Residents to be taxed for drain maintenance

By KATHY JENNINGS

NOVI — A $6,800 bill for cleaning out the Garfield Drain will be added to residents' tax bills instead of being paid with drainage tax dollars, as a result of recent action by the city council.

On a split vote, council members refused to spend revenues from the 1.5 mill drainage program to pay off the debt for drain clean-out incurred in 1981, prior to passage of the drain millage.

As a result, residents on the Garfield Drain will be specially assessed $3.50 per acre for drain maintenance. The total 1983 drainage bill for a resident owning 10 acres valued at $80,000 will be nearly $95 — $35 for the special assessment and $60 for the drain issue approved by voters last fall.

Council members considered whether the city should pay off the debt November 21 and discussed the matter again Monday. The council was asked to accept responsibility for the maintenance of the county drains and at the same time pick up $6,941 in outstanding drainage debt as part of the citywide drainage program.

Some council members viewed the matter as a question of asking residents to pay twice for drainage improvements — through a special assessment and the drainage millage. Others said the drainage millage should not be used to pay off debts incurred before the millage was approved by voters.

Engineering Consultant Cliff Seiber reported that past practice has been for the city-at-large to assume drainage debts. He cited the Randolph Drain as an example of the city paying for maintenance and operation expenses.

Seiber noted that although the majority of the work on the Garfield Drain was done in 1981, the bills did not come due until 1983, after approval of the drain millage.

Members of the citizens drainage committee also turned out Monday to tell the council they objected to residents in the Garfield drainage district being special assessed for the drain clean-out.

Committee Chairperson Joseph Toth argued the millage was sold largely on the grounds there would be no further special assessments for drainage construction or maintenance.

"The group feels the integrity of all who campaigned for this drainage program is at stake; if this trust is not maintained the credibility of future campaigns to pass any millage will be seriously damaged," Toth said.

Mayor Robert Schmid disagreed, saying he did not believe the committee should be embarrassed for the council's action. "The program was that there would be no more special assessments, from the time the millage passed. It didn't say we would go back and pick up bad debts. I want to clarify that. These people have a bill outstanding and that bill should be paid. They are not being double assessed; they didn't pay a bill that was there. You shouldn't feel bad about it."

When the issue was first brought before the council two weeks ago, Council Member Ronald Watson said he did not believe the engineer's explanation addressed the question of whether the city should pay for debts incurred before the drainage program was approved by voters.

"We never decided if we will pick-up indebtedness accrued prior to the philosophical change," Watson said.

But Seiber noted the philosophical change occurred before citizens approved the drainage program and it has previously been the city's policy to assume drain debts rather than special assess for them.

"The drain commission billed the residents for the Garfield Drain in 1981, but at the same time these residents' neighbors on the Randolph Drain weren't assessed a dime," Seiber said. "That cost was spread over the city. It's not an equitable situation with some being assessed and others not."

Council Member Patricia Karevich objected to residents being assessed for the work, saying their situation was no different than residents in subdivisions who never paid association dues for maintaining detention ponds. When the drainage program went into effect, the city became indirectly liable for that debt by taking over maintenance responsibility of the ponds.

"I have a problem with spending tax

Meijer plans move ahead, store seen on Novi's border

NORTHVILLE — Meijer Thrifty Acres developers took a giant step toward constructing a shopping complex on 34 acres of land at Eight Mile and Haggerty Road with the Northville Township Planning Commission's contingent approval of preliminary site plans last week.

The proposed Meijer's Thrifty Acres site is directly south of Novi's Orchard Hill Place Office Park development on the northwest corner of the Eight Mile/Haggerty Road intersection.

Developers still need to obtain from township commissioners final site plan approval, which will likely take place early next year to permit work to begin in spring. At its meeting last Tuesday, however, commissioners made it clear that concerns about sewage disposal, landscaping and traffic flow need to be addressed before final plans are approved.

It is expected the shopping center would set the tone for greatly increased development of neighboring lands for business use over the next decade and beyond (see accompanying story). Preliminary plans for the center include a 185,000 square foot central store, with a parking lot designed to accommodate more than 1,000 cars, plus extensive landscape modification by planting trees and building berms.

Although plans for water supply to the shopping center appeared satisfactory, commissioners were uncertain about the routing of waste material from the site. The preliminary plans called for the center's sewage to be conducted by a 400-foot 10-inch pipe to join existing sewer facilities to the west.

Commission Vice-Chairman Bernard Baldwin said he was unsure such a long and slender conduit for disposal of highly-polluted sewage was a good idea. "One foot of error in something like that and the whole thing could wind up in someone's back yard," he said. But consulting engineer Edward McNeely said the system could handle even peak volume sewage from the shopping complex. The strain of future developments in the area, however, might require further expansion of sewage disposal facilities, he added.

The preliminary plans called for expansion work along Haggerty Road, but little along Eight Mile. Along Haggerty Road, developers drew up plans for a center left-turn lane and a right-turn deceleration lane, to be added to the existing two lanes.

Meijer representatives said those proposed road modifications were drawn up according to specifications developers discussed with county road commission authorities.

But none of the commissioners said those specifications would be satisfactory. Enlarging Haggerty Road to five lanes in that area was more in line with what township planners considered ap-

Infant's death ruled accident

NOVI — The Department of Social Services is investigating the death of an 18-month-old child in a home which has applied for licensing as a day care center.

Nicole E. Hay of Farmington died Thursday, apparently as a result of accidental strangulation. The 18-month-old child apparently choked when she attempted to climb out of a crib and her clothing became caught on a knob on the bed.

According to the Oakland County medical examiner's office, the child's death was "due to asphyxiation caused by hanging of an accidental nature."

Police said their investigation thus far indicates the incident was an accident. The matter remains under investigation.

The incident occurred at 22949 Novi Road, a former residence being used as a day care center. The home was being reviewed for licensure as a child care center, but the department of social services was unaware children already were being cared for in the home, according to Monica Lasage, supervisor of the child care licensing division of the Department of Social Services.

Reportedly six other children were being cared for in the home when the incident occurred. The operation has since been suspended.

"The application has been on file for some time and we were working with the client to bring the home into compliance with child care center standards," Lasage said. "We weren't aware the client had begun to provide child care."

She said the department would "investigate thoroughly" the specifics of the incident to determine whether there were any "poor or neglectful practices." The investigation is expected to be completed by the beginning of next week, according to Lasage. Results of the investigation are likely to have a bearing upon the outcome of the licensing application, she added.

Neither police nor the Department of Social Services would release the name of the operator of the child care center.

A dream come true: Officer Roy to debut as pro-boxer

By KAREN RICE

NOVI — When Ron Roy steps into the ring at Cobo Arena tomorrow (Thursday) night, he'll look across the small square platform at a man who wants to punch him back to Novi, and Ron Roy will be ready. Eager, in fact.

Tomorrow night, he'll live his dream. At age 32, he'll make his professional boxing debut.

"It's a dream come true," says Roy, a Novi police officer and a 192-pound middle heavyweight. "I'm too old to start boxing professionally, but I'm not too old to go four rounds. We've been training hard and I'm ready. I can do it and I'm going to."

He'll go four rounds at 8 p.m. tomorrow against Jeff Curry. The Roy-Curry bout will be part of 42 rounds of professional boxing at Cobo, the feature fight of which is between Darnell Knox, "The Highland Park Hammer," and Wayne "Troubleman" Powell. Roy has been tagged "The Novi Cop," a label that bothers him slightly.

"They don't say 'Jeff Curry, who works at McDonalds or whatever, so why say I'm a cop?'" he asks. "What's the difference what I do for a living?"

It won't make a difference once Roy climbs into the ring. Then, only the years of yearning to be a boxer and the long hours of preparation will count. Then, he says, he'll be "sharp as a razor."

"I've always want to be a boxer," says Roy. "It's always been in my blood — I've always loved it."

He got his first taste of boxing in the Army, and Roy says that in retrospect he often wishes he had pursued a boxing career when he was discharged. But boxing "wasn't big in Detroit" at the time, so he became a police officer.

Four years ago he put on his gloves again and entered a Toughman contest for amateur boxers.

"The good boxers always won the Toughman fights," Roy says. "I got in good shape and went in like a tiger, but the guy who beat me came in second overall. He was a good boxer."

