Voters decide hot school board race Monc

Novi voters heading to the polls Monday, at Novi High School. The Orchard Ridge June 9, will select three candidates for the Homeowners Association is hosting the can- Novi Board of Education in one of the most didates' night with the public invited to a con- tested school board races in the past tend.

Voters casting ballots Monday will choose candidates for three separate posts. The slate of eight candidates is expected to generate a considerably larger voter turnout than last year's election where incumbents Joan Daley and Sharon Pechat were re-elected by fewer than one percent of Novi's approximately 16,000 registered voters.

Residents will have a final opportunity to hear the candidates address the issues at 7:30 p.m. tonight (Wednesday) in Lecture Room A.

Incumbent Robert Schram, an eight-year veteran of the board, is seeking re-election to his third four-year term. He is being challenged in his bid for the four-year post by college instructor Sandra Thornton.

Incumbent Raymond Byers, appointed to the board last September following the resignation of former trustee Ronald Milam, is seeking election to the two-year post (the remainder of Milam's term). John Balagna, former chairman of the Novi Parks and Recreation Commission, is challenging Byers for the two-year seat.

The board's newest trustee Stephen Hitchcock, appointed to the board in March following the resignation of Gilbert Henderson, is facing three challengers in his bid for the one-year seat (the remainder of Henderson's term). Challenging Hitchcock for the one-year post are Jon Dostal, a former member of the Novi Library Board; Brian Fannon, a former Novi Parks and Recreation Commissioner; and Patricia Koneda, chairperson of the Community Education Advisory Council.

Voters will select one candidate in the three separate races. In addition to the local school board election, voters also will select three candidates for the Oakland Community College Board of Trustees.

Hackett and Judith Wisler.

Polls will open Monday at 7 a.m. and close at 8 p.m.

Polling places, according to precinct are as follows:

- Precinct 1 — Novi Middle School South, 25299 Taft;
- Precinct 2 — Orchard Hills Elementary School, 41900 Quince;
- Precinct 3 — Village Oaks Elementary School, 23333 Willowbrook.

Tempers flare at mobile park

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
 staff writer

A group of residents of Old Dutch Farms in Novi have stewed for years about a series of problems involving their mobile home park. But in the last few months, the anger has reached a heated crescendo.

At the center of the controversy is the middle management of Unipro Corporation, which owns and controls the park. After months of complaints, Unipro last week fired the park managers.

But the managers, Karlene and Richard Markcum, claim they were unfairly terminated by Unipro management. After contacting The Novi News Monday, Karlene Markcum cancelled an interview to discuss their termination.

Asked Monday to comment on the reason for the firings, Unipro's regional supervisor, Gil Opaleski, declined. He said new park management would be appointed soon.

Residents willing to speak about the complaints agree that their relationship with the park owners has deteriorated since Unipro acquired the park and installed Opaleski as regional supervisor in early 1985.

The group of disgruntled residents further claimed that other residents are afraid to speak up for fear of having their leases terminated or their homes subjected to selective enforcement of maintenance rules upon their sale.

Cathy Price, a former manager of the park, said that she was directed by Unipro management to vary enforcement of park rules according to the market demand for mobile home lots — in times of high demand, she said, she was to provide less service and to tolerate fewer complaints.

Among complaints residents have lodged in protests to Unipro, to the Mobile Home Division of the

Town Center hits the home stretch

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
 staff writer

Final plans for Trammell Crow's 442,000-square-foot commercial center at Novi Road and Grand River Avenue are scheduled to go before city planners and city council for approval tonight (Wednesday).

Based on preliminary plan reviews, neither the commission nor the council are expected to deliver unanimous endorsements of the project.

Planning Commissioner Richard Clark and City Council Member Nancy Covert repeatedly have opposed the center over their concerns regarding its large (67-acre) scale and its impact on traffic. Still, the Town Center appears to be on track for final approval.

