Winnie Dobek guards her garden against attacks from marauding woodchucks

Revenge: Winnie's got her gun

By KATHY LAVEY

By day, Winnie Dobek is a mild-mannered employee of Novi's building department.

By night, she's Novi's number one assassin, with 18 kills to her credit since June 15. And she's doing it with the blessing of Police Chief Lee BeGole.

Don't worry, though — Dobek won't be lining you up in the sights of her 16-gauge shotgun. Unless you're a woodchuck.

Dobek, a grandmother of 18 who has been shooting since she was a little girl, took out the permit on woodchucks in desperation — and for revenge.

"Last year they wiped out all my broccoli, all my cauliflower ... (this year) I've been laying for them."

Dobek says she has tried to catch the critters using special traps imported from Texas, but the woodchucks have already destroyed one of the expensive devices. "They run around inside and tear them up," she explained.

Last year, Dobek said, she killed four woodchucks on her 52-acre farm on Twelve Mile after they decimated her garden. Usually, she said, there's something left of the garden to sell after she's got enough produce for the family, but last year the woodchucks got it.

This year, she says the woodchucks must think her garden is "Dobek Heaven" — they've been coming from all over to snip off her cauliflower, carrots and other plants.

According to Dobek, the last straw was when the woodchucks climbed through a spread of agricultural lime, which is supposed to keep them away by burning their feet, up onto a farm wagon and ate a flat of cauliflower plants. "They mowed the flat right off as if somebody cut (the plants) with a razor right at the stalk."

That's when she decided to go hunting.

"I know some people kind of like them, what with the stories about groundhogs and all," Dobek said, "but they're destructive and they carry rabies."

Besides the garden, Dobek says, she has five acres of lawn where her grandchildren play that she wants to keep free of the pests. "I don't want one of them biting any of the kids and having to have them go through rabies shots," she explained.

Dobek stresses that she doesn't hate animals — just woodchucks. She plants extra corn and pumpkins for deer, and won't allow people to hunt them on the farm. She's also tolerant of rabbits, and says raccoons don't bother her either.

"I believe in being a good sportsman," she said, adding, however, that she feels woodchucks are "fair game."

Dobek is careful with her shooting, going out near the garden and waiting for the woodchucks with her shotgun when she could be sitting on the porch picking them off with a .22 automatic.

"I don't like to use the .22 ... rifle bullets are dangerous within a mile and they could ricochet off a stone and hit something," she explains.

Did Dobek's obvious knowledge and caution about shooting influence BeGole's decision to issue her a permit? Maybe, but also, she explains, "Lee's got one over at his house he says I can come get rid of for him."

'Downtown' land use options studied

The proposed ring road area surrounding the Grand River/Novi Road intersection will have to be "unique" in order to be successful, according to Novi Planning Consultant Charles Cairns.

"It has to be something that won't be in competition with Twelve Oaks or West Oaks," said Cairns at a joint meeting of the Novi City Council and Planning Board last week.

"You might be looking at something of an ethnic approach with a variety of restaurants or an Eastern market type approach. If the area is to be successful, it's going to have to attract pedestrian traffic day and night."

Purpose of the meeting was to hear an update from Cairns on the ring road plans and discuss methods for implementation of the proposed ring road.

City Manager Edward Kriewall reported that the overriding concern of property owners in the area regards funding and said it appears as if "tax increment financing" will be used to fund the improvements.

"A special assessment district may be difficult to establish because there is little 'special benefit' to certain property owners, particularly those with frontage on Novi Road or Grand River," said Kriewall.

The city manager said "tax increment financing" involves the sale of municipal bonds to fund improvements. The bonds are retired through tax revenues received from new development.

The only problem with tax increment financing, said Kriewall, is that all funds from new growth are captured until the bonds are retired and, therefore, are not available for schools or the city's general fund.

Council members and planners also discussed the types of uses which might be situated in the ring road area, but postponed a decision on a request from Cairns to adopt a "design-concept" approach that would include architectural and marketing studies.

Cairns said the "design-concept" study would cost approximately $50,000, but Community Development Director John Hazelroth estimated the cost at closer to $100,000, particularly with inclusion of a marketing study.

Administrator takes on criteria review

By KATHY JENNINGS

A development's "harmonious relationship" with existing buildings in surrounding areas will be advocated by a city administrator, as a result of recent action by the Novi City Council.

After a lengthy debate over whether a city administrator or a citizens committee with architectural expertise should review site plans from developers seeking "special approvals," the council voted 4-3 in favor of an administrative review.

Those required to undergo the review include developers seeking liquor licenses, liquor license transfers, economic development corporation financing, economic development transfers or industrial revenue bonding.

Council members have approved criteria which will form the basis for the review, but disagreed over the review process.

Some maintained the process would be less complex if an administrator reviewed a developers plans, while others said the review should be performed by individuals with architectural expertise so judgements would not be based on personal preferences or "gut reactions."

City Manager Edward Kriewall

recommended that site plans be reviewed by a citizens committee, stating that other communities with similar ordinances had seated professional architects on their boards.

Mayor Robert Schmid argued, however, that formation of a citizens committee would give the criteria review more significance than originally intended and result in the creation of "another hoop for developers to go through." He also maintained other communities appeared to have formed review committees when they required a specific type of architecture or motif.

"The intent ... was to tell people what we would be looking for, not to discriminate against certain types of architecture," Schmid said. "I would hope this would be a simple process."

Council Member Ronald Watson suggested the city follow the lead of communities which appointed an individual who could advocate the city's position during the review process. "Now our advisors are limited to what the ordinance says. That is not what we are talking about in these discretionary matters," he said.

Kriewall told the council he did not believe a city administrator would have

Novi nears limit on sewer growth

Although Novi is perilously close to its limit for the amount of sewage it is allowed to pipe downstream, and could even exceed that limit by summer's end, city officials maintain it will not result in a local building ban.

Because future development in Novi depends in part on the city's ability to promise sewer service, city officials continue to work to assure that new sewer service is not cut off.

But as they have been asked in recent weeks to approve plans for new sewer lines, Novi City Council members have voiced concerns that the city has used nearly all its allotted capacity in the sewer system.

Specifically, council members have asked if the city might be inviting a building ban if it continues to construct sewer lines and connect new developments to the system at the rate it has in the past.

The city is allowed to send a specific amount of sewage to Detroit for treatment. The amount of flow the city has reserved in the system is known as the "capacity."

City Engineering Consultant Edward Jacobs recently informed the council that during "wet weather conditions" the city has exceeded its allowed limit.

Jacobs noted that leaks in local sewers have caused the city to exceed the maximum allowed flows, but added that a recent report has identified the measures the city must take to reduce the amount of water leaking into the sewers. City employees are now working to eliminate those problems, Jacobs said.

Storm water enters the lines through leaks and is transported to Detroit where it is treated as sewage. By reducing the leaks in the system, the city will gain a corresponding increase in capacity.

Jacobs recommends that repair work should be "expedited."

Jacobs also cautioned, however, that the city is rapidly approaching (its contractual limitation) and will probably exceed it by the end of the summer.

He suggests that to "forestall a possible crisis" Oakland County has agreed to work with Novi to provide sewer capacity to accommodate continued growth.

Jacobs suggests the city should try to obtain a lease of additional sewer capacity from Livonia.

He further recommends the city determine what can be done to expedite construction of a sewer line through Northville Township which is designed to alleviate sewage problems that resulted in a brief building ban in Novi in February 1980.

The relief sewer is being planned as part of the regional sewer system known as super-sewer. Novi officials were pleased to learn the relief sewer is planned in the first phase of super sewer construction. It is expected to be completed by 1985.

When the entire regional sewer is completed the city will have capacity to accommodate its projected needs for full development.

Since Jacobs' report, council members have reviewed plans to provide sewer service to property owners along the Grand River corridor between Taft and Beck roads. Before approving further sewers the council has asked to review information on the amount of sewer lines presently installed and proposed in the city.

Sewage problems prompt complaint

Pioneer Meadows residents, suffering with septic systems that do not work, may soon be asked whether they would pay to have sewers installed in the subdivision.

But, according to Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall, there appear to be limited alternatives for providing sewer service to Pioneer Meadows, a 60-home subdivision off Beck Road.

