Novi anymore sewer taps. In a report sent to developers last week, city engineer Harry Mosher noted the city has a sewer capacity of about 26,000 people. And another 3,000 people with septic tanks and you come up with the SEMCOG projection.

The only way the city can get more sewer taps is to get the so-called super sewer constructed in the city. The proposed $146 million project would, if approved, provide all the sewer taps the city would need. And SEMCOG approval would be necessary.

But SEMCOG is leery of bringing sewer taps — i.e. houses — to the suburbs. Although SEMCOG is supposedly an apolitical agency, the politics are certainly there. Some observers suggest the man behind SEMCOG is Detroit Mayor Coleman Young, who, of course, is against any more urban sprawl.

If Coleman had his way, the people — and the money — would remain in the city.

The real question is how much power does Coleman Young wield over SEMCOG? Certainly there are other politically powerful foes who favor urban expansion and will work for the construction of super sewer.

The fate of the sewer will probably be decided in the next year or two and Novi officials are already beginning to exert what influence they have to get the project going. City Manager Ed Kriewell sent out letters to developers wishing to build in the area that they may have to look elsewhere unless more sewer taps are brought into the city. Kriewell asks that the developers work toward the approval of the super sewer.

But even if everything goes off without a hitch — and that seems unlikely — the construction of the super sewer is probably at least five years away.

And that alone is bound to slow growth in the city.

Others were domestic animals strategically placed by scientists.

For example, scientists wanted to determine the effect of a nuclear explosion on the eyes of animals just outside the ground zero. But in preliminary exercises, scientist found that rabbits tend to close their eyes in sleep. To insure that the rabbits' eyes would be open, scientists placed alarm clocks next to the rabbits. The clocks were timed to go off at the instant of the blast.

In our trenches we listened to and joined the count-down — the same kind of count-down we now associate with space rocketry. At precisely "zero," our trenches were drenched in light.

Soldiers characterized it differently: for me, the light had the color of aluminum foil, the heat of a Michigan summer sun. Actually, the light was said to be 50 times greater than that of the sun.

When the initial intensive light dissolved, some of us in the excitement of the moment stood, contrary to orders, to look at ground zero. The fireball was spectacular. But by the time we saw the desert floor dust and debris steaming towards us on the face of the shock wave, it was too late to duck. Moving at about a mile per five seconds, it roared into us like a deafening freight train, knocking us down.

Recoiling quickly, we watched the ball of fire turn from orange to a bright red before it was enveloped in a brown smoky cloud. It rose rapidly, sucking up the pulverized city in the stem of a gigantic mushroom. As the top of the mushroom reached the cold air of the stratosphere, ice formed on its cap and then melted and flowed down over the sides of the now multi-covered mushroom that reminded me of a giant melting ice cream cone.

Although we were several miles away from ground zero, the heat was intense. The brilliant white light of the explosion was so hot, telephone poles behind our trenches were burning and yet, because the soldiers were in trenches, we were untouched by the searing heat.

Once the dust had cleared, soldiers formed "battle lines" and moved out towards ground zero. Each of us wore radiation badges that registered our exposure to these invisible rays. We were preceded by men with more sophisticated instruments who located radioactive debris — pieces of timber and metal carried aloft by the explosion and scattered on the desert floor — and roped it off. We were told to avoid these areas.

We walked to within perhaps a mile of ground zero. From this vantage point, we could see nothing standing. Man-made objects had melted or disintegrated and had crystallized into glass, and a gigantic crater had been carved out of the earth.

No one was permitted a closer examination, and upon our return dust was swept from our clothing, and our badges were examined to determine our exposure to radiation.

A Congressional investigation, spurred by a research report that soldiers were ordered to participate in atomic tests that caused serious illness or death, recently was launched. My memory of an atomic test and its physical effect simply do not support the charges that are being leveled at the Army now, 25 years later.

'Why not take factor?'

To the Editor: It was quite interesting to read in your last editorial of the charge of possible "poor administrative management" in Commerce Township and the City of Wixom.

It seems Oakland County intends to levy a tax factor of 1.11 against Commerce Township and 1.10 for the City of Wixom because they didn't reassess their property according to law.

Mr. Merrifield, Novi Assessor, was quoted as saying "when adjustments are not made across the board increases are leveled, someone is paying someone else's taxes."

In previous reporting about the tax picture in Novi, it was reported in The Novi News that Novi intended to raise business and industry taxes by four percent and the expensive houses in southwest Novi by 20 percent.

It was a calculated decision not to seek adjustments and that he felt it was unfair to single out individual homes for increases. Because of this, Wixom will have a 10 percent across the board increase in property taxes for 1978.

In an inflationary climate, when taxes are raised percentage-wise, why aren't all properties increased by the same percentage in Novi?

Wixom taps Vangieson

Continued from Walled Lake, I Highly regarded by the rest of the council, Vangieson's name was mentioned prominently as a possible appointee when it became obvious that a two-year term on the council would speed up after the new council took office in January.

Vangieson told The News that he was flattered by the consideration when contacted shortly after the November election.

He stated at the time that he would seriously consider the possibility of accepting the appointment. He noted that the responsibilities of the office of mayor often required him to be in specific places at specific times. These requirements would occasionally conflict with his professional career.

Vangieson noted that the time required of a councilman are much less specific and stated that he believed he would have the time to serve on the council as long as he was not tied into a specific schedule.

Vangieson is employed by the Wayne County Health Department as Director of Epidemiology. He also operates a veterinary clinic on Pontiac Trail in Wixom.

Oak Park, Cranbrook swept away

Wildcats battle to district championship!

Remember the youthful band of Wildcats who took to the basketball court last November?

That was by far the most outstanding basketball game I've ever seen around here, or from the SEC for that matter," Flutur crowed. "Everything we put up was going in."

The Wildcats, in fact, shot an incredible 61.2 percent from the floor, blistering the nets with 41 of 67 attempts. And it wasn't a one-man show, not by a long shot.

Five players scored in double figures, a sixth chipped in eight more points, and a seventh set a school record for assists in one game.

Dave Pisha headed a balanced scoring attack by hitting eight of 11 from the floor and adding six free throws for 22 points. Dwayne Ridenour hit eight of 11 as well, scoring 16 points, while Louis Balogh tallied eight of 13 for 20 points and Phil McCarty seven of 15 for 14 points.

Rounding out the scoring were Bob McAllister, who collected 12 points on just seven floor shots (he made six of them), Bill MacCauley with eight points, Jeff Laverty with two and Jeff Clarke with one.

Laverty, the team's playmaking guard, also had 12 assists for a varsity record while Pisha added seven more.

But the Novi effort wasn't all offensive. Leading a smothering defense that helped give the Wildcats a 42-28 rebounding edge was Pisha, who picked up two steals and five blocked shots along with his 13 rebounds, and Ridenour, who snared 16 rebounds.

And all that came less than a week after the Wildcats had been on the receiving end of a similar performance at the hands of the Cranbrook team.

Going up against an Oak Park quintet that had upset the state powerhouse Clawson, a 16-4 club, just two nights earlier, Novi exploded for 49 points in the first half and sailed to a 95-70 triumph.

The Wildcats, in fact, shot an incredible 61.2 percent from the floor, blistering the nets with 41 of 67 attempts. And it wasn't a one-man show, not by a long shot.

Five players scored in double figures, a sixth chipped in eight more points, and a seventh set a school record for assists in one game.

Dave Pisha headed a balanced scoring attack by hitting eight of 11 from the floor and adding six free throws for 22 points. Dwayne Ridenour hit eight of 11 as well, scoring 16 points, while Louis Balogh tallied eight of 13 for 20 points and Phil McCarty seven of 15 for 14 points.

Rounding out the scoring were Bob McAllister, who collected 12 points on just seven floor shots (he made six of them), Bill MacCauley with eight points, Jeff Laverty with two and Jeff Clarke with one.

Laverty, the team's playmaking guard, also had 12 assists for a varsity record while Pisha added seven more.

But the Novi effort wasn't all offensive. Leading a smothering defense that helped give the Wildcats a 42-28 rebounding edge was Pisha, who picked up two steals and five blocked shots along with his 13 rebounds, and Ridenour, who snared 16 rebounds.

And all that came less than a week after the Wildcats had been on the receiving end of a similar performance at the hands of the Cranbrook team.

