Board puts teeth in Trammell Crow option

By MICHELE M. FECHT

The Novi Board of Education once again has approved an extension of Trammell Crow development company's purchase option on the former Novi Elementary School property—the fourth such extension since the option was granted on the 11-acre site in August, 1984

The board approved a 30-day extension on the property at its meeting Thursday night with the development firm agreeing to pay $10,000 through the term of the agreement which will expire December 31.

While the language of the extended agreement remains relatively the same, the stakes have become a little higher.

In its new agreement, the school district has designated that only $5,000 of the development company's $10,000 payment will go toward the purchase price of the property. Up to this point, all payments have gone toward the $1.7 million purchase of the former elementary school site considered by city officials to be a key to development of the Town Center project.

School officials frustrated by delays in the project voiced concern last week that they have received very little from their nearly $2 million investment. With the new provision, half the development company's payment will go to the school district with the remainder going toward the purchase of the property.

"For the size of the project we're talking about, you need about a year to iron out the closing," Board President Robert Schram acknowledged.

"After more than a year, we feel we should be getting some return on our investment," he Schram pointed out that by not closing on the agreement, the development company continues to deny the school district the interest it would receive on the $1.7 million.

Schram noted that while payments have increased each time the board has granted an extension on the option agreement, the latest agreement marks the first time the board has added a so-called "penalty" clause.

"We've been making it more and more expensive for them to delay this thing," Schram said of the payment increases, noting that the current $10,000 fee is a marked increase over the initial $3,000 payment made by Weatherford-Walker in August, 1984. In the last agreement which expired December 6, the payment was $8,000 for every 30-day

In addition to the payment provision, the school board also agreed to automatically extend the option an additional 60 days should the development company submit preliminary site plans for the property to the City of Novi on or before December 31.

Trammeli Crow, which assumed the option last June from the Farmington-based Weatherford-Walker Company, is expected to make a Town Center presentation on December 17 at a joint meeting of the Novi City Council and planning board.

Though the school board did not reiterate

Thursday night its opposition to including the school site in any tax increment financing district, its past position has been that the agreement will be null and void should the school property be proposed for a TIFA district.

The school district was assured by Trammell Crow representatives in September that the 11-acre school site would not be included in any type of TIFA or tax abatement program.

TRAFFIC

Novi under pressure

By B.J. MARTIN staff writer

People sometimes liken roads to blood vessels. Both are a network of transport lines bringing needed materials to different areas.

Apply that analogy to Novi's road system, and the diagnosis is not good: the city's main veins are showing worsening symptoms of high blood pressure.

Traffic

It's bad year-round. But it's at its worst this time of year, when holiday shoppers file onto Novi Road and Twelve Mile to take advantage of the city's rapidly-expanding commercial center.

Without some relief, Novi's growth is going to make things far worse before they get better. And whether relief is in sight is far from a foregone conclusion. In this three-part report, The Novi News looks at Novi's three major areas of concern: Haggerty Road, Novi Road and Twelve Mile.

Haggerty Road: The Problem

Haggerty Road never was meant to be a major north-south conduit. That job was supposed to be handled by the extended I-275, a project that once appeared to be as inevitable as the eventual linkup of I-696 in southeast Oakland County.

Many west Oakland County maps still show dotted lines indicating the proposed route of I-275. In Novi's Master Plan, drawn up five years ago, a thick dotted line shows the intended path of the proposed I-275, extending north from I-96 between Haggerty and Meadowbrook. There are even dotted lines showing an exit ramp at Thirteen Mile.

Despite support from local officials, however, for the foreseeable future the project is not even being considered.

"The state highway department is under orders to keep the project alive," said Dennis Pajot of the Oakland County Road Commission. "It's been alternately killed and resurrected several times over the

With no freeway access to I-96, Haggerty Road can be a commuter nightmare years, but it's always been our posi- gerty Road to conduct north-south north-tion that it's needed."

But the cost of continuing I-275 north to its apparently natural linkup with I-75 is escalating each year. It escalates each year with West Bloomfield Township and Commerce Township property values — and each year the cost of completing the freeway becomes increasingly prohibitive.

