City sued over handling of 'strip center' plan

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
 staff writer

The City of Novi is being sued for unspecified damages "in excess of $10,000" by Grand Meadowbrook, the development firm seeking to build a 22-acre shopping center/warehouse project on the northwest corner of Meadowbrook Road and Grand River Avenue.

Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Robert Templin last Friday refused a request by Grand Meadowbrook to prevent the city from applying a new ordinance restricting shopping centers to the Grand Meadowbrook project. Templin has agreed to conduct a trial on the lawsuit in December.

At issue in the lawsuit is an "emergency" ordinance amendment passed unanimously by Novi City Council Monday. Drafted to counteract what many view as a proliferation of "strip center" developments in certain areas of the city, the ordinance prohibits shopping centers in non-center commercial (NCC) zoning districts such as the one where Grand Meadowbrook was to build its shopping center.

Discussing the shopping center restriction before city council Monday, City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers stressed the NCC ban on shopping centers is needed to encourage their development in business-commercial zoning districts and to reduce traffic congestion in sectors of the city ill-equipped to manage the extra traffic.

Representatives of Grand Meadowbrook claim the city planning commission deliberately delayed approval of site plans for the project in order to implement the new ordinance text, citing letters from the city's planning and engineering consultants recommending approval.

"These are conceptual plans at the preliminary stage; the traffic engineering is typically reviewed at the time of final site plan approval," said Grand Meadowbrook attorney Barry Steinway.

City Attorney David Fried, however, pointed out that commissioners were within their rights to reject a preliminary site plan which fails to conform to the existing ordinance.

"It was tabled to give opportunity to bring their preliminary plans into conformity," Fried said yesterday.

"To this date, the commission has not approved the plans because of concerns about traffic problems generated by the project."

Fried told city council members Monday he feels "very comfortable" with the city's position in the lawsuit. He also suggested council investigate the possibility of taking legal action against Grand Meadowbrook for violating Novi's land clearance restrictions.

Schools open, new hours set

While the temperatures may indicate that summer is far from over, students in the Novi Community Schools have only a few days left to soak up the sun's rays.

Next Tuesday, students in grades 1-12 will head back to the classroom for the start of the 1986-87 school year. Kindergartners will start school Wednesday.

New teachers to the district will report tomorrow with all teachers in the district reporting for a work day Monday.

Changes of note for the new school year include the new school hours at the high school and Novi Middle School.

Due to the elementary redistricting, starting time at Novi High School has been changed to 7:25 a.m. Classes will be dismissed at 1:55 p.m. At Novi Middle School (formerly Middle School South), classes will begin at 7:55 a.m. with dismissal at 2:30 p.m.

Students at Novi Upper Elementary (formerly Middle School North) will begin at 9:10 a.m. with dismissal at 3:40 p.m. All elementary schools will begin at 8:40 a.m. Classes will be dismissed at 3:05 p.m.

Kindergarten sessions for a.m. students are 8:40-11:20 a.m. Afternoon kindergartners begin at 12:25 p.m. with dismissal at 3:05 p.m.

School Superintendent Robert Piwko noted that the district is anticipating approximately 100 new students for the start of the new school year.

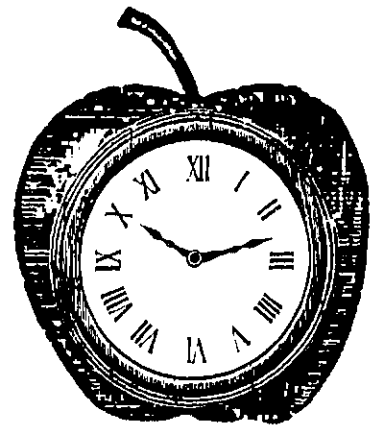

"We're looking at about 3,405 students which is about 100 more than last year," Piwko noted.

The administration initially anticipated a possible 4-5 percent increase in enrollment over last year's student count based on proposed home construction figures.

However, residential development has not been as fast and furious this summer as originally anticipated.

To kick-off the start of the new school year, the Novi Community Schools will be hosting Community Appreciation Day Friday, September 5, when Novi battles Walled Lake Western at the first home football game of the season.

Activities will include invitations to lunch in the schools, an All-You-Can-Eat Fish Fry sponsored by the Novi Community Schools Food Ser-

New School Hours

Due to elementary redistricting, hours for Novi High School and Novi Middle School South have changed. School hours for the 1986-87 school year are:

Middle School: 7:55 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.
Upper Elementary: 9:10 a.m. to 3:40 p.m.
Elementary Schools: 8:40 a.m. to 3:05 p.m.

vice Department and the free football game.

Lunch invitations will be sent home with students once school is in session.

Menu for the fish fry, scheduled from 5:30-7:30 p.m. in the Novi High School Commons (prior to the 7:30 p.m. football game), includes deep fried fish with tartar sauce, french fries, cole slaw, roll with butter, hot fudge sundae and coffee or milk.

Prices for the fish fry are $4.50 for adults, $4 for high school students grades 9-12, $3.50 for middle school students grades 7-8 and $3 for elementary students grades K-6. There is no dinner charge for preschoolers. However, cost for milk is 25 cents a carton.

Tickets for the fish fry will be sold in advance at each of the six school buildings and the Community Education office.

High civic center bids: 'Lousy'

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
 staff writer

The string of successes tied to Novi's planned civic center snapped last week when all eight bids for construction of the project came in well over the $7.8 million budget — $7 million of that figure is to come from a bond issue approved by voters last year.

The bids exceeded budget estimates by a low of $729,000 to a high of close to $1.5 million, but city taxpayers likely will not be stuck with a significantly higher price tag. Instead, project architects and city officials intend to prepare a list of cost-cutting options for city council's consideration, probably by early September.

"We're not playing games with the taxpayers," said Leslie Harding, chairperson of the civic center implementation committee. "You have to take the good and the bad, and this is lousy."

Warren Groth, project administrator for architects Harley Ellington Pierce Yee Associates Inc., presented council members with a list of some 20 areas where significant savings might be achieved by scaling back some of the project's details.

Groth's suggestions — none of which are final — ranged from purchasing less expensive carpeting to providing fewer room dividers, to eliminating automatic doors, eliminating a drive-through teller feature, to competitively bidding architectural details now included at unusually high prices in bidders' estimates.

Groth explained the cost-cutting options would be extensive enough to give city council the option of awarding the project to any one of several of the lowest bidders. He said his firm had been "possibly over-optimistic" about costs when it prepared the project specifications.

"There was nothing overly luxurious about the project," he said. "Unfortunately now and then a job comes through (over budget) and you've got to bring it back. We're sorry, but we think we have ways to bring it back into budget without greatly affecting the end product."

