On $4.9 million proposal

Budget decision slated expected to take final action on a $4.9 million budget for 1982-83 at next Monday's meeting.

A public hearing on the proposed 1982-83 budget Monday produced no comments.

City Manager Edward Kriewall said in his budget summary Monday that the proposed spending plan for fiscal 1982-83 is structured around an effort to address capital items and redirect services to areas that will optimize city resources.

Property taxes are expected to bring in $2 million (42 percent) of all revenues during fiscal 1982-83, according to the proposed budget. State shared revenues are pegged at $950,000 and federal grants are expected to bring in $195,000. Interest on investment is expected to represent five percent of all revenues by generating $375,000.

The city will carry over a fund balance of nearly $914,000 into 1982-83 from the current fiscal year. Council members have agreed during work sessions on the budget to spend a portion of that amount on capital improvements.

Operation of the police department is expected to eat up 41 percent of the budget - just over $2 million. Projected expenditures in the fire department are $583,000, or 12 percent of the total budget.

Kriewall said in his summary that limiting expenditures and minimizing taxes has been an "over-riding factor" that council members and staff has been working with. This ob-

The rollback represents a .2 mill reduction, or 20 cents per $1,000 of assessed property value.

The city also will not levy the one percent tax collection fee which covers the cost of defending assessment cases and handling taxes for Oakland County and the Novi Schools.

Under the proposed budget the city will employ 104 persons, the same number as last year. Four new positions have been added — a director of Community Development, a second ordinance enforcement officer, a police officer working with juveniles, a police dispatcher, and a police department receptionist. At the same time three building department employees have been eliminated due to the downturn in construction. An opening created by the resignation of the weighmaster will be filled by another employee. Through budget deliberations the council has tentatively approved a 50 cent per hour raise for volunteer firemen, $205,000 for construction of a fire station and $50,000 for the purchase of a fire department utility vehicle.

The council also has approved the purchase of a $120,000 grader for the Department of Public Works (DPW), $110,000 to purchase a site for a DPW facility, and $32,400 to purchase

The council will take final action on the budget in a regular session next Monday at the Novi Public Library at 8 p.m.

Administrative salary freeze offset by improved benefits

Novi city administrators and nonunion personnel have agreed to accept a new retirement plan in lieu of a salary increase during the 1982-83 fiscal year.

Three department heads will receive "salary alignments," however. Raises for the police chief, the parks and recreation director and two executive secretaries have received tentative council approval, while salaries for 15 other administrators will remain unchanged in the coming year. Under a proposal tentatively approved by the city council during 1982-83 budget deliberations, salaries for all but three administrative positions will average," Kriewall said. "Positions

Concerns stall action on drain ballot issue

By KATHY JENNINGS

Novi council members would not commit themselves to placing one mill for construction and maintenance of a city-wide drainage system on the ballot, but approved action which must be taken if the proposal is to be put on the August ballot.

The council directed its attention Monday to the first of two millage proposals for drains which could appear before Novi voters this fall. The two millage proposals are part of a 'pioneering' drainage master plan, which includes master drainage retention ponds and city maintenance of retention areas.

Language proposing an amendment to the city charter, which if approved would authorize the city to levy a maximum of one mill for drains, will be forwarded to the Michigan Attorney General's office for approval as a result of the council's action.

The language in all proposed charter amendments must be reviewed and approved by the Attorney General's office before appearing on the ballot.

However, the council withheld action on a resolution to place the millage proposal on the August 3 ballot due to concerns that they will not see a final report explaining alternative drainage

Council members expressed hesitation to put the question on the ballot because the proposal under consideration represents a drastic change in city policy and should not be rushed. Engineering Consultant Clif Seiber told the council a complete report will be made in June. He said the proposal was presented Monday in preliminary form because of time constraints involved in putting it on the August ballot.

Council members reviewed the first half of the proposal from a citizens committee studying Novi's drainage problems Monday. The second half of the proposal, which identifies specific construction projects financed through the millage, has not yet been com-responsibilities. The second-half mill would be used to acquire property and construct "minilakes" or regional storm water holding

Council members objected to the maintenance portion of the proposal: which calls for the city to take over 52. existing ponds.

