Hilton addition plans released

Ever since it opened last year, insiders have been expecting backers of the Novi Hilton to announce plans to expand. Tonight plans for that long-awaited expansion will be reviewed by the Novi Planning Commission.

If approved as expected, the hotel will add a wing extending to the west of (behind) the facade now facing I-275 and expand its parking lot onto a 2.3-acre parcel south of the existing hotel.

At seven stories, the new wing will be identical in height to, and continue the design elements of, the existing hotel. The addition will contain 2,673 square feet of meeting room floor space with 156 guest rooms and 3,268 square feet of retail space.

The addition is expected to relate to the proposed office building located west of the Hilton - plans are being prepared to physically connect the two buildings through a covered walk coordinated with landscaped areas. Cost of the ex- the Haggerty-I-275 corridor in pansion has been estimated at $4 million

According to traffic impact estimates provided by The Samelson Group, which coordinates the Hilton's development as well as surrounding property in the Or-chard Hill Place office center district, traffic caused by the addition will not generate excessive flows during weekday 24-hour periods except for minor lunch and dinner-hour impacts generated by the use of meeting rooms. No additional entrances from Haggerty or Eight Mile will be necessary to conduct the irregularly-timed added flow of 280 vehicles per day.

At full occupancy, the addition is expected to provide 16 permanent full-time jobs.

The Hilton currently operates 240 guest rooms on its 10.5-acre site. Since its opening it has been in high demand as a location for business, civic and social gathering resource. Its occupancy rate has stimulated a boom in hotel developments along neighboring Farmington Hills, Livonia, and Northville Township.

Novi officials are pinning their hopes of attracting office development and hi-tech industry to the Grand River corridor on a new zoning district classification drafted for the planning commission's scrutiny tonight (Wednesday).

If the proposed district gets a thumbs-up from commissioners, city officials will take steps to deploy the new industrial-research-office district (IRO) throughout much of the Grand River corridor - mostly in areas currently zoned for light industrial development.

While the city's light industrial district (I-1) currently permits offices, several council members including Mayor Patricia Karevich have stated the I-1 district is not attracting the upscale, technologically-advanced businesses desired for underdeveloped sections of Grand River.

If enacted and put in place, the IRO district would become the city's 22nd zoning classification. By comparison, Northville Township has fewer than eleven.

In zoning districts classified IRO, the following uses would be permitted:

Research and development and/or technical training involving single-entity buildings. Activities may include medical, computer, robotic and pharmaceutical resarch, development, instruction and/or application

Data processing and computer centers including computer programming and software development, training and data processing services. Assembly and machining operations, when adjunct to research and development activities occurring at the same location. Mass production or mass assembly of products or equipment will not be permitted. □ Offices and office activities related to other uses described above.

At a press converence in Novi last Thursday, Lucas forces claimed they have picked up public endorsements from 28 of the 72 Republican legislators in the state House and Senate for the August 5 primary election.

Wayne County Executive Lucas is opposing Oakland County Executive Daniel Murphy, State Representative Colleen Engler and Brighton businessman Richard Chrysler for the Republican nomination.

Lucas' 15-minute stop at Novi City Hall was one of a series of conferences Thursday at which ofsupport of Lucas to local press.

What's keying Lucas' candidacy, through state legislative circles? According To Bullard, "Most Republicans feel Bill Lucas has the best bet at defeating (incumbent Democratic governor) Jim Blanchard."

By-Rite water tests begin

Testing on and around the By-Rite Oil Company grounds at 40600 Grand River Avenue began this week with results expected to be announced in 2-3 weeks.

City officials ordered the tests after traces of hydrocarbons (fuel components) were reported found in groundwater on the By-Rite company's site last spring. Preliminary reports from the city's engineering consultants suggested that the direction of groundwater flow in the area could lead to contamination of residential neighborhood wells close to By-Rite grounds.

A geologist for By-Rite has claimed the extent of the spill, believed to be caused by the site's former occupant, Gulf Oil, is not extensive enough to contaminate groundwater used by residential wells off the By-Rite site.

Still, By-Rite executives have said they would cooperate fully with efforts to verify the extent of the spill's effects. Testing will be done at the expense of By-Rite, although the firm has said legal action against Gulf Oil to recoup expenses is a possibility.

