Construction of foster care home planned

Construction of a home for six developmentally disabled adults has been proposed at 24701 Wixom Road. And while plans for the home remain "tentative," January, 1983 has been set as a target date for opening the home.

Plans for the home are in the "early stages of development," according to Marc Craig, developmental specialist for Macomb-Oakland Regional Center. This is not a sure thing. A lease with This is not a sure time.

A license application to operate the as vet unconstructed home has been filed by Community, Services for the Developmentally Disabled, a non-profit "Of course a license can't be granted when a vacant lot is all there is, but this triggers the process," Craig explained. By law when a license application for an adult foster care home is filed, residents within 1,500 feet are notified by the city of the proposed home. The city also must determine whether there are any other homes within 1,500 feet of the proposed facility. If other foster care facilities exist, the license application will be denied. Residents within 1,500 feet of the proposed home also soon will receive invitations to learn more about the proposed home at an information center to be set up in Novi, Craig said. Craig indicated that if everything proceeds according to plan final licensing of the home would occur approximately one month before it opens.

He said the Wixom Road site was chosen as the most cost effective of a number of bids received through a competitive bidding process.

The home, which is to be built during the current construction season, will be barrier free.

"We have individuals who need a bar- curred at birth or been caused by injury rier free design, so we are getting more into building houses than leasing existing ones," Craig said. He noted, however, that construction of houses for adult foster care facilities has been part of the state community placement program for approximately four years. Once the home is built it is then leased to the state, Craig said. A "provider" then assumes day to day operation of the home and residents are placed there.

Those placed in the home would be currently institutionalized individuals who are developmentally disabled. The developmentally disabled have physical problems which may have ocor illness after birth. Mental retardation, cerebral palsy and autism are examples of developmental disbility. They are not mentally ill.

Residents in the home would either be placed in school or sheltered workshops, Craig said. During the evening there would be "very intensive staffing to work on the individual needs of the residents and assist them," he continued.

Psychologists, nurses, occupational therapists and social workers will be available to work with residents of the home, Craig said. "We pump some heavy support into these homes," he

Sewer requests cause council concerns

Just months after approving construction of a sewer line large enough to eventually provide sewer service to Novi's western boundary, property owners are asking the city to construct the second section of the three-piece

The request was not expected for

And some Novi city council members are concerned that limitations on the amount of sewage the city can send to Detroit for treatment may mean the city cannot accommodate the request.

alloted capacity in the Detroit system and a building ban may be enforced by the state when the limit is reached.

In the latest proposed sewer project. plans call for 18,200 lineal feet of sanitary sewers, ranging in size from 18 inches to 8 inches. Appoximately 18 property owners along Grand River, between Taft and Beck roads, petitioned the city asking that the sewer be con-

Currently property west of Beck Road is master planned for one-acre lots. When the master plan was revised last year, the city did not know sewer capacity would be available west of Beck Road.

It is estimated the second portion of the sewer would cost nearly $1.2 million if it is designed to handle future sewage flows from the west. If the line is designed to serve only those in the immediate area who have petitioned for it construction costs are expected to run

However, Council Member Martha Hoyer requested a report on the amount of sewage Novi now sends to Detroit for treatment and how close the city is to the limit on the amount of sewage it can transport downstream.

"It's time we started watching these sewer projects," Hoyer said. "How long has it been since we got confirmation of the amount of capacity we have left? If we are shut off they (those specially assessed to cover sewer construction costs) derive no benefit and who pays for it?" she asked.

City Manager Edward Kriewall said a study has shown that the city can obtain more capacity by repairing sewer line leaks. Leaks in the sewer mean storm water enters the system, is transported to Detroit and treated as

Officials impress mayor

"If Novi continues its current approach to government, business-like and conservative, I think it will be a wealthy community business and industry will desire to come to," commented Southgate Mayor Robert C. Reaume.

Monday was Mayor's exchange day and Reaume had just spent the day touring the city, its major industrial areas, commercial zones and the city complex. He was impressed.

"I was probably most impressed with the way the Novi city government operates. Their approach seems to be to take the opportunity to watch the mistakes other communities have made and keep from repeating them. I was very impressed with the way city officials are running the affairs of Novi: it is conservative yet progressive." Can Southgate — a nearly 25-year-old city that is three-quarters developed and has 33,000 people learn anything from a developing community like

"One thing I would like to explore seriously with our city administration is setting up a citizen's advisory group to work on the city charter and work toward developing more volunteer groups," said the Southgate mayor.

One group of volunteers that particularly interests the mayor is Novi's fire fighters.

"We might consider bringing in volunteers as fire men leave through attrition and retirement. Unless things turn around more governmental units are going to be going this way. City's can't afford full time departments any more when you consider the cost of retirement and severance pay. For every one dollar we pay for police and fire 34 cents goes for retirement benefits. We levy 2.5 mills just for police and fire retirement funds."

He encouraged Novi to avoid "the mistakes of being generous in too many Reaume also commented on the city's "great potential for commercial development and a varied industrial base. It's also great to have that lake up there. There is such a tremendous opportunity when there is lake frontage, not only recreational but commercial development. I envision hotels and motel buildings on the lake front." He also enjoyed visiting the city complex which is situated like Southgate's. Southgate has a municipal complex located in the central part of the city. Most of the buildings are between five and six years old, Reaume said. The complex includes a library, police and fire building and a Department of Public Works, a municipal ice rink, a 400-seat convention hall and a new city

Governor cites Roethel in to Michigan to receive the honor in Marshall. She will jam the 24-hour trip By KATHY JENNINGS Roethel's contributions to her community, state and nation have been

To reach Romaine Roethel these days you have to know someone who has her itinerary.

Last week on Thursday she was in Albegurque, New Mexico.

Reached at her Holiday Inn hotel room at 8 a.m. New Mexico time she was awake and able to talk about everything from the American Legion's stand on military spending to her award from Governor William Milliken.

recognized by Governor William Milliken who named her as one of this year's recipients of the Volunteer Leadership Award.

The award is presented annually to 10 citizens across the state who are selected on the basis of outstanding service to their communities in a strictly volunteer capacity.

She was nominated for the honor by the Novi Michigan Week Committee.

Roethel is serving this year as president of the American Legion Auxiliary. In the auxiliary she has held all major chairmanships in her unit, district and department and was elected state president in 1969. She also is a member of the American Legion Post 19 of Novi. Roethel also has been an active promoter of Special Olympics. Locally Roethel has been active both as mayor of Novi for four years and as a city council member. She worked on the first Novi road and drainage committee. She also represented the city in the South Eastern Michigan Council of Governments and the Michigan Municipal League. She represented the city in Washington on many occasions, along with performing numerous other community services.

This is the fourth consecutive year a Novi resident has been cited by the governor for outstanding service.

When contacted last week. Roethel said she had just learned of the award and was so excited she planned to fly to in between stops in Kansas and Pennsylvania

Besides her jubiliation at receiving the award, Roethel briefly talked of the sites in the middle east and Africa she saw in a recent overseas trip. She also explained how volunteer groups nationwide can help in these economic times.

'One thing the press hammers me with every time I stop somewhere is that we (the American Legion Auxiliary) are very supportive of the president's position militarily. In response I tell them about the programs we've undertaken to pick up the slack in areas the federal government used to fund. We have a program for displaced homemakers that we used to fill with CETA (the federal government's Comprehensive Education and Training Act program) employees. "What we're doing in our million member organization is offering grants to people who are members so they can update their skills and go back to school," Roethel continued. "With the number of organizations throughout the country, if each one did a little bit it would help." Roethel will take a break in her national and international traveling at the end of May when she will return to Novi to help celebrate her husband John's birthday. It will be the first time since Christmas she has been back in the ci-

Hot lunch sales drop 25 percent

By KATHY JENNINGS

Pretzels and chips are on sale in the lunch rooms, but that doesn't necessarily mean the Novi Schools have abandoned their committment to nutritional

What it does mean is that Novi, like school districts across the country, is fighting to keep its hot lunch program solvent. The number of students buying lunches this year is down 25 percent from last year, which compares with a national drop of 29 percent, according to Novi

Food Services Director Pat Hill. If things continue as they have been the hot lunch program could lose $5,000 this year, according to Assistant Superintendent William Barr. Barr says lunch sales fluctuate from year to year. Last year the program made $1,500, but lost $10,000 in 1980. Unfortunately for the lunch program, fewer student buy lunches in the spring. "Spring usually brings about lower participation," said Barr. "Everybody wants to get outside, so they bring a sack lunch. When the novelty of spring wears off, they start eating lunches again." Hill noted that the economy and the district's decision to raise prices probably have contributed to the decline in the number of students buying school

In August elementary school lunches rose to $1, while middle school and high school lunches jumped to $1.10. Adult lunches) o raised to cost $1.65. And milk rose from 11 cents to 20 cents.

