Haggerty/I-96 plans unveiled know where they stand - or idle.

State Transportation Director James Pitz yesterday released official plans for extensive improvements to I-696 freeway and the freeway corridor in Western Oakland County, Pitz confirmed those plans include commencement of construction by late 1988 or early 1989 of an interchange between Haggerty Road and the juncture of I-96/I-696/I-275 freeway in Novi.

The project also will include expanding traffic capacity in the Haggerty corridor north to Fifteen Mile (Maple) Road. The estimated cost of the work is $22-$35 million, approximately 95 percent of which will come from the Federal Highway Commission.

The planned improvements represent the follow-through of a commitment to improvements by Governor James Blanchard, who toured the Haggerty corridor last

At Blanchard's direction, Pitz laid out a five-point, 5-year plan for improving traffic movement through the area extending from Telegraph Road (U.S. 24) west to I-96 at Novi. Estimates for the total cost of the regional improvements is $59-76 million, most of it financed with federal highway funds.

According to Pitz, the highway improvement plan is designed to relieve daily traffic congestion and accommodate continuing traffic growth in one of the fastest developing areas of the state.

'The Michigan Department of Transportation has been studying the growth and traffic situation in this area for some time and now we have a blueprint for action," he

East Lake Drive closure debated

By BRUCE J. MARTIN staff writer

The idea of closing East Lake Drive to through traffic sounded fine to the Novi residents living on the two-lane which winds along Wailed Lake's east shore.

In Walled Lake and Wixom, it vas a dilierent storv.

In response to presentations by Novi staff and consultants to the neighboring municipalities, officials of both Wixom and Walled Lake have drafted letters and passed resolutions opposing Novi's plan to place a cul-de-sac immediately south of the East Lake Drive/Fourteen Mile intersection.

The flurry of reaction to the proposed closing culminated at Monday's Novi City Council meeting in what amounted to an intercommunity public hearing. For close to an hour, residents and representatives of all three cities debated the issue before the council voted to approve "in concept" the road closure and to eventually schedule a public hearing to air thoroughly all sides.

According to a letter directed to Novi from the Walled Lake City Council, Walled Lake business owners fear the closure will result in a loss of trade and decreased revenues.

The letter continues: "Fears were expressed about increased traffic creating even more delay in exiting or entering private driveways, the increased risk of traffic accidents, increased noise levels for residents to endure and the possible creation of 'bottlenecks' even worse than those that presently exist . . .

Council is dismayed that Novi is considering closing a road when Walled Lake is attempting to extend and improve existing roads to alleviate the traffic problems, not only in Walled Lake, but in surrounding areas also." The letter concludes by requesting Novi City Council delay action until further

Wixom Mayor Henry Mack ordered a resolution drafted which states residents of Wixom, Wolverine Lake, Walled Lake, Commerce Township and Novi who normally use East Lake Drive to drive to Twelve Oaks and West Oaks will have to find alternate routes. The resolution listed Beck Road to Twelve Mile, south Wixom to I-96 and South Lake Drive. It did not mention Decker Road, which parallels East Lake Drive immediately to the east. In response, longtime East Lake Drive resident Debbie Meyers and newcomer Robert Melvin pressed their case for closure. Meyers, a mother of four, said she feared for her children's safety because of reckless and impatient drivers along East Lake Drive, which actually intersects the front yards of most residents.

"Decker was supposed to eliminate the problem, and it just hasn't worked," said Meyers. "People are talking about being so inconvenienced, but all they have to do is go three-tenths of a mile at

Michigan MIAs saluted in Novi

By ANITA CRONE staff writer

Michigan Remembers, a bronze plaque set in marble, commemorating the state's 75 servicemen still listed as missing in action from the Vietnam war, was unveiled Friday at Oakland Hills

Memorial Gardens. Amid moments of silence, interspersed with moments of eloquence, families of the servicemen watched as the American flag was lifted, revealing the names of the military men still missing. Each plate contains a space to list the date when the serviceman returns. For some families, the day was bittersweet - "sweet" because they realized that there are people who still remember 2,000 servicemen are still unaccounted for and "bitter" because each remembered the son, brother, father or boyfriend who went to Vietnam and never returned. "Why would these people still hold prisoners of war," questioned Roy L. Knight III, president of the P.O.W. Committee. He got no answer from the 200 who came from throughout the state to the dedica-

"Help us father, never to forget," intoned Robert Larson, who gavethe dedication prayer. "We will never forget, never forget, never forget," he promised.

