Armed robbers strike four Novi businesses

By KATHY JENNINGS

. Armed robbers have hit a bank, a retail outlet, a restaurant and a gas station in Novi in unrelated incidents durg the last two weeks.

In the latest incident, the Video Wherehouse at 43737 West Oaks Drive in the West Oaks shopping center was struck Saturday night. Thieves escaped with nearly $13,000 in electronic equipment and $3,200 in cash.

Police said an employee was locking the store for the evening and activating the alarm system when a blue-steel hand gun was placed at his temple. His Cyes, ears, hands and feet were bound and he was left on the stockroom floor.

The thieves then had complete access to the store, police reported. The thieves stole $2,700 from a cash register which they opened with a key taken from the employee as well as $500 of the employee's personal money. They also stole approximately 20 pieces of electronic equipment, including video cassette recorders, electronic cameras, television video games and miscellaneous cassette tapes,

The employee then snaked his way into the showroom where he located another telephone and dialed the operator with his tongue, police reported.

When police arrived the employee could give no description of his Assailants. He said the man who placed the gun at his head was wearing a dark blue, pullover ski mask.

Police are seeking information from anyone who might have observed a suspicious individual or automobile right hand in his jacket pocket while annear the shopping center between 9:15 nouncing the hold-up. He ordered two the manager, who explained the bank's services, the suspect left the building, taking pamphlets with him.

The man returned within two minutes, walked directly to the bank manager, handed her a blue bag and ordered her to fill it with large bills.

The manager said the man kept his

In yet another armed robbery, nearly $150 was stolen from the Kentucky Fried Chicken store at 41491 West Ten Mile on June 30.

An employee told police a black male entered the store and approached the counter. She asked: "May I help you?" The man responded: "This is a stick up. Open the cash register."

The man pulled a black, square-type gun which police believe to be a bluesteel hand gun.

The employee opened the register and the man reached in and took the money, which he placed in a small paper bag. He then ordered the clerk to lie down behind the counter for five minutes and left the restaurant.

Police are seeking a black male, 5-8 tall of small build, with a short Afrohair style and a thick mustache. The man is described as between 30-40 years old. He was wearing sunglasses and carrying a beige jacket.

Approximately $300 was stolen from the Total Gas Station at 24141 West Ten Mile on June 20. According to reports, the robber entered the station, ordered a soft drink and then pulled a revolver as the attendant walked behind the

The attendant told police the man pulled a lunch bag from his jacket and ordered him to fill it with money. The robbery was committed by a white man wth black hair in his tate 20s. He was described as being approximately 5-8

.Cable plans proceed

Cable television subscribers in Novi may be "turned on" as early as November, but service more likely will not become available until sometime in January or February, according to one Metrovision official.

Delays in formally adopting an ordinance regulating cable television in Novi has had no effect on Metrovision's ability to proceed with wiring the community. In fact, the company is proceeding according to plans, said Tom Bjorklund, Metrovision general manager.

"It's not holding us up at all. They signed the contract and that's all we needed to get into business," Bjorklund

Novi entered into a contract with Metrovision May 24, but action on an ordinance which normally is enacted at the same time has been delayed to give City Attorney David Fried time to redraft the document. It already has been adopted in Farmington and Farmington Hills.

The ordinance to be drafted will regulate all cable systems proposed in Novi. The original draft named Metrovision specifically and Fried objected that the ordinance should not refer to a particular company.

Bjorklund said Metrovision now is preparing the technical design of the three-community system and applying for permits from other utility companies.

Novi, they said.

He said construction of the system is expected to be underway by August.

Metrovision expects the first subscribers will have cablevision service available by late November or early Bjorklund stated that the company is trying to construct the system in the three communities "as concurrently as possible." Since the office for the system will be in Farmington Hills the first subscribers to recieve service may be in that community.

"We expect to offer service in Novi in January or February, but it could be offered before Farmington Hills. It's hard to say," Bjorklund said.

Fried reported recently that the ordinance has not been re-introduced for council approval because he has developed concerns regarding the city's ability to deal with cable television service offered in apartment complexes, condominiums and mobile home parks.

Fried said he has postponed redrafting the ordinance to await a decision from the United States Supreme Court regarding a case in New York dealing with the question of systems for multiple-family dwellings. Since the decision was not yet been made, Fried said he would proceed with hotel in Novi — is now open and ready racquetball courts, a sauna and a fullyfor business.

"Actually, we've been open approximately a month," reported Ray Biggs, director of marketing and public relations for the new 220-room, $10 million

"We just haven't announced it yet." Announcement of the opening has been delayed for several reasons.

