Preliminary indications are that Novi could collect more money than it needs to balance the budget and may run amok of the new Truth in Taxation laws if the state wins its fight to raise property assessments in Oakland County.

Residential property values in Novi Pare slated to increase approximately six percent if the state prevails. Michigan Tax Commissioners voted Monday to apply a factor on residential property in Oakland County after determining property assessments approved by the Oakland County Beard of Com-

The assessed value of a piece of property is multiplied by the factor to bring the assessments to 50 percent of true cash value.

As a result of the state's action the ci-Oty is carefully weighing its options.

It appears that the city's most viable option is to maintain the existing millage, collect more revenues than needed to balance the budget and set those funds aside either to be returned to taxpayers or used in the next fiscal year, according to a memorandum from Finance Director Les Gibson to City Manager Edward Kriewall.

Gibson said if the city goes with this Duption it should take the position: "We did not budget for this additional revenue and do not want it. In fact we are supporting Oakland County's effort to have the increase eliminated by the Oakland County Board of Commissioners has set aside money to fight the state factor in federal court.

"At the time the budget was presented and approved it was assumed the state would not apply the factor," Gibson explained.

"Since the budget did not include revenue from this source the budget will not have to be amended," he said. "The thinking was that the city does not feel the factor is appropriate. If it happens it will cause unexpected revenues which will have to be returned if the court challenge is successful.

"If the court challenge is not successful we will be in a position of having extra revenue which next year can be used to reduce taxes or more realistically reduce any increase that would otherwise be required," Gibson explained.

If the city does not reduce its millage it will collect more tax revenues than it did one year ago, and could be found in violation of the Truth in Taxation legislation since the city adopted its budget without holding a hearing announcing it would take in more revenues.

To avoid a violation of the Truth in Taxation legislation the city could reduce its millage. Gibson considered both a three percent and a six percent millage rollback. However, Gibson sees problems in rolling back the millage.

The three percent rollback would allow the city to collect the amount needed to balance the budget, but would provide only partial relief to residential property taxpayers facing a six percent assessment increase.

To offset the increase to residential property taxpayers the city would have to roll back millages by six percent. But this means commercial and industrial taxpayers, whose assessments are are

Water rates set

82 percent in July as originally anticipated. But residents will be faced with a 50 percent increase in their water bills. A fight to stave off the increases approved in March by the Detroit City Council has resulted in a reduction in water rate increases for residential, commercial and industrial water customers. In a terse three-paragraph letter from the Detroit Water and Sewer Department, Novi officials were notified that effective July 1 water customers will be billed $8.25 per 1,000 cubic feet of water used. Water customers originally were to be billed $10.13 per 1,000 cubic feet.

The board offered no explanation of its reasons for lowering the rates charged to water customers in Novi.

City officials, however, are giving a not of credit to the city's consulting engineers for Detroit's decision to reduce the rate increase.

"Mosher-Kapelczak Inc., is to be commended for its analysis and work that made all this possible," said City Manager Edward Kriewall.

City Engineer Edward Jacobs explained the firm worked closely with the Detroit Water Department to determine whether the rates charged Novi residents were comparable to those in ther communities.

'We used logic and talked to them

Water rates in Novi will not increase engineer to engineer," Jacobs said. "We found they understand their system, but we were able to provide better numbers regarding the local system," Jacobs said. "They agreed with our numbers." He noted that some information used by Detroit in the technical formula to calculate water rates was inaccurate and the engineer's provided "more accurate" information. The city presented a more accurate representation of the peak water use figure for Novi. It also asked the water board to change some basic policies in the formulation of water rates because it believes the formula is not equitable for Novi. Changes in the method of determining the distance from Detroit water treatment facilities and a re-calcuation in the elevation of Novi was proposed. The engineers also asked Detroit to re-evaluate its formula because Novi is located on the perimeter of the Detroit water system and is not surrounded by service like most communities. When they completed their calculations the engineers proposed water customers in Novi be charged $8.22 per 1,000 cubic feet. Detroit settled on an $8.25 per 1,000 cubic feet rate.

The city decision to use Detroit water was made in the mid-60s because the underground water in the area is of poor quality and requires treatment, according to city officials.

