'Development' dominates top 10 stories

The word describes the year 1986 A.D. in the history of Novi, it would have to be "development."

After weathering a severe recession which hung like a huge cloud over the nation in general and Michigan in particular during the first half of the decade, Novi experienced an economic boom during 1986.

As a result, economic development news dominated the city's "top ten stories" during the past year.

Two developments — the Trammell Crow Company's Town Center plans and Ramco-Gershenson's

West Oaks II shopping center — comprised a total of 825,000 square feet of retail space. And there were numerous smaller commercial developments during the year — the Pheasant Run shopping center on Grand River near Haggerty Road to name one.

But there was more to the top stories of 1986 than development. It was also the year in which ground was broken for the city's new civic center complex. The year in which the school board and city council got involved in a dispute over tax abatement for a proposed convention center. The year in which the city began to pay increased attention to preserving its natural amenities by adopting a Woodlands Protection Ordinance.

And it was the year in which the Novi Community School District continued to reap honors — on both the state and national levels for excellence in education. The year in which Novi citizens were rocked by blasts from homemade bombs.

Here, then, is a look at Novi's "Top Ten Stories for 1986."

1. TRAMMELL CROW

If there's one name that dominated more headlines than any other during 1986, it was Trammell

Crow. A multi-billion dollar development company based in Dallas, Texas, and the nation's largest developer of commercial real estate, the Trammell Crow Company came into Novi in a big way in 1986, taking over the so-called Town Center Area in the northeast quadrant of the Grand River/Novi Road intersection and announcing plans to develop a major commercial center on the 70-acre site.

The company received final site plan approval for its commercial center late in the year after extensive hearings before both the city council and planning commission as well as the Town Center subcommittee. The shopping center will include more than 485,000 square feet of retail space and provide 1,000 full and part-time jobs while generating an estimated $175 to $200 million in sales annually.

Major tenants in the center, which was under construction at year's end, will include Mervyn's, Children's Palace, T.J. Maxx, Designer Depot, Vic Tanny's and General Cinema.

Trammell Crow's interests were not restricted to the commercial center development, however. A second major project was the Lake Pointe Office Center located east of the Town Center Area. Under an agreement reached with city officials, Trammell Crow representatives agreed to provide a total of 200,000 square feet of offices in Lake Pointe, all of which will be situated around a seven-acre lake.

Also included in Lake Pointe will be a Wyndham Garden Hotel containing 152 rooms in a two-story configuration.

Trammell Crow's extensive development plans in Novi prompted an appearance from Gov. James Blanchard when groundbreaking ceremonies for the shopping center were held.

City manager forecasts 1987

By ANN E. WILLIS
staff writer

1987 will see the end to commercial development in the city, the search for additional sewage treatment capacity and continuation of studies of traffic and police/fire personnel needs, according to City Manager Edward Kriewall.

"The sanitary sewer problem is our number one most critical issue in 1987," Kriewall said.

He noted that the city's quickly diminishing sewer capacity is already affecting certain future development plans. "We know we have to be on-line with solutions early in 1987. We are moving in several directions to investigate alternatives," Kriewall said.

The city is currently exploring three alternatives in its search for a solution, according to Kriewall. In the first it is looking at joining Northville Township, Plymouth Township, and Canton Township in sending sewage flows to the Ypsilanti Treatment Center.

The other possibilities outlined by Kriewall are for the city to build its own treatment plant, or for a potential force main to be built for pumping Novi sewage to the Detroit system.

"Ypsilanti is the best alternative now, based on information available to us," Kriewall said.

The manager's concern centers on the city's ability to plan for future development. "We have enough single-family lots on line to satisfy the demand of the builders who are in town now," he said. "If we really wanted to recruit some more single-family builders, I think we could, but we've hesitated to do that because of our sewer system."

The second main concern Kriewall sees for the city in the year ahead also stems from development. "If we're going to have growth, and we are since it is upon us, another major issue is police and fire protection in 1987."

Kriewall noted that the city already has made strides in addressing this problem. "We have identified that particular need. The police and fire committee has been meeting to work towards addressing that need. The results of that committee's findings are very critical to this community."

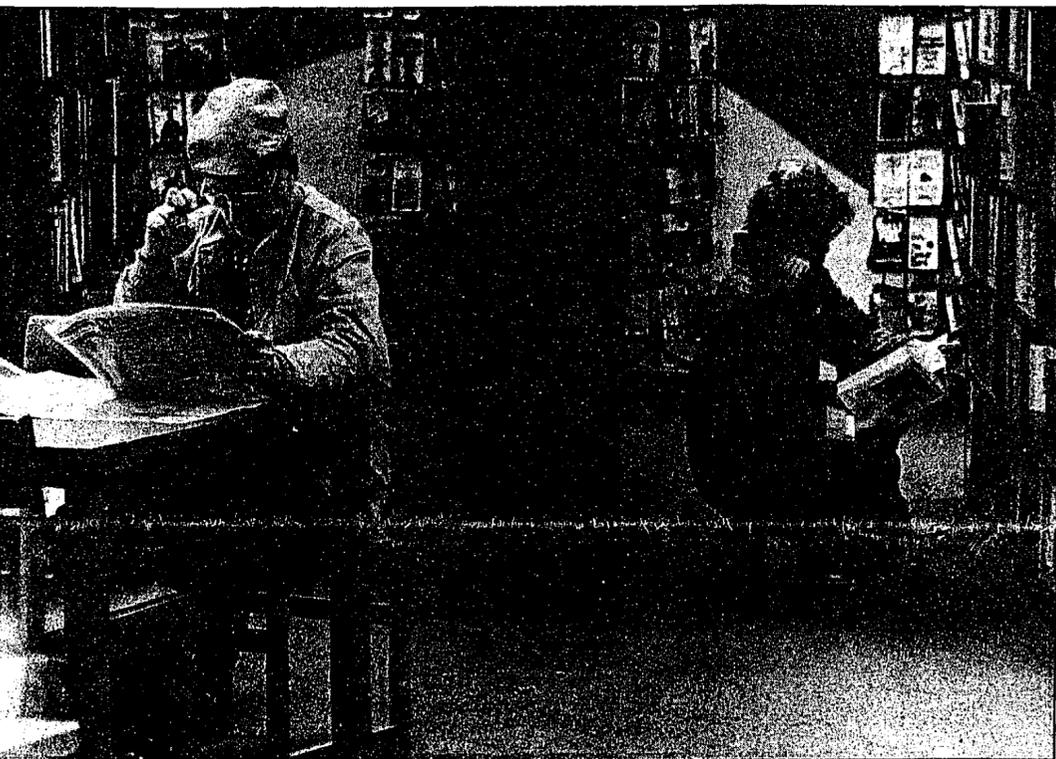

According to Kriewall, statistics show that Novi has not added any substantive numbers of police officers to its department in the last eight or nine years.

