

For growing churches like Oakland Baptist gymnasiums can be sanctuaries

Fledgling churches grow in schools

By KATHY JENNINGS

During the week the noises of children at play resound across school gymnasiums. But every Sunday it is the sound of worship — Bible pages rattling, prayers and voices lifted in hymns — that you will hear there.

For those congregations which gather in four of Novi's six school buildings, it is a challenge to dispel the school atmosphere and instill an atmosphere of worship.

But the congregations put up with the minor inconveniences of carting in song books and bulletin boards each week because they know the closeness which comes from sharing new beginnings, and they recognize the promise of a building of their own someday will be a reality.

Pastor Richard Henderson and members of Faith Community United Presbyterian are closer to that reality than other congregations. He holds services each week in Village Oaks Elementary where his congregation has been meeting since 1976.

Faith Community began with a membership half of whom were Novi residents attending the Northville Presbyterian Church. The other half had no original church home, Henderson said.

Since then a membership of 200 adults has been built up.

Besides services in the combination gymnasium and cafeteria, the church also uses six classrooms for Sunday School.

Meeting in a school probably is most difficult for the person attending a service for the first time, Henderson said.

"It is different for them at first. They can't help but notice the basketball hoops at each end of the room. People who come here the first time think the congregation doesn't sing very loud because the gymnasium is built to absorb sounds.

"But after a few weeks it becomes 'our church' and they don't notice blackboards and the kick balls in the rafters," Henderson said.

For many of Henderson's parishioners, attending Faith Community is their first involvement with a formal church, and meeting in the school creates a spirit of adventure, the spirit of making something out of nothing which comes with starting a new church, Henderson says.

"We have tremendous involvement and a greater commitment than an established church with a building," he said.

But there are continuous identity problems and little inconveniences.

So the congregation is anxious for a building of its own. Groundbreaking for the church on Ten Mile across from the new police department is planned for April. Plans call for Faith Community to spend one more year in the school before holding its first service in the new building on Easter Sunday 1981.

Identification is a problem shared by all four churches which meet in the schools. Probably, the church with the most severe problem is the Church of the Nazarene led by Reverend William Bowen.

Identification problems are forcing his congregation to seek temporary quarters in a building outside the schools.

"When you tell people you're meeting in a school they kind of back off," Bowen said. "We're trying to get a building this summer so we can have a full program with Wednesday and Friday meetings."

Although they have been meeting for nearly 18 months at Middle School South the Church of the Nazarene has only 13 members. "You just can't get people to come to the school," Bowen said.

For a number of Bowen's flock starting up a church is nothing new. "In our congregation we have a group of people who like to start new churches. One couple helped start one in Brighton. They like to start new works. It takes special people to organize a new church, find property and see a building constructed. They have to be willing to pay the price."

He recognizes it takes time to build a congregation and build sufficient enough membership to be fiscally viable.

Bowen said getting financing for a church building depends on the size of the membership. "Banks will lend a church $1,000 for every 10 members since the strength of paying them back depends on the number of members. It takes a lot of time to get financing together," he said.

The Church of the Nazarene is a holiness church, Bowen explained. A branch of the Wesleyan Church, with a doctrine which is nearly the same, the church preaches a life of sanctifications filled with the holy spirit and a life of holiness as the Bible describes it.

Many of Bowen's members are middle aged and older.

"We welcome anyone who is interested. We have an open door church," Bowen said.

In the Novi Woods cafeteria Pastor Thomas Scherger conducts services each week for Freedom Lutheran Church and reports it is "quite suitable."

"It's not as bare or stark as a gymnasium, so there is not as much of a school atmosphere to dispel. We bring in banners and an altar to do what we can to make it worshipful," said Scherger.

But he went on to say there is more than simply making the school take on a church atmosphere.

"Part of the fact that our congregation is willing to meet in the school is that they accept it is not going to be as worshipful as a church," Scherger said.

Originally, Freedom Lutheran was started by a group who attended a Lutheran church in Farmington. However, 75 percent of the members are now from Novi, Scherger reports. During the three years they have been meeting in Novi Woods, attendance has grown until now nearly 100 people attend regularly.

Being without a building to call their own is regarded by Scherger's congregation as a temporary inconvenience.

"We've discussed just how urgent it is to get a building. It's a high priority, but we have a feeling the church is the people. It's not quite as formal or organized as our own building would be, but we're willing to put up with it."

Freedom Lutheran has taken the first step toward its own building with the purchase of property at Ten Mile and Wixom Road.

Scherger says his group is predominantly younger families. "Most of them are relatively new to the community and have a wide variety of religious backgrounds. The traditional Lutheran really is in the minority," Scherger said.

He indicated the church is grateful for the opportunity to rent school facilities for their weekly services, noting jokingly that the only problem has been when the custodian didn't show up and they were locked out.

His church has dealt with the inevitable identity problem through posting signs, advertising, mail-

City considers no increases in new budget

"Tight" was the forecast for Novi's budget in fiscal 1980-81 as city council members got their first look at preliminary budget projections which call for virtually no increase in expenditures beyond this year's level.

Assistant City Manager Alex Allie presented council with what he described as "the bad news and the bad news" as he ran down projected revenues along with numerous funding question marks.

Early estimates show the administration anticipates a 1980-81 budget of $3.46 million as compared with a 1979-80 budget of $3.48 million — a decline of $20,000.

Allie told the council that if it levied the maximum millage allowed under Headlee, the city would realize a 15 percent increase in property tax revenues bringing it up to an estimated $1.8 million.

But while local property tax revenues are increasing, decreases in state and federal funding will require that city expenditures be limited to current levels.

The biggest reduction in projected revenues is in federal revenue sharing areas. President Jimmy Carter's announced intentions to balance the federal budget have prompted the city to estimate that federal funding will drop from this year's total of $185,000 to $45,000 in the upcoming year.

"This is the biggest question mark we have in our attempts to arrive at these projections," Allie said.

Should federal revenue sharing funds ultimately be allocated, they would be used for needed capital expenditure projects, Allie said. "It wouldn't be appropriate to count on those funds to balance the budget. We don't want to get used to living on (federal revenue sharing funds) or paying salaries with it."

Projections for state shared revenues were pegged at $600,000 for the upcoming year. The city projected 1979-80 state shared revenues of $660,000, but year-end figures show that the city actually received $600,000.

Other question marks which cloud the fiscal picture include the effects of the economy on the housing market.

It is anticipated that license and registration fees in the building department next year will total about $302,000 — or more than $100,000 less than needed to operate the department, Allie said.

He also reported that the building department currently is operating at minimum manpower with one inspector for each discipline (such as electrical and plumbing) and three clerical employees.

In addition, Allie reported that revenues from the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) will be phased out during the next fiscal year. The city received approximately $41,000 in CETA funds last year, but this year's allocation is expected to be approximately $20,000.

Federal funding that has been supplementing the police department budget also is expected to be lost in the upcoming year, according to Allie. The police department currently receives federal funds for its traffic safety, court services and police planning programs.

Questions also have been raised regarding delinquent tax monies. Previously, Oakland County has sold bonds in order to pay delinquent taxes to municipalities, but the uncertainty of the bond market has raised questions on that form of revenue which could net the city as much as $125,000.

As budget talks progress council members will face a policy decision regarding the tax collection fee. Levying that fee could generate $113,000 if the council decides to rein it in the upcoming budget, Allie said.

Other revenues include approximately $250,000 in interest on investment and $148,901 available for reappropriation from this budget.

Allie told the council the preliminary budget projections show that when the economy gets tight the city's ability to meet the budget depends more heavily upon the property tax dollar.

"While our budget is increasing zero percent, the use of the local property taxes is going up 15 percent," Allie said.

The assistant city manager emphasized that all figures are preliminary at this point. Council members will receive additional budget information at their April 14 session.

Jackson offers post to Novi superintendant

Jackson Intermediate School District has offered its superintendency to Novi School Superintendent Gerald Kratz.

Kratz formally will announce his intentions to the Novi Board of Education Thursday in a regularly scheduled meeting.

His announcement follows action by the Jackson board, which voted 3-2 last week to offer Kratz a four-year contract with starting pay of $46,300. A car also would be provided under the terms of the contract.

As of The News deadline, Kratz said he had not yet decided whether he would take the job in Jackson or remain as superintendent of Novi Schools.

"I am facing one of the most difficult decisions of my professional career," Kratz said.

He indicated that a number of local board members have tried to influence him to stay in Novi. Another consideration is the split vote by the Jackson board to hire him, he said.

"The vote in Jackson was 3-2 to hire me and as I read this board they would like me to stay 7-0," Kratz said.

Apparently, members of the Jackson board were concerned that the salary offered Kratz was too high. The board came up from its originally announced intentions of offering a two-year $43,000 contract to meet Kratz demands.

Kratz went on to say that accepting the position of superintendent of the Jackson Intermediate School District would be "evaluated by everyone in education as a career advancement. There are 550 local school superintendents and only 55 intermediate superintendents. Jackson also is considered one of the top 10 intermediate districts in the state," he commented.

Kratz indicated the "moment of truth" will be at Thursday's board meeting.

Jackson has indicated they would like Kratz to be on the job by July 1 if not earlier. He has told Novi School Board President Ron Milam that he would ask to be released from his contract as of June 30, but would use vacation time to familiarize himself with the operation in Jackson if he decides to accept the position.

Should he decide to accept the position a consultant from the University of Michigan will be brought before the Novi School board to discuss conducting a search for a new superintendent, Kratz said.

Residents oppose trash collection

Nearly 40 residents turned out last week to tell Novi council members they opposed municipal trash collection services.

In a public hearing designed to gather input on the proposed city contracted trash collection service, residents said they believed government should not be involved in private enterprise and that city service was unnecessary because they had been successfully removing their own refuse for years.

Novi Department of Public Services Director Robert Shaw told residents at Middle School South last Wednesday that the city has received numerous calls from mile road residents complaining they cannot get trash collection service.

Other problems which prompted the city's investigation of trash collection included reports of residents who paid a contractor in advance and never saw him again, Shaw said.

"We also receive calls from new residents who are amazed to learn that we're not in the refuse business," Shaw added.

As a result of the complaints and inquiries, the city has investigated the possibility of offering trash collection services to residents who cannot obtain service or who are paying exorbitant rates, Shaw indicated.

But only one resident at last week's hearing reported complaints with his current trash collection service. And the vast majority of residents expressed opposition to city-contracted trash collection services.

The opinions of many residents were summed up by Robert Schram who told the council that "government exists where the private sector can't provide. The city does not need to provide trash collection," said Schram.

Mary Wikman, a Taft Road resident, said she was opposed to the city taking away the choice of the residents.

"You told us we couldn't have a garage and that we had to have paved roads, now we're discussing city trash collection," she said. "When we lived in Westland, the city contracted for trash collection services — they raised the fee three times and the service got worse and worse," Wikman said.

Another resident protested saying, "we presently have several contractors in Meadowbrook Lakes and if we are unhappy we can go to another contractor. If we go to a city contracted service and they do a poor job, what recourse do we have?"

Shaw said the city will require a performance bond of the contractor. If complaints become serious the city can take over his equipment and keep the service going until a new contractor can be hired.

After a number of residents complained that the city was trying to "ram" trash collection "down our throats," Mayor Romaine Roethel explained that the council has not determined its course of action regarding the service.

"This really is still in the investigative stage," Roethel said. "We have had a considerable amount of complaints and this meeting is the vehicle in which we choose to do our investigating in order to obtain further input before coming to a conclusion. No determination has been made at all."

Presidents of homeowner's association who attended the meeting to express the opinions of their respective groups asked whether they could legally commit their subdivision to such a service.

Mayor Roethel asked those subdivision leaders who have not already done so to survey residents and notify the city in writing of the number of residents responding to the survey and whether they are interested in city trash service.

She indicated that it would not be the association presidents, but the council which, after reviewing the survey results, would ultimately take the responsibility for initiating city trash collection in a given subdivision.

Some residents complained that notification of the public hearing which also contained the city's request for input from residents regarding trash collection did not receive wide enough distribution.