Going up against an Oak Park quintet that had upset the state powerhouse Clawson, a 16-4 club, just two nights practice before the team's season finale against Milan.

"I was worried about (a lack of) conditioning," Flutur admitted, noting that he gave the team three days off after the Milan contest to recuperate. "As it turned out the layoff did us a world of good."

Coming on strong again in the finals, the Wildcats stormed from behind for a 57-47 victory over powerful Cranbrook. Struggling back from a seven-point deficit in the second quarter, Novi cut the gap to 39-36 entering the final stanza, then waged a see-saw battle with the Cranes before pulling away in the last four minutes of the game.

Ahead 44-43 with three and a half minutes left the Wildcats scored five straight baskets — two by McCarty and one each by Pisha, Balogh and Ridenour — to sew things up and send Cranbrook down to only its eighth loss in 21 outings this season.

"I felt we were too nervous in the first three quarters," Flutur observed although he noted that Cranbrook's cagers, playing their third game in five nights, "had to be awfully tired."

When the going got rough, though, the Wildcats were up to the task. Thanks to two key steals by Bob McAllister late in the game and the 10-point surge it was all Novi's in the end.

Although shooting only 36.4 percent (24 of 66) for the game, Flutur's crew netted seven of 14 shots in the all-important fourth quarter and outscored Cranbrook 19-8.

Leading another balanced scoring attack for the winners was McCarty, who had 18 points, while Balogh added 15, Pisha 14 and Ridenour eight. Pisha also had 7 rebounds to lead in that category.

"They get a lot tougher from here on out," Flutur observed, noting that Novi's taller size will probably be offset by Gallagher's "tenacious defense" and exceptional quickness.

Starting time for tonight's clash is 8:30 p.m., with the winner advancing to Friday night's regional championship game, which starts at 7:30 p.m., against the winner of tonight's 6:30 game between New Baltimore Anchor Bay and Willow Run.

The Oakland University regional champ will then play in the Class B state quarterfinals at Southfield-Lathrup High next week.

Detroit Express owner John Maxwell talk's with Union Lake's Vicki Conway

Ex-Central cheerleader vies for Choo Choo team

They'll call them the Choo Choo Girls. What appears to be the Motor City's answer to the Dallas Cowboys will be unveiled some time next week as over 200 hopeful young ladies (and men) attend the preliminary interview session Monday at the Pontiac Silverdome.

Among the candidates for the dancing-cheering girls is Union Lake's Vicki Conway. A former three year cheerleader for Walled Lake Central's Vikings, she attended the registration at the Silverdome's Main Event Restaurant in hopes of landing a spot on the prestigious unit.

Conway, 19, works as a medical assistant to Dr. Burton Leib, a podiatrist in Waterford Township.

"I had heard about this on the radio," said Conway, "but I almost decided not to come. I really didn't know what to expect."

What the former Viking cheerleading team captain found was a one-page registration blank, and a short interview.

"I heard that they were looking for dancing talent and not just beauty," said Conway, "and I guess they are. But on the application they asked for specific measurements, hair color, height and weight."

At a subsequent interview with Mademoiselle modeling school's Pam Roberts, Conway noted that the assemblers of the Choo Choo girls asked specifically about cheerleading and dancing experience.

"I told her I had dancing experience through routines that I did with the pom pom girls in high school," she said.

The '76 Central graduate also was informed at the interview that the Choo Choo girls would not be wadded down to 20 female and four male dancers by Nykanen.

"By April first we'll be ready to go for our home opener April 16th," said Unger.

Does Union Lake's Vicki Conway have a chance?

"I don't know," smiled the attractive hopeful, "I'm hoping my experience will come through for me."

Christians win two of three

Chris Cahill goes on scoring binge

Junior Chris Cahill tossed in an incredible 128 points in leading the Novi Christians to a pair of basketball wins in three tries last week.

Cahill broke his own school scoring record twice last week in opening with 46 points in Novi's 65-63 loss to Genesee Christian, scoring 34 in a 50-27 win over St. Clair Baptist, and netting 40 points in the Christian's 77-51 win over Fowlerville Baptist.

"He's been popping them in from the outside," said Christian Coach Dick Burgess, "he's really been hot from all over the court."

Cahill's current school record of 48 points against Fowlerville came as he hit 17 of 28 shots from the floor and 14 of 18 from the free throw line. The South Lyon youngster also pulled down an amazing 24 rebounds in that game. Cahill's season scoring average is a remarkable 33.0 points per game.

Cahill showed his ability in the opening loss to Genesee Christian. With the Novi squad behind 47-34, Cahill ignited the team by tossing in 23 fourth quarter points to pull the Christians within two, 60-53.

"We ran out of clock," said Burgess. Novi ran away with the Gallien Baptist contest, 50-27, with Cahill being held to 34 points.

"We had a 28-9 lead at halftime," said Burgess, "and I played seventh and eighth graders the rest of the way."

In the Accelerated Christian Education (ACE) regionals held last Saturday at West Highland Academy, the Christians surprised Fowlerville, 77-51.

"They had beaten us once before when we weren't healthy," said Burgess. "But this time we were ready for them. I think a lot of the credit has to go to Jim Jidoff. He did a fantastic job on Fowlerville's 6-3 center, holding him to four points through three quarters. When Jim fouled out in the fourth quarter, their center scored 15 points, but we were way ahead by then."

The 5-10 1/2 Jidoff scored 12 points and grabbed 16 rebounds on the evening, making his total rebound output 49 in the three games.

Novi Christian is now 8-9 overall and 5-2 in the ACE excluding yesterday's game against ACE leader Taylor Baptist.

Warrior spikers win three

The Walled Lake Western spikers are on the move.

Losing their first seven matches, the Warrior girls have now posted three consecutive victories and five in their last seven outings.

"The girls are playing well most of the time," said volleyball coach Karen Wolski.

The Warrior spikers sandwiched league wins over Harrison and Mott around a non-conference triumph over Milford.