Harding agreed that while desired, the original specifications are not critical to the project's success.

The circus may be coming to town tomorrow, but Novi City Council is not pleased about how the Novi Jaycees have planned their fundraising event so far.

The Jaycees are hosting the Franzen Brothers Circus for two performances Thursday evening at Novi Lakeshore Park.

"I don't appreciate the way it was handled," Council Member Martha Hoyer stewed. "We should have been approached much sooner about this."

OU puts a Novi extension on college's 'back burner'

By MICHELE M. FECHT
 staff writer

Although discussions with Oakland University about possibly opening an off-campus center in Novi this fall have been squelched by an unexpected resurgence in the university's on-campus enrollment, the school district and the Rochester-based institution have not ruled out a future arrangement.

Superintendent Robert Piwko told the Novi Board of Education at its last meeting that plans to offer college credit classes in Novi have been nixed — at least for the fall.

However, the superintendent was quick to point out that the proposal "is worthy of future exploration."

Piwko told the board that "a dramatic increase in enrollment has forced the university to put its off-campus programs on hold."

Noting that Oakland University officials were afraid they could not adequately staff the off-campus center in light of the increased on-campus enrollment, the superintendent said the proposed plan will remain on the back burner.

Gerald Pine, Dean of the School of Education and Human Services at Oakland University, reiterated Piwko's remarks noting the university has had to "defer initiation of an off-campus program because we've been inundated with students on campus."

Pine, who has been with Oakland

University for six years, said the school's on-campus enrollment has been growing steadily for the past four to five years with the largest increase recorded last year.

"This past year we had 11,800 on-campus students," Pine stated. "Enrollment will be up again next year."

The greatest increase has been in the education field where Pine noted the university has experienced a "185 percent increase in the number of people coming back to school with an interest in education."

"We've been scrambling to get resources to meet the needs of our growing student population," he ex-

Family rec facility a unique concept

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
Staff writer

Ever since Joseph Gerak and Gloria Gelstein first announced their proposed Westbrooke Place project would include a "family recreation facility," there's been considerable head-scratching as to exactly what that term meant.

While the partners haven't pinned down the facility's exact makeup, they are taking as inspiration similar successful developments in Salt Lake City and Texas — and they believe Michigan just might be a better location than either.

"Michigan's a very sports-oriented state, and that's what our emphasis is going to be," Gelstein said last week. "We feel Michigan would be the best possible location for one of these."

What, exactly, is "one of these?" Gelstein said preliminary feasibility studies suggest a 150,000 to 200,000 square-foot facility which from the outside somewhat resembles an enclosed shopping mall.

Inside, the facility would offer a wide number of sports and leisure activity areas, such as a mall offers shops. While Gerak and Gelstein at the moment are unable to specify what activities the regional market will support, they said that activities they are considering include bowling, computerized active golf, miniature golf, roller skating, an ice rink composed of a material resembling ice in texture, sports-related shops (active-view, sporting goods, for example), restaurants, miniature-indoor skiing, a batting cage and more.

"We want to avoid things that are fads in favor of something of a more permanent nature," explained

Gerak. "Other similar facilities have had more of an entertainment direction, with games, movies and so forth."

Gelstein said she could envision a family-oriented complex which could be expanded to include live theatre, movies and similar uses, but stressed the main attraction will be sports-related.

The profitability of similar ventures, Gerak says, suggests that the country may be seeing such recreation facilities in increasing numbers. "This is so unique I expect it will draw people from a wide region at first," he said. "But I also expect within two years after it opens, there will be another one in the Detroit area."

According to Gerak, the facility would provide its own security force, rendering it a practical place for parents to drop off children for a day of healthy activity. Admission to the facility itself would be free, similar to a shopping mall.

The Westbrooke Place site — northwest of Grand River Avenue and Beck Road (presently Bob-O-Link Golf Course) — is an ideal location, both partners feel, because of easy access to the I-96 freeway.

Discussions between state highway officials and the developers regarding improvements to the I-96/Beck Road interchange have gone on throughout much of the year. A joint-financing agreement is close to reality, Gerak believes.

He likely will need those interchange agreements to proceed. In addition to the recreation facility, office, retail facilities and a hotel are planned for the Westbrooke site.

More details about plans for the facility will be available in about 30 days, Gerak said.

Cable channel 10 to air school news

Beginning Monday, August 25, the Novi Community School District will begin cablecasting district messages and announcements on educational access Channel 10.

Channel 10 airtime is shared between the Novi and Farmington school districts. Residents will be able to tune-in to Channel 10 on specific days to read district messages from the superintendent.

The schedule for local school district messages is as follows:

- Monday-Tuesday, noon to noon;
- Wednesday-Thursday, noon to noon;
- Friday-Saturday, noon to noon;
- Sunday, noon to midnight.

On Mondays through Fridays between 3:5 p.m., videos made by Novi and Farmington high school students will override the district messages. The videos will offer residents an opportunity to see student-produced programs.

Franzen Circus coming to Novi

Ladies, gentlemen and children of all ages will have a chance to "run away to the circus" when the Novi Jaycees bring the Franzen Brothers Circus to town for two performances on Thursday, Aug. 21.

The tent will be set up at Lakeshore Park, and performances are scheduled at 6:30 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. The circus will be in town for just one day.

The Aug. 21 performance under the big top will mark the third time the Jaycees have brought the circus to town.

The Franzen Brothers Circus features more than 50 wild and domestic animals, as well as acrobats, jugglers, magicians and, of course, the clowns.

For those wishing to sneak a look at the circus before the evening shows, tickets for two adults and four children can be purchased in advance at $4 for adults and $3 for children. In addition, family tickets for two adults and four children can be purchased in advance for $15.

Advance tickets can be ordered from the Novi Jaycees at 348-NOVI.

Civic center: Are there problems?

By BRUCE J. MARTIN
Staff writer

Simple answers to recently-raised questions about the City of Novi's new civic center's building construction specifications may have been what city council members hoped for Monday. But that's not what they got.

Warren Groh of Harley Ellington Pierce Yee and Associates, designers of the proposed civic center, provided a detailed report of the proposed wall construction standards, summarizing that the building would be "very durable" and that 20-year-old buildings with less stringent construction standards were holding up extremely well.

But Mike Navetta, a Novi resident and spokesperson for the Masonry Institute of Michigan, repeated concerns he has expressed in the past that he would "hate to see what would happen to the wall" should moisture penetration and wind pressures cause structural deterioration.