Others suggested that an ordinance approved by the council last June which gives the city power to license trash collectors should be given a chance to work.

Residents were asked to submit any additional input regarding trash collection to the city administration before April 14.

Census form mailing misses Novi residents

If you haven't received your federal census forms in the mail yet, you're not alone.

Novi Mayor Romaine Roethel reported Tuesday that she has received numerous calls from individuals who have not yet received the forms. "I don't know what the problem is, but a lot of people just have not received their forms," said the mayor — adding that she was among those residents who have been overlooked by the Federal Census Bureau thus far.

The mayor also emphasized the importance of filling out the census forms and sending them back as soon as possible.

In addition to providing information for reapportioning seats in the U.S. House of Representatives, census figures are used to determine allocation of various federal funds.

Roethel said it is important that every Novi resident be counted in the 1980 census so that the city can obtain its fair share of federal funds.

Residents who have not yet received federal census forms should call (toll free) 1-800-562-8227. Information also is available at 1-338-7610 in Pontiac.

New headquarters open

Novi police move gets underway

By KATHY JENNINGS

The Novi police department began its move into new headquarters with the transfer of the road patrol operation from the Novi Road station to the new Ten Mile facility on Monday.

Dispatch operations also began broadcasts from the new police headquarters Monday.

Tuesday the department planned to move the Lien machine which connects the Novi Police via computer links to criminal records across the country.

Temporarily, the police will be operating out of two buildings with the road patrol on Ten Mile and the general service officers in the old city hall on Sixth Gate.

Plans call for the detective bureau, traffic service, court service, the lieutenant's and chief's offices presently located in the old city hall to move into the new facility April 10.

Police Chief Lee BeGoale said the former city hall building also is known as the Presnell Building.

Operations of all departments in the new police headquarters are planned to be in full swing by April 15.

Before the rough edges were smoothed and police personnel were moved in, council members were given a tour of the new facility.

The public is scheduled to be invited to view the facility during Police Week. During the council tour it became obvious that it didn't take finishing touches to tell that the new Novi Police building is something special.

From the lobby is an impressive view of other parts of the municipal complex

Power Park, Novi High School, City Hall and the library.

The building is spacious and room for expansion has been provided to hold the department indefinitely.

Still in rough condition are eight holding cells. The cells will not be completed until required by the growth of the department.

Nearly everything about the place says it is a building the department can grow in.

The new police department is a two-story building with the first floor for uniform and patrol division. The second floor houses the administrative offices, detective bureau, general services officers, youth bureau and undercover officers.

On the lower level the council members were shown four holding cells. One is a combination interview room and holding cell, another is a detoxification cell for drunken prisoners and a third is designated for women.

Also on the lower level are the locker rooms and briefing rooms for patrol officers.

Council members were shown the area where doors will be opened by communication personnel in dispatch.

The dispatch room which was crowded into the old headquarters now has enough space to accommodate communications personnel and equipment comfortably. The floor is raised for underfloor wiring and the wall air conditioning. As an emergency center it is complete with a generator so that it can operate as a self-contained center.

Separate areas for vehicle maintenance and evidence storage also have been provided.

Office spaces for the youth bureau, surveillance, and other portions of the department are found upstairs.

A records room, computer room and supporting offices also are located on the upper level. The second floor also has a conference room, employee area and a lounge. In addition the chief's office and others are located there.

Novi asked to note emergency numbers

With a new police headquarters comes a new telephone number. Officials are asking residents to note emergency calls for the Novi Police and Fire Departments now will be taken on 348-9111.

Dialing 348-HELP, the old number, will still reach the department for a short time. The old line has been computerized to automatically ring into the new number temporarily.

But police are trying to educate residents to use the new number which is based upon the nearly universal 911 emergency number.

Some difficulty with the new system was encountered early this week when the telephone department connected a recording saying the 348-9444 number was disconnected. Officials anticipated that people who dial the old number will be transferred automatically to the new line.

However, residents are urged to use the new number in order to be assured of reaching the department.

For non-emergency business calls the new telephone number is 348-7100.

Await EPA grant offer

Commerce, county eye super sewer compromise

Commerce Township and Wayne County public works officials are still trying to resolve their differences over a financing agreement to include the township in facility plan and design phases of the so-called super sewer system.

Officials met Friday in an attempt to resolve the impasse before the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) offers a 75-percent federal grant to fund the plan and design work.

A possible solution to the contract dispute may have been reached March 28, according to Township Clerk Robert D. McGee, pending an okay from the Wayne Board of Public Works.

An attorney for the public works board said at Friday's meeting that he felt a memorandum of understanding proposed by the county would be enforceable, McGee said.

If the attorney stipulates in writing that the memorandum is enforceable, the issue could be the clerk added.

Township officials have proposed revisions or an addendum to the financing agreement that would give Commerce the right to drop out of the project without incurring additional costs for possible re-design of the proposed regional wastewater treatment facilities, but Wayne County officials have said the contract can't be changed since 15 other communities have approved it. County public works officials have suggested the memorandum of understanding to address Commerce's concerns, but Township Attorney Douglas Chartrand has said that document would be unenforceable.

AS A TWIG IS BENT SO GROWS YOUR CHILD'S SPINE

The condition of your child's spine and nerve system during the early formative years may determine his or her whole future health. Children do suffer misalignments of the spinal vertebrae through falls, sports or minor accidents and stress. The onset of childhood, and later adulthood illnesses can, in many cases, be traced to seemingly unimportant spinal injury. For this reason it is especially important that children's spine be periodically examined by a doctor of chiropractic. Prevention beats correction every time.

I have continued under chiropractic care since that day and no longer suffer with menstrual problems, headaches, bursts or low back pain. When my daughter was just a baby she could not consume any form of solid food. She would either vomit or diarrhea would arise. Meridith had been diagnosed as having mal-absorption syndrome. I didn't know what to do any longer, I was so frightened I then decided to try chiropractic, and believe it or not it worked. The following month at the age of 2, Meridith held her first solid form of food. My son too, is under chiropractic care for his asthma. There isn't anything like chiropractic and we are living proof that it works!

Williams won't run for new term

Warren Williams announced Monday that he will not be a candidate for re-election to the Walled Lake Board of Education this year.

Williams announced his intentions not to seek re-election at a special board meeting Monday. It was the fourth meeting over an eight-day span in which the board has attempted to come to grips with a projected $717,500 deficit in the 1980-81 budget.

Williams has served on the board since 1975 when he was elected to a one-year term. He subsequently was re-elected to a four-year term in 1976. He gave no reason for his decision not to seek another term on the board.

Up for grabs in this year's election are the two four-year terms presently held by Williams and Robert Cooper.

But with the deadline for filing nominating petitions less than a week away, the number of official candidates for the two vacancies on the school board remains at zero.

Two prospective candidates have been taken out of nominating petitions, however, and are expected to file prior to the deadline next Monday in School Administration offices at 4 p.m.

Although Williams has announced he will not be a candidate for re-election,

Cooper — the other incumbent — has taken out petitions and indicated that he will seek election to another term on the board. Cooper was elected to a four-year term on the board in 1972 and re-elected to a second four-year term in 1976.

The only other person to take out nominating petitions thus far is Mario Tozzi of Union Lake. Tozzi was an unsuccessful candidate for the school board in 1979 when he finished third in the race for two vacancies on the board.

A spokesperson in Deputy Superintendent Roland Langerman's office reported Monday that Cooper and Tozzi are the only individuals to have taken out nominating petitions thus far. She noted, however, that petitions may be secured from other locations.

Nominating petitions may be picked up at school administration offices at 695 North Pontiac Trail Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Candidates must be registered voters in the Walled Lake District, and petitions must contain the signatures of at least 24 registered voters in the district.

Deadline for submitting nominating petitions is next Monday (April 7) at 4 p.m. Additional information on filing procedures is available at 624-4801.

Beautification committee selects cleanup date

Walled Lake's annual spring cleanup will be held May 10, the city beautification committee decided last week.

Mayor Gaspare Langerman's special committee to plan the city-wide cleanup day, in case of rain, May 17 has been set as an alternate date.

Plans for the spring event will be finalized at the committee's April 22 meeting.

At its March 25 session, the panel discussed its activities, including an afternoon community picnic to follow the morning cleanup drive.

Governor Milliken has proclaimed April 19 to May 17 as "Clean Up, Paint Up, Fix Up Month."

The beautification committee last week noted the importance of a three-pronged campaign, making use of volunteers, enforcing city codes and ordinances, and publicizing grants and low-interest loans that are available under the city's rehabilitation program, according to Council Member Hannah F. Honeyman, committee secretary.

Rehabilitation Coordinator John Hazelroth explained the loans and grants program at last week's meeting, and added that federal block grant funds also may be available for improving the old downtown business district on the lake front.

A flyer promoting the cleanup drive was mailed to Walled Lake residents and business owners in their quarterly water bills. The committee is telling property owners that "now is the time to look at our community, evaluate needs and make a beautification commitment."

Also at last week's meeting, Council Member Linda S. Ackley reported that 25 trash barrels will be painted and placed throughout the city with the assistance of the Walled Lake Fire Fighters' Association. Barrels of flowers on East Walled Lake Drive and near Stonercrest will be maintained by volunteer women's organizations, committee members added.

Police Chief Willard G. Hook said 10 banners will be donated to the city by the Lions Club, and the committee discussed possible locations for the benches.

Village reviews bridge

The Wolverine Lake Village Council met last Wednesday to discuss the rebuilding of the Oak Island Bridge, agreeing on specifications and appointing Pat Howarth and John McLeilan to work with people affected on the other side of the bridge.

According to McLeilan, council members agreed to give project engineers Brechtling, Handy-side and Adams (BHA) the go-ahead to proceed with specifications. Council apparently is willing to comply with BHA's recommendation for a 24-foot wide bridge, although it had indicated earlier a preference for something narrower.

Council Member Howarth said after the meeting that a heavy construction timber bridge was agreed upon. It was also decided that she and McLeilan would work with those affected on the other side of the Oak Drive structure relative to road right-of-ways and other possible problems.

Village Administrator Bill O'Brien said before the meeting that BHA has taken soil borings in addition to drawing up early design plans. O'Brien also said that BHA has been consulting with the State Highway Department in connection with the bridge plans, as that agency will fund 90 percent of the project.

Time schedule for the bridge program stipulates that the village must notify BHA of its final design selection by April 10, and that all final designs, permits and other work should be completed and submitted by June 10.

Fee payment schedule for the project dictates that 30 percent of the final design fee will be paid upon the submission and acceptance of a design contract April 10. Another 40 percent of the final design fee will be paid upon the submission of permit applications, detailed design plans and any other necessary documentation to state and federal agencies, according to the engineering contract prepared last month.

The final 40 percent of the design fee will be paid at the completion and acceptance of the final plans by the appropriate state and federal authorities and agencies.

Total lump sum fee for the bridge design is $10,100, with topographic and property surveying for the design contract an additional $1,800.

8 teachers, 3 administrators

Board lays off personnel

Eight teachers, three custodians and three administrators have been issued termination notices as the Walled Board of Education attempts to come to grips with a projected $717,500 deficit in the 1980-81 budget.

The three administrators whose positions have been eliminated are Transportation Director Floyd Vickers, Grounds Maintenance Director William Diem and Student Relations Coordinator Dean Nicolai of the community education department.

Vickers resigned in December with the responsibilities of his position being taken over by other administrators. Although the board did not terminate Vickers' employment, they did eliminate the administrative position.

Elimination of the eight teaching, three custodial and three administrative positions was achieved only after a busy — and heated — series of meetings which saw the board meet Monday, Wednesday and Friday last week and again on Monday this week.

Further, additional cutbacks in programs and supplies are anticipated in the weeks ahead as the board attempts to reduce the difference between projected revenues and projected expenditures.

Cutbacks in personnel were the primary item of business last week as the board was confronted with an April 1 deadline for issuance of termination notices.

And even though the board ultimately voted to terminate the eight teachers, three custodians and three administrators, the decision was reached only after discussion of several proposals that at one point or another included as many as 22 teachers and five administrators.