School officials hoped at the time that the price increase would help offset reduced subsidies from the federal government. The school expected, and subsequently received, cuts in subsidies amounting to 9.5 cents per lunch and five cents for each carton of milk.

To compound the problem, the drop in student participation has meant that the amount of food received from the government has decreased correspondingly, Hill explains.

Vocal concert set

Schubert's Mass in G at the annual spring concert in Fuerst Auditorium tonight (Wednesday) at 8 p.m.

"We've never performed a major work of this nature and we're excited about it," said director Paula Joyner. "We think everyone in the audience will be thrilled

Soloists for the Mass are soprano Colleen Near, tenor Scott Hare and bass Doug Pointon, Accompanist Kim Henstock also will be featured. Lighter numbers will highlight the second portion of the program. "The Boy from New York City" and "Endless Love" will be among the selections. The Novi Singers, the Blue Shadows and numerous other soloists will perform

The annual spring concert is the last concert of the year and features approx imately 67 high school vocalists. "This is a very special concert since this is my fourth year at Novi High School and a lot of these kids I've had for four years," Joyner added. Admission to the Spring Vocal Concert is free.

Novi Woods readers meet Olympian task

Novi Woods elementary students have demonstrated they are Olympian readers by reading a total of 3,315 books during the March of Dimes Reading Olympics. As a result of their efforts, students in the first through fourth grades raised a total of $2,020 for the March of Dimes. It was the second consecutive year in which Novi Woods Elementary had the highest of participation of any school in Oakland

Students secured pledges from relatives for each book they read during the onemonth period. The March of Dimes awards medals to students who participated. The 102 students who read more than 20 books received gold medals, 55 students received silver medals for reading 10-19 books and bronze medals were presented to students who read 4-9 books. Third-grader Melissa Petresh topped all readers by completing 132 books. Her brother Jeremy, a first-grader, read 88 books.

Students are required to read books at their reading level, explained teacher Mary Dawn Withers. Parents confirm that students read the books after school. "The students worked very hard and enjoyed reading the books," Withers said. "Some of them went to each other's homes and read together. It became a social thing. We also kept charts in the classroom. Th kids really got into reading and it elped the March of Dimes at the same time."

Students were recognized for their efforts at a special award ceremony Thurslay. In addition to medals, the March of Dimes awarded students with certificates, Walled Lake Drive will be closed to through traffic from Pontiac Trail to the Walled Lake city limits at Fourteen Mile for approximately four to six weeks, according to City Manager J. Michael Dornan.

No date has yet been set for the road closing, Dornan said. The road will be off-limits to through traffic in conjunction with the city's plan to improve Walled Lake Drive, slated to be resurfaced and restriped. Dornan said he expects the project to begin by early June and be complete by the

"During construction, we have agreed to close off all of Walled Lake Drive for as long a time as possible," Dornan said at a recent council meeting. "Our intent, of course, is for those people who use the road to break the habit and start using Decker Road.'

Residents of Walled Lake Drive and its sidestreets strengously approved the idea of closing the road to through-traffic during the improvement project at a March meeting on the road issue Currently, the project is up for bids through the Michigan Department of Transportation. Bids are slated to be opened today (Wednesday) in Lansing and the project should begin within the next few weeks, Dornan said. While pedestrian walkways and standardized fencing had originally been considered in conjunction with the project, they have been postponed.

Representatives of a model airplane club appeared before the Wixom City Council last week to seek permission to establish a "mini-airport" on a 48.5 acre parcel of land on the Landrow Development Company property. The parcel is located on the north side of Pontiac Trail between Wixom and Old Plank roads, approximately opposite the Spencer Airport which is on the south

Council members delayed a decision on the request, however, citing numerous concerns that ranged from the potential impact of the model airplanes on Spencer Airport to noise pollution for area residents

Richard Brewer, an attorney and president of the model airplane club that was started through the Livonia Parks and Recreation Department, reported that the

The radio-controlled aircraft range in size from several pounds and an 8-10 inch wing span all the way up to 25 pounds and an 18-24 inch wing span, Brewer said. The world altitude record for the aircraft is 22,000 feet, but Brewer said the planes owned by club members rarely exceed an altitude of 15,000 feet.

Brewer also said the club, which is 22 years old, is chartered by the Academy of Model Aeronautics and voluntarily submits to all FAA regulations. "We've never had any problems," he said.

Opposition to the request to establish the "mini-airport" was expressed by everal council members, including Mayor Lillian Spencer who said she has heard complaints from neighbors about the noise associated with the model planes. "The noise doesn't bother me because I'm used to it," said the mayor, "but we've received several calls from neighbors who object to the buzzing sound." Council Members William Wyllie and Wayne Glessner expressed concerns that the model airplanes might have an impact on full-sized aircraft which utilize the

Representatives of the model airplane club said they had met with FAA officials, who expressed no objections to the location of the mini-airport across from Spencer Field, but Wyllie responded that there was no written report to that effect

"It concerns me that we're attempting to expand Spencer Field and yet have no report from the FAA about the potential impact on those plans by the location of pact operations at Spencer Field.

Parson to

Nature Dr. James H Luther

Everyone is born with a nature that is given to in. That nature never improves. Even if a person s converted, the old nature remains to struggle against the work of God in the human heart. For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other: so that ye cannot do the things that ye would" (Galatians 5:17). We can easily recognize the influence of the 'old man' because the Bible tells us how that nature is manifested: 'Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these; Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions heresies, envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God" (Galatians 5:19-21). Discouraging? Not necessarily! You see, the believer is equipped to live in victory over "the old man". When one accepts Christ, he becomes a partaker of the divine nature (II Peter 1:4). The power of God is thus present in his daily life. We must always remember that success in the Christian life is not found in the improvement of the "old nature", but in yielding to the new nature

Novi schools ready budget

Tentative budget figures were not available at presstime, but Novi school board members should have some numbers to work with when they conduct a budget work session today (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. in the school administration offices on Taft

Assistant Superintedent William Barr said Monday afternoon he had just received the school district's state equalized valuation — a number needed to determine the amount of revenues the district will receive during the 1982-83 fiscal year. The district also will conduct a public hearing on the budget, a Truth In Taxation hearing, and adopt ne budget on June 3. Barr said that by getting figures at the last minute, he would be working feverishly to prepare figures for the board to review when it looks over the proposed budget today.

As We See It

Lake level plans need more study that the topic of drains can be one neighbor, Novi, to task. of the most emotional, confusing touchv subjects municipalities have to deal with.

But delicate matters they often are, as witnessed currently by discussions in Novi and Walled Lake on a proposal to maintain the water level of the lake both cities share.

councils have turned down re- regard to Walled Lake. quests from Novi to participate in proposed projects in the past. Last week, Walled Lake council members again rejected the request — indirectly — by deciding not to budget $3,000 for a joint engineering study on lake level

Novi officials did not take kindly to Walled Lake's dismissal of the drain proposal, which they view as the keystone of their city's entire drainage system. They now find themselves in the position of either having to go ahead with the project on their own or trying to sell Walled Lake on the idea after that city has apparently shown it has no intention of getting involved.

Before tempers flare, however, it should be pointed out that Walled Lake did not reject the drain proposal wholesale; the council only decided not to include it in its tight-as-a-drum 1982-83 budget — a decision that can certainly be reversed when the council formally considers

Given the Walled Lake City Council's actions throughout its budget sessions, the decision was very much in keeping with its stated intention to cut corners wherever possible. The lake level project was, quite simply, one corner council members felt could be cut with little harm to

However, that position may ject as a whole. be short-sighted. We see a number of parallels between this Novi and W particular lake level project and the history of disputes between neighboring communities over drainage systems.

This is the same argument that occurred between the Village of Wolverine Lake and Commerce Township when residents around Commerce Lake were supset about what they viewed as sediment problems passed along to them courtesy of the Wolverine Lake rehabilitation.

