Army requires special permit for filling bog

By DAVID RAY

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers assumed jurisdiction July 1 over the controversial black spruce bog located at West Maple and Haggerty roads in Commerce Township and announced that it will require individual federal permits for dredging or filling of the 160-acre wetland.

Under Army regulations that took effect last July, the individual permit process "allows review of applications by federal, state and local government units as well as by the general public before a permit is granted or denied," stated a corps' press release announcing the decision.

However, B. H. Carey of the Haggerty Investment Company in Walled Lake, which owns most of the bog property, said the Army's order may be challenged in court, if it interferes with plans to develop some 486 acres bounded by West Maple, Haggerty and 14 Mile roads.

Carey said he was "never contacted by anyone nor has anyone asked for permission to make the review."

The property owners were notified of the decision by mail on June 29, two days before the order took effect.

"They have done this unilaterally," Carey said, "and I question whether they can do that. I don't think they have the jurisdiction to do it, and I'm a little disappointed that they never contacted us or asked in any way whether we could work together on this."

According to a corps spokesperson, a request for a study of the bog was received by the Army on March 27 from Stephen Rosman, a Commerce resident and chairperson of the Citizens in Opposition to M-275 which led the fight to cancel the controversial freeway.

Rosman asked the corps if it had any jurisdiction over the wetland, and expressed concern about a proposed 3,000-unit apartment complex that Haggerty Investment and Standard Industries planned to build on land south of the bog, the spokesperson said.

Rosman's letter prompted a March 31 helicopter tour of the site by the corps and the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, the spokesperson said, adding that corps biologists also visited the wetland "at least a couple of times" after March 31.

The East Michigan Environmental Action Council (EMEAC) made a similar request of the corps on April 12. Last week, the corps spokesperson had told The News that the Army was acting on EMEAC's request when the inspections were made, despite the almost two-week difference between the time of the visit and the date of the group's letter.

Although the corps' press release states that the "wetland was brought to public attention last year when plans for the M-275 freeway to pass through it were cancelled to protect the natural environment," Army spokespersons have denied that the freeway or its proposed alternatives had anything to do with the order for individual permits.

The corps visited the bog in July, 1976, in regard to M-275, but determined that it had no jurisdiction, the spokesperson said. The matter was not brought up again until Rosman's letter in March.

If the Michigan State Highway Commission revives M-275 and approves an alternative north-south state trunkline road that would cross the wetland, it would be required to apply for the Army permit, the spokesperson added.

Asked if the corps' study was initiated as part of an effort to block the construction of any major road over the property, the spokesperson replied: "That's not true. (The highway department) would have to apply for a permit just like anyone else and a decision would be up to Colonel (Melvyn) Remus (the corps' Detroit district engineer)."

In the press release, Remus said the decision to require the individual permits was prompted by his concern for "this aquatic environment." He added that the Army has jurisdiction under the federal Clean Water Act to require a

WORC crew

Walled Lake's newly hired Work Opportunities Resources Corps (WORC) employees started work last week under a $10,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR). One of the first tasks assigned to the WORC crew was to make posters promoting the city's Fourth of July festivities, sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Commission. Working on the posters were Kurt Schierlinger (seated, left), Vicki Nell, Stephen Schwartz, Linda Libby, Mike Draheim (standing, left), Khanh Dui and Kevin Muns. The program is designed to provide 10 weeks of summer employment for youths between 15 and 21 years of age.

Despite charter township plan

Incorporation election to be held

The State Boundary Commission last week tabled action on setting an election date for the proposed incorporation of Commerce Township, Wolverine Lake Village and a West Bloomfield Township subdivision as a new city.

However, James Hyde, executive secretary of the commission, said the election must be held, despite Commerce's plans to incorporate as a charter township, because residents of the affected areas have filed petitions calling for a vote on the state agency's 1972 cityhood order.

An election date probably will be set after September 12, the deadline the Commerce Township Board has set for approval of a resolution to adopt the standardized state charter.

"We felt it would be very confusing if the people were voting on incorporation (as a city) and the charter township," Hyde said.

Under a resolution of intent adopted by the Commerce board June 1, township residents have until the end of this month to file petitions of disagreement over the proposed incorporation as a charter township. The petitions must contain some 785 valid signatures of registered voters from Commerce.

If the petitions of disagreement are filed, the board must schedule an election on the charter township incorporation.

"We want to get the charter question out of the way before we set a date (on a cityhood vote)," Hyde added.

"The Commission has no alternative but to set an election (on cityhood)," he said. "We are still in the incorporation process and the law is very clear about spelling out what the commission must do."

"One procedure doesn't foreclose the other. (The charter township incorporation) in no way blocks, stops or impedes the other process."

Commission members asked the status of Commerce's charter incorporation, according to Supervisor Robert Long, and tabled the matter in five minutes time.

So far, no one has expressed any interest in circulating petitions of disagreement on the change in the township's form of government, Long added.

If the township board adopts the resolution of incorporation on September 12, the only major difference for Commerce would be the power for the board to levy local taxes of up to five mills ($5 for each $1,000 of state equalized valuation) without a vote of the people.

At present, Commerce's local tax rate is set at 1.41 mills by the Oakland County Tax Allocation Board out of the county's 15-mills nonvoted levy.

However, Long and other township officials have emphasized that they will not raise taxes because Commerce voters in 1976 rejected two separate requests for millage increases.

The transition from general law to charter township status was simplified last year under a new state law that gave township boards the power to incorporate by adoption of a resolution, although there is a 60-day period in which residents may file the petitions of disagreement, or by voting to submit the question to the electors.

Long said that Commerce did not consider the change when that law took effect in April, 1977 because the only major difference for the township would have been the taxing powers, although he added that, if the law had afforded the same protection of boundaries to charter townships that is now enjoyed by home-rule cities and villages, he would have recommended that the board consider the move.

Another state law, adopted earlier this year, provided boundary protection for charter townships that met certain criteria generally associated with urbanized areas.

The criteria include: a state equalized valuation of at least $25-million; a minimum population density of 150 persons per square mile; police and fire protection; an adopted comprehensive zoning ordinance or master plan; solid waste disposal services; and water and sewer services.

Commerce apparently meets all of the criteria, Long said.

However, in order for a township to receive the boundary protection, it had to be a charter township or be in the process of adopting that form of government at the time the bill was signed into law.

Governor Milliken signed the measure June 19, but a ceremonial bill signing was held last Wednesday.