Traffic concerns are always on the city's agenda, Kriewall noted, and he pointed to some positive moves the city has already made in that area. "We have brought our traffic engineers more into the planning process, with an overall look at our community from a traffic concern standpoint," he said.

Kriewall plans to move further toward the assessment of developers for the traffic studies necessary in new development projects. "On the county task force committee that I'm on, we are looking very closely now at ordinances that can be utilized to assess actual construction traffic impact," he said.

Kriewall noted that this may take enabling legislation on the state level before the city can adopt this type of ordinance. "But many of the major communities in Oakland county are in the same boat we are,

The growing popularity of the Novi Public Library was demonstrated in a 16 percent increase in circulation

Teen werewolf ups library stats

By MICHELE M. FECHT
staff writer

A teenage werewolf, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, mammoth hunters and a Beverly Hills cop shared top billing at the Novi Public Library circulation desk last year.

According to library director Brenda Burrell, "Teen Wolf" starring Michael J. Fox was last year's top videocassette rental with Jean Auel's "The Mammoth Hunters" among the 10 most popular adult books of 1986.

A 16 percent increase in adult and children's book circulation coupled with an 8 percent rise in videocassette rentals contributed to the library's 11 percent overall increase in circulation for the 1986 fiscal year.

Library circulation during 1986 totaled 154,324, a significant increase over 1985 when the library circulated 139,077 materials.

However, books and videocassettes were not the only collections experiencing more frequent patron use. Burrell noted that circulation of the library's pamphlet file, coordinated by Pauline Drueshel, increased 38 percent during 1986. The file, which contains booklets, pamphlets, clippings and the like, saw the largest circulation increase of any collection.

Another collection which seems to be attracting more patrons is audiocassettes.

Though not a major part of the library's collection in 1985, last year's audiocassette circulation totaled 2,000, Burrell noted, adding that patron interest leaned mostly toward "how to" cassettes.

The videocassette collection grew 8 percent over 1985, Burrell noted, with more emphasis being placed on non-fiction materials such as travel films, documentaries, etc. She noted that the non-fiction offerings total about 14 percent of the more than 800 videocassettes in the collection.

The top 10 videocassettes for 1986 were "Teen Wolf," "Ghostbusters," "Amadeus," "Back to the Future," "Cocoon," "Beverly Hills Cop," "The Breakfast Club," "Return of the Jedi," "Witness" and "Agnes of God."

Heaviest borrowing day at the Novi library during 1986 occurred June 30 with the start of the summer reading program. On that day, 1,051 items were circulated.

In addition to "The Mammoth Hunters," Burrell listed the remaining books in last year's top 10. Culled from the 1986 reserve list, they include: "A Matter of Honor" by Jeffrey Archer; "Red Storm Rising" by Tom Clancy; "The Two Mrs. Grenvilles" by Dominick Dunne; "Lake Woebegon Days" by Garrison Keillor; "It" by Stephen King; "I'll Take Manhattan" by Judith Krantz; "Ford: The Man and the Machine" by Robert Lacey; "The Bourne Supremacy" by Robert Ludlum and "Wanderlust" by Danielle Steel.

While last year may have marked the highest circulation to date at Novi library, 1987 promises to keep librarians busy.

Burrell noted that the library expects its long-awaited automated circulation system to go on-line sometime in the next few months.

"Libraries that have gone into the system have said circulation went up immediately because it's so much easier," Burrell noted. "In 1987, we anticipate — conservatively — a 20 percent rise in circulation."

Gas station thief gets $100 in cash

A single white male made off with $100 in cash and a bag of hamburger buns from the Speedway gas station at 47395 Pontiac Trail at Beck Road after telling the attendant he needed the money to feed his family.

The incident, which occurred Friday, Jan. 2, at approximately 2:30 a.m., has been recorded by Novi police as a "Robbery Armed" because the suspect told the attendant he was carrying a knife.

The attendant told police he was working along in the gas station when the suspect entered through a door on the south side of the building, walked down the center aisle to a bread rack and asked if there was any bread.

The man then brought a bag of hamburger buns priced at $1.40 to the counter. When the attendant asked if there would be anything else, the man reportedly said, "Yeah, gimme all the twenties out of the drawer," adding that he needed the money in order to feed his family.

The attendant said he attempted to dissuade the man from taking the money, but the suspect put his hands in his front pockets and indicated that he was carrying "a blade," according to reports.

He told police the suspect was shaking as if he might have been high on drugs.

The attendant then took two $20 bills and six $10 bills from the register and placed them on the counter.

The man then grabbed the money and the buns and walked out of the store, crossed Beck Road and walked into the Village apartment complex.

The attendant subsequently locked the doors to the station and telephoned police. Officers from the Wixom Police Department were able to follow tracks in the snow to a point in the parking lot of the apartment complex where the man apparently got into a small automobile.

Police said the tracks from the car exited the apartment complex southbound on Beck Road. The vehicle subsequently turned westbound on West Road to Wixom Road. Police were unable to follow the tracks after the car reached Wixom Road, according to reports.

Police issued a "be-on-the-lookout" (BOL) bulletin but efforts to find the car were unsuccessful.

The suspect was described as being approximately 22-26 years old, 5-10 tall and weighing 160 pounds with a medium build.