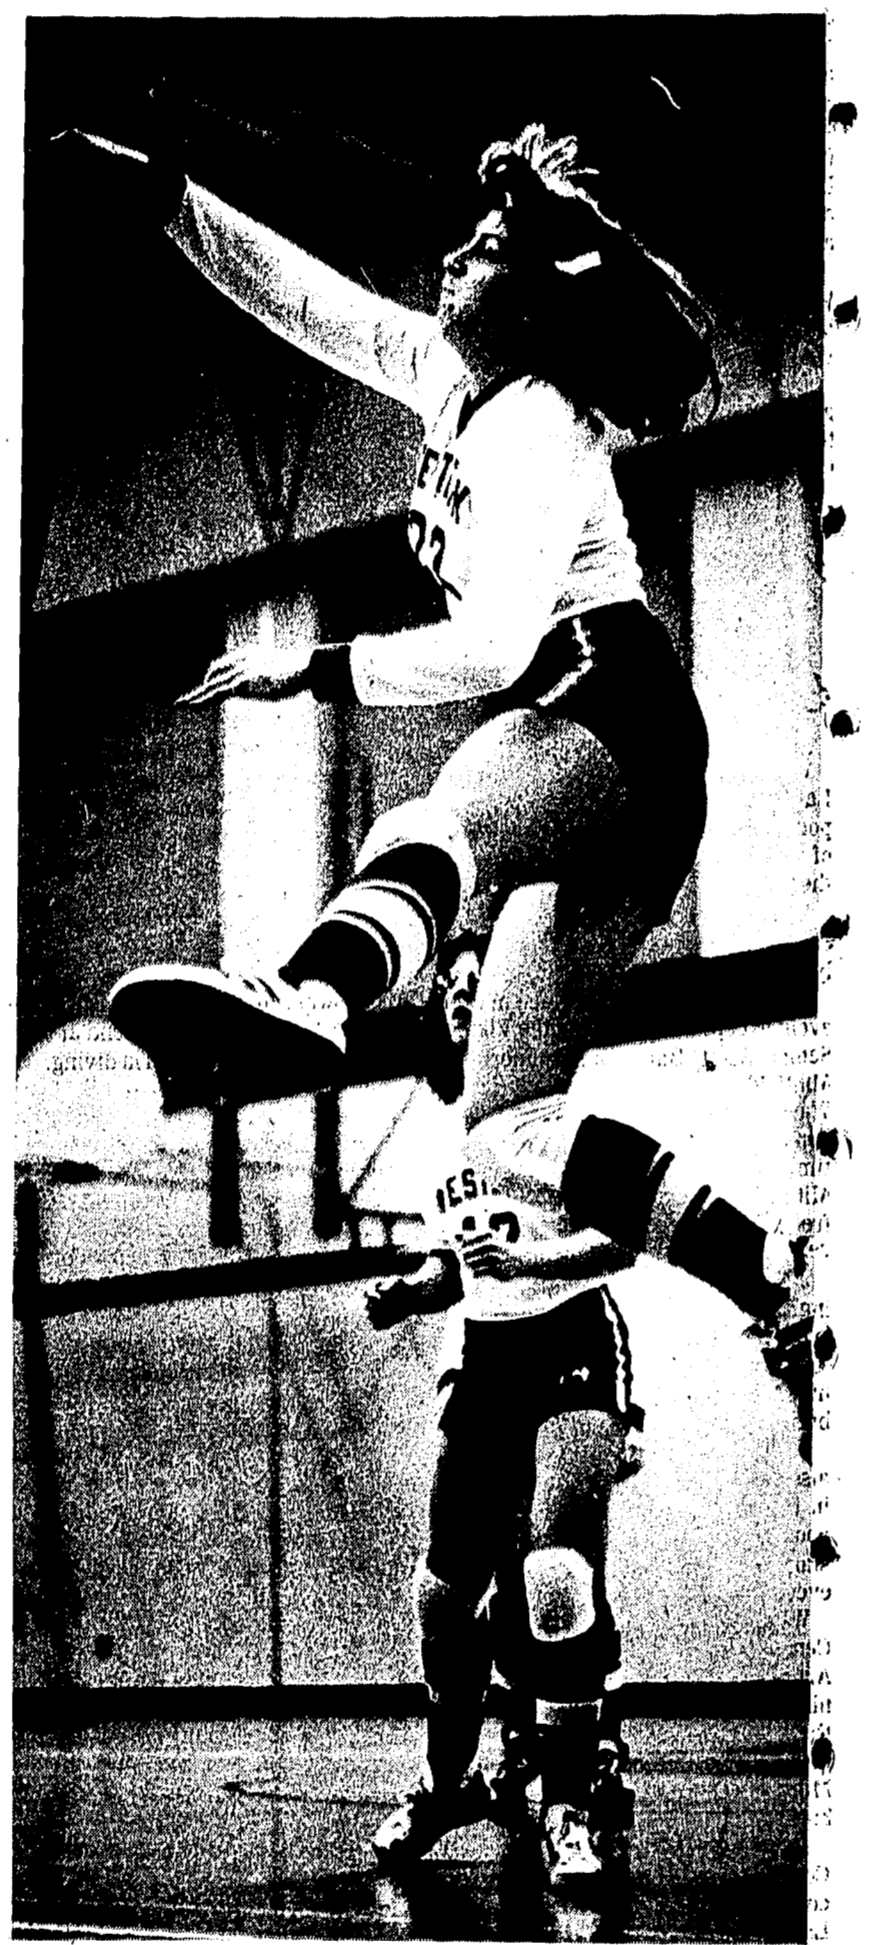

In the week's first game, Western avenged an earlier loss to the Hawks with a 15-10, 15-8 victory. Wolski noted the exceptional serving of senior Barb Grimshaw. Grimshaw served for 21 points on the evening.

"We've really made some progress," said Wolski, "but we weren't as bad as our record said we were in the beginning. We've got confidence working for us now."

Western is now 5-9 on the year and 3-7 in the Western Six.

How do you single out one player from a team that played as well together as the Wildcats did in last week's district basketball tournament? According to coach Ron Flutur you can't, and as a result the entire Novi cage squad has been named "Wildcats of the Week," which may well be a first. Members of the squad that rolled to impressive victories over Oak Park and Cranbrook last week include: (front row, left to right) Jeff Clarke, Steve Jones, Phil McCarty, Jeff Laverty, Bill Bishop, Bill McCauley; (back row) Kevin Pyant, Louis Balogh, Dave Pisha, Dwayne Rideroun, Craig Isely. Not pictured are Bob McAllister and Jim Padgett.

Smith reflects on Viking season

It's been over for a week now, and Walled Lake Central basketball coach Ed Smith took some time to reflect on the Vikings' 9-16 season.

"I was really proud of the way the kids hung in there," said Smith. "They never sold the farm. We had been coming back since Christmas, playing good basketball. Our high point was that win over Western."

The 61-58 win over arch-rival Walled Lake Western occurred back on Valentine's Day, but the latest Viking basketball encounter was a 68-46 loss to West Bloomfield in the district tournament which ended the Central season.

"I had trouble on the boards," said Smith. "They have good overall size and really outbounced us."

Smith went on to say that the overall size had been a problem with the smaller Vikings all season, along with injuries to starters Rich Goins, Tim Higgins, and Dave Uhrin. Uhrin, the team's tallest player at 6-5, was injured last summer in an automobile accident and never played at full strength.

"The West Bloomfield game was very similar to the last one (85-57 loss January 31), but it started out very slow. They outscored us every quarter and that's really the whole story," Smith reported.

Central placed two players in double figures against the district champion Lakers, with seniors Chuck Eberhardt and Tim Higgins pacing the club with 13 and 12 points respectively.

Smith's 1977-78 club equaled the victory total of the previous year's squad, but Smith feels better times are on the way.

"Our Jayvees last year didn't win a game," said the coach, "and this year they've won every home game since Christmas."

Softball meeting

An organizational meeting for all teams or persons interested in joining an open softball league to be sponsored by Novi Parks and Recreation this summer will take place tomorrow (Thursday) beginning at 7 p.m.

The meeting will be held in the Parks and Recreation office, located at 26350 Novi Road.

There will be an entry fee of $275 per team, which includes balls, umpires, trophies, field maintenance and administration.

Games will take place on Sunday evenings starting May 7, and there will be an eight-team limit to the league. For further details call Parks and Rec at 349-1976.

Warriors swim to win over rival Central

Walled Lake Western and Walled Lake Central splashed into the Western pool last week for their final dual meet of the season, and when it was all over the Warriors had a 9-7 victory.

"We wanted that one," said Western coach Bill Kietzke, "the kids were really up for Central."

Western captured first place in every event except two in sinking the Vikings. Senior Scott Baker and Junior Tom Milfield were double winners for the Warriors. Baker outswam Central opponents in the 50 and 54.9 freestyles with times of 1:15.0 and 5:21.7 respectively.

Junior diver Greg Dixon took the springboard event with 143 total points; freshman Arthur Kranites won the butterfly in 1:33.8, and Brian Bell posted his best time of the year in winning the breast stroke in 1:11.6.

First year swimmer Chris Martin also posted his best time of the season in the 100 backstroke, but it was only good enough for second at 1:40.0. Carl Skonieczny finished third in the same event with a 1:10.3.

Western swept both relays against Central, with Brent Taylor, Brian Bell, Arthur Kranites, and Bill Mitchell winning the medley with their best time of the year at 1:56.1. The team of Mitchell, Scott Baker, Carl Skonieczny, and Tom Milfield took the freestyle relay with a 3:44.9.

Leading the way for Walled Lake Central was Paul Lachner, who accounted for both Viking victories. Lachner posted a school record 2:15.0 in the 200 individual medley, and also had a 1:01.5 in the backstroke.

"(Kietzke) had the guns on us," said Central coach Craig Auten. "He's got some real good freestylers and they did the job against us."

Although Central only won two events, Auten did note a number of fine second place times.

Sophomore Chris Kottke set a new Viking record in a runner-up position in the 200 freestyle with a 1:58.9. Kottke also finished second in the 500 freestyle with a 5:28.4.

Central then swam to two-three finishes in the 50 freestyle with Andy

Viking spikers get hot, then fall to Lahser

Walled Lake Central's three-game volleyball losing streak came to an abrupt halt last week as the Vikings posted consecutive wins over Farmington, Milford, and Kettering.

The local squad then dropped its regional qualifying game to Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

"It was a rough night," said Viking coach Kathy Johnson after the 15-2, 15-11 Lahser loss. "The second game was close, but Lahser played very well."

Johnson explained that the Vikings lost the regional qualifying game on their server's reception, and that the only bright spot in the Central attack was the serving of junior Tammy Grames.

