Kratz makes resignation official

Novi School Superintendent Gerald Kratz announced last week that he has decided to accept the position of superintendent of the Jackson County Intermediate School District.

Board President Ron Milam read the superintendent's request to be released from his contract effective June 30, 1980, to the board and an audience of apoximately 20 people.

Emotions ran high during the announcement and Kratz openly wiped tears from his eyes as board members and residents offered praise for his work in the community during the past eight vears.

Kratz called the decision to leave Novi and accept the Jackson post the "most difficult of my professional · Former Board Member Ray Warren. who served when Kratz was hired, praised the superintendent for a "tremendous job," citing the construction of several schools and development of sound educational programs.

Warren also told the board that the selection process becomes more difficult as the interviews of prospective superintendents proceed. "When you get down to the final five or six candidates they all look good," he said.

would be remiss if we did not accept it and wish him well," she said. Trustee Sharon Pelchat, the only board member who was on the board when Kratz was hired, compared him to cream which has risen to the top. She wished him well as he goes "a step for-

Additionally, new school facilities have come on line. Voters approved a $12 million bond issue which financed the construction of Novi Woods Elementary, Novi High School and conversion of the former high school to a middle school.

Kratz said he believes his greatest accomplishment as superintendent has been to get the entire community, including professional staff, citizens at large and the school board, working concertedly for the good of children and

"The community has developed a positive attitude toward youth and lear-

"This was a good district when I came here and it will be a good district when I leave. A good district is always trying to be better," Kratz added.

Kratz also has been a leader in the community and currently is president of the Novi Rotary Club.

Kratz will remain with the Novi Community Schools until the end of June. He will take part of the 20 days vacation he has coming one day at a time until the end of June when he will spend some concentrated time in Jackson to orient himself to his new position.

Eggs and Easter Bunnies

The Easter Bunny himself was in town over the weekend to make a personal appearance at the annual Easter Egg Hunt sponsored by the Novi Parks and Recreation Department. But the famous rabbit got caught somewhat shorthanded. Just 60 youngsters showed up at last year's hunt, but an estimated 250

Paraphernalia ban upheld again

A clerk charged with violation of a Novi ordinance which bans the sale and distribution of "drug related" paraphernalia will face trial, following a state court decision upholding the constitutionality of the ordinance.

Judge Batchick ruled that even though the Novi ordinance does not specifically define the size or design standards of marijuana or hashish pipes which cannot be sold in the community, the ordinance is not vague.

He supported the city's position that persons in the industry can or should know which pipes are designed for marijuana and which pipes are designed for tobacco, either through their own expertise or by making reasonable investigations. That decision was based largely up on the precedent set in a U.S. Supreme Court decision in the case McGowan versus Maryland. Batchik deemed that decision "controlling" as it applies to this case.

The McGowan decision states "business people of ordinary intelligence in the position of ... the employer would be able to know what exceptions are encompassed by the statute either as a matter of ordinary commercial knowlege or by simply making a resonable investigation....

By going into business the retailer selling to the public "assumes the burden of having ordinary comercial knowlege" to determine for what use the pipe is primarily designed, Batchik

Attorneys for the sales clerk argued that the Novi ordinance is unconstitutional because it does not have a valid public purpose and there is no reasonable relationship between the sale of marijuana pipes and controlling drug abuse.

In the clerk's defense they argued that banning the sale of pipes would increase the abuse of marijuana because users would ingest marijuana in dif-

Batchick disagreed, saying the argument was "speculative at best." He ruled it was within the city's legislative right to control drug traffic by making it more difficult for the drug user to use

Attorneys for the defendant further argued that the paraphernalia ordinance should be declared unconstitutional because it violates due process rights and allows prosecution without proving the accused intended to commit a crime.

The judge decided the proof of intent is not required in this matter because the sale of marijuana pipes is prohibited. When selling items which would come under the scope of the ordinance the burden is placed upon the Board members were told that if they "really got at it" a new superintendent could be on board shortly after July 1.

School board members took the initial step in organizing the search last week by authorizing consultant Evart Ardis, director of career planning and placement at the University of Michigan, to prepare a brochure describing the job and school district. The pamphlet will be distributed to placement officers and the deans of colleges of education for all schools serving as major training grounds for

Ardis estimated that the total screening process will take approximately seven weeks, although he cautioned that the search should not be a job which the board "does in haste and regrets in leisure."

Ardis also said that the new superintendent can be expected to need 30 to 60 days to be released from his previous position and establish himself in the community.

The U-M consulatant suggested that board members can expect to receive 100 to 125 applications for the position. The consultants will review the applications and eliminated 30 to 35 percent of the candidates on the basis of experience and educational background. "We'll explain why we believe, for exthe number one group and other candidates are in the number two group a step away from the first group," stated Ardis. "We'll also show you why the candidates in another group are out of their minds for applying for this

Board members also will go through a mock interview to prepare them for the upcoming sessions. They will learn what types of questions to ask of candidates, as well as illegal and improper questions which cannot be asked.