Pioneer Meadows was cited by the Oakland County Health Department in September 1980 and the city was urged at that time to provide sanitary sewers to the subdivision.

Oakland County Sanitarian Keith Krinn warned the city that septic systems in the subdivision are failing and many of them cannot be repaired because of soil conditions. If sewers are not constructed, septic system failures could create a health hazard, Krinn cautioned.

The issue of severing the subdivision was raised again last week when the Novi City Council received a letter from Pioneer Meadows resident Kate Sicksels asking when residents could expect sewer service.

Due to septic tank failures in the subdivision, Sicksels said she cannot wash laundry, showers must be infrequent, toilets back up and tap water cannot be used after it rains. She reported these conditions have existed for four years.

"We know there are problems, but the health department looks on them as isolated problems caused by septic tank failures," Kriewall said.

The city manager told the council if sewers are supported by subdivision residents there are two options for severing Pioneer Meadows.

One alternative is to extend a sewer originally designed to serve the Simmons Orchard subdivision on Ten Mile. Original plans called for the sewer to extend at least to Ten Mile and Beck where it would serve a development on the northeast corner of the intersection.

"That may not be a viable alternative in the short run because of the economy," Kriewall said. "We have received confirmation that the development is on the back burner."

As a result, Kriewall said, the "most immediate and feasible outlet" is the sewer planned to serve an area bounded by Eleven Mile, Grand River, Taft and Beck roads.

"The best answer for residents appears to be the Eleven Mile Road sewer," Kriewall said, who suggested that council may want to consider the Pioneer Meadows problem when the project is discussed again this fall.

The council recently conducted the first of three public hearings to determine if the Eleven Mile sewer is needed and would be supported by Grand River property owners, who would be specially assessed for the project.

A survey of property owners to determine the extent of support for the project will be conducted as a result of the meeting.

In conjunction with the survey a

Holiday festivities feature fireworks

Fireworks on Walled Lake, scheduled to be shot off at dark, will highlight Novi's Fourth of July celebration.

The cooperative effort between Novi and Walled Lake reportedly will be the third largest fireworks display in Michigan. (For complete information see "Fireworks On The Lake" inserted in today's edition of The Novi-Walled Lake News.)

Residents are invited to bring a picnic lunch to Lakeshore Park and stay to watch the evening fireworks.

A Fourth of July celebration also is planned by the Village Oaks Common Areas Association.

The Village Oaks parade will begin at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at Village Oaks Elementary School.

A "mystery guest" will be grand marshal of the parade. There also will be representatives from the Veterans of Foreign Wars and Civil Air Patrol color guards, local fire and police units, Novi Mayor Robert Schmid, city council members, scout units, old cars and bicycles.

In case of rain the parade will be postponed to Monday, July 5.

Airport threatened by annexation?

By PHILIP JEROME

Concerns over the possibility of annexation have thrown a temporary hurdle in the path of plans to expand the Vernon M. Spencer Memorial Airport. Wixom Council Member Wayne Glessner reported last week that Lyon Township representatives are extremely concerned that Wixom will attempt to annex portions of the township after the airport has become a reality. "What they're looking for is some form of assurance that we won't attempt to annex their property after the airport plans have been finalized," said Glessner at last week's Wixom City Council meeting. "The annexation problem must be resolved quickly because too many things are happening or about to happen which are important to the success of the airport." The proposed expansion of Spencer Airport, a joint venture between Wixom and Lyon Township, is part of a statewide Community Business Airport Program which eventually will develop 71 airports throughout the state to business-jet standards.

Glessner, who is the Wixom council's representative on the Airport Plan and Review Committee, reported last week that the proposed airport expansion program faces several difficulties, "but none which can't be resolved." In addition to Lyon Township's concerns over the possibility of annexation, Glessner said there are problems regarding airspace with the New Hudson Airport and a need to establish a legal entity to supervise the airport which is separate from both the Lyon Township Board and Wixom City Council.

According to Glessner, there are several possible alternatives for dealing with the airspace conflict between the Wixom and New Hudson airports. One of those alternatives, he said, involves a decision to join forces and gradually merge the two operations at Spencer Field. Ultimately, New Hudson Airport would cease to exist under the alternative, Glessner said. The biggest problem at this point in time, however, is Lyon's reluctance to move forward until the annexation question has been resolved. Lyon's concerns with annexation relate in part to a proposal from Commerce Township Supervisor Robert Long to stabilize boundaries between Lyon, Milford and Commerce townships and the City of Wixom for at least a 10-year period. FIRE IN THE SKY: What a way to bring in the Fourth! Fireworks will be going off all over the place Sunday night with a show set in Wixom's Gilbert Willis Park (see Page 8-A) and "Fireworks on the Lake," sponsored by the cities of Walled Lake and Novi, over Walled Lake. BBY FACE: Sure, we all know Walled Lake City Manager J. Michael Dorman's a young guy but we didn't expect to hear he'd been carried at the Frigate Inn. It's true. Stopping in the bar after a reported swim in Walled Lake, Dorman and friends were asked for ID before being served, according to our sources. Since the city manager had no driver's license, workers refused to serve him. So, he went home "I only live a block away" for ID and was promptly served thereafter. Dorman confirmed the story. Ahh, the trials of the young.

SPEAKING OF CITY MANAGERS: Novi's head administrator Ed Kriewall was surprised with a day in his honor Monday by city council members. In honor of his years of service, ability to stay alert during meetings and most importantly — his willingness to attend a council session on his birthday (June 28), Monday was proclaimed "Ed Kriewall Day" throughout the land. Council helped the honoree celebrate with a birthday party afterwards at Anthony's. EDITORIAL 624-8100 CLASSIFIEDS 669-2121

There are a few moments in life that are meant to be treasured, and a child's graduation from high school is one of them. This proud father used every trick in the book and a powerful flash to get a picture of his son or daughter receiving a diploma at the Western High School commencement exercises last Tuesday. Our photographer didn't get his name, but as every parent knows, not all the excitement of such ceremonies is experienced by the graduates; there's an awful lot in the audience too. For more pictures of Western's and Central's grads, see Page 12-A. (News photo by John Galloway)

Citizens protest builder's plans

By PHILIP JEROME

Residents in Wixom's Hidden Creek subdivision have let it be known that they intend to fight a proposal which they believe will adversely affect the value of their homes.

At the crux of the problem is the current economic slump which has devastated the housing market, not only in Michigan but across the country. The Hidden Creek subdivision is being developed by the Southfield-based Bert L. Smokler Company under the city's RA-1 zoning designation, which calls for minimum house sizes of 1,200 square feet.

Due to the slump in the housing industry, however, larger homes have not been selling, and the Smokler Company is attempting to persuade the city to permit construction of 900 square foot homes on concrete slabs in the subdivision. And that's what has Hidden Creek residents upset.

"We don't want $30,000 'starter' homes in our subdivision. They can build them next to somebody else, but we don't want them in Hidden Creek."

— Edward Dewar, Association president

"They (Smokler) want to change the zoning so they can build homes that are lower in price and lower in quality," Edward Dewar, president of the Hidden Creek Homeowners Association, told the Wixom City Council last week. "If it can happen in any subdivision, it can happen in any subdivision," he continued, asking the council to assist the homeowners in their efforts to maintain existing property values. "We don't want $30,000 'starter' homes in our subdivision," he added.

School's out for Union Lake

By KAREN RICE

There were no tears at the going-away party for Union Lake Elementary.

In fact, when the yellow school buses rolled away after the last bell rang Thursday — marking the end of the school year and Union Lake's life as a district school — there were cheers and shrieks of approval. The students chanted "no more pencils, no more books," and one teacher celebrated the beginning of summer with a cartwheel on Union Lake Elementary's front lawn.

Except for School Secretary Dee Egan's words of advice to a few sixth grade girls, there wasn't much to suggest the last day at Union Lake Elementary was any different than the end of the year at any other Walled Lake school.

"Oh, don't make this a sad day," Egan told a girl clutching an autograph book. "This is a happy day."

In the end, the day wasn't sad at all for the 250-plus Union Lake Elementary students who celebrated the closing of their school with a party. youngsters filed into the gym by grade, they surveyed the five sheet cakes purchased by the school's PTA and paid partly with money raised by students during a Christmas candy sale. The PTA scored its biggest hit not with the ice cream or orange drink mothers passed out, but with a Fac-Man cake, prepared by a Walled Lake bakery.

