City sets 12.73-mill package for '86-87

Next Monday, Novi City Council is scheduled to enact a "maintenance budget" for 1986-1987 that will, in sum, raise the combined city millage to 12.73, a 1.85 mill increase over the 1985-86 millage rate.

Only three residents turned up to comment on the proposed hike at the city's public hearing on the budget Monday. All stated they wanted council to leave intact the planning commission's $303,000 request for its 1986-87 work program (see related story inside) instead of the $200,000 cap council is imposing.

While recent budget deliberations focused on the city's .1755 mill increase for the general fund, almost all of this year's overall city millage increase can be attributed to the 1.81 mill levy for construction of the new civic center. Voters approved a civic center bond millage last November.

The civic center millage is not included in the general fund millage, which will rise from 5.42 in 1985-86 to 5.59 for the coming fiscal year. City council is authorized by charter to levy up to 6.5 mills for the general fund.

Forty-one percent of the general fund will go to the police department, with general administration receiving 12 percent, the self-funded building department eight percent, and the city clerk's department seven percent. No other department takes up more than four percent of the general fund.

The city's increased revenue will allow administrators to hire exactly one-half more employees. A full-time worker will replace the current part-time employee in the city's finance department.

Other millage rates which are scheduled to increase will be the city's parks and recreation fund tax, which will increase from .4985 to its maximum allowable of .5000 mills; the city's fire debt fund (for capital), which will go from .2500 to .2885; and the drain debt fund, which will increase from .8842 to .9407.

Several city millage rates will decrease. The municipal street fund millage will fall from .8354 to .8235; the drain revenue fund will fall from .5587 to .5507; the library fund will fall from .8564 to .8408; the voted street debt fund will fall from 1.0776 to .9383; the library completion debt fund will fall from .0671 to .0606; and the police building debt fund will fall from .4295 to .3825.

Task force set for police, fire

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
 staff writer

Whether the City of Novi needs to increase police and fire personnel has been a volatile issue for several years. In annual budget talks, fire and police department heads repeatedly insist they need additional manpower to meet the demands of the city's growing population and industry.

Novi City Council elected to tackle the issue head-on by voting Monday to create a special Police and Fire Protection Needs Committee composed of city residents, business interests and city administrators.

The committee's duties are a political minefield rife with old antagonisms and conflicting opinions. Members will be charged with analyzing current and future levels of police and fire protection and personnel, with researching alternative methods for supplying public safety services, and with recommending changes if necessary.

Should the committee recommend adding personnel to police and fire staffs, it also must also find a minimally painful way to pay for them — and council members are sensitive about incurring additional expenditures.

In fact, Arlen Schroeder and Nancy Covert opposed the resolution to create the committee; it was approved by a 5-2 vote.

Schroeder said the language of the committee resolution alone would encourage committee members to think council members favored increasing personnel.

"If all we're doing is charging them with looking at our needs, (committee members) are going to conclude we need more, and they're going to conclude we can't do it within 6.5 mills (the charter general fund limit)," Schroeder said.

"We want the city to be right in the low-cost forefront. We were saying we don't want to be another Southfield, with all these high-rise buildings, and we're headed right down the same road."

Schroeder also echoed Covert's proposal that a professional expert undertake the question of police and fire staffing instead of a citizens committee.

"My concern is that the citizens

Apparent suicide in pond near mall

A man found floating face-down in a small lake between Twelve Oaks Mall and the Glen Oaks Apartments has been identified as Charles Bares, 69, of Farmington Hills.

Novi Police Captain Richard Faulkner said the apparent drowning victim reportedly had been distraught and despondent prior to the time his body was discovered, leading to a preliminary conclusion that it was a case of suicide.

The body was observed in the lake by Twelve Oaks security personnel at approximately 6:20 a.m. on Monday, May 5. Security officers summoned Novi Police who removed the body from the lake with the assistance of Novi Fire Department personnel and arranged for it to be transported to the Oakland County Medical Examiner's office in Pontiac.

Officers reported no initial signs of foul play. The Medical Examiner's Office also reported no initial signs of foul play, although Faulkner said the investigation is continuing and no cause of death will be determined officially for several weeks.

A missing person report on the victim had been filed with the Farmington Hills Police Department and placed on the law enforcement teletype machine Saturday, May 3, at 2 p.m., according to Faulkner.

The car the victim had been reported to be driving was found in the Twelve Oaks parking lot approximately 400 to 500 feet from the lake shortly before the body was discovered floating face down in the lake, Faulkner said.

Faulkner also reported that the case remains under investigation.

Sub races: Three plats get nod

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
 staff writer

Housing subdivisions small, medium and large advanced one step each through the Novi's official approval process Monday, as city council gave preliminary nods to plats for nine-lot Sunrise Subdivision; 49-lot Pebble Ridge Subdivision; and 120-lot Yorkshire Place, phases II and III.

While developer Marshall Tobin's 2.8-acre Sunrise subdivision, located east of Meadowbrook and south of Nine Mile sailed through with ease, council members had several problems with William Gladden's Pebble Ridge and Vincenti Investment Company's Yorkshire Place.

Pebble Ridge is expected to provide housing stock in the $100,000-and-up price range, and provides exclusively lots at least a half-acre in size throughout its 31.5-acre site.

At its April 16 meeting, the Novi Planning Commission recommended council turn down the Pebble Ridge plat for three main reasons: one, concerns over groundwater quality and, two, concerns over the adequacy of roads servicing potential new homes to the subdivision, which would be located east of unpaved Wixom Road between Ten and Eleven Mile; and three, objections from residents who built homes under Pebble Ridge's original plat.

The residents said they were adversely affected by the subdivision's redesign because their homes were to abut the detention basin specified on the original plat. Since Novi's stormwater management plan went into effect, however, the Pebble Ridge detention basin was no longer needed. Gladden elected to put more lots into the former detention basin site, in effect giving the existing homeowners backyards to look upon instead of a pond.

City's new address law may have your number

 staff writer

Attention, those of you whose house numbers are written in script, or not at all. Attention, businesses who don't post a sign at their rear entrance. Attention, anyone whose mailbox-on-a-post doesn't clearly show the home address number.

As of today, you'll be violating a new city ordinance expected to affect hundreds of homeowners and businesses in the community. In simple terms, it's an ordinance that requires each address in the city to be visible from the closest street. If you stand on your home street at night, gaze at your house and can't see your address number, you probably are violating the ordinance.

The trouble of getting your house address clearly posted may appear to be an inconvenience, but its importance is clear if you imagine yourself in need of emergency aid — police, fire, or ambulance, for example. Already, mistaken addresses frequently have caused public safety problems.

"There have been times a patrol officer will head for a convenient location to direct an ambulance directly to the scene, and our officers have trouble finding it," said Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole. "We've had ambulances drive right by the addresses they were to go to, and we've had to call their central dispatch all over again to re-direct them."

How widespread is the problem? According to BeGole, it exists "from Pontiac Trail in the northwest to Eight Mile and Haggerty in the southeast."

"The most prevalent problem is the lack of any house number. Also, sometimes, the homeowner will paint right over the numbers along with the rest of the house."

"The average guy says to himself, 'Everybody knows where my house is.' But for a dispatcher trying to get somebody to the scene, it causes a lot of problems."

Police Memorial Day is scheduled

The Novi Police Department will take time to honor law enforcement officers who have given their lives in the line of duty at the annual Police Memorial Day ceremonies this Saturday.

A memorial service will begin at 10 a.m. and police facilities will be open for tours from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. All activities will take place at Novi Police Headquarters on Ten Mile.

Police Chief Lee BeGole noted that Police Memorial Day has been changed to Saturday this year in an effort to accommodate citizens and families who have been unable to attend when ceremonies were held during the week.

BeGole said Police Memorial Day began 23 years ago when the late John F. Kennedy signed a Presidential Proclamation declaring the week of May 10 as "Law Week."

The Novi Police Department has sponsored Police Memorial Day during May for the past six years. The Novi Police Chaplains Corps conducts a memorial ceremony which honors fallen officers as well as those who serve in the field of law enforcement.

Although sponsored and hosted by Novi Police Memorial Day activities will include police departments from Detroit, Farmington Hills, Northville Township, Livonia, Wixom and Windsor as well as the Michigan State Police and Oakland County Sheriff's Department.

Also participating in the ceremonies and open house will be up, if they have not already done so.

"Tentative dates for this year's 'Kindergarten Round-up' are as follows:

Novi Woods — May 12, 7 p.m., parents only.
Orchard Hills — May 12, 7 p.m., parents only; May 19, 7 p.m., parents and pre-kindergartners.
Village Oaks — May 8, 9-10 a.m., parents and pre-kindergartners with last names beginning with A-Q only; May 8, 1:45-2:45 p.m., parents and pre-kindergartners with last names beginning with R-Z only; May 8, 7-7:30 p.m., parents only.

The Novi Community Education Department and the C&O Railroad. Special features of this year's Police Memorial Day activities include a concert by the Windsor Police Pipe Band at noon.

In addition, "Officer Bill" of the Novi Police Department's children's safety program will be present, and the Novi Community Education Department will be fingerprinting youngsters so that parents may have a permanent record of their children's prints.

Following the memorial service, residents will have an opportunity to tour Novi police facilities and observe special displays on crime prevention.

Featured will be the Detroit Police Department's Mounted Division and the Livonia Police Department's SWAT team. The Michigan State Police will provide displays on their traffic safety and police information programs. The Oakland County Sheriff's Department will display its marine division. And the University of Michigan Hospital will display its survival flight program.

The Northville Township and Novi police departments will offer displays of their crime prevention programs and the C&O Railroad will have its safety trailer on display.

In addition, refreshments will be available for everyone who tours police facilities, and youngsters will have an opportunity to meet and talk with McGruff, the "Crime Fighting Dog."

Headed for Washington

The mood was something less than somber when the members of the Novi High School band were waiting for buses to arrive to transport them to Washington, D.C., last Thursday. Some 138 band members went on the trip and performed on the steps of the U.S. Capitol Friday morning. The band also stopped at Williamsburg and Norfolk in Virginia before returning home Tuesday morning.

Westbrooke atop officials' agenda

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
staff writer

The developers of Westbrooke Place, the proposed multi-million dollar development northwest of the Beck Road/Grand River intersection, are shifting their multiple-use development proposal into high gear this week.

Monday, developers Joseph Gerak and Gloria Gelstein obtained Novi City Council's green light to develop plans for a special assessment district to fund sewage service for the project, as well as neighboring properties.