'We're moving on this quickly with limited information, and it represents a major change in philosophy," said Mayor Robert Schmid. "I have a philosophical problem with the city at large taking over 50 some retention basins in designated subdivisions and a program that requires intitial clean-ups of ponds that need work because our ordinances are not in effect.' Schmid expressed further concern that the city may be rushing into the program by putting it on the August ballot. "I'm concerned that the citizens of the community will not have time to make an educated decision on what we was estimated the city would need to are doing. They may not be sufficiently advised or educated as to what's happening," Schmid said.

City Attorney David Fried told the council that if ponds are not being: maintained, the city can contract to have the work done and residents would subsequently be taxed for the maintenance.

Council Member James Shaw suga gested that there may be political reasons why retention ponds have not been maintained.

Exposition center could break ground this year

By PHILIP JEROME

If everything falls into place, an exposition center will be under construction near the Sheraton Oaks Hotel in Novi this year.

That's the word from Gerald Abel, a partner in the firm of Pico Management which is constructing Novi's first major hotel and hopes to construct a regional trade center modeled after a similar facility in Monroeville. Penn-

Abel is the first to admit, however, that "if" is a big word. "Right now we have a lot of loose ends that have to be tied together if we're going to make a go of it," said Abel, who is attempting to divide his time between getting Sheraton Oaks ready for opening later this month and coordinating plans for the exposition

Actually, preliminary planning for the expo mart is proceeding rapidly.

Abel reported that options "have been or are being secured" on approximately 30 acres of ground immediately behind Sheraton Oaks.

And he has retained the services of an architectural firm which already has prepared preliminary schematics and site plans for the proposed expo mart, which will be physically connected to the hotel complex.

an adjunct to the hotel.

"Right now, it looks good," he reported. "There are still a lot of 'maybes' associated with the project. But if everything falls into place, we could be under construction this year.

"If it's physically and financially feasible to do it, we're going to do it." The concept of developing regional trade centers in conjunction with hotel facilities is growing in popularity across the country. Impetus for pursuing a trade center in Novi was provided by a tour of city officials and private investors, including Abel and Thompson-Brown President William Bowman, of the Greater Pittsburgh Merchandise Abel said further that he is talking to Mart/Expo Center in Monroeville, Pennsylvania. The Monroeville facility is situated on

The 80,000 square foot exhibition hall is located on the first level, while the second and third levels are devoted to showrooms and office space.

Abel's preliminary plans, by comparison, propose 100,000 square feet of exhibition space in a four-story configuration, two floors of exhibition space and two floors of showrooms and

Additionally, the Monroeville facility is located in close proximity to a 340room hotel and a regional shopping center, as well as office buildings, apartments and recreation/entertainment facilities such as racquetball clubs and restaurants.

Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall, who has toured the Monroeville expo center, said the situation is identical to Novi with its Twelve Oaks Mall, with the exception that Novi has greater freeway accessibility.

Novi officials have endorsed the concept, and Kriewall has 'listed accomplishment of the trade center as one of his objectives for the coming fiscal year. The objective was approved by the Novi City Council.

Novi's Economic Development Corporation also has endorsed the concept. One of the reasons for the city's interest in seeing the project proceed is that officials believe it will generate additional development in the so-called Sugden has been charged with two counts: unlawful dischage of hazardous waste, which carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail or a $25,000 fine, and unlawful discharge into waters, which carries a maximum penalty of a $25,000 fine.

D&K Construction Company also has been charged with unlawful discharge of hazardous waste.

Warrants for Sugden's arrest were issued April 30 and he will appear in 52nd District Court in Walled Lake. No arraignment date has been set.

The Department of Natural Resources requested the warrants under provisions of the hazardous waste management act and the water resources act.

Warrants were authorized by the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office. Some 75-100 gallons of ammonia allegedly were dumped into Bishop Creek along the western edge of property where cattle co-owned by brothers trailer was parked on the west side of the fenced yard of the D&K Construction Company when the dumping incident was investigated.

