Novi annexes seven parcels

By KATHY JENNINGS

Within 60 days there should be indication of whether the annexation of Novi Township will be allowed to stand or be contested yet again.

The Michigan Boundary Commission last week ordered the annexation of seven parcels of Novi Township to the City of Novi and made the action retroactive to December 1978.

Brookland Farms subdivision will be allowed to remain as the sole portion of Novi Township as a result of the Boundary Commission's action last week.

The City of Novi has treated the annexation of seven of the eight township parcels as fact for nearly four years, despite continuing appeals by Novi Township. Those appeals were dropped at the request of township residents earlier this year.

Now the possibility of an appeal of the boundary commission's latest action is being investigated, according to John Bauckham, who formerly represented

Novi Township in appeals protesting the annexation and now represents William B. Chase — the man financing a large part of on-going legal battles.

"We feel the decision is in error, but whether we will want to take on another appeal has not been decided," Bauckham said.

He said he believes the annexation could be contested due to the decision to make it retroactive to 1978, as well as the commissions' non-compliance with criteria for annexation provide in state statute.

"We dislike the retroactive feature of it and we think their reasons for approving the annexation leave a lot to be desired in regard to compliance with the criteria under the statute," Bauckham said.

In reaching its decision to approve the annexation, the Boundary Commission found the increase in taxes in the area proposed for annexation probably

Township stalls ambulance plan

Opting to examine an alternative plan, the Northville Township board of trustees last week delayed its decision on joining with the Novi, Northville and Farmington to seek regional ambulance service.

Supervisor John MacDonald suggested the board examine the possibility of joining with Plymouth in a regional plan. Plymouth recently contracted with Huron Valley Ambulance, which operates out of St. Joseph Hospital in Ypsilanti, he related.

Plymouth's change from having emergency service provided by its fire department brings another possible provider into the picture, MacDonald said last Thursday.

Plymouth's decision arose from concern that ambulance duties detracted from the fire department's primary responsibility.

MacDonald said the good reputation enjoyed by Ypsilanti's St. Joseph Hospital is a factor favoring contracts with Huron Valley Ambulance, while noting that Providence and Botsford also have advantages.

Other communities in the proposed regional system had been awaiting approval from Northville Township to plan, the Northville Township board of trustees last week delayed its decision on joining with the Novi, Northville and Farmington to seek regional ambulance service.

Apparently, a pull out by Northville and Northville Township from the Novi regional system would not stop other communities from seeking proposals for regional ambulance service, according to Novi Assistant City Manager Craig Klaver.

"We made a decision going in we would test the market with the communities who choose to approve it," Klaver said. "The final test will be whether we get proposals."

But Klaver admitted if only Novi and Farmington were included the proposal would not be as attractive to ambulance companies as it would be with four communities.

Northville Township Business Manager David Leiko said the possibility of joint service with Plymouth arose after Northville city council voted to join with Novi and Farmington December 6. "But their vote was made contingent on the Northville Township's joining," he said, so both Northville and

Water rate negotiations resume

By KATHY JENNINGS

Still recovering from the 50 percent increase in water rates that became effective in July?

Well, hold on to your garden hose. For 1983 the Detroit Water Board has proposed an 18.8 percent increase in water rates — from $9.25 per 1,000 cubic feet of water to $9.80 per 1,000 cubic feet.

The rate increases which would become effective July 1 are tentative and Novi officials have begun their annual fight to lower the increase in water rates for residential, commercial and industrial water customers.

City engineering consultants met last week with representatives of the Detroit Water and Sewer Department to discuss the proposed rate hike.

"We dealt with the facts," was the way engineering consultant Edward Jacobs described the meeting with Detroit officials.

After reviewing the proposed rate increase and information used to arrive at that figure, Novi's engineering consultants have suggested to Detroit that water rates actually should be decreased in the coming year.

Novi Engineering Consultant Patrick Keast said that according to his calculations water rates in Novi should drop from $8.25 to $8.21 per 1,000 cubic feet during 1983.

"That's the way the numbers worked out," Keast said.

Keast explained a study conducted for Detroit by engineering consultants Black and Veatch showed Novi's peak water use actually was lower in 1982 than it was in 1978 and 1981 — two years used to determine the amount of water used in the city.

Novi's engineering consultants have explained their position regarding the water rates to the Detroit Water Board in a letter mailed Monday. Keast said the letter provides "additional data" Detroit might use when it sets water rates.

Novi engineers are somewhat baffled by the proposed water rate increase for 1983, since it appears Detroit did not take into consideration information Novi provided during 1982 water rate negotiations. That information apparently resulted in the city receiving a 50 percent water rate increase, rather than the 82 percent increase which had been proposed.

"It looks like they went back to their original data that would have resulted in (proposed) rates of $10.13 per 1,000 cubic feet of water (for 1982)," Keast said.

Before 1982 water rates were set, Novi's engineering consultants provided information regarding peak water use to Detroit. They also asked the water board to change some basic policies in the formulation of water rates on the grounds that the formula used is not equitable to Novi. The water board did not acknowledge the information from Novi's consultants, but did reduce the proposed increase.

That same information has been sent to Detroit again this year.

"We've given them the information telling them what we've calculated the rate should be," Keast said. "They've said they're willing to discuss peak factors and all our data. We'll wait and see what happens."

A public hearing on the proposed water rates is slated for January 6. If the proposed rates are not decreased, Novi officials are expected to formally protest the rate being charged.

Novi has been connected to the Detroit Water System since the mid-60s. City officials explain the decision to use Detroit water was made because of poor quality and requires treatment.

The city faced major water rate increases for the first time in 1982 as a result of the repeal of a state law prohibiting Detroit from charging suburban customers more than twice the rate charged Detroit residents. The law protecting the suburbs has been repealed.

Foster care home opening postponed

A "tentative" target date for opening a home for six developmentally disabled adults at 24701 Wixom Road in the City of Novi has been set back from January to April.

Construction of the home is proceeding and work on drywall is slated to get underway soon, according to Jim Clark of Macomb-Oakland Regional Center (MORC).

"We're firmly scheduled to open by the beginning of April," Clark said. "We should have no problems opening by that date."

Clark said there has been no specific problem causing the delay in opening the home. The delay has simply been a matter of coordinating "six to seven state agencies," Clark said.

"I've been doing this for five years and I've never opened a home on schedule yet," Clark said. "When we set a target date for opening, we're real optimistic. This is a complex program that requires coordination between six to seven state agencies. This group home falls into that mold."

A license application to operate the home has been filed by Community Services for the Developmentally Disabled, a non-profit corporation. Sheryl Riquette is representing the corporation.

The license for the group home should be issued within four to six weeks of its completion, Clark noted.

He said the applicant seeking licensing of the home "has been checked and we felt there was no problem. She's had more than sufficient experience and proven herself."

Licensing decisions are based on the applicant's qualifications, the program to be offered in the home and the physical structure of the proposed foster home, Clark explained. "A license would never be issued until the building is fully complete. We estimate it will be fully complete within three to 12 weeks."

Following licensing will be the selection of residents to be placed in the home, Clark indicated.

The home will be for six mentally retarded adults, four of whom will be physically handicapped.

Clark noted the home will be barrier-free. He explained that as the state has placed institutionalized persons in group homes it has been necessary in some areas to build homes which are barrier-free so physically handicapped persons can be de-institutionalized.

Construction of homes for adult foster care facilities has been part of the state community placement program for approximately four years.

Those to be placed in the home are currently institutionalized individuals who are developmentally disabled. The developmentally disabled have physical problems which may have occurred at birth or been caused by injury or illness after birth. Mental retardation, cerebral palsy and autism are examples of developmental disability.

Concentration

As the fruit came into the Novi High School Commons, Julie Shingler wasn't the only one concentrating on orders to make sure they turn out just right. Grapefruit, oranges and tangelos arrived from Florida Saturday and will be distributed to those who placed orders with band orders earlier this year. The band netted approximately $3,000 in the fruit sale — half of which will go toward a major trip next year. The remainder will be used for expenses such as music and uniforms as needed. ## Sergeant back on the road

From the "Police Are Human, Too" Department:

Sergeant John Johnson of the Novi Police Department discovered what it means to be "on the road again" when he cracked up a patrol car recently.

Johnson was promoted last month to sergeant on the road patrol, giving up his job as staff leader assigned to records and identification.

On December 1 he just might have been wishing he had his old desk job back.

That day Johnson was investigating reports of persons firing guns on the west side of Wixom Road, south of Grand River when the accident occurred.

He was northbound on Wixom Road, checking the adjacent field for hunters, when he drove into the southbound lane and struck a 1978 Ford Thunderbird. According to police reports, Johnson "took his eyes momentarily off the roadway" and his car went slightly left of the center of the road, striking a second vehicle.

The gravel roadway was wet when the accident occurred, according to the report.

The left front side of the patrol car and the left rear side of the second vehicle were damaged in the incident.

No injuries were reported.

Novi bands ready for holiday concert

With a rooey-toot and a rummy-tyum-tum there will be Christmas music in the annual Holiday Concert Band in the perennial favorite presented by the Novi High School Symphony and Concert bands in Fuester Auditorium tomorrow (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m.

Band Boosters spokesperson Evelyn Young reported that the auditorium will be beautifully decorated, the music will be festive and the "afterglow" promises to be a special holiday treat. Everyone will have an opportunity to visit with friends and neighbors.

Young said a special invitation has been extended to senior citizens to "come and get acquainted with these outstanding musical groups at no charge."

Craig Strain will direct the Symphony Band in the perennial favorite "Sleighride" by LeRoy Anderson and Prelude and Fugue in G Minor by Bach. The Concert Band under the direction of Paula Joyner will play selections, including "La Costa," "Evening Song" and "Castle, Loch and Heath," an English Folk Song Suite.

The combined bands totalling 90 members will close the concert with "The Christmas Song" by Mel Tormé and the traditional "Christmas Sing-Along."

Admission is free.

Novi's Superfisky family extols virtues of Providence Hospital's birthing center

Superfiskys laud birthing center

By KATHY JENNINGS

Michael Superfisky was born in a queen-size bed. His parents planned it that way.

The nine-pound, 12-ounce baby was born October 21. And Fil and Pam Superfisky of Novi can't say enough positive things about the birthing center at Providence Hospital in Southfield where the latest addition to their family was born.

"The first night the baby was born I slept in bed between both parents. The next morning his sisters came to meet him and they all went home together."

"It's the neatest experience you could ever go through in your whole life," Pam said.

Pam was pleased with the fact the baby is not taken away from the parents after birth, and parents can hold and touch their baby rather than having it taken to a sterile nursery.

"You get to hold the baby, skin to skin, and he bonds with the mom and the dad," Pam said.

Michael was the second child the Superfiskys have had delivered at the birthing center in Southfield.

"This time around they 'felt like old pros.' They took grapes, oranges and trail mix."

"After delivery, birthing center nurses are available but 'they leave you alone,' according to the Superfiskys. During the first eight hours there is an hourly check of the baby's blood pressure. Otherwise the family and its newest member are left in private."

"The nurses are gentle, kind people. They try to please you," Pam said. Fil agreed. "They try to anticipate your needs. They offer suggestions to make you as comfortable and relaxed as you can be."

The birthing center is an alternative to home birth for those who want the relaxation that comes with child birth at home with the safety of a hospital and medical support staff close at hand. It is designed for parents who are willing to use natural child birth and mothers who are having low-risk pregnancies, according to Pam.

"As long as you're having a normal, regular pregnancy you can go there," she noted.

The center also allows the husband to participate in the birth as much as he wants.

"You not only learn breathing, but you know what's coming next, how long it will last; it's education far beyond natural childbirth classes like Lamaze. You even learn about things like the baby's first bowel movement, because you take care of all that. You become aware of everything that happens to that little person," Pam said.

Fathers learn as well as the mothers. "They learn how to care for the baby, and it makes the father so much more a part of it all. They get used to holding and handling the baby right from the start," Pam said.

"When Michael was born, Fil took right over. He cleaned the baby and cut the cord. He did everything."

The mother and father also learn to question their doctor. "You learn to ask questions rather than just taking what the doctor says," Pam said. "You learn that you have a right to make decisions and ask questions more carefully. You become more careful in selecting a doctor."

Some people are concerned about the safety of birthing centers, Fil said. But the birthing center is just four-five minutes from the hospital operating room.

"If you were in the delivery room and developed complications it would take five minutes to set up the operating room anyway," he added.

In fact, Michael was born with a broken clavical. The morning after his birth he was put into a portable incubator, and Fil and a nurse wheeled him to the main hospital for treatment.

Council likes city hall sign plan

The Walled Lake City Council has endorsed in concept a plan to erect $4,700 worth of signs around the municipal center.

Council members, on a 6-1 vote with William Roberts objecting, authorized the city manager and city architect to continue seeking information on a package of municipal signs and put together a proposal, possibly for action next Tuesday.

The sign package includes a lighted message board in front of the municipal complex for about $1,046 plus letters, an unlighted sign listing city services for about $1,073, signs for the library and administration at $386 each, a wall-mounted sign for the fire department at $265, and a lighted police sign for about $300.

The cost of those signs would not include electrical wiring or masonry work for the front signs, to be provided by the city.

Roberts opposed the motion to endorse the signs in concept on the basis that the proposal was too "grandiose" for the city's needs. He suggested the city forego such recommendations as masonry pillars on the main sign in front of the complex and opt for a simpler design to lower the cost.

But other council members maintained the city should spend a few hundred more dollars to have a nicer group of signs as part of Walled Lake's pending city hall renovation.

Council Member Linda Ackley endorsed the plan, citing the recently completed road projects where Liberty Street and Walled Lake Drive were improved as well as the city municipal complex renovation plans.

"For so many years, Walled Lake has done things half-way," Ackley said. "I think now we're headed in the right direction. Let's not be skimpy for a couple of hundred dollars."

Council Member Ed Horsman echoed Ackley's comments, saying he thought the city should "go first class" and spruce up its image with the planned improvements.

Roberts said he was not opposed to a nice sign package, but was concerned about spending $4,700 on signs.

"I'm afraid we're getting into too grandiose a plan for signage," he said.

"Having the brick pillars is nice, but I question whether it's necessary."

He suggested the city consider a smaller, less expensive sign more on the order of what Orchard Lake uses than the lighted message board proposed.