And the Novi Planning Commission is scheduled to review a petition to rezone the 72.5-acre site for office-service-commercial (OSC) use tonight (Wednesday). The property currently is part of Bob-O-Link Golf Course and zoned single-family residential (R-3).

While the development Gerak and Gelstein envision does not strictly conform to OSC zoning, the Novi Zoning Ordinance does not have a classification for their proposed use of the property, most likely a large recreational commercial center, perhaps 150,000 square feet in size, plus a group of three-story office or hotel buildings.

The council at its April 21 meeting elected to send the proposal back to the planning commission for consideration, perhaps to recommend a new zoning district as in the case of the once-proposed convention center.

Two council members voted against encouraging development of the sanitary sewer S&D Monday: Nancy Covert and Arlen Schroeder.

"I don't feel I have enough information to make an intelligent decision on where to go on this," said Covert. "I'd like to know what the implications of the Master Plan are. This is going to open up Grand River for other development. I feel we'd be getting the cart before the horse if we approve this before we get an idea of its impact."

Council Member Hugh Crawford disagreed. "We're not making a judgment here. We're just taking this off the shelf and allowing them to pursue a public hearing."

Council Member Arlen Schroeder countered. "I'm not going to support anything until the property is zoned and Master Planned the way we want."

Mayor Patricia Karevich responded. "We're not compromising that position of all... I want to hear what the developer and the residents are going to say. I don't think it affects the Master Plan along Grand River." Council approved development of an S&D proposal by a 5-2 vote.

Town Center revised

Trammell Crow's revised Town Center plans will come before the Novi Planning Commission and city council in a special joint session tonight.

Backers of the 67.1-acre regional shopping center, to be located northeast of Novi Road and Grand River, will be seeking preliminary site plan approvals for retail-service uses totaling 442,221 square feet of floor space. More than 90 retail and service establishments and a cinema complex containing a range of tenants from 15,000 square feet down to 1,500 square feet.

Design of sculptures, entry signs, benches, lights, trash receptacles and landscaping touches will have to meet the Town Center Design and Development Guidebook standards (subject of an article in The Novi News' April 30 issue).

Both planning consultant Brandon Rogers and engineering consultant Fred Belschner are recommending contingent approval of the project.

Before final site plan approval, Rogers is advising planners that Trammell Crow should: 1) Clarify and expand sidewalks and bicycle paths, differentiating the two; 2) Provide more definitive information on office-hotel development plans; and 3) Make slight modification to landscape designs near the entrance and in the preservation of trees close to Old Novi Elementary.

Belschner of JCK and Associates is recommending council insist on a copy of the estimated construction cost prior to final site approval, among other customary engineering details.

As in a previous, somewhat smaller, preliminary site plan approved earlier this year, Trammell Crow representatives have furnished a social-economic impact statement.

The new statement is in large part similar to the original, specifying that uses will include a national full-line children's toy and accessories store (expected to be Children's Palace); two national men and women's ready-to-wear stores; an eight-screen cinema; a full-line department store and a health club. Ancillary uses will consist of national, regional and local clothing, home furnishing, business supply, electronics and specialty retailers.

Rogers' influence keys future

slowing declining economy, rising unemployment and difficult and different interest rates.

"That's why we need to re-evaluate and update the Master Plan. I've recommended we plan it quickly."

What kind of difficulties are posed by city council's decision last week to defer for at least a year one-third of the planning commission's 1985-87 work program?

Rogers: "I feel the revised budget will still remain a major step forward. It will involve a major component of updating the Master Plan, especially in the area of environmental ordinances."

"There may be a trade-off benefit in spreading the program over two years. It may allow some time to digest and revise the information as it happens. I can do a new Master Plan in six months — I did a recreation master plan for Milford Village in three weeks."

"I foresee updating the Novi Master Plan as taking around two years. I intend to be left hanging in any longer. The last time it took 7 years to finish. There's a danger of spreading it out over too long a period. You get a change of people, the economy gets different to the point where you don't have it done in time to help new development."

Since you point out that Detroit's problems will spread outward without efforts to revitalize the central area itself, what role should suburbs play in helping Detroit with its problems?

Rogers: "The first ring of communities around Detroit are working diligently on neighborhood revitalization. They have to have tight enforcement of their ordinances, particularly on dumpsters, litter and trash. Without federal help and diminishing budgets and millage revenues — even though city millages are around 20 mills in some places — they have to be extremely innovative to refurbish and upgrade their communities."

"A lot of their homes were built in the '20s and '30s. Anyone will tell you, if you have a 60-year-old home, you're going to have roof and plumbing problems and I'm not even talking about structural maintenance problems. They constantly require attention."

"The emphasis in that first ring has to be on fixing up, painting up, keeping the grass cut and litter under control, keeping the sidewalks and streets repaired..."

"To give you an idea of how badly some ordinances were getting ignored, private businesses were putting concrete benches right in the public right of way, with advertising signs plastered on them — in violation of all the local sign controls. We used to just rip them right out of there, spray-paint them and put them in the park."

What trends in land development do you see happening here — and do you think they're appropriate?

Rogers: "I think 1987 will be the year of the tax receipts in Novi. Generally it takes a year for new development to contribute to the tax base..."

"If you pushed all the development in Novi together, around one-quarter of the city would be developed. The big potentials are in the northeast and in the west half of the city, which I see as mostly going single-family."

"Here in Novi, really you've got the best of both worlds. You have open space and natural areas together with an urban infrastructure. The city provides a variety of home-living styles others don't offer. Here you have single-family subs with different types and range, and there's a range of prices in multiples (apartments) as well."

"I recognize the concern in the city that we have an imbalance in housing with a lot of rental property. But since January, eight plans have come in. That's a lot of subdivisions. It looks like the pendulum has swung back."

"It reflects the new low-interest mortgages. There's been a lot of latent demand for single-family homes. The dream of a lot of people, to have a home with a picket fence and a dog, now it's possible."

"But as a city planner, (single-family subdivisions) may not be the most efficient land use. In central areas of the city it may be better to look at more efficient housing for young marrieds, senior citizens — and some people just don't need single-family homes. There's a need to provide in scarce land areas more efficient, compact housing which still provides open space and other amenities."

"With rental and condominium housing, there's a widespread perception that if they owned their own homes, there'd be more permanency and stability. But that's not always the case. A quality multiple unit maintenance, can be very attractive to people."

"You have a chance in Novi to have diversified housing. Some communities get stereotyped — you've got to have $150,000 to get a lot in Bloomfield."

What about non-residential development?

Rogers: "Again, there's an interesting mix in Novi, with big offices, little offices — it's a rather unique situation. In some communities, it's all one type."

"Presently, whatever comes into Novi has to meet desirable standards. My opinion is that Novi is not a tough place to develop, and new developers appreciate the help the city departments give them."

Area Briefs

WEST BLOOMFIELD'S HOUSING MARKET is booming. The township has issued more building permits in the first quarter of 1986 than in all of 1984.

Estimated construction will cost nearly $22 million for 204 houses — 50 conventional single-family, 25 single-family clusters and 129 multiple dwelling units in 31 buildings.

Dale Richmond, an associate broker with Merrill Lynch, called the situation "incredible. We've all got two, three and four buyers and we don't have any houses for sale," he said. "It's a bidding situation. People are paying over the asking price. Homes are selling within a week."

A WOODLANDS PROTECTION ORDINANCE has been adopted by the West Bloomfield township board after five years of discussion. A similar ordinance is being considered by the Novi City Council.

The ordinance calls for appointment of a Woodlands Review Board to be composed of an engineer, urban forester, developer and two citizens at large. It also sets fees for harvesting site plan applications.

The ordinance drew heavy criticism from developers. Irwin Yackness, president of the Builders Association of Southeastern Michigan, said builders were concerned about increased bureaucracy.

Township Trustee Raymond Holland noted that the township is only half developed with 1,000 acres of tree endangered if not protected. Without preservation, he predicted West Bloomfield could end up like Southfield, which he claimed had missed its opportunity to save its environment.

A CONTROVERSIAL REZONING PLAN to allow six-story residential buildings in downtown Birmingham has been abandoned. The proposal was designed to curtail the boom in office development and encourage residential development in the central business district.

City commissioners backed away from a more extensive plan last July. The planning commission and city planning department subsequently revised the plan to permit six-story residential buildings in nine specific locations in the downtown area.

The revised plan would have permitted six-story buildings to be constructed at the specified locations provided they were designed for residential uses. New office buildings on those sites would have been restricted to three stories under the proposal.

Section 11 group gets 'yellow light'

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
staff writer

Developers of Section 11 — the surveyors' map designation for the square mile of property north of Twelve Oaks Mall — didn't exactly get a green light from city council Monday.

What they got was more like a blinking yellow light: proceed with caution.

The handful of property owners who control nearly 600 acres of mostly undeveloped land in that section repeated their intention to eschew traditional development procedures in favor of a joint effort to preserve as much of their land as possible in a natural state while still making good on their investment.

The irregular terrain of Section 11 is attributable to the effects of a longstanding glacier front during the ice age. Its protrusion and large areas of low-lying land make it a unique parcel, particularly in view of its location immediately north of the city's most intense commercial development.

Most of the combined development plans proposed by 17 groups of land owners call for a winding ring road extending from one-half mile north of Twelve Mile on Novi Road to a half-mile east of Novi Road on Twelve Mile. The plans all show a link-up with a southward extension of Decker Road roughly half a mile south of Thirteen Mile.

Section 11 development, which council members appeared to prefer as residential and developers as mixed-use, would be served by cul-de-sacs strategically located away from the most ecologically sensitive undeveloped land areas.

The landowners said they intend to use the same overall population density permitted under existing zoning. But they say if the joint development doesn't occur they will develop their parcels separately — and preservation of the large wooded areas would be jeopardized, with or without a woodlands ordinance.

"I think it's exciting," said Mayor Patricia Karevich. "I like seeing a road that isn't a straight shot through the land. It is going to take some creativity and some hard work. Obviously you're ready to do that."

"But I reserve the right to say at a later time I don't care for what mixture of uses are proposed. But it does look exciting, and it looks like it might be good for the city."

Council Member Martha Hoyer added she liked the road configurations, but was wary of promoting non-council members' projects outside the central commercial district.

Council Member Nancy Covert agreed. "It may be good business to include commercial uses, but Novi traditionally is concerned about commercial uses being everywhere in this community... The residents say they don't need this proliferation of convenience stores. They're willing to travel."

No official action was required of Novi City Council; Karevich suggested the developers give their concept some more thought and approach the city planning commission with a more detailed proposal.

