Town Center rezoning approved

By KATHY JENNINGS novi editor

NOVI - A small group of resigned property owners listened quietly while city planners decided May 16 to recommend rezoning property around the Novi Road/Grand River intersection to establish a Town Center district.

In an about-face from previous public sessions on proposed establishment of a Town Center, there were few negative comments about proposal, and several property owners asked to be included in the

Approximately 45 people turned out for the hearing on the issue that has drawn as many as 150 property and business owners in the past. The planners listened to comments from the public then recommended that the council rezone the property, thereby implementing the Town Center ordinance adopted in

The only opposition to the rezoning was voiced by Roger Fendt of Fendt Transit Mix. While Fendt did not oppose the Town Center concept, he questioned how his company could fit into such a district. Fendt asked that boundary lines be redrawn to exclude his property from the Town Center.

Fendt told planners he could not understand why his property was included in the Town Center and asked that it be deleted from the district. Fendt also said he believes the city council acted arbitrarily by alloweing non-conforming commercial businesses to expand, but prohibited expansion of industrial businesses in the Town Center. "If I wanted to go into an industrial area we'd have to invest $1 million to duplicate our operation," Fendt said. Show me some way I can get $1 milion out of that thing and I'd be more than happy to relocate. Tell me

On the other hand. Lester St. Thomas of Aladdin Tool asked planners to be included in the Town Center, despite an earlier recommendation from the city planner that his property not be included.

Planning Consultant Charles Cairns told the planners they may want to redraw the district lines to exclude the Aladdin property since two industrial parcels to the south are not in the Town Center. When asked, the owner said he would not object to being included in the

Residents ask city to forego sidewalk

NOVI — Children won't be playing hopscotch on sidewalks in the Lexington Green subdivision if the city grants residents' request to eliminate sidewalks on Galway

Residents of the new Pulte subdivision recently turned out in force to ask the council to amend an ordinance requiring sidewalks on streets such as Galway Drive, known as collector streets.

Petitions asking the city to revise it sidewalk requirement signed by 96 Lexington Green residents were presented to the city council.

But council members besitated to take such an action since it apparently would affect the city's ability to require developers to construct sidewalks throughout the city.

The council asked City Attorney David Fried to research the matter to determine if there is a way to grant the residents' request without jeapordizing future sidewalks in other parts of the city.

Residents told the council they were led to believe there would be no sidewalks when they purchased their homes. They also said they viewed sidewalks as a nulsance they do not want in their yards.

Laura Lorenzo said she strongly opposes sidewalks and it is "deceitful and unfair" that residents were not informed the walkways must be constructed. "We were attracted to this subdivision because of the spacious front and back lawns. Now we're being forced to have a five-foot sidewalk that will eat up half our front yard," she said.

"We can be held liable for lack of maintanance, this will encourage and increase the flow of traffic in front of our homes until it's a parade of sorts. You might as well bring in a band," Lorenzo continued. "We'll have to be careful not to back into people, bikes and children. And children being children will spill onto our lawns, flower gardens and shrub-

Cars destro in bombing, tire

By KATHY JENNINGS

NOVI - Residents in Village Oaks were shaken Friday night by the apparent explosion of two bombs placed in the frame of a car parked in the 40000 block of Village Oaks Drive.

The concussion shook homes several blocks away and started a fire that engulfed two cars in flames and damaged two others. All four vehicles were parked in the drive of the home where the blast occurred.

The bombs exploded at approximately 11:30 p.m. All the automobiles in the drive were unoccupied and no one was injured in connection with the incident. Each of the cars had been parked in the driveway for "some time," according to police.

A resident of the home where the blast occurred said she had "no idea" why they might have been singled out for the attack. "I really can't teli you anything, because we don't know anything," said Bonita

Following the blast, residents gathered on lawns and in the street to find out what had happened. They were drawn to Village Oaks Drive by the flames which some said could be seen from Meadowbrook Road, Some placed the size of the crowd of onlookers at 50, while others said between 30-40 persons were attracted to the scene by the explosion and the resultant blaze.

A resident on the street where the incident occurred reported the blast 'was the loudest noise I ever heard." The resident reported the first blast set off a chain reaction. As the cars ourned, there were more ex when tires burst and windows broke from the bomb was so loud that residents initially believed a house had exploded. "It was extremely loud. Even people living in the condominium houses (several blocks away) had their houses shudder,' the resident said.

Officials reported evidence seems to indicate a "pipe bomb of some type" was used to blow up a 1971 Chevrolet. A 1983 Firebird burst into flames when gasoline from the first explosion blew out of the car's gasoline tank, washed down the drive and ignited the second car. Heat from the fire damaged a third vehi-

The heat from the blaze was so intense it damaged the driveway, causing a portion of the drive to be removed. There was little damage to the home itself.

Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan reported early evidence seems to show two bombs were placed under the frame of one of the cars. The bomb apparently was a sophisticated. one detonated by a timing device, Lenaghan said.

However, the matter remains under investigation and police would offer no details on the incident.

Lenaghan reported two cars were fully engulfed in flames when the fire department was called to the scene. 'It appears the contents of the gas tank of the first car ignited immediately and that ignited the second vehicle," Lenaghan reported.

Oakland County Sheriff's Department arson investigators were called to the scene. A bomb expert from the sheriff's department was subseiently contacted Firefighters brought the blaze under control quickly and departed the scene shortly after 5 p.m.

'Best ever' parade slated for holiday

NOVI — The "biggest and best" Memorial Day Parade in Novi history will begin Monday at 10 a.m. as the city combines Memorial Day services with a community-wide celebration of its 150th anniversary.

Approximately 50 floats and exhibits have been lined up for the parade which will leave Old Novi Elementary School at 10 a.m. and march down Novi Road to Ten Mile and then proceed to the Civic Center at Ten Mile and Taft Road.

"We decided to do things big this year," said Thomas Sumiec, president of the Novi Jaycees and chairman of the Memorial Day Parade Committee.

"It's going to be a day-long event commemorate those individuals who gave their lives in defense of our country. And in the afternoon, we'll celebrate the Novi Sesquicentennial with a city birthday party, games and activities.

"I think the two events will work well together," he added. "We'll commemorate our fallen heroes in the morning and spend the rest of the day enjoying the freedoms and privileges which they have made possible through their defense of this country."

A special feature of Memorial Day activities will be the re-dedication of the Novi War Memorial. The memorial has been moved from its former location at Old Novi El to a new site outside the civic center.

A color guard formed from members of Novi veterans' organizations will carry the United States flag from the school to the civic center.

Paving sought on Napier

By KATHY JENNINGS

NOVI - Residents on Napier Road have been told politely not to hold their breath if they're waiting for the road to be paved.

With the spring thaw, residents have stepped up their complaints about the potholed condition of the road on the city's western boundary and asked the county to consider pav-

Residents are circulating petitions asking that the road be paved or black-topped between Eleven and Twelve Mile. The petitions will be presented to Richard V. Vogt, chairman of the Oakland County Road Traffic on the road is generated primarily by Old Dutch Farms and Novi Meadows mobile home parks. Currently there are about 500 homes in the two mobile home parks, and plans call for 200 additional units before the parks are filled. Park managers report most of the homes have at least two drivers and many have three.

The road also carries heavy garbage trucks bound for a nearby dump. The traffic contributes to the frequently rutted, potholed condition

Cheering squads allowed

NOVI - There will be cheerleading and pom-pon squads at Novi Middle School South next year.

Confronted by a group of adamant past and present cheerleaders, the school board last week abandoned plans to eliminate the two squads and decided instead to keep the programs in tact.

The suggestion to eliminate cheerleading and pom-pon at the seventh and eighth grade levels came during the May 2 board meeting when Trustee Gilbert Henderson proposed that girls should be encouraged to participate in athletics instead.