Accident kills man

A Walled Lake man was killed Sunday when the snowmobile he was driving collided with a raft on Walled Lake.

Michael Arthur Kowalczyk, 34, was transported by ambulance from the scene to Huron Valley Hospital in Commerce Township where he died of injuries resulting from the accident, according to Novi Police Captain Richard Faulkner.

A passenger on Kowalczyk's snowmobile, Reid Miller, 35, of Canton, also was injured in the accident. He was transported at his own request to St. Mary Hospital in Livonia with what police described as incapacitating injuries.

The accident apparently occurred at approximately 5:45 p.m. and police were notified at 5:52 p.m., according to Faulkner.

Kowalczyk and Miller were riding a 1986 Yamaha snowmobile westbound around the shoreline of the lake when it struck a wooden raft located next to a cement breakwater at the end of Endwell Drive, east of Novi Road.

Faulkner said the raft was partially submerged next to the breakwater.

"They almost missed it (the raft)," said Faulkner. "Apparently they saw the raft at the last second and swerved to avoid it. They almost missed it," he added. "It appears that the snowmobile just grazed the raft, but it was still enough to knock them both off the machine."

Thieves hit 2 more Novi homes

While most residents were taking a day off to relax and watch football games on New Year's Day, thieves kept right on working, breaking into two Novi residences.

A Nine Mile resident reported that thieves broke into his home on Jan. 1 between 3:30 and 11 p.m., taking personal property valued at almost $3,600.

The man said he returned home at 11 p.m. and observed the front door of the residence standing ajar as he drove into the yard.

Upon entering the house through a door from the garage, he observed that a videocassette recorder and video camera were missing from where he had left them atop a television set in the living room.

The complainant then proceeded to the master bedroom where he found that a portable television set, 35mm camera and a quantity of photographic equipment also had been taken.

Investigating officers noted that the responsible parties had been very selective about what they took and that the residence had not been ransacked. Officers further reported finding no signs of forcible entry even though the front door was partially open.

Police Beat

Stolen property included a RCA videocassette recorder valued at $900, a RCA video camera valued at $900, a Nikon 35mm camera valued at $700 and a Hitachi portable color television set worth an estimated $300.

Also stolen was assorted camera equipment valued at $2,700, including four lenses, filters, lens covers, light meters, a tripod and a flash unit.

The son of a homeowner on Cherry Hill in the Meadowbrook Glens subdivision work up Jan. 1 in time to see an intruder standing in the hallway of the residence.

The complainant told police her son had been sleeping on the couch in the living room when he woke up and saw a man standing in the hallway and peeking into the living room.

When the intruder saw that he had been observed, he ran out the rear door of the residence and make his get-away through the subdivision. The intruder was described as a white male in his late teens, approximately 5'10" tall with dark hair that had been combed back.

Investigating officers said it appeared that the intruder had made his way into the home through the rear door. Police also noted that a woman's purse was visible through the door and speculated that it may have prompted the man to break in.

Officers checked the area around the home with negative results. Nothing was stolen during the break-in.

Miscellaneous equipment was stolen from a construction trailer owned by Wamsley Construction Piping while it was parked at the West Oaks II shopping center on Novi Road at Twelve Mile.

The complainant told police that unknown individuals broke into the construction trailer by cutting off a padlock sometime between Dec. 23 and Dec. 29.

A Manor Park resident in the Tree Top Meadows Apartment complex reported the theft of his 1980 Pontiac Grand Prix from the parking lot outside his residence.

The car was stolen sometime between Dec. 20 and Dec. 28, according to police reports.

Personal property valued at close to $600 was stolen from a 1977 Oldsmobile Cutlass while it was parked in the drive of the owner's residence on Lynwood in the Echo Valley subdivision off Ten Mile. The theft occurred during the night of Dec. 29-30.

The complainant told police unknown individuals broke into the vehicle which was locked and unattended at the time of the theft. Investigating officers reported finding no signs of forcible entry.

Stolen were a Panasonic AM/FM digital read-out radio valued at $169 and a Clarion power amplifier valued at $99. Also stolen were a Multi-Tech Roadmaster radar detector valued at $169 and 20 cassette tapes valued at a total of $120.

So where's the snow?

How good has the weather been lately? Well, it's been so nice that kids who got sleds for Christmas are having a tough time finding out if they're as fast as they look. Despite unseasonably warm temperatures and only a light powdering of snow, Jerry Cox made the best of the situation by giving his sons Andrew, 4, and Neil, 2 1/2, a "daddy-drawn" sleigh ride last Friday.

Kriewall gives his 1987 forecasts

and we are all jointly looking at addressing that particular need. This is something evolving in 1987 on the traffic front," he said.

"Quite frankly, I believe it's very apparent that the growth and development that is on top of the community is really going to cause and has caused a major traffic concern. It seems only fair that new development pay a larger percentage of the traffic improvements that are necessary in our community."

Developers will be willing to shoulder this additional burden, according to Kriewall, as long as fees are applied on an equitable basis, county-wide.

Any major road improvements for the Novi area are probably two or three years off, according to Kriewall. "We're relying heavily on the State Highway Department to address the Haggerty Road corridor with an interchange connection north of I-96, and we're relying heavily on the highway department to redo the Beck Road and I-96 interchange," he said.

"I do not see those happening in 1987. However, as long as they keep moving along as priorities with the state and we know that they can be on-line within the next five years, I think we'll be in fairly good shape."

He noted that Novi is not yet in the traffic bind that neighboring suburbs find themselves. He credits the fact that Novi is still on the western fringe of the suburban sprawl and that several of the city's major north-south mile roads are not direct through streets.

Last year was the big year for commercial development in Novi and Kriewall sees the completion of West Oaks II and the Town Center as the last major commercial projects in the city.

"We're now at a point where commercial projects of any magnitude will be few and far between, and any projects that will receive future zoning consideration from the planning commission and council will have to bring a particular merit to the community and demonstrate an unfulfilled need," Kriewall said.