Here's what happened:
A week ago Monday, Superintendent Don Sheldon told board members the projected deficit for the 1980-81 budget was $717,500 and suggested four alternatives for dealing with the deficit: Cut the budget; retain present programs and staff and eliminate the cost out of the fund equity (savings) account; use a combination of cuts and fund equity; or seek additional millage.

Board members expressed skepticism about the chances for obtaining additional millage in light of uncertainty over the economy and three unsuccessful millage elections in 1979.

As a result, the board scheduled a special session for a week ago Wednesday to discuss ways to cut the budget.

Sheldon's initial program of cutbacks proposed elimination of 22 teaching positions, three custodians and three administrators.

However, at Wednesday's session Trustee Stephen Lahser submitted an alternate proposal which called for elimination of 11 teaching, three custodial and five administrative positions.

The proposal was unanimously approved by the school board in spite of objections from Sheldon who maintained that the loss of five administrators — instead of three — would seriously hurt the educational program.

Sheldon suggested that administrators were being made a "whipping boy" in terms of the projected budget deficit. "These administrators fulfill functions which are not readily understood by the general public, but whose services are vital to providing the educational product," he said.

Nevertheless, the board directed Sheldon to return to another special session on Friday with a recommendation to eliminate two additional administrators.

At Friday's session, Sheldon presented the board with a recommendation to issue termination notices to Athletic Director Thomas Evans and Outdoor Education Director Barbara Garbutt.

Sheldon reiterated his contention that the district could not afford to eliminate any additional administrative positions.

"We looked at every conceivable administrative position in terms of its effect on students and in terms of which responsibilities can most easily be parcelled out to other people," he said. "We think these positions are important, but we were directed to identify two additional administrative positions and that's what we have done."

The proposal to terminate the contracts of Evans and Garbutt was strongly opposed by a large turnout of residents who suggested that terminating those specific positions would greatly damage the athletic and outdoor education programs.

The board ultimately voted to reject the recommendation on a 4-2 vote and directed Sheldon to return with a recommendation to terminate two additional administrators at yet another special session on Monday.

At Monday's session, Sheldon recommended that the contracts of Adult Education Director Lawrence Barlow and Clifford H. Smart Assistant Principal Michael Couchman be eliminated.

He again asked the board to reconsider its direction to terminate five administrators instead of three as originally recommended.

A motion to terminate the contracts of Barlow and Couchman was rejected on a 3-3 vote. And a subsequent motion to terminate the contracts of Barlow and Evans was turned down on a 4-2 vote.

Faced with an apparent impasse, Lahser then proposed that the district to terminate 11 teachers, three custodians and five administrators be changed to eight teachers, three custodians and three administrators.

The motion was approved on a 5-1 vote. But several board members told Sheldon that there will have to be additional cutbacks in administrative personnel next year.

"The administration is forewarned," said Trustee Leo Wessinger. "But there must be a redesign of the administrative structure before next year."

Master plan adopted by Commerce panel

By DAVID RAY

A new master land use plan was adopted Monday night by the Commerce Township Planning Commission, completing the first phase of a four-year review of the development guidelines.

The plan calls for no further cuts in the basic education program, require the community education department to be 100 percent self-sufficient, reduction of fund equity to $300,000 and elimination of athletic programs "to the extent necessary."

Just exactly what the school board will do in terms of additional cutbacks in programs and supplies remains to be seen. The board is expected to discuss budget considerations further at its next meeting on Monday, April 14.

"We're reviewing the (ordinance) text now," the consultant said Monday, "and then we begin the really tough job of coming up with a section by section zoning map."

Governor tells agencies

Study M-275 sprawl impacts

By DAVID RAY

Governor Milliken has asked the Michigan Environmental Review Board (MERB) and his community development cabinet to work with the Michigan Department of Transportation in studying the community development impacts of the proposed M-275 freeway in an updated draft environmental impact statement (EIS) that is being prepared on the controversial west Oakland County highway project.

The state agencies also have been asked by the governor to come up with criteria for the review of proposed highway construction and other development projects on urban sprawl, according to Craig Ruff, executive assistant to Lieutenant Governor James H. Brickley, who chairs the cabinet.

"We'll be working with MERB and the transportation department to make more specific suggestions to come up with a pretty solid set of criteria for analyzing the impacts of urban development on all types of projects, not just M-275 and other highways," he added.

Milliken, through Brickley, asked Transportation Commission Chairperson James Meyers Jr. to respond to a memo from the governor that asked the panel to "clearly set forth the factors it has considered at the time it renders a decision on the (M-275) project."

The memo, sent to commission members a week before they voted November 28 to revive the once cancelled freeway project, noted public concern over the issue, and reminded the commissioners of a directive from the governor to state agencies to insure insofar as possible that these programs do not encourage fringe development.

"... there's time to weigh the impacts before a final decision is made"

—Craig Ruff State Executive Assistant

Meyers noted that the transportation department had not "developed the methodology to determine the impact of highway projects on urban sprawl, and, thus, no criteria for the urban impacts of this project was included as a defined section of the M-275 draft environmental impact statement (released in early 1979)."

The commission chairperson also noted that the draft EIS preceded the governor's establishment of the community development cabinet and Milliken's special message to the legislature last October on urban sprawl issues.

At the November 28 meeting, the commission adopted a policy to "coordinate major construction programs with other state agencies... to insure insofar as possible that these programs do not encourage fringe development."

Meyers added. "The transportation commission is expected to vote on M-275 again when the department recommends a specific route alignment, Meyers said, although he did not indicate what effect the urban sprawl policies may have on the panel at that time."

Ruff said the governor's request is not aimed so much at M-275 as it is directed toward establishing procedures for review of state policies on community development impacts.

"M-275 is the first major state project that would be affected by the focus of the community development policy," he said.

Since an update of the EIS will be "a lengthy process anyway, I would say there is still time to weigh the impacts before a final decision (on the freeway) is made at the state level," Ruff added.

Wixom hoping for dividends from Ford BCIP program

Wixom officials are hoping that the Ford Motor Company's BCIP program will reap dividends for the city.

BCIP — the Business Climate Improvement Program — was established as a national community relations program in 1962 to help the Ford Motor Company manage improve the business climate in communities where company facilities are located.

And Ford officials are now bringing the program to Wixom.

Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek reported that meetings have been held with Mark Skarr of Ford's public relations staff to determine the scope of the company's involvement in Wixom.

"We're extremely pleased to see Ford express an interest in local problems and concerns by extending the BCIP program to our community," commented the mayor's assistant.

Bonczek noted that some of Wixom's elected officials and citizens have expressed dissatisfaction with Ford's involvement in the community in the past.

"By promoting BCIP, it appears as if they're serious about the community and the community's perception of their company," said Bonczek.

Ford officials report that many community relations committees have successfully completed significant BCIP projects since the program's inception in 1962.

Positive results have been reported over the years in such areas as traffic safety, highway construction, development of flood control works, improved airline service, employment opportunity for minority groups, organization of United Fund drives and many other types of civic and economic betterment.

Bonczek noted that there is much the Ford Motor Company could do at little expense to improve the perception of the Wixom Road assembly plant by visitors and residents. Installation of landscaping around the plant and on the Wixom Road median was one of the mayor's assistant's suggestions.

Bonczek also noted that one city council member, Dennis Andrews, had asked the Ford Motor Company to make a contribution for construction of an enclosed pavilion in the North Wixom Park.

"There's also a lot that Ford could do in the way of technical and financial assistance to improve the community," continued Bonczek. He expressed hope that Ford might decide to get involved in the downtown revitalization program.

"Peter Fahey of the Korvit Company has offered to give the old Auto Parts store to the Historical Society as a gift," he reported. "The building has no historical significance, so we'd like to tear it down and pave the area for parking."

More budget cuts loom in future

Termination notices have been issued to eight teachers, three custodians and three administrators in the Walled Lake School District.

But additional cutbacks in programs and supplies remain a very real possibility before the school board has finished its task of attempting to reduce the projected $717,500 deficit in the 1980-81 budget.

The board dealt almost exclusively in personnel cuts in four separate meetings over the past 10 days because of an April 1 contractual deadline for issuing termination notices.

And now that the personnel cuts apparently have been finalized, the board can direct its attention to cutting back expenditures in other areas of the budget.

At this point, it would appear that the board plans to use up as much of its fund equity (savings) account as possible in an attempt to eliminate the projected deficit without additional cutbacks.

Assistant Superintendent for Business Harry Carlson has projected that the fund equity at the end of the present school year will be somewhere in the range of $750,000 to $800,000.

Auditors generally recommend that fund equity be 10 percent of the general fund budget — or, some $2.2 million for Walled Lake with its projected 1980-81 general fund budget of $22.2 million.

There is a feeling among some board members, however, that the existence of $800,000 in fund equity — even though it represents less than four percent of the overall budget — must be reduced to the highest extent possible before voters will consider additional millage.

Although at least one board member (Leo Wessinger) has suggested that the fund equity account be deleted completely, it appears that the board will attempt to retain at least $300,000 in fund equity as a safeguard against unexpected expenditures or unforeseen revenue losses.

So what does all that mean in terms of additional cutbacks in programs and supplies for the 1980-81 school year?

To figure that out, it's necessary to do some addition and subtraction.

Reduction of eight teachers ($120,000), three custodians ($40,000) and three administrators ($60,000) will save the district approximately $220,000 — or approximately $48,500 short of its projected $717,500 deficit for the upcoming year.

If the fund equity account contains $800,000 at the end of the current year... And if the board decides that it can afford to let fund equity shrink to as low as $300,000... The remaining $484,500 deficit could be covered by taking up to $500,000 from fund equity.

At the same time, it is possible that the board may decide a fund equity of $300,000 is not sufficient and vote to implement additional cutbacks in programs and supplies.

At present, four programs of additional cutbacks have been presented: a plan submitted by Trustee Stephen Lahser, another plan submitted by Trustee Kenneth Tucker, and yet another plan outlined by the Walled Lake Education Association (WLEA).

Here's a brief outline of the four cutback programs proposed for board consideration:

• The administration's plan calls for an additional $100,000 in cutbacks. The most important aspects of the plan are a proposed $25,000 cutback in junior and senior high school athletics and a proposed $11,100 cutback in junior and senior high school extracurricular activities.

Proposed cuts in the high school athletic program include elimination of junior varsity basketball programs (boys and girls), junior varsity volleyball (girls), varsity skiing (boys and girls) and varsity golf (boys).

Junior high athletic programs proposed for elimination are one football team, one girls basketball team and one boys basketball team at both junior high schools.

Extracurricular activities proposed for elimination on the high school level include intramurals, one drama production, a five percent reduction in general fund subsidy for the musical production and debate teams.

• The plan proposed by Lahser is identical to the administration's program except that athletics and extracurricular programs are not affected.

• The plan proposed by Tucker is similar to Lahser's proposal in that it calls for athletics and extracurricular activities to be retained at present levels.

However, the controversial portion of Tucker's program calls for complete elimination of the community education department with the exception of the "Teen Mothers Group" which would be administered by the curriculum office.

The school administration maintains that the community education department not only is self-sufficient, but actually brings in additional general fund revenues. Tucker, on the other hand, argues that elimination of the community education department would save approximately $80,000 per year.

• The WLEA plan is more general in scope. The plan calls for no further cuts in the basic education program, require the community education department to be 100 percent self-sufficient, reduction of fund equity to $300,000 and elimination of athletic programs "to the extent necessary."

Just exactly what the school board will do in terms of additional cutbacks in programs and supplies remains to be seen. The board is expected to discuss budget considerations further at its next meeting on Monday, April 14.

"We're reviewing the (ordinance) text now," the consultant said Monday, "and then we begin the really tough job of coming up with a section by section zoning map."

Librarian Millie Felner helped set up reading room

Reading room opens for Villa residents

An effort coordinated by the Walled Lake Library and the Walled Lake Villa library committee has led to the official opening of an 800 volume reading room for villa residents.