Today also is the day two Novi families who own Town Center land under option to Trammell Crow are to show Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Robert Anderson why the Texas-based real estate development firm's suit against the families should be dismissed (see related story).

Since Trammell Crow has placed in escrow the $42,000 above Trammell Crow's offered price, it's expected the firm will proceed as quickly as possible in obtaining building permits and laying the groundwork for the first phase of the center.

Documents relating to the Town Center site plan indicate the major tenants will be Mervyn's, Children's Palace, T.J. Maxx, Designer Depot, Vic Tanny and General Cinema. All smaller store-restaurant-service units will remain under Trammell Crow's ownership and will have to conform to Trammell Crow's design guidelines, based on the city's Town Center District guidebook.

What design guidelines will be imposed upon the major tenants is expected to be reviewed at tonight's meeting.

Suit won't stall Town Center

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
 staff writer

The Trammell Crow Company's suit against four Novi property owners in the Town Center District centers on a dispute over whether their land earmarked as public right-of-way is included in the purchase agreement.

When the suit is resolved, the land will become part of Trammell Crow's Town Center outdoor shopping mall, pending final site plan approval of the project by city officials. Novi City Council and the Novi Planning Commission are scheduled to review final site plans for the project tonight, Wednesday (see related story).

When Trammell Crow reached a purchase agreement with property owners Martin (Marty) and Marsha Feldman and Robert and Patricia Yokes December 19 last year, all the parties agreed to a $6 per square foot selling price.

According to the text of the agreement, the calculation of the square footage was to be "exclusive of land taken for the public right-of-way."

The four property sellers calculated their selling price of about $220,000 by including land in the future right-of-way. The property is located south of Eleven Mile and north of Grand River, east of Novi Road. Trammell Crow excluded that area when it calculated its offer of $177,200.

To defend their contention, the Feldmans and Yokes have contracted the prestigious law firm of Honigman, Miller, Schwartz and Cohn. The Trammell Crow Company has placed approximately $42,000 in escrow to cover the purchase if the court finds against the Texas-based development firm.

Posting the amount, Novi city attorney David Fried noted, would prevent the dispute from delaying construction of the shopping center.

The dispute may be cleared up today. June 4 is the date Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Robert Anderson has ordered the four property owners to "show cause" why Trammell Crow's purchase offer is not in line with the agreement signed in December.

City's new woodlands law may recall some projects

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
 staff writer

Not property ownership, not fully approved site plans, not even an official building permit will guarantee developers of new projects in the City of Novi the right to chop down trees protected under the city's new woodlands ordinance, Novi City Council decided Monday.

After hearing city assistant attorney Dennis Watson confirm that a woodlands permit can be required legally "up to the point where they've (developers or builders) done something substantial to the land itself," city council members voted 4-3 not to exempt approved but not-yet-begun projects from the strictures of the new ordinance, enacted May 21.

Council's action followed nearly two hours of debate over whether it was fair to apply the new rules to projects which had apparently fulfilled all the city's requirements to proceed with construction.

An informal meeting of city officials Wednesday, May 28, resulted in drafting of a proposal that the new woodlands ordinance not be applied to projects which had received preliminary site plan approval by the planning commission, or in the case of subdivisions, to projects which had obtained final preliminary plat approval by the city council.

Among that group of officials who recommended the exemptions were Community Development Director James Wahl, Novi Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers, Mayor Patricia Karevich, Planning Clerk Karen Tindale, Landscape Architectural Consultant Linda Lemke, engineering consultants David Redash and Joseph Kapelczak, and Novi City Clerk Gerry Stipp.

But despite that ad hoc committee's recommendation, council reached no consensus on the issue. Finally a four-member council majority decided to reject the exemptions policy and enforce the woodlands ordinance to the full extent of the law. Voting against granting the exemptions were Edward Leininger, Martha Hoyer, Arlen Schroeder and Ronald Watson.