Interviews should not be extended over more than a two week period, Ardis said. Those sessions probably should be limited to 90 minutes per candidate, he indicated.

To comply with open meeting requirements a specified time for the public to participate should be included in each interview, according to Ardis.

He suggested that a committee including residents be chosen to interview candidates. The new superintendent will have a better chance to succeed if the selection committee is composed of many residents from a broad spectrum of the community, Ardis said.

Distributing brochures to attract candidates is the first step, board members learned. Information in the brochure will largely be updated from one developed when Kratz applied for the job eight years ago. About 400 brochures should be distributed, he indicated.

Walled Lake library board wants to expand

isting facility was presented to the city council April 1 by the library board.

The council appointed two of its members — Mayor Pro Tem Heather F. M. Hill and Councilman William T. Roberts — to work with the board on the proposal. Library board members had hoped to gain council approval of the building plans at last week's meeting, according to Librarian Donna Rickabaugh. Library officials favor a plan drawn up two years ago by City Building Inspector Earl Glaspie for a 58- by 45-foot expansion of the existing facility in the city hall complex. The addition would extend the library along the front of the municipal building next to the fire station, available floor space. The addition had an estimated cost of about $22,200 in early 1978 when Glaspie submitted the plans to the library board for review. The project was one of four submitted to mittee at that time to determine its eligibility for a federal The project was not given a high priority by the county, according to City Manager Peter Parker, and Gaspie updated the cost estimate that November - to $25,500 when the library board again asked for more room.

The library board said it would let the city use a portion of the monies it has set aside in a building fund to pay for the expansion, as long as the board is reimbursed by the

Asked by Roberts why the library wanted to be reimbursed, Board Member Karl Buttenmiller said the building fund was set up to save money to furnish the facility and "put books on the shelves." There is about $100,000 in the fund, Roberts said.

In a March 26 letter to the council, Board President Judy Jordan said library officials recognize the "desirability of remaining in the city complex, both for the convenience of the citizens of Walled Lake and for the enhanced value the library gives to the city complex. An addition to the existing library would be the least expensive way to acquire needed library room."

Other alternatives include construction of a library building - the municipal complex development plan shows a library site immediately west of the city hall - or "including a new library in one of several developments,"

Mayor Gaspare LaMarca brought up the library expansion plans at the March 18 pre-budget hearing and council meeting, but Hill - the council's liaison to the library said the city should wait for further information on the 52nd District Court's proposed move out of the west wing of city hall before proceeding with the addition proposal.

Library during National Library Month)

Who are the people responsible for seeing that the Novi Public Library runs smoothly? Who plans for future development? Who offers their time and talent to further the cause of access to information and materials? This article will present a brief look at some of those individuals. The Novi Public Library is governed by a board of directors, a group of five Novi residents who meet the second Monday of each month. Board members are appointed to staggered five-year terms by the city council to oversee the management of the library. Their most important function is to create the annual budget and approve monthly expenses. They also set all library policies. Many hours are involved, and all board members serve without pay. In addition, most board members can be found in the Bibrary at other times, reading current magazines, checking out materials, bringing family members to special events, etc. Members of the library board are as

Novi master plan is long overdue

It was almost a year ago that Novi's City Council authorized preparation of a new master plan for land use development.

Specifically, the city council voted unanimously to enter a contract with Vilican-Leman & Associates, the city's planning consultants, to undertake the study.

The agreement called for the city to pay the consultants some $20,400 for completion of the project which included an industrial areas plan, a thoroughfare plan, and a revised preliminary residential areas plan.

tract called for the work to be completed within eight months.

Additionally, terms of the con-

The contract was approved by the council in April 1979.

Although the contract stipulated that the work be completed by December, there was some effort to wrap up the planning study by November.

However, the master plan was not done in November, and it was not done in December as called for by the contract. The eight months completion deadline now has been exceeded by four months. And even though the council and planning board have attempted to exert pressure on Vilican-Leman to complete the study, it is beginning to appear as if it won't be completed until after the start of the new

City officials are justifiably upset about the delays. Additionally, there appears to be substantial justification for being less than pleased with the work which has been turned in so far. In some cases, the completed sub-studies represent little more than a compilation of data which is easily obtained from outside sources: traffic counts on mile roads from the Oakland County Road Commission for example.

In some instances, data in the sub-studies was taken from the 1970 federal census and is of questionable value in a city which has grown as substantially as Novi has in the past 10 years.

If anything, city officials have exhibited remarkable patience and understanding with the delays in completion of the updated master

But the report is already four months overdue, and the city's planning consultants should be reminded that a contract is a contract, and, patience is not

Value to drain plan

Tough, new standards for retention ponds have been proposed by Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall. The proposals, on the whole, make a great deal of sense and should be seriously weighed by the council.

