 PROPOSED LITTLE NEW DANCE

County millage passes

Some 241 Novi voters were among the nearly 17,507 Oakland County residents approving a .75 mill tax hike Monday for special education services.

Unofficial tallies show that voters in the county's 28 districts overwhelmingly approved the tax increase with only three districts rejecting the three-quarter mill hike.

Don Place, coordinator of the county-wide millage campaign, said unofficial tallies show 17,507 voters approving the proposed request and 9,674 rejecting it.

In Novi, 410 voters turned out at the polls with 241 casting "yes" votes and 169 rejecting the proposal.

Only three school districts turned down the county's request, Place explained.

Brandon school district voters rejected the proposal in a 171 to 117 vote with Oxford voters turning down the request 171 to 184.

The South Lyon school district had a much wider voting margin with 162 residents supporting the proposal and 269 rejecting it.

Place said Monday's county-wide campaign was a far cry from its dismal 1981 attempt to increase special education millage.

"In the 1981 election, we were rejected by all districts except Oak Park," Place said.

He attributed the success of Monday's election to a more organized campaign effort.

"We had excellent support from professionals, parents and agency people," he noted. "Our effort was aimed at attracting the 'yes' voter."

Place also noted "the weather was good and there were no other school issues on the ballot."

Approval of the .75 mill tax increase will cover the county's deficit for special education services as well as current costs and anticipated program increases through 1985.