The testing to be conducted on and around the By-Rite site is a volatile organics scan, said Susan Nayh of JCK and Associates, the city's engineering consultants. The scan can detect potentially hydrocarbon levels even in comparitively small amounts.

Nayh said she believed test results should be ready to report to city council members by August 4.

IRO uses permitted subject to approval by the planning commission in accordance with public hearing requirements would include:

Warehousing, wholesaling and distribution center uses where such activity is the primary use of the building.

C Accessory buildings vital to the function of the principal use, as long as the accessory building is located in the rear yard and subject to the same setbacks as the main buildings.

Further restrictions imposed in an IRO district would include:

□ Minimum zoning lot size is 10 acres, with a width of 300 feet or greater. Building height will not exceed

OFFICE SERVICE COMMERCIAL zoning districts such as Orchard Hill Place will permit amusement and recreation uses including commercial recreation centers and theaters, according to a proposed ordinance scheduled for public comment at 7:30 p.m. tonight (Wednesday). The amusement recreation uses would be permitted only when integrated into a larger development of office buildings, and none of the amusement-recreation uses are to be located adjacent to residential districts.

If the amendment to OSC-district uses eventually is approved by Novi City Council, backers of the proposed Westbrooke Place project northwest of the Grand River-Beck Road intersection are expected to request rezoning to OSC and subsequently propose a recreation center which would meet those standards

NOVI ENVIRONMENTAL COMMITTEE members still are looking for a representative from the Chamber of Commerce to serve on the new committee

When created by Novi City Council last year and charged with drafting an environmental protection ordinance, the committee was to have a chamber member appointed in order to represent business concerns. According to the city's environmental consultant. Susan Nayh, the committee plans to formally request the chamber to send a representative.

THIELENHAUS MICROFINISH Corporation, a high-tech firm, has submitted site plans for a two-story 25,454 square-foot industrial shop and office facility south of Nine Mile between Novi Road and the C&O Railroad. The Novi Planning Commission is scheduled to review the plans tonight (Wednesday). City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers is recommending approval conditional to the Zoning Board of Appeals granting a variance permitting front-yard parking, among other technical specifica-

COMIC RELIEF: Wondering how the debut of that new comedy series at the Goat Farm saloon did? Not bad at all. According to producer Bill Barr, the first Back Room Comedy Show attracted enough of an audience to keep hopes high for the new weekly comedy nights in the Farm saloon's back room. Some 160 patrons attended the two Saturday night shows. "We almost packed the place," Barr enthused. "We had around 80 reservations, which is what I'd hoped for."

NOVI RESIDENTS ARE INVITED to learn how a television show is produced by attending a special session at Farmington City Hall on July 17. The television van and crew from Channel 12 will be setting up for an evening of live television programming at 7:30 p.m. Channel 12 is the community access branch of the MetroVision System serving Novi, Farmington and Farmington Hills. Those who attend will be able to watch the live cablecasts of Viewpoint at 7:30 p.m., Insight at 8 p.m., Shores of Your Mind at 8:30 p.m. and Tri-Outlook at 9 p.m.

COMMUNITY ACCESS CHANNEL 12 is looking for bi-lingual residents of authentic heritage to serve as talent/hosts of an international segment of Tri-Outlook News. Channel 12 is the community access branch of the MetroVision System serving Novi, Farmington and Farmington Hills. All information on the international segment of the news program will be presented in the native language with English sub-titles. The set design will depict the country being highlighted, and information will pertain to customs and lifestyles of the particular country. In addition, a portion of the international segment will include travel tips from a local travel agent who will discuss rates, weather and visa/passport information. Anyone interested in working on the production may call 473-7266 for does a library's collection the Novi Library? tend to reflect the personality of its director and staff?

BURRELL: "We try to overcome that. In fact, I deliberately avoid buying library books that are of particular interest to me. We try to avoid anything that tips the balance too far one way or the other. Because of public interest, we could buy books on the occult until the shelves are full, but we don't. Similarly we have to be aware of the demands on libraries. You've got to have 20 books on insects when schools are assigning reports on insects.

"If something is obscure, if just one person asks for some obscure work and it costs $150, we'll try to borrow it from one of the group of libraries. Generally, the more we'll try to acquire it.

Do people try to get books taken off the shelves here because of objections to the contents of the books?