COMMERCE - The wastewater discharge permit issued to the proposed Huron Valley Hospital was the subject of lengthy discussion before the state Toxic Substance Control Commission (TSCC) last week.

"The discussion really got into detail and then we had rebuttals,' commented Larry Holcomb, TSCC executive director. "I think it was very informational to the commission. We provided additional materials, citizens commented and we had discussion with the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).' The TSCC was requested to review the discharge permit by area residents who charged the effluent would degrade the nearby ground-

In addition to debating ways to keep taxes from increasing in 1984-85, council discovered sticky problems to solve in its water and sewer departments. City Manager J. Michael Dornan revealed last week that the city's sewer debt fund is running critically low. In order to meet 1984-85 bond payments, the council agreed to raise the sewer lebt charge $4 per quarter, bringing the average residential quarterly bill to $24.

But Dornan noted that the $4 increase in 1964 must be followed by another $26 increase per quarter in July 1965 if the city is to meet its future sewer debt payments averaging $425,000 annually. The increase next year would bring residential sewer debt bills to nearly $50 per quarter.

In explaining the proposed increase, Dornan noted that all surplus and reserve accounts will be depleted in 1985-86. To avoid raising sewer bills in he past, the council has used funds on reserve with Oakland County along with the city's accumulated

In March water usage rates were raised from 45 cents per 1,000 gallons to 90 cents per 1,000 gallons to avoid an anticipated $52,000 deficit in the water department at the end of 1983-84. Last week the council agreed to hike the water usage rate up another 10 cents, bringing the water usage charge to $1 per 1,000 gallons. The minimum charge of $8 for the first 5,000 gallons remains the same.

The additional water rate increase results from the council's effort to make the water department completely independent of the city's general fund. For the first time salaries and benefits of all city personnel are being pro-rated and allocated to the water department in proportion to the amount of time being spent with water department duties.

The water department budget also includes accounts for "an orderly accumulation of funds for replacing parts and equipment," Moiseeff explainallocated within the water department for repair and maintenance of the water system

CITY OF WALLED LAKE NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

The City Council of the City of Walled Lake, will hold a public hearing at 7:00 P.M. on Tuesday, June 5, 1984, in the Council Chambers, City Hall, 1499 E. West Maple, to receive testimony and discuss a proposed additional 1984 City operating millage rate.

Last year (1983) the City levied 17.556 mills ($17.56 per $1,000 SEV) for city operating purposes. Because of State law (Act 5 of 1982), the City's base tax rate is reduced to 17.273 for 1984. However, the City has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied from within its authorized millage rate.

In order to maintain basic city services, the city proposes to levy an additional millage rate of 2.724 mills ($2.72 per $1,000 SEV) above the 17.273 mill base tax rate or a total operating rate of 19.997 mills ($19.997 per $1,000 SEV).

Public comment on this proposed increase is velcome at the public hearing.

keynote addresses: the simularities between broadcast journalists and classroom teachers.

I admit, when ABC's Washington correspondent Betina Gregory began her address at the Michigan Education Association (MEA) public relations banquet by noting the commonality between her profession and that of teachers. I assumed the analogy could be nothing but strained. And, in fact, as she related various experiences from her 11 years as an ABC correspondent, I found myself giving little thought to how this woman's work is similar to a classroom teacher. I was pondering, instead, the simularities (and differences) between my own profession and broadcast tour-

I felt a tinge of kindred spirit when Gregory commented that journalists - whether broadcast or print - are only as good as their sources. She related an incident that occurred while she was covering the Air Florida crash in Washington two years ago. Under pressure from her New York producers for a live update on the situation, Gregory pulled aside a clergyman who had been counseling friends and relatives of passengers on the downed plane. He made a great interview, she recalled. He was graphic in his description of the crash and of the fearful uncertainty of relatives who, after six hours in a nearby hotel. still had been uninformed as to survivors, injuries or fatalities.

Several days later, however, ABC was contacted by an FBI agent who informed the station that Gregory's clergyman was not a clergyman at all, but an escaped convict. The imposter was casing relatives of the passengers to determine who might be away from their homes for a few days, making them prime targets for a break-in. Gregory noted she now asks clergy for identification before interviewing them.

Fortunately, weekly, even daily newspapers have more time than a few minutes or few seconds to check the reliability of their sources. But, nevertheless, most of us have experienced the frustration of being misled or misinformed by individuals claiming veracity. For example, it is not uncommon for newspapers to receive fabricated obituaries from individuals claiming to be relatives of the deceased.

Half the thrill of reporting is being first on the scene, first to find out the information, first to report it to the public.

I once wrote a story about the financial and emotional struggles of a man dying of cancer. A week after the story appeared, his ex-wife called to refute not only the man's financial and emotional hardship, but his purported cancer, as well. At the time of the interview, it never occurred to me to call the various medical clinics where he claimed to have been treated to confirm his illness. After some serious investigating, I still was uncertain if either of them was telling the complete truth, but it appeared the ex-wife was the one most in error.

One of the things both print and broadcast journalists share, of course, is working under deadline pressure. I've worked under both daily and weekly newspaper deadlines and a typical news broadcast deadline would not be much different, I think. But Gregory convinced me that live, "on-the-spot" television reporting is a different matter entirely. . .

I've experienced the pressure of an editor standing over my shoulder, waiting for the last sentences of a late-breaking story to be punched out of my fingertips. How much greater the pressure would be if the editor were instead a producer ticking off "five, four, three, two seconds" until the light on the television camera blinks on for a live report — when I'm still struggling to gather my thoughts to construct coherent sentences.

But there are times when I miss the immediacy of daily newspapering or envy live television reporters transmitting news as it happens. Half the thrill of reporting is being first on the scene, first to find out the information, first to report it to the public. A substantial damper is placed on that excitement when trying to report Tuesday's news in the following Wednesday's Take Saturday, for example. I was bowling my little fingers to the bone during the Novi Youth Assistance Bowlathon when Councilman Ed Leinginer sidled up to me. "I'll bet we're going to read about this in your column next week, aren't we?" he asked. "You never can tell," I responded, hoping desperately that something amusing would happen so Easy Ed won't be disappointed when of my favorite Ms. Pac Man machine.

"You going to write about that next week?" he asked. "It's pretty unusual to find a deer in downtown Northville on Sunday afternoon."

I agreed with him, but somehow the inspiration for a column about window-crashing deer just hasn't gelled in my mind either.

The only one who doesn't help is Mac, the retired gentleman who sits at the end of the bar and complains about the noise I make playing the video machines.

"I hope you're not going to write about those cats of yours again," he told me recently - just after I had just about decided it was time for another Bonnie-and-Clyde column.

Mac didn't even like the fascinating travelogues about my recent vacation in Cancun. "I guess we're going to have to read about Cancun again this week, aren't we?" he asked late one Monday afternoon when inspirations for a good column were running low. To add in-sult to injury, it kept calling it Can-Can instead

But even Mac tries to help out in his own inimitable way. Several months ago he pulled me aside, reached inside his coat and pulled out a book of columns by Andy Rooney of 60 Minutes

Computer helps businesses say 'yes'

Within 90 days, extensive information about Michigan-made products will be available to businesses state-wide at the touch of a few buttons. Within a few years. Michigan businesses could see a dramatic increase in sales resulting from use of the information system.