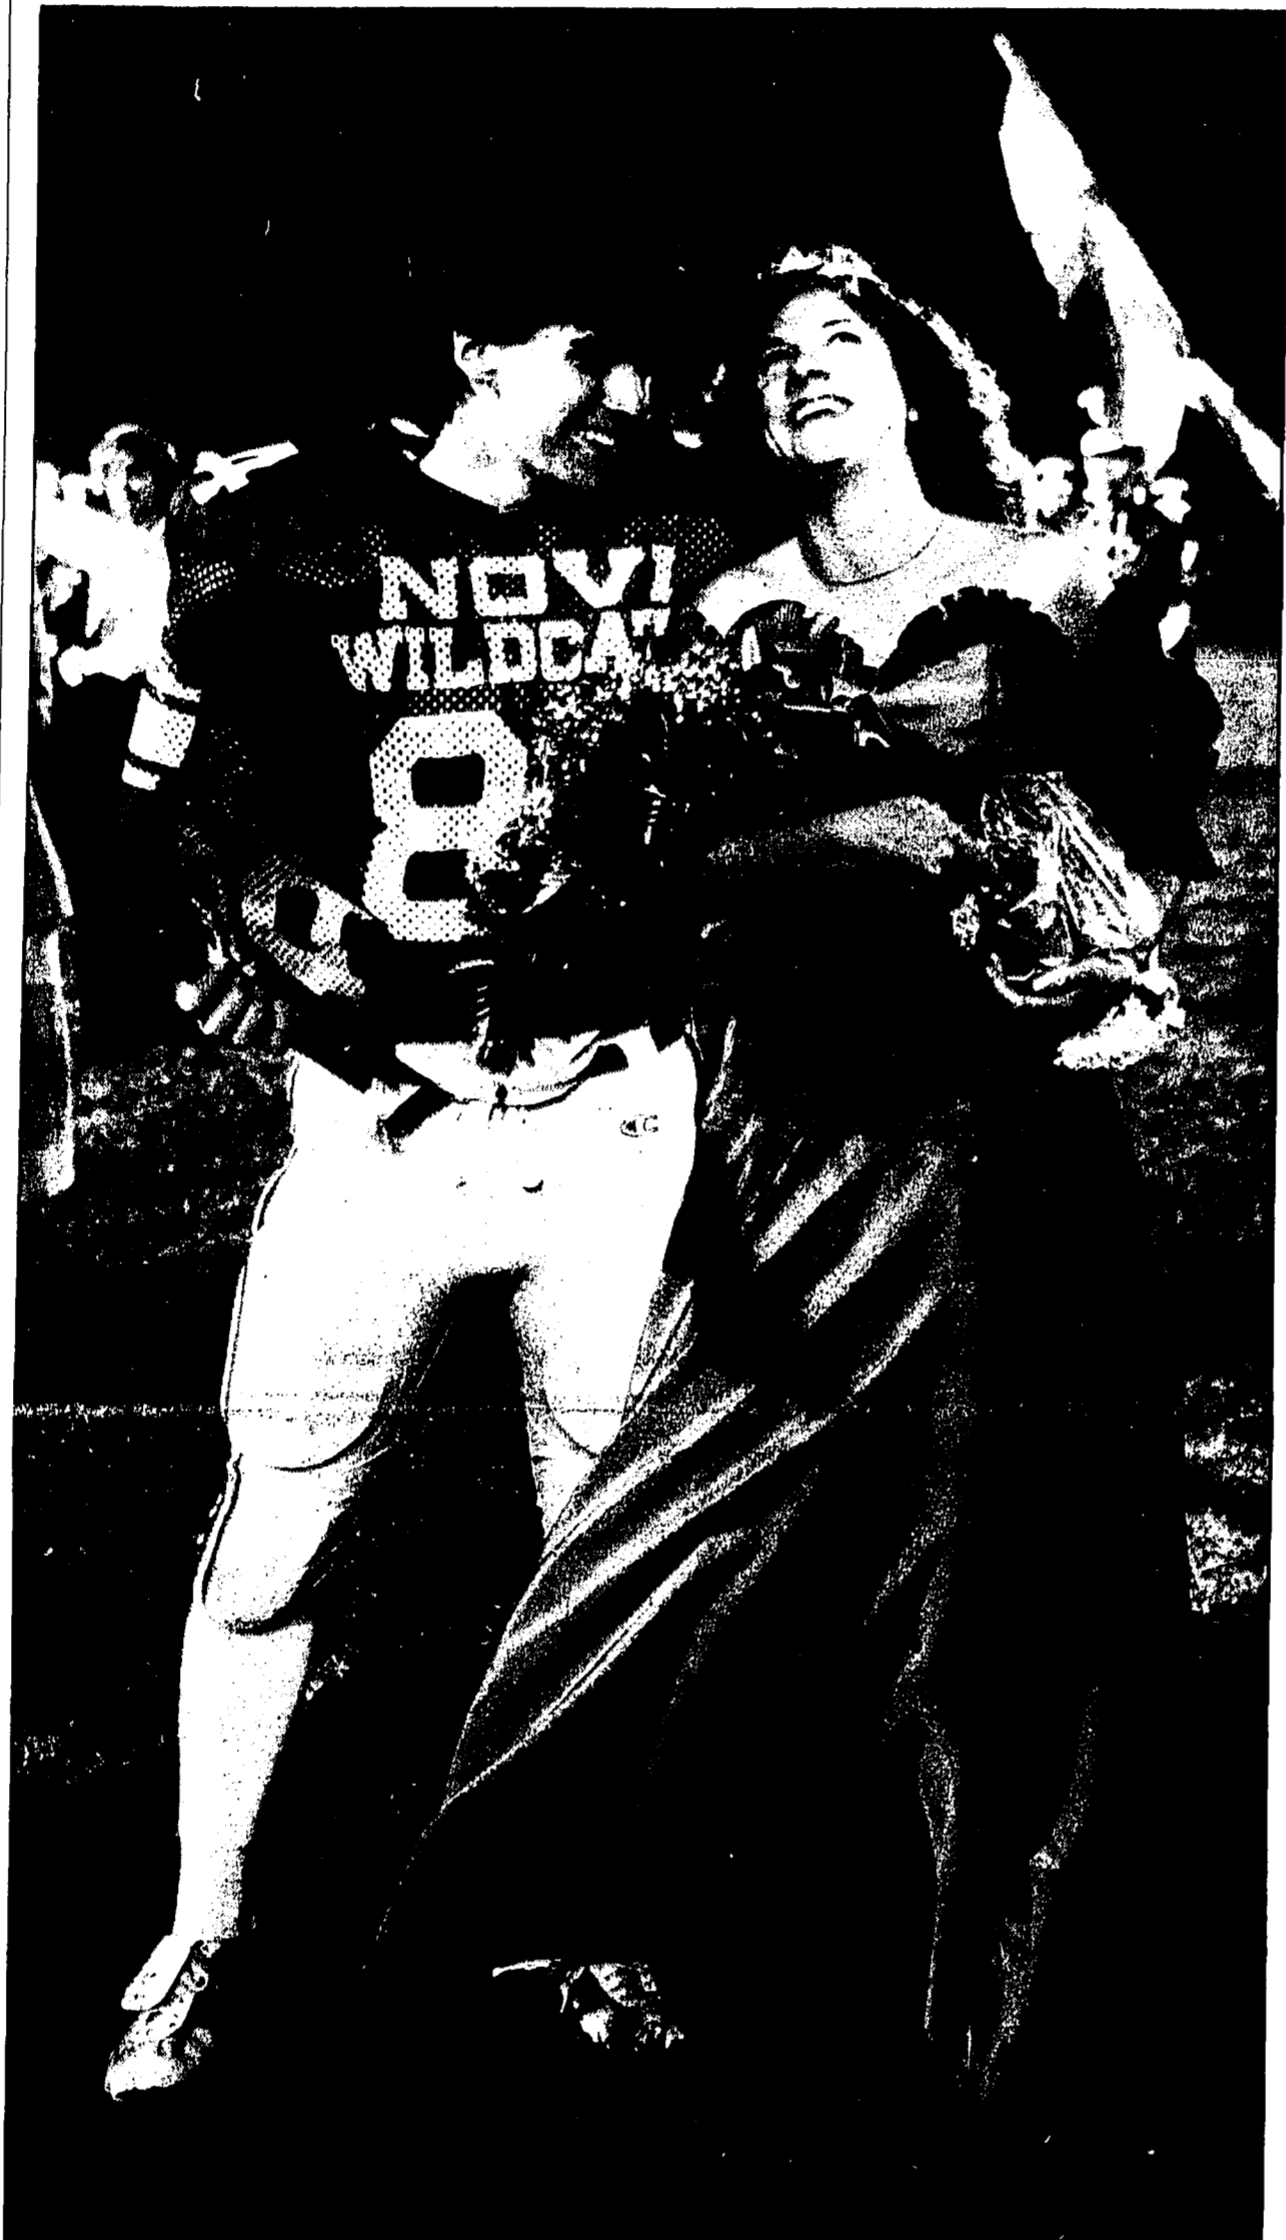

The additional .75 mills will yield about $10.5 million. Prior to Monday's election, Oakland County residents were paying $1 per $1,000 for special education approved in two separate millage elections in 1954 and 1965.

Had Monday's millage been rejected by county voters, the local districts would have been responsible for their share of Oakland County's special education shortfall retroactive to the 1982-83 school year.

In Novi, that shortfall would have amounted to about $700,000.

The county's shortfall has been attributed to a number of factors. Cutbacks in state aid have come at a time of increased need for special education services.

In addition, new federal and state rules and regulations targeted for implementation in July, 1985, also are expected to increase the cost of special education.

Royal couple

Great Britain has Charles and Diana, but Novi High School has Gregg and Jennifer. Gregg Giorgio and Jennifer Bonkowski were crowned king and queen of 1985 Homecoming during halftime festivities last Friday night. Coach John Osborne's Wildcat gridders provided the perfect ending to Homecoming by pounding out a 17-13 victory over Lakeland.

Enrollment all-time high

By MICHELE M. FECHT
 staff writer

New housing starts coupled with a growing reputation for quality education has put Novi Community Schools beyond its anticipated enrollment for the 1985-86 school year.

The official "Fourth Friday" count reported at last Thursday's board of education meeting shows an additional 99 students in grades K-12 as of September 27.

The increase puts Novi's K-12 population at 3,303 — a new enrollment high for the school district.

"We are growing faster than anticipated," school board president Robert Schram observed, noting that the district's enrollment as of August 30 was 3,274.

The Fourth Friday figures show the greatest enrollment increase in the district since its peak period in 1980. While the district experienced enrollment growth during the 1983-84 and 1984-85 school years, increases ranged from 41 additional pupils in 1983 to 71 additional pupils last year.

Enrollment dropped 22 students to 3,164 in 1981 and fell another 70 students to 3,094 on the official Fourth Friday count in 1982.

School officials anticipated enrollment increases in light of the number of new subdivisions, apartments and condominiums planned for the area.

A population-facilities study committee reported to the board last spring that the school district could see an enrollment increase of nearly 300 new students within the next two years if housing and apartment construction continues at its present pace.

As anticipated, the greatest increase is at Novi Woods Elementary School where 59 new students are enrolled in grades K-4. The enrollment increase puts Novi Woods'

Thefts on rise; police ask help

By PHILIP JEROME
 managing editor

Concerned about a 41.6 percent rise in larcenies during the first seven months of 1985, Novi Police Captain Richard Faulkner is asking for an assist from residents.