The fight fueled Roy's desire to box and led to his biggest break — finding his trainer, John Doyle of Lyon Township. Doyle, a pro boxer in the 1930s, heard about Roy through the Toughman fights and the two began preparing for a fight.

Several times, Roy faced setbacks as he underwent operations to correct inflamed joints which developed from too much weight-lifting. But he kept at it, waiting and working for a fight.

"He always wanted to be a fighter," Doyle says. "I told him if we got him in the right shape, I'd get him a fight. Well, he's going to get his fight. I just wish I'd found him 10 years ago — you'd be looking at a champion fighter. I've trained a lot of fighters in my time and he's as good as the rest of them."

In fact, Doyle says, "I've never seen a man as dedicated as that man is. And I've never seen a man who wanted to fight professionally as bad as Ron does."

To reach his goal, Roy has been sandwiching three to four hours of training around his eight-hour afternoon patrol. In the morning, he spars 10 or 12 rounds with a partner from the New Hudson Boxing Club, which meets at the Michigan Karate Association building on Grand River.

He jumps rope, shadow boxes and runs two or three miles before going to work. After he gets off duty, he completes his exercise program.

Novi chamber endorses Town Center Area plans

NOVI — Members of a Chamber of Commerce subcommittee studying the Town Center Area agree "in principle" to adoption of a temporary ordinance regulating the area and agreeing other business owners will support the measure.

In a recent letter to the planning board, the Chamber of Commerce's Town Center Committee said it supports the concept of regulating the commercial area around the Grand River/Novi Road intersection, as well as the economic feasibility and land use studies stated to follow adoption of the ordinance.

Members of the committee stated: "Our major concern is that during the last eight to 10 years, when things have been happening elsewhere, nothing of major significance has happened in the Grand River/Novi Road quadrants. By resolving the major differences, during these negotiations, and agreeing in principle to the temporary ordinance plus the plan of economic feasibility and land use study we feel that strong development progress will be the result."

The group went on to say it hopes planners and the business community agree upon the ordinance and the follow-up studies.

"It is also our hope that property owners and the planning board both will accept this position and become partners in the positive movement ahead. People working with people and acknowledging each other's concerns will bring progress."

The committee stated further that once studies have been completed and plans developed there will be a more clearly defined direction for the development of the area.

"We appreciate the fact that the planning board is willing to do studies of the area and will come back with a suitable plan that will benefit the community as a whole. Builders and/or entrepreneurial developers will know how the city stands regarding this area. Development will help everyone involved."

The committee also praised the process of meeting with members of the planning board subcommittee.

"The Chamber of Commerce Town Center Committee appreciated the opportunity to work with the planning board's subcommittee the last few months. The discussions were held at times, but sincere. Efforts were made to negotiate a solution to the stalemate in the planning process. We believe that this is an excellent example of what can happen when people work together."

The liaison group has been meeting with members of the planning board's subcommittee for nearly two months. The meetings were scheduled to address the business community's concern that it had been shut out of the planning process by improving communications between planners and business owners.

The committee's letter comes in advance of a public hearing on the temporary ordinance scheduled today (Wednesday) at 8 p.m. at the Novi Middle School South Cafeteria.

Adoption of a Town Center ordinance is the first phase of the development of the Town Center. The ordinance is designed to protect the area from strip development and control the proliferation of businesses which may be considered "out of character" with the ultimate plans for the area.

The ordinance includes a clause which will allow existing businesses to remain in operation while plans for the Town Center move forward. Under terms of the proposed ordinance, any business considered a "lawful" commercial or industrial use at the time the ordinance is enacted can be continued and expanded.

An economic analysis and a physical design plan are to be undertaken at a later date to determine the proper type of development to be encouraged in the Town Center.

Jaycees seek help for Christmas drive

NOVI — The Jaycees are hoping to brighten Christmas for 70-75 local families, but they need the help of area residents and merchants to do it.

"We need to stress the importance of people helping in any way they can," said Jaycee John Welsh. "Any contributions they can afford is welcomed."

The Jaycees are putting together food baskets, distributing clothing and donating Christmas trees to needy families. And if any donations of appliances are received, they too will be distributed as needed.

"We're trying to help as many families in Novi as possible," Welsh said.

The Jaycees hope to assist approximately 25-30 more families than they did last Christmas.

"It may be difficult for people to realize there are people out there who are really in a bind and can use the help. They need assistance, whether they express it themselves or someone else refers them to us. We hope people keep an open mind about the need out there."

Welsh is a newcomer to the Novi Jaycees, but that didn't discourage him from becoming active in the Christmas project.

With a big job ahead of them, the Jaycees started preparing for their Christmas project November 7. Their goal is to deliver Christmas food and other items to local families by December 17. A committee of seven men and several Jaycees directed by Joseph Wolynski and Welsh are helping to gather the items and wrap presents.

Donations already are coming in. Area merchants have given the Jaycees permission to put canisters for donations in stores, and there will be a canned food drive at all Novi Schools.

Those wishing to make donations or to refer a family needing assistance at Christmas should call the Jaycees at 348-NOVI or Welsh at 685-7991.

Christmas for everybody

That's the theme adopted by the Novi Jaycees and Jaycee Auxiliary as they collect food, clothing and toys to distribute to needy families in time for Christmas. Sorting through some of the clothing donations here are (right to left) Jayceettes Sue Riley, Laura LaPointe and Lori Simler. Anyone wishing to donate to the drive may call 348-NOVI. Police reject pact, head to arbitration

NOVI — Members of the Novi Police Officers Association (NPOA) have officially rejected the city's last contract offer, sending the talks into arbitration.

The police officers have been working under an extended contract since June 30. The talks went to mediation November 9, but no changes in either side's position came from that session and the union subsequently conducted a vote on the city's last contract offer.

"The members of the Novi Police Officers Association have overwhelmingly voted to reject the city's last contract offer and thus proceed to arbitration," NPOA president Robert Gatt reported.

"However, the union views arbitration as a last resort and would welcome any ideas which could be implemented to reach an agreement before the arbitration date." "The union obviously is disappointed in the lack of progress made in the last several months of meeting with city officials, but we have not given up the idea of reaching a negotiated settlement," Gatt said.

The 22-member association voted over several days last week to reject the city's offer, Gatt said.

In a letter informing the city of the vote, the union stated: "We're willing to meet and discuss any new proposals. If you wish to alter your stand we would like to sit down and discuss it."

The city's chief negotiator, Assistant City Manager Craig Klaver, said the city also is willing to meet to discuss unresolved contract issues.

"The city is disappointed in having failed to reach a successful conclusion of our negotiations, however, we feel that the importance of the issues involved requires us to maintain our basic position," Klaver said. "We are, nevertheless, fully prepared to meet with the union at any point to attempt to resolve these outstanding issues."

Holiday tunes

Walled Lake's annual tree lighting ceremony was a glittery event last week with caroling, the sparkle of tree lights and a spattering of snowflakes on Santa's arrival. The Central High School instrumental ensemble accompanied the caroling, while Mayor

Gaspare LaMarca was assigned to the lights. The ceremony was sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Commission. (News photo by John Galloway)

Duff, board agree on arbitration

WALLED LAKE — The school board was expected this week to cancel the public tenure hearing scheduled tomorrow (Thursday, December 8) for former Community Education Director Robert Duff.

Duff, who was fired from his administrator's post November 1, has requested the charges against him be resolved through arbitration rather than a tenure hearing. Duff's attorney, Harvey Wax, said arbitration is a quicker, less expensive method of settling the dispute.

An agreement outlining the conditions under which the matter will be submitted to the arbitrator was to have been completed by Wax and school board attorney Dennis Pollard early this week. "We have an agreement in concept," Pollard said.

William Hampton, an attorney and former Oakland County Circuit Court judge, has been selected and agreed upon by both sides as the arbitrator, both attorneys confirmed.

Duff was suspended with pay October 25, on charges related to the development of a computer program for the community education department last year by Regional Coordinator Gerald Beers. Beers was fired in May for allegedly using school district time to conduct a business of marketing the computer program to other school districts.