Other individuals speaking on the issue couldn't break the tie. Planning Commissioner Joseph Toth told council members the very fact that the architects are revising some of their construction plans suggests there may be significant problems in the building's design, possibly beyond the exterior concerns raised by Navetta.

"This may only be the tip of the iceberg," Toth maintained. "The time to look at it is now, because once the building goes up, you're stuck with it."

But Doug Neechi of JCK and Associates, the city's consulting engineers, said he agreed completely with the structural analysis provided by Groh. "There's certainly no reason to call this a defective system."

Navetta said the city should require guarantees of the architectural firm as to the structure's performance. But Groh, project manager for the civic center, said the quality of masonry and steelwork actually performed by the civic center's builders are important factors as well.

"I'm not sure who should warranty a brick wall," said Groh. "The masons? The steelworkers? It's not practical to have a long-term guarantee."

He added, "Usually the building industry's guarantees are held to a year limit. If there are problems, they're likely to show up within that period of time."

Assistant City Manager Craig Klavert said the city's building department will carefully monitor construction of the facility with an eye to the potential problem areas outlined by Navetta. According to Klavert, the construction schedule points to completion of the facility in fall, 1987.

Various opinions arose as to where the cul-de-sac and access road would best be located.

Commissioner Joseph Toth, for example, suggested access to and from East Lake Drive beyond the preliminary plan should be considered. East Lake Drive resident Larry Kerns suggested East Lake Drive should be closed closer to Thirteen Mile.

Other residents who spoke pleaded for urgent action, claiming speed limits are frequently violated and that police rarely patrol the road.

Novi Police Chief Lee Beddle also backed closure of the road "in the interest of public safety, as the Decker Road improvements recommended by the study compensate traffic volume-wise to the proposed closing."

For injuries which are job-related, Worker's Compensation will compensate the patient. This applies to chiropractic treatment as well as other types of health care. In fact, because of the savings in both time lost and costs, insurance companies are very favorably disposed to chiropractic treatment of injuries.

What kind of savings? Well, for every day a worker is off the job because of a job-related injury, it costs Worker's Comp, the company, and the individual money. Anything which can reduce the amount of time lost is a money-saver.

Historic building may move

The yellow Century 21 building at 43160 Grand River Avenue will be on its way to Novi Road south of Ten Mile under a plan city planners will review tonight.

According to one backer of the project, Robert Melvin, the rumored participation of Trammell Crow in helping fund the historic building's relocation will not transpire. It appears the Chamber of Commerce has no plans to occupy space in the relocated building, although developer earlier said he had anticipated the Chamber's participation.

Melvin said the relocation of the two-story building to its one-acre site would provide an effective transition between his new office project on Novi Road south of Grand River and residential housing to the south. Commissioners also are scheduled tonight to review Melvin's plans for the adjacent office development.

City planning consultant Brandon Rogers is recommending the move. In a memo to city planning commissioner, Rogers explained the building's relocation from the Town Center District would preserve a "well maintained Victorian structure." At the same time, the move would free up land in the Town Center for redevelopment.

Water and sewer service to both Melvin's sites will be provided by a special assessment district approved by council Monday night.

In works: 6-story

Novi's eastern skyline will be redefined by a 257,000 square foot office building, plans for which are being reviewed by the city planning commission tonight, is eventually built.

Termed the "250 Building" by developer The Samelson Group, the multi-tenant building would be located immediately west of the Novi Hilton at Eight Mile and Haggerty Road. Since preliminary plans call for a staggered five story and six-story office-atrium structure, and since the building would be situated on a higher elevation parcel than the Hilton, it will appear taller when viewed from the east.

Plans submitted by architect Louis DeFussiers show a 65-foot building in two sections joined by an atrium. A covered walkway would connect the building with the proposed expansion of the Novi Hilton.

Novi teacher part of select group at NASA workshop

By KATHLEEN MUTCH
special writer

For two weeks in July, Eric Center was among the NASA elite. Center, a teacher at Novi Middle School South, Center, 34, was one of two Michigan teachers selected for the NEMAST Workshops, a program designed to recognize excellent math and science teachers in grades seven to twelve.

Center spent two weeks at NASA's Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, Ohio, attending lectures, touring laboratory and testing facilities, observing experiments and meeting with scientists, research specialists and other educators.

NEMAST (NASA Education Math and Science Teachers) offers teachers an opportunity to learn the latest discoveries in aeronautics, astronomy and space sciences from research scientists working on NASA projects.

"It was a phenomenal opportunity for me," Center said, adding that he was grateful Charles Nanas (Novi Middle School South Principal) and Timothy Falls (assistant principal) had recommended him for the program.

"What amazed me the most about NASA," said Center, "were the people. NASA attracts the cream of the crop, and we were able to meet and talk with many of them."

"At Lewis there were people with Ph.D.s in fields we didn't even know existed," Center continued. "They were very willing to share ideas and explain the details of projects they were working on. They even gave us phone numbers where we could reach them if we had more questions."

More than one myth about NASA was dispelled for participants. "There is more to NASA than just the astronaut program," Center stated. "There is now a shifting emphasis from the shuttle program to the space station program. We are 10 years behind the Soviets because we haven't studied the effects of space on humans as much as they have."

"The zero-gravity of space stations will provide stable atmospheric conditions especially important in the manufacture of pharmaceuticals and the high-stress tolerant materials

Center: 'What amazed me the most about NASA were the people. NASA attracts the cream of the crop, and we were able to meet and talk with many of them.'

(They didn't anticipate any dramatic changes.) Each teacher also had to write a paper telling how he would use what he had learned during the workshops.

"There were many new ideas that can be used immediately in the classroom," Center said. In addition, Center came back with lots of material from the Teacher's Resource Room at Lewis. He plans to share the ideas and materials with other teachers as well as with his students.

The Resource Room is available to any teacher, not only math and science teachers. "There are films, books, papers, videos, maps, slides and the people of NASA, too," Center said, "available to classroom teachers. NASA will send out a speaker for only the cost of his travel expenses." Center is already working on having a NASA speaker at Middle School South this school year.

"I would encourage any teacher to apply for these workshops," he emphasized. "I can't begin to describe all the things I learned there."

Center, joined by his wife, Cindy, would like to go next to the U.S. Space Camp in Huntsville, Alabama. The camp offers adults and children the opportunity to experience the rigors of astronaut training and the zero-gravity of simulated space travel.

Eric and Cindy Center live in Novi with their two sons, Brian, a student at Central Michigan University, and Kevin, a sophomore at Novi High School.

Young's carvings displayed at show

The wooden dolls and turned chess figures that Wilma and Donald Young of Novi will be displaying and selling at the Northville Arts and Crafts Show this Friday and Saturday are completely "home grown."

