Parkland purchase proposed

By KATHY JENNINGS

NOVI — A plan to provide for the city's parkland needs for the next 20 years could go into effect if residents decide to provide funding by approving an issue on the November 8 ballot.

The parkland acquisition plan is one aspect a four point program to implement parts of the Parks and Recreation Master Plan, recommend by a citizens committee.

Voters will consider a $4.3 million bond issue to acquire property for six parks, develop five existing and new parks, cover the Parks and Recreation share of a city maintenance facility and finance construction of 18 miles of bikepedestrian paths.

Voters also will be asked to consider a charter amendment which would pro- the city with sufficient public open new parks and pathways. "Based on the master plan we took certain portions of the city and developed a proposal for land acquisition," explained Parks and Recreation Director Thomas O'Branovic. "The acquisition program will virtually provide space for years to come. It should accommodate our open space needs for 20 years." O'Branovic said.

"There still may be other property that we would buy if it's to our advantage and we'll certainly accept donations, but this addressed our needs in the future," he added.

Those needs were determined by reviewing national standards for recommended amounts of open space and applying them to Novi's circumstances.

At full development Novi is expected to have a population of 80,000, which translates to a need for 800 acres of public open space, according to national standards.

But the commission looked at the Residents oppose pathways

By KATHY JENNINGS

NOVI - Residents along Meadowbrook Road have promised to "actively campaign" against the $4.3 million bond issue to provide financing for pathways and parkland acquisition, because they believe the paths should be voted on separately.

Pathways are one aspect of the four point program appearing on the November 8 ballot and an estimated $1.3 million of the bond issue would go boward construction of 18 miles of bikepedestrian paths if voters support the

Robert Brooks, the organizer of the opposition, told the city council Monday that he believes bicycle enthusiasts are pushing the bike paths, allowing them to "ride through on more popular types of park spending."

Council members also received a petition circulated by Brooks and signed by 26 residents. The petition said signers specifically objected to the proposed trail between Nine and Ten Mile.

The city would have to purchase a portion of residents' front yards to construct trails there.

"A few years ago bike enthusiasts attempted to pass a similar millage and they were defeated. They swore then they would get paths and they boasted they would infiltrate Parks and Recreation," Brooks claimed. "It would be a shame to see Parks and Recreation lose the money it needs because trails are added on.'

He accused bikers and joggers of infiltrating Parks and Recreation "for the sole purpose of achieving their narrow, selfish goals."

Parks and Recreation Director Thomas O'Branovic countered those charges, saying surveys made before the Parks Commission adopted its master plan showed bike paths to be residents' number one priority in terms of recreational facilities they wanted to see developed. The surveys showed biking ranked third on a list of 100 activity interests, O'Branovic added.

"This wasn't done by a few people; a lot of forethought and input from a lot of residents went into this," O'Branovic

O'Branovic noted that in conversation with residents he found some are concerned their property values would decrease as a result blke path construction. But when he contacted realtors in communities where paths have been constructed - Avon, Southfiled, Troy and Birmingham - all of them reported the paths had no affect on property values.

Richard Grim told the council that bike paths would worsen an already congested condition on Meadowbrook Road.

"I don't know if you've tried to back out of a driveway onto Meadowbrook, but it's very difficult with the joggers and kids on the way to the 7-11 and the normal amount of traffic," Grim said. "Now this proposal comes along to compound that. I won't be able to back out without sitting in the middle of this

NOVI - First there was Super Sewer, then there was Super Sewer Jr. Now there is the "New Super Sewer."

City Manager Edward Kriewall told the council Monday that through "fancy footwork" state officials are trying to obtain the same amount of funding for the "New Super Sewer" as was expected for the original project.

Nine communities have been asked to join with others currently studying sewage alternatives being developed as a result of changes in the most recent Super Sewer caused by a Department of Natural Resources decision to route funding elsewhere.

Those communities now pipe their sewage through the Rouge Valley sewer system. Northern communities, including Novi, which formerly were to connect to Super Sewer now are anticipating a plan allowing them to pipe sewage through the same system to Detroit. They would connect to a sewer line laid adjacent to the existing system.