Karevich: 'I reserve the right to say at a later time I don't care for what mixture of uses are proposed. But it does look exciting, and it looks like it might be good for the city.'

Novi's Gala Days moves to May

Gala Days is coming.

But the annual summer festival sponsored by the Novi Jaycees is coming a lot faster than even the Jaycees themselves had anticipated. Originally scheduled for the end of June, this year's Gala Days celebration has been moved up to the Memorial Day weekend.

Jaycee spokesperson Becky Staab said Gala Days planners have received word from Pugh Shows that the Memorial Day weekend is the only available date for the festival.

"The Jaycees decided to add the festival to their already-busy weekend," said Staab. The Jaycees are among the planners of the Memorial Day parade and also run the concession stand during the concert following the parade.

Gala Days will open Thursday, May 22, at 6 p.m. and run until 5 p.m. on Monday, May 26 (Memorial Day). The Jaycees will operate the food tent at Gala Days on Thursday from 6-11 p.m. and Monday from noon to 5 p.m. Hot dogs, chips, popcorn and soda will be available.

Beer will be added to the food tent on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 29-31. Closing time on those days will be 1 a.m.

Entertainment in the food tent will be provided from 9 p.m. to closing both nights by Ben and the Jets on Friday and by Ron Parker on Saturday. Entertainment will be provided by a disk jockey on Sunday night.

Janet Markowicz, Gala Days planner, said: "We know many family events have been planned for the Memorial Day weekend. We are hoping that families will plan to visit the midday and stop in for a hot dog and soda."

Profits from Gala Days are used by the Jaycees to fund such projects as Visit with the Easter Bunny, Needy Family Christmas and the 1987 Winter General Assembly of the Michigan Jaycees at the Novi Hilton.

As We See It

Small price to pay for good planning

How much is a well-planned city worth to you? That's the question posed by the Novi Planning Commission's ambitious $303,000 budget request for 1988-89 and the Novi City Council's subsequent order to cut that figure by one-third.

By our estimate, the extra $100,000 would have raised your local property taxes above the now-proposed amount by about one percent, or less than $5 for someone whose home's market value is around $80,000.

In return for these savings, the city will go for a year without a complete woodlands inventory, without a complete surface water quality study, without a groundwater map, and without a complete existing land use study, among more minor cutback items.

If you've been following some of the recent developments in city growth, you are aware of how vital those programs are. Right now there's a surge of demand for land in Novi, and until a woodlands ordinance based on a reliable woodlands inventory is in place, efforts to preserve Novi's forest areas will be compromised.

The surface water quality cuts will put off for nearly a year much-needed data to assess the quality of water in the Rouge River basin, currently the subject of a joint-community cleanup effort.

The groundwater map would have provided a precise map of groundwater susceptible to contamination at a time when several new subdivisions are planning to use well water. Cuts in the existing land use study will simply delay the acquisition of data needed for a rational, timely re-alignment of the Master Plan.

Planning expenditures are among the hardest to justify verbally, since they are not as tangible as a ball diamond, a new city hall or a paved road. But good, well-informed planning can deflect future burdensome taxes to residents while maintaining residential integrity.

Good planning can result in better public services and at least an understanding of the severity of Novi's ecological problems. Good planning can save forests and wildlife, ease traffic burdens, guide adequate public safety protection decisions and bolster city services to enhance the quality of life for all Novi residents.

Frankly, the cuts in the planning budget appear to stem from the by-now destructively anarchistic political feud between the council and the commission. As was apparent from some of the insulting questions council launched at the commission at last week's budget meeting ("Did you consider places to make cuts?" one council member asked), council failed to acquire information on planning budget deliberations. The commission's meeting minutes may have been unavailable, but commissioners themselves were available.

The lack of a well-reasoned explanation for the cuts beyond the "other departments have to make cuts, so should you" line — is lamentably short-sighted in view of the importance of planning issues right now. We hope the council will show more thoughtfulness in reviewing any budget amendment requests the commission considers necessary during the coming year, and we expect council to stick to its promise to include the unfinished portions of the commission's work program in next year's budget appropriation.

To be fair, we note Council Member Nancy Covert parted from the majority opinion of the council. Covert suggested several cost-cutting measures which would have trimmed the $300,000 request by a smaller amount but leave the work program substantially intact. We wish her unpopular opinion had prevailed.

Valuable resource

Despite opposition from two of its members (Nancy Covert and Arlen Schroeder), the Novi City Council wisely stuck to its guns in deciding to appoint a citizens committee to study requests for additional manpower in the police and fire departments.

Specifically, the council voted 5-2 to establish a Police and Fire Protection Needs Committee composed of city residents, business interests and city administrators to study staffing levels. Dissenting ballots were cast by Covert and Schroeder.

The objections of the two council members went beyond appointing a committee of citizens to investigate staffing needs. Schroeder, for example, took exception to some of the wording in the resolution which formed the committee.

At the same time, however, the two council members proposed hiring a professional consultant to look into the matter, suggesting that such an individual would be able to propose solutions that would not entail hiring additional personnel and the ensuing effects on the city budget and millage rate.

While a professional consultant may be valuable, a consultant should only be utilized to provide input to the citizens group.

The citizens committee concept has a strong legacy in Novi, both for the schools and the city. Virtually anything of value which has been accomplished during the past decade has been the direct result of the work of citizens committees. The list of achievements is virtually endless — from the school/municipal complex proposal in the early 1970s to the school redistricting proposal this year.

Father Leslie Harding, a member of numerous citizens committees, said during groundbreaking ceremonies for the new civic center complex that he felt one of Novi's strongest assets was its willingness to involve its citizens in important decisions. Citizens committees have a record of accomplishment — and should not be abandoned.

'Off the Record' — forever

Kevin Wilson

In the early morning hours, after the bars have closed, downtown Northville resembles an empty Hollywood set, or something out of the Twilight Zone. There's nobody around except the cops and, on Monday nights especially, those nuts who work at the newspaper.

After 10 p.m., you can stand in front of the office building shared by The Northville Record and The Novi Times and listen to the relay switch for the spotlight at Main and Center — the first time you hear it, you jump out of your shoes. After a few years of locking the front door in the pre-dawn hours, the sound of the light changing is a comfortable old pal. It isn't a distinctive sound — just a loud KerCHUNK! — except only a handful of people come to know a thing like that, and that makes it special.

I'll miss that sound after today, though I won't miss the late-night meetings that kept me in town to hear it. I'll also miss many of the people at those meetings of the city council, township board, school board and planning commissions, some of whom I've never seen in daylight after nearly six years of writing for The Record and, later, The News.

As of today I begin a new job as news and industry editor of AutoWeek magazine, an auto "buff" book published by Crain Communications, a firm better known to those of you who aren't head-over-heels nuts-about-cars as the publisher of Detroit Monthly and Crain's Detroit Business. Those in the industry may be more familiar with the trade paper, Automotive News. Readers who've noticed my automotive inclinations will understand that I'm excited about my new position. Some may even have figured out that this amounts to my dream job, combining professional and personal interests. But enough about that.

Ages ago (or was it yesterday?), I started writing a column in The Record that I chose to title "Off the Record," just for the pun of it. Later, the title was dropped in favor of headlines written to suit the column topic. I've used Off The Record this week because it is accurate (I am, after all, going to be off the staff by the time you read this) and for nostalgic reasons.

I've a special affection for this space because of the reader response to what's been done here. Investigative stories on the front page go by with barely a ripple, but when I recount the exploits of my kids or the travails of modern living in this space, I can count on frequent and enthusiastic comments from people all over town. When the topic's more serious, I still get better response than from a page one story.

When I suggested here that Northville Township was "stealing" county property from the child development center, the response was rapid and never-ending. Building official Troy Milligan is one of several who still complain I was unfair, and I still respond that the column accomplished its goal of having the property returned. Milligan says he'll never forgive me. I forgave him and everyone else involved long ago, but it's fun to argue the point.

Dandelions earn award

Phil Jerome

"What are you writing?" she asked as I inked the signature of Chester T. Morris with a flourish at the end of the official-looking letter.

"Oh, it's just a letter from Chester T. Morris to our next door neighbor." I responded, trying to sound innocent.

She asked me who Chester T. Morris was. And I told her he was the township lawn inspector. "He's pretty upset about the magnificent crop of dandelions that Andy has growing in his front yard and he wrote 'O' Andy a letter warning him to clean up the dandelion menace before it spread to the lawns of his neighbors."

I thought it was kind of funny, and fully intended to leave the notice lodged in Andy's front door to read and think about when he got home from work.

But she wouldn't let me. Said it wasn't nice.

"You think it's nice the way he goes around cultivating those little yellow things? Are you going to get down on your hands and knees to cut them out of your yard when the wind starts blowing in our direction?"

"You've seen the way he goes around threatening me about how nice his lawn is going to look. Know what he told me yesterday? He said he has a secret lawn weapon that he's going to launch on me next week. Wouldn't tell me what it was. Said it wouldn't be a surprise if he did. But I should look out because once he springs the secret weapon my reign as lawn-king will be a thing of the past."

"But look at how hard he works on that lawn of his," she responded. "He's out there working all the time. So what if a few dandelions managed to pop up this spring? You're not going to send that letter from the township lawn inspector, and that's final."

I tried to convince her that it was sort of a cute letter. All in the name of a little neighborly fun. But she was adamant. I couldn't send the letter.

But every cloud has its silver lining. Fortunately, I was able to mail Andy his letter of commendation from the Michigan Society for the Preservation and Cultivation of Dandelions (MSPCD) before she figured out what I was doing.

The taming of the party animal

Bruce J. Martin

"You throw a party?" snorted the oldest, so-called friend, Sherman X. Kahn. "Haven't you learned your lesson?"

Sherm had me there. The last party I threw fell farther out of bounds than Spud Webb after driving the lane on Moses extras might be explained by my eyes being in need of alignment. All I remember was that I was making every one of them edgier than the National Convention of Paranoliacs at the Watergate Hotel.

"At least it was better than my Super Bowl party," I said to Sherman.

"Super Bowl party?" he repeated happily.

"I invited you and about 20 others, remember? The only one who came was Freda Munch. She spent hours making a football-shaped clam dip. And minutes eating it."

"I think my car didn't start that night," Sherman fidgeted. "Yeah — that's it, my car. It uh, it froze up on me." He saw I wasn't buying it. "Look, Bruce," he said at last. "I've got to give it to you straight. To have a successful swar-ray, you've got to abide by the rules."

"Absolutely. First you have to ask yourself, how many people do I want at this party? Then you multiply that number by 10 — well, in your case, maybe multiply by 50 — and then invite that many."