When she begins to carve one of her acclaimed dolls, Wilma Young usually starts with a piece of wood cut from a tree on the couple's property on Nine Mile. Often it is a limb from a white ash tree that becomes a slim, graceful doll.

Using woodworking machines and working at a well-equipped bench in her garage workroom, she turns the block of wood into an old-fashioned doll which she carefully paints and dresses.

Her husband does larger items, she said. The Youngs have been creating in wood for six years. While they try to limit the number of shows in which they exhibit, they will be doing nine of them this year.

"Their work is extremely popular and an addition to the show," noted Pat Black, who is serving as chairman for the show for the Northville Merchants' Association. He added that the association persuaded the Youngs to do the Northville show.

The sidewalk craft show on Main and Center streets in downtown Northville will be held from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday. The streets will not be blocked off for this event, Black reported, noting that only the sidewalks will be used for the exhibits of 30 to 40 craftspeople.

Black: 'Their work is extremely popular and an addition to the show.'

"It will be a nice show," Black said. "This year's is as big as last year's, but it is a more balanced exhibit of crafts."

Students in Eric Center's classes at Novi Middle School ought to learn a lot about space exploration this year. Center was one of two Michigan teachers selected to participate in a summer seminar sponsored by NASA at the Lewis Research Center in Cleveland, Ohio.

Superintendent Piwko discusses school goals

ple of that is Instructional Based Management, where staff members in each building work as planning teams in an attempt to address where the district might be headed a year or two years from now.

"We try to recognize that our professional staff has creative ideas and talents and utilize them as best we can."

In 1983, the National Commission on Excellence in Education disclosed its report, "A Nation at Risk." In 1984, the Novi Task Force on Excellence in Education released its findings and recommendations.

What did the school district learn from these two documents and how many of the task force recommendations have been implemented?

PIWKO: "The National Commission on Excellence in Education released its report after we convened our task force, so we knew we were on the right track."

"What we looked at was what we need to do for the year 2000. We not only looked at the student who would be starting school in the year 2000, but the 1985 graduate who would be 33 by that time. We examined the skills that would be necessary for that student to achieve. It was really a two-pronged approach. We asked ourselves, 'What is our mission, what is our purpose?'

"I'd say we've implemented about 90 percent of the task force recommendations. We had been talking about many of them over a period of time."

"I think the report also pointed out to the entire staff that we were on the right track and needed to continue our efforts. It really was like a shot in the arm."

Next year's kindergartners will graduate in the year 2000. What is the district doing to prepare students for the next century?

PIWKO: "There's no doubt in my mind that one of the things we'll be looking at is the ability to adapt to change. We'll also be taking a look at the processing of information, higher level thinking skills and problem-solving strategies."

"Communication skills will be more important because of all the information we'll have at our fingertips."

"Yes, I see us perhaps not taking over the process of parenting, but helping bring that information to the community — if we truly believe education is a lifelong process. I believe schools can serve as a conduit — we can do more than provide just K-12."

What are your personal goals for the district?

PIWKO: "My goal has always been that students leave Novi having received the finest education possible offered. We'd like to see students leave here knowing they have dignity and worth, that they can be competitive and that they have the knowledge and ability to be productive."

"My goal is to assure that every student in Novi will have that background."

Marge Mitchell, R.N., checks Michael Showerman's pulse as Volunteer Chairman Emily Klebba looks on.

South Lyon store gives blood drive a shot in the arm

By KATHY PETERSEN

The American Red Cross is getting a helping hand from Showerman's IGA in South Lyon.

Showerman Manager Dennis Swaney said the store offered a $100 shopping spree to the winner of a drawing. The names of donors from the last South Lyon blood drive, July 18, were put into a bowl and a winner's name was drawn after the drive ended. This is the second time Showerman's has sponsored the promotion.

Swaney said the project was designed both to promote the store and to generate more interest in blood donations.

He said the drawing does seem to increase interest in the blood drive and that Showerman's will continue sponsoring it "as long as we continue to see good results."

Showerman's also sponsored a separate contest among their employees which increased their interest in donating blood.

At the next blood drive Swaney hopes to challenge other businesses in the area to a contest. Whichever business has the highest percentage of employees donate blood will win. Details have not been decided on yet.

"We kind of kicked that idea around last time, but there wasn't enough time to plan it," he said.

Lynn Lecours, Red Cross spokesperson, said while such promotions are not common they are not unheard of. She said they are not practiced by the Red Cross themselves since it is a completely volunteer donation effort.

"They are not encouraged by us or suggested by us," Lecours said. "We're thrilled when people do this."

Emily Klebba, local chairperson of Red Cross volunteers, said promotions do increase the number of volunteers but also stressed that the Red Cross does not buy blood.

She said other common promotions are for employees. Factories often give vouchers for a free meal in the company cafeteria to employees who donate blood.

She supported Showerman's effort but said it should not be necessary. "Everybody seemed to think it was very nice," she said of the promotion. "It really shouldn't be necessary in order for them to be aware of the need for blood."

Lecours said if other businesses are interested in sponsoring similar promotions the Red Cross will provide them with material promoting the blood drive itself. The Red Cross is cautious about becoming associated with the giveaways, however.

Cat People
 John McEnroe's wrong when he says the world can be divided into two kinds of people — people who love cats and people who hate cats. The truth of the matter is that the world is divided into two kinds of people: people who love cats and people who do not hold positions of negative reputations. The Michigan Humane Society reports in its July/August 1986 edition that cats now outnumber dogs 50 million to 49 million.
 "And," according to the Humane Society, "this trend is accelerating as U.S. lifestyles continue to change — more urban dwellers who reside in apartments, more households where both spouses work, etc."
 In light of the growing popularity of cats as pets, it may be important to designate a third classification of people — people who love cats, people who hate cats, and people who think cats are perhaps the most wonderful of all God's creatures.
 In short, "Cat People."
 There was a time when being a Cat Person was something you didn't admit. True Cat People were something like the adults on the television commercial who are embarrassed to admit they still eat Kellogg's Sugar Frosted Flakes.
 There was a stigma attached to being overly fond of felines.
 But that stigma is changing along with the increased popularity of cats as pets. It's possible to admit that

Joyce Stowell loves all animals but has a special fondness for cats — and kittens and neighborhood tough guy. The one-half cat is Bob, and Joyce Stowell, another Northville resident, is the unofficial leader of a whole neighborhood of Cat People.