And then there were the students who won totebags, datebooks and flags at the assembly during a school-wide lottery with Principal Nan Weston picking names out of a can. Luckiest of all was Steve McDonald, who won the only watch to be given away. Marching back to his spot among the fifth graders, he was besieged with offers of "Hey, Steve! Do you want to trade?" Steve wasn't interested.

"I think there's a lot of excitement now, but there'll be a few tears at 11 o'clock," said Diana Adams of the PTA before the school's final assembly. The tears never materialized, Tricia Hargrove celebrated the last day of school at Oakley Park with cake and an American flag.

though. Instead, students enthusiastically congratulated those who received Presidential Fitness Club awards at the assembly and applauded Weston as she spoke to the sea of excited, young faces. "We want to wish all of our sixth graders the best of luck at CHS (High School). Smart Junior High," Weston said. Continued on 11-A

School board approves administrative pay hikes

By PHILIP JEROME

Top administrators in the Walled Lake school district will receive a pay raise for the 1981-82 school year after all.

One week after failing to adopt Superintendent Don Sheldon's recommendation to give eight non-union administrators an eight percent pay raise for 1981-82, the Walled Lake school board did an about-face Monday and voted 5-2 to adopt the recommendation.

The action was supported by Trustees Robert Cooper, Patricia Jackman, Betty Campion, Mario Tozzi and David Roddy. Dissenting votes were cast by Board President Kenneth Tucker and Trustee Janet Callahan.

In a separate but related action, the board voted 7-0 to approve Sheldon's recommendation that the wages of five top administrators be frozen for the 1982-83 school year.

"The action to approve the eight percent pay hikes for 1981-82 came one week after the board failed to adopt Sheldon's recommendation. Board members gave few explanations last week for their failure to adopt the recommendation, and few explanations were offered for their change of heart Monday.

As a result of the board's action, the following non-union administrators will receive eight percent pay hikes for the 1981-82 school year: Assistant Superintendent for Business Harry Carlson, Assistant Superintendent for Personnel Barry Roseborough, Elementary Education Director Hugh Davies, Secondary Education Director Donald Chalker, Auxiliary Services Director Nelson O'Shaughnessy, Transportation Supervisor Betty Scherby, Food Services Supervisor Kathy Yeast and Purchasing Agent Paul Martini.

The eight eight-percent pay hikes will cost the district a total of $22,792. Funds to cover the raises had been included in the 1981-82 budget.

Administrators whose salaries have been frozen for the upcoming 1982-83 school year are Carlson, Roseborough, O'Shaughnessy, Davies and Chalker.

The board also accepted Sheldon's proposal to evaluate the performances of four other non-union administrators and determine whether their wages should be increased or frozen for 1982-83.

Sheldon said he will make a recommendation to the board later in the year if he believes increases for those four administrators are in order. "Otherwise, the subject will not come up again," said the superintendent.

With approval of pay hikes for the non-union administrators for 1981-82, all employee groups in the Walled Lake school district except one have received increases for the past year.

The lone exception is the Walled Lake School Administrators Association, which is comprised primarily of building principals.

Robert Pontichiaro, president of the association and principal of Dublin Elementary School, said negotiations between his organization and the district's negotiating team are continuing.

Maple 'hooked' on rug

Do you know how to hook a rug? Every student at Maple Elementary School does, thanks to a semester-long, school-wide project in which the students completed a four-by-six foot rug welcoming students and visitors to the school.

According to Maple Elementary principal Robert Voss, every student at the school got a chance to work on the rug project, which was coordinated by librarian Jo Kirk and funded by the Maple Elementary Student Council.

Voss said Kirk drew a design of the rug, which is light blue with dark blue lettering, a yellow sun and autumn colored maple leaves, then put the rug mesh over it so students could see exactly where to put the different colors of yarn.

Starting February 17, Voss said, teachers would sign up for different days, on which they would release students from class a time to work on the rug in the library. The rug was completed the second week in June.

Even the youngest students got to work at least once on the rug, Voss said, with sixth graders helping kindergarteners.

The rug was presented by the student council to Voss and Walled Lake Schools Superintendent Don Sheldon at a special school assembly June 23. It will now hang near the entryway of the school.

Review delegated to administrator the necessary expertise to make the types of recommendations expected from the criteria review. "Where are you having the most problems? Is it landscaping or is it architecture?" he asked. "Your planning consultant told you he was not qualified to judge architectural matters."

Watson suggested that architectural questions could be handled by a consultant on an individual basis. It was proposed that Community Development Director John Harelzoff perform the reviews.
Council Member Patricia Karevich said she believed a committee with architectural expertise would be able to "put the whole thing together."

"If you have one person from administration (reviewing plans), is he going to look for his preference, my preference or your preference? Where does he get a consensus on what we are looking for? A committee gives us a negotiating tool that won't happen across this table, otherwise it becomes a matter of the council's personal preference."

Schmid said he did not anticipate a developer would have difficulty receiving approval "unless it is adverse to everything that went before it in the city. Nine out of 10 of these will fly. If the plan is reasonable it will be reasonably looked at and approved."

Schmid suggested the city try working with an administrator making recommendations on awarding special approvals, but Karevich argued the process would not differ from the motion the council has used in the past. "We did try this, we have reviewed plans to see how many trees and what kind of carpeting was being put in," Karevich said. "Now we have a list so developers know what we want to look at. But negotiating these things across the council table didn't work in a comfortable manner before. I have already proved to be a hardship."

Council Member Martha Hoyer said

she supported a citizens committee with architectural expertise. "No one is more concerned with development in this community than a citizens committee."

But Schmid argued that the council had been elected to make decisions. "Not understanding the fact council members don't have expertise in architectural design, why can't council members make the decisions?" he asked. "All we are looking for is some basic information on the type of establishment being put up."

Karevich said the criteria are too broad to be fairly applied in some areas. "How much beyond our zoning ordinance are you going to require? We're negotiating over and above the city's minimum standards you need education and expertise."

The council subsequently voted 4-3 to approve an administrative review. Chambers, Hoyer and Karevich lined up on the side of the citizens committee, while Shaw, Smith, Watson and Schmid favored an administrative review.

Immediately following the vote, Council Member Patricia Karevich moved to rescind the criteria. "I supported the criteria because I believed they would give credibility to our legal arm-twisting," Karevich explained. "Without a committee with architectural expertise I do not feel we have accomplished anything by adopting these criteria."

Hoyer, a member of the committee which drafted the criteria, she felt the original intent was to put the criteria in writing so developers would know up-front what was expected. "I agree the committee should go hand in hand with that, but even without the committee I would like to see the criteria handed to a developer up-front," she said. "I feel the need for a committee will surface because I don't believe our past practice will change. The motion to repeal the criteria subsequently was defeated 2-5 as Hoyer, Smith, Shaw, Watson and Schmid opposed the repeal, while Karevich and Chambers supported it."

Cairns defined the "design-concept" approach as something of a "mini-master plan" for the ring road area. "We have to show people what we want, where we want it and maybe even what it will look like," he said.

"At the same time," he added, "any plan must contain enough flexibility so it doesn't discourage anyone with a good idea."
One of the problems in land use planning is that every owner of a small parcel has been used to the past. "The end result has been a mess."
"If you did nothing, this area will develop, but I don't know what with," he said. "The quicker you can get a plan on the boards, the better you'll be prepared to deal with the growth when it comes your way."

Cairns also recommended that planning for the ring road area include some residential development, perhaps apartments and senior citizen housing in a mid-rise configuration.
"You're going to want people in this area to use the shops and restaurants," he said. Planner Peter Romanow suggested the area should be designed as a place where people can go to walk, talk and meet their neighbors. Mayor Robert Schmid said it might be wise to provide some multiple-family housing along Eleven Mile to provide people to utilize the commercial uses in the proposed ring road area.

Schmid also suggested that the city might investigate the possibility of providing a theater or auditorium in the ring road area. "People currently must go to downtown Detroit to see shows," Schmid said. "I think there might be a market for that type of use in a suburban community like Novi."