Kriewall noted that Novi is in a somewhat unique position in that it does not have access to storm drainage systems and must retain water in holding, or "retention," ponds in order to prevent flooding downstream.

He also noted that the system of retention ponds throughout the city is the source of considerable problems which range from poor design to poor aesthetics to poor maintenance.

One of Kriewall's proposals is to require developers to complete retention ponds before they obtain building permits. "This may be a hardship on some developers, but inspecting these retention ponds and solving the problems they can create is definitely a hardship on the city," he said.

According to Kriewall, requiring developers to complete retention ponds prior to drawing building permits would tend to eliminate many complaints about drainage and also save the city money since the inspection requirements would be substantially diminished.

Kriewall also makes good points about the aesthetic potential inherent in retention ponds. All too often, he suggests, the retention ponds are stuck in a back corner of the development and forgotten.

If retention ponds were placed in the front of the development, they could serve as an aesthetic element. As an example, the city manager cited the retention pond in front of the Stonehenge Con-dominiums on Haggerty Road which he said looks more like a reflecting pond.

Additionally, he suggested that placement of the retention ponds in the front of the development would lead to improved maintenance because property owners would make certain that their "front yards look nice."

Kriewall's proposals make good sense. Requiring completion of retention ponds prior to building permits would ensure residents of new subdivisions that they will not have to wait until the development is completed before they can expect their backyards to drain pro-

We also feel that the city would be wise to investigate the possibility of providing incentives for placement of retention ponds in the "front yard." Several years ago, the council and planning board vide greater setbacks for construc-

a larger "green belt" along major streets and thus promote a rural atmosphere in the city. Encouraging location of retention ponds in front yards could conceivably serve that

As Kriewall noted, retention ponds can be considerably more than a facility for retaining storm water run-off. If properly engineered, planned and maintained, they can become an aesthetic amenity which will enhance the

Speaking for Myself Restrict Japanese car imports?

YES-

In 1979, Japanese car companies exported two million cars to the United States. They are exploiting and attempting to build a long-term advantage, while U.S. auto companies make a belated transition to more energy-efficient cars. Meanwhile, more than 200,000 UAW members at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler are on layoff in addition to thousands at the many automotive supplier plants.

Ours is virtually the only country in the free world that permits unlimited car imports. Other nations have restrictions ranging from "gentlemen's agreements" to quotas to local content laws. At the same time, the Japanese government puts all sorts of barriers on imports from the United States.

We in the UAW believe in the value of free trade, but free trade has to be fair trade. It cannot be a one-way street. For the short term, we want the Japanese car manufacturers to commit themselves voluntarily to import restraints and a return to 1977 sales levels. For the long term, we want legislation requiring local content for all foreign car companies which enjoy a substantial sales volume in North America.

In other words, we want Toyota and Nissan to follow the example of Volkswagen (three U.S. plants and a fourth on the drawing board) and Honda, which will build an auto assembly plant in Ohio.

If Japanese manufacturers want to continue selling us $10 billion worth of cars, they should start employing American workers.

Douglas A. Fraser International President, UAW

Six myths underlie the argument for import restrictions on foreign automobiles.

Myth One: 'Imports are causing Detroit's problems. To the contrary, Detroit's problems stem from failures to anticipate today's small, fuelefficient car demand.

Myth Two: Detroit cannot supply enough small cars for several years. Detroit is already well on its way to producing a sufficient supply of fuel-efficient

Myth Three: Import restrictions will increase employment. Detroit is already moving at maximum speed to retool: import restrictions cannot accelerate Myth Four: Japan is "unfair" in automotive trade. There is no evidence that Japan's automobiles are dumped, subsidized or otherwise compete unfair-mark the death of President Abraham Lincoln. One hundred and fifteen years ago the area was marking the death of this same man. Like citizens elsewhere in the divided nation. local area residents were stunned and deeply moved by the loss of their leader.

On April 15, 1865, Northville area residents gathered to mourn his death in a special memorial service. It very likely was held in the church building now located in Northville's Mill Race Historical Village.
Dr. J. M. Swift, an eloquent Northville speaker, was in charge of the service. But it was a poem written for the occasion by Asa M. Randolph, after whom one of the community's streets was later named, that best expressed the feelings of the audience. Randolph had been a Michigan campaigner for Mr. Lincoln. He had written a "Book of Campaign Songs" sung by a quarter of local men at political gatherings around the state. The four included Dr. Swift, Porter and Elbert Pennell and Randolph. Among the songs were: "So, Clear the Track," "Salt River Stock," "Old Honest Abe," and "Republicans, Your Country Calls You."

Thus, Randolph truly loved the President and his tragic death moved him to write:

Why bleeds the Nation's heart today? Why toils the knell of death, so sad? Why tearful eyes? Why hopes cast down? Why all our land in mourning clad?