 Actually, Stowell could also be described as an "Animal Person." Officially, she has two horses, two dogs and 3 1/2 cats on her small rural farm, and she also takes care of what seems like an endless supply of kittens which are born in her barn.
 But she has a special fondness for her three cats — Bobo, who lives in the barn, B.C. (Barn Cat), who lives in the house, and Elmer, the house cat.
 "It doesn't take long to figure out that the Novis Clara Porter is a 'cat person'."
 Walk into her Village Oaks home and you see them everywhere. All five of them. Addis Ababa and Kebra Nagast, the Abyssinians, are lying together on the kitchen table. Habish Rama, an Ocicat, is having a bit of a tantrum, standing by the back door, waiting to be let out. And Buddy is off by himself, lying on the kitchen counter.
 The real live cats are only part of the kitty decor in the Porter residence, as any true "cat person" knows. Seven glass and ceramic cats plus one wooden cat sit on an end table in the living room. There's a painting of a cat on the wall in the den. And there's an assortment of kitty toys — catnip mice, etc. — batted around the television set in the den.
 Plus the entire house has been cat-proofed. "I prefer leather furniture because it doesn't pick up the fur," says Porter, who is director of community education for the Novi

Mary Ellen Scherkenbach's cats play the piano

Clara Porter provides a home for five cats

Brenda Burrell's are definitely not aloof

Cats seem an unlikely choice for a child as a pet. With four boys ranging in age from five to 13 years, one would expect to find a shaggy sheepdog named Rover or a spaniel called Spot.
 Yet, the Scherkenbach boys — Matthew, Stefan, John and James — find the family felines — Spunky, Sylvester and Miss Kitty — terrific pets as well as playmates.
 "Each son had a cat," explains Mary Ellen Scherkenbach. "However, we lost one a few months ago. She swallowed some string."
 Sylvester is the only one who stays out at night. "A five-year-old mixed breed, Sylvester flew with the family from Maryland when they moved to Northville five years ago. The other two — Spunky and Miss Kitty — are more recent additions. Miss Kitty, like her Guinness namesake, is "very reserved and elegant." Scherkenbach notes. "My husband never has a cat as a child and fell in love with my parents' cat when we were courtship."
 "Miss Kitty is really his kitty," she says of the soft brown Siamese.
 "Can be a real pain. She is very temperamental," says the mother of four boys, three cats and a few goldfish.
 The other two cats, Spunky (her eight-year-old son named the black-and-white mixed breed after television's Spunky Brewster) and Sylvester (named after the infamous Sylvester of Sylvester and Tweety fame) are just "nice, ordinary cats," she says.
 Cat privileges extend to running up and down the stairs and sleeping with the boys — as long as they don't curl up on the pillow.
 However, their favorite activity is playing the piano. "Sometimes at night, if the piano is left open, we'll hear them panning across the keyboard," she notes. "However, they'll never be performing kitties," she adds. school district. "And we're in the process of replacing the carpeting with wood floors. It's easier to clean fur off wood floors than it is carpeting."
 There's a kitty-sized hole in the bottom of the door leading to the basement. "That's so they can use the litter box downstairs without us having to get up," explains Porter.
 Yes, the cats are allowed on the table. Except when company's present, of course.
 And, yes, the cats sleep in bed with the Porters at night. "It's not unusual to have three or four of them in bed with us the whole night, particularly in the winter when we have the electric blanket on," says Porter.
 She even heats up the cat food in the microwave before putting it out to eat. "It's cold when it comes right out of the refrigerator," she explains.
 "Yes, I'm definitely a 'cat person.' They're pretty to look at. You hold them and they purr. Cats are very affectionate animals."
 Maybe they should call them the Purr-ells.
 After years of indifference to the feline species, Brenda and Graham Burrell found themselves adoptive caregivers in quick succession of one, then two, then three strays. "Three is nice, but more would be too much work," says Brenda.
 Treemonisha, named for the Scott Joplin opera, entered first. "We found him crying and crying in a wood floor. We thought, 'We thought he was lost, so we tried for two weeks to find him. First we ran lost-and-found ads and then "absolutely free" ads to give him away. We didn't want to be cat owners."
 Treemonisha soon became such a welcome addition to the Burrell home that the idea of adding a second feline didn't sound so bad. "A couple of months later, one of our neighbor kids brought Chip by, thinking he might be one of ours," says Brenda. Apparently Chip thought he was, too. He began perching on the window ledge about whatever room the Burrells could be found. A regular peeping Tom.
 "We called him Chip because he likes crunchy things," says Brenda. Indeed, Chip's food preferences run to potato chips and his taste in toys runs to the plastic caps of milk cartons.
 Elspeth, named for a character in the PBS series The Flame Trees of Thika, melted Brenda's heart a cold winter two years later. "Elspeth's more like a dog than a cat," she says. "He's very needy. He likes to follow you around and run around a lot. He's very playful."
 "You hear all these things about how cats are aloof and can't be trained, but I'm not sure that's true."
 Come on, you've trained a cat? "Well, not really," Brenda laughs. "They train us. But they know when we're angry at them. If they're doing something that's not really intelligent, like chewing on an electrical cord, I — oh, boy, am I going to hear it about this — I squirt 'em with my plant mister." "She's an excellent mouser." Bob's not much help in the barn. He thinks mice are part of the family and won't catch them.
 Stowell — like Porter, Burrell, Scherkenbach and many others — wears the title of "Cat Person" proudly.
 "There's just something nice about cats," she says. "They all have their own personalities. They're so independent. Dogs are there all the time, but cats... cats have independent streaks."
 "You've got to know how to catch their moods."

Advisory council looking for senior

If you're a senior citizen interested in community service, there may be a place for you on the Novi Community Education Advisory Council.

Clara Porter, Community Education Director for the Novi school district, is accepting applications from seniors interested in serving on the panel.

Our current senior citizen reputation has indicated he does not wish to continue to serve and we're looking for a replacement," reported Porter.

The Community Education Advisory Council is composed of 10 members, one of whom must be a senior citizen. A senior citizen is defined in the organization's by-laws as an individual 60 years of age or over.

Members of the panel are appointed by the Novi Board of Education and must either live or work in the Novi school district. Anyone interested in being appointed to the council may call Porter at 348-1200 for more information.

The purpose of the council, as stated by the by-laws, is:

- To assess and identify needs, interests, resources and problems within the community.
- To set objectives, priorities and establish programs to meet those needs and desires that have been identified.
- To provide coordinated planning and action, avoiding needless duplication of programs and services and full communication with community agencies, groups and community members.
- To utilize facilities and equipment that can be shared and to help in discovering funds that are available from numerous sources that can be utilized to expand or offer new services; and
- To conduct continuous evaluation of established objectives, priorities and programs.

Whitehall seeks volunteer helpers

Whitehall Convalescent Home on Ten Mile is seeking individuals who wish to serve as volunteers.