"I've been working to get this for 14 years," Roberts said, "but now I think it's going in a direction that can be scaled down."

Architect Larry Galvon said the city council could probably find some cheaper signs than the ones he and Dornan had suggested, but cautioned that they would not be of the same quality. He said the long use of most signs makes high quality of construction essential because the city wouldn't be replacing them soon. But he admitted signs were expensive.

"When people talk about signs," he said, "you don't think of them costing thousands of dollars."

Roberts said he thought the matter should be taken under advisement and not acted on.

But City Manager J. Michael Dornan said he wanted to know if the council was in favor of having a lighted message sign in front of city hall since the cost was greater than they had probably realized. Dornan said perhaps a simpler method of signs around the municipal complex could be used, but he said he needed to know whether he and Galvon should proceed with obtaining prices for lighted boards.

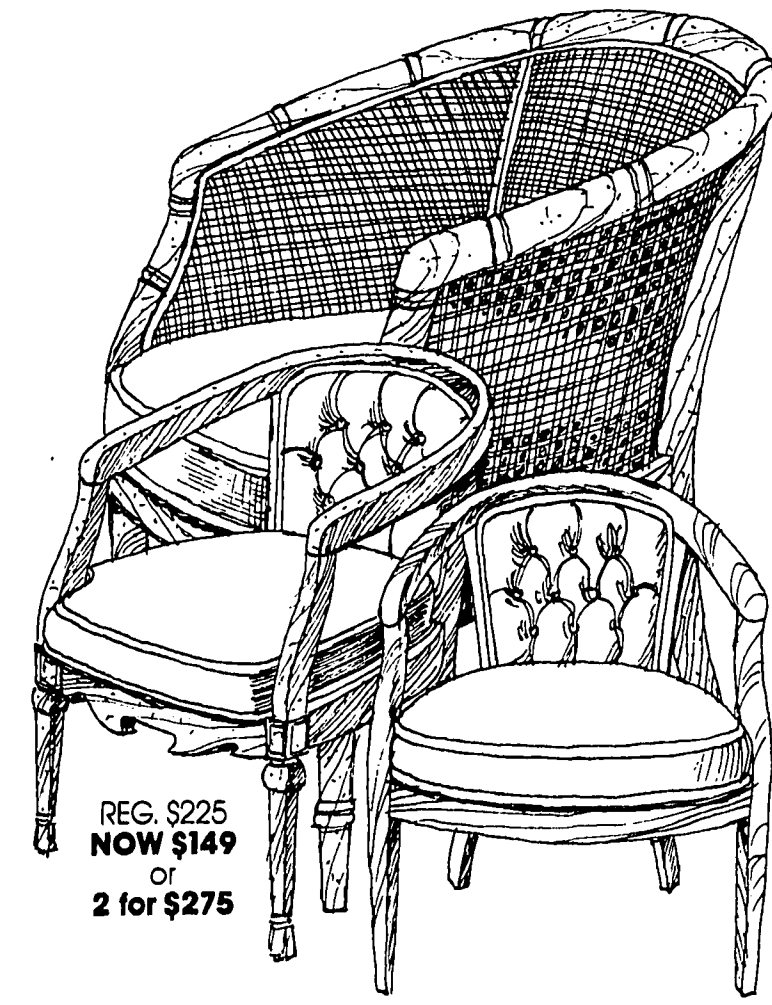

Mayor Gaspare LaMarca said he thought the signage plan was not excessive and commented that he liked it.

"This happens to be a large complex of buildings," LaMarca said. "I think what they have proposed is correct."

The city council is especially eager to have a message board installed so community groups can use it to advertise their upcoming events, in lieu of the city's previous service of hanging banners on Fountain Trail.

The council decided last fall not to allow banners to be hung over the road because members were concerned about the liability of a banner breaking and causing an accident, as well as the cost to the city of continually rehanging sagging banners.

Village rejects city's dispatch offer

By KAREN RICE

Wolverine Lake will keep its police dispatching at home, following a decision by the village council to reject a plan to consolidate dispatch services with Walled Lake.

The village council voted 6-0 to continue with its current set-up, keeping two shifts of dispatchers operating at the village police department and contracting with Walled Lake only for midnight shift dispatch.

Council Member Geri Matkowsky abstained from the vote without giving a reason for doing so. She later said she abstained because voting "no" was "too final" and she could not agree with the decision to keep dispatch in the village.

Michael Dorman said the city was not upset about Wolverine Lake's decision to continue with its existing service.

With residents applauding their decision, council members rejected a proposal from Walled Lake to initiate a pilot program of consolidated dispatching that would provide several police support services to the village and save Wolverine Lake an estimated $30,000 annually.

Administrator Bill O'Brien said the village had also been contacted by the City of Novi's police department, which he said was interested in "getting into the dispatching business."

'To me, it's just not practical or feasible the way it's been presented by Walled Lake.'
— Tim Kozub, Wolverine Lake president

Citing concerns that police officers would spend too much time in Walled Lake doing paperwork and that dispatching was one service villagers have come to expect for their taxes, council members said they thought the chance would be in the village's best interest after meeting December 7 with Police Chief John O'Neill and retiring dispatcher Betty Bruder to discuss village services.

Gerhard and Kozub said that during the meeting they learned several things about the village operation that convinced them consolidating with Walled Lake would be a more involved procedure than it had first appeared.

For instance, Gerhard said, village employees also dispatch DPW crews, the weed harvester operator and the

Testimony mounts in Wood case

By KAREN RICE

Judge Harold Bulgarelli is expected to decide today (Wednesday) whether to bind over the murder-arsen case against retired teacher Dora Wood to circuit court for trial.

After two days of testimony last week, 5th District Court Judge Bulgarelli scheduled closing arguments from the preliminary examination for this afternoon.

While Assistant Prosecutor William Plichka is hoping to see the case sent to Oakland County Circuit Court for trial, Defense Attorney Robert Sterling is expected to ask the case be dismissed on grounds of insufficient evidence.

Dora Wood, 78, is charged with first degree murder in the death of her 84-year-old husband, Harold, who died in the July 27, 1981, fire that swept through their Wanda Street home.

Arson experts and neighbors testified December 6 and December 8 before the prosecution rested its case. Because of conflicts in the schedules of attorneys and the court, closing arguments could not be arranged prior to today.

During testimony last Wednesday (December 8), neighbor Raymond Nelson matched the earlier testimony of another witness when he said he had heard Dora Wood say "something to the effect that she had killed her husband" while she lay on a stretcher before being loaded into an ambulance.

SANTA'S STAR: The Walled Lake firefighters are boasting something unique for Christmas: the highest Santa Claus in the city. Anyone who thinks they can compete with the fire department, which managed to get its lighted Santa into the uppermost branches of a monstrous spruce outside the fire association hall — is advised to drive by and check out the location. If you think you can put your Santa up that high with or without use of a major extension ladder, contact us and the firefighters. That would be worth seeing.

LIBERTY'S LIGHTS: Well the Christmas lights are up on Liberty Street, thanks to the hard work of the city DPW and others. City Manager Mike Dorman has been looking forward to the day his "twinkle lights" went up, but that's nothing compared to the feelings of Mayor Gaspare LaMarca, who commended everyone involved for hoisting all those "Italian lights." Said LaMarca: "I call them Italian lights, but they could be anybody's lights. I'm just prejudiced."

VINDICATED: Those opposing the plan to consolidate police dispatching between Walled Lake and Wolverine Lake had their moment in the sun last week after the village council decided to stick with its own dispatchers. A resident rushed in, moaning and in great pain after having mollen lead splashed on his face and in his eyes. With villagers downstairs listening, the man's wife pleaded for the afternoon shift dispatcher to "do something." Commerce Township medics were called and they responded en masse to the village office to treat the man. Police Chief John O'Neill then came down and gave a report to the council of what had happened and how his dispatchers had reacted. The man was eventually sent off to the hospital after the council meeting ended.

Community pours out help for food baskets

"It's growing by the day." With those words, Terry Heller describes the huge outpouring of good will the Walled Lake Jaycees uncovered when they launched their Christmas food basket program.

Response from virtually every corner of the community has been pouring in — with nearly 30 local businesses contributing food, money or services; with groups like the Walled Lake Fish Closet helping to locate and screen families seeking aid; three-quarters of the area's churches supporting the effort; and with individuals calling up to offer toys and food.

Not only have the Jaycees' efforts to locate donations been successful, so has their attempt to reach families who might not have ordinarily been helped.

Novi updates computer services

Purchase of a $230,000 computer system for city hall was approved recently by the Novi City Council on the basis of an administrative recommendation that it is the best, if not the least expensive, system for the city.

Council members approved the purchase of the Arizala-Data General system on the recommendation of Finance Director Les Gibson who reported the system has been used in both large and medium-sized municipalities, as well as having been developed and enhanced over the past seven years.

Gibson said he recommended the $230,000 system instead of a $190,000 system offered by Cado. "Primarily because he believes the more expensive system will be able to serve the city as it grows."

The finance director said Data General offers two larger models, while the model proposed by Cado is the top of its product line.

Gibson also said he recognized that a $48,000 difference in price between the systems is a "wide range of difference in the cost," but Data General's quoted price of $230,000 is "the going price for the proven product. It's what Data General feels they have to get out to their more sophisticated system."

He told council members two days before the matter was to come before them Cado contacted him, offering to lower their price by $25,000 and causing the wide range in prices.

"The representatives were very candid and indicated they must get into a city our size with the new Tiger and demonstrate they can provide a new system," Gibson explained.

But he retained his concerns regarding the size and potential of the Cado system, since the company currently serves primarily smaller communities and its annual report shows its market is small computer users.

"The Tiger is a new entry on the top of their line and it limits our growth path. Cado sees its market as the small computer and the Tiger was brought in to keep those customers who outgrew their equipment," Gibson said.

Gibson also told council that as Cado enhances its system those changes will be based on the needs of smaller communities. "Enhancements in a system resulting from the needs of smaller communities are probably not as sophisticated as improvements provided by people in East Lansing, the City of Wayne and others."

"I feel I have to recommend the more expensive system," Gibson said. "The Cado system uses a new software company that's been in business for three months and did some support for Cado in Michigan. A substantial amount of their work is being done by a consultant.... Cado software is for smaller communities with smaller hardware."

Although the Cado system is easier to use than the Data General system, Gibson said he believes differences in the latter "would not pose a problem in word processing or cash receipting and for others it would probably only be a nuisance until the operators become used to it."

Mayor Robert Schmid questioned whether there was any information on the amount of money the city could expect to save through computerization.

"I can't quantify it that way," Gibson responded.

However, Kriewall said the city could expect staff increases to occur at a slower pace as a result of computerization. He added the city went to computerized water meters in 1972 when there were 10,000 accounts and 10 years later the number of employees in the water department has gone from three to two.

"We doubled our accounts and cut back our employees. That's a real example that exists that shows what we can do," Kriewall said.

Walled Lake board splits over Sheldon's contract

Strong words and hard feelings were in evidence as the Walled Lake school board voted 4-3 Monday to extend Superintendent Don Sheldon's contract six months.

The proposal to extend Sheldon's contract was labeled "frivolous" by Trustee Merlin Reeds, and Trustee Janet Callahan charged that appointment of a three-member Contract Review Committee by Board President Robert Cooper in November was nothing more than a ploy to extend the superintendent's contract.

The motion to extend the contract six months was supported by Cooper, Betty Campion, Mario Tozzi and Bonnie Venzke. Dissenting votes were cast by Reeds, Callahan and Patricia Jackman.

The subject of the controversy was a recommendation from the Contract Review Committee that Sheldon's contract be extended six months with no salary or increment adjustments. Sheldon's current pact with the school district expires January 1, 1985. As a result of the board's action Monday, his contract now will expire June 30, 1985.

Venzke, who serves as Contract Review Committee chairperson, said the recommendation was merely an effort to bring the superintendent's contract in line with all other contracts in the district. Noting that all other contracts with district employees expire June 30, Venzke said the recommendation would do nothing more than put the superintendent's contract expiration date in line with all others.

Serving with Venzke on the committee are Campion and Tozzi. The panel was appointed by Cooper in November to "review and revise language in the superintendent's contract as it would be applicable to any individual who holds the position."

Venzke said Monday that the committee has completed a proposed "model contract" of employment for the superintendent which would be applicable to any individual who holds the position.

The proposed document contains no names, dates

Sheldon efforts lauded

Walled Lake Superintendent Don Sheldon, a frequent target of criticism at school board meetings, got a big pat on the back from Trustee Patricia Jackman at the December 13 meeting.

Following a presentation by Planning and Evaluation Director Sami Alam on the marked increases registered by Walled Lake students in the Michigan Education Association Program, Sheldon proceeded to laud students, parents and staff for the improved showing.

"The improved scores are a tribute to our staff and our community," said Sheldon.

"I think everyone agrees that education in an independent process that requires dedicated parents, teachers and administrators. Take away any one of those ingredients and you cannot hope to do as well."

or proposed financial arrangements, she said, and is designed solely as a working contract for the position of superintendent.

The model contract has been submitted to attorneys who have proposed changes which the committee has not yet had an opportunity to study, she added, suggesting that further discussion of the proposed pact be delayed at the present time.

In the interim, Venzke continued, the committee proposed the six-month extension of Sheldon's pact to bring it into line with all other contracts and that Sheldon be evaluated by the board in June of 1983 and each year thereafter.

It was those proposals which stirred the debate. Reeds said he has been impressed with the committee's work on a model contract but the last-minute contract extension recommendation had "hurt his feelings."

"This was put before me tonight," he said. "I shall treat it in the same manner it was presented — frivolously."

Callahan called the recommendation "very regrettable" and suggested the committee had established solely to conceal the real purpose of extending Sheldon's contract.

Cooper denied Callahan's allegations.

Jackman said the recommendation to extend the contract was "difficult for me to deal with on a last-minute basis."

"I do not object to a six-month extension, but it has to be done in a manner that will be acceptable to the community and items such as salary and fringe benefits are negotiable items which the superintendent has a right to discuss," she added.

Campion responded to the comments by issuing a public apology to Sheldon. "I feel it's totally unfair to the superintendent to have to sit here and endure this discussion," she said.

"All we (the committee) are asking is that the contract be extended six months so it falls in line with all other contracts."

Group finds no need for school closings

By PHILIP JEROME

No more elementary schools in the Walled Lake School District will be closed during the 1983-84 academic year, as a result of action Monday by the school board.