But there were other bright spots as

The Viking spikers pulled off three earlier victories. Inter-Lakes foe Farmington fell, 15-10, 9-15, and 16-8; Milford was a victim at 15-9, 15-13; and Kettering was stopped 15-13, 9-15, and 15-13.

Johnson cited the spiking and serving of Lynn Minnieles in the Farmington and Milford contests; the fine setting of Kathy Panzo in the Milford game; and the excellent back row coverage of former basketball standout Karen Ausmus in all three games.

Johnson also noted the emergence of senior tennis star Cindy Long as a spiker.

"She's developed a very good spike and has been using it a lot for us lately," said the coach.

The Vikings are currently 8-9 overall and 4-5 in the Inter-Lakes Conference.

Farmington pulls upset Vikes swim to Interlakes third

Walled Lake Central finished a strong third in the Inter-Lakes Conference Swimming Meet last week and posted some of their best individual times of the season. "Everybody swam his best," said Viking coach Craig Auten. "We got some real good performances out of the guys." Auten's charges totaled 222 points to finish back of Farmington's 377 and Stevenson's 375. Pontiac Northern finished last with 90. "That was an upset," said Auten of Farmington's win. "Farmington won it last year, but Stevenson should've won it this year. Farmington won it in the second. If we could've beaten them it would have been a tie." Auten's top finishers in the league meet were sophomores Paul Lachner and Chris Kotke. Lachner swam to a pair of fourths in the 200 individual medley with a 2:16.4, and the backstroke with a 1:42.5. Kotke set a new school record with a third place finish in the 200 freestyle with a 1:59.1. He also finished fourth in the 500 freestyle with a 5:29.6. Perhaps the most notable Viking performance in the Inter-Lakes meet was that of diver Dan Ladd. The freshman springboard artist posted a sixth place 247 point total and qualified for the

Warriors finish fourth in Western Six meet

The Walled Lake Western swimmers equalled their best performance in the last week in the Western Six Conference Meet with a fourth place finish. Perennial champion Northville captured the league title with 326 points, while Canton totaled 279 points for second place. Harrison finished third with 252, Western was fourth with 127, and Churchill took fifth with 101. Waterford Mott does not compete in swimming. "The best we've ever done is fourth," said Warrior coach Bill Kietzke. "Next year we'll go after Harrison, they took one-two in diving and they won't be able to do that next year." Earlier in the week Kietzke's forces outswam rival Walled Lake Central 97-75 in a match that had been building up emotionally for weeks. "Central always takes a lot out of us," said Kietzke. "The kids really wanted to beat them." However, Western had enough left for the conference meet to post some respectable finishes. The Warriors best individual performance came from junior Tom Mihfeld, who finished third in the 500 freestyle with a 5:17.9. Scott Taylor finished seventh and Dave Howe took 11th in the same event. Mihfeld complemented his distance swim with a fourth place showing in the 200 freestyle at 1:58.5. Scott Taylor finished ninth and Carl Skonecny placed 11th in the same event. Freshman Arthur Kranites turned in some fine performances by placing sixth in the butterfly with a 1:03.7 and eighth in the 200 individual medley with a 2:20.1. "Arthur came down in his times and he's really doing the job for us," said Kietzke. "He's only a freshman and he'll be around to help in the future." Scott Baker recorded a sixth place finish in the 100 freestyle with a 55.8 and a tenth place finish in the 50 freestyle with a 25.3. Western's diving duo of Buzz Nau and Greg Dixon finished eighth and ninth respectively in the league meet with totals of 223 and 211 respectively. Brian Bell finished eighth in the breast stroke with a 1:14.9, and first year swimmer Chris Martin took 11th in the backstroke at 1:11.0. Both Warrior relay teams finished fourth in the conference. Western finished the year about as Kietzke predicted, but the Warrior coach sees a brighter season ahead in 1978-79. "We had only one senior this year (Scott Baker)," he was a young leader," said Kietzke. "We'll be stronger next season."

Dreams Scientists are still trying to unravel mind's mysteries

By BILL McMILLAN

The room is foggy. Your legs are rubber. You feel like you are swimming. A door is located at the end of a hall. You walk through and start falling into a seemingly bottomless pit.

Suddenly you wake up in a cold sweat and wonder what the heck that dream was all about.

Then came Sigmund Freud who believed that dreams gave clues to the unconscious. So perhaps the dream in the opening paragraph indicates that the sleeper feels his life is aimless or his career is going downhill.

What do we know about dreams? Scientists can tell when you are dreaming. In the 1950s two researchers, Eugene Aserinsky and Nathaniel Kleitman, found out that rapid eye movements and certain brain waves indicated that a dream is in progress.

When awakened during a rapid eye movement or REM period, a volunteer would vividly remember dreaming. Further tests revealed that we dream four or five times a night at hour and a half intervals for a total of about 90 minutes.

The body may be limp while a person is dreaming but inside there is much activity. The pulse quickens, breathing is rapid and the brain is "hot," showing a high temperature reading. That same reading is obtained during the sleeper's waking hours.

Theories vary regarding the content of dreams. In one experiment, sleepers were awakened every time a REM period was underway. The early dreams tended to revolve around the previous day's activities. But the dreams became more scrambled or incoherent later in the night.

State officials press citizens to conserve energy

By WARREN M. HOYT
LANSING—The state is preparing to implement emergency energy conservation measures because of coal supplies that are rapidly approaching critical levels.

Fuel savers put on back burner
Governmental red tape thwarting conservation?
By JACK W. HOFFMAN
From President to Governor to local official, the word has gone out: America must conserve its fuel or face dire consequences.

Effikal installations. But I'm glad to hear it. Royal Oak and Birmingham don't care what Detroit has approved or hasn't approved.

Some officials are counting on Consumers Power Company. William Carlson of Consumers said the company began testing several systems in about 200 homes in Michigan last year.

When will the tests be completed? "In about two years," Earl Bailey, building official in Novi where the Effikal system is authorized, acknowledged that Detroit is his community's resource for such matters.

when mandatory curtailments would become necessary. If more than 50 percent of the power is diverted, Demlow said immediate curtailment of power would likely be needed.

Public Service Commission Chairman Daniel Demlow said he still believes measures already in effect will stretch coal supplies an additional 7 days per month.

First the good news: "The draft of a mechanicals code just went to the printers. I expect public hearings on it will begin in April. Meanwhile, we're hoping the legislature will pass a law to go along with it (the code)."

When the tests are completed and the data is reviewed, Consumers will rate the systems and promote those that will save fuel safely, he said.

The Federal Trade Commission has modified its rules in this regard, permitting a remedy before that body. However, the rules are being challenged and the agency is urging states to change their laws.

Senator William Fitzgerald, bill sponsor and chairman of the Highways and Transportation Committee, said the bills responsibility meet the public outcry that followed a series of accidents involving the tandem tankers last year.

Automatic damper systems save heat. Few officials deny that fact, but not everyone agrees on how much heat is saved.

Local area heating inspectors doubt it will save that much. But they admit they're not sure.

APPOINTMEN of John H. Romanik, M.D., as chairman of the department of pediatrics at Providence Hospital has been announced by the hospital's Board of Trustees.

A resident of Northville, Dr. Romanik has been a member of the Providence medical staff since 1966 and currently has his office in the hospital's newly opened interim health care center in Novi at 2450 Meadowbrook Road. He formerly served as director of children's services at the Maybury Sanitarium, Northville.

Dr. Romanik holds a degree in chemistry from the University of Detroit and a medical degree from the University of St. Louis. His internship and residency in pediatrics were completed at Henry Ford Hospital, Detroit. He is board certified by the American Academy of Pediatrics and is a member of the Detroit Pediatric Society.

The Providence Hospital interim facility in Novi was established to meet the immediate needs of area residents for primary health care services in advance of construction of a permanent medical unit.

In addition to Dr. Romanik the interim facility is staffed by Na'il Basnaji, M.D., an internist. Other specialty services will be scheduled in the facility as the year progresses.

Providence Hospital's development of satellite centers in both Novi and South Lyon received approval by the Michigan Department of Public Health in December.

The permanent Novi medical facility, scheduled to open in mid-1979, will include 24-hour emergency services as well as primary care provided by family practitioners, pediatricians, internists and obstetricians.