"Are you nuts? What if they all show up?"

"Then the police haul you in for making a disturbance, and you're a neighborhood legend. You'll get invited to every party from here to Juneau."

"How am I supposed to keep that many people entertained?"

"Well, how about renting a VCR and showing some sleazy movies?" Sherman suggested. "Then if nobody shows up, so what? You'll still have a good time."

"Yeah," I said. "But the sleazy movies are either sold out or blurry from being run back-and-forth and back-and-forth and back-and-forth and back-and-forth. Uh, that's what I hear," I clarified.

"Well then, you've got to have games," he said.

"I've got 'em all," I said. "Scrabble, Twister, Chutes and Ladders..."

Sherman groaned. "Well, pal, sounds to me like you've got some planning to do," he said. "When do you intend to throw this bash?"

"Oh, do you want to come? I was thinking maybe August."

"What, 1987?" said Sherman. "Geez, I'm sorry, Bruce. I'll ah, be out of town. I've got a business trip planned. Yeah, sure, that's it. I'm going to be in Sioux Falls, No. Japan. That's right, I've got a deal to make in, ah, Osaka..."

Ordinance needs design work

She was there

To the Editor:

How many residents of Novi have noticed, as they drive on Grand River near Haggerty, the new Pheasant Run Plaza shopping center? It must be the most attractive shopping center, not only in Novi, but in any of our surrounding suburbs.

The arch in the brickwork, the awnings, the gaslight decorations, are only a few of the features that set it off as a Hallmark of Quality. The development is worthy of a beautification award from the Chamber of Commerce.

If a member of council was really pursuing quality development and eager to take the initiative in the matter, would it not be simple to direct the city planner to write an ordinance in which minimum standards would produce that quality of development?

What a shame that Pheasant Run Plaza is not located as one of the specialty shop areas originally planned by the planning board for the Town Center.

So, let's take a close look at Pheasant Run Plaza. A natural question is, what makes it a quality development?

Lee Marmola, when on the planning board, used to intone almost as a litany that "quality development starts with good design." This is not a platitude but a truth worthy of being repeated over and over.

Letters

As you critically appraise Pheasant Run Plaza, it appears as a piece of sculpture with form and function that possesses a unique quality. It has character and strength, and it will do its job in a routine way for many, many years. It is good design translated into quality development.

Pheasant Run Plaza is a concrete example of quality development which the council members have been "talking" about for the past 15 years. But Pheasant Run and the Guersy addition — to introduce another example of quality development — are not what they are because of Novi's minimum standards. If you want an example of what an ordinance which requires a mix of material was a long step in the right direction. But quality development is a function of good design, and good design starts with the relationship between the site and the structure.

If you want an example of what Novi's minimum standards will purchase, please examine a more recent construction project, "Peach Tree Center," at Ten Mile and Meadowbrook Road. This is an ample of Novi's minimum standards for setbacks and should be an eye-opener for even the heavy-lidded observer.

Peach Tree Center could be finished in a solid gold facade but it will never be any more than a big blob on an over-developed site that will draw the comment from observers: "Who the heck ever approved that development?"

I'm not sure any longer that Council Member Arlen Schroeder's often quoted statement, "our standards are so low we could trip over them," is a fair analysis. I would say that the standards are so low that you would have a hard time tripping over them, if your object was quality development.

There has to be a lot lacking in an ordinance when the planning board they all agree, and the planning commission is on record, that the site is overdeveloped.

Joe Brett

Letters

To the Editor:

This letter is in response to your recent editorial on "Candidates should address the issues."

The editorial stated that at the hearing which was held seeking public input on how the revenue from the sale of the Old Elementary should be spent, only one of the challengers was in attendance.

The room was very crowded and being short on some disadvantages, and I inadvertently was overlooked. I attended the meeting in the same capacity as a school board trustee. That is, to hear what the community had to say.

Orchard Hills is the oldest school building in the district and should be brought up to the same facility level as our other two elementarys. Beyond the building improvements to Orchard Hills Elementary, the balance of the monies should be put aside in the Building Fund for future facility needs.

Patricia Konedra

EDITOR'S NOTE: Patricia Konedra is one of three candidates for the one-year term on the school board. The News should have indicated that they all agree, and the planning commission is on record, that the site is overdeveloped.

Money's answer to road problems

PONTIAC — If local officials had their way, the Oakland County Road Commission (OCRC) would perform 350 more widening, paving and safety projects by 1988.

And if the OCRC had its way, it would do them — as well as improving traffic signals, picking up more litter and moving more weeds.

But the money isn't there.

The only answer, according to OCRC Managing Director John L. Grubba, is to "actively pursue additional funding."

Said Grubba: "The Oakland County Road Commission will have to revise many of its policies and come up with more money than it currently projects to have in the next 10 years for such services" as preservation, maintenance and traffic safety.

"That's on top of $625 million of new money necessary to provide 746 million worth of road improvements the communities identified as necessary to cope with the boom in economic development."

That the office-building boom is putting a strain on county roads is months-old news. What's new is the difficulty the road commission will have in meeting routine needs.

On Grubba's list of seemingly routine items needing attention are:

- Service to communities. More and better signals, intersection improvements, faster response time on signal repairs, better repair of paved roads, faster and better winter maintenance, more grading, more drainage and dust control.
- Preserving roads, including limiting truck use on local roads.
- Communication with local units. Meeting with each community at least once a year, including input from them on the OCRC's three-year financial plan, training OCRC staff on how to deal more effectively with local officials.
- Obtaining more funding.

Poling Grubba. "They're lower priorities than projects we've already targeted for available funding or more expensive than available funding permits."

Grubba's list of seemingly routine items needing attention are:

- Service to communities. More and better signals, intersection improvements, faster response time on signal repairs, better repair of paved roads, faster and better winter maintenance, more grading, more drainage and dust control.
- Preserving roads, including limiting truck use on local roads.
- Communication with local units. Meeting with each community at least once a year, including input from them on the OCRC's three-year financial plan, training OCRC staff on how to deal more effectively with local officials.

ANIS AHMED

JAMES W. COLLINS

ANIS AHMED of Novi has been honored as the 1985 "Outstanding Life Insurance Agent of the Year" for Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company, Larry Herb Agency, in Southfield. Earlier in the year he was honored as "Agent of the Year" by the Southeast Michigan General Agents and Management Association.

Ahmed wrote over 100 policies totaling $9 million in insurance in 1985.

An Eastern Michigan University graduate, Ahmed joined Northwestern Mutual in 1976 and since that time has earned many professional, educational and production awards. He was the agency's "Rookie of the Year" in 1976. He also has won Northwestern Mutual's bronze, silver and gold awards, and has been the agency's leader in acquiring new clients since 1977.

In addition, he has received the industry's National Quality and National Sales achievements awards for the last nine years and been a qualified member of the prestigious Million Dollar Round Table for the past nine years.

Ahmed is a member of Novi Rotary and the Novi Chamber of Commerce. He resides with his wife, Anjum, and son, Ahad, on Jamestown Road in Novi.

JAMES W. COLLINS of Whitmore Lake is one of four recipients of the St. Joseph Mercy Hospital Professional Achievement Award for 1986.

Collins, director of engineering at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital and Mercywood Hospital in Ann Arbor, was nominated by hospital employees for his "knowledge, efficiency and dedication to the health center; for providing leadership in a compassionate professional manner; and for earning a high level of staff loyalty." He has been awarded a $1,000 U.S. Government Savings Bond.

Collins has been a hospital employee since 1969. During his tenure, he has served as director of security and communications and director of environmental services. He is a veteran of the United States Air Force. He and his wife Jo Ann have four children: Nathaniel, Jason, James and Tanya.

THE NOVI HILTON has earned the American Automobile Association's (AAA) four-diamond rating to rank among this country's best accommodations, according to AAA Michigan.

"In the physical sense, each of the four-diamond recipients is a luxurious facility that offers many amenities," said AAA Travel Services Manager James Drury. "Equally important, each staff's attention to service and hospitality significantly exceeds AAA requirements."

AAA's rating system requires accommodations to undergo rigorous inspections by field representatives. If they qualify, they are assigned an overall rating of one to five diamonds.

Twenty-four Michigan hotels, motels and resorts have been awarded four-diamond ratings this year.

Only about 7 percent of the more than 17,000 accommodations ranked by AAA in the United States, Canada and Mexico received the four-diamond rating, the organization's second highest.

Diamond ratings appear next to establishment listings in the 1986 AAA Michigan/Wisconsin TourBook. The 1986 TourBook will be available at AAA Michigan offices statewide in mid-May. In addition, the establishments will receive a plaque to commemorate the AAA honor.

CINCINNATI MILACRON, Industrial Robot Division, has announced the promotion of three Novi residents.

Michael Resh has been promoted to Account Manager/Ford Motor Company. Steven Tracey has been promoted to Account Manager/GM Truck & Bus Group and Frank Brennan has been promoted to Account Manager/Chrysler Corporation.

Cincinnati Milacron, soon to relocate from Southfield to Farmington Hills, is the largest American-made supplier of industrial robots.

AWARD PLAQUES from the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors (WWOBBR) were presented recently for educational achievement in 1985 to Real Estate One sales staff members, including Judy DePoilo of Novi, manager of the Westland office; Carolyn Beyer of Northville, manager of the Northville office; and John O'Brien of the Northville office.

The awards are presented annually by the WWOBBR to real estate sales associates who have demonstrated they are continuing their real estate education.

GERALD T. HARRIS of Northville, newly appointed director of the personnel and budget bureau of Wayne County Department of Social Services (WCDS), was among WCDS staff members receiving the "outstanding support" award from the Black United Fund (BUF) for the agency's performance in the 1985 campaign among state employees.

Harris was chairman for the solicitation which raised $71,469. Presenting the award during the 1986 kick-off reception was Lawrence C. Patrick Jr., chairman of BUF and the Wayne County Social Services Board.

THE UPTOWN SHOPS, a collection of stores in Northville featuring antiques, collectibles and handcrafted gift items, will celebrate the completion of the mini-mall and addition of their new back entry by hosting an open house on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 8, 9 and 10.

The open house will run daily from noon to 4 p.m. The Uptown Shops are located on the second level at 107 East Main in Northville. Refreshments will be served and a drawing will be held in each shop for gift certificates. Each shop will have many new and interesting items available.

The shops in the new mini-mall are Clancy's Good News Bears, Two's Company, The Country Palette, North Village Cabinetry and Northville Consignment.

GALA HALLMARK at Twelve Oaks Mall has introduced a new service called "The Magical Poet," according to assistant store manager Renee Finzel.

