Cause of van fire unknown

It was "just by chance" that Debra Meyers looked outside her home at 1275 East Lake Drive last Tuesday afternoon — and happened to see the 1973 Ford van in the driveway burst into flames.

"I was just looking out the window to see how the wind was blowing, it was such a windy day," she said. "I saw smoke coming from under the hood."

Meyers said she and her husband, David, who had returned from Detroit in the van about a half hour earlier. "heard a loud noise" and saw flames shooting out from under the van toward the house.

Fearing the van would explode or ignite their home, Meyers said she and her husand took their three children and family pet next door and called the fire department.

The van was "pretty well involved," by the time an engine from Novi's Fire Station 1 arrived 18 minutes later, reported Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan.

Lenaghan admitted that the response time was "exceptionally long," but explained that a truck from the closer Fire Station 2 was unavailable due to the lack of a volunteer driver at that station.

"It's not consistent who we have at the station, it depends on the time of day and the day of the week," he explained.

Lenaghan noted that he and several other firefighters made it to the scene before the fire engine arrived.

The cause of the blaze is listed as "undetermined," but Lenaghan said it started in the van's engine area. "A major portion of damage is in the engine and cab area," he said. He reported the van as "extensively

House sizes linked to interest rates

By PHILIP JEROME

The fury regarding the downsizing of houses in Novi during 1982 may be resolved in part by a continued decline in interest rates and a general improvement in the economy, according to City Planning Consultant Charles Cairns. "A decline in interest rates will do more to spur construction of largersized homes than anything else," observed Cairns at a recent meeting of the Novi Planning Board.

Inherent in Cairns' assertion is a fundamental belief that people generally prefer to live in larger homes on larger lots if economic circumstances permit. As evidence, Cairns pointed to Novi's experiences with residential construction during the decade of 1970-79. The first years of the decade were marked by construction of large homes majority of Village Oaks homes were were families which originally had cars," said Romanow. "It's the same developed under the R-4 zoning district located in Village Oaks. which requires 80-foot lots of 10,000 square feet. The R-4 district is now the smallest of the single-family zoning districts in Novi.

The advent of the oil embargo in the mid-70s had a significant impact on the housing industry in Novi, Cairns stated. Instead of single family homes, the city was beset with numerous requests for construction of multiples.

When the economy stabilized several years later, the single-family market came back strong and led to construction of such subdivisions as Turtle Creek and Whispering Meadows.

Turtle Creek and Whispering Meadows are primarily R-3 subdivisions with 90-foot lots of 12,000 square

In many instances, Cairns observed, in the Village Oaks subdivision. The the first residents in those subdivisions The reason, he suggested, was that the homes in the newer subdivisions were slightly larger and had slightly larger lots.

"People like larger homes on larger lots," he said. "That's what they're going to buy if they can afford to do so. The history of residential construction is intrinsically related to the economic

Support for Cairns' assertion that lower interest rates will spur construction of larger homes was expressed by Planner Peter Romanow.

Noting parallels between the automotive and housing industries, Romanow said the major reason people are buying small cars instead of large cars at the present time is the economy. "The only reason people buy small thing with houses.'

"People will sacrifice a great deal to get the type of house they want," added Planner Joseph Brett. "If they can afford it, they'll opt for a larger home almost every time."

Concern about the downsizing of homes in Novi during the past year has been spearheaded by Nancy Covert, president of a small group of concerned citizens which calls itself PLAN (People Looking After Novi).

Covert told the planning board recently that the concept people will not buy large homes anymore is "ludicrous."

"The home is still the center for all family activities," she commented. "I don't believe people are willing to give up the amenities associated with a larger home which is a part of the cars is they can't afford to feed big American Dream."