Specialties such as cardiology, gastroenterology and surgery will be represented and other services will include vision and dental care, a pharmacy, mental health and substance abuse programs, physical therapy and community health education.

GUARDIAN INDUSTRIES CORP. has named Joseph D. Flanary, director of purchasing, as 1977 "Employee-of-the-Year" for his "outstanding service, loyalty, dedication and exceptional performance of his duties."

Flanary, who joined Guardian in 1962 as a security guard at its Detroit plant, now directs all purchasing activities for the company's 35 manufacturing plants, distribution centers and retail outlets across the United States.

He worked his way up the ladder at Guardian, serving first as a security guard and later as stockroom supervisor before being appointed to his present post in 1970.

Guardian, located in Novi, is a leading manufacturer and fabricator of glass for the automotive and construction industries, and its Guardian Photo Division is one of the nation's largest photo finishers. The Novi, Mich., based company, which is listed on the New York Stock Exchange, reported record sales of almost $156 million in 1977.

A native of Kentucky, Flanary now lives on a four-acre farm near Milford, with his wife, Betty, and two sons. His hobbies are camping, hiking, snowmobiling and horseback riding. He keeps three Arabian western pleasure horses on his farm.

PORTEC, INC. today completed acquisition of its new railcar facility in Winder, Ga., from Rohr Industries, Inc. The company will immediately begin modification of the 284,000 square foot facility, which is expected to provide from 300 to 400 new jobs within the next 12 months.

Portec paid approximately $4 million for the plant, 186 acres, plus certain machinery and equipment. The company plans to spend another $3 million to modify the plant and install new machinery and equipment. The $7 million purchase and improvement program — the largest capital expenditure ever authorized by Portec — gives the company three railcar manufacturing facilities to respond to the railroad industry's growing demands.

New safety device fits easily on the corner of tables or counters

AS AN EMERGENCY room physician at Providence Hospital in Southfield, Dr. Frederick Sawaya sees a lot of children who are brought in with cuts, bruises and lacerations to the head. Surprisingly, many of these injuries occur in the safety of a child's own home.

"It's amazing what can happen as the result of a simple fall in the living room," says Dr. Sawaya. "I never really saw myself as an inventor, but after seeing how kids get hurt in their own homes, it was time to take some action."

After weeks of planning and sketching, Dr. Sawaya designed a small, rubber "corner" that fits easily onto tables, desks and sharp edged counters. He calls his invention "CORNER GUARDS." They are approved by the Consumer Product Safety Commission and have an adhesive backing that when peeled off, can be applied to any surface.

Dr. Sawaya believes that "you can't just assume your children are safe because they're inside. It's hard to watch everything they do. Hopefully, my invention will cut down on accidents that can happen when your child falls or is pushed into a sharp corner."

Shopping centers and children's stores will be carrying Dr. Sawaya's invention this Spring.

JOEL R. STEPHENS of 11428 Post Lane in South Lyon, an employee of General Interiors at 116 North Lafayette Street in South Lyon, is participating in a two-weeks' course in resilient flooring installation at the Armstrong Cork Company's installation school in Lancaster, Pennsylvania.

As part of the course, all students are taken on a conducted tour through the Lancaster Floor Plant to study the manufacture of sheet vinyl flooring and resilient tiles.

MRS. R. P. HALL of 45763 Clement Court, Northville, recently attended a seminar conducted by Priscilla Hauser and Noreen Banes and staff from Priscilla's Little Red Tole House in Tulsa, Oklahoma.

The seminar consisted of intensive training in Toile and decorative painting, with classes beginning each morning and extending to midnight.

Seminars are geared to various levels of learning for painters, beginning with the basics for the novice who has a sincere desire to paint on through a very advanced program to meet the needs of teachers of Toile and decorative painting.

Priscilla reportedly is the number one teacher in this field. The seminar attended by Mrs. Hall centered on animals. Her class learned to paint on glass, wood, tin and masonite. Animals painted ranged from a country mouse to a St. Bernard.

MICHIGAN BELL has proposed sharp reductions in the rates for weekend and late night long distance calls within the state.

The proposed rate cuts were part of a package of changes in long distance charges the telephone company is asking the Michigan Public Service Commission (MPSC) to approve.

The cheaper weekend and late night rates would save customers more than $16 million annually, according to Lloyd Haynes, Michigan Bell vice president.

Haynes said Michigan Bell also is proposing offsetting increases on several other long distance services to make up for the drop in revenues that would result from the cheaper weekend and late night rates.

The amount of the increases would be the same as the rate cuts. They would apply mainly to daytime long distance calls made during the week and to calls that require the assistance of an operator. Haynes said that overall there would be no significant change in Michigan Bell revenues.

A principal feature of the new "off-peak" rates would be a 50 percent discount on long distance calls made at any point in the state all day Saturdays, Sundays before 5 p.m., and every night from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m. the next day. The present discount is 30 percent and would continue to apply from 5 to 11 p.m. weekdays.

Michigan Bell also is proposing to cut rates from 5 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Sundays with a new 30 percent discount. The full rate has always applied on intrastate calls during this time period.

As part of the package of changes, Michigan Bell is asking for a three-cent increase for the first minute on most daytime long distance calls made weekdays within the state. There also would be increases in charges for long distance calls requiring the assistance of an operator — such as person-to-person, collect and credit card calls. In addition, there would be a new additional charge of 30 cents for long distance calls from a coin phone to points 20 or more miles away.

Business

FRANK A. MCGOWAN has recently been appointed advertising sales representative for The Farmer-Stockman, Inc. He has recently been announced by Alex M. McCommas, Vice-President of this southwestern agri-business magazine.

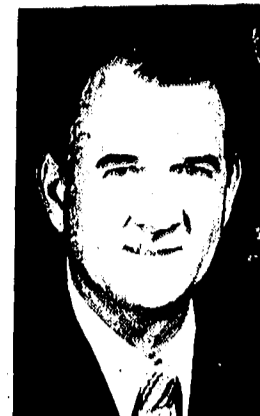

McGowan is president of Frank A. McGowan & Associates, of Brighton, which represents a broad range of farm, industrial and consumer publications.

Before forming his own agency two years ago, McGowan had formerly been associated with the Ward Griffith Company, Detroit Free Press, Panax newspapers, and other national media.

Covering the Detroit area, the new sales office will be the sixth regional office of The Farmer-Stockman. The others are located at Dallas, Wichita, Oklahoma City, Chicago and New York, with headquarters in Dallas.

The Farmer-Stockman is the leading farm publication covering Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and New Mexico. These four states account for about one-fourth of all land in farms in the U.S., and they represent nearly one-half of all winter wheat and one-half of all cotton acres, three-fourths of all grain sorghum acres, and one-fourth of all cattle of the nation.

Frank McGowan grew up in the Detroit area, and attended Wayne State University. He married the former Barbara Roggenbuck of Detroit, and they now have six children. The family lives in Howell, Michigan, and both Mr. and Mrs. McGowan are active in civic and school affairs of the community.

Spring's on its way

Spring begins this year at 6:34 p.m. March 20.

The other new spring constellation, rising at about the same time as Bootes but farther toward the south, is Virgo, the Virgin. "It is a long constellation, its stars roughly outlining a human figure," Professor Losh says. "Its brightest star is Spica, easily located by continuing the sweep of the Big Dipper handle through Arcturus to this star, the only bright one in the area."

On this day, the sun will rise and set almost exactly at the east and west points, and the day and night will be said to be of equal lengths. However, because of atmospheric refraction which bends the sun's rays, the equal day and night come three days before the vernal equinox, Professor Losh explains.

The full moon on March 24 will be of "special significance, for this is the one that sets Easter," says the U.S. astronomer notes.

"The date for this important religious festival was set by the Council of Nicaea in 325 AD as the first Sunday after the first full moon that follows the vernal equinox.

"Consequently, the full moon of March 24 puts Easter on March 26, which as we know is an early date."

The earliest date that Easter can come is March 22 — the last time it happened was in 1818 and will not happen again until 2266. The latest possible Easter date is April 25 — it occurred in 1943 and will again in 2038.

Professor Losh notes that "the full moon of March 24 will go into total lunar eclipse, but, unfortunately, this eclipse will not be visible from this part of the world."

During March, she says, two new spring constellations will be coming into view. "The first to look for is Bootes, the giant Bear Driver. This figure is easily recognized by its kiltlike outline and the bright orange star Arcturus in the tail of the kite."

