City council opposes tax cutting proposal

NOVI — The city council has joined the ranks of public officials coming out against Proposal C, a tax cutting ballot proposal known as Voter's Choice.

On a 5-1 vote the council adopted a resolution expressing its opposition to the proposal. The resolution states the council: "opposes Proposal C and urges the citizens of Novi to carefully balance a desire for reasonable and responsible tax reform against the costly, ill-considered provisions of Proposal C and vote NO on proposal C."

Proposal C would amend the state constitution to prohibit increases in the base or rate of any state or local tax and block adoption of new taxes without voter approval.

City Manager Edward Kriewall recommended the adoption of the resolution expressing opposition to Proposal C, saying Novi is unique in that it already gives voters a large say in their tax rate.

"I think the council is aware that at 6.5 mills we have a low charter limit and we're required to go to the voters on most new proposals. We have enough restrictions," Kriewall maintained. "Novi is not normal. We have to go back to the voters more than most communities. We're not objecting to that. We're comfortable with it. But we don't need another reason to go back to the voters to adjust any movement the council might make."

Problems the adoption of Proposal C might cause for the city would include returning to the voters for approval of the 1.5 mills for construction and maintenance of a citywide drainage system, Kriewall said. "We would have to go back to the voters to get this approved a second time. It seems a little bit ludicrous."

Kriewall said it appears everything from Parks and Recreation registration fees to building inspection fees would be subject to voter approval if Proposal C is adopted. "That kind of responsibility should be left to the city council," Kriewall said.

The cost of the special elections which would be required to get voter approval for fees and taxes could outweigh the savings expected by rolling back taxes, Kriewall added.

Council Member Martha Hoyer supported the resolution, saying in a panel discussion she heard on the subject one attorney suggested it could take seven years to resolve the confusion that would arise if the measure were passed.

Council Member Arlen Schroeder opposed Proposal C on the grounds it subverts representative government. He specifically objected to a provision that would require an affirmative vote of 80 percent of the governing body to increase non-tax revenues such as fees and fines.

"I understand the desire to reform the tax system, but I think the critical thing is that in a representative government we have majority rule and minority rights," he said. "When two council members can override the will of the majority, that's not a democracy any more. It's a travesty on our system of government."

But Mayor Robert Schmid said that although he opposes Proposal C as a citizen, he could not support the resolution as a council member. Schmid said he did not believe the proposal would be as devastating as the resolution purports. "I think citizens have a right to vote on this kind of issue and I don't think the results will be as devastating and drastic as this resolution makes it sound," Schmid said.

Council members went on to vote 5-1 to support the resolution.

Homecoming '84

Bob Huotari and Dee Dee Malla were crowned king and queen of Novi High School's 1984 Homecoming festivities during halftime of the Wildcats' game with Hartland last Friday. Senior class representatives on the Homecoming court were Marie Nemeth, Jamie Tomasi, Cathy Antoczak, Karl Perttunen, George Velarde and Rich Sarlund. The junior class was represented by Matt Kozler and Stephanie Hoops, sophomore representatives were Dave Bekkala and Kristine Huotari and the freshmen were represented by Jason Korte and Lisa McCarthy. The Novi football team did its share to make it a festive Homecoming by beating Hartland 7-6.

Dispatching police cars was part of clerk's job

By KATHY JENNINGS
novi editor

NOVI — There aren't very many things that are kept a secret from City Clerk Geraldine Stipp. But when she was recognized for 25 years of service recently, it came as a complete surprise to her.

Novi council members took time out at a recent council meeting to honor Stipp with a gold watch and a resolution praising her for her service to the city. She has served as city clerk during the past 11 years of her 25 years as a city employee.

In Stipp's early years she was an all-purpose employee: police dispatcher, receptionist and building department clerk, as well as recording secretary for the Board of Appeals, planning board and electrical board — all in one.

"Every day I found out I had a new job. I'd come in and they'd say: 'Oh, by the way you have to do this, too,'" Stipp says with a chuckle.

Serving all those boards may be the reason Stipp seems to have most facts about the city at her fingertips. Those who work closely with Stipp know her memory is prodigious. If she doesn't know the answer she knows how to find it. But Stipp downplays her talent.

"I can't remember everything, but I make notes," Stipp says. "Those, along with my files, jog my memory. Sometimes I remember things that happened years ago better than things that happened the day before yesterday."

Within two years of being hired by the village Stipp was no longer dispatching police cars, but she still clerked for all kinds of boards and commissions. She later assumed the duties of deputy clerk.

It was easier to keep track of what was going on in the community in those days. All municipal business was conducted in the former police station on Novi Road; township offices were upstairs and village offices were downstairs.

Novi incorporated as a city in 1968 and in July 1969 Stipp became the first city treasurer, a post she held for eight years. She was named city clerk when Mable Ash retired in 1973.

As Stipp recounts her memories of the past 25 years the telephone rings. On the line is a resident who wants the Department of Public Works to clean up a project it recently completed. The caller could have been transferred to the Department of Public Works, but it's one of the old-timers who is used to dealing strictly with Stipp.

"I've been responsible for dealing with people ever since I started this job. So, some of the old-timers only want to talk to me," Stipp explains. She takes the complaint and turns it over to the DPW superintendent. "He'll take care of it and they'll think I'm wonderful," Stipp says with another chuckle.

Stipp has seen the city's population quadruple in the past 25 years. Novi's population was 6,390 when she began working here. Now there are 22,528.

"When I started, this was a farm community with apple trees and a lot of loose horse calls (to police). Now it's a thriving community. All we're lacking is a downtown," Stipp says.

As the population has grown, so has

Dumpster debate continues

NOVI — "There and back again" may be the only way to describe the process of revising a dumpster screening ordinance that has perplexed the city council for four months.

After arriving at a suggested amendment to the screening requirements, members of the ordinance review committee decided they had gone too far and now propose using the original standards with modifications to the review process.

The city council Monday reviewed a proposal which would have eased the city's screening requirements and agreed with the ordinance review committee that it no longer meets the city's intent to screen unsightly dumpsters from public view.

The council and its ordinance review committee are taking a second look at city regulations that require dumpsters to be screened.

Earlier this year notices were sent to 205 dumpster users warning them they will be found in violation of the city's trash collection ordinance if dumpsters are not screened. Business owners and residential developments alike protested the requirements, saying they were too strict.

Some of the strongest opposition came from Country Place Con-

Blind mechanic passes away

NOVI — John A. Richter, a lifetime resident and historian of Novi, died October 9 at Botsford General Hospital at the age of 82.

In spite of blindness caused by an accident, Mr. Richter had operated a small engine repair shop at his Taft Road home and been an active participant in his community.

Born August 13, 1902, to Arthur and Ada (Brown) Richter in Novi, Mr. Richter attended a one-room school, Novi West, located on the west side of Novi north of Grand River.

He leaves his wife Mary Welle Richter. Funeral service was held October 11 at Casterline Funeral Home in Northville with Pastor Charles Boerger of St. Paul's Evangelical Church in Northville officiating.

Mr. Richter achieved a certain prominence in Novi in his later years as the city's self-appointed historian. He was well-known for his recollection of the city's early days and was a charter member of the Novi Historical Society.

Despite his blindness, he also was well known throughout the community for his ability to fix small engines. He taught classes in "Small Engine Repair" for the Novi Community Education Department for many years.

In a 1979 interview, Mr. Richter told The News he had always been interested in mechanics, but gained his formal education in the trade at Michigan State Automobile School. He was awarded his diploma on September 23, 1922.

It was about 17 years after graduation that he was blinded. He lost the sight in his left eye as a youngster when he was playing with dynamite that exploded in his face.

He lost the sight in his right eye in 1939. He was splitting rails when a wedge broke off and struck him in the right eye.

Richter's love of tools and "things mechanical" was reflected by his prized collection of antique tools which he kept in a shed behind his home. The collection contained at least 20 engines, including eight stationary water-cooled engines, four two-cylinder Maytag, seven Maytag uprights and a Maytag washing machine.

His favorite was a 1906 International engine he used for general purpose work on the farms.

Burial was in Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi.

School set to collect old papers this week

NOVI — Novi residents who've been saving newspapers all summer for the Orchard Hills Elementary School paper drive will be happy to learn the collection dates have been scheduled for this Friday and Saturday, October 19-20.

People can bring their papers to Orchard Hills on Friday from 4-7 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Papers must be tied, boxed or placed in brown grocery bags. No magazines are permitted.

Funds from the paper drive will be used to improve the front lobby in the school. For more information call Jacqu Schaefer at 349-7359.

Office's staircase jeopardizes funds

NOVI — If the city wants to remain eligible for federal revenue sharing funds, it must make Parks and Recreation offices accessible to the handicapped or relocate the operation within the next three years.

In the interim, the city will move Parks and Recreation meetings to the public library. Handicapped persons also will be able to register for parks and recreation programs at city hall beginning November 1.

City council members learned Monday that these "transitional steps" should satisfy federal government requirements for providing accessible public buildings. If the city were to be found in non-compliance with those requirements, it could lose its federal revenue sharing monies, which in 1984 totaled nearly $155,500.

The parks and recreation building on Sixth Gate currently does not meet federal regulations because there is no way to enter offices on either floor of the two-story building using the stairs, making the building inaccessible to the handicapped.

Other public buildings throughout the city comply with Section 504, the Handicapped Discrimination Regulations of the Federal Revenue Sharing rules, according to Assistant City Manager Craig Klaver. "The requirements specify all city-owned, public buildings shall be barrier free.

To comply with the regulations the city also was required to post a statement announcing the city's policy of non-discrimination. The policy states: "within the limitation of bonafide occupational qualifications, it is the city's policy and practice not to discriminate on the basis of physical or mental handicap or disability."

The policy statement is prominently posted in the lobby of city hall.