The leader through a fearful strife, The fearless champion of the free, The noble one of all the train, "Our Chieftain" where, O where is he?

Yes, he who falter'd not e'en when The temple shook with storm and ire, A nation bleeding, rived and torn, Sought him to guide it through the fire.

Aye - fallen is he, freedom's true friend A martyr to this cause renowned. Fallen, and mourned by bond and free, Fallen, with all its laurels crowned

Give him rest in the grave from strife His work well done his tolls are o'er He's free from secret foes combined, No fiendish hand can hurt him more

Our streaming eyes we lift to thee, A nation, trembling, Lord, in tears, Thou wilt, thou canst heal up the wounds, And give us peace, from all our fears. On HCMA appraisal

An idea brought to Novi from Wisconsin will be featured by Novi's Village Creek Garden Club as its special boutique contribution to the Brahms Festival Flower Show which begins tomorrow (Thursday) at the Grosse Pointe Shores home of Edsel and Eleanor Ford. Several Novi garden club members will be on hand for the first day of the show which is modeled after the famed Chelsea Flower Show in London. Participation in the unique show designed to benefit the Detroit Symphony Orchestra is by invitation, explained club president Kay Wrublewski. The three-day event links the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan to the International Brahms Festival planned by the DSO.

The Novi group will join other garden club enthusiasts in offering unique gifts for sale at the festival boutique. All the groups will be housed under bright canopied structures scattered around the estate grounds. Mrs. Wrublewski said the Novi garden club is making "Swedish love knots" to exhibit and sell at its boutique. The dainty items were produced at four garden club workshops. Basically a macrame creation, the love knots are dotted with sprigs of dried flowers and topped with a tiny bow and card to explain the meaning of the In addition to the boutique, those who attend the Brahms Festival Flower Show will enjoy an exhibition and standard flower show. They also can browse through a toy exhibit or participate in a sealed bid auction of festival-related items.

In addition, there will be a "bistro-type" food and beverage concession. General admission tickets to the grounds are $10. For an additional charge there will be conducted tours of the main floor of the Ford home, including invitational design division floral exhibits. Special programs in flower arranging, horticulture and musical entertainment events also will be available on the grounds for an additional charge. Hours of the Brahms Festival Flower Show are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. during the three-day show which begins Thursday and concludes Saturday.

JANE B. TRAUDT of Northville has been awarded a lapel pin and certificate for selling $1 million worth of real estate in 1979 — her first year in the business.

Employed by James C. Cutler Realty. she was honored at an awards ceremony in March at the Plymouth Hilton.

"Jane's outstanding work is especially gratifying to us," said Cutler, "because she accomplished a self-set goal in her very first year of sales. She did what many are never able to do."

A member of Our Lady of Victory Catholic Church and active socially in Northville, especially in bridge groups, she was one of 415 members out of 4500 members in the Wester Wayne Oakland Board of Realtors to sell $1 million or more.

Workshops on domestic water heater planning and installation are scheduled for May 3 and June 7. Seminars on solar swimming pool heaters are set for April 19, May 10 and May 17. The seminars, which run from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., will be con-

VILLAGE SUPPLIES, a new artists' supply store in Union Lake. will celebrate its grand opening with special sales during the week of April 18-24.

The store is owned and operated by sisters Linda English and Lee Pierce, members of a third generation Walled Lake family.

Mrs. Pierce said her grandfather, Garry Thompson, is believed to have operated the first gas station in Walled Lake, while her father, Garry Thompson, Jr., operated a floor covering store on Pontiac Trail in Walled Lake "for years and years."

Both Mrs. English and Mrs. Pierce are Walled Lake High School graduates, as were their parents before them.

Village Supplies is located at 8178 Cooley Lake Road in the Village Plaza in Union Lake. Mrs. English said the store offers a complete line of artists' supplies, including oils, acrylics, water colors, cut mats and glass, brushes and an extensive selection of ready-made frames. Also available are well over 200 custom-made frames.

"It's something we think is definitely unique to the area," said Mrs. English. "We took over Sandy's Hobby Shop late last year, but found there was such a demand for artists' supplies in the area that we have converted our stock specifically to accommodate that demand."

Young likes what she sees as Western girls kill Kettering

Looking like the conference champions that they are, the Walled Lake Western girls' track team successfully began its Western Six title defense with an 89-34 walloping of Waterford

The Warriors won 11 events in a showing of formidable team balance, dominating the running competition with nine first-place finishes. Western's Karen Duskey tacked on wins in the shot put and discus throws.