"The Magical Poet" is a computerized service which permits the customer to select a personalized message for a personalized card.

The customer may select any one of 60 different messages that will be printed by the computer on any one of more than 80 available cards. Messages range from "I miss you" to Mothers Day greetings. The cost of the service, including the card and the personalized message, is $2.95.

Home ownership seen as strong investment

The investment benefit of home ownership will increasingly become a factor in buying decisions, according to Joanne Bryngelson, president of Metro MLS and the Western Wayne Oakland County Board of Realtors.

"A recent national poll among some 400 brokers found expectation that home values will improve some 20 percent by 1990," she said. "The average price of resale homes across the nation reported in the poll was $98,100. This represented a 5.5 percent gain from a year earlier. Following the same track, the average price in 1990 should be near $120,000."

Bryngelson said housing in much of Southeast Michigan has long been bargain-priced compared with most metropolitan areas and may be poised to top the national price gain.

"Homes sold through members of our multiple listing service in January had an average price of $67,444," she noted. "This was nearly $7,800, or 13 percent, above the average a year earlier. By the end of March, it showed another 4.7 percent gain to $70,945."

"With our local market fueled by a record-setting path this year by growing employment, pent-up demand and lowered mortgage interest rates, we expect prices to continue to play catch-up."

She said with growing competition for the best homes in prime locations throughout the 1,600 square mile territory covered by her members, there is evidence that buyers are again recognizing homes as good investments.

"I don't think we'll see a repeat of the 1975-80 era when average prices here climbed nearly 80 percent," Bryngelson said. "In those days, more than half the annual increase in home values was the result of inflation which was running above 10 percent a year."

"With the inflation rate now down to a more realistic figure, the increased prices homes will command through the next few years may actually represent a better return on investment, especially when coupled with tax benefits," she said.

We Don't Want To Be The Biggest, Just The Best!

Fight back.

When you take your GM vehicle to a body shop for repair work, you naturally assume that the damaged parts are going to be replaced with genuine GM parts. But that's not always the case. An increasing number of manufacturers are flooding the sheet metal aftermarket with cheap imitations of GM body panels. Interior reproductions that may not fit, look or test like the genuine article. The solution? You have to fight back. Make sure your repair order specifies genuine GM parts and the easiest way to do that is to bring your GM car to us. At our dealership we use only genuine GM parts. They're designed to strict GM quality standards, with the proper braces, welds and structural components. They're built to original GM specifications for fit, finish and corrosion resistance and backed by a General Motors limited warranty. Plus, General Motors has reduced list prices on many of their most popular parts. So now you can get the consistency of GM quality fit and a truly competitive price. Fight back against inferior imitation sheet metal. Make sure that your repair order specifies genuine GM parts. Anything less may cost you more. See us for details.

Season look painted in soft shades

If this year's spring and summer fashions were to be painted on canvas, one would either see bold splashes of effervescent yellow, fuchsia and cobalt or the softer shades of periwinkle, mint green and melon.

While the bold, bright colors which emerged as the dominant fashion statement last fall have retained their popularity, pastels have come on strong as one of this season's most popular looks.

Soft pastel hues are a refreshing diversion from the dark shades carried through this winter. The subtlety of pale yellow, coral and pink offers a delicate, romantic look in everything from casualwear to formal dress.

"We're seeing either very bright or very pastel... there's nothing in the middle," says Inge Zayti of Northville's Marcous Boutique.

While pink and blue seem to be the dominant shades for casualwear, Zayti notes light gray is one of her biggest sellers in separates and dresses.

Carol Kaiser, manager of Gantos at Twelve Oaks Mall, echoed Zayti's observation, noting that colors this spring are either bold or subtle.

"We do a whole pastel section and then a bright section," Kaiser notes. "The look is either very bright or very soft."

However, of all the colors featured this season, pink is without a doubt the most popular at Gantos, she relates.

"Pinks are always the fastest selling pastel," Kaiser notes, adding that pale yellow also is a strong.

Among one of the most popular casualwear lines carried in the Gantos' Twelve Oaks store is Cherokee, which Kaiser explains is predominantly pastel.

"It is a very casual look which makes a great pastel statement," she observes.

On the other side of the fashion spectrum is formalwear. Kaiser notes that this year's prom look is exclusively pastel with heavy emphasis on pink and peach.

"All the prom dresses are pastel and selling like crazy," she notes, adding that most of them have a debutante style: very romantic with yards and yards of lace, bows and frills.

Tom Scherger enjoys working with members of the Spirit of Christ Lutheran Church congregation

Mission accomplished in Scherger's merger

This is the third in a series of articles which takes a look at the individuals who guide the religious life of the city — the ministers of Novi.

By SHARON ROSE
special writer

Spirit of Christ Lutheran Church was formed in a nearly perfect act of Christian cooperation.

Living Lord, a small congregation located in a comfortable church on Ten Mile between Haggerty and Meadowbrook roads, needed a full-time minister. Freedom Lutheran was a larger congregation led by the Reverend Tom Scherger, but without a permanent home.

The solution may have seemed obvious, but the two groups were members of different Lutheran denominations.

In 1982, after a series of intense discussions, debates and soul-searches, they agreed to merge. If growth is a measure of success, the "new" Spirit of Christ can be proud.

In less than three years, the congregation has doubled in size.

At least part of the responsibility for its success must go to its pastor, Reverend Scherger. But the tall, bearded, soft-spoken man is the first to turn aside congratulations. After seven years as pastor of a congregation without a home, he is happy in the small office on Ten Mile and simply pleased with the positive results of the merger.

"We, the ministers, have to keep reminding ourselves that we are not the church; the church is people and God is the one in charge," he said with emphasis.

The danger of personality overshadowing Christian mission is one of the few negative comments Scherger has about his occupation. Influenced by his own pastor as a young man in Long Island, he decided while in high school to follow the religious call.

"My parents were pleased, but careful not to influence me one way or the other," he said. "They wanted it to be my choice, not theirs."

His classmates weren't so reticent. "At that age, especially at a public high school in New York City, anyone choosing the religious life was viewed as a little unusual," Scherger smiled.

Undaunted, he attended in succession, Concordia Junior College in Bronxville, N.Y., Concordia Senior College in Fort Wayne, Indiana where he was awarded his Bachelor degree, then Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, Missouri, from which he

CLERGY OF NOVI

On weekdays, Scherger shares his facility with "A Growing Place," a preschool/kindergarten day care group. How does he cope with the sometimes noisy, always busy group of 40 youngsters?

"If things get too hectic, I just close my office door, and turn on my radio to something nice and soothing," he smiled.

Faith and this easy-going attitude help him over the rough spots of the ministry. Dealing with stress is an occupational hazard.

"I try to remember a lesson I learned as a hospital chaplain: know when to make a referral. Don't be afraid to admit your inadequacies and recognize when you're not equipped to cope with a situation," he said.

"Ministers need to develop a little professional detachment in order to make these decisions. That's not easy when you realize that the need for compassion, that is, the ability to suffer along with others, is one of our most important qualities."

"I've always been surprised at the ways God works in my life," he added. "I think that's what faith is all about — that surprise. There have been times when we've been faced with problems, financial or other, and just couldn't see the way out. Something always opens up — God has two sons, Jonathan, 9, and David, 5. Something always surprises us."

ERIC SCHUSTER, a 1984 Novi High School graduate, was one of five cadets from the West Point Military Academy who visited Novi recently to promote interest and answer questions of qualified candidates for West Point from the surrounding area.

Other cadets were Albert Cushman of Tacoma, Washington; Mike Wornick of Yreka, California; Glenn Harrington of West Chester, Pennsylvania; and Dewey Sutton of Gilbert, Arizona.

The five West Point cadets, all members of the Class of '86, are completing an eight-day spring break before they return to finish the academic year.

SANJAY GUPTA, a senior at Novi High School, has been accepted into the Interflex Program at the University of Michigan. The son of Sam and Rani Gupta of Linton Lane in the Meadowbrook Manor subdivision, he is the valedictorian of Novi High School's graduating class of 1986.

The Interflex Program is a premedical/medical program. Students accepted into the program are guaranteed acceptance into the University of Michigan Medical School and can earn their M.D. degrees in seven years instead of the customary eight years.

Just 44 students were accepted into the Interflex Program this year — 35 from Michigan and nine from out-of-state.

SUZANNE BECKMAN of Novi has been named to the Dean's List for the winter term at Northwood Institute. She is a graduate of Novi High School.

Novi Band earns state's top rating

Strain: 'We know it will end eventually... we're sure to get a '2' somewhere down the line. But right now it's nice. It's a real tribute to the kids and the program.'

"A tradition of excellence." That's what the Novi High School music program appears to have established.

The Novi High School Symphony Band received a "straight 1" (superior) rating at the Michigan State Band and Orchestra Association festival in Lansing last Saturday — the only band to earn "straight 1s" at the state festival.

"It had a two-fold significance," commented Craig Strain, director of the high school's instrumental music program.

"First, we were the only band to receive 'straight 1s' from every judge at the state festival in Lansing."

"Secondly, it marked the second consecutive year in which we have received 'straight 1s' in all festivals — jazz, marching and all styles, both on the district and state levels."

"I think it's a first for one school to win 'straight 1s' in all three festivals for two consecutive years. There may be better bands in the state, but I can't think of any program that has earned 'straight 1s' in all festivals for two years in a row."

"We know it will end eventually... we're sure to get a '2' somewhere down the line. But right now it's nice. It's a real tribute to the kids and the program."

The Novi High School Jazz-Rock Ensemble earned "straight 1s" at the state festival at Novi High School on April 12. In addition, Mike Dillon, a junior trombonist, was selected by a panel of judges to serve in the All-State Honor Jazz Band.

It's the first time a Novi student

Mike Dillon, a junior trombonist in the Novi High School Jazz-Rock Ensemble has been named to serve in the All-State Honor Jazz Band. He is the first Novi student ever to have been selected for the All-State Band, according to Instrumental Music Director Craig Strain.

Maxine Lapham of Lapham's Clothing and Tailoring Shop in Northville, says the dominant shades in this year's prom dresses are pink, mint green and white.

She notes this year's strapless, mid-call dress is a definite throwback to the 1950s-style ball gown. Lapham says nearly all the gowns she's seen have layers of underskirts made of stiff lace with flounced hems.

"The tops are so tight they fit like corsets," she adds.

Zayti of the Marquis says her evening-wear line also is almost exclusively pastel. Though she caters to the more mature buyer, she notes even formalwear has a more romantic look this year — largely due to the subtle shades and fabrics.