Superintendent Don Sheldon charged Duff with acting "directly contrary to the proprietary interests of the school district" by failing to notify his superiors that Beers had decided to market the computer programs in March, 1982. Sheldon accused Duff of personally benefiting from the marketing and sale of the computer program by receiving a "commission."

The December 8 hearing was to be both a post-termination hearing on the propriety of Duff's termination and a pre-termination hearing on his position as a teacher. Both matters will be considered in the arbitration hearing, Pollard said.

"If the board decided at a tenure hearing to fire Duff as a teacher, he could appeal the decision to the state tenure commission. This process, however, could take years before a resolution is reached, Wax noted.

A decision on the matter by the arbitrator should come within 30 days of the hearing, Wax said. A hearing date has not yet been set for the arbitration, he added.

The decision of the arbitrator will be binding, Wax explained. By submitting the matter to arbitration, both sides give up the right to file a lawsuit pertaining to any issues considered by the arbitrator.

On Thursday, December 1, the board passed a resolution 9-2 agreeing to submit the matter to arbitration. Board members Patricia Jackman and Kenneth Tucker voted against the arbitration.

"We were satisfied by the action the board had taken earlier (establishing the December 8 hearing)," Jackman explained.

Food baskets planned

WALLED LAKE — Local Jaycees continued seeking assistance this week for the preparation of food baskets for the needy.

The group is organizing its second annual food basket program. They are seeking donations from residents, service groups, churches and merchants in Walled Lake, as well as individuals who can devote time and energy to the planning and distribution process. They expect to prepare baskets for about 30 families.

Anyone in Walled Lake who needs a food basket or knows someone who does is encouraged to contact the Jaycees, according to Project Coordinator Terry Heller. Interested persons should call Heller at 668-2675 or Bruce Seglund at 668-1324.

The baskets will be assembled December 21-22 and delivered December 23, Heller said. People living north of Fourteen Mile, east of Benstein, west of Haggerty and south of Oakley Park Road are eligible for the Walled Lake program. Those living outside this area will be referred to the Jaycee organization servicing their area.

Each family applying for a basket will receive a personal visit from one of the local Jaycees, Heller said. "When we visit the house we determine exactly what the need is in that home," he explained.

Four Walled Lake businesses — the Big Boy Restaurant, Penny Lake Market, Lakeside Market and Bill's Market — already are participating in the program, Heller said. Throughout the upcoming weeks, the group will contact other businesses seeking assistance through cash or material donations.

Some businesses will have food boxes for patrons to help contribute. Others will have Christmas trees decorated with gift tags, each with a child's name and gift request on it. Patrons may take a tag off the tree, buy the gift requested, then return it to the store where the Jaycees will collect the gifts and distribute them to the children.

Heller noted that all service organizations in the area have been contacted in an effort to avoid duplicating services. "That's a big step forward," Heller said of the project.

Suspect released

interested in the outcome of Forbes' arraignment.
When Forbes had not appeared by 2:30 p.m. November 30, parents pressured the court to issue the arrest warrant. Forbes was arrested Thursday morning, December 1.
At his arraignment before Judge Michael Batchik that same day, Forbes said he did not receive the come in warrant until Wednesday afternoon, and therefore, could not appear Wednesday morning as requested. Forbes' attorney, Calvin Hall of Pontiac, said Forbes notified him immediately after receiving the come in warrant.
Forbes stood mute to the charge against him. Batchik set bail at $100 personal bond and Forbes was free to leave until his December 20 pre-trial hearing.
Parents attending the hearing were infuriated by the lenient terms of Forbes' bail. A handful of parents protested outside the court Thursday and Friday, charging the judges with failing to protect their children.
But Batchik said a higher bond was unnecessary because Forbes had a good record of appearing on time for his court hearings. "The purpose of bond is to assure that the defendant appears for trial," the judge stated.
Nevertheless, Lingenfelter said he is working with the prosecutor's office to stiffen the bond conditions, hopefully to prevent Forbes from any contact with minor children and prevent him from frequenting or being in the area of any elementary schools.
In 1982, Forbes was arrested for the statutory rape of a nine-year-old girl, Lingenfelter reported. The charge was reduced to one of "indecent liberties," to which Forbes pleaded guilty, the officer said.

Scuffle with IRS ends in arrest

WALLED LAKE — A 24-year-old East Walled Lake Drive resident was arrested last week after he allegedly assaulted an Internal Revenue Service (IRS) special agent.

The resident originally reported himself the victim in the Thursday, December 1, incident. Police said the man called the department to report that two men he believed to be impersonating police officers had come to his apartment. They identified themselves as IRS agents and asked to speak to him about a past interview, the resident said.

After being interviewed for about 30 minutes, the resident said he became upset at the questions and the rude way they were being asked. He reportedly then asked the agents to leave his apartment.

After leaving, the two men appeared unable to get into their car and told the resident they thought they might have dropped their keys in his apartment, according to reports. The resident said he became suspicious at this point and returned to his apartment to call police. While he called police, the two men walked away, leaving behind their car. In his telephone report, the resident allegedly told police he had the keys to the agents' car.

Shortly after the resident called police to report his two suspicious visitors, the station received another call — this one from the two agents, who had a different story to tell.

Sergeant Mickey Knapp talked to the two men at a home on Leon Street where they had placed the call to the police station. Knapp reported the men were, indeed, registered special agents with the IRS.

The two agents described their interview with the Walled Lake Drive resident as "low-keyed." But the man suddenly became angry, they reported, and when they tried to leave, he allegedly pushed one of the two agents. The men said they both dropped their coats at that point, thinking they would have to physically defend themselves.

After leaving the apartment, the agents discovered their car keys missing. When the angry resident went back into his apartment to call police, the two agents said they walked to a nearby house, also to call police.

An officer later questioned the resident at his apartment about the keys to the agents' car. When the officer went inside to look for the keys, the man reportedly "became very mad" and ordered the officer out of the apartment.

After contacting the station, the officer was told the resident apparently already had the keys to the agents' car. The officer attempted to detain the man, but he had left his apartment and sped away in his car southbound on East Walled Lake Drive. When he finally stopped, the resident reportedly got out of his car, yelling at the officer that he didn't have the keys to the other car.

The man, who was described by police as being uncooperative and verbally abusive, was arrested after interfering with an arrest. At city hall, officers struggled to get the suspect into the station. Once jailed, he reportedly slammed himself against the bars for several minutes and threatened to set the station on fire.

One of the IRS agents told police he wished to press charges against the resident for assault. The resident was charged with both interfering with an arrest and assault and battery. He was later released without bond and scheduled to appear in court December 14.

The keys to the agents' car reportedly were never found.

'Tax freeze' plan worries board

NOVI — School officials are keeping a close eye on the possibility the city may utilize the Tax Increment Finance Authority Act (TIFA) as a means of funding proposed improvements in the Town Center Area.

Superintendent Robert Piwko informed the board last week that TIFA poses a potential threat to school district revenues and will be watched closely.

"We're not opposed to economic development or new development," said the superintendent, "but this legislation could have an effect on the school district. There are a lot of ramifications that will have to be watched closely."

The Tax Increment Finance Authority Act was approved by the state legislature in 1981 in an effort to stimulate economic development.

In essence, TIFA was enacted to provide a means for municipalities to fund capital improvement projects without levying special assessments or ad valorem taxes.

Under TIFA, the State Equalized Valuation (SEV) in a specified project area is "frozen" at existing levels. The municipality then can initiate bonding for capital improvement projects, "capturing" revenues from any increases in valuation to retire the bonds. All taxing units — city, school, library, community college, county, etc. — would continue to derive revenues according to the "frozen" levels but would not reap any additional revenues from increases in the SEV until the bonds have been retired.

Although no decisions have yet been reached, tax increment financing is one of the methods being considered by the city as a means of paying off capital improvements in the Town Center Area. If, for example, the city proceeds with plans to construct a ring road around the Town Center Area, it may utilize TIFA to pay for the construction.

Joseph Brett, a member of the Novi Planning Board who attended the December 1 school board meeting to discuss Town Center plans, emphasized that the city has made no decisions on whether the ring road will be built or how it would be paid for.

Brett added, however, that "nothing has happened in the Town Center Area for the last 10 years. It has just continued to deteriorate and depreciate," he said. "The feeling is that we have to do something."