Judy Yuhn and Cathy Van Putten paced the locals in the running events with two triumphs apiece. Yuhn bested the field in the 880-yard and mile runs, turning in respective times of 2:29.9 and 5:35. Van Putten, meanwhile, claimed the 220-yard dash (28 seconds) and the 100-yard dash (11.5 on a shortened track due to a mix-

Other individual Western winners in the running events included Janet Ford, who took the two-mile with a 13:46.5 clocking, and Sandy Dixon. She took top honors in the 220-yard hurdles, finishing with a 33.8 time.

The Warriors also won all three relays. The 440-vard event went to Debbie Cooper, Michelle Juszczyk, Janet Wilson and Martina Haener, who collaborated for a 55.1 showing. In the 880, Tracy Hopeck, Theresa Byrka, Van Putten and Wilson combined for a 1:55.3 clocking, while the mile relay time of 4:31.6 was accomplished by Sharon Byrka, Kris Maher, Van Putten and Duskey added to the fine Western opener with her victories. The senior whiz hurled the discus 94 feet, eight inches, and also provided the Warkilometer shot put with a toss of 34 feet, 11 in-

"The four-kilo shot is what's used on the col lege level," veteran track boss Sharon Young explained. "It translates to eight pounds and 13 ounces. What we used last year weighed just eight pounds, and that's a bigger difference than you'd believe.'

Young was also pleased with the performance of her team as a whole. "I thought we did really well," she said. "I'm especially happy with the distance times. And Joyce Van Velzor (second in the mile) was a welcome surprise." The Western coach added that although her team lost two of the four field events (high jump and long jump), she felt the Warriors would im-

Vikings depend on pitchers, seek improved hitting in '80

The Walled Lake Central baseball team may have finished with a 9-10 record in 1979, but Viking Coach Ken Butler says he's got a couple of aces up his sleeve this spring. The veteran Central pilot — who has coached the diamondmen since the school was established in 1969 — claims the Vikes "have more pitching than we ever had" this season. Experience looks to be the strong point of the Walled Lake Western baseball team as the Warriors await their season opener Friday.

On the other hand, inexperience could prove to be the club's downfall. Sound like a contradiction? Not really. You see, while Western boasts a starting infield that quite possibly will consist of all seniors in 1980, no one on this season's pitching staff has ever won a game on the varsity level.

Such are the facts of life that confront Steve Demar, the Warrior coach who watched his diamondmen slip to a 5-14 record in '79 after a 12-8 finish the year before. Western lost five hurlers from last spring's squad and now must rest its hopes on a slew of prospects up from the junior var-

Demar will pin his hopes on the young arms of righthanders Joe Gabriele, Mike Turner and Rich Briggs, as well as southpaws Brad Hynes and Jim Kelly. All are juniors, and none of that quintet had established himself as the team's number one pitcher as of Monday.

Meanwhile, occupying third base much of the time will be Mike Turner or Mike Turner. You read that right; two different players by that same name have an eye on hot corner duty. One is known as Mike W. Turner and is a returning senior. The other is among the aforementioned junior pitching hopefuls and may see back-up action.

Plans for expanding the athletic program in the Novi School District have been introduced to the Novi Board of Education.

Proposed additions to the athletic program include a boys' soccer team and a girls' crosscountry team at the high school level as well as a cross-country program for all middle school south (seventh and eighth grades) students.

Board members are scheduled to act on the proposed additions at their next regular meeting on

Athletic Director John Osborne told the board last week that there appears to be significant interest among students in implementing a soccer

Specifically, Osborne reported that 15 high school age boys and 10 high school age girls have expressed an interest in having a soccer team. In addition, he noted that 26 incoming freshmen boys and 15 incoming freshmen girls also have indicated an interest in having soccer offered as a high school sport.

Osborne also reported, however, that scheduling for the 1980 season may represent something of a problem. Schools in the Western Suburban Soccer League have already established next year's schedules and it is too late to apply for membership

Osborne indicated that Farmington and Northville still have room left on their schedules and that he will continue to set up games with teams which have openings for non-league competition.

Although Osborne recommended implementation of an interscholastic soccer program at the high school level, he did not recommend approval of a soccer program at the middle school level.

"I don't want to start a program at this time which will be in competition with the youth soccer program offered by the parks and recreation department," he explained.

Osborne also stated that it would be difficult to schedule games for a middle school squad since none of the schools in the Livingston-Oakland Athletic League presently field soccer teams for seventh and eighth graders.

However, Osborne did recommend that a crosscountry team be implemented at middle school south next year as a result of considerable interest among students. Except for soccer, cross-country was the sport which received the most interest among seventh and eighth graders, Osborne reported.

In response to Osborne's recommendations, Board President Ron Milam suggested that sixth graders at Middle School North be introduced to some sort of running program to prepare them for cross-country in the seventh and eighth grades.

Novi school board considers additional sports

If the school board decides to field a co-ed crosscountry team for seventh and eighth graders, Clarenceville will be the only school in the league which does not offer the sport.