A large cylinder tank was observed inside the trailer with a plastic pipe leading from the tank, through the fence, and into the stream, according to police reports.

Although the death of the three bulls has not been positively connected with the ammonia dumping, the death of fish and aquatic life resulted in the issuance or warrants, according to the Department of Natural Resources.

Edwin Renkie, emergency services coordinator of the Michgan Department of Agriculture, said that test results of the bulls' deaths remain inconclusive.

"Up to this point we're not sure what in fact did really kill those animals," Renkie said. "Tissues from the nose, esophagus and lungs have been tested without finding significant imflammation that would be expected from exposure to ammonia."

Renkie added that the investigation has not been abandoned. "We haven't given up," he said.

He stated, however, that the chances of determining what killed the bulls becomes more remote as each day

The building's use as a site for the Oakland-Livingston Human Services Agency (OLHSA) Multi-Purpose center, including the senior citizen hot-lunch program and other services for seniors should also be considered, O'Branovic urged.

He said the community building offers a "central" or "focal" location for seniors to socialize. "This is vital to the success of the program so that the over 3,000 senior citizens in Novi can identify with a consistent location," he argued. "Unfortunately, we have seen a drop in attendance at the multi-purpose center, and even though many of the new senior activities now being offered by our department are encouraging many people to return, the most common comment is that the seniors just 'do not like coming to that old and dirty community building.' It hits home." O'Branovic estimated that the city spent $10,000 to operate the community building last year, but added that it was "a conservative figure which does not even include some healthy repair costs."

Charles Hutton's a poet and he shows it

Charles Hutton uttered a plea: "Please don't make a poet of me! Now they're starting to rhyme I'm only a beginner, you see."

That's one poem Charles E. Hutton won't have to write. But the 82-year-old man who has been described as Walled Lake's poet laureate would probably agree with the message - even if his

With characteristic modesty, Hutton recently brushed aside Dr. Marshall Mesaros's reference to him as "our poet laureate of Walled Lake," when Hutton faced an audience of 25 people eagerly waiting to hear him read a sampling of the 300-plus poems he's written over the past two decades. The council currently is considering a recommenlation for a three-year extension of a revised conract with Great American Disposal Service for trash collection. The proposed contract calls for a rate hike of $8 per year for residential units from $48 to $56 in the first year, a 4.5 percent increase to $58.50 in the second year and a 4.7 percent increase to $61.25 in the third year.

However, several council members have balked at the proposed $8 per year increase, noting that it presents a 17 percent increase. Council Member Dennis Andrews proposed last

Andrews' proposal is aimed specifically at a section of the new contract which requires Great American to bill residential customers directly and hold the city harmless for any responsibility or liability in relation to collections for trash collection

According to Andrews, the city should assume responsibility for collecting payments, thus enabling Great American to reduce its operating costs. "At a time like this with taxes going up, it should be the other way around," he said. "The city should pick up the administrative costs of collecting the

As We See It

City needs justify fund balance use

The City of Novi has learned a lot since the days when it used federal and state revenue sharing monies to balance its budget and run the city.

Council members are on the verge of adopting a $4.9 million budget — the city's largest budget to date.

As part of the process the city will carry over approximately $914,000 from the 1981-82 fiscal year into the next budget — a fact made possible by investment of city funds at consistently high interest rates and the realization of state shared revenues last year earlier than anticipated.

In considering the projected budget council members learned the city has enough money set aside this year, a portion of that $914,000, to proceed with a number of capital improvement projects — construction of public buildings and major equipment

As a result, a number of capital improvement projects were included in the proposed budget: construction of a fire station, acquisition of a department of public works garage site and purchase of a utility truck for the fire department and a grader for

Instead of approving the capital improvements, as it tensider returning the money to taxtatively has done, the council has payers. the option of returning the tax dollars to the voter by further rolling back the millage levy.

The council also could have decided that capital improvements would not be made without specific approval from spending.

If Novi were not a growing, continuouslysly developing community it might be preferable to roll back the millage and collect construction projects and equip-

But there are still many areas in the city where basic needs must be met. It is not until those needs are realized that the council can consider significant millage reductions.