Called Michigan Products Information Exchange (MiPIE), the system is a state-sponsored computer data bank which will eventually list as many as 15,000 manufacturers in addition to service providers, according to a spokesman for Interchange

Plus, creator of the data bank. John Hofer, Interchange Plus's vice president for marketing, said the system will go on line in early August with approximately 7,000 listings. Hofer said there will be no charge for listings, but there is a $40 one-time charge for the assignation of a user number. A user fee is charged on an hourly rate for each time the data bank is tapped, Hofer said. The fee is $24 per hour during the business day and $16 per hour in the evening. Hofer said it takes about 10 to 15 minutes to complete a data search. "Instead of spending time poring over printed information, businesses can use this time to be out talking with people instead," Hofer said. "As far as I know, Michigan is the only state to employ something like this," Hofer said. The MIPIE concept was developed over a year ago within the Michigan Department of Commerce's (DOC) former Office of Economic Development, according to Robert Pitcher, director of DOC's

Michigan Product Promotions Creating MiPIE is part of the DOC's on-going effort to promote the services of Michigan businesses and help the state retain those firms.

"Seventy to eighty percent of the jobs formed by companies are formed by companies already in locations," Pitcher said. "New jobs are formed by company expansions moreso than relocations."

"The department of commerce plans to use MiPIE to get information to Michigan companies which are trying to identify state, federal and overseas business opportunities which the companies may want to take advantage of," Hofer said. "For small companies to review federal procurement opportunities is a gargantuan task. The department of commerce will be able to do the searching for you through the data base. In effect, the department of commerce becomes a small federal procurement office through the data base. It will be able to get information out to Michigan companies regarding federal procurement opportunties on the making widgets." Hofer added that agricultural products may also be listed in MiPIE. "Michigan has about 15,000 manufactuers," Hofer said, "When you get into service providers, that figure nearly doubles. The upward limit (of listings) is determined by how you define what's made in Michigan.' Interchange Plus recently conducted a 15,000piece mailing in an attempt to secure information about various businesses and industries in the state. Hofer said that initial push will be followed up next month with a tele-marketing campaign.

tormation about all businesses included in the data bank, information about the company, its products and services will be stored in the computer, Hofer said. In addition, the year the business was esablished, its number of employees, gross sales and important telephone numbers will be listed. "Users will be able to tell if the company is minority or woman-owned," Hofer said, "Each company will be asked for a 250 character, or about seven computer-line, description of the company, its background and product line.

"The questions have been developed to produce the kinds of information that purchasing agents and lecisions. The businesses will be described in terms of key words which means you will not have to look up standard industrial classification codes or sumerical codes to find companies which supply what you are looking for.'

A word-search process will be used to get the information desired, Hofer explained. "Let's say you want to know who in Michigan makes filters," he theorized, "You plug in the word filters and get a listing of all companies that make filters. Then you an narrow it down to marine air filters and find the 20 companies that make those. There is a tremendous degree of flexibility in seaching the data

Hofer said information can be further narrowed down if a company wishes to do business with another manufactuer within a specific geographic location or of certain sizes. The ease and speed with which information can be obtained is one of MiPIEs strongest features. Hofer said

Another unique aspect of MiPIE is its communications ability. Once producers of a certain item are identified through the searching process, a potential purchaser can write one letter outlining the specifications it desires for a product or service and transmit that information to all potential suppliers through the microcomputer. Hofer said.

MiPIE will also be capable of allowing users to take a computer letter generated on a screen, designate any number of companies to send the letter to and have it in the mailflow the same day

Our Tom Cat

Our poor old Tom cat is now dead. The prayers for him all have been said. No more far from home, In the dark will he roam. Or be on the front of the bed No more will he sit on the fence His spirits departed from, hence, No more will he set on an old rotten stump. Or lift up his tail when he jumps. Florence Behrens

If Love Was Magic

If love was magic. What fulfillment would it bring? Would it be happiness? Would it be understanding Would it be sorrow and full of tears? Would it be a physical thing? Would it be a subtraction of one's self? Would it be an appearing of new life? Would it be a deep, deep true feeling? Would it be a belief or myth? Would it be a part of God?

Roxanne Behrens

'Kisses'

Dewdrops kiss the meadow in the early morn. Snowflakes kiss the lashes of apple-cheeked children. Mothers kiss tiny squirmming infants when they're born. The wind kisses the downy feathers of the wren Death kisses everything eventually.

A Tardy Letter

Day by day—I say and say: I must write for sure today but time—just faster, faster flies; 'til its way past time to close my eyes.

Then I know I'll barely doze and hardly feeling like a rose: because a pain jabs here and there. somewhere 'tween feet and silver hair.

'Tis then I find more prayin' time; for me and each dear one of mine. Then friends I hear are not too well I pray for them as well.

No doubt you will not find the time: to answer these so tardy lines, but, may you through your busy hours think of some, that once were ours. How I wish I'd captured more of those times we had before; with you playing on the floor or begging stories o'er and o'er. Before school claimed those days of youth, days of searching after truth; the days you hardly were around, then—there you were, in cap and gown

Off now into a land so cold to start your climb, e're you grow old. You've a long-long road to go, no doubt can see it now, and know

Oh! I hope some how, you may find the time for maybe-just a few short lines. 'Cause my memory's getting shorter now And I miss you, more and more, Some How.

H. G. Champe

The Kite Poem

Someday I'd like to launch a poem like a kite into the sky. The winds would rhyme it as it goes

I'd never have to try! They'd bring it up in a fancy all its own. They'd set the beat. And even set the tone!

How high it would fly ī couldn't say. It would reach God's doorstep If the winds have their way!

The Ultimate Poem

A raging maze of colors would seem to me to be lt's not enough a poet should be concerned only with imagery. He should know of things that crawl and left their fossils on stone wall. All of life is a symmetry of what it's like to live and be.

The Cardinal

H. G. Champe

Quite unexpectedly upon stick-like apple tree a cardinal lit and lifted my spirits a bit. No matter how listless white snow expanse is a tiny dart of beauty changed all that for me!

the impact of beauty's afterglow. Never again will I believe the things I see are always that way going to be. In the wings of tomorrow

And, now I think I've come to know dart red cardinals erasing sorrow. Dart, indeed, countless, wingless wisps of soaring hopes, of happiness!

Scattered Thoughts

My thoughts make light footprints over fast falling snow. They dart here and there Then they go!

Did falling snow cover some that were good? Do I retrace my steps? I wonder if I should? H. C. Champe her dreams have been shattered. her heart has stopped. she's a sad little girl, lost in a world of money and greed. she's lost all hope as she walks to "the end" of the cliff. tears of heli run down her face. as she says goodbye to the world. then with a deep breath she steps off "the end" of the cliff. her life has ended, all that's left is the memory of a sweet little girl, who lost all her dreams

Ladycats fall in districts

Livonia Ladywood shut the door on Novi's hopes for a district softball title last Wednesday with a 4-2 extrainning victory over the Wildcats.

The game was a heartbreaker for Novi starter Lisa Palka, who scattered four hits, struck out four and walked just two in nine innings. But there were eight Wildcat errors in the contest and two in the ninth cost Palka a win.

Novi scored one in the fourth on a bases-loaded walk to Karen Burnett. Dawn Flores scratched out another run in the second by singling, advancing on a sacrifice and a double steal, then sprinting home to score on a passed ball. Novi right fielder Karen Bradley continued her hot hitting with two singles in the contest, boosting her season

The day before, Howell tripped up the Wildcats in both ends of a Kensington Valley Conference doubleheader. The Highlanders scored six runs in the first two innings to topple Novi 9-1 in the first game, then "mercled" the Wildcats 14-3 in the five-inning nightcap

In the opener, Bradley singled twice and Karen Coulter singled and scored after tripling in the fifth inning on a single by Burnett. Flores doubled in the game.

pires called the game because of rain. Palka pitched well, allowing four hits, walking none and striking out two. She was aided by a wild six-run third inning. Singles by Burnett and Couch, plus four wild pitches and two errors in that frame put Novi on top to stay.