The communities have been invited to participate in ongoing studies in order to improve the chances of obtaining federal funding for the sewer pro-

Plans already undertaken show there are "serious pollution problems in the Rouge Valley. These problems include an overloaded interceptor system having inadequate capacity for peak wet weather flows, which results in abundant and frequent overflows in the Rouge River and widespread basement flooding," Hinshon said.

As long as such problems exist the communities are threatened with the state issuing a ban on building, Hinshon

Victim's parents sue city

NOVI — Parents of a seven-year-old boy who drowned at Lakeshore Park July 3 have filed a lawsuit claiming the city allowed a dangerous clay pit to ex-

But city officials deny the swimming area is unsafe.

Bearden's body was "found at the bottom of the swim area near a large, hazardous and dangerous clay pit ... located in the swim area," according to the lawsuit.

"The (city) then and there willfully and wantonly caused (Bearden) to drown" by failing to maintain and supervise the beach carefully, lawsult continues.

Among the negligent actions of the city, the suit alleges Novi:

· falled to maintain the swim area in a safe, non-hazardous condition; the dangerous condition likely to cause drowning or serious injury; · failed to rope off the clay pit: failed to inspect the swim area for Novi's park director said the area described is not really a clay pit, but is depression in the swimming area. O'Branovic noted the department fills it in several times a year. It is a popular play area for youngsters, he said.

Additionally, all life guards hired b the city are required to have advanced life saving certification and many of them have Water Safety Instructor cer-. tification, O'Branovic said. All guards receive a four-hour orientation and they review emergency proceedures at that time, he added.

The lifeguard stand is located in the center of the 150-foot swim area, approximately 20 feet from the edge of the water. O'Branovic said. "We feel where the stand is located is ideal. It gives the guards a view of the front of the beach area and the water." he added.

"We investigated the Red Cross standards for the number of guards and there is little given on lake front coverage. It's left up to your determination based on your circumstances." O'Branovic said.

A telephone located in the boat house on the beach and bouys used to designate the swimming area meet Department of Natural Resources specifications, O'Branovic added.

Kriewall was praised for his work in obtaining the Novi Special Race Car by Mayor Robert Schmid and a resolution written in a comical poetic fashion was read by Kathy Crawford of the Parks and Recreation Department.

"I don't know how to take this, quite frankly," Kriewall said. "I thought this was going to be just a normal evening.' Kriewall, who subsequently regained his speech, said his work to obtain the Schmid detailed the history of Kriewall's diligent work to obtain the race car.

"When he first came to the council we laughed at him. We told him he was crazy," Schmid said. But gradually the council began to gain enthusiasm for the project. They told Kriewall to proceed with attempts to obtain the car, but they did not agree to purchase it.

The city manager got funds from the Economic Development Corporation to purchase the vehicle.

Parents criticize Walled Lake board

WALLED LAKE - Mothers marched outside the school administrative offices this week, carrying picket signs and passing out leaflets. Their message: "WLEA versus Board, students lose."

The same message was communicated many times over at a raucous meeting of the board of education Monday, October At one point during the 31/2-hour session, nearly 800 parents, students and teachers crowed the Walled Lake Western When parents felt they might not have their say during audience participation, the crowd became unruly, with some shouting obscenities at the board.

"We voted you in and you're going to listen to us. We voted you in and we'll vote you out, by God," bellowed one woman, who was later asked to leave by Board President Mario Tozzi. Steven Hatt accused the trustees of "arguing so consistently among

The presence of the Sheraton Oaks and Novi Hilton serves a twofold purpose. First, both hotels provide the telecommunications, conference and lodging facilities that are deemed important by major firms looking to establish regional headquarters. There is no question. for example, that the proposed Novi Hilton was a factor in the decisions of Hewlett Packard, Norris Industries and Digital Equipment Corporation to locate in Novi's Orchard Hill Place Research/Office

Perspectives

BV PATRICIA N. BOWLING

A college professor once warned me never to say, "I'd love to do that someday."

That had been my reply to a discussion about students going overseas to study. Too many people talk about "someday", he said. Too few ever act on their wildest dreams. He encouraged me, nearly forced me, to apply for overseas study programs. The following September I was on a plane to the Far East for the most incredible adventure of my life.