"Our crime reports are up over last year, and the primary reason for the increase is larcenies," reported the veteran Novi law enforcement officer.

Faulkner is convinced, however, that the crime statistics can be improved considerably if residents would just take a few common-sense precautions to protect their personal property.

"The 'hot item' today appears to be radar detectors," he noted. "They're small and portable, and that makes them easy for thieves to pick up and carry off."

They're also easily spotted by anyone walking past a parked car, and that's where Faulkner believes local residents can protect themselves and help police combat the increase in larcenies.

The vast majority of radar detector (also called "fuzz busters") thefts also involve property damage. In a typical case, the thief will look inside the car, see the fuzz buster inside, smash the window and make off with the merchandise.

As a result, the victim not only loses a radar detector but also is left with a broken window to be repaired.

A case in point occurred recently in the Twelve Oaks Mall parking lot. Police on routine patrol found a car with its window broken out and the cord from a radar detector dangling from the cigarette lighter.

Officers determined the identity of the car's owner by tracing the license plate number and then contacted her at her place of employment inside the mall. The victim, a young Livonia woman, told police her radar detector had not been stolen because she had detached it from the cord and taken it to work with her.

The thieves apparently saw the cord inside the car and smashed the window in order to steal it. Although the woman's radar detector had not been stolen, she still was stuck with a repair bill to replace the broken window.

Faulkner said similar incidents could be avoided if residents would take the time to make certain any evidence of a "fuzz buster" inside a vehicle is totally concealed from view.

The police captain also noted that there are numerous other simple measures that residents can take to protect their personal property — things like making certain garage doors are shut and that garage door openers are not left lying in plain sight on the dashboards of vehicles.

"I was driving through our residential areas with a detective from Detroit recently and he was amazed at what he saw," reported Faulkner. "Bicycles left on front lawns ... garage doors standing wide open with nobody in sight. He said Novi looked like a crime wave waiting to happen."

"Leaving your garage door opener on the dashboard of your car is like handing thieves the keys to your garage," he added.

"People just aren't paying attention to the little, common-sense things they can do to make certain they're not ripped off."

DAVID HAIRE

Trooper saw train collision

By JEAN DAY
 editor

Novi resident David Haire was "almost on the tracks" on Seven Mile east of Northville Road Thursday when two Chessie System freight cars rolled by at 35-40 miles an hour.

Haire, a Michigan State Police trooper, was headed for the Northville Post with a prisoner when he saw the freight cars hit a westbound auto broadside and clip the auto directly in front of him, spinning it around into a pole.

What happened next has earned the trooper the title of "hero" with his family and many others.

Haire drove south on Northville Road, which parallels the railroad tracks, and saw the car still being pushed along by the Chessie boxcar. He parked at the Six Mile overpass, where he knew the car would never clear the narrow span.

Haire handcuffed his prisoner to the bumper of his police car and began running north along the tracks.

"As the boxcar went by with the car on the front, the gentleman in the car was waving, calling, 'Help us!' I grabbed the handrail and swung on between the boxcars."

"I've seen a lot of cars and each has a handbrake — I figured the best place to board was between the cars as they were going south. I cranked the handbrake as hard as I could as soon as I boarded."

The action stopped the boxcars loaded with auto parts about 500 feet north of Six Mile.

When Haire arrived home three hours late Thursday night, he was greeted in the front hall with a banner reading, "What a Hero," made by his 13-year-old daughter, Wendy.

Wendy learned of her father's heroics that afternoon at Meads Mill Middle School, located near the Six Mile overpass in Northville. Her banner was still hanging Monday at the Haire home on Sheffield Road when the family celebrated son David's third birthday.

Haire says he didn't give last Thursday's events a lot of thought until a relative called to say he was reading the story on the front page of the San Antonio paper.

"There was absolutely no warning," the trooper remembered Monday. He says he understood the train wasn't expected and, therefore, the warning signal and crossing gates weren't activated.

Although he had heard of runaway boxcars, Haire says he had never operated a train brake. Fortunately, he was familiar with the way they operate.

The brake can be released by a crank wheel or by a pull lever, he explains.

"It's possible that kids not knowing what they were doing tried to board by lifting themselves up by the lever, releasing the brake, and then not knowing what to do."

Rouge's pollution: Did it kill?

A 23-year-old Novi man, who died last month from a rare parasitic infection, may have contracted the disease when he accidentally fell into the Rouge River two months ago, Wayne County health officials said last week.

Samples of the Rouge water tested over the weekend "only confirmed what we've known before — the water is polluted," said Glen Brown of the Wayne County Health Department, environmental division. "People should stay out of it."

Hagstrom, a resident of Tree Top Apartments in Novi, died of an unusual disease called leptospirosis on August 30 — nearly three weeks after he slipped into the Rouge River and swallowed several mouthfuls of water.

Radars detectors hot theft items

"Fuzz Busters" — the slang name for radar detectors — continue to be a hot item for thieves as Novi police have logged three new "larceny from vehicle" reports.

A resident on Carriage Hill in the Carriage Hill subdivision told police unknown individuals smashed the passenger side window of his 1984 Ford pickup truck and removed an Escort radar detector valued at $250 as well as a General Electric cassette tape recorder.

The theft occurred September 27 between 5 and 8:30 a.m. while the vehicle was parked outside the victim's home. Damage to the truck was pegged at an additional $70.

Area Blotters

The man then rolled up his window, grooved and theorized the thief used a bb gun to break the window in order to minimize the noise.

Automobiles weren't the only means of transportation victimized by thieves. A Northville woman reported the theft of two wheels and the saddle bags from her 1985 Nishiki Cresta bicycle while it was chained to a tree at the west end of the Novi Hilton parking lot on Haggerty Road.

The theft occurred September 28 between 9:30 p.m. and 12:30 a.m. the following day.

Stolen were two suitcase-sealed 40-spoke wheels valued at $200, saddle bags valued at $15 and assorted bicycle tools inside the saddle bags, also valued at $15. Damage to the bicycle was pegged at an additional $200.

A female attendant at the Speedway gas station on Pontiac Trail at Beck Road made a valiant effort but still ended up losing two cartons of cigarettes to thieves on September 30 shortly after 5 p.m.

The attendant told investigating officers that a young white male and a young white female were exiting the station when she observed two cartons of cigarettes missing from the display rack.

When she yelled at them to stop, they ran out of the station and jumped in a car. The attendant pursued the pair, walked up to the male driver and told him he owed her for two cartons of cigarettes, she reported.

