Boys' pre-dawn Ninja games spooked residents

Police are confident they have solved the mystery surrounding a series of "suspicious person" reports in the Meadowbrook Lake subdivision early in the morning on Monday, July 15.

"I am totally convinced that we have found the responsible parties," said Novi Police Detective Ralph Fluhart.

Fluhart said two 15-year-old juveniles have been positively identified as the individuals walking through the subdivision.

According to reports received by police on the day of the incident, two men were seen prowling through the subdivision during a pouring rainstorm at approximately 6:40 a.m. Witnesses said the men were wearing dark clothing and masks, and one caller said it appeared the men were wearing wetsuits.

Complainants also reported that the suspects ran up on their patios.

After the report of the incident appeared in the July 17 edition of The News, police received several calls from individuals who reported seeing the men walking westbound down

Nine Mile from Meadowbrook Road. Despite the citizen assistance, however, police were unable to discover the identities of the two men.

Fluhart reported Monday that the two male juveniles are both involved in martial arts courses and own black ninja outfits.

"Each of them has a ninja outfit and both were dressed in their full outfits with masks and wooden-type swords in the area around Meadowbrook Lake prior to 6 a.m. on that particular Monday," said the police detective.

Both of the juveniles live in the general area, he said.

"Somewhere around 6:30 a.m., it started to rain very heavily and the young men started running for home," continued Fluhart. "In the process, they started stopping on patios, porches or wherever they could to seek shelter from the downpour."

"Both of the juveniles have told me that they were in the area on that morning. Their version is that they like to go into wooded areas, pretend they are ninja warriors and have mock fights with their swords."

Fluhart said he discovered the identities of the juveniles while investigating another matter. "In the process of that investigation, I observed some karate-type gear and began asking questions," he said.

"The more answers I got, the more it seemed to correspond with the incident in the Meadowbrook Lake subdivision on the morning of July 15. When I asked if they had been in that area on that particular day, they said they had and gave me their account of what happened."

Fluhart said there are no plans to prosecute either of the juveniles.

"The only possible crime they committed was trespassing and, under the circumstances, the trespassing amounted to nothing more than a couple of teenagers seeking to get out of the rain."

Fluhart said the individuals who originally filed the "suspicious person" complaints will be notified by police and apprised of their findings.

Lady cops: Out from behind the desk

By MARILYN MORRISON
 staff writer

Prior to 1972, the only place you might find a woman police officer was behind a desk, in plain clothes or working on cases involving women or juveniles.

Today that has all changed with the Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Act, which banned discrimination in hiring and firing.

But women police officers still are somewhat of a novelty, and officers Karen Smedley and Diane MacGregor of the Novi Police Department are proving women can work in a field thick with macho tradition.

Smedley and MacGregor are not out to prove they can do anything a man can do. Instead, both said they are motivated by a sincere interest in law enforcement.

"If you are there when needed, that's what counts," Smedley said.

Smedley has been working with the Novi Police Department for four years. Prior to becoming a police officer, she worked security for Twelve Oaks Mall and was up for promotion to lieutenant when she found out she was accepted on the Novi force.

Although Smedley took a pay cut to work for Novi, she said it was worth it.

"The officers on the road patrol have very diversified backgrounds and make up a very professional department," Smedley said.

MacGregor is an eight-year veteran of the Novi Police Department and was the first woman hired by the department.

When she walked into restaurants the first couple of years on the job, jaws would drop, MacGregor recalled. When Smedley accompanied her, people

Men are skeptics on city hall issue, committee reports

After about 10 days of campaigning for the $7 million civic center bonding issue, volunteers say women seem to be more enthused about the proposal than men.

The proposal to fund a new 68,000-square-foot city hall/community center complex will appear on the September 10 primary ballot.

Ernest Aruffo, campaign manager for the civic center proposal, said this week he is very pleased with the public's response to the proposal in the first 10 days of the campaign.

"The women are enthused; they particularly like the community building proposal," Aruffo reported. "They like the sense of community identity it provides."

Men are more inclined to "grumble" about the civic center plan. However, Aruffo said his team of campaign volunteers is attempting to fight any cynicism with "the facts."

The campaign emphasizes the ratio of benefits to cost, he said. "A lot of people are acknowledging the futility of the alternatives..."

"We're listening intently to the negative (comments), then researching the answers," he added.

The civic center proposal is designed to get the city administrative offices out of the Novi Public Library, where the city has borrowed space since 1978. The city's lease for the library space expires in 1988, but the city administration wing of the building already is needed for library expansion, according to library officials.

One-half of the proposed civic center is devoted to city administration, while the other half houses a new community building. Currently, the city uses the former Novi Elementary School gymnasium as a community building. However, that property is under option and is expected to be part of a major development proposal for Novi's "Town Center District."