I was reminded of the excitement of that year overseas last week when I had the opportunity to talk with a very inspiring couple. They are leaving their home, friends and educational careers and moving to Virginia where they will make their dream of owning a "country inn" a reality.

When people read their story, there will be dozens who'll say, "I'd love to do that someday." And they will wait all their lives for the opportunity to fall into their laps.

These individuals would like you to believe they are somehow "caught" in a career, in a relationship, or in a particular city, because of circumstances they cannot change. The great vacation, the new job or new career are all things they plan to do "someday." But somehow priorities never include saving (or raising) money for the vacation or writing up the resume for the new job.

My hometown in Indiana has many such individuals. Discontentment runs rampant amoung young adults trying to decide whether they want to spend their lives in a city where excitement peaks during high school basketball season. There are those who decide to stay simply because they enjoy their hometown or the job they've found there.

plain than face the challenge of leaving and trying

When they are not complaining about the city, they are talking about "somedays." They talk about moving. They talk about the job in another city. But they balk at the challenge of actually moving on.

A friend from home came to visit my husband and I recently. After listening to my husband talk about his new career, our friend remarked. "Gee. I wish I could fall into something like that someday.''

I've been told that my disdain for the attitude of people who would rather gripe or just dream of the things they'd . like to do "someday" will wane when I'm older and more "established" - with a home, seniority in a career, or perhaps a family of my own.

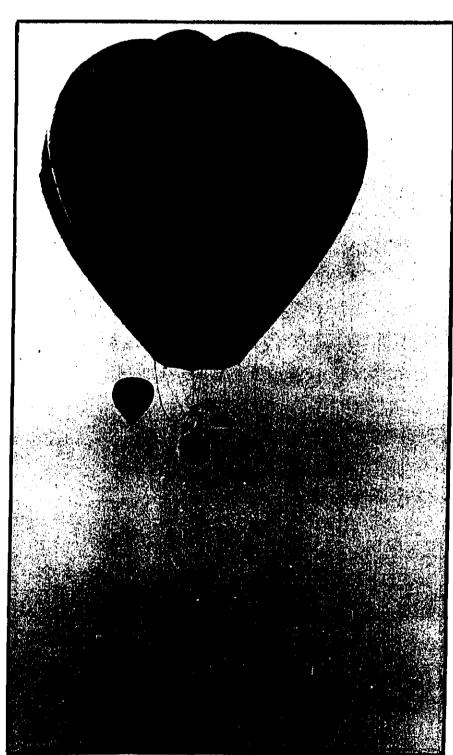

I tossed that argument out the window last week after talking with the couple who plan to open their country inn. If any two people had reason to feel "entrenched", it would be this couple. He has 12 years in education; she has six. They live in a beautiful home they built and decorated themselves. They have established deep relationships, both personal and professional in their community.

Despite all this, they embraced their dream of owning a country inn and made it a reality. From Northville they will move next month to a tiny town in northeastern Virginia where they will begin transforming their newly acquired 19th century colonial home into a restaurant and inn.

"It was scary three years ago," she admits. "I thought I couldn't leave the security. But I stopped being afraid and stopped looking backwards. Now it doesn't even occur to me to be scared."

I'm usually pretty good about not walk-ing into traps. After all, I wasn't born yesterday and like to think I'm smart enough to perceive when I'm being set up.

That's why I was so disturbed recently when I was had - hook, line and sinker - at a lawn party.

Because there was something of a figured out right then and there that skullduggery was afoot. But I didn't. In fact, I never even suspected a trap was being set until the door had snapped behind me.

About half way through the party, the host started awarding the door prizes by pulling numbers from a hat. First prize was, appropriately, a door — a nice, insulated storm door that was won by number 32. I don't remember what second prize was, but it was something nice, and it was won by number 64.

"Aha," I said to the person next to me. 'They seem to be working in multiples of 16.''.

As fate would have it, I was right. The host then announced that he had several more prizes, the three kittens running around

Now anyone who reads this column with any degree of regularity knows that my wife thinks she's the patron saint of homeless kittens; the last thing I need at my house is more cats. But what were the chances of my number being drawn from a pool of more than 100 people? I relaxed.

The host again put his hand in the hat and removed a tag. "Number 16," he announced.