There is still room in the city for industrial and office development, the manager pointed out. Areas are master planned for it, and the proper zoning has been provided, he said.

"Novi's time may have come now in terms of office development," Kriewall noted.

Kriewall also sees 1987 as the year for the lighting on the I-96 corridor from Meadowbrook to Beck.

He sees the completion of Trammell Crow's Town Center development, the addition of the Delval company, and the Westbrook development on the western end (the current site of the Bob-O-Link golf course), as sparks to new development in that whole area.

The city has a large inventory of single-family zoning available for future development, Kriewall pointed out, but the amount of zoning for multiples is limited. "People may see what they feel is a lot of apartment construction right now or over the past two or three years, but what you see out there now is just about it."

One of the major issues on the minds of Novi residents, according to Kriewall, has to do with planning in general. He noted that good citizen participation in the entire planning process in 1987.

"If the public participates in the planning commission hearing process, attends meetings and expresses its feelings on various philosophies, the city will be able to meet all our planning challenges," he said.

City hall does listen to residents, Kriewall asserted. "They have to balance the cry of a particular subdivision location against sound community planning and sometimes the result of that is not exactly what a particular subdivision desired," he said.

"There's a lot of forces that act upon your planning commission and city council decisions, and you have to look at the entire community, but whatever policies we have can be applied uniformly."

Environmental planning is the key to Novi's future, Kriewall stressed. "We have a limited number of trees in this community, we know where our wetlands and sensitive areas are, and, as a community, we have to be more flexible in terms of structuring ordinances and zoning districts to allow for environmental planning."

"The strongest link in the community to preserve the quality of life is to be sensitive to our environment and to be flexible enough to preserve that environment. Novi is very special with regard to our streams, our scattered woods and our wetlands. We can do more to preserve our quality of life by changing our attitudes toward typical development and allowing developers to plan from an environmental standpoint."

Truck accidents, fatalities rise

Citing an alarming increase in accidents and fatalities involving trucks, AAA Michigan has released a study that urges 20 legislative and regulatory changes to make state roads safer for cars and truck drivers.

Total fatal traffic accidents in the state rose 10 percent from 1982 through 1985, but fatal crashes involving trucks jumped 41 percent, according to the year-long study entitled "Cars and Trucks: Sharing the Road Safely."

"It is almost a certainty that in fatal accidents involving cars and heavy trucks, it is the car occupants who will be killed," said AAA Michigan president Jack Avignone.

"And this situation is becoming worse in Michigan."

The study found the motorist is most often killed because trucks have become longer, wider and heavier, while cars have become smaller and lighter to increase fuel efficiency.

The study also cites inadequate truck maintenance, more overweight trucks, speeding, overly fatigued truckers and motorists who fail to understand the limitations of trucks as major reasons for the dramatic rise in truck-related accidents.

AAA Michigan's Safety and Traffic Department computer-analyzed 782 police accident records for 1985 involving serious injuries and deaths.

A total of 879 driving records of those involved in these accidents were also studied.

"We found that fault for most of the accidents was shared equally by truckers and motorists," Avignone explained. But investigators found that information regarding fault often came from truckers—the survivors.

Of the 175 people who died in those accidents, 73 percent were in cars or other vehicles and 11 percent were in trucks. The remaining deaths were pedestrians or cyclists.

The at-fault truckers and motorists in these 1985 accidents had worse driving records than 90 percent of other Michigan motorists, the study found.

In seven years, they accumulated more violation points for traffic offenses, had more accidents, received more license suspensions and revocations and had more alcohol-

Novi Inn bought, to be converted

The Novi Inn, long a beacon at the corner of Grand River and Novi Roads, has a new owner and will reopen with a new look on Jan. 19.

Vic Cassis, owner of the Novi Road Big Boy, recently purchased the Novi Inn and is planning to convert it to a moderately-priced, comfortable restaurant, catering to business lunches and family diners.

Cassis is very excited over his new restaurant. "This has been my dream for a long time, to do something of my own creation, in my own image," he said.

The Inn is undergoing complete redecoration under the first phase of Cassis' plans. He is installing new carpeting and light fixtures to the current building but already has plans for an addition

Novi housing market booming

By ANITA CRONE
staff writer

When Conrad Jakubowski opened his real estate office in Novi in 1972, the average sale price of a home in the metropolitan Detroit area was $25,898.

To lure a homebuyer to the Novi area, Jakubowski said early advertisements listed the home as being located "near Northville."

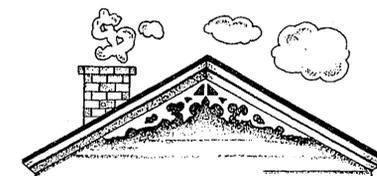

Today, Jakubowski says developers and home-buyers are abundantly aware of where Novi is. It's smack in the middle of one of Michigan's boom real estate markets and Jakubowski said he anticipates the boom will continue.

The outgoing president of the Michigan Association of Realtors said he anticipates interest rates to continue to decline, but the cost of housing to rise.

"I wouldn't be at all surprised to see interest rates drop to 8 1/2 percent before the end of 1987," Jakubowski said. He was right on the money when he predicted at the start of the year that 1986 rates would plummet to 10 percent or even 9 1/2 percent.

But no matter how low the interest rates drop or the prices of homes go, people who want to buy in Novi and Northville in 1987 will face the same problem they found in 1986: "There is an insufficient number of buildable lots. The demand for the housing is there, the supply is not," said Jakubowski.

That lack of supply, especially of new homes, has made an impact on the real estate market in the western communities, Jakubowski said his own company, ERA Rymal Symes on Ten Mile in Novi, could have doubled its sales.

"We had the people who wanted to buy. We just didn't have the houses to sell," he said.

That recession didn't stop Novi and Northville, however. Even in the midst of the recession, the average sales price of a home in this area continued to increase. And now, history. New homes weren't being built, and there was very little activity in existing homes.

"A lot of developers lost their property or sold it at a very low price. Many of those who hung on weren't able to build then. What happened in 1984 and 1985 was the recovery from the late 1970s and early 1980s," Jakubowski said.

