The search for a new superintendent of the Novi Schools appears to be over. The Novi Board of Education is expected to extend a formal contract offer 11. for the superintendent's post to Dr.

of Piwko should not be construed as a negative comment on any of the other candidates "especially Dr.Barr who ranked high in our consideration. But in evaluating the district as it stands today and where we want it to be five years from now, I support Dr. Piwko." Trustee Joan Daley said she supported Piwko as the strongest candidate with all necessary qualities for the position.

Trustee Ray Murphy concurred saying, "after many of these interviews we've agreed that these men would do a super job for someone else, solving different problems than we're experiencing. But as I see it Piwko seems to be the man for this district at this time."

Trustee Ruth Waldenmayer also agreed that "Piwko has what the district needs now."

"When we get to this point in the selection process the differences between the candidates are so fine anyone of them could work," said Trustee Robert Schram. "But after analyzing their credentials and meeting with each one, my gut feeling is Dr. Piwko fits in best."

Support also came from Trustee Sharon Pelchat. "I've elimimated two candidates in my mind who would not work well in this school district. But I agree Dr. Piwko could work well with all the staff. He seems like a warm, personable man."

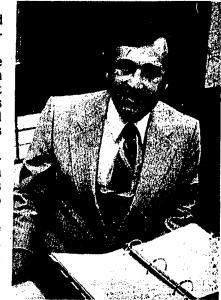

Board President Ron Milam said hiring Piwko offered the schools an opportunity to "really take advantage of the outside expertise this man has talked to us about. I was impressed by his earnestness and excitement about the

With those comments board members unanimously agreed in principle to seek the services of Dr. Piwko.

Piwko's experience includes nine years as Superintendent of Napoleon Community Schools — a school district with 1,800 students, 150 staff members and a $3 million budget. The school district in Jackson County includes Brooklyn, Michigan.

Piwko was an assistant superintendent in Ferndale from 1968-1971 and an elementary principal in Warren Woods School district from 1962-1968. He also was a teacher in that district.

Under Piwko's direction, the Napoleon School District has been recognized for its reading program and designated as a model school district in language arts. The district's curriculum was designated as an "ex-

Piwko's current school district generated glowing reports of the man who could be the next superintendent of the Novi Schools.

After agreeing in principle June 11 to seek Piwko's services, two board members - Sharon Pelchat and Ruth Waldenmayer — went the next day to visit the town and see what the locals thought about his work in the Napoleon School District.

Their visit began at 10:30 a.m. in Piwko's office, which as it turns out is located in a large, 100-year old house. be visiting around the district. He also introduced them to the central office

The superintendent took them to the high school and disappeared while Pelchat and Waldenmayer talked to the secretaries and principal there.

In the elementary schools, Pelchat said she and Waldenmayer were amazed to find such happy staffs. "They said they would be sorry to lose Dr. Piwko, and we didn't even solicit that type of comment," Pelchat reported.

Discussions with representatives of the Napoleon Education Association also were positive, Pelchat said.

Throughout the school district people praised the reading and adult education programs developed under Piwko's guidance.

"We talked to people in their 60s who haven't had kids in school for years, but they couldn't say enough good things about the community education program," Pelchat said.

"They were so aware and so happy about the school's program." Pelchat said. "The people off the street who had no idea of the politics of the schools and hiring a superintendent showed us they were very proud of their school district."

Assessment foe files for charter changes

Former Novi City Council Member Donald Young's campaign to prohibit special assessment districts to fund improvements on major and residential roads is reaching a conclusion.

Young has submitted petitions to the Novi city clerk requesting that his proposed charter amendments be placed on the November ballot.

Some 757 residents signed petitions proposing amendments to the city. charter provision which allows special assessments for improvements to mile roads, while 707 persons signed petitions for the amendment dealing with residential streets.

The city council is responsible for placing the questions on the ballot. The petitions then will be forwarded to the attorney general's office for routine approval of the language.

Under the current charter, the city council has the authority to "determine and declare by resolution that the whole or any part of the expense or public improvement, repair or abatement of nuisance shall be defrayed by special assessments upon the property specially benefited."

New language prohibiting such action would be added to the charter if voters approve Young's proposed amendments.

The second petition applies to maintenance of subdivision streets and states: "Those paved roads which have been accepted by the city and are maintained by the city and have been reported to and approved by the Michigan Department of State Highways for the purpose of Act 51 as amended, shall be maintained, repaired and improved without specially assessing any cost thereof to the residential property adjacent thereto." (Act 51 monies are state funds collected through gasoline taxes which revert to the local municipality based upon the community's population and the number of miles of major and local roads.)

City projects ballot issues for next six years

Novi voters could be asked to approve funding for issues ranging from construction of bridges over local C&O railroad crossings to a new city hall within the next six years if projections of the city manager prove accurate. Council members got a preliminary look at issues City Manager Edward Kriewall believes could come before them as they decide what financial questions should go on the ballot in vears to come.