It is the same reason villagers were upset about when the Greenaway Drain in Walled Lake spilled mud into Wolverine Lake and it is the same reason that years ago Northville was upset because it too had drainage

At times it is hard to believe problems and took its upstream

The attitude — which is not restricted to drain issues, by the way, — is: "Sorry, it's not our problem. It's your problem."

The fact of the matter is that the issues are often problems to both sides and are always worth careful consideration. However, what is of vital importance on one Consideration of installing a end is not always a high priority weir at the lake's south end and on the other and that is certainly setting an official lake level is the case with the drain proposal nothing new, and Walled Lake currently being looked at in

> Novi officials feel strongly and have for some time — that maintaining the water level of Walled Lake is greatly needed, but they have yet to find an argument convincing enough on the benefits to residents in Walled Lake that would gain them a financial commitment from the Officials upstream apparently feel the project is of little benefit to them, suggesting Novi will enjoy much more from the project and should, perhaps, pay more proportionately or foot the entire bill. They generally agree would be convenient for residents not to have to worry about the exact location of the waterline, but question whether that security is worth $30,000. which is about what Novi has estimated Walled Lake's share of

In addition, some council members are fearful that Walled Lake would be forced to parthe proposal, which it has not yet ticipate in the entire project if it helps finance the preliminary the total project and study to be.

A commitment to participate in the study is not a commitment to fund the project. Should Walled Lake contribute to an engineering study, it is possible the study would show Walled Lake really would receive no benefit from the lake level. That would be grounds to forego involvement in the pro-

Novi and Walled Lake should not consider this issue etched in granite, when in fact it has not really been addressed at a meeting of both cities. The proposal does merit a joint session, as some have suggested.

We have no doubt that if Walled Lake council members are convinced the proposal would help their residents, they will get involved. A city's first responsibility is to its residents, but the importance of cooperation cannot be underestimated and the lake level proposal needs to be looked at more closely. That it has been raised in the past does not mean the present council should dismiss it without being fully aware of the project as it now

Thinking out loud

By KATHY JENNINGS

"I don't read stories on taxes anymore for the same reasons I don't read stories on Reagan. They frustrate me." She has a college education, has successfully raised three children, holds a part-time job, has a typical suburban house in Northville and doesn't read stories on taxes.

As a result of an assessing error she has paid taxes on a garage that isn't even on her property for the past seven years. But that's not enough for her to start reading stories about assessments and taxes. Excuse me while I go bang my head against a thick brick

This isn't the way they told us it would be in journalism school. When professors explained "The People's Right To Know" didn't it imply people wanted to know? I'm not sure

Once when I was bright-eyed and fresh out of college I believed it was my job to take complicated issues and explain them to people.

Now I know more about Michigan's tax system, municipal and school financing than a person has a right to, but I'm not sure what to do with this information. From what I've seen people would rather complain about taxes than learn about

Admittedly, I'm growing cynical. It comes from sitting at meeting after meeting where the audience is missing. Before I go on I should probably explain public participation in government is a subject that brings out the soap box orator in my soul. It raises my blood pressure, makes my eyes bulge, it raises my voice several decibels. When the topic comes up I try to stuff my fist in my mouth before making a fool of myself by talking too long and too loudly. Some silly staffer hearing me in full tirade suggested I use it for a column — this is it.

As I was saying, elected officials do not become twoheaded monsters after election day. There is not one verified report of a local taxpayer being eaten by the city council or even the school board. Special times at meetings are set aside for anyone from the public who wants to talk. So why do people so rarely show up?

Maybe people can't see how these decisions relate to them Maybe nobody cares. Perhaps they are satisfied the elected officials are doing the job, trusting souls. Or, God forbid, maybe they just read about it in the newspaper.

wonder where the people are. There are some who believe the American system o government was set up to keep people from being involved.

These hard core cynics say our government thrives on its citizens' self ignorance: people who don't question what government is doing to them and don't know what is happening to them as a result of what they know

Taking it a step further, the cynic says it is not the peoples' fault they are not involved, they are simply acting out the role ... the system has scripted for them — the role of the uninvolved

Because our founding fathers had little faith in the common man as group they developed a system where problems caused by man's evil nature would be diffused. It is a system where we elect officials and groups who we expect to be wise and look at issues from a broader viewpoint — officials who are more likely to represent the interest of the entire country or community than the masses who elected them.

But in the process we lost the benefits derived from people meeting together as equals to make common decisions and take actions. We lost personal responsibility for governmental

Since we're not personally responsible, because we have elected someone else to take care of it, there is no reason to at-

The theory makes sense to me. I wish it weren't that way,

I'm afraid it is, but I don't think it has to be. I would rather believe those who say politics is nothing more than speaking and acting. They think it is by being political in this sense of the word that one becomes distinctive, begins to define himself or herself.

Rather than viewing politics as some dirty, abstract, thing for power hungry egomaniacs it is viewed as a function of how we think of each other and how we relate to the whole.

To me this is what local government is supposed to be . about. Local government provides a forum for people to discuss common concerns, where they can demonstrate who they are by how they speak and act.

Which brings us back to taxes. One of the most important thing local legislators — council and school board members — do each year is set the budget. Between them last year they collected $10.8 million in Novi property taxes - $8.9 million for the schools and $1.9 million

The number of people who came to hear how those elected bodies planned to spend local tax dollars and other revenues can be counted on two fingers. And last year was not unusual. This year there is a new twist. It's called Truth in Taxation. All it means is that if assessments go up and a local unit of government gets increased revenues as a result, they have to 📑 old a hearing to tell people more revenues are coming in. There has been a debate in the office. Some reporters think people are going to show up enmasse at Truth in Taxa-Frankly, I think the same two people who showed up at the

week's column — the one about the lady who said she thought I looked like Phil Donahue.

What I want to get straight is this: I didn't say I looked like Phil Donahue. I merely reported objectively and factually that a lady told me she thought I looked like Phil 💮 🕯 🔴

I prefer to think of myself as something: of a cross between Clint Eastwood and Robert Redford, but I readily acknowledge that the likeness probably exists more in my; own mind than anywhere else.

Nobody has ever told me I remind them? of Clint Eastwood or Robert Redford. But the fact remains that there was someone who did in fact say she thought I looked a little like. Phil Donahue. Who am I to argue with a ladywho obviously has her head together?

But what has amazed me is the backlashsince last week's column. You'd think it was my fault that some lady noticed a resemblance between a couple of Phils.

One lady who shall go unnamed (it's Dianne Bish, if you really must know) sent me a note containing two words — Phil Donahue — followed by a question mark.

Others have suggested that I know a lady who needs to have her television set adjusted. As a post script, I report that the lady in question called Tuesday to register her react

Novi has objected to the denial of its complaint on the grounds that: • the Department of Social Services has ignored the state standard for placement of adult foster care homes which requires homes be at least 1,500 feet apart;

Advent of cable will bring about new philosophies for advertising

By TIM RICHARD

For decades, television has been known as a "mass medium."

With the advent of subscription cable television, the market will become, ragmented. No longer will one or two or three broadcasters dominate the market. Advertisers will have a tougher time reaching a mass audience. But those who know how to "target" their audiences will do well.

Americans will watch more hours of television each day. They will pick and choose freely between commercial network and subscription cable channels. That picture of trends in the 1980s and 1990s was painted by an advertising specialist and a network vice president. Edward N. Ney, chairman of Young & Rubicam, which places millions of dollars of commercials each year, and Frederick S. Pierce, executive vice president of

ABC, said it was easier to spot trends than put number values on them. "Cable TV is in 30 percent of the homes in America," said Ney. "At this time, there are no - sob! - commercials on pay TV. The operators and producers of those services swear that 'twill ever be thus.' "We say different. At Y&R, we think that pay cable...will ultimately go the historic way of all informational and entertainment media and accept advertising

When pressed for a date when advertising would come to cable TV, Ney rolled The advertising executive raised three questions facing marketers watching the

 "Will technology create so many new channels of information and entertainment that the homogeneous mass audience, as we know it, will be significantly "Will that same technology force advertisers and agencies to devise new market profiles, media standards, cost measurements and quality evaluations?