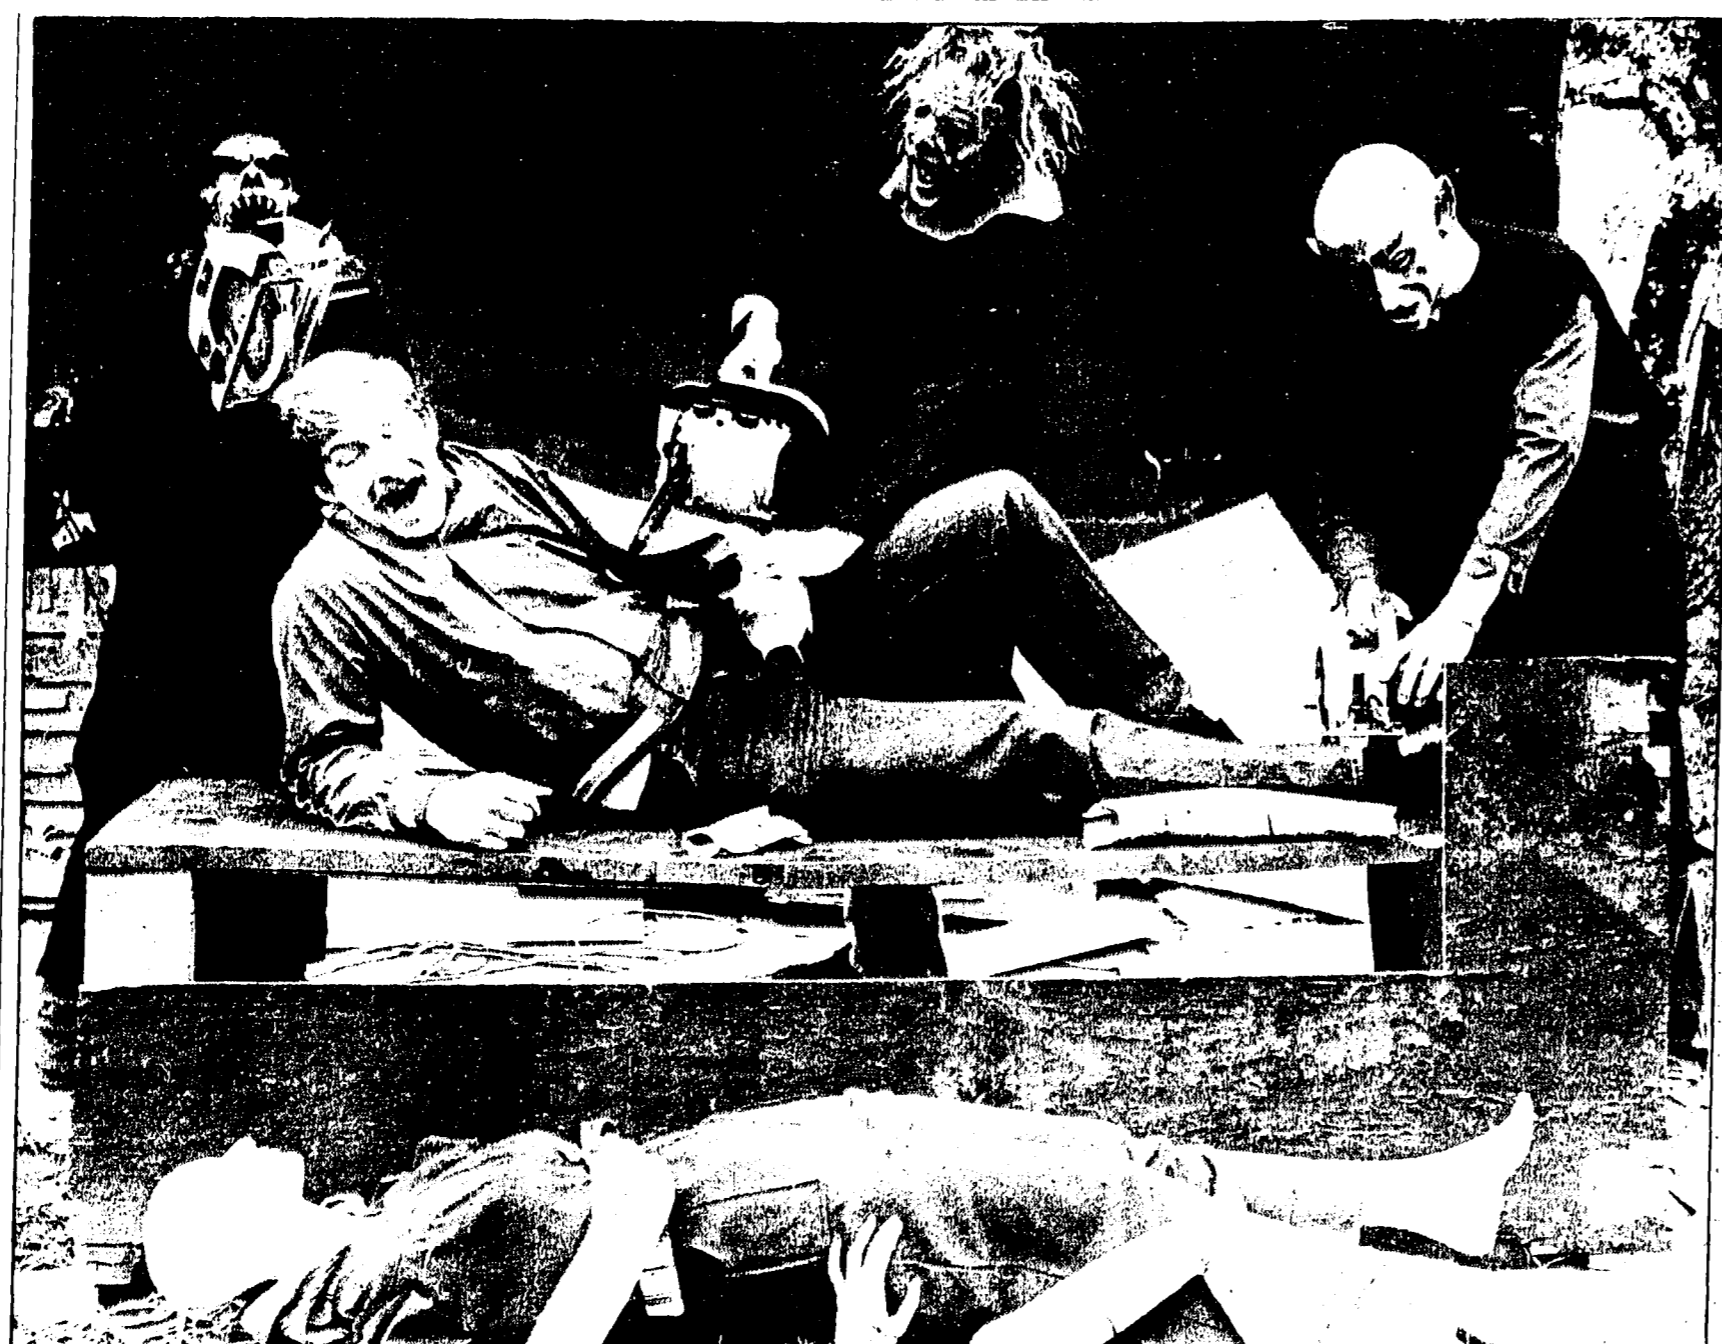

The city appointed Klaver as the staff person responsible for administering the handicapped regulations to meet further requirements.

Adopting the non-discrimination policy and appointing a staff person as a responsible agent were steps taken one year ago. At that time the city was given until October 17 of this year to evaluate all its public buildings and determine how it would bring them into compliance with the federal guidelines.

"The only facility not in compliance is the Parks and Recreation Office," Klaver told the city council Monday.

"This building is a converted residence, and bringing it into compliance would be both difficult and costly. However, a new facility which will house all offices and all activities presently held in the Parks and Recreation Office is being planned. This new building is scheduled to be constructed and occupied before the expiration of the three-year period designated for necessary structural changes."

Klaver explained the city must relocate the offices to a building that complies with federal regulations or "retro-fit" the parks and recreation office to make it barrier free. Remodeling the offices would be difficult since there are steps leading to the entrance and once inside there are steps to the top floor and bottom floor.

House features frightening fun

NOVI — A frightening experience awaits brave souls who venture into the Novi Jaycees' Haunted House when it opens this Friday, October 19.

Jaycees report that the house is becoming more and more scary as Halloween approaches. "We've counted 15 monsters," said Project Chairman Sunny Martyn. "We know for sure the ax-murderer is back."

The Jaycees Haunted House will open this Friday (October 19) and be open nightly through Wednesday, October 31, from 7:11 p.m. Admission is $2 for adults and $1.50 for children twelve and under. The house is located on Novi Road, just south of I-96, behind Novi Elementary School.

Approximately 30 Jaycees have been working since September 1 to make this year's haunted house a frightening one. Although the site is unchanged, the interior layout will be completely different than previous years.

Women, recently inducted into the Jaycees, are taking an active part in the haunted house and will be taking up stations along with the male members.

The Haunted House, an annual Jaycee project, is one of the group's primary sources of revenues.

Proceeds from the project is either returned to the community or used to organize other fundraisers which support such activities as Needy Family Christmas, Senior Citizen Mystery Dance, Memorial Day Parade, Rape Awareness Seminars and Babysitting clinics.

Those interested in learning more about the Jaycees or becoming a member are invited to attend a special preview of the Haunted House tomorrow (Thursday). Jaycee President Jack Riley will be on hand to talk about the service organization.

Highlights of the Haunted House can be seen on cable Channel 12.

Information corrected

NOVI — The News reported incorrectly in its October 10 edition that the Novi school board voted unanimously to adopt a resolution opposing Proposal C (the so-called Voters' Choice amendment) on the November 6 general election ballot.

A resolution in opposition to Proposal C was presented at the October 4 school board meeting, but the proposed resolution was listed under the "for information" section of the agenda and no formal action was taken on the proposal.

The school board is scheduled to discuss and take action on the proposed resolution at its meeting tomorrow (Thursday) in Novi Middle School North at 7:30 p.m. All school board meetings are open to the public.

The proposed resolution states that the school board is in opposition to the proposed tax amendment and "strongly recommends that all registered voters of the State of Michigan and particularly the Novi Community School District Vote No on Proposal C."

At the October 4 meeting, Trustee Michael Meyer called Proposal C "a way of getting back at the income tax increase" that has already been rolled back and was the only intelligent way at the time it was passed to save the state from bankruptcy.

Dursum sets goals for community ed

WALLED LAKE — Providing more vocational classes in the academic area is one of the goals of the district's new community education director, David Dursum.

"I would like to see us have more vocational classes in the academic area, not only for those who don't have a high school diploma, but also for those who do, but are dissatisfied with their opportunities in the job market," Dursum explained this week.

Dursum is heading a reorganized staff — many of whom also are new to the district. The community education department formerly had a director with two administrative "regional coordinators." Dursum now has four non-administrative "program specialists" handling recreation, sports leagues and adult education.

Upon arriving at Walled Lake schools about one month ago, Dursum said he was most impressed with the staff of program specialists in his department. Each has been with the district less than a year, but he noted, "although the experience is lacking, the enthusiasm is not. They are very energetic."

After teaching in Royal Oak Schools for nine years, Dursum said he began his master's degree with every intention of becoming an elementary principal. "But then I took an adult education class and everything changed." The philosophy of adult and community education appealed to him immediately, and he changed the emphasis of his degree to adult education.

Dursum, who holds a bachelor's degree from Western Michigan University and his master's from Eastern Michigan University, came to Walled Lake Schools from Plymouth-Canton Community Schools, where he was an assistant community education director.

In his seven years with the Plymouth-Canton district, Dursum was involved in developing a job placement program for adult education students. "In dealing with the economy at that time, we found that our people wanted a job first and education second." The placement program helped the students develop job seeking skills, he said.

Dursum also was involved in instituting an internship program for adult students and in developing a child care program for mothers taking evening adult education classes.

In addition to his own background of program ideas, Dursum soon will have the results of the community-wide needs assessment survey to inspire new ideas for Walled Lake community education. The telephone survey, conducted last week, was designed to generate input from residents on how the district can better serve the needs of the community. Dursum said the results of the survey will be presented at the November 12 school board meeting.

New speed limits set for Beck Road

WIXOM — Beck Road was reopened for traffic October 10 — but drivers should be advised of new lower speed limits.

The two legs of Beck Road now are joined at Pontiac Trail. The estimated $500,000 project received 77 percent federal funding, Wixom is contributing 39 percent of the local share, while Commerce and Novi are splitting the remainder.

"It was supposed to have been open earlier, but they couldn't stripe the road because of rain," commented Wixom Mayor Assistant Keith Salo. "This was completed about three weeks ahead of schedule, so the traffic signal isn't ready yet. We have stop signs on Beck Road temporarily."

The council approved a request from Police Chief Phillip Leonard to change speed limits on part of Beck Road and Twelve Mile. Leonard said the reduced speeds stem from a sharp curve formed by the realignment of Beck Road.

Along Beck Road between the C&O Railroad tracks and Tamarack Street, the speed limit is reduced from 35 m.p.h. to 30 m.p.h. From Tamarack north to Pontiac Trail the speed limit is reduced from 35 m.p.h. to 25 m.p.h.

Along Twelve Mile the speed limit is set at 40 m.p.h. from Grand River west to Napier Road. Signs will be posted advising drivers that 15 m.p.h. is the proper speed for the curve along Twelve Mile. Leonard said a number of residents complained about speeders along that section of Twelve Mile.

Biggest bear

Students in Walled Lake's elementary schools have been bringing their favorite stuffed bears to their school library this month for "Teddy Bear Month."

Glenary Librarian Bernita King said children have brought over 100 teddy bears to the school library. "What amazes me is how many tough little boys have brought in bears," she said.

Awards were handed out at Glenary last week, and sixth grader Jennifer Adams took the honors for the biggest bear. The schools are featuring books about bears during Teddy Bear Month.

Meanwhile, extensive remodeling of the former Morey's restaurant and lounge is underway, according to manager C.B. Lowe. He said the restaurant and lounge should be open by December for the holiday season.

"The course is being renovated and we should have 27 holes available about mid-way into the 1985 season — about June," Lowe commented.

Joint meeting may spur action on airport project

By LEANNE ROGERS
news staff writer

WIXOM — In an effort to generate momentum on the proposed expansion of Spencer Airport, the council has decided to meet with Lyon Township officials to resolve concerns about the project.

The Lyon Township Board, co-sponsor of the expansion study, voted in August to withdraw from the airport study committee if the concern over possible annexation of township lands is not resolved.

"I think the time has come for some concessions or they won't move," commented Council Member Nancy Dingley. "They want protection of their land, and I can't say that I blame them."

The proposed expansion would permit jet traffic to utilize the airport. The project is expected to spur development in Wixom, as well as Lyon Township. As a result township officials are concerned about possible land grabs by city officials.

Council Member William Wylie said he was not interested in acquiring more land for the city. "I read

(the township's) letter as saying they are ready to work on this," he added. "I'm not ready to say we want to do something that will bind us in 30 or 40 years."

But Council Member John Lee said the communities still need to determine whether the project is viable. "We might be kicking a dead horse. We know it can be done environmentally," he said.

The key environmental concern has been the impact on a large heron rookery on the airport property. But Airport Study Committee Chairman Wayne Glessner has submitted an application to purchase the rookery using state land trust act funds. The airport study offered two plans for expansion that would not affect the rookery.

"We are at a point where we should be close to making a decision," Lee noted. "(But) we can't do that until we agree with Lyon to study it further."

Council Member Dennis Andrews, on the other hand, questioned why Lyon Township was involved in the project at all. "There are other options that I have mentioned before.

We could drop this and annex the land," Andrews said. "All they have is vacant land. We just need for them not to go to the state and say they don't approve of the airport."

A committee with members from Wixom, Lyon and Milford has been studying the project for several years. "I sympathize very much with the study committee. They have been chewing on a dead bone for three years," Dingley commented. "The real issue has never been addressed."

Annexation has been a great concern among township officials. A sore spot relating to that issue has been a joint planning agreement proposed and approved by surrounding townships but not acted upon by city officials.

"We need to forget any hard feelings over the last three years and start a good, sound discussion," Dingley said. "We might be very surprised at their answers to this."

A motion offered by Wylie directed Mayor Gary Lentz to send a letter to Lyon officials. The letter

LCC allows party store across from high school

WOLVERINE — The Michigan Liquor Control Commission recently reversed a previous order and granted permission for a party store directly across the street from Walled Lake Central High School.

Elizabeth S. and Richard J. Noel propose to build the liquor store on the southwest corner of South Commerce and Oakley Park roads, 300 feet from the high school. Under state statute, liquor stores are prohibited within 500 feet of a school.

