Van driver dies in train collision

A 52-year-old Detroit man was killed Thursday when the van he was driving was struck by a train engine at the C&O railroad crossing on Novi Road. David J. Miller of Detroit was pronounced dead at Boisford Hospital approximately two hours after the accident occurred.

According to police reports, Miller was driving a van owned by Michigan Tractor southbound on Novi Road. He failed to stop for the railroad crossing signals and was struck by the northbound train.

"Witnesses said the driver was trying to stop, he wasn't trying to beat the train, but he stopped too close to the train," said investigating officer Thomas Hesse of the Novi Police Department.

Hesse said it is not known at this time what caused the van to slide into the train.

Hesse indicated there "possibly was slush on the road, but it wouldn't have prevented a normal car from stopping." He added that an investigator is being called in to examine the brakes on the vehicle.

After being hit by the train, the van spun clockwise approximately 270 degrees and knocked down approximately 30 feet of guard rail. A C&O railroad signal also was struck, according to police.

The van came to rest on its left side, approximately 20 feet west of Novi Road, on the north side of the railroad tracks.

Hesse went on to say that the C&O engineer "did everything properly." Hesse said the train was traveling at approximately 35 miles an hour and sounding its horn.

Lights at the crossing also were working properly, he added. Hesse stated that the accident still is under investigation.

Cities to decide cable franchise

Metrovision, Inc., has presented the strongest of three proposals to provide cable television services and its offer represents the "best buy" for Novi, Farmington and Farmington Hills, according to cable consultants hired by the three communities.

A resolution of intent to award the three-community franchise to Metrovision was to be considered by city council members of the three communities at a public meeting Tuesday, after The News deadline.

"The committee feels strongly enough to recommend a resolution pushing this to the next step," Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall told the council Monday.

Should the three councils approve the resolution, Kriewall said the cable committee will sit down with the recommended company and develop a franchise agreement.

That agreement would reflect the services the company has said it would offer to the community.

"We need to stipulate the things they said they would offer to cover all the bases and make sure there is no misunderstanding between what they will offer and what we will receive," Kriewall said.

The franchise agreement will be incorporated into an ordinance which will be submitted to each of the respective councils for their consideration.

Kriewall said he expects the process to take approximately 30 days.

The three cities banded together more than a year ago to research cable television in hopes of developing a unified system for the area and provide more reasonable rates for subscribers than either of the communities working individually could have received.

In the recommendation from Cable Television Information Center Associates released Friday the cable consultants note "each of the company's proposals could well serve the three cities."

Besides Metrovision, Omnicom and United Netherlander have bid on the franchise to serve the three communities.

The consultants say in their report that the evaluation is based on the technical aspects of the systems proposed by the three bidders and the respective city councils will have to "make their own judgements" regarding each company's responsiveness to community needs. The councils also must weigh "the desirability of various company's ownership structures and overall attitudes reflected by the applicants during the franchising process."

Metrovision represents the "best buy" because it "demonstrates good overall engineering design and which provides considerable diversity in programming and services — including local origination and access — for the Building follows mid-year trends

By KATHY JENNINGS

As Novi's residential construction figures were going from bad to worse, trends for commercial development seen at mid-year continued — it hit new peaks.

Figures show there were just 35 residential building permits issued during 1981. Meanwhile, there were 25 construction permits pulled for commercial developments, compared to 18 businesses which took out building permits in 1980.

As Novi has experienced, commercial activity was the high point of the construction industry in 1981. Large new industrial projects, but no new subdivisions, has generally been the rule across the metropolitan area, according to Joseph Neusen-dorfer, director of public relations for the Builders Exchange.

In Novi three apartment buildings were started in July, a permit for a hotel was pulled in September and permits for three condominium buildings were taken out in October.

It was a different story for residential development. The 35 residential construction permits issued last year represent approximately one-third of those issued in 1980 — a year when residential building hit a five-year low.

At the beginning of 1981, City Manager Edward Kriewall predicted approximately 100 houses would be started in Novi, and he thought he was being realistic. When the economy did not rebound, he revised his estimate down to 50 at mid-year. But the state's continued economic slump and high interest rates doomed residential construction as year-end figures did not meet even his revised estimates.

When construction was booming, going back to 1975, housing starts hovered around 250 per year in Novi. They dipped in 1977 when 176 building permits were issued. After the first quarter of 1980 residential building started a nosedive which continued into 1981.

Promoting Novi:

...with pins, and stickers, and shirts, and ...

By KATHY JENNINGS

If it's good enough for Don Canham, it's good enough for Ed Kriewall.

Novi's city manager has not yet hooked Slippery Rock to play ball in Power Park, but he has launched an aggressive campaign to promote Novi that would get the attention of even the U-M athletic director.

Around town the effects of the program can be seen in Novi T-shirts, Novi sweatshirts, Novi pins, Novi cubes or Novi blazers. They are all part of the community promotion campaign.

"What we're doing is trying to promote community pride," Kriewall said. "There are Novi residents who are proud of their community and their schools. The schools have Wildcat jackets and bumper stickers, but you rarely see the city's banner being flown."

To remedy that situation, the city began its own promotion approximately nine months ago.

The first step was development of a city pin: a round disk bearing the city emblem. "We gave them out on city government days to visiting officials and members of our boards and commissions," Kriewall said. "They were well received and we found people were proud to wear them."

With the good reception received by the pins, it was decided something should be made available to everyone who was proud of Novi and wanted to tell people about it. The idea of a city T-shirt was born.

"When you go to Florida or California you see Laguna Beach T-shirts or Palm Springs shirts," said Kriewall. "It's the same idea. We asked Margie Sroka to develop a T-shirt symbol that would be attractive. It's a train that represents the Novi progress train. Hidden in the billowing steam are things found around Novi — school campuses represented by three flags, a soccer player and buildings."