Board President Joan Daley and Trustee Robert Schramm suggested that use of TIFA could be a burden on school district taxpayers.

Trustee Ron Milam said he thought re-development of the Town Center Area could be a positive step that would make the city more attractive to new residents. "I think we have to make improvements to the town center. But if it generates 400 additional students for the school district, I'll be concerned (about obtaining the revenues to provide for their education)," he said.

A more receptive note was sounded by Trustee Gilbert Henderson, who noted that use of TIFA affects all taxing units proportionately. "The city would be losing any added revenues generated by new development, too," observed Henderson.

City protests strict permit

WIXOM — City officials are protesting interim wastewater discharge regulations to its Charms Road treatment plant that could cost $60,000 to $100,000.

"We are writing the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to protest the interim regulations," said Mayor Assistant Stephen Bonczak. "We might be able to use the interim improvements only for a couple years."

"The city is proposing alternatives for improving its existing wastewater treatment plant rather than participating in Detroit's Rouge Valley system. Wixom was among the northern tier of communities shifted from Super Sewer to Detroit's system."

Improvements recommended for the treatment facility in the city study would meet the future Cities National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) permit requirements.

The federal clean water act was amended in 1981 to allow communities such as Wixom until July 1, 1983, to provide secondary or more stringent levels of treatment to meet state water quality effluent limitations.

Letters from downstream communities, the Aracawick Water Quality Board and the Huron River Watershed Council were submitted to the DNR seeking immediate enforcement of phosphorus loading limitations.

The three main sources for the phosphorus are the Wixom Ford Plant and Milford Village. Only the Ford plant currently meets the 900 pounds per year limitation.

The primary concern about delaying enforcement is the quality of water downstream, particularly at Kent Lake. The letters from the regional bodies also cite requirements placed on Brighton to reduce its phosphorus discharge 50 percent within one year.

Commerce eyes foster care proposal

COMMERCE — A public meeting on the township-sponsored foster care proposal is expected to be set for mid-January, according to Treasurer Patrick Dohany.

Articles of incorporation currently are being prepared for the non-profit corporation, established by the township to operate group homes.

The concept for locally-operated foster care homes was developed by an ad hoc committee chaired by Dohany. The committee was established in an effort to obtain more local input on opening foster care homes, their operation and the persons placed in the facility.

The Commerce plan was approved by state Department of Mental Health (DMH) officials after several meetings. The DMH is in the process of placing the foster care homes under the community mental health boards. Oakland County's Community Mental Health Board has budgeted the homes proposed by the township.

"We would like to open two homes with six residents each," commented Dohany. "We project opening the homes in spring, 1984. We had hoped to open a home by January 1."

Residents of the homes will be mentally retarded individuals. Under the proposal, residents would be from the Commerce area.

The ad hoc committee was formed in 1982 after a controversy surrounding the opening of a group home on Alsup Street. No specific date has been set for the public hearing.

Novi reports plans

NOVI — The temperature is well below freezing and it's been snowing all night. Do you send your children to school?

The Novi Consolidated Schools have announced the procedure for getting your question answered.

Assistant Superintendent William Barr reported that announcements of school closings during severe weather conditions will be announced by 6 a.m.

over the following radio stations — WJL, WJR, WXYZ and CKLW. Parents are asked to tune into one of these stations before calling the schools for more information. If everyone attempts to call the schools, the switchboard becomes flooded, prohibiting district officials from dealing with emergency situations.

If it is necessary to call the schools, the phone number is 348-1200.

'Big bucks not needed for taste'

Sometimes we misinterpret things. Gradually, we've come to associate good architecture with big bucks and the corporate presence.

Not true. Companies with less than multi-national stature, small cities and small-business owners can be blessed with good taste and skill as well.

NEIGHBORLY: For the past few years, Novi has been building new fire stations throughout the city.

Fight against foster home ends

NOVI - The city has decided to authorize no further legal action against the licensing of a foster care home at 4186 Llewellyn.

Thieves busy Thanksgiving day

In Novi

A security guard at the construction site for the Bushnell Congregational Church may have had Thanksgiving off, but thieves were still working.

Approximately $3,000 worth of construction materials and tools were stolen Thanksgiving Day from the building site on Meadowbrook Road.

A $300 coat was reported stolen from a waiting room at Woodland Medical Center. A patient said she left the coat on a rack in the waiting room and found it missing after her appointment.

A cable television installer reported the theft of a converter box from his pickup truck while it was parked in the 2000 block of Cascade.

A Walled Lake woman reported the theft of two car seats valued at $155 from her car while it was parked near Krogers' at West Oaks.

A South Lyon man reported the theft of a 1979 Chrysler valued at $14,750 from the Blue Lot while he was in the mall from 7:45 to 8:15 p.m.

Scholarship committee seeking new members

WALLED LAKE - The Central Scholarship Fund is seeking additional memberships to endow a new scholarship for Walled Lake Central and Western students.

The scholarship has tentatively been named the CSF Corporate Members' Grant. Diane Stafford, president of CSF, said the scholarship will be given to students at both Western and Central high schools.

The size of each scholarship grant administered by the CSF depends on the interest earned on invested endowments," Stafford said.

The membership fee for Central Scholarship Funds, Inc., is $5. The organization this month received its license to solicit charitable contributions from the Michigan Attorney General's office.

A ruling from the United States Internal Revenue Service for tax exemption status has yet to be granted, however.

Corporate membership to CSF is open to anyone with an interest in helping high school graduates pay for their college educations.

Information and membership applications are available from Stafford, CSF Chairman Seth Lamph, either high school principal or other corporate members.

As We See It

Lack of foresight threatens airport

Opposition appears to be mounting to plans for expanding the Vernon M. Spencer Memorial Airport in Wixom to a general aviation facility, capable of handling small jet aircraft and transport planes.

Lyon Township officials this week turned thumbs down on a proposal set forth by Wixom for resolving concerns about annexation. In addition, officials in Milford Township have cast aspersions on the quality of an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) prepared by the Michigan Aeronautics Commission (MAC) for the Wixom Airport Board.

In as much something of a consensus among adjoining townships is important for moving forward with the project, it would appear that the airport proposal is on uncertain grounds at the current time.

Although adjoining townships certainly have an obligation to express their viewpoints on the airport proposal, the uninformed, shallow nature of the opposition is most disturbing.

In this light, it may be valuable to go back and review the circumstances which led to development of the airport proposal in the first place.

When first set forth, the Wixom airport expansion program represented one of the first steps in a statewide program to rejuvenate and diversify the Michigan economy.

The MAC's Community Business Airport Program was promulgated, you may recall, when the state was experiencing dire financial difficulties. The program was designed as a means to stimulate economic development, bolster tax base and provide jobs for the thousands of Michigan residents who were out of work.

The Community Business Airport Program called for development of 71 airports throughout the state to business-jet standards within the next five years. Cost of the statewide program was pegged at $260 million.

In announcing the program, MAC Director Robert Thomas said the commission reasoned that the portion of industry most capable and likely to expand, locate new plants and contribute to diversification would be the nation's top companies. He also noted that Fortune 500 companies own 15 percent of the total civil air fleet.

Creation of the airports, reasoned Thomas, would put Michigan in the forefront of all the states by providing the competitive edge of aircraft and be available in such quantity that Fortune 500 companies would be impressed by the level of commitment to create new business.

In emphasizing the importance of the Community Business Airport Program, Thomas reported that Ohio had embarked on a similar program in the mid-1960s with significant economic results. The significant economic results, the significant airports in Ohio, he reported, attracted over 60,000 new jobs and approximately 1,500 new or expanded manufacturing firms.

The Wixom airport expansion program was one of the cornerstones in development of the Community Business Airport Program. Novi recognizes the strategic advantages it receives because of its location to freeways (I-96 and I-275). Wixom is not that far removed from Novi and enjoys the same advantages. Obviously, the potential for significant development in Wixom is considerable. It was Wixom's ready access to freeways and other amenities deemed desirable for high-technology development that led the MAC to place Spencer Airport high on its priority list. One of the ironies of the adjoining townships' current opposition to airport plans is that their fears of annexation—that Wixom will gobble up all the development that occurs as a result of expansion—is tacit admission of the value of the proposal in the first place.