 "Will creative techniques have to be invented to match the new interests of the Asked for examples of these "creative techniques," Ney said cultural and arts programs would be poor vehicles for detergents but better for TV sets and Lincoln autos. Commercials on such programs would be longer, contain more facts and be

Y&R already has found that movie house advertising must play to a younger audience — 18 to 30 — than TV ads. Movie house ads "must be lively, should contain some humor and can't be stuffy," he said.

Cable television will bring a whole new market of viewers, Ney said. Those homes with just basic cable watch six percent more (hours) than the average U.S. teleivison home. But those with pay-cable watch 22 percent more. "And just to stretch credulity, try this statistic: In late-night fringe time, homes with pay cable watch 48 percent more than the average non-cable household."

He said: "Advertisers may, unfortunately, wind up paying more for less - in copy testing, audience research and product information. But they may wind up trading efficiency for effectiveness.' If a commercial network should be running scared, ABC's Pierce did not admit

"The networks will have a smaller share of a larger viewing pie," he predicted. "Thus, if ABC TV has 10 percent of all households in any hour of the day, that share may shrink to 9 or 8 percent by 1990. But the number of households watching TV will be significantly larger.

Network programming will have to de-emphasize repeats and come up with more original programs. Major offerings such as "Rich Man, Poor Man," 'Holocaust" and "Winds of War" (the last scheduled for next season) will lure viewers away from pay-cable to commercial networks. he said. ABC is hedging its bets, he said, by offering two cable services itself.

One is "Arts," which has three hours an evening of cultural programing. "These audiences may be smaller," Pierce said, but the demographics can be beautiful. Sixty percent of the arts audience are college graduates — four times the national average. Almost half have incomes of more than $30,000 a year. And one in every six among the arts viewers has published books or articles. "Cable is clearly a demographic medium and uniquely able to meet specific pro-ram and advertiser needs," he said.

NEW HUDSON POWER, a Case lawn and garden tractor dealership on Grand River, east of New Hudson, was honored as "Top North American Dealer of the Year" during the Circle of Excellence awards recently held at the Outdoor Power Equipment Division of J. I. Case, Winneconne, Wisconsin. Randy Cevora (right) of New Hudson Power receives a plaque and trophy for theoutstanding sales achievement of the New Hudson company from W. J. Schlapman, vice president and general manager of J. I. Case Company. This is the fifth straight year that New Hudson Power has received the award.

The three-day program included a complete tour of the Outdoor Power Equipment Division's facilities where guests had the opportunity to view the entire manufacturing and assembly operations of the Case lawn and garden tractor line. Cevora, his sister Cindy, Karen Hoxey and Steve Lange stayed in nearby Oshkosh while attending the three-day program. In addition, they toured Universal Foundry, Oshkosh, one of the parts' suppliers for Case tractors. A business meeting for dealers and various activities for their guests were also a

The specialists join three general practitioners at the clinic established by Dr. Russell Atchison, who sees patients on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Full-time physicians there are Dr. Orlo Robinson

He is a graduate of Case Institute of Technology where he received lithium products, electrolytic maganese and ferroalloys containing many of the plants will already be in bloom. These small blooming plants, when planted in the garden, are the foundation of large blooming plants in the

(Although some of these spring garden mums will not be in bloom, they'll be identified with a color tag showing the plant in bloom). The reason this works is that chrysanthemums are perennials. Once planted, you should be able to enjoy many seasons of bloom from the same plant. They're also short-day plants which means they get buds when nights are longer than days. Hence, greenhouse growers start with young plants which form flower buds in March before the days lengthen, or else they shade them to artifically provide the long nights which initiate bloom.

Gardeners are the winners from the resulting double blooming, first on small plants in the spring, then on the big plants in the fall. These young, vigorous, disease-free plants end. The technique is easy. As soon as the spring bloom fades, pinch them off and wait until the new growth has at least two sets of leaves. Pinch out the top of each new shoot. Repeat as the plant grows, making the last pinch no later than July 15. By this time you will have built a plant with many shoots, each of which, come fall, will turn into a spray of blossoms.

Many of today's garden mums are bred to come into bloom earlier in the fall than older varieties which means many more weeks of bloom before cold weather finally cuts them down. Pan American Plant Company has developed 47 different varieties of high performance chrysanthemums, with the newest addition, the Mascot Series, as bountiful with their bloossoms as the chrysanthemums of

No longer do you have to be satisfied with just a few flower colors and shapes. Colors seem blended just for the harvest season, when annuals tend to diminish. There are hearty bronzes, rusty coppers and vibrant reds, a good foil for tree-leaf color changes.

Or choose from pinks of all shades and hues, shading from the hint of sinlight in a dawn sky to

Coleus make comeback with strong new strains

It used to be that gardeners who wanted annual color in shaded areas planted either impatiens or Oh, sure, there was coleus, but the plants tended to get spindly and flower and go to seed fairly early

Then the plant breeders got busy. Today, these are so many fine coleus selections available that it's hard to choose among them. Lowell Ewart, Michigan State University floriculturist, says the first of the new, improved coleus types was the Rainbow series. Rainbow coleus has medium-sized, finely serabout 15 inches. They make a colorful background planting for low-growing annuals, including dwarf coleus varieties.

Named Rainbow selections include: Multicolor — leaves are marked with splotches and stripes of green, red, yellow and chocolate:

 Velvet — young leaves are a deep crimson red and grow darker with age; and • Color Pride — the green border around the cerise-rose center is broken by streaks of red. Two dwarf versions of Rainbow coleus are Seven Dwarfs and the Wizard series.

Seven Dwarfs is a blend of seven colors. Plants are dwarf (eight inches tall) and bushy and slow to flower. It is an excellent mixture for pots, hanging Plants in the Wizard series are compact and slow to flower and go to seed. Plants begin branching at the base and require no pinching to stay neat and compact all summer. The plants grow to about 10 inches and bear large leaves in bright, clean colors ranging from apricot to yellow to red. Wizard coleus does well in beds and pots.

Another series of dwarf coleus is the Carefree family. The leaves of these eight-inch plants are shaped like oak leaves with rounded lobes in shades of amber, brown, bronze, green, ivory and dark crimson. The plants stay bushy all summer and perform well in border plantings and containers. Larger leaved than the Carefree selections, more heavily serrated and with more clearly defined contrasting edges are the plants in the Dragon series. Color combinations include deep scarlet with a green edge, pink with a green edge and deep red with a purple edge. This last color combination has been named Black Dragon. The Fiji series has fringed or ruffle-edged leaves. Plants reach 12 to 15 inches in height. Color combinations include cream and green; rose and cream with a green edge; green, yellow, cream and Plants in the Saber series are short (eightinches), compact and bushy. The long, sabershaped leaves give the series its name. Color combinations include ivory with a green margin, bright red, scarlet with a yellow-green edge, and tricolor - salmon, red and yellow with green stripes.

Sword coleus plants have long, slender, ruffled leaves in green and yellow, and red and yellow. A variety developed specifically for use in hanging baskets is Scarlet Poncho. The main stem stands upright but the lateral shoots droop for a cascading effect. Foliage is bright scarlet with green flecks and yellow-green borders. Though coleus is primarily a shade-loving plant, the Saber, Seven Dwarfs, Wizard and Carefree types will tolerate morning sun. Dragons, Fijis and Rainbows, however, do better if they're shaded at least 75 percent of the day. In heavy shade, Dragons

Colors in coleus will be brighter if the plants do get some sun or bright, indirect light. High emperatures in the plant tissues as a result of high afternoon summer temperatures in combination with full sun will either burn the leaves or dull the Questions? Write to Attorney Larry Korn, care of Sliger-Livingston Publications, Post Office Box 160, Northville, Michigan 48167. Questions will be answered on a space-available basis. Answers in this column are directed at specific facts and may not apply in all situations.

Q. I wish to sell my house on land contract. There is a clause in my note and mortgage that says I must first get the approval of my savings and loan association before I sell the property, otherwise they can foreclose on my mortgage. Since I will be making all of the mortgage payments, this doesn't seem right. Can the savings and loan association enforce this clause?

A. Many of the banks and savings and loans associations have been insisting that their notes and mortgages be renegotiated with a higher interest when the mortgagor sells the mortgage

Frank Kelley, the attorney general of the State of Michigan, is disputing the right of the banks and savings and loan associations to enforce this note and mortgage provision. There also has been litigation in the courts seeking to hold such clauses in notes and mortgages unconstitutional.