The complainant told police she returned home at 2:15 p.m. on Friday, September 27, to find a carton of cigarettes missing from the kitchen. Two days later she discovered a transistor radio and a quantity of money missing from a kitchen shelf. Stolen were a $100 bill, 11 $20 bills and an unknown quantity of $1 bills, according to reports.

A Bashian Drive resident reported that his 1988 Ford Mustang was stolen while it was parked outside his residence during the night of September 26-27. No dollar value was listed for the stolen vehicle.

Somebody apparently liked the landscaping at the Big Boy restaurant on Haggerty Road at Eight Mile because they made off with four shrubs from the restaurant's parking lot.

The shrubs, which were valued at between $100 and $200, were stolen September 26 between midnight and 6 a.m.

An attache case and a salesman's sample case were stolen from a 1981 Chevrolet Impala owned by a Tallord Drive resident while the vehicle was parked outside his home on September 28 between midnight and 6 a.m.

The sample case, which was valued at $100, contained various chemical samples, while the attache case, valued at $30, contained miscellaneous papers, according to police reports.

Police are investigating a breaking-and-entering report from a house on Mill Stream Lane in the Willowbrook subdivision.

The complainant told police she returned home at 2:15 p.m. on Friday, September 27, to find a carton of cigarettes missing from the kitchen. Two days later she discovered a transistor radio and a quantity of money missing from a kitchen shelf. Stolen were a $100 bill, 11 $20 bills and an unknown quantity of $1 bills, according to reports.

Unknown individuals smashed the windshield of a Chevrolet Impala parked in front of the owner's residence on Montgomery in the Chateau Estates Mobile Home Park on October 1 between midnight and 6 a.m.

The complainant told police she noticed that the chrome molding around the windshield was missing and suggested the responsible parties broke the windshield in order to remove the molding.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $200.

A resident on West Glenhaven in the Country Place Condominiums reported the theft of a hanging wicker basket chair from the porch of her residence.

The chair, valued at $60, was stolen sometime between September 27 and October 1, reports stated.

GARBAGE AND RUBBISH

is a serious problem that demands attention, George Schutte of the Oakland County Solid Waste Division told city council last week.

Schutte reported that local municipalities in Oakland County have until December to decide whether they will participate in the county-wide solid waste management plan. Initial participation costs will be over $10,000 for the City of Novi.

The plan was approved by the Board of Commissioners in 1982 and by 73 percent of the local municipalities in 1982-83. The first draft of an intergovernmental agreement was forwarded last year.

The agreement calls for a Municipal Solid Waste Board to be established with one member representing each municipality. This board will work out the cost allocation for planning and implementation of the plan.

The agreement has not been scheduled for action by the council.

A PROPOSED BAND TRIP to Washington D.C. and Williamsburg, Virginia, was presented to the Novi Board of Education last Thursday by the high school band boosters.

The proposed trip, scheduled May 14, includes performances on the Capitol steps and the Navy School of Music as well as tours of the Capitol, White House, FBI, Smithsonian, historic Williamsburg, Busch Gardens and the Langley Research Center (NASA).

Band Boosters attending the board's meeting said the trip will cost approximately $25 per student with all monies raised through fundraising. It also was noted the price per student may be somewhat lower when commitments for food and lodging packages are finalized.

It is estimated that approximately 155 students will attend along with 28 chaperones.

The school board will vote on the proposed trip at its next meeting October 17.

PARENT-TEACHER CONFERENCES

are under way in the Novi Community Schools.

Novi High School conferences were held September 30 and October 1 with winter semester conferences planned March 3 and 4.

At Middle School South, conferences will be held the evening of October 23 and the afternoon of October 24. Winter semester conferences are scheduled March 12 and 13.

Parent-teacher conferences at Middle School North will be held in the afternoon and evening November 13 and the afternoon of November 14. Winter semester conferences are scheduled March 26.

Elementary school conferences will be held in both afternoon and evening sessions October 30 and 31. Winter semester conferences will be March 3 and 4.

State will conduct auto exhaust tests

Motorists in southeastern Michigan are being warned that they may be required to have exhaust systems on their vehicles tested before they can get new license plates.

Notice of the federally-ordered Auto Exhaust Testing (AET) program will come in the plate renewal envelopes from the Department of State that motorists receive get to eight weeks before their plates expire.

The nearly 110,000 drivers with commercial plates will receive notices as early as the first week in October. Motorists with passenger plates will begin getting their plate renewal applications containing the AET notice in November. They will go out at the rate of 30,000 to 40,000 per week.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has directed Michigan to begin Auto Exhaust Testing in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties because the air in those counties does not meet federal air quality standards. The goal is to reduce air pollution in those counties by requiring motorists to keep the emission control systems on their vehicles working properly.

The law takes effect January 1, 1986. EPA has threatened to block new industrial construction and cut federal highway money to the Detroit area if steps are not taken to meet federal Clean Air Act standards for ozone and carbon monoxide.

Approximately 1.9 million of the 2.4 million cars and light trucks registered to addresses in Wayne, Oakland and Macomb will have to be tested once a year.

- Motorists are excluded from the program and do not have to be tested are:
- vehicles more than nine years old;
 - vehicles sold as new in the last 12 months;
 - diesel or electric-powered vehicles;
 - vehicles with a GVW rating of 8,500 pounds or more;
 - motorcycles and mopeds; and
 - vehicles owned by people receiving Medicaid and General Assistance.
- Owners of vehicles that do not have to be tested must take them to an official emission testing station once a year for a tailpipe check. Under Michigan law, the most a testing station can charge for an AET test is $10.

"Already more than 600 privately-owned repair shops, service stations and other businesses have been licensed by the state to become official inspection stations," said Roger James, director of the state Auto Exhaust Testing Division. "Many of them are already set up to do tests," he added.

If a vehicle passes the emission test, the driver gets a Certificate of Compliance that is good for six months. The certificate must be presented when applying for a license plate or tab.

If a vehicle fails the AET test, the driver can either make repairs, which EPA estimates average $40 in cost, and take a re-inspection, or, if repairs are estimated to cost more than $63, he or she can get a low emission tune-up. The low emission tune-up involves simple adjustments to the engine to make the car run cleaner. The car is retested and certified, although it is not required to pass the test.

Motorists who have tampered with the vehicle emission systems may be required to repair the system no matter what the cost.

"Although motorists don't have to comply with the AET requirement until January 1, 1986, we want to tell people about the program now so they can avoid delays and inconveniences in getting their plates," said James.

