Jail in Novi unlikely, according to official

Twelve Oaks Mall is one of nine sites being studied by Oakland County officials as a potential location for a state prison.

But Oakland County Commissioner John Calandro (R-Novi) maintains that Novi is on the list of potential sites by mistake and will be removed in the near future.

'It makes no sense being on the list in the first place," said Calandro. "It's not really a threat."

The 40-acre Novi site is a landlocked parcel located in Section 14 between Twelve Oaks Mall and the I-96 expressway. It currently is owned by the Michigan Department of Transporation (M-DOT) and accessible only by the Twelve Oaks ring

The Novi property has been identified as a potential prison site in conjunction with the movement to construct new correctional facilities in the state to resolve the problem of prison overcrowding.

The Michigan Department of Management and Budget (DMB) and Department of Corrections (DOC), which are responsible for selecting prison sites, plan to construct several facilities in the Metropolitan Detroit area and have asked the Oakland County Board of Commissioners to provide a recommendation.

According to Calandro, Oakland County Executive Daniel T. Murphy originally identified the 240-acre Clinton Valley property immediately adjacent to the county complex on Telegraph Road in Pontiac as the most logical site for an Oakland County prison.

Identification of the Clinton Valley site for a state prison was greeted with an uproar by County Commissioner Walter D. Moore (D-Pontiac), who demanded that sites throughout the county be considered, and the board of commissioners subsequently formed a sub-committee to investigate alternative locations in all parts of the county and make a recommendation.

The sub-committee's recommendation will be submitted to the county's Public Services Committee. which will in turn forward it to the board of commissioners. The board will then submit its recommendation to the DMB which will make a final determination as to where a state prison in Oakland County should be located.

The Clinton Valley site identified by Murphy is not among the nine locations currently under consideration, but Calandro predicted it would be returned to the list.

"It's the most logical site in the county for a state prison due to its proximity to the county jail and coun-

Town Center property owner Frazer Staman in front of a Four Corners landmark Staman decries 'dreamers' By PATRICIA N. BOWLING NOVI - When Frazer Staman heard about the city's plans for creating a "downtown" around the Grand River/Novi Road intersection, the song "Beautiful Dreamer" came Staman's venerable history in the Novi business and political community is rooted in those 157 acres of residential, commercial and industrial property city officials call the "Town Center." Several landmarks of the crossroads - Dave's Hamburgers, the old Township Hall and the house that is now the Frazer Staman Insurance Company — have chapters in Staman's account of Novi's past.

He shares this account enthusiastically, highlighting it with recollections of the people and politics of the 1950s and 1960s. But conversation about the future, specifically the city's plan for developing the Town Center into a pedestrian-oriented downtown, is markedly less enthusiastic, even tinged with aggravation.

"The City of Novi has a peculiar attitude about things. They want to take over property they don't own," he comments.

Commercial property that has been in his wife's family since 1912 is shown in the Town Center concept plan as a public corner, perhaps containing the Novi Special race car enclosed in glass on a landscaped lawn. The Township Hall, which sits on property donated by Staman to the Novi Historical Society several years ago, remains in the Town Center concept plan. But the nearby house is missing. "You people come up here and do your dreaming," he says of the city officials, "... but people with an investment in their property, they're not so enthusiastic about this."

Regardless of any Town Center plans, the corner property will be left to his son, Staman says emphatically. This northwest corner, currently the home of Dave's Hamburgers. was the site of the M.J. Moeren general store in the early 1900s. Owner Matt Moeren lived in a house next door - where his daughter, Irene, married Frazer Staman in 1932. Their son, Matthew, was raised there on that corner property next to the general store.

The township hall and adjacent house also hold memories for Staman and his wife. In 1912 a fire claimed the original township hall and a church next door. The nearby house, now the insurance company, was saved by covering the roof with soaked rugs.

A new township hall was built two years after the fire, and Staman occupied the township supervisor's seat in that building from 1953-63. Oddly enough, a major concern during his tenure as supervisor was "center-

Fire services free to Novi taxpayers

NOVI - Some city residents apparently are under the mistaken impression that they must pay a fee to receive fire protection, Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan reported this week.