Kriewall said the shirts have been a big seller. "We've sold over 200 T-shirts and we're into our third order. People liked them, but said the weather was getting cold and suggested it would be great to have a sweatshirt to promote the city, too."

Sroka's services were called on again to draft a smaller logo that would fit on the sweatshirt.

Sixty sweatshirts ordered and, Kriewall said, "we've sold 20 already — they're in demand."

As the city promotion campaign progresses Kriewall plans to include the Novi Special race car — the car that dominated the Indianapolis 500 with track-breaking records for 17 years.

"We'll be retracing the history and weaving the car into the promotion program — we're trying to build community interest in the Novi Special," Kriewall said.

The car will soon show up as a small stick-on patch which can be given out by local businesses and city officials. Also in the works are plans to develop a sport shirt with a race car, placed like an Izod alligator, Kriewall said. If enough interest in the car can be generated the city might pursue buying one of the original Novi Specials, Kriewall continued.

As another part of the "Novi-awareness" program the city purchased 15 blazers (for six council members, eight department heads and Kriewall) on sale for approximately $40 each. City officials wear the blazers when they represent Novi at meetings, conferences and official functions.

"It's all part of a planned program to get Novi's name out," Kriewall said. "Selling Novi is what it's all about. It brings community identity into focus and fosters pride."

Kriewall said all the Novi paraphernalia is sold at cost, and most of the community promotion items pay for themselves as they are purchased. The city also budgeted $5,000 for community promotion last year to cover parts of the program which are not self-supporting.

T-shirts are sold for $3.50 for children sizes and $3.75 for adults. Sweatshirts are $8.25, patches will be sold for $1.25 and pins cost $1. They are on sale at Novi City Hall from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

City Manager Edward Kriewall, Margie Sroka, and Judy Burnham show off the city's wares.

Arson details sought

It now appears that fire damage to the apartments under construction behind the A&P Plaza on Ten Mile will be closer to $275,000 than the original estimates of $70,000, according to Novi Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan.

The building at 41650 Manor Park Drive went up in flames on New Years Eve. Eight units in the 16-unit building burned in the blaze.

Investigation by the Oakland County Sheriff Department's arson squad, Novi police and fire officials has determined that the fire was "incendiary in nature." It was, in fact, an arson, explained Captain Richard Faulkner of the Novi Police Department.

Original damage estimates at the scene were low since it was not known at the time that it would be necessary to replace "a lot of the structural members," Lenaghan said. Insurance adjusters have since examined the building and placed the estimated damage at the higher figure, he indicated.

Lenaghan said investigation of the fire, which is suspected to be arson, is continuing. He indicated there are no leads at this time as to who might have set the blaze.

Police are requesting that anyone with information regarding the incident call the department at 348-7100. A reward of up to $2,000 will be awarded to persons with information leading to the arrest and conviction of the individual or individuals involved in the incident.

Resident protest delays interconnection

By STEPHEN CVENGROS

The first phase of a citywide water system in Wixom was delayed once again, this time until February 23. A public hearing will be conducted on that date during a regular Wixom City Council meeting in another attempt to reach a decision.

Estates. The Palmer Ridge-Northridge well, it was noted by both city officials and Hidden Creek residents, "has a problem." Residents argued with council for more than an hour about the inadequacies of the well it would be interconnected with, and questioned whether that combining of systems was to improve the poorer well.

"We just don't want to support another subdivision. That's the county's responsibility." — Edward Dewar, President Hidden Creek Homeowners

"We don't want to see our neighbors burnt out of their homes," Dewar observed. "An engineer in Oakland County said it would take two days to bring Northridge up to what we (Hidden Creek) are."

Novi records gains in commercial development

Continued from Novi, 1 In the past year Novi's biggest month for residential building, relatively speaking, was between March and April when nine building permits were issued. Five permits were issued between April and May, and four residential building permits were issued between May and June.

"As those areas develop it should create more demand for housing for those employed in those facilities," Pink said. "Novi has the potential to be more active than other communities." Similar conditions in the housing construction market as those experienced in 1981 are expected to continue for at least six months.

Joyest reasonable cost to the subscriber," according to the consultants.

"Of the seven most important engineering areas, Metrovision received the highest ranking in all seven categories," the report continued.

Subscriber coverage, channel capacity, signal reception and origination, performance, maintenance and repairs, reliability and institutional network capacity were judged the seven most important engineering categories.

The company also will offer the service to more residents within 18 months than the other two bidders, the consultants say.

Regarding rates, Metrovision has said it will offer basic service — 21 channels for $2.45 monthly. On the second level of service Metrovision has said it will offer 30 channels for $5.45. Level three has 48 channels for $7.25. On the fourth and fifth level charges would run $9.95 and $11.95. There are five pay services available on the second level and seven on the third level.

The company has also indicated it will provide a studio and mobile production van for local origination program production. Studio equipment packages for each unit of government and a studio package for the Novi Schools also are included.

Metrovision has said it will lay 263 miles of cable through the three communities. Omnicon said it would lay 359 miles of cable and United Nederland stated 321 miles would be provided.

The consultant's report further states: "Considering all aspects of the technical proposals, their content completeness and clarity, it remains our conclusion that Metrovision and United Nederland offer better technical plans than Omnicon. Moreover, Metrovision secured the highest ranking due to the strong showing in all of the categories."

Members of the Novi, Farmington and Farmington Hills councils were to review the cable consultant's recommendation Tuesday.

They were also to hear reports from the consultants and the cable television committee made up of representatives of the councils which has worked closely with the consultants.

The resolution of intent to award the franchise will be introduced following the public hearing.

Shrubs stolen while owners away from home

In Novi

Six shrubs were stolen from the front of a home of Buckminster and graffiti on the siding in what appears to be the latest in repeated attacks on homes in the Cedar Springs subdivision. It is unknown when the incident occurred because the family has been away from home, but police said the malicious destruction may be related to incidents reported earlier by neighbors.