Although no action was taken on Cairns' report, it might be wise to provide some multiple-family housing and planners requested controls for the ring road area until a development plan can be formulated.
"The city may be expending a considerable amount of money on planning studies," commented Planner Joseph Brett. "There should be some assurances that the area is protected until it's ready to develop."

Sewer requested

separate survey in Pioneer Meadows is now planned.
"We'll look over all the results before we return to council and discuss it again," Kriewall said.

He noted considering the matter again in September would be appropriate since the city expects to have information on the amount of sewage it can send downstream for treatment by then.

"We do know that federal funds are non-existent (for projects such as those needed to sewer the subdivision)."

Kriewall said. "The reality of sewer service to a subdivision is that it will be funded by the city or on a special assessment basis."
Estimates developed after the city was first cited for the septic problems in the subdivision pegged the cost at $280,000 to lay sewer lines and $318,000 to install a lift station on Eleven Mile to connect the lines in the subdivision to an existing line on Taft Road.

Without federal funding, it is anticipated that Pioneer Meadows residents could be asked to pay $4,500 over 15 years for construction of the sewer line.

Thieves walk off with $2,400 in jewelry and coins

In Wixom

An estimated $2,400 worth of jewelry, coins and gold and silver bars were reported stolen from a Lamella Street home, according to Wixom police.

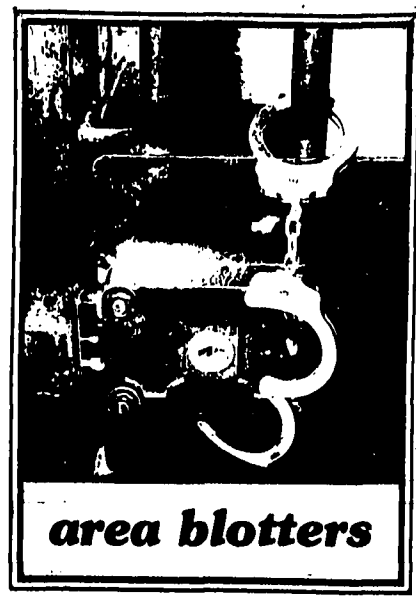

Thieves apparently gained entry to the home through the laundry room door. The theft occurred between 4 p.m. June 26 and noon June 27, officers said.

Among the missing items were a woman's 1974 Riverview High School ring, a man's 1968 Bloomfield Andover High School ring, a man's gold wedding ring, a woman's antique ring with a blue stone, several silver medallions, a one-ounce silver bar, two one-ounce gold bars and several valuable coins.

Two juvenile boys allegedly set a small fire beneath a home under construction on Morning Dove, according to Wixom police. The boys, ages 12 and eight, reportedly went down into the house's crawlspace and set a small fire, burning paper and pieces of plastic with a small propane torch, police said.

The owner of the partly-built house discovered the fire several hours later, at about 3 p.m. June 26, when he smelled burnt plastic and located the burned pieces, police said.

The boys, who were identified by a witness, were warned by officers of the area blotters

danger of setting fires and inhaling fumes from burning plastic. They were released to their parents' custody.

This summer. The Craftsman bug whacker apparently was stolen from a stand near the patio of a home on Barbary.

In Novi
Approximately $150 in cash was stolen from the Chemlawn Company at 22515 Heslip Drive in an incident discovered by Novi police while on routine patrol.

Police theorize that the window was broken to make it appear the building had been broken into, but it may have been entered with a key since the opening in the window was small and contained several jagged pieces of glass.

An estimated $300 worth of goods were stolen from a home in the 2000s block of Cranbrook. The owner told equipment was stolen from a 16-foot boat on South Lake Drive. The owner told police two $100 Coho rods and reels and four $80 rods and reels were stolen along with a $190 tackle box and a $10 minnow bucket.

An undetermined amount of goods were taken in a break-in of a home in the 2000 block of Brookforest. Stolen property included a video recorder, television set, tape recorder, cameras and a jewelry box. The owner told police it looked as if the items were removed through a back door. The key to the house, which was hidden in the garage, also is missing, the owner said.

A 1981 grey Corvette valued at $16,000 was stolen from the 2000 block of Shavian Drive. The owner told police the vehicle was stolen while it was parked, locked and unoccupied in the parking area just south of his home.

An estimated $80 worth of fishing equipment was stolen from a home on Cranbrook. The owner told police she had leased the home to another party for six months. When she last inspected the residence she found many of her household items missing.

Nearly $90 worth of goods were stolen from S&J Ceramics at 41736 West 76th Mile. The items reportedly were stolen from the center aisle of the store. Stolen were brass unicorns worth $48, two $11 music boxes, a $12 music box and a $8 music box.

A $120 mini-bike was stolen from the 2000 block of Granada during a thunderstorm. Unknown subjects parked their van, walked across a field to the patio and removed the mini-bike. A neighbor told the owner of seeing the van during the storm.

Approximately $80 in cash was stolen from a home in the 100 block of Maudlin. The money was taken from a shoe box kept in a hiding place in the home. The owner said it appeared the thief climbed through the window onto a dresser near the window as he entered the room.

Wixom schedules fireworks and more

With all the events slated for Wixom's July 4th celebration, Wixom residents can forget about leaving town for the weekend; they won't have to. Everything from fireworks to magic shows to free pony rides for the kids will be held at Gilbert Willis Memorial Park Sunday as the Wixom Parks and Recreation Department sponsors the city's annual July 4th picnic.

The day will end with a fireworks show after dusk, and begins with a 10 a.m. fun run. Trophies will be presented to fun run winners in different age groups. There will be a one-mile fun run for beginners and a five kilometer race for serious runners.

At 11 a.m., Wixom firemen will show off their skills against four area departments during a fireman's field day. A Wixom team will compete in hose replacement, hose evolution, bucket brigade and water battle events against teams from Walled Lake, Commerce Township, South Lyon and West Bloomfield.

Fire Chief George Spencer encouraged residents to turn out for the field day, which he called "a very, very fun day to watch."

Between noon and 12:30 p.m., contestants will be able to sign up for the horseshoe and volleyball tournaments, scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

A flag-raising ceremony is set for 12:30 p.m. and free pony rides will be available for children all afternoon. In addition, magic shows will be presented at 2 p.m. and 3 p.m. Children's games are slated for 1, 2:30 and 4 p.m.

In addition to the hourly events, the Wixom Police Department will run a baseball speed throw contest, awarding trophies to the quickest pitchers from age six on up. Hurriers can try three balls for 50 cents, said police records supervisor Larry Rourke. Proceeds from the event will go into the police community fund which is used to support local activities.

The July 4th picnic at Willis Park is free and open to all Wixom residents.

of which will be closed by 7 p.m.

Sponsored by the Wixom Jaycees, Rotary Club and Parks and Recreation Commission, the festival will feature a parade of floats, bands and local businesses. The parade groups and concessions are: Lions Club, cotton candy, Rotary Club, popcorn and punch; hot dogs, ice cream; Elias Brothers, hot dogs; and the Wixom Fire Department. In addition, the Walled Lake Jaycees plan to have a celebrity dunk tank, will pass out balloons and will send a troupe of clowns.

Making a special appearance during the pre-fireworks festival will be the Wixom Fire Department, which will be on hand to provide fire safety information after cruising around Wixom Lake during the festival's traditional July 4th boat parade.

Visitors should plan to arrive early in order to find a parking spot and a place from which to view the fireworks. Since Walled Lake has relatively few public access points, the festival will be held at Lakeshore Park in Novi are expected to fill up quickly. Both beaches will be open all day.

Novi Lake Administrative them Ted Yura conducted in the Novi area. He is a good seat for the fireworks. He suggests staking out a piece of Walled Lake.

Besides the view from Lakeshore Park and its beach, spectators may find prime spots along South Lake Drive and West Lake Drive. East Lake Drive will not be open to traffic for the Fourth, but cars will be allowed to travel on the road after midnight around Wixom Lake.

And, of course, the view of fireworks from the water should be spectacular. Like last year, boaters are expected to be on the water after they've left a fiery trail in the sky, the lake will be paralleled to make a launching site.