Specially, the board by a 5-2 vote said it will not close another elementary school in 1983-84.

The two dissenting votes were cast by Board President Robert Cooper and Patricia Jackman. Cooper said it was premature to take a hard, fast position until "we know more about what our financial situation is going to be," while Jackman expressed similar sentiments.

"I do love to be able to tell everyone we're not going to close a school, but we have no assurances about revenues," she said, pointing specifically to various tax appeals, assessment hearings and further decline in state aid.

"There are a lot of factors which could force this board into an embarrassing situation (if anticipated revenues do not materialize)," she added. "I think we have to keep our options open."

The board's decision to close no more schools in 1983-84 followed receipt of a special report from the Citizens Committee on Declining Enrollment and Facility Utilization.

The committee, which was formed last year and prepared a report which ultimately led to the closing of Union Lake Elementary, was reconvened in September to study the effect of declining enrollments on the future use of school facilities.

Committee Chairman Steven Lasher said Monday that the group recommends all 11 elementary schools remain open in 1983-84. "All available space in the elementary schools is essentially being effectively utilized," said Lasher.

The committee strongly believes that the closing of an elementary school in the 1983-84 school year is not warranted, nor can it be justified for any reason other than financial."

Additionally, Lasher reported that the expected enrollment decline over the next five years does not constitute an enrollment equal to one elementary school.

Layoffs to balance budget

By KATHY JENNINGS

Commerce Township trustees were expected to adopt a budget balancing by laying off two employees at a regular board meeting Tuesday, after "The News" deadline.

Faced with a $30,000 deficit, elected township officials have recommended the lay off of the township environmentalist and recording secretary. There also will be salary freezes for most township employees.

The budget anticipates revenues for the upcoming fiscal year of $1.32 million, the expenditures, without budget balancing measures, total $1.35 million.

The township has a 1982,000 unencumbered fund balance.

"It looks like it will be necessary to decrease the number of employees," Supervisor Robert Long told the board at a recent budget work session.

Together the two layoffs will save the township between $30,000-$34,000, he explained. The layoffs will take the number of township employees down to 18 full time and one part time position.

Layoffs are being made in positions where there is only one person in a particular job, Long explained.

"There's no question this would mean a lot of adjustments, without a recording secretary there would be no judgments."

Bruce Campbell (left) and Jim Dunlop believe in hands-on approach to teaching

Walled Lake teachers honored

By PHILIP JEROME

Bruce Campbell and John Dunlop are tough bargainers.

When they negotiate a contract with one of their eighth grade American History students at Walled Lake Junior High School, the student knows that he/she had better live up to his/her end of the bargain.

"It (negotiating contracts with students) is something we've been doing about six years now," reported Campbell, "and it seems to be working well."

"The student likes it because it lays out exactly what we expect," added

Dunlop, "and the parents like it because they develop an understanding of what their children are doing in the classroom."

Campbell and Dunlop obviously take their chosen professions seriously. As a result of their dedication to the job of educating children, they've been named co-recipients of the 1982 Instructional Excellence Award by the Michigan Education Association (MEA).

They were nominated for the honor by Walled Lake Education Association President Heidi Wilkins specifically for their development of a program entitled, "Variety: The Spice of Life in the Classroom."

Both Campbell and Dunlop said they were pleased just to be nominated for the award and were honored to be selected.

Donald Chalker, director of secondary education for the Walled Lake Schools, called the selection of Campbell and Dunlop a "super honor" for the district.

Negotiating contracts with students is just half of the "Variety: The Spice of Life in the Classroom" series developed by the two Walled Lake Junior High teachers. The other half is a "simulation game" called "Disunia" in which students learn about government by developing their own constitution.

The two parts of the program are intrinsically related.

Campbell and Dunlop sit down with each student at the start of each American History unit and negotiate a contract based on their perception of the student's capabilities and the student's goals and objectives.

For example, if a student wants to receive an A for the unit, he will negotiate to read a certain number of books, submit a written report on a specified subject, prepare a special project and pass the final exam with a specified score.

The contract must be signed by the parents as well as the student and teacher. If the student fulfills the contract, he will receive the grade negotiated with Campbell and Dunlop.

"It's a good system because it allows us to individualize instruction and involves the parent in the child's education," said Campbell. "It's an excellent way to teach responsibility and time management—all the things you're going to need in life."

Also integrated in the program are special projects for each of the units in American History—Exploration and Discovery, Colonial America, the American Revolution, the Civil War, Minority Studies and the 1920s and '30s.

During the Colonial American unit, for example, students may learn to make pewter rings using the same methods employed by Paul Revere.

"We want the students to get a feel for history," explained Dunlop. "We incorporate lectures in our teaching, but we also use a lot of hands-on type of activities because it provides variety in the classroom and spurs student interest."

"Instead of hearing a lecture about Paul Revere's job as a coppersmith, the student gets a feel for exactly what he did for a living."

The last six weeks of the year are filled with the "Disunia" game. Students must form their own government by developing a constitution. Campbell and Dunlop serve as supervisors, feeding the students different problems to see how they'll deal with them.

"We show them what happened in history and how they can learn from history," said Campbell. "We'll propose a problem and say this is how George Washington and Thomas Jefferson dealt with it, but what would you do with it?"

"We've ended up with everything from democracies to monarchies," reported Campbell, "but the students always come away with a better understanding of the issues and how government works."

The program developed by Campbell and Dunlop has received a great deal of interest in educational circles. They've made presentations on their unique approach to teaching American History to the Michigan Association of Middle School Educators, the Michigan Association of Secondary Curriculum Development, the Michigan Council for Social Studies and the National Association of Middle Schools as well as many local districts through in-service training programs.

Campbell said the program has been well-received just about everywhere.

"We think we have a good thing going here in Walled Lake and we want to share it with other districts," he said. "It's very rewarding to develop something which helps children learn about American History."

Novi taps architect for DPW site

Questions regarding selection of an architect for a Department of Public Works (DPW) building have been resolved for Novi City Council members, allowing the project to proceed to the design stage.

Council members have approved the appointment of Nordstrom-Sanson as architects for the building after reviewing the criteria used by city administration in selecting the firm.

Department of Public Services Director Robert Shaw said seven companies were invited to offer bids to design the building which will serve as a maintenance facility for the (DPW) and the Parks and Recreation Department as well as offices for the DPW superintendent.

"Terms of the agreement between Nordstrom-Sanson and the city were shown to the council to answer questions raised regarding fees, specific responsibilities for overseeing construction and rates charged if construction is delayed.

Examples of work done by the firm in other communities, especially other municipal garages were shown to the council in a slide presentation by Jeffrey Clark of Nordstrom-Sanson.

Clark told the council his firm "thoroughly investigates the needs of a department" before designing a building. He indicated they also have researched DPW garages and are

'This is the last purchase of property in our essential facility program that began in the 1970s.'

— Edward Kriewall, Novi City Manager

aware of recent innovations in such buildings.

Regarding the question of energy conservation, Clark said his firm designed buildings with passive solar apparatus before it became fashionable to do so.

"That's something we consider on every facility," Clark said. "We've been doing it for years, not just because it's popular or fancy. We would study it to see if it's effective for your DPW facility."

Council member James Shaw, who originally raised questions regarding appointment of the architect for the new DPW building on the grounds it would be a major expenditure for the city, praised the administration for the thoroughness of its review in selecting an architect.

"If this packet (of information) had been presented the first time, it wouldn't have been asked for again," Shaw said.

City Manager Edward Kriewall said after the meeting that the DPW building will be constructed on Eleven Mile, a site recently purchased by the city.

Difficulties in finding affordable property zoned for industrial use, which is required for the type of building and equipment storage needed by the DPW, originally stalled purchase of a site for the facility for nearly two years. But council members approved the $392,000 purchase of the property in September. The city bought approximately 32 acres at $12,000 an acre using federal revenue sharing funds.

"Part of the plan is to sell the existing DPW/Water and Sewer building on Grand River and the old fire station on Novi Road that's being used as the Parks and Recreation maintenance facility," Kriewall said. "The sale of those two sites will fund up to half the cost of the new facility."

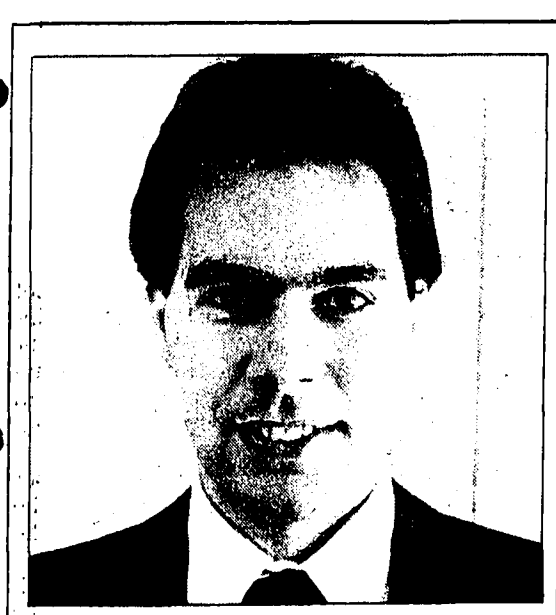

Additionally, at least 10 acres of the property purchased by the city will be sold for future industrial uses, Kriewall said.

"This is the last purchase of property in our essential facility program that began in the 1970s," Kriewall noted.

"We embarked on a capital improvement program that started with the new police headquarters and continued with 14 fire fire stations," Kriewall said. "With the purchase of property for the fifth fire station and the maintenance facility, we have made our last purchases in the essential facility vein."

Future property purchases will be "strictly recreation oriented," Kriewall added. "We've purchased the ultimate essential services site and from here will move into recreation."

Village continues searching for O'Brien's replacement

STEPHEN BONCZEK

Bonczek fails in bid for job

Stephen Bonczek apparently will remain in his present capacity as Assistant to the Mayor of Wixom.

Bonczek was one of three finalists for the position of City Manager of East Detroit, but the East Detroit City Council last week selected Paul Flynn of Sioux City, Iowa, to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Scott Miller who left to accept a municipal post in Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Flynn has accepted the $35,000 per year post and reported Monday for his first day of work in East Detroit.

Flynn, Bonczek and Roseville City Manager Benny Marelli were the three finalists for the East Detroit job. They were selected by the council from a field of 32 candidates.

Bonczek, who had no comment about not receiving the East Detroit post, has served as mayor's assistant in Wixom since June 1978.

Village continues searching for O'Brien's replacement

Wolverine Lake village's clerk and treasurer have suggested the village council consider appointing an acting administrator to temporarily take over the duties of retiring Administrator Bill O'Brien.

Clerk Donna Thorsberg said a report submitted to the council by her and Treasurer Fran Barber "didn't really specify" who should be named acting administrator, only that the village council should think about appointing someone if it appeared it was going to take a long time to hire a new administrator.

O'Brien's retirement will be effective at the end of February but he will be on vacation beginning the first of January, and the village council has not yet selected his top choices to replace him.

However, O'Brien suggested the council could hire a local resident who applied for the job and thus cover the gap when he would be on vacation.

O'Brien said he could "highly recommend" Ron Pliotik, a former village council member and resident for 12 years, be hired and start January 3. But council members said they were reluctant to hire someone without having interviewed any candidates simply in order to fill the post.

The village council then decided to set up a committee to determine what qualifications applicants should have, select a salary range and write a job description for the administrative post. The committee also will look at whether the village clerk should be amended to clarify requirements of the post and will recommend whether an acting administrator needs to be appointed.

Many of those suggestions were recommended in the report from Thorsberg and Barber.

The committee, comprised of Council Members John Coxeter, Tom Gerhard and Pat Howarth, as well as O'Brien, Thorsberg and Barber, will meet tomorrow (December 16) to discuss those items.

O'Brien said he would call the village offices collect while he was on vacation so that he could advise Thorsberg and Barber if problems arose.

Meanwhile, council members are individually studying the 53 applications from individuals seeking the post. They will choose their top choices at the January 12 council meeting and then schedule interviews.

'Dinner with Santa coming up Sunday

Guess who's coming to dinner? Santa Claus.

The annual "Dinner with Santa" sponsored by the Walled Lake Action Committee of the Lakes Area Chamber of Commerce will be held at the Walled Lake Bay this Sunday from 3-10 p.m.

Members of the action committee will distribute candy canes, and carolers will make the occasion even more festive. Carolers are being arranged by Marjorie Clifton, chairman of the city parks and recreation committee.

Children will be able to have their pictures taken with Santa Claus for $2, according to John Marshall of the action committee.

Some of the proceeds from the event will be turned back to the action committee, as in the past, Marshall said.

In conjunction with the special dinner, the action committee is supporting the concept of a discount days weekend that would encourage merchants to offer special deals to shoppers.

The idea, Marshall said, is to encourage people to do some Christmas shopping in Walled Lake, or at least come in and have dinner.

"We'd like to go all out this year," Marshall said. He said he would be mailing out information on the action committee's suggestion for discount days to business owners this week.

Village to keep its own dispatch

police boat during the summer; Walled Lake's proposal was strictly for police dispatching. But O'Brien said Walled Lake could also handle DPW dispatching, but it "would be longer."

"It was also pointed out to me that our entire system of dispatching and clerks goes hand-in-hand with the entire police operation," Gerhard said. "If the dispatching is in Walled Lake, our officers would have less reason to come here (to the village). The police would end up working, really, out of Walled Lake more than here. I guess that's something that is of grave concern to me."

He said he thought the village council should decide whether consolidated dispatching was really in Wolverine Lake's best interest first, and secondly whether Walled Lake should be the contracting party.

Council Member Robert Woodrow agreed with the council's decision was "whether or not we want to farm out a service."

He said if dispatching wasn't done out of the village, it could be provided by just about anyone, not necessarily Walled Lake alone.

"If we don't have it here, we might as well have it in downtown Detroit," he said. He said it was important to consider the "quality of service" Walled Lake dispatchers could provide, rather than just covering the function of dispatch.

Kozub echoed Gerhard's comments and said the thing that helped make up his mind was the impracticality of implementing Walled Lake's proposal.

"There doesn't seem to be a practical way to switch dispatching unless you switch records," Kozub said. "If you only move dispatch, you'd have to hire clerks to maintain records for the day shift and afternoon shift so any cost-savings would be lost."