The home owner reported a television antenna worth $180 and a screen from the family room doorwall also were stolen.

Some 650 fiber-optic lights worth $37.50 each were stolen from Poolman, Inc., 22795 Haslip Drive. Employees told police the theft of approximately $24,000 worth of lights was discovered while the company was conducting inventory.

There was no sign of forced entry and employees said the lights could not have been accidentally thrown away, according to police.

Approximately $1,000 worth of goods were stolen from a home in the 4000 block of Twelve Mile.

A hunting bow worth $165, a $135 camera, a rifle worth $74 and $300 cash was stolen.

The owners told police the incident occurred while they were sleeping in the home. The rear door of the home had been locked, but the owners found it unlocked.

Five batteries, a hydraulic jack and an undetermined amount of gasoline were reportedly stolen from vehicles parked in the lot of B&R Construction, 40469 Eleven Mile. The items stolen were worth a total of $390, police reported. Tracks from a person wearing "moon boots" were found in the area.

A 1976 Dodge Truck worth approximately $3,300 was reportedly stolen from the parking lot of 2283 Woodway. The owner reported the vehicle had been locked.

A car radio was thrown through the window of Hallmark Cards Printers, 4001 Grand River. A plate glass window worth $150 was broken in the act of malicious destruction.

A rotating light used by volunteer firefighters was stolen from a 1978 pickup on January 8. The vehicle was parked and left unattended. The owner said the light was stolen when the vent window was pried open.

In Wixom

The January 11 fire that destroyed a portion of one building at the Village Apartments was apparently accidental although the exact cause of the blaze still has not been determined, according to Bruce Kirby, a Wixom police officer and fire investigator.

"It is the opinion of this officer that the fire was accidental in nature and not deliberately, intentionally or maliciously set," Kirby said in a report detailing the events preceding the fire.

According to Kirby's report, the fire apparently began in the third-floor apartment of Debra Kruehl, who avoided injury from the blaze by jumping off her balcony into the arms of an unidentified man.

Kruehl told Kirby she had done her laundry and housecleaning the night before the fire and went to bed at around 9:45 p.m.

Kruehl said she recalled being awakened early in the morning, sometime after 5 a.m., by what sounded like a lightbulb popping, according to the report.

Noticing a light outside her room, Kruehl wondered if her sister had come home that night instead of staying with their mother as planned, and got up to check, Kirby said.

When Kruehl walked out of her bedroom, she noticed a little smoke in the hallway leading to the living room, and spotted a column of fire about six inches wide climbing up the wall to the ceiling in the living room, the report said.

Kruehl said she tried to open the apartment door but was unable to, and then ran out to the balcony to get breath of fresh air, Kirby said. The woman again tried to open the door in the living room but failed.

By that time, the report said, the living room had filled up with smoke and the fire was starting to spread, so Kruehl stood on her balcony and called for help. A man ran over toward her apartment and caught her as she jumped off the balcony, Kruehl told the fire investigator.

Kruehl told police she was not injured except for several blisters on her hands.

Judge delays vote empt from annexation. Township officials attempted to help push through legislation in the state Senate and House of Representatives calling for a referendum on whether the square mile of land on Walled Lake's western edge should go to the city or remain with Commerce.

Commerce will be deciding this year by voters within the affected area and the balance of the township.

However, a second request by Walled Lake for another part of the township could not be overruled by a referendum vote if the boundary commission decides to give the area — which includes Williams Research — to the city because fewer than 100 residents live within those boundaries.

In its suit, Commerce contends that the boundary commission acted in excess of its legal jurisdiction because the township does not meet all requirements for annexation exemption. Key to that argument is the commission's decision that Commerce does not supply water and sewer service to a substantial portion of township residents.

Commerce officials say they are required to provide either water or sewer service, but not both, to residents. They also maintain that state law does not say the services must be provided to a substantial number of residents, only that Commerce must offer some service.

"I think we should be successful," Long said. "I think we meet the requirements for exemption (from annexation)."

Word on CDBG funding came somewhat unexpectedly because "there was a great amount of uncertainty this year because of the change in administrations in Washington relative to the pure existence of the Community Development Block Grant Development."

Dorman added, "It appears now that the CDBG program will be salvaged by the new administration."

The city's second public hearing regarding the funding will likely be February 2.

St. William's offers adult ed seminars

The winter session of religious education classes at St. William's Catholic Church in Walled Lake is set to begin the week of January 24. Area residents are invited to participate in the workshops, which are open to non-Catholics and members of other area churches as well as parishioners of St. William's.

Two sessions have been scheduled; the first group of courses begins next week and runs through February 18, while the second session is slated for February 28-March 25.

Class offerings during the first session include "Marriage Today: Sacrament, Sexuality, Spices Seniority," which will be offered Sundays from 10:30 a.m. to noon. Reverend Mr. Frank Mulligan, a deacon for the Archdiocese of Detroit, will teach the seminar.

"The Gospel of John" will be taught by Reverend John Zenz, a professor at Sacred Heart Seminary, Tuesdays from 7-8:30 p.m. Sister Joyce DeShano of St. Claire Health Services will teach living with sickness, death, loss, grief, aging and change on Wednesdays from 7-8 p.m.

Reverend Leo Broderick, pastor of St. William's, will teach the fundamentals of the Catholic faith Wednesdays from 7-8 p.m. That course also will be offered by Broderick at the same time during the second session.

On Thursdays, Reverend Gerry Bechar, assistant pastor of St. William's, will lead discussions on "Egypt and Israel: A Modern Pilgrimage" from 6-8:30 p.m. and Reverend Jim Bjorn, assistant pastor of Detroit's St. Agatha Church, will teach a course at the same time on how to live with teenagers.