First, the Sheraton Oaks is not completely finished. Workmen are still finishing up last-minute details, but Biggs says the facility is about 90 percent completed, and the percentage is increasing every day.

A second reason for delaying announcement of the opening has been Biggs' desire to give his personnel an opportunity to learn their jobs.

building, council members considered 'We didn't want to attract business until we were ready to handle it," he The council subsequently agreed to said. "Everything's new from the equipment to the employees, and we wanted to open slowly so our people could learn to do their jobs properly under controlled conditions.

"In the long run, it wouldn't have been smart to encourage people to come in until all our employees know how to do their jobs and are familiar with the environment."

But after a month of "practice." everyone from the chefs to the waiters, waitresses and room maids is comfortable with the new surroundings and the Sheraton Oaks is ready to go public.

Despite the unannounced opening, business has been brisk. Some 133 of the hotel's 220 rooms had been approved for occupancy as of last Tuesday, and everyone of them was sold for the night. Anthony's Lounge, which features live entertainment Tuesday through Saturday, also is beginning to develop a reputation and crowds are beginning to

"We're very pleased with what we've seen so far," said Biggs.

The Sheraton Oaks is an ambitious undertaking. In addition to the 220 rooms, it features four executive suites.

The Sheraton Oaks — the first major indoor and outdoor swimming pools, could be sure of attracting the best equipped exercise room.

The exterior court around the outdoor swimming pool is landscaped with a Japanese garden and includes a cedar deck with cabana bar.

"We're nearly as long as the RenCen is tall," reported Biggs. "Half our rooms face either the interior or exterior swimming pool. And, each room is sprinklered and has its own smoke

Police reported the boy was traveling north north on Meadowbrook Road and turned right on Ten Mile, cutting across the eastbound lane. Koller was struck by a vehicle driven by Dennis L. Klepinger, 31, of Farmington who was unable to stop his car in time to avoid a collision.

None of the passengers in Klepinger's vehicle were injured. Police issued no tickets in connection with the incident.

Botsford Hospital reported that Koller was treated in the emergency room

TOOTHACHE REMEDY HARMFUL

Q. My friend recommended putting an aspirin on a tooth that was hurting. Will this help? A. This is another of those misconceptions that seem to persist through the years. An aspirin placed between the cheek and a painful tooth will do nothing for the ache. In fact, it can be a very dangerous home remedy. Because aspirin is an acid, when it dissolves slowly in your mouth it may cause a painful ulcer on the sensitive gum tissues. Sometimes it can take up to a week for the sore to heal. If you have a toothache see your dentist, and do your friend a favor by telling him to do the same.

Heroics result in award for officer

Officer Alan Blashfield of the Wixom Police Department has received one of the top awards in the field of law enforcement. Blashfield, a member of the department since 1973, was awarded the Blashfield received the award for acts of heroism in saving a man's life during a fire at the Village Apartments on July 15, 1981.

According to Leonard's report, here's what happened "Officer Blashfield and Richard St. John of the Village Maintenance Department ran to the scene of the fire.... After entry was made into the heavily smoke-filled apartment, a quick search revealed that the unit was vacant. The origin of the blaze was established in the kitchen area with a working fire in the wall and cabinet area surrounding the stove and refrigerator. "At this time, Blashfield and St. John proceeded to use dry chemical fire extinguishers in an effort to contain the fire. Unbeknown to Blashfield and St. John, a defective gas line was feeding the rapidly burning fire. St. John proceeded to move the stove away from the wall to turn off the gas line. The gas line ruptured as the stove was moved, allowing additional gas to escape into the room increasing the hazard. "At this time, Blashfield observed that St. John was coughing, gasping for air, and had started to stumble and fall due to the overwhelming smoke and nbxious fumes. Blashfield restrained St. John from falling and carried him out of the apartment and into the court yard.

"Blashfield re-entered the burning apartment and crawled across the floor to the fire extinguishers located on the wall and proceeded to spray the contents of the two remaining fire extinguishers on the base of the fire.

: "Once all visible flames were extinguished, Blashfield left the burned apartment and, with the assistance of maintenance personnel of the Village Apartments, evacuated the people that occupied the other 35 apartment units. "All tenants of the apartment building were safety evacuated from the apartments in the three-story structure with no serious injury."

As We See It

City responsibility is drainage issue

Nobody really got what they had hoped for from the joint session between the Walled Lake City Council and the Novi citizens' drain committee last week.