Although Nancy Covert appeared to agree in principle with enforcing the ordinance right up until the time

Take a WILD RIDE

Forget the slow rides; get ready for some high-speed, tipsy-turvy, gut-wrenching fun

Story by Buddy Moorehouse

Merry-go-rounds? You can have 'em. Ferris wheels? Give me a break. Choo-choo trains? Please.

When it comes to amusement-park rides, you've got to go for the thrills. None of these wimpy little things that wouldn't frighten a church mouse.

We're talking about strapping yourself into a roller-coaster that screams along at break-neck speeds, whipping you around and around and upside down. We're talking about holding on tight as your tiny boat plunges down a 50-foot waterfall into a turbulent pool.

We're talking about thrill rides—roller-coasters and water rides and other such daredevil devices.

And if the ol' ticker can stand them, they're just about as much fun as you can have this summer. Thrilling amusement-park rides are sort of a safe way of courting danger—deep down, you know you'll survive the ride alive, but something inside still tells you that there's an element of danger involved.

Thrill-seekers in Michigan are lucky, because quite a few of these rides are just a few hours away. Travel less than five hours in almost any direction and you'll find yourself at an amusement park, ready to ride the rapids or careen along on a roller-coaster.

The closest amusement park to these parts is Boblo Island, located in the Detroit River south of Detroit. Board the boat in Motown and you'll be coaster-bound in less than two hours.

Boblo's scariest roller-coaster is the Screamer Corkscrew, which covers 2,388 feet on the island. This type of coaster loops around and then takes riders into a double helix—a "corkscrew." Corkscrew coasters have become very fashionable in the last 10 years, and the one at Boblo is among the best.

Another hair-raising ride at Boblo is the Falling Star, a 76-foot pendulum that plunges to Earth at more than two times the force of gravity. It's a wild feeling.

One of the most popular amusement parks among Michiganders is Cedar Point, a park in Sandusky, Ohio that features rides, rides and more rides.

Almost every year in the last decade or so, Cedar Point has added a major ride to its already impressive lineup. This year's addition is Thunder Canyon, a quarter-mile-long water ride.

A dozen riders are loaded into a round raft, and the adventure begins. Simulating a wild raft ride down the rapids, Thunder Canyon guarantees to drench anyone who dares hop aboard.

In 1978, Cedar Point debuted the Gemini, one of the fastest and scariest coasters around. The Gemini is a double racing coaster (two trains race each other around the track) which reaches speeds of 60 miles an hour. And at one point during the ride, you'd actually swear that a wooden beam is going to take your head off.