Three Tips for Taking Portraits

MOVE IN! The person you're photographing is more important than the side of the house. Most cameras, even those with fixed focus, can take sharp pictures at about 3.5 ft. This allows your subject to dominate the picture. USE SUBDUED LIGHT! For an outdoor portrait, shoot in open shade or on an overcast day. This will cut down on harsh shadows and paired expressions. Indoors try window light. If you decide to use flash, try bounce light. This means that you aim your flash gun at the ceiling rather than your subject's face. RELAX THE SUBJECT! Your subject is probably nervous as being photographed. It's up to you to put him or her at ease, to let the real warmth and personality come through. Have the subject doing something interesting to himself as well as the viewers. Some possibilities are a girl cuddling a kitten, a man working at his desk, a boy strumming a guitar.

Suit may unplug drain projects

By KATHY JENNINGS

It could all be very routine...then again it could result in a court suit that would unplug all the drain projects that have been stopped since the 1978 passage of the Headlee Amendment to the Michigan Constitution.

"It is the progress of the Caddell Drain, formerly known as the Tarabasi, Novi, Farmington and Farmington Hills have agreed to share the cost of the drain.

It now appears that the project could end up in court if the Oakland County Drain Commission is told that voters must approve the sale of bonds.

Farmington Hills asked for the initiation of a Chapter 20 drain project after the Grand River/Ten Mile area flooded last fall. Approximately seven feet of water forced Red Roof Inn guests to evacuate, ruined $1 million worth of cars at Bob Sellers and flooded Mountain Jack's restaurant.

If approved the drain commission will sell bonds to cover the cost of the project. Taxpayers in Farmington Hills and Novi will then pay back the bond issue.

According to preliminary estimates Novi must pay four percent ($148,000) of the estimated $3.6 million project.

As a result of a formal drainage board hearing June 2 to determine the necessity of constructing the drain, engineering consultants Hubble, Roth and Clark are drafting design specifications and developing cost estimates for the project, according to Drain Commissioner George Kuhn.

The project then will be sent to the Municipal Finance Commission where the drain commission will seek permission to sell bonds to cover construction costs.

Kuhn said he expects the matter to go to the finance commission by late summer.

The catch is that one school of thought in Michigan says every bond issue pledging a community's "full faith and credit" must be approved by the voters, in accordance with the Headlee Amendment.

But bond counsel for the drain commission, Charles Moon of Dickenson, Wright, Moon, VanDusen and Freeman, said he does not expect a problem with bonding approval.

Moon maintains the Headlee Amendment has not changed existing provisions of the Michigan Drain Code which give the drain commission authority to establish drains.

He explained the matter was tested in U.S. Federal Court which ruled Allen Park could proceed with a drain project to separate storm water from sewage in the city's combination sewage system to alleviate a pollution problem. The decision was appealed and subsequently upheld when the U.S. Supreme Court would not hear the matter.

"The court has spoken in this regard," Moon said.

"The decision was based on a long line of cases where the outcome was that charter entities — villages, cities and townships — do not have tax limits set by the state constitution," Moon said.

However, although he deems it unlikely,

Candidates night slated

The public is invited to attend a Meet the Candidates night at the Red Timbers restaurant on Grand River Avenue on Wednesday, July 7, at 7:30 p.m.

Present will be the candidates for the 60th district state house of representatives and the 15th district state senate.

Candidates for the State House seat for the 60th district are Willis Bullard, Jr., Martha Hoyer, Allen Ingler, John Roethel and John Van Dyke.

Candidates in the State Senate race from the 15th district are John Anderson, S. James Clarkson, Richard Corey, David Pickering and Markus Simon.

The public can meet the candidates informally during a hospitality period with an open bar from 7:30 to 8 p.m.

Following cocktails, candidates will discuss their background, qualifications and positions on issues.

A question and answer period also is planned.

The program will be moderated by Oakland County Commissioner John P. Calandro, R-24th District.

The candidates night is sponsored by the Greater Novi Republican Club.

proposal is a provision that would prohibit the communities from encroaching on existing boundaries through the annexation process.

Commerce currently faces an annexation threat from the City of Walled Lake, while Lyon is facing an annexation threat from the City of South Lyon.

Wixom officials have indicated they are not particularly interested in Long's proposal but would be willing to come to terms with Lyon Township in order to permit the airport plans to proceed.

Mayor Lillian Spencer said last week that Lyon's cooperation is essential for the airport plans to proceed and indicated she would be willing to reach an agreement with Lyon regarding the annexation issue.

Glessner also emphasized the importance of accommodating Lyon's concerns over annexation. "The state recognizes that the two communities (Lyon and Wixom) are cooperating on this airport program," he said. "It's an important factor in the progress we've made so far."

Spencer indicated that she would call for a meeting between the Lyon Township board and the Wixom City Council to iron out differences.

ed to either amend its budget to fit the lowered revenues or not tax taxpayers.

"The millage rate is 17.556, up from the higher tax rate of 17.556."

What the council decided to do was raise its millage rate from the 16.832 mills Oakland County says the city can levy to the 17.556 it needs to balance the budget.

Lewandowski said the millage question was further complicated by the fact that the city and Oakland County came up with different figures Walled Lake should use to raise the $35,000.

As We See It

Boosters needed for science texts

Two actions by the Walled Lake Board of Education Monday require closer scrutiny.

On the one hand, the board voted to permit a group which calls itself Parents for Extracurricular Programs (PEP) to raise $13,000 so the district can offer ninth grade basketball and several other extracurricular activities next year.

On the other hand, the board decided it could not implement a new elementary science curriculum next year because it costs an estimated $71,000 and the 1982-83 budget contains only $10,000 for the purchase of textbooks.

Adoption and implementation of the elementary science curriculum was recommended by a Science Curriculum Committee composed of teachers, parents and principals which has been working for the past two years.

In presenting the committee's report, Elementary Education Director Hugh Davies stated that the district's programs are "quite current" in most areas. The lone exception, he said, is science.

To illustrate the point, Davies pointed out that one of the texts currently being used to educate students in Walled Lake's elementary schools states that "one day there will be a man on the moon."

Several weeks ago we editorialized against the wisdom of permitting citizens groups and booster clubs, however well intentioned, to raise funds to support certain programs.

The problem, we suggested at that time, is that less glamorous, but more essential programs, such as reading support and learning disabilities, are unable to generate the popular support that will enable them to be funded and continued.

As a result of the board's actions Monday, our concerns are being realized. Walled Lake schools will have ninth grade basketball, pep bands and pom pom girls next year, but there won't be a reading support program or a new elementary science curriculum.

And that's not right. Board President Kenneth Tucker facetiously suggested Monday that what the district needs is a Textbook Booster Club. His point is well taken and should be considered by everyone concerned about the type of education which students in Walled Lake schools are receiving.

"You must have lived a pretty sheltered life," the man told me.

He knows a fair amount about strip-mining, cock fights and growing tobacco. His sister was baptized in a river. Tent revivals and horse races are commonplace experiences for him and he knows how to play a banjo and what moonshine tastes like.

True enough, I don't know much about the things he does.

Ahhh, culture. It turns up in the strangest places. After spending little over a week in Kentucky, I'm ready to move there — just to study the differences between the commonwealth and Michigan. It's hard to believe that while they're only a few hundred miles apart, the differences between Kentucky and Michigan make our state look more like it's part of Canada than the same country Kentucky belongs to. We know so little about the world around us.

Chuck, the man I talked to, laughed when I told him that the first time I saw fields of tobacco I couldn't figure out what was growing. (I thought the plants looked like some kind of giant artichokes.) He's probably never met anyone who didn't take for granted the acres of tobacco fields he's used to. On the other hand, I've never met anyone else who could explain to me the process of producing it.

Likewise, I was tempted to laugh when he said, "I can't imagine what Michigan looks like without any mountains there." I didn't even think to miss his mountains until I'd been in Kentucky for a few days and grew used to their misty, green beauty.

But here's a guy who has never been outside the mountainous corners of three states I'm not at all familiar with; he has never gone north of southern Ohio. It's no reflection on his intelligence that he hasn't seen Michigan.

True, one doesn't associate Michigan with mountains — it's the lakes that really make this state special. When you can drive to Kent Lake, walk to Walled or Loon Lake, or spend a day by Lake Michigan, mountains lose some of their impact.