Novi did not get a commitment — or even much encouragement — from Walled Lake to participate in the proposed lake level control project that would involve installing a wier at the south end of Walled Lake, the keystone of Novi's innovative drain program.

And although council members learned a great deal about Novi's drainage situation, Walled Lake officials did not hear the strong arguments for involvement needed to change their opinions on how the project will benefit Walled Lake.

But while it did not clarify as many issues as we had hoped, the meeting was not a loss. Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall put forward the only real arguments heard for Walled Lake's involvement, and his reasoning requires some study from Walled Lake officials — as well as Commerce Township officials, who will soon be asked to get involved in the project as well

In Kriewall's view, at the heart of the issue of joint involvement is not how it will benefit one city or another, but whether Walled Lake has a responsibility to participate. Kriewall feels Walled Lake should join with Novi in controlling the level of their shared lake simply because it contributes to Novi's flooding problems inasmuch as Walled

There is much to be said for Kriewall's arguments. One only has to look at the history of this area to see that municipalities have too often taken the position that they are not responsible for what happens downstream, while objecting to what their upstream neighbors are doing.

We recognize the difference serious study.

in the two cities' approach. Clear-Certainly Novi would derive a greater benefit from the lake level project, since residents in Walled Lake are not in danger of being flooded due to problems with water flow from the north. If the project is debated solely on the grounds of benefit to Walled Lake, that city will probably never get involved. A lake level control program is probably not worth the estimated $40,000 Walled Lake will be asked to con-

But that does not absolve Walled Lake from participating, although it probably will affect the importance the city places on contributing to the project if it agrees to get involved. Walled Lake may well have a responsibility to participate; it certainly has a responsibility to give the

The stumbling block appears to be Lyon Township's concerns about the possibility of annexation. Expansion of the airport is a ioint venture between the City of Wixom and Lyon Township. Lyon's concerns are not without justification. The annexation battle between cities and townships is being waged on several fronts across the state, including Walled Lake/Commerce and South Lyon/Lyon Township. matter more thorough study.

Kriewall is correct in maintaining that adjacent municipalities have obligations to control their stormwater run-off in much the same manner that one property owner is legally prohibited from dumping his water onto his neighbor's land.

Novi and Walled Lake have different problems and different views on how they should be handled. But, in relation to the lake level control project, that does not mean they can't find the common ground needed to resolve this issue.

This area's lakes are treasured resources but they bear more than benefits to residents; they also carry responsibilities. Walled Lake needs to give the lake level proposal some ficials have a responsibility to

What is important here, however, is not annexation but the future of the airport. Both communities stand to benefit considerably in terms of industrial growth, tax base and employment opportunities if the airport > is expanded. Wayne Glessner, who is the Wixom council's representative on the Airport Plan and Review Committee, emphasized recently that Lyon's fears about annexation must be assauged so expansion plans can move forward.

Noting that the proposed expansion of Spencer field is a part of the state's Community Business Airport Program, which seeks to revitalize and diversify the Michigan economy by developing 71 airports throughout the state to business-jet standards, Glessner said the annexation issue must be resolved quickly because "too many things are happening or about to happen."

We concur with Glessner's assessment. Hopefully, Lyon's concerns over annexation can be resolved quickly so that both communities do not jeopardize a potential asset that will contribute to the area's economic health and stability.

Thinking out loud

By KATHY JENNINGS

I used to think I knew what a financial crisis was.

I thought a financial crisis was being forced to buy something with my magic rubber checkbook.

It was realizing that you will have to be married by January 1984, when your automobile is paid off and can be expected to gasp its last, because you will never get another car with your credit rating.

It was deciding which bill you can put off the longest and what the telephone company really means when it says your service will be cut off in 10 days. It was carefully weighing when to mail the payment, in the name of

It was wondering whether the repossession arm of the collection agency would show up before the car payment makes it to the bank.

It was fretting over the unreasonableness of bill collectors who don't seem to understand that if I couldn't afford to pay their stupid bill in the first place it's ridiculous to expect me to pay the bill and a $70 deposit.

A financial crisis was realizing that all this anxiety was generated by simply meeting my basic needs — a car, rent, insurance and food. Not by running up charges (I don't have any plastic) or extravagant living.

But I have since learned that living on the edge of a precipitating crisis is not the same as actually experienc-

My sister has first hand knowlege.

When she and her husband moved to California they packed as many of their worldly posessions as they could in their Capri. Three-quarters of them had to be left behind and my sister cried as they decided what would stay behind in Mom's basement.