Activity Director Sue Hoetger noted that the role of the nursing home has changed dramatically in the past few years. "As a result of both study and practical experience, we have found that a continuous exchange between health care facilities and the community is very important to the total health and well-being of nursing home residents," she said.

"Only through volunteers can we offer a true home situation."

Hoetger noted that many nursing home residents have outlived their families and friends, or are separated from families and friends by hundreds, sometimes thousands, of miles.

Anyone who has a few hours each day, week or month and is interested in people is eligible to be a volunteer. "Most residents enjoy visitors who like to chat, play a friendly game of cards or watch television," said Hoetger. "Volunteers with special hobbies or skills in gardening, crafts, woodworking music or sewing can share their experiences and talents with nursing home residents."

Anyone interested in more information about volunteer work at the Whitehall Convalescent Home on Ten Mile is asked to call Hoetger at 349-2200 Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Historic tours set

WIXOM - Free tours of the historic Wixom-Wire House will be offered every Sunday from 1-4 p.m. until September by the Wixom Historical Society.

The state registered landmark is located at the corner of Wixom and Maple roads in Wixom. Special features at the house are photographs and memorabilia from the old Wixom School and "tea for two," a display of old tea and coffee sets.

The Wixom Historical Society's gift shop has been restocked and will offer a new specialty book entitled "What's Cookin' in Wixom" and the latest addition to the ceramic plaque series.

Tours of the museum are free of charge. Arrangements for group and special tours can be made by calling 624-4557.

Barbara Williamson of Novi, Mary Jane Watkins, Claire Glynne and Joan Flora of Novi are served tea by Mrs. Malcolm Dennis of Grosse Pointe at the Junior Goodwill membership tea.

Area women helping Goodwill

Currently the Junior Group actively is working toward the 39th annual Goodwill Antique Show to be held Nov. 7-9 at the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

The number of area residents who are assisting with projects to aid Goodwill Industries is growing.

Barbara Williamson, a resident of Nine Mile and active member of the community, long has been involved in the Junior Group of Goodwill Industries.

She has been joined in the junior group by Joan Flora of Novi, who was among 16 new members welcomed recently at a tea at the home of Mrs. Malcolm Dennis in Grosse Pointe.

Currently the Junior Group actively is working toward the 39th annual Goodwill Antique Show to be held Nov. 7-9 at the Michigan State Fairgrounds.

This year, planners of the prestige show and sale are instituting a new feature in the program directory: different communities in which members have a high interest in antiques and are supporters of the show will be featured. The community of Northville has been chosen to lead off the project.

Junior Goodwill President Mary Jane Watkins recently visited Northville with members of the show committee, including Williamson. All were enthusiastic about the look of Northville's Main Street with its turn-of-the-century storefronts and bright plantings.

The story of the Mainstreet '78 renovation will be told in the Goodwill book.

The committee also explained that the show is being held for the second year at the fairgrounds. Previously, it had been housed for many years at Fairlane in Dearborn.

President Watkins related that the move last year to the fairgrounds was done with some trepidation. She said the committee had gone to inspect the building shortly after the Michigan State Fair and found it filled with files.

However, they had disappeared by the time the volunteers began to transform the building with hundreds of yards of carpeting and elaborate scenery.

Jerry Wendt, show publicity chairperson, recalled that the response of both dealers and visitors to the show was "tremendously positive."

Publicity chair Wendt said that those who attend the show often wonder who benefits from the show and noted that proceeds of the 1985 show provided a bus for the handicapped to be taken to the Suburban Oakland Life Enrichment Center. Because there is no central bus system in the country, she pointed out, it would otherwise have been impossible for the handicapped to benefit from the center's day program for emotionally disturbed individuals. The center, she added, serves more than 100 people.

At the center, participants refinish antiques, create stained glass pieces on commission from the public and work on contracts, allowing them to earn a paycheck.

Returning veterans boost Wildcat golfers

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

The new varsity golf coach at Novi High School is new to neither the game nor coaching.

John Peace, who is taking over the reins of the Wildcat golf squad from Bob Wolf, played competitively in high school, college and the Army. Later he built a golf program at Oak Park High School, where he coached for 18 years.

"When the job of coaching the varsity golf team opened up this fall, Novi Athletic Director John Osborne looked up his old college buddy and asked if he wanted the job."

"(Osborne) said, 'well, I can't give you a job unless we have an opening as golf coach. If you'd like it, it's yours,'" Peace explained.

The former All-MIAA performer at Alma had left teaching and coaching several years ago to pursue a career in the construction business, but his love of golf drew him back.

"I have a pretty good background and I know I can help here," Peace said. "Chipping and putting — the close game is where you can really cut down the scores."

Another factor is how you think the game, in terms of trying to get nothing less than a bogey.

"Golf is a game of mistakes — the idea is to recover from the mistake with as little damage as possible."

While at Oak Park, Peace built the program from the ground up and his teams grabbed two league championships in the tough Northwest Suburban League. He now inherits a Wildcat squad that placed sixth out of seven teams in the Kensington Valley Conference meet last season, but has the bulk of the team's top golfers coming back.

"They didn't have a good winning record last year, but I know they had a lot of close matches and were fairly young," Peace said. "The better golfers are back, so this is a fairly veteran team."

So far, 27 players have come out for the team, including a record 16 freshmen. The turnout pleased Peace, but he is still looking forward to even more tryouts.

"I'm very happy with the turnout, but I'm still getting calls from others who want to come out but have been on vacation and such," he said. "The more players the better the competition."

Perhaps the top returnee is senior Gary Piotrowicz, who led the team with a 43-stroke average per nine holes last year. In practice Piotrowicz has scored lower than 40 only once, but it appears he's a slow starter.

Over the last quarter of the 1985 season, Piotrowicz was consistently scoring below 40.

Matt Chirgwin and Jeff Megesi are a pair of juniors who have each broken 80 on several occasions already and have been very impressive in the early practice rounds. Senior Eric Polinsky and junior Steve Warthman wrap up the top five golfers at this time.

"Those five are looking pretty good so far," Peace said. "The thing that impresses me about them is they are willing to take advice and go out and practice it. I'm hoping these five can average about 42 at the start of the season, and then get down to 40 as the season progresses."

Novi will open the season at the Farmington Invitational this Friday (Aug. 22). Peace plans to take six golfers with the top five scores counting. The 18-hole event will be held at Godwin Glen Country Club, Novi's home course.

The final spot on the invitational roster will be decided in a playoff today (Aug. 20) and four golfers have the inside chance including senior Bruce Vallimont, and juniors Jim Young, Jason Glaesman and Rob Vidro.