The Novi Fire Department is a volunteer department funded by city taxes. Under no circumstances are city residents charged for any type of service rendered by the fire department, Lenaghan emphasized.

Occasionally someone will ask how much it costs to have a fire extinguished, Lenaghan noted. But within the last 4-6 weeks he has received an unusual number of inquiries from people who think they have to pay a special fee for city fire protection.

Last week a resident relayed information about three incidents in which homeowners deliberately avoided calling the city fire department to extinguish a house fire, because they thought they would have to pay for the service.

Lenaghan suggested residents may have gotten this notion from a recent television news broadcast about a subscription fire department in Arkansas. The broadcast showed a furniture store burning while the fire department stood by, because the owners had not paid their subscription fee.

Lenaghan expressed concern this week that residents not hesitate to call the Novi Fire Department in a fire emergency. Calls are taken by the police dispatcher at 348-0911. "The Novi Fire Department is taxsupported," he reiterated. "There is no charge for any services."

Two brothers from Sterling Heights - Kevin and Keith Hansor - finished first and second in the men's 10,000 meter race, while Kevin's girl friend, Nancy Mandziara, also of Sterling Heights, copped top honors in the women's 10K competition. Winners of the 5,000 meter race were Wally Herrala of Ann Arbor and Claudia Cravarella of Southfield. Not all participants in the annual event were out to take top honors, however. Man snatches purse; loses handgun

NOVI — A 44-year-old Walled Lake woman was victimized by a purse snatcher in the Twelve Oaks Mall parking lot on April 15 at approximately 5:35

Her assailant later was found to be carrying a handgun, according to police reports.

The woman told police she was approaching her car in the Yellow Lot when a white male came up behind her and grabbed the shoulder strap of her brown leather purse. The assailant pulled so hard that he broke the strap and fell backwards. The purse snatching was observed by a 30-yearold Farmington Hills man who chased the suspect down a staircase into the lower level Sears lot. The suspect was seen entering a 1973 or 1974 rust-colored Mercury and speeding off on the Twelve Oaks ring

The woman told police the suspect had dropped a small caliber pistol when he fell backwards after grabbing the purse. She said the man grabbed the hair and was wearing a light brown jacket and blue

The woman was uninjured in the incident. The stolen purse contained $50 in cash, credit cards and miscellaneous pieces of personal identification.

The handgun was confiscated by police for further nvestigation. The purse snatcher was described as a white male, approximately 6'0" tall and weighing 170 pounds. Witnesses said he had light brown bushy

NORTHVILLE OFFICIALS are scrutinizing a proposal to construct a multipleuse building complex on the southwest corner of Main and Center streets. The parcel currently is used as a parking lot despite its location on one of the four

Young's diatribes a mystery

That's the question on the lips of politicos from Detroit to Lansing this week as they try to analyze the Detroit mayor's latest outburst of antisuburban rhetoric. Shortly after leaving a meeting with Governor James Blanchard April 23, Young started muddying the waters of the prison site

Young says the state needs more prison beds now and that suburban officials in general, and those from Plymouth and Northville specifically, are not cooperating. He practically demands that the abandoned Plymouth Center for Human Development be turned into a prison, despite Blanchard's statements that con-

From that base, the mayor is quoted as saying he will abandon efforts to find two prison sites within his city unless 2,000 additional beds are found in the suburbs. Presumably, he means 2,000 more than the 1,400 that those "uncooperative" Northville and Plymouth communities have already agreed to accept. That 1,400 figure is 300 more than would be housed in Detroit if and when Young ever comes through on his pledge to find two

The question is, what good does it do Young to blame the suburbs for the prison overcrowding problem? Whatever else one may think of him, it must be acknowledged that Young is a smart and shrewd politician — he likely would not be pounding away at this theme had he not previously calculated some benefit to himself or his city from doing so.

Of course, Young's recent enlightenment to the crime issue is one apparent reason. If Detroit is actually going to start doing something about crime in the streets, particularly if it is to do so before Young stands for re-election, it needs prison capacity immediately. New prisons constructed in Detroit likely wouldn't open for three years, but conversions of places such as Plymouth Center could be underway before election day. That may also explain Young's frustration that the Plymouth-Northville area likely will succeed in allowing "only" three prisons and in having capacity at DeHoCo limited to 650 inmates when he wants 1,000.