There was no discussion or action taken on the manager's projected schedule of ballot issues.

"This is a long range view," said ty will be going to the voters at least Kriewall in outlining the capital imonce a year over the next six years askprovements program. "We're not looking for approval or acceptance of these issues or this schedule at this time. Each issue will be debated at length as the deadline for placing them on the ballot approaches." Kriewall explained Monday that his projections deal only with capital improvement projects since it is not known what affect tax relief proposals on this November's ballot will have on financing of city operations.

ballot issues to proceed as follows: a request for approval of a charter amendment allowing continuous levy of

Village Oaks good guys

Twenty-four first graders at Novi's Village Oaks Elementary School recently decided to make "learning books" for young patients at Botsford Hospital following a discussion on ilinesses. Every student contributed to the three books which dealt with numbers, the alphabet and dinosaurs. They did all the coloring and got only a tiny bit of help from their teacher, Dorothy Shook, in the drawing and cutting department.

Because the books had to be washable for health reasons, each page was laminated before being turned over to the hospital. The Novi youngsters also helped the Michigan Humane Society earlier this year by "hiring out" to their parents for a small salary. By "working" at home, the students pooled their paychecks and donated some $65 to the humane society.

Critics of the Walled Lake Schools probably will have a field day with the news that the district had a surplus of approximately $545,000 in its 1979-80 budget.

In case you don't remember, it was the projected deficit of some $1.7 million in the 1979-80 budget which led the school board to schedule three millage elec-tions last year — all of which were defeated by the voters.

The news that the district had a $545,000 surplus in its 1979-80 budget was presented to the school board by Assistant Superintendent for Business Harry Carlson at a special meeting Monday.

Carlson attributed the surplus to two primary factors: the record-high interest rates during 1979-80 which enabled the district to take in considerably more interest revenues than initially projected and the relatively mild winter which resulted in lower expenditures for plant operation and maintenance.

In the area of "earned interest," Carlson had projected that the Walled Lake Schools would realize revenues of $300.000 during 1979-80. The figure apparently was conservatively based on "earned interest" revenues of $311,000 during the 1978-79

Carlson now anticipates that the Walled Lake Schools will realize total "earned interest" of some $460,000 during 1979-80 — an revenues will be lower next year increase of $160,000 over the as interest rates continue to originally-budgeted figures. The other major factor in the

All told, the $160,000 increase in "earned interest" revenues and the $217,000 savings in plant operations and maintenance ticipated $545,000 surplus in the well be dangerous.

Although there may be those who will seize upon the news of the surplus in the 1979-80 budget to impugn the credibility of the school district, a closer inspection would indicate that such criticism is unfounded.

It should be remembered that the school board last year eliminated some $1.7 million in expenditures to balance the 1979-80 budget. Even with the $545,000 surplus, the district would have

Further, the fund equity of $751,000 at the start of the 1979-80 fiscal year would not have been sufficient to cover the $1.15 million deficit, and the Walled Lake School District would now

We cannot fault that logic. At the same time, however, we perceive a real danger in the course of action which the school board has prescribed.

Carlson said his projection of an $877,000 deficit in 1980-81 is levels presently proposed.

The first to come our way, the blondie who grew up to write secret verse, took special delight in teasing. She put her secrets in paper sacks and then deliberately placed them on the table in front of her father. "It's a secret and don't you dare open it."

Dark eyes, the second to bless our house, especially liked to hint. "Somewhere in this house is something you don't know. It's big, but not so big. It doesn't tick but it makes a sound. Don't look in the closet."

And then along came the ugly duckling who soon became Miss Beautiful. Her forte was suspense. Only her furtive glances, her hiding behind the bedroom door suggested a secret was in the making. Not until the hour was almost at hand and her daddy worried did she say shyly, "Here, it's a secret; open it."

The last little girl, who came into our home to be told by her brothers "phooey..we wanted Daniel Boone but you're a girl so you get his wife's name," inches upward by the hour now and soon, sadly, will not be lit-tle. So her "I've got a secret," perhaps the last, was savored by her father.

"What is it?" I asked.

Elephant tree

"If I told you it wouldn't be a secret, would it?" she replied, her hands on her hips. "So, Mr. Hoffman, will not tell you."

Later, as she labored over the paper at the table next to her father and his typewriter, he caught a glimpse of some expertly drawn hearts.

I've got a secret. It will be mine forever. The home-made, school-made ones...the ones with hearts and stars and stick people and three word sentences...are the best.

Wixom council votes not to enact proposed 'beautification' ordinances

Efforts by Wixom Council Member Nancy Dingeldey to get the council to adopt "beautification" ordinances didn't get very far last week.

Specifically, Dingeldey asked her adoption of three ordinances - a junk car ordinance, an ordinance for maintenance of residential property and an ordinance for maintenance of commercial property.