"Because Certificates of Compliance are good for six months after the test is taken, motorists with birthdays in the first months of the year could get their AET tests out of the way now," he added.

Area Briefs

THE DEVELOPMENT BOOM in Southfield is continuing at a record pace. Building activity in Southfield for the first eight months of 1985 is pegged at a value of $13.4 million.

In terms of residential growth in 1985, Southfield has issued 45 permits for apartment buildings containing 717 units and valued at $31.2 million.

TOUGHER LANDSCAPING STANDARDS are being considered by the Farmington Hills City Council in light of continued new construction.

City Manager William Costick said Farmington Hills' standards will be compared with those in neighboring communities, such as Southfield and West Bloomfield Township.

Costick said some areas of the city are aesthetically pleasing and others are not. The city's toughest zoning requirements are along Northwestern Highway where some of the newest office buildings are located.

EIGHTY-EIGHT PERCENT of Southfield manufacturers rate the city as a good or excellent place to do business, according to a recent business retention and expansion survey conducted by Michigan Bell.

Len Singer, Michigan Bell's corporate affairs manager, said Southfield received high marks from local manufacturing firms because of its location, community attitude and support toward manufacturing.

The major concern cited by the respondents was the lack of space for physical expansion. Sixty-three percent of the firms surveyed indicated they had sufficient space to expand and 18 percent plan to expand on their current sites.

FOR THE FIRST TIME IN 10 YEARS the West Bloomfield Schools are reporting an increase in enrollment. Unofficial Fourth Friday figures showed that enrollment has increased 35 students from 4,492 last year to 4,528 this year.

St. Jude host of bike-athon

Gary Skodack is looking for people to ride their bicycles for a worthy cause. Skodack is Scoutmaster of Novi Boy Scout Troop 407.

Purpose of the bike-athon is to raise money for research into various catastrophic illnesses that afflict children. The bike-athon will be held on Taft Road between Nine and Ten Mile from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Every rider receives a pledge card and secures pledges of money from friends and neighbors for each mile ridden during the event. Riders who bring in $25 in pledges receive a St. Jude T-shirt, while riders who earn $75 receive a barrel tote bag and a T-shirt.

Anyone interested in riding in the bike-athon or sponsoring a rider is encouraged to contact Skodack at 476-2398.

Planners say 'no' to rezoning query

A 70-year-old Detroit resident who has been unable to pay taxes on Novi Road property she owns pleaded with the planning board last week to rezone the 20 acres to allow a high density apartment development.

While expressing "great sympathy" for Nelson, the board unanimously recommended against the rezoning. Nelson's property is surrounded by older, small homes, with several businesses at the Ten Mile intersection.

The city's master plan recommends the property for office use. Vacant land already zoned and master planned for multiple use exists across Novi Road to the south, he noted.

"I cannot support the request for rezoning," he concluded. Rogers cited the conflict with the master plan, spot rezoning and the existing property already zoned for multiple family use as reasons for his recommendation.