Both the Walled Lake Board of Education and the Wolverine Lake Police Department objected to the LCC granting a liquor license to any business located near a school building. Because of these objections, the LCC denied the applicants' license request last May.

But the Noels requested and were granted an appeal hearing on the matter in August. The commission subsequently rescinded its original denial and approved the license request in September 1984.

"From looking at this, this commission has the same high regard for local governing bodies as the DNR. They ignored us. They ignored the school district."

Coxeter: 'From looking at this, this commission has the same high regard for local governing bodies as the DNR. They ignored us. They ignored the school district.'

local governing bodies as the DNR (Department of Natural Resources)," said Village Council Member John Coxeter. "They ignored us. They ignored the school district. They ignored what I believe was the spirit of the law," he added.

Village Clerk Donna Thorsberg noted that the Noels have not yet submitted site plans for the proposed party store to the village.

In its September 19 ruling, the commission noted that, "Although notified by mail of the time and place of the (appeal) hearing, no representation of either the Wolverine Lake Police Department or the Walled Lake Consolidated Schools appeared at the hearing."

At the appeal, legal counsel for the Noels argued that the property across from the school is zoned for commercial purposes, including use as retail party store. In addition, letters were submitted from "community leaders and residents of the Dearborn area where the applicants presently operate a licensed

Stack 'em high!

Three-year-old Amanda Middlekauff likes pancakes so much, she'd just as soon take them two or three at a time. The Wixom firefighters were stacking the flapjacks for several hours last weekend during an open house and pancake breakfast which concluded National Fire Prevention Week. In addition to a hearty breakfast, residents attending the open house had the opportunity to inspect Wixom's fire fighting equipment and receive information on smoke alarms, fire extinguishers, first aid and home safety.

Voters to decide council pay

WOLVERINE — Village residents will vote next spring on whether to compensate council members $5 per meeting.

Council members currently earn only $1 per year for their service.

A committee appointed by the council in August has recommended that council members and other appointed officials be compensated $5 per meeting, for a maximum of four meetings per month. In a 6-1 decision, the council agreed to place the matter on the April 1985 ballot.

The current rate of $1 per year for council members is specified in the village charter. Therefore, to change the compensation village residents must approve a charter revision.

Council Member John Coxeter opposed the measure, suggesting that the ballot was similar to voting himself a raise.

Compensation for appointed board and commission members can be accomplished by resolution, Village Attorney Tom Connelly pointed out. In a 7-4 vote, the council made compensation for appointed officials contingent upon voter approval of the charter change to compensate council members.

The Wixom panther returns!

WIXOM — The Wixom panther is back. After more than three weeks with no reported sightings in Wixom, the panther was sighted Sunday at approximately 7:20 p.m. by two boys playing in a field behind their home on Theodore Street, north of the Wixom Elementary School.

"It looks like our friend is back," observed Police Chief Philip Leonard. "It's been more than three weeks since anyone has reported seeing it in Wixom and we were sort of hoping that maybe it had moved on."

"But now it looks like he's still around."

The panther was reportedly sighted by two brothers playing hide-and-seek with a group of friends in a field behind their home on Theodore Street.

One of the boys, a 12-year-old, told police he was running along a creek near the rear of the property when he saw a large, black animal lying on the ground next to the creek. The boy said the animal growled at him as he passed.

The second boy, a 13-year-old, was running a short distance behind the first youth. He told investigating officers that he heard the animal growl, get up, jump over a four-foot fence and disappear into a wooded area on the other side of the creek.

Officer Martin Harp said only two boys said they saw the animal, but a third boy reported that he heard the growl. Harp also said the grass was matted down in the area where the boys said the animal was lying.

The area was covered with grass and leaves so police were unable to obtain any prints.

"Neither one of the boys was too anxious to return to the site where they said the animal was lying," noted Harp. "I have to believe that whatever they saw scared them."

The reported sighting Sunday night was the first in Wixom in over three weeks. The panther, really a leopard, was first sighted in Wixom in early June, and there were numerous sightings every week for a period of about three months.

Leonard also said trappers with Clark's Critter Control, the firm retained to capture the animal, had pulled their traps from Wixom approximately two weeks ago. "They still have traps out there, but they've been concentrating more on Milford recently," said the police chief.

MMA PRESIDENT JOHN THODIS STATE TREASURER ROBERT BOWMAN

PROPOSAL C ADVOCATE RICHARD HEADLEE

Proposal C: Should voters determine tax rates?

LANSING — On one point both sides agree: If Proposal C — "Voter's Choice," as it's called — is adopted November 6, it will result in a massive shift of taxing power away from the Michigan Legislature and local governments to the ballot box.

The agreement ends there.

Richard Headlee favors Proposal C. "If the government must live on less money or if the taxpayer must live on less money, who should make that decision?" asked the 1982 Republican gubernatorial nominee and president of Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Company. "In light of current high tax rates, we believe the taxpayer should make that decision. We know what government's decision would be."

Robert Bowman is against it. "Without the tax increase," said the state treasurer of the events of 1983, "in eight weeks we wouldn't have had enough cash to meet a payroll. The last payless payday we had was in 1959, and we still heard about it on Wall Street a generation later."

And John Thodis is against it. The president of the Michigan Manufacturers Association (MMA) fears business will become "the target of the voting public" if all tax increases must be approved by voters. He foresees voters loading taxes on business rather than individuals.

In a recent interview, Headlee

Headlee: 'If the government should live on less money, or if the taxpayer must live on less money, who should make that decision?'

elects not to bring along a second proposal. Bowman is the Blanchard Administration's official spokesman against C. Thodis is involved in the Promote Michigan campaign opposing C.

To local government, the state constitutional amendment would mean that 80 percent "super-majorities" would be required for boards to increase non-tax revenues — college tuitions, registration fees, dog licenses, swimming pool fees, library fines and the like.

On a seven-member council or school board, six affirmative votes would be required; on an eight-member university board, seven votes would be required.

Headlee admitted the 75-group coalition that put Proposal C on the ballot was itself divided on the super-majority question. "There was a great debate on whether it should be two-thirds, three-quarters or even 100 percent," he said.

A former assistant to the U.S.

Treasury secretary, Bowman worked on Walled Street in the municipal finance department of Goldman Sachs & Co. before joining Blanchard last year.

Thodis said MMA considered that "it takes a majority (50 percent plus one) of the people to elect public officials, a majority of the legislature to enact statutes at the state and federal levels."

Thodis worked in the Milliken administration until joining MMA in 1978. Proposal C would have the effect of amending city charters in some suburbs where city councils haven't levied all the property tax millage authorized in the charters.

"Things have really changed in 10 years," Headlee replied, referring to his own city which was incorporated in the 1970s. "The people who have a stake today ought to decide, not the people who had a stake 10 years ago."

"It's a shot at local government," said Bowman, discounting Headlee's appeal for direct democracy on taxes. "Property tax (voter) turnouts are the worst turnouts in the state... The only one worse is a recall."

Bowman said the section rolling back cities' income taxes on commuters would cost them $40 million annually. Headlee said the lost revenue could be made up by cost savings. "I will eliminate the Detroit transit system and merge it with SEMTA. Second, merge Detroit and Highland Park. It would change the environment for us."

"We've taken the wrong course to help Detroit," said Headlee, advocating low-tax "enterprise zones" in areas of high unemployment. The idea has been advanced by U.S. Representative Jack Kemp (R-New York) and embraced by President Ronald Reagan.

But Bowman argued that business, commerce and tourism would be adversely affected by C, citing the road rebuilding program that began after gasoline and weight taxes were raised in 1982.

"Roads are arteries of commerce and tourism," the state treasurer said. "From 1970 to 1980 we let our roads and bridges decay faster than we repaired them. That four-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax would cost $260 million."

"And here's the hooker: We would lose another $10 million in federal matching money. Altogether we stand to lose a total of nearly $260 million."

Bowman later produced a statement from state Transportation Director James P. Pitz saying Proposal C would stop Michigan's transportation revival dead in its tracks. Except for projects already underway, we would simply have no highway improvement program in 1985.

Eliminated from the 1985 schedule if C is passed, Pitz said, are:

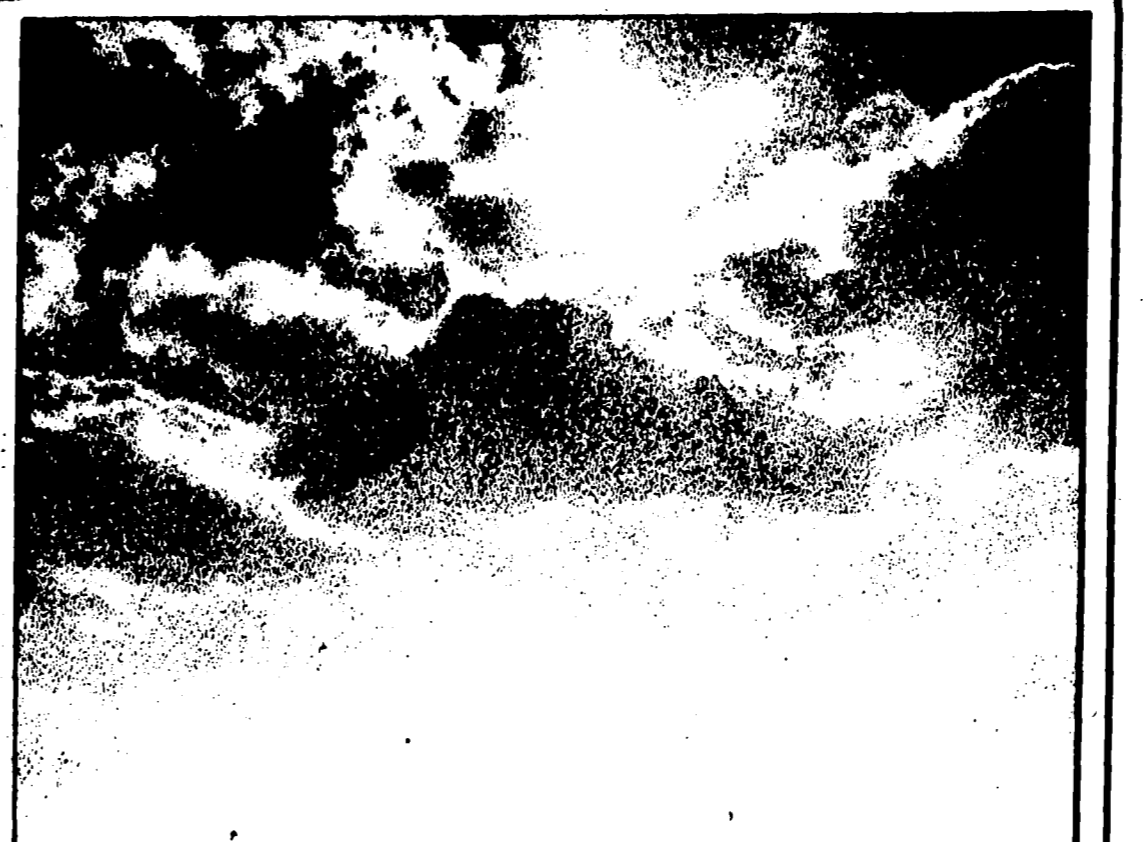

- Reconstruction of the Lodge freeway (US 10)
- Upgrading Dixie Highway (US-10) in Oakland County
- Upgrading a section of Woodward in Oakland County
- Upgrading Telegraph Road (US-24) south of Plymouth Road in Wayne County; and
- Widening Ford Road (M-153) in western Wayne County as well as improvements on both Michigan and Gratiot Avenues.

County road commissions would lose $79 million, municipalities would lose $44 million and public transit would lose $30 million in state funds, according to Pitz.

Added Thodis: "The infrastructure is vital to a favorable business climate — sewer, water, roads, bridges."

Headlee cited the Zilwaukee Bridge — the new I-75 bridge over the Saginaw River which was stalled after a construction cave-in — as an example of unneeded public works.

And he criticized the "Gary Owens lake cleanup" — a reference to the House speaker's advocacy of cleaning up Belleville Lake, where he lives. He saw the gasoline and weight tax cuts as having a good effect on the Department of Transportation because "unless there are restrictions on DOT, there will be no good management."

District works to coordinate junior, senior high courses

WALLED LAKE — Six years ago when the North Central Association (NCA) evaluated Walled Lake's two high schools, one weakness was emphasized again and again.

In "educational-ese" it's called "articulation" or "program coordination." In layman's terms it's simple lack of communication.

The lack of communication has occurred within departments and between departments, between the two high schools, between the two junior high schools and between the high schools and their respective feeder junior highs.

"The lack of coordination is a common problem because of the preoccupation with adding courses and changing graduation requirements," said Secondary Education Director Carl Pacacha. Last week Pacacha told the school board he planned to solve the communication problem for grades 7-12 over the next four years.

"Phase one has begun this year," he noted, explaining that the process of unifying courses between the two junior high schools already is underway. "I'm a strong believer in similarity of course offerings," Pacacha added. "The importance of this phase is that all students should be afforded the same learning opportunities."

Pacacha admitted there would be problems in working out the plan with the teaching staff, but he added: "I taught school for 16 years and I wish I'd had helping courses between the two junior high schools and between the two senior high schools already is underway. "I'm a strong believer in similarity of course offerings," Pacacha added. "The importance of this phase is that all students should be afforded the same learning opportunities."