Had the motion been to include, rather than omit, the primary, Novi Members of a committee reviewing would not conduct primary elections tocharter changes proposed: eliminating Although the committee discussed it, no plans to eliminate the primary election were forwarded to the council Mon-

'We heard more people supporting a primary than opposing it. There is a concern for primaries among some people," explained Mayor Robert Schmid, who serves on the charter review committee.

He said concerns were raised during committee meetings that eliminating the primary could result in officials being elected without a majority vote.

The committee also considered that in races where there are large fields of candidates, voters may not get a good picture of those running if some are not eliminated through a primary, according to Schmid.

"There was a concern about candidates having to run twice," added Council Member Martha Hoyer, who also serves on the charter change committee. "This proposal would eliminate the need to run twice. We also felt it would create an incentive for voters to turn out at primary. There was a feeling that if people were actually electing someone there would be a higher turnout." The committee subsequently proposed that any candidate who receives a majority of all votes cast for candidates of that office in the primary election shall be elected. The process would eliminate the need for a general electon in races where a candidate receives the majority of all votes cast for that office during the primary.

But council members objected that adopting the plan could change the character of elections in the city since it would emphasize an election which has historically had poor turnout.

"It's hard for me to see the benefit: it looks more like a disservice," Council Member Ronald Watson said. "Someone can sneak in at an election where nobody shows up to vote."

Schmid explained that if a candidate is elected under those circumstances: "It's not a matter of sneaking in, its a matter of people not voting. It's not the fault of someone running, it's the fault of someone not voting." Council Member Patricia Karevich said she would like the committee to explore other alternatives, such as eliminating the primary until the city's

Trustees consider students' request to serve on board

Regardless of the outcome of the June 14 election, it appears likely that the Walled Lake school board will have at least two new members next year. The two new members will not be old enough to vote, however, and will be non-voting members of Kenneth Breen, a Walled Lake Western student appeared before the school board Monday to ask that representatives from both Walled Lake Western and Central high schools be added to the board as non-voting members.

Citing South Lyon as an example, Breen reported that other school districts have student representatives on the board and suggested that the practice be adopted in Walled Lake.

"You make decisions regarding the future of our education," said Breen. "We want to develop a direct line of communcation with the board so you people can be aware of our opinions before you make vour decisions.'

Breen is one of the organizers of a group of Western students who have banded together to form "Project SAVE (Students for a Valued Educa-

Other members of the group who attended Monday's meeting were Matt Turner and Janet Ford. Project SAVE was formed out of the students' concerns with a proposed $3.2 million list of budget cuts which they believe will drastically affect their educational opportunities. Breen said Monday that Project SAVE will work to inform voters this summer "that students, too, have a deep concern about their education, both

Board members appeared receptive to the students' request for representation and voted unanimously to appoint a liaison person to assist the students in developing a proposal to proceed with

Jacques told council that Penny Lake was eligible for the redevelopment district If a CRD is established, the owners will be able to apply for tax abatement from under provisions specified in Public Act 225, which requires (among other things) the City of Walled Lake for up to 12 years. Currently there are no CRDs in Walled that the area is "characterized by a decline in commercial activity." Jacques pointed out that the former Ford dealership across the street from Pen-Arkin Jonna, one of the owners of Penny Lake Grocery, plans to build a new, ny Lake has been vacant for over 11/2 years, that adjacent Plaza West often has valarger grocery store on the property where the existing market sits as well as a cant storefronts and that no commercial building permits were issued in either computer store and a "Baskin Robbins-type" ice cream parlor as examples of After hearing Jacques petition for the CRD in April, council referred the matter to City Manager J. Michael Dornan for study. At last week's council meeting, Dornan said the total assessed value of Jonna's property is currently about $100,000, providing $1,764 in city taxes during 1981. Over a 12-year period (the maximum length of time for the tax abatement), taxes on the property would amount to over $21,000 should millage rates stay the same. Dornan said. If the council decides to set up a CRD and okays a 50 percent tax abatement for

"What if they plan to build six (retail) stores and only build three?" he asked. Poehlman noted the city could either accept a tax abatement on half the development or withdraw the exemption certificate. He also noted the abatement could be given for a shorter period of time than the 12 years requested.