During the second session, Mary Lou Van Antwerp will lead a course on teaching religion at home and at school on Sundays from 10:30 a.m. to noon. Van Antwerp is a teacher at Holy Family School in Rochester.

Zenz will teach "Conscience Formation" on Tuesdays from 7-8 p.m. and Reverend Jim Mayworm of St. Andrew's Church in Rochester will teach "Parent to Parent Relationships" on Wednesdays from 7-8 p.m.

For more information on any of the classes or to register for courses, call St. William's Parish Center, 624-1371.

Walled Lake to hold free swims

The swimming pool at Walled Lake Western High School will be opened January 25. And all residents of the Walled Lake School District have been invited to participate in free "Test the Water" nights next Tuesday and Wednesday (January 26 and 27) from 6-9 p.m.

"It's our way of saying 'thanks' to the people who helped us raise the money to re-open the pool," said Ann Shelly, fund-raising chairman of the Walled Lake Pool Study Committee.

The free "Test the Water" nights also have another function — to encourage people to participate in the Community Education Department's swimming programs. The Pool Committee's fund-raising drive to re-open the pool is only half the battle. The second half involves encouraging participation in the community-ed swim programs to raise the funds to keep the pool in operation.

The community ed department's swim program will offer lessons all the way from aqua-babies to scuba diving and springboard diving. There also are special classes for adults and for the handicapped.

Instructors will be present during the "Test the Water" nights to help decide which classes to sign up for.

Additionally, those not interested in swim lessons may be interested in the Flying Dolphins swim club or recreational swim nights every Tuesday from 8-9:30 p.m. and every Friday from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

The pool also can be rented for birthday pool parties or by clubs and organizations. For more information about pool activities call the community ed office at 624-0202 or pick up a brochure which lists all the swim programs.

The decision to re-open the pool was reached by a narrow 4-3 vote of the Walled Lake Board of Education at its January 11 meeting.

Impetus for re-opening the pool Western was provided by Merlin Reed, an unsuccessful candidate for the school board in the June election. Reed proposed formation of a citizens' pool study committee. The board subsequently formed the committee which set out to raise $10,000 to fund the cost of repairing and re-opening the facility.

Shelly reported that the group has raised more than $9,000 so far and has one more fund-raising project, a volleyball marathon by Walled Lake Central students, slated for March.

Shelly also noted that the Slenderella Mini-spa on South Commerce in Walled Lake has donated $5 to the pool committee for every new membership through January 15 if the new member displayed a "Pool Power" or "Go, Go H-2-O" button at the time of enrollment.

Although the $9,000 raised so far is short of the $10,000 goal, Auxiliary Services Director Nelson O'Shaughnessy said the cost of repairing the pool will be less than $3,000. Repair costs initially had been estimated at $5,000.

Concerns about re-opening the pool centered on the possibility that it will not be self-supporting and it may be necessary to dig into general fund revenues to cover any deficits.

On a related matter, Superintendent Don Sheldon said there are no plans at the present time to institute the brown-proofing program or interscholastic competition in the pool.

"We will operate any and all of the programs we've previously offered when we have the money," Sheldon explained, "but we don't have the money right now and we might not have it for a couple of years."

Board members subsequently voted 4-3 to re-open the pool January 25 contingent on approval of the Oakland County Department of Public Health.

Fish project progresses

The Wolverine Lake village council has allocated $200 to purchase supplies to construct a barrier in the first phase of the village's fish stocking program.

Several thousand northern pike are slated to find new homes in Wolverine Lake this spring as part of a fish stocking program being run by the Department of Natural Resources.

Council Member Ed Sienkiewicz, who is coordinating the project, asked last week for $200 from a total of $2,000 in Federal Revenue Sharing Funds earmarked for the fish stocking program in order to block off a small inlet off Ventura Drive in Wolverine Lake.

A barrier of wood and plastic sheeting will be dropped in through the ice, Sienkiewicz said, to be followed by a small amount of chemicals needed to stun large fish in the inlet. Representatives from the DNR will add chemicals to the water, Sienkiewicz said. The chemical should drive larger fish to another area of the lake, leaving the inlet free of predators when the tiny northern pike are introduced to the lake this spring before the ice thaws.

While the fish stocking project originally involved introducing one-half million fish into Wolverine Lake, the program has been scaled down somewhat as a precaution against harming the fish during future drawdowns of the lake's water level.

Sienkiewicz is still looking for volunteers to help install the barrier. So far no date has been set for the work, but Sienkiewicz says he hopes to begin construction in January, probably on a Saturday or Sunday.

To volunteer, call the village offices, 624-1710.

Airport put on high-tech list

technology throughout the area," the governor's aide said.

The development of Spencer Airport could have some influence on the area's viability for consideration, Law noted. Businesses surveyed have expressed transportation needs among their higher priorities.

"I would put it to you this way — we've done some studies," Law continued. "Transportation is clearly an important part...the ability to get a product in and out."

"It's one criteria...it's not the only criteria."

Among the state's first steps in determining placement of the high-tech park in Michigan for electronic manufacturing will be assembling "internationally-known people to put together an institute."

Law said an industrial technology institute is filing for tax exempt status so that it "can begin the process of trying to attract" those people, who would conduct a study regarding placement.

"It's a high priority. It is on the front burner," Law said. "The effort is purely a technical one — surveying sites whether they be developed or undeveloped."

Whatever comparability that is done, the state official continued, will be based on information that is put together by the group.

A local survey is continuing to gain positive response indicating that at least 30 flights will either land or depart from the airport daily if the proposed expansion is undertaken. Those figures must be gathered for full support of Michigan's Department of Transportation and its aeronautics division. Failure to obtain the needed total could jeopardize the state's involvement and possibly the $10,000 allocation earmarked for the expansion study.

Wycom Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczek said Tuesday that "things were progressing well on the survey" after a slow start.

"We're very close to receiving 500 responses," he added. "And we plan on documenting more than 500 to make sure we qualify when they're reviewed by the FAA."