Senior citizen programs and other community activities presently held in the community building would be accommodated in the community center wing of the proposed civic center complex.

Deadline approaches for voter registration

Residents have less than two weeks to register to vote in the city primary election Tuesday, September 10.

In addition to narrowing the field of mayoral candidates from four to two, primary voters will decide whether to fund construction of a proposed $7 million city hall/community center complex.

Voter registrations for the primary election will be accepted at the City Clerk's office in City Hall until 5 p.m. Monday, August 12. The office will be open each working day during regular working hours until and including Monday, August 12.

The four mayoral candidates on the primary ballot are Walter Cronkhite, Patricia Karevich, Carol Mason and incumbent Robert Schmid. The two top vote-getters in the primary will advance to the November 5 general election.

The $7 million civic center bonding proposal originally was to appear on the November ballot. However, earlier this month city council agreed to place the bonding issue on the primary ballot.

Approval of the civic center proposal would result in a tax increase of 1½-2 mills for a period of 15-20 years (based on the city's 1985 State Equalized Valuation). The length of the bonding issue has not yet been decided by council.

If funding is approved, construction of the complex on Ten Mile between Novi and Taft roads is to begin in the fall of 1986.

Campaign leaders share pride in city

By PATRICIA N. BOWLING
 staff writer

Paul Potter, Diana Canup and Marti Mason share an extraordinary affection for the city in which they live.

All three foster an admirable sense of civic duty. Unlike most citizens in most communities throughout the country, these three are unable to sit idly while elections come and go and local officials are seated or unseated. They seek involvement.

With so much in common, they might all be close friends. But they are not — at least, not this fall.

This fall they are adversaries, although they claim their three-way opposition will be amicable. They are the campaign managers for the three mayoral candidates who plan campaigns this fall: Patricia Karevich, Carol Mason and incumbent Robert Schmid.

Potter, who is chairman of the city's Economic Development Corporation and a member of the Zoning Board of Appeals, has organized

Novi Elections 1985

Schmid's last three campaigns. "I'm pretty good at it," he says, laughing.

Potter was a relative newcomer to Novi when he plunged into local politics. "I met a lot of people. It opened up a lot of doors for me," he says of his work on Schmid's 1975 bid for city council.

Novi was very "non-political" then. "The city is becoming more sophisticated with every campaign," he notes.

This new sophistication will show up in campaign literature this year,

Potter suggests. "The quality of literature will be first rate," as polished as that for any state office, he says.

The city's growth may step up the competition a bit this year, but Potter believes the "small town atmosphere" will be maintained.

"Novi's campaigns are all positive. There's very little mudslinging."

The biggest challenge for all three candidates will be to find a forum for communicating with residents. "Money doesn't buy a campaign in Novi," he suggests. The key is one-on-one communication.

And the major issue? Quality of life.

"The voters in Novi, as a group, are not real issue-oriented. If it's not on their street or on their block, their sensitivity to the issue drops off."

Instead, Novi voters are more concerned about the overall quality of the community. Potter believes Bob Schmid is the candidate to answer those concerns.

But Potter's commitment is as much to the community itself as to the individual candidate. "After the campaign, I might go six or eight months without seeing (Schmid)...

"My objective is to make sure we get a good quality candidate up there."

To achieve that objective, Potter has a calendar full of activities for Schmid each day prior to the September 10 primary.

Running Schmid's campaigns is "a pleasure," Potter says. "But the day

FARMINGTON CROSSROADS, an 82,000 square foot shopping center, is under construction at the southeast corner of Nine Mile and Farmington Road in Farmington. Major tenants will be a Perry Drug & Auto Store and a Farmer Jack Superstore.

The shopping center is being developed by Weatherford-Walker Developments. The company in 1980 attempted to have property on Eight Mile between Novi and Meadowbrook roads in Novi rezoned to accommodate a convenience shopping center.

BONNIE VENZKE has been elected to a second term as president of the Walled Lake Board of Education. Also elected to board offices at the annual organizational meeting were Patricia Jackman, vice president; Dan McLuvin, secretary; and Kenneth Tucker, treasurer.

NEW CONSTRUCTION IS HEADING for a record year in West Bloomfield Township. June's building department totals show an 800 percent rise in residential permits issued over June 1984.