Middle School South Principal Charles Nanas noted, however, that the future of middle school athletic programs may hinge on financial considerations. He said that the programs in both Walled Lake and Brighton are facing the prospect of elimination in the wake of serious financial pro-

· Questions to ask yourself.

"Where do I start?" To help you get off on the right track, here's a list of questions that can lead to a satisfying solution to your home decorating pleeds, one you can live with and enjoy for a

1. What kind of atmosphere do I wish to create? With the many styles of furniture available today, you can create a living environment that is formal or stately, casual or comfortable, ultramodern or something in between.

2. What kind of activity, or combination of activities, will take place in the room I'm about to decorate? Will it require furniture that can serve more than one function? For example, will my dining room be used strictly for formal dining on special occasions or will I use it for daily family meals or for other activities? Will my family or recreation room be used strictly for television viewing or do I plan to use it for weekly card parties or other leisure time entertainment or projects?

3. Have I determined what style of furniture is my favorite? Furniture styles range from period pieces to contemporary. You'll be living with the furniture you select for a long time to come, so make sure the style you select is one you really like and one that you feel comfortable with. To help you make this important decision, see page 8 for a special offer for a book that pictures and describes the many types and styles of furniture available to you today.

4. Have I given sufficient thought to the architecture of my rooms? This means looking at your room to see if there is a central focal point, such as a fireplace or window around which you plan to "build" your room. Other considerations include traffic patterns through the room or seating arrangements for conversational groupings of furniture.

What about Contemporary Furniture?

Each century has created its own "contemporary" design and style of furniture. The Twentieth Century is no exception.

Take, for example, today's requirement for additional storage space as rooms, homes, and apartments become smaller as a direct result of energy shortages which created the need to reduce heating and air conditioning costs as much as possible.

One direct result of this trend is that many pieces of furniture must often serve multiple purposes. For example, "hidden" storage space is now provided in headboards on beds. Wall space can now be used in ways that combine efficient storage with exciting, new decorating concepts.

Contemporary furniture also reflects another trend in our present-day life style, namely, our emphasis upon carefree and funfilled living. Thus, easy maintenance is one of the characteristics found in today's contemporary furniture.

Another social trend is the increasing mobility of our society. This, too, has been reflected in our living styles and in the furniture we live with. You'll find contemporary furniture that's built to allow for easy rearrangement to suit many entertaining or functional needs.

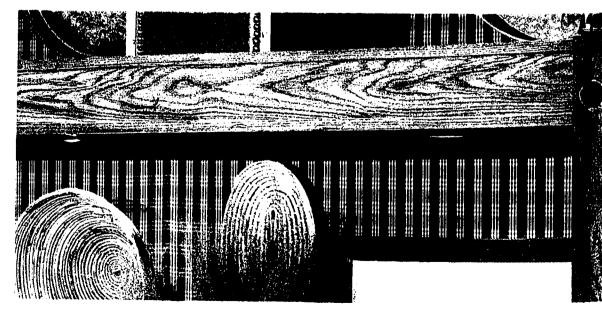

The use of casters, or lightweight design, allows for the easy rearrangement of everything from chairs to roll-around bars.

Built-in furniture mobility is one way to make maximum use of space and to even change the personality of a room in a mere matter of minutes and with minimum effort.

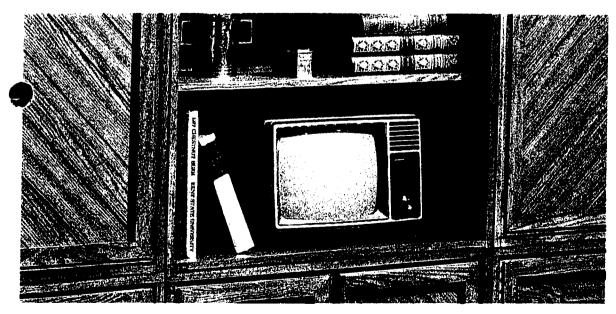

In terms of color and textures, contemporary furniture primarily uses real woods because of their inherent warmth and beauty. This use of natural materials is also applied to accessory fabrics such as linens, cottons and wools. In some cases, highly realistic facsimilies of these materials are produced from man-made materials but the overriding trend is toward the natural look.

The very best in contemporary furniture offers you a perfect blend of beauty, usefulness and convenience. And, above all else, real comfort and lasting value.