"GOOD NEWS for hangover sufferers" was the way the release from Oakland County Executive Dan Murphy began. Seems the county's tornado siren tests are usually held the first this time on New Year's Day. So, having pity on those who had celebrated a bit too much the previous night, county officials cancelled last Saturday's tests, 📗 promising to resume the regular schedule in February. But, officials cautioned, "the sirens will be sounded in the event of a tornado, hangovers notwithstan-

ANY VOLUNTEERS? Truth to tell, there was really no choice in the matter when the Walled Lake City Council designated who would be the city's representative at Michigan Municipal League's meetings. Considering his love of politics and prior experience, Bill Roberts got the nod hands down. And then there was the problem of finding anyone willing to challenge Roberts for the designation. Said Mayor Gaspare LaMarca: "Is anybody volunteering besides Bill?" To which Linda Ackley replied: "I don't think there's any decision to be made." So, bring those MMLrelated concerns to the honorable

NO FOLDING OR MUTILATING please. That's the plea from the clerks at Walled Lake City Hall, where checks for tax and water bills are coming back folded, stapled, taped and everything but glued together. Clerk/Treasurer Ruby Lewandowski points out that the city staff realizes residents are just trying to make sure their payments are credited to their debts, but says, "when you get 2,500 tax bills like that, do you know how frustrating that is?" Staffers are asking residents not to go overboard connecting payments to bills.

Council members questioned whether engineering errors were made when Liberty Street was repaved this fall, but decided to put off switching engineers until the roadwork was done. With the completion of Liberty Street (except for a two-inch surface to be applied next spring), council members asked Dornan to solicit bids from qualified engineering firms. MICHAEL PREVILLE Sales Director GARY KELBER Advertising Manager

As We See It

Quality program is best P.R. tool

Walled Lake school board members will be sitting down with administrators later this month to develop a list of goals and objectives for the coming year.

One of the objectives that seems certain to develop out of the discussions is an increased emphasis on public relations.

Improved public relations has long been seen by administrators and board members alike as a primary need for the Walled Lake Schools and the fact of the matter is that a program to improve public perception of the district already is

Sami Alam, director of planning and program evaluation, outlined a "Walled Lake Marketing Plan" at the December board meeting, noting that the time has come for public education to come to the realization that it has to start selling itself.

Although no one is suggesting that public education is an endangered species, it's also true that public education faces major threats at the current time.

Taxpayers across the country have been turning thumbs down on requests for millage increases with five years. As unions continue to seek higher and higher wages for employees, the degree of resentment from individuals who have been laid off or have taken pay cuts in light of the current economic climate has increased, finding its logical expression at the ballot box.

The growth of private educational facilities and the possible advent of tuition tax credits for private schools will only add to the fiscal woes faced by public schools.

And, finally, the declining birth rate also has had a serious impact on public education. Less than 50 percent of the population now has school-aged children — and individuals who are already strapped financially will find it difficult to vote for millage increases when they can see no direct benefit to themselves.

Revenue shortages have already had a strong negative impact on the Walled Lake Schools. Counseling and library services have been cut severely, antiquated textbooks are still being used in the classrooms because the district is unable to afford more current books ... the examples go on and on.

We offer the following thoughts for school officials to consider when they sit down in the weeks ahead to establish goals and objec-

First, we concur with the need to improve public relations. Superintendent Don Sheldon frequently notes that many good things are happening in the Walled Lake Schools, and he's correct. Getting out the news about these positive achievements will create a more favorable impression about the district in the minds of

Related to this is the need for school board members to take a long, hard look at the job they are doing to promote a positive image of the district. Despite some improvement in board relations over the past 18 months, there's much room for additional improvement.

All too frequently, board meetings give rise to petty bicker ing and grandstanding that reflect poorly on the district as a whole.

Finally, serious consideration should be given to establishing programs which will involve a broader spectrum of the community in the schools. If institutions of public education are to earn the support of a significant percentage of the population, they must develop programs which will provide direct benefits to those individuals

There is no question that the Walled Lake Schools will benefit from improved public relations. But public relations are only part of the picture; equally, if not more, important is the need for the type of programming which will create 'satisfied customers'' in the community at large.

Stick to standards

The best solution to concerns regarding downsizing of homes in Novi rests in economic recovery, according to City Planning Consultant Charles Cairns. We suspect Concerns about the downsizing of residences was one of the major issues to develop in Novi during 1982 as residents of larger homes expressed fears that construction significantly smaller homes in their subdivisions would have an adverse impact on the compatibility of their neighborhoods.

For the past two years now, we have received press releases from Realtors' associations regarding the need to downsize housing. The housing industry is just like the automotive industry, they argued - people currently can't afford to buy big houses any more than they ean afford to buy big cars.