In the meantime, that leaves Haggerty Road to conduct north-south traffic for the near 20-mile span between Orchard Lake Road and M-23 to the west. Commuters from Commerce Township, Walled Lake, Farmington Hills, West Bloomfield, even Union Lake, make use of the road on a daily basis.

Besides the wide geographical area it serves, Haggerty Road has rush-hour tie-ups which result from freeway-bound traffic from the north. Currently, commuters headed east via I-696 have one relief point: the interchange at Grand River in Farmington Hills. Local officials insist more interchanges are necessary, at the very least, an interchange at Haggerty.

"That's even more important than widening the road," said Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall. "Even if

West Oaks II plan given preliminary nod

By B.J. MARTIN

West Oaks II may not make a three-point landing on its final approach. But it looks like it won't crash, either.

At about 1 a.m. last Thursday, after two hours of debate and discussion, the Novi Planning Board voted 7-1 to approve preliminary plans for a large-scale northward expansion of West Oaks shopping center on Novi Road north of I-696.

If West Oaks II and the proposed expo-fashion center/hotel expansion project to the south are granted final approvals in the next few weeks, a rectangular area extending about 0.4 miles west of Novi Road and from I-696 to Twelve Mile could be completely filled in with commercial development by the end of 1986.

Under the overall development plan for the area, the service road under construction just north of I-696 will curve to the north and link up with Twelve Mile just east of its inersection with Dixon Road.

Other proposed changes affecting traffic in-□ West Oaks Drive's extension westward to connect with the lengthened access drive.

 □ A right-turn only driveway located 300 feet south of Twelve Mile on Novi Road.

☐ Eliminating existing Novi Road driveways to Art Van and Fretter Appliance.
☐ A service drive parallel to Novi Road will be extended from West Oaks Drive to a new east-be extended from West Oaks Drive to a new eastwest service drive fronting Novi Road just north of Fretter Appliance.

If all that sounds pretty large-scale, it's understandable. Completion of the commercial area would culminate years of planning by public officials and private developers alike.

Michael Ward, an executive vice president with Ramco Gershenson, said it took his firm 1½ years to acquire the 15 parcels needed for the West Oaks II project. It will contain 335,780 square feet of retail store space, enough parking for more than 2,200 cars, and is expected to create 500 permanent jobs.

Plans call for one large L-shaped one-story building containing five major stores and space for more than 30 smaller specialty shops.

Two small one-story buildings designated "retail" are located apart from the main building. The exterior would be earth-toned brick, "traditional with modern touches," according to Ward. Awnings will provide shoppers a continuous canopy along the main building to permit rainy-day window shopping.

"I'm very happy with what's transpiring," Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall told planning board members at last week's meeting.

"Years ago, we knew traffic would be the biggest concern in that area, and we knew we had to get ahead of the process," said Kriewall. "West Oaks will be the agent to let it happen as we've planned. The city has invested a lot of time, money and effort in this."

Kriewall said most of the landowners who had resisted the city's planned urban development assessments in years past have sold their property to commercial developers eager to see the district develop.

"There were times a couple years ago we didn't think we'd be able to work it out," he added. "But what we're looking at comes very close to what we had visualized for the end product."

Richard Clark, the only board member to oppose granting preliminary site plan approval, did not share Kriewall's optimism. "We seem to be dead-set on going full-speed

"We seem to be dead-set on going full-speed down the road with this when we can't handle the traffic there now," said Clark. "I don't see this (project) doing anything to help the public.

"You have to ask how much commercial is too much if you don't have the infrastructure to support it," Clark continued. "If you don't have an adequate road system to handle it, you have to ask yourself if you're trading off the quality of life in the community . . . We're putting the cart before the horse."

Despite the man's reluctance to talk to strangers, police were able to find a friend to take 87-year-old Harold Ivan Carmin into his home until the old man could be taken to the Masons' Hospital and Home for the Elderly in Alma.