What this doesn't explain is the inflammatory rhetoric or the timing. By all accounts, Young's outburst has slowed down state acquisition of DeHoCo — the Plymouth-Northville folks had reached agreement with the state. If the need for prison cells was all that was on Young's mind, he'd have been better off keeping quiet and taking credit for the DeHoCo sale.

Which prompts the speculation about Young's motives. What else is at stake? Ask out here and you get different, pure guesswork, answers. One person I spoke with suggested Young just "hates white people." Another suggested Young may be setting up a tradeoff — he'll shut up about Plymouth Center in exchange for support on something else.

Neither rings true. My own pet theory goes like this: Young is finding it harder than he thought to find two prison sites in Detroit. In fact, making good his promise to do so would likely cost him some votes. Atop that, in selecting the first site Young said he wouldn't force the prison down people's throats if they objected. Hearing that, they naturally objected. Combined with the rumor that Young's aims include a landslide re-election victory (just winning isn't good enough) and you begin to catch my Young needs out of his promise to build prisons in Detroit, but wants to present a strong anti-crime posture. At the least, he needs to delay Detroit prison site designation until after the votes are counted. Scenario: Young is defeated on suburban prisons, so he abandons the Detroit site search. The state gives him 90 days notice, then picks the sites for itself. Or the 90 days expires after election day and Young picks sites just before the deadline, but after the votes are in. And blames the suburbs for all the problems along the way.

Just remember, the threat to abandon Detroit prison siting came after Young met with the governor. And Blanchard started talking about the 90-day provisions at the same time. This could be fun to watch.

From Seattle, which boasts a colony of at least a half-dozen area young people who have decided to make the city on Puget Sound home, Robin already had been to Hawaii, Alaska and China. Previously, she had toured Central America. Still, I didn't expect the response of "Nepal" when I mentioned vacations.

As she talked about Katmandu and the Himalayas, I knew it was time for a visit. Intuition was right, and the visit was great. Seattle might be compared with San Francisco: on a smaller scale, it's a seaport town with Pike's Peak market a daily attraction for seafood, produce and wares of craftspersons. > Back to Nepal. Robin was serious. An ice pick and mountain climbing hard hat on her dining room table represented one reason. The young woman who goes to her computer analyst job in Evan Picone suits comes home to don the hard hat and other mountain climbing gear. She spends weekends scaling the Olympic Mountains which are only an hour or so away by car and are a major attraction for the young career people settling there.

As she talked of climbing the lower reaches of Mt. Everest on the border of Nepal and Tibet. it was apparent that the highest mountain in the world is the ultimate goal of a climber. I might never understand the lure of this sport but was able to realize this daughter has prepared for it. She mentioned the courses and instruction she has received. Somehow, it didn't seem irresponsible — and a rather natural extension of the skiing she loves.

She added that she also hopes to make a stop in Agra, India, to see the Taj Mahal; that I could understand. As a youngster, I devoured Richard Haliburton's books on travel. I wanted to try the new hydrofoil that had gone into operation four days earlier. A Boeing product, the hydrofoil links Victoria with both Seattle and Vancouver. Instead of a four or five hour ferry ride through Puget Sound, the hydrofoil flys on the water at 50 miles an hour to make the trip in less than two hours. The hydrofoil seats 250 passengers and looks much like an airplane inside. Even

Because the hydrofoil leaves in the evening from Victoria, it was possible to have traditional high tea at the stately Empress Hotel overlooking the harbor. High tea there is reputed to "out-British the British" as waiters and waitresses set up linen cloth covered tables in the large lobby. It is served in silver pots with the crumpets arriving under a silverdomed dish to be followed with tea sandwiches and tarts. NOVI — Braced by their sweep of all four relay events, Novi's women trackers catapulted past Walled Lake Central and North Farmington 66-601/2-391/2 (respectively) in a triangular meet at Central Tuesday

"It was kind of a shock to win all the relays," Ceresa admitted later. "We've always had good luck with our handoffs in the distance relays, I liked the fact we had good handoffs in