That recession didn't stop Novi and Northville, however. Even in the midst of the recession, the average sales price of a home in this area continued to increase. And now, history. New homes weren't being built, and there was very little activity in existing homes.

"Because of the new tax law, I think there will be a very sharp decrease in commercial real estate, at least until people fully understand the ramifications of the law,"

Jakubowski said. "There is going to be very little construction of investment properties, and those properties already in existence or currently under construction will probably see higher rents."

He said that he does not anticipate much change in people's attitudes towards their homes.

"The four-bedroom, 2 1/2-bath colonial is still a top seller in single, detached homes and two- or three-bedroom condominiums are becoming increasingly popular," he said.

But Jakubowski said he anticipates some changes in the tax law, especially regarding land contract sales.

"We have people looking into it, both in Michigan and in Washington, D.C., but it appears that under the new law, interest income from land contract sales is not deductible.

"If indeed that turns out to be the case, I expect there will be some rapid action to change the law," Jakubowski said, adding that half the property in Michigan is sold by land contract.

He added that most real estate transactions in the metropolitan Detroit area are accomplished through mortgages because of the increasing availability of mortgage money.

Jakubowski said he expects to see increased availability of mortgage money and an increased demand on Realtors.

All in all, he said he expected the market to remain strong in Novi and Northville through 1987, and for home sales throughout Michigan to be slightly ahead of national figures, just as they were in 1986.

Now, if only Jakubowski could put together some developers and some vacant land...

Area business may be tapped for road funding

Michigan traffic engineers are beginning to look at road funding plans which other states have used to raise money from businesses.

"Transportation and business interests are natural allies. Businesses are willing to pay something... particularly when it's in their own financial interests," Richard Beaubien, City of Troy transportation engineer, told the Michigan Institute of Traffic Engineers.

"You may have noticed we're running a little short of money to build roads," Beaubien said in a very understatement. It brought smiles of understanding from several dozen traffic engineers from state and local agencies who attended a recent workshop at the Plymouth Hill Inn.

Three kinds of methods are being used across the nation, Beaubien said, as an explosion of suburban office building strains two-lane roads, not only in Oakland and western Wayne counties but outside Washington, San Francisco, Miami and Baltimore.

One is negotiation - sometimes dubbed "enlightened extortion." A city uses its clout - building permit, rezoning, site plan approval, density regulations - to persuade a developer to contribute substantially to traffic improvements.

The money is used for turning and passing lanes, interchanges, freeway ramps and the like. Orange County, Calif., for example, persuaded a developer to provide $60 million for transportation improvements.

"We're not too bashful in our city about asking," added Beaubien. The second method is "traffic impact fees" - not yet legal in Michigan. Similar to sewer tap fees, traffic impact fees are flat amounts charged to a developer on the basis of square feet of office building.

For example, developers of the Howard Hughes complex west of Los Angeles will contribute $20 million to off-site road and freeway improvements which will add about $1 to 1.25 per square foot to annual office rents. In Dade County, Fla., a developer pays a percent of its annual gross income and dedicates an acre of its property for rapid transit.

Beaubien praised a bill by state Senator Richard Fessler (R-West Bloomfield) to authorize such fees in Michigan. Fessler's bill was not enacted last year but could be re-introduced in 1987.

"It's a fixed fee - not negotiated. There is more certainty and, we hope, more fairness. You tie them in to the complete planning process - defining service areas, assigning traffic impact, evaluating the adequacy of facilities," Beaubien said.

But it's not fair to expect a developer to pay everything, he said, stressing the need to assign business development only a fair share of costs.

The third method is the familiar special assessment district, which Troy has given "a new wrinkle."

"We proposed a special assessment district on office-zoned land," he said. The district surrounds the Long Lake-Crooks road intersections near I-75 freeway, an area of explosive office and research facility growth which has given Troy the biggest tax base of any community in Oakland County.

The going rate is $25,000 per acre over five years. Total cost of road improvements will be $13.5 million, with the city providing $2.7 million, he

Some examples of how other areas have dealt with the problems:

□ Texas allows landowners to form "road utility districts" to raise half the $187 million needed for highways and transit. Fees are based on the number of trips a development will generate during the evening rush hour.

□ Dallas charges an impact fee of 50 cents a square foot to finance traffic improvements for Dallas North Parkway Center.

□ A Los Angeles ordinance grants office developers reductions in the code-required number of parking spaces in return for employer commitments to ride-sharing and park-and-ride programs.

□ Dallas charges an impact fee of 50 cents a square foot to finance traffic improvements for Dallas North Parkway Center.

Hypnosis seminars offered

WALLED LAKE — If your New Year's resolutions include stopping smoking and controlling your weight, the Walled Lake Community Education Department can help.

Two self-hypnosis seminars to help people stop smoking and control weight will be presented by the Walled Lake Community Education Department at Walled Lake Western High School on Thursday, Jan. 22.

The seminars are being directed by Self Psych Clinical Hypnotist David Rowe, who has helped thousands improve their lives with hypnosis. Similar programs have been sponsored by American Lung Association affiliates in 11 states and 94 Michigan school districts.

Individuals may register for either or both seminars by calling the Walled Lake Community Education Department at 624-0202.

The Stop Smoking Seminar will be offered Jan. 22 at 6 p.m. Rowe said that stopping smoking is easier than you can imagine if you use hypnosis to block awareness of your physical withdrawal from nicotine.

"No smoker really wants to quit," said Rowe. "Your conscious mind knows you should quit, but the subconscious mind really doesn't care. The battle between the two parts of the mind is also what prevents overweight people from sticking to their diets. They know what they should eat, they just don't feel like doing it."

Rowe's hypnosis is designed to get your subconscious mind to cooperate with your conscious mind's desire for a habit change, so your feelings and desires will be in harmony.

The Weight Control Seminar will follow the Stop Smoking session at 8:30 p.m.