Although townships most certainly must be concerned with protecting their boundaries, their strong opposition to the airport expansion program is "isolationism" at its worst. Basically, the argument appears to be that "if we can't benefit from development created by an expanded airport, then nobody can."

At the very least, the isolationist approach denies township residents the opportunity to obtain employment that would be created in a neighboring community. Moreover, Wixom officials now appear willing to make certain guarantees regarding annexation that will assure the townships "their share of the pie."

At this point, it would appear that officials in Lyon and Milford townships have forgotten the difficult economic times experienced by residents in this state during the early 1980s.

Although we have dealt exclusively with economic concerns thus far, consideration of the airport proposal also involves certain environmental and quality-of-life factors. The most prominent of these is the potential for noise created by aircraft. We would question, however, whether Lyon and Milford officials have studied the flight path proposals outlined in the environmental impact statement. If they had, they would realize the impact on their respective communities is minimal.

It is interesting that the only adjoining community to endorse the plan thus far is Novi. Officials in that city have the experience to know that development is inevitable, diversified tax base is critical and any negative impacts associated with the airport on their community would be minimal.

Wixom residents seem most justified in questioning the environmental factors. Thus far, however, the most responsible position on the airport program has come from Wixom Council Member William Wyllie. He has said he sees the advantages to airport expansion, but will reserve judgment until all the information is in on a number of factors, including noise and cost. It is a most reasonable position at the present time.

Tim Richard, an editorial writer with the Observer & Eccentric Newspapers, made an interesting point recently. He was discussing the fact that federal taxes paid by residents in the Midwest are channeled into projects in other states.

Taxpayers in industrial states like Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin receive only 69 to 80 cents of federal aid for every $1 in taxes they send to Washington, he noted.

But even though such statistics infuriate Michigan residents, Michigan residents seem particularly prone to opposing—sometimes violently—any proposals that would put federal dollars to work in Michigan, i.e. Super Sewer, M-275, the Wixom airport expansion (90 percent federally funded).

Frequently, he suggests, Michigan residents are their own worse enemies. The Wixom airport project appears to be a case in point.

Perspectives

By PATRICIA N. BOWLING

I drove home from the office Sunday evening feeling depressed and defeated. Another evening wasted by staring at a computer screen, waiting for a great column to materialize.

Northville Record writer Bruce Martin also was column writing Sunday evening. He didn't make matters any easier. "I've got three column ideas," he said. "I can't decide which one to write." Within five minutes Bruce was tapping away at his terminal while I stared at mine.

"You'll love writing columns," the boss told me when I was hired. "It's the best part of the job!" he added with enthusiasm. I've never been able to share his enthusiasm.

For me, writing columns is like giving birth every three weeks. I spend two or three hours in painful labor—just ask my colleagues. They have to listen to me moan every time I make another attempt. I've even been known to let out an exasperated scream.

I'm just at a loss as to how to fill this space. I'm not particularly clever, so a humorous column has been out of the question from the start. I could reflect on broad issues or national news, but it is preferred that these columns more directly relate to our readers.

That leaves me with writing about myself—something with which I've never been comfortable. I was the child who would never turn in an essay to the teacher face up—I was afraid someone would have a chance to read the first few lines before the pile of papers made its way down the row to the teacher.

I was the child who once kept a diary for six months, but felt so uncomfortable with its contents, I tore out all the pages, cut them into small pieces and buried them in the bottom of the waste can. And now

I'm supposed to write about myself?

Reporting is so much easier. I prefer writing about what other people think and do, rather than what I think and do. A friend recently told me he thought I'd revealed very little about myself in the nine months we've known each other. I blushed at the observation. It certainly wasn't an intentional effort on my part. After reflection, though, I found his observation interesting—in light of my column-writing phobia.

Columns naturally reveal something about the writer. That makes me terribly self-conscious. I blushed miserably the first time someone outside the office told me they had read my column. They might just as well have opened the bathroom door on me accidentally.

Kathy Jennings tells me I'm just not in the proper frame of mind for column writing. There's a whole "column writing frequency," she explained recently. Once you're in it, the columns practically write themselves. I can't imagine it.

I've never had a column "write itself." I typically take off on an idea, write all I can, hit the little "copy measure" button on my computer, and discover I've written eight of the necessary 14-15 inches needed to fill this space. Then I go back over the eight inches, trying desperately to "flesh it out."

After my last column writing effort, I went home to bed and proceeded to have an unsettling dream. I was in a college class, getting ready to turn in a term paper to the professor. But as I glanced around me, I discovered the other students' papers were over 100 pages long, while mine was only 20 pages. I ran back to my dorm room to try to add another 100 pages to my term paper.

It's a nightmare, this column-writing.

School sale key to Town Center development

To the Editor: Now that the "tumult and the shouting (have died)" and our inspired mayor and councilmen have been installed in their respective chairs, perhaps a few comments on what we foresee as one of their top priorities would be at least an interesting. We refer to the "ring road."

In the past 25 years we have made three workable proposals that would at least start the cleanup of that area. All were turned down by Novi. We are about to make another.

Now, across from one of the largest shopping centers in the state, we have a half dozen old buildings and an abandoned school. This illustrates what can happen to planning, zoning and ordinances if there is no vision, cooperation or common sense. And it is right up front for everyone to see on one of the most visible locations in the city.

It seems obvious that the vacant property east and north of the old school will not remain vacant forever. There will have to be a road into it sometime and whether we call in a "ring road,"

"access road" or whatever doesn't make any difference. The most important thing is to plan it so it does the most good for the community as the planning board is trying to do now.

The kind of business zoning is another matter. This will be determined by the public. The planning board can suggest but if people won't accept it, it won't fly. We doubt if customers will get very far from their cars.

Obviously, the key to the whole project is the school property. If the "ring road" is built as planned, who is going to build it? The city says, "The developer." Consider the dilemma of the developer. His first question will be, "Will there be a ring road?" Who knows, so far it's been all talk. If he does build it, it goes through the middle of the south wing of the school, divides the property in half, takes 1.8 acres of land and wrecks one-fourth of the building.

In order to combine with the rest of the Novi Road frontage, we must deal with the school board, City of Novi, the State Highway Department, Ed Andries and Russ Button plus the possibility that the state may condemn half the frontage when the school and city property becomes private.

With all the other opportunities available in Novi, not to mention Texas and Florida, it will take a strong man who is perhaps a little crazy to get into that kind of a deal.

Some five years ago, (Former School Superintendent) Jerry Kratz told us that the school property had been sold for $1.3 million. When we asked him what happened, he said "some of the board thought we should have more money." Nothing has been done since. Perhaps they can't find a "crazy" developer.

If it was a good offer and they turned it down for more money, consider this: The interest on $1.3 million at 15 percent compounded annually for five years is $1,314,784.30. Not only that, the taxes on $1.3 million, when it is returned to the tax rolls, is $79,106.25 for five years.

Not only that, if someone pays $1.3 million for the land they are going to spend another $1.3 million to develop it. So the real value of the offer as of today is about $2,772,926.71 plus all the fringe development it would inspire.

That will be hard to beat. So what do we do? We suggest that the city buy the school property as they have done around Walled Lake. After all, this would be taking money out of one pocket and putting it in another—the same people would still own it.

Perhaps if the school board gets a good price, they will lower our school taxes. The city can then build the road they want it. They will be a better position to deal with the remaining property and owners. They would be in control of the initial development of the property which will set a precedent for what follows.

Once there is a firm commitment and visible signs of progress, it will be much easier to interest developers. Unless some positive action is taken, it will be another 25 years before anything is done.

CWU offers aid

To the Editor: As Christmas time approaches, the physical needs of the community seem more pronounced. Church Women United of Northville and Novi feel privileged to be able to support three charitable organizations. Thanks to Lynn Paquette and those who helped her conduct a successful September garage sale, the CWU had an excess of $150. Since the community helped make the sale a success, it was decided unanimously to return the money to the community. Donations of $50 each were given to Northville/Novi FISH, Northville Civic Concern and Novi Emergency Food Program.