The last event of the meet, the 4x400 relay, tilted the meet to Novi. Sheila Clark, Jennifer Bonkowski and Mindy Park got the baton to anchor Tammy Onofrey four steps behind Central. Wit half a lap to go, Onofrey kicked into the lead and hung on the rest of the way for an ex-

Luring travelers to say yes to Michigan tourism is a growth industry. That's because the business of the increasingly competitive world of tourism is a vital cog in Michigan's sometimes fragile economy Whether they be beach-seekers from

Brighton or schussers from Chicago, those seeking recreation and relaxation do more than populate tourist attractions. They also spend coins—lots of them. Tourism added $11.4 billion to the state's economy in 1984, according to the Michigan Travel Bureau which uses a ripple effect formula based on the assumption that each tourist dollar turns over 1.78 times. "The money that is used to pay a motel bill is in turn used to buy supplies, pay the election bill, pay salaries, buy groceries," says Al Sandner, director of narketing and promotion for the travel bureau which is an arm of the state Commerce Department. Such spending places tourism as the state's third most important industry, ranking behind manufacturing and agriculture. Nationwide, Michigan is among the top 10 states in tourist dollars.

"It's an extremely important tourist industry in Michigan." says Sandner. Dogged by a sluggish business climate, the State of Michigan began courting the tourist with a passion in the early '80s, using slick brochures and professionally-prepared television commercials as a major part of the "Say Yes to Michigan" campaign.

Exact figures were not available, but Sandner says there was a significant increase in the tourist trade from 1981—the year before the campaign started-and 1983, Last year, an estimated 47 million tourists spent a night somewhere in Michigan. About half of those were from

The tourist attractions vary with the desires of the tourists. There is the uniqueness of Mackinac Island, the excitement of the nation's fifth largest city, the history of a Greenfield Village, festival of festivals, the Midwest skiing mecca and the beauty of a fall color tour. But for the outdoor enthusiasts the possibilities are nearly limitless.

Start out with 3,200 miles of fresh water shoreline, more than any other state. Add to that the 19 million acres of forest which covers half of Michigan. Then throw in 11,000 inland lakes and 31,000 miles of rivers and streams." "I can't think of any place else that can match all of those," says

"That's what our TV ads for the summer are going to stress

Forget the Alamo. Forget Houston and Dallas. Forget Forget the entire Sun Belt.

The simple truth of the matter is that we have it all right here in The point is that Michigan is a pretty wonderful place to be. And if you haven't yet attended the Tulip Festival, the Bavarian Festival, the Cherry Festival or any of numerous other festivals, you're not taking ad- of the Netherlands. vantage of the wonders this state has Here are some suggestions:

Tulip Time: Few, if any, Michigan festivals are more famous than Holland's Tulip Festival, which this year is scheduled for May 14-17. The biggest attraction during Tulip Time is the tulips themselves. The people of Holland plant hundreds of sands of tulips along eight miles

There's a lot more to do during Island which has the only authentic Dutch windmill in the United States. There's also the Netherlands Museum, Delftware factory and wooden shoe factories. Another special attraction is the performances of the Klompen Dancers - nearly 1,400 high school students performing Dutch folk dances in wooden shoes and authentic costumes from the various provinces Highland Games: After you've gotten a taste of The Netherlands, you're ready for Scotland. The Highland Festival and Games will be held in Alma on May 24-26. The three-day festival begins Friday night with the broadsword dancing competition followed by a Scottish Pub and Dance at the Alma Armory. Things get warmed up on Saturday with more Highland dancing, solo pip-ing and drumming competitions, the Royal Scottish Country Dancers and all types of various Scottish athletic events. There's even a Border Collie

Sheep Herding exhibition at noon on Sunday, followed by the U.S. Open Pipe Band Championships.

Bavarian Festival: Wilkommen to the Bavarian Festival (June 8-14), Frankenmuth's annual tribute to its European forefathers. Polkas, good German beer, all kinds of Bavarian food served up at Frankenmuth's world-famous restaurants.