As We See It

Citizen concerns should be united

Walled Lake's school board must weigh with extreme caution a request from a citizens' group ricular activities.

The situation is this. Deeply concerned about the cutbacks proposed for extracurricular acivities due to the district's economic problems, a group of citizens has formed a group named "Parents for Extracurricular Programs." That's PEP, for

What the citizens would like to do is pledge to raise some $100.000 to fund extracurricular activities in exchange for the board's assurances that the programs will be offered if the funds are delivered as promised.

Although the group's intentions are to be admired, their proposal is fraught with potential hazards.

The problem is this — under no circumstances should the board or administration permit the district to be operated on donations or fund-raising efforts by special interest groups, regardless of how noble the intenons of the group or the validity of the cause.

Public education is a public responsibility. Taxpayers must be given an opportunity to determine at the ballot box to what extent they want to fund public education. If they decide that they do not want to fund it to the extent of providing extracurricular activities, then they must anot be bailed out by citizens who shoulder more than their fair share of the load.

Citizens may well choose to fund popular programs, such as extracurricular activities in general and athletics in particular, through fund-raising efforts such as proposed by PEP.

The problem lies in the fact disabilities, are unable to

> The concerns raised by PEP are legitimate. The group is to be commended for its interest in schools. By the same token, efforts should be made to convert that interest into a practical solution to the district's economic problems - specifically, support for a millage increase that will enable the district to retain teachers' aides, media centers and reading support programs in addition to athletics, instrumental and choral music, and foren-

Greg Kreutzer, president of PEP, has indicated his group will be happy to redirect its efforts to securing passage of millage for public education. The problem, he said, is that the board has not yet acted to schedule a special millage election.

At the risk of being optimistic, we are of the opinion that taxpayers are beginning to perceive the severity of the financial situation in the Walled Lake school district as legitimate.

There is no more fund equity account to fall back on. Administrative staffing has been cut to inappropriately low levels.

Walled Lake Western students, concerned about their future education, have formed a group to work for passage of a millage. Boosters of the instrumental and choral music programs at Western have indicated similar support.

Dedication of the historical marker hopefully will have a larger meaning in the future.

As Langerman said in his remarks, Stonecrest, the site of the first school house in Walled Lake, hopefully will come to represent a committment to education in the years ahead.

We would add the hope that Stonecrest may come to represent the beginning of Walled Lake's proposed downtown redevelopment program.

Regardless of what the future valuable piece of the city's holds, however, the dedication ceremonies were sufficient to stand on their own merit. The Commerce Township Area Historical Society and all the other groups involved in preserving this piece of local history are to be commended for their ef-

By Stephen Cvengros

With five males born to my parents, it certainly seemed an ominous omen in a nation that had engaged in such massacres as World War I, World War II (the sequel) and the Korean War. And sure enough, Vietnam came along — but a little too early for the five of us.

response was, "Oh no, there going to be a bad war."

Vietnam was just body counts, Kent State and the magic of television to allow me invulnerability as I witnessed bloodlettings from the humid climes of Saigon.

I'm among the generation of young Americans that has avoided that ever-present sword that dangles over our heads like Damocles — in the form of the Department of Selective Service's lottery.

Sure, I've got a draft card still shoved away in a drawer with a dried up boutonniere from my senior prom, my Detroit Zoo key and the orange sanitary socks I wore as a high school hurdler.

When I reached my 18th birthday, they were still looking for names to add to their rolls "just in case." They took my name, sent me a card and told me not to destroy it (burn it?). Then, they cancelled the draft. Reinstated the draft. Said they were going to abolish the draft. And it's still drafty — probably from all of the hot air about it

But I'm also among the generation that doesn't know first-hand about war. To us, war is only a nightmare we never had to dream, if we didn't want to. The rockets' red glare, bombs bursting in air — meant either 4th of July or TV pictures of Ireland or Hogan's Heroes. While watching George C. Scott portray George S. Patton last week on a TV rerun of the general's life. I realized that George (as in Patton) and I probably would not have gotten along all that well.

I don't quite follow all the concepts or necessities for war. Or as Robin the Mork Williams suggested — maybe we ought to fight these wars with comedy.