"To me, it's just not practical or feasible the way it's been presented by Walled Lake," Kozub said.

He cited as an additional concern the fact that moving dispatch would be like "shutting down the village offices" since dispatchers keep open the building at night for board meetings.

Villagers offered strong support of the council's comments opposing joint services.

Agreed John Franklin: "This is just another big plan when they're trying to open the door" to acquisition of other village services by Walled Lake or other area communities.

"First they'll take dispatch, then the police will be taken over, then the city services and pretty soon we'll no longer be a village."

Forrest Ingle noted that the citizens of Wolverine Lake "very clearly demonstrated our position on annexation" in past years.

"When we give away our services," he said, "we weaken our position." He said he favored maintaining Wolverine Lake's autonomy.

Council Member Pat Howarth concurred with Ingle, pointing out that "those services were instrumental in preventing annexation several years ago."

Council members then voted to maintain the village's existing services. That decision was followed by comments from several council members, including Ed Sienkiewicz, who spoke angrily about the "controversy" and "rumor" created within Wolverine Lake by the issue.

"This situation started a controversy, a lot of turmoil because an outside person came in here and said 'we want to take over one of your services,'" Sienkiewicz said.

"I don't think this should ever happen this way again."

He said the village council had spent too much time discussing the issue, which had not been generated internally.

Gerhard defended consideration of consolidation, stating the council had "every obligation" to look into the proposal.

O'Neill commented, "Mike Dornan did this on his own without authority from his council. First he did it and then he went back to ask for authorization."

"We know very well our administrator, Bill O'Brien, would never approach any other community with a proposal of this type."

The topic originally arose during a telephone conversation between O'Brien and Dornan in October. O'Brien informed council members the same night (October 13) of the discussion and they instructed him to seek more information.

After a meeting between O'Neill, Dornan and O'Brien, Dornan then asked the Walled Lake City Council for authorization to put together a formal proposal for the village to consider. The council unanimously agreed and Dornan sent a proposal to O'Brien in November, which the Wolverine Lake village council studied prior to the December 8 meeting.

count figures show current enrollment at 9,174.

Lasher said the committee projects a further decline over the next five years to a low of 8,198 in 1986-87. At that time, he said, enrollment will begin to rise.

He noted that the declining enrollment experienced over the past five years may be a blessing "because it has allowed for the permanent housing in full-sized classrooms of such programs as art, music and learning disabilities."

Other recommendations made by the committee include:

- Retain 11 elementary schools and restrict the elementary school building to a proper balance and utilization of each elementary school. Lasher noted that enrollment at Dublin is approaching 700 students, while Wixom and Twin Beach are substantially under capacity.
- Retain 11 elementary schools and use surplus space primarily for district-related purposes such as special education, community education, adult education and senior citizens.
- Adopt a middle school concept in 1985-86 when enrollment in grades 7 and 8 has decreased to such an extent that the addition of sixth graders will not overpopulate the two existing junior high schools.
- Request additional millage for repair and maintenance of district facilities. Lasher said the committee recognizes that a previous millage proposal was defeated by voters, but continues to believe the board cannot continue to allow its buildings to deteriorate.
- Close one elementary school and utilize the vacated building as a centralized community education building with appropriate space for senior citizens.
- Close one elementary school and use the vacated building as a centralized administration building. The current administration building could then be used as a community education facility with appropriate space for senior citizens.

Novi police respond to series of stolen vehicles

In Novi

A string of auto thefts from Twelve Oaks Mall was reported by Novi police last week.

A car filled with Christmas presents was stolen from the Twelve Oaks lot December 4. The woman said she locked the car, went into the mall and discovered it missing when she returned approximately 75 minutes later. The 1978 Granada was valued at $7,500.

The value of the stolen Christmas presents was estimated at $1,200. Stolen were a $640 television set, a $200 computer, a $125 video set, three pairs of pants worth $54, dishes and pans worth $40, a $45 pair of boots, a $17 brown purse and a $20 video game cassette. The items were in the car's trunk.

In a second incident, a Brighton man reported the theft of a $5,000 van. The man said the van was taken while he was in the mall approximately 75 minutes.

A Farmington man reported the theft of a 1977 Ford station wagon while he was in the mall roughly 2 1/2 hours. The man said the car also contained $700 worth of tools.

A salesman for Pulse Homes reported a mobile home used as a sales office was broken into and approximately $120 in cash and goods were stolen.

A $75 radio, $20 desk lamp and $25 in cash were taken.

Police said the window of the mobile home appeared to have been forced open.

A tree worth approximately $200 was stolen from the business office of Emblematic at 29425 Heslip Drive. The complainant told police it is not known who took the seven-foot tree from the business office.

Approximately $130 in goods was stolen from a storage cage in the 3000 block of Walden Court in the Waterview Apartments.

Reported stolen were a $70 circular saw and a $60 rod and reel. Also taken were 50 Christmas ornaments, five strings of lights, four packages of tinsel, 10 antique ornaments and a two-foot artificial tree.

related to the theft.

A salesman for Pulse Homes reported a mobile home used as a sales office was broken into and approximately $120 in cash and goods were stolen.

A $75 radio, $20 desk lamp and $25 in cash were taken.

Police said the window of the mobile home appeared to have been forced open.

An automobile parked in the Tree Top Meadows complex at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook Road sustained approximately $800 damage during the theft of a 1980 radio.

The owner told police he parked the 1986 Pontiac, intending to store it for winter. One day after checking it, he returned to find a rear passenger door broken, the windshield smashed, a rear tire flattened, the roof liner slashed, the floor slitter broken and the dashboard damaged where the radio was removed.

A Novi man reported the theft of nearly $200 worth of goods from his car while he was picking up an order in Dave's Hamburger Restaurant. The car, a 1970 Mercury, was parked next to the restaurant and left unattended. A $120 cassette stereo and nearly $140 worth of coaxial speakers were stolen.

A Wixom police officer shot and killed a deer after it was injured in a car accident.

The officer saw the injured young male deer standing on West Road near Beck December 11, according to police. The deer was bleeding from the mouth and on the hind quarter, the officer said.

When the officer approached the deer, he was able to touch him and walk him over to the side of the road, where the deer sat down and refused to move. The officer was unable to contact DNR officials and received clearance from his supervisor to destroy the animal. He then shot the deer.

Officers later learned the animal had been struck by a motorist on West Road near Beck when the deer ran out in front of a car while trying to cross the road.

The victim of a purse-snatching refused to press charges against the man who allegedly stole her purse after the missing items were recovered by police, according to Wixom police.

The victim told officers she had been with acquaintances at Richard's Four Corners the night of December 3 when a friend of someone she knew grabbed her purse and ran outside.

Wixom police officers tracked him to the Village Apartments, where they found him in a hallway with the purse in his hands.

When police returned the handbag to the woman, she said she would not press charges.

A construction worker fell 18 feet from the roof of the new clubhouse at the Wixom Finn Camp, according to Wixom police.

The man, who was working on the roof of the building under construction, was taken to Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital after receiving some back injuries during the fall, police said. His condition was unknown.

Officials of the C&O Railroad yard in Wixom are trying to determine what, if anything, was stolen during a recent breaking and entering at the yard.

According to Wixom police, maling and window screens were removed from an out building at the railroad yard sometime between 4 p.m. December 3 and 7 a.m. December 6. So far, nothing appears to be missing, police said.

A Wixom resident with a soft spot for animals was bitten by a stray dog after he began feeding and playing with the animal, according to Wixom police.

The man told officers a small brown dog had been hanging around his Beck Road home for several days before he began to feel sorry for it and began feeding it. He said he was playing with the dog when it bit him.

Police picked up the animal and took it to an animal control center for treatment.

Milford man pleads guilty

A 42-year old Milford man has pled guilty to charges of manslaughter in connection with a fatal traffic accident on Haggerty Road in Novi in February.

Bert A. Beidler of Milford was placed on five years' probation, the first of which will be spent in Oakland County Jail as part of a work-release program. Under terms of the probation Beidler cannot drive, drink alcohol or frequent places where alcohol is sold.

Beidler also must pay $1,000 in fines and court costs. A charge of felonious driving brought against Beidler was dismissed when he pled guilty to manslaughter, according to Novi police.

The charges stemmed from an accident in which a passenger in Beidler's car, Philip D. Witowski, was killed.

Witowski died of injuries suffered when he was thrown from Beidler's car after it crossed the center line into the path of a southbound vehicle on Haggerty Road, Witowski, 37, was from Livonia.

Police said the accident apparently occurred when a northbound motorist on Haggerty Road prepared to make a left turn into the Country Cousin Mobile Home Park.

Beidler's vehicle reportedly was behind the turning car. When the car in front of him stopped to turn, he apparently applied his brakes and skidded across the center line into the path of the southbound vehicle, which was driven by Clinton Hart, 68, of Dearborn Heights.

Witnesses said Beidler's car was being driven in an erratic manner when it swerved across the center line, according to police reports.

Police report road hazards

Motorists are warned to exercise extra caution near the I-696 and I-75 interchange in Farmington Hills.

Numerous accidents associated with icy conditions already have occurred at the intersection, and state police anticipate more unless motorists slow down and take heed of the potential for trouble.

The interchange was closed for half a day November 13 for a 17-car pileup which claimed the life of 26-year-old Karen Chlebek of Livonia.

More trouble occurred November 28 when state troopers responded to 17 car crashes and one pedestrian injury.

All the incidents were attributed to icy conditions caused by freezing rain hitting the cold overpasses.

"I went sliding down the ramp myself on foot," said Trooper Larry Richardson, who spent a busy morning policing two different accident sites in the area. "It was like you were skating."

Richardson said he spotted a number of cars that had slid into the ditch when he was driving to an accident on I-95 west of Novi Road where a car collided with a Greyhound bus carrying 40 people.

Most problems in slippery weather are occurring on the ramp from westbound I-696 to southbound I-75, according to Lieutenant Thomas Garvale, director of traffic services in metropolitan Detroit for the Michigan State Police.

The overpass is the highest level of three decks: I-75, M-102 and the surface highway which becomes westbound I-696 leading to the interchange.

"Signs warning drivers that the bridge ices up too often are ignored," said Garvale.

"As I understand it, most of these people were well into the ice and snow zone before they could react."

Central's students bring in the goods

For several hundred families in the Commerce area, this Christmas was a happy one — thanks to the efforts of 18 classes of students at Walled Lake Central.

Participating in the school's annual Christmas canned goods drive, the students broke all records as they collected nearly 3,600 canned items. In just three days.

The previous high was 2,000 cans, collected last year. Central's Brian Woodcock attributed the increase to the fact that students this year concentrated on collecting food rather than both food and toys, as classes have in previous years.

"It's really an outpouring of goodwill from the student body," Woodcock said.

Meanwhile, Gay Toys of Walled Lake stepped in to pick up the slack where toy contributions are concerned. The company donated a number of new toys which, when added to other toys donated by area residents, will be given out on Christmas Day to area hospital pediatric wards by students.

The food itself will go to feed 400 families through the Commerce and White Lake food pantries and the Union Lake Open Door, groups that serve the area around Central.

Turning in the best effort was Marsha Lonteen's freshman English class, which brought in more than 25 canned goods per student on the average. Lonteen led the winning group for the third time in four years.

Her students will thus reap the contest's grand prize: an all-you-can-eat pizza party, courtesy of the Central Student Council.

Following the ninth grade English class were Ruth Doerr's math class with 18 canned goods per pupil and Philip Cox's math class with 16 canned goods per pupil.

The competitions between classes began five years ago in an attempt to increase participation. The strategy worked, with 18 classes participating this year in the food drive, one of Central's most successful school efforts.

Schools may float a new swim team

Intercollegiate swim team competition may be returning to the Walled Lake School District after an absence of four years.

At the request of a group of parents, the Walled Lake school board voted Monday to recognize the Swimming Boosters Club and authorize it to hold a swim marathon to raise funds in January.

Paula Artlip, who served as spokesperson for the new boosters club, said the first step toward reinstating interscholastic swimming in the Walled Lake schools.

Artlip reported that the push to reinstate interscholastic swimming was provided by a group of parents and students from both Walled Lake Western and Walled Lake Central. More than 80 students at both schools have indicated a desire to participate on the swim team, she said.

The move to reinstate interscholastic swimming coincides with the first anniversary of the re-opening of the community pool at Walled Lake Western. Both Central and Western used to offer varsity swim teams for both boys and girls, but the sport was discontinued when the pool was closed due to financial considerations.

A massive fund-raising effort by a group of citizens last year led to the reopening of the pool and the swimming boosters now want to extend pool usage by reinstating the swimming teams.

Secondary Education Director Donald Chalker, who has worked closely with the boosters club, noted that interscholastic competition will be limited this year.

The competitive swim season for girls has already been completed and it's too late in the year to attempt to schedule many meets for the boys' teams, he said.

Additionally, Chalker noted that swim teams from Central and Western will be unable to compete in state-level competition because MHSAA rules require participation in a specified number of regular-season meets.

Nevertheless, both Chalker and Artlip noted that reinstatement of a limited co-ed educational program this year is a step toward reinstatement of swimming as a varsity sport for boys and girls.

"We'd like to get the kids back in the water as soon as possible," stated Artlip.

Annexation upheld

would not exceed the benefits taxpayers would receive.

The Commission also found the annexation "will have a beneficial impact on the environment of the surrounding area, because comprehensive and efficient planning by one governmental unit will be a significant factor in preserving and enhancing the environment for residents."

The Boundary Commission also noted Brookland Farms "has been able to sustain itself as Novi Township since 1978."

"The Commission finds that neither the city nor the township wants Brookland Farms included within the annexation. Likewise, no individuals have come forward to argue it should be included in the annexation, except Mr. Chase.

Previously, township officials had taken the position Brookland Farms should be included in the annexation so the matter could be brought to a vote of the people.

But earlier this year a petition signed by 85 of the 100 registered voters in Brookland Farms requesting the township board to withdraw from litigation delaying the annexation was presented.

The township subsequently dropped any further legal pursuit of the matter.

Boundary commissioners also refused to join Chase Manor Farms to the sole remaining part of the township.

They noted the attorney for Chase Manor Farms requested that the 275 acre... farm be adjusted out of the city and be joined with Brookland Farms" so the subdivision would not be the only remaining township territory. The two parcels are separated by nearly one mile, the commission noted.