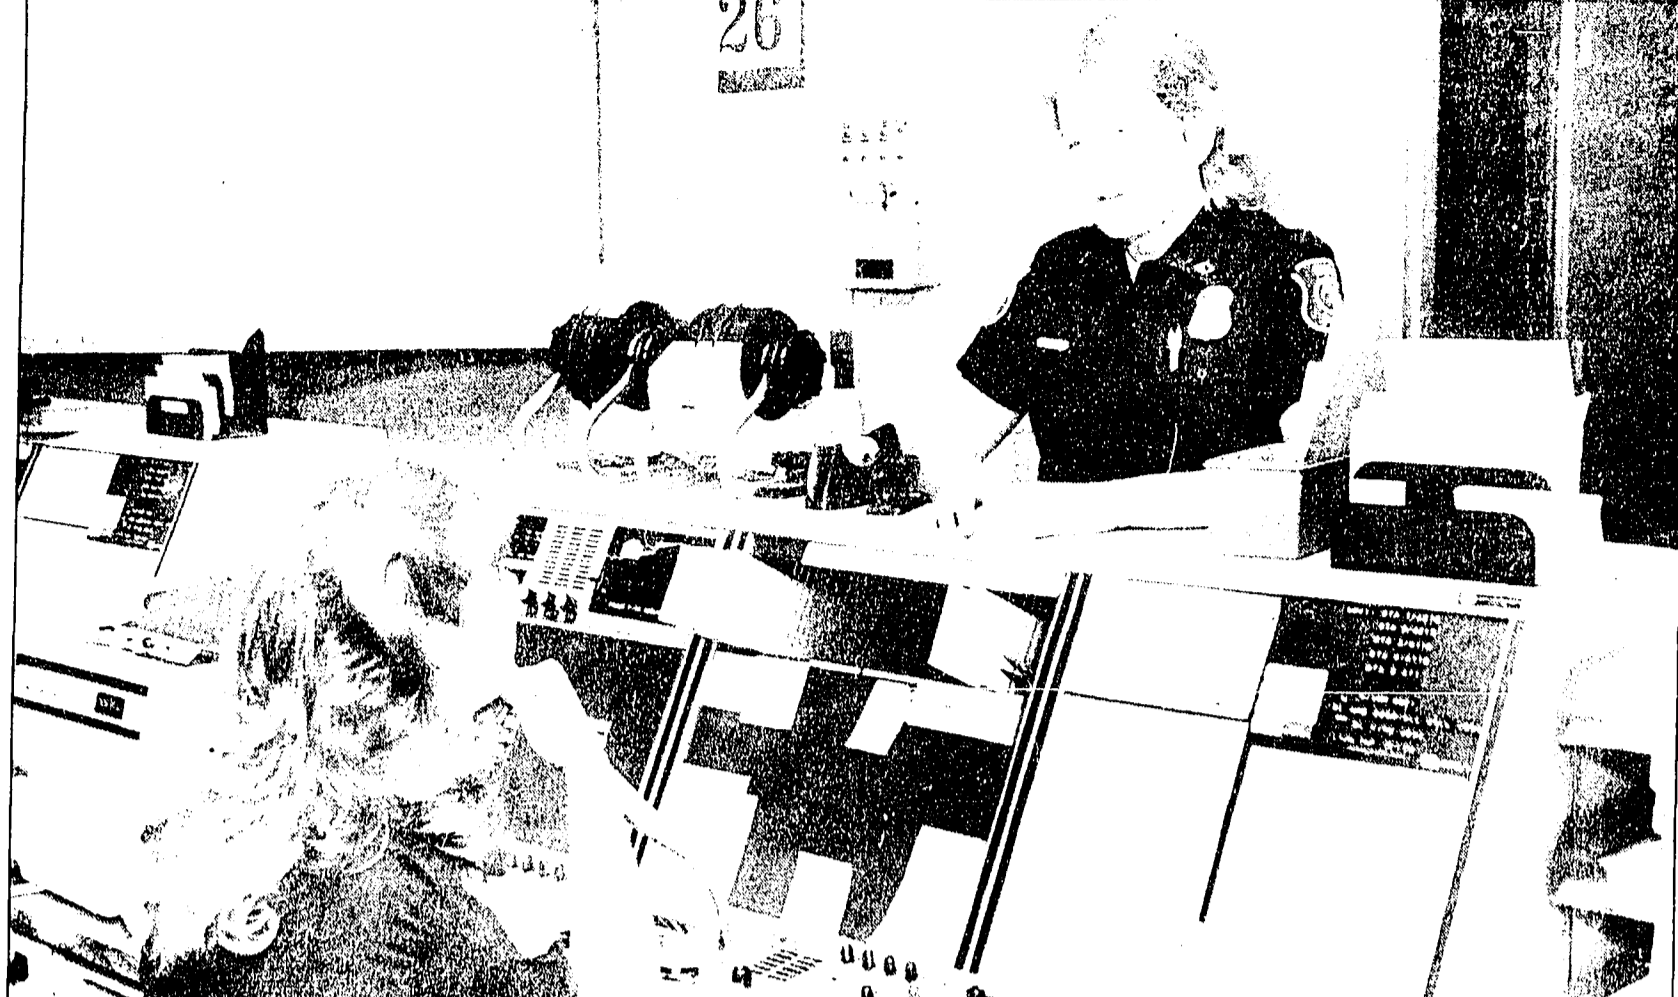

HELEN DITZHASY, former Novi High School principal and Curriculum Coordinator for the Novi Schools, recently visited China and Russia to study their educational systems. Ditzhazy, who was elected to the Farmington school board in June, was one of 19 school teachers, administrators and board members from Michigan who participated in the People to People program sponsored by the federal government in conjunction with the Michigan Department of Education.