The search for a planning consultant has narrowed to four firms after eight of nine firms approached expressed interest. Bonczek speculated that one firm would be selected by Monday, and Lyon and Wycom would be able to enter into a joint contract with the consultant after that date.

Corrections

Comments regarding the intent of the Novi zoning ordinance as applied to development in the regional center on the west side of Novi Road across from Twelve Oaks incorrectly were attributed to Council Member Robert Shaw in the January 13 edition of The News.

The comments should have been attributed to Council Member James Shaw. A story on pinball arcades in the January 13 edition of The Novi-Walled Lake News inadvertently omitted Wizards in a listing of Walled Lake arcades. Located in Maple Plaza, Wizards has been open for over a year, according to its owner, Russ Carter.

Western Union is still delivering

Another staffer, Linda McMillan, who puts together the Warrior pack (profiles of top students in athletics, academics, performing arts etc.) observes, "I think that we have something for everybody in this paper. I think almost everybody reads the Warrior page...I think it's accepted pretty good."

"This is the first year it seems to be looking up a bit," Mary Schudl, Editor-in-Chief, pinpoints students' perception of the paper. And she says about teachers' concern for The Western Union, "They appreciate it."

But not all believe their reception is positive.

"I think a lot of people don't like it. Don't want to give it a chance," Editorial Assistant Editor Laura Machesky says. "For some people it's too intellectual...They'd rather take their quarter and buy an ice cream."

The lowest point of his entire tenure, according to Bond, was the transitional period of the publication when he began.

"I was new to teaching, new to coaching a staff. I had to put out a product and that was pressure," Bond adds. "I did all the rewriting."

But changes came with experience. And an after-school visit from another faculty member that caught Bond reworking students' stories proved memorable.

"A teacher came in one day and said, 'Doug, you're rewriting the articles for them, if they're not rewriting their own.'"

The realization of his role as advisor, perhaps emerged most from that conversation.

Bond has not been without his moments of quote-unquote censorship.

Several years back, a controversy developed when the newspaper advisor and newspaper editor Gayle Jess did not see eye-to-eye on a particular story that was to run in the paper.

When Bond took over the program, he sought to get more accidentally-inclined students involved. Previously, "any kid that signed up got in" to the class, Bond explains.

"After the first year, I have been realizing I was going to have to recruit. I was getting students with sixth-seventh grade writing and reading skills at best," he says.

"But times have changed and so have the abilities of the newspaper staff."

"That's not true today," Bond relates, "because I have sifted through the students."

Many staffers admitted to having had Bond as an instructor in a previous class. For a good number of them Imaginative Writing was an invitation to Journalism.

Bond describes the attitude of the class as "positive and unified."

"One thing I'll say about the newspaper class is I have found the loyalty and dedication is unsurpassed," he notes. "They have every bit as much a team view of themselves as an athletic team."

"It kind of perks me up — the newspaper," Sports Editor Eric Barnard explains. "It's kind of like a big family. In a sense, it kind of brings you

Not every student that picks up an Exaco ends in Western Journalism class knie up or even proposes to end typing on an electronic gadget and reporting news events as an occupation. But several of Bond's pupils have gone and pursued journalism beyond high school.

"I have been several people. A number of students that have gone on and that's pleased me."

"One of the abstract things that the course teaches is leadership," Bond adds, and refers to the advantages of peer leadership.

"I guess it's difficult as a class leader to keep everyone organized," Schudl adds. "I'm a student trying to get students to meet their deadlines...When I'm pushy then it can be kind of difficult."

"The newspaper promotes perseverance. They become addicted to it. They don't have that regimented approach," Schudl's advisor continues.

"I let the editor-in-chief run that show. I'm a resource for them."

He confesses that there exists a great deal of stress from putting together a paper and the interaction that goes with it.

"More times than not, I act as a mediator."

Deadlines still keep coming even at The Western Union. Living up to journalistic standards, living eating newspaper is not an exaggeration.

Each year, several students congregate in Bond's class to "just talk" — and not always about newspaper. "It's just another way that the "team" feeling carries on."

Bond assesses, tongue-in-cheek, what is the highest achievement he sees year in and year out. "The fact that you can get 18 to 30 people together and produce a product without having knives pulled or grenades ringing in your ear."

Margaret Johnson's 'parts' business serves heavy construction industry

By PHILIP JEROME

Located in the wide open spaces on Grand River Avenue, west of Novi Road, Wilkins Parts and Equipment Company does not enjoy the world's greatest exposure.

But, then, "exposure" is not that important to the success of the company. "Actually, this is an ideal location for our type of business," says Margaret Johnson, owner of the company which now is into its third decade of providing service to the heavy construction industry.

"We're the only company of this type in this area, and everyone knows where we're located. I wouldn't want to be in a heavily congested area where there's lots of traffic.

"The advantage of this location is that there's lots of space for our customers to drive in and out in their diesel trucks and freight liners without having to worry about fighting traffic."

Wilkins Parts and Equipment should not be confused with the standard auto parts store. Although she may be able to provide a few basic automotive items, Johnson concedes that her stock of standard parts is somewhat limited.

"Our business is directed primarily toward the construction industry," reports Johnson. "We sell to industrial

Builders' Association to seek housing incentives

Officials of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM) have pledged to work toward improving the Michigan economy in hopes of spurring new home sales in 1982.

Herman Frankel, 1982 BASM president, said the state's largest builder group would "work with other businessmen, the labor union movement and state and national legislators to help lead Michigan to its rightful place as one of the most productive areas of the world."

Frankel said builders have a six-point action program designed to bring interest rates down and rescue all businesses from the economic problems they share.