We don't realize how lucky we are to have natural lakes at our fingertips. When I was in Kentucky, the only large body of water I saw wasn't even a lake: it was a reservoir that people from miles around drove to for boating and swimming. It was gorgeous, with walls of mountains edging up on all sides as it wound through a valley. But it could hardly be compared to Houghton Lake or one of the other natural lakes in Michigan.

There's nothing that makes Michigan better than Kentucky, or vice versa. There are just differences, beginning with the geography and continuing right down to the way words are pronounced. Despite all the differences, people can still find so much common ground, so much opportunity to develop friendships.

A lot of people in Kentucky wanted to talk to me when they found out I was from Michigan. The funny thing is, they were more eager to find out my impressions of their state than to learn anything about Michigan and seemed quite satisfied when I explained how much I liked it there.

I wouldn't mind spending a few years in Kentucky, but maybe it's just in my blood: I'm probably related to a good portion of the Rices in Clay County, Kentucky. I drove around one town, Manchester, and tried to imagine what it was like at the turn of the century when my grandfather was born there. It was difficult because — like everything in this area — Manchester has been built up so much over the past few decades that little remained of the town as it probably was in the early 1900s.

Still, I can't help wondering what I would be like if my grandfather's family had never left the southeast corner of Kentucky and what it would have been like to grow up there — never having seen anything but those beautiful mountains, scared as they are by strip-mining and dotted with shacks, mobile homes and frame houses. I wonder what it would have been like to grow up on moonshine and gospel music.

I know I'll never find out any of those things. But it makes me question which one of us led the sheltered life, me or Chuck. I guess we both did, each in our own way.

He knows as little about my life as I know about his. But that's no problem. I'm willing to arrange a cultural exchange. After all, it's not every day you run into someone who's willing to buy you soupbreads and corn bread for lunch.

Geake's stand on auto concessions questioned

To the Editor: Because this is an election year, and because what happens within the auto industry is vital to Michigan, several weeks ago I phoned our state senator — Robert Geake, to hear his views on the Concessory wage settlements being made by Michigan auto workers. My findings were interesting, and I believe should be shared with other members of this district.

First, let me preface what follows by stating that, about 75 percent of all production costs involved in any heavy industry are labor costs. This is a generally accepted figure and can be cross checked in almost every textbook dealing with such matters.

Now, Senator Geake and I agreed that, because labor represents such a large portion of total production costs, the concessions are an important and encouraging step toward reducing costs and becoming more competitive with foreign importers. However, the fact that organized labor was unable to gain assurances that these same concessionary production savings would be passed on to consumers in the form of proportionately reduced sticker prices, did not worry Senator Geake in the slightest.

Conversely, I found the failure of this aspect of the negotiations rather alarming. Alarming enough, in fact, to advocate "price controls" for the "Big Three" if they continue in their staunch and stubborn refusal to join in the conciliatory spirit, which alone can put Michigan back into the mainstream of the automobile business.

Otherwise, those very workers who voted for concessions to "save their jobs" may end up losing them in any case.

Although for some time I have sincerely tried to reconcile myself with Senator Geake's view of this situation, namely that — high wages are alone responsible for the auto industry's and Michigan's woes, I cannot.

Apparently that's because I believe high-priced automobiles create a need for even higher wages, not just among auto workers — at the next round of negotiations — but, throughout the country as well. Which, of course, will ultimately mean still higher and less competitive sticker prices in the future. In other words, I believe in the inflationary "wage and price spiral."

Can it be, Senator Geake, as my conversation with you would naturally lead me to assume, that you believe in only the wage-half of this spiral? And if this is so, how can you justify such a view as being not only good for the short term gains of failing auto manufacturers, but the long term future of Michigan and the nation as well?

Gauntlet thrown

To the Editor: Pioneer Meadows (yes, we're real) enthusiastically defended our Almost Anything Goes intra-city championship and proudly retain the trophy for a second year. It should be noted that Pioneer Meadows led in points up to the last event, and the Walled Lake City team just barely prevented us from issuing a challenge to the second consecutive year.

Almost Anything Goes is a thoroughly enjoyable, if not entertaining, event supported by the Novi Parks and Recreation Department. Pioneer Meadows only regrets the competition is not more voluminous or effectual.

Invitations are extended to nearly all intra-city organizations. Where are the rest of Novi's subdivisions? Congratulations to the OK's, Novi Jaycees/Jayettes, Novi Youth Assistance, Stage 1 and The Novi-Walled Lake News teams. They came to compete and have fun.

All subdivisions rise to the occasion for an issue that affects or involves them. The supreme test is to respond to a non-issue, a challenge, one which means nothing but nonetheless is there.

So it is, in the spirit of friendly competition, that Pioneer Meadows (who, yes us) "throws down the gauntlet" and issues a challenge to the other Novi subdivisions to compete in next year's event and attempt to dethrone us — Pioneer Meadows — the intra-city champs. Pioneer Meadows will be back with the trophy.

By the time 11 o'clock rolled around, clearly the Union Lake regulars were more interested in saying hello to summer than good bye to their school. As the 11:05 bell rang, the halls and classrooms emptied out for the last time. Weston stood at the front door and wished her students good luck in the future. The bus drivers warned the riders there would be no yelling on the way home. The "walkers" fanned out across a field, carrying their papers and books home.

With little sentimentality and just the right amount of fanfare, Union Lake Elementary's 55-year career came to an end.

Novi updates grading policy

Novi's grading ordinance has been revised in an attempt to alleviate what City Manager Edward Kriewall calls "the largest area of complaints we've had to deal with" — flooding and drainage problems caused by improper grading.

Grading certificates (plans showing a site as it has been developed) previously were drafted by private engineers, but now will be certified by the city engineering consultants, Kriewall said.

"Certification was made through a private engineer, but they did not field check the work," Kriewall said. "We then had to check what was done. Rather than the developer paying an outside engineer and then the city double checking, we have moved right into that process."

Should plans be rejected by the city engineers, developers will be notified in a timely fashion of measures to be taken to remedy their grading work.

In conjunction with the revised ordinance, homeowners will be cautioned against changing the drainage around their property by landscaping their lawns.

A bright orange sign will be nailed to garages of new homes alerting homeowners to the problems created by changing the grading of their property, Kriewall said.

"We will warn homeowners against tampering with landscaping and the mass grading of a subdivision. We are finding that when landscaping is put in they are altering the grading. We believe they aren't conscious of the critical nature of this and the need for maintaining the drainage."

Waving the flag

There's nothing like fireworks to bring out the patriots on the Fourth of July.

And when it comes to putting on an Independence Day celebration, this year's festivities look like they'll be some of the best ever thanks to the cooperative efforts of Novi and Walled Lake, sponsors of the second "Fireworks on the Lake" show over Walled Lake.

The cities, service clubs, merchants and all those who helped are showing their colors with this all-out effort to celebrate the Fourth.

In fact, the community spirit has even got folks excited in Wolverine Lake, where villagers are planning to go to the trouble of dismantling the famed Showboat and reassembling it on Walled Lake before the fireworks go off.

We're proud to see the cooperation neighboring cities have extended in getting this show off the ground. Often, local officials talk about the importance of mutual aid, in which municipalities share services and reduce costs. With its high visibility, "Fireworks on the Lake" is the kind of event that helps residents realize the value of that philosophy.

With a show the size of this one — after all, it's billed as the state's third-largest — and another one in neighboring Wixom, there's really no need to go farther than your own back yard to take in a breath-taking show.

Come out, meet your neighbors and enjoy the show.

Issue is important

The City of Novi will attempt to buck the odds by seeking voter approval of a millage proposal for drains on the August ballot. Specifically, the city has decided to ask voters to approve a levy of 1.5 mills for the purpose of developing a citywide drainage system.

If the millage proposal wins approval, the ensuing program will represent a major change in the city's approach to handling stormwater run-off. Currently, developers are required to provide their own stormwater retention systems, and maintenance costs are passed on to homeowners through their associations.

If the city continues to follow its current approach, Novi might ultimately be dotted with 674 individual on-site detention ponds. Under the proposed plan, the number of retention basins would be cut down to 30 and the city would be responsible for maintenance of the facilities.