BURRELL: "Oh, sure. One person was complaining about the home video "Once Upon A Time In The West," which she called a very violent film for us to be carrying. She recommended we shouldn't have it in the library. "There was a person who voiced chasing our little abode, we are half way through the demolition — tearing out all the walls and ceilings. A century of crumbling plaster patched together by umpteen coats of paint and layers of wallpaper left cracks and ripples in every wall and ceiling in the house (save for the kitchen which had linoleum on the walls as well as the floor). What were minor distractions upon first inspection became major problems once we signed our names on the dotted line. To alleviate these unsightly imperfections, we decided to just tear out the walls and ceilings. We figured it was a weekend chore - shouldn't take much time at all.

Two bedrooms, a bathroom and dining room later. we're still smashing the walls with crowbars. The lath is piled so high in our back yard it looks like we've gone into the kindling business. We've also managed to go through a case of trash bags, masks, safety glasses and gloves. Such endeavors do wonders for one's appearance. The dust has turned my hair prematurely gray and my contact lenses now resemble tiddlywinks.

Upon dismantling the inside of our new house, we have uncovered two floors of antique wiring, century old plumbing (and its contents) and rickety joists and support beams. There has been little more than a trace of insulation

By Jerry Zolynsky

The hardwood floors we had hoped to find beneath pump her own gas, renovating the soiled carpets turned out to be covered with plywood. It took us a half hour to pull up one corner of a single sheet of plywood which was adhered with glue.

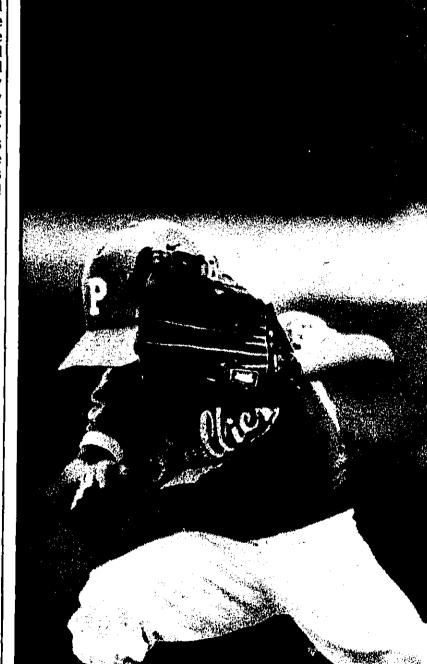

> With only one bathroom in the house - not counting the commode located in the corner of what is to become the library - we initially planned to add a small halfbath on the lower level. However, our plans have somewhat changed. At last count, we were adding a dark room, laundry and full bath downstairs while also doubling the size of our closet-sized kitchen. For a few dollars more we decided we might as well make our two bedroom bungalow a three or four bedroom dream house. In addition to the lower level expansion, we've decided to add to the second floor with another bedroom or two as well as — you guessed it — a third bathroom.

And this is only the inside. We haven't even begun plans for the outside. The fact that the lawn looks like a meadow, the porch is about to collapse, the roof needs replacing and the asbestos siding is beginning to crumble has us a wee bit concerned. Coupled with that is the chimney which must be dismantled brick by brick. We're hoping it's not the major support for the roof.

While all this sounds pretty grim, there have been a few pleasant surprises. In ripping out baseboards upstairs, we found a Masons newspaper perfectly preserved among the plaster. Dated 1888, it's the first evidence we've uncovered which pinpoints the age of the house. We've also unearthed an old postcard and picture frame as well as several sheets of hand-painted wallpaper.

Friends eagerly awaiting an invitation to our first pen house, shouldn't hold their breath. Our original May move-in date has been indefinitely postponed. We figure we might get in there by the time the snow flies.

This is not to say we don't welcome visitors. Just make sure you bring a crowbar.

The Wixom panther made his debut during MacIntosh's internship here. I told her she was going to become our "panther editor" and I wanted our readers to know everything there is to know about panthers in our next edition.

MacIntosh jumped on the story immediately, demonstrating the inquiring mind and vast enthusiasm which had led us to hire her in the first place.

But I could not have imagined the fervor with which she threw herself into panther-coverage stories.

The very next morning, MacIntosh showed up for work wearing a safari hat, camouflage clothing and a hand-fashioned butterfly net flung over her shoulder.