"Arcturus is one of the bright gems in the heavens during the spring and summer evenings. It shines brilliantly above the northeastern horizon, being the first of the stars

Students to show 'their stuff' at 12 Oaks

Young artists from all grade levels and all schools in the Walled Lake School District will fill the halls of the Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi with more than 800 works of art on March 10, 11, and 12.

The art will be in all sizes, shapes, and forms — from ceramics to paintings, weavings to jewelry, and numerous other art forms.

The first Annual Walled Lake District Arts Festival is the result of nearly a year of planning by the art staff of the Walled Lake Schools.

During that time, the event has grown from the staff's original concept of an art show with only 200 pieces of art to its current size. The show will also feature performance by various musical and dance groups.

Barb Olzman, co-chairman of the event, noted that everyone seems to be contributing to the show in one way or another "from the tiniest first grade student who is proudly working on art to dozens of parents who have volunteered to supervise the event."

"Previously we've had art shows in individual schools, but nothing on this grand of a scale," she said.

The art will be displayed in a fashion that will show the progression of art skills throughout the grade levels.

Every student who has participated in the event will receive a certificate of recognition.

The art show is a first for the newly opened Novi Mall.

In addition to the still art displays, various musical groups will also perform. The schedule of performances follows:

Friday, March 10
7:30-8 p.m. The Walled Lake and Clifford Smart Junior High School String Orchestras will perform under the direction of Andy Vermiglio and Andrea Collins.

Saturday, March 11
11 a.m. to noon. Commerce Elementary School students will accompany folk dancers with singing and rhythms.

Noon to 1 p.m. Keith Elementary School students will perform on Orff instruments and sing.

2-5 p.m. The Walled Lake Junior High School 8th grade mixed choir, the 8th grade girl's choir, and the seventh grade girls' choir will sing.

6-7 p.m. Glengary Elementary School students will sing.

Sunday, March 12
1-2 p.m. Walled Lake Elementary students will perform rhythms and sing.

2-2:30 p.m. Mike Garrels directs the Walled Lake Junior High School band.

3:30 p.m. The Clifford Smart Junior High School band will perform under the direction of Pat Kopp.

Students 'net' funds for MD

With boundless energy and enthusiasm, students at Walled Lake Central High School raised over $11,000 in pledges for Muscular Dystrophy in their 24-hour volleyball marathon last week.

Disc jockey Don Riley of WDRQ was on hand at the school Friday afternoon as the first balls were served in four simultaneous games in the school gym. The games continued throughout the night with at least 210 students participating.

Breaks were allowed during the games as the young marathoners tried to endure the 24-hour contest to the end. "They all made it," said an exuberant student council advisor Brian Woolcock. One hand were at least 75 additional students who volunteered their time in the kitchen, manned phones, and kept track of pledges on the tote board.

Other than a few beaten balls, floor burns, swollen hands and bruised arms, the young people saw the marathon to the end in good shape.

Their abilities at the nets were well fortified with food donated by local merchants, including vast amounts of pizza and hamburgers. Parents crowded the stands lending support and urging the students on toward their goal.

Contests throughout the night and into Saturday ranged from peanut pushing to bubble gum blowing, team orange passing to wheelbarrow races. Gift certificates and trophies were awarded to the winners.

Despite the flu bug that hit many of the players just prior to the marathon, Woolcock said the numbers of participants did not diminish. "Those students with the bug weren't feeling in the best shape, but they never gave up," he said.

Students received pledges from supporters for every hour spent on the gym floor. Additional financial support came from onlookers in the stands and from telephone pledges.

Last year's Central marathon netted Muscular Dystrophy over $9,000. This year students are hoping to top the $10,000 they already have in pledges and are aiming at a goal of $15,000. The final tally is expected to come in two weeks with Jeff Knop the current king of pledges with $920.

Lotus said the system will pay for itself within two years at the most.

He predicted that within a year all new furnaces will come equipped with automatic dampers.

Among other systems are Midwest Thirty Vent, Stack-Pack, Energy Vent, Gas Miser, Penn Basso Control. The latter two have been approved by the American Gas Association.

Before homeowners buy a system for their homes, they'd be well advised to check first with the local municipal building department. If they don't they could end up with a system that can't legally be installed.

Curtain rises tomorrow on Western production

The curtain rises tomorrow (Thursday) night on Walled Lake Western High School's annual musical production. This year the stage is set for the bright, happy spoof on life and living in the 20's, "The Boyfriend."

Although the show is not as well known as other musicals, "The Boyfriend" promises catchy tunes, big dance routines and good character parts.

Set in France during the roaring 20's, the musical carries the traditional story line of girls meet boys, they fall in love, girls marry boys.

"It's not a realistic show," commented Donna Schaefer, director of the musical. "It's a rather sappy story that has to be played to work."

Using big expressions and exaggerated body movements, the characters move through such songs as "Won't You Charleston with Me," and the title song, "The Boyfriend." "The Riveria" is a large dance routine. In addition the chorus is featured in many of the scenes.

"It's a purely fun, crazy show, spotlighting the habits and clichés of a bygone era," the director added. Ms. Schaefer said the production, although smaller in cast size than previous shows, enabled the use of the good female potential of the school.

In rehearsal for "The Boyfriend" since the first of the year, Ms. Schaefer has also been in charge of choreography. Student assistance was used in working the routines.

Music by Western orchestra members is under the direction of Helmut-Holland-Moritz.

Cast in leading roles are Mike Dunkley, Debbie Avery, Pete Ziergever and Connor Ferrick. Major supporting roles are carried by Beth Schnelz, John Dewey, Maggie Coe, Mike Scallions, Paula Schweler and Linda Lockard.

The show begins at 8 p.m. Thursday night and runs through Saturday. Seating is by reserved ticket only at a cost of $3 each. Tickets may be purchased through students or directly from the Western High School office.

Beth Schnelz and John Dewey (seated) and Pete Ziergever and Connor Ferrick are featured in 'The Boyfriend'

By the Way

With Nancy Dingeldey

The word for March is the big spring dinner dance held by the Commerce Township Historical Society at the end of the month. The bash is scheduled for the Bay Pointe Country Club and promises to be a repeat of a similar successful venture there in 1976.

The Dick Murphy Band, coming to Commerce on the heels of a successful Northville Historical benefit where the 15 piece group received rave notices, will provide the music.

A sit-down dinner of prime rib and all the trimmings will be served with the mellow band sounds breaking loose immediately afterwards. Donation tickets are set at $25 per couple or $15 a single.

The benefit is being held by the historical group to gain funds needed to furnish office space made available to them on completion of the Commerce Community Center. In addition, the society plans to purchase glass cases for revolving displays.

Tickets are currently available from Florence Donahue, Commerce Township Supervisor Robert Long, and at the Walled Lake News office. Information on the benefit is available from Mrs. Donahue at 363-4396.

It was rather like getting an obituary last week on the death of a drug store. Or maybe we should say it was a requiem for the store that watched Novi grow for 20 years.

With sadness evident in the voice on the phone, the caller said, "You know, losing that store is like losing an old friend." The caller was referring to the Novi Rexall Drug Store and its owner George McCallum.

McCallum called it quits some weeks back, closing the business and selling the property on Old Grand River east of Novi Road. The building is being renovated and will become a party store.

"Just what we need, another party store," said Novi Councilwoman Pat Karevich with no spark of enthusiasm in her voice. "I really hate to see George go and I know there are a lot of people out there who feel the same way I do," she said.

"George was a special person, just super," she added. "Why? Because he cared about everybody that walked in the door."

George and his drugstore came to Novi in 1958. He was the first to serve an area that was beginning to stir with growing pains. Raised in the area from his early teens, George went to the old Novi High School and then to Northville. He graduated from the Detroit Institute of Technology with a degree in Pharmacy.

During his years as a businessman in Novi, he was an active, willing participant in the community. He sponsored any number of Little League teams, mens and womens bowling and softball, volleyball and bowling teams. He was a Rotarian and a Jaycee and according to those who frequented his establishment, a real friend.

George got to know his customers and they him. He was looked upon as a friend. That friend filled over 250,000 prescriptions in those years.

"But," says George, "pharmacy is a lagging business. The big chain stores are taking over. There's a lot of pressure and a one-man business is hard to run."