Gerald Allan Holman's name is listed on the plaque. His parents, Joseph and Dorothy, who live in Northville, were among the spectators.

Holman, who enlisted in the Navy, was shot down in the Gulf of Tonkin, Dec. 14, 1966, just one week before his carrier was scheduled to leave Vietnam.

"I will always remember coming home from work and seeing the Navy car in front of the house," Joseph Holman, who is now retired, said Friday. "I knew right then."

For his wife, the day the Navy came was even more difficult. "I knew that they didn't just come unless something had happened," she recalled.

Builders in Novi who haven't obtained sewer construction permits from the Department of Natural Resources may have a long wait before they get them.

Citing Novi's noncompliance with ammonia-nitrogen discharge standards at the Walled Lake-Novi Wastewater Treatment Plant and other violations of recentlyapproved DNR water quality standards, the department announced yesterday it will not grant new sewer construction permits until an agreement for managing wastewater treatment and disposal is reached, unless withholding the permits would retard improvements related to public

Further, the department has directed Novi city officials to gather specific information to allow re-structuring of a regional sewage interceptor system confounded when funding plans were rejected by Canton Township recently. (See story on Page 7A).

"They're raining missiles on Novi," City Manager Edward Kriewall told city council members Monday. But Novi is not alone.

Reportedly Novi is just one of many communities cited by the DNR in what local officials describe as a state-directed incentive to alleviate overburdened sewage disposal routes in the area.

According to the DNR, sewage overflows during heavy rainfall are sausing human sewage to affect surface waters under recently approved DNR water quality stan-

The ban on new permits probably will remain in effect until a plan to remedy the action through an intercommunity sewage interceptor is approved. Construction of such a facility is expected no sooner than

The DNR has reported sewage overloads at the Novi-Walled Lake Waste Water Treatment plant are causing problems from May 1 to November 30, when warm weather conditions inhibit the water purification process. Rainfall in particular poses problems, since the system must accommodate excess stormwater runoff. William Stone, an environmental quality analyst for the DNR, said Monday that the discharged water poses no hazards to humans, but some aquatic life "may be affected" by the reduced levels of oxygen in the water. 'I've been out to the stream, and I haven't seen any ill effects," said Stone. "But it's something we have to survey intensively." According to Kriewall, the DNR's decision to withhold the permit likely will not affect most short-range construction in the northwest part of the city. "I've been talking with a couple developers since Friday and the ac-

Suspect bound for trial

The 45-year-old Novi man accused of raping a local woman in her Tree Top Meadows apartment has been bound over to face charges in Oakland County Circuit Court.

Patrick Gerald Hamlin of 41602 Manor Park Drive was bound over on all three counts following pre-trial examination before Judge Michael Batchik of the 52nd District Court in Walled Lake on Monday, Sept. 20.

Hamlin is charged with two counts of criminal sexual conduct in the first degree and a third court of breaking-and-entering an occupied dwelling with intent to commit first degree criminal sexual conduct.

Purpose of a pre-trial examination is to determine that a crime has been committed and there is sufficient evidence to believe it may have been committed by the suspect.

In addition to binding Hamlin over to stand trial on the charges, Batchik raised the bond from $110,000 to $100,000 on each of the three counts — a total of $300,000. Hamlin remains lodged in the Oakland County Jail.

The pre-trial examination was closed at the request of Prosecutor Laura Amtsbuechler of the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office. Amtsbuechler asked that the exam be closed on the request of the victim in the alleged sexual Hamlin originally was slated for pre-trial examination before Judge Batchik on Thursday. Sept. 11, but the exam was re-scheduled after Hamlin said he was unable to afford attorney's fees and asked for a court-appointed attorney. Harold Ironcroft has been appointed by the court to represent the defendant. Hamlin is charged in conjunction with the rape of a Novi woman in her Tree Top Meadows apartment shortly before midnight on Aug. 27. Hamlin is a resident of the same apartment complex in which the alleged crime occurred.