"I'm ready," she announced. "I'm going to capture that panther. We'll have the scoop of the decade. A personal interview with the Wixom

WILLIAM BOWMAN, president of Thompson & Brown of Farmington Hills, has been honored by the Gaylord Industrial Development Corporation.

Thompson & Brown is the developer of Michaywe, a fourthe Year" Award for 1986.

Thompson & Brown developed Michaywe in the late 1960s. The site encompasses over 3,600 acres of Northern Michigan woodlands. The resort has 800 members and the community has 375 residents. Harold Elgas of the Gaylord Industrial Development Council said Michaywe has had and continues to have a tremendous impact on the community. "It adds millions of dollars to our tax base and provides numerous jobs in construction, services and retail sales by its presence," he said.

Expected to be added to Michaywe over the next three years are an additional 18-hole golf course, a new lodge/conference center and new tennis courts at an estimated cost of $4 million. The resort currently contains an 18-hole championship golf course, three tennis courts, an indoor/outdoor pool, dining room, lounge, cross-country ski trails and nine downhill ski slopes.

the NOVI NEWS

The Great Backyard Barbecue and the summertime.

Baseball, softball, tennis. Boating, fishing, swimming.

Sunny days, starry nights.

And picnics, especially picnics. Bundle up the family and head for the park. Don't forget the charcoal. Did anyone bring matches?

"Are the hamburgers ready yet, Dad?"

"Hey, Mom. How did those ants get in the pickle relish?

And then there's another type of summer picnic - the backyard barbecue. A big round of applause, please, for Weber grills. Don't worry about forgetting anything. The charcoal's in the garage. Matches are in the kitchen. You don't have to worry about the deviled eggs going bad, either. Just keep them in the refrigerator until it's time to sit down and eat.

The very best backyard barbecues, of course, are the real barbecues. Save the hamburgers and hotdogs for the trip out to Kensington. When you're picnicking at home, you can do things up right. You know, let your culinary expertise show a little. The key to the backyard barbecue is the barbecue sauce ....

those special concoctions which have been altered and refined over the years to get just exactly the taste you want for those spareribs, chicken, steak or darn near anything else you're thinking about tossing on the grill.

With summertime in full swing, we thought we'd go out into the community to find the real backyard barbecue experts and learn their special secrets .... their own personal recipes for barbecue sauces that add just the right zing to the evening's fare. Frankly, response to the request for barbecue sauce recipes that appeared in Phil Jerome's column several weeks ago was less than overwhelming. Could it be that the people in our town don't have special barbecue recipes? Did we guess wrong? Is barbecuing not as popular as we thought it was? Maybe people who barbecue don't read Jerome's column.

Or, maybe — just maybe — people who have special barbecue sauce recipes don't like to share them. Just maybe outstanding recipes for barbecue sauce are well-guarded secrets ... like family heirlooms or priceless jewelry that are removed from their hiding places only for special occasions.

At any rate, we didn't get the big response we had hoped for, but the recipes we did get are bonafide winners. Tried and true. Guaranteed to spice up any backyard barbecue.

For starters, you might want to try Jim Riley's recipes for Texas brisket and barbecue sauce. Although Riley guarantees that you're life will be changed after trying his sauce, Barb Widrig and Andy Byerly have their own barbecue sauce recipes which they maintain are outstanding. And, for good measure, Kathy Bendernagel offers a recipe for beef marinade which she says will highlight any backyard barbecue.

Your friends and neighbors have done their job. The rest is up to you. Enjoy!

Novi News/PHILIP JEROME Andy's barbecue sauce

Andy Byerly of Northville claims his recipe for barbecue sauce is the best around. Byerly developed his own special recipe when he was managing an International House of Pancakes. "We had ketchup and I added some Worcestershire sauce to make it better. It still lacked something, so I put in some brown sugar and that made it even better." 2 cups ketchup