George did branch out opening Colonial Pharmacy in Walled Lake about ten years ago. He took over the back section of the old Walled Lake Discount Store later moving into a building across from the Big Boy Restaurant. That business was sold a few years ago.

George is now a commuting student in post-graduate studies at Wayne State University. At the completion of those pharmacy courses he will move into a three-year doctoral program in Clinical Pharmacy.

For a while Novi could boast of two drug stores, now it's back to one.

But for many, there will never be another "first and only complete drugstore in Novi."

There are still those who seek the snow and the frolic found on a slope serviced by a chair lift or some such conveyance.

Die-hard skiers who know spring is somewhere around the corner have to get their last licks in before the thaw. Such skiing couples creating the foursome heading to Mt. Tremblant in Montreal recently included the Howard Hollisters, Denny Haight, the Val Vangiesons and the Denny Andrews, all from Wixom.

They agreed it was a great week, the food hearty and plentiful, the accommodations excellent and the people tremendously friendly.

To all the good things there is a "but." And that "but" refers to what almost appears to be the classic historical conflict between the French and the English.

The rumblings of a possible separation of Quebec from the rest of the Canadian provinces was evident in conversations heard at the popular ski resort.

Joan Hollister mentioned that some people she spoke to were worried that the separatist movement would lead to violence in the years to come.

Joan added the people at the ski area were tremendously friendly and rarely could they find someone that did not speak English. She also commented that at least 75 percent of the tourists at Tremblant came from the eastern portion of the United States.

"You know, they're really going to blow it," she said referring to the French. At this point, there is no English taught in the Quebec schools, only French.

Sylvia Vangieson commented that English is no longer offered even as an elective even though many people said they would prefer bilingual schools.

All agreed they met some very nice "natives" during their week-long stay at the ski spa adding that as an outsider looking in the whole situation was a rather unhappy mess.

Noticing a big difference in altitude in the Montreal area in the past 10 years, Sylvia referred to a family trip to Expo. At that time, she

The concepts of neighborhood conservation, individual identities of early neighborhoods, if they should be preserved and what can be done to preserve them will be the topic of architect Richard Neumann at the Commerce Township Area Historical Society meeting on Thursday, March 8.

Meeting at the Stonecrest Building, itself an historical Walled Lake landmark, the program will begin at 7:30 p.m. All interested persons are welcomed to attend the free program.

Neumann, connected with Preservation and Urban Design, Inc. of Ann Arbor, will use slides to explain the concept of neighborhood conservation. The slides will show how other communities have preserved the total environment of their early neighborhoods.

According to Neumann, old houses in a neighborhood are important because their styles of architecture give a small town a unique character.

Using a type of survey form, the architectural resources of an area are established and individual pictures are taken of each unit. Using those pictures and assessing each building by the assignment of points, an area can be evaluated as to detail, character and the architectural quality it possesses.

By being made aware of significant buildings, a community can then take the steps necessary to restore, preserve and maintain them for the future.

Such a survey has been recently completed by Donahue, Jr. in Commerce Village. Donahue, president of the Commerce Society, along with Neumann and Professor Kingsbury Marzoff from the University of Michigan, are currently evaluating the survey forms.

Neumann's presentation Thursday will aid people in other communities to begin identifying their architectural resources and possibly generate the interest necessary in their preservation.

This is pointed out by the work being carried out by some residents in Commerce Village. The growing concern of several families to retain the "old town" flavor in that area has sparked an interest by other residents and businessmen.

Neumann also points to old buildings as an important part of a community culture which deserves to be protected for future generations.

Central students score big in district music festival

Six Walled Lake Central students received top ratings in the District Solo and Ensemble Festival at South Macomb Community College recently.

Students who receive a first division (excellent) rating are eligible to compete in the State Solo and Ensemble Festival on April 1.

Thomas Stubbs, director of band and orchestra at Central, stated that he was very pleased with the showing.

Two Central students — Lisa Stangis and Rene Dupuis — received first division ratings for violin solos.

Greg Stawick earned a first division rating for a cello solo, Karl Novak received an excellent rating for a trombone solo, Dana Diachenko's clarinet was rated excellent, and Liz Cooper earned an excellent rating for a flute solo.

In addition, a string trio composed of Stangis, Stawick, and Cooper also received an excellent rating.

Central students also earned seven second division (good) ratings.

Chris Blood, Tim McTavish, and Brooks Pitts each received a second division rating for violin solos.

Kristi Crivea received a second division rating for a clarinet solo and Cheri Crivea received a second division rating for a flute solo.

A flute duet performed by Ruth MacBeth and Barbara MacBeth received a second division rating and a clarinet duet performed by Sheila Maki and Clara Leinweber also received a second division rating.

What then becomes of the English speaking tourist who seeks the advice and expertise of the Tremblant ski instructor?

the people were very free with their English.

The ski instructors are required to be bi-lingual giving their instructions in English followed by French.

Meaning that she was regressing in her skiing capabilities, Sylvia did mention she didn't learn a thing except to stay away from ski instructors. "I'm sure they were out to kill me even if they spoke English," she stated emphatically.

Saying she thought the area would be great for her kids, Joan and Howard are planning to return with them next year. She did add that she hoped the conflict in languages would somehow be resolved by then.

A Sunday evening TV program seen in Detroit that looked into those very same problems pointed them out very clearly. If the French get their way, there will not be any English spoken in the province whatsoever. The language could be come illegal.

Student hijacks Walled Lake school bus

A crew of SWOVEC students begin work on their homemade helicopter

SWOVEC students tackle chopper

Right now it's mostly a collection of lines and patterns on metal sheets and long iron bars in the center of the shop.

But if you look closely, you can see it starting to take shape.

The cockpit.

The landing runners underneath the fuselage.

But by the time it's all finished it will be a bright, new Scorpion 133 helicopter.

The helicopter was given in kit form to the welding students at the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center (SWOVEC) in Walled Lake by the Cherokee Construction Company to be assembled.

And Bill Scrimger, welding instructor at SWOVEC, couldn't be happier.

"All the kids are excited about it because it gives them something really different and unique to work on," stated Scrimger.

"And I'm excited about it because a project like this gives our students something to work on which will have true vocational significance for their education."

The students have just about completed the welding of the frame and will soon begin cutting and welding the smaller, more intricate parts of the whirlybird.

Scrimger hopes to have all the welding completed by the spring break and to complete installation of the foot and throttle controls during April and May.

"They (The Federal Aviation Authority) won't even give you the engine or the rotor until the prospective pilot of the chopper has completed a training course and passed a rigorous examination," reported the welding instructor.

Scrimger's biggest problem, however, may be limiting the number of students permitted to work on the project.

"Everybody wants to help because it really is a very exciting thing," he said. "We've established a qualifying process and so far just seven students have qualified. But we have to watch carefully because students will try to jump in and work on it if we don't."

Scrimger reported that the cost of the kit was approximately $13,500. Assembled and "ready to fly," the cost of the Scorpion 133 has been pegged at $50,000.

When completed, the chopper will weigh 1,200 pounds and have a 120 mile range with a cruise speed of 80 to 90 miles per hour.

Scrimger has set a tentative completion date of June 1 for the project.

"This s'men we'll take it up," he said. "I don't know if we'll christen it with champagne or anything like that, but I imagine we'll have some sort of ceremony."

Police wound suspect, six others unharmed

A 15 year old Walled Lake Central High School student who allegedly attempted to hijack his school bus was shot and critically wounded yesterday morning at the Walled Lake Schools' bus yard on Ladd Road.

The bus driver and other students, all bonded for Walled Lake Central, were held at gun point for about a half hour before the alleged hijacker was wounded by an officer, police said.

The student was reported in critical, but stable, condition yesterday afternoon in a Pontiac hospital.

The bus yard is about eight miles from the site of the initial hijacking.

Walled Lake Central Principal Gerald Wallace said that the parents of the six students on the bus were notified of the incident and those students were sent home.

Otherwise, classes were held as usual, Wallace said.

Walled Lake asks millage renewal

Registered voters in the Walled Lake School District will go to the polls next Tuesday (March 21) to cast their ballots on a proposal to renew 10 operating mills for a five-year period.

Polls will open at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Deputy Superintendent Roland Langerman pointed out that the district is not seeking a millage increase since the 10 mills for operations is already being levied by the school district.