The suspect is slated to be arraigned Oct. 7 before Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Stephen N. Andrews.

Kavanagh, for 41/2 years a Novi resident, has been a member of Novi Rotary and the Chamber of Commerce. He will conclude the remainder of William Briggs' term following Briggs' resignation last month. As for Jenkins, council members hinted he may be in line for an appointment to the city's architectural review committee.

NO SECRETARY OF STATE office is in the offing for the City of Novi. Noting the long lines at the Farmington Hills office, where most Novi motorists go for routine auto paperwork (lines also are long in Northville's branch), Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall asked State Representative Willis Bullard to request a new office in Novi.

Bullard was informed the state department has no plans to add a more Novi-friendly location. According to David Kilgren, director of the state department's legislative division, the department has sought to reduce the number of branch offices in order to cut costs. City officials are expected to continue efforts to get a Novi location.

MALL TRAFFIC UPDATE: The Oakland County Road Commission has offered to help pay for a traffic signal synchronization system on Novi Road designed to conduct traffic to and from the regional retail area

In response to complaints that freeway exits and entrances often have been confusing to motorists, the road commission also has agreed to put up a set of directional signs over Novi Road south of Twelve Mile.

COMPLIMENTARY SENIOR CITIZEN PASSES are now available from the Novi Community School District for the 1986-87 school year. This is the second year the district has offered complimentary passes to Novi residents 60 years of age or older.

Haggerty/I-96 plan start, not solution

Governor James Blanchard's plan of action for relief in the Haggerty Road corridor did come, as promised, starting with a Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) press conference in Southfield.

At the conference, MDOT Director James P. Pitz announced plans for a provement plan for the I-696 freeway corridor. One of the points includes the widening of Haggarian B. five-point, five-year $59-$76 million imwidening of Haggerty Road from I-96 to Fifteen Mile and construction of an interchange to provide access to I-96, I-

The proposed plan has received cheers from virtually everyone in the area. It is long overdue. Intense growth has created havoc on transportation routes in the area, and the Haggerty Road corridor situation has perhaps deteriorated at a higher rate than any other in this project's bined are expecting an additional 17

However, the action to be taken in the next five years. Those areas, if left the next five years by the MDOT may as they exist, will become an even ed for the last decade.

With the addition of the new interchange, Haggerty Road will be required to handle and dissipate much more traffic than it now attempts. day — young and old, men and women, members of Veterans of Foreign Wars and Vietnam Veterans of America. People and organizations who have a history of being at odds with each other joined as one to pay tribute to Michigan's 75 Vletnam-era servicemen listed as missing in action and the eight who have come home.

For someone like me, who had been in college in 1968 and counselled my classmates facing the draft to avoid going overseas, the dedication of the tribute to Michigan's POW/MIAs, was not so much a denial of the U.S. action in Vietnam, but rather a sense of healing.

The men and women who did not return, and may never return, may not have asked to serve their country. Nor did the fathers and mothers, sisters and brothers, boyfriends or girlfriends who attended the dedication of the state's and maybe the nation's first tribute to those still missing, ask that their loved ones

Vietnam veterans took their place in the Memorial Day simple bronze marker.

Just as when the Vietnam Memorial in Washington,

And just as the veterans of Vietnam while in the nation's capital, reached out their hands to touch the imprinted names of their comrades who fell in action, so did those attending the dedication of the monument that stands at the Novi cemetary try to bridge the time that has passed since the 75 listed servicemen were lost in federal government have the opportunity to address 200 people in an election year, no matter what the occasion, you can bet they will fly the flag and beat the drums.

It didn't happen Friday. Instead, most of the officials sat unrecognized. And those who spoke, including John Calandro, Willis "Bill" Bullard and Jack Yet, just as there was a sense of healing as the first Faxon, spoke not of their own accomplishments, but rather of the war and its aftermath that brought them to parades and celebrations, so, too, was there a sense of Novi. Perhaps Calandro said it best after the crowd adpeace as the American flag was lifted revealing the journed for refreshments when he noted, "the only thing that kept my voice from breaking was looking around the group and seeing everyone else trying to keep from brushing the tears from their eyes.