Police became aware of Carmin's plight when they received a call from one of the old man's friends early Saturday morning. The caller said he had been unable to contact Carmin for several days and asked police to check on his wolfers.

Campaign expenditures in this year's mayoral and council races were among highest in city history

Karevich led field in campaign gifts

By B.J. MARTIN staff writer

New Mayor Patricia Karevich nipped incumbent Robert Schmid by just 306 votes in Novi's November 5 election. But in the campaign spending race leading up to the vote, it was no contest.

In one of the most expensive campaigns in Novi history, "People for Karevich" drummed up $5,412.98, nearly a third more than "Residents to Re-Elect Mayor Schmid," which raised $2,841.46 for its candidate.

The Oakland County Elections Division required candidates in the November election to provide an itemized list of campaign donors and expenditures by Thursday of last week.

The reports showed the nearvolunteer status of council members hasn't deterred hopefuls from reaching deep into their pockets to pay for advertisements, signs, pamphlets, hats, buttons — and loans.

Karevich was on the receiving end of the most contributions, obtaining Karevich was on the receiving end of the most contributions, obtaining 13 donations over $100, including $407 classified as "in-kind contributions" (non-monetary).

Among the major donors to Karevich's campaign were: Scott Moore of Pinckney ($200), Kim Stricker of Howell ($200), Sharon Medwid of West Bloomfield ($200), Robert Hirlin of Garden City ($200 of in-kind postage plus $100), Paula Schwallie of Novi ($200), Brian Fannon of Novi ($200), Diana Canup of Novi ($118 of in-kind supplies), Woneda Kenney of Walled Lake ($100), Roland Gerhart of Novi ($100), Kerope Arman of Livonia ($100), Clyde Dean of Novi ($100), Barbara Gambino of Mattoon, Wisconsin ($100), and William Gurr

Traffic wasn't the only concern planners raised last week. Board Member Joseph Toth noted the site plans provided for an outdoor garden shop/lumber display area facing the planned extension of West Oaks Drive, in apparent violation of an ordinance restricting outdoor storage and display to a building's side or rear. Toth also said he was concerned either of the two small buildings located apart from the main building would be used for a restaurant, much as planners originally believed the Pizza Hut now nearly completed in West Oaks' first phase was to be a bank. Ward stated neither remote building in the site plan would be a restaurant. Finally, Toth said he was unsure of the adequacy of screening for truck-loading docks along the rear of the structure running along Twelve Mile, although landscape plans for the project called for a berm and vegetation. "I'm not sure the topography will (allow effective screening) of everything," Toth said. "Some truck wells can get pretty trashy." Board Members Riley Richard and Charles Kureth raised concerns that the proposed expansion may have a negative impact on Town Center commercial plans and other commercial uses in

Looking for Solutions

The most recent attempt to speed laggerty Road improvements and a freeway access ramp came in the form of State Senator Richard Fessler's proposal for a divided parkway for Haggerty extending rom Eight Mile north to Richardsor Road in Commerce Township. Under Fessler's plan — a modification of a plan discussed for years by local officials — Haggerty would be designated as part of a "trunk line," i.e., a major regional connector road between trunk lines I-96 and M-59. The road would be landscaped as a greenbelt-divided boulevard pro-pearance along its east boundary. The idea sounded good. By being declared a trunk line, Haggerty could be improved and widened directly from state funds instead of having to compete for the pool of county road improvement funds.

A preliminary report on the feasibility of a trunk line designation was the subject of a study prepared for state legislators by the department of transportation. The conclusions of the study are scheduled to be presented today (Wednesday). But as Bob Adams, deputy director

"There's likely to be impacts (in the north) no matter where you put through the trunk line," he added. "Because of the proximity and location of wetlands and woodlands, it's going to require extensive study. A detailed environmental study alone could take many months and as long as a couple of years.'