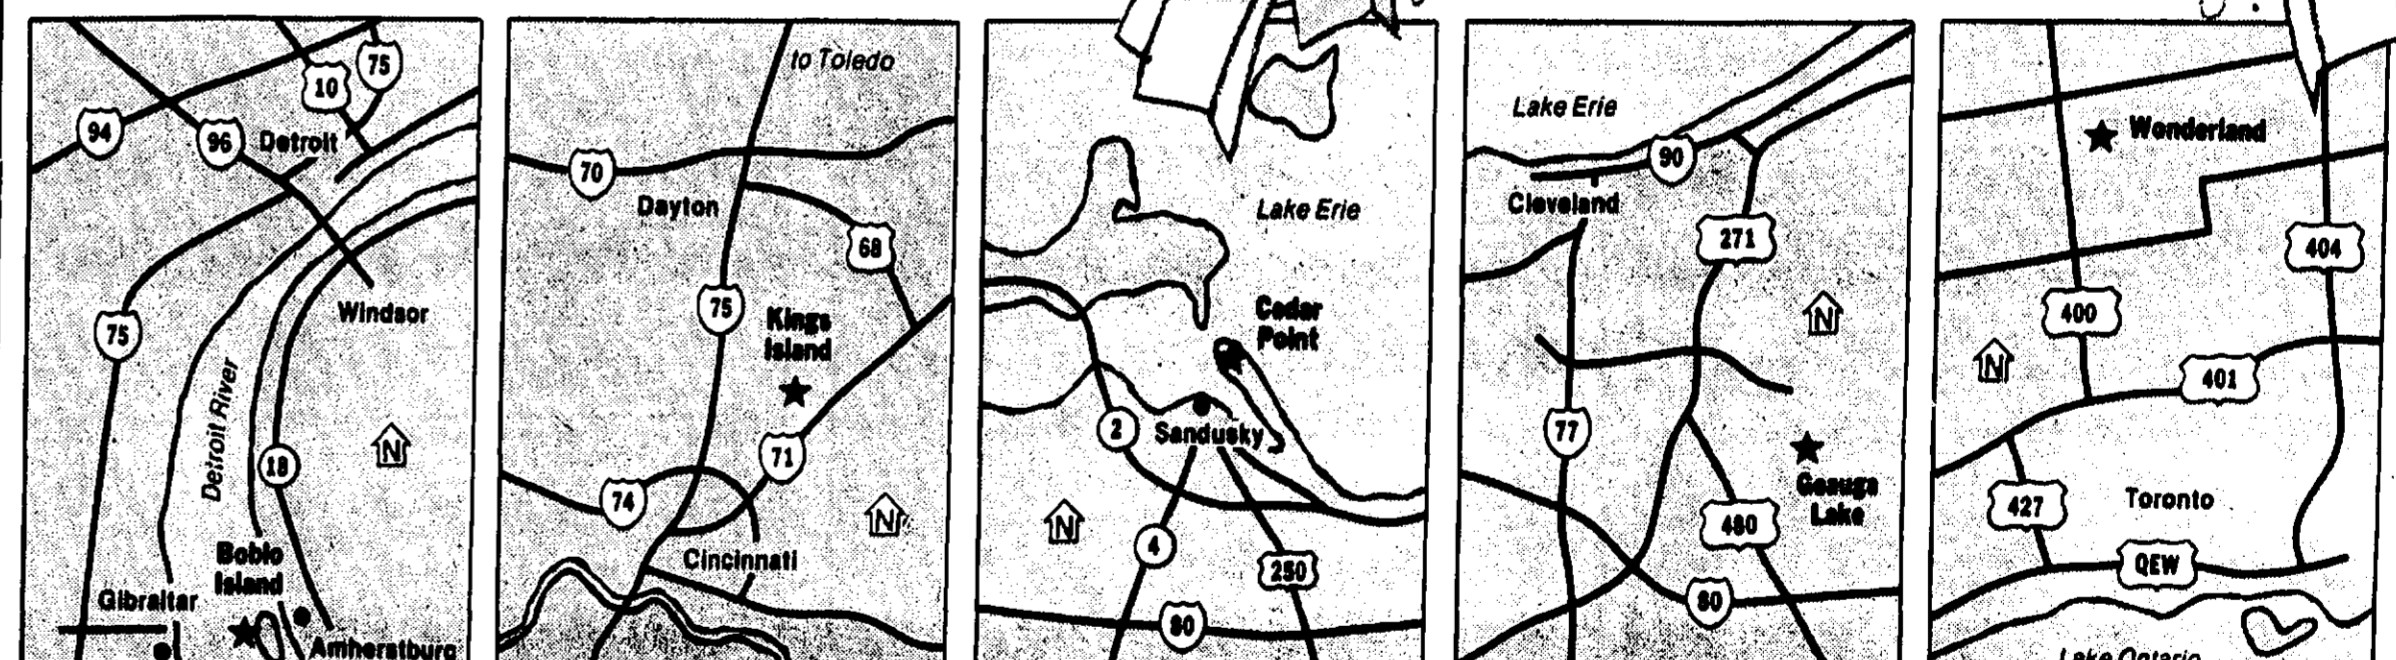

If you're in the mood for a more traditional coaster, try the Blue Streak, which

Take the plunge

You say you want to try some of these thrill rides for yourself? Take a look below and you'll find directions to the amusement parks, hours of operation, ticket prices and all the other pertinent info.