Pacacha planned to solve the communication problem for grades 7-12 over the next four years.

These goals and objectives will give direction to teaching in the classroom," Pacacha said. "I think we need to get away from 'doing your own thing' — where individual buildings are developing their own curriculum apart from the rest of the district," he explained.

"The project will not work unless teachers take ownership of it," Pacacha added. "It's going to require some effort, because teachers are very partial in some cases to what they're teaching."

ties will provide "greater program clarity for teachers and more understanding for parents," he added.

The final step in completing "curriculum coordination" will be identifying the specific teaching materials needed to reinforce skills not attained by individual students, Pacacha said.

"It's a very ambitious plan, but we see this as within the realm of possibility," he noted.

However, Board Member Merlin Reeds said the program was not ambitious enough. "I would expect a more ambitious time frame. I'd like to see this thing underway before the end of the decade," Reeds commented. "It's been my experience that if you let a program go for five years, everyone gets tired of it."

When asked about the disadvantages of the curriculum coordination plan might be, Pacacha noted the tendency to view performance objectives as "minimum standards." "That's not appropriate for Walled Lake because this is not a 'minimum' district," he responded.

The project for 1986-87 will be of particular importance to parents. The teachers within each subject area will discuss uniform ways to measure the secondary student's attainment of the performance objectives set in each subject. "Student performance can then be judged by the mastery of objectives, rather than the number of papers which were eliminated during budget cutbacks 7-8 years ago.

O'Neill noted there have been 19 accidents in front of Zina's Party Store in the past three years. Two of those involved injuries; the others were property damage only, he added.

Vogel recommended the village add a right-turn lane at the intersection with South Commerce and post a sign on the Glengary cautioning eastbound traffic that drivers ahead may be stopped for a left turn. "This would help the situation," O'Neill suggested.

Glengary traffic discussed

WOLVERINE — Several measures to improve the traffic situation in the village are scheduled within the next two years, Police Chief John O'Neill reported last week.

Concerns recently were expressed about traffic hazards at the Glengary-Benstein intersection and at the Zina Party Store on Glengary. O'Neill told the council at its Wednesday, October 10, meeting he recently met with Janet Vogel of the Oakland County Road Commission to discuss the problem areas.

The road commission has scheduled reconstruction of the Glengary-Benstein intersection in its 1985-86 budget, O'Neill reported. Benstein is to be enlarged by three feet, he said. A flashing yellow light is planned for about one year but then will be replaced with a full traffic signal.

While the county has plans for the Glengary/Benstein intersection, the other end of Glengary at South Commerce Road "apparently will be our problem," O'Neill said.

Tickets still available for DSO concert

NOVI — Tickets are still available for the Detroit Symphony Orchestra's (DSO) concert in Novi High School's Fuest Auditorium on Saturday, November 3, at 8 p.m.

Instrumental Music Director Craig Strain announced earlier this month that the DSO has selected Novi as one of the sites on its annual community tour for the second consecutive year.

"It's really an honor to host the symphony a second consecutive year," commented Strain. "Organizers of the tour generally select different locations each year so as many people as possible can hear the symphony in their own communities."

"They received such a warm response from the Novi audience last year, however, that they decided to include us on the 1984 tour as well," he said.

Leading the DSO concert in Novi will be Detroit Symphony Resident Conductor Kenneth Jean. The concert will consist of music of broad audience appeal, featuring light classics and pops selections.

Strain reported that a special feature will be the appearance with the symphony of Cady Cho, a 14-year-old Korean-American violinist from Ann Arbor. A pupil of Ruggiero Ricci at the University of Michigan, Cho has performed as a soloist with orchestras in Sweden and Denmark. She will play the Violin Concerto No. 5 in A Minor, Opus 37, by the 19th century composer Henry Viemtempers.

Others works scheduled for the Novi concert include Suppe's Light Cavalry Overture, Edward Grieg's "In the Hall of the Mountain King," Berlioz's "Danse of the Will-o'-the-Wisps" and "The Damnation of Faust," Mussorgsky's "Night on Bald Mountain," Saint-Saens's "Danse macabre" and, on a lighter note, selections from "Man of La Mancha."

Stinging attack follows decision

By KATHY JENNINGS
Novi Editor

NOVI — Huge chunks of the city are now being rezoned to bring them into conformance with the master plan. City council members continued the work (October 1) with consideration of property in northern Novi.

However, final action on the rezonings came only after some harsh words were exchanged. When the council failed to muster a two-thirds vote and therefore was unable to rezone one of three related rezoning proposals before Mayor Robert Schmid scolded council members for their action, saying the minority was being closed minded.

It took a second vote to rezone the property.

The property in question, located approximately one-quarter mile west of Dixon Road, abutting the C&O railroad, was rezoned to R-1 (half-acre single family residential lots.) Formerly, various portions of the property were zoned heavy industrial, light industrial and multiple family residential. An adjoining piece of property went from commercial and multiple family land uses to R-1. Another adjoining piece was rezoned from heavy to light industrial.

Edward Johnson, representing the owners of 132 acres of the property proposed for rezoning, objected to the proposal. "This rezoning is down-zoning for the sake of creating another control that will be expensive and time consuming. The present zoning is not unreasonable," Johnson said.

Property owner Greg Donovan reminded council members that he donated property to the city for the Walled Lake treatment plant at a time when the city was about to lose federal funding for the project because it did not have a place to locate the plant.

"With this property zoned for industrial use, we felt we had nothing to lose by donating the land," Donovan said. "We didn't think the treatment plant would be harmful to our ultimate development. But if this property is rezoned residential, we will have put a very big 'baddy' next to us at our own expense."

Planning Consultant Charles Cairns explained the property was proposed for single-family development as part of the city's push to reduce its large inventory of industrial property.

"We looked at these areas in detail. A great deal of work went into them," Cairns said. He noted the land was closely scrutinized because of the size of its wetlands and maintained it should be developed residentially because it will provide the greatest protection for wetland areas.

He noted, however, that if a developer brings in a plan for rezoning the property that will "enhance" the area it could be considered.

two-thirds vote in cases where property owners object to the rezoning. It took two votes to rezone one of the pieces of property under consideration.

After the first vote, Mayor Robert Schmid gave a blistering attack on those who voted in the minority on the vote, saying they should consider voting with the majority in such cases.

"This is the third or fourth time recently that the majority has agreed to a rezoning, but it (the rezoning) has not happened because the minority refuses to change its mind. The minority should think about changing once in awhile," Schmid said to the three council members who voted against rezoning the property to R-1 (one acre lots.)

Karevich responded that she opposed the proposal because the planning consultant emphasized the environmental sensitivity of the area in explaining the need to rezone the property. She proposed the property be used for single family residential (R-1, half-acre lots) which could provide necessary protection for environmental areas.

"I understand the purpose of this is to make it compatible with the master plan and protect the environment," Karevich said. "But Cairns commented many times that the ability to develop cluster housing is most important here because it's an environmentally sensitive area. I did not support the motion because it was to rezone the property R-1, which can't be clustered. It should be R-1 or R-2."

Council members subsequently voted 6-1 to rezone the property R-1. Hoyer opposed the measure. Two related rezonings were unanimously approved without further incident.

'Pillow-case burglars' victimize Novi residences

Area Blotters

Novi Police are investigating two apparently related break-ins. In each case, home were broken into and stolen property was removed in a pillow case.

The first incident occurred in the 4900 block of McHamon, where approximately $70 worth of jewelry and cash were stolen. The owner reported the home was entered October 5 while he and his family were home. Entry apparently was gained through an unlocked front door. The owner said the door was left unlocked because the family planned to be gone for a short time, approximately 20 minutes. When they returned the theft was discovered.

Stolen items included a $500 wedding ring, a $450 watch, $10-30 in cash and $8 in change.

The second incident occurred in the 3000 block of Winfield, where nearly $300 worth of goods were stolen. The thief apparently gained entry through a sliding glass patio door. The owner reported that many rooms were ransacked and dresser drawers were emptied.

Stolen items included a $150 television set, a $125 opal ring, a sapphire ring, a cable television switcher, a 35mm camera and lens, and an ID bracelet.

Approximately $320 worth of tools and tool chests were stolen October 8 from the garage of a home in the 2000 block of Hickory Grove. The owner reported the garage was unlocked when the theft occurred. Stolen were a $150 tool box, a $120 tool chest, a $50 buffer/polisher and miscellaneous tools.

The woman told police she was in bed when she heard someone walk into the apartment, enter an adjoining bedroom and begin opening dresser drawers.

The woman said the intruder left when she made some noise. Nothing appeared to have been stolen from the apartment, according to police reports.

Three separate reports of malicious destruction to mailboxes were filed with police last week.

In the first report, a resident in the 2700 block of Loon Lake Drive told police she saw a Ford Bronco or Chevy Blazer pull out of a driveway, back over his mailbox and then leave the scene. The incident occurred October 13 at approximately 5:30 a.m.

In the second report, a resident in the 1900 block of Teaneck Drive told police five mailboxes had been damaged during the night of October 13-14.

The third report was filed by a resident in the 2100 block of Arbor, who told Walled Lake A car was stolen from the parking lot of St. Williams Catholic Church, 531 Common Street, during a bingo game last week.

The vehicle owner said she parked her 1968 Pontiac Tempest at the church at about 6:30 p.m. Thursday, October 11. When she finished playing bingo at about 10:30 p.m., she returned to the lot and discovered the car missing.

The owner told police the car was locked and she had the keys. She noted the car had been advertised for sale, and several people recently had looked at the car.

The car was described as being in "excellent" condition and valued at about $2,900.

Police report no suspects in the incident.

Someone apparently is planning to play a lot of tennis this winter. A city employee reported that unknown individuals broke into a storage shed near the city tennis courts and removed 120 tennis balls and other athletic equipment valued at $365.

TAX TIPS

LEE E. HOLLAND, C.P.A.

DEDUCTIONS FOR PROPERTY DAMAGE

You know how uncertain the weather can be and how destructive a sudden storm can be to your property. A heavy rain can cause flood damage. A hurricane or tornado, even if your house is not in its path, can cause serious damage and the hazards of falling trees and wind-blown debris. Whatever the cause, if your property is damaged, you may be eligible for a casualty-loss deduction.

The Internal Revenue Service defines a casualty as the total or partial destruction of property resulting from an identifiable event of a sudden or unusual nature. It may be caused by a weather catastrophe, such as a hurricane or tornado, or from fire, smoke, vandalism or an auto accident. The ruling factor is damage over which you have no control. You can't claim a casualty loss if it results from progressive deterioration, such as a roof that is so badly decayed that it collapses during a windstorm.

For a review of property damage that may entitle you to a tax deduction as well as other tax savings possible under the new tax law, why not call us for an appointment?

Studies prioritized by planning board

NOVI — A few of a grab-bag full of studies has been given priority rankings by the planning board.

Planners ranked their priorities in order to indicate to the city council which of the many studies they are contemplating should be decided at this time.

The planning board decided a study to develop regulations protecting sensitive environmental areas, based on information from the woodlands committee report and the drainage master plan, was its top priority.

A study of proper land uses along the Grand River corridor between Haggerty and Novi roads was second priority and a feasibility study for marginal access roads was named the third priority.

At the same time, planners noted research for a keyholing ordinance should proceed concurrently with the third priority study. Planners explain they want the keyhole ordinance to handle on now. "Keyholing is using a small piece of lake front property to provide lake access to a larger, adjoining piece of property. Planners are studying ways to prohibit over-development of the lake caused by keyholing.

Planning board member Brett said the sensitive lands study should proceed with the highest priority because it will provide the city with "a method of handling sensitive areas that we don't have a handle on now." Brett noted the study originally was proposed by the city council.

Planners Riley Richard and Gary Phillips argued the Grand River corridor study should take precedence over the environmental study, but other planners disagreed.

Community Development Director John Hazelton told planners he believes the council will fund each of the four studies, but before approving the work the council wanted to know the planning board's priorities.

All together planners considered eight different studies before unanimously deciding to establish the four priorities for council consideration.

Trustees approve finance committee

WALLED LAKE — A finance committee to "advise and inform" Assistant Superintendent for Business Patrick Donohue has been approved by the Walled Lake school board — in a scaled-down version that eliminated the originally proposed two community member participants.

"I'm disappointed the two community members were left off," commented Board Member Ronald Sevold, Board President Bonnie Venze appointed herself and Trustee Kenneth Tucker to serve on the panel.

Other committee members include Superintendent Don Sheldon, Supervisor of Accounting/Purchasing Paul Martini and one additional administrator to be appointed by Sheldon and Donahue.

"I have a problem with the three-four split (of board members and administrators)," Trustee Merlin Reeds commented.

Heidi Wilkins, president of the Walled Lake Education Association, noted that she has a problem with the absence of each finance committee meeting are to be provided to all board members. Jackman also stipulated that a time frame for reviewing the success of the committee be established.

Although the board members will be afforded copies of the agendas and minutes, the finance committee meetings apparently will not be open to the public. Because only three board members (not a majority) will be serving on the committee, the state Open Meetings Act does not require that the meetings be open.