Attending the ceremony were Long, Commerce Clerk Robert McGee, Township Treasurer Patrick Dohany, Wolverine Council President John McLellan, Village Administrator Bill O'Brien, Councilwoman Pat Howarth and Reta Klavitter, who led the petition drive to call for an election on cityhood.

The governor did not comment on the measure, Long said, although he originally opposed it until several amendments that added the criteria were approved.

McLellan said the work of township and village residents to petition for the cityhood election and in support of the annexation bill was a good sign of cooperation between the communities.

"The people are the real winners," McLellan added. "The Boundary Commission went against the will of the people by ordering the incorporation, and the people got together to take control of their own destiny."

Commerce residents applied for cityhood in November, 1971 in an effort to block two rumored annexation requests for the city of Walled Lake for the land generally south of the Grand Trunk Western Railroad tracks.

Village officials also filed for cityhood and later amended their request to include a portion of Commerce bounded by McCoy, Benstein, the railroad tracks and Ladd.

However, the state agency ordered that Commerce, Wolverine and the Peninsular Park Subdivision in West Bloomfield, which juts into Union Lake from Union Lake Road, should incorporate as a city.

The village filed suit in Oakland County Circuit Court, challenging the Boundary Commission's authority to combine the two requests.

In 1976, the court ruled in favor of the Boundary Commission, and its decision was upheld last October by the State Court of Appeals. The Michigan Supreme Court in January refused to grant leave for further appeal, prompting the petition drive for an election on incorporation.

Walled Lake in 1972 applied for annexation of the Commerce property. Those requests are in the commission's file and would be considered by the panel, if cityhood and the charter township proposals are unsuccessful.

Township officials originally favored cityhood over the possibility of losing its land to Walled Lake, while village officials opposed incorporation because Wolverine provides more municipal services and is identified with the lake of the same name.

Commerce officials now say they favor the change to charter township status instead of cityhood.

Walled Lake merchants eye revitalization plan

The Walled Lake Action Committee of the Lakes Chamber of Commerce met with city officials last week for an update on efforts to beautify and revitalize Walled Lake.

According to Ray Pung, chairperson of the committee, another meeting — this one open to the public — will be held probably later this month for further discussions on choosing a common theme for the revitalization effort.

Last week's meeting, he said, was mainly a catch-up session so panel members could find out what the City Council, Parks and Recreation Commission, Beautification Commission and Plan Commission's Capital Improvements Committee have been working on.

"The mayor (Gaspare LaMarca) told us what's going on with the economic development corporation (EDC)," Pung said. The council recently created an EDC to encourage industrial and commercial development in the city.

In addition to catching up on each other's activities, last week's meeting was designed to make sure that the various panels were not "retracing the same steps," Pung explained.

Slides of the West Maple, Pontiac Trail and downtown business areas were shown and discussed, he added.

At the next session, he said, the committee hopes to have a representative from the Oakland County Planning Division make a presentation on a similar beautification program that recently was implemented in South Lyon.

Pung said committee members felt that, if they could begin to "do small things to beautify the city, it might catch on so we get cooperation from other businesses and in residential areas."

The committee will be meeting with representatives of the city agencies, and hopes to work with architect Martin Smith, who drew sketches of possible downtown themes, and Tod Kilroy, city planning consultant.

Last year, city and chamber officials met several times to discuss plans for the revitalization, including an "Old West" storefront theme, revamped shopping services and expansion of the city's lakeside park.

Plans at that time called for a lakeside shopping mall, theatre or community center to utilize the city's biggest natural asset for attracting visitors — Walled Lake.

The proposal resulted from a 1976 market study of the city, conducted by Kilroy's firm, Community Management and Planning, that recommended commercial property rezonings, rerouting of traffic and new parking areas.

Wixom studies CBD improvement

Downtown Wixom may receive an facelift in the future if plans for an "Old World" theme are approved by the Oakland County Overall Economic Program.

Assistant to the Mayor Steve Bonczek filed Wixom's downtown revitalization program to the OEOP Committee last week. Estimated cost of the program is in the neighborhood of $500,000, with 50 percent of the cost picked up by an EDA Grant for Public Works and Development Facilities. The other 50 percent would come from future Community Development Block Grants.

"It's not even in the preliminary stages yet," said Bonczek. "We've talked with building owners in the area and we've applied for the grant, but this is definitely a future project. Hopefully we could transform the area into the 'Old World' look, similar to the downtowns of Plymouth and Rochester."

The objectives of the revitalization program are to upgrade the downtown business area through acquisition, demolition, and physical improvements centering around the 'old world' theme.

"We could even put in some old fashioned streetlights," said Bonczek.

In the application for the Overall Economic Development Program, Bonczek sighted three problem areas that must be addressed before a successful redevelopment of downtown can occur. Traffic, mixed land uses, and building deterioration are current problems in the downtown area that need work, according to Bonczek.

Should the redevelopment occur in the future, Bonczek stated that government funding must be obtained and that the city could not undertake the project itself.

Ford loses Lincoln

In Wixom
The disappearance of a $14,000 Lincoln Mark V headed the list of a number of cases investigated by Wixom Police during the past week.
Officials from the Ford Motor Company reported the luxury car missing on June 27 following a routine inventory control check at the Wixom plant.
Presumed stolen, officials believe the car was taken sometime after May 15.

A number of larcenies from cars parked in the employee parking lot at the automobile company were also reported last week.
At sometime between 4-p.m., June 26, unknown persons entered a truck and removed over $500 worth of equipment.
The owner listed the missing items as a fish locator, a quantity of 8-track tapes and a tool box containing miscellaneous tools.

An AM/FM radio tape deck valued at $400 was removed from a Thunderbird parked in the Ford lot. The $200 larceny was discovered by the owner at 8 p.m., June 27.

All four chrome wire wheel covers were taken from a Thunderbird parked in the Ford lot. The $200 larceny was discovered by the owner at 8 p.m., June 27.

In Novi
Novi police received more reports of larcenies in the lake area last week.

Lake resident Larry Kern appeared before the Novi City Council June 26 to ask for more action to stop the larcenies of boats along the lake. Kern said some residents had taken to patrolling the area with shotguns.

On June 26, police received a report from a man who said about $185 worth of merchandise had been stolen from his boat moored along East Lake Drive.

Stolen from his boat were four life jackets, four boat cushions, four life jackets, a fire extinguisher, a toolbox, a gas tank and a flashlight.
The owner said the larceny must have occurred on June 23 or June 26.