Diane Feurich, manager of The Talbots at Twelve Oaks, says this year's pastel statement seems to be attracting considerably more buyers than in previous years.

"Pink, the new mint shade and peach are very popular," she notes.

"We've seen a lot of pastels in our Lanz cotton dresses," she says of the garden party style dresses from the East Coast vendor.

The Victorian influence of Laura Ashley's designs make pastel a mainstay in its collection. Though the bolder shades clearly have a place in this season's look, egallant pink is the best seller in the Twelve Oaks store, according to assistant manager Donna Doucet.

She explains that cotton dresses in pastel prints have been very popular this season along with accessories "which have always done well."

Doucet notes the pastel espadrilles, especially pink, have been "really popular."

Carol Kaiser of Gantoss says pastels are definitely the dominant look in accessories.

"What we're really featuring a lot of is the roping and shells, all in pastel," she notes. Kaiser also explains that pale green, pink and light gray pearls also are a big this year as attracting considerably more buyers than in previous years.

Inge Zayti of the Marquis notes she also has sold a tremendous amount of stones and shells in costume jewelry.

"It's been the second biggest year in jewelry I've ever had," she explains.

No-hitter Sobkow hurls a gem to knock off Milford

Look out area softball teams. Jim Tinsley's squad has just discovered it's a talented group.

Prior to last week, the Wildcats weren't playing with confidence. The result — just one win in the first eight games.

But now, with the pitching and hitting coming around at the same time, the team has a newly-found positive attitude toward themselves and the team. That all translates into a three-game winning streak and a lot of momentum heading into the last half of the season.

On April 30, the Wildcats showed more offensive firepower than the program has ever seen en route to a 3-3 (yes 33 runs!) demolition of a weak Oak Park team. The productive bats carried over to a doubleheader sweep of Kensington Valley opponent Milford last Friday (May 2), giving Novi much more respectable records of 2-2 in the KVC and 4-7 overall.

The big story in the opener against the Redskins was a no-hit pitching performance by sophomore hurler ace Jill Sobkow. While Sobkow mowed down the Milford hitters, the Wildcat offense pounded in the runs in a 14-1 slaughter.

"We were executing and doing the things we wanted to do," Tinsley said. "I think that's the difference in the team now. We are starting to play smarter and we're getting the buns down, moving runners over more and just playing better."

Each team scored a run in the first inning without a hit, but Novi took the lead for good in the second with three more to make it 4-1. Again, the Wildcats scored all three without a hit.

"We took advantage of walks, errors and some nice sacrifices," Tinsley explained. "We didn't get a hit, but we sure worked hard to score."

After scoring another run in the third, Novi exploded for nine in the fourth thanks to clutch RBI hits by Sandy Maloney, Deanne Mullett, Jennifer Nameth and Laurie Maloney. By this time the question was: "Whether the Wildcats would win, it was whether Sobkow would get the no-hitter."

"She pitched real well," Tinsley said. "Her control was real good and she was keeping the ball down. She only got two strike outs, but she never let them hit the ball very hard."

The nightcap was much closer as the Redskins refused to buckle under, but the Wildcats continued to play well and ultimately carved out a 7-5 victory.

"Milford" came back and showed they are a better team than the first game showed," Tinsley noted.

After going hitless in the first game, the Redskins tagged starter Wendy Higgins for three hits in the first to take a short-lived 1-0 lead. After Novi tied it up in the second,

Tinsley: 'Everybody had a good game. We were just hot and (Oak Park) didn't have good pitching. We saw how good we can be. We proved to ourselves that we're a class softball team.'

Milford added two more, but the deficit was quickly erased in the fourth as the Wildcats went up 4-3 on some key hits — the biggest a two-run hit delivered by Kim Johnson with two outs.

The Redskins fought back to cut it to one in the sixth but Novi added an important insurance run — a towering home run by Lisa McCarthy — in the top of the seventh to pull out the win for Higgins.

"All of a sudden Wendy has got her control down and she is becoming much more effective," Tinsley said. "Now she has the confidence."

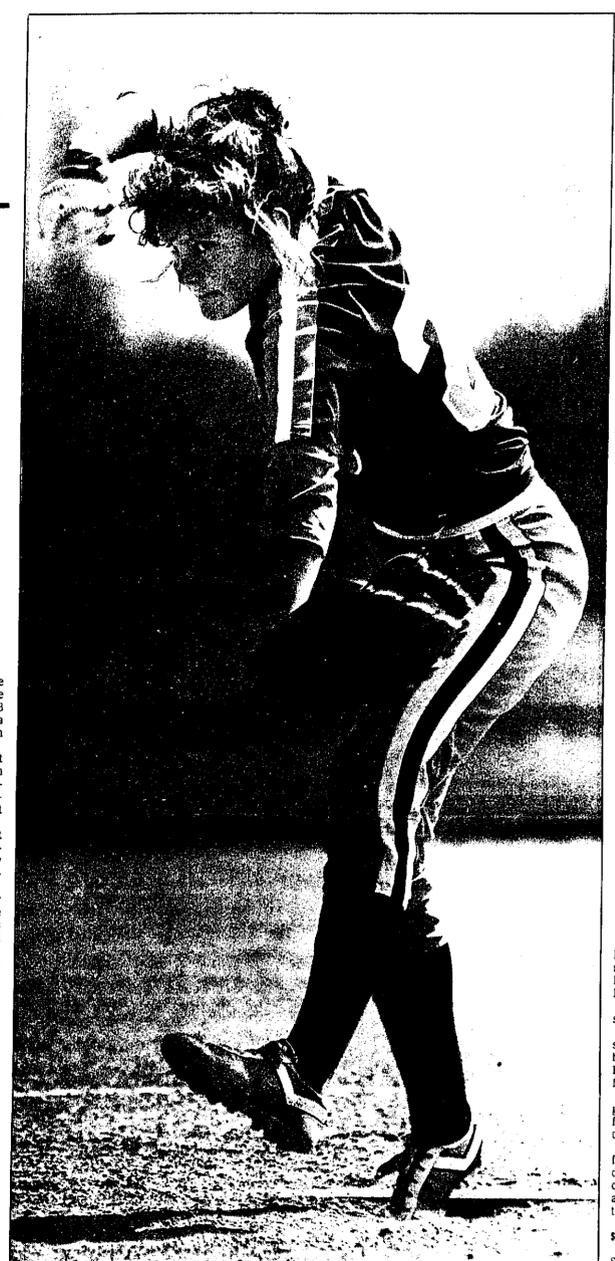

It was Higgins who recorded her first varsity win ever in the slaughter at Oak Park two days earlier, giving up just four hits and three walks while fanning six.

"She was just starting to get into the groove when the game ended after five innings (mercy rule)," Tinsley reported.

Ironically, the Wildcats actually trailed 1-0 after the first inning, but scored 10 runs in the second, eight more in both the third and fifth innings, and a measly seven in the fourth. Hitting stars included Kelli Case (2-for-5 with 5 RBIs), Sandy Maloney (4-for-7 with 3 RBIs) and Kim Johnson (2-for-5 with three RBIs).

"Everybody had a good game," Tinsley said. "We were just hot and (Oak Park) didn't have good pitching. We saw how good we can be. We proved to ourselves that we're a class softball team."

Now it's time for the rest of the KVC to find out.

Thinclads lift hopes for future

For the last several seasons, Novi's sophomore and freshmen thinclads have put up impressive performances at relay competitions for underclassmen.

And this season is no different, even though outside forces probably caused the Wildcats to drop a few notches.

Coach Bob Smith's underclassmen had to compete without the services of a dozen performers who were on the high school band trip to Washington, D.C. but still managed to register a respectable 10th place finish out of 26 teams in a Freshmen/sophomore Meet at Holly last Saturday (May 3).

"I think we did very well but we could have improved on that if everybody was available," Smith said. "It's just something we had to overcome and I'm sure every team there was missing some people so it's not an excuse."

Novi beat some teams from much bigger schools (Ann Arbor Pioneer) and they also topped a KVC team (Howell). A total of 18 teams placed behind the Wildcats, and that pleased Smith.

In the eight-mile relay the Novi team of Brent Van Dyke, Craig Cowden, Rob Rasmussen and Mike Ducker placed fourth overall. The distance medley squad and the shuttle hurdle relay team each came in fifth. Mike Starns, Andy Fitzpatrick, Van Dyke and Cowden were the distance medley group, while Brian Schram, Mark Schaper, Richard Burke and Travis Rayburn teamed up in the shuttle hurdle.

Pat Parsons, Schram, Jeff Jefferson and Fitzpatrick combined for a sixth place finish in the mile relay and Starns, Schram, Parsons and Cowden recorded a seventh in the two-mile relay.

Novi netters find going tough

The way Novi tennis coach Jim Newbold sees it, shut out losses to Brighton and Milford were a series of small disasters.

Against the Bulldogs on April 29, the Wildcats failed to win a match and fell to a 7-0 defeat. But against Milford two days later, Novi failed to even win a set, again dropping the meet by a score of 7-0. Fortunately, the disasters turned into a little luck against Hartland last Friday (May 2) as Novi pulled out a very close 4-3 win.

It was the second time around against Brighton and you can't blame Newbold for wondering if his team is making strides backwards. The first time the two schools met it was the season opener, and the Wildcats managed to score twice with a pair of wins in singles.

"There was nothing even close in this one. I had to shuffle the line-up because of all the guys missing," Newbold said. "Milford is a good team, but I thought we could at least put on a better showing."

Mark Boksha lost to Todd Gates 2-6, 2-6 at first singles and Chris Cottam, still recovering from a back injury, fell to Won Ho Kim at third singles by the same score.

"Craig never should have played," Newbold commented. "He said he was alright but his back was still bothering him."

Against a tough-Milford team, Newbold was without Cottam (back injury), Dodds and Wigley (band field trip). It made for a quick but not impressive 6-2, 6-4 showing over Andy Gill at No. 2. Cho played hard filling in at No. 3 but Bob Chunn was too much for him (4-6, 4-6).

The Eagles unbeaten Tom Neimeyer coasted past Boksha 3-6, 1-6 but Boksha tied it up with an impressive 6-2, 6-4 showing over Andy Gill at No. 2. Cho played hard filling in at No. 3 but Bob Chunn was too much for him (4-6, 4-6).

"I don't know how we did it with four fill-ins in there but we did," he said. "After losing so bad the other two it was real important for us to salvage the week and this win certainly helped."