As budget deliberations proceded, arguments were made that capital improvements are better controlled and justified if capital improvements in the com-ing fiscal year should receive should not be afraid to spend tax dollars to meet those needs.

In the past the city has asked voter approval for capital improvements. But in the past the city had no choice but to go to the voters. Figures show the city was levying the full amount authorized for operations by the city charter and still found it necessary to ask voters for extra money to make capital improvements.

If the council decided to go to the voters before every major capital improvement decision, the city could be placed in the position of rolling back millage giving back tax dollars — then asking those same voters to approve new millage because the city needs money to build a fire station, or buy a fire truck, or buy land for a DPW facility.

The city also could ask voters to approve purchase of every police car, but voters elect representatives to make those decisions. It is their responsibility to say how tax dollars will be

Those representatives are responsible for determining when the basic needs of the city have been met. If at that point the city finds it has more money than needed to provide the level of services desired by residents the elected representatives must con-

"Government" always is being accused of spending the money just because it's there. And as a result tax revolutionaries have reduced the flow of tax dollars to reduce the level of

However, the 1982-83 budget under consideration by the Novi council does not ask council members to spend money just because it is there. It asks them less taxes, rather than undertake to spend money that is there for needed city facilities and equip-

Thinking out loud

By KATHY JENNINGS

There is a planet discovered, or invented if you prefer, by R.A. Lafferty which appears to have the ultimate solution to burgeoning-governmentbureaucracy and silly laws promulgated by such

On Camiroi there is no permanent bureaucracy and those who pass silly laws face mutilation or death. On this planet any three citizens can band together and make a law. Ridiculous laws are discouraged, however.

"Any citizen who has his name on three laws deemed silly by general concensus shall lose his citizenship for one year," Lafferty reports. "A citizen who loses his citizenship twice shall be mutilated, and the third time he shall be killed. This isn't an extreme ruling. By that time he would have participated in nine silly laws. Surely that is enough."

To repeal an offending law any citizen may go to what is known as "Archives" and remove a law (which is inscribed on bronze and filed in a law niche) leaving the statement that he has abolished the law for his own

"He is then required to keep the voided law in his own home for three days," Lafferty explains. "During this period the citizen or citizens who first passed the law can go to the house of the abolitionist. Occasionally they will fight to death with ritual swords, but most often they will parley. They may agree to have the law abolished. They may agree to restore the law. Or they may work together to work out a law that takes into account the ob-

tion, however, because a citizen wishing to abolish a law must leave not only a declaration of its removal, but also three fingers of his right hand to show he is serious about

Laws are not challenged without serious considera-

Consider the ramifications of implementing such a

If legislators faced death for passing silly laws, would there be regulations for pinball arcades? Would students who are allowed to graduate without being able to read and write still be required by the State of Michigan to take driver education? Would married women in Mississippi be prohibited from buying stock?

There are other positive aspects of the Cameroi legal workings. On Cameroi one citizen can challenge another citizen with the ritual sword. "Sometimes, but not often, they fight to the death, and they may not be interferred with," according to Lafferty. Those decisions are called "The Court of Last Resort."

Perhaps it is this final step that is missing from the American judicial system; this may be the element needed to relieve backlogged court dockets. When a lawsuit reaches a certain point it could be declared beyond reconciliation — then the plaintiff and the defendant could go at it with ritual swords. It also logically follows that if legislators are to face mutilation and death for enacting ridiculous laws, attorneys should meet with a similar fate for bringing frivolous court actions. The bar may argue that citizens should have a right to file a frivolous lawsuit if they can afford to file a

On the other hand it has been argued that the courts now are clogged due to the staggering number of lawyers who depend on frivolous lawsuits to pay the bills. The lawyers on the fringe are filling up dockets with cases that would be better solved out-of-court simply to make a living. These attorneys milk a lawsuit, and their clients, for all they're worth because they never know when the next paying customer will come along.

Death could be considered an extreme punishment for a person who is merely serving his client; but then again justice must be served.

We reserve the right to edit letters for brevity, clarity and libel.