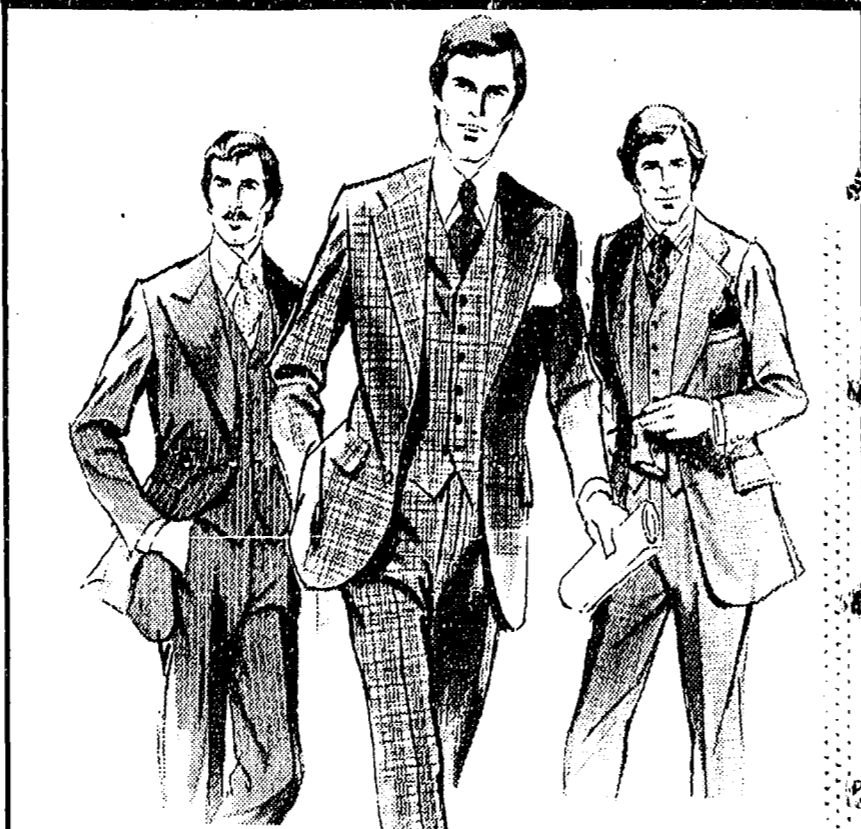

On June 29, a man called police and informed them a $1,000 outboard motor had been stolen from his boat, along with a battery, a pair of skis and two gas cans.

The man told police he didn't know when the larcenies occurred, because he had just gotten out of the hospital.

An 11-year-old Novi boy will trust his luck to fate from now on when it comes to buying baseball cards.
Police were called to Lakeview Market along Novi Road June 30 because the youngster had been opening baseball cards to insure that he did not get any repeats.

Police contacted the boy's parents, who said they would pay for all the damages — a whopping 40 cents.
A break-in was reported at Joe's Market June 30.
Stolen in the break-in were $112.76 worth of cigarettes, beer and other merchandise.

Criminal charges dismissed

Criminal charges brought against a local man have been dismissed by the 52nd District Court in Rochester.

Mario Gougeon of Walled Lake was arrested on loansharking charges by the Oakland County Organized Crime Force last July.

Oakland County Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson charged at the time of the arrests that Gougeon and a Southfield resident, Dhalir Dalaly, had threatened a Walled Lake business man who allegedly had borrowed a total of $22,000 from them at an annual interest rate of 300 percent.

State law declares that charging more than 25 percent interest per year is criminal usury, a felony which carries a sentence of five years imprisonment.
Patterson also alleged that the two men were middle-level organized crime figures. Those allegations have been denied.

John B. Carlin, Jr., an attorney representing Gougeon, reported that charges against his client were dropped at the pre-trial examination level. The Third Division of the 52nd District Court confirmed the report, stating that charges against Gougeon were dismissed August 19, 1977.

The 3rd Division of the 52nd District Court also reported that charges against Dalaly were dismissed in October.

A report of the arrests accompanied by the allegations made by Patterson appeared in the July 13, 1977, edition of The News. A story on the dismissal of the charges was not printed until this date.
The News regrets the delay in reporting the dismissal of the charges and the denial of the allegations made by Patterson.

Korex demolition bids approved in Wixom

Monarch Wrecking Company of Detroit has been awarded the task of demolishing the Korex building on the corner of Pontiac Trail and Wixom Road in the City of Wixom.

Monarch received the job as a result of it being the lowest bidder on the project. Monarch bid $24,779 for the demolition, underbidding two other competitors for the long awaited demolition project.

According to Assistant to the Mayor Steve Bonczek, Monarch officials will meet with city officials on July 7 to get the demolition project underway.

Monies for the project will be taken from Wixom's prior community block grants.

Novi legionnaires divide twinbill

Jeff Lavery is proving to be a very valuable asset to Novi's American Legion baseball squad this summer. The 17-year-old pitching ace came hitting in the clutch again last Friday, bluffing and hurling the local club to a 3-2 victory at Auburn Heights in the first game of a two-night doubleheader. Despite losing the nightcap Novi still has a respectable 4-3 record in its maiden season of Legion baseball, no small thanks to Lavery. The right-handed hurler has started three games for manager Tom Shillo's team and won all three, going the distance each time. In the 21 innings he's worked Lavery has given up just three runs, 11 hits and three walks while striking out 32.

With two outs and the game tied 2-2 in the top of the seventh, Lavery faced a single to left centerfield that scored Bill Bishop with the clincher. Bishop had walked and gone to second on a clutch one-out single by Brad Oyster, who was batting as a pinch hitter.

Lavery then retired Auburn Heights in order in the bottom of the seventh. Novi had jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the fourth when Rick Faulkner walked, went to second on Keith Crosslin's single, advanced to third on a wild pitch and stole home.

One inning later Randy Lewis hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Scott Taylor from third, to make it 2-0. Auburn Heights bounced back to tie the score in the bottom of the fifth, though, to set the stage for Lavery's last-inning heroics. Mark Freer's second-inning double was Novi's only extra-base hit in the game. Lavery had two hits for the winners while Lewis, Faulkner, Crosslin and Oyster each contributed one.

In the nightcap, however, the tables turned. Despite a fairly strong pitching performance by Bishop, Novi dropped a 7-0 decision. Auburn Heights jumped on starter Woody Stidham for four runs in the first two innings before Bishop came on in relief, giving up just two earned runs over the next four innings.