Since the opening of the senior housing project last year, Walled Lake librarian Donna Rickabaugh and staff members have routinely delivered a variety of books to the center. Books in the special collection were rotated with a similar collection housed at the Richardson Center in Commerce Township.

Reading materials now included in the special senior library feature a variety of magazines, novels and non-fiction. In addition, library system federal funds were used to purchase large print books for inclusion in the collection.

Ms. Rickabaugh indicated that from the beginning of the program the seniors at the villa looked forward to the twice a month visit from the library car. Interested residents formed a volunteer library committee to oversee the operation and lend general assistance to the librarian. The demand for books increased monthly.

Mabel Long dies at 92

Funeral services for Mabel J. Long, a member of a pioneer family in Commerce Township, were held yesterday at the Elton Black and Son Funeral Home, Union Lake.

Mrs. Long, 92, died Friday in Botsford General Hospital, Farmington Hills. She was the mother of Commerce Township Supervisor Robert H. Long. Her husband, the late Joseph A. Long, was a former state representative and township official.

A life-long resident of Commerce, Mrs. Long was born March 20, 1888 in the township. Her father, William Hays, settled in the Wise-Union Lake area of Commerce after working to the Michigan community from Cincinnati, Ohio. Her mother was Elizabeth Andrews Hays, also a member of a pioneer family that settled in Commerce Township in the 1800s.

Following yesterday's funeral service, burial was in Commerce Cemetery.

In addition to Supervisor Long, Mrs. Long is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Ralph (Elizabeth) Hopkins, of Union Lake; a son, Joseph W. Long, of Milford; and three grandchildren, Robert J. Long, Robert J. Hopkins and Martha J. Hopkins, all of Union Lake. Memorial donations may be made to the Commerce Township Area Historical Society.

Solar SWOVEC students unveil solar energy collector

They were a little hesitant to begin with. But once they got started, architectural drawing students at the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center (SWOVEC) found the principles of solar energy aren't all that involved.

At least that's what instructor Brad Houghton claims after he introduced a hands-on mini-unit project on solar energy. Once the students understood the concept, the project was met with enthusiasm.

Houghton said he introduced the concept as a "feeler" to see how students would react. The success of the initial phase will lead to a more detailed solar energy study later this spring.

So great was the student enthusiasm that Houghton has signed up for additional solar courses this summer so that his classes next year can investigate the subject in even greater depth.

Houghton views the first project, a clever little gadget called "Mother's Heat Grabber," as the beginning step to solar efficient homes designed and built by Walled Lake Schools' building trades classes.

"The problem with solar energy is that it sounds technical and costly," said Houghton. "Neither is really true because simple principles can be used to produce a solar heating unit in any home. The problem is lack of education to the general public."

The teacher first spotted the "grabber" in a magazine and decided the project was perfect for a first try. The completed unit, a supplementary room heater, shocked even the biggest skeptics. The device has sent the mercury rocketing to 110 degrees on sunny winter days.

Rehab program progressing well

The federally funded program is designed to help eligible homeowners bring their home up to minimum building code and safety requirements.

Based on gross family income and the number of persons in the household, homeowners may qualify for grants or low-interest loans of up to $10,000. Under the loan program, the federal funds are used to pay for three percent of the interest rate, while the homeowner must repay the principal and the balance of the interest.

As its role in administration of the program, the township assists residents in applying for loans and grants, completes a pre-qualification checklist, conducts an analysis of work to be done, writes specifications for the job, and seeks bids for the project from a list of contractors compiled by the county, in addition to inspecting the work.

County community development personnel review the procedure, Mitchell said. The township receives an administrative fee for every application that is approved by the county.

Commerce officials originally said they were reluctant to assume administration of the program from the county because of allegations of mismanagement against community development personnel.

Township Supervisor Robert H. Long noted, though, that unless Commerce assumed a role in the program, it was unlikely that residents would have much chance to receive loans or grants.

Lighting hearings set

A public hearing on a proposed special assessment district (SAD) roll to provide street lights in Marilla's Orchard Subdivision will be held April 8 by the Commerce Township board.

Originally slated for March 11, the session couldn't be held because Detroit Edison Company officials haven't completed a review of subdivision residents' request for a change in the lighting plan.

No objections were registered on the proposal in February when the township board held a public hearing on the necessity of the project. The residents did ask, though, for one of the 11 lights to be eliminated in the 71-lot development southeast of Pontiac Trail and Welch Road.

Township officials have estimated the cost of the service at about $13 a year for each homeowner, but the figures will be finalized before the second hearing.

Also at last week's meeting, the board continued a hearing of necessity to create an SAD for the 68-lot Lake Pine Subdivision Number One when the developers and builders of the complex failed to show up. The hearing is expected to be held April 8.

At present, the developers and builders are the only property owners of record in the Lake Pine development — also known as the Shores at Baypoint — located west of Union Lake Road on the south shore of Lower Straits Lake.

Only one Commerce subdivision — Lakeside, located on the north shore of Lower Straits Lake — has been approved for a street lighting district by the township board.

Gone are the days of varicose veins and bad backs suffered by dentists. The newest equipment affords the most up to date procedures for both the dentist and the patient. And that equipment is now in service at the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education School dental clinic. Dental Procedures Director Heather Hill said the clinic offers not only up-to-the-minute dental services for patients through the Oakland County Public Health Department, but a phenomenally high experience and learning level for students as well. Dr. Pam Clarkson (left) is assisted by student Judi Chouinard while a patient is eased by comfortable furniture and surroundings during a regular Tuesday morning clinic. The newly installed console offers the latest in dental technology, giving students hands-on training to help them secure jobs after graduation in the dental field.

Wixom ratifies new police pact

After almost a year of negotiations, Wixom appears to have arrived at a new contract with its police department.

Maybe. The Wixom City Council voted unanimously last week to ratify the new three-year pact with the local police officers union — Local 3075 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME).

However, Richard Ziegler, head of the local unit, said this week that some problems must still be resolved before he is willing to call for a ratification vote among the officers.

Ziegler reported that he will meet with Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek shortly in an effort to resolve the differences.

According to Ziegler, the city has unilaterally removed a provision for "cancer expense" insurance from the contract. "We have had cancer expense insurance since 1974, but the city told us that they've never carried cancer insurance and have taken it out of the contract," said the union spokesman. "It seems reasonable to me that if our contract has called for cancer expense insurance for the past five years, it should not be taken out at this point."

Ziegler added, however, that he believed he would be able to resolve the questions regarding cancer expense insurance after meeting with Bonczek. "I don't see it as a major stumbling block to ratification of the contract," he said.

The new three-year contract represents an 18.25 percent increase over the previous pact, according to figures released by Council Member Sidney Resner who served on the city's negotiating team. Under the previous contract, all patrolmen received a base pay of $20,000 after four years' experience. The new contract calls for base pay (with four years' experience) to rise to $20,500 for 1979-80, $21,320 for 1980-81 and $22,590 in 1981-82. The increase in base pay amounts to almost 13 percent over the three years of the contract, said Resner.

The major difference in the new contract, however, involves the city's agreement to absorb pension costs. Previously, pension fund payments were deducted from salaries.

Resner reported that assumption of pension costs will run the city $941 per officer in the first year of the contract, $962 in the second year and $1,046 in the third year.

Resner also reported that the contract provides for improvements in uniform expense, cleaning allowance and longevity.

As a result of the improvements in base pay and fringe benefits and city assumption of pension costs, Wixom officers will make $23,190 in the first year, $24,213 in the second year and $25,682 in the third year of the pact, according to Resner's tabulations.

Total improvement over the three years of the contract is 18.25 percent, he reported.

"Basically, the improvements for the police in the contract come from the city's assumption of pension costs," said Resner. "The raises in base pay amount to 2.5 percent in the first year, four percent in the second year and six percent in the third year. But when you include the other benefits in the overall picture, I think we've given our police officers a responsible settlement."

Village planners reject new MNB site plan

Michigan National Bank's (MNB) latest site plan for its South Commerce and Decker Road location was rejected by the Wolverine Lake Village Plan Commission last Wednesday.

The planners' decision means that MNB representative Aldo Berich will have to appear before the village council April 9 and show proper cause for retaining the bank's temporary occupancy permit. Both the plan commission and the council have expressed dissatisfaction recently with MNB's efforts to comply with village guidelines.

The planners were unanimous in rejecting MNB's latest site proposal. Planner Gary Veenstra told bank representatives that "safety-wise, this is the worst plan you've offered us yet. You know where we stand, you know what we're looking for safety pattern-wise."

"The traffic patterns criss-cross," he said. "There's one entrance and one exit in your plan, and that's no good."

Plan Chairperson Tom Gerhard added that "I don't feel that satisfactory progress has been made toward the completion of that site."

In addition, Plan Consultant Robert Swarthout sent a letter to the planners expressing his dissatisfaction with MNB's latest site plan. The letter, read by Gerhard to the audience, indicated that Swarthout saw flaws in the plan ranging from potentially dangerous traffic hazards to possible zoning violations.

Planners have also expressed concern with repeated delays in MNB's submission of site plans. The latest hold-up was revealed at last month's council meeting, when it was announced that the bank had submitted a site plan March 5 after the planners' February 27 session. However, the planners had requested that MNB offer a new site plan before its February 27 meeting, and planning officials said they had been assured by bank representatives that the request would be met.

The decision to order that bank officials show proper cause for retention of the temporary occupancy permit follows a plan commission recommendation five weeks ago that the permit be revoked. Bank officials and the planners have been at odds regarding a proper site plan for over a year.

Apparently, the major area of disagreement with the proposed site plan is MNB's desire to use an existing canopy located in front of the bank, with drive-in windows to operate in front of the proposed 1,175-square-foot facility. Village officials have resisted such plans, however, contending that serious traffic hazards could result.

Bank Representative Berich said last Wednesday that MNB wanted to employ the existing canopy set-up for economic reasons. He told the planners that the installation of a new canopy and other remodeling in connection with that work would cost extra money.

Berich also apologized for the bank's tardiness in submitting its most recent site plan, saying that MNB had been busy with other projects.

Later in the discussion, however, Veenstra responded that "everything we say falls on deaf ears. You nod, you apologize, you thank us, but nothing gets done...we're getting a little edgy."

The bank originally submitted site plans in December 1978.

After humble beginnings

Novi library looking toward 20th anniversary

(First in a series on the Novi Public Library in conjunction with National Library Week)

The Novi Public Library is approaching 20 years of age this year with the official birthday celebration planned sometime in September.

During its first 20 years the library has grown with the community and presently occupies a spacious facility on Ten Mile. With a collection of over 22,000 items and a staff of 10, the library serves residents of Novi and surrounding areas.

As with all things, the beginnings were humble. In September 1960, the library opened its doors in a small building adjacent to the former city hall on Novi Road. That building formerly had been a temporary structure for the National Bank (Detroit), located on the site of the present Grand River branch of the bank. Constructed in May 1956, the building was deeded to Novi Township in 1957 for the express purpose of being used as a library and subsequently moved to its present location.

In 1964, an addition doubled the space of the building, giving the library approximately 1,300 feet to fill with books and materials. Many residents may recall the crowded shelves and close quarters provided by the library prior to the move to the new facility in 1976.

The "old library building" is still in use today, serving as offices for the city's park and recreation department, next to the "old city hall" which now is occupied by the police department which soon will move to its new quarters near the present library facility.

Plans for the new library were begun in 1972 when the library board made arrangements to purchase some seven acres of land from the Novi School District. Purchase of this land, formerly owned by Iva and Ruby Fuerst, was finalized in May 1975 with groundbreaking ceremonies taking place at that time.

The new facility with approximately 13,000 square feet of space (10 times more than the old facility) was officially opened in October 1976.

At that time, Phase One had been completed. This part of the facility consists of the reading room, meeting room, lobby, staff workroom and utilities-storage room.

Phase Two consists of the eastern part of the facility where city offices presently are located. The completion of this part took place during late 1979 after a special bond issue had been approved by the citizens for that purpose.