The Falklands are a prime picture of nationalism at its worst. For the generation of youthful Americans that have never experienced war first-hand, the attitude of "at all costs, we're going to get our flag raised over the land of sheep or die" is difficult logic to relate to.

I've seen the top Vietnam war movies of the past decade "Coming Home" and "The Deer Hunter" about 20 times combined. That is war to me.

The P.O.W. bracelets that people used to wear and the struggle to bring back M.I.A.s is war to me.

Rubber green helmets and plastic machine guns that we squealed about the backvard in hot pursuit of "Japs" with as children — that is war to me.

Next Monday, I get the day off because it's Memorial Day. What that means to most people my age is barbequed chicken, a six-pack of Mick, a bottle of Coppertone

"Decoration Day" an elderly lady called it in passing a few days ago. I only know it as Memorial Day — the day when the V.F.W. members break out their uniforms and march across the nation. The day when men old enough to be my grandfather, father and brother remember when they were as young as I and crawling stomach to the mud, fearing for their lives in enemy territory. And the memories of fallen friends that never came home to their sweethearts.

I'll probably never be able to fully understand the emotional involvement that these men have wrapped up in the last Monday of May. I appreciate it, I just can't empathize with it properly. And it is because of them that I have not had to realize the fears of war and that I can pursue such a "frivolous" livelihood as writing.

Thank you gentlemen for the freedom to have played those army games as a tot, gone to that senior prom, run those high school hurdle races and see those movies about how ugly war can be.

Waiting game

One of the rules I attempt to adhere to in writing this column is "keep it general." The reason is simple. "After the fact" appears in both the Northville and Novi-Walled ake papers, which means that it appears in the communities of Northville, Novi, Walled Lake, Wixom, Wolverine Lake and Commerce Township. And, I have a deep-rooted belief that people in one community don't really care all that much about what is happening in another community.

Thus, I try not to force Northville readers, for example, to read about Novi events or Walled Lake readers to read about Wixom events. In short, I try to "keep it

But an event occurred Thursday in Northville which I think may be of interest to readers in all communities. Specifically, Northville leaders gathered for a luncheon at the Presbyterian church to celebrate the dedication of their downtown revitalization project.

Guest speaker was Oscar Frenette, community affairs director for WJR radio. One of the themes of his speech revolved around the importance of dreaming.

He told a story about Mrs. Albert Einstein, who told her husband one day: "It's all in your head, Albert."

"Of course that's where it was," said Frenette. "That's where all ideas start. The importance of what has been accomplished in Northville is that a group of people had an idea — a dream — which was "all in their heads" and then worked hard to make it become a reality.

This column may sound like it's all about Northville, but it isn't really. Novi, Walled Lake and Wixom are all talking about downtown development or redevelopment projects. Work is already underway in all three communities.

I liked what Frenette had to say about the importance of dreaming — and then working to make those dreams become a reality.

I guess my hope is this: Let's keep dreaming ... and working ... to make sure each of our communities becomes all it is capable of becoming.

Bids are in, work's on for Walled Lake Drive

The resurfacing of Walled Lake Drive is moving closer to becoming reality, but work won't be complete before the July 4th fireworks show as Walled Lake City Manager J. Michael Dornan had hoped. Instead, preliminary staking and early construction work will probably begin during the first week of July, meaning Walled Lake Drive will be closed to through traffic from the onset of the project through its completion, slated for early to mid The fireworks aren't in jeopardy," Dornan said Monday, explaining much of the road would have been closed to traffic for the July 4th event anyway

A date has not yet been set for the closing of Walled Lake Drive. Through traffic will be routed along Decker Road and Pontiac Trail. A Novi firm, Detroit Concrete Products, was the low bidder of five Michigan companies seeking the work. Although the state Department of Transportation, which must approve or reject bids, has not officially acted, Dornan said there is no apparent reason why the Novi company would not be awarded the contract. In addition, because Detroit Concrete Products' bid of $98,525 was much lower than the anticipated estimate of about $150,000 for the work, there is a possibility the project could be expanded to include resurfacing of Walled Lake Drive through the Pontiac Trail intersection, Dornan said. Currently, the project calls for six inches of overlay, slight widening and addition of shoulders between the city limits at Fourteen Mile north to Ferland.