Although we have no quarrel with that argument, we also are convinced the current state of the housing industry is temporary and the demand for larger homes on larger lots will return with economic recovery.

Trends in housing tend to be cyclical. Anyone who has followed housing trends for the past decade can attest to the fact that strong demand for single-family housing in the early 1970s was replaced almost completely by construction of multiple-family residences in the

The cry at that time was that condominiums are the wave of the future — the single-family housing market will never return to its former status. Those cries were proven wrong just a few short years later as single-family construction returned stronger than ever during the final years of the

We are sympathetic with residents' concerns about compatibility of neighborhoods and believe the city should pursue measures to promote internal com-

At the same time, the city should stick to its guns on housing regulations. Despite predictions to the contrary, we are confident the demand for larger homes will return with economic recovery.

It was a vision of the future, the year unfolding, 1983. And now, predictions for the coming year as revealed to me through the wonders of computer science:

• A major earthquake will shake the region, causing the long submerged wall to rise again from the depths of Walled Lake.

• Recognizing the wisdom of Wixom officials who want to expand Spencer Airport, aliens from a neighboring solar system will land their starships on Runway One, startling Ultralight pilots and three seagulls at the

 When a subdivision of underground homes is proposed, Novi residents picket city hall demanding an ordinance to prohibit housing for "mole people."

 As budget problems become more acute in Commerce Township, officials will look to unique fundraising activities. The fire department will give rides on pumper trucks, the township treasurer's office offers tax preparation services after hours, Tupperware and Mary Kay Cosmetics sales are conducted in the township hall meeting room, while in the parking lot township trustees hold car washes.

 Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole actually will sight Bigfoot running along Napier Road, but no one believes A Wixom resident, disgruntled over waiting for trains on the tracks which criss-cross the city, tries to derail them with Susan B. Anthony dollars. Novi and Walled Lake school districts join together in an advertising campaign extolling the virtues of large families as part of a move to counter declining enrollment. Community education classes also will be offered. An explorer from Australia will once and for all answer the question: "Where is downtown Novi?"

• President Ronald Reagan will plan a stopover at the Wixom Ford Plant during a country-wide, whistlestop tour made to encourage Americans to stay the course. As he pulls into Wixom his train will be derailed by the resident placing Susan B. Anthony dollars on the

Moving violation

I'm too tight with my money to be fashionable. Sure. I'd like to dress like those guys in Gentleman's Quarterly, but the fact of the matter is I'm too cheap to spend my money on "the latest fashions."

For example, I still have a sports coat which I bought for $10 from a factory outlet store when I was in college several decades ago. It's still in good shape, thank you. I haven't put on that much weight since college and I'm oblivious to comments about the size of the lapels.

The same is true about my trench coat, another acquisition from that factory outlet

At least it was true until recently. In response to complaints from my housemate about the quality of my clothing, I was persuaded to head down to a local men's store recently to buy a new trench coat.

Actually, the incentive for buying a new trench coat was provided by Frank Furillo — Captain Frank Furillo, head honcho of the Hill Street outpost on Hill Street Blues.

Furillo's a semi-hero of mine right now. He always speaks in those slow, measured tones regardless of how much turmoil is going on around him and he always wears that great-looking trench coat. Besides, in addition to being a darn good cop, he also won an Emmy last year. It's not often you see a cop who's also a good actor.

At any rate, it's amazing how much I look like Frank Furillo in my new trench coat. particularly when I speak in those same slow. measured tones. All I need now is Joyce Davenport and the image will be complete.

At least I thought I looked like Frank Furillo until I got my comeuppance recently when I wandered into the management office at Twelve Oaks with my hands thrust in my pockets just like my favorite television precinct captain.

"You probably think I look a lot like Frank Furillo in my new trench coat, don't you?" I asked, noting the look of admiration on the face of the receptionist behind the Well, no," she finally responded. "I was thinking more along the lines of Columbo."

All local residents regardless of church affiliation are encouraged to add their Christmas trees to the pile behind the church which is located on Ten Mile, just west of Taft Road.