But the Commission ruled: "there is no logical reason or arguments to support detaching the Chase Manor Farm and thereby making Novi Township two non-contiguous parcels." The commission found that Chase Manor Farm is a natural part of the City of Novi and can be given a full range of urban services if and when they are desired by the owner of the farm."

Commissioners also supported the annexation of seven township parcels on the grounds the seven parcels were effectively annexed to the city when the records, such as voter registration and tax rolls, were turned over to the city December 31, 1978.

In their findings the commission also noted Novi has been providing services to the seven township parcels since December 1978 and that Chateau Estates Mobile Park testified it does not want to return to the township form of government.

Testimony stacks up in woman's murder exam

said "in my mind I saw" a gasoline can sitting outside the house on the north side and a broken living room window. He said he was not sure whether the gas can had actually been there or if he had imagined it. He said his "unfirm recollection" was that the can had been there.

Walled Lake Police Sergeant Raymond (Mike) Knapp said the boy, later identified as John Lightfoot, was arrested on charges of carrying a concealed weapon but had not been tried. Witnesses for the prosecution did not indicate what the youth was doing there or why he had a gun, and Lightfoot was not called to testify at the exam.

Nelson said that after he broke an upstairs window while trying to rescue Harold Wood, he noticed Lightfoot had turned on a garden hose and was attempting to help put out the fire by spraying water in through a living room window on the south side of the house.

Nelson, who has known the Woods his entire life and grew up just down the street from their home, said the couple's home was an inferno when he reached it — apparently just seconds after it burst into flames.

"The whole front room was nothing but flames," he said. "What I could see was nothing but fire. It was like you could look right into it, and yet it was a wall of flames."

Another witness, Detective Sergeant Lawrence Rodriguez of the Michigan State Police Arson Squad, said he had interviewed Mrs. Wood on nine separate occasions during the year following the house fire and that he had advised her she was a suspect in the case, but that there were also other suspects.

Rodriguez, who did the majority of investigatory work in the case, was called in to research the fire in August 1981 and began by interviewing neighbors and Mrs. Wood. He has a reputation as being a very sharp investigator, said an arson investigator for an area police force.

Rodriguez's testimony concurred with that of Sergeant LaVern Erickson, also of the MSP Arson Squad. Erickson said December 6 that he believed the fire was set intentionally.

But Rodriguez said he believed in addition to accelerants being poured on the ground floor of the home, they also had been poured on the upper floor. He mentioned spot burns in several places on the carpeting on the second floor.

Rodriguez said Mrs. Wood told him she had been up with her husband from 1:30 a.m. the morning of the fire and they had just gone to bed when he decided to go downstairs about 8 a.m. to call Detroit Edison concerning a leaking water heater. Rodriguez said she told him that she turned on a heater while she was downstairs so the house would be warm when her husband, nicknamed Woody, got up.

She then went back upstairs and laid down but within a few minutes she began to smell smoke and heard the fire alarm go off, Rodriguez testified. He said Mrs. Wood told him she went to the top of the stairs and saw fire shooting across the floor and up over the couch on the east side of the living room.

Rodriguez said Mrs. Wood told him she went over to her husband, put her arm around him and said the house was on fire, that they had to leave and asked if he understood. She said Woody shook his head and then she went downstairs, telling him to hurry or they wouldn't get out, according to Rodriguez.

Mrs. Wood said she was able to get out of the burning house by walking a path about a foot wide that wasn't burning, Rodriguez said. She told the arson investigator she tried to get to the phone to call the fire department but "it was on fire" so she went to the kitchen door and struggled with the locks before opening the door, according to Rodriguez's testimony.

After he began investigating the fire, Rodriguez went to the home several times and tried to look for signs of arson and other evidence on the second floor but was unable to because of the structure's condition. He said a bed leg had fallen through the living room ceiling and the whole upstairs floor was shaky.

When the house was torn down, Rodriguez said, he rescued several pieces of carpeting for testing at the police post. He also went to the house once with Mrs. Wood and her daughter-in-law, and all three searched for evidence, Rodriguez said.

A third witness, chemist Jergen Switalsky, said tests he ran on samples from the home indicated accelerants were found on some of the evidence in chemistry, is a laboratory scientist for the Michigan State Police crime lab in Northville.

Switalsky said he found traces of "evaporated or weathered gasoline" on four of six samples submitted by Erickson and on two of three samples submitted by Rodriguez. A seventh sample submitted by Erickson (Coleman fuel oil) proved not to be the same accelerant police believe was used to start the Wood fire, he said.

Switalsky said his tests could not be repeated because the evidence traces last only about three months in plastic containers, used for most of the Wood samples, and only about a year in metal containers. Because the fire occurred nearly 17 months ago, the test results would probably not be reliable if new tests were conducted now, Switalsky said.

Layoffs balance township budget

We'll have to assign clerk typist for different hours and different ones to prepare minutes for the township board, the board of appeals, the planning board and perhaps the parks board. The things Dan (Shapiro, township environmentalist) did will have to be divided among the township employees.

"The township has never been in this position before... We're right down to rock bottom," Long said.

Clerk Robert McGee agreed with Long's picture of the situation. "Everytime we looked at the budget for money we found more places to spend it — a 6.5 percent surcharge for utilities and a 17 percent proposed rate increase for Blue Cross. Everytime we turned around we were being hit with something else; we thought we found some money and we would find another expense we were spending."

Trusting Bruce Enfield asked whether the township could "get a big chunk of money."

Treasurer Patrick Dohany responded: "Utilities is a big expense, but what is the alternative?"

"I think you've worked over the budget with sharpened pencils and are closer to the situation than we are. This is the only way to go," said Trustee Richard Higginbotham.

Long further indicated it would be impossible for the township to implement raises recommended in a wage study conducted for Commerce by the Michigan Township Association.

Since the raises could not be put into effect as recommended it was suggested the board give some employees one percent raises, while others would have their salaries frozen. Those receiving the small raises would do so in order to bring them in line with other employees' salaries, the board learned.

McGee explained the salary study recommended 7 percent raises for clerical employees and 8 percent raises for management employees. But budget constraints would not allow for those raises.

"They will all be in relative disalignment," when actual salaries are compared to salaries recommended in the wage study, McGee explained. He noted the new alignment would make it easier for Commerce in the future to implement the recommended raises when it can afford to do so.

Higginbotham questioned whether the one percent raises would actually do what they were intended, or whether they would be lost one year from now. "If they will be lost and throw the study out of kilter, why do it?" Higginbotham asked.

Dohany said it is hoped the wage study could be implemented in its entirety soon. McGee said the raises "will put us in the position to implement the whole thing."

Still searching for ways to trim the budget without layoffs, Enfield asked whether it would be possible to not fill the position created when the deputy clerk is appointed, assuming that the township employee is appointed to the clerk's office.

Deputy Clerk Debra Gray has been

EMS plan stalled?

Northville Township are free to examine the alternative.

Leiko said a special meeting of the Northville Township board is likely later this week, perhaps Thursday, or early next week, probably Monday, for consideration of both regional ambulance plans and a determination of which to participate in. He said he would know for certain by Wednesday afternoon and those interested could contact Northville Township hall for date and time.

MacDonald said his understanding is that a regional plan with Plymouth would not be linked to Novi's, and would not cover an area "north of Eight Mile Road." The latter limit may or may not pose a problem if the Northville chose the same arrangement, depending on the interpretation of ambulance licensing rules.

John Early, owner of present emergency medical service (EMS) provider Novi Ambulance, was slated to appear before the board December 9 to argue for renewal of the present contract, but did not show up. The board removed the item from its agenda, putting an end to any chances it will execute the five-year renewal option in the present pact.

In related business, Northville Township Police Chief Kenneth Hardisty reported Early has notified all communities his firm serves that his companies will no longer pay for direct telephone lines from the local police departments to his dispatching office in Novi.

Hardisty said the cost of the direct phone link, which connects police dispatchers to the ambulance headquarters on a separate line to avoid busy signals, runs more than $70 per month. Hardisty said he did not intend to pay for the phone link but would put the ambulance office number into the computerized dialing equipment already in place on police phones.

Klaver confirmed Novi had also been informed Early wants the city to pay for the direct line to his company, or, due to cost considerations, he would have it removed.

Klaver said Early did not set a date for renewing the direct line contract, but did not show up. The board removed the item from its agenda, putting an end to any chances it will execute the five-year renewal option in the present pact.

New York plans may assist Novi

Joseph Brett takes the job of "citizen" seriously.

Whether acting as a resident of the Meadowbrook Glens subdivision, a member of the Citizens Drain Study Committee or the Novi Planning Board, Brett puts a great deal of effort and study into what he does.

Now he has come forward with some information culled from the New York City Planning Department which may provide direction for development of Novi's Town Center Area — the property which lies around the Grand River/Novi Road intersection.

Specifically, Brett is keeping planning board members updated on a report entitled "Midtown Development" which was put out by the New York City planners. According to Brett's information, New York City is experiencing the same problems experienced by Novi: they want to encourage and control development in a specific section of the city and have developed measures designed to achieve that end.

Although New York City and Novi are miles apart geographically and philosophically, the problems confronted by both municipalities are surprisingly similar.

New York wants to stimulate certain types of development in its Midtown Area; Novi wants to do the same thing in its Town Center Area.

Many of the planning strategies being utilized by the New York City planners appear to be equally as applicable to Novi after appropriate modifications.

For example, the New York

planners want to encourage certain types of commercial development in Midtown and propose to do so by granting 50 percent tax exemptions. Declining five percent annually for "pioneering new commercial buildings in selected growth areas." The same strategy might also be utilized effectively in Novi.

Another example: New York City and Novi both want to encourage development of "urban parks" in their respective Midtown and Town Center areas. Both municipalities seek thriving commercial areas where people walk, talk, meet their neighbors and listen to concerts.

To encourage development of urban parks, New York City planners grant zoning bonuses. A developer who puts in a ground-level urban park is permitted to increase density levels. A two-story building might be permitted to become a three-story building if both parties agree an urban park is a fair trade off for the higher density and building height.

Another goal apparently shared by both cities is to create a "theater district" that will attract people and encourage the type of pedestrian traffic that will utilize restaurants and shops in the stores. New York has developed special incentives to encourage that type of planned development.

New York City and Novi are not alike and never will be. But planning problems are decidedly similar, and the material submitted by Brett provides some interesting ideas about planning strategies which might well be useful in bringing about a viable, attractive and functional Town Center area at Grand River and Novi Road.

Going first-class

It doesn't take a formal sign package to point out that the Walled Lake City Council is headed in the right direction.

In endorsing the concept of a new sign plan for the city's municipal complex, members of the council took another step forward in shining up the city's image.

True, $4,700-plus is a lot to spend on signs. But while we agree with the wisdom of Council Member Bill Roberts in keeping an eye on the economics of installing signs, we do not believe whittling away at the cost by going with lower-grade materials and cheaper signs would necessarily be worth the savings.

As Council Member Linda Ackley put it, for too long Walled Lake has gone second-class. If the city really wants to break away from its image as a municipality that won't or can't afford to go first class, this is the time to do it.

Walled Lake cannot afford to skimp on its public image.

The city has successfully completed several major projects and a host of smaller ones that have all worked together to help brighten the city's image. Look at the small but attractive Mercer Beach, the modern new library, the beautiful storefronts of businesses near the lake and to attract quality developments for the city.

In a recent survey of city business owners, merchants cited Walled Lake's public image is one of the largest obstacles the city must overcome if it wants to increase its economic base.

That ties in with the views of Joe Brett, a member of the Novi Planning Board, who quotes a report from New York City's Planning Department as suggesting positive economic growth will not occur in a particular area if the atmosphere is not or is perceived not to be conducive to new development.

Nice signs in front of city hall probably won't cause major developers to contact the city with plans to bring in their businesses. But if the city is sincere in its desire to do the best it can with its resources — as we believe it is — the sign package is one place where a few hundred extra dollars will go a long way toward improving the appearance of the municipal complex.

The sign proposal is not an isolated issue: it goes hand-in-glove with the rest of Walled Lake's beautification efforts. If the city is not willing to put its best foot forward, can it really expect residents and business owners to do so?

We don't think so and apparently neither does the majority of the council. Members made a good decision when they expressed a desire to do things "all the way" rather than "half-way."

Journal

By KAREN RICE

For those of you who've given until the linings of your pockets are threadbare, this column's for you.

For those of you who've somehow missed the message that 1982 was not a business-as-usual year and that people right down the street from you are hungry and cold, this column's for you too.

It's an unabashed, bleeding-heart plea for one more dollar, one more can of food, one more pair of socks, one more toy or — perhaps best of all, one more hour of your time.

Because the people who can be helped by your contribution aren't in Cambodia or emerging African nations or even Detroit. They are right here in Novi, Walled Lake, Wixom and Commerce. And there are more of them than you think.

In our business, we talk to representatives of service groups, social service agencies and clergy all the time. They are united in their beliefs that everyone is trying desperately to make more out of less.

This year there seem to have been more canned good drives, more clothing drives for the holidays than at any time within memory.

Between the Walled Lake Jaycees, Wixom Goodfellows, Novi Jaycees, Walled Lake Central students, Walled Lake Western students, Novi Middle School South students, Novi High School students, Novi Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts, Walled Lake Fish, Novi-Northville Fish and all the many area churches that have sponsored collection drives, one would think there has to be a surplus of food and clothes floating around.

But people in the social service field don't think that's the case.

Mary Kuppovits of the Walled Lake Fish Closet says clothing is given out almost as quickly as it comes in and canned goods never stay around the Fish Closet long.

Terry Heller of the Walled Lake Jaycees says members of his service club received an overwhelming response to their first food basket program. So far 60 families have requested holiday baskets and with about 10 days left before Christmas, the Jaycees expect to give out 75-100 baskets. Originally they hoped to locate 50 families who needed a hand.

Aware of too many children who won't have anything for Christmas, the Jaycees are decorating a Christmas tree outside the Walled Lake Library with names of youngsters and what they need. They hope residents will find a toy or present for each child.

Still with all the needy people finally coming out of the shadows and seeking temporary aid — many of whom have been reluctant to ask for help in the past, volunteers say — the reaction of those contributing to each of the drives has been overwhelming, and often touching.