I managed to get out of there without collecting my door prize. And when I got home I didn't tell my wife about my furry stroke of fortune. She'd have probably gone back and picked them up.

economics and monetary problems. This year some 1,225 students from 43 states and Puerto Rico attended the school.

HOLLOWAY CONSTRUCTION Company of Wixom was low bidder on a state road project in Oakland and Genesee counties, the Michigan Department of Transportation announced September 26. The company's bid of $9,302,150 on the project to resurface 15.8 miles on I-75 freeway from south of Ortonville Road near Pontiac north to one mile north of the Oakland Line was low. Work is to be completed by October, 1985. All low bids must be approved by the State Transportation Commission and the State Administrative Board before contracts are awarded, MDOT stated.

JOHN McMARTIN, of McMartin Jewelry, 440 North Main Street, Milford, has been awarded the title of Registered Jeweler by the American Gem Society The Society, an association of fine jewelers pledged to consumer protection and gemological education, awards the title to member jewelers who obtain advanced professional knowledge and skill through hands-on experience, gemological courses and annual examinations. McMartin grew up in the jewelry industry as a watchmaker's son. Currently, his duties include setting diamonds, diamond quality analysis, gem purchasing and reproduction of photos for advertising. Like his father, he has chosen to pursue the field of gemology. McMartin is secretary of the Economic Development Corporation of Milford. President Robert Spratford, of the American Gem Society, said, "I want to congratulate McMartin on achieving a level of skill reached only by some 2,000 retail jewelers in the United States and Canada. He has qualified as a Registered Jeweler through his personal desire to increase his knowledge of gemology, and through the store's subscribing to business principles set down by the Federal Trade Commission, Better Business Bureau, and the Society's own code of ethics."

TWO NORTHVILLE RESIDENTS have accepted leadership positions in the United Foundation 1983 Torch Drive, Thomas F. Russell, chairman and chief executive officer of Federal-Mogul Corporation and general chairman of this year's fund-raising program, said. Addison Kline, director of personnel for the Fruehauf Corporation, is serving as northeast unit region I chairman, and Terrance Smith, industrial relations manager of the Wixom Assembly Plant of Ford Motor Company, is northwest unit region I chairman. The northeast and northwest units are part of the community campaigns which solicit small businesses and offices and individual givers throughout the tri-county area. Noting that the high rate of unemployment, government cutbacks to certain social service agencies and the increased cost of providing services have contributed to the pressing human needs of the tri-county community, the Torch Drive committee says that this year's Torch Drive volunteer team will be asking for increased contributions to help maintain the present level of support for these services.

The reporting phase of the 35th annual Torch Drive will run from October 17 through November 10. The United Foundation Torch Drive helps provide operating funds for 136 charitable organizations in the

TWO AREA AGENTS have qualified as members of the 1983 Executive Council of New York Life Insurance Company.

Both Edward W. Grace of Northville and David P. Porta of Brighton now are on the Executive Council composed of New York Life's outstanding agents. Membership is based on 1982-83 sales records, according to General Manager Fred E. Rogers, CLU, of the company's Northland-Detroit General Office.

RICHARD AND ELAINE PARKER have announced their association with Real Estate One-Milford. Richard, who recently passed his state broker's exam, comes to Real Estate One with five years of sales and listing experience.

Elaine recently obtained her sales agent's license.

Once upon a time, long ago and far away, a group of people called the Celtics set aside Oc-The First Halloween tober 31 as the eve of their

> It was the scariest night of the year because the Celtics believed that on this night evil spirits walked abroad and performed feats of magic and destruction. The Celtic regions of France and the British Isles were inroduced to Christianity by their Roman conquerers in the fourth century.