A related local road resurfacing project on Liberty Street is still in the planning stages and has not yet been put up for bids.

Consumer confidence shows further decline

Consumer confidence in the U.S. economy fell in the fourth quarter of 1981, nearly reversing all the modest gain recorded since mid-1980, according to a recent survey of Consumer Attitudes conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research (ISR).

"High interest rates couple with heightened concerns about spreading unemployment have not only directly resulted in less favorable evaluations of current business conditions, but also have dampened confidence in the ability of government economic policies to promote more favorable future

"Buying attitudes remained near record low levels during the entire year of 1981 and foreshadow no better prospects for the first half of 1982. "Large discretionary purchases will continue to be responsive to the trends in interest rates, but more favorable employment and real income trends are necessary before sustained growth in housing and vehicle sales

"In addition to the effect of interest rates, domestic car sales have been adversely affected by consumer reactions to high prices as well as consumer willingness to buy imported cars based on price comparisons."

The October-December 1981 surveys of a national sample of more than 21,000 respondents recorded the ISR Index of Consumer Sentiment at 65.7, a decline of 9.1 index points from the third quarter 1981 figure and 6.4 points The report noted that the fourth quarter decline reversed nearly all the improvement in consumer sentiment recorded since mid-1980.

Highlights from the fourth quarter 1981 survey include:

· An increased awareness of unfavorable business developments was recorded in late 1981 with spreading unemployment the dominant concern. Seventy-one percent of all families thought business conditions had worsened during the past year, a sharp rise from the 51 percent recorded in the prior quarter. With lower inflation rates, consumers more frequently viewed unemployment as the most serious economic problem now facing the nation.

times financially in the country as a whole during the next 12 months. On balance, confidence in government economic policies designed to combat both inflation and unemployment declined from mid-year levels, but remained substantially higher than prior years. Attitudes toward buying conditions for houses started 1981 at an all-time

By the close of 1981, nearly two-thirds of all consumers expected bad low level and by year-end established a new record low level. In the fourth quarter of 1981 just 18 percent of consumers rated house buying conditions favorably. At the last peak level in second quarter of 1977, some 63 percent of respondents held favorable attitudes toward house buying. • Car-buying attitudes were unfavorable throughout 1981 and at year's end were somewhat more depressing than at the start.

Greater Media to link cable systems

Greater Media, Inc., has announced plans to construct a Metropolitan Cable Television Transmission Center for the Detroit area, linking as many as 60 present and future cable television systems serving up to 1.2 million households in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties

The center will be located at Greater Media's telecommunications complex in Royal Oak Township, which already is the site of Michigan's first common carrier satellite communications earth station, the 1,000 foot Motower radio-TV communications facility and the studios and offices of the company's radio stations - WMJC-FM and

As designed by Stern Telecommunications Corporation of New York, the Detroit Center will connect the area's local cable systems to facilitate the sharing of locally-originated programming, ranging from community theater and sports events to educational and in-service training and regionalwide access to information including job opportunities, area weather updates and government emergency advisories. In addition, the Metropolitan Cable Television Transmission Center will link the area's cable systems in a joint advertising sales effort which will dramaticaly increase the impact and accessibility of advertising on local cable television.

The heart of the proposed transmission facility — Greater Media's "Great Star Link" - is already in and from satellites in space, Star Link served as Detroit's video outlet to the world during the 1980 Republican convention and Super Bowl XVI in Pontiac. The facility includes two 10-meter and one seven-meter "dish" with provision for construction of up to nine such satellite antennas. These earth station facilities, coupled with a microwave network interlocking cable television systems within a 20-mile radiius, will allow television commercials to be inserted in satellitedelivered programming prior to re-transmission directly to those local systems. In addition, the facility will provide back-up to satellite receiving antennas at the local cable systems and also provide the opportunity for metro Detroit area cable viewers to have access to special programming, including major events on a "payper-view" basis even if their local cable system does not have receiving facilities oriented to the particular satellite from which the programming is The initial phase of the Center's development will provide a full interchange capability through four channels "outbound" from the hub and two channels "inbound" from the local cable systems. Ultimately, the Greater Media concept could provide up to 60 outbound and as many as 10 inbound