"We are expecting a lot from the upperclassmen the juniors and seniors," Peace said. "The potential is there, but whether or not we can get all the guys together and perform well on the same day is going to be the big question mark."

Three freshman players — Chuck Marshall, John Moch and Mike Molloy — are already breaking 80, and Peace sees loads of future potential.

"It looks like they will be playing J.V. this season and providing depth, but they are the players of the future for us," he explained. "We will give the freshman a lot of attention because even though they may not be able to help us now, they certainly will when they are juniors and seniors."

With just one senior in the starting rotation a year ago, the Wildcats managed just one dual meet victory. But with all the returning talent, Peace is definitely looking forward to improving that record in '86.

"Looking at it, I think we have a good chance to move up — but how much I just don't know," he admitted. "Depth is going to be a key — whether we can have five guys consistently near 40 will have a big bearing on the whole season."

Use of smaller basketball cheered by local coaches

QUICK QUIZ: What's bigger than a volleyball and smaller than a basketball?
ANSWER: An official women's basketball.

That's right. Women are getting a break these days because of their smaller hands. Actually, they've been getting a break for two years in the college ranks, but it's just now affecting the Michigan prep scene.

Beginning this season, all high school games in Michigan will be played with a smaller-size ball. The rule was adopted during the summer of 1985, but due to various problems its official starting date was delayed until the 1986 season.

The new ball has a circumference of 28 1/2", compared to the men's ball which is 29 1/2". The diameter of the rim is 18".

Area coaches are accepting the change with open arms. They've seen the improvement in the college game and can't wait to see the same type of development at the high school level.

"I think it's good," Novi Coach Bill Ayotte said. "Since they've had it in college for several years now, it only makes sense to be consistent. I've thought for years we should go to it and, now that we have, I think it's a positive thing."

"I'm extremely pleased with it," Northville Coach Ed Kritch added. "The girls' hands are not as big or as strong as the boys. I see it enhancing the girls' game — it won't detract from their play at all."

Several phases of the game — dribbling, rebounding, passing, receiving and shooting — all should improve as a result of the new ball. Coaches say the improvements will come immediately, too, and that the adjustment period will be very short. The pace of women's basketball on the collegiate level has picked up dramatically during the past two seasons. The dribbling is much sharper, passes are more crisp and perimeter shooting has improved.

"I know the college game has improved," Kritch said. "They can pass more accurately, they handle the ball better and their shooting range improved about three feet."

"All facets of the game will get better," Ayotte predicted. "Passing will be better and that leads to a better offense."

Area coaches differ on whether or not to expect a drastic increase in scoring this fall. Ayotte feels it may take a while before high school girls take advantage of the smaller-ball, same-size-rim situation. But Kritch believes the change will be immediate.

"I believe we will see an immediate scoring surge," Kritch said. "It will probably be an average of five to 10 more points a game per team. Everything will be affected, including free throw percentage."

"I think it will help the smaller players first, and it will definitely help an up-tempo game," Ayotte said. "Longer passes and less turnovers will mean more scoring, but I'm not sure how long it will take before we see it."

The smaller basketball promises to help players like Novi's Lisa McCarthy

First, dozens of Bobcats traveled to Clawson for the Northwest District Parks and Recreation Swim Meet on Aug. 2. Then, a week later on Aug. 9, the team hosted the Michigan Parks and Recreation Association State Swim Meet.

JOHN DORIA, a Walled Lake Western graduate, is listed as a quarterback on the 1986 pre-season football roster at Grand Valley State College. Coach Tom Beck, starting his second season at the Lakeland helm, will welcome a group of 34 lettermen from last year's squad which posted a 6-5 record. Beck has a career record of 93-39-1, coaching at Illinois Benedictine College, Elmhurst College and Grand Valley. He currently ranks fifth for winningest active football coaches in Division II.

MARCI WILHITE of Walled Lake earned her first varsity letter as a member of the women's track team at Saginaw Valley State College women's track team.

A freshman, WilHITE competed in the field events for the Lady Cards and helped lead them to third-place finishes in both the NAIA District 23 and the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic Conference championship meets. She finished sixth in the discus at both meets with a 107'5" toss at the district and a 107'5 1/2" effort at the conference championship.

A Walled Lake Western graduate, WilHITE should be a team leader for the Cardinal women in the future.

Novi baseball coach Gar Frantz shows the proper form for laying down a bunt

Learning to bunt key to success

"Sports Skills" is a Northville Record weekly series designed to help you improve your game - whether your game is golf or tennis, or whatever. Every week, a local expert will give tips on certain skills associated with a specific sport.

In baseball, the bunt is a very valuable play, but even at the major league level the task of getting down an effective bunt is often times very difficult to do.

Novi baseball Coach Gar Frantz played a lot of ball and tried a lot of bunts in his days as a player. Now the coach tries to pass on the expertise to his players - not always an easy task either.

"We bunt every day in practice," Frantz said. "It's very important because a bunt can sacrifice a runner, give you a hit or squeeze a runner in from third. Those situations come about often during the course of a game, and the good teams and players take advantage of the bunt."

The first thing Frantz stresses to his players is proper positioning in the batter's box. For either a right or left handed, the batter should stand much further up in the batter's box than normal.

"If you're back behind the plate, when you bunt, the ball will probably hit the plate after the bunt attempt and pop right into the air to the catcher," Frantz explained. "But if you're out in front of the plate a bit, the ball will first hit the ground in the dead area in front of the plate and die - that's what you want."

Another key technique is having the patience to wait until the pitcher is releasing the ball before squaring to bunt. A premature move will tip off the pitcher and his fielders behind him that a bunt attempt is coming. And, according to Frantz, that extra second or so makes a big difference - the element of surprise is on the batter's side.

"If you show it too early, it isn't a surprise," he said. "That's why you should wait until the pitcher is releasing the ball before squaring to bunt."

Cohen claims medals in Texas

Two Novi athletes were scheduled to participate in the U.S. Olympic Festival near Dallas, Texas, in late July, but only one of them ended up making the trip.

Swimming sensation Jon Cohen returned from the festival with a silver medal, but goalie Mark Gowans didn't leave at all. A recurring injury stemming from a separated shoulder made it impossible for Gowans to compete in the games. Needless to say, he was disappointed.

"I separated it three months ago and had some ligament damage," Gowans said. "It just flared up and made it impossible for me to play."

While Gowans watched the games on ESPN, Cohen was showcasing his talents in the water, wooing support for a spot on the 1992 Olympic Squad. Cohen, 15, who will be a sophomore at Novi High School this year, grabbed the silver medal as a member of the North team's 800-meter freestyle relay. Cohen, one of the youngest swimmers at the festival, had a fine split time of 1:59.1 in the anchor spot for the North team.