Church Women United is a national movement through which Orthodox, Protestant and Catholic women express the ecumenical dimensions of their faith. Our chapter includes seven local churches. Yearly CWU sponsors three ecumenical services for the community. The next service is World Day of Prayer scheduled for March 2 at the Novi Methodist Church. These services are interesting, inspiring and short. They provide an opportunity for all of us, through many, to gather together to praise our true God. Join us. Sharon Buell propriate. Commissioner Marvin Gans said, "Even though it may come to the Wayne County Road Commission, we must have some control, too. We're responsible for the welfare and safety of our residents."

Meijer representatives likely will try to find a way to avoid paying the entire tab for widening Haggerty, since the road would probably be expanded in the near future anyway. But Gans told Meijer representatives, "If you're ahead of their schedule, we'll expect you to do a fair share."

Regarding the plan's landscaping and construction appearance, Baldwin noted that because of the property's topographically low setting in relation to neighboring lands, it would be "visible for nearly a mile" from the north along I-275 and Haggerty Road. That and the fact that neighboring industrial developments to the north have been attractively designed, commissioners agreed to stipulate that the Meijer's development be as "aesthetically pleasing" as possible.

Commissioners made it clear that a complex similar to those Meijer stores located in nearby communities would be unsatisfactory when the time came for final approval.

"We want more than just trees and screening for the behind area," Gans said. Referring to other satisfactory township developments such as the Swan Harbour subdivision's landscaping, he told Meijer representatives, "Put that kind of quality in there and we'd have something your company would be proud of, as well as our community...it behooves you to do that."

Developers plan to put more than 200 trees on the Meijer property—nearly double what township zoning ordinances require. But the placement of those trees, to permit optimum shading of the complex along Eight Mile and Haggerty roads, was a prime concern of commissioners. Preliminary plans called for trees around the periphery of the property to be planted 15 feet apart at the center for each tree, but Township Planning Consultant Emanuel De Bruiet said some communities have insisted on 10-foot placement. Although the exact density of plantings was left unspecified, Meijer representatives appeared to be willing to whatever was possible.

John Stephenson, vice president of real estate for Meijer, Inc., said the company planned to ask the Wayne County Road Commission for approval to plant trees on county-owned property along Haggerty Road.

According to preliminary site plans, clusters of trees would be placed at various places within the parking lot "break up" the appearance of a flat, blank concrete lot. The plantings are expected to "soften" the appearance of the store and parking lot from points north, as well as from Haggerty Road to the east.

Architectural drawings of the store itself showed a marked difference in appearance from other Meijer stores. The building exterior primarily would be a dark brown brick. It will be 22 feet tall at its highest point, and the facade.

"When we were first considering development several years ago, I remembered one of your commissioners said, 'After all, this is Northville,'" Stephenson said. "We've tried to keep that in mind when designing this store."

One commissioner who reacted unfavorably at first to landscaping plans was Charles DeLand. But, by the end of the presentation, he said DeLand was encouraged. "My first impressions were pretty negative," he even said, "but I feel more confident about it now."

The eight commissioners present—William Bohan was absent—voted unanimously to approve the preliminary plan with the understanding their stated concerns must be alleviated for final construction.

Residents to be taxed for drains dollars on an old debt," Schmid countered. "I won't sit here and make the same mistake twice. I'm sorry we didn't go back and get the association fees."

Karavich argued that maintenance of the Garfield Drain probably is the only benefit residents in the western section of the city would get from the drainage program and to special assess them for the clean out was unfair.

Karavich presented information Monday showing that in recent years the city has agreed to spread $812,000 for drainage construction and maintenance, plus the levying special assessments. Those debts were incurred for the Randolph, Patnales and Cadell drains. Additionally, the city is dredging two feet deeper in Meadowcroft Lake than is absolutely necessary for drainage purposes. The added debt will add $66,000 to the cost of the project and will be picked up by taxpayers citywide. She argued that the city had set the precedent of not special assessing residents for drainage projects before the millage was approved and nearly $812,000 now is being paid in that fashion.

Two weeks ago the council on a 2-5 vote rejected a resolution to accept the debt and assume responsibility for the drains.

The question of accepting responsibility for the drains was re-introduced Monday, but the measure was not tied to acceptance of the drainage debt and the council decided not to reconsider its previous decision to special assess residents for the clean-out project. The measure passed on a 6-0 vote. Council Member Guy Smith was absent.

After the fact

By PHILIP JEROME

It was one of those semi-ritzy affairs which occur around the holidays. I'm not talking about white tie and tails, but nice enough so that you'd want to wear a suit or sports coat.

At any rate, I was sitting off in a corner, minding my own business, when I was approached by an attractive young woman, who I knew, with a pair of attractive young women, who I did not know.

"Stand up," said the one I knew, "these ladies read your column in the paper and would like to meet you."

Being an obedient type after years of in-house training, I arose to the occasion and was introduced to the ladies with the courage to confess to having read my column on occasion.

I told them it was nice to meet them and thanked them for reading my column. Whereupon we all stood there and stared at each other.

The deathly silence was finally broken by the lady who had made the introductions in the first place. "Well," she suggested, "why don't you say something witty?"

My mind started whirling. "Something witty? Please think of something witty," I told my mind in a state of panic. But nothing happened. My mind was blank.

"I can't think of anything witty to say right now," I blurted out finally.

"What's wrong with you?" asked the introducer while the two introducers stood there with looks of disappointment on their faces. "I'll bet Art Buchwald can think of witty things to say at a party. I'll bet he has tons of witty things to say."

In desperation I tried to think of a good joke. But it just didn't seem right. My humiliation complete, I slunk back into my chair.

I tried to console myself with thoughts that it isn't easy to be witty on command... that Art Buchwald probably has developed a whole file of appropriate witticisms over the years for such occasions.

But my wife quickly squashed my efforts to assuage my bruised ego. "I can't believe you couldn't think of anything to say," she said. "At least you had the good sense to sit down."

"I've been training like this for 4 1/2 weeks," he says. "It's been a blur. I'll tell you, if I don't get my sleep, forget it."

Roy is one of about a dozen boxers training under Doyle. In the summer, they often work out in a ring and garage at Doyle's Lyon Township gym. But that and the karate club's studio are a far cry from the full-fledged gym Doyle dreams of running. Most of his boxers are older guys who want to learn but "don't last long" or are younger guys who "come and go. Most of 'em don't stick with it," Doyle says.

"That's because, according to Roy, you can't teach a person boxing. You can't teach them to have the desire. You've got to have it in you. But if you find someone who has it in them, you can work with them and improve on it."

improve on their natural skills. There's a lot of people who say they'd like to fight, but there's very few who get up the courage to get in the ring."

Bill Teepley of Novi, a friend of Roy's, agrees with that assessment. "Personally, I think he's crazy to do it," he says, "but I also think if he wants to do it, then he should go at it."

And Teepley will be right there at ring-side—along with at least 30 other supporters of the Novi cop—cheering him on tomorrow night.

While Ron Roy says he's in this fight for himself, he also makes a clear bet in it for someone else, too. His trainer, Doyle.

"Without him, I wouldn't have been able to do anything," he says. "I don't have any family to speak of and he's been like a father to me. If it wasn't for him, I wouldn't be doing it. I couldn't do it. I wouldn't be trained as well."

Ross tops more records for Central swim squad

Walled Lake Central's Jenny Ross almost became the first swimmer from a Walled Lake school ever to qualify for the state swim meet.

To finish the conference season, Ross had a good day at the Western Lakes Activities Association meet at Plymouth Canton, scoring three fifth-place finishes.

Norris sparks Viking cagers

Walled Lake Central started the season on the right foot, registering a 49-42 victory over West Bloomfield Friday in the first game of the year for both teams.

Norris finished the game with 16 points, tops for Central. Tom Menard added 12 points, six in the fourth quarter, and played a fine floor game, especially in the final quarter, according to Emert.

Central takes tourney title

Never before in Randy Hyde's six years as wrestling coach at Walled Lake Central have the Vikings won their opening match of the season.

Ford, McBride top Novi matmen

Novi's wrestling team capped a decent start to the 1983-84 season by finishing second in the 10-team Monroe Jefferson Invitational Saturday.

'I was satisfied with how we did. I was really pleased with how some of our individuals have been doing so far.'