The Eagles unbeaten Tom Neimeyer coasted past Boksha 3-6, 1-6 but Boksha tied it up with an impressive 6-2, 6-4 showing over Andy Gill at No. 2. Cho played hard filling in at No. 3 but Bob Chunn was too much for him (4-6, 4-6).

"I took the Beye-Cupp team (No. 2 doubles) three sets to finally dispose of Pat Keck and Brian Clark 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 and former junior varsity players Matt Boksha and Kevin Riley came away with a satisfying 5-7, 6-3, 6-4 victory at third doubles to send the outcome of the meet down to fourth singles.

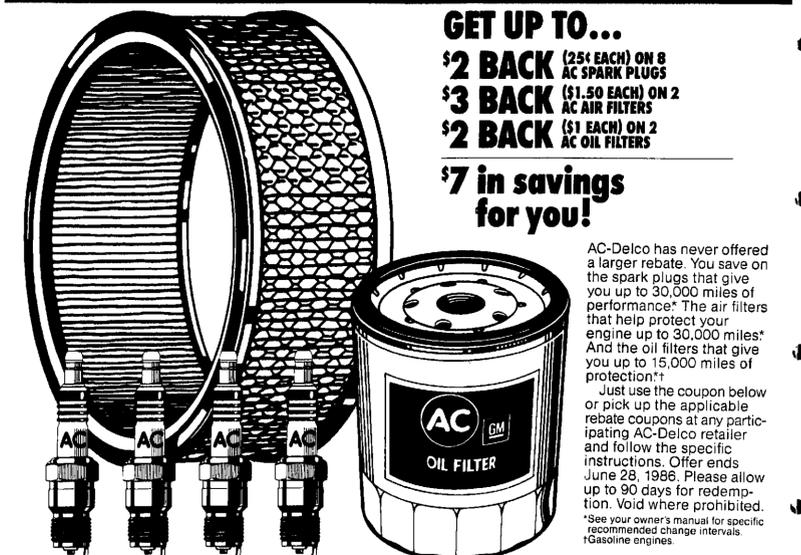

It took Gunderson a long time, but he eventually beat Mike Bailey 7-5, 3-6, 6-4 with Gunderson leading 5-4 in the third, the score went to deuce 11 times before Karl closed it out.

Wildcats move up in KVC race

By NÉL GEGHEGAN
Staff writer

Not even a disastrous 13-run loss early in the week could put a damper on another productive stretch of games for the Novi baseball team. An embarrassing 17-4 wipeout in a non-conference encounter with Dearborn on April 28 meant very little to the Wildcats following a sweep of Kensington Valley Conference opponent Milford. Wins of 7-2 and 7-3 over the Redskins on May 2 kept Novi in the hunt for the race to the top of the KVC standing with a 3-1 record, but crucial games still loom ahead. The Wildcats (8-5 overall) also notched an 8-5 non-league win last week over Oak Park, but as with the Dearborn contest, those games are low on the priority list when the coveted KVC title hangs in the balance. "Sure we want to win those games (non-league), but we have our priorities set for the KVC games," Novi Coach Gar Frantz admitted. "We will save our top pitchers for the league games because those are the most important."

Frantz: 'For the week our hitting is coming around, but I still think we can improve. We only seem to get the hits when we really need them.'

Pitchers like Jeff Tanderys, Ray Samolin and Greg Giorgio may get most of the recognition, but a new hurler on the scene is strengthening the staff with every outing. Keith Motyka, usually an outfielder, pitched so well in relief of Giorgio in the Dearborn game that Frantz inserted him in the rotation for the opener against Milford and it turned out to be a brilliant move. "Motyka was outstanding," Frantz said. "What a shot in the arm that was for our staff. That's so good to see." All the senior did was go the distance for the win in his first start of the season, giving up just one hit, one earned run and five strike outs. Motyka just needed a few runs from his teammates, and the Wildcats provided all the support he needed with a big second inning. Mike Bobbish opened the inning with a walk and Tanderys sent him to third with a single. Three straight walks scored Bobbish and Tanderys and loaded the bases for Giorgio who came through with a two-run double. Another walk and an RBI single by catcher Bill Yankowski scored Giorgio and suddenly the lead was 6-0. "The Wildcats added another run in the fourth on back-to-back hits by Giorgio and Steve Shankel, and it was enough for Motyka to cruise the rest of the way. "It was an easy game for him," Frantz reported. "He throws hard and all Milford could do was hit a lot of ground balls and pop-ups." In the nightcap, Samolin evened his record at 2-2 (0.96 ERA), but it wasn't a vintage outing for him. The

6-foot-6 fireballer surrendered five hits in four innings of work (five strike outs) and needed relief help from Giorgio in the fifth. "He didn't look sharp and Ray knew it," Frantz said. "By the third inning, he still wasn't throwing the way he can but we did win so I can't be too upset."

After going down in order in the first, Novi grabbed a quick 2-0 lead on a one-out single by Motyka that scored two runners who had earlier walked. Milford's Dave Robinson tied it up with one swing of the bat in the bottom half of the second as he struck out Samolin for a two-run homer. In the third the Wildcats took the lead for good, scoring three times on three hits and a pair of walks. Giorgio, Yankowski and Motyka each drove in a run. The Redskins scratched out another run in the fourth on just one

Valenti sees progress despite soccer losses

For the first time this season, the Novi girls' soccer squad failed to win at least one match in a week of action.

The Wildcats (2-5 in the Expressway League and 3-5 overall) dropped two very competitive contests last week against a pair of Expressway League opponents — Ann Arbor Pioneer and Belleville. Pioneer responded to make it 3-1 and the margin remained until intermission. The Pioneers upped the lead to 5-1 with two more quick strikes in the opening minutes of the second half, but then Novi's Margaret Marini went to work on offense. At the 22-minute mark the senior hooked a 25-yard direct kick into the upper corner of the net and then 11 minutes later scored again after gaining control of the ball amid confusion in front of the Ann Arbor goal.

"I guess it was a bad week overall as far as wins and losses, but I didn't think the girls played that bad," Coach Nick Valenti said. "I think we still lack some speed and experience, but that will come with time." Pioneer may be a new team, but it didn't play like one. The program boasts 88 girls in both the varsity and junior varsity ranks and there are some mighty talented players among the larger numbers. "We played them pretty even, but it seemed like everytime we would score, they would respond," Valenti said. "Because of that, we never really got close enough to have much of a chance."

Ann Arbor grabbed the lead by scoring twice in the first 10 minutes of the first half. The Wildcats didn't get on the scoreboard until the 24-minute mark when Stephanie Groom snuck in on the left wing for an unassisted goal to make it 2-1. But less than 10 minutes later, Pioneer responded to make it 3-1 and the margin remained until intermission.

Belleville scored the game's first two goals on breakaways, and despite the wind held a 2-0 lead until Nicole Parmelee scored on an unassisted play with seven minutes left in the half. It ended at halftime with a 2-1 score. "At the half I was really worried because they would have the wind advantage in the second half," Valenti said. "But the girls played a good half and kept it close. When they came off the field, they were exhausted."

It was an evenly played half but Belleville added a late goal with 13 minutes left to win the game 4-1. Novi was forced to play the game with just 13 players available. A broken ankle has sidelined Jennifer Crocker for the remainder of the season and a school band field trip to Washington D.C. took an additional five players. "The injuries and absent players are starting to effect us," Valenti said. "We're not a physical team unless we have to be. I'm not happy that we're losing, but I'm glad to see that in the games we lose we are not getting blown out."

Oakland parks open soon

It's spring, and that means the camping season is upon us. The regular camping season in Oakland County parks officially begins Friday, May 16. Families can camp seven days a week at both Groveland Oaks near Holly and Addison Oaks near Oxford for as little as $5 per day for primitive camp sites and $7 per day for modern sites. Modern sites include water; electricity is available for a nominal fee. Day campers must pay park entry fees — $2.50 for Oakland County residents and $4.50 for non-residents. Addison Oaks county park is located on West Romeo Road, nine miles north of Rochester, and offers 100 primitive and modern campsites. Addison Oaks has 720 acres of wooded land and three spring-fed lakes for hiking, boating and fishing. An elegant Tudor-style conference center also is available at Addison Oaks for weddings, banquets, receptions and business meetings. Groveland Oaks county park is located on Grange Hall Road near Holly and provides more than 600 primitive and modern campsites. In addition to swimming, fishing, hiking and boating opportunities, Groveland Oaks features the "Rampage" watercoaster. The Rampage combines the thrill of a roller coaster with the splash of waterslide as riders plunge 65 feet down the slide into Stewart Lake. For complete camping information call Addison Oaks at 683-2432 or Groveland Oaks at 634-1300.

Walleyes making strong comeback

Michigan's walleye population is making a comeback after reaching a record low in 1975. And Michigan State University researchers are helping to find out what the resurgence means for the state's sport fishery.

Last year, the state Department of Natural Resources produced and planted a record four million walleye fingerlings in Michigan lakes and rivers. The DNR's restocking program is aimed at bringing the walleye population back to where it was before a decline began in the late '60s, according to DNR district fisheries biologist John Trimmerger.

"The walleye is the most popular game fish with inland anglers in Michigan," Trimmerger says. "The DNR is responding to the demand for more walleye." The DNR collects eggs and sperm from walleye during their upstream spawning run in the Muskegon River and three Upper Peninsula locations. Fertilized eggs are incubated and hatched at two state hatcheries. Walleye "fry" are placed in rearing ponds that have been well stocked with food. When they reach the fingerling state — two to three inches — the walleye are released into natural habitats.

MSU researchers recently joined DNR biologists at the Croton Dam on the Muskegon River to tag, weigh and measure 1,000 adult walleye. Charles Liston, an MSU associate professor of fisheries and wildlife, and graduate assistant Bob Day have embarked on a study to find out what the walleye restocking program means for the development of both walleye and other sport fish.

"Nobody has studied planted walleye in Michigan from the time they are released as juveniles until they reach adulthood several years later," Liston says. "We're interested in their movements, their food habits and their interactions with other fish."

The researchers want to find out whether juvenile walleye compete for food with other valuable sport fish, such as northern pike, bass, yellow perch and sunfish. Day will watch juveniles develop this summer in Muskegon Lake, which the scientists refer to as a "nursery."

Michigan anglers will be offered a reward for returning tags from adult walleye and providing information on the date and location of their catches. Tagged adult walleye that return next year to the Croton Dam will be weighed and measured to determine growth rates.

The basic biological information on walleye being gathered by MSU researchers is expected to be useful for future scientific studies and also for the DNR restocking program, as new fish planting sites are considered. The research is funded by a grant from the Muskegon Sportfishing Association and by the MSU Agricultural Experiment Station.