Local coordination of the development of Detroit's Metropolitan Cable Television Transmister is being handled by Vane McCormick

Jr., Greater Media's regional manager of Cable Television Development, from the firm's regional headquarters in Troy. Marketing plans are being formulated under the direction of Herb McCord, former president and general manager of CKLW radio in Windsor and currently Greater Media's Group vice president for radio. Stern Communications, which is designing the project, is a leader in telecommunications engineerng and has designed New York's Metropolitan Transmission Center which now is under construction. Joseph L. Stern, president of the firm and former vice president of engineering for CBS Television Services Division, is directing the Detroit effort.

In addition to its Detroit communications operations, Greater Media owns and operates radio stations in Los Angeles; Philadelphia; Boston; Central New Jersey; Long Island, New York; and Greater Media's Starnet Corporation, headquartered in San Diego, is launching a nationwide communications network utilizing satellite facilities and communications processors being installed in major cities from coast to coast.

Greater Media is an applicant for cable television franchises in a number of communities in the Detroit area, but McCormick said the Metropolitan Cable Television Center is a separate enterprise and will be developed regardless of the disposition

FRED WALKE, a technical service representative for Fram/-Autolite, will be at Auto-Wize, Inc., at 43287 West Seven Mile in Northville on Thursday, June 3 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. to show motorists how to save fuel and keep their cars running longer through preventive

Walke gives car care tips on radio and television, and also conducts free engine analyses and emissions checks for motorists. He also teaches clinics for professional and do-it-yourself mechanics. According to Walke, simple maintenance can save motorists money. For example, it takes only a few minutes to inflate tires, but this easy job can save five cents on a dollar of gasoline. Changing air filters is about as easy as changing a coffee filter and also will stretch the gasoline dollar.

Prior to joining Fram/Autolite, Walke diagnosed engines as a technician for the Ford Motor Company. He also has diagnosed engines as an engineering technician for Bendix Autolite.

He is certified by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence, the country's leading certification program for mechanics. He attended Terra Technical College in Freemont, Ohio, and graduated from Sun Electric School where he learned to conduct elec-

Treetop President Douglas Boor said there's a need for a conscientious program that targets disease and insect problems without unnecessary applications of pesticides.

The program stresses timely application, customer education and helpful cultural practices. For example, if applications are made as problems arise or are anticipated, and, if customers are aware of pests, better controls are possible. Prunning and removal of disease or insect-infested material also can improve control, Boor said.

"With the new appointment of Rick Cassidy as vice president, we have increased our knowledgeable personnel to offer improved, prompt professional service," said Boor Boor and Cassidy hold degrees in forestry from the University of

According to Kuster and D'Angelo, associate brokers and coowners of the office, business volume has steadily increased each year despite the generally slow real estate market. During the last 12 months Century 21 Hartford South-West has outsold all other area realtors by at least 25 percent with a total sales volume of nearly $5,500,000 for this time period, according to the United Northwestern Realty Association. Kuster said that 63 percent of this business has been the sale of the office's own listings.

DON GLADDEN, a South Lyon entrepeneur, will be offering area esidents a chance to get into the computer age through the sale of Astrocade, a home video game computer, and accompanying tapes and cartridges. Gladden will be demonstrating Astrocade every Saturday, beginning May 29, between the hours of 1-4 p.m. at the Soft Water Works at 345 North Lafayette, South Lyon. According to Gladden, Astrocade is a game-based computer that hooks up to a television set. He added that programs are available for 800 games. Other programs will help keep track of the household budget, taxes or a checking account. For more information, call 437-3984 or 437-7501.

'Natural' look sets off May's leading garden

A garden landscaped around a large pond has been selected by Country Girls Branch of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association as the Garden of

This is the garden of the Rex Spencers in Connemara Subdivision near Nine Mile west of Center Street at the Novi-Northville border. "He's the gardener," says Mrs. Spencer, giving all the credit to her husband for the landscaping. She adds that all the rocks which edge the pool and help create the natural look throughout the yard were hauled to the site by her husband.
Clusters of tulips and daffodils have been planted strategically. Wood chips and ground cover are used generously throughout the yard. Railroad ties form the steps up the hillside to the front door.