The cost of each seminar is $30 per person. In both seminars the group will be hypnotized four times and receive a cassette tape for reinforcement of the hypnosis at home.

ing center and office park were held in August. Campaigning for re-election on a platform that he restored economic health to the state, Blanchard noted that "Trammell Crow's decision to invest in Michigan is further evidence of Michigan's attractiveness as a place for business."

2. CONVENTION CENTER

Not all of Trammell Crow's plans reached fruition during 1986. In fact, one of the biggest projects never got off the ground and was eventually abandoned after generating a significant philosophical dispute between the city council and school board.

Plans for the Expo/Fashion Center fell apart at the same time the city council and school board were butting heads over a proposal to establish a Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) to finance infrastructure improvements (roads, sewer lines, water mains, etc.).

The school board strongly opposed establishment of a TIFA district on the grounds it would divert tax revenues from the district's coffers.

The council disagreed, stating that establishment of the TIFA district would benefit the school district and all of Novi in terms of tax revenues over the long run. The dispute turned nasty at times, but the issue never came to a head. A public hearing before the council to establish a TIFA district was postponed at the request of the Dallas Market Center. Several weeks later, the company allowed its options on property earmarked for the convention center to expire.

3. WOODLANDS ORDINANCE

Some might describe 1986 as the "Year of the Bulldozer" in Novi. Others might say it was the "Year of the Tree."

Both would be correct to a degree. And, in fact, the two are intrinsically related.

The development boom in Novi during 1986 was accompanied by increased interest in environmental preservation — an interest best exemplified by the adoption of a Woodlands Protection Ordinance, which may well have been the single most important piece of legislation enacted by the city council all year.

After months of work by Brandon Rogers and Associates, the city's planning consultants, the ordinance was adopted by the council in May. The ordinance included a Woodlands Map, which designated significant stands of trees throughout the city and, in essence, required anyone wishing to remove trees from a designated site to obtain a permit from the city.

The ordinance was adopted by the council in "incomplete form" as a means of indicating to developers that the city placed a high degree of importance on the preservation of trees.

4. SEWAGE PLANT

A story which surfaced in 1986 has the potential to become the top story of 1987... the city's proposal to construct its own sewage treatment plant.

The factor which led city officials to consider the possibility of constructing a sewage treatment plant was the demise of the so-called "Super Sewer" project, a regional wastewater treatment system to serve a large portion of southeastern Michigan.

In addition, city engineers reported that Novi was running out of sewage treatment capacity in the existing Detroit Water and Sewerage System.

Engineering Consultant Joseph Kapelczak told council in November that the city has just 1,500 units of capacity remaining in the Detroit system, a supply that would be exhausted within 2½ years under the current rate of development.

At year's end, city officials were exploring several options for resolving its impending sewage treatment capacity.

5. THE BOMBINGS

The city was rocked with not one, but two, series of bombings during 1986.

The first occurred in the Meadowbrook Glens subdivision on Sunday, March 9. A homemade bomb placed in an automobile exploded, causing moderate damage, but a second bomb, which had been placed near the front door of a residence, did not.

Police subsequently arrested two Novi High School students — Greg Vincent Giorgio, 17, and Kenny George Saylor, Jr., 18 — in conjunction with the incidents. Giorgio had been 1985 Homecoming king at Novi High School. Saylor was a member of the varsity wrestling team.

A second series of bombings rocked the Novi/Northville area during a six-day period late in October.

Police ultimately obtain warrants for the arrests of three 16-year-old juveniles. All three were Northville High School students, although their identities were not released due to their status as juveniles.

6. CHARTER AMENDMENT

The mayor of Novi will continue to be elected by popular vote after a proposed charter amendment was turned down in November.

Following the Nov. 1985 municipal election, the council formed a citizens committee to examine the mayoral election process as prescribed in the city charter.

The committee subsequently proposed a charter amendment that called for the mayor to be appointed by the council from the members of the council. In other words, if the amendment would have been adopted, the general public would have elected seven council members, who in turn would have elected one of their own to serve as mayor.

The proposal passed into history, however, when it was turned down by voters by a margin of 3,220 to 1,971 in the Nov. 4 general election.

7. CIVIC CENTER

Plans for construction of the proposed civic center/municipal complex moved forward in 1986. Novi voters approved a $7 million bond proposal in 1985 for construction of the municipal complex on Ten Mile between the existing library and police headquarters.

Site plans for the new city hall were approved by the planning commission in January and groundbreaking ceremonies were held in April.

At year's end, construction was under way with completion anticipated in late summer or early fall. Municipal offices are currently contained in the eastern half of the library building.

8. WEST OAKS II

While the Trammell Crow Company's Town Center plans dominated development headlines during 1986, another significant commercial development moved ahead at a good pace.

Groundbreaking ceremonies for West Oaks II were held by the Ramco-Gershenson Company in June even as bulldozers were involved in land balancing operations in the background.

An extension of West Oaks I on Novi Road opposite Twelve Oaks Mall, West Oaks II will contain 300,000 square feet of retail space and five major anchors — Mainstreet, Builders Square, Marshalls, Toys 'R Us and Kids 'R Us. Toys 'R Us was opened in time for Christmas shopping.

QUESTION: What can be done to prevent both colds and flu?
ANSWER: To prevent both colds and flu, avoid people who are obviously infected with them. Since that is not always easy to do, try these methods of staying cold and flu free:
1. Follow a healthful lifestyle. Get enough rest, exercise regularly, eat right, and don't smoke. These practices should keep your immune system in peak condition for fighting off infection.
2. Wash your hands frequently during the cold and flu season, particularly if a friend, co-worker, or family member is ill.
3. Throw away used facial tissues immediately.
4. Avoid warm, crowded places at the height of flu outbreaks to decrease your chances of picking up an airborne infection.
5. Don't allow your child to play with friends who are sick. And don't send your ill youngster to school, day care, or a friend's house.
Researchers are working on new products that could someday help protect against colds and flu. Someday you may even be able to get immunized against colds. However, until then, the tried-and-true methods of prevention and treatment should help you weather the cold and flu season.

As We See It

Council can return to 'quality' issues

City officials must be heaving a sigh of relief now that 1986 is over and 1987 is upon us.