—Tom Fritz, Novi mat coach

Three Warriors win tourney mat titles

Walled Lake Western's mat team will be hard-pressed to match the 13-1 dual meet record compiled by last year's Warrior grapplers.

with 118 points in the seven-team event. "We expected to do a little better Saturday, but the kids still did a pretty good job," said Watson, now in his second year at the helm of the Warrior mat program.

Rich bested his 132-pound foe 21-2 and the Warriors picked up six more points via default.

Rasinske wins honors

For the second year in a row, Novi's Sue Rasinske has been named to the All-Kestington Valley Conference girls basketball team.

SWOBOT, a new industrial robot, will be a featured attraction at the SWOVEC open house

Robot debuts at SWOVEC event

There's a new "teacher" at the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center (SWOVEC). And so far he hasn't made a single mistake. He's never been late for work and, in fact, is spending 24 hours a day at the Beck Road school.

The new "teacher" is a Unimate 2000, Mark II industrial robot. And, according to Dr. James Hanneman, high tech consultant with the Oakland Intermediate School District, it is the first operational industrial robot at any secondary school in the state.

SWOBOT, the new robot, along with Hery, Microbot, Armatron and other exciting equipment will be on display when SWOVEC hosts its annual fall open house on Thursday, December 8, from 5-10 p.m. The general public as well as parents of SWOVEC students are invited to attend. SWOVEC is located at 1000 Beck Road in Wixom; ample parking is available.

The driving forces to intensify high technology into programs at the vocational center have been Hanneman and SWOVEC Principal John Xenos. "It's one thing to introduce a concept, but it takes hard work, dedication, cooperation and persistence on the part of educators and the business community to pull it off," said Xenos.

Xenos singled out several individuals for praise in bringing the industrial robot to SWOVEC. He cited Jim Owens of the Molmec Corporation; Brian Hansen, Bill Tuominen and Fred Field of Unimation; and Bill Rose and Bill Mahoney, deans of career education and academic affairs at Oakland Community College as well as the vocational directors, high school principals and superintendents of schools within the SWOVEC district.

Xenos also cited the SWOVEC robotics team of Fred Scheller, Dave Ware, Carl Monroe, Brad Houghton, Bill Schinger, Larry Mitchell and Pat Sullivan for the countless hours they have worked in bringing high technology to SWOVEC students. Sullivan, a member of the SWOVEC robotics team, noted that the center's philosophy is not to train technicians but to give students literacy in the area of robotics and high technology.

SWOVEC services both public and private schools in southwest Oakland County, including the Walled Lake, Novi, West Bloomfield, Huron Valley, South Lyon, Farmington and Clarenceville school districts.

Santa needs helpers

Santa Claus is seeking helpers for a children's breakfast at Wixom City Hall on Saturday, December 17.

Children up to 16 years old are invited to visit city hall for breakfast and meet Santa Claus, according to Lee Middelkauff of the Wixom Firefighters Association, which is sponsoring the event.

Local merchants are being contacted to provide food and gift donations, Middelkauff said. Among the businesses agreeing to participate are Gay Toys of Walled Lake and the Wixom Bar. Volunteers also are being sought to help run the event which will run from 9 a.m. until noon.

If the breakfast is successful, Middelkauff said the firefighters would like to make it an annual event. No reservations are needed. Persons or businesses interested in participating should contact Middelkauff at 628-9170.

Kardels report arrival

Daniel and Laura Kardel of Walled Lake announce the birth of a son, Kevin Michael Kardel was born November 17 at Hutzel Hospital in Detroit, weighing in at nine pounds, two ounces, and measuring 20 inches in length.

The new baby is the Kardels' second child. He joins a brother, Matthew, age 15½ months, at home.

Maternal grandmother is Mrs. Jean Hastings of Plymouth, while paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. William Kardel of Novi. Great grandparents include Mrs. May Greenman of Flint and George Hastings of Fremont.

Jaycettes sponsor Christmas for Kids

NOVI — "Christmas is for Children" is the name of a new program being initiated by the Novi Jaycette Auxiliary to make sure every child receives a gift for Christmas.

Project Chairperson Robin Cameron reported that the Jaycettes have put up Christmas trees in the lobbies of the Novi Public Library and the Security Bank of Oakland County at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook Road.

The trees are decorated with tags bearing the name, age and sex of children from Novi and Northville who are in danger of not receiving gifts for Christmas. The names were received from the Oakland County Department of Social Services.

Area residents are asked to take a tag from the tree and select a suitable gift that costs between $5 and $10. The tag should be attached to the gift and returned unwrapped to the tree as soon as possible.

The Jaycettes will collect and wrap the gifts and make certain they are delivered to the appropriate child the week before Christmas.

"There are a lot of children in our community who are facing the prospect of another disappointing Christmas," said Cameron. "We hope people will participate in this project so we can make sure every child has at least one gift to unwrap under the tree on Christmas morning."

Cameron can be reached for additional information at 478-2676.

Girl Scouts are caroling for cans

Girl Scouts from Novi Woods and Orchard Hills will be "caroling for cans" in subdivisions tonight (Wednesday). The canned goods will be donated to the Novi Emergency Food Program.

Cadet Scout Julie Watkins is coordinating the project to earn the Silver Award. Linda Kessler's Brownie Troop will be caroling in the Novi Heights area. Anyone who wishes to donate to the "caroling for cans" project should call 348-9119.

Village Oaks Girl Scouts will be caroling later this month under the direction of Troop Service Director Carole Schultz.

Adult leaders will have a Christmas party at Sarah Ehsart's home on December 13 at 7:30 p.m. Projects coming up in 1984 include Cookie Sales, Thinking Day and the All-troop encampment in June.

COMMUNITY ED: A special holiday workshop for students in grades K-4 to make gingerbread houses will be held at Village Oaks School on Wednesday, December 14, from 3:10 to 4:30 p.m. There's a fee of $2 and reservations can be made by calling the Novi Community Education Department at 348-1200.

The program is open to all youngsters in the Novi School District. Results from a community survey regarding the need for a Latchkey program will be tabulated at the Community Education Advisory Council meeting next Monday. Call Director Clara Porter at 348-1200 for details.

Special activities during the Christmas break include computer classes, swimming and open gym at the high school. Family swims are on Tuesday, while open swims are held Wednesday and Thursday. The pool will be closed December 15 and 20 and January 2. Open gyms are held Monday and Wednesday except for December 12, 17 and 19 and January 1 when the gym will be closed.

WELCOME WAGON: New residents are encouraged to attend a Welcome Wagon coffee next Monday at 9:30 a.m. to learn about the club's community service and social activities. More information about the coffee is available at 348-5546.

Welcome Wagon sponsors numerous special interest groups, ranging from crafts to exercise, which help newcomers make new friends and become familiar with the community.

PARKS AND REC: Special Recreation Director Kathy Crawford reported a variety of special holiday activities for senior citizens, including a trip to Birmingham tomorrow (Thursday) to visit a church, have lunch and go shopping. A complete list of holiday activities is available by calling Crawford at 348-1978.

A Seniors Bowling League, which meets at the Novi Bowl every Thursday at 1 p.m., will hold a bowling party

The music of Mozart and Dvorak will be performed when the Novi Chamber Music Society presents a concert this Sunday, December 11, at the Faith Community United Presbyterian Church at 2 p.m.

Admission is $5 for adults and $2 for students. A reception will follow the concert. The church is located at 4400 West Ten Mile between Novi and Taff roads. Call 349-5666 for more information.

Performing will be four members of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra (DSO): Geoffrey Applegate, violin; Malvern James Kautman, violin;

Glenn Mellow, viola; and Carole Gatewood, cello. They will be assisted by Novi pianist Pontiane Lasing.

Applegate joined the DSO in 1981 after graduating from the Peabody Conservatory in 1980. He has soloed with orchestras and played chamber music in Europe and South America as well as the United States.

Kautman, a student of William Kroll and Joseph Beuoy, is a graduate of the Eastman School of Music. He was a member of the Rochester Philharmonic, Dallas Symphony, U.S. Army Band Strings, Baltimore Symphony and the National Symphony before joining the DSO.

Mellow, now in his fourth season with the DSO, has a Master of Music degree from Indiana University. He has participated in the Casals Festival in Puerto Rico and the New School concerts in New York.