THE BIRMINGHAM SCHOOL BOARD has approved a raise of almost 8 percent for Superintendent Roger Garvelink while increases for other district employees are 5 and 6 percent. The salary increase brings Garvelink's base salary for next year up to $68,500 plus a $5,000 tax sheltered annuity and another $4,000 in lieu of a car.

FARMINGTON HILLS: CITY COUNCIL has renewed the contract of City Manager William Costick, granted him a pay raise and awarded him a bonus. Costick's salary was raised from $52,000 to $57,000. The city manager also received a $5,000 bonus for his performance during the past year, his first as city manager. Mayor Jan Dolan reported that the council feels Costick has done "an outstanding job" and voted unanimously to approve the pay raise, bonus and three-year contract extension.

A CHILD CARE CENTER for employees of the Birmingham Public Schools will begin this fall, and officials in Bloomfield Hills' Public Schools are considering doing the same. Birmingham's program will be limited to 16 children between the ages of six and 30 months. Employees will pay $85 per week to enroll their children: the center will be self-supporting. School officials said they felt there was a need for the program after a survey of potential participants. "It's hard to find good child care for younger children," said Department Director Shirley Bryant, adding that she hopes to expand the program to include older children next year.

A SITE PLAN/REZONING ISSUE is causing tempers to flare in West Bloomfield Township. The problem arose when the planning commission approved site plans for Maple Woods Condominiums, a 166-unit development on Haggerty Road north of Fifteen Mile. The site plan approval was made contingent, however, upon the township board's approval of a request to rezone the northernly 10 acres of the property from single-family to multi-family. And the township board subsequently voted 4-3 to deny the rezoning, thereby leaving the approved site plans in limbo.

Church hosts sale

The Meadowbrook Christian Church will be the site of a benefit auction sale this Saturday, August 3, at 11 a.m.

Items to be auctioned come from the Nine Mile home of the late C.A. Smith. The church is located on Meadowbrook Road between Eight and Nine Mile.

By the terms of his will, Mr. Smith's belongings are being sold with proceeds to go to Civic Concern, the emergency help organization he founded and which has been named the C.A. Smith Civic Concern in his honor.

There will be a sale preview of the furniture, antiques and household items at 10 a.m. Saturday. Auctioneer will be Hurray Carter.

Principals appointed

WALLED LAKE — Three administrative positions — including principal of Walled Lake Western High School — have been filled by the Walled Lake school board.

Following the recommendation of Superintendent Dr. Lee Bartman, the board appointed Dennis Champnella principal at Western.

He replaces former Western Principal Richard Smith. After 16 years as principal at Western, Smith requested a transfer to the district's other high school, Walled Lake Central Central Principal Gerald Wallace is retiring this month.

Champnella was certified as an education specialist in 1983 and holds a master's degree from Eastern Michigan University. Under the administrator's master agreement, Champnella's starting salary was set at $53,220.

Lawrence Barlow will become principal at Clifford Smart Junior High School after five years as assistant principal. He will replace Edward Sisson, who is retiring.

Certified as an education specialist in 1979 at Eastern Michigan University, Barlow also holds master's and bachelor's degrees from that school. He has been employed by the district since 1970.

California boy?

Lakeshore Beach is operated by the Novi Parks and Recreation Department and will remain open daily through Labor Day.

Small business sector stirs economic recovery

Small businesses can claim a large share of the credit for the economic growth that occurred during 1984, a year in which they continued to lead the way in productivity and job creation.

The Annual Report of the President on the State of Small Business, prepared by the U.S. Small Business Administration's Office of Advocacy, provides statistical evidence that small firms throughout the country are making major contributions to the nation's economic recovery.

Among the findings: From October 1982 through October 1984, employment in industries dominated by small firms rose 11.4 percent while employment in industries dominated by large businesses rose 5.3 percent.

Small business income, as measured by sole proprietorship and partnership income, increased 33.7 percent during the first half of 1984, compared with the same 1983 period. Small business income for all of 1983 rose 11.3 percent.

New business incorporations during the first six months of 1984 increased 7 percent. SBA analysis estimate that new business incorporations for all of 1984 totaled about 630,000 — a new record.

Business deregulation has been of significant benefit to small firms. They have benefited from new markets, lower costs and demand for new services and technologies. About one-fourth of the 12 million new jobs created between 1976 and 1982 were in deregulated industries, including air travel, trucking, telecommunications, banking and other financial services.