Christian fathers, realizing the strength of the old religious ceremonies, tried to give new meanings to the old customs rather than try to destroy them. November 1 became All Saints' Day and October 31 became All Hollows Eve

Long after their conversion to Christianity, the Celtic people continued to expect ghosts on All Hallows Eve, later shortened to Halloween, so when they went outside on the evening of October 31, they were masks and costumes to keep from being recognized. Celts were not the only ones who associated masks with demons. From earliest times, people have worn horrible masks to scare off the devils who bring disaster such as droughts and epidemics. The nobility who attended the Witches' Sabbaths which were held on October 31 in the Middle Ages always wore masks.

dubitable authenticity. The following list of famous real thosts was taken from The Book of Lists. . The Ghost of Anne Boleyn. Old Anne appears annualy at the Tower of London on May 19, the anniversary of her beheading by King Henry VIII. She arrives in a coach drawn ur headless horses and driven by a headless horseman

3. The Vermilion Phantom. Red, as he's known to his amies, has appeared at critical junctures in the history of France. A tall, well-built figure with a red beard, the V.P. wears a stylish but somewhat flashy red cape.

The Halloween pumpkin is the only symbol of the holiday which did not come to the United States from the old world.

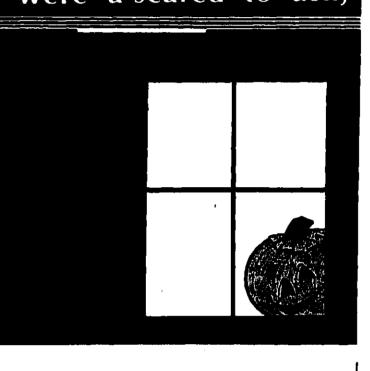

The pumpkin grew only in America and was not part of the Halloween customs of northern Europe. When early pioneers discovered the pumpkin, they recognized it immediately as the perfect Halloween antern. In Europe other vegetables were used.

Scotish children hollowed out large turnips, carved faces on them and placed candles inside them. The children called the turnip lanterns "bogies" and used them to scare

Irish children used turnips or potatoes and children in some parts of England made "punkies" from large beets. The early immigrants found the pumpkin made a much better lantern because it was soft inside and was easier to carve. The name pumpkin may even have come from the child's Halloween lantern called a "punkie" and Gladys from the bowling league should be invited, but if you want to give the Halloween party to end all Halloween parties you'll have to invite Boris Karloff, Lon Chaney, Frankenstein and Dracula. Peter Lorre is another must. And how about Dr. lekyll? Just be careful about who's spiking the punch?

There are others, of course. What Halloween party would be complete without the Headless Horseman from Sleepy Hollow or the Phantom from the Opera? You could even invite Ichabod Crane, although he tends to be something of a wet blanket at parties. What's missing at this point is some notable ladies. You wouldn't want all those men to be without dancing partners

Anybody can throw a sheet over his head and call himself a ghost. Of course. iome people go a little just the right costume for that special occasion. Consider Marie Antoinette, queen of France. One dress she wore to a ball in 1787 was made of more than 15 yards of brocaded satin (not counting voluminous underskirts totalling nearly 10 yards of fabric) supported by stays of wood, metal, wire and bone. It was decorated with ruffles, lace, tassels, fringe, plumes, ropes of beads, artificial flowers, and many yards of ribbon. She also wore large iewels at throat, wrists and ears.

Crowning her simple outfit was a hairdo that towered more than three feet above her head and contained a number of small wooden boats in a tableau recreating a famous French naval battle. To make the tower of hair stay in place, royal hairdressers used wooden sticks and wool bats and mixed flour and water into the hair to stiffen it, much like papier mache. The hairdo also was decorated with plumes and jewels.

If that was all for a plain old party, imagine what she would do for Halloween.

So you went to a Halloween Party instead of staying home to pass out treats, and the neighborhood goblins wreaked lavoc on your property. The car windows are covered in soap and wax. Your front porch looks like a half-made omlette and someone's crayon artistry adorns the aluminum siding. That'll teach you to realign your priorities for next year.

The day-after clean up won't be pleasant, but it will be a little easier if you follow these hints. Soap scrawls can be washed off windows by using warm water. If they're waxed, break out a new razor blade and get scraping. Wax on a car's body can be removed with warm water or by using a commercial wax and grease remover or polishing compound, according to South Lyon Collision. Be sure to rewax the finish after removing the evidence. If the little vandals have resorted to spray painting the car, you might think of moving out of the neighborhood. Removing spray paint can be tricky because using too much rubbing compound means the car needs refinishing.