The Walled Lake School District currently levies 32.13 mills for operations. If the millage renewal is approved by the voters next Tuesday, the district will continue to levy 32.13 mills for operations. If defeated, the district's operating millage will fall to 22.13 mills.

The district also levies an additional 2.75 mill for debt retirement, bringing the total millage levy to 34.88 mills.

Assistant Superintendent of Business Harry Carlson said approval of the 10-mill renewal proposal was critical to the financial well-being of the school district.

Based on current projections, the 10 mills has a total dollar value of approximately $4.432 million, stated Carlson. "That figure represents 23 percent of the projected budget for the 1979-80 school year."

Carlson said that everyone would be affected if the 10-mill renewal is not approved since the district would lose state aid revenues in addition to property tax revenues.

"Loss of this revenue would create severe reductions in school programs and services to children," stated Carlson.

Although the request for renewal of the 10 mills does not represent an increase in operating millage, some opposition has arisen to the proposal.

Opponents note that the duration of the 10 mills has been extended from five to 10 years and argue that the duration should remain at the five-year level to give voters an opportunity to express their satisfaction or dissatisfaction with the way the schools are being operated at more frequent intervals.

The 10 mills up for renewal Tuesday was last renewed for a five-year period in 1973.

Langerman said that two major reasons were behind the decision to extend the duration of the millage renewal from five to 10 years.

He said that the school district would realize a minor savings by having to hold renewal elections less frequently and also stated that extension of the duration millage would also assist the district in long-range financial planning.

"Right now we don't know if we'll have the 10 mills for next year or not and it affects our ability to move ahead with budget projections," said Langerman.

Langerman also noted that the district has two other millage issues which must be periodically renewed by the voters. Voters approved a 10-mill levy for 10 years in April of 1976 and a four-mill levy for five years in June of 1976.

As a result, the district must come back to the voters for renewal of those two millage packages in 1981 and 1986. Should the millage proposal be approved next Tuesday, that 10-mill package would come back to the voters for renewal in 1988.

Additional opposition to the millage renewal has been expressed by residents who have received increases in property valuations either through a factor or an increase in assessment.

Carlson reported that the district is projecting a 12 percent increase in the total State Equalized Valuation (SEV), although the actual amount of the increase in SEV will not be known until later this spring.

In hit-and-run fatality

New Hudson man faces charges

A 25-year-old New Hudson man has been arrested and charged with manslaughter in conjunction with the death of John Wade, Jr., of Livonia.

Wade was killed in a hit-and-run automobile accident near the Wixom City Hall on February 28.

Donald Klemmer, 25, stood mute at the arraignment on the manslaughter charge before Judge Gene Schmelz of the 52nd District Court in Walled Lake last Friday.

Klemmer reportedly surrendered voluntarily to Wixom Police at 2:15 p.m. Friday after a manslaughter warrant has been secured from the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office. Klemmer is charged with a second count of leaving the scene of a personal injury accident.

Under the advisement of his attorney, Saul Leach, Klemmer refused comment in the hit-and-run accident which claimed the life of the 28-year-old Wade on February 28.

Klemmer was released on $25,000 personal bond with a preliminary examination scheduled for March 27 at 2 p.m. in the Walled Lake District Court.

Klemmer is charged with striking Wade as he was walking west on the eastbound shoulder of Pontiac Trail at approximately 8 p.m. Eyewitness reports stated that Wade was struck by a speeding westbound van while it was passing another vehicle.

The impact allegedly threw Wade some 500 feet through the air into a driveway at 48733 Pontiac Trail. Death was thought by medical examiners to be instantaneous and caused by multiple head injuries.

Police say Wade was struck behind the knees by the bumper of the vehicle.

The impact forced his body up the hood of the van causing the victim's head to strike the side column and windshield.

News bulletins were immediately issued to the media seeking the driver and the vehicle. A description of the vehicle and damage thought to have been sustained in the accident was included in the description.

Such a newscast was heard by Thomas Paul, an employee at Goldco Auto Painting and Body Clinics of Detroit. Paul alerted police March 3 after a van matching the description of the wanted vehicle was brought to Goldco for repairs.

Damage to the vehicle at the body shop matched that of the police bulletin and evidence collected at the scene by investigators from the Oakland County Crime Lab. The suspect vehicle suffered substantial damage, including the loss of the left headlight and front grill. Its windshield was also smashed.

A search warrant was secured and the van impounded for further investigation.

Police said the van was traced to Klemmer, the owner of Pressure Systems Innovation of Livonia. Police conducted their investigation which led to the arrest Friday.

Described by police as a successful businessman, father of an 18-month-old child, and the holder of a perfect driving record, Klemmer faces a 15-year sentence if convicted on the manslaughter charge.

Huge multiples project eyed in Commerce

By DAVID RAY

The owners of some 465 acres of vacant land in the southeast corner of Commerce Township have asked for the rezoning of 411 acres for multiple-family residential, industrial and commercial uses to begin work on the first phase of a projected 3,000-unit apartment complex.

Six applications for rezoning various parcels of the property have been filed with Commerce Clerk Robert McGee over the last two weeks by Daniel Lublin, president of Standard Industries, Incorporated, of Detroit, who also was named as an agent for the Haggerty Investment Company which owns some 286 acres of the proposed development.

Specifically, the zoning changes requested include:

- five parcels containing 140 acres, owned by Standard Industries and Lublin, both listed at 14737 W. Chicago,

Detroit, from R-1A (single-family residential) to R-3 (multiple);

- one parcel of 40 acres, owned by Standard Industries and Steve Klochock, 2782 Corbin Avenue, Melvindale, from R-1A to R-3;
- one parcel of 40 acres, owned by Standard Industries and General Associates, which is listed at Klochock's address in Melvindale, from R-1A to industrial, although McGee said the application did not specify whether it is to be M-1 light industrial or M-2 (heavy industrial);
- one parcel of 157 acres, owned by Haggerty Investment Company 523 N. Pontiac Trail, Walled Lake, from mobile home district to R-3, although 75.17 acres of the same parcel will remain M-1;
- one parcel of 20 acres, owned by Haggerty Investment, from M-1 to R-3; and
- some 14 acres immediately south of West Maple Road and west of Haggerty, owned by Haggerty Investment, from R-1B (single family residential) to C-2 (community business).

All but 40 acres is located in the area bounded by West Maple, Haggerty and 14 Mile roads, east of a line extending from Welch Road.

The rezoning applications will be presented to the township Planning Commission next Monday for processing, and McGee said a public hearing on requests probably will be held in April.

A portion of the property owned by Haggerty Investment includes the black spruce bog which environmentalists cited in their fight against the proposed M-275 freeway that was cancelled last year by the Michigan State Highway Commission.

Lublin's company has filed suit against the Highway Commission, seeking damages for the delay in developing its property because of the controversial freeway project.

Lublin said he would like to begin work this fall on the first phase of the multiple-residential development which would include some 1,000 to 1,500 units at a cost of $25- to $35 million.

The multiple-residential complex will take a minimum of four to five years, Lublin said, with a maximum of seven or eight years. He added that 50-percent of the project should be completed in three or four years, depending on "movement and growth in the area."

Development of the commercial and industrial property will not begin immediately, Lublin said.

The Standard Industries president said he has been working on land acquisition for the project for some 25 years, although the M-275 plans delayed his efforts for about 10 years.

Lublin's company has filed suit against the Highway Commission, seeking damages for the delay in developing its property because of the controversial freeway project.

"We were against (M-275) right from the start," he said. "It would have literally cut our property in half."

Lublin said his attorneys will continue the lawsuit against the state agency for damages.

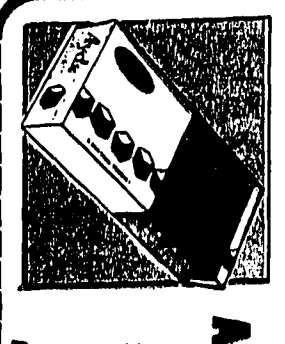

"This should have been completed by 1971," he said, "and you know as well as I do that costs have doubled or tripled since then."

In the early 1960s, Standard Industries proposed the construction of a "large residential-commercial-recreational complex, containing an enclosed shopping mall, low-rise and medium-rise multiple family residential units, a golf course and other related recreational facilities," according to a brief filed in the company's lawsuit against the Highway Commission.

The Commerce Planning Commission approved the development