It may seem a bit foolhardy to attempt to secure approval of a millage proposal during the present economic downturn, but the issue is an important one, and the city and a citizens' drainage committee has done its homework, developing a program which has been called one of the finest in the state.

Hopefully, residents will take time to review the proposal carefully between now and the August primary. The Novi chapter of the League of Women Voters will hold an informational meeting on the proposal next Wednesday (July 7) in the County Place clubhouse at 7:30 p.m. Concerned citizens should attend so they will be prepared to cast an informed vote in August.

Walled Lake graduates toss the tassel

They waited a long time, but it was worth it. The 1982 graduates of Walled Lake Western and Central high schools walked off with their diplomas in ceremonies last week that made the long school year worthwhile, as the excited Central crowd (top, left) shows. Julie Smith and Laurie Ruby (top, right) were no less elated at Western, but their classmate Sherry Foster (middle, left) spent a few somber moments listening to commencement addresses. When all was said and done, though, it was the kind of gift that Western's Mike Nicholls picked up from School Board President Kenneth Tucker (above), that nervous romantics Tom Lowell and Margot Robb (right) of Central, and that Central's Chris Stone (left) were all standing in line for: that coveted diploma. Oh yes, let's not forget Lisa Davis of Central (center), another excited grad. With fireworks bursting in the air at Central's graduation and flashbulbs popping like mad in the audience at Western, it was a night memories are made of. Congratulations to all our graduates. Breen's new IGA store brightens Milford job outlook

By MARY SPRY

A bright spot in the midst of the current economic gloom is Jerry Breen of Milford. Breen recently opened an 18,000-square-foot grocery store which has contributed to the financial well-being of the area. As a result, an empty building in Milford has been brought back to life and a substantial number of jobs have been added to the area's economy.

The new Breen's IGA offers the community a greater selection of grocery items and extensive remodeling has been done to the existing facilities. Funding for the project was handled by Milford's Economic Development Corporation (EDC), a government-sponsored program which provides funding to spark industrial and commercial development.

The business applying for an EDC grant must furnish information such as the number of new jobs that will be created as a result of the funding and the type of equipment that will be needed to complete the project. The new supermarket that has resulted from the months of planning and work is bright, colorful and well-stocked. The store is staffed by employees who are optimistic about their future.

Sandy Werstine, a new employee, is enthusiastic and happy about her work. "This is the first job I've had where everybody treats you like a member of the family. My boss is just great to work for and my job is close to my home," she said. The Breen family has been in the business since 1922 when Jerry's father, Don Breen, bought out Albert Johnson's Grocery Store on Main Street. Don, still a consultant for the store, has been in the business since 1922. He has seen drastic changes in the way stores operate.

"When I first started, you had to run the length of the store getting what people wanted. No wonder I'm getting old gracefully. I had a chance to buy the store in Milford and it had two checkouts then, but soon everything will be computerized," he said. "We kept changing downtown Milford and we're still changing the area," he continued. "We started changing when Jerry and I put shingles on the store. We bought out the store next to us to expand and then took over another building. I think it's wonderful what Jerry has done. We had to do something and this was the way to go."

The elder Breen remembers both the bad and good times with affection. "I was the test case for selling the first pound of colored oleo and was arrested for it. I had to go to court but the state associations backed me up," he laughed. "During the war you had the ration stamps and everything that went along with them. We had some wonderful times." Jerry Breen came into the business in 1959 and, according to his father, "studied in two chapters what it took me 10 years of my life to learn."

Jerry Breen said a need for additional space was one of the reasons he decided to move his new grocery store from Main Street in Milford to another location. "I was limited in space with the other store," he explained. "With this new store I'll be able to offer a better selection."

Milford's Main Street will not be left with another empty building as a result of the move. Breen plans to open a gourmet food store with an extensive selection of wine and cheese in the old building. "I just want to thank everyone for their support. I really appreciate the people in Milford," he said.

Pete Thome and Dan Lombardo stock the produce department.

Business Briefs

DR. BRYAN KOSTELNIK is now seeing patients at the Wixom Chiropractic Clinic at 4975 Pontiac Trail in Wixom.

Dr. Kostelnik has taken over the practice on an interim basis for Dr. Mark Weller who was seriously injured in a March 21 automobile accident. Dr. Weller currently is undergoing therapy at University Hospital in Ann Arbor and plans to return to the practice after he has completed therapy.

Dr. Kostelnik, a Novi resident, graduated from Logan Chiropractic College in St. Louis, Missouri, in 1967 and has been involved in the practice of chiropractic medicine since that time. He currently maintains offices in Ypsilanti as well as filling in for Dr. Weller at the Wixom Chiropractic Clinic.

Dr. Kostelnik has office hours at the Wixom clinic on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to noon and 3-7 p.m.

LINDA HUDSON and LINDA EMERY of Random House Interiors in Novi recently traveled to New York City where they visited the Lighting, Tabletop and Accessories market and attended seminars on new design concepts and the latest applications of fabrics and wallcoverings.

Designers from Random House Interiors attend markets several times per year to purchase new merchandise for the studio and keep abreast of current trends in decorating.

Random House Interiors is located at 41706 West Ten Mile in the Novi-Ten Shopping Center at the corner of Ten Mile and Meadowbrook Road. The store is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

RENEE DAKDUK of Walled Lake has joined Flint's new all-woman radio station (WWMN—1570 AM) on a part-time basis as a weekend disc jockey. She uses the name Renee Donovan professionally.

Dakduk currently is employed with a Southfield advertising agency and is a former account executive with WCXI radio in Detroit. She has a diversified and extensive background in radio, including prior airwork at WITL radio in Lansing. She serves on the Broadcast Advisory Council at Olivet College and is an Olivet graduate with a BA degree in Communications. She is the daughter of Mabel Dakduk of Novi.

TWO NORTHVILLE RESIDENTS who attend Our Lady of Mercy High School in Farmington Hills are winners in the annual School Traffic Safety Poster Contest sponsored by the Automobile Club of Michigan and the National A.A. Honored were Kristen Wickie (left) and Marie Nowak, both 14. Congratulating them is Michael Wild, the auto club's public relations director.

Kristen won third place and a $50 savings bond in the national contest for her poster depicting the safety theme. Marie earned second place and a $100 bond in the state contest for her poster, "School's Open—Drive Carefully." Twenty-nine Michigan student winners were awarded bonds at a luncheon at Dearborn's Fairlane Club.

BOB OSWALD (right) of Northville shares groundbreaking honors with Madison Heights City Manager Ernie Fisher as Cintas, the Uniform People, broke ground for a new 26,500 service facility in that city on May 10.

Oswald, Cintas general manager, stated, "While many companies are having difficulties in today's economic climate, we at Cintas are continuing to grow by providing quality products and services at reasonable prices and with a true team approach on the part of all of our employees. Oswald and his wife Diane with their three children live on Kilrush.

DONNA CRAWFORD of Walled Lake has successfully completed Minolta Business Equipment Division's comprehensive sales training program. She is employed by Welcor, Inc., in Livonia.

The two-day sales seminar is part of the company's dealer support program for its full line of copiers.

Robert Parks, Minolta's director of marketing, said the objective of the sales training program is to reinforce and broaden the sales skills necessary to achieve success in an increasingly competitive market.

Northville girl earns 'Carrier of Month' honors

Jayshree Matadial, 14, of Northville may be one of the most petite girls just completing seventh grade at Meads Mill Junior High in Northville Township, but every Wednesday she packs one of the biggest Northville Record paper routes in the area.

A Northville Record carrier since August, 1980, Jayshree has just enlarged her route in the Highland Lakes subdivision from 160 to 180 customers. Her route is the largest one in Northville—and one of the best serviced, according to JoAnne Curvin, head of Northville carriers, who nominated Jayshree for the Carrier of the Month honor to be awarded carriers who deliver Siger-Livingston newspapers. Curvin's enthusiastic recommendation won for Jayshree the first award in the monthly contest.

In addition to an engraved plaque, Jayshree received a $85 check. The check arrived just in time for Jayshree to take it on a family vacation to visit relatives in New York last Wednesday. She and her sister Manju, 15, a former Record carrier, are the daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Matadial of 19352 Scenic Harbor. Her father is a staff psychiatrist at the Northville State Regional Psychiatric Center. Her mother works at Hudson's and also attends school. The family moved to Northville two years ago from Traverse City but has lived in many places. Jayshree was born June 12, 1968, in South America. For increasing her route during a recent carrier incentive contest, Jayshree also banked an extra check for $57, Curvin reports. In addition, in other carrier contests she has won a solar calculator and two radios, one an am-fm clock radio.