Father Leslie Harding, pastor of Holy Cross as well as Queen Anne's Episcopal Church in Walled Lake, said Epiphany is the 12th night after Christmas and is celebrated to mark the arrival of the Three Kings at the manger in Bethlehem. It has come to symbolize the spreading of the Gospel throughout the world via the Three Kings from foreign lands, he said. Tradition also holds that Epiphany is the day to burn the Christmas tree, Harding added. "It's the passing of the old and the start of a new year." A brief service with Scripture and Epiphany hymns will occur while the trees are being burned. All participants are invited for coffee, hot chocolate and cookies in Parish Hall following the service.

Transportation package hikes car taxes

By WARREN M. HOYT

Just as some people said it would be impossible in a lame-duck legislative session, the finishing touches were put on a transportation package that will raise $575 million over the next three years. . The action was taken during the waning hours of the final days of the 81st legislature.

an increase in the gasoline tax and a value registration fee for new car purchases coupled with an increase in the current weight tax on presently

The additional revenue would be raised through

The gasoline tax provides for two years of gas tax hikes tied to the rise in the federal highway

Increases would be capped at two cents per gallon per year, meaning a maximum gas tax of 15 cents a gallon by 1984 compared to the current state excise tax of 11 cents per gallon. The gas tax, effective January 1, will itself raise an estimated $373 million over three years. Passenger vehicle registrations will increase 15 percent on February 1 while commercial vehicles will see an immediate increase of 30 percent as of

For new vehicles, purchased on or after October 1, 1983, registration would be computed on a value

The tax would be .4 percent on the purchase price of the vehicle with the registration fee being reduced by 10 percent each year for three years. After the third year, the fee would be frozen at

As older vehicles are taken out of service, the weight tax would ultimately be phased out, but until then, the weight tax will be indexed to increase in the state personal income until 1985. The registration adjustment is expected to raise some $193.4 million over the three year period.

To aid public transportation systems, changes were made in the allocation of the auto-related sales tax revenues and the amount going from the highway fund to comprehensive transportation. Increases of the current 8.3 percent allocation of highway fund money to comprehensive transportation is 10 percent. The increased allocation would raise $232.2 million for comprehensive transporation over three years. The comprehensive transportation fund would also receive an increased allocation from the autorelated sales tax that goes to the general fund. Currently, the fund received 27.9 percent of the tax revenue. This would be increased to 53 percent in 1983, 46 percent in 1984, and 57 percent in 1985.

The love is more important than the love seat.

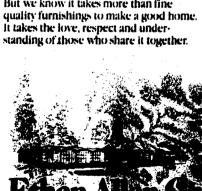

At Ethan Allen, we believe that the quality of family life surrounding our furniture is far more important than the furniture itself. For home is the nurturing ground for the wholesome values and attitudes that made our country strong.

It's the stage where the drama of life is played. Where children learn right from wrong. Where old-fashioned ideals like courage and honesty, respect for oneself and others are passed down from one generation to the next.

We are concerned about the erosion of these values that should be taught at home. We see the growing problems of society - broken homes, crime, drugs, and juvenile delinquency - and are shocked by the trauma they inflict on families, especially children.

Our over-burdened schools can no longer solve these problems confronting our society. There is only one place where we can regain the values and integrity that will cure these ills. We must turn to the home – our piece of the world – the place where it all begins.

For fifty years, Ethan Allen has been dedicated to helping Americans create beautiful environments for their homes. But we know it takes more than fine It takes the love, respect and under-standing of those who share it together.

The advertisements above will appear in many leading magazines. They express our belief in the vital need to reaffirm and reinforce the importance of home for our families.

What Ever Happened To "Home Sweet Home"?

The never-ending stream of news stories about divorce, drugs, rape, juvenile delinquency, murder and muggings has us aroused. You, too, must be deeply concerned about the impact of all this on our children and about the erosion of the wholesome values and attitudes that have made us a great country. For generations, these values and attitudes were learned at home. Old-fashioned ideals like "courage, honesty, respect for hard work, patience, love and regard for family and others" were taught by loving parents and passed down for generations.

Our homes ... the fiber that holds our society together ... are in dire jeopardy because we've become such a fast-moving high-tech society, losing touch with our families and human values. The growing number of broken homes today and the traumatic impact on the children in those homes should shock us into action ... yet we see countless people taking neither the time nor the effort to keep their homes together.