In recent months, some sellers have sold their property on land contract and not notified the banks or mortgage companies. You would be taking a risk to do so, since your mortgagee might foreclose on your note and mortgage. The banks and savings and loan associations get notice of a sale when they receive a notice that there has been a change in insureds on an insurance policy, or a notice from the county or city treasurer that someone new is paying the taxes. Since the issues raised are very complex and changing from

A. You would have to file a petition in the Monroe County Probate Court. listing the heirs and asking for the appointment of yourself or one of the other heirs as personal representative for the estate, and then list that property as an asset. If all the heirs file "consents," the property might by transferred without the necessity of a formal hearing.

Q. I have made out a will appointing my sister guardian to my child. Since the original will was drafted, I have become widowed and remarried. How would I make my new husband a part of my present will? Can this be done through an attachment?

A. You can make a new will at any time. The other will can be destroyed and a new will made which would acknowledge the change or circumstances that has occurred in your family. The amendment or "attachment" you referred to is called a 'codicil." It either adds to or makes changes in a will. In light of your remarriage, I would recommend that you consult the attorney who drafted the original will and have a new will drawn up. It will generally cost the same amount of money for a new will as a codicil, so you might want to review all the operation of law to the survivor. Therefore, if those are the only assets she had, there will be no assets in the estate to probate.

Q. My mother wishes to leave some property to my halfbrother, who is an alcoholic, but she is afraid he might sell it to feed his habit. How can she prevent this from happening and still turn the property over to him?

A. She should write a will and incorporate a trust as part of the will, naming a trustee. If the property generates income, the trustee can dispense the earned income to your brother but preserve the "corpus" (or principal assets) of the estate until he sobers up, or until some other event takes place which would ter-

Q. What does it mean if I have been awarded a classified claim against an estate by a judge?

A. When a person dies there is a requirement, if the estate goes into probate, that the Personal Representative advertise in a legal newspaper. If anybody has a claim against the deceased person, they must file that claim within a certain time period in the Probate Court.

If a creditor does file that claim, the Personal Representative can pay it or dispute it. If the claim is disputed, it may be submitted at a hearing before a probate judge. If the claim is allowed, it means that the court has found that this is a debt that the deceased owed which must be paid before the probated estate can be closed.

Q. I have a problem with a warranty deed covering property in Florida. The deed presently has two names on it which I would like to remain on, but I would like those two people to be indicated as joint tenants with rights of survivorship. Both people live in Michigan, both know that I want to make this change, and both are agreeable to it. How would I go about changing the

A. What you would do is go to a lawyer with the two people and ask the lawyer to draft a quit claim deed. The two people would sign the quit claim deed back to themselves as joint tenants with rights of survivorship. The deed would then be witnessed. notarized and sent to Florida for recording. Florida will accept the new deed as long as it is drafted and executed in accordance with the laws of the State of Florida.

Q. I'd like to ask you whether we can collect on a judgment we received in the small claims court about two years ago. The store that owes us money closed up and then the owner moved. We think he has opened another business in another county. We've been told that nothing can be done to get our money. Is this true?

A. You might be able to collect the money. You would have to find out what type of business organization they were operating under. If they were operating under a corporation and went defunct, you'd have a problem collecting. If they were operating under a partnership or sole proprietorship, you could go against the owner and any of his persona assets. The way you would do that is either by garnishment if the owner is presently working or by a writ of attachment. You would go back into the same court that awarded you the judgment, get a writ of attachment against some item of his perjudgment, get a writ of attachment against some from the sonal property (for instance, his car if he owns one) and attach

Q. I have a claim against a business, I want to sue them but the amount is only about $100. How do I do this?

A. For an amount up to $600, a person can go into small claims court without a lawyer and start a lawsuit. You simply need the name and address of the person you want to sue and proper documentation (such as cancelled checks or sales receipts). In the small courts the clerks usually are very cooperative in helping people file lawsuits. Also, when you are suing someone in small claims court, you do not go into your local district court; you must go into the district court in which the defendant lives or in which the defendant is doing business.

Debbie Anderson tops graduate list

Deborah Anderson, a 1978 Novi High School graduate, has graduated summa cum laude with a Bachelor of Science degree from Alma College, an accomplishment which requires at least a 3.8 grade point average (GPA) and a 3.6 GPA in credits outside the division of her major.

Deborah, the daughter of Kenneth and Arlene Anderson of Nine Mile, was valedictorian of Novi's 1978 graduating class. A biology major at Alma, she also was graduated with honors in her major department. To receive honors in biology, a student must have a minimum 3.5

GPA in the major field, write a thesis of honors caliber and present the thesis

She presented her thesis, "The Metabolic Rate of the Desert Lizard: Cnemidophorous velox and Sceloporus undulatus." at both the 1982 Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters' annual meeting in March and the state Beta Beta (biology honorary) conference in April. Shw was awarded second prize for her presentation at the Beta Beta Beta conference. Deborah researched the thesis at Los Alames Scientific Laboratories in Los Alamos, New Mexico, and at Alma College last summer when she received a national Science Foundation-Undergraduate Research Program grant.

Other recent honors for her include election to both Phi Beta Kappa and Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary societies. She also was inducted as a charter member of Chi Epsilon Mu, an Alma College Chemistry Honor Society inaugurated this year. Membership in that society is open to students who have completed 19 hours in chemistry and who have at least a 3.0 overall GPA and a 3.0

Robert Adair and Delphine McAllen, both of Novi, were graduated from Michigan State University during winter term commencement exercises. Adair earned a BS degree with high honors in Social Science Pre-Law, while McAllen earned a BS degree in marketing.

Dennis Tuck of Novi has earned a BS degree in Geography and Earth Sciences from Northern Michigan University.

Thomas Yakel of Novi has earned a BA degree in speech and business from Adrian College. He is the son of George and Marilyn Yakel.

Four Novi residents have received degrees from Madonna College. Lisa Brown graduated with a BA in social sciences, Mary DiManno graduated with a BS in gerontology, Frances Loynes earned a BA in religious studies and Diane McMahon earned a BSN in nursing.

Former higher tar smokers report MERIT "Best-tasting low tar I've tried."

Can a low tar cigarette provide the taste incentive to switch smokers from higher tar brands?

6-C-THE NOVI-WALLED LAKE NEWS-Wednesday, May 19, 1982

Research consistently proves that MERIT can.

MERIT Taste Sparks Switch.

Nationwide survey reveals over 90% of MERIT smokers who switched from higher tar are glad they did. In fact, better than—leading higher 94% don't even miss their former brands.

Further Evidence: 9 out of 10 former higher tar smokers report MERIT an easy switch, that they didn't give up taste in switching, and that MERIT is the best-tasting low tar they've ever tried.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

MERIT Clear Choice.

In addition, extensive unmarked-pack tests confirm that MERIT delivers a winning combination of taste and low tar when compared against higher tar

Confirmed: The overwhelming majority reported MERIT taste equal to—or Confirmed: When tar levels were revealed, 2 out of 3 chose the MERIT combination of low tar and good taste.

Year after year, in study after study, MERIT remains unbeaten. The proven taste alternative to higher tar smoking—is MERIT.

Our City Helped Itself. . .

There are many ingredients that have gone in Mainstreet 78, the program that has resulted in the improvement of public facilities in Northvillee's central business district.

It all began nearly five years ago as a question asked:

"How can we strengthen the tax base of our business district while maintaining the unique and important characteristics it provides our community?"

The answer:

"Beautify the public facilities in the downtown area to improve accomodations for shoppers. By so doing this will encourage merchants to improve their places of business and attract new business to Northville."

The city council accepted the challenge of leadership and appointed a Downtown Development Authority. And this body turned to Michigan Public Act 197 (Tax Increment Financing) as a vehicle for funding the project.

But to make it all possible, the DDA called upon voters of the city of Northville to support its improvement project by guaranteeing the bonds with the full faith and credit of the city. And voters responded positively.

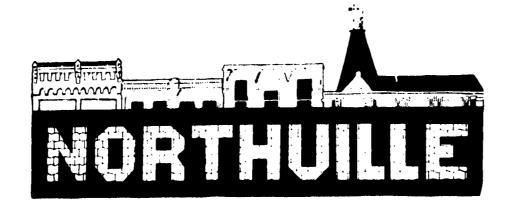

Additionally, more than one hundred interested citizens contributed thousands of dollars so that an extra touch could be added to the improvement package (the clock, benches, tree guards, etc.).