Catherine McAuley Health Center
The Future is Brighter for Mental Health Care
This summer, Catherine McAuley Health Center will open its new mental health facility on the Huron River Drive campus. This new facility emphasizes our commitment to the caring treatment of emotional and mental illnesses. Our interdisciplinary team approach is committed to returning patients back into the community as quickly as possible. The new Merceywood represents the bright future of mental health care in this community: care of the whole person in a wider variety of treatment modalities.
Treatment of Mental Illness
Mental health problems, often triggered by unusual stress, show up in family violence, family breakdown, professional burnout, and depression. At Merceywood, we know mental and emotional problems can be alleviated. Our team of caregivers focuses treatment on the total person — physical, spiritual, social, and emotional. We emphasize individualized treatment with an approach that teaches skills for coping with life's stressors. Merceywood's inpatient program spaces are designed especially for individual and group therapy, family therapy, medical treatment and other therapeutic and educational programs. And most important, the inpatient program focuses on short-term, intensive intervention that helps you return to the community as soon as possible.
Outpatient Treatment for Mental Illness
The new Merceywood will include Partial Hospitalization services which allow you to continue daytime therapy and rehabilitation activities while returning home at night. Not only is this good therapy, but it substantially reduces the cost of treatment if you don't require inpatient care.
The outpatient service (located at the Maple Health Building and Arbor Health Building satellites) also uses a team approach to care by incorporating psychologists, social workers and counselors. This service treats individuals with a variety of emotional problems and promotes minimal disruption of your life by allowing you to maintain ties with your family and friends.
For more information on Merceywood or the Partial Hospitalization Service please call 572-5351.

Ladycats lose twice as relay squads stumble

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

Just a short week ago, the relay squads were a strong point for the Novi girls' track team — but now Coach Chris Ceresa isn't so sure.

All season long, the relays have been consistent pointers with the members of each individual relay team rarely making mistakes and always working well together. But last week, the relays digressed with bad handoffs, poor timing and an all-around lack of teamwork becoming common occurrences.

Not surprisingly, the Wildcats dropped a pair of dual meets last week. Milford thumped Novi 96-30 on April 29 and Lakeland slipped by the Wildcats 71-57 a few days later.

Ironically, it was just a week ago that Ceresa was praising his relay squads, and for good reason. At the Novi Relays, the Wildcats came out on top in four of the eight relay events against three other teams.

"I don't know if I jinxed them, but all of a sudden we have started to have trouble with handoffs," Ceresa said. "These type of things happen all the time and it's certainly not nice when it happens to you, but there is very little you can do about it.

"We just got done saying it was the relays that were doing the job for us and then all the mistakes happen in one week."

Against the Redskins, Novi only managed three wins and was generally outmatched in most events — but the problems in the 800 and 440-yard relays sure didn't help the matter. A stop handoff in the 800 turned a close race into a blow out and in the 440 relay another runner ran out of the handoff zone without the baton.

"The kids seemed to run away from each other in the sprint relays, but other than that, I thought we had some decent performances," Ceresa admitted.

Thinclads run into trouble against KVC powerhouses

Talk is cheap and Bob Smith knows it.

So why did the coach of the Novi track team issue a warning to the other Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) track squads last week about how the gap between the front-runners and the Wildcats is shrinking? Because he believes it is. He feels good about his program and doesn't want the other members of the league to forget about his team.

But last week, Smith found out something he has suspected all along — Novi still isn't anywhere near the talent and calibre of the KVC elite. And if the gap is narrowing, it is progressing at an agonizingly slow pace.

Two blowouts against Milford and Lakeland saw to that, but the lopsided scores are somewhat deceiving. "The Wildcats dropped a 114-23 decision to the Redskins on April 29 and then fell to powerful Lakeland 106-31 two days later — but winning those meets was the farthest thing from Smith's mind.

"We knew going in that we had no chance of winning," he admitted. "We could have scored more points but we used the tough competition as a smart week — a time to let some people recuperate from injuries, try some different people in different events and learn.

"We are better off now than we were a week ago — we have other goals besides winning."

Against Milford, Novi (2-5 overall and 0-3 in the KVC) placed first in just one event as sophomore Craig Cowden tossed his best time of the year (10:35.4) to win the two-mile run. Cowden also placed second in the mile (4:55).

Other seconds were registered by Brian Schram in the high jump (6'0"), Joel Finzel in the long jump

Smith: 'In some instances, we didn't rise to the occasion in the running events. I think the younger guys started to get discouraged and really didn't understand what we were trying to do.'

(6'8") and Paul Sumner in the 440-yard dash (55.6). Schram added a third (17.0) in the 120 high hurdles, but Smith withdrew him from the low hurdles.

"We could have picked up another second in the low hurdles, but we wanted Brian to concentrate on the high jump," Smith said. "We could have probably scored over 35 points, but we knew we couldn't win."

The score versus Lakeland, the defending KVC champs, was a little more respectable, but the outcome was never in doubt. After the field events, the Wildcats held a respectable 21-15 lead, but would go on to score just 10 points the rest of the way.

"In some instances, we didn't rise to the occasion in the running events," Smith said. "I think the younger guys started to get discouraged and really didn't understand what we were trying to do."

Novi grabbed three wins in the field events but none in the rest. Matt Sahr took first in the discus (117'),

Wildcats of the Week

JILL SOBKOW

Sophomore hurler Jill Sobkow had some problems on the mound early in the season, but those seemed light-years away on May 2 as she mowed down Milford in the first game of a double header as she recorded a perfect no-hit game.

The Wildcats won the game 14-1 and Sobkow has been named a "Wildcat of the Week" for the outstanding accomplishment.

"(Jill) pitched real well," Novi Coach Jim Tinsley said. "Her control was real good and she was keeping the ball down."

Sobkow only had two strike outs in the game but she was constantly baffling the Redskin hitters with pitches they just couldn't hit very hard.

It was a very important game as the Wildcats also won the nightcap 7-5, thus elevating the team's KVC record at 2-2.

KARL GUNDERSON

Karl Gunderson is the hardest-working and most-determined player in Coach Jim Newbold's line-up, perhaps the reason he has been the most successful Wildcat singles player this season.

The senior was originally slated for duty in doubles this year, but his tremendous drive and competitiveness helped him land a permanent spot at fourth singles and led him to being named "Wildcat of the Week."

Gunderson's three-set marathon win over Hartland's Mike Bailey May 2 pulled out a very close 4-3 win over the Eagles. Gunderson won the first set 7-5, dropped the second 3-6 and was winning 5-4 in the third when all the other matches ended. With all the players looking on, the 10th game went to 11 deuces and nine match points but Gunderson eventually won the game and the match for Novi.

Northville travel agent keeps Wings on course

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

While not too many players in the National Hockey League relish the thought of playing for the lowly Detroit Red Wings, only the members of the team know the real story.

There's the constant threat of being traded, and the abuse they take as the NHL's cellar-dwellers. They also must expect a new coach every year or so.

But one thing a Red Wing can't complain about is the traveling arrangements. Ed Jamieson makes sure of that.

Jamieson, a Northville resident for 12 years and owner of Northville Travel Plans, has had a long association with the Red Wing organization. For the last three years, since pizza magnate Mike Ilitch purchased the Detroit hockey franchise, Jamieson's Northville agency has handled all the team's travel arrangements.

"I used to work for (the Red Wings) back in the 60s," Jamieson said. "And I went to see my first Red Wing game in 1946 — I've followed in the glory years and in the bad times."

Jamieson's initial link with the Wings was as an employee of Olympia Travel Agency, an in-house corporation owned by former Red Wing owner Bruce Norris. The agency was housed in Olympia Stadium, and handled all the team's travel arrangements along with a long list of regular customers.

Jamieson left Olympia Travel in 1974 to help form Howe Travel with three other corporate partners including hockey legend Gordie Howe. For three years Howe Travel was in business with offices in Southfield and Houston, Texas. But when Howe left the area to play hockey for the Houston Aeros of the now defunct World Hockey League, Howe Travel was sold to another conglomerate.

"We all split up and went our own ways because the partnership was sold," Jamieson recalls. "So then I was looking for a travel agency to buy."

When Jamieson found out that Northville Travel, located five minutes from his home was for sale, it seemed like a dream come true.

Ed Jamieson keeps the Red Wings flying right quette, Michigan, but an engine on the plane caught fire somewhere over Saginaw and it forced an emergency landing. Nobody was hurt, but 4,000 hockey fans in Marquette were upset when the game was cancelled.

A few weeks later, while flying to Minneapolis from Detroit, engine failure on takeoff forced the plane to go back for an emergency landing. Within an hour, the team was on a different plane, heading for Minnesota.

"About two or three times a year I travel with the team on the long hauls," Jamieson said. "If they have a long road trip out west to Los Angeles or Vancouver, I go to help coordinate everything."

As a long-time observer of the Wings, Jamieson knows the team and knows his hockey. But not even he can figure out why the Wings have been one of the league's poorest teams for the past decade.

"They have the raw talent now," he explained. "I think they are going in the right direction, getting the young talent and strengthening through the draft, but I really don't have any answers why they have been losing so much."

With Jamieson coordinating the travel arrangements, Ilitch knows that the Red Wings are always heading in the right direction — at least off the ice.

Novi High School graduate Melissa Haltom is now playing on the Albion College softball team

MELLISSA HALTOM is a member of the 1986 Albion College softball squad. Haltom, a sophomore first baseman and outfielder for Coach Ron Walker, is hoping to help the Britons improve on their 5-5 record and fourth place finish in the 1985 Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association softball race.

Haltom, a 1984 graduate of Novi High School, batted .389 for Albion as a freshman last season.

Racing driver TIM EVANS will be competing in the full schedule of Sports Car Club of America Professional Showroom Stock events this season, and may participate in other races when dates don't conflict.

Evans is one of two full-time drivers for Chrysler Corporation's team of Dodge Shelby Chargers competing in the series. The Brookland Farms resident regularly drives the chase car for the Detroit Grand Prix. In recent years, Evans has run a limited schedule of SCCA Trans Am and Showroom Stock events.

CHERYL SHANKEL, a junior pitcher on the Western Michigan University women's softball team, posted two wins April 11 and 12 against Ohio University and Kent State. She is a former Novi High School standout.

The Novi native pitched nine innings against Kent State en route to a 1-0 victory. She allowed just three hits while striking out eight and issuing one walk.

Shankel has won her last four outings and leads the team with a 7-5 record and an ERA of 0.92. Her strike out total of 37 also leads the squad.