Burnett singled again in the fourth, stole second and third and came home on a grounder by Ryan to add a run in the fourth. Novi's first-inning run came on a Burnett's RBI ground-out scoring Coulter.

It wasn't a good week for Novi - the four losses and one win dropped the Wildcats' season record to 6-13 (3-7 KVC). But Wildcat Coach Jim Tinsley said there has been an oc-

"Since I moved Burnett to third base and Ryan to shortstop, they've played a lot more consistently," Tinsley said. "They're both juniors — in fact, we start seven juniors - and if they keep at it they'll help us a lot next year. The JV has some good talent too, and now our junior highs are playing fastpitch. That'll pay off sometime."

Novi wraps up its KVC season this week with a game against South Lyon, played after press deadline Monday.

After cleaning out her own discards, she recalled, she was asked by friends to help with their garage or moving sales. Word of her ability spread, as she said, "over bridge tables," to the point that she has traveled to such places as Rochester, Southfield, Franklin and South Lyon to officiate at sales.

About six weeks ago, a woman stopped at Lenheiser's front door and said she had heard she would run a garage sale. The woman admitted she wouldn't have the least idea of how to go about holding one and added that, as a teacher, she did not have time to do so.

It turned out to be one of Marge Lenheiser's successful sales. The teacher, who was moving, had a 23-year accumulation of items, which Lenheiser cleaned, priced and displayed.

"it's really a hobby," she emphasized, "that is better for me than shopping or watching television."

She pointed out that the time consumed is much more than the Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the average sale. She usually works for three days the beginning of the week sorting, cleaning, pricing and displaying sale wares. "You have to work at it," she said, describing how a sale is set up. "If you don't have a price on every single object, you'll find that customers don't ask - they think you're going to raise the price because it isn't set." Lenhelser also believes in the value of good display. At her sales everything is clean and placed on tables covered with Lenheiser told how one woman remembered her sister's daughter was getting married and that she liked Wedgwood blue - so she bought a blue piece for $1. Another customer bought a bowling ball and bag — for the bag.

Being accommodating also can cinch a sale. One would-be customer at the spring sale said she "would like that kitchen table" which was priced at $20 but had no way to get it home.

"I asked where she lived and then offered to deliver it in my station wagon." Lenheiser recalled. That made the sale.

On the days of the sale Lenheiser parks her station wagon just into the driveway of the home so that other cars will not hem each other in. She also brings her signs in it, placing a large sandwich board advertising the sale in front of the home. At the main intersection to the subdivision where the sale is being held and then at the end of the street itself she places signs — "heavy ones backed with wood or they won't last" that give the address and time of sale.

"Don't leave them overnight either," Lenheiser warned. "Take them down and replace them the next day - then leave with them when the sale is over. You have to be fair to the public and com-the sale. And that can add up. The homeowner at her recent sale was "amazed," Lenheiser related, that the quarters and dollars added up to $1,800.

The homeowner pays for the newspaper advertising, which Lenheiser places. She mentions that the ad is important and should contain some specific items that are attractions, such as tools, garden rakes and spades.

"We mentioned a drafting table," she illustrated, "priced at $15 and had five people ask for it after it was sold."

While she has a list of people who are collectors of specific things like tools or cookbooks that she will call if she has any in a sale, Lenheiser is strict about not beginning the sale until the hour

It's usual to have customers lined up waiting for the first-day bargains. And it's not unusual to have 100 attend a sale. After all, that's where the "buys" are.

he proverbial whiz kid: calculator hanging from the belt loop, slide rule in the back pocket and Coke bottle glasses resting on the bridge of a nose.

We all know them. 'Head of the Class' types who can recite Hamlet's soliloquy in the same breath with every symbol in the periodic table of elements.

While such "young Einsteins" can be found in virtually any high school, students like John Bertagnolli, Northville High School senior extraordinaire, are pretty atypical of the general perception of whiz kids.

An outgoing 17-year-old with a penchant for computers and the French horn, Bertagnolli's gregarious style could win him the senior "with the most school spirit" award during class mock elections.

However, "most likely to succeed" also would befit this University of Michigan-bound senior.

So what makes Bertagnolli stand out in a high school which last year boasted 10 valedictorians?
For starters, Bertagnolli will be the only senior in the Class of 1984 not to receive a diploma during commencement excercises.

He'll go through the motions — cap, gown, handshake from the principal — but he will never receive that coveted diploma.

Bertagnolli is an exception to the rule that high school diplomas are a mandate for college entrance. Accepted at University of Michigan at the age of 16, Bertagnolli is among an exceptional group of students entering the university through the Young Scholars Program.

Bertagnolli describes the program as "designed to allow students with special needs an opportunity to get into college without a high school diploma."

For Bertagnolli, that "special need" is a desire for more advanced curriculum. Though the high school offers several college prep and honors courses, Bertagnolli has exhausted nearly every available offering.

While this is not unusual in a school where more than 80 percent of the students are college-bound, Bertagnolli ran out of resources in his junior year.

By all accounts, Bertagnolli should be a junior. He is only in his second year at the high school and turned 17 in February. However, he was given senior status by decree, thanks to his high continued on 8

On top of that, the high school senior also is a graduate assistant at the Dale Carnegie Institute.

While motivation may seem the key impetus to his involvement, Bertagnolli's enthusiasm clearly keeps him going.

Gerald Smith's family tree would undoubtedly be forced to make more than a few footnotes.

Sometimes, Smith's mother was his sister and his grandparents were his parents. His cousins were then nieces and nephews and his brother and sister were also his aunt and un-

Confused? Don't be. Smith has an easy explanation for the convoluted configuration of his family tree.

"I was adopted twice, but I never left the same family," remarked Smith, who has three birth certificates, each bearing a different last name.

Gerald Louis Smith, South Lyon's director of public safety, was born Earl Louis Dunsworth in Detroit on August 21, 1942. His biological parents were Lorraine and Earl Dunsworth. Lorraine was just 17 years old and had been married for about 18 months when her son was born. Then, when little Earl was less than a year old, his father abandoned the young family.

"My mother had no job, no means to support me," the 42-year-old Smith said. "So, she worked out an agreement with my maternal grandmother, her mother, whereby my mother would allow my grandmother to adopt me until such time as she was able to take me back and care for me herself.

This photograph of Gerry Smith's grandmother and adopted mother, Lucille Cheschin, was taken in 1942, the year of Smith's

"So, my grandparents became my parents," Smith said. "My aunt and uncle became my brother and sister and my mother became my sister."

And in 1943, the child became Earl Louis Cheschin. The youngster's brother/uncle and sister/aunt were more than 20 years his senior. Their children were Earl's nieces and nephews, but were, on his second adoption, to become his cousins.

"One of my earliest recollections is that I had two mothers. I didn't know why everyone else didn't, but i knew i did and I thought it was just great . . . I called both of them Mama. Eventually, it became necessary to differentiate between them, so they became Mama Lorraine and Mama Nona."

Young Earl lived with his parents/grandparents Lucille and Nathan Cheschin in East Detroit, while his sister/mother obtained a divorce from Dunsworth and struggled to make a life for herself in New York. She subsequently married Ralph Flores, who owned a dress factory in Spanish Harlem. The child was sent East to visit his natural mother during summer vacations, returning to live with Mama Nona and his father/grandfather during the school year.

After several years, Lorraine's second marriage falled. In the meantime, the Cheschins had moved to West Branch and lived there for four years. The cold climate disagreed with the boy's elderly mother and the family moved to Warren.

At that time, Earl decided he would no longer use his given name, one which he said he never liked. When asked his first name by the registrar at Lincoln Junior High School, the child said his name was Gerald. It ended up Gerrold. "I have no idea where that name came from," the adult recollected. "It just popped into my school for some lad named Gerrold." About three years later, in 1956, a lot of changes took place in the child's life. Mama Nona died. Mama Lorraine took her third husband, Ray E. Smith in June. All parties came to realize that caring for a 14-year-old boy was a little more than a father/grandfather in his late 50s could handle alone.