Truly, Mainstreet 78 has been a community project... an example of self-help despite a poor economic climate. . . which we believe will pay handsome dividends in the future for Northville. Northville's city council is proud of Mainstreet 78, especially since the council fully realizes that it could not have been accomplished without broad citizen support.

We invite all citizens to enjoy the upcoming dedication celebration. Bring your friends and relatives to Northville so they see "Our Town: Downtown".

STATE OF MICHIGAN OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR LANSING

May 12, 1982

To the People of Northville Northville, Michigan

It gives me the greatest pleasure to take part in Northville's "Dedication: Our Town/Downtown."

The people of Northville and their leaders can be proud of the creative way in which they have used the state's Downtown Development Act to restore and preserve the city itself.

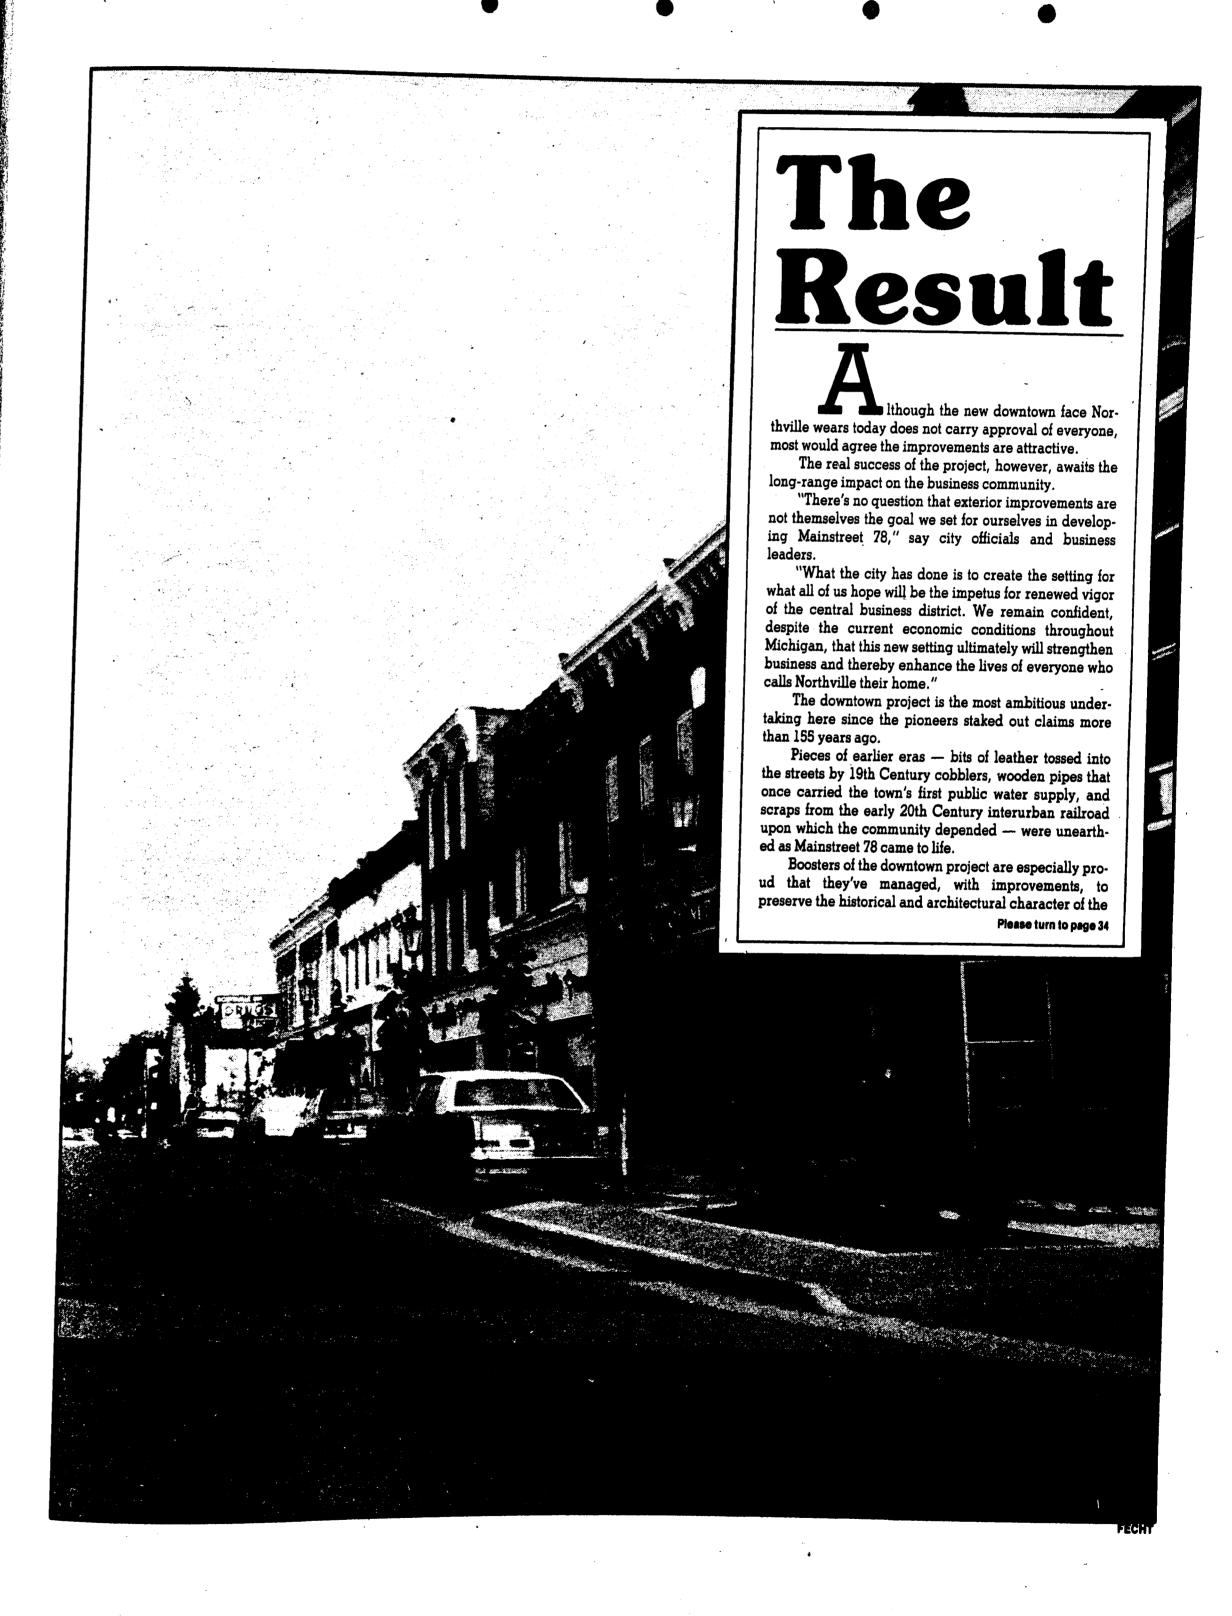

Those of us in state government are pleased and proud to see the good that can come from the joining of progressive state programs and local imagination and initiative.

I want to congratulate you for all your efforts to preserve the best of the past and to extend my best wishes for a progressive future.

Kind personal regards.

Say yes to Michigan!

The clock never had been in the Mainstreet 78 budget, City Manager Steven Walters explains. The donation program was the brainchild of Mayor Paul Vernon and the city beautification commission.

The 12,000 tulip bulbs that right now are providing bright splashes of color in parks and planter areas throughout downtown were purchased with a gift and funds of the beautification commission. Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Whittington contributed the gift of $1,000. The centerpiece downtown's about face watchers compare Northville's new foursided clock with the curving-frame sidewalk benches throughout the downtown and determine they are of like vintage, they are right.

Both are reproductions of the late Victorian era. Canterbury Designs, the firm from which they were ordered, has reproduced an 1890 street clock and a park bench of the same period.

The elaborate, carved-detail ornamentation on the base, the fluted column and the finial decorating the top all mark the design as late Victorian classic, developed throughout English-speaking countries just before the turn of the cen-

Because this also is the period in change plans and have a four-sided clock which Northville was growing with handsome Victorian houses garnished with carpenter lace, turrets and other period details, those who were planning Mainstreet 78 renovation looked for beautification accessories to complement the buildings.