Asked if the trunk line designation could be used to free up funds just for the Haggerty Road portion of the north-south route, Adams said, "It's not our policy to build a trunk line in steps. It's our responsibility to provide for trips from one region to another. It's the county's responsibility to provide for movement within the county." Volunteer Bureau to shut down

County Volunteer Bureau, which has served the county since 1967, will close its doors December 12 The decision was reached after months of studying community needs and the demands of the agencies the bureau has served. Formed in 1967 by United Community Services and the Junior League of Birmingham, the Oakland County Volunteer Bureau provided an interview/referral service that matched individuals wishing to do volunteer work with social service agencies that needed workers. In reaching its decision to close, the bureau's board of directors concluded that the agencies needing volunteers were not using the bureau in sufficient numbers and the public was not using the broad-based personal interview that was the bureau's unique offering. In addition, the pool of potential volunteers has diminished as more and more women have joined the regular work force and, further, the board was unable to document the placement of volunteers with agencies. "There is no reason to spend time and resources on a service for which there is little demand," noted the board in its decision to close the bureau. The Oakland County Volunteer

Bureau, which has been funded through private donations since 1981 when it was dropped from the United Community Services rolls, operated from the First United Methodist Church in again am facing the holiday season in a wave of panic and anxiety. The Christmas cards bought long before Thanksgiving still are sitting on a shelf waiting to be addressed and mailed. Presents purchased on a two-day shopping spree in Chicago are piled up in the storage room while my remaining ist grows yellow on the refrigerator door (I don't have the time to shop after work nor the courage to face the

As has been his past practice, the Grinch once again has dampened my Christmas spirit. Endless errands, obligatory social engagements and a hectic work schedule coupled with such seasonal festivities as shopping, wrapping, baking and waiting two hours in line to pick up the honey-baked ham have left me on permanent overload.

Though it's been a long time since I sat on Santa's lap rattling off my list of Christmas wants, I've decided this year I may pay a visit to the jolly old elf. My single request would be to turn back the hands of time about 17 years when the Christmas season meant more than running out to the grocery store after guests have arrived to buy Sterno for the chafing dish filled with Despite my Scrooge-like commentary on the holiday season, I haven't always approached December with such gloom and doom. It's only been the past few years that I've let the holidays get the best of me. Like most young, married, childless couples, Steve and I spend the better part of our holiday making the in-law rounds. While the company is delightful, we've found most of our time is spent traveling from one side of the metropolitan Detroit area to the other — with little more than an hour or two left to enjoy our brief visits.

We do a trial run of our Christmas Day rounds at Thanksgiving at which time we consume two turkey dinners, three servings of pumpkin pie and an endless supply of Alka

As a child, the five weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas provided endless excitement and anticipation. Despite bouts with the flu which left me bed-ridden the week before Christmas for three consecutive years, I have nothing but fond memories of my childhood holidays.

By Steve Fecht

I suspect such childhood innocence and awe has been overcome by an adult-sized dose of cynicism and frustra-

We usually marked the start of the Christmas season on the weekend we baked cookies. Though my mother and great-aunt did most of the baking, the kids were allowed to lick the bowl and place cinnamon candies on the gingerbread men. Last weekend, I joined my mother and my great-aunt for our annual bake-off. As I could have predicted, we ran out of vanilla halfway through the first batch, burned four dozen Russian tea cakes and lost a batch of dough after the cat took a flying leap for the bowl. So much for childhood memories.

Decorating the Christmas tree provided just about the same excitement. After searching a half-hour for a saw to cut off the bottom branches (so the tree would fit in the stand), we managed to get it into the house only to find most of the ornaments were missing hooks. Also missing was the box of extra hooks.

Whatever happened to the days when my only concern was that I might not find a Little Hostess Buffet under the tree on

I suspect such childhood innocence and awe has been overcome by an adult-sized dose of cynicism and frustration. Caught up in my own harried state of holiday panic and the commercialism which now symbolizes my once favorite time of year, I seem to have lost the true meaning of Christmas.