Her husband left behind his cowboy hat, among other things. True, there would have been no trouble fitting a hat in the car - he could have worn it. But what can you do when your wife is crying?

They both got jobs within a week of arriving in the Golden State. But their funds also were depleted by the time they found an apartment, paid a deposit and paid off

One morning they woke up and their car was gone. They went to the police to file a stolen automobile complaint. They were embarrassed when the officer asked if they were behind on the payments.

The car was auctioned off and they were responsible for paying back the balance of the amount not covered by the auction price. That was two years ago.

They are still making payments on a car they no longer have, a car they get no use of.

In January they had twin daughters. Last Friday my sister was going to the doctor for a pregnancy test.

She laughed when she told me, but it was one of those feeble things that sound closer to a cry.

When I asked how that could have happened she

But she will cope. Margie says someone is looking out for them. She believes the prayers my devout Wesleyan parents send heavenward work. She knew it the day she was sitting in her apartment, sweating in fear that her creditors were going to come and strip their apartment, taking all their furniture.

That day a check from the insurance company for an overpayment of a hospital bill turned up in the mailbox.

When her husband was worrying over the possibility of becoming a father of three or maybe four at age 22 and trying to figure out how they could afford it, Margie said: "You know you have gotten more out of those two little bundles than you could out of any material things."

I guess a financial crisis is all relative.

In regard to your editorial in the June 30 issue, "Issue is important," regarding the drains millage proposal, I would like to add a few comments.

It is true that this ballot issue appears to be fighting the current economic downturn, but the issue is probably one of the most important issues that will go to the voters in this decade and will have the greatest influence on the development of the city. Therefore, there is a sense of urgency involved.

The fact of the matter is the development of a coordinated citywide Flood Control Master Plan is well overdue by the past 10 years. With very few excep-

Ken Pelto, Julie Pelto, Janene (Pelto) Simmons and Greg Pelto make Mister Natural's a real 'family' restaurant

By KATHY LAVEY

When the Peltos opened Mister Natural's "sandwich and pizza cafe" in 1979, it seemed only natural for them to make as much of their menu as possible themselves, out of what they call "real" food, that with natural ingredients. It also seemed natural to brothers Kevin and Greg Pelto to staff the restaurant with a crew of siblings helping them out are their sisters Janene and Julie and brother David. Another brother, Brian, is in the restaurant business in Florida.

an apparent lack of restaurants that prepare natural focds is at least partly responsible for pro-"We like to eat," said Greg. "We've grown conscious of what we're eating ... your diet really controls your health.

Kevin is quick to explain that Mister Natural's is not a "health food" restaurant. "We are more concerned with real food ... we try to have everything as fresh and unprocessed as possible." That, he says, is strongly related to health. As part of their "real food" philosophy, the Peltos offer a largely homemade menu that includes some unusual items. In addition to a list of common foods like soups, chili, submarine sandwiches, and barbecued chicken, Mister Natural's offers a number of vegetarian dishes and pizza with whole wheat crust. The Peltos admit it was hard introducing new types of food to the area, but they now have a regular vegetarian clientele and have "won over" many former "meat and potatoes" people with items like the "avocado sub," which features avocado. onion. alfalfa sprouts, mayonnaise tomatoes and New York sharp cheese; "chapati" which is black and green olives, alfalfa sprouts, tomato, onion, lettuce, sour cream and mozzarella cheese in pita bread; and pizza toppings that in-pineapple and cucumbers. Though they also offer more standard pizza topp ings like pepperoni, mushrooms and green peppers, the only choice of crust is whole wheat because, the Peltos say, it's better for you - and it tastes good. "We just liked whole wheat better," said Greg "When we first opened, we'd tell people and they'd say 'ugh, we don't like that.' We'd say, 'well, have you ever tried it?' Most of them tried it and found In addition, the Peltos say, as much as they can isted, the Peltos will make it if they can — and if it's good, it will be added to the menu. Results of such experiments include the "Mexican Fiesta Dinner," comprised of chips, bean dip, hot sauce, hot peppers, lettuce, tomato, cheddar cheese and sour cream. Another house recipe, and a specialty of Kevin's, is Mister Natural's quiche. Instead of offering soda pop, Mister Natural's out, and the Peltos also do catering.

"People think we just do six-foot subs and pizza," said Kevin, "but Greg and I have been cooks in we can do it all from hors d'oeuvres to flaming beef. We can do anything in this business."