> And for those assembled, not politicians, not MIA or POW families, but the common people who so often find themselves unsung, perhaps they gave the highest tribute to the MIAs and POWs as they rose, as one, when the 84 names were read aloud.

It is not often that the Twelve Mile/Novi Road intersection is quiet, but as the names were read off, only the sounds of wheels on concrete broke the silence.

Only time has broken the barriers between those who served in Vietnam and the country that just now is Friday's dedication had all the elements of being a beginning to welcome them back, and to remember

New York, New York - the city great enough to be named twice. Home of the Yankees, the Empire State Building, the United Nations and the Brooklyn Bridge. It all sounds typically American - but for someone from Michigan, much of the culture and routines are that of a completely different country.

In Michigan, just about everybody speaks English. In New York, there are times when you are hard pressed to find a single person fluent in this country's given language. You want a tour of the U.N.? Make sure you don't get in the wrong line - your tour may be conducted in Spanish or

To make matters worse, the road system is old, in need of repair and woefully inadequate.

> The sad state of their road system is strangely underlined by numerous toll booths for bridges, tunnels and thruways. Here we call our super-highways "freeways," in New York they are "trueways" because they are anything but free. A trip from one end of the state to another on the New York Thruway will cost you roughly $10. Drivers in the New York City area are wise to carry around at least five dollars in quarters because the toll booths are plentiful and never operate with any consistency. I paid $2 for the privilege of driving over the tiny Goethals Bridge to Staten Island, and then proceeded over the world's longest suspension bridge (Verrazono Narrows) free of charge.

Now imagine living in Michigan without mover - New Yorkers would probably call it with his black leather shoes in the basket and a pair of Nikes on his feet.

> If life is slow down south and fast in New York, you would have to say it is somewhere in the middle in our area. For that reason, you would think that adjusting to the paces of these areas would be routine for us - but it isn't, at least not at first. In New York, there are times when you feel that everything is going in fast motion. People eat fast, walk very fast and drive even faster. If you aren't quick enough to punch the gas immediately after the light turns green while driving in Mahattan, be prepared to get an earful of angry horns from the taxi drivers behind

> As a matter of fact, expect to hear a lot of horn-honking all the time. The scuttle straight from a native is that New Yorkers have the horn, so they certainly want to use it. P. CONTINUES ON HERALT INCREMENDED RECORD - NOVENEWS - THE MILECORD TIMES - Wednesday September 24, 1986

THE QUANEX CORP., parent company of South Lyon's Michigan Scainless Tube Division, has reported a net loss of $3.7 million, or 30 cents a share, in the third quarter ending July 31. Not sales for the three-month period were $75.6 million, down digntly from the $76.1 million reported in the third quarter of 1985. The Houston based corporation reported an operations loss of $4.4 willion for the most recent period, as compared to a $600,000 loss a

The company enjoyed a net profit of $1.8 million, or 15 cents a hare, in the third period of 1985. Continued weak demand and pricing at the company's MacSteel-Arkansas facility were blamed for operating losses reported from the third period. Quanex also reported a large drop in sales (from 16 percent to three percent to the energy exploration and production market. Quanex laid off 64 employees from the MacSteel-Arkansas facility in July to reduce operating costs. The corporation also announced that it's board of directors has declared a dividend of one preferred stock purchase right on each outstanding share of Quanex common stock. The move is designed to tend off "abusive and coercive takeover tactics" sometimes used by corporate raiders. The purchase rights, which would not prevent a friendly acquisition of the company, are being distributed to protect stock investments and do not signal an impending takeover attempt, according to Quanex officials.

When you're four years old, you've got more important things to do than worry about living to be five.