In addition, Cohen placed within the top seven in three other individual races. A third place in the 1,500-meter freestyle (16:13.39) wasn't surprising because it is Cohen's specialty. He added a fifth in the 200-meter breaststroke (2:20.80) and a seventh in the 400-meter freestyle (4:10.72). Cohen's times in both the 1500 and 400-meter freestyle events set new Michigan records.

As for Gowans, the shoulder is now about "98 percent" and he is gearing up for a shot at the U.S. Junior Team.

"It was disappointing not to go (to the festival) because I knew how much fun it was," Gowans said. "There was no way I could play so I'll just have to put it out of my mind and concentrate on a full recovery and getting on the Junior team."

Novi coach explains fine art of bunting

usually want to bunt on the first pitch if it is a strike. After one pitch, everybody knows what you are trying to do and your chances of being successful will be less."

Learning to lay off a pitch out of the strike zone is one of the biggest problems associated with bunting. Frantz drills into his team the importance of bunting at strikes, but it doesn't always work.

"If you start bunting at bad pitches you're either going to miss the ball or hit it foul or make a bad bunt," Frantz pointed out. "In practice, we tell them only to bunt at good pitches."

There are three basic bunting situations the squeeze bunt, the sacrifice bunt and bunting for a hit. Most coaches teach the same fundamental motion for all three, but a recent trend has changed that slightly. In the sacrifice situation with a runner on either first or second base, some coaches call for both hands to slide up the bat about halfway when bunting. The standard execution, with one hand at the bat's base and the other midway up the shaft, isn't used. This new method is supposed to deaden the ball off the bat even more, but many coaches, including Frantz, don't believe in or teach this technique.

"I definitely don't like it," Frantz admitted. "If you slide both hands up the handle, it may deaden the ball more, but you've just lost the outside of the strike zone. I'd rather teach the standard technique for all three types of bunts than use two different kinds. It usually confuses the player."

At the point of the pitcher's release, a batter should then begin to prepare for the bunt. While the bat is quickly brought straight down from the shoulder to in front of the plate, the batter can either square up or rotate his hips — whichever position he is the most comfortable with. For a right hander, the right hand slides down the handle, with the finger tip just barely touching the bottom of the bat and the thumb parallel to the shaft. For southpaws, the hands are reversed.

"Ninety-nine percent of the time, the best bunt is down the third base line," Frantz said. "It's an easy motion, and it is a hard play for the third baseman."

"(For a right hander) the barrel of the bat should be pointing at the first base coach. We always teach them to stick the bat right at the top of the strike zone and then to come down with it if they need to. If the pitch is going over the bat, they know it's a ball and they know they shouldn't try to bunt it. If you go up with the bat to get a pitch, you're going to pop it up."

For lefthanders, Frantz likes to see them stand very close to the plate so they can effectively drag a bunt down the line and get some momentum going to first base at the same time. If they are too far off the plate, the batter can't cover the outside of the plate.

Frantz believes in the bunt for a number of very good reasons. With runners on, it is a very effective way to advance the runners and at the same time, it can often develop into a hit.

"You have to think positive if you want to be a good bunter," he explained. "You have to go up thinking hit. If you move the runners up, then the batter did his job — but if he gets a hit, it's nothing but a bonus."

Goat Farms rolls to 35-and-over crown

The Goat Farm played second fiddle to Quigley Building for most of the 1986 season in Novi's Men's 35-and-over Softball League. But once the playoffs rolled around, it was an entirely different story.

Despite finishing in second place a game behind Quigley during the regular season, the Farm caught fire in the double elimination playoffs and cruised to five straight wins and the tournament title. Only the 5-4 championship win over Refrigeration Unlimited on Aug. 10 was even close. The Farm won all the tournament games with a combined score of 44-11.

In that championship game, three straight singles to lead off the fourth inning help propel the Farm back from a 1-0 deficit, and into the lead for good. The four runs in the fourth and another in the fifth proved to be enough of a margin.

Refrigeration Unlimited added single runs in the third and fourth and two in the seventh, but the late rally wasn't enough.

League single elimination tournament, Almar Boring went a perfect 4-0 in the Women's Resident Softball to take the championship. On Aug. 5, Almar nipped Novi Auto Wash 7-5 and bombed Hudsons 24-3 later in the day to make it to the semi-finals. On Aug. 7, Almar got by Woodland Medical 4-1 and followed it up with a 6-2 win over Jerry's Barber Shop in the finals for the title.

With the number of Michigan Lottery ticket terminals increasing throughout the state, the number of people discovering the fun of Daily games is on the rise. The following answers some of the most frequently asked questions about the Daily 3 and Daily 4 games.

How long have the Daily games been around?

The Daily 3 game drawings began in 1977, while the Daily 4 games began in 1981.

How do you play the games?

The Daily 3 game challenges players to match a three-digit number drawn, while Daily 4 players try to match a four-digit number. In either game, depending on how you place your wager, you can win prizes for matching digits drawn in either the exact order they were drawn, or various combinations of those digits. For full details, ask your Lottery retailer for "The Daily 3 Game Made Simple" or "The Daily 4 Game Made Simple." These free brochures tell you all you need to know about rules, prizes and odds for these games.

How much does it cost to play?

The Daily 3 game can be played for either 50¢ or $1, while all Daily 4 tickets are $1.

How much can you win?

In the Daily 3 game, players can win up to $500. Players in the Daily 4 game can win up to $5,000.

How are the three or four numbers selected?

Air-driven wheels, designed, built, tested and certified by the Engineering College of Wayne State University, are used to draw the numbers under supervision of a Lottery manager and an independent auditor.

Are these drawings televised?

Yes. Live drawings are shown or announcements of winning numbers are made at 7:29 p.m. Monday-Saturday on the statewide Lottery network of television stations.

If I can't watch the drawings, how do I get the numbers?

The news media are informed of the drawing results immediately after they take place. In addition, Lottery retailers post the winning numbers in their place of business.

Tell me about the Daily 3 bonus weeks I keep hearing about.

To add to player rewards and create new interest in the game, the Lottery occasionally offers weekly bonuses such as the current round running to Labor Day. One night each week, either a double draw, where the Lottery pays on two different numbers drawn, or a bonus payment is made on all winning straight bets on that night's three-digit number.

Because her Daily game question led to this column, Linda Lawrence of Richland will receive 50 "Michigan 150" instant game tickets.

If you have a Lottery question you'd like answered, send it to: "Winners Circle," Michigan Lottery, P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909.