From 1982-83, business starts in these deregulated sectors rose 24.8 percent, about twice the number of overall business starts in the nation during the same period.

Business deregulation has been of significant benefit to small firms. They have benefited from new markets, lower costs and demand for new services and technologies.

Small firms also accounted for the bulk of job gains in deregulated industries. From 1980-82 employment in deregulated industries rose by 724,390. Of that total, firms with fewer than 20 employees accounted for 495,246 new jobs (68.4 percent) and firms with 200 employees accounted for 650,820 (169.8 percent).

Women-owned businesses are the fastest growing part of the small business population. From 1977-82, the number of women-owned proprietorships increased at an annual rate of 6.9 percent, while all sole proprietorships increased at an annual rate of 3.7 percent.

Michigan Bell reports Senior Savings feature

A new program benefiting Michigan's senior citizens who use the Michigan Bell Yellow Pages has been announced by Ameritech Publishing, Inc., producer of the directories.

Key parts of the program include a new senior information section at the beginning of the Yellow Pages and identification of businesses that offer senior benefits through a special "Senior Savings" logo available for use free of charge in the Yellow Pages display ads.

The program will be statewide and will require approximately 18 months to be fully in place," said Chuck Drouillard, Ameritech Publishing sales vice president.

Michigan Bell's directory manager Marguerite Hatch noted, "Our directories are local and the money earned helps keep down the price of home telephone service.

The senior information section will identify senior services available in a community and will be in larger type than other parts of the directories.

Benefits and discounts will be available to customers who are 60 or older. Benefits could include such things as free delivery, special merchandise or services.

Business leaders to set national agenda

Small business owners from across the state will have a "grassroots" opportunity to provide input on issues and concerns which will be presented to Congress and the Administration by attending the Michigan meeting for the White House Conference on Small Business.

The meeting will be held at the Hyatt Regency in Dearborn on September 20. The major purpose of the Michigan conference is to prepare for the second White House Conference on Small Business which is scheduled to take place in Washington, D.C. in August of 1986.

"Small business owners who attend the Michigan meeting on September 20 will be participating in an event that will have a major impact on the agenda for small business in this state and throughout the country," said John Galles, executive director of the Small Business Association of Michigan.

"All persons who own or operate small firms in Michigan should make time to attend and contribute to the success of this conference,"

John Galles, SBAM Executive Director

"The country," said Galles. "It is designed exclusively for the private small business sector."

Each delegate to the White House Conference must be an owner, partner or corporate officer of a small business which employs less than 500 people.

Participants to both the state and national conferences must pay their own travel and living expenses.

It is anticipated that there will be 1,800 delegates to the national conference with each state allowed a delegation totaling two times its electoral vote. In addition, all governors, U.S. Senators and U.S. Representatives will each appoint one delegate.

According to this formula, Michigan will send 81 delegates to the White House Conference.

A number of topics will serve as a catalyst for discussion at the statewide meetings. These include, but are not limited to:

- Payroll Costs: Small businesses, which are labor intensive, pay a disproportionate share of payroll taxes. Several changes to the IRS regulations have been suggested to treat small firms more equitably.
- Finance: New and creative instruments for financing small businesses, such as Small Business Participating Debentures, are sought to increase the sources of capital available to small and growing firms.
- Regulation and Paperwork: Continued efforts to reduce and eliminate unnecessary regulations and paperwork are needed at both the state and federal level to allow small businesses to be more efficient.
- Economic Policy: Limiting the role of government in the competitive marketplace and treating human and

BBB announces consumer protection pamphlets

Two new consumer information pamphlets — "Tips on Homeowners Insurance" and "Tips on Medigap Insurance" — have been made available by the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan.

"Tips on Homeowners Insurance:" Since homeowners insurance policies can vary widely, homeowners and renters are cautioned to take time to understand the differences and get a policy that best serves their needs before a loss occurs.

This pamphlet describes various types of policies and defines important terms and special features such as mortgage value, replacement cost and inflation guard protection.

It explains how consumers can determine how much insurance protection they need and reminds them to periodically review and update their policies to reflect the current value of their homes and possessions.

Renters also are reminded that if their building goes up in flames, there usually is no coverage for their personal property unless they have a special policy for renters.

"Tips on Medigap Insurance:" Medigap insurance is a Medicare supplement designed to help close the gap between the health costs Medicare will cover and senior citizens' actual expenses. Since medigap insurance is a relatively new and often misunderstood type of health insurance, elderly Americans are urged to get the facts before they sign up for the coverage.

The pamphlet devotes considerable attention not only to the value of the policies, but also to their limitations. Consumers are reminded that medigap insurance is generally unwilling or unable to pay fees not approved by Medicare and also that medigap does not provide coverage for nursing homes, prescription drugs or health supplies.