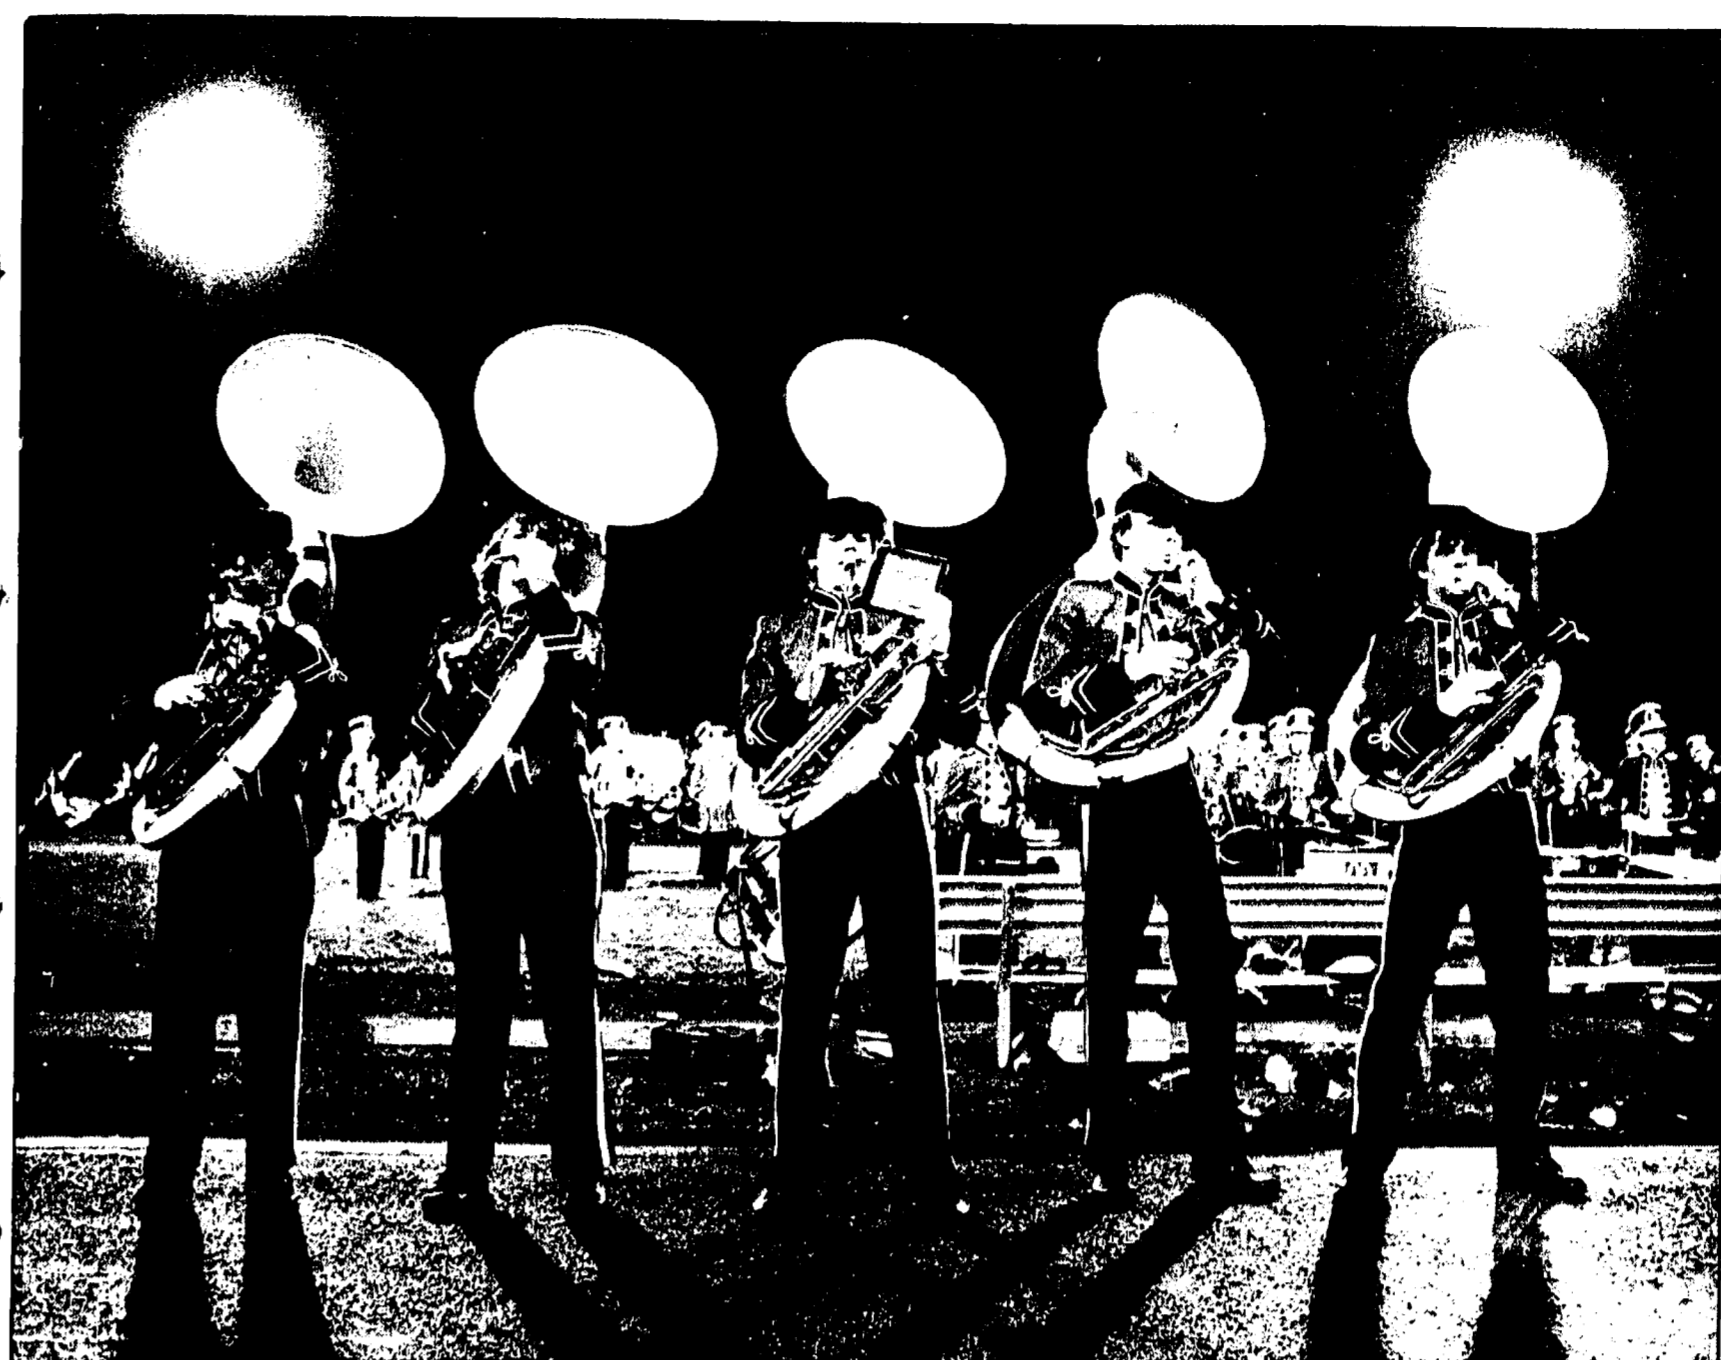

Other board members echoed Kureth's sympathy for Nelson's predicament, but agreed the rezoning was not appropriate for the city as a whole. In a 9-0 decision, the board recommended that city council deny the rezoning.

Head lice outbreak in recession

Orchard Hills Elementary Principal Joseph Imrick believes the worst is over. "I think it's run its course," he said Tuesday about the outbreak of head lice at the school which has caused more than a little concern among parents.

According to Imrick, three cases of head lice have been detected over the past two weeks. One child was found to have head lice on Monday, September 30, and another case was found the following day.

But there had been no new reports of infestation until the lice were detected on the head of a youngster yesterday (Tuesday, October 8).

"For awhile there I was getting optimistic that we had finally gotten rid of them altogether," said the Orchard Hills principal from his office Tuesday afternoon. "Still, I think we've just about won the battle."

Head lice is the common name for "pediculosis." It's caused by a louse which is about one-eighth of an inch long and light to dark tan in color. The lice lay eggs, called nits, which are smooth, plump and greyish-white in color.

The lice are transmitted from person to person by direct contact or by sharing clothing (hats, scarves, etc.) as well as personal items (combs and brushes).

The outbreak of pediculosis at the school has created a great deal of concern among parents, particularly in regard to the Oakland County Health Department's recommendation to wash the heads of affected youngsters with a product called Kwell Shampoo.

One Orchard Hill parent called The News last week to report that a doctor who visited the school last spring had advised against the use of the product. The report was confirmed by Imrick, who added that Kwell is a very strong shampoo and should be used only in accordance with printed directions.

However, Dr. James Rasmussen, MD, a physician associated with the University of Michigan Hospitals in Ann Arbor, said parents do not need to be concerned about the use of Kwell provided they use it properly.

Rasmussen is affiliated with both the Department of Pediatrics and Dermatology at U-M Hospitals and is regarded as an authority on the use of the shampoo, according to a U-M spokesperson. "There is absolutely no record anywhere in the world of anyone having a toxic reaction through use of Kwell for treatment of head lice," said Rasmussen.

"There's no question that it's a toxic substance. If you eat it or pour it over your cereal you're going to have a toxic reaction just like you would to any toxic substance. But if you put it on the scalp, lather it up for five minutes and then wash it off -- as prescribed by the directions, there's no need for concern."

"They (head lice) have no respect for income, social status or intelligence," he commented. "They can pop up anywhere."