"The clock was never included in the (renovation) bids," City Manager Steven Walters points out.

Original sketches showed a clock on Main Street midway between Hutton and Center. A two-sided aluminum design was being considered initially as the program of encouraging donations began.

In March of 1981, Mayor Paul Vernon reported to the Downtown Development Authority for Mainstreet 78 that the twofaced town clock was fully subscribed. Discussion then began on whether to Mainstreet 78 proposal was presented in May, 1978, to local business people, the reception was enthusiastic. Walters remembers that at the evening's end the clock had its first four $1,000 contributors.

The clock was ordered last June as a six-to-eight month time period was required. It was good that there was ample time as it did not arrive until March.

the DPW yard to be installed May 7 under snowplows often get caught on im the direction of DPW superintendent Ted Mapes and city workers together with Kocian equipment. After power was supplied by Detroit Edison, Fisher Electric completed the wiring so that the clock will be spotlighted from the base. Mel Anderson then adjusted the hands and set the works

Before being set in place as a new city landmark, however, the island plans were renovated. The near-record winter snows had pointed up the need to provide a higher platform for the clock.

There had been incidents of drivers going over the island curb, and a snowplow had been caught on it; therefore, the decision was made to elevate the main portion, making it more visible and more secure.

Finally, it was brought from storage at Walters noted, however, that the pediments in winters of great amounts of now. He said that on any street heaving pavement can cause plows to hit manhole covers. Water valves, too, are problems.

As the clock made its debut in a rain shower, workers found a crack in the exterior column above the base. A call to the company, Walters recounts, determined that the inner column was the weightbearing one. The city was advised to have the crack welded, and it called in Huff Welding to do so.

By the evening's end, the clock had four pledges

Keeping to a close timetable tied to the beginning of Michigan Week, workers bricked the island that weekend.

Cotoneaster shrubs were planted around the base after the large boulders donated by Don Thomson of Thomson Sand and Gravel were in place.

Then, G. Dewey Gardner, who serves on the city council as mayor pro tem and is a member of the Downtown Development Authority, personally planted the geraniums at the clock base. For statistics lovers, the clock itself is 16 feet, six inches tall and each dial is 30 inches in diameter and is backlit.

Our City of Northville has also gone through many changes and growing pains until now we are beginning to see the maturing of the hopes and dreams of many people.

Frenette, who has been featuring Northville in his program, "Sketches and Comments," on WJR radio this week.

Frenette is to be the featured speaker at the noon luncheon tomorrow at First Presbyterian Church, which officially kicks off the three-day Dedication: Our Town Downtown celebration.

Throughout Michigan Week the radio personality has been devoting his "Sketches" programs which airs three times daily — at 1:30 and 11 a.m. and 7:15 p.m. — Monday through Thursday to Northville.

Monday, Frenette reported that the Michigan Week and explained he will be the luncheon speaker at the dedication

Downtown Northville has been completely rejuvenated, and if you haven't been to Northville lately you should see it. I drove into the new downtown the other day with my wife and friends, and we all were pleasantly surprised...I think it's a perfect example of preservation and conservation and recycling of buildings combined with new streets and sidewalks and lampstandards and landscaping to create an overall effect of what I like to call "a lively sense of history."

The new construction blends with the old. Maybe the weather had something to do with it when we visited...it was a bright, sunny spring day, and the cheerful patches of tulips and daffodils accompanied us on a leisurely stroll around the new

A most pleasant lunch at MacKinnon's - lunch with a French accent made the visit that much more enjoyable. Then we were told a visit to the Hole-inthe-Wall was a must. We took it all in and our vote was unanimous in favor of Frenette concluded his Monday comdedication was scheduled to coincide with ments by adding that he is glad to be a part of this celebration.

On Tuesday, Frenette revealed to his radio audience that Governor William Milliken will be in Northville Friday for the official dedication ceremony. He then outlined the celebration schedule:

That will happen shortly after 9 o'clock...and then Northville has planned

Frenette mentioned the new clock, landscaping in parking lots and in "pocket parks." He added that it is fitting the dedication be during Michigan Week "because Northville has a message for other communities. Tomorrow, Frenette will tell his audience that he singled out Northville for his Michigan Week focus because "Northville obviously has people who care."

To a downtown winner from a community winner the NORTHVILLE KIWANIS CLUB

Kiwanis isn't a knife and fork group; it's an organization of active citizens — your neighbors — intent on serving the community in which they live, work or play.

From its inception, the Northville Kiwanis Club has rolled up its sleeves and worked in a variety of ways to help make Northville a place of pride. A few examples:

- Financing and building the Allen Terrace Library for your senior citizens
 Financing and actively participating in a bi-weekly bowling program for your handicapped children
- Financing and building the Santa House in the new town square for your children's enjoyment
- Committing money and muscle for park development in the township for your families

We're proud of Northville and its enhanced downtown in which we also played a role. Come join us for the downtown celebration May 22.

And if you want to share our satisfaction in serving Northville, we invite you to be a part of Kiwanis...the club that means community service. We meet each Monday evening at 6:30 at Little Caesars on Seven Mile. We'd like to have you join us.

Windows rattled, store buildings shook as the old concrete and the earth beneath gave way to the hungrey giants, revealing long-buried pieces of Northville's past — roots of canopy elms that once lined downtown streets, sections of the interurban railroad of another era, chunks of leather said to have been tossed into the roadbed by 19th Century cobblers, and even rotted wood pipe that once carried the town's water supply.

Slowly — too slowly for merchants who feared disruption of business and for shoppers who tiptoed across debris — the most visible sign of reconstruction took shape. Purposely, the city ordered work in sections to minimize inconvenience.

Sidewalk superintendents gathered daily to offer advice and criticisms to sweaty workmen who often labored late into evenings to complete their tasks.

Meanwhile, construction and exterior refurbishing by businesses added to the sound of a proud city dressing in its Sunday best. Early this month the giant town clock stored at the DPW yard was uncrated and gingerly hoisted atop its controversial "island" pedestal, signalling the completion of a downtown beautification project unmatched in Michigan.

Dedication: Our Town DOWNTOWN

You're Invited

Our downtown improvement program is just about complete. And now we're ready to celebrate the occasion with a three-day

Those of us on the Downtown Development Authority have been involved in the improvement program for more than five years. Its object has been to provide a community with an attractive downtown area by improving sidewalks, streets, parking lots and other public areas. Naturally, we have hoped this would, by example, cause existing businesses to make improvements while attracting new business to our community. We believe the plan is succeeding.

Still to come down are the old power poles and lines standing in the business district and parking lots. All power lines are now underground. When this is completed we believe our downtown will look even more attractive. . . and will make our parking lots more convenient for motorists.

Meanwhile, we invite all citizens of the Northville community to join in the dedication celebration. We think the entertainment will attract many visitors. . . and that they will be favorably impressed.

We hope that you like our downtown, that you will enjoy the family fun planned for Friday and Saturday, and that you will invite the many visitors to come back again and shop in Northville.

These are names used to describe the City of Northville's method of financing the public aspects of the downtown development project.

Some homeowner skeptics remain unconvinced that it works; they still fear it's a way of prying more money from their pocketbooks.

Not so, say officials of Northville, a community which attracted state-wide attention when it became one of the first muncipalities in Michigan to use it.

Basically, it means the downtown development, which is officially dedicated May 22, is paying for itself.

Since 1978 all tax base growth in the three-block central business district has been used to repay the $1.6 million borrowed by the city. That growth — the difference between the pre-1978 assessed valuation of the downtown properties and the current value — will continue to be "captured" and used until the entire debt is retired.

Theoretically, the natural growth of downtown valuation should suffice to cover the cost of public improvements. But the public improvements themselves, officials confidentally predict, will insure the repayment of the loan.

The beautification of publicly-owned downtown property — the underground wiring, street repaving, bricked sidewalks, trees, shrubbery, parks, and the Victorian amenities enjoyed today — persuades private owners to improve their own properties and increase their value — the tax base.

Most certainly, say officials, who note that long before the project was completed property owners began improving their buildings. Still others are planning improvements. And the public improvements already have attracted new businesses.

We're proud. . .