Tiger fans

Schools throughout the Walled Lake district participated in the World Series excitement last week by declaring various "Tiger Days" for students. A host of Looon Lake Elementary children showed up in their best Detroit Tigers fan outfits on Friday, including (left

Pumpkin event set

NOVI — Halloween is just two weeks away and Novi's Parks and Recreation Department has announced two events to mark the annual holiday.

A "Design-a-Pumpkin" contest will be held at the Novi Community Building on Novi Road on Sunday, October 28, at 1 p.m. Sponsored by Foute Gravely Tractor in conjunction with Novi Parks and Rec, the contest will offer prizes in four age categories: five-and-under, 6-9 years, 10-11 years and 12-and-over.

Prizes will be given for best design, funniest and scariest pumpkins. Local celebrities will serve as judges.

Pumpkins must be purchased the day of the contest; proceeds will be donated to the Parks and Recreation Department. Potential entrants must register in advance by calling 949-1976.

In addition, refreshments will be available and there will be free tractor-pulled hayrides.

The second event is the annual "Preschool Halloween Party" in the Novi Community Building on Monday, October 29, at 3:30 p.m.

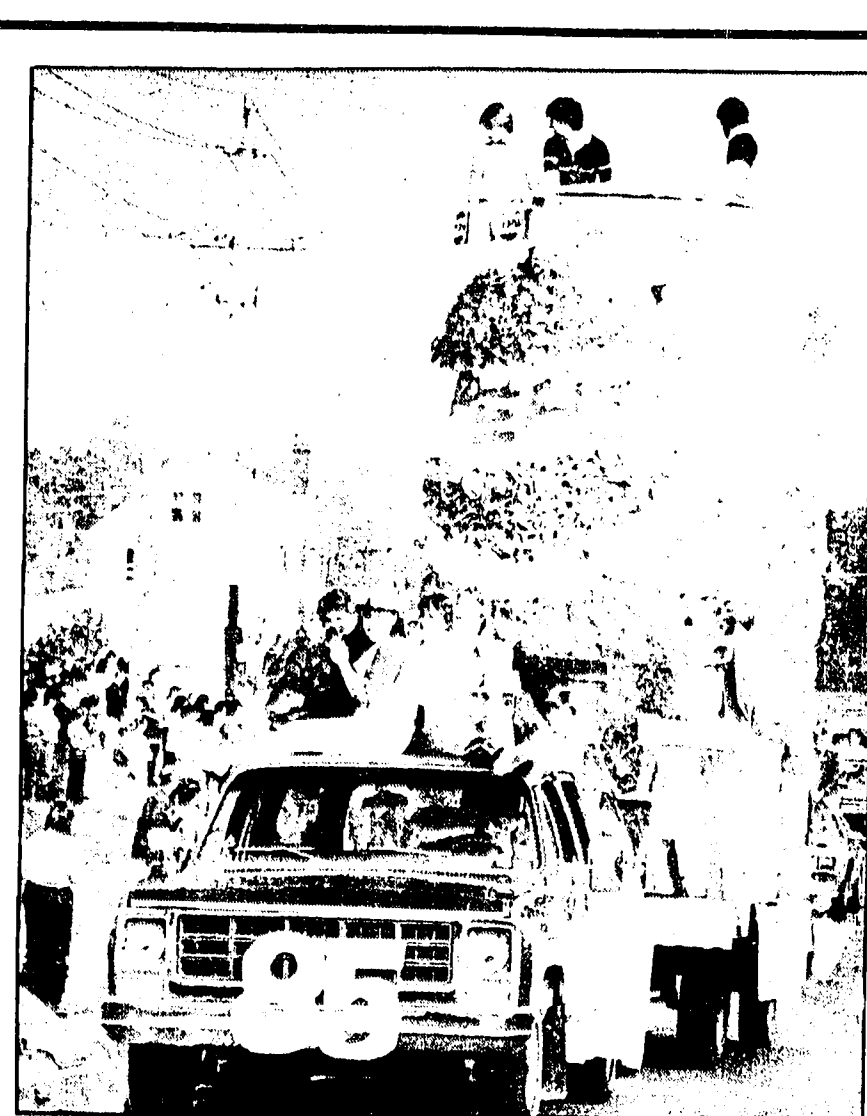

Featured will be games, refreshments and a costume parade for preschool youngsters.

Registration deadline is Friday, October 26. Call 349-1976 for reservations. A fee of $1 per child will be collected at the door.

Gala Homecoming

Starting with the annual parade last Friday afternoon, Novi High School students enjoyed gala homecoming festivities. Pictured above in the parade are the variety cheerleading squad on the left and the "Join the Wildcat Generation" float made by the senior class on the right. Bob Huotari and Dee Dee Mallia were crowned Homecoming King and Queen during halftime festivities, and John Osborne's Wildcat gridders made it an all-around successful day by posting their first win of the season with a 7-6 victory over the Portland Eagles.

Clerk recalls 25 years of service the city staff. The clerk's post has grown from one person serving the police department and a number of boards, to a three-person operation. A deputy clerk and an elections clerk assist Stipp.

Stipp says there is no one particular aspect of her job she enjoys most. "I enjoy the whole job. I like all the different facets of it."

And it is a many-faceted job. Her department serves as the general information center for the city. Other facets include administering elections, keeping records, setting up meetings, preparing agendas and pulling together back-up material for the council, posting meeting notices, administering oaths of office and overseeing her department.

Professionally, Stipp is a member of the International Institute of Municipal Clerks, the Academy for Advanced Education of I.M.C., Secretary/Treasurer of the Michigan Municipal Clerk's Association and the Oakland County Clerk's Association.

"We're trying to find new ways to do things better all the time," Stipp explains. "We're doing more and more with less employees, so we have to come up with new ways to do things."

Computers are saving time in the area of elections and council minutes, she adds.

Sharing information on better, more efficient ways of doing things is one of the objectives of the clerks' organizations to which Stipp belongs.

Beyond her professional duties, Stipp also is active in the community. Every six months she oversees the community blood drive. Stipp is not afraid to stoop to coercion when it comes to getting the blood donations needed to meet the city's goal. Developers are threatened with not getting their site plans approved.

Public officials are coerced with threats of public humiliation; Stipp says she may someday print a "chicken" list comprised of those afraid to give blood.

At election time it's not a question of whether the candidates will sign up to donate blood, but when they will sign up. "I tell them all the other candidates are giving blood and ask when they want to sign up."

She also is active in the First Baptist Church where she teaches Sunday school. She is a choir member, church clerk, and serves on the music committee.

Proposal A would prevent challenge

LANSING — Proposal A on the November 6 ballot is one you should be thoroughly versed on before walking into the voting booth — or you may face total bewilderment trying to figure out what it means.

Here is the wording:

"PROPOSAL A: A proposal to allow the legislature to approve or disapprove administrative rules."

"The proposed amendment would: 'Provide for the legislature or a joint committee of the legislature to approve or disapprove administrative rules written by state agencies to implement state law before the rules may be formally adopted by the agency as law, in a manner now or at a later date provided by law.'"

"Should the proposed amendment be adopted?"

According to the Citizens for Proposal A, a Lansing-based organization, the proposal is an effort to protect Michigan's current Joint Committee on Administrative Rules and its "oversight" function from challenge.

Bob LaBrant, treasurer of the organization and vice president of the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, claims Proposal A does nothing more than maintain the status quo.

The state has had an administrative rules committee of some sort since 1978. Its function is to approve or veto the rules that are borne out of the legislature's laws.

"When the legislature passes laws, they often have very broad aims," said LaBrant. State agencies are authorized to write the technical rules.

In the classical definition of the separation of powers the legislature writes the law, the executive branch administers the law and the judicial branch interprets the law.

"In today's society, these functions frankly overlap," said LaBrant.

Since most state constitutions track the federal constitution closely, state lawmakers became concerned that Michigan's system could be challenged. LaBrant said, however, "This is not a radical experiment in government. We have had this system since January 2, 1978."

If Proposal A passes, Michigan's constitution will be protected from challenges by including this exception to the separation of powers act.

Joint meeting set

Included in the motion was a proposal to establish a subcommittee with two or three members from each community to begin drafting the basis for an agreement between the communities. The concerns to be discussed were to be taken from minutes from earlier joint meeting of the council and township board.

The motion was approved with a single opposing vote cast by Andrews.

Executive candidates debate Oakland finances

By TIM RICHARD
observer-occasionalist

PONTIAC — To incumbent Daniel T. Murphy, being Oakland County executive means bringing new industry here while holding down service costs and taxes.

To challenger Johannes Spreen, being county executive means pumping more funds into the sheriff's department which he has headed for 12 years.

"We've done well by the sheriff," said Republican Murphy, 60, in a recent debate with Spreen. "When the sheriff's needs have been documented, he has received the money."

"If there has been sufficient funding, I'm not aware of it," said Democrat Spreen, 65, who is leaving the sheriff's office to take on Murphy. "Without a safe county, you can't have economic development," he added, visualizing an Oakland County losing population and business because people fear for their safety.

Throughout the debate, Murphy continually emphasized his Economic Development Division's long-term recruitment of high-tech industry. Spreen answered nearly every question in terms of funding for law enforcement and both candidates claimed to be the better manager of the taxpayer's dollar.

Murphy, in office 10 years and seeking a new four-year term, said that "despite one of the worst economic recessions the area had seen in 40 years, we have been able to balance the budget every year, reduce the number of county employees and still provide some of the finest services in the nation."

"Our county has won 35 national awards for having model programs for job training, emergency medical service, health care, recreation and many others," he said.

Murphy, the first county executive in Michigan, said the sheriff's budget grew from $3 million in 1972 when Spreen became sheriff to the current $19 million. He placed the cost of Spreen's unmet demands at $30 million and said Spreen's is the only county department which consistently exceeds its budget.

Spreen said, "We need a new county executive who will improve law enforcement. Public safety has been ignored at best, undermined at worst. The money is there for law enforcement and crime prevention."

He visualized the sheriff providing an "umbrella" of services for 42 local police departments. But for the rest of county services, Spreen said, "We need less government, not more."

The sheriff complained that his 60-on-the-road deputies had been reduced to 25, two helicopters reduced to zero, one crime prevention person reduced to zero and jail space is insufficient.

Asked how eight jail prisoners managed to escape, Spreen said only one got away — "We caught the other." And he blamed Murphy for failing to fix a skylight.

Murphy shot back: "I thought he was running for county executive, but he's been up here running for sheriff all day. We ought to be discussing the total picture... There are 36 other departments and just so much money. You must look at the county as a total agency, and that's how I look at it."

Here is how the candidates fielded questions from a panel of reporters:

What image do you think the voters have of you?
Spreen: "Creativity. Innovative. A man of courage. Murphy is closest in his office and doesn't meet the people. I've asked several times for an audience with you, Dan, and have been refused."
Murphy: "A manager of county government who has kept taxes down, who has been tight with their money, who has never asked for a tax increase, doesn't intend to and never will... An open door."

best place in the country for high-tech companies. It will take years for the county effort to pay off, but Murphy thinks people will say "When the next downturn comes, it's not going to be as bad as it was the last time."

What have you done (would you do) for the south end of the county?
Murphy: "The south end has 70 percent of the population and gets 70 percent of the health services, 70 percent of the swimming pool inspections, 70 percent of the space in the children's home. We helped the local units defer the cost of 1,696 (renewal) construction. We're not always going to be right, but we're going to be fair."
Spreen: "The south end is getting the short end. I would establish satellite offices." Spreen added he was tired of hearing about his overtime costs "for years and years and years," and complained that the jail was understaffed.

What need is there for the Economic Development Division?
Spreen: "Without a safe county, you can't have economic development. This (Murphy's) Economic Development Division is nine years after he is county executive. I would do the same thing, but I wouldn't take a trip to Paris."
Murphy: "That's the future of this county, the No. 1 issue. If we don't move (to recruit industry), somebody else will get the business. It didn't look bad (in Oakland) until that last downturn in 1979. I heard of several companies which wanted to locate, but no one was helping them. Oakland is the dominiums. The complex originally was notified that only six of its 36 dumpsters complied with the city's screening ordinance.

Residents then met with the ordinance review committee to discuss alternative requirements.

"What we came up with relaxes the ordinance," said Council Member Patricia Karevich. "It makes the dumpsters appear more neat. They would be in one place and have some screening or something around it to screen them. You would still be able to see the front of the dumpster. It would be located so it would be convenient to garbage trucks."

Karevich said the committee had second thoughts about its proposal after it began applying the new standards to specific cases. After viewing pictures taken by Council Member Edward Lelinger, the committee came to the conclusion the compromise arrived at would not provide sufficient screening.

"We found we had diluted the ordinance to such a degree that it no longer met our original intent," Lelinger said.

The committee went on to suggest the city could impose the original standards if it allowed dumpster users with existing screening to retain their screening.

Through revisions to the appeal process in the ordinance, relief can be granted to those with "a reasonable enclosure that is attractive and not an eyesore," Lelinger explained.

Members of the audience encouraged the council to act on the committee's first proposal and relax ordinance requirements. The audience suggested the council simply would be starting the process all over again if they make the condominium project go through another review.

But council members viewed the proposed revision as too lenient and asked the committee to continue its work on the regulations.

Mayor Robert Schmidt asked residents' forgiveness for the length of time being spent on the dumpster ordinance.