I'm not exactly a city slicker. In fact, I spent a lot of time on farms as a youngster. Bunt Osborne, who owned the farm across the street, used to let me help during baling. season. I helped load the hay in the loft, slop the pigs, even milk the cows on occasion.

So, having established myself as something of a country boy, it's time to address that picture of the dead "cow" on the front page of the Novi paper a couple of weeks ago. In case you don't remember, it was a heckuva shot of a man standing over the carcas of a dead bull which apparently had died by drinking some kind of chemical dumped in the Norton Creek. The man was drying away a tear. It was a poignant shot.

The only problem was the one-liner under the picture. Despite graphic evidence to the contrary, the one-liner, which I confess to having written, said "Norman Tobel dries away a tear after inspecting one of his dead

At the risk of being indelicate, I must reluctantly admit that the incorrect identification of a bull as a cow has caused a great deal of glee in some quarters, and a great deal of consternation in this quarter.

For example, Pete Romanow told me I need to take a plumbing course and advised me never to try to milk one of those cows. "They get real mad," he said.

Bill Briggs hasn't really said anything yet. He just starts laughing everytime he looks at me. Even Mary Weborg, a retired school teacher, has suggested that I must not have done well in anatomy classes. She hasn't come right out and said it, but I suspect the day will come when my goof will be used to demonstrate the need to teach sex

Another kicker came in the form of a letter from a Redford Township man who made some comments about the anatomy of breeding stock and did a little photo editing to depict the difference between a cow and a bull. I fully expect to hear next from the Michigan Livestock Association.

I suppose I can live with the heckling, although I confess that Briggs' snickering is somewhat unsettling. But what I really want to know is whether one little mistake disqualifies me from winning any awards for agricultural reporting?

Showboat crew seeks village aid •

Requesting financial support from the Wolverine Lake Village Council, organizers of last year's July 4th "Showboat" have promised to put on a bigger and better show this year in conjunction with the village's July 4th festivities.

Vic Saddler, who organized the floating musical entertainment asked the council to allocate $800 to the showboat this year.

The money will be used to help pay for costumes, lighting and the cost of hiring musicians and dancers, Saddler said. Two other sponsors of the "Showboat" bought a $2,000 sound system they're planning to use on the boat this summer. "It's expensive," he told council members. "You can't hire musi-

Milford's Body Shop hopes to cash in on physical fitness craze with total program

Instructor Sue Floer helps Polly Trites on exercise machine

When most people go into business, the owners decide what the public wants and That is not the case with Dave and Charlotte Zimmerman who decided to open The Body Shop, a health club, in Milford last December.

"We did a feasibility study by calling 2,000 people and asking them what they wanted in a such a club. We wanted to provide a facility that people wanted - not just what we wanted," Dave explained. "They actually designed our program that includes such aspects as a whirlpool, sauna, nursery, aerobic classes and day and evening hours. "I feel that's important if you're relying on someone else for survival," he add-"And over 85 percent of the women surveyed didn't mind if men exercised with associated with that concept," Dave remarked. "All club programs include warm-up and flexibility exercises then circuit training (anerobic exercises) on equipment," Dave said. "Our isokinetic equipment means the exerciser is pushing against his or her own resistance. Work is done at a one to three ratio, meaning a person works 10 seconds and then rests 30 seconds," Dave related. "Our equipment exercises the chest, shoulders, arms, back, abdomen and legs at different joint angles." Following the circuit training at the various equipment sites around the room club members can then take part in aerobic exercise

"Since more than half the deaths each year in the United States are related to cardiovascular disease, strengthening the heart is crucial to good health. Regular aerobic training lowers blood pressure and heart rate so the work of the heart is reduced," Dave stressed Brisk exercise or working out on the treadmill also lessens emotional tension and

"It's not a gimmick or a fad; it's a lifestyle," Dave related. "The problem is, many people say they are in good shape because they exercise and weigh about what they should. tative health maintenance at the club While nearly everyone will agree that a proper diet is important in maintaining good health, they may not realize that stress and one's environment make a big difference between good and bad health, the couple said.