The Spencers bought the house new in 1973, and he has nurtured the garden in Ducks as well as humans have been appreciating the Spencer pond.
"They arrive 'most every spring," Mrs. Spencer notes. "We think they're nesting nearby this year." In past years the ducks have nested right in their yard, she adds. They're providing a colorful interest along with the bright splashes of spring flowers that the Spencers are hoping will last a few days longer.

The garden club selects a garden of the month to cite as outstanding from April through September. Marie Schultz may be called at 349-6571 by anyone who wishes to nominate gardens for later months. The project has been a popular one of the club's. Mrs. Schultz says the committee has several nominations to inspect.

The Wildcats' lone qualifier in the individual events is Paul Boyd, who broke his own school record in the 400 meters with a first place time of 50.6. "He really looked good," praised coach Bob Smith. "There were three guys who were all pretty even coming into the stretch and Paul reached down and showed he was superior and beat them all."

Boyd also was part of the record-setting mile relay team which won its event in the school record time of 3:30.7, nearly six seconds better than the squad had run

In addition to Boyd, the team is comprised of Greg Prost, Brian Jordan and Dave Novi also got good regional performances from the 800 meter relay team of Dave Whitehead, Prost, Williams and Boyd, which took fourth at 1:33.6; Steve James, he said. who finished sixth in the long jump (19-4); Jim Kohli, who did the same in the mile meter relay team, which took seventh. "We finished about ninth or 10th. That's pretty good," Smith remarked.

The one damper on the week was a loss to strong Kensington Valley Conference foe Milford 95-36 last Wednesdav "We didn't do that bad against them," Smith offered. "(Milford) will probably win the conference, but at least they didn't score the century against us." Novi had just two firsts against Milford. James won the long jump at 18-9, while Kohli won the two mile in 10:37.1, a personal best. The loss meant the Wildcats went winless in the league, but that doesn't dampen the spirits of Smith heading into today's KVC meet. "Believe it or not, and I hate to make predictions that might not come true, we could take a couple of teams who beat us in the duals," he explained. Specifically, Howell and Hartland are two teams which have good balance, but ack outstanding individuals which Smith sees as a plus for his team's chances. "We need to get powerful performances from James and Boyd to make a move."

Novi also will hold an intrasquad meet Tuesday and Wednesday, June 1-2.

Narducci's no-hitter paces Viking nine

One can only wonder what Kathy Narducci might have done if she had had her result of a batted ball; that was on an error in the opening inning.

All the Walled Lake Central senior righthander did with her "less than overpowering" pitches is toss a no-hitter against a Walled Lake Western squad which ror, five walks and a three-run triple to center by Robin Wheeler. That was all they entered the game carrying a .320 plus team batting average, to lead the Vikings to needed.

The win lifted Central's record to 6-8 overall and 3-2 in the league. It was Narducci's second career no-hitter — she tossed one last year, but, amazingly, she didn't know she had it until coach Nancy Smith raced out to the mound "I thought they had one good hit," Narducci related. "I wasn't throwing fast today. I was not really pitching well.' She pitched well enough to completely shut down a hard-hitting Warrior squad.

Narducci's two-run triple and run-scoring singles by Wheeler and Kathy Baker were the big blows. Last Wednesday, the Vikings fell to Waterford Township, 7-3. Township's star

Watkins powers Warrior nine to victory

It was another two-for-two week for the Walled Lake Western baseball team. The Warriors took the field twice last week and twice they came home with victories to boost their record to 11-4 on the season and 5-2 in the Western Six (W-6)

Strong pitching by Guy Whittington and timely hitting by Oakley Watkins powered Western to a 9-1 victory over Farmington Harrison on Monday. And on Wednesday the Warriors got strong pitching from Dan Gabriel and more lusty hitting from Watkins as they downed Farmington 6-3. 'We've been playing good baseball," admitted Steve DeMar, coach of the Warrior nine. "We're continuing to get strong pitching, and we're playing well offen-Whittington hurled no-hit ball through the first five innings of the 9-1 triumph over Harrison, and finally settled for a three-hitter as he upped his record to 4-1 on David Meyer singled and scored in the first to give Western a quick 1-0 lead. And the Warriors broke it open in the third with a five-run rally. Watkins delivered a the third time Western has been selected to play in the tourney. bases-loaded single to drive in two runs and Kirk Czarnecki knocked in two more with a double as the Warriors moved out to a 6-1 lead. Watkins doubled home Rick Hunter in the fourth, Doug Day belted his third home run of the season in the fifth and Watkins singled home David Meyer in the a twinbill today (Wednesday) and then winds up the week with a pre-district game