The plan, relying on intense lobbying efforts of builder groups across the nation, includes the following summary points:

- Encourage further cuts in federal expenditures, leading to a balanced budget as soon as possible.
- Seek an extension for issuance of "All Savers Certificates."
- Urge replacement of the Federal Reserve Board's system of credit control with a more "selective" one.
- Seek reasonable regulation of "Money Market Funds."

Push for enactment of the "Dole" Bill establishing special savings accounts with tax-exempt earnings for "first home" purchasers.

• Push for passage of the "Hatch" Bill to make pension funds more available for investment in home mortgages.

Looking ahead to the new home market in 1982, Frankel said local builders expect a slight, but gradual, increase in sales and a lowering of mortgage interest rates later in the year.

However, he stressed that buyers should not wait for interest rates to come down because "rising building costs will negate lowered finance costs in many cases."

"Prospective buyers can realize greater savings through below market financing available on existing new homes now," Frankel said.

"Many builders have commitments on 'buydown' or have standing inventory for sale on a land contract basis. The advantage is that many of these homes can be purchased at pre-1981 prices, reflecting the cost of materials at the time of construction."

For those who believe new housing is out of the question for the first-time home buyer with a

Builders' Association to seek housing incentives

Officials of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM) have pledged to work toward improving the Michigan economy in hopes of spurring new home sales in 1982.

Herman Frankel, 1982 BASM president, said the state's largest builder group would "work with other businessmen, the labor union movement and state and national legislators to help lead Michigan to its rightful place as one of the most productive areas of the world."

Frankel said builders have a six-point action program designed to bring interest rates down and rescue all businesses from the economic problems they share.

The plan, relying on intense lobbying efforts of builder groups across the nation, includes the following summary points:

- Encourage further cuts in federal expenditures, leading to a balanced budget as soon as possible.
- Seek an extension for issuance of "All Savers Certificates."
- Urge replacement of the Federal Reserve Board's system of credit control with a more "selective" one.
- Seek reasonable regulation of "Money Market Funds."

THE SUNFLOWER HUT at Brookdale Plaza in South Lyon is offering free blood pressure checks on the third Saturday of each month. The next date is January 20 from noon to 2 p.m. The program was initiated in January.

Betty Lou Mitchell, owner of The Sunflower Hut, said Registered Nurse Suzanne Northrup of Dr. Edward Linkner's office in Ann Arbor will be doing the blood pressure checks. The public is invited to stop in and take advantage of the offer. There is no obligation to purchase merchandise.

THE C.S.M. COMPANY of Milford is offering a fresh-air cleaning device known as the "Ionosphere."

The softball-shaped device ionizes the air in much the same way lightning does — without the devastation, of course. It removes dust, smoke, pollen and even viruses and bacteria. Experiments with mice have found that survival rates among animals infected with "flu" virus were much greater in an ionized atmosphere than in ordinary air. Furthermore, old mice in an ionized atmosphere ran mazes as fast as young ones did that were in everyday air.

The C.S.M. Company has both home and commercial units available. Restaurants, bars and bingo halls find the commercial units profitable investments, according to a C.S.M. spokesman.

SECURITY BANK OF NOVI Assistant Vice president Paul Wilson (left) is at the head of a chain which resulted in the donation of $600 to the fight against Reyes Syndrome.

Security Bank of Novi was the sponsor of the second annual Run for Reyes earlier this year which raised money for the fight against the sometimes-fatal children's disease. The event was sponsored by Security Bank of Novi in conjunction with the Novi Parks and Recreation Department and the Novi Jaycees.

In the picture above, Wilson is handing over a check to Bill Scott of the Novi Parks and Recreation Department who in turn passes it to Novi Jaycee President Matt Quinn who in turn passes it over to Dana Allen, national representative of the Reyes Syndrome's Michigan Division.

JOSEPH VELKY of Novi has been elected secretary-treasurer of the Detroit Area Economic Forum — a group of business economists who meet monthly to discuss the business climate.

Members of the forum are called upon frequently by members of governmental agencies and the news media for information on economic trends.

Membership in the group is limited to 25 individuals who are admitted on the basis of invitations.

Velky is employed by Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan as manager of health care research. He holds a BA from Michigan State University and a masters degree in economics from Wayne State University. He currently is a doctoral candidate at Wayne State.

This acquisition serves to expand Millgard's Piling Division headed by Marshall as general manager. Fredric Rusche assumes the post of general superintendent and Thomas Candler becomes manager of estimating.

RICHARD SANDER of Northville has been named lease sales representative at the Toledo, Ohio, operation of Lend Lease, the truck rental and leasing arm of Household Finance Corporation with headquarters in Minneapolis.

He will be responsible for servicing existing accounts and developing new business. Sander is a seven-year veteran of the truck industry. Before coming to Northville, he was a resident of Cincinnati. RETIREMENT of William F. Hogg, the original superintendent of Bethlehem Steel Corporation's reinforcing bar fabricating shop in Detroit, has been announced in Bethlehem, Pennsylvania, by Neal W. Merrill, general manager, manufacturing practices. Hogg is completing a career of more than 40 years with Bethlehem, including 27 as superintendent of the Detroit rebar shop.

A native of Roslyn, Pennsylvania, he received an associate degree in administrative accounting at Taylor Business School in 1941 and joined Bethlehem Steel's Philadelphia rebar fabricating shop as a clerk. He served in the U.S. Army in Germany, 1945-46, rising to the post of acting sergeant major of an air depot group in South Carolina. He was promoted to chief clerk at the Philadelphia shop on return at the end of 1945. Subsequently, he gained operational experience and helped in planning a "greenfield" fabricating shop in Detroit.

He was promoted from chief clerk to superintendent and transferred to Detroit in August 1954 to supervise construction of the new shop and begin operations.

He and his wife Evelyn plan to continue to work their 38-acre farm in the Northville area (Salem Township). They are parents of four adult children and four grandchildren. Hogg is a member of the Redford Township Chamber of Commerce. He has taught the seventh grade boys' Sunday school class at Calvary Baptist Church in Canton for 23 years and sings in the church choir. Previously, he was the congregation's treasurer for 12 years, financial secretary for eight years and served on the boards of both the elders and deacons.