These new pamphlets have been added to the Better Business Bureau Information Series which offers helpful tips on more than 80 topics of consumer interest.

For a copy of the pamphlet or a catalog of topics send 25 cents and a self-addressed, business-size, stamped envelope to the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226.

Money Management

Don't let midsummer doldrums divert you from a critical task: Halfway through the year is the time to assess where you stand financially.

"Fine-tuning your investment and tax strategy at midyear can produce important results later when tax time comes."

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, you should make sure your strategies have kept up with the better-sketter changes in the tax laws. Just as important, you must be alert to changes coming up in 1986 that, as of now, appear to threaten some of the most traditional tax benefits, such as deductions for interest payments or taxes to state and local government.

Some of the most dramatic developments in tax recently have been related to tax shelters. Hundreds, even thousands, of tax shelters compete for your investment dollars. Two years ago, tax shelters had attracted $6 billion, and the outlook for growth was bright. But the situation has changed.

The IRS has now moved aggressively to curtail those tax shelters it considers abusive. Besides that, rules have been changed — like stretching out the years for depreciating real estate or tightening up on up-front deductions for expenses. Besides that, the rules have been changed — like stretching out the years for depreciating real estate or tightening up on up-front deductions for expenses.

SBAM is the primary advocate for Michigan small business in Lansing and Washington D.C. and represents more than 2,500 member firms. The association focuses primarily on achieving legislative reforms which will improve the economic climate for small business in Michigan.

Anyone interested in attending the Michigan conference or who would like more information about the White House Conference should contact the SBAM Administrative Office at Post Office Box 1105, 490 West South Street, Kalamazoo, Michigan 49007. The SBAM also may be reached by calling 1-616-342-2400.

Tax-free investments include municipal bonds or mutual funds which invest in municipal bonds, and pass along tax-free income to shareholders. Both are attractive possibilities, but no decision should be made until comparing their results against the after-tax return on taxable investments.

Follow this rule of thumb: Take the tax-free yield and divide it by one minus your federal tax bracket. For example, if you are considering a 10 percent bond and you are in the 44 percent tax bracket, 10 percent would be divided by .56 (1 minus .44) for a result of .18. In this case a 10 percent tax-free return is equivalent to an 18 percent return on taxable income.

Another alternative to tax sheltering is to donate appreciated property (stocks, for example). If you hold it long-term, the current value can be written off and the donor pays no tax on the gain. That has advantages over first selling the stock, then donating the proceeds. By giving the stock, you can deduct the entire amount, including its appreciated value.

Giving away income producing property is another way to lower your taxes. Transfer the property to a family member in a lower tax bracket, thus saving tax while retaining family control over the property. Money or stocks can be given to a child using a uniform grant to minors account, which can be set up by banks or brokerage houses.

Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) remain, however, the most used method of tax savings. The reasons are apparent. Invest $2,000 — if you are in the 35 percent bracket it costs only $1,300 because you're saving $600 in federal taxes — and earnings accumulate, tax deferred, until withdrawal.

Comparative growth rates between IRAs and taxable investments dramatically favor IRAs. But the IRA does present disadvantages. For example, you pay a 10 percent penalty for early withdrawal before age 59½.

Keogh plans for self-employed individuals allow even larger contributions, although both plans penalize for early withdrawal.

NORTHVILLE

Going to Market

While Ann Arbor's municipal market is the acknowledged granddaddy of area farmers' markets, both Brighton and Northville also have flourishing market days.

The Northville market with a peak of about 12 vendors and Brighton's market with 50 spaceholders by no means replace the popular Ann Arbor market (known especially for its annuals), but claim their share of local shoppers.

Shoppers at all three markets have one thing in common, according to Carl Prielipp, a farmer from Britton, Michigan. He and his sons Mark and Kenneth sell their produce at the Ann Arbor, Brighton and Northville markets.

"Shoppers at all three markets," he says, "are looking for freshness and quality produce."

Noting that freshness in large measure means quality, Prielipp adds that this is the reason he likes selling at these markets. His customers know when produce is coming to market and seek him out. Two weeks ago the first large quantity of corn arrived and was a big seller.

Prielipp's farm is located in the rich farming area south of Ann Arbor about half way to the Ohio border. Because Britton is in the southern part of the state, Prielipp often has an early selection of home grown produce.

Another pleasant part of serving customers in the Ann Arbor-Brighton-Northville areas, he mentions, is that market customers are not there to haggle. They look for quality and pay the stated price.

An exception might be when someone wishes to buy in quantity, he says, or at the end of the day when some perishables sometimes are marked down. At the Ann Arbor market July 20, flower vendors in the afternoon were selling snapdragons, zinnias and marigold bunches for $1 — with the offer of a second bunch for 50 cents.