In the three and a half years that the library has occupied its present facility, its collections and furnishings have grown quite a bit, helping to fill the "wide open spaces" that those visiting the library observed when the library first opened.

The finances of the library are tied directly to its history. In 1960, the library was dependent on donations and the volunteer time of individuals to keep it going. In 1963, Novi Township citizens approved a one-half mill levy to support the library and enable it to expand services.

The Novi City Charter, adopted in November 1977, currently supports the library through a one-mill levy. At present, the library is operating on the basis of 814 mills. A future article in this series will discuss the funds and their usage.

The library's collections have grown dramatically over the past 20 years. The initial collection consisted of approximately 1,150 books donated by local residents or purchased with donated funds. Also on hand at the opening of the library were 1,000 books on loan from the Michigan State Library to get the Novi Library started. These books later were returned as the local collection grew. At the time the library moved into its present facility, the collection had grown to over 14,000 books, and subscriptions to 25 magazines had been added as well. At present the library has over 22,000 books, 100 magazine subscriptions, 140 children's phonograph records and a small collection of primarily non-fiction cassette tapes. Again, a future article will discuss the library's present collections and services.

The staff of the library also has increased in size (and skill) over the past 20 years. Three staff members began with the library in 1960. As the library's popularity increased, more staff were added until the present staff of 10 now serves the library's users.

The present staff includes both full and part time workers, but none has been with the library since 1960. Head Librarian Dorothy Flattery has the most seniority, having been with the library since 1963. A look at the hours of service also indicates the library's steady growth. A selection of particular years and hours of service include: 24 hours per week in 1960, 38 hours per week in 1966, 48 hours per week in 1976 and 56 hours per week at present.

In the past there have been regular times during the week when the library was not open at all. The library presently is open six days per week, year-round. One additional event in the history of the library must be mentioned at this time — membership in the Wayne Oakland Library Federation. In May 1968, the library became a member of the Wayne County Library Federation. As a member of the federation, the library shares ordering and processing of materials with over 60 other public libraries in the two-county area, as well as loaning and borrowing materials from other members.

Flooding prompts complaints from northern Novi residents

Residents of Monticello Street in Novi showed up at a recent city council meeting in search of a solution for eliminating flooding conditions on their street.

Tom Ford told the council that residents on his street have had continuous water problems. He reported that he personally lost $300 worth of insulation and a pump as a result of the flooding.

Drainage from a new subdivision on Thirteen Mile has clogged a nearby swamp and caused the flooding on Monticello whenever there is a quick thaw, Ford said.

He said the city has inspected the drains in the area, but has "never done anything." Residents complained that a manhole on the street fills up with gravel. It also appears that a drain in the area is collapsing, residents told the council.

Ed Smladak, Department of Public Works superintendent, told the council that when the water subsides the city plans to check the drainage pipe in that area. He said the likely solution to the problem involves increasing the size of the drainage pipe.

If the pipe is smaller than 12 inches, a larger pipe could provide the relief necessary, Smladak said. He also said it would not be wise for the city to clean the drain with its jet spray since it appears the pipe is collapsing.

"We could blow the pipe right out," Smladak said.

Council members asked the DPW superintendent and city engineer to resolve the residents' complaint and report back by April 21.

Novi churches meet in schools

ing flyers and visitations, Scherger said. Reverend Barry Jones of Oakland Baptist Church which meets in Orchard Hills describes his congregation as "strictly brand new — we started from scratch."

Attendance hovers near the 80s, but in recent weeks attendance hit an all time high of 96. Oakland Baptist has been meeting since June 1978. There are advantages to meeting in the schools, Jones notes. Plenty of room for Sunday School classes and the fact that chairs and a piano are provided are among them.

Meeting in a school also is "preferable to a store front operation," Jones said. But meeting in a school carries a stigma of not being "established." While that is a hindrance, Jones has found that once people actually attend services at the school it doesn't bother them.

"Once they've been here it isn't a problem. They still get a feeling of belonging and permanence," Jones said. Meeting in the school probably contributes to the relaxed atmosphere of Jones' services, he admitted. "Our atmosphere is casual. It's very friendly and open."

Basically, Oakland Baptist Church is a young one made up of those who "are interested in something new," as Jones put it. However, as the congregation has grown so has the number of older families.

Now the congregation has a large enough cross section of ages that everyone feels comfortable, Jones said. His congregation also draws from a number of communities besides Novi, including Northville, South Lyon, Farmington, Commerce Township, Walled Lake and Northville.

Older churches in the metropolitan area have been helpful when the young church needed it, Jones reported. This congregation borrows facilities for baptismal services when necessary.

Word of mouth advertisement has been largely responsible for the growth of the church, Jones said.

"When you're excited about something you talk about it. I do a lot of visitations on Saturdays too, meeting people and telling them we exist. That's been our best type of communication since we don't have visibility in terms of a building."

"It's a real challenge and it's very rewarding. I hope we can continue to grow."

Growth is definitely in the plans as the group is in the process of purchasing approximately six acres of property on Ten Mile west of Beck Road.

Construction of the church still is in the information gathering stages, Jones reported. "We really feel that to get off the ground we are going to have to depend upon God to provide or this could take a long period of time," Jones said. "We're being realistic. It's going to be difficult with the current trends in property values. But He has brought us this far."

As We See It

Clarifying issues would help board

The recent scramble among Walled Lake school board members to lay off personnel before an April 1 deadline for issuing termination notices has left several unanswered questions.

The board met four times over an eight-day span in an effort to decide how many teachers and which administrators will be terminated at the end of the current school year.

The real fight involved the selection of administrators for non-renewal of contracts. Superintendent Don Sheldon initially proposed that three administrative positions be deleted. But the school board upped that number to five on Wednesday.

Sheldon proposed on Friday that non-renewal of contract notices be sent to Athletic Director Thomas Evans and Outdoor Education Director Barbara Garbutt.

But the board rejected that recommendation on a 4-2 vote and directed the superintendent to identify two additional administrators. On Monday, the superintendent recommended that non-renewal of contract notices be sent to Adult Education Coordinator Lawrence Barlow and C.H. Smart Assistant Principal Michael Couchman.

The board also rejected that recommendation, however, and later turned down a motion to issue non-renewal of contract notices to Evans and Couchman.

The end result is that the board backed off from its position of eliminating five administrative positions and issued non-renewal of contract notices to three administrators.

If all that sounds confusing, it is. And the confusion is compounded by uncertainty over several issues involved in laying off personnel — teachers and administrators.

Question One: How many days notice must be provided before an employee's contract can be terminated? State tenure law requires that teachers be notified 60 days prior to the end of the school year. Additionally, a new state law requires that administrators be given 30 days notice that their contracts are being considered for non-renewal and an additional 60 days notice that the contract is not to be renewed.

However, the law also states that notification requirements are not necessary if the layoffs are due to financial considerations.

Question Two: Can Walled Lake ignore the notification deadlines on the grounds that the layoffs are precipitated by financial hardship?

The question relates to the health of the district's fund equity (savings) account. The district anticipates that fund equity will amount to approximately $800,000 at the end of the current school year. Is a fund equity account of $800,000 sufficient for a district with a general fund budget of $22.2 million? Can the district plead financial hardship and terminate personnel as long as it has a savings account?

Question Three: Does the school board have a right to select which administrative positions will be eliminated, or, is the board's power limited to calling for a reduction in administrative staff and letting the superintendent select the positions to be deleted?

We would note that the school board does not "hire" teachers of administrators. Teachers and administrators are hired by the administration, and the school board "acknowledges" the administration's action.

But if the school board does not "hire" employees, does it have a right to select which employees are to be "fired"?

Certainly, much of the controversy engendered by the personnel cuts last week could have been eliminated if the board's power in dismissing administrators was determined to be limited to identifying the number of positions to be deleted.

It's not illogical to suggest that the superintendent is in the best position to know which administrative positions can be cut first.

These questions are as of yet unanswered. If answers to these questions had been provided, it is very possible that much of the negative feelings associated with last week's meetings could have been avoided.

Speaking for Myself

Is pollution ruining weather?

ROBERT SNYDER

YES

When we think about air pollution we think of controlling undesirable materials that enter the air from automobiles, spray cans and electric power plants. But the most pervasive kind of air pollution consists of heat, specifically the warming effect on the atmosphere from the accumulation of carbon dioxide, the major product of fossil fuel combustion. This kind of pollution is not one which can be "fixed" by putting catalytic converters on automobiles, banning fluorocarbons or putting scrubbers on the stacks of power plants.

The experts tell us that carbon dioxide increases could cause the average yearly temperature to rise six degrees by 2050. From this, we can expect serious changes in weather patterns, unless (within the next 50 years) we make a major change to non-polluting energy sources such as wind, nuclear fusion or heat from the sun. While such a warming trend might warm areas now too cold for farming, the effects basically are unpredictable. It is expected that wind patterns would be weakened, affecting the global rainfall distribution, ocean currents and ocean productivity. Species of animals and plants that could not adapt would disappear and patterns of competition would be drastically altered.

A partial answer, at least to our future weather problems, will be found when we decide to solve our energy problems by turning quickly to nonpolluting alternative energy sources.

Ann Sibole

NO

There is no question that so-called pollution does make a change in the weather, but the degree of change is highly subjective.

It also is difficult to define the term pollution. What some might consider pollution actually occurs as a matter of course in nature.

For example, near the ocean salt particles act as the nucleus for rainfall. But over the continents there is no rainfall.

In highly industrialized areas it is known that there is a higher frequency of rainfall, but that is the only change it makes in the weather.

There are charges that carbon dioxide added to the atmosphere will create problems. It is hard to know whether carbon dioxide is good or bad. It occurs in the natural state, and makes plants grow more vigorously.

Whether it will create the so-called "greenhouse" effect, causing the entire earth to warm up, is far from proven. There has been no proof there have been changes in major storm patterns or principle temperature regimes.