BOBLO ISLAND — take off on the popular Screamer Corkscrew roller coaster, new last year. The two trains, each with six cars allow 24 passengers at a time to scream through the 2,388 feet of twisting steel track. The 275-acre Boblo Island is located in the Lower Detroit River and has 35 rides. Boblo is reached by two historic boats starting at 9:30 a.m. daily from Detroit docks with tickets (boat ride, admission and all amusement rides for one price) at $14.95 for ages 10 and up, $12.95 for 9-9 years. Senior citizens, 61 and over, are $12.95 Monday through Friday only. Four boats also leave the Gibraltar dock each day beginning at 10:30 a.m. with prices at $11.95 for 10 years and up, $10.95 ages 9-9 and $10.95 for seniors 61 and over. The Detroit dock is reached by taking I-75 to the John Lodge (US-10) to West Jefferson, exit at the Joe Louis Arena parking garage, follow the signs. To go to the Gibraltar dock, take I-75 south to exit 29-A and go right on Middle Gibraltar Road for just over two miles, then left on North Gibraltar Road to the dock, follow the signs. Boats also leave Amherstburg, Ontario daily on a similar schedule.

KING'S ISLAND — ride the relentless Beast, the biggest, the baddest, and the longest wooden coaster in the world. Also take the challenge of King Cobra, a looping, twisting, spine-tingling roller coaster you ride standing up. This is a theme park, located 24 miles north of Cincinnati, Ohio on I-71. Watch for King's Island signs. Opens 9 a.m. seven days a week from Memorial Day to Labor Day and selected weekends in April, May, Sept. and Oct. Tickets for those 7-61 years are $14.95 at the gate, children 6-6 are $7.25. Senior citizen rates available at the gate.

CEDAR POINT — try the triple-looping Corkscrew, a steel coaster which features an 85-foot first hill and reaches a speed of 50 miles per hour. Towering over the midway is the Demon Drop which offers riders a 10-story, free-falling plunge. The four-passenger cars travel from zero to 55 miles per hour in 1.8 seconds. On the Gemini, a racing coaster with a 125-foot-high first hill, the twin racers reach a speed of 60 miles per hour. And there is the new Thunder Canyon ride, a 1,600-foot raging river rapids ride. The white-water rafting ride includes waterfalls and rocky canyon walls with 900,000 gallons of fresh Lake Erie water pumped into the ride basin each day. The amusement park is located at Sandusky, Ohio, midway between Cleveland and Toledo. Take I-80 east to exit 7 and follow the signs north on US-250. Gates open at 9 a.m. from May 24 to September 1 and on special weekends in May and September. Admission at the gate for ages 9-61 is $14.95; ages 4-8, $8.95. Senior citizens 62 and over are $9.95 at the gate (no discounted sales in advance for seniors).

GEAUGA LAKE — at Aurora, Ohio features a wild water complex with a two-million gallon wave pool, a six-foot tidal thunder wave and an undertow ending in a 60-foot water toboggan slide. Neptune Falls gives riders 1,200 feet of thrashing, dipping water shoots. Three daring roller coasters are aimed at thrill seekers. The park is located across from Sea World at exit 13 off I-80, east of Cleveland. It is open from May 24 to Sept. 1 and special weekends. Hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on weekends and 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. weekdays. Admission is $10.95 at the gate for ages 4-60, three and under free. Special senior citizen rates available at the gate.