"The elimination of physical activity in our world has led to high stress and stress-related diseases," Dave commented. "Stress levels are particulary high in our state because of the poor economy and unemployment. Realtors say that home purchases are attractive now for a number of reasons. These include home prices, which are rising at a slower rate than inflation; people-to-people financing rates that are averaging three-five percent below conventional mortgage rates; and the large inventory of homes

They point out that these add to such traditional home-buying incentives as a means of equity accumulation, tax benefits, pride of ownership and becoming established in a community "Demographics indicate there is a need for 2 million new housing units each year during this decade," Mason said. "Even an optimistic estimate suggests only two-thirds of the required number will be completed in the next five years. This could cause a shortage as the economy recovers and places upward pressure on prices.

"We think many would-be buyers are needlessly frightened out of the market by the quoted costs of conventional mortgages, yet these account for only a small share of transactions today. We hope to be able to sit down with increased numbers of buyers to explore alternative financing plans with them.

Wildflowers can be grown in yard

When the woods and fields bloom with wildflowers in the spring, did you ever wish you could have some of those beauties in your home garden? Well, you can. Plants and seeds of dozens of wildflowers are available from nurseries and garden catalogs. The key to growing them sucessfully is to choose those that are well adapted to the growing conditions in your yard or garden. Horticulturists at Michigan State University explain that most wildflowers are adapted to a fairly narrow range of soil, light and moisture conditions. Plants that grow wild in moist or boggy areas, for instance, generally won't do well if transplanted into a dry, sunny flowerbed. Likewise, meadow wildflowers probably would not thrive in deep

If you plant wildflowers in a suitable location, however, they'll flourish with very little care. They'll often seed themselves so that, once established, they will last for years.

Generally speaking, woodland wildflowers will do best in a shaded area. If your lawns isn't shaded by trees, consider planting shade-loving plants and ferns along the north side of your house or some other building. Wildflowers that are native to meadows and roadsides are more likely to do best in a dry sunny spot, while bog or swamp plants will take hold only in a moist, poorly drained spot. Woodland flowers available from commercial nurseries, garden centers or seed catalogs may in-

Ostrich fern and interrupted fern need moist soil but do well in shade or sun. Sensitive fern and lady fern need sun and moist

Wildflowers adapted to sunny sites include but-terfly weed, New England aster, black-eyed Susan, ox-eye daisy and bee balm. Bog plants that might do well in a soggy corner of your yard include cardinal flower, Joe-pye weed, gentains, marsh marigold, pitcher plant and sundew. The latter two plants are

Seed catalogs often offer wildflower seed mixtures. These mixtures may include both annual and perennial plants adapted to various parts of the country. Seeds are usually broadcast on a prepared seedbed and gently raked in or lightly sprinkled with coarse sand.

Some catalgos and garden centers also offer wildflower plants, such as trillium, Jack-in-thepulpit, hepatica, trailing arbutus and maidenhair, , leather wood and ostrich ferns.

Transplanting wildflowers from one part of your property to another is another possibility. Wildflowers growing in public parks or arboretums or on private property other than your own should, of course, be left where you find them.

Arrival of May starts summer garden season

The month of May kicks off the warm-weather gardening season for much of Michigan. Timely tasks suggested by Michigan State University

• PRUNE spring-flowering shrubs after they finish blooming. Remove old, damaged, weak or poorly-placed branches, retaining the young, vigorous growth to bear flowers next year.

REMOVE rhododendron flowers as they fade

· CANKERWORMS in shade and ornamental trees can be serious defoliators. Look for thin, green or brown caterpillars that move about with a distinct inch-worm worm motion as they feed on tree leaves. When infestations are severe, the caterpillars dangle down from the trees on fine silk threads. The recommended control is Bacillus thuringiensis, a bacterial disease of caterpillars sold as Dipel and Thuricide.