Eggs on the porch can be washed off with a mild detergent and water. If the aluminum siding has been egged, clean it up with a mild dish detergent and warm water right away. It's awfully hard to scrape dried eggs off aluminum, according to aluminum siding manufacturers detergent. There are commercial aluminum cleaners on the market, but Clark Brothers warn some may be too abrasive to the finish. Their best advice was to use a little soapy water and lots of elbow grease. And hope the kids don't spray paint the house, too.

Powell left Metro Goldwyn four failed marriages and loss of her public eye, actress Jane Powell has made him out to be." returned to the stage to reveal the woman behind "the girl next door" her career at Metro Goldwyn Mayer marriage didn't last and Powell even- wanted."

Opening Northville Town Hall's 23rd season last Wednesday, Powell spoke candidly about her four marriages, her return to the stage after losing her singing voice and her early life as one of Hollywood's child stars.

In only her third speaking engagement since returning to the lecture circuit, Powell told her story through words and music -- delighting the capacity crowd at Plymouth Hilton Inn with songs from some of MGM's best-

At 54, Powell has spent 40 years entertaining audiences through her films, stage appearances and lectures. Originally from Portland, Oregon, she began her career with MGM at the age of 14, starring in her first movie role with W.C. Fields.

She told her audience that though she was an only child, she acquired many surrogate siblings upon her arrival in Hollywood. "I used to spend Sundays at Roddy McDowell's house," she says of her lifelong friend. She notes her constant companions during her early years in Hollywood were other child stars such as Elizabeth Taylor, Ann Blythe and Ricardo Montalban.

"I never felt that I belonged there (Hollywood)," Powell says of her childhood in Hollywood. "We all felt like outcasts." However she points out that the friendships that developed during those early years have remained constant. "When I was younger, oh, how wanted to be like Elizabeth Taylor," "Elizabeth was bridesmaid at my first wedding." she notes, "and I was a

She says her two daughters never were impacted and are leading successful lives. Powell explains that the one-hour show presented to Town Hall goers originaled a year and a half ago when she decided she wanted to write her own material. "A year ago last March I started keeping a diary," she says. "I kept it for four months.

She notes that much of the material for her show was written from the diary. She also notes that she met a director at about the same time and the two of them started putting a show together. She also found another voice teacher and has regained much of the singing voice which made her an MGM Powell told the Town Hall audience that in addition to her comeback on the lecture circuit, she also is enjoying time spent with friends and family. "I never really had time for relationships before," Powell admits. "I was always working too hard."

Though currently single, Powell says

she has had a relationship with fellow child star Dickie Moore for the past She notes that she met Moore for the first time three years ago through mutual friend Roddy McDowell who had suggested they all get together to help Moore with the book he is writing about former Hollywood child stars. Halloween a safe holiday

Before young witches, ghosts and goblins take to the streets for Halloween trick or treating, parents should consider taking some precautions to help ensure the holiday is a safe one. When planning costumes, light-colored or reflective clothing is best, but reflectorized tape attached costumes and goody bags will also in-crease visibility by motorists. Warriors beat Chiefs in overtime preciated aspects of high school football - made all the difference Friday as Walled Lake Western's football squad evened its record at 3-3 with a 14win over Plymouth Canton.

The win was Western's second over time triumph this year and gives the Warriors a 3-1 record in the Western Division of the Western Lakes Activities Association

"Our scouting teams won that game for us," said Western Coach Chuck Apap. "They prepared us so well at practice that our defense knew every play Canton would run." The Warriors scored their first touchdown in the second quarter of play, but the Chiefs came back with a seven-pointer in the third quarter sending the game into overtime. Western lost the overtime coin-toss and went on defense. On the very first play, Western quarterback Mickey Folsom hit sophomore tight end Quent Scannell for a 10-yard touchdown pass. Scott Wandelowski kicked the extra point and Western was in front 14-7. Novi's first two doubles teams, seeded high in the tournament, faced some tough competition. Dianne Malila and Kelly Case were swept in two sets in the first round by an Allen Park Cabrini twosome and Grosse lie took the Wildcats' second doubles team of Jill Irwin and Linda Chasse in the second round, 1-6, 6-3, 1-6,

In that loopy contest, the wind made even placing a serve on the court a difficult job. "You could hardly get the ball over the net," coach Polinsky

In third doubles, Shelly Bleicher and Colleen Maguire, unseeded, took Chelsea in the first round 3-6, 6-0, 6-1, but then fell to St. Mary's number one-seeded team in the second, 7-6, 1-6, 4-6.