Her 33.55 total score captured the honors in the 10-11 year-old bracket.

BARRIE MUZBECK

She also won the gold medal for first place in both floor exercise and uneven parallel bars and placed third on the balance beam and the vaulting competition.

A special feature of the meet is the handstand contest to see who can hold a handstand the longest. Barrie took the first place trophy by holding her handstand 2:34.

Barrie, a member of Acronauts gymnastics team of the Steve Whitlock School of Gymnastics, practices six days a week round at the Bloomfield Hills gym. She has been a competitor in gymnastics since the age of six.

She is currently the all-around AAU Junior Olympics State Champion for the second year in a row. She placed second in the USGF Class I State Championships and fifth all-around in the regional USGF Class I Championships. Barrie will be attending the Derby City Gymnastics Camp in Louisville, Kentucky, as well as training in Canada during the summer. She will be competing in an international meet with a British team on July 8th in Grand Rapids.

Colonels belt Truckers in doubleheader sweep

The Union Lake Colonels utilized a contingent of hot bats in taking a pair of Inde-Water Open league victories from Clarkston's Ben Powell Truckers last week.

The first game was no contest, as the local squad amassed 20 runs in taking a 9-2 mercy win over the Truckers. The nightcap was a bit closer, but the Colonels fought back from a 4-0 deficit to win, 8-4.

Sam Antonazzo had a perfect four-for-four day at the plate in the opener including three home runs, a double and a walk; while Paul Delming hit for the circuit with a single, double, triple, and home run. Rob Masson and Marv Gross both smacked a pair of home runs, while Rod Lyons and Dave Burt collected three hits apiece.

In the second contest, it was Masson, Mike Turk, Doug Gaines, and Dan Burt who led the way with two hits apiece. Masson, Turk, and Paul Delming all had home runs in the decisive five-run third inning when the Colonels took the lead and were never headed.

Colonel pitcher Rod Lyons picked up both wins as he limited the recently hot Truckers to just one scoring inning in both games.

The two wins give the Colonels a 23-2 league season record and a six game advantage over Danny Paris and Little Caesar's in the Inde-Water open league.

Scorers, directors needed

Scorekeepers and directors are needed for both boys' and girls' softball. Hours are 6 p.m. to sunset Monday and Tuesday through Thursday.

A league director is also needed for both programs. The league director's duties would involve acting as a liaison between managers and the recreation department, scheduling umpires and scorekeepers, assuring that fields are prepared and lined prior to each game, keeping accurate records and reporting and results to the local news media.

Hours would be 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. during the week until August 15.

A league director is needed to work Monday and Wednesday evenings in Novi's T-Ball program between now and August 15 as well.

In addition Parks and Recreation is looking for a senior citizens coordinator to work part-time during the day. The coordinator would be responsible for developing and coordinating a senior citizens program.

For further details call the recreation department at 349-1976.

C & C Collision's Patty Wilson is tagged out at home by Guardian Angel catcher Barb Carl in last week's action in the Walled Lake Recreation Women's league. Although the Guardian Angels took care of this runner, they couldn't get them all as C & C Collision remained unbeaten in the league with a close 14-13 victory.

Several Novi athletes will compete in college

All-League talent was somewhat thin at Novi High over the past nine months. This year's senior class, though, produced two of the finest athletes in their respective sports to ever come out of Novi — and both apparently have promising futures in college.

Kevin Mills, who led the Wildcat wrestling squad to what may have been its best year ever and became the school's first state wrestling champion in history last February, has been offered a wrestling scholarship at the University of Nebraska and will attend the business school there next fall.

Nebraska is a member of the Big Eight Conference, one of the most powerful college wrestling conferences in the nation. Schools like Oklahoma and Iowa State are perennial national champions.

But according to Novi coach Russ Gardner that shouldn't hinder Mills. "I think he'll wrestle well," Gardner says. "His first four matches are against Oklahoma, Oklahoma State, Iowa and Iowa State (four of the top wrestling schools in the country), but he's good enough for it. If he works hard enough he can handle that type of competition."

Mills, who racked up a 49-4 record last winter en route to the Class B 126-pound state wrestling championship, has already been invited to an Olympic training camp in Nebraska later this month, and has wrestled in AAU competition throughout his years at Novi. He also played flanker on last fall's Wildcat football team.

But Mills apparently isn't the only Wildcat grappler with college offers. According to Gardner, in fact, practically every starting senior on this year's squad got bids of one sort or another. Among them were Dennis Maler (Muskegon Community College), Mike Doyle (Notre Dame), Steve Weber (Michigan Tech), Tony McCarty (Western Michigan), Andy Anton (turned down a full ride to Alma to attend prep school at the University of Michigan) and Tim Thomas (turned down other offers in order to attend Oral Roberts).

Another Novi senior who excelled in sports this year was Laura Birou. Birou, who was a first-team All-League selection in both basketball and volleyball as a senior, will be attending Michigan State University this fall.

According to girls' basketball coach Chris Hamilton Birou wasn't offered a scholarship at State but plans on trying out anyway.

"Right now State has one of the best programs in Michigan. Laura's going to have a tough time — she's going to have to be a lot quicker. She might be playing jayvee next year."

"We looked at who State recruited, and a lot of the girls they offered scholarships to were from Class B and C schools, so she thinks she has a fairly good chance."

Teammate Mary Ann Witzinsky's college hopes look bright as well. Witzinsky, the Ladycats' playmaking guard last fall, will be attending North Huntington College in Texas on a full two-year scholarship.

The Ladycats stormed to league and district basketball championships last season.

Both Mills and Birou, incidentally, were far from being gifted athletically only Mills carried a high B average in his studies while Birou had a remarkable 3.89 grade-point average and was salutatorian of her class.

We'll follow our local Caesars

Shortstop Rick Trudeau of Walled Lake picked up four hits in eight at-bats as the Caesars romped past the Kentucky Bourbons, 31-11 and 16-9, in last Friday's doubleheader. Trudeau had two hits in each game, including a two-run bases-loaded single in the third inning of the opener.

Trudeau went all the way in the third on the play when Kentucky's leftfielder misplayed the ball, and the Caesars went on to score 15 runs in the inning.

First baseman Norm Cash of Union Lake started the second game and went hitless in three trips to the plate, but was twice robbed of extra-base hits by Kentucky rightfielder Fred Miller. The former Detroit Tiger star sent Miller to the fence on his last time up.