Gay Toys of Walled Lake has been a corporate Santa Claus giving brand new toys to the Walled Lake Eagles, Central students and a number of other service groups hoping to provide Christmas presents to children who won't otherwise receive any.

Nearly 30 businesses have agreed to contribute to the Walled Lake Jaycees food drive, an idea that originated with Arkin Janna of Penny Lake Grocery.

A Walled Lake grandmother gave the Christmas presents her grandchildren never get to the Jaycees for some needy children. One lucky youngster will get a brand new bike on Christmas morning.

Phil Leonard, a Wixom Goodfellow, says he noticed fewer people donating money on the Goodfellow's recent newspaper day but those who did give usually tossed in larger amounts. He thinks people are more touched by the need of others now because they have been affected in some form or another by harsh economic reality. In past years, he says, people may not have had the firsthand knowledge of the hard times, as they do now.

The volunteers and professionals who are familiar with the needs of our communities know many of you have done your part. But they also know of the need. And when December ends and Christmas is over at your house, the crushing need will still be there for too many of your neighbors.

This year when you celebrate Christmas and New Year's, think about the people who have less than you do. And if you find it within your abilities, try to help just one of them. One thing there is no shortage of is groups and individuals who are trying to reach those who need a hand.

Dig a little deeper. Give a little more. Because, unfortunately, more and more people need your help.

'County board played politics with public safety'

To the Editor:
The people of Oakland County: It has been some time since I have been to a public hearing, after the Oakland County Commission's meeting of December 2 I realized why it has been awhile.

nothing else, Novi means warm, caring people, and we're glad to have you aboard.

Your homes are attractive and well-built, and you have every right to be proud of them — so has the builder. He's worked hard, nine and 10 hours a day, seven days a week, insuring that they are.

If you've suffered from our lack of diplomacy, please forgive us. The only excuse I can offer is the fact that for the past 3 1/2 years we have experienced one financial loss after another in both the value of our homes and the uncertainty of our jobs.

Unfortunately, looking around for someone to lay the blame, you seemed a likely candidate. That's hardly fair, but then even the people of Novi are human.

Stephanie Amello
Pauline Gillespie
Raymond and Karen Zakaria

In summary, we are blessed in many ways. We have great kids, schools, neighbors and economic opportunity. We've found six roaches in six years and have stepped on each of them. We have fond memories of Michigan, Indiana, many different neighborhoods and friends. We're sorry for those that do not.

The purpose of a development strategy is to provide a planning framework in which broad goals can be established and development policies evaluated. It is not to layout a detailed prescription of treatment.

Within any area, actual conditions vary considerably. The specific mix of measures and programs has to be formulated and prescribed accordingly." Joe Brett

Protect residents

To the Editor:
Kathy Jennings' recent column describing her dismay, perhaps disillusionment, with the prospects of buying a house is a good example of why a city like Novi urgently needs standards built into their zoning codes.

Without standards promoting compatibility between dwellings, a buyer is vulnerable to the kinds of situations and consequences Ms. Jennings describes. The question of attitudes and perspectives raises subjective issues. Currently, new builders and new buyers are hypothetical. That is, they do not exist in many new and/or yet-to-be planned subdivisions. Once the city enacts housing ordinances, builders will comply and attract buyers who appreciate knowing that their home is protected by a city's zoning code. Under such conditions, everyone benefits.

those in power, the kind that endangers and destroys lives, the lives of the people. As the tale unfolds in the high court of the commissioners, it is a public hearing for the 1983 county budget and at the forefront of the controversy is the layoff of 27 sheriff's deputies, commonly known as the road patrol.

The December 2 commissioners' meeting was the classic tale of power politics in which the only loser is the people. My question to the citizens of Oakland County is: When are we going to get sick of self-serving public servants and vomit them up like bad claims to flush down the sewer? One last bit of food for thought? Why does our county executive make more than the governor? I'm nauseous already. I hope I don't die of indigestion. Daniel C. Page

Thanks for help

To the Editor:
The Novi High School Band Boosters would like to take this opportunity to thank the community for its continued support. We recently concluded a successful fund-raising drive for the purchase of a new band instrument.

It takes a total effort from directors, students, parents, friends and community to develop a successful music program, and Novi can certainly be proud of its accomplishments.

We wish you all a most happy holiday season. Novi High School Band Boosters

Welcome to Novi

To the Editor:
I would like to extend a warm welcome to the new homeowners in Whispering Meadows subdivision. There's been a lot of political flak flying around and we suggest you ignore it. That's not what Novi is all about. It's a measure of demand for space which in turn is a reflection of how well the area and the market are functioning.

By meeting the demand for space, new development can aid the function of the area. The quality and impact of a new building, its relationship to its surroundings, the features and special characteristics it provides — these can all enhance the area's functioning.

So, too, can new building impair or threaten the proper functioning of the area by themselves or in their cumulative impact. A development strategy in the context of the area cannot achieve this goal by itself. It cannot foster private development in the absence of basic market forces. It cannot force private development to move against the logic of those market forces.

But it can help to break the log jams that artificially dam the flow of market forces; it can facilitate and accelerate development; and it can help to make sure development contributes rather than does violence to the broader public interest.

Our neighborhood consists of a cross-section of religions, cultures, races and economic levels. We have a few pickup trucks, family-sized Chevies and Datsuns. We also have a few Cadillacs, Lincolns and Mercedes. (We each set our own priorities in life.)

We carpool with Baptists, Catholics, Texans and Yankees. We block party with whites, blacks and Mexicans. We prefer to think of them as our friends and neighbors.

We don't enjoy the 100-plus degree summer temperatures, but we do enjoy the long springs and falls as well as the short winters. We love the clean air, the beautiful sunsets, the Bluebonnets and the "Right to Work" laws.

Response strong

Penny Lake Grocery has been a driving motivation behind the project. Janna and the construction workers who are building his new grocery store have contributed quite a bit to the effort, Heller says.

The continuing benefit at the West Oakland Rollery is doing very well, Heller adds. Skaters who bring a canned good to the roller rink can skate free Tuesday afternoons and evenings this month.

In addition, individual members of the Walled Lake action committee of the Lakes Area Chamber of Commerce also are assisting. And Nitty Norman's was one of the most recent businesses to get behind the Jaycees, according to Jaycee Dave Roddy.

"Things are looking real good," Heller says.

I saw Santa Claus the other day. He was in Northville, Novi, Walled Lake, Wixom and Twelve Oaks — all those places.

I realize it wasn't the real Santa, of course. Just somebody dressed up like Santa Claus because children like to see him at Christmas.

I played Santa Claus once — and it led to a harrowing experience. It was back when I was young enough to be a member of the Jaycees. The local chamber of commerce made a donation to the club in exchange for Santa Claus services at one of the local stores.

I had the 6-8 p.m. shift on a Friday night and everything was going along just fine. The suit fit moderately well, even though the pillow kept slipping down under my belt, and I even heard several of the clerks remark what a good Santa Claus I was.

I ho-ho-hoed up a storm, listened to children's gift lists, then handed them a candy cane and told them to be good little boys and girls and mind their mummies and daddies.

Everything went well until a little girl about 11-years old came in to tell Ol' Santa what she wanted for Christmas.

"I'll never forget what she said. 'I want a Betsy-Wetsy Doll, a pair of roller skates and a training bra.'"

"A training bra!" I couldn't believe it. My mind went blank, my ho-ho-ho got stuck in my throat and I started to choke. This particular Santa was dumbstruck...unable to speak...at a complete loss for words.

I grabbed for a candy cane, thrust it into her hand and managed to mutter, "Merry Christmas." I then headed for the backroom pulled that scratchy beard off my face and tried to regain my composure, not to mention my ho-ho-ho.

Now I know it's reasonable for 11-year-olds to believe in Santa Claus. And it's perfectly natural for 11-year old girls to want a training bra for Christmas. The problem was that it just hadn't occurred to me before that moment.

In retrospect, I still worry about how badly I blew it. And to this day I wonder if that little girl has any idea of what she said that rendered Santa speechless. I've never been Santa Claus since, either. One harrowing experience was enough for me.

In addition to the business listings, the directory also lists all service clubs and organizations, chamber members, local churches and city service numbers.

The directory will be available March 1, 1983. Copies are available to the general public at a cost of $3.

Advance orders of at least 25 copies are available at a price of $2 per copy. Call the chamber for advance orders.

Open door policy

The smiles on the faces of Becky Harkey (left) and Donna Rickabaugh are there for a very good reason. The staff of the Walled Lake Library is happy to report the library is open for business in its brand new home outside city hall, although a little work remains to be done. The size of the library and its clean, modern interior aren't the only things that have changed; the library now has its own outside entrance leading from the north end of the complex. But, Rickabaugh notes, the library's friendly service remains the same. (News photo by Steve Fecht)

F/Stop owner stresses service in battle against big photo chains

By KATHY LAVAY

F/Stop, in the dictionary, an f/stop is "a camera lens aperture opening calibrated to a corresponding f-number."

But in Novi, it's a camera store—and more.

"With sales and services aimed at the 'amateur and the advanced amateur,'" according to owner Wayne Loder, F/Stop in Novi is a place where customers are treated—differently.

"We treat people better than the big stores do," explained Loder. "A lot of times at the big stores the salesman approaches the customer like he's an adversary—he wants to sell him the camera and get him out the door. (At F/Stop) we would rather work with the customer than against them."

"Working with the customer" includes things like evaluating customers' needs so they don't buy camera systems that are "over their heads," providing free basic photography classes to those who purchase SLR (single lens reflex) cameras, and helping customers figure out if—and why—they made mistakes if pictures don't turn out well.

"If people go to a department store or a photo booth, if their film doesn't come back right they'll blame themselves but they won't know how to correct the problem," Loder explained. "Instead of selling (people) the equipment and showing them out the door we want to help them get the pictures they want."

F/Stop customers also receive coupon books with discounts to purchase accessories for their new cameras, and gift certificates come with film processing.

Besides basic photography classes, Loder also plans, probably this spring, to offer advanced photography classes.

Since F/Stop also sells complete lines of Kodak, Unicolor and Ilford darkroom supplies, classes in black and white darkroom techniques are offered, and color film processing classes taught by a technical representative from Unicolor are also available periodically.

Classes like these are important, said Loder, because "what's the point of buying something if you don't know how to use it?"

Besides teaching photographic techniques and selling the cameras themselves—among them Ricoh, Pentax, Minolta, Chinon and other brands—F/Stop also carries a full line of lenses and accessories. Loder also sells some used cameras acquired as trade-ins on new equipment.

"We have all the little accessory items (as well)," said Loder, including camera cleaning supplies, books, gadget bags, lens covers and camera cases.

Photographic services available at F/Stop include instant passport photos, portraits and commercial work, and wedding photographs, with Loder's manager Peter Wroblewski doing much of that work.

In addition to Hite and Kodak film processing, F/Stop also offers same day service done in the store on some rush processing orders.

"We can handle certain types of processing on a super rush basis," Loder explained. "We can turn out black and white film on a contact sheet the same day, or, if someone needs something like an eight by 10 color portrait, we can probably do that too."

Loder, who quit a job in journalism to open F/Stop five years ago in October, says he opened the store because he found taking pictures more fun than writing.

"I really enjoyed shooting pictures, it was fun," he explained. "When I saw the opportunity open up for a camera store here I jumped at it."