State's jobless rate climbs

Michigan's jobless rate in December rose to a high of 14.4 percent, up from the November rate of 11.8 percent, according to estimates released by the Michigan Employment Security Commission Director S. Martin Taylor.

The number of unemployed workers in Michigan rose by 106,000 during December to 827,000, Taylor said. Total employment during the month dropped 159,000 to 3,724 million and the state's labor force was off $3,000 to 4,381 million.

Michigan's current jobless rate is up considerably from the year-ago level of 12.4 percent with 533,000 out of work. The last time unemployment reached the current high level was July 1980 when the jobless rate also was 14.4 percent, Taylor said.

Taylor attributed the rise in unemployment to increased auto industry layoffs and low construction and retail employment. While retail sales were up during the holiday season, employment in the retail sector did not meet expected levels.

National unemployment figures were 8.9 percent during December, up from 8.4 percent in November.

Still growing

Pent-up demand to lead to boom?

By TIM RICHARD

The housing boom of the 1980s won't be like the post-World War II housing boom that created suburbia.

"There's a fantastic demographic change going on," said Paul Robertson of Robertson Brothers and secretary of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan (BASM). "And there will be dramatic decreases in the sizes of houses."

Three builders talked of downsizing houses at an annual news conference Monday in the same way autos have been downsized since the inflation of oil prices. It was a marked change in tune for the builders, whose new offerings each year have been steadily increasing in size.

"There are single-family 'starter' houses now for under $60,000," said Herbert Lawson of Abbey-Lawson Investment Company in West Bloomfield.

Lawson cited single-family houses in Chesterfield Township, Macomb County and condominiums in Clarkston, northern Oakland County.

"There's downsizing in every market," added Jack Saylor of Saylor Building Company. "The buyer of a 3,000 square-foot house is now buying 2,400 square feet...the buyer of a 1,600 square-foot house is buying 1,200 square feet."

Builders generally agree there is a pent-up demand for housing because of southeastern Michigan's continuing recession for the past two years. And they also foresee a boom in the '80s as the post-war "baby boom" kids born in the '50s come into the market.

Robertson outlined some of the "fantastic demographic changes."

It used to be that 43 percent of homeowners were traditional families with a working father and a mother who took care of the children. That traditional family is slipping to the 17 percent level.

In many households, both husband and wife will be working. Lenders are taking into account the working wife's income in judging the family's capacity to pay for housing.

There is even, Robertson quipped, a "mingle market" — unrelated single persons buying a house.

The number of bedrooms will decline, he said, because during the '70s the number of persons-per-household dropped from 3.3 to 2.75.

Suburban governments, often criticized in the past for large-lot zoning which forced construction of expensive houses, are becoming "more cooperative," said Robertson.

Another builder complaint of the past was absent — the lengthening of construction time due to local government inspection and regulation.

While local regulation hasn't become less onerous, Herman Frankel, BASM president, said it's no longer increasing at the same rate.

Robertson said there's even less regulation.

But Lawson didn't foresee any reduction of construction time once the booms gets going. "There will be shortages of materials," he said.

The labor situation got some attention at the annual news conference.

Some builders report the two-year recession has meant many building tradesmen have left the region for sunbelt jobs. They could not, however, say how many, nor could the builders predict whether the departures were permanent.

Irvin Yackness, BASM general counsel, said the organization has been meeting "for months" with trades unions to "seek ways and means of reducing labor costs."

"In the field, there has been a substantial reduction of costs. The cost of building is as low today as two years ago" despite general inflation, he said.

Contracts with the building trades expire early in summer, Yackness went on. "We anticipate the trades will ask for increases. But we are hopeful we can ask them to take the same approach as the auto unions to hold down costs."

Realtors offer home-buying tips

The Western Wayne County Board of Realtors (WWOCBR) will hold the first of its 1982 series of public homebuying seminars at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, January 21, at 7:30 p.m.

Registration will be limited to the first 350 callers making reservations with the home buying process in a non-sales setting such as we provide will aid their planning and make them better shoppers when they are ready to make a move.

Mason said the main thrust of questions in previous sessions dealt with such areas as new financing options, mortgage qualifications and the opportunity to offer the seminar in 1982 in other communities within our board's 1,600 square mile territory.

"We undertook the program as a public service and will continue the series as long as the response remains high. The seminars are provided without cost to the community or audience."

"Officials interested in joining in sponsoring one in their local program," Mason said, "We also would welcome the opportunity to offer the seminar in 1982 in other communities within our board's 1,600 square mile territory."

poet's corner

Joe and Flo

There's a young man we know by the name of Joe
Who lives on Piety Hill,
And is ever on call to make things go
When it seems that they never will.

Who else would have done what he did with the bell
That hung in our cherished old church,
Or refinished the lectern that we love so well,
No matter how distant the search?

Folks will recall the times through the years
Of the helping hands freely given
By friends we all know as Joe and Flo,
And the many folk they have driven.

As a neighbor, he is ready to help in a pinch,
Like a water-line frozen and we're caught in a clinch;
Or a furnace is out and it's fifteen below
And we're all in a shiver and telephone Joe.

There's hardly a person who lives here still—
For a month or a year, who still doesn't know
The friends who live on Piety Hill,
Ever willing and ready, as are Joe and Flo.

As Joe's day draws near for another New Year,
We wish for him only the best,
And for Florence, too, with good health anew
May they forever be blessed!

A shopper's chagrin

"Cash or Charge?"
Cash, please.
(I wait for the magic wand
To pick up the lines of numbers on the sales ticket).
Beep, beep, bee-bee-beep.
I'm tired of shopping,
Aching to my knees.