Trudeau is now batting .522 (48-for-92) for the Caesars and has 18 RBI's

Gourmet cooking takes to wheels

By MARILYN HERALD

There's an old saying, "when you have a good product, it sells itself."

To former South Lyon, Northville caterer and restaurateur, Ruth Black, good food is indeed a good product and one she has never had to "promote."

The people who have, through the years, come back over and over again to Black's catering service, Black's restaurants or Black's gourmet cooking school classes have spread the word that here is food at its finest and just incidentally — most healthful. For the woman who has made a career out of gourmet cooking, is also a natural foods "nut."

"I've always stressed cooking from scratch in my classes. We use natural foods at their best — no preservatives or additives," says the charming woman who combined a career in cooking delicacies with raising five mischievous boys.

"I've been accused of being one of the most outspoken critics of junk foods," the one-time Northville caterer admits, with her own mischievous grin.

For those who have always thought that gourmet cooking was reserved for the Julia Childs or James Beard of the world with every possible convenience at their fingertips, next week's cooking demonstrations at Haas Lake Park just east of New Hudson will be a real eye opener.

Ruth believes that the idea that gourmet cooking is difficult is just a myth perpetuated by egotistical chefs. She says anyone who has the interest and can follow directions is a potential food artist and she'll show how it's done next week.

Ruth and Bill are taking their fully equipped but compact Dodge Sportman motorhome right to the lake front and, with the cooperation of owners Clayton Rickard and Dallas Fletcher and manager Gary Rickard, they will offer some of the most unusual cooking classes ever to hit the area.

The week of "gourmet cooking on wheels" — or under the tree — begins with an informal open house meeting with the Black's at the recreation building at the popular area campground.

"Hers d'oeuvres for a campground potluck menu" is the unlikely title for the Black's Tuesday evening, July 11, demonstration at 7:30 p.m. Ruth and Bill will preside at a Koffee Klatch of Holland recipes at 10 a.m. Wednesday and follow up with a campground cookout exhibition at 7:30 that evening.

Thursday's schedule includes, "Quick and Easy Budget Menus for RV Cookery" at 10 a.m. followed by "Fish Cookery With Appropriate Accompaniments" at 7:30 p.m.

If you've always been a little hesitant about trying Wok cooking at home, how about watching how it's done in the great outdoors? That's the Friday 10 a.m. demonstration which rounds out the week.

Ruth will make it look easy as she shows how this can be done, also with a skillet over an open campfire.

"We think this is a first. We have no knowledge of gourmet cooking classes offered in the open in Michigan," Ruth notes. "It's just a casual thing we got into, while talking to Gary and his father."

The open house on Sunday will be just that, "open to the public" as well as the campers at Haas Lake, compliments of the Haas Lake management. Tuesday through Friday classes may be attended by all who are interested on a reservation basis.

Each session will be $2 per person and reservations may be made by calling the park office, 437-9800. Campers at the park will be able to attend the demonstrations for a reduced rate and will make their reservations, also at the office.

Ruth, who doesn't like the term "lecture," says next week's programs will be more a combination of demonstrating and chatting about what she shows how this can be done, also with a

Summer chores

Trap slugs, sharpen blade, spray

Summertime, and the garden is growing. It's no time to sit back and play spectator, however. There's plenty to do in the law and garden now.

Continue to spray apple trees every 7 to 10 days to protect them against diseases and insects. Peaches, pears, cherries and plums need spraying every two weeks.

Control pests as soon as you detect them. Cut back poinsettias to make them grow full and bushy. Root the cuttings for blooming plants by Christmas.

Continue a disease and insect control program for roses. Remove faded rose flowers just before the petals begin to fall off.

To write history book

Novi teacher researches Caddo tribe

By ALAN SCHULTZ

Novi high school instructor Cecille Carter really didn't know what she was getting into when she assigned herself the task of writing the history of a Southwest American Indian tribe. But she is more than happy, and infinitely busy, with the project.

Carter, claiming a blood line of one-quarter Caddo Indian, has spent portions of the past eight years researching the history of the Caddo tribe and hopes to complete her work in book form in the near future.

"I started in earnest in 1970 collecting the information for the history of the Caddo people," she said. "And at first it was very difficult to find a lot of information in one place. I would find a reference here, a paragraph there, and a footnote somewhere else. A lot of it was in old French and Spanish."

Since that time Carter says she has uncovered a wealth of information that could cover a possible three-volume history.

"I wouldn't even try to put it all into one book," she said.

Carter began her study of her ancestors' tribe during the summer vacation months from her job at Novi High School. Each summer since 1970 she traveled to Anadarko, Oklahoma, the central location of the Caddo people, to obtain information about the tribe's history. Since that time she has investigated records in the nearby states of Louisiana, Arkansas, and Texas.

But her link with the Caddo history began well before that.

Although her father was half Caddo and she was born in Oklahoma, Cecille was raised without an Indian background. A parental divorce separated Cecille from her father's Indian culture and she left the territory. She made her first trip to Anadarko in 1950 to visit her grandmother, and that was when her fondness of the Caddo people began to grow.

"I was really amazed at the extended family concept of the people," she said. "I also heard a lot about my father from the older Caddo there. I had heard earlier that he was a great athlete and the older people confirmed it."

Carter's father, Stephen Elkins, was a decathlon contender for the 1928 Olympics in Amsterdam, and also played both professional baseball and football. Carter confirmed much of what she learned about her father's athletic exploits from newspaper clippings she researched while studying the tribe.

"One of the biggest problems I've encountered with trying to write a history of the Caddo Indians is their tradition of oral history," she said. "They very rarely write anything down, even today. Although I'm trying to get the people to start recording things, they're still reluctant to do so and rely on oral history."

Although Carter maintains that it's not the Indian way to keep written records, she's doing her part by writing her story. She spends about five hours each day on the project.

"I'd like to make this a complete work on the Caddo people," she says, "but I realize what an enormous task that would be. Still, no one has written a book so a Caddo child can pick it up and read about his ancestry."

Carter obtained much of her information from the older members of the Caddo tribe. She spent weeks with tribal members and had interviews with the daughter of the last strong tribal chief, the granddaughter of another former chief, and the present tribal chairman.

Through the interviews, Carter obtained a vast knowledge of former Caddo customs and traditions.

"There really is a lot I didn't know," she said. "Since I found all this information about the traditions, I'd like to write my first book on that alone. The history is scheduled for the second book right now."