You've got pictures to draw. Balls to calch. Castles And, if you're like Christopher, you've got time for it all. Even of lives would have ended too f you were born with a delecive heart valve. Even if you did spend the first two years of your life in a hospital bed. Even if no one thought you'd make it to kindergarten. Why? Because Christopher ad a few million people on his side. Scientists and physicians all over the country who've dedicated their lives to fighting heart disease—the

Photography was lifesaver for Henson

Photography is Winton "Whitey" Henson's passion "I think it. I live it. I'm constantly aware of the possibilities," he admits. For the 60-year-old Willowbrook subdivision resident, a shop electrician at Detroit Edison, photography is more than a hobby. It's become a necessary part of his life. Fourteen years ago, Henson had a serious heart attack. At his doctor's suggestion to take up a hobby, he turned to photography. He bought a 35mm camera, a standard 50mm lens and lots of film. He didn't know a thing about photography, but he was ready. He was going to be a photographer. "That first roll I shot was terrible." Henson leans back and laughs heartily at the memory. "I didn't see things then

A stunning performance by a Novi sophomore was just about the only surprise when the Wildcat crosscountry squad tangled with powerful Milford on September 16.

The 16-47 loss to the Redskins was never in doubt, but a recordbreaking run by previously unheralded Rob Rasmussen took everybody by surprise — especially Bob Smith, coach of the Wildcat thinclads.

"He really has come out o nowhere and suddenly he's our number one runner . . . that's exciting," said Smith. "He's really been coming on strong lately. As a freshman, he failed to finish in his first meet, but Rob's has started showing signs lately, and against Milford it all came together." Rasmussen not only crossed the ton Park first among his teammates, he shattered the old Wildcat course record by a full 20 seconds. His time of 18.00.01 was more than a minute faster than his best previous time and was good enough to place him fifth overall. Rasmussen passed the Wildcats' usual top finisher – Craig Cowden

- a mile and a half into the race, but it didn't get Cowden down. He ended the race in 11th place with a time of 18:33, only three seconds shy of his all-time best. As a matter of fact, despite the convincing loss, Smith was pleased with the improvement his runners showed. Nine of the 13 runners set personal best times for races at Cass Benton, proving once again that the Wildcats are making strides. "I'm not embarrassed at all," said Smith. "It's tough when you look at the score, but when you see all these personal bests, it really tells you how well we did." Right behind Cowden was sophomore Bret Van Dyke who crossed the finish line in 18:40, his best time ever. Senior Tim McBride (19:09) and junior Eric Bergman (19:40) rounded out the top five inishers for Novi.

Wildcat kickers ambushed by strong Dearborn squad

How soon fortunes change in high school athletics. Just a few short days ago, the Novi soccer program was basking in the glory of its most successful week in history - three consecutive wins culminated by what Coach Nick Valenti described as a "fantasic shutout win over Belleville."

But only four days later, the Wildcats were hammered 7-0 by Dearborn on Sept. 16, and suddenly a mad-rushing stream of momentum had been reduced to a trickle. "My concern wasn't necessarily that we lost, but that we played so poorly," Valenti stated. "I was looking for us to continue to play well, regardless of winning or losing, and we didn't do it." A pair of costly first-half mental mistakes set the tone for the whole game as Novi (3-2 overall) was unable to push the problems aside and continue on with the task at hand — playing quality soccer. "Dearborn is a very good team, but the problems were our own," Valenti said. "We just didn't play the kind of soccer we're capable of playing and the score indicated it." Dearborn's first goal was a gift from the Wildcats as the team accidentally scored on itself. A chipped shot was stopped by an unidentified Novi defender. But while trying to clear the ball, it deflected off his foot with a lot of spin and hooked into the net while the stun-

Novi girls dumped by Milford

Norm Norgren knows he doesn't have to build up the reputation of his Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) counterparts when it comes to girls cross country.

The conference is without a doubt the best from top to bottom in the State of Michigan and everybody knows it — well, almost everybody. But on occasion Norgren can't resist the temptation to extoll the virtues of the KVC when his Wildcats go out and lose badly to another conference squad. The Wildcats' 19-40 defeat at the hands of Milford on Sept. 16 looks on the surface like a complete fiasco, but considering Milford's top-notch program and runners, the loss was expected. "Yes, they walked all over us, but I expect them to be state finalists," Norgren reminded everyone. "They are going to be way, way up there by the end of the season. I'd say 'top 10' caliber. The one thing I'm happy about is that they didn't shut us out. Novi placed three runners in the op seven spots, avoiding a shutout, but Milford swept the top three places and had seven of the top 10

"After our third runner finished seventh overall, we dropped off the earth," Norgren said. "Our next runner was down in 12th place."