1 cup brown sugar Enough Worcestershire sauce to grow hair on a bald Texan

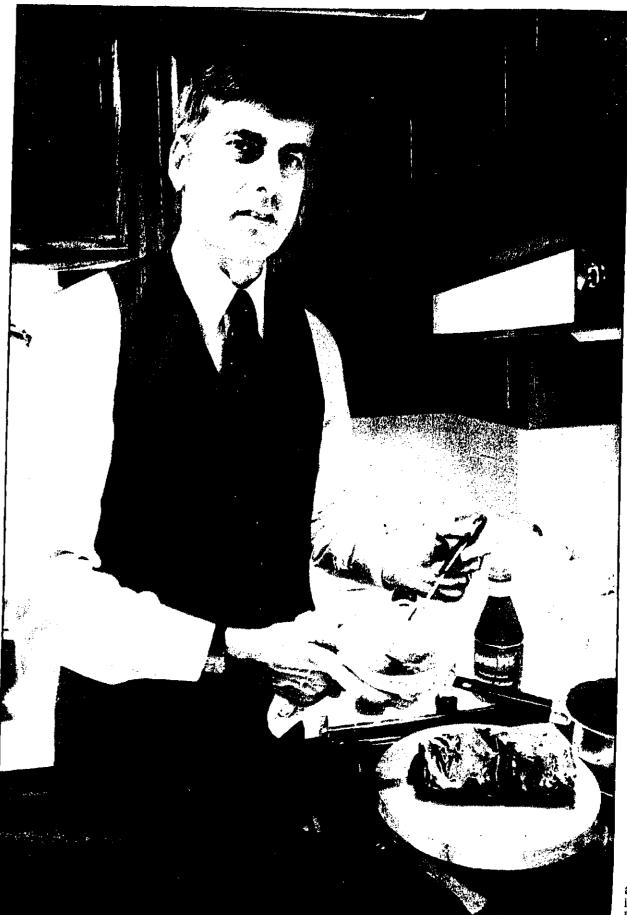

Put all the contents in a bowl and beat until the brown sugar has been totally blended in. When cooking chicken, add two tablespoons of reconstituted lemon juice.

Byerly says the whole process must be done "by taste." For bulk, he suggests, add spareribs. "Add good friends and the sauce becomes really special."

WEDNESDAY

July 16, 1986

"My barbecue sauce is fantastic, everyone who tries it just goes crazy!" said Jim Riley of Novi. Riley said this recipe for Texas brisket and barbecue sauce is perfect for large groups and parties.

- 1 large minced garlic clove 1 five lb. beef brisket
- 1 tbsp. chili powder
- l tsp. paprika 1 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. ground cumin
- 1/2 tsp. crumbled dry sage ½ tsp. sugar
- 1/2 tsp. ground oregano ¼ tsp. ground red pepper
- ¼ tsp. ground pepper

Preheat oven to 200. Combine ingredients and spread over both sides of brisket. Cook with thick side up, wrapped tightly in foil. Bake eight hours. After cooling, slice meat thinly (make sure meat is cooled). When ready to use, cover with sauce and heat (covered) for one to two hours.

- 4 stick butter medium chopped onion % cup water 1/2 cup chili sauce
- 1/2 cup catsup
- % cup vinegar 2tbsp. Worcestershire
- i tosp. molasses
- 2 tsp. salt 2 tsp. dry musturd
- 2 tbsp. brown sugar 12 Isp. fresh ground pepper ½ tsp. paprika –

Melt butter and cook onion first for about 10 minutes, then add remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Reduce heat and cook uncovered (simmer) for about 30 minutes.

"Everyone should try this recipe. The meat just melts in your mouth and the sauce is spicy sweet," Riley said. The sauce can be used on other

Johnson girls win reputation on the courts

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN

taff writer The daughters of Paul and Judy Johnson play tennis ... and they play it well.

Area net enthusiasts have found out quickly that it's hard to keep up with the Johnsons – at least on the ennis courts.

The Johnson's three daughters -Sarah, 19, Mya, 18, and Breita 16 --have been among the top-ranked tennis players in their respective age groups in southeast Michigan over the last several years. "We all play or did play in a lot of USTA (United States Tennis Association) sanctioned tournaments because that's where all the good players play tennis," Sarah explained. "We would always meet each other in tournaments, and a lot f times we'd have to play each other in the finals."

Ironically, the Johnson sisters aren't particularly well-known in heir own home town, despite the fact their abilities are very familiar o knowledgeable tennis fans hroughout the Midwest.

The reason for the local anonymiv — all three either attend or attended tiny Novi Chistian High School on Taft Road in Novi. The Class D school has no tennis program for either boys or girls, so the Johnson girls had to carve out their respective reputations by entering tournaments available to individuals. THE GULLENS ripped out the old porch and installed the existing front doorway, which harkens to the Greek Revival style. They sold to the Klepinger family, who finished the interior in the spirit of the original style but also to suit the needs of their family. That, according to the Gundlachs, included tearing down the walls that divided the front of the house into two rooms.