Gatewood graduated from Indiana University and was a member of the Birmingham (Alabama) and Denver

Members attending the December 15 meeting at Village Oaks School at 7:30 p.m. are asked to bring two dozen cookies — one to exchange and the other to be taken to the Whitehall Christmas Party on December 13. Elaine Glaser of the Cooperative Extension Service will speak on "Returning to Work and How to Handle It at Home."

The excursion group is planning a trip to Meadowbrook Hall this month. The exercise group meets every Monday and Wednesday. The woman who volunteered to run the nursery during the class is asked to call Pam Wozniak at 348-0295.

NOVI CHAMBER: New officers will be elected when the Novi Chamber of Commerce holds its annual business luncheon at the Red Timbers restaurant at noon on December 13. Proposed amendments to the by-laws also will be presented. Members are reminded that dues must be paid up in order to vote.

New businesses in Novi are urged to call Chamber Secretary Lydia Moses at 349-3743 to make reservations for the luncheon and learn of the advantages of membership in the chamber. Twelve Oaks General Manager William Cloggs is the current president of the chamber. Advertising space is still available in the Chamber's 1984 Business Directory, but the deadline for space reservations is December 15. Typesetting and artwork are provided free of cost. For more information call the chamber at 349-3743.

PIN POINTERS: Barbara Chappell won the mystery game. High bowlers were Mary Scott (189 and 181 in 522 series), Colleen Smith (188 in 530 series) and Linda Silvrace (502). Standings follow:

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Steinberger held a family reunion in conjunction with Thanksgiving. Guests included the White family from Hudson, Steinberger family from Milford and Nixon family from Canton.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Green were dinner guests at the Grand River home of Mr. and Mrs. John French.

The Novi Rebekah Independent Club held its Christmas luncheon Monday at the Red Lobster.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Steles of Westland announce the engagement of their daughter, Maureen Ann, to Joseph Anthony Meo of Novi.

The bride-elect resided in Novi from 1972 to 1978 and graduated from Novi High School in 1981. She currently is a student at Sally Esser Beauty School in Northville.

The prospective groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Griffith of Novi. A 1981 Novi High School graduate, he currently is in his junior year at Adrian College where he is majoring in business and computer science. He also is president of Theta Chi Fraternity and a pitcher on the Adrian College baseball team.

An October 1984 wedding is planned.

LA LECHE LEAGUE: Questions about nutrition and breast-feeding will be answered with the latest medical research when the Novi/Northville La Leche League meets Tuesday, December 13, at 1292 Appleford in Walled Lake at 9:30 a.m.

Discussion will include suggestions about nutrition for nursing mothers and families as well as weaning the breast-fed baby. For more information about the League or meeting call 348-5390 or 349-3645.

A Christmas Tea will be held at the OLLISA Center on Novi Road on December 14 at 12:30 p.m. Reservations are not required. A special Christmas potluck dinner will be held December 16 from 5:30 to 10 p.m. The Novi Chorales will perform and dancing to the Len Heller Duo begins at 7:15 p.m. Cost for the party is 50 cents.

PERSONALS: Four birthdays were celebrated at a party hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Skellis. Celebrants were their two sons, Tim and Jim Skellis, and two grandsons, Scott Remer, 5, and Duane Louisa, 4.

Jo Leavenworth of Westland was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Darling.

Walled Lake Elementary School will hold its first Christmas Fair this Saturday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The fair will include a craft bazaar, flea market, bake sale and, of course, a visit from Santa Claus for the youngsters.

Anyone interested in participating in the fair should call 624-2804 for more information about tables and spaces. Fees are $5 for space and $8 for space and a table.

WALLED LAKE LIBRARY: The film "Mowgli's Brothers" will be shown at the Walled Lake Library this Saturday at 2 p.m. Adapted from a Rudyard Kipling tale, the film is about a boy raised by wolves in the jungles of India. In addition, "Mister Magoo/William Tell" will be shown. Admission is free, but all children under six-year-old must be accompanied by an adult.

A chocolate candy-making workshop will be offered at the library next Monday at 7 p.m. The workshop will demonstrate techniques for molding and filling chocolates as well as providing tips for attractively packaging your finished product. Registration is required; call 624-3772.

WIXOM LIBRARY: The film "The Little Drummer Boy" will be screened at the Wixom Library this Saturday at 2 p.m. This version of the well-known Christmas song features the narration of Greer Garson with the voices of Jose Ferrer and the Vienna Boys Choir as background for the puppets.

Preschoolers and their parents are invited to participate in a wreath-making workshop at the library on December 20. Registration is required; call 624-2512.

A live and lively production of "Hansel and Gretel" for the entire family will be offered Wednesday,

Community Notes

December 28, at 2 p.m. The program will be presented by Crossroad Productions. No registration is required and all are invited to attend.

LAKES AREA CHAMBER: The Lakes Area Chamber will hold its fourth annual Christmas Party celebration this Friday from 6-9 p.m. at the Wixom V.F.W. Hall, 2652 Loon Lake Road. Entertainment will include Santa Claus, a dance recital, caroling and a magic show. All chamber members and the public are invited.

RICHARDSON SENIORS: The Richardson Center seniors will hold their annual Christmas party and dance on Wednesday, December 14. Included will be door prizes, punch and cookies.

A Christmas trip is scheduled for December 15; the bus leaves at 9:15 a.m. The OLHSA Christmas dinner will be held December 20 at noon.

The Richardson Center is located at 1485 Oakley Park Road. Call 624-1266 for more information about center activities.

MADD: Mothers Against Drunk Drivers (MADD) will sponsor their second national candlelight vigil on Monday, December 12, in conjunction with National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week (December 11-17).

Members of MADD and concerned citizens of Oakland County will hold a vigil at the Oakland County Courthouse Complex on December 12 at 8 p.m. The courthouse is located at 1200 North Telegraph in Pontiac.

A ceremony will be held in memory of individuals who were killed or crippled by drunk drivers. The names of persons who have died because of intoxicated drivers during 1983 will be read and candles will be lit in their memory. Anyone wishing to have the name of someone read should call Mrs. Penny Bien at 666-1585.

SPINNAKERS: The Spinnakers, a fellowship group for single adults of all ages, is sponsoring a special trip to Detroit on Saturday, December 17, for dinner at the Parthenon restaurant in Greektown and a madrigal choir concert at St. Mary Cathedral.

Vans and cars will leave the Northville Presbyterian Church at 5:15 p.m. for a festive evening of dining and musical entertainment. The dinner (your choice from the menu) will be under $10 and concert tickets are $5 each. For reservations call Ed Papciak at 420-0455 by Monday, December 12.

BETHANY LAKES: "Is There Anything Good about Loneliness?" will be the topic when the Bethany Lakes support group meets this Friday at 8 p.m. at Our Lady of Refuge. The church is located three blocks west of Orchard Lake Road on Commerce Road. Bethany Lakes is a support group for separated and divorced people. For more information call 335-0960.

NOVI LEAGUE: Defense spending will be the topic when the Plymouth, Canton, Northville and Novi League of Women Voters (LWV) meets tomorrow (Thursday) at West Middle School at 7:30 p.m.

The informational meeting begins the second phase of the LWV's national security study — Dollars for Defense: Translating Military Purposes into Spending Choices. The meeting will include a review of the first phase, arms control objectives.

The public is invited to attend. Call 453-8542 or 453-7381 for more information.

Library hosts reading of 'A Christmas Carol'

Bert Hornback, a professor at the University of Michigan, will share the story of Ebenezer Scrooge, Bob Cratchit and Tiny Tim with area residents in a special holiday program at the Novi Public Library on Thursday, December 15, at 7 p.m.

The library is located on 45245 Ten Mile between Novi and Taft roads. Dressed in period costume, Professor Hornback portrays Charles Dickens as he relates the story of "A Christmas Carol." The presentation is enhanced by his dramatic style of delivery.

Families, individuals and children over 10-years-old are invited to attend the free program which is funded by the Friends of the Novi Public Library as a public service activity.

Refreshments will be served following the reading. Although the program is free, those who plan to attend are asked to obtain tickets by stopping by the library anytime during regular hours.