Imrick remains optimistic that the problem at Orchard Hills has been just about eliminated. "We're following all the procedures handed down to us by the health department," he said. "I think one of the big reasons we're on the right track has been the assistance of the parents in checking their children on a daily basis," he added. "We're not seeing very many new cases, and that's due to the fact the parents are doing a good job."

Zoning issues subject of most suits against city

By PATRICIA N. BOWLING
staff writer

Of the 19 civil court lawsuits that will call Novi City Attorney David Fried to court this year, nearly half involve the city's zoning ordinance.

In addition to defending the ordinance, Fried's office will debate tax appeals, defend special assessments and attempt to prosecute persons issued tickets by the building department.

"We're keeping you busy," one city council member commented recently after reviewing Fried's summary of all pending litigation. The report was prepared for the city's auditor's Plante and Moran.

Only one case presents the potential for significant financial loss, according to Fried.

A challenge of the city's special assessment district for the construction of public utilities in Section 15 has been appealed by property owners to the Michigan Supreme Court.

If the special assessment is not upheld, the city may be unable to recover significant planning, engineering and legal fees it has spent on Section 15.

For the exception of tax appeals, the most common litigation in Novi involves the city's zoning ordinance.

New regulations in the ordinance limiting look-alike houses generated two lawsuits shortly after the regulations were adopted in April. The ordinance prohibits the building of similar homes on adjacent lots or on lots across the street from one another.

The city currently is involved in two lawsuits against city employees. One alleges unreasonable force during an arrest; the other claims damages as a result of a car accident two years ago. Fried's summary of these and several other suits currently pending follows.

MOBIL OIL CORPORATION v. THE CITY OF NOVI: Mobil Oil Corporation filed suit in Oakland County Circuit Court on August 16, attempting to force planning board approval of plans for a service station, convenience store and car wash on the southwest corner of Haggerty Road and Grand River Avenue. The matter is in "discovery stages." Fried last week advised the board to continue with site plan review. The plans were tabled August 7.

BYRNE BENSON HOMES v. CITY OF NOVI: Byrne Benson Homes, developer of Simmons Orchard subdivision off Ten Mile, was the first builder to have a plan rejected by the city's engineers under the new similar housing regulations. The developer filed suit in Oakland County Circuit Court seeking to have the ordinance provisions held invalid and seeking damages for alleged loss of business.

Although the court dismissed the developer's original claim for damages, an amendment to the complaint filed last week still seeks more than $10,000 from the city, Fried said.

R&R Building Company, which also is developing lots in Simmons Orchard, also filed suit as a result of the new similar housing regulations. However, Fried noted this suit was dismissed by the court in September.

CITY OF NOVI v. CITY OF DETROIT: This suit against Detroit's water and sewage department was filed in Oakland County Circuit Court over two years ago. The suit challenges the 1983-84 and 1984-

85 water rates charged the City of Novi by the City of Detroit. Mediation on the matter was held in February and payment of $35,000 to Novi was recommended. The City of Detroit rejected the proposed settlement. The matter is scheduled for trial beginning tomorrow (October 10).

CITY OF NOVI v. NOVI PALLET COMPANY: The city filed suit against the Novi Pallet Company, 51000 Grand River, in March 1984, to prevent outdoor storage on the site. The trial began in August with testimony from Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers. Fried said the trial has been continued, but no new court dates have been established.

CITY OF NOVI v. ALLOR MANUFACTURING: In June the city filed suit against Allor Manufacturing, 46350 Grand River, for an alleged sign ordinance violation. A trial was held in July, and the court ordered the sign removed.

However, in another sign ordinance case involving Yanni's Restaurant, the court dismissed the ordinance violation tickets issued by the city for a non-conforming pole sign.

The city has appealed to Oakland County Circuit Court.

CLIFFORD DICKEY v. OFFICERS FLUHART, JELLY AND CITY OF NOVI: This action was brought against the city after Dickey claimed he was injured by the officers during an arrest. The trial began in May 1983. Judge John O'Brien ruled against Ralph Fluhart only, awarding damages of $5,880. Both Dickey and Fluhart appealed to the Michigan Court of Appeals. The matter is still pending.

In Court with the City of Novi

Subdivision will expand

The second phase of Dunbarton Pines subdivision, designed to include 187 additional residential lots, will be under development this fall.

The planning board approved plans for the 72-acre subdivision at its Wednesday, October 2, meeting. Grading is to begin immediately, although additional site work and home construction is not expected until spring.

Lots in Dunbarton Pines 2 will vary from 9,800-square-foot to about 23,000-square-foot. The subdivision has been designed to include two open parks. These parks will belong to the homeowner's association.

Homes in the second phase of the subdivision will have at least 1,500 square feet, according to the developer. All will have attached two-car garages and most will have basements.

The homes will be of wood-frame construction with combinations of brick, aluminum siding and wood on the exterior finish. Most models will be offered with lists of optional items such as fireplaces, skylights, interior trim packages and flooring materials.

It is estimated the subdivision will contain approximately 650 people when complete (an average of 3.5 people per dwelling).

Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers noted that approval of the final plat plans for this project completes the Dunbarton Pines Residential Unit Development (RUD) approved by city council in 1979.

The purpose of the RUD option is to provide flexibility in single family zoning districts. The option allows a higher density than the standard single family zoning provided open spaces are reserved in the plan.

New church opens in Novi

The congregation of the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church will celebrate the opening of its new building at the corner of Nine Mile and Meadowbrook Road with special services this Sunday, October 13.

Pastor Gene Jahnke will preside over the 10 a.m. service which will mark the first time the new building has been used for a worship service. Churchgoers will meet outside the building, weather permitting, and then proceed inside for the service.

A Festival District Service will be held Sunday at 4 p.m. Guest speaker will be Pastor Rodney Schwab of Our Savior Lutheran Church in Westland. Schwab served as interim pastor at Good Shepherd prior to the arrival of Jahnke.

Those who attend the afternoon service are invited to remain for a dinner in honor of the opening of the new facility.

Completion of the Nine Mile-Meadowbrook facility is a major event in the life of Good Shepherd which held its first service at Novi Middle School North in September 1980. Services were moved to the Novi Community Building in August 1982, and the congregation has been meeting there since that time.

Good Shepherd currently has a congregation of approximately 100 "souls," according to Jahnke.

Affiliated with the Wisconsin Evangelical Synod, Good Shepherd began construction of its new building in April 1985. Jahnke said the 2,300 square foot facility initially will serve as a worship, educational and fellowship building. Future plans include the addition of a separate educational wing and expansion of the chapel.