In 1957, the Smiths adopted Lorraine's son and the boy's sister once again became his mother.

All of his brothers and sisters from his mother's side returned to their original status of aunts and uncles. Nieces and nephews became cousins. And his "father" was once again his grandfather. The boy then had a greatgrandmother, where before he had only a grandmother, and his aunts and uncles became his great-aunts and greatuncles. One of those great-aunts, Ruth Giacobozzi, now resides in South Lyon's

Martin Luther Memorial Home. Not only did Smith move down a generation on the Cheshin family tree, but he also picked up a step-brother and step-sister on the Smith side. Don and Judge Nathan J. Kauffman, televison's "Juvenile Court" judge, presided over the second adoption, Smith said. Kauffman asked whether the lad wished to be adopted by the Smiths, and whether he was now satisfied with his first name. "I told him I was, but I didn't like the spelling," Smith recalled. "So he agreed to change it to Gerald at the same time he legally changed my last name to Smith. Had I known when I first selected the name Gerald that my last name would end up being Smith, I might have decided on something a little more uni-

When he was adopted by Ray and Lorraine 27 years ago, his parents' father sent out birth announcements, declaring that they had just become the "proud parents of a 185-pound bouncing baby boy." The cards went to all friends and relatives, Smith said. His parents remain happily married, living half the year in Florida and the other half in Pontiac.

"People almost always comment on the resemblance between me and my adopted father," Smith said, chuckling. "We always get a kick out of that." Smith said he has had some contact with his biological father, but it was brief

"My real father sought me out and called me on my 21st birthday." Smith said. "That was on August 21, 1963. I don't know what prompted him to seek me out, but it was my first and last communication with him.

"It was a strange experience, talking with a person you know to be your biological father. But in truth, I never had any interest whatsoever in communicating with him. I was glad that he called because I wanted to know one thing — whether he had a full head of hair. He said yes, he did. He asked me if I would like to go to California to meet him and his new family. I told him to send me the money and I would think about it." The money never came and Smith never cared to seek Earl Dunsworth out.

"I never felt a loss for a father figure." Smith said. "I always had one. As a matter of fact, I had several." Did the intrafamily adoption create any feelings of confusion, rejection or abandonment for the child?

"No. I never left the same home," Smith said. "I never left the same large, loving, extended family. I took a brief hiatus from the loving care of my natural mother, but never from her love. I felt privileged because I had two mothers at the same time.

"My mother may have had some extremely misplaced guilt feelings. I hope they have gone away. She never did anything wrong. She never slighted me in the least. She has never done anything she need be ashamed of. I even have absolutely no animosities toward my biological father . . . How can you dislike someone you've talked to for three minutes in 42 years? I hope he's lived a well and happy life."

But a cowboy? DeClercq resists the notion. "Nope, I'm not a cowboy," said the 54-year-old living. A cowboy is somebody who sits on his horse 10, 12, 14 hours per day. Cowboys do everything on their horse. They mend fences on Township.

Despite his protestations, there is considerable evidence that DeClerco is indeed a ging about who had the best horse.

First of all, he looks like a cowboy. He wears a cowboy hat and a cowboy shirt. A pair of spurs seems permanently attached to his well-worn cowboy boots. And a pair of leather chaps rests on a hook just inside the door of Buffalo Acres his Commerce Township ranch.

"There are probably only two active trainers in

"Did you know Loretta Lynn likes to 'cut?' If she were performing in town and we had a cutting show at the ranch, I'll guarantee she'd be out get started in the cutting horse business?

In Belgium, his native country.

"I guess you could say I was born into the the only practicing cowboy in Commerce business," he said. "My dad had a big cattle ranch in Belgium and I've been cutting horses all by life. Of course, I didn't know I was cutting cattie when I worked on the ranch as a kid. It was just part of the job of taking care of the cows."

> DeClercq emigrated to the United States after the war, but it was some time before he renewed his involvement with horses and cattle.

"I hated horses and cattle when I came over here," he admitted. "Being a cowboy might seem like a lot of fun unless you've had to do it for a living. When I was a kid, I had to get up at five o'clock to take care of the herds before going to school. And as soon as school was over, I had to hurry back to the ranch to continue my chores.

"It was a hard life. And I had to do it. It wasn't fun; it was work — hard work." However, not too many years passed before DeClercq was back in the saddle. "I guess it was in my blood," he admitted.

"Horses can get in your blood. Cattle can get in your blood. Eventually I went back to it." He bought his first horse approximately 15 years ago. Started cutting 12 years ago. And purchased Buffalo Acres 10 years ago.

"I never intended to get as involved as I have," he confessed. "But I love It. It's my hobby. I love to train for people. I love to challenge a horse."

And he loves horses and he loves cutting. "In competition, you walk your horse into the herd and bring the cow out as slow and quiet as possible," he said. "The horse has to be quiet-like . . . he can't scatter the herd. You get scored on how quiet to get back. That's when the action starts. "You drop the reins and the horse does the rest. You hold onto the horn for dear life. It's unbelievable how you flip and flop around out there. All you do is sit in the saddle and hold on like heil.

"A good cutting horse will never lose a cow. He'll never let that cow back to the herd until the rider pulls him off. The horse goes nose-to-nose with the cow. He'll get right down on the ground. Right down on his knees. And the cuts! A good horse can cut 90, 180 degrees on a dime. Just like "A cutting horse will cut anything that moves. If you stand in front of him and wiggle, he'll cut you. No matter what you do, that horse will be in front of you before you get done turning."

Although cutting horses still serve their original purpose on the big cattle ranches in the West, the art of cutting cows from the herd has developed into a sport. The competition began in the 1940s with formation of the National Cutting Horse Association (NCHA). Today, the NCHA has chapters throughout the United States, including Hawaii and Alaska.

DeClercq's wife Mary is secretary of the Central Michigan Cutting Horse Association and he's on the board of directors. Dawn, his four-year-old daughter, may well be the youngest competitor in NCHA-sanctioned events.

"There's a lot of money in cutting horses," said DeClercq. "There are horses which already have won over $250,000 in prize money this year. And the season is just beginning. "A cutting horse will cost anywhere from $8,000

Hanzel is practically recovered from an automobile accident in November 1981 that nearly claimed her life and still has left its mark on her physically.

A young woman who once embarrassed easily, the 25-year-old Hanzel has learned to gather her dignity as gracefully as possible whenever her weakened legs cause yet another tumble. She laughingly tells a group of people she's used to her "humpty dumpty" routine. "When doctors have questioned whether or not you will walk, a stumble seems insignificant."

Hanzel will always remember the night of her accident. "You know those nights when you feel like you're tired so you decide not to go out, then you decided to go out anyway. It was that kind of night."

At the end of the evening Hanzel dropped a friend off outside her apartment. Driving out of the apartment complex is the last thing she remembers. She apparently fell asleep at the wheel and hit the bridge abutment at Eight Mile and Telegraph Road.

Hanzel said she didn't normally wear a seat belt, but that evening her passenger put one on and Hanzel, feeling self-conscious, decided to fasten hers. Hanzel said if she had not been wearing a safety belt, she would have been kill-

As it was she broke 23 bones, including both legs and her neck. Her right foot was shattered and her left knee broken. She easily could have been paralyzed if the ambulance paramedics had not treated her properly.

For the next six weeks she was Beaumont Hospital's "prize patient," Hanzel said.

When she awakened in the hospital room, getting back to work was one her first thoughts. She asked her sister to contact the president of the corporation and tell him she wouldn't be in to work the following Monday. "I told her to tell him I'd had an accident, but I'd try to be in by the end of the week. I had no idea what condition I was in."