Watkins, who leads the team in hitting (.375), home runs (4) and RBIs (16), Watkins, a junior leftfielder, had another big day in the 6-3 victory over Farmington, but had to share honors with Gabriel, who yielded just four hits in boosting his record to 6-0 on the season. Not bad for a freshman Farmington opened the scoring with a run in the first, but the Warriors took a 3-1 lead in the third as Hunter and Meyer stroked singles and then rode home on Watkins' three-run homer, his fourth of the season. The Hawks also tallied one in the third and the score remained at 3-2 until the sixth when the Warriors scored twice as Czarnecki and Steve Sharov crossed the plate to make it 5-2. Western added an insurance run in the seventh when Watkins belted a long triple to right center and came home on Doug Day's sacrifice fly. Western's 11-4 slate has earned it an invitation to participate in the Oakland County tournament this year. "It's something we're proud of," said DeMar. Just 15 teams are invited to participate in the tourney each year, and this marks just The Warrjors finished W-6 play with a game against Churchill Monday. They played Waterford Kettering Tuesday afternoon and then met Cranbrook in the

Nagrant out, Novi suffers

It may be pure coincidence, but a funny thing has happened to Novi's softball team since starting catcher Linda Nagrant went out for the season with a deen bruise on her hand. The Wildcats were cruising along with a 6-2 mark when Nagrant was injured, and since have gone 2-10. The Wildcats dropped three of four games last week with their only victory a 5-0 conquest of Farmington last Friday.

Senior ace pitcher Cheryl Shankel put the shackles on Farmington as she allowed just three hits while striking out 11 in seven innings. Sophomore Dawn Flores, who has handled most of the catching duties since Nagrant's injury, im-"She worked well behind the plate. I'm real happy with her progress," praised Tinsley, noting that

Flores has taken a beating behind the plate with foul tips and learning to handle a pitcher of Shankel's There was another aspect of the contest which Tinsley liked — no wild pitches and only one passed ball — two problems that have plagued the squad in Novi had a chance to break the game open in the first inning against Farmington as they loaded the bases with one out, but a force at home plate and a pop out ended the threat. The scoreless deadlock was broken in the second inning when Jill Shankel singled, stole second base and scored on successive wild pitches. Karen Coulter gave Novi a 2-0 lead in the third with a two out, run-scoring single. In the fourth, Beth Planta stroked a three-bagger and trotted home on Sue Beckman's single. The Wildcats sealed the win with two runs in the top of the seventh as both Beckman and Cheryl Shankel scored. Hartland inflicted two tough losses on Novi, 7-6 and 6-5 in nine innings, to drop the Wildcats' Kensington Valley Conference record to 2-8.

In the opener, Novi tallied six times in the sixth inning, but it was too little, too late. Coulter, Planta, Beckman, Wendy Kaercher, Debbie Samaan and Lisa Palka all touched home for Novi in the big sixth inning. Novi got on the board first in the nightcap with two runs in the opening frame. Planta scored on Beckman's ground out, while Cheryl Shankel came Hartland knotted the score with runs in both the first and second, but Novi went ahead in the third when Planta scored on Beckman's sacrifice bunt. Hartland scored once in the fourth before Novi took its last lead of the game, 4-3, in the fifth when Planta scored on a ground out Hartland took a 5-4 advantage after the bottom of the fifth, but Novi sent the game into extra innings when Beckman tripled and stole home. The contest remained tied until the bottom of the ninth. With two out, Hartland put two runners on with a single and an error. Both runners advanced with a wild nitch. Tinsley had losing pitcher Cheryl Shankel walk the next batter to load the bases, but the strategy backfired when the next hitter blooped a single to