I'm ashamed to admit that the little choir girl who once fought back tears at the glorious sights and sounds confronting her during a Christmas Eve service, has not set foot inside a church since her marriage more than a year ago. Nor has she given much thought to those less fortunate whose worries are considerably greater than burned cookies, unhooked ornaments

Since I never received the Little Hostess Buffet (it was cheap anyway), I'm hoping this year I'll find a little of that lost

It's just that . . . well, his wife Carol is a veterinarian. Which is alright, too. Except that she's not just any veterinarian. She's our veterinarian. The vet who takes care of Bonnie, Clyde and Bowser whenever any of our three cats requires medical attention.

And when Carol and my spouse get together, the conversation turns quickly to their favorite subject — cats.

Sure enough, we hadn't been at the party more than five minutes when they were off in a

"Have you seen a big, fluffy grey one with white fur around its neck?" asked Dr. Carol. "He's been hanging around our barn, but we haven't seen him in a couple of days and I'm beginning to get worried." "No, I haven't seen that one, but have you our garage for awhile." "That's not the Hickman's cat, is it?" replied Dr. Carol. "They have one that looks just like that "

"No, I know the Hickman's cat." answered my wife. "This is a new one. I haven't seen him around before. I think maybe somebody dumped him in the park and he finally discovered that I keep nibblies in the garage for strays looking for a good meal."

And on and on they went. Talking about this cat and that cat. Relating their favorite cat stories to each other. Discussing kitty nutrition and the latest kitty diseases.

I started giving serious consideration to asking the senator how things were going in Lansing, but abandoned the idea, figuring he didn't want to talk about politics at a social function any more than I did.

So I just sort of grinned and skulked off toward the hors d'oeuvres. The senator, I figured, would have to fend for himself.

DICK MORRIS CHEVROLET of Walled Lake was cited for achieving Service Supremacy certification for the fifth consecutive year at a banquet sponsored by Chevrolet officials at the Sheraton

Its requirements include continual training for service employees, good customer relations, a quality control system to check repairs and an up-to-date supply of tools. The Service Supremacy program was started in 1981, making Dick Morris one of the few dealers certified in

At the Sheraton Oaks, Morris oversaw an awards ceremony in which all his employees received silver lapel pins, shoulder patches and desk flags. In addition, the dealership received a full-size flag an-

Morris said the flag will be flown over the dealership. "People will see it flying as they drive by every day, and it will remind them that they can buy from us with confidence that we'll take care of them," he godmother's secret is out!

Don't let that "magic wand" fool you! She's tried to make us believe that with a wave of that wand, she can turn pumpkins into carriages, mice into white horses and rags into white gowns." But we know she's just like the rest of us! When we want to turn a baby crib into cash... an older car into a new one... or change from sales clerk to doctor's receptionist... the only magic wand we hold in our hand is a telephone receiver and the only thing we wave is our index finger as we dial the Classified Department of the way good things come true for us with the help of Want Ads. And besides, we have a strong feeling that's the way. the fairy godmother makes

Fabulous freshman

Freshman sensation Beth Suroowiec was the only Novi swimmer to qualify for the MHSAA state meet at East Lansing December 6 and acquitted herself nicely. Seeded last (39th) among the qualifiers in the 100-yard backstroke qualifiers, Surowiec proved the seed was way off the mark by finishing in 17th place with a time of 1:04.35 — more than two seconds off her previous best time and a new Novi High School record. "Beth did a great job, especially if you consider where she was seeded," Wildcat coach Chad Balk said. "She's just a freshman and if she can continue to improve, I think by the time she's a junior or senior, she might have a shot at a state title."

Wildcats edge Harrison in final event

School records, pool records and state-qualifying times went flying left and right when the Novi Wildcat swim team went up against Farmington Harrison December 5. The fact that it was the Wildcats' season opener made the accomplishments quite unusual. But the meet takes on even more significance when you consider that a freshman was the person doing most of the damage. Enter Jon Cohen — already a freshman phenom. All he did last Thursday was set two school records, two pool records and qualified for the MHSAA Class A State Meet in both events. Not bad for the first

Almost lost in Cohen's fabulous debut was Novi's 87-85 win over the Hawks. Larry Teahan's squad needed to finish first and third in the 400-yard the Literature Arts and Sciences coldefense, but he is an important part of freestyle relay, the final event of the meet, to pull out the victory and that's exactly what they did.