Within two weeks of the accident her employer notified her she had been fired. "My job was real important to me. At the time they had no idea how long I'd be out."

At that point, her body was still in shock, Hanzel said. It wasn't long before the pain began.

"It was a long, hard struggle. The first thing I asked was when can I get up and walk again. They said: 'Cathy, it's not a question of when, but if you'll walk again.' "

A sign on her bed said: "Do Not Move Patient." The doctors would not allow her sheets to be changed for fear of further damage to her already wracked body. In addition to a broken neck, her spine was cracked.

It proved to be a trying time for a person who prized her independence. "I'm the kind of person who if you told me 'no' it made me more determined to do something."

Her family, which has always been close, supported her throughout her ordeal. And a member of the Jaycee Auxiliary was at her bedside daily, Hanzel said.

When she recovered sufficiently to be released, Hanzel's doctor told her she had two choices: go home with her parents or go to a convalescent home. Her parents, Richard and Sandy Hanzel, took her home, where they provided 24-hour care.

"They moved me, my hospital bed, wheelchair and potty chair into Mom and Dad's. I couldn't have gotten through this without them. They've made a lot of sacrifices."

When her internal time clock confused night for day, her parents patiently fulfilled her requests for glasses of water in the early morning hours. Her sisters Debbie and Margie also were there when needed. "There were a lot of Yahtsee games at 4 a.m. I needed 24-hour-a-day constant care. I would never have received the same treatment at a convalescent home."

Rehabilitation continued for months. She was in physical therapy four days a week. "Now when I come in they point me out as one of the success stories. The therapists say: 'You should have seen her when she came in. She was a mess.' The first two months I came in on a stretcher.

"I've been a test case for my doctor. The test is to see if he has enough patience to put me back together. He says he's going to Florida and not leaving any forwarding address when he's done with

She has progressed from being confined to a hospital bed, to a wheelchair and then a walker. She now walks with a knee brace.

Once physically active — she used to played racquetball each morning — Hanzel now wistfully watches people running and playing games she will not be able to participate in. But Hanzel said while she is envious she is not discouraged by the thought.

"Handicapped" is a word Hanzel refuses to use in reference to herself. "I don't think of myself as handicapped. There are some things I can't do. But it doesn't matter. Everyone has their assets and we all have them to share."

But her experience has also taught her a new compassion for handicapped. She has learned how it feels to be stared at and publicly embarrassed. "We went to a store in the mall to eat and the hostess told me my wheelchair was in the way. She asked if I had to sit in it."

At times Hanzel surprises herself with the circumstances she has learned to handle. She's seen 17 different eye doctors, searching for one who would repair nerve damage to her eye that occurred as a result of swelling in her brain caused by a concussion. She found there are only five doctors in the country willing to undertake the delicate surgery. The operation took place in June and she Wednesday, May 23, 1984 said her eye doctor is optimistic that her vision can be corrected.

Humor has played a large part in Hanzel's recovery. There is her sister who provides a puppet show, complete with a new puppet, each time Hanzel has another operation. Her doctor, Martin Weisman, who during her last operation threatened to make a notch on her foot for every time she'd been under the knife in the past 2½ years. And the Jaycettes who always find something to laugh about, Hanzel said.

At times like those when she lost her job, Hanzel said the support from the Novi Jaycee Auxiliary was particularly important. "They came in and said 'it's only a job."

And as soon as she was able, the Jaycee Auxiliary put her to work. She made telephone calls and mailed letters. Jobs that gave her something to do rather than sit home and feel sorry for herself

"It's given me a purpose to be able to do some good. It's given me an opportunity. The things we do for the community are important, but we do a lot for ourselves in terms of personal growth. Without them I wouldn't have had the fight to get up and walk again."

When she was confined to a wheelchair a club member came to her house to pick her up for meetings, packing her and her wheelchair in a truck and toting her to the meeting. "That's the kind of support I got," Hanzel exclaimed.

As she progressed physically she became more active in the group. She now works as a program manager, travelling across the state to local chapters that need orientation or motivation. "It's given me something to do to get out of the house. It's given me a purpose and a chance to do some good."

She is promoting a Jaycee Auxiliary program to help handicapped and abused children as part of her duties in the group.

Her recovery is not yet complete. There are two more operations ahead, a knee and a foot operation. Then Hanzel intends to move into her own apartment again and look for that understanding employer who won't be overly concerned with the 2½-year gap on her resume.

ed with the 2½-year gap on her resume.

She's thankful to "see the light at the end of the tunnel." And in the future she intends to stay away from hospitals. "Beaumont Hospital's been my second home the past 2½ years. It's a good

World wood

Need some Peruvian mahogany for that special project? Howard Armstrong is the man to see. By SUSAN KAUPPILA

Howard Armstrong, who along with his sons Tom and Dennis, operates Armstrong Millworks in Highland Township, supplies unusual wood from all over the world to wood carvers and specialty in fact, the Armstrongs stock 31 varieties of wood. What's more, much of the wood is available in one- to four-inch thick pieces — something unheard of at most millworkds.

From Peru, the men import teak, walnut and mahogany, which is shipped through the Panama Canal to New

Honduras mahogany, which is more of a brownish color, is used in boats and furniture and is also stocked by the com-

"Because of the trouble in Central America, however, this wood is not always readily available to us," Howard

"We recently imported walnut from the high Andes mountain forest area. We have one plank of Peruvian mahogany in our warehouse that is four inches thick, 26 inches wide and 14 feet long.

"All we have been wondering is how could those Inca Indians remove those huge trees from the hills to the ocean port for export?" Howard said.

From western Africa, the Armstrongs import some unusual kinds of wood, most of which are very hard and tightgrained. Zebra wood, purpleheart, obechie, bengl and bubinga are a few of the exotic varieties they offer.

"The Third World countries, however, are trying to do most of the processing themselves, creating many problems for lumbermen in the United States. The West Africans have sent most of the talented European lumbermen home, along with the knowledge of successful mill operation and lumbering manage-

"Improper sawing of the log can cause extreme warping when it is dry. Then too, they are now cutting the logs shorter for easier removal by elephants from the forest.

"That results in a problem here in the United States because the boards are too short for many applications, driving up the price for wider and longer boards." Howard continued.

While the family imports wood from all over the world, the Armstrongs also stock hardwoods from Wisconsin, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York and the New England states.

"Because of the longer, cold winters, trees from these areas grow more slowly and their wood is tighter together," he

In addition to selling wood, the Armstrongs also sand or plane wood for over 100 companies.

"We have four blades in our 36-inch planer, while most have three. It also has a high-speed, special head to deal with the exotic woods. The planer runs from a 20-horsepower motor — there are not many like it," Howard said proudly.

Although he has been in the wood business for over 30 years, Howard farmed initially. He and his father Roland had a dairy herd which enabled them to bottle and sell the milk.