Carter noted that most of the Caddo Indians alive today are concentrated in the Anadarko area, where some still farm on the lands allotted them by the federal government near the turn of the century. She stated that there are about 1,200 Caddo Indians on the tribes census role, but that most have left the western Oklahoma area.

"People grow up, go to school, get jobs, and don't come back," she said. "There still are tribal meetings and the Caddo do have their own council and by-laws. They're a federally chartered group and work mainly as a social service now."

The old Caddo tradition is for the most part, still alive, according to Carter, but she did notice a decline in the Caddo language.

"The Caddo language is dying out," she explained. "So few of the young people learn it. You'll find very few people under the age of 50 who speak Caddo. Some between the ages of 30 and 50 can understand it, but not speak it, and most of the people under the age of 20 know just the common words."

Language has been a longtime trouble spot for the Caddo, as the language sounds difficult to the English ear. As a result, American census takers recorded only the Caddo names they could understand, and made up names for those they couldn't. Such was the case for Carter's grandmother whose difficult Caddo name was disregarded. On the census roles she was listed as "Fanny Brown."

In her writing, Carter will trace the history of the Caddo tribe from its origins in the Louisiana, Arkansas area, through its journey westward into Texas, and finally through its forced exile from Texas to Oklahoma.

As an author, Carter will not only have to thank the members of the Caddo tribe and government officials who made her research possible, but the Novi school board for giving her a one year leave of absence to complete the work.

"I am especially grateful to the school board," she says. "Without the one year leave, I could have never completed my research."

"And my family has been marvelous too. I couldn't have done it without them."

Carter hopes to have a rough draft of her work completed by August and has already found a couple of organizations interested in publishing her finished product.

"The difficult part is that new material is coming out all the time," she said. "It's hard to know when to stop gathering information and when to start writing."

Cecille Carter resides on Six Mile Road in Northville and teaches in the composition skills department at Novi High School. She was responsible for originating the high school debate and forensics teams and also submitted the proposal for the recently dedicated school radio station to the school board over a year ago.

Dramatic changes seen in structure of family

Looking 25 to 50 years in the future, a Michigan State University (MSU) professor predicts that the family will flourish—but not as we know it today.

Dr. Vera Borosage, professor of family and child sciences, predicts that when people start living to be as old as 125, it will be harder to stay with one partner for a lifetime.

Basing her predictions on today's trends in these areas, Dr. Borosage foresees a time when there will be less or no embarrassment at all on certain issues still touchy today.

She said there will be an increasing acceptance of not only divorce, but of cohabitation, communal living, homosexual marriages and simply remaining single.

By the Way

With Nancy Dingeldey

A simple one way street sign could find a place for Wixom in the Guinness Book of World Records.

It won't be this year, however, because G. Howard Garrard, Correspondence Editor of the famous book, says there is a lack of collated data on the length of one way streets.

Wixom is certainly more well known for the infamous railroad crossing in the center of town than it is for street signs. But, the two do tie together.

The one way street runs right into the railroad tracks. It must have been done by the seemingly constant waits at the tracks that Henry Mack set his eyes, and thoughts, on the sign and the street.

Henry is a productive man. He uses his time wisely. While other motorists crab and complain over the incessant trains blocking the intersection, Henry surveys the countryside...and thinks.

He apparently had a brainstorm...and concluded the little gravel road named Bandera had to be the shortest one way street in the world. While others might think about it, Henry did something. Attacking the situation with his "how long" (tape measure), the energetic Wixom man measured the street.

Twenty-five feet. To Henry's way of thinking, Bandera Street just had to be the shortest one way street in the entire world. While others might think about it, Henry did something about it. He dashed off a letter to Guinness Superlatives Limited.

A delightful letter was written to Mack by Garrard. In the letter, Garrard said the information had arrived too late for consideration and inclusion in the next edition of the book.

But, he added, the editors are, "without commitment, placing your letter amongst the papers which will be seen by the editor in the next review period." At that time, consideration will be given to naming Bandera Street the shortest one way street in the world.

Garrard also said in his letter that Guinness' lack of collated data in relation to one way streets does not enable them to comment authoritatively on the significance of Bandera Street in record terms.

The editor added that currently, the shortest reported measurement of a street is Tolbooth Street in Falkirk, Scotland. The measurement is 58 feet, but, it is not a one way street!

Now we return to the intersection and the havoc caused by the railroad tracks.

Working mothers need 'own' time

One in every three mothers with preschool children in the United States has two full-time jobs — at home and in outside employment.

"Women who combine motherhood and career can meet the dual role creatively by setting priorities that are important to them," said Merrily Baldwin, Extension home economist.

It is not easy to lower the guilt rate among working mothers who think they should be at home, Baldwin pointed out. "Feeling guilty isn't the same as being guilty," Baldwin said. "But you can help your children not make you feel guilty by clarifying what they expect from you and doing all you can to keep communication channels open."

Leaving notes in lunchboxes, writing letters and actually mailing them, and putting loving messages on a child's bedroom chalkboard in the morning, all will help a child keep contact with a mother while she is away.

One mother said that if she comes home early her 4-year-old usually is watching television, is surprised to see her, and resents intrusion on her privacy. "That behavior among children may suggest they are capable of adjusting to more than they are given credit for," Baldwin said. "A mother can get into the parent-child relationship again once she comes home, but she doesn't have to dive in head first."

"Have family members attach little messages to the refrigerator that say how they are feeling," Baldwin suggested. "This can hasten the re-opening of communication to her instead of always deferring to others," Baldwin said.

"A mother who takes care of her own needs, it has been shown by psychologists, is more able to meet the needs of her family," according to Baldwin.

Play dough goodies

Novi's Jennifer Brown rolls her playdough while learning about shapes as Jack Doline looks on. Both youngsters are part of the Farmington YMCA's Pre-School Camp that meet's daily at the Novi Methodist Church. The Pre-School Camp (ages 3-4) and the Kiddie Camp (ages 5-6), are both operated by the Farmington YMCA which includes the Novi area. Included in the activities are group play, hikes, stories, songs, and games under adult supervision. Both camps are conducted from 9 a.m. until noon or 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. A snack is provided each day. For information on the programs, contact the Farmington YMCA at 553-4020. Staff photo by Jane Hale.

Eleven local area students named to OCC dean's list

A total of 11 local area students have been named to the annual Dean's List for academic honors at the Highland Lakes Campus of Oakland Community College.