The Wildcats' top runner, Kelli Rolfes, hung tough with the Redskin elite, but when it came down to the wire, the sophomore standout found herself 14 seconds behind the winning pack. Rolfes completed the Cass Benton course in 21:55, good for fourth place overall.

"Kelly was with their top three almost the whole way," Norgren said. "She did a good job of staying in Several seconds later, freshman Jenny Galland was nipped by a second at the finish line by a Milford runner for fifth place and had to settle for sixth with a time of 22:03. Senior Kristine Huotari, still recovering from a muscle problem in her back, came in seventh with a time of

Q. How much will a new ceiling cost?

A. That depends on the features and benefits of the ceiling you choose. A washable ceiling is low-cost; a washable, acoutsical is more; washable, acoustical, fire-retardant is more than that. Ceiling prices, when compared with other major interior remodeling products, are inexpensive. Depending on the features you want, your new ceiling should cost somewhere between $50 and $200 for an entire 10' x 12'

Architectural, interior trends in new housing

ASHIONS COME and go, but vou'd think the American home would be one institution unaffected, especially since family dwellings carry such monstrous price tags compared to a pair of new shoes or a designer dress. Well, it's not necessarily so. Although the basic structures of the American house will see very little change in the next five years, the styles of our homes are subject to change as swiftly and with as much flair and diversity as styles in the world of fashion. "Houses are just like fashion. Unless we can create a sense of obsolescence, people won't be inclined to move," said market analyst Lester Goodman, who studied housing trends with other experts in a panel organized by Color Design Art, a Los Angeles-based interior merchandising firm.

"True, people don't change homes as often as they rush out to buy the latest clothes, but that's only because housing is a much greater investment tions. But the same forces that dictate fashion fads are at work in the housing

THERE MUST BE at least a bit of truth to this theory. A survey released by House Beautiful estimates around 6.5 million Americans will relocate in

With a new move comes a new home, and some of the most difficult emotional and business decisions any of us will face - from financing our new dwelling to selecting the paint, design, fabrics and furnishings that complement our new surroundings. Trends and lifestyle will affect these decisions. The two are actually intertwined.

"Fashion in architecture and interior merchandising often reflects trends in buyers' lifestyles," says Beverly Trupp, president of Color Design Art. Lifestyles are fast changing. Only 4 percent of U.S. families now match the traditional nuclear pattern of working "With today's smaller space in homes, buyers expect more from every square inch, so architecture has become bolder, more dynamic. To support this more vibrant architecture, insleeker lines and a lighter palette," Trupp says.

"There's also a trend toward simplification in people's lives. The older market, moving down into small spaces, wants to divest themselves of clutter. Young professionals are influenced by the sleek European design

For a few hundred bucks, why not wrap your new house with Tyvek Housewrap

Simple, inexpensive air filtration barrier helps improve energy efficiency of the home year 'round.