Schmidt said: "It may seem like we're spending an awful lot of time on this. But 15 years from now this community could look attractive or look very poor. Ultimately, this could affect the value of homes. So I think we should be forgiven if we take a long time on it. We're working to come up with an ordinance that will be acceptable to the citizens and at the same time allow the city to remain a viable, quality community."

But Council Member Arlen Schroeder questioned whether the city should be trying to regulate the appearance of dumpsters in residential areas.

"I think the reason I and so many of my neighbors are agitated about this issue is that we don't want to be reconsider the same as a commercial development," Schroeder said. "When you look at it, everyone has a dumpster. In a single family home it's a garbage can and it's kept in a dumpster enclosure called a garage. It would be ridiculous for the council to pass an ordinance saying everyone must keep their garage doors closed during certain hours or that garages must face a certain direction so that people would not be able to see the trash can."

Schoeder added that the ordinance was passed because of problems with commercial developments, but apartments and condominium complexes also are "caught up in it."

Schroeder suggested the council reconsider its definition of public view as it applies to residential areas. "This is not a health and safety question; it's only an aesthetics question. I think the city is going too far to go into everyone's garage to try to legislate these things."

Other council members supported the committee, however, and agreed the matter should go back to the appeal process without relaxing screening requirements.

Residents and business owners were informed they could attend the next meeting of the ordinance review committee where the new proposal will be discussed.

A SEQUICENTENNIAL POTLUCK dinner is planned for Thursday, October 18, at the Richardson Community Center, 1485 Oakley Park Road. Potluck dinners began nine years ago when a group of "old time" residents began to meet. The residents came from the original township area which included Wixom, Walled Lake, Wolverine Lake and homes bordering on other townships.

The potluck dinner is being held as part of the Sequicentennial celebration. A feature of the event is the "Remember When" table displaying old pictures, news items and keepsakes brought in by persons attending the dinner. Persons attending should bring their own place settings and a dish to pass. A beverage will be provided. For more information call 624-2390 or 624-2396.

A FITNESS TRAIL in Wolverine Lake Village's Clara Miller Park may be started yet this fall.

The village council last week accepted the low bid of $14,030 for clearing the trail and installing the fitness equipment. "Hopefully we can try to get some work done on it this fall," said Village Administrator John Berchold.

Letover funds from the village's 1983-84 community development block grant allocation, combined with the 1984-85 allocation, will fund the trail, Berchold explained.

The fitness trail is part of the first stage of park improvements proposed in a master park plan approved by the village council last January. Other proposed improvements include bicycle paths, new tables and grills and additional landscaping.

THREE TOWNSHIP PLANNERS were appointed by the Commerce Township Board to new three-year terms last week.

Reappointed by the board were George Allard, Edward Holmes and Gerard Sweeney. Their terms will expire September 30, 1987.

Acting on a request from the Parks and Recreation Committee, the board increased that body's membership from six to seven members. Appointed to fill the newly-created seat was Richard Poole.

Annual run scheduled

NOVI — The annual "Run for Reyes" will be held Saturday, October 27, at Novi Middle School North.

Co-sponsored by The Farm and Laurel Steel in conjunction with the Novi Jaycees and Novi Parks and Recreation Department, this year's event will feature a one-mile fun run from 9:30 a.m. and an eight kilometer run at 10 a.m.

Proceeds from the annual event are donated to the Reyes Syndrome Foundation.

Race Director Thomas O'Branovic said there will be separate age divisions for men and women in the eight kilometer race: 12-and-under, 13-18, 19-24, 25-29, 30-34, 35-39, 40-49 and 50-and-over. The top three finishers in each age division will receive awards.

The first male and female finisher in the fun run will receive an award, and all fun run finishers will receive a patch.

Entry fees for the fun run are $6 before October 19 and $7 the day of the race. Entry fees for the 8K race are $8 before October 19 and $10 the day of the race. Registrations on race day will be accepted in the Novi Middle School North cafeteria from 8:30 to 9:15 a.m.

The first 250 entrants will receive a long-sleeved shirt.

O'Branovic said shower facilities will be available and a merchandise drawing will be held after the race. Race results will be mailed upon request.

To register or for more information call the Novi Parks and Recreation Department at 949-1976.

zoning board members be compensated. Council Member Patricia Howarth suggested that police and recreation members also should be included.

The maximum cost to the village for compensating council members $5 per meeting would be $1,800. If all seven council members attended four meetings per month, 12 months a year.

The maximum cost for compensating the nine-member planning commission, seven-member zoning board and nine-member parks and recreation commission — all of which typically have only one meeting per month — would be about $1,500.

Village Clerk Donna Thorsberg noted that the question of compensating council members has been on the ballot and turned down by voters twice before, although she could not remember specifically what years.

Voters should issue a strong 'no' to Proposal C

Proposal C, the "Voter's Choice" state constitutional amendment, is a simple sounding proposal that promises confounding results if passed by voters in the November election.

This proposal to put virtually all tax decisions, both state and local, into the voters' hands sounds inviting. But in their effort to punish state government, the drafters of Proposal C have forwarded a formula for financial disaster for state and local governments, as well as for school districts throughout the state.

The ballot proposal would:

- Prohibit changes in the base or rate of any state or local tax without voter approval, and prohibit any adoption of new taxes without voter approval;
- Invalidate all new state and local taxes levied since the end of 1981 unless/until approved by voters;
- Void new state and local license fees, user permits and other fees levied since the end of 1981, unless/until approved by a four-fifths vote of the legislature, the local governing body, or approved by a vote of the electorate;
- Limit non-resident city income taxes to 0.5 percent;
- Require all future tax proposals to state the purpose, anticipated revenue and expiration date.

The problems with Proposal C start with its language. It is unclear at what point the amendment proposes to establish the current "base or rate" of state or local tax. In addition, the provisions calling for taxes to be rolled back to the 1981 level "unless/until" approved by voters has not been clarified.

Said Walled Lake Schools Assistant Superintendent for Business Patrick Donohue: "This proposal is very much subject to interpretation. If it passes, it will be in the courts for many years." The Oakland County Treasurer's Association described the proposal as "complicated, confusing, and subject to various and conflicting interpretations which will lead to expensive litigation to gain judicial clarification."

The problems of Proposal C continue with its potential impact if passed.

For example, Proposal C calls for a rollback of state-collected gasoline and car registration tax rates to their December 31, 1981, level. That four-cents-a-gallon gasoline tax rollback could cost an estimated $20 million, plus an additional $310 million in matching federal money. State Transportation Director James P. Plitz has said the proposal would eliminate highway improvements in 1985, including the reconstruction of the Lodge freeway, upgrading Dixie Highway in Oakland County and upgrading a section of Woodward in Oakland County — all slated for 1985.

The educational community would feel the impact in three major ways. First, a reduction in state taxes to the 1981 level would reduce the state school aid fund, which would result in an Executive Order reducing 1984-85 state appropriations to all levels of the educational sector.

Second, the rollback in fees apparently would require all community colleges to reduce their tuition to December 31, 1981, levels. The tuition loss throughout the community college system is estimated at about $28 million if this were to occur. If the amendment is interpreted to include public four-year universities and colleges, the loss would be about $67 million, according to the Citizens Research Council of Michigan.

The third impact on the educational sector would occur if changes in the base or rate of any state or local tax after December 31, 1981, were made void. The truth-in-taxation law requires local taxing units to reduce their millage anytime an increase in assessed values results in a local revenue increase. However, the local governing body may restore the millage by a special vote, thereby benefitting from increased property values.

Because those restorations are not voted by the people, all those voted since 1981 may be rolled back under the proposal. This loss not only would be felt in the school districts, but in local cities, townships and villages, as well.

Vitally needed local revenues would be jeopardized if the state is forced to make drastic cutbacks following passage of Proposal C. But just as important is Proposal C's stab at the basic concept of a representative government. The measure would destroy the provisions of long-standing Home Rule City and Home Rule Village acts under which citizens already have the power to set city and village maximum tax rates.

It would require cities and villages to conduct costly and frequent special elections to increase operating levels and would undermine the notion of a representative government and replace it with a system of expensive elections.

Perhaps the most important rationale for opposing Proposal C is that it totally alters the way government in this country operates. By removing all taxing authority from local officials, Proposal C abandons representative government as it has been conducted in this country for more than 200 years.

In addition to removing all taxing authority, the drafters of Proposal C would also make it possible for a tiny minority to present essential increases in governmental fees for items as mundane as dog licenses and building permits. These are commonly altered in accordance with the cost of administering such routine functions, yet the Voter's Choice proponents are so intent on taking over government that they would not allow citizens to decide even this feeble administrative matter to government unless a full 80 percent of the legislative body agreed.

A single absence accompanied by a single 'no' vote on a city council, township or school board would stop such fee increases. That is extremism of the worst sort.

Demanding better accountability on revenue spending by state and local governments is a reasonable notion. But the costly and ill-conceived provisions of Proposal C promise financial chaos for all concerned.

If Voter's Choice proponents are so distrustful of elected representatives, why are they so willing to assume that merely cutting off the money at the source would result in better government? Behind Voter's Choice is the sometimes spoken assumption that if the politicians didn't have the money, they would spend what they had more wisely. Yet we have recent evidence that suggests this is a misguided notion.

The real answer to dissatisfaction with representative government is to elect new representatives. Whether at the township board or the state senate level, this is the method provided for in our constitution. By amending that constitution to put all taxing authority in the hands of the voters, Proposal C would also remove the representatives of virtually all responsibility and require the voters to take on the burden of deciding a great many complicated matters.

In an ideal democracy, where all citizens are fully-informed and have the time and money to study every issue put before them, that might work. But the next logical step is to eliminate government entirely and vote on everything — perhaps an equitable means of running a small club, but hardly an efficient method of operating a modern government.

'No' for Proposal A

When bills are approved by the legislature, the appropriate state agency prepares the administrative rules for implementing the laws. The Legislature's Joint Administrative Rules Committee reviews that document and must approve it before implementation.

Proposal A on the November 6 ballot asks voters to establish the rules committee as part of the Michigan Constitution. Supporters of Proposal A indicate the action is needed to protect the public from bureaucratic rules that distort the legislature's intent.

Proposal A backers have failed to prove their case. The state certainly does not need a permanent group of legislators who will determine after the fact what laws mean. The most obvious need is for the legislature to write clear and concise legislation that leaves little chance for misinterpretation.

If the legislature does its job correctly in preparing laws, it is reasonably to expect the executive branch and its minions to do likewise. It is the function of the legislative branch to generate laws, the executive branch to enforce them. Certainly the legislature can and should correct any administrative misinterpretations. A few members of the legislature should not be established to determine the entire body's intentions. When there's a dispute, it should be directed to the third branch of government — the judiciary. Proposal A could usurp judicial review.

Instead of worrying that their laws will be misconstrued, the legislature should concentrate on making their intent crystal clear. Voters should say NO on Proposal A.

'Yes' on Proposal B

Proposal B, a constitutional amendment to provide for the creation of a Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund financed by oil and other mineral royalties from drilling and mining on state land, deserves voter approval.

As private business pays for the right to extract minerals from state-owned property, the payments are used by the state to buy land and water for public recreation.

Such a trust fund was established eight years ago by the state legislature, but has not worked as proposed because the legislature continues to use money from the fund to balance the general fund budget.

Voter approval of Proposal B would keep the fund intact, allowing it to be used for its original purpose. The fund would be capped at $200,000. The principal would be invested and the interest on the capital used to buy public recreation land.

Since the trust fund was established it has been raided by the legislature four times. None of the funds have been restored. Consequently, $142 million earmarked for buying parkland has been spent elsewhere.

Amending the constitution to create this Natural Resource Trust fund will stop the raids.

The fund also benefits tourism. Tourism is the state's third largest industry, contributing $11 billion to the economy each year and providing 253,000 jobs to Michigan residents. A cornerstone of that tourism industry is public access to the woods and waters of Michigan. If adopted, Proposal B would provide major increases in public recreation opportunities in Michigan's tourism business.

The proposal provides that up to 25 percent of the total expenditures from the trust fund can be spent for park development.

Sparky needs expert coach

For the life of me, I don't know why Sparky Anderson is worried about the possibility of Roger Craig may retire and not return for another season.

The additional 20 percent drop alone is expected to push costs to the local communities past $23 million. The growth question could cause an additional 10 percent increase when and if federal grants become available, Hinshon said.

Last month, the EPA turned down a request by Wayne County to receive Clean Water Act funding for the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley wastewater disposal system — known as Son of Super sewer.

EPA officials instructed the DNR, which acts as an agent for EPA in the state, to bypass the project on the funding priority list. The money now is being routed to other projects around the state.

Federal guidelines for distributing Clean Water Act funds changed October 1, including the new maximum of 55 percent and the "no growth" clause. Although EPA officials cited a variety of deficiencies in the project planning, Hinshon claims growth was one of the major factors in the bypass decision.

"Growth was a concern of the EPA, that there was major growth capacity in the system," Hinshon said. But Charles Suttin, regional EPA director, said there was not enough information to make that decision. "The decision not to fund this project was based on a lack of information," he said. "Ultimately, if we had the information, growth might have been a competing factor."

DNR's Hinshon said EPA asked about the growth information included in the DNR report.

"Couldn't he see Petry didn't have it. You should have seen Lance Parrish. He was jumping all over the place trying to catch his pitches. He looked like a cheerleader — jump up, jump down, jump to the left, jump to the right — stand up, slide down, fight, fight, fight."