Have You Thought Seriously About The Importance Of Your Home?

Your Home Is Your Nest

- where babies are conceived, diapers changed, scraped knees bandaged and children's tears dried ... where stories are told and histories unfold ... where your young ones thrive on parental love and learn the real values of life ... where love and respect between husband and wife are nurtured.

Your Home Is A Classroom

 where you must show your children the ways of the world and teach them right from wrong, because our over-burdened schools can no longer do it ... where they learn the old-fashioned virtues of beauty, truth and

Your Home Is Your Piece of The World - the most important investment you'll ever make in your life . . . one that says "this is ours" while it provides the warm inspiring environment you want for your loved ones.

Your Home Is A Retreat

— from the elements, the frustrations of daily life . . . where you can shut out the world and its traumas. It's a haven your children can run to, not run away from ... where worries are calmed and weary hearts and minds renew their strength and courage.

CLASSIC ELEGANCE ... 18TH CENTURY DESIGNS ... GEORGIAN COURT

Back in the 18th Century, master cabinetmakers like Chippendale, Hepplewhite and Duncan Phyfe were creating the furniture destined to become today's cherished antiques. Then, as now, it was painstaking attention to detail that separated the good from the great in creating exquisite home furnishings. Here, Ethan Allen's Georgian Court collection, expressed in the finest solid Cherry and selected veneers, recalls these timeless furniture designs.

All drapery fabrics, made-to-measure draperies, custom bedspreads, decorative pillows, oriental design rugs, broadloom carpets, area rugs, lamps and decorative accessories illustrated are from the Ethan Allen collection.

COUNTRY CRAFTSMAN TOMORROW'S ANTIQUES, ON SALE TODAY!

ife for America's early settlers was not easy. Their Lireless labor carved a proud young nation out of wilderness. And their simple homes and furnishings were often their most important possessions. Ethan Allen's Country Craftsman collection recalls this heritage of dedication and pride and pays tribute to the craftsmanship of the rural cabinetmaker's art. Handsomely expressed in solid Pine and matching veneers, the furnishings shown here recreate the same graceful proportions and authentic details found in original country American antiques. And the deep warm finish harkens back a time when daily life brought to furniture a hand-rubbed softness and rich patina. Come in during our Winter Sale for a great way to bring a touch of American history right into your home.

This Country Craftsman dining room has all the quiet charm of rural colonial life. From the classic buffet and china hutch to the chaste and practical extension table. Adaptations of historic Tavern chairs add homespun warmth to this inviting room.

Originally crafted by rural artisans, the 18th Century designs of our Circa 1776 dining room recreate the warmth and charm of an earlier way of life. Shown here, the authentically inspired Bowback Windsor chairs, round extension table and gracefully detailed buffet and china are highlighted by a golden, antiqued finish. Hand-rubbed and distressed for a feeling of aged authenticity. A first-time value during our Winter Sale!

ETHAN ALLEN HEIRLOOM VERSATILITY, CHARM, VALUE!

EIRLOOM: something of special value handed on from one generation to another"..., thus reads the dictionary definition according to Webster. And that's what makes Ethan Allen's Heirloom collection so aptly named. From the full selection of bedroom and dining furniture to all the marvelous occasional and accent pieces, each is a keepsake crafted to last for generations. But meant to fill an important role in your home today. Expressed in solid Maple and/or Birch and specially selected veneers, you'll find these sturdy designs are almost "family-proof" too! And faithful to the character of their proud New England ancestry. Informal styling features open hutch tops, simple batwing hardware and plenty of practical storage, while more formal expressions include handsome buffet and china cabinets and chairs adapted from Duncan Phyfe and Hitchcock originals. All outstanding values during our Winter Sale. Come in today. One look . . . and our Heirlooms could easily become yours!

From a city apartment to a house in the suburbs, this Ethan Allen dining room will add a touch of country charm to any setting. You'll love our meticulously crafted double pedestal extension table, colonial-inspired arrowback chairs plus stately buffet and arched door china cabinet. Table opens to over 6 ft. and features an easy-care Formica® laminate top.