I write my check —
Credit Card? No,
I gave those up, long ago.
Proof that I'm ine?
Well, let's see here —
Drivers' license?
(With a photo that's an aberration)
How about my car registration?

Something ELSE?
How about
Birth Certificate (that's at home)
Marriage license? So is that.
Passport? Same place, drat.

The growing line begins to mutter
As I rummage through my purse's clutter,
"We could take your fingerprints, Ma'am"
(I nearly had a fit)
No thanks, my dear, just FORGET it.

Kit Henderson

The Best Time of the Year?

The snow is up to my kneecaps,
The wind's whistling by my ears.
Ah! But I do think winter
Is the best time of the year.

With the roaring, crackling fire,
Hot rum and toasts of good cheer.
How can anyone help but think winter
Is the best time of the year?

The skiing and skating and schussing,
The sledding and screaming with fear.
Oh! Everyone must think winter
Is the best time of the year.

Shoveling and stalling and scraping,
Falling and slipping and tears.
Well, there's some inconvenience
But it's still the best time of the year.

Frozen pipes, gas bills and blizzards,
Frostbite, flu time is here.
This was to be a tribute to winter,
But it's a crummy time of the year.

Swimming, sunshine and hayrides,
Flowers and bluebirds are here.
Ah! But I know now that summer
Is the best time of the year!

$1000 prize available in poetry contest

A $1,000 grand prize will be awarded in a poetry competition sponsored by "World of Poetry," a quarterly newsletter for poets.

Area poets may submit poems of all styles and on any subject in competition for the grand prize or for 99 other cash or merchandise awards which total more than $10,000, the sponsor announced last week.

Contest chairman Joseph Mellon says, "We are encouraging poetic talent of every kind, and expect our contest to produce exciting discoveries."

Rules and official entry forms are available from the quarterly, 2431 Stockton Boulevard, Department A, Sacramento, California, 95817.

The entrance

Passing from death to life everlasting
Oh, what joy it is to know
Jesus, my savior loves me so
Joy and gladness fill my cup
Silently in death

my spirit rises up
Entrance into the Kingdom of God and love all divine
peace and contentment truly are mine

Awaken my soul
this is your day
Awaken my soul
in God's presence forever to stay

The passing is sweet angels bow at my feet
music fills my heart and soul
Jesus my savior is the door
Yes, Jesus is the entrance to life evermore —

Buddy Dennis

Drive Carefully

We're told to regularly service our cars,
Check steering, lights and brakes,
To drive fifty-five
To stay alive
And keep the roads safe for all our sakes.

But the greatest menace to life and limb
(And I hope I never meet him)
Is, I feel,
The nut behind the wheel.

Kit Henderson

Sugar Saw

Each sugar grain
A little saw,
Cutting into the Enamel of my teeth.

Questions? Write to Attorney Larry Korn, care of Sliger-Livingston Publications, Post Office Box 160, Northville, Michigan 48167. Questions will be answered on a space-available basis. Answers in this column are directed at specific facts and may not apply in all situations.

Q. My past employer owes me approximately $1,000. At the time I was hired he put in writing that I would earn 20 percent of any real estate closings that took place during any given month. I cannot collect at this time. What can I do?

A. You can file a claim in the Small Claims Court for any amount up to $600 or a complaint in the general district court for the full $1,000. In order for you to collect all the monies due and owing you, you would have to file your claims separately. You might also file a complaint with the Michigan Department of Labor.

Q. Would my will be valid in another state should I relocate?

A. Yes. If the will was valid when executed, it will be valid in other states.

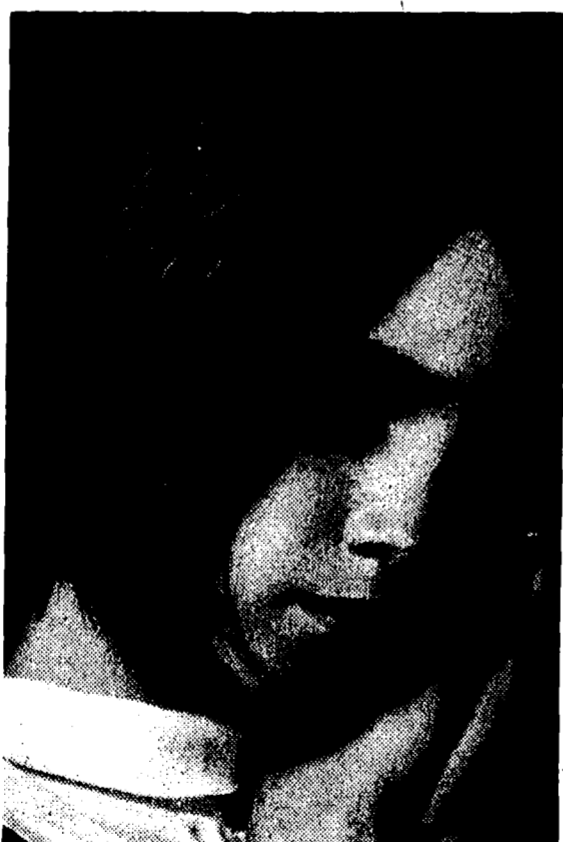

Q. I made a gift of an automobile to my son before I became aware that he had lost his license. Can I get the car back without his consent?

A. No. Once a gift is made, it is irrevocable.

Q. I am retired and wish to purchase my brother's house in cash. What is the easiest and safest procedure to follow?

A. Your family attorney can assist you in ordering the title insurance, preparing a closing statement, supervising the execution of documents and filing the Warranty Deed.

Q. My car was hit while sitting in my driveway. It was hit by an uninsured drunk who was driving on a suspended license. My car was not insured because I had transferred the insurance to a different car nine days previous to this incident. The car was to be sold two days after the man hit it. Can I make him pay for the extensive damage done to my car? I do not feel I should have to pay for the mistakes of this drunk.