"Then somebody named Bevacqua who's only hit one homerun all year comes up and hits a three-run dinger over the fence. What's wrong with that Craig?"

There was more of the same Sunday when the Padres again started getting to Petry. "Get him out of there," she said after the Padres narrowed the gap to 3-1.

And when they knotted the score an inning later, she was furious. "Why did that Craig leave him in so long? Couldn't he see Petry was in trouble? What's wrong with that guy? Doesn't he know anything about pitching?"

I tried to assure her that Roger Craig is one of the most respected pitching coaches in the majors. But she wouldn't believe me, and she said the proof was right there on the television screen for everyone to see.

So, Sparky, if Roger finally decides to hang them up for good this year, there's nothing to worry about — just call my wife. Next year you'll probably win 112.

Sign won't control traffic hazard Letters

To the Editor:

Once again Novi's elected officials have displayed questionable judgement in dealing with the safety of the city's pedestrians.

On any given day there are pedestrians traveling between Twelve Oaks and West Oaks Mall, using the common traffic intersection on Novi Road. Unfortunately, the intersection is extremely dangerous because it was designed for automobiles not pedestrians.

Faced with this problem, Mayor Schmid and the council set out to do something about it. Their solution? Retain the lights? Design some pedestrian walkover? Of course not. They are going to ask the county to post the intersection off limits to pedestrians. Novi is not a city to inconvenience automobiles.

Where does the good mayor suggest pedestrians cross? At Twelve Mile Road? At the freeway intersection? One is a quarter mile away and the other just as dangerous as the main intersection. Perhaps Mr. Schmid feels everyone should use a car to cross the street. The reasoning is absurd.

Placing a sign warning pedestrians not to cross will not eliminate the hazard. The intersection is still the most convenient route for someone walking and pedestrians will continue to use it. In asking the county for a sign, our elected officials have washed their hands of any responsibility by doing what they have always done — not facing up to the pedestrian problem and hoping it would go away.

Isn't it time for a change? In the policies of the city? Another election is coming next year; let's get ready now to change an administration that does not look at equal rights. Even our police force cannot or will not enforce the speed limits. Why? Responsibility includes adequate safe passage for pedestrians.

The city is currently in the midst of redesigning the freeway/mall intersection as part of the convention center development. There is no better opportunity to introduce a new policy of placing the needs of people at least on a par with the needs of automobiles. Recognize that there will be pedestrians that will want to walk from the hotel to the convention center, to the malls, to whatever else develops along Novi Road, and then plan for them.

Project under fire

To the Editor:

I resent the City of Walled Lake using my tax dollars to improve the lake. I do not, or does the other citizens of Walled Lake, get any credit for the use of their dollars for the City of Novi?

The sign at the site of the dam improvement project gives all the credit to Novi. This is not right. I also protest my tax dollars being used for anything that has to do with that lake if I cannot use it.

There is no boat launching area for the taxpayers who do not live on the lake. If for one cannot see why we cannot go fishing on this lake if we so desire.

I don't see "time for a change" in the policies of the city. Another election is coming next year; let's get ready now to change an administration that does not look at equal rights. Even our police force cannot or will not enforce the speed limits. Why? Responsibility includes adequate safe

'Levy stiff fines'

To the Editor:

When I read your September 19 article about the kittens living in Twelve Oaks' lot, I started thinking about all the other dogs and cats that are just roaming around without a home.

Whenever I see a dog walking along the side of the road all signs and bones. I want so bad to stop and pick it up and give it something to eat and to find the owner or even a new owner.

But always get tears in my eyes and shake my head and keep on going, like many of us do. I know that the problem of dropping off animals will always be here and I can't change it. Maybe if more people were caught doing this and given a big fine, they might think twice before dropping off an animal.

Signs are ugly

To the Editor:

It's not bad enough that the City of Walled Lake wants to drag its feet in cleaning up the eyesores in the city (burned out roller rink, empty former grocery store). But our illustrious judges of the circuit court are adding to it by erecting ugly political signs.

I for one will not vote for anyone who has no respect for the beauty of a city. By putting up those signs, they have lost a vote they might have otherwise had. Are these the same judges who

To the Editor:

We, the players, cheerleaders, parents and board members of the Northville-Novati Colts Junior Football Program, would like to extend our thanks to the Novi Ambulance Service at 4450 Grand River for providing its services, free of charge, at all our home games.

Over the past three years the Novi Ambulance service extended by Novi Ambulance has been a key element in the success of our program. The presence of an emergency unit at the Northville High School football field (four times a year), for all three units (freshmen, junior varsity and varsity) on each occasion, provides the parents of the players and cheerleaders with a sense of security and the importance of proper conditioning, injuries can occur on the field of play and the service provided by Novi Ambulance and its president, Mr. John Early, has become an integral part of the motto "Be prepared." Thank you, again, for your valuable free assistance.

Police Chief John O'Neill protested that the village already had expressed its concerns to the commission. Although they received notice of the meeting, it did not indicate the village was "invited" to attend, he added.

Gerhard suggested that anytime a village department head receives notice of an appeal hearing on a matter, the council should be notified.

The council discussed possible recourse related to the LLC's new decision, but Village Attorney Tom Connelly noted: "It's hard to get a judge to overturn an opinion from a body like this."

Walled Lake Schools Superintendent Don Sheldon said the school board has been informed of the LLC's new decision. "It was a bit surprising that he granted it," he noted. School Board President Bonnie Venze said she did not know whether the matter would come before the board for any further consideration.

"Assuming that a substantial part of the project would be for growth, it would be a concern," he said.

If federal funds are not awarded for portions of the project deemed as stimulating growth, Hinshon said the entire project is jeopardized.

"Prohibiting the funding on any growth section means it much more difficult for those townships to find their share. And without those townships, it is questionable if it is feasible for the rest of the communities to continue with the project."

"There is a fair amount of growth in the system when you get up to Commerce Township, Plymouth Township and Canton Township," he added. "Those three have a pretty large amount of growth, but looking at the whole project, that's a nominal amount. But that's the judgement call the EPA was not willing to go along with."

Urban sprawl was key to funding loss

Did the fear of "urban sprawl" play a part in the recent U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) decision to bypass grant funding for the massive Son of Super sewer project?

The EPA says it never got enough information to make that decision, but the state DNR says it was a factor and that an anti-growth provision recently added to federal regulations may cause a problem in future applications to fund the project.

The proposed $120 million, 17-community system that would include Novi, Wixom and Commerce Township faces cuts in grant funding levels because of new federal guidelines that could more than double local costs in some communities.

Besides changing the maximum federal share from 75 to 55 percent, the new guidelines prohibit federal funding for projects which promote growth," said Richard Hinshon, director of the Michigan DNR community assistance division.

The additional 20 percent drop alone is expected to push costs to the local communities past $23 million. The growth question could cause an additional 10 percent increase when and if federal grants become available, Hinshon said.

Last month, the EPA turned down a request by Wayne County to receive Clean Water Act funding for the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley wastewater disposal system — known as Son of Super sewer.

Bee business buzzing with health claims

By SUE LOWE

Ambrosia for the atomic age is what Prevention Magazine has called bee pollen.

Those who advocate taking bee pollen tablets and using the balm on their hair and skin are equally as generous in their praise. They claim it has the power to heal such age-old problems as high blood pressure, colitis, allergies, graying and thinning hair and obesity.

Recently, Jim Devlin, a soft-spoken Irishman from Prescott, Arizona, came to the Milford-Highland area to spread the word about bee pollen.

Known as Mr. Bee Pollen after the products he distributes, Devlin is a living advertisement for bee pollen use. He tells about the time five years ago when he was a 46-year-old real estate salesperson, overweight, with gray, wispy hair, and suffering from high blood pressure—148/120.

Today, Jim Devlin is older, but the perfect example of older is better. He weighs 185 pounds, has a full head of light brown hair, and has a regularly monitored blood pressure of 120/80.

He is still a salesperson, but his product now is good health. Devlin attributes his new lease on life to bee pollen and he has a number of satisfied customers who agree with him. Many have joined him in the sale of Mr. Bee Pollen products which they claim is nature's perfect food.

Devlin does not make all his claims for the miracle of bee pollen in the name of his own experience. He has some pretty heavy authorities to back him up.

In 1946 the Journal of the National Cancer Institute published an article entitled "Subject: Delay in the appearance of palpable mammary tumors in C3H mice following the ingestion of pollenized food."

The article tells how 25 percent of C3H mice, bred with cancer in their genes, delayed the onset of mammary tumors when pollen was included in their diet. Many never contacted the cancer at all.

Devlin quotes other researchers at the University of Austria in Vienna as saying that bee pollen promoted healing in women recovering from cancer of the cervix.

"In another report," says Devlin, "beekeepers who used pollen had the lowest incidence of cancer in the United States."

Devlin tells of a hospital in China which uses only products from the bee in the healing arts and he is particularly interested in the growth of the pollen industry in non-free countries such as China and Russia.

"Actually," explains Devlin, "bee pollen is not the pollen of the bee. It is the male germinating seed from the flower, and it is merely collected by the bee."

He went on to say that 90 percent of beekeepers do not collect the pollen because it takes a special device added to the hive. "One pound of pollen demands two million bee journeys and contains 10 billion seeds," Devlin said.

Because of the economic factors involved and the great healing advantages he believes are being lost, Devlin advocates using federal funds to aid beekeepers in the United States.

"If one-tenth of any major budget item was used in developing beekeeping in the United States, we could feed the entire Third World. Even without aid, bees make a $50 billion contribution to the American agriculture every year," he said.

The West Oakland County representative for Mr. Bee Pollen products is Linda Cosby of Highland. She has a number of people who work as distributors.

These folks carry produce of the pollen such as hair and skin care products, pet products, granulated pollen, pollen tablets, and a snack food called Bee Bits.

"Bee Bits are for adults who want to eliminate weight," stated Devlin. "If you lose weight, you will always find it."

The company also sells propolis, a natural antibiotic which is claimed to be more effective than penicillin and to which the body does not build up a tolerance. Propolis is the lining of the beehive and its existence explains why so many bees can live together in the hive for so long and be disease-free, according to the company.

Cosby says she actually feels like a healer rather than a salesperson when she tells people about Mr. Bee Pollen. "My son and I were making weekly visits to the doctor for allergy shots when I discovered bee pollen," she said. "We gave up the allergy shots two months after we began taking pollen pods."

Cosby recounts how her mother had relief from colitis after three days and how her pets recovered from serious illnesses after being fed bee pollen tablets.

Devlin recently spoke twice on radio station WWJ Radio 95. Cosby said the response to the interviews was astounding, generating hundreds of telephone calls from interested people.

LOU LARICHE

LOUIS LARICHE has become the 78th president of the Detroit Auto Dealers Association.

LaRiche, owner of Lou LaRiche Chevrolet-Subaru in Plymouth, has been active in the automobile business at the dealer level for 20 years.

LaRiche has served as president of the Chevrolet Dealers' National Council, Metro Detroit Chevy Dealers' Association and Metro Detroit Chevy Dealers' Advertising Association.

Working out of her studio, she has a sales representative showing her jewelry at gift shows and now has her creations in stores throughout the Great Lakes and Rocky Mountain areas.

Pat Mance works on one of her china jewelry pieces

A LOCAL JEWELRY DESIGN ARTIST will be giving a free demonstration of her craft in Highland this Saturday.

A delicate mauve rose, vibrant on a jet black background, and ethereal swan gliding on a sea-blue lake, a delicate butterfly poised over a bouquet of pastel garden flowers, all are china jewelry designs by Pat Mance of Highland.

Unique in their mostly antique settings, each design is Pat's own. Tucked down on the bottom edge of each piece, nearly hidden among the foliage, beads or lake ripples is her signature. Her creations may grace a necklace, pendant, earring, bracelet, stick pin, chandelier, finger ring or even a thimble or spoon for a china jewelry design.

Mance will demonstrate her china jewelry painting on Saturday, October 20 at Country Cards and Gifts' open house.

Painting from noon to 3 p.m., Mance will also personalize or date any special orders for Christmas. She can match color and designs for anyone desiring pieces to blend with those they already purchased.

Money Management

When people get divorced, two of the questions they must cope with are who gets what and how should any cash settlements or alimony be handled.

Federal tax laws complicate these matters, but the recent enactment of the 1984 Deficit Reduction Act (or Tax Reform Act) has cleared up much of the confusion.

If you are in the midst of a divorce, you should know how changes in tax laws will affect you, says the Michigan Association of CPAs.

The new tax bill also clears up a source of contention between divorced parents over who may claim exemptions for children.

Under the new law, the parent who has custody of the child for the greater portion of the year is awarded the exemption.

Under the new law, there is no gain or loss to either party in the settlement. If the $50,000 in ABC Widgets stock is transferred to the wife, she pays no tax on the gain until she sells the stock.

Now, divorce settlements will be structured to calculate the tax ramifications of transferring appreciating assets.

The act also tightens rules on alimony payments. Since alimony is tax deductible to the payer but property transfers are not, many divorce settlements are structured in ways that convert what is actually a property settlement into an alimony payment.

Beginning on January 1, 1985, all alimony payments of $10,000 or more must be continued for at least six years to qualify as deductible.