Mister Natural's is located at 30950 Beck Road in the Halabu Plaza, across from the Village Apartments. It is open from 11 a.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Mister Natural's is closed on Sundays through the summer months, but will

MARVIN BLACK

WILLIAM G. POULOS of Northville has been appointed director of Fabricated Components for General Motors. The appointment was announced by Darrah C. Porter, executive director of Purchasing Activities for General Motors Material Managment Staff. Poulos, who holds an MBA degree from the University of Michigan, began his GM career as a General Motors Institute (GMI) student-in-training at Cadillac Motor Car Division in 1965. Following graduation from GMI in 1969, he was named a junior engineer — Process and Production. Later that same year he was named a supervisor of Material Control. During the next 10 years, Poulos held a number of positions at Cadillac, including assistant superintendent — Material Control, and project manager of Corporate Consolidated Scheduling. In 1979 he was named director of Material Control for the division and in 1981 was named director of Purchases and Traffic, the post he held until his current assignment.

MARVIN BLACK of South Lyon has been named regional sales manager for Wisconsin and Michigan by Stauffer Seeds, a leading producer of hybrid seeds. As regional sales manager, he will be responsible for sales of Stauffer Seeds hybrids in the two-state area.

Black graduated from Michigan State University with a bachelor of science degree in agriculture and has completed studies toward a master of science degree in agriculture at Western Michigan Universi-

He brings to his new position an extensive background in farm management and agricultural education. Most recently, Black was district sales manager for Stauffer Seeds in southwest Michigan.

Stauffer Seeds produces and markets a wide range of hybrid corn, sunflower, grain and forage sorghum and alfalfa in central United States growing areas. It is comprised of three wholly-owned subsidiaries of Stauffer Chemical Company: Blaney Farms, Incorporated, of Madison, Wisconsin; Prairie Valley, Incorporated, of Phillips, Nebraska and RBA, Incorporated, of Springfield, Illinois.

SHARON SERRA

SHARON SERRA, a Realtor Associate affiliated with the Northville-Novi office of Real Estate One, Inc., exceeded $1 million in production on June 8.

Darlene Schemanski, Associate Broker and sales manager, applauded her exemplary efforts, noting that Serra is well on her wav toward achieving a multiple million dollar sales volume this year. "It will be a new height in her career," said Schemanski.

Serra was licensed with Real Estate One, Inc., approximately two years ago and continues to offer superior service to her clients and customers, Schemanski said. Her total career production is approximately $3.403 million.

Serra is active in the Novi community and resides with her husband and three sons in the Village Oaks subdivision.

ASSOCIATE BROKER TONY SPARKS, employed by Century 21 Hartford South-West in South Lyon, has already surpassed $1 million

Along with being a real estate salesman for 15 years, Sparks also has been an active businessman in the City of South Lyon since 1958. Sparks has participated in community organizations over the years. He is a member of the Jaycees and the Kiwanis Club of South Lyon. Sparks was recently appointed a member of the South Lyon Planning COMERICA INCORPORATED is the new name of Detroitbank Corporation, holding company for 26 banks and bank-related companies and parent of the 133-year old Detroit Bank & Trust.

Donald R. Mandich, chairman and chief executive officer of Comerica Incorporated, said the name change to Comerica represents a positive step towards bringing the corporation under one name that will be meaningful not only to people from Michigan, but throughout the United States and the world.

The holding company has expanded rapidly over the past several years and now has some 16 banks and 10 bank-related companies in southeastern, central and western Michigan, Florida, Mexico, Toronto and London. Each subsidiary has a different name.

"The name change will help eliminate confusion for all our customers," said Mandich. "It also gives our employees a single corporate entity with which to identify and provides significant economic advantages for day-to-day operations of the corporation as a whole."

Names of all Comerica subsidiaries will be changed beginning later this year. Comerica Incorporated will continue to be head-

Nancy Komenaga, a counselor at Walled Lake Junior High School, is something of a rarity in that she has been officiating girls' athletics for 25 years. How have things changed since implementation of Title IX, which calls for equal athletic opportunities for both sexes? It's improved athletic opportunities for girls, says Komenaga, but has made it tougher on female officials because men now actively pursue the officiating jobs. (News photo by Steve Fecht)

If it's July...

If it's July at Walled Lake Central, it must be basketball season.

Ken Butler, coach of the Vikings' girls' basketball team, is once again heading up the annual summer girls' basketball scrimmage camp, which is designed to help girls develop their skills

12 teams are participating in this year's summer scrimmage

camp, including Walled Lake Central, Walled Lake Western, Lakeland and Milford. Each team will play a total of 11 scrimmages before the summer camp is completed, but the emphasis is on skill development as opposed to direct competition. (News