The 27th annual Bavarian Festival parade with over 100 entries will kick hings off on Sunday, June 9, at 1 p.m. And there are hundreds of things to do the rest of the week. Much of the entertainment will take place in the Spas Platz (big tent).

Featured performers include Myron Floren, the popular accordion player from the Lawrence Welk Show, and Jerry Murad and his Harmonicats. Lilac Festival: Believe it or not, some Michiganders have never been to Mackinac Island, The Lilac Festival (June 7-16) is a great excuse to remedy that situation if you're one

The Detroit Symphony Orchestra will open the festival with a performance at the Mackinac Hotel on Friday, June 7, at 8:30 p.m. Other festival highlights include tours of the island, either on foot or by horsedrawn carriage; sunset boat cruises and the coronation ball for the Lilac Queen.

Historical Fostival: Some claim that Little Traverse Bay is the most beautiful site in the state. Why that statement is open to challenge, nobody can deny that it's beautiful country and the Little Traverse Bay Historical Festival (June 21-23) in Petoskey is an excellent excuse to

And then there's Emma's, a quaint little restaurant that fits in comfortably with its neighbors. In fact, you have to pass through a book store to get to Emma's. And if you turn right instead of left, you'll end up in a small gift gallery featuring handcrafted items.

Emma's belongs on Penniman Avenue. It's also a most pleasant little restaurant, best known perhaps for its choice of salads during the lunch hour but also a nice place to stop for dinner. The owners have decorated their restaurant to create almost a garden atmosphere . . . light, airy and comfortable with plenty of plants hung from the ceiling to give a feeling of freshness. A small tree occupies a prominent spot in the middle of the restaurant, and there are bare-wood floors, pictures of flowers by local artists lining the walls and a magnificent Tiffany glass window, preserved from one of the town's historic homes, hung against a side wall.

Emma's gained its popularity first as a luncheon spot, featuring a variety of fresh green salads and superb pastries. Don't order it if you're not hungry - there's plenty to eat. Our recent forays to Emma's, however, have been for dinner.

The salads are available after five o'clock, of course, but the menu also contains entree selections of steak, chopped sirloin, broiled scrod, gulf shrimp and bay scallops, ranging in price from $7.95 for the chopped sirloin to $9.95 for the

My companion selected the young beef liver flambe — tender young beef liver lightly sauteed in butter and garlic, and flambeed with cognac before serving at $7.95. I chose the barbecued short ribs only to discover they were no longer available that evening, so opted instead for Chicken Italiano — skinned chicken breast, marinated in Italian seasonings and served over white rice ($6.95). NOVI — Jim Sliger is angry. The owner of Sliger's Driving Range at 39725 Grand River has been robbed 24 times over the past 10 years and he's mad . . . mad at the Novi Police Department and mad at the Olde Orchard condominiums, which he believes is the home-base of many of the thieves who break into his small

NOVI — Leo Harrawood says it's easy for city officials to shun strip development in Novi, to say they don't want Grand River to be another Telegraph Road. It's easy because they aren't paying taxes on the property, he notes. But Harrawood is. In fact, he has been paying property taxes on parcels at Novi Road and Grand River Avenue since 1949. He owns five acres, and he says the yearly taxes, including city and county, run about $23,000 a year The 65-year-old bought the nor-theast corner of Novi Road and Grand River when it was a little twopump, wooden gas station. He later built a newer station with a small diner attached. Then in 1969 he leased the station to Standard Oil, which recently signed a new 20-year lease on the property But the Town Center design plan reviewed by the city council and planning board last week shows a public fountain on Harrawood's corner. His property is part of a "dream" to make each corner a special focal point for the downtown. Harrawood says this plan should have its designer laughing all the way to the bank. "There's no way you can have a pedestrian downtown when you've only got three months of Harrawood says he would not obect to a plan for future development of the Town Center if city officials were "logical" about it. "But to jump from one thing to another and lock up he property and say you can't us it. . . It's wrong.' If the city wants to develop his property, they should buy it, Harrawood 'Sure, they have a right to control evelopment). But at the same time they have to let the property be sold - or else buy it themselves if they want to control it. Instead they just keep raising my taxes," he says

Harrawood has offered his property to the city for the amount at which it currently is assessed. But the offer