NOVI HIGH SCHOOL '85 HOMECOMING

Everyone knows a little rain can't dampen the spirit of Novi High School students — and last Friday's Homecoming celebration was a case in point. It was a good day all around for Novi students despite the rain as Gregg Giorgio and Jennifer Bonkowski were crowned Homecoming king and queen. The Senior Class won the float competition and Coach John Osborne's Wildcat gridders upped their record to 4-1 with a 17-13 victory over Lakeland. The Class of '86 earned honors in the float competition for their giant version of Big Bird (center). Other images of Homecoming '85 are pictured clockwise from one o'clock. Members of the Class of '87 whoop it up during the Homecoming parade despite the steady drizzle. Sophomore memorialization in above ground niche units. Companion niche for husband & wife from $900 complete, includes inscription. Terms to 36 months.

Planners O.K. shopping center

By PATRICIA N. BOWLING staff writer

Planning Board Member William Briggs last week described the proposed Meadowbrook Shopping Center as "bad land use, bad zoning and bad planning."

Briggs: 'We gave (city council) some advice; they didn't follow it — which I think was a collective blunder on their part.'

Preliminary plans for the one-story shopping center were approved in a 5-1 decision of the board Wednesday, October 2.

"We gave them some advice; they didn't follow it — which I think was a collective blunder on their part," he added.

But board members Richard Clark, Charles Kureth, Judy Johnson and Isabel Collins — all of whom opposed the rezoning — voted to approve.

Clark said he recognizes the city council is "in charge," but added his oath as a planner was to exercise his own independent judgment.

He noted that he had met with adjacent property owners and adjusted his plans to accommodate many of their concerns.

Schroeder noted he has never voted against the city's master plan. However, in this case he suggested the proposed shopping center meets the intent of the zoning in the master plan.

"If you're going to reject the plans on the basis of traffic, you must point to something in the record to support your conclusion," he added.

"Is it my understanding that (these provisions) may not be considered by us when considering a site plan?" Clark asked City Attorney David Fried.

"The preamble guides you as planners," Fried explained. "When a zoning ordinance change comes before you, you should consider (the statement in the preamble)."

"The developer, who also has projects in Orchard Lake, Farmington Hills, Southfield and West Bloomfield, said he hopes to open his Meadowbrook Shopping Center next summer.

Wildcat Tom Marcus 'runs for daylight' against the Lakeland defense

NOVI NEWS/STEVE FECHT

Wildcats tame Lakeland 17-13 for 4th victory

You can blame the weather. You can blame Homecoming's carnival atmosphere. You can blame the Lakeland jinx that seems to hover over each year's Eagle-Wildcat gridiron battle.

Whatever, Novi turned what promised to be a nice, easy Homecoming victory into a cliffhanger, finally pulling off a 17-13 victory for their fourth win in five games.

Novi played an excellent football game—in most respects.

Quarterback Jeff Tanderys completed 10 of 17 passes for 126 yards. Tight end Bill Yankowski and split end Steve Shankel made some dynamite clutch catches.

Running backs Joel Finzel, Keith Molyka and Tom Marcus combined for over 150 yards rushing. Darrin Mack boxed a 24-yard field goal and converted both TD conversions despite windy, rainy conditions.

Brett Gillick scored a touchdown on a two-yard dive and played a fearsome game at defensive end. Defensive back Larry McKillop snared two interceptions, and new starter Matt Kamish made a very impressive debut at safety.

So how did 1-4 Lakeland stay close? Seven, count 'em, seven Novi fumbles. Three of which Lakeland recovered. Two of which led to stalled offensive drives.

Two of Novi's most nightmarish fumbles came in the final four minutes, with Novi's four-point lead looking extremely vulnerable. Deep in their own end, the Wildcats fumbled the ball away once, got the ball back on Larry McKillop's second interception, then fumbled the ball away again. Once again, though, the defense rose to the challenge and stopped the Eagles.

If it sounds like Lakeland was lucky to stay as close as they did, that's not how Novi Coach John Osborne saw it.

"Lakeland gave us some problems with their option offense," he said. "They're a good football team, and they had me very worried for a while there."

Novi booters still seek first win

There's a soccer equivalent of basketball's rough-and-tumble "streetyard hoop."

In soccer hotbed St. Louis, where the German and Italian neighborhood schools used to have intense rivalries, they called it "city ball"—finding an edge somewhere when your talent doesn't stack up well against your opponent.

Played clean but hard, it can put a team with heart on equal footing with a more talented squad. But if referees let it get notso-clean, it puts a finesse-oriented team—a team like Novi—at a distinct disadvantage.

That's happened a few times in Novi's winless season, but nowhere was it more of a disappointment than in the Wildcats' 4-2 loss to Garden City last week.

Novi took an early 2-0 lead on Wayne Appleton's unassisted breakaway goal just 40 seconds into the game and Terry Doyle's penalty shot at 12:41.

Garden City cut the lead to one goal before halftime—then came out in rough fashion in the second half and overpowered Novi with three unanswered goals.

"I give our guys a lot of credit for not losing their cool," said Novi Coach Nick Valenti. "But Garden City's players were doing things like punching the ball with their fists when going up for a header and hacking."

"The refs just weren't picking it up. I think if we could have gotten a few calls we would have won—we outplayed them. It just wasn't a very pretty game."

By contrast, Novi's 5-3 loss to Dearborn Fordson was much better played. Freshmen Scott Pfeiffer and Jeff Mielke started the Wildcats to a 2-0 lead in the first 2½ minutes of the game before Fordson woke up and scored three goals before the half.

"Pfeiffer's tally came when the newly-appointed starting striker stole a pass, faked past a defender and fired in the first goal from point-blank range. Less than a minute later, Mielke let go a hard blast from 15 yards out for Novi's second goal.

Fordson added a fourth goal with 30 minutes left in the game and scored again just before the end after Novi had adjusted to an "attack" formation. Right winger Doyle wrapped up Novi's scoring with a rocket into the upper left corner from the right corner of the penalty area.

An exciting game—and a world apart from the 5-0 loss Fordson handed the Wildcats earlier this year. "Our guys walked off the field feeling pretty good about the way they played," he added.

Novi hosts Oak Park today (Wednesday) at 4 p.m. and then prepares for its regional qualifying match at 7 p.m. Tuesday at Belleville. Novi will play the winner of this week's West Bloomfield-Belleville match after drawing a bye in the MHSAA tournament's first round.