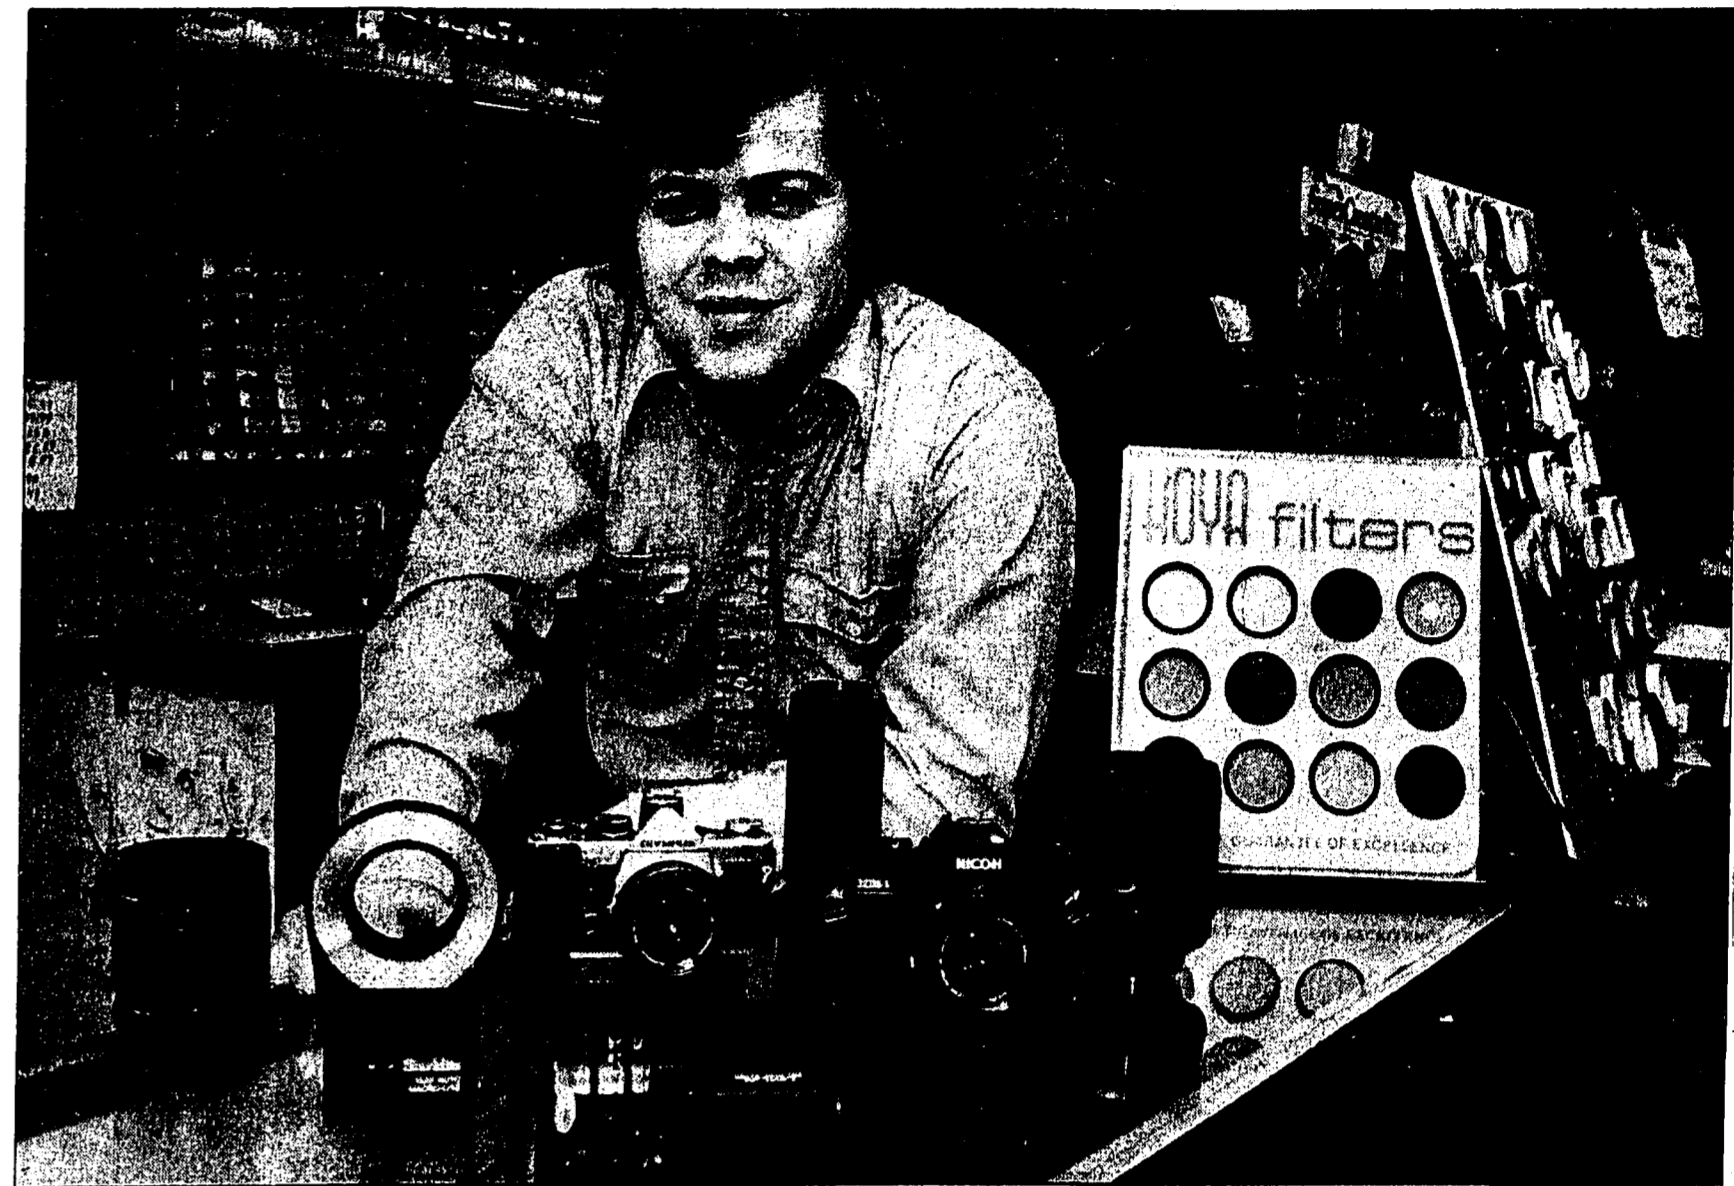

Loder's interest in photography and in cameras helps him to work as hard as he has to keep up with new types of cameras. And, although his store doesn't carry every brand of camera, he thinks they carry the ones best suited to his customers' needs.

"Virtually every camera manufacturer's representative has been in this store... I've seen almost every camera on the market," he explained. "Other stores only sell the biggest names because the customers are pressed on names... I try to select cameras that give the customers the most for their money, not the most advertised or the most popular cameras."

The combination of efforts made by Loder to meet customers' needs have helped him increase F/Stop's business by approximately 20 percent in the last year—and an additional F/Stop store is a future possibility.

"I can't say when... a lot depends on the economy," said Loder, "but I'm quite happy with what I'm seeing (in economic improvements). I'm really hopeful of adding a second store in the future."

Until then, Novi's amateur photographers will have to content themselves with visiting the existing F/Stop at 4320 Grand River in Novi. It's open from 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, 9:30 a.m. to 7 p.m. Tuesday through Friday, and 9:30 to 4 p.m. Saturday.

Man accused of assaulting stepdaughter

A Farmington Hills man has been charged with two counts of criminal sexual conduct after allegedly having sexual intercourse with his 11-year-old stepdaughter.

James David Cutlipp, 49, was arrested after he allegedly drove his stepdaughter to the parking lot behind the Wixom UAW Hall, reportedly told her to remove her pants, and then allegedly had intercourse with her, according to Wixom and Farmington Hills police.

The girl told her mother what had happened and the mother took her to a nearby hospital for a medical examination before police were contacted, according to reports.

Cutlipp faces one count of first-degree criminal sexual conduct with a child under 13, which carries a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, and one count of second-degree criminal sexual conduct with a child under 13, which carries a maximum penalty of 15 years.

He was arraigned at 52nd District Court. A preliminary exam is scheduled for December 21 before Judge Harold Bulgarelli.

According to Wixom police, who began handling the case after Farmington Hills officers learned the alleged crime had been committed in Wixom, Cutlipp took his stepdaughter with him when he went to buy gasoline for his pickup truck around 8 p.m. December 7.

After purchasing gas, Cutlipp drove to Wixom and pulled into the UAW Hall parking lot across from the Ford plant where he is employed, the girl told police. "The girl said her stepfather then shut off the car, told her to take off her pants and allegedly fondled her," police said. Afterwards, she reportedly told police, he had intercourse with her.

According to the girl, Cutlipp then told her he would buy her whatever she wanted for Christmas as long as she didn't tell her mother what had happened, police said. He drove her to a Farmington Hills restaurant before taking her home, reports indicated.

The girl's mother told police she became worried when the pair did not return home and went out to look for them. She arrived home at the same time her husband and daughter did.

When she asked her daughter where they had been, the mother allegedly told police, the girl began crying and told her what had happened. Cutlipp denied the story, police said.

DIAMOND BOUTIQUE in the Farmington Town Center Plaza at Grand River and Halstead Road will have a drawing to give away five diamonds this Friday at 7 p.m.

Assistant Manager Leonard Lark said five diamonds ranging in size from 27 points to 10 points and valued in excess of $1,000 will be given away. Entrants must come into the store to fill out an entry form for the drawing. Winners need not be present to win, Lark said.

Diamond Boutique is open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday from noon to 5 p.m. This is the third in a series of diamond give-aways sponsored by Diamond Boutique. A second drawing will occur simultaneously at the company's Rochester store.

THE REHABILITATION INSTITUTE has announced the realignment of two senior management positions. Gary Singleton, Ph.D., of Northville has been appointed to the newly-created position of chief operating officer and Rosemarie Evenhuis of Novi has been named director of development and corporate relations.

Singleton previously served as director of the division of patient and family services. As chief operating officer, he is responsible for clinical services, patient and family services, support services, nursing and personnel.

He joined the Institute in 1975 as a staff psychologist and later served as director of the psychology department. Before that he was a staff psychologist at Lafayette Clinic in Detroit.

Singleton holds a bachelor's degree in psychology and math and a master's degree in labor and industrial relations and business administration from University of Illinois. He also received a master's and doctorate in psychology from Wayne State University. He is a member of the American Psychological Association and American Congress of Rehabilitative Medicine.

Evenhuis previously served as director of the division of human resources and now is responsible for fund development in addition to her current responsibilities for public relations and marketing, patient, staff and community education; volunteer services; the auxiliary and the Learning Resources Center.

She joined the Institute in 1975 as coordinator of disability services. Prior to that she served as executive director of the metropolitan Society for Crippled Children and Adults, an Easter Seal affiliate.

She received a bachelor's degree in education from Hope College and has taken post-graduate courses in program development and management at Michigan State and the University of Michigan. She is a member of the Greater Detroit Hospital Council and the Michigan Hospital Association. She also helped found and served as first president of the Neuromuscular Institute, a program designed to provide diagnosis and treatment for children with neuromuscular disorders.

The Rehabilitation Institute, a member of the Detroit Medical Center, is the nation's largest specialty hospital for adult physical medicine and rehabilitation.

CAROL MASON

FIL SUPERFISKY

FIL SUPERFISKY AND CAROL MASON of Rymal Symes Company, Realtors, office in Novi were recognized recently for another in a long list of outstanding sales achievements. As of the end of November, Superfisky and Mason had each surpassed the $2 million sales mark for 1982.

In announcing their success, Rymal Symes President Conrad Jakubowski said "$2 million in sales each by Fil and Carol in just 11 months is particularly significant because the real estate industry is in its worst slump in recent history."

"While the real estate industry continues to suffer this year, Rymal Symes Company through the efforts of its outstanding professional associates like Carol Mason and Fil Superfisky has enjoyed the best November sales in the history of our firm with total sales increase of 48 percent over 1981," Jakubowski said.

SHIRLEY "MITZIE" DeANGELIS, a Realtor Associate with the Northville-Novi office of Real Estate One, Inc., exceeded $1 million in production in November.

Darlene Shernanski, associate broker and sales manager, applauded DeAngelis' exemplary efforts, citing her "tremendous ability to work with a variety of buyers in today's complex market."

DeAngelis and her husband Jerry and their two children have lived in Novi since 1976.

Michigan's unadjusted unemployment rate rose during November to 16.4 percent, an increase of 1.5 percent from the October jobless rate of 14.9 percent, according to figures released by S. Martin Taylor, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

November's jobless rate means that 699,000 workers were without jobs compared to October when 637,000 individuals were out of work. Taylor noted that it was the highest unadjusted rate for November since the MESCC began compiling the figures in 1956. November's jobless rate also is the highest since March of this year when unemployment stood at 17.0 percent.

Taylor attributed the sharp increase in unemployment in November to continuing weakness in the economy evidenced by layoffs in the construction and manufacturing industries, particularly a number of temporary auto-related layoffs.

In addition, retail hiring usually expected to offset unemployment in other sectors is less than normal this time of year, he said.

The number of people in the labor force declined by 17,000 during November to 4,262 million. In October, there were 4,279 million people in the labor force.

There were 3,563 million workers employed during November compared to 3,642 million who had jobs in October. A year ago in November the jobless rate was 12.0 percent with 517,000 people out of work.

Michigan's seasonally adjusted November jobless rate was 17.2 percent with 732,000 out of work. In October the rate was 16.1 percent with 686,000 out of work.

Nationally, the November adjusted jobless rate was 10.8 percent. The October national rate was 10.4 percent and September's rate was 10.1 percent.

Twelve Oaks tells classic car awards

Morris Stein of West Bloomfield, John Sullivan of Livonia and Walter Nienaltowski of Novi received the top three awards in Twelve Oaks Mall's "Classics with Charisma" Antique and Classic Automobile Exhibition that was held October 15-24.

Stein received first prize of $150 for his 1926 Rolls Royce Phantom I, the $75 second prize was presented to Sullivan for his 1934 Packard Club Sedan and Nienaltowski was given the $50 third prize for his 1935 Cadillac Convertible.

The three winning automobiles were among 15 classic cars displayed in Twelve Oaks' third annual exhibition. The cars were judged on the basis of their overall aesthetic appeal.

Twelve Oaks also awarded a duplicate prize to the car club of the winner's choice. First prize was given to the Rolls Royce Owner's Club, while second and third prizes were given to the Motor City Packard Club.

Stein, semi-retired and the owner of seven unique cars, purchased his 1926 Rolls Royce Phantom I in 1978. The car was produced in Springfield, Massachusetts, and is the 28th of 1,241 cars produced between 1926 and 1931. Interior woodwork and elaborate silver inlay make the automobile most luxurious and elegant.

Sullivan purchased his 1934 Packard Club Sedan in 1974 in Brandon, Connecticut. The car was produced in Michigan and is equipped with an oil system that automatically oils the car every 2,500 miles. It has a booster brake system and pilot ray headlights that turn with the steering wheel. One of the car's most unique features is its color - bright butterscotch gold and terra cotta with pumpkin orange wheels.

The 1935 Cadillac Convertible won by Nienaltowski is a beauty with its rumble seat, whitewall tires, burgundy body and chrome fenders. This classic was produced in Oshawa, Canada.

Nienaltowski, a Novi resident and owner of the Pitt Stop on Grand River, purchased the car in 1960. He restored it in 1967 with parts from a car that belonged to Admiral Richard E. Byrd, explorer of the Antarctic. As a member of the Classic Car Club of America, Nienaltowski has won many awards for his 1935 Cadillac Convertible.

Engineering's lone bright spot in 1983 graduate job survey

Engineering remains the one bright spot for college graduates in June, according to a national recruiting trends survey just completed by Michigan State University.

In most other disciplines, the supply of graduates will exceed the demand, according to Jack Shingleton, co-author of the annual survey and director of Placement Services at MSU.

"More than 600 employers, including a cross-section of business, industry, government and educational institutions, responded to the nationwide survey. The results show that employers' hiring quotas are down 16.8 percent from last year, which also was a trying year for some graduates.

While demand for engineering graduates has dropped dramatically, there still will be more jobs available in these fields than there are graduates to fill them, said Shingleton.

"In recent years, engineering graduates had their choice of jobs, sometimes receiving multiple offers," he reported. "Now they may get only one."

This is the 12th year that Shingleton and Patrick Scheetz, an assistant director of placement services, have conducted the nationwide survey of employers to assess the demand for college graduates.

"This is the toughest recruiting year since we've been doing the survey," said Shingleton, "and it may be the toughest year since World War II."

Employers have cut their recruitment schedules almost 18 percent this school year, said Shingleton. But in spite of that, those who do get offers probably will be offered more money than 1982 graduates.

Starting salaries overall are expected to increase an average of 2.8 percent, much lower than the increases over the past decade. But this will result in fewer real dollars for the 1983 graduate because of the effects of inflation.

While the demand for graduates is

'Use economic incentives carefully'

Gone are the days when only the private sector was responsible for economic development. Today, the responsibility belongs to government as well, according to J. Downs Herold, director of the industrial development division at the University of Michigan.