"I think it shocked people that Novi did so well," said Polinsky, whose squad the previous week finished second in both regular season meets and at the Kensington Valley Conference tournament. "But it's really an honor. Both the singles players we upset were excellent players who were supposedly unbeatable.

Reyes Run

Saturday's Run For Reyes, a benefit run for the Reyes Syndrome Foundation, drew 143 finishers for an 8kilometer race through Novi beginning and ending at Middle School North. Fifty more runners entered the milelong fun run. The top male finisher in the fun run was Ypsilanti's Tim Cook, while female honors went to Judy Buresh of Westland, The overall winners in the 8-K run were Loren Bandt, Wixom, of the Novi Trackers running club, in 25:24, men; and Donna Thibart, Windsor, 28:56. women. Area finishers included Novi's Hedy Marque, first in the 50-and-older women category; and Paul Sumner of Novi, first in the ago 13-18 men category. Altogether, the race is expected to net over $200 for the foundation.

Wildcats overcome Hartland's harriers

By B.J. MARTIN

What's a girls' cross-country team to anybody around," Novi coach Norm Norgren this week in spite of his team's 3-3 conference mark.

The problem is, Novi's league rivals also run better than just about anybody

The only three defeats handed the Wildcats this season came from Kensington Valley Conference rivals Milford, Hartland and Brighton. Brighton is rated the state's number one Class A team, Hartland the top Class B team, and Milford recently took first at the All-Oakland County meet.

"That ain't bad competition," coach Ed Gabrys pointed out after the squad posted a 23-34 win over Howell last Thursday, "I think just about any coach would agree this is the best crosscountry league in the state.

"If we're above .500 when the season ends, it'll be a really fine accomplishment. This is by far the most successful girls team we've ever had at Novi."

Against the Highlanders, Novi, swept the first three spots to seal the win, with Jeanette Lemieux taking top honors in 20:24 - a good time at Cass Benton "We're running better than just about course, where Novi runs its home meets. Second was Christine Huotari in 20:41, and Mindy Park.took third in 21:03.

Norgren was particularly pleased with the performance of the rest of the squad, which packed well and finished not far behind the leaders.

Leslie Helling took eighth in 22:46; Heather Littman was ninth with a much-improved personal best of 23:10; Becky Prost took tenth in 23:14; Kelly Devlin 11th in 23:49; Heather Spafford 12th in 24:17; Mollie MacEachern 13th in 24:54, and Lisa Riedel 14th in 26:46.

If the girls can get past South Lyon this week in their final league dual meet, they will ensure a fourth place finish in the league. "That would be tremendous," Norgren said.

The boys' team is in much the same predicament as the girls' in that the KVC is also a cross-country hotbed for the male of the species.

Novi's Craig Duncan was unable to rescue the Wildcat golf team from an eighth-place finish at the eight-team Kensington Valley Conference golf tournament in Ann Arbor last week, but his round of 84 earned Duncan a spot on the all-league golf team.

Duncan's 12-over-par effort was four strokes back of the pace at the tourney, which took place at the University of Michigan golf course Tuesday of last week. Brighton, as expected, swept league honors with a 348 while Novi was all the way back in the pack with a 371.

"Craig did an excellent job for us this year," said Novi golf coach Bob Wolf. "He was really our only player to play year-round, and I think that's the dif-

A senior, Duncan averaged a 40 over nine holes throughout the season to lead the Wildcats. He hopes to play college golf and ultimately become a pro. 'He's the type of kid who's willing to set himself high goals and go after them. He's very capable of attaining the ones he's set," Wolf declared.

Duncan's 80 was good for fourth at the MHSAA Class B Regional tournait - behind Duncan were Greg Prost said.

The week's activity put the wraps on the golf team's 1983 season, and it had not been a very good one - Novi finished 1-6 in conference play and 3-12 overall. But Wolf, in his first year as coach at Novi, is confident he has the personnel to turn the situation around next season.