It follows, naturally, that the earliest shoppers at the markets get the best selection. When only a few ears of corn were available earlier in July, for example, they were snapped up by first shoppers.

If you've been waiting all year for home grown tomatoes or want to serve beans that have never been frozen, put on your flat shoes, take your market basket or tote bag (although all three markets sell large paper or plastic bags to consolidate purchases, which farmers put in paper bags) and head for your nearest market.

It's also a good idea to have plenty of change and dollar bills as most transactions are cash. Farmers have change but shouldn't be forced change a $20 bill at 8 a.m. Don't forget, many purchases will be in the 50 cent range — for a box of small, new potatoes, a couple of zucchini or some tomatoes.

Here are hours and locations:

• ANN ARBOR FARMERS MARKET — Operated by the City of Ann Arbor, this municipal market is open all year. From May 1 through December 31 it is twice-weekly on Wednesday and Saturday from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.; from January through April 30 on Saturday from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. Located in downtown Ann Arbor at Fifth and Detroit streets, the market is next to the popular Kerrytown Shops.

Market manager for the city is Margaret Hanson. Permanent stall holders pay from $187.50 up to $700 yearly. The market is operated at capacity of 138 stalls, but transients are sold spaces that are not occupied by stall holders by 7 a.m. Shopping bags are sold in the office adjacent to rest rooms in the newly built market building in the center of the market.

All baked goods sold at market must be from a state-licensed kitchen. Licenses and inspections also are required to sell poultry. Hanson notes. At present there are only two chicken dealers at the market, she says, and understands no more are to be permitted.

• BRIGHTON FARMERS MARKET — Co-sponsored by the Greater Brighton Area Chamber of Commerce and the city of Brighton, the market is open from June to October from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. Saturday in the city parking lots next to the mill pond park.

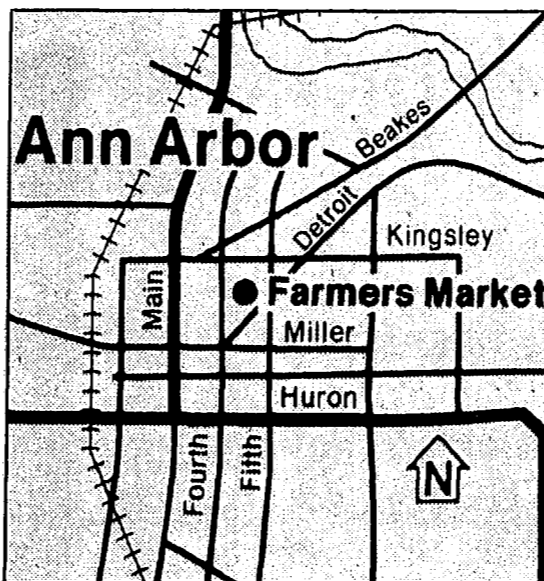

Fifty or more produce and licensed-food vendors as well as craft dealers fill the municipal lots. A major attraction are the appealing animals for adoption brought to the market by the Livingston County Humane Society and the Animal Protection Bureau. At the July 20 market, playful black-and-white kittens, a young collie and other dogs and cats were the center of attention.

Diana Wagoner, chamber market director, said the market has been operating for eight years. Spaces rent for $5 a week, or, if paid in advance at the beginning of the 19-week season, for $4 a week.

• NORTHVILLE FARMERS MARKET — Sponsored by the Northville Community Chamber of Commerce, the Northville market this year opened May 16, a month early, by popular demand and will continue through October from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursdays. The 10-year-old market is in a new location in the city parking lot at Hutton and Dunlap behind Main Street stores. City flower beds of marigolds, geraniums and petunias edge the market area.

Kay Keegan, executive secretary for the chamber, administers the market and reports that senior citizen bus trips to the city have been scheduled to coincide with the market day. In addition to produce, eggs, honey, herbs, baked goods (dealers' kitchens must be inspected and licensed) and plants are sold.

Spaces are rented by the season for $125, or daily, $10.

Tips on the market

"To market, to market, to buy a fat pig..." That may have been the case 50 years ago. Area shoppers, now in the third generation at the Ann Arbor market, recall buying meat and live chickens years ago.

Today's market shopper is much more likely to be seeking fresh produce, plants or home baked goods. In fact, there's no live poultry available at area markets, and the Ann Arbor market has only two poultry dealers.

What is available and what does a market shopper look for?

FRESH CORN: Corn became available in quantity in mid-July. Shoppers can find white as well as yellow ears (personal preference) and the scarce-in-stores "peaches and cream," or bi-color, ears. It is expected that shoppers pull down the covering to see that the ear is filled out and that no corn bores are present.

MELONS: Locally grown melons should be in the markets by the beginning of August. Melons are among the more difficult items to judge for flavor; seasoned shoppers seek out firm melons with a slight softening where the stem was attached. Some smell for a slight odor of ripeness. Melons from the Howell area have a reputation for uniform excellence.