POPOVERS It is rather difficult to describe this delectable American creation. It is a very light muffin which rises high above the top of the pan. The thickness of the batter should be that of rich cream. Too thick a batter will keep the popovers from fully rising. The best pans to use for them are heavy, oldfashioned iron or earthenware ones Modern oven-proof glass or heavy aluminum pans are also good but they batter. Turn into the prepared pans and bake as directed. Makes eight. Bob Henshaw smaller loaf pans or three regular size pans (5x9). This is a large recipe. This undoubtedly is the most often made bread in Northville kitchens. About 15 years ago, when the Northville band boosters needed funds for he marching band, its president, Pearl Weber, suggested a pumpkin bread sale during the Christmas Walk. It was successful and repeated for many years. Initially, I made the bread: now it is one of my daughter Laurie's favorite recipes. Excellent for gifts.

GREEK SPINACH PIE

Two cups crumbled feta cheese
Two tablespoons flour
One cup chopped onion
Two cups cottage cheese
Five eggs
Three tabléspoons butter

Three tablespoons butter One-half pound unsalted butter, melted Two pounds fresh spinach (or three, ten-ounce packages, frozen)

Two teaspoons dill weed
One pound package defrosted filo dough

Clean, stem and chop the spinach. Salt it lightly and cook for five minutes. If using frozen spinach, follow directions of back of package. Pour off excess

Cook the onions in three tablespoons butter. When soft, combine with remaining ingredients and spinach (except for filo and one-half pound butter). Spread melted butter on a 9x13 baking pan. Place a strudel leaf in the pan (it will outsize the pan. Let the edges climb the sides) and brush generously with butter. Keep layers of dough coming, one on top of another, brushing each with butter. When you have a pile of eight leaves, spread on half the filling. Continue with a stack of eight or so leaves (don't skimp on the butter), then apply the remaining filling, spreading it to the edges. Fold the excess filo down along the edges, making little tidy cor-

Pile as many more layers of filo and butter as your baking pan will accommodate. Butter the topmost leaf.

SPECIAL RIGATONI

Seven ounces butter
Four ounces parmesan cheese
Four heaping tablespoons sour cream
One ounce sweet cream
One-half teaspoon garlic powder
One whole green pepper, sliced thin
Six whole mushrooms, sliced in half
One ounce fresh parsley, chopped, or use a little dried parsley
Eight ounces rigatoni noodles

Prepare noodles as per package directions, rinse well.

Sauce: melt butter in large skillet, add cheese, blend well and add sour cream, then add sweet cream, blending to keep smooth. Add pinch of garlic and stir until all ingredients are well blended.

Add sliced green peppers and sliced mushrooms to sauce and stir and cook slowly for only two minutes.

Stir in prepared noodles, mixing carefully. Place on warmed platter or casserole and sprinkle parsley on top. Serves two. Good with Greek or tossed salad and garlic bread.

More Choices For Better Health Care

Consumers today are enjoying more choices than ever before. Magazine racks are filled with titles reflecting an increasing number of interests. Telephone and banking options have multiplied dramatically. One look at an evening's cable television offerings points quite clearly to a change that is having an impact on our entire society.

The reason for this increasing number of choices is that consumers are changing. They are sending a clear message to those who provide goods and services that a single solution will no longer be enough to meet their many different wants and needs. As a result, a more consumer-oriented attitude has led to the development of more innovative solutions in every field.

Increasing consumer emphasis is nowhere more apparent than in health care. Demand is increasing for high-quality care that is also convenient and cost effective. Meeting that demand requires careful planning and new combinations of facilities, services and methods of controlling costs.

Comprehensive Health Services

In our community Catherine McAuley Health Center has been a leader in identifying and meeting consumers' health needs by listening to the people it serves and inviting their participation. The Health Center has developed comprehensive, consumer-oriented health care services in cooperation with local physicians, area hospitals and thousands of community leaders, volunteers and donors.