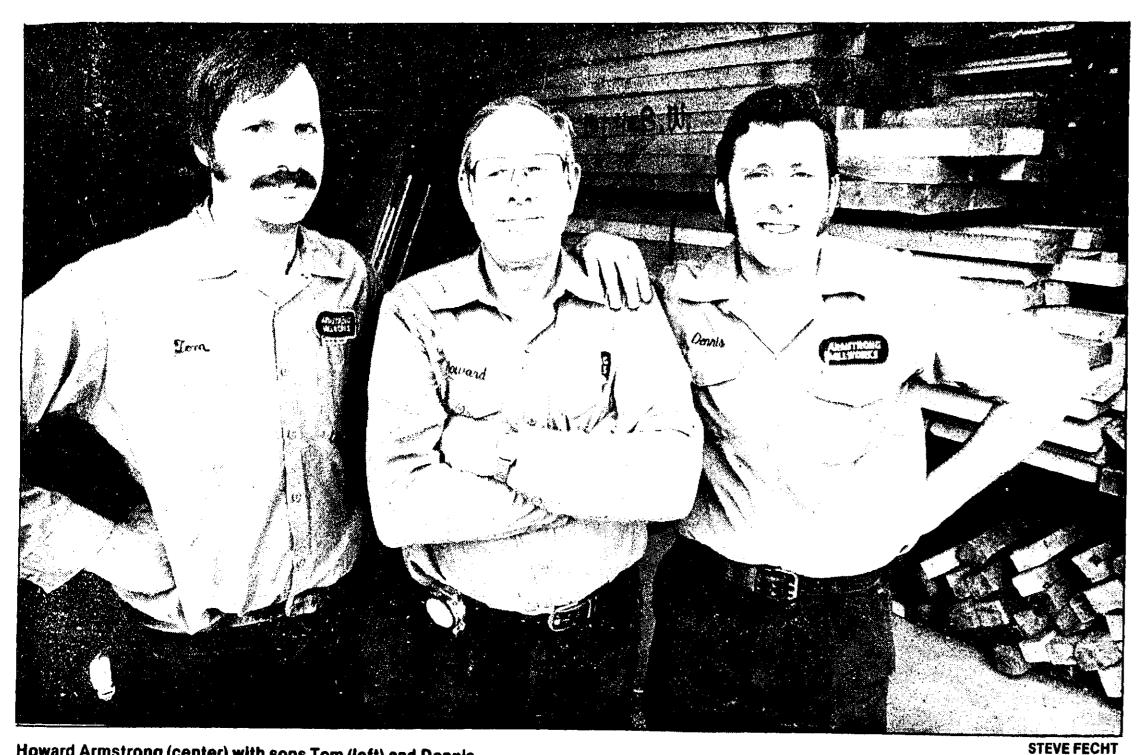

Howard's love affair with wood began when he was enrolled in wood shop classes in seventh and eighth grades.

"I served as my teacher's foreman.

That was Sandy Burton — he was the greatest," Howard recalled. "Working with wood became my hobby."

Another influence on his future life occurred during the winter when Howard and his dad worked in the woods, cutting trees to make potato and apple crates. That led to other things, such as selling the lumber and making special items. Howard learned he had a special talent for making church pulpits, communion tables and crosses.

Although his wife Thelma, whom he married in 1952, did all the finishing work, Howard realized those kinds of projects took too much time.

Ragtop romance

Louie Baird's love affair with automobiles, especially convertibles, is no lemon. By MARILYN HERALD

offecting everything from Shirley Temple breakfast bowls to antique farm implements has taken the country by storm in recent years. The coin and stamp collectors of yesteryear have been augmented by droves of people saving anything and everything that attracts their fancy or may some day be of value.

South Lyon resident Louie Baird is a collector but his 'hobby' is not something for the den or the coffee table. His items are most at home in the garage because Baird collects not stamps or coins but antique cars.

In particular, Baird has an affinity for large convertibles and owns more than a dozen of the 'ragtops'. In addition, he has many other nearly mint condition automobiles mostly Packards, Cadillacs and Studebakers. He estimates his collection numbers around 30 with some cars yet to be restored.

The convertibles are fairly well-known in the area since they make regular appearances in parades such as the Michigan State Fair, the Farmington Founders Festival, the Howell Melon Festival and the South Lyon Memorial Day program. When you see a governmental dignitary in a local parade waving from the back seat of a highly polished convertible, chances he or she is riding in a Baird car. One of Baird's personal favorites among the convertibles is a white 1956 Packard Caribbean with red and black trim on the lower panels. "They only made 258 of those," Baird explained. "There are maybe 75 of them still around. It has been restored and repainted but that is the original color. "It was made during the last year of Packard production in Detroit at the time of its merger with Studebaker." Another favorite of Baird's is a black 1956 Packard sedan which was built for Jim Nance, the last president of the company before the merger. "It has a special interior with kid leather and it is one of the most beautiful driving cars in the country," the collector reported.

How does Baird find such gems? "They just sort of find you," he said. "I belong to just about all the car clubs and my name gets spread around. When someone knows of a car they think I might want they call me.

"Nance was transferred to Indiana after the merger and the car was sold to a dealer down there. A mechanic who worked at the factory there knew about it and bought it. He drove it and kept it in the original condition before I bought it.

"All we had to do to it was what we call 'detail work'. That's taking everything out, even the seats, and steam cleaning it, etc. Sometimes we paint the engine and chrome plate some of the parts to make them last."

Baird said he has always worked on cars and knew he wanted to collect them since he was 10 years old and living in Texas. "I like anything (kind of car) but convertibles are the most popular with collectors."

Baird now hires a mechanic to do the restoration work on his cars. Craig Pavia, 15, a neighbor of Baird's, also works for him, keeping the cars polished and ready for parades and shows.

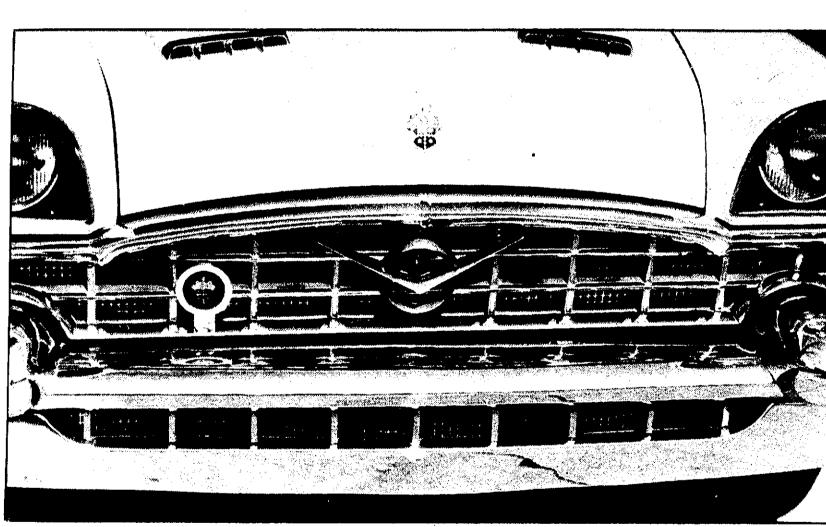

"We have to take them out and drive them once in a while to get the juices working," the collector added. Baird rents storage space for 12 cars at the old Packard factory in Detroit. In addition, he has two barns for storage on his own property.

Spring and summer are busy times for car buffs as parades and shows dot the countryside. Baird participates in as many as he can and enjoys it. Usually, friends assist in driving his several vehicles to distant shows such as the Packard Meet in May at Perrysburg,

A 1957 Cadillac Coupe de Ville with oniy 20,000 miles on it took first prize last fall at the old car show at Greenfield Village. "I had tried to buy that car since 1970 and I finally got it last fall," Baird recalled, adding that his cars have won many ribbons and trophies.

Adding a personal touch to the vehicles, some of Baird's license plates are individualized and LHB-1 is prominent on at least two. Baird said it requires a one-time fee of $10 to license a vehicle over 25 years old. With so many vehicles, he has a fleet policy which makes insuring his cars relatively inexpensive. "Once you get past three, it is cheaper," he added, "but, you shouldn't drive them over 2,000 miles a year."

The collector added that he feels his

The collector added that he feels his older cars are better cars and have better engines than those being produced now. "They have better metal too. But they don't have the modern technology, of course. The brakes are not quite as good, for instance, but the older cars are easier to work on."

Baird also has several cars which he purchased new and kept for collector's items. One of these is a 1958 white Cadillac convertible in its original condition with only 13,000 miles on it.