We're proud to be part of the Community, proud to have played a role in Mainstreet 78, and proud to salute Northville's handsome, refurbished Downtown.

Just as Downtown Northville has been serving our shopping needs for many years, we've been serving municipalities, banks, business and industry with precision printing of bonds and notes.

downtown area.

In the early stages of planning, officials opted to make only those kinds of public improvements that would encourage beautification of existing buildings and additions of new businesses that contrast but complement the old.

They quickly rejected the concept of total redevelopment that would have meant the leveling of the central business district and reconstruction of the downtown area with all new buildings as has happened elsewhere.

Part of the city's historic district, the older central business district buildings were seen as keys to the character of the town. Mainstreet 78 was conceived, therefore, as a way to preserve and enhance this character.

The rejuvenation project has meant the removal of only two buildings — the former Chrysler dealership on Hutton Street and the bar building on East Main. The former, built in more recent years, was determined to be of little architectural significance. The bar, on the other hand, was one of the oldest buildings in the downtown area.

Both the city and its owner considered saving this building (at one time the Historical Society thought it might be suitable for the Mill Race Historic Village), but it was found to be structurally unsound, its repair too costly, and its move to the Mill Race for restoration economically

The bar owner, with approval of the city, had the building razed and a new structure facing on Main, and the minipark at Main and Hutton was erected in its

Similarly, the concrete block dealership was razed and a savings and loan company was persuaded to develop a new building in its place. Today that new building faces on Hutton, and the corner area where used cars once were displayed has been converted to a landscaped pedestrian mini-park. And the dealership property lot at Hutton and Dunlap was paved and landscaped to become part of the municipal parking lot behind Main Street stores. Additionally, the Hutton and Dunlap corner was widened for safer traf-

The two new buildings were privately financed; only public improvements were financed with city monies.

Key elements of the public improvements were the rebuilding of Main and Center streets and their adjacent Mainstreet 78 development, overhead utilities were placed underground. Some overhead wiring and poles, still standing, are slated for removal.

Sidewalks were widened, and sections were bricked and both Main and Center were landscaped with trees and shrubbery. Parking meters were removed, relaxation. and brick walkways were created at intersections across the new street paving. Perhaps the most controversial of the changes was the elimination of some street parking spaces because of widened sulas.

Street lighting, sidewalk benches, tree skirts and the town clock carry a Victorian theme to complement the Victorian architecture predominate in the downtown

Their contributions have helped pay for trees, tree skirts, benches, and the expensive town clock.

The Plan

But city officials, recognizing the importance of its central business district to the health of the community and alarmed by the declining business tax base trend, reacted positively, albeit too slowly to suit many parking places and "turning our some merchants.

A downtown development committee was named, and the following year a survey of businesses and shoppers, jointly financed by the city and the chamber, was launched. The survey confirmed a need for downtown improvement.

Although some people favored total redevelopment — the kind that would tear down existing buildings and build new ones as occurred in Fenton (Michigan) — Northville officials chose instead to beautify public property and encourage business owners to enhance their own prodation of its downtown development committee, city council ordered a revitalization plan. The chamber backed the effort, contributing $1,000 to help defray costs.

Two months later, the preliminary plan, called Mainstreet 78, was unveiled, triggering a mixture of approval and disapproval. Taking complaints and suggested changes under advice, council ordered detailed plans.

Then, in January, 1979 — less than a month before the financing plan was to go to voters, a revised, detailed plan was resubmitted to business people. The reaction was explosive; the plan and its proponents were loudly booed by merchants — a portion of whom, ironically, had themselves suggested some of the plan's key elements.

Chief among the objections were: the traffic flow proposal on Main Street; removal of most of the parking along Main Street; loss of parking spaces in the Main Street parking lot slated for conversion to a landscaped town square; and revised traffic flow on Mary Alexander Court.

The complaints stunned city officials, who wondered why they had allowed themselves to be persuaded by business

"to do something" only to find themselves now soundly criticized. Municipal veterans mused that they were being criticized for removing parking spaces by some of the same people who only a few years earlier roasted them for building too town into an asphalt jungle."

But convinced the health of the community was at stake, officials sent the plan back to the drawing board. Changes were made and the revised plan resubmitted to chamber members. This time, with the election barely two weeks away, the plan won approval of the business sector.

The revised plan restored most of the parallel parking on both sides of Main Street, provided for two-way traffic the full length of Main Street, reduced the size of the proposed town square, and it restored one-way westbound traffic on Mary Alexander Court.

Winning business' approval of the plan proved to be but half the battle. Voters, asked to pledge their faith and credit in the financing of the public improvements, also voiced their objections and turned down the proposal February 20, 1979, by a vote of 318 to 260.

Some voters had been persuaded by earlier business objections, others saw the proposed financing plan as a "scheme" to raise taxes, and still others doubted public support would encourage businesses to improve their own buildings. But most (on-15 percent of the electorate cast votes)

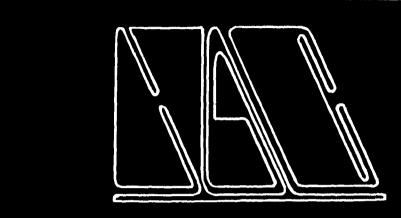

"My personal opinion," said discouraged mayor Paul Vernon in the wake of the election loss, "is that the people of Northville did a gross disservice to

Nevertheless, he and other proponents of revitalization refused to give

Using the argument that the poor turnout for the February 1979 election defeat did not reflect "a good sampling of the people," the city council a few months later voted to return the proposal to the

We have been serving the community since 1919 when Carl R. Ely established "Ely Coal and Ice." In 1935 we then built the ice house, which is pictured above. In 1948 the hardware building, to the left, was added along with an expansion of the business. The garden center came a few years later, in the early '60's, when the old ice house was torn down. The Plan

The second election, with approval of the county, was scheduled for July 31. Officials then set about gathering support for the proposal. Key was winning the backing of the business sector. That backing came in mid-July when some two dozen Chamber of Commerce members and retail merchants met to hear City Manager Steven Walters reinforce the "workability" of the financing proposal.

"We realize the necessity of the program," a spokesman said, "and (we, business people) believe it is the most economical manner for the benefit of the native courses of action should the 78 bonding plan won by better than a measure be defeated a second time. three-to-one margin, 612 to 186. Members generally agreed that improvement of the Dunlap Street parking lot had to be be done regardless of the election outcome — by financing from the general budget, if necessary.

With officials, chamber members and boosters out actively drumming up support — unlike the generally low-key campaigning that occurred prior to the first election, sketches of how merchants might improve the exteriors of their own buildings in keeping with the Victorian ped Johnston. theme were widely publicized.

The sketches were suggestions only, Downtown Development Authority officials emphasized, and not mandated. Also, the Northville Historic District Commission the city agency reviewing exterior changes in the historic district - reviewed the sketches and began using them as examples for applicants appearing before

(The historic district commission not to be confused with the historical society — had years earlier begun emphasizing the Victorian theme since it characterized the architecture of the older buildings in the district.)

Although absentee balloting was low and the city clerk feared another poor turnout, the chairman of a committee supporting Mainstreet 78 remained adamant:

"We're in this to win, and we're doing everything possible to acquaint electors with the importance of this bond issue."

City council, which encountered no major opposition to the plan going into the election, nevertheless tried to defuse fears expressed on the streets. Thencouncilman Stanley Johnston said:

"Let's get two things straight: Mainstreet 78 will use no tax money to fix up private properties — only publicly owned properties; and if the project pays for itself as planned, and there's every indication it will. Mainstreet 78 will not cost taxpayers one more cent than they are now paying."

The campaigning obviously had an

Thus, not only had the "yes" vote jumped substantially (352 votes more than the first time around), the number of negative votes cast dropped by 132.

Officials were delighted Said Mayor Paul Vernon: "That's the vote of confidence we needed. Although we would have preferred more voters, it was a pretty good turnout."

"I'm hoping to see the dirt flying in the parking lot (off Dunlap) by fall," quip-

But it wasn't until early the next summer when construction could begin because the bonds first had to be sold (in December) and construction contracts let.

But there wasn't much delay in improvement by business. With public improvements assured, private development and refurbishing got a head start. By March, Down River Federal had broken ground for its new downtown branch, and work and plans were moving ahead on other privately financed improvements.

Finally, the letting of the contract for underground utility work in June of 1980 officially signalled the start of Mainstreet