 CHECK pine trees and other ornamentals for sawfly larvae. Though they look like caterpillars, they are the immature stage of members of a nonstinging wasp family rather than butterflies or moths. Sawfly larvae often feed in large numbers, and they raise their heads when disturbed. Control

• TO CONTROL tent caterpillars in fruit and ornamental trees, remove the caterpillars and their tents by hand or spray the foliage of infested trees

 PLANT TREES, shurbs and ground covers. Before planting, remove all non-biodegradable materials — such as plastic cord, plastic burlap and wire — from root balls, trunks and stems. If left in place, they will eventually girdle and kill the plants. Water thoroughly after planting and every week to SEVEN to 10 days before the average date of the last spring frost in your area, plant snap beans and sweet corn. Though these crops are susceptible to frost damage, they usually take a week or longer to germinate and

• AFTER THE SOIL has warmed up and the danger of frost is past, plant seeds of cucumbers, melons, squash and pumpkins, and set out plants

 PLANT SEEDS of cool-weather crops such as onions, beets, lettuce. spinach, carrots and radishes for the second and third times. To protect the root vegetables against maggots, sprinkle diazinon on the planting furrow according to label directions

• TRANSPLANT vegetables and flowers on a cloudy day or in the evening so they have a chance to get over the shock of being transplanted before they are subjected to direct sunlight. They many need shading for a few days and protection against high winds. Placing cutworm collars around them is

• REMOVE the blossoms from all strawberries planted this spring. Allowing them to bear fruit this year will drastically reduce yields in future

CONTINUE a regular disease and insect control program in fruit

• WATER NEW or renovated lawns during dry weather to help grass plants get well established before hot weather.

• IN LATE MAY or early June, fertilize established lawns with one to 1½ pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet. Applying nitrogen before mid-May can increase the likelihood that susceptible varieties will develop Fusarium blight, a serious turf disease. It also restricts root development and necessitates extra mowing.

 MOW established lawns regularly. No single mowing should remove more than one-third of the length of the leaf blades. Set your mower to cut no shorter than 1½ inches.

• FERTILIZE spring-flowering bulbs before or during bloom.

• REMOVE FADING flowers from spring-blooming bulbs so plants don't channel energy into producing seeds instead of building a supply of food in the bulb for next year's growth

FERTILIZE roses when they begin to grow.

 AS SOON AS new growth appears on roses, begin spraying regularly with an all-purpose rose spray to control insects and diseases.

· PLANT GLADS, dahlias, cannas and other summer-flowering bulbs through the end of the month.

• DIVIDE OLD chrysanthemums and plant new ones. Pinch about 1/2 inch from each growing tip to encourage plants to send out side shoots. · AFTER THE AVERAGE date of the last spring frost in your area, plant tuberous begonias, impatiens, wax begonias, caladium and coleus in shaded areas, and light-loving annuals such as moss rose, petunias, alyssum and geranium in sunny spots.

• GO MUSHROOM hunting. May is morel month in Michigan.

"What a story this old board could tell," She said, as she kneaded some dough. "I've used it for bread and cookies and cakes: There were biscuits to mold and stuffing to And onions and cabbage for slaw.

Novi netters 'seeking wins

This may well be the week that Novi's tennis team registers a couple of triumphs to bolster its overall and Kensington Valley Conference records. Although the Novi netters currently are 1-6 overall and 0-3 in the KVC, Coach Dave Haywood believes his young team improved significantly last week and is ready to start rolling up some victories. "I would say I saw a lot of improvement, more than at any time this year. I think the turning point was Saturday and I think we might start winning some matches," Haywood offered. The Wildcat netters took fifth in the eight-team Saline Invitational Saturday, with one player reaching the finals. Mike Fritz, who has been Novi's winningest netter at his second singles slot, advanced to the finals with victories over Riverview and Saline players before losing to an Allen Park player. In addition to Fritz, one Novi singles player and two Wildcat doubles teams made it through the first round of the Saline tourney. Greg McComas won his first match at first singles, while Eric Henderson and Tim Haynes at first doubles and Wayne Beyea and Hasnain Punja at second doubles also won firstround matches.