She also finds time to play tennis, read, swim and cook. She and her sister help with meals, and Jayshree admits she especially likes baking.

The fact that the first winner of the new Carrier of the Month award is a girl is no surprise to circulation manager Jack Kaake. Girls comprise 40 percent of his carrier staff. He says they are most dependable because "girls don't stop to play baseball in the middle of delivering a route."

Kaake said there also will be a Carrier of the Year award in June 1983.

Central's Brian McKenna has state's top team

The Michigan Track Club (MTC) never existed before this summer, but club members aren't wasting any time establishing themselves.

Brian McKenna, coach of the Walled Lake Central girls' track team, is one of five southeastern Michigan coaches who are involved in the club, which is its first summer has supplanted the Motor City Track Club as the best in the state.

An indication of that came last weekend in Ann Arbor, when the MTC demolished the Motor City Club in the Track Federation of America Midwest Regional Meet.

MTC runners chalked up 123 points in the 17-18 division, well ahead of the 34 registered by Motor City runners. Contributing to that total was Walled Lake's Keith Harris, who won the 400-meter hurdles (2:29) and finished third in the 800-meters (56.3).

Harris is one of eight state champions on the MTC team this summer. Others include Angie Hafner of Flushing, who won the high jump; Chris Boehmer of Lapeer West, the long jump winner; and Sharon Grandberry of Flint Beecher, who topped the discus throw.

Other event winners included Kelly Champagne and Jennifer Rioux of Livonia Ladywood in the 3000-meters and 1500-meters respectively and Pam Brown of Flint, who topped the 200-runners would have to pay all their expenses from their own pockets.

The club allows many runners who otherwise would have competed unattached to represent a team and work out under the supervision of coaches.

Four regional training centers have been established for the club — at Brighton, Redford Union, Flint Northern and Walled Lake Central. Both boys and girls are competing, although at this point, the emphasis has been on girls' meets.

Most qualifying for this year has already taken place, but McKenna is happy to talk to interested runners of high school age about future participation in the club.

(Kathi) Harris is one of eight state champions on the MTC team this summer. Others include Angie Hafner of Flushing in the high jump, Chris Boehmer of Lapeer West in the long jump and Sharon Grandberry of Flint Beecher in the discus.

Novi Mantle team finds tough going

Murphy's Law certainly applies to Novi's Mickey Mantle baseball team. Just about anything that can go wrong has gone wrong for the squad which is riding a seven-game losing streak.

Novi lost four more games last week as a variety of things went wrong. The latest loss was a 15-5 thrashing at the hands of Plymouth Canton Sunday.

Losing pitcher Craig Santos gave up eight runs, six of them unearned, before giving way to Eric Lavery who batted two innings of relief. Eric Brooks paced Novi's six-hit attack with a pair of singles.

Hitting was not a problem for the Novi Mantle squad against Allen Park on Friday, but scoring was. Novi out hit Allen Park nine to five, but still suffered a 4-3 setback.

Losing pitcher Brent Divan went the distance in Novi's third one-run loss in

Hackett hurls Goat Farm victory

Mike Hackett fired a one-hitter and registered 19 strikeouts in hurling Goat Farm to a 2-1 triumph over Travel Masters in the Senior League of the Novi Youth Baseball League last week.

Hackett also had a perfect 3-for-3 day at the plate with a double and two singles. Daryl Rhea and Charlie Plumley scored the Goat Farm runs.

In another Senior League game, Travel Masters rallied for five runs in the fifth and added two more in the sixth to edge RPM 7-6. The late rally negated a fine pitching performance by RPM's Mark Gowens who gave up just one hit while throwing five scoreless innings. Clutch hitting by Dale LaPointe, Rod Kovac and Bruce Patera was not enough as RPM came up one run short in a last-inning rally.

In Major League action, Derek Nelson hit a two-run homer to help Bain Brothers top Novi Police 12-9. John Masterson and Bernie Forward played strong defensive games for Bain Brothers.

Earl's Excavating retained its grip on first place in the Major League by turning back Novi Police by an 11-3 margin. Neil Garney registered three strikeouts in going the route on the mound, while Matt Kamish sparked the offense with two hits and four RBIs.

In Pony League action, Jack's Meats held onto its lead in the National Division with an 8-7 verdict over Cone Zone. Greg Houtari belted a single, double and triple, while Devin Peyton had a home run, triple and single for the winners.

J.S. Trudeau topped Novi Firemen 16-13 in another Pony League game. The Firemen jumped off to a quick 8-2 lead before Joe Gilbert's second-inning defensive gem sparked the Trudeau comeback. Brian Bartz and Jason Korte had perfect days at the plate. David Suchyta, Darnell Krause, Ricky Timreck, Denny Moon, Ed Cole and Bret VanDyke contributed key hits in the Trudeau victory.

Mike Hanson and Kevin Buck contributed outstanding defensive plays to help Jack's Meats down McSweeney Electric 10-4 in another Pony League contest. Brad Lewis, Devin Peyton and Paul Harding had two hits apiece, while Rex Bobbitt, Kevin Buck and Matt Gowdy each added singles.

Cone Zone edged McSweeney Electric 13-12 as David Panch, Ken Aho and Brian Crowley sparked the offensive at-

Novi students earn acclaim in theater

Novi High School students Art Lionas and Tom Mantle were chosen to perform in the All-Star Conference Cast of the International Theater/Arts Conference last week.

Lionas and Mantle were two of 50 drama students to perform in the All-Star Cast, which was chosen from among 2,500 who attended the national conference at Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana, on June 21-27.

Eight local students attended the conference. This is the first year Novi High School has been represented.

"We presented a play at the state conference and they invited us to perform at the national conference," instructor Joan Arrick said. "When we got back from the state conference the national director called to say one of our students (Mantle) had been chosen for the All-Star Conference Cast. It's quite an honor." At the conference they learned Lionas also would be an All-Star Cast Member. "We are very proud of two of our eight students were honored."

Arrick said the conference draws high school actors from as far away as Alaska and Hawaii. Additionally, college representatives from across the country attend the conference to watch performances and offer scholarships to some students.

Novi students attended a number of workshops on theater, ranging from set design to mime. There also were 90 different performances presented during the week. A keynote speaker at the conference was Doug McKeon, the 16-year old performer in the movie, "On Golden Pond."

Mantle was selected for the all-star cast on the basis of his performance in "The Zoo Story" by Edward Albee. He is featured in the play along with Scott Hare.

Lionas was chosen for his performance in "Impromptu" by Ted Mosel. Other Novi students performed "The Leader" by Eugene Ionesco. The lead role was played by Spencer Brinker. Other cast members were seniors Lionas, Mary Seiler, Steve Beattie, and junior Colleen Arbour.

Also receiving grants were Novi High School flutist Kim Shaw, who will attend the high school all-state orchestra at Interlochen, and Debbie Swartz and Kim Lange, who will be choral students at Interlochen All-state.

Scott Hare and Thomas Mantle, Jr., also received grants to attend the International Theater Arts Conference at Boston University where they have been invited to present their original one-act play.

Cynthia Hoops, president of the foundation, said the group salutes these fine students who have excelled in their different areas of talent.

The scholarships are made possible by donations from Novi citizens and substantial grants from the Novi Education Association and the J.L. Hudson Company.

Machesky, Arens tapped for grants

Two Walled Lake students have been awarded scholarships to the Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp for a two-week summer study program in band and orchestra.

Recipients of the scholarships are Laura Machesky of Walled Lake Western and Jennifer Arens of Walled Lake Junior High.

Students will participate in concentrated sectional and large group studies along with other outstanding student musicians from throughout the state, country and world.

The scholarships are awarded by the Marshall Music Company to instrumental music students deemed most worthy based on musicianship, citizenship and musical achievement as determined by the school music staff and school administration.

Marshall Music Company gives over 200 scholarships annually to students in schools served by the firm throughout the state. Each scholarship is in the amount of $147.50.