The past year has been momentous, particularly in terms of development. In fact, the pace of development over the past 12 months might almost be described as "dizzying" with numerous proposals coming before the planning commission and city council... several of them, notably the Trammell Crow Company's Town Center project, of significant magnitude.

With the passage of 1986, it is time to reflect on what has transpired and, more importantly, look ahead to the coming year with an eye on what must next be accomplished.

It is refreshing to see City Manager Edward Kriewall assert that the amount of commercial development in Novi will diminish considerably during 1987. In fact, Kriewall maintains (see story on Page 1A) that the rampant commercial development which characterized 1986 will come to an end during the coming year.

Although a few critics have claimed that Novi's master plan "is dead," we do not agree. With one or two exceptions, it appears that the 1980 Master Plan generally has been adhered to and served the city well during the past year. The most significant amendments to the Master Plan, including the Westbrooke Place proposal at Grand River and Beck Road and the Section 11 plans, represent improvements over what was originally proposed.

Perhaps the reason that development appeared to be "dizzying" during 1986 is that so much of it occurred during a 12-month period. Much of what was proposed in the 1980 Master Plan materialized during 1986, creating the impression that development was occurring heater-sketer when, in fact, it was not.

Still, Kriewall's assertion that commercial development will virtually come to an end in 1987 comes as welcome news because it will give the city time to address other issues, most notably, quality of life issues, which are, of course, critical to the development of a "quality community."

Here, then, is an agenda to topics which we hope the city would address during the coming year.

PLANNING: Two areas, in particular, will have to be addressed and resolved during the coming year — the West Grand River Corridor and the property which lies between I-96 and Twelve Mile from Meadowbrook to Haggerty Road.

The West Grand River Corridor has been a problem since the 1980 Master Plan was adopted. The Master Plan proposes a light-industrial orientation along the entire corridor, but efforts to rezone the property in accordance with the Master Plan have been consistently thwarted by the council in light of strong opposition from existing property owners.

Inability to resolve the West Grand River Corridor situation has been one of the repeated failures of the city council. Hopefully, the matter will be resolved during 1987.

The city also must deal with the Twelve Mile/I-96 area. It's one area where a change in the Master Plan may be appropriate.

The Trammell Crow Company at the end of 1986 submitted plans for a 90-acre office park surrounding a 32-acre lake on the southwest corner of Twelve Mile and Meadowbrook Road. Action on a rezoning request to permit the development was tabled by the council to permit additional study of the area, particularly the property which lies between Twelve Mile and I-96 from Meadowbrook to Haggerty Road.

Although Master Planned for residential development, the property between Meadowbrook and Haggerty might indeed be better used for professional offices. Diminishing the possibilities for single-family development on the land is the proposal to add an interchange off I-96 at Haggerty Road and the fact that the property on the east side of Haggerty in Farmington Hills is slated for an office-research park.

ENVIRONMENT: Despite the extent of development in 1986, the city managed to extend a generally good record on environmental legislation through enactment of the Woodlands Preservation Ordinance.

More can and should be done. While refinements of the Woodlands Ordinance and increased emphasis on wetlands preservation appear to be moving forward, the city should give serious consideration to seeking voter approval of a millage earmarked specifically for purchasing significant stands of trees or other unique environmental features.

Secondly, the city needs to revive a seven-member committee charged at the start of 1986 with reviewing environmental concerns in general and creating a Hazardous Waste Ordinance in particular. The failure of the committee to come forth with a significant proposal ranks as one of the failings of the past year.

SEWAGE TREATMENT: The city must come to grips with the possibility that it may run out of sewage treatment capacity within the not-too-distant future.

One solution — construction of a municipal wastewater treatment system — is currently being explored, but it still ranks as the least attractive alternative to resolving a problem which must be resolved.

TRAFFIC: The boom in non-residential development in 1986 will have an increased impact on traffic congestion for Novi residents in the years ahead.

Although traffic congestion is not now as bad as it is in suburbs to the east, steps must be taken to insure that it never does become that bad.

Methods of funding road construction must be explored. One possible alternative (see story on Page 5A) is to levy "traffic impact fees," flat amounts charged to a developer on the basis of square feet of office building.

The concept has been used successfully in other states, but is not yet legal in Michigan and will require legislative action in Lansing. A bill to permit "traffic impact fees" was introduced by State Senator Richard Fesster (R-West Bloomfield) last year but was not enacted. Hopefully, it will be re-introduced... and approved in 1987.

There are other areas which can and should be explored by the city in the coming year. However, if the council can resolve its problems with sewage treatment capacity, come to grips with the West Grand River Corridor, secure viable funding sources for road construction, adopt a Hazardous Waste Ordinance and place a millage proposal for purchasing woodlands before the voters, 1987 will become a year of significant progress.

Near Farmington Hills?

Jean Day

I did so because Daughter Robin was about to take a trek in Nepal and go on to view the Taj Mahal at Agra. She did in late 1985 before I received a reply from my pen pal. Our exchanges have been interesting, however, even though not in time for Shakuntala to meet Robin. My pen pal had become a doctor and had just retired.

Her surprise gift of the intricate embroidery holding small mirror squares on the red fabric seemed very much what I would expect from India.

My question then became: what could I send from here that would be typical of the United States, or of Michigan? Would the official Sesquicentennial calendar, "Statehood: the Michigan Journey," have meaning? I wasn't sure.

After considering (and actually buying) a Northville Recreation Department tote bag inscribed with the duck logo, I decided to opt instead for note paper from Michigan nature artist Gwen Frostic because her sketches captured a variety of our native flowers and wildlife. Then, probably because of the national popularity of things from the Shakers, I included a small wall hanging embroidery of the Shaker tree of life. I have been told that many items sent to India never reach their destinations; I hope these do as well.

Several weeks ago I received a package containing two brightly colored "mirror" embroidered pillow covers from the pen pal in India with whom I had renewed correspondence after four and a half decades. I had unearthed letters from the past written by Shakuntala while she was at a girls' school in Agra and wrote to the school asking that my inquiry be sent on if it had her address.