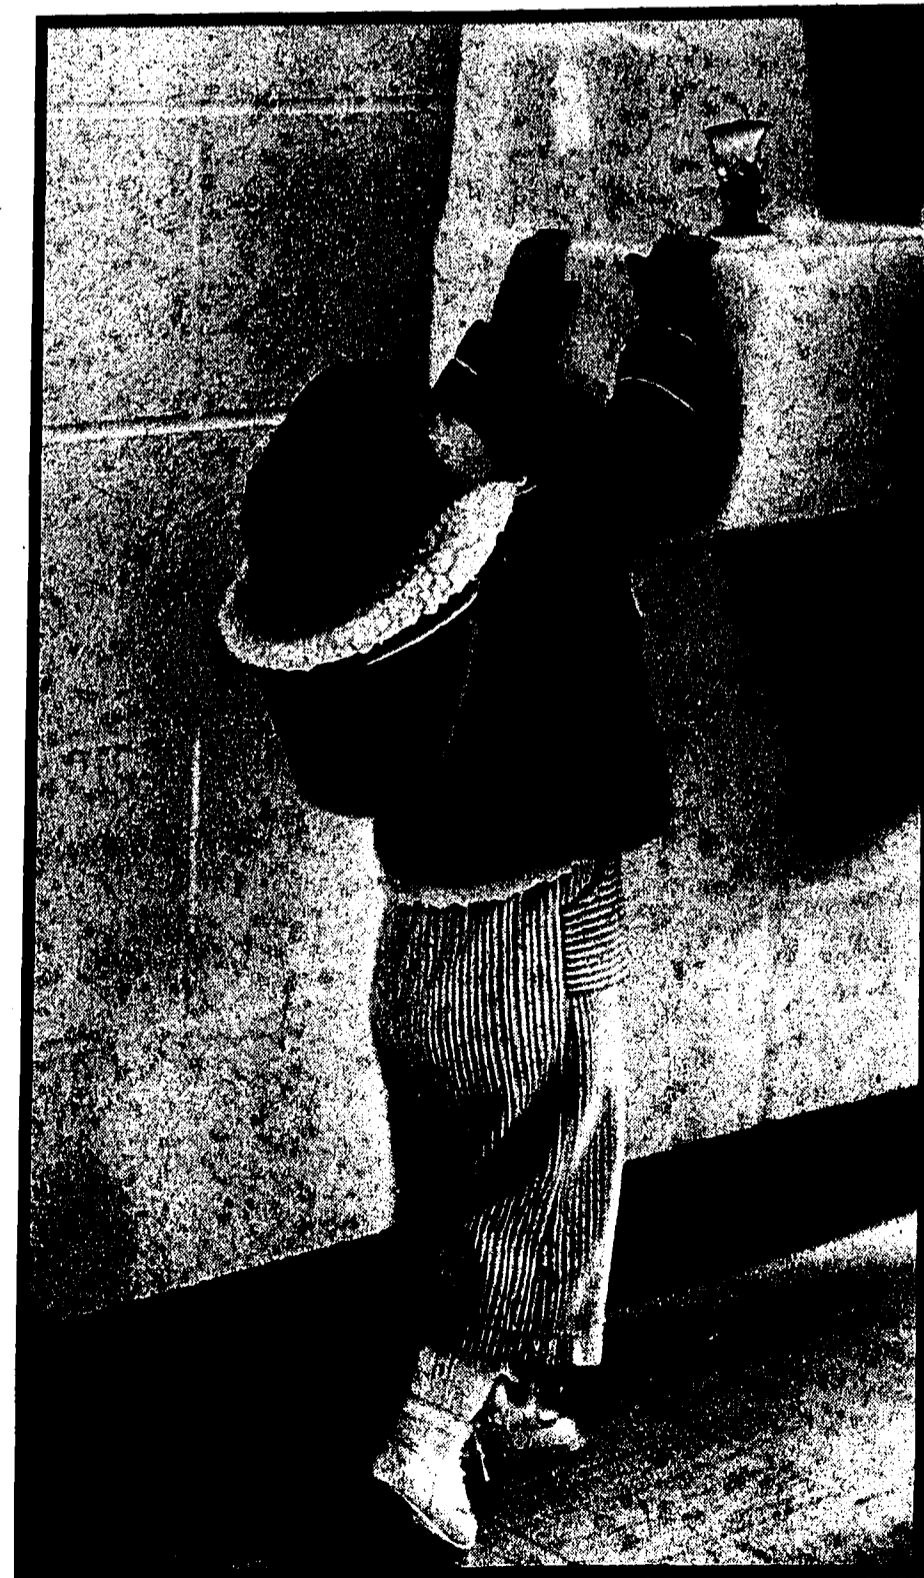

The cold winters followed by this year's warm winter do not show anything but nature swinging back and forth.

There have been small, local changes in the weather influenced by pollutants. There is no proof of major changes in weather activity. There has been nothing showing deviations in the established state of wind, temperature and rain.

Wixom eyes grant for Maple North

Wixom's Maple North Apartments may be getting a face lift and some playground equipment if city officials get their way.

The city has applied for $80,000 in Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) contingency funds for site and recreational improvements at the Maple North Cooperative housing development.

The application was approved by the Wixom City Council at a special session last Thursday. Specifically, the city is seeking federal funds to establish a playground area near the clubhouse, landscaping and repairs of all defective parking lots, streets and sidewalks.

Funds also are being sought for the installation of fences around garbage dumpster bins and exterior lighting to improve security.

Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek indicated that establishment of a playground area near the clubhouse is a primary consideration. "At present there is no playground equipment in the entire development to service the needs of the children," noted Bonczek. "Since the Maple North residents are low and moderate income families, they are more severely affected by the escalating costs of energy to travel to nearby recreational areas."

"Installation and development of recreational equipment within the complex will enhance the attractiveness of the area and improve the living environment."

Bonczek also noted that the Maple North Co-op is the only federally-subsidized housing in Wixom. "Implementation of the proposed projects will result in physical and aesthetic improvements which will have a favorable impact on the community's perception of this project," commented Bonczek.

The mayor-assistant also suggested that the proposed improvements will produce an improved living environment and the efforts of local government in assisting them.

"The development of recreational facilities and site improvements to serve the low and moderate income residents of the Maple North Cooperative is an important component of the city's comprehensive housing strategy," added Bonczek.

The Maple North Cooperative is a HUD 236 project containing 144 units and is located in the northeast section of the city. The attempt to secure the part of both the city and Maple North's board of directors and management company.

Karevich defends Novi council

To the Editor:
During the time the city charter was being re-written, residents expressed a need for city trash collection. When the Needs Assessment Committee reported back to the city council in 1977 a need for city trash collection was expressed. Since that time, the city has continued to receive calls requesting city trash collection.

In response to the residents of this community, the council started to gather all the information it could get in order to make a decision on this need. Surveys were conducted, other communities were contacted to find out how they have responded to this problem, bids were obtained to find out costs. With all the information gathered up to this point, the council still wanted to hear more from the residents of this community as to the desirability of receiving city-contracted service. A meeting on March 26 was conducted for that very purpose.

At that meeting the council was accused of trying to jam city trash collection down the throats of the residents, to force more government into their lives, etc.

I, as a member of the council, take exception to those comments. We were being responsive to a need expressed by many residents of this community. We were listening and gathering information to make the best decision possible. Don't condemn us for listening. I thought that listening was one very important reason we were elected.

A decision has not been reached by the council regarding city-contracted garbage collection. There still is plenty of time to make your feelings known to the members of council.

Novi policemen lauded by high school official

To the Editor:
Over the past two weeks, the Novi Police Department has helped us at the high school with our regional and quarter-final basketball tournaments. These tournament games can be very exciting and could also cause some problems in crowd control as fan enthusiasm runs very high in the state tournaments. But we had no problems because of the great effort of the Novi Police Department.

The police officers demonstrated very professional conduct with the games and working with us at Novi High. We had many compliments from visitors to our school as to the good and courteous work done by the Novi police.

A special thanks goes to Sergeant Dale Gross who scheduled the officers and helped to make our tournament a grand success. Novi is fortunate to have a police department of this high caliber for our entire community.

School board rapped

To the Editor:
There is no crisis in education at Walled Lake Schools. The crisis is in the abuse of power. At the three budget cut meetings last week, the superintendent again ignored the will of the people. Superficially, sacrificing the athletics director and outdoor ed director, two crucial positions, was an obvious underhanded plot to protect cuts in Mickey Mouse administrative positions while pink-slipping 22 teachers.

Wixom Co-op abandons 'historical village' proposal

Plans to convert the Wixom Co-op into a "historical village" apparently have been abandoned for the time being. Wixom Home Rehabilitation Director Philip Beaudette reported Monday that he has been informed that the co-op's board of directors is no longer interested in pursuing a low-interest federal loan as a first step in financing the proposed conversion.

"It appears that any plans for revitalization of the co-op are dead at the present time," said Beaudette. "We're extremely disappointed because we really wanted to see this project go through. I think it would have been beneficial to the co-op and beneficial to the city's plans for revitalization of the central business district."

News that the co-op's board of directors was considering a plan to convert the historic co-op buildings into a commercial-office center with a historical theme surfaced several months ago.

Co-op officials went so far as to have architectural drawings prepared for renovating the existing buildings. Included in the proposed renovation project were a hardware store, old-fashioned ice cream parlor, a "tavern" restaurant and space for professional offices.

The plans also contained proposals for donating the grain elevator to the Wixom Historical Society for use as a museum and moving an old-fashioned locomotive to a siding outside the grain elevator.

The tentative plans never gained approval from the co-op's board of directors, however. Beaudette previously indicated that members of the board were concerned about the financial risk involved in the undertaking.

Cost of the total renovation project had been projected at approximately $2 million. Beaudette said he attempted to persuade the co-op board to "phase" the project over several years in order to minimize the financial risk, but that his efforts had been unsuccessful.

Additionally, Beaudette had attempted to convince the board to apply for some $100,000 available from the federal government in Act 312 funds. But even though the co-op project ap-

Judge reduces award in Eagle's lawsuit

An Oakland County circuit judge yesterday denied a motion for a new trial in the Walled Lake Eagles' lawsuit against the City of Walled Lake.

Judge Francis X. O'Brien granted a motion, though, that reduced the amount of damages awarded to the fraternal organization from $8,500 to $3,500. A circuit court jury set the damage award following a four-day trial last November.

Representing the Eagles, Thomas P. Rabette, and the city's insurance company, Gerald G. White, could not be reached yesterday for comment.

"I suspect we may appeal," City Attorney Richard J. Poehlman said. The Eagles filed suit against the city three years ago, charging that its members suffered mental distress during a March 1976 police raid on the clubhouse and the confiscation of alcoholic beverages.

Club officials said they had a special permit to sell the beverages during a holiday party, but Police Chief Wilford G. Hooker said he had not issued a state liquor license for their clubhouse, located at 125 E. Walled Lake Drive, and asked the police to return some $3,000 in confiscated beverages. Hooker offered to release the spirits to the organization.

The impasse over "release" versus "return" prompted the club to file the suit.

White asked for dismissal of the complaint on the grounds of government immunity from liability claims, and, during the trial, he moved for a directed verdict to block any award of damages.

Master plan adopted by Commerce panel

More than 90 percent of the total projected dwelling units will be single-family duplex (a new category) and mobile home residential, while the remainder will be multiple-family residential.

Fewer school sites are shown on the master plan, Lehoczy said, because of trends toward smaller families and higher school construction costs. The township could encourage developers, though, to set aside land that a school district may acquire at a later date for a building site, he added.

The commercial-industrial areas plan depicts three commercial zoning classifications, two types of industrial districts, an office category and a special district for certain approved uses such as hospitals, senior citizen housing, golf courses, and gun and conservation clubs. The special use district will give township officials a better opportunity to review plans for those types of facilities, according to Lehoczy.

Proposed commercial and industrial areas are intended to provide employment opportunities, services and shopping for township residents, based on the residential areas plan, the consultant said. An economic analysis prepared by Lehoczy indicates that Commerce will need 145 acres of commercial land and 1,102 acres of industrial property in 10 years to support a population of 42,000.

The residential areas plan is a guide to measure the need for government services, including school and recreational facilities. Four general locations for fire stations are shown on the plan—the township now has three fire stations—to reflect anticipated growth in the northwest corner of Commerce.

In addition to the master plan, the consultant has prepared several other drawings of elements that affect development of the township, including maps showing topography, wetlands and flood hazard areas, soils, woodlands, existing land uses as of 1975, recreation areas, traffic volumes, thoroughfare problem areas and a major thoroughfare plan.

The thoroughfare plan must be approved by the township board, Lehoczy said.

Two public hearings were held in December on the new master plan. There were no objections to the document, although several property owners asked the commission to review proposed designations for certain parcels.

The new master plan replaces one that was adopted in 1971 and revised three years later. In 1976, the planners decided to update both the master plan and the zoning ordinance.

Lehoczy said the new master plan could be changed again when township officials complete their review of the proposed zoning district map.

Novi Chamber offers fellowship breakfast

What occurs next Tuesday morning could well become a tradition in Novi. That, at any rate, is the hope of the Novi Chamber of Commerce.

Planners for the first fellowship breakfast of business people in the community are optimistic the early morning meeting will be well received and repeated at least annually.

The breakfast will be held in Hudson's Greenery Restaurant in Twelve Oaks at 8:30 a.m. and will feature Richard Headlee, president of the Alexander Hamilton Company of America, as the main speaker. Reservations and tickets, priced at $4, are available by contacting the Novi Chamber office at 48-3743. Seating is limited to 130.

Breakfast-goers are asked to use the Hudson's Novi Road entrance since the center does not open until 10 a.m.

The idea for the gathering was spearheaded by Novi School Superintendent Gerald Kratz. Acting with Kratz on the steering committee are Chamber President Len Karevich and Hudson's Twelve Oaks Manager Bill Sickenberger. The breakfast is patterned after a national fellowship meeting inaugurated in 1952 by a group of congressmen in Washington, D.C.

Kratz indicated that historically, the leadership of the country has turned to God in asking for strength and guidance. "It is important to assemble as a body with the common denominator of American spiritual tradition," he said. "It gives us cause to reflect on who and what we are and the direction in which we are moving."