Another of the cars he purchased new is a Studebaker with only "six or seven thousand miles," he said.

A blue Studebaker Hawk sedan with only 8,000 miles will probably be in the South Lyon Memorial Day parade, Baird said, adding that generally it is the convertibles that are requested for parades.

Baird said he grew up on a farm in East Texas where he learned to drive on Whitnests and Durante He visited Detroit Texas where he learned to drive on Whippets and Durants. He visited Detroit during World War II and liked it so well he came back to Michigan to live and work here. He moved to South Lyon in 1970.

The collector is president of the State Wide Aluminum Company which has a manufacturing plant in Farmington Hills and a show room in Detroit.

Why does Orin Jewelers have a successful jewelry store?

Why does Orin Jewelers do over half their business selling diamonds and precious gems?

It's simple. Orins sells only quality merchandise. We also have the most reasonable prices on diamonds, precious gems and gold jewelery set in the latest and most fashionable styles.

Don't be fooled by ½ off sale prices and special deals. You can buy a ½ carat diamond anywhere from $600.00 to $3500.00, depending on the quality. The bottom line is, that Orins cares how you spend your hard earned money, and we make it a point to see that you get what you pay for.

Does this sound like the kind of store you have always been looking for? If so, we hope you will give us the opportunity to prove the difference a professional jeweler can make.

'I still have many, many problems and a long ways to go. I'm not a quitter. I'm too young to call it quits.'

1983 Rollie Langerman Relays began just like the invitational had for the past decade or so. But for Steve Groth, coach of the Walled Lake Central High School boys' track team, the day would be like no other.

It was an early Saturday morning in April last year, and the meet was just getting started on Walled Lake Western's track. The field events had begun, and Groth was making his rounds, talking to his athletes at the various events. His last stop was the shot put/discus area. Little did Groth know it might be his last stop anywhere.

While talking to some of his Viking throwers, Groth was struck in the head by a wayward discus. "I was talking to a couple coaches and my kids at the discus, and the next thing I knew, I was on the ground," recalled Groth.

According to people near the scene of the accident, an athlete went over to the shot-put circle to warm up for the discus. and threw right into the discus throwing

The impact of the discus on the left side of his forehead lifted Groth three to four feet off the ground. He landed on his back, having swallowed his tongue. Unconscious, and going into convutsions, Groth somehow rolled himself over onto his stomach.

Carl McBride, a Walled Lake Western teacher working at the meet, saw what was happening and rushed over to help

"I owe my life to Carl McBride," explained Groth. "He came running over and pulled my tongue out." Bleeding profusely, Groth regained consciousness. After waiting 15 to 20 minutes for the ambulance to arrive, the vehicle then broke down. Groth, then a very large man, was too big to fit into the first ambulance anyway. He would have to wait for a second ambulance.

When that crew arrived, they took every precaution, fearing that Groth almost certainly had a broken neck. "They were monkeying around so much, Carl was getting really upset," Groth said, remembering the incident. "He kept saying he wanted to get his station wagon and take me."

When Groth arrived at the hospital, doctors were amazed that he was alive. The impact of the discus, which weighs just under 31/2 pounds and had travelled over 80 feet in the air before striking Groth, would have crushed the skull of most people. And if that didn't do it, the whiplash effect from the impact would have broken the average person's neck.

But Groth did not have an average build. He had an extremely thick neck from hours spent lifting weights. Those hours pumping iron probably saved his

The bone in his skull was shattered, and doctors wrapped his head to stop the bleeding. They feared Groth might have paralysis. He did not. Dr. Norman Wednesday, May 23, 1984

Rotter, a neurosurgeon, operated on Groth. To look at the former coach's forehead today, it is almost impossible to tell anything ever happened.

Groth spent just seven days in the hospital. He was, and still is one year later, suffering from severe whiplash, which stretched the ligaments in the right side of his neck. This caused nerve damage to the right side of Groth's body. Doctors have told Groth it may take years for the problem to correct itself.

The first six to seven months after the accident were geared to recovering. "It took a good three months just to be able to walk normally," said Groth.

For the first six months after the operation, he was under strict doctor's orders not to lift more than five pounds.

For someone who had been extremely active in sports all his life, the inactivity was very tough for the 29-year-old Groth to accept. "I had always been an active person, working 14 to 16 hour days," he reflected. "I had to adjust to that (being inactive).'

For the first few months after the accident, Groth described himself as being like, "a spoiled little kid, a real burden, which made it real tough on Kelli (his wife). She's been very strong through Kelli and Steve have been married for almost four years. "It's been hard," Kelli said of the accident and recovery. "The stress level he has been under has hurt me the most. A lot of our plans have been put on the back burner. It's been a rough year. Thank goodness he's doing "I am doing better," said Groth. "To me, I'm in about 40 to 50 percent of the shape that what I used to be before the accident. The last three or four months, I'll have a day where I feel good and take advantage of it — too strenuous. I pay for it the next day." Groth added that he still has days, even weeks, with severe pain in his head, neck and shoulders. "In varying degrees, I have constant pain and numbness on my right side." For Groth, physical activity is limited to walks with Kelli, riding his stationary bicycle and doing yardwork at his inlaws. "I still have many, many problems and a long way to go," he explained. "I'm not a quitter. I'm too young to call it quits. I want to be able to be active." Before Groth can become too active, he will have to undergo surgery again to have a plastic disc implanted in a silver dollar-sized hole in his skull.

Groth has a college degree in physical education and health. As far as coaching goes, Groth, who coached at Central for four years and has been coaching for 10 years, would love to get back into it. "I've always loved coaching and working with the kids, having their company, the camaraderie," said Groth. "I don't want this accident to hurt that. If I can get a teaching job, I'd like to get back into coaching. Definitely, I'd like to get into

"My problem is I'm such a busybody, I'm going to have a hard time slowing down at work," added Groth, who has not worked since the accident. "I held out to the last day to resign (from coaching this season), hoping I could come back. "I haven't been over there (Walled Lake Central) since the accident. It would be a weird feeling. I'd want to get right in there on those kids. I'll want to get too involved. I think of them as my kids. They know I support them 100 per-

For now, Groth has two goals he wants to accomplish.

"I was really hoping the MHSAA (Michigan High School Athletic Association) would put out a rule so that something like this wouldn't happen again," he explained.

"I think I might have to take it into my own hands to see they do something about the shot put/discus area. There has to be something they can do."

His second goal is a lot different. "I want to take a shot at jogging," laughed Groth, "I'm building up to that, it used to be an everyday occurence. Now it's a big from General Chuck Yeager.

"Sometimes, people like myself, who are becoming older have hearing problems. There's no one who really understands how tough it is to be unable to hear high frequencies. I'm impressed with what's been done in electronics and with the hardware which is available today to help people. It's a pleasure to be associated with Miracle-Ear products and Miracle-Ear Centers."

---General Chuck Yeager

---Captain Wally Schirra

from Captain Wally Schirra. "As an astronaut and businessman, good hearing has always been important in my life, as I'm sure it has been in yours. People ask me, 'what did the space program do for us?' Miniaturization and learning quality control. These are the kind of products that Miracle-Ear is bringing to you through new techniques which I think are quite remarkable. Miracle-Ear products have the right stuff!"

It's so small, Miracle-Ear* is almost unnoticeable.

Miracle-Ear The in-the-ear hearing aid.

Miracle-Ear products can help many people overcome problems like hearing only parts of words... straining to hear... asking others to repeat... or becoming confused when spoken to.

Inner Ear canal aid is the most recent addition to the Miracle-Ear line. Notice how small it is compared to other instruments you may have seen! But, just because it is so small, almost unnoticeable, Inner Ear will not fit everyone. And