Under the old law, the parent who provided the most money for the support of the child was granted the $1,000 exemption.

The final area of change affecting retirement accounts (IRAs). The new law allows alimony payments to be used to make up to $2,000 in contributions to an IRA.

SBAM joins opposition to Voters Choice

Add the Small Business Association of Michigan (SBAM) to the growing list of organizations opposing Proposal C on November's election ballot.

Contending that approval of the constitutional amendment would be a catastrophe to the state and have a negative impact on small business in Michigan, SBAM is urging small business employees and owners to vote 'no' on the proposal.

If passed, proposal C would roll back all taxes passed since December 31, 1981, reducing state tax revenues by approximately $1.03 billion.

Another concern about the "Voter's Choice" proposal is that it would alter the process for accountability in state government, Galles said.

SBAM also noted concern that the cost and time involved in running a statewide campaign for revenue increases would significantly complicate the operation of state government.

Galles said that SBAM is concerned about government spending, but its members believe that Proposal C has a misdirected focus.

"We are pleased that the state is on the road to financial recovery and has frozen state employment levels in an attempt to cut costs," Galles said.

As a result, employers would be faced with increases in federal unemployment taxes between $500 million and $1 billion, according to a report by the Citizens' Research Council of Michigan.

Hey sister, can you spare the time?

Getting through thirteen can be pretty tricky. The ups and downs. The discovery of boys. The emotional and physical changes of a child on her way to womanhood. The last thing she needs is a broken bike. A good mechanic would help. A good friend — even better. One woman, one girl, a few hours a week might just change the child's life. How about it, sister? Can you spare a little time?

Novi chamber asks award nominations

NOVI — Local residents are being asked to nominate businesses for three new awards being initiated by the Novi Chamber of Commerce.

Chamber President Charles Wood said residents are encouraged to submit nominations for the following awards: 1984 Landscaping Award, 1984 Business Interior Award and 1984 New Building Award.

Nomination forms are available at the chamber office and the Novi Public Library. Deadline for nominations is October 31.

The awards will be presented at the chamber's annual meeting in December.

Businesses do not need to be members of the chamber, but they must be located within the Novi city limits. The Landscaping and Business Interior awards are available for businesses of all ages, while the New Building award will go to one business built and/or renovated or expanded during the period of 1981-84.

Final selection of the winners will be made by three judges, none of whom work for any business or agency in Novi.

In announcing the awards, Wood said the chamber wants to recognize business people in the community who are working to make Novi more attractive than ever.

"We hope to give public awareness annually to the fine role played by the business community in this city," said Wood. "We welcome participation from all as we gather the nominations."

Additional information about the awards is available by calling chamber offices at 349-3743.

WALLED LAKE

The Vikings are back.

Dean Nessen's touchdown on the first play of overtime gave Walled Lake Central a victory over Plymouth Salem, Friday in a game that had more points than a lot of basketball games.

When the smoke had cleared and all was said and done, the Vikings had themselves a 42-35 victory over Salem, evening their record at 3-3.

Trailing 21-7 at the half, Central's Mike Van Sicken scored four second-half touchdowns to put the Vikings in front with Salem scored on a 35-yard pass play with only three seconds left and Van Sicken booted the extra point to send the game into overtime.

"Being down by two touchdowns at halftime, the kids just wanted it more and sucked it up," stated Central coach John Van Sicken, Mike's father. "It was a good win for us."

Jeff Adams scored Central's only first-half touchdown on a 15-yard run in the first quarter. Jim Zio's extra point led the score at 7-7. Two of the Rocks' first-half touchdowns came on long pass plays.

"They run the wishbone," explained Van Sicken. "We would try to defend against that and they would throw the bomb on you. That's tough to defend. They had the big plays and we just ground it out."

The Vikings tied the score early in the third quarter. Van Sicken, a senior fullback, scored on runs of 4 and 5 yards following long drives.

After Salem came back to take the lead 28-21, Van Sicken scored twice in the fourth quarter, each time on a 2-yard run.

"I thought our offensive line did a good job," said Van Sicken. "They opened up some nice holes."

The Vikings got the ball first in overtime. Each team gets to run four plays beginning at the 10-yard line. Nessen scored on Central's first play in overtime on a run-pass option play. Central's defense then kept Salem out of the end zone for the victory.

Nessen finished the game with 80 yards in nine carries, while Van Sicken carried the ball 11 times for 51 yards, including the four touchdowns. Adams was Central's top ground gainer with 101 yards in 15 attempts as Central rushed for 245 yards.

Nessen also completed 10 of 17 passes for 154 yards. Jeff Henry was his favorite target, snaring six passes for 97 yards.

With all the action in the game (Central had 399 yards in total offense to Salem's 395), neither team committed a turnover.

'Incredible Hawks' power past Warrior gridders

WALLED LAKE — The "Incredible Hawks" from Farmington Harrison invaded Walled Lake Western Friday and marched to an impressive, but predictable, 53-0 triumph over Coach Chuck Appap's struggling Warrior football team.

Western is now 1-5 on the season, while Harrison is 6-0. "Harrison is the most awesome football team I've seen in 14 years of coaching," said Appap. "We just couldn't stop their offense or generate any offense of our own."

"I have no complaints about the score," said Appap. "My kids gave it everything they had," he added. "We didn't give up. We weren't out there to stay close but to beat them and if you don't get there with that kind of attitude you don't belong out there."

Harrison opened the scoring on their first possession, then added a safety and another touchdown before the end of the first quarter.

and then wrapped up the scoring with another touchdown run in the final quarter.

Western's only chance to score came when it started the second half with an on-side kick that it recovered on the Harrison 33-yard line.

Western attempted to use a shotgun offense, said Appap. "We knew we had to work quickly on offense so we thought the shotgun might help," he said. "We also used all 49 plays."

Appap added that his team would be back and ready for yet another Friday game, this time with Livonia Churchill, owners of a 1-5 record also.

Novi girls take 3rd in Oakland County

NOVI — The best cross-country team in Oakland County? Milford. Second best? Oxford. Third-best? Would you believe Novi?

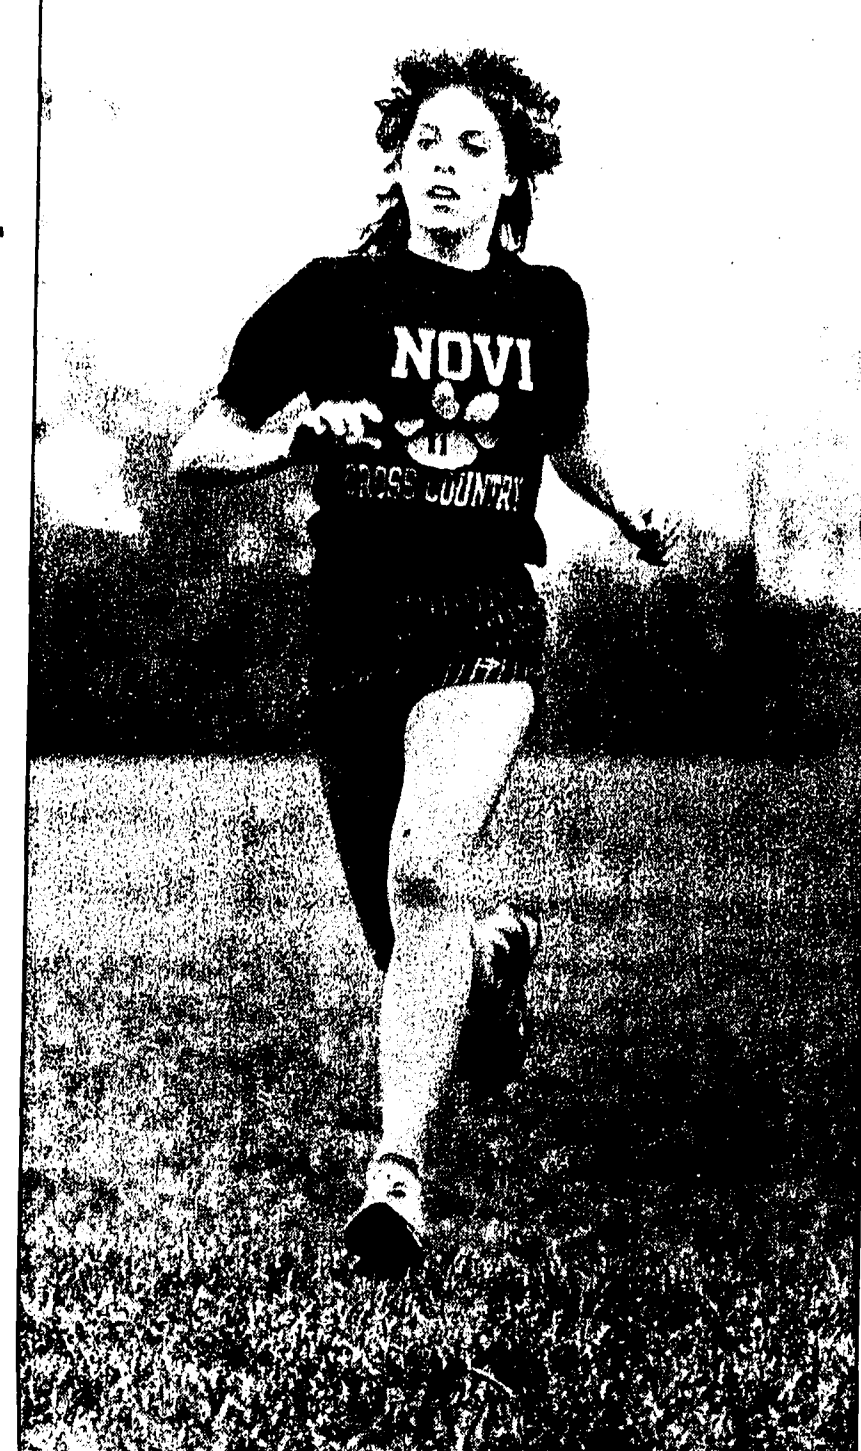

Norgren: 'It was a tremendous step for our program, a great accomplishment....'

Led by fifth-place medalist Kristine Huotari, the Wildcat varsity women finished third out of 37 teams at the Oakland County Meet at West Bloomfield's Marshbanks Park Saturday.

Mindy Park ran only 21 seconds slower to take 3rd, freshman Kelli Rolfes ran a 21:55 to take 5th and Maureen Devlin rounded out the Wildcat pack with a 22:17 for 6th.

Not third place among teams from southwest Oakland County. But third in the county.

As expected, nobody came close to Milford, which won the county crown with an amazing 57 points. Oxford was second with 202 and Novi third with 220.

Johnson claims prize in weekly grid contest

"Tough." That's about the only way to describe this week's Northville Record/Novi-Walled Lake News football contest as fully 67 percent of the entrants had five or more misses out of the 11 games.

In fact, the best anyone could do was make just three mistakes — and there were five entrants with three wrong, so once again the tiebreaker had to be invoked to determine the winner.

UNION LAKE — The Union Lake Hawks' freshman team racked up another victory, using a little bit of everything to dump the Livonia Cardinals 19-6.

Super-sub Watts paces Western

WALLED LAKE — Barb Watts, filling in for the injured Nancy Leach, led the Walled Lake Western basketball team to its ninth victory Thursday as the Warriors dumped Plymouth Canton, 42-28.

Watts, a senior, scored 17 points for the Warriors (9-1 overall and 8-1 in the Western Lakes Activities Association) including nine of 10 from the free throw line. Western also defeated Waterford Mott last week 35-25.

"Most of our offense came from the defense," said Stener who is still not happy with his team's offensive execution. "I'm pleased with our progress but still not executing on offense like I'd like. That's correctable."

Rasinske out, but Novi five wins twice

NOVI — Contrary to popular opinion, Wildcats aren't an endangered species when the leader of the pack is gone.

Playing twice last week without star forward Sue Rasinske, Novi's varsity cagers whipped Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) foes Hartland and Howell to boost their season mark to 9-2.

Rasinske, a 5-10 senior forward averaging over 22 points per start, has been nursing a badly sprained ankle. She hobbled through a couple minutes of Tuesday's 37-30 victory over Hartland, and helped turn the tide against an Eagle rally. But it's been her teammates who've earned the spotlight lately.

simplified your search for a home.

Not every real estate agent or broker is a REALTOR®. Make sure you work with one who is—for a lot of good reasons.

A REALTOR® is a professional—with knowledge and skills to help you.

In most communities, a REALTOR® has access to listings of a wide range of homes for sale. A REALTOR® can help you select from many homes that match what you want and can afford. You won't waste time looking at homes that don't suit you. Without the seller's emotional ties to a home, a REALTOR® can be objective about a home's advantages and disadvantages.

A REALTOR® is practical—bringing buyer and seller together on common ground. A REALTOR® helps make the transaction go smoothly, so an agreement satisfactory to both the buyer and the seller is reached.

A REALTOR® also is an important source of information for the things you need to know in deciding to buy: real estate values, taxes, utility costs, municipal services, closing costs, and more. A REALTOR® knows local market conditions and can help you locate affordable sources of financing.

And when you're ready to sell, a REALTOR® helps you get a fair market price for your home.

A REALTOR®'s personal commitment to civic affairs of the community and professional involvement with you and your family's housing needs can make the dream of home ownership come true—in a home you'll love living in for a good long time.