The Chamber has put out a call to the business community as well as city officials to gather in that spiritual tradition for breakfast and meditation.

Included in the morning program are Reverend Thomas Scherger, pastor of Freedom Lutheran Church; Novi Mayor Ronald Roedel; and Nancy White, president of the League of Women Voters. Choral selections will be offered by the Novi Choralaires under the direction of Janet Wassilak. Sickenberger will preside at the meeting.

Doggie treats

Bank doesn't neglect canine customers

Some dive-in head first for their treats. Others patiently wait for the owners to dig the hidden treat from a canister. But no matter which way they approach the subject pooches who accompany their masters to the drive-in windows at the Security Bank of Novi get the royal treatment.

Lollipops for kid-type customers has taken its place as an American tradition. And ever since the bank opened in 1975, "man's best friend" has been remembered with a dog biscuit.

Drive-in tellers report that regular customers who cart their dogs to the bank often find their animals hanging out the windows waiting for the pneumatic tube to return. "If we should forget to include the bone," said teller Barbara Johnson, "we can't hear a 'woof' through the speaker as a gentle reminder."

Don't think the dogs don't know where they're going. One trip to the bank is all that's necessary. Most of the customers say the dogs perk up the minute the car hits the driveway leading to the teller windows. "Sometimes the dogs are worse than the kids," laughed Mrs. Johnson.

Handing out dog biscuits was regarded as one of those "nice gestures" that has remained a part of the bank. A large economy-size box will last about two months, according to the tellers. "We also find more and more dogs coming to the bank," the tellers remarked. "Our customers get a big kick out of their dogs nuzzling the canister. They like to see the reaction of their pets when they find the bone."

"It's kind of makes our day too," claim the tellers. "Have you ever seen a Great Dane stick his head in a pneumatic tube looking for his biscuit? Or a woman fighting off a dog clawing his way to a window? It's a real sight."

Jean Forter, a customer at the bank, claimed with a laugh that she wouldn't go to the bank and not hand out dog cookies. Between the suckers for the kids and bones for the dog, Kay Niemann says a trip to the bank is the highlight of the day. And Calvin Anderson's dog always barks a hearty "thank you" for his treat.

Bank President Don Greengood, pushing aside the thought that kids and animals may get away with murder at the bank, says that the practice of handing out bones to the dogs will continue.

"The response has been tremendous," he said.

Novi eyes record total in Tuesday blood drive

Do you have an hour to spare sometime next Tuesday? That much time could prove to be a life-saver for someone desperately in need of a blood transfusion.

That's the word from Novi Blood Bank Coordinator Gerri Stipp as she continues to stress the necessity of community support for the semi-annual blood drive. And the Novi City Clerk continues to beat the bushes for prospective donors in her attempt to reach a goal of 500 pints of blood for the bank.

Mrs. Stipp's enthusiasm for the drive can be contagious as she is dedicated to the goal of topping the record total of 177 pints of blood collected by the Red Cross in the Novi blood drive in November. "It only takes a little while, it doesn't hurt and your gift can do so much for others," she claims while taking appointments for prospective donors.

The donor appointment procedure does not necessarily lock a person into the blood bank, but it does help in scheduling volunteer workers throughout the day and serves as a reminder of the importance of donating, she pointed out.

The annual Novi Community blood bank will be held at the Holy Family Catholic Church on Meadowbrook Road next Tuesday from 2-8 p.m. Appointments are recommended, but not necessary.

Pointing to information supplied by the Red Cross, Mrs. Stipp noted that one unit of blood can now be used to help save the lives of up to four different individuals, according to figures supplied by the Southeastern Michigan Chapter, the Red Cross must collect between 950 and 1,000 pints of blood daily to meet patient needs in the Detroit metropolitan area.

With figures like that it is easy to understand the need for local blood drives. Donating on a regular basis is necessary to maintain supplies for the constant demand, the chapter added.

Mrs. Stipp indicated that although a one-hour time slot is allotted for each donor, only 7-8 minutes is actually required to give blood. The remainder of the time is used to collect donor information and rest and refreshments for the donors.

Donors must be 17-66 years old (parental consent is required for 17-year-olds). Basic good health and the absence of diabetes and a history of hepatitis are other stipulations.

If you meet the above criteria and are willing to give one hour to help someone else, call Mrs. Stipp at 349-4900. She is ready with her pencil and appointment book.

Adult planners sought for Novi bike-a-thon

Novi residents are being asked to participate in the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital "Wheels for Life" bike-a-thon.

Volunteer workers and riders are needed for the bike-a-thon to raise funds for the world-famous research center and its battle against childhood cancer and other catastrophic childhood diseases.

Ed Carothers, who is co-chairing the Novi effort along with Clara Porter of the community education department, said this year's ride is being dedicated to Lisa, a leukemia patient at St. Jude.

"By riding for Lisa, we'll really be helping all stricken children since research is the only way these illnesses can be conquered," he said. "We're looking for people who will contribute some of their time and energy to help children live."

"We really need bike riders, since they are the ones who can make this bike-a-thon a success."

In the bike-a-thon, riders enlist sponsors who donate a sum for each mile completed. Riders who raise $25 will receive a St. Jude tee shirt, and those raising $75 will receive a backpack. There also are prizes for other riders. Sponsor forms are available at all Novi schools.

Carothers said the major thrust at the present time is to enlist the aid of adults who will work to coordinate the fundraising event. Riders will be enlisted as of the date of the bike-a-thon approaches.

Interested individuals can contact either Carothers (349-9889) or Mrs. Porter (349-1200). The bike-a-thon will be staged in conjunction with Novi's Michigan Week activities.

Walled Lake students seek national honors

Two Walled Lake high school students will join the Michigan contingent headed for Minneapolis and national level competitions at the Office of Education Association National Leadership convention in April.

Central's Katie Wagner and Western's Cindy Horton earned the right to compete at the nationals through their office procedure expertise in recent Business Office Education Club (BOEC) state competitions at the Renaissance Center in March.

In all, 25 Walled Lake students participated in the state competitions designed to test skills in all facets of the business world. Competitions range from data processing to communications and include spelling, computer processing, typing and stenographic abilities.

According to Western business instructor Mary Riemersma, BOEC is an important part of the school curriculum. "We can teach the students the skills, but participation in BOEC gives the realism of the job." She added that 1980 marks the fifth year the Walled Lake district has qualified students for the national competitions.

Accompanying the two students to the national convention will be Central office educator Sharon Kranz. Both students in each category are eligible to enter national competitions. Mrs. Riemersma noted that two other students fared exceptionally well in the Detroit contests. Western senior Sue Kent took a sixth place in the data processing computer section, while Central senior Tina Jensen also took a sixth place in receptionist skills.

The Minneapolis convention will call approximately 3,500 students representing at least 18 states across the nation into office skills competition. Some of those competitions are based on skill and speed, others test the student's ability to handle an unknown situation. All are graded by a panel of judges.

Horton, a senior, finished second in the state in data processing and key punch operations. She will be vying for honors in the same category at the national level. Wagner, also a senior, qualified for the nationals by taking third place as a communications specialist. A new area this year, skills include abilities at dictaphone transcription teamed with typewriter skills.

Business Briefs

20 MEMBERS of the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOOCR) from Novi, Walled Lake and Union Lake have been honored for topping $1 million in home listings and sales during 1979.

M. DALEY HILL has been cited for exceptional work with Woodmen Accident and Life during 1979.

M. DALEY HILL

WWOOCR President John Halser said that "Million Dollar Club members have aided approximately 31,000 buyers and sellers of existing homes last year."

"In this our 90th anniversary year, Woodmen Accident and Life takes special pride in the accomplishments of M. Daley Hill whose professional success throughout the past year has qualified him for our 1979 Life Award and the 1979 Group Health Insurance Award," the company announced.

"It's a pride we share with the community and the insurance industry who join us in honoring this outstanding representative. His leadership and service have insured families and individuals of a better way of life."

DETROITBANK CORPORATION has announced the opening of the main office of Detroit Bank - Novi, its newest subsidiary bank.

DETROITBANK CORPORATION has announced the opening of the main office of Detroit Bank - Novi, its newest subsidiary bank. The new bank, located at 27788 Novi Road adjacent to Twelve Oaks Mall, brings to nine the number of DETROITBANK subsidiary banks.

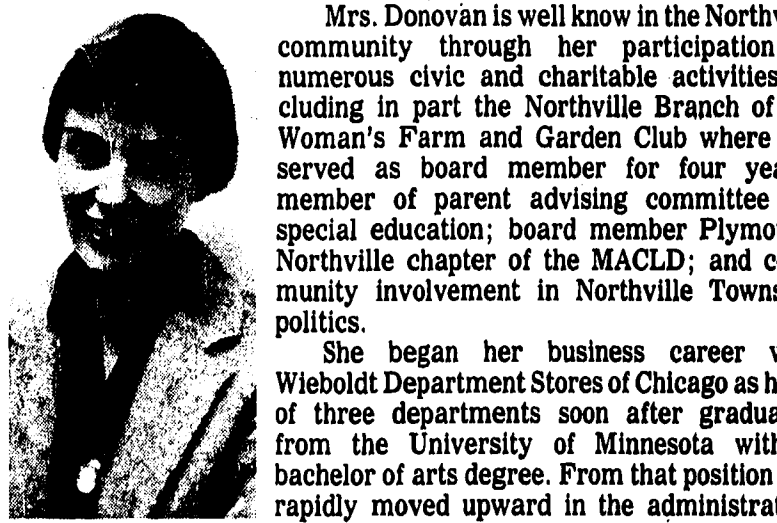

MILLION DOLLAR smiles are shown by all the top producers at Rymal Symes Realtors. This happy group and their spouses have been invited to be guests of Rymal Symes Realtors at the firm's annual Million Dollar Roundtable conference in Las Vegas, Nevada.

Announcement of the Detroit Bank - Novi opening was made by its president, Willard L. Oliver, an employee of Detroit Bank & Trust for 30 years. Prior to his appointment to president of the new bank, Oliver served as vice president and regional supervisor for the Branch Office Administration Department.

ANNOUNCING the event, Conrad Jakubowski, president of Rymal Symes Realtors, said that industry wide, fewer than 10 percent of all real estate salespeople ever sell a million dollars worth of property in any one year and this group of 10 is made up of all Rymal Symes people.

f/STOP, INC., Novi's complete photographic store, announces guaranteed 24-hour film processing service when requested on rolls of color slide, movie and print film.

The service, which is offered at the nominal charge of 99 cents per roll, is available Monday through Thursday on orders sent through f/Stop to Hite Photo in Detroit. Film must be received prior to the day's pick-up to be eligible for 24-hour processing.

The guaranteed 24-hour service follows a recent announcement by Hite of a "Bloopers Buy Back" agreement which allows the customer to return photographs for full credit, no matter the reason.

"Our combination of Hite and Kodak processing is the reason f/Stop probably takes in more processing than any other store in the Novi-Northville-Walled Lake area," said General Manager Wayne Loder. "Without top quality photofinishing, the photographer, whether he has spent $25 or $1,000 on his camera equipment is not getting a good return on his investment. And good quality processing like Hite is not expensive."

As well as processing, f/Stop offers complete discontinued camera, lens, flash and projector sales. It also offers professional wedding, portrait and commercial photographic services. f/Stop is located at 6320 Grand River, just east of Novi Road and is open 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday and Saturday and 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

GUARDIAN INDUSTRIES CORPORATION has announced an expansion program is being undertaken within its insulation division.

Guardian, headquartered in Novi, entered the insulation business in early 1978 with the formation of a new corporate division and the purchase of a small mineral wool insulation facility located in Huntington, Indiana. Production and sale of mineral wool insulation commenced in the second quarter of 1978. Mineral wool revenues of the company were under $5 million in 1979.

The announced expansion program involves the installation of a fiberglass insulation line at a 750,000 square foot plant in Albion. Production is scheduled to begin by early 1981 at this facility, which was purchased by Guardian in 1979 from Corning Glass Works in anticipation of eventually converting it for the manufacture of fiberglass.