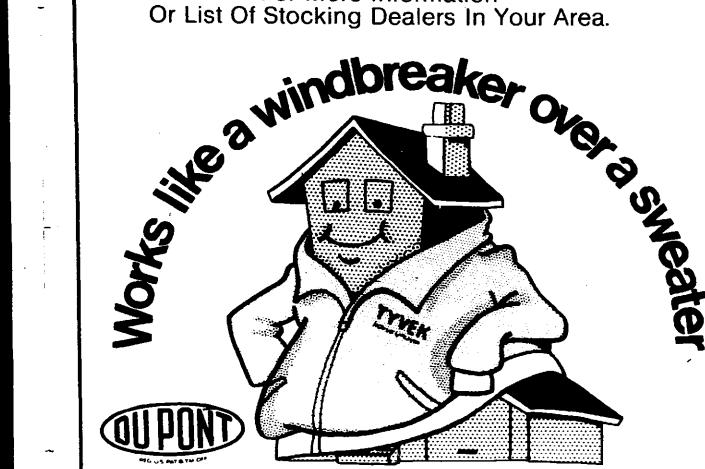

HOMEARAMA Thursday, September 25, 1986

You can build a less drafty, more comfortable house when it's wrapped in TYVEK® Housewrap. TYVEK® reduces the air exchange rate by covering holes, cracks and seams in sheathing, window and door framing and soleplates. At the same time, it allows water vapor to pass through. Result: a more fuel efficient TYVEK® Housewrap is inexpensive and easy to install, too. It can be glued, nailed or stapled depending on sheathing used.

'Brains' plus beauty

High-IQ electronic appliances are being incorporated into a Detroit Edison "dream kitchen" in one of the 12 homes in Homearama '87. The refrigerator "thinks" and monitors itself, the range cleans itself and cooks faster, the microwave oven prompts you with words so you can give it cooking instructions, and the dishwasher takes its own temperature while it scrubs your pots and grinds up the soft food you were too lazy to put down the sink disposer. All of these General Electric appliances are found in Villa Amore, built by husbandand-wife builder team James and Janet Compo of Farmington Hills.

Heightened drama The drama of two-story windows flanking a floor-to-ceiling fireplace is heightened by a wraparound deck in the Newport model in Homearama '87. The deck is accessible from two points of the three-bedroom home. One is from the kitchen and the other from the dining area adjacent to the gathering room.

Wallpapering offers plenty of variety

Not too many years ago, kitchens were often little more than cramped glorified hallways and bathrooms were nothing more than small, windowless white cubicles.

But in recent years an explosion of design, color and innovative appliances and fixtures has turned these once forgotten rooms into spectacular showplaces. Unlike the kitchen of the past, today's kitchen often is not separated from the active areas of the house but is instead an integral part of the familly living area. One design feature which has become particularly popular in recent years is the "great room"-a room which often combines the kitchen, family dining area and as oak and cherry to sleek, ultra modern living area in one large shared space. Rocks, trees, timber, shrubs and plants make any yard more eye-appealing.

In addition, he used pom pon junipers, which are small, unusual looking trees that add character to the poolside area. They are also quite expensive. But, like the ivy, they do not interfere with pool maintenance, he said. In the side yard, the biggest problem was the steeply sloping ground, which caused more than one problem. He said it was impossible to mow the lawn, and to complicate matters, the side yard was quite visible from the house.

Water was also seeping into the base-

To improve the situation, he put in tiers, constructed of wood, and inlaid them with mulch and bushes Besides the aesthetic quality, the tiers solved the problem of erosion, by eliminating the sand and water from washing down the hills. (There had previously been two slopes that curved down to the middle of the house.)

Screntino points out that the "tie walls" are structurally sound-each tie is held in place, and the two tiers are actually one

The plants on the ties need trimming for two or three years while they mature. After that, he said they only need to be trimmed once in a while to maintain their size and

In addition to the side and back yards, Sorentino's crew built a walkway out of the pool area to the driveway, and reseeded the grass after the pool was constructed.

Two examples of how new trends in landscaping are making homes more eye-appealing.

Landscaping trends are changing

By MICHELE M. FECHT

With custom bathrooms, Cathedral ceilings and gourmet kitchens making their mark in contemporary home design, it's no wonder today's homeowners are shying way from the cement patios, pink flamingos and aluminum chaise longues so popular a generation ago.

Brick walkways, decks, hot tubs, theme gardens, exotic trees and plantings only account for a few of the trends distinguishing today's landscape styles. That landscaping has become as essential to home design as interior decorating is evidenced by the growing demand for expert landscape architects and designers. In the short time since starting his own firm last April, landscape designer James C. Jones has been carving a niche for himself among clients in the Northville/Novi/Plymouth/Farmington areas. Noting that most of his work is residential

- particularly in Novi and Northville Township considered among the leaders in new home construction in southeastern Michigan - Jones says he is looking to achieve a distinctive style.