Rusty Benoit at third singles, Chris Viers at fourth singles and the third doubles team of Doug Palmer and Mike Brewster all lost in the first round. However, Palmer and Brewster did not go down without a fight as they lost in three sets. In dual meets last week, Novi dropped KVC encounters to Brighton (7-0) and Pinckney (5-2) and a non-league match to Riverside (6-1).

Haywood predicted that Brighton and Pinckney will contend for the KVC championship this year. In the Pinckney defeat, McComas at first singles and Fritz at second singles were the only winners but Benoit at third singles and the first double team of Henderson and Haynes lost tough three-set Fritz was the only Novi winner against Riverside but he had to go three sets to do it.

NOVI-WALLED LAKE NEWS

Troop 54 marks 25th anniversary to celebrate its 25th anniversary. With all the ceremony and color connected with scout celebrations, the troop retired its flag last week, marking 25 years as a chartered group even though the troop's history goes back to 1936.

Troop 54's list of past scoutmasters reads like a history of Novi, with some of the city's oldest families contributing time to the troop. The first scoutmaster was Ralph Forman in 1936, followed by such men as former fire chiefs Fred Loynes and Duane Bell, former firemen Robert Skellenger and Walter Tuck, former city council member William O'Brien, and Charles Totten, John Tymensky and Bill Fear. According to troop secretary Evelyn Young, there were four years in the middle 1950s when Troop 54 wasn't chartered with the Boy Scouts of America, ne national organization that sets criteria for individual scouts and troops. Scoutmaster Bill Scherky in 1957 chartered the troop, starting Troop 54 on its second run for its silver anniversary. . Times have changed since the group of boys met weekly in Novi's old township hall, the now dilapidated building across from the parks and recreation office. Currently the group meets at Orchard Hills Elementary School and boasts 22 active Scouts, all of whom will receive 25-year troop patches from the Boy Scouts of America to wear on their uniforms. But one thing that has not changed over the years is Troop 54's emphasis on developing camping skills; the group regularly camps out year-round, attends summer camp and hones its survival skills. Troop 54 is also an honor troop, having met the requirements of the district council, Clinton Valley. The boys, ages 11-18, participate in community service projects and have a program of rank advancement in accordance with council rules. That program of advancement includes three high achievements: in the troop's history, only three boys have earned Scouting's highest award - the Kerry Fear became the first Novi Eagle scout in 1975, followed by Randy Thorpe in 1977 and Jim Young in 1981. Another troop member, Bob Mitchell, transferred to Troop 54 recently, having parlier attained the rank of Eagle.

'Although some scout troops produce Eagle scouts regularly - Eagle factories, Scoutmaster Norm philosophy or letting the marviage Secretary Evelyn Young, honors on their own, says secretary Evelyn Young, whose three sons were all members of Troop 54. "Norm Ross very much believes in letting the troop be run by the boys," Young explains. "They really sink or swim by their decisions." That policy has led to a few hair-raising expëriences in the past, including one camping trip on snowmobiles. "The snow started to fall just as they were driving out," recalls Young of the March, 1975, trip. Loaded on a temperamental old blue school bus, the troop ended up snowed in at a camp-"The one thing I remember most," says her son, Paul, "is that when we were in the ranger's station at night, we heard over the radio that a boy - David Young — had been eaten by wild dogs. My brother (David) wasn't there (in the station) yet. Of course it wasn't him ... But it was really wild. That's the ope thing I remember." There is, of course, more to Troop 54's past than the incident Paul Young remembers. Still, much of its history is lost or forgotten because the group has inever had its own historian.

With Troop 54 marking its silver anniversary however, "it's created a lot of interest" in compil ing a history of the troop, says Evelyn Young. The troop is also hoping to create interest in its activites, possibly encouraging other boys to join. To that end, it celebrated its 25th anniversary during April in various ways, including arranging a table display of troop memorabilia at the Novi Library. John Richter, a former scoutmaster, provided

At a potluck dinner last week for troop families and friends, the old troop flag was signed by present members and retired members and a new flag was resented. The Methodist church and the Novi Rotary Club are co-sponsors of the troop and Bob Limbright is assistant scoutmaster. Troop meetings are held every Monday from 7:30-&p.m. at Orchard Hills School.