Mrs. Martin was one of the 415 members to receive this award. She has been active in real estate in the Northville area for the last eight years. She also is an active member of the Northville Woman's Club.

PERRY DRUGS last week announced its fiscal first quarter sales and earnings were at the highest levels in the Pontiac-based chain's history.

The net income for the quarter ending January 31 was $1,107,000 or 72 cents a share, according to Jack A. Robinson, chairman and president, as compared with restated earnings of $1,067,000 or 69 cents a share a year earlier.

Robinson said sales in the latest quarter advanced 15 percent to $33,856,000 from $29,466,000 a year earlier.

Earnings did not keep pace with sales growth, he said, partly because of higher costs to operate the new and larger Perry corporate headquarters and distribution center in the first quarter of 1980 as compared to lower costs to operate former smaller facilities in the same 1979 quarter.

Robinson said Perry, now operating 66 stores in 49 Michigan communities, will open at least six additional stores before the October 31 ending of its current fiscal year.

FIL SUPERFISKY, associate broker with Rymal Symes Realtors, has been named manager of the firm's Novi office effective immediately. In announcing the appointment, Conrad Jakubowski, president of Rymal Symes, said, "Fil's broad knowledge of the community and his depth of practical experience made him the ideal choice for the position."

FIL SUPERFISKY

Superfisky, his wife Pam and daughter Dawn are longtime residents of Novi and are active participants in community activities. He is a member of the Novi Jaycees, Holy Family Church and long has been a sponsor of the Village Oaks Garden Club and Novi Parks and Recreation girls' softball teams.

THE LATEST round of increases for home mortgage interest rates - to 15 percent or more - will dampen the already depressed local housing market still further, according to Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOOCR).

"It's becoming obvious that these increases, which could go even higher, will squeeze more prospective buyers out of the market and stymie many sellers who want to move up," said John J. Halser, WWOOCR president.

"As representatives of these two groups, we see them as victims of a bad mix of federal government fiscal and monetary policy. Federal deficit spending, too rapid growth of the money supply and enactment of inflation-causing regulations have been major causes of the accelerated consumer price inflation. It rose from a level of 4.8 percent in 1976 to 13.2 percent last year."

Halser said one result has been that typical mortgage payments for an average home have climbed past $500 per month compared to about $300 a year ago. Existing home sales, which peaked near four million in 1978, are expected to drop below three million during 1980.

New housing needs, estimated to be two million or more units a year, will be left largely unmet with starts expected to dip as low as 1.2 million units this year.

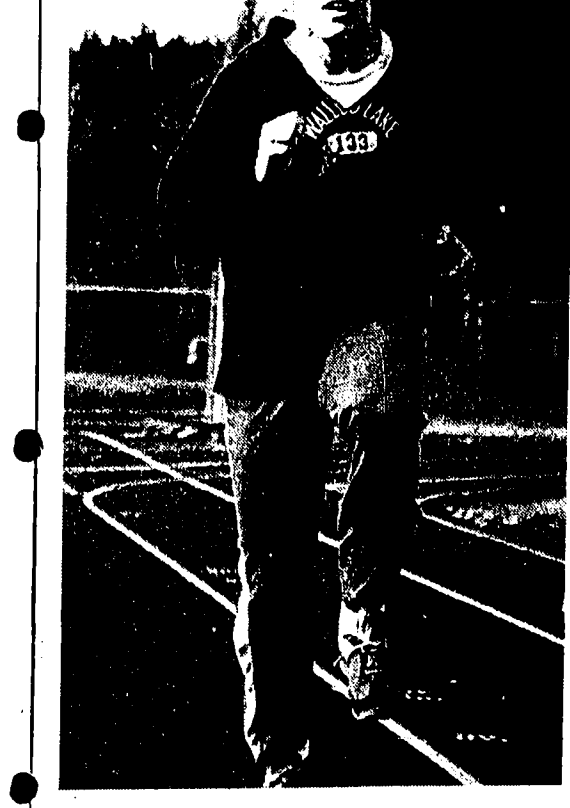

STARR ADVERTISING of Northville, has been appointed as the agency of record for GKN Automotive Components Incorporated heavy truck and off-highway advertising. It recently was announced.

The Southfield company is a subsidiary of GKN Group, a major worldwide industrial firm and producer of automotive products and systems.

Having just been named to coach the Vikings last month, Groth is hurriedly trying to prepare his troops for their season opener tomorrow at Milford. The team practiced without a coach for several days until the former Bishop Foley High assistant got the position, leaving the boys a bit behind schedule.

"We have been set back a little," Groth concedes. "But thankfully, Brian McKenna (the girls' track coach) stepped in and helped while the coaching position was still open. He did a whole of a job."

Western singles positions set, but doubles could be trouble

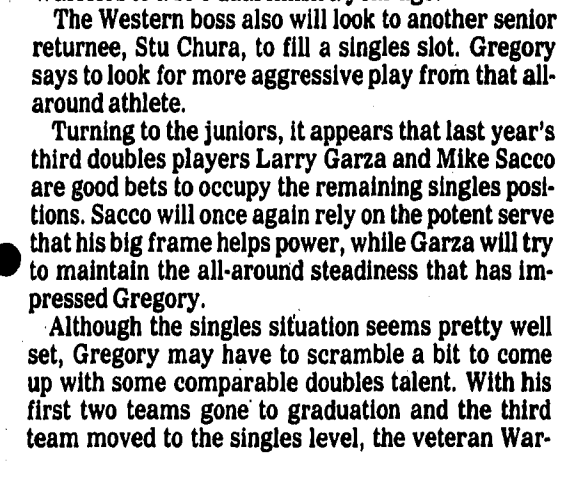

Tennis, anyone? That familiar court cry could take on an entirely different meaning at Walled Lake Western this year. The Warriors - stripped of six senior starters from last year's team - no doubt would welcome any capable tennis players as the 1980 season nears.

Coach Noah Gregory finds himself in the unenviable position of having to replace second and third singles players Wayne Glesner and Jay Campana, as well as the first doubles team of Mike Bryant and Mike Draheim and second doubles performers Jeff Chura and Brent Taylor.

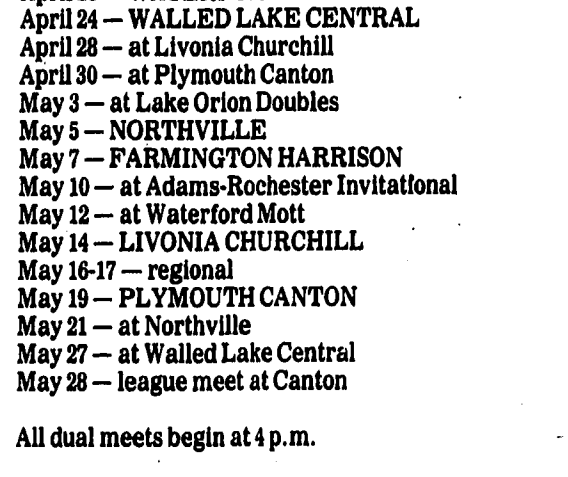

But that's not to imply that Western won't have any able bodied roaming the courts this spring. For one thing, Doug Poland will return for a third year as the team's number one singles player.

A consistently strong performer, Poland should be even tougher this time around. Coach Gregory says the senior ace has been taking a class to beef up his already formidable skills, and that can mean nothing but good news for the man who led the Warriors to a 10-5 dual finish a year ago.

Wildcat girls have the numbers

It's funny — maybe a better word is "strange" — how the high school sports programs in Walled Lake and Novi seem to be going in different directions right now.

On the one hand, you have the situation discussed last week in this space. It looks as if Walled Lake will be forced to do without a couple of programs for awhile, at least until that school district can escape its financial problems.

Then there's the case of Novi.

Ironically, the situation's quite a bit different when you travel a couple of miles south. At the present time there's no sign of athletic program cuts in the Novi school district; in fact, the Novi Board of Education discussed recommendations for two new high school sports at its March 20 meeting.

Girls' cross-country and soccer are the latest activities to be kicked around by board members. Surprisingly, it's been noted that the former — NOT the latter — is presently the fastest growing sport in Michigan, with 294 teams at last count.

The demand for a soccer program is also great. Unless you've been in a catatonic state for the past few years, you know that the sport has gained popularity from Novi to New York. Parents here have been clamoring for the institution of a soccer program, beginning at an early age for the kids.

The presently-recommended soccer set-up would involve an intramural program which would begin at the middle school level, then grow to a high school varsity program when the present middle-schoolers reach that level. And it looks as if the school board will act soon to set such a program in motion.

It's no wonder. First and foremost, soccer is cheap to outfit. All you need is a ball, uniforms and a field. It's also a team sport that has a low injury rate and good exercise benefits.

The Novi board will no doubt consider those facts when it next convenes Thursday to discuss the institution of soccer, as well as girls' cross-country. And if normal procedures are followed, a decision could be rendered as early as April 17.

In the meantime, the Walled Lake School District — which, unfortunately, does not reap the benefits of serving only six schools, the revenue generated by a new, major mall, mall-related development and property value increases — presses on.

How does the "Commerce Lakes Mall" sound to you?

If bounty means beauty, Novi softball coach Jim Tinsley has the best looking softball program in the area.

The Novi mentor has more than 40 girls out for the sport this spring, far more than he needs but enough to ensure quality choices for both the varsity and junior varsity squads.

Of those 40, eight are returning letter winners. And these eight are a solid core around which Tinsley can build a team with which to improve on last year's winning record.

The heart and soul of the Wildcat team will be the battery of Tracey Sobkow and Cheryl Shankel. Sobkow has improved a great deal over the winter, according to Tinsley. "She is throwing as well as any pitcher I've ever seen," he said.

Shankel, the catcher, is so good that she started as a freshman last year and will be the only sophomore on the squad this season.

When Sobkow needs a rest, Carol Champney will step in. This is the first year she has tried to pitch, but Tinsley has been impressed so far. When she isn't hurling the softball, Champney will handle the third base chores.

Champney is one of two 300 hitters from last year's team. The other is shortstop Lori Giorgio. Both will be counted on the provide firepower for the Wildcat offense.

Other returning letter winners are Mary Weber, Marie Russel, Denise Burnham and Debbie Agarwal.

Tinsley said he's looking for significant contributions from each at either infield or outfield positions. All are still fighting for positions.

Two newcomers who look promising, according to Tinsley, are Sherry Nothnagel and Sherry Crowe.

There will be an international flavor to the team this spring as there are three exchange students on the squad.

Carole Calles is from Brazil, Lee Ann Holland is from New Guinea, and Myriam Mersam is from Peru.

All three will be with the varsity in some capacity, whether it be as players or managers. The three are still fighting for positions on the squads.

Tinsley said that the final cuts will be made after the Easter break.

Tinsley said the strength of his team will be the left side of his infield (Champney and Giorgio) and the pitching.

On the other side of the coin, weaknesses, Tinsley is uncertain of his outfield and he considers his team's hitting potential problematical.

Cohen moves to finals

If his recent performance at the Michigan IAU Boys' State Swimming Championships is any indication, Jon Cohen is catching on to the sport just fast.

The nine-year-old Novi resident advanced to the championship finals with his state effort, taking championship medals in the 200-yard individual medley, and swam on the 200-yard freestyle relay team that won a medal for placing fourth.

He also made the consolation finals in the 100-yard backstroke and the 100-yard individual medley, and swam on the 200-yard freestyle relay team that won a medal for placing fourth.

Not surprisingly, Cohen had the distinction of being the youngest boy to place in a championship final at the meet. He finished among the top eight in his age group in total points.

Cohen, who swims with the Bulldog Aquatic Club at Schoolcraft College under the tutelage of Coach Brad Brockway, had qualified to swim every event offered in his 10-and-under age group. He had accomplished this by virtue of notching all of his AA Michigan times.

However, state rules stipulated that each boy could swim a maximum of three events per day. Otherwise, maybe Cohen could've had another day to practice or do whatever it is that nine-year-olds like to do in their spare time.