To be eligible, students must earn an all A average for 12 or more credit hours. This achievement places the student in the top two percent of the student body.

Local area students named to the list are Janet Allard of Walled Lake, Barbara Caldwell of Union Lake, Sharon Crives of Union Lake, Douglas Ploot of Walled Lake, Mary Harding of Union Lake, and Georgette Hogue of Union Lake.

Other local area students named to the list are Mary King of Union Lake, Diane O'Connor of Union Lake, Patricia Peace of Union Lake, Joyce Radner of Novi, and Robert Weyhing of Walled Lake.

Local homes sought for exchange students

Youth for Understanding, the nation's largest student exchange program, is offering Walled Lake families an opportunity to host a foreign exchange student for the coming year.

According to Curtis Day, faculty member at Walled Lake Western High School and local YFO representative, efforts are currently underway to locate local families interested in hosting an international student.

Host families are volunteers who provide room and board for the international student. Day explained the families also provide the same guidance, affection, and learning opportunities to the exchange teen-ager as they would offer their own children.

Called a unique experience by past host families, YFO students come from 26 countries around the world. Each attends an American high school and shares the daily lives of American families.

Day added host families in the past have had varied backgrounds, income levels, lifestyles, and family sizes. They all possess, however, a desire to share and learn with young people. Many long friendships are formed through the host experience, Day commented, with many repeating the experience.

The exchange students are required to have conversational ability in English and are responsible for their own personal expenses and spending money. The international students, aged 14 through 18, spend six months to one year as "ambassadors of friendship" between diverse nations and cultures.

English-speaking international students live the "ordinary" life of the American high school student. American students can also spend a scholastic year in a different country with a host family. Since the YFO program began 26 years ago, it has exchanged more than 60,000 students worldwide.

Families who wish to explore the possibilities of becoming a host family or desire more information on the entire program may contact Day at his Walled Lake home at 624-6435.

WHAT ABOUT TRIM?

The proper trim on our beef is important at A&P's Butcher Shop because we don't want you to pay, or even think you're paying one penny extra for unnecessary bone and fat. It's a precise business. We have to trim the beef so the extra bone and fat is taken off before the retail cut is weighed, packaged and priced by weight. Yet we have to leave on just enough fat cover for full flavor. At A&P we trim off fat in excess of 1/4 inch.

Prices effective Wed., July 5 thru Sat., July 8, 1978. We reserve the right to limit quantities. Items offered for sale not available to other retail dealers or wholesalers.

Home Decorating with Howard & Lois Green

Every well-planned room has three major types of lighting: background (often called general or fill-in light), local, and accent light. Used together, these give balanced illumination that is restful to the eye, and flattering to furnishings. Background lighting bathes the walls in soft, general illumination, ideal for relaxing or watching television. Reading, sewing, card playing and hobby activities demand good local as well as background illumination. This can be supplied by a table lamp, floor lamp, or suspended wall or ceiling fixture placed close to the user. These must be designed to cast their light on the work surface, not in the eyes. Take advantage of natural light to emphasize the beauty of your home. Come in and visit us at GREEN'S CREATIVE HOME CENTER, 107 N. Center St., 349-7110. We carry all types of fine wallpapers to brighten up any room in your home. Our wallpapers are discounted from 15% to 25% and there is no shipping fee added. Coordinate our papers with our fine line of FULLER O'BRIEN PAINTS. We will custom-tint paint to just the color you want, more than 1,000 possible colors. Ask us about our beautiful custom made window shades. We provide free estimates and installations on custom made shades.

HELPFUL HINT: Assess natural light before choosing fixtures for artificial lighting. Then supplement as needed.

Prize winner

One-year old Jason Matthew Darwood of Novi won honorable mention in the general category of the boys' costume competition at Greenfield Village during the recent Muzzle Loaders Festival. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Darwood of Pheasant Run, Jason wore a batiste baby dress with knee-length pantaloons purchased by his mother at an antique show. He also wore a hand-crocheted baby cap and black button-up shoes. He was "wheeled" into the competition by his mother in an antique baby carriage that dates back to 1870. Mrs. Darwood (above) wore a simple day dress from the Civil War period. Mr. and Mrs. Darwood are members of the First Michigan Volunteer Infantry — a Civil War reenactment group which attempts to accurately portray the dress of Civil War soldiers and their families. More than 4,000 participants attended the Muzzle Loaders Festival, many portraying Civil War soldiers, frontier families, Indians, and trappers.

MoneyMarket Certificate

This new Money Market Certificate enables you to earn the same rate for the same term as six month T-28 Treasury bills. The certificate is issued for a 28 week maturity in amounts of $10,000 or more at a rate which is constant for the term of your certificate. It is established weekly, and is equal to the average yield for six month Treasury bills in the most recent weekly auction. On May 22 the rate was 7.14%.

Your funds are available at maturity without penalty, when you can choose a new Money Market Certificate at the then prevailing rate. For more details on how this certificate can work for you, and for the current rate, please call us at 478-6006.

Local men serve country

Pfc. Daniel R. Baldwin of Novi has recently been assigned as a recovery specialist with the First Cavalry Division at Fort Hood, Texas.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Baldwin of Glenda Street.

A 1976 graduate of Novi High School, Baldwin entered the Army in March of 1977.

His wife, Sandra Lynn, lives in Nottawville, Texas.

Sergeant John F. Collins, son of Mrs. Isabel C. Collins, 24614 Olde Orchard Road, recently completed the Basic Non-commissioned Officer Course at Fort Riley, Kan.

The four-week course, designed to improve military occupational skills, prepares the student to assume the duties of a squad section or crew leader.

Collins entered the Army in June 1971.

The sergeant is a 1971 graduate of Chadsey High School, Detroit.

His wife, Jane, is with him in Kansas.

Sergeant Michael R. LeBlanc of Novi has arrived for duty at Vance Air Force Base in Oklahoma.

He is the son of Mrs. Mary LeBlanc, an air traffic control operator with a unit of the Air Force Communications Service, previously served at Ellsworth Air Force Base in South Dakota.

Service threatened Village considers Dial-A-Ride

Service threatened

By DAVID RAY

Facing a deadline of tonight (Wednesday) to okay a contract for continued local funding of the Lakes Area Special Dial-A-Ride van, the Wolverine Lake Village Council will hear a recommendation from President John McLeilan that the agreement with the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMATA) should not be approved.