CAULIFLOWER: Small heads have been coming to market for a couple of weeks. Shoppers should look for white, not cream, coloring.

LETTUCE: Leaf and bib lettuce are available now. Head lettuce should be shortly. They should look fresh and should be protected from sun wilting. All are great salad material.

POTATOES: Small, new potatoes are a first choice for shoppers who like to serve them with fresh parsley or chopped green onions.

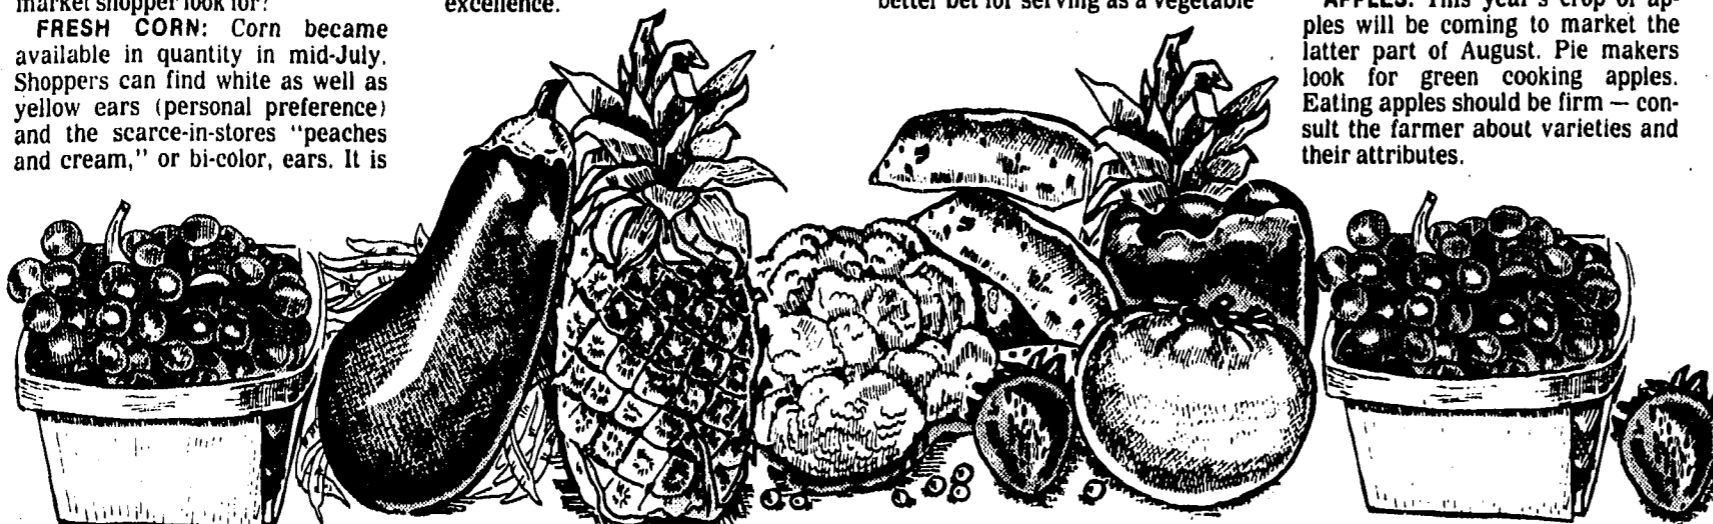

ZUCCHINI: Small zucchini are the better bet for serving as a vegetable alone. The big ones are good to use for zucchini bread or casseroles.

BEANS: String beans have been available for a couple of weeks and will continue to be in the market for some time. In both lima (coming soon) and string beans, look for crisp beans that are not rubbery.

TOMATOES: Tomatoes are in the market now. Cherry or patio size (small) are popular for salads. Beefsteaks are tasty for slicing. Consult the farmer about varieties he brings by the bushel for canning.

APPLES: This year's crop of apples will be coming to market the latter part of August. Pie makers look for green cooking apples. Eating apples should be firm — consult the farmer about varieties and their attributes.

My Favorite Things

- FLYING radio-controlled aircraft. Father Harding says he's been building model planes since 1938 and likes nothing better than to build a model in his workshop and fly it after it's completed.
- WORKING with the Sixthgate Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol, an organization for teenaged boys and girls in the Northville-Novi area.
- READING, particularly about flying. Father Harding says his reading tastes are varied, ranging from works on theology to novels.
- PEOPLE WORK. People and working with people are other favorite activities.
- PLAYING GOLF. Father Harding says he tries to play golf once a week at San Marino in Farmington Hills with his parish assistant. "We don't keep score," he says. "It's just nice to get out on the course and bang the ball around a little bit."