"Communities have to retain existing business and industry as well as expand their economic base. Watch that incentives are correctly used," Herold told an audience of local officials at a recent SEMCOG meeting.

"Encourage positive community attitudes," he advised.

State government has developed a number of programs and it's up to communities to administer them.

"Economic development programs are designed to insure adequate job opportunities and improve the well-being of communities," Herold said.

"Its central purpose is to increase control of community growth."

"The idea, never offer a new company what you have not offered an existing company" is a good idea, but not always practiced, he continued.

"Between 70 and 80 percent of the new jobs come from within the community and two-thirds come from companies with 20 or fewer employees," he said.

Herold also said confidentiality is imperative if municipalities are serious about building their economic base.

"If a company reads about its proposed decision to move into a certain community in the newspaper before it's final, they're liable to scrap the whole project," he said.

In Michigan it is important for community leaders to advertise their strengths, Herold continued. "We've got terrific education facilities in this state, great natural resources, skilled labor and a lot of financial backbones," he noted. "An empty plant is an available place for an industrial building."

To further economic development, Herold advised the professionals to increase their personal education by reading business journals and working with local decision makers.

Dental Dialogue

of A. Allen Tucklaper, D.D.S.

SOME FACTS ABOUT TEETH

Q. What's important for me to know to maintain good dental health?

A. The two major causes of decay are inadequate cleaning and excessive consumption of sugar. Failure to remove deposits under the gumline can lead to gum disease. It's of the utmost importance to brush after meals and use dental floss daily. Improperly aligned teeth and clenching can result in gum disease in spite of cleaning. After age 40 gum disease accounts for more tooth loss than any other factor. When gums are infected and you are losing bone, add vitamin C and A to your diet. See your dentist

Norris' bucket sparks Viking win

Walled Lake Central led just once against Plymouth Canton, but it couldn't have been at a better time. Junior Scott Norris calmly sank a 12-foot jumper with one second left to give the Vikings a thrilling come-from-behind 52-51 triumph over Canton in the Western Lakes Activities Association (WLA) opener for both squads Friday.

The Vikings also registered a 51-47 triumph over North Farmington Tuesday to up their record to 2-1 on the season.

"It hit nothing but net," said Central coach Steve Emert of Norris' winning shot.

The Vikings entered the fourth quarter down by 10 points, 45-35, but climbed back into the game with a strong defensive effort.

Tom Menard converted a one-and-one free throw opportunity with 1:10 left to pull Central within one, 51-50. The Chiefs went to a delay offense, but the Vikings forced a travelling call with 39 seconds remaining to develop a game-winning strategy.

"I told them to run the clock down to ten seconds and then put it (the ball) up. It didn't matter who," he explained.

Senior guard Dean Terpstra drove the lane and dishd off to Norris whose shot went through the net at the buzzer.

Terpstra had two points, but Emert credited the victory to the 5-9 guard's floor leadership.

"His floor game was excellent and that's important," said Emert. "It was a big assist. He read the floor perfectly."

As for Norris, Emert reported that "he had all the composure in the world."

The game did not start well for the Vikings as Canton scored the first nine points before settling for a 19-8 first-quarter lead. Central battled back once to trail 31-25 at the half.

The Vikings, now 2-1 overall and 1-0 in the WLA's Lakes Division, just kept battling in the second half to post its initial WLA triumph. For the game, Central hit 21 of 39 field attempts and 10 of 12 from the foul stripe.

Junior Jim Kruezer paced the Vikings with 18 points and nine rebounds. Norris finished with 13, while Menard canned 10. Menard tossed in seven points, while McLean added four and Norris two.

Clark Bock topped Central with 16 points and eight rebounds, while Kruezer pumped in 12 and Terpstra 10. Menard tossed in seven points, while McLean added four and Norris two.

Central has two home WLA contests this week before breaking for the holidays. The Vikings battled Lakes Division foe Livonia Bentley Tuesday and will host Livonia Churchill on Friday.

"They are coming along well for us," observed Emert. "We don't have a superstar or a couple of players we rely on. We have 15 kids who are working hard and understand their roles well."

Warriors named to all-star team

Three Walled Lake standouts — Paul Imms of Walled Lake Western and Mike Arnold and Steve Thibert of Walled Lake Central — have been named to the 1982 All-Western Lakes Activities Association (WLA) football all-star team.

Imms and Arnold were named to the All-WLA offensive squad, Imms as a running back and Arnold as a lineman, while Thibert was named to the All-WLA defensive unit.

Farmington Harrison, which won the MHSAA Class A State championship with an overtime victory over Fordson on Saturday, had six players named to the All-WLA squad. The team was selected by the coaches.

Joining Imms in the All-WLA backfield are quarterback Pat Murphy of Plymouth Canton and running backs John Miller of Harrison and Andy Dimitroff of Northville.

Imms, a 6-2, 220 pound senior, was a potent force in the Warrior backfield as he rushed for 1,082 yards and eight touchdowns on 188 carries. During his prep career, Imms rushed for 2,190 yards and 16 touchdowns on 455 carries.

Also named to the 1982 All-WLA offensive unit was Mike Arnold, a 5-11, 190-pound senior tackle from Central. A rugged blocker, Arnold was a key to the Vikings' success this year.

The lone Walled Lake representative on the All-WLA defensive unit was Central's Steve Thibert. A 6-5, 215-pound senior, Thibert terrorized opposing quarterbacks with 14 sacks. He also was credited with 61 tackles.

In addition, six Warriors were named to the WLA's Western Division team. Other Western Division coaches are Harrison, Northville, Canton and Livonia Churchill.

Named to the Western Division squad on offense were tight end Aldo Buttazzoni and running back Dave Meyer. Selected for the Western Division defensive unit were defensive end Frank Garback, noseguard Matt King, linebacker Todd Coulter and defensive back Rick Hunter.

Buttazzoni, a 6-3, 190-pound senior, was an important cog in the Warriors' ground-oriented attack which rushed for 1,361 yards this year. With his size and speed, he also was a feared receiver as he led the Warriors with 13 receptions for 139 yards and two touchdowns.

Joining Buttazzoni on the Western Division offensive unit is Dave Meyer, a 5-9, 170-pound senior running back who proved the perfect foil for Imms. When enemy defenses overemphasized hounding Imms, the call went out for Meyer who more often than not burned them with his speed and slashing style of running.

Named to linemen positions on the Western Division defensive squad were Frank Garback and Matt King.

The 5-10, 150 pound Garback was a feared defender who forced out 99 percent efficiency, according to his coaches. He also recovered two fumbles and intercepted a pass. King, a 5-7, 170-pound junior noseguard, was called one of the best defensive noseguards around by no less an authority than John Herbig, coach of the state-champion Harrison team. King had 35 solo tackles and 25 assists for the Warriors this year.

Todd Coulter, a 6-0, 170-pound senior linebacker, led Western in tackles for the second straight year. He also was a feared receiver as he led the Warriors with 13 receptions for 139 yards and two touchdowns.

Earning a spot in the Western Division defensive unit was Rick Hunter, a 5-8, 170-pound senior. He had 39 first hits, 24 assists and intercepted four passes. Warrior Coach Chuck App said Hunter was usually assigned the task of man-to-man coverage on the opponent's best receiver.

Western players receiving honorable mention recognition on the WLA Western Division squad were Bob Wendland, Rob Adams, Mark Croll, Matt Turner and Mark Johnson.

Ford, Schuster win mat tourney titles

After a strong start, Novi's wrestling team stumbled a bit last week.

The Wildcats limped home with a 3-5 dual meet record, and came within one point of winning the Dexter Invitational Saturday.

Dexter edged Novi 169-168 for the title, but the Wildcats were forced to void 119 pounds after Wayne Beyea dropped down to 112, leaving no one to compete in the 119-pound division.

Still, Gardner was satisfied with his team's performance at Dexter as Novi had two individual champions, four runners-up and three third-place finishers.

Junior Tim Ford ran his record to 19-0 by winning the 138-pound championship and also was named the tournament's Most Outstanding Wrestler. It was the second consecutive week Ford has earned such honors.

"I feel after watching the team this week if we had those six kids, we would have won all of our matches. However, our kids are really trying to win," he offered. "It's not from a lack of trying."

One of the wrestlers who left the squad for various reasons returned last week. Steve Kim is back in the fold and will handle 119-pound duties.

Also, John Thomas will return after the Christmas break to wrestle either at 145 or 155. He had his first workout Monday.

Novi will battle Brighton Thursday and then participate in the Pearson Robichaud Invitational Saturday.

The junior varsity squad came home with some medals from the Southfield Invitational last Friday.

Charles Brown (126), Ed Marech (167) and Todd Platt (98) were individual champions. Second place honors were won by Brian Waack (167), Lechto Mejia (98), Mike Paquette (98), Scott Boyd (112) and Ken Saylor (112). Finishing third were Ron Rankin (119) and Pat Mason (185).

Novi had a rough time at its own quadrangular, falling 36-28 to Monroe Jefferson and 33-29 to Livonia Bentley before beating Northville 41-23.

"A couple of matches could have gone either way," noted Gardner on the Monroe match. "Wayne Beyea lost 6-5. Mike Vincent fell 5-1. Things like that."

It was more of the same against Bentley, although the void at 119 again entered the picture. Gardner said could have won the match with a victory in the 119-pound division.

Novi fell 45-18 to Aquinas but rebounded to beat Redford Bishop Burgess 57-12. Novi trimmed Mount Clemens Lutheran North 38-31, but was trounced by Kensington Valley Conference foe Howell 58-6.

Gardner could not help doing a little second-guessing about last week.

"I feel after watching the team this week if we had those six kids, we would have won all of our matches. However, our kids are really trying to win," he offered. "It's not from a lack of trying."

Eric Schuster, who returned to the line-up Friday, won the 138-pound championship. Schuster had been bothered by a hyper-extended elbow, but has now rattled off six straight wins to run his record to 10-2.

Freshman Derrin Beyea (98), sophomore Wayne Beyea (112) and seniors Al McNeil (198) and Bill Case (185) all placed second, while Chris Beldse (155), Steve McBride (167) and Tim Horsman (heavyweight) took thirds.

Horsman, who actually weighs 186 pounds, has been holding his own at heavyweight by posting a 15-5-1 mark.

"God's helping him," quipped Gardner. "He's doing a good job and wrestling pretty smart."

Novi had a rough time at its own quadrangular, falling 36-28 to Monroe Jefferson and 33-29 to Livonia Bentley before beating Northville 41-23.

Eagles defeat state champs

The Novi Christian Eagles showed no respect whatsoever for Taylor Baptist last week as they rolled to a 64-40 victory over the defending Michigan Christian Athletic Association (MCAA) champs.

The Eagles also posted an 82-55 triumph over West Highland to advance their record to 4-0 on the season.

Playing tenacious defense, Novi outscored Taylor Center in every quarter en route to the 64-40 victory. The defending MCAA champs hit just 18 of 64 field goal attempts for a poor 28 percent.

Tom Hardesty led Novi with 19 points, while Steve Caswell and Dan Yoder also hit double figures with 11 and 10 points respectively.

The 82-55 triumph over West Highland was close until the third quarter when the Eagles broke away from a 36-35 edge by scoring 19 unanswered points to take a 64-41 lead into the final stanza.

Senior guard Bob Smith keyed the spurt with a display of passing and shooting to finish the game with 16 points. Scoring honors went to Caswell however, as he filled the cords with 18 points. Hardesty added 15 points, while Mike Quinton had 10.

Yoder overcame a bout with the flu to score seven points and pull down 18 rebounds. He also had six assists and two blocked shots. The Eagles had a total of nine men in the scoring column.

to Stevenson. The Spartans raced away to a commanding 27-8 lead in the opening stanza and then extended it to 55-27 at the half.

"It wasn't quite as bad as it looked," observed Peley, admitting that a 27-point loss looks pretty bad.

A bright spot for the Warriors was the play of Rob Wendland, a muscular 6-1 forward who came off the bench to lead the team in scoring with 16 points.

Senior guard Rick Hunter tallied 15 points, while Kevin Boyle, a junior forward, also hit double figures with 12 points.

The Warriors are now 0-3 on the season, but Peley is not about to press the panic button.

"We've been through a meatgrinder so far, but it's important to remember that we're a young team and the first five games are the toughest part of our schedule," he said.

Novi band sets winter concert

With a roo-ty-toot and a rummy-tum-tum there will be Christmas music in the annual Holiday Concert presented by the Novi High School Symphony and Concert bands in Puert Auditorium tomorrow (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m.

Band Boosters spokesperson Evelyn Young reported that the auditorium will be beautifully decorated, the music will be festive and the "afterglow" promises to be a special holiday treat. Everyone will have an opportunity to visit with friends and neighbors.

Young said a special invitation has been extended to senior citizens to "come and get acquainted with these outstanding musical groups at no charge."

Craig Strain will direct the Symphony Band in the perennial favorite "Sleighride" by LeRoy Anderson and Prelude and Fugue in G Minor by Bach.

The Concert Band under the direction of Paula Joyner will play selections, including "La Costa," "Evening Song" and "Castle, Loch and Heath," an English Folk Song Suite.

The combined bands totaling 90 members will close the concert with "The Christmas Song" by Mel Torme and the traditional "Christmas Sing-Along."

Parson to Person...
Christmas And Family

Dr. James Luther

There is no activity more important than the building of a godly family. King David was a man of strong contrasts; among them the sad truth that he was strong in battle but weak at home. He was so enamored with public pursuits that he lost control of his family.

There are four key words involved in building a strong family:

1. Concern! True love should fill every part of family life. But the only way we can have real love is to receive and then reflect the love of God (John 3:16).
2. Courtesy! This is the golden rule in action (Matt. 7:12). Such courtesy should be given to EVERYONE in the family regardless of age, or ability. EVERYONE is important in a family, indeed everyone is vital and indispensable.
3. Commitment! The family was designed and given by God. It is the most important part of life and society. Nothing less than total commitment will satisfy our needs. This world, our nation, and you as an individual can not survive without family commitments.
4. Character! Discipline, fellowship, recreation, work, planning, sharing and priorities are all part of building character. The only way to know that all the vital ingredients necessary for good and strong character are present in your family is to learn and study God's Word.

Christmas is for the family. Enjoy your family this Christmas. Why not join our church family this Sunday as we share the timeless truths of God's Word?