If the council goes along with McLeilan's recommendation and rejects the six-month pact at tonight's meeting, Lakes Area Special service in the village will be dropped tomorrow, according to Dan Morrill, SEMATA's assistant general manager.

Four of the five other communities served by the 12-passenger van already have approved the contract, which calls for local funding of one-third of the Special's net operating costs, estimated at $130 a month from each municipality, until December 31 or the start of the Oakland County Advanced Reservation Transit (OCART) system.

Morrill said he extended the deadline for village approval of the contract from June 30 until July 12 because of misunderstandings over the funding formula.

He added, however, that, if a contract is not approved, Dial-A-Ride service for Wolverine Lake will be discontinued as of July 13. The four other communities — Commerce, Novi, Walled Lake and Wixom — will be asked to cover the village's share of the costs, Morrill said.

The Novi City Council made its approval of the contract subject to ratification of the pact by the other communities.

It was unclear earlier this week what effect the village's possible rejection of the agreement could have on the other units of government.

McLeilan said he felt the council should not approve the contract because it is "another form of double taxation."

"I don't feel it's fair to ask the people of this area to pay taxes, license fees and transfer taxes for a bus system for Detroit and then have (SEMATA) come back and tell us to pay the freight for our own bus system," he said.

"They gave Detroit $800,000 for a sub-way study and then tell us we've got to pay $130 a month for a bus system. That's just not fair."

As long as the local communities pay a share of the Dial-A-Ride operating expenses, McLeilan added, there is no "incentive for SEMATA to give us service."

The village president also said he felt that senior citizens, who comprise the majority of the Lakes Area Special's ridership, are being used as "pawns in SEMATA's little game."

Lakes Area Transportation Commission officials say that the Special has a monthly ridership of over 900 passengers, which is near capacity for the van.

However, McLeilan said that "not one village resident has asked me about this. I have to assume that they don't care."

At last month's council meeting, a

Walled Lake teacher files bias charge

Sexual discrimination charges have been filed against the Walled Lake School District by a female teacher who was recently passed over in appointments to two elementary school principal vacancies.

The News has learned that Dr. Sheldon Dally, a reading specialist at Western High School, has filed the charges with the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) in Detroit.

Superintendent Dr. Don Sheldon told The News Monday that he had not yet received official notification of the charges, but Dr. Dally reported that the charges have been filed.

EEOC officials declined any comment on the case.

The News has learned, however, that the suit will charge that the school district has systematically excluded women from upper level management positions.

According to unsubstantiated figures, there are 47 males and just three females covered by the district's administrative contract. In addition, there are no females in executive positions in central administration with the exception of Public Information Officer Delores Krzyzak.

Dr. Sheldon declined comment on the suit until he has received official notification of the charges. Dr. Dally also declined comment on the charges on the grounds that the case is currently under the jurisdiction of the EEOC.

The filing of the sexual discrimination charges marks the latest chapter in the dispute between Dr. Dally and the school district over the appointments to the two elementary school principal vacancies. The sexual discrimination charges are not directly related to the appointments, however, since one of the individuals selected to fill the vacant positions was a woman.

The Walled Lake School Board officially acknowledged the appointment of Robert Voss and Mrs. Gail Stephens to fill the elementary school principal vacancies at its June meeting.

The school board delegated the Campion elected head of Walled Lake board

Betty Campion was elected president of the Walled Lake Board of Education for the 1978-79 school year at the annual organizational meeting last week.

Election of officers was the primary item of business at the meeting as the board established operating procedures for the 1978-79 school year.

Leo Wessinger, Jr., was elected vice-president of the school board, Warren Williams was elected to the post of secretary, and Robert Cooper was elected treasurer.

The organizational meeting is the first meeting of the board for the upcoming 1978-79 school year.

The meeting also saw Kenneth Tucker of Walled Lake assume his seat on the school board. Tucker was elected to the board in the June election. He replaces former board president Dorothy Mengel who was not a candidate for reelection this year.

Mrs. Campion was elected board president for the second time in the past three years.

She was elected to a four-year term on the school board in 1971 and was reelected to another four-year term in 1975. Her present term is slated to expire at the end of the 1978-79 school year.

Mrs. Campion was elected board president for the 1976-77 school year and was elected vice-president of the board for the 1977-78 school year.

She was also elected to the Oakland County Intermediate School Board in June. Intermediate school board members are elected by Oakland County school districts.

In other business, the school board named Barbara Scully as its delegate on the Oakland County Intermediate Budget Review Committee. Warren Williams was selected as the alternate.

selected Chester Gerbenky to serve as the board liaison with the Michigan Association of School Boards (MASB) for the purpose of keeping the board informed regarding items of special information from the MASB.

authorized Assistant Superintendent for Business Harry Carlson to act as the district's agent to repurchase Walled Lake School debt bonds at a price not to exceed par value and not to exceed a total of $400,000 during the 1978-79 school year.

voted to retain board meeting dates as the second Monday of each month at 8 p.m. in a departure from previous policy, however, the board also voted to schedule two of the regular meetings in elementary schools.

The October 9 meeting will be held in the Wixom Elementary School and the April 9 meeting will be held at the Dublin Elementary School. Board members expressed hope that the meetings in the schools would encourage public participation.

News marks anniversary with party

We're having a birthday party — and everybody's invited.

The first edition of The Walled Lake News was published on July 13, 1977, and on Thursday, July 13, 1978 (tomorrow), we will celebrate our first birthday with free cake and coffee.

Our offices are located at 1340 South Commerce Road in the Plaza West shopping mall. Free cake and coffee will be available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Our birthday party will be a lot different, however, because we're planning to give a birthday present to everybody who accepts our invitation. To commemorate our first birthday we will give anyone who stops in from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Thursday one free classified ad (business ads are excluded from this offer).

The main purpose of our birthday party is to give residents in our circulation area an opportunity to come in and meet the members of our staff. Penny Sutton of Walled Lake, our secretary, will be the hostess. She'll be assisted by the rest of our staff: Managing Editor Philip Jerome, Walled Lake Editor David Ray, Novi Editor Steve Bell, Sports Editor Al Schultz, Community Editor Nancy Dingledey, and Advertising Representative Mary Anne Kelly.

So if you've got some free time on Thursday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. stop by for some free cake and coffee as well as a free classified ad.

Tell us what you like or don't like about our paper. Maybe you have some good ideas as to what we can do to improve the quality of our product.

We'd like a chance to thank you for making The Walled Lake News an invited guest in our home every week.