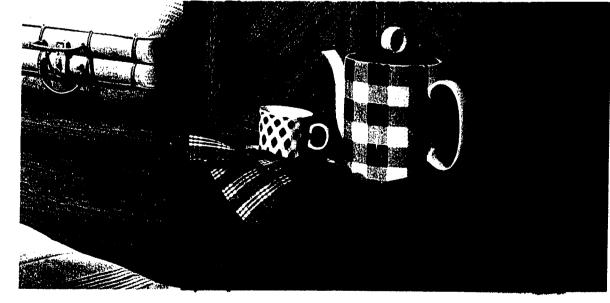

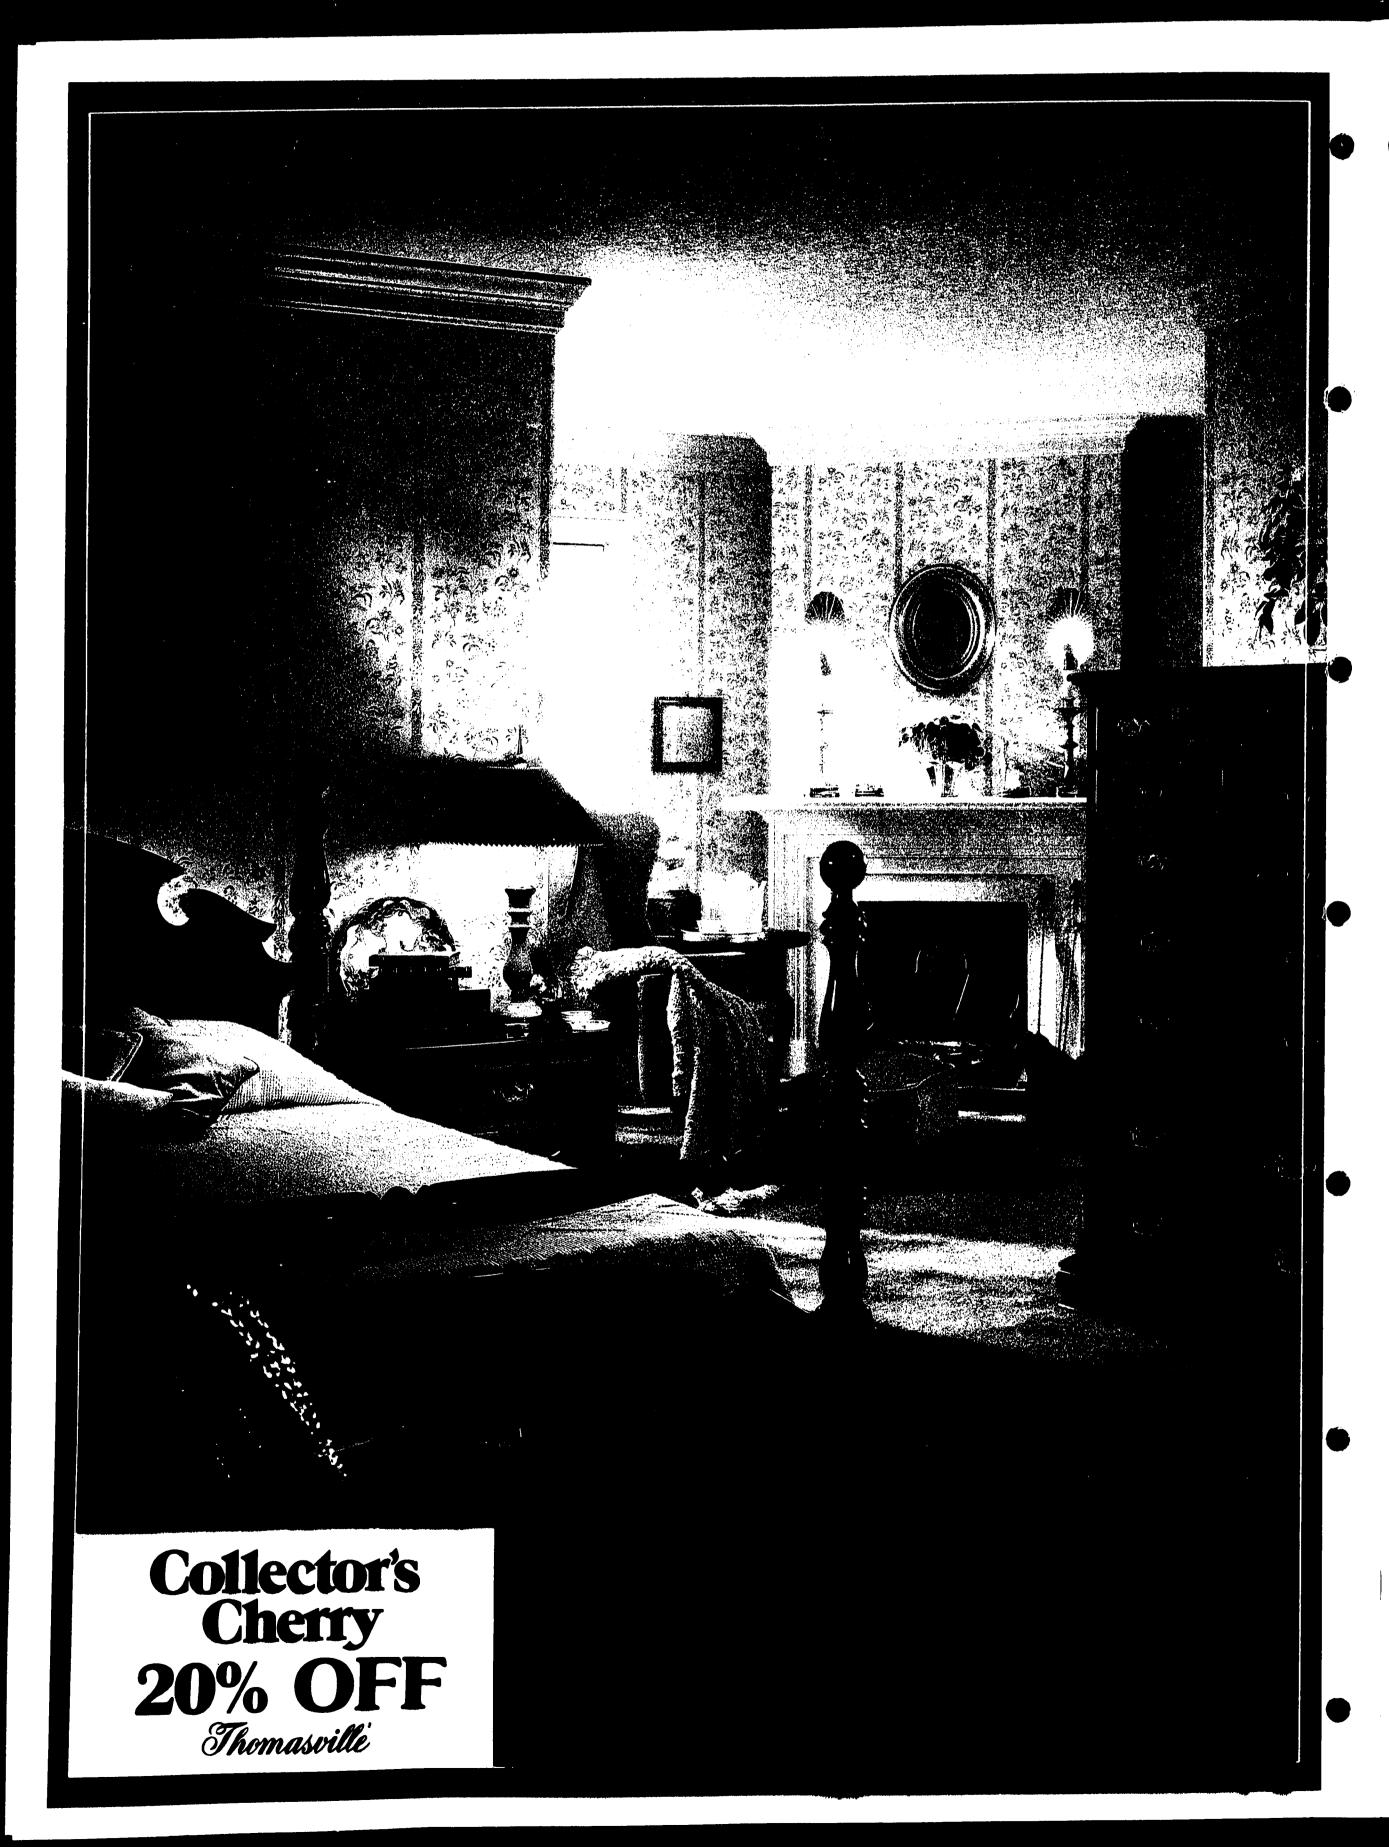

To complement the design of your modular bedroom group, this unique and functional light bridge is equipped with two recessed lights for reading, or to accent your favorite painting. A small light bridge functions equally as well over desk or small dresser base.

Flexibility is yours with these design-it-yourself wall units to accommodate your T.V., books and collectables. Add additional pen or closed units as your needs grow, or change about for a new and exciting look.

At your service—your own built-in butler—the newest idea in modular furnishings. A pull-out shelf to function as a table top server, a writing area, or a place to put a good book aside. When not needed, this handy shelf slips back into the wall unit completely out of sight.

Helpful Hints on Furniture Arrangement.

1. Look for a central focal point in the room. For example, a large picture window, a fireplace or, if the room is "just a room," use a large picture piece of furniture or an unusual accessory.

2. Large pieces of furniture can sometimes be a problem. Solve it by positioning them as closely as possible to walls. They'll take less space and enhance your overall room design.

3. Make small rooms appear larger by using only the furniture that's actually required. Select furniture with thin legs and a "lightweight" look.

Use all the available wall area for furniture to keep as much open floor space as possible.

4. Vary the height of your furniture to avoid monotony of design.

5. If the room is one that is frequently used, be aware of the paths people follow when walking through or around the room. Try to keep your furniture from obstructing these natural pathways.