CANADA'S WONDERLAND — a sister park to King's Island is located north of Toronto. Thunder Run, a highballing coaster-train ride within a mountain that is the centerpiece of the park, opened in early May. Try one or all of the four fabulous, fast and furious roller coasters. The Dragon Fire flings riders into two 360-degree loops and a corkscrew. Sol Loco swings passengers 100 feet above the ground — upside down. There are five theme areas in the 370-acre park located 10 minutes north of Toronto on Highway 400. From Detroit, take Highway 401 toward Toronto and turn north on Highway 400, exit at Rutherford Road and go east to the park entrance. The pay-one-price admission is $15.95 in Canadian funds. The park is open daily at 10 a.m. June 4 through Sept. 5 and weekends from Sept. 10 through Oct. 9.

ing a spectator also, and works Bryan's baseball, basketball, tennis and football games into his schedule.

Family vacations often involve camping, and Jacobs is currently president of an inter-denominational summer camp located near Romeo.

Prior to becoming president of the venture, Jacobs handled hotel and food management for the camp for 12 years - no small job for the nearly 4,000 persons attending each August.

"You see what I mean about the ministry preparing you for anything," he chuckles. "I've often thought that I might like to manage a restaurant or resort when I retire."

Retirement is not an imminent concern. Reverend Jacobs sees his ministry in Novi during its current period of growth as an interesting challenge. He has his work cut out for him but isn't intimidated by the thought, "I don't see the minister as having any more stressful an occupation than others," he says.

Ridin' the Rapids

There is a way to shed the humdrum of your work week, leave the office desk behind, brave the challenge of the great outdoors, and be safely and snugly at home in time for "60 Minutes."

White-water rafting—which appeals to the adventurer in most people—is nearby, relatively inexpensive and all the fun it is cracked up to be.

West Virginia is somewhat of an East Coast mecca for whitewater rafting. The starting points for trips on five rivers—whose difficulty ranges from mild rolls to truly world class or "serious" whitewater—are only seven- to eight-hour drives from the Detroit area.

But it is a trip into another world—a world of back woods, swirling rapids, rushing rivers and, above all, excitement.

"We're all a little bit of a thrill seeker," says Cindy Lacey, a spokesperson for Appalachian Wildwaters, based in West Virginia.

"It (white water rafting) allows you in a weekend's time to do something that you normally don't do. And it's quite cost effective."

Single day trips range from $39 to $63 a person with weekend trips costing more than those on week days. There are plenty of motels in the area for lodging, but about half the rafters take advantage of nearby campgrounds, said Lacey.

Appalachian Wildwaters provides guided trips on the Cheat and Tygart rivers in northern West Virginia, the New and Cauley rivers in southern West Virginia, and on the Upper Yough in far west Maryland, near the West Virginia border.

There are also trips from two to four days on the New River that cost from $119 to $295 a person. In all cases, prices include guides, prepared meals during the trip and raft rental.

Although Lacey concedes that the perceived danger is one of the great appeals of whitewater rafting, she quickly adds that the sport is actually quite safe.

"We have bumps and bruises, of course, but we've never had a serious accident," she said. "The number of injuries per 1,000 days is substantially less than in snow skiing."

Rafting is an exhilarating and somewhat strenuous experience, but the challenges of the rivers vary enough to allow a good time to beginners or experienced rafters.

Rivers in the eastern United States are rated from 1 (easiest) to 6 for rafting purposes. Most of the trips include rapids rated from 3 to 6, said Lacey.

One river, the Cheat, has recently been upgraded because of a once-in-500-years flood last fall that changed the river permanently. Now, the river is limited to those who have had previous rafting experience.

But many rivers are fine for rafters of all ages and abilities. A two-day package on the Upper Yough, for instance, starts on the first day with a gentle ride. On the second day, youngsters participate in a structured activity, such as hiking, while their parents take on a more challenging stretch of the river.

Rafters generally carry from four to 10 people. Guides accompany most rafts and one-man kayaks zip along side rafts to keep them straight during the narrows.

Appalachian Wildwaters also offers two-day canoeing and kayaking schools.

For more information, call Appalachian Wildwaters on a toll-free line: 1-800-624-8060.