The Klepingers create one spacious living room with a fireplace. The Gundlachs themselves aren't strangers to the rigors of tearing down and ripping out. They bought their first house in Farmington because it fit their criteria — it was old and affordable. Within a week after moving in, the Gundlachs ripped out the kitchen cabinets. Before they sold the house, they had taken out the noisy radiators and had redone a bathroom.

But when it comes to really tough renovation projects, the Gundlachs talk about the house they bought in 1979 and had moved from its original location on Grand River near the Terrace Shop to Shiawassee, east of Farmington Road.

The house weighed 70 tons. Most of that weight was attributed by the mover to the 20-foot red oak plank at the base of the roof and the oak joists in the house.

IT TOOK the Gundlachs four years to renovate the house. "When we moved the house we had one child. When we finished. we had three children." Janie said.

While the exterior of the house is original, the interior was entirely redone. "It was a lot of work. We totally gutted it. We put in new plumbing and new heating. We saved just the shell and woodwork. Everything else was replaced," said Rick, who does most of the work himself.

Along the way they discovered the date the house was being built in November 1862 because that's the date cast into the hinges of the doors.

-Denise O'Malley

By the time they finished and sold that house, they weren't eager to start another long-term project.

But they were eager for the charm and quality they found in old houses.

'There's a lot you don't get when you get a new house," Denise said. "There was a lot of time taken with someone building their house 100 years ago that you don't get with 15 guys working on one house nowadays."

When they decided to bid on the house, the O'Malleys viewed it "like buying a brand new house with the charm of an old house

"I went to a tea-leaf reader before we knew if the offer was accepted or not. She said, 'You're moving into a big house. It's been empty for a long time. It's waiting for you.' The next day out offer was accepted.

People who once lived in the house are eager to share its history with her. "I met a man the second week we lived here and he was born in the room right over there." she said, pointing to her front parlor.

"He was 93-years-old when I met him. And I met a lady who was married in that room.

Making sure all the parade units show up in their proper spot on Grand River is a chore aided by the Farmington Amateur Radio Club. Club members set up a base station in the Farmington/Farmington Hills Chamber of Commerce and help organizers maintain contact with the different units.

Larger floats start out from parking lot of Digger's restaurant on Grand River. Most of the floats as well as the mounted units congregate across the street at the Bel-Aire Drive-In. The Shriners join in the parade from Mooney at Grand River.

OR A SPECIAL treat during this year's Farmington Founders Festival, you might consider a visit to the Farmington Historical Museum — a legacy to this community's pioneering spirit. The Civil War-era house is the residence of Farmington's first and only governor, Michigan's first three-term gover-

Popularly called the Gov. Warner Mansion, the two-story house, which has stood at 33805 Grand River since 1867, is the centerpiece of Farmington's historic dis-governor - Fred M. Warner - spent most of his life in Farmington. He served as president of the village from 1890-99 and was a state senator from 1895-98. After serving as Michigan Secretary of State from 1901-05, Warner was elected governor. He was re-elected in 1907 and again in 1909.

MORE THAN a politician, Warner was considered a man of property - a businessman with 13 cheese factories, a banker and mercantilist.

Set on one side of the mansion's grounds is the aimost year-old Victorian gazebo. The white, octagonal gazebo, with hanging fern planters, seems a natural addition to the mansion's gardens.

Today, his mansion stands as a symbol --- shortly after her death. cluding a kitchen, bathroom, porch and wood-lined summer kitchen - was added in the early 1900s when Warner served as governor

A walk through the mansion will give visitors a glimpse of elegant Victorian-age living. The rooms are furnished with period pieces - some belonging to Warner's family, others purchased by the museum committee and still others on loan from the Michigan State History Division and Detroit Historical Museum.

The color scheme of the living room is taken from a soft pink and green floral needlepoint by Warner's wife, Martha Davis, that hangs near the room's entrance. A Victorian arm chair, upholstered in damask, and marble-topped mahogany table, enhance the chandeliered room.

"The wallpaper and curtains are all authentic reproductions," said Nancy Leonard, museum committee member.

In the music room, across the front foyer from the living room, features a restored Knabe player-grand piano - considered the Cadillac of player pianos. "It vell, chairman of the Farmington Historivell said.