In 1911 the Sisters of Mercy came here at the request of local residents and physicians to open St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. A few years later the Sisters opened Mercywood Hospital to meet the community's mental health needs. Over the years these facilities have grown and in 1979 they were consolidated to form Catherine McAuley Health Center. The Health Center's name honors Catherine McAuley who founded the Sisters of Mercy in Ireland more than 150 years ago. Her mission of caring for the needs of the whole person and providing personalized and compassionate care remains the guiding philosophy of the Health Center.

Today, Catherine McAuley Health Center has evolved from its two well-known hospitals into comprehensive health services ranging from outpatient clinics and health promotion activities to home health care services and a health maintenance organization.

Responding to Community Needs

The development of the Health Center's programs and facilities has been carefully planned under the supervision of a board of community leaders. An important priority has been the addition of many outpatient services to complement inpatient treatment and contain health care costs. Programs such as outpatient surgery and cardiac rehabilitation have been designed to deliver care as comfortably and conveniently as possible. As a result, patients receive high-quality medical treatment in a caring environment and are able to return to their homes and families within the same day.

Making care more accessible has been another high priority. Neighborhood facilities in Ann Arbor, Plymouth, Brighton and Ypsilanti bring minor emergency care, primary and specialty care, and health promotion services closer to where people live.

In answer to the business community's challenge to contain costs without sacrificing the quality of health care, the McAuley Health Plan was developed. This health maintenance organization is a joint effort between the Health Center and area physicians to benefit patients and their families. More than 300 area physicians participate in the Plan which offers pre-paid health services through local employers. In its first year of operation enrollment has exceeded 14,000 members, making it one of the most popular alternatives in health care coverage in our community. McAuley Health Plan is the only non-profit, locally owned and operated health maintenance organization in Washtenaw County.

hysicians: Partners for Good Health

The comprehensive health services Catherine McAuley Health Center offers would not be possible without the active leadership and participation of its Medical Staff. More than 400 physicians work with the Health Center to provide individualized services for their patients. Because of this close working relationship, the Health Center is able to provide more convenient and cost-effective health care. One significant example of this physician/Health Center partnership is the development of McAuley Health Plan, the only Washtenaw County-based health maintenance organization.

The development of Health Center services has been in direct response to identified community needs. This health care guide is divided into four sections:

The Emergency Department handles all levels of emergencies 24 hours a day, 365 days a year.

Our comprehensive emergency services also include the specialized facilities of McAuley Urgent Care, providing immediate walk-in treatment of minor illness and injuries.

McAuley Urgent Care is open every day of the year, including weekends and holidays from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. at three convenient locations: the Arbor Health Building in downtown Plymouth, 455-1900; the Maple Health Building on the west side of Ann Arbor, 662-5222; and at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, 572-3952.

For general information on Catherine McAuley Health Center and how to find a personal physician, call the Community Relations Department at (313) 572-4000.

Catherine McAuley Health Center—providing you with more choices for better health care.

To receive more emergency telephone stickers, please call 572-4000.

ision center ANNOUNCING (

THE OPENING OF A NEW PEARLE VISION CENTER.

It's here. Right in your neighborhood. The eyecare that's made millions trust their eyes to Pearle. For a lot of good reasons. Like an eye exam by a professional doctor of optometry. And a selection of 1,200 frames. With stylists to help you choose the ones that best fit your face and personality. Or, if you wear contacts, we have them for virtually any prescription or lifestyle. We can even, in most cases, have your eyewear ready in a day. So come on in.
You'll see why millions of people trust their eyes to Pearle.

> GRAND OPENING SAVINGS CERTIFICATE Grand River Halsted Plaza 37085 Grand River Ave.

Farmington, 476-9311

OFF

Present this certificate at the Pearle Vision Center for $20.00 off on your purchase of a complete pair of eyeglasses, contact lenses or prescription sunglasses. This certificate valid until 12/28/85. This certificate must be presented at time of order.