Ask for the free booklet, "Excellence on Whitewater," which focuses on what to look for when selecting a rafting outfitter.

Confetti's: Pasta with pleasure

The nice thing about Bruce Cameron restaurants is that they're all distinctive. Usually upbeat and trendy, Cameron's restaurants usually provide a good way for Michiganders to keep track of what's taking place on the east and west coasts.

Cameron is the fellow who brought you the Double Eagle in Troy, Treats in Orchard Lake, the Midtown Cafe in Birmingham and the Cafe Pastel in Rochester among others.

One of his newest offerings is Confetti's at the corner of Orchard Lake and Maple roads in West Bloomfield. Located in what formerly was the Maple House (another Cameron restaurant, Confetti's capitalizes on the current popularity of the pasta craze.

A pasta-maker is on duty fulltime during the evenings, and diners can watch the pasta being made before it's shipped back to the kitchen for preparation into the dishes which are brought to the table.

The Italian influence is particularly evident on the menu which gives a definite advantage to people who are bi-lingual. It would be difficult to know what's coming if you order "paglia e fieno," for example, if the menu didn't also let you know that it's a spinach fettuccine and egg linguine with prosciutto, peas, cream, garlic and parmesan.

As every good Italian or would-be Italian diner knows, Italian food tastes better with wine. And Confetti's offers a nice little wine menu to accompany the meal. Included is everything from a Chenin Blanc from California to a Dom Perignon from France priced at $105 per bottle.

Another feature at Confetti's is a small selection of pizzas — not your standard American pizzas, mind you, but the type of gourmet pizzas currently popular in California.

Diners receive interesting food in a contemporary setting at Confetti's in West Bloomfield

The Pizza con Salsiccia D'Anitra, for example, comes with duck sausage, sage, goat's cheese and tomatoes, while the Piaaz con Spinaci comes with fresh spinach and garlic along with a blend of romano and provolone cheeses. If you have a strong yen for pizza, go to Buddy's. But if you want to try something a little out of the ordinary, Confetti's pizzas are interesting eating.

If you're beginning to get the idea that Confetti's offers some unique foods, you're right on track.

The selection of appetizers contains shrimp saute and a cheese plate — fairly standard. But it also includes Mussels Confetti (mussels steamed in white wine with oranges, onion, bay leaf and sage) and Steamed Artichoke (served with brown butter and a tasty blend of spices called aioli).

Entrees range in price from a Vegetable Plate at $8.75 to a Semi-boneless Half Duck at $14.25.

While the Steamed Artichoke we sampled on a recent outing did not meet with our taste, a couple of the entrees were outstanding. There's a Warm Duck Salad (duck sauteed with pancetta and oyster mushrooms, tossed with wilted greens and topped with a sweet-and-sour dressing) that was a genuine treat.

Likewise for the Cioppino, an Italian fish stew with shrimp, mussels and clams.

For dessert, diners at Confetti's have a selection of pastries made at Treats, another Cameron restaurant just a few miles down the road. Of special interest are a selection of ice creams made in Confetti's own kitchen.

As is typical of Cameron's other restaurants, the decor at Confetti's is attractive and distinctive. Tables are covered with white linens (under a glass top), and the contemporary theme is carried out with use of neon signs in the interior.

Confetti's is not a great restaurant. The food does not equal that found at MacKinnon's or Chez Raphael. But those comparisons are unfair, because it does not try to be.

What it does try to be is a pleasant little restaurant with some unusual, out-of-the-ordinary items on the menu. And in that regard, Confetti's is successful and an interesting place to dine.

Confetti's, 6480 Orchard Lake Road, West Bloomfield. Open for lunch Monday through Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Dinners served Monday through Thursday from 5-11:30 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 5 p.m. to 12:30 p.m. Open Sunday from 4-11 p.m. Liquor license. Visa, MasterCard and America Express. 626-3341.