But the rest of the council, after expressing support for the sentiment. voted 4-1 to table consideration of the ordinances. The lone dissenting ballot was cast by Dingeldey.
And Council Member Gunnar Mettala said the ordinances can stay "tabled for good," as far as he was concerned. the purpose was to give the city a tool to control what it looks like. "Twenty years ago when the commercial property in the city was owned and operated by people who lived here, it was kept in a condition which did something for the appearance of the town," said Dingeldey. "But most of our businesses are now owned by people who don't live here and don't work here," she continued. "They really don't pay much attention to the appearance of their property and it brings down the appearance of the en-

Dingeldey added that she was not atempting to imply that the existing property owners are negligent in maintaining their property, but that absentee ownership could create aesthetic problems as the city continues to grow.

Under the residential property or-dinance presented by Dingeldey, the owners of residential properties would have been required to maintain the exteriors of their buildings "so as to present a neat and orderly appearance. The ordinance stated further that "windows shall be glazed, painted surfaces kept properly painted and all other appropriate measures taken to properly maintain the building." Additionally, the proposed residential property ordinance would have required property owners to install and maintain landscaping, keep shrubs appropriately trimmed and store not to create a nuisance."

Under the commercial property ordinance, owners of buildings would have been required to maintain their properties "so as to present a neat and orderly appearance.'

Additionally, the proposed commercial properties ordinance contained provisions requiring parking lots to have a "permanent durable and dustless surface." install and maintain landscaing on all areas not occupied by buildings, and store "junk, trash, rubbish or refuse of any kind" in a completely enclosed building. City Attorney Harold Bulgarelli comFor example, Bulgarelli said he has informed Building Inspector William Tyler of existing prohibitions against dinances governing several of the items

in the ordinances proposed by storage of "inoperable automobiles," and that Tyler is presently issuing citations for alleged violations. Bulgarelli also questioned the enforceability of the ordinances proposed by Dingeldey, saying he felt it was impossible to define what was meant by "a neat and orderly appearance." Additional opposition to the proposed "beautification" ordinances was expressed by Council Members Dennis Indrews and Gunnar Mettala.

Andrews expressed concerns about the possible vagueness of the definianother man's treasure." Mettala maintained that the city "cannot legislate beauty" and said he was opposed to adopting "nuisance" or-Council Member William Wyllie commented that he felt the sentiment was good, but that it would be difficult to define the standards and the ordinances could not be enforced as written.

"I think the goals are admirable, but there have to be other ways to accomplish them," stated Wyllie. The council subsequently voted 4-1 to table consideration of the ordinances with the lone dissenting vote being cast

Commerce library committee gearing for millage campaign

Commerce Township's Library Millage Committee has announced plans to sponsor a poster contest. as part of its promotional efforts to secure voter approval of the millage, according to committee Chairperson Rusty Rosman

Details on this poster contest and other ideas to aid in informing residents of the millage election will be discussed at the committee's meeting tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. in Commerce

Contest prizes of $10 each will be awarded in four different categories, ranging from pre-school to high school, Rosman said. The division of the categories has not yet been determined, she added. The millage proposal scheduled for the November ballot will ask voters to decide on a possible .3 of a mill levy. The cost would equate to $9 a year per homeowner, according to Rosman. Passage of the proposal will permit township residents to use the libraries in three adjoining communities: Walled Lake, Milford and West Bloomfield, for the Commerce Township residents Township residents have not had access to the West Bloomfield libraries since 1976.

According to a "fact sheet" issued by the committee, both Walled Lake and Milford's member ship in the Wayne-Oakland Library Federation will be jeopardized if Commerce Township does not pay an amount equal to .3 for the library service. As it presently stands, township residents will lose library service in both Walled Lake and Milford at the end of the calendar year if the millage proposal is not approved.

Areas of prime interest to be represented will include Egyptian offerings, Medieval influence, Greek coin adornment and modern day jewelry as an integral part of fashion and futuristic uses of gold.

Twelve Oaks Mall is located on Novi Road, north of I-96. The closest entrance to the Center Court where the show will be held is at the east side of the mall.

RIZZO REALTY, Inc., Gallery of Homes came within $400 of matching its near record setting March sales of $1.4 million during the month of May, according to company president, Anthony V. Rizzo, who said that the sales volume dipped slightly in April but the March-April-May volume averaged more than $1.1 million per month.

"Our goal in January when we affiliated with the Gallery of Homes organization was to stimulate our residential business to a higher productivity." said Rizzo.

"We had been recognized as a leader in vacant land sales over the years, but more by accident than design we found residential sales comprising a larger and larger share of our total volume. Unfortunately, the public was not aware of this and still seemed to view us as primarily vacant land specialists. But in less than six months of this year, we have become as strong in residential sales as we have been in vacant land sales. More importantly, it is very apparent that the public has become aware of this, considering the high volume of selfgenerating, unsolicited business which approaches us both from within the community and from the transferee market."

Rizzo said that plans for opening a second office in the fall are progressing on schedule and active recruitment for that office will begin