In the past month this newspaper has received two Sesquicentennial publications: I am Michigan, home for the holidays and I am Michigan in the glittering months of winter, also called a winter travel planner. With excellent color pictures and attractions listed in specific cities (such as the Hands-On Museum in Ann Arbor and Battle Alley in Holly) as well as winter campground and ski information, winter travel planner appears one of the more informative offerings.

I was thinking Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi and Mill Race Historical Village as well as downtown Northville could have rated mention when I discovered both communities did receive a recognition:

In the section, I am Michigan, a long-remembered weekend, readers are invited to "follow the trail of a nationally recognized gourmet food writer" who gave high praise to Elizabeth's in Northville. The article then noted that "the following restaurants have received national acclaim: London Chop House and Van Dyke Place in Detroit, Raphael near Farmington Hills." Those italics are mine. Chez Raphael is in Novi, not "near Farmington Hills."

A lot of money is being spent to promote our state and its attractions. The least travel bureau can do is to be specific. Northville has appealing shops, several good restaurants and live productions at the Marquis Theatre. Novi has a quality mall and outstanding food. We merit a better listing as part of YES MICHIGAN — whether we're promoted in India, Indiana, Illinois or here at home.

Cowed by celebrities? Not!

Phil Jerome

I met one of my heroes Saturday.

There was an ad in last week's paper saying Elmore "Dutch" Leonard would be at the Little Professor book store in Farmington Hills to autograph copies of his latest book, "Bandits."

For those of you who don't recognize the name, Elmore Leonard is simply the best writer of crime fiction in the country today. And you don't have to take my word for it, either. Newsweek magazine said so directly.

Now, I'm not the type who dotes on celebrities. In fact, my attitude is usually just the opposite. I figure most celebrities are no better than you or I, and I wouldn't walk across the street to meet them.

But... Elmore Leonard. The great Elmore Leonard. A writer. An honest to goodness, has-been-published writer.

And so I set off for the Little Professor Saturday afternoon. Ready to walk in and say, "Yo, how's it going, Dutch. Written any good books lately? I'm a writer, too. Write a little column in the paper every week. I like the way you write dialogue."

Unfortunately, things didn't go quite as smoothly as I had planned. I walked into the book store, walked up to the table where he was sitting, handed him my copy of "Bandits" and immediately began to stutter.

"Hello, Mr. Leonard. I... uh, oh... well, I sort of wondered if maybe you could... you know, I mean I'm a big fan and all that. And, uh, if you would, just, uh, maybe, if you'd be kind enough to sign my book, well, uh, I mean I promise I won't bother you anymore."

Despite my lack of finesse, he was quite nice. Signed my book and then got me completely flustered by asking a simple question. "Have you had a chance to read it yet?"

I hadn't. And I didn't have the presence of mind to tell him I had. "Well, uh, no, I guess I didn't. At least I don't think I did. But I'm going to. I mean, well-uh, you know."

I picked up my autographed book and headed for the door as quickly as I could. "Thanks a lot, Mr. Leonard. It was a real pleasure, if you know what I mean, well-uh, goodbye."

Last bird leaves the home nest

Neil Geoghegan

My youngest brother went off to college this week. He is the fourth and last of the Geoghegan kids to leave the nest to battle it out all alone in some college town.

Mark is now in Ypsilanti, home of Eastern Michigan University. He did a brave thing when he decided to become a Huron rather than a Spartan. Yes, I suppose you could call us an MSU household — my mom went there back when it was MSC (Michigan State College), and I started the ball rolling again when I picked MSU after high school. My sister Rita followed the next year and brother Kevin the next. With three Geoghegans in East Lansing at the same time, I'm sure my dad felt like one of the school's main contributors — especially when tuition was paid every term.

But now Mark has bucked the system and I'm glad. On weekend visits and such, he's probably seen more of MSU in the past six years than many regular students. For one thing, he'll have to go through what I did when I was all alone at State my first year. He won't have any brothers or sisters across campus to ease the adjustments — he'll have to do it on his own and I think that is good.

Most incoming students are in the same boat and that aids in the whole process quite a bit. In the dorms at most colleges there is a sort of bond among the new students — everybody becomes more outgoing, and friends are made quicker and easier. New students tire of the cramped space and of dorm food, but never seem to tire of all the friends and acquaintances.

From my experience, some of the friends met in the dorms are the ones you remember and cherish the most. It's almost like living in a commune — one big crazy house in which everybody knows everybody else — and this type of atmosphere is good unless taken to an extreme. There are always the few who end up visiting entirely too much and neglect the work.

I've only visited Ypsilanti a few times and it seemed nice enough for me — except for all those one-way streets. At least recently, Eastern Michigan hasn't been the focus of much negative publicity like its sister schools in the state (Central and Western Michigan). EMU wasn't even an honorable mention in Playboy's biggest party school list (CMU was in the top 20). And U-M Coach Bo Schembechler hasn't ripped into Eastern's administrative capabilities (but rosy Bo chopped WMU down at the ankles after they fired his quarterback's father).

One of the nice things about Mark's choice is that Ypsilanti isn't all that far away. A 45-minute drive sure beats a 10-hour haul to Michigan Tech or beyond. Now I can make my visits without too much trouble and keep an eye on the situation just like my parents did with me. I could warn him to avoid the parties, the girls and all that stuff, but I'm sure it won't make much difference.

I suppose that's one of the best things about going away. You make the decisions and the mistakes are your own. It is a growing up time where students learn just as much outside the classroom as in.

As an older brother who knows the evils that await a new college student, I'm glad Mark picked the Hurons. At least they were smart enough to stay clear of Bo's wrath, especially after yet another fiasco in Pasadena.

Michigan infrastructure faces crisis

Necessary repairs must be made to the state's infrastructure or the health and growth of the state will be in jeopardy, according to the Michigan Infrastructure Coalition.

Infrastructure includes structures which support public health and safety and contribute to the state's economic growth, such as highways and roads, public education, transportation and care for the environment.

Michigan has come by this crisis for several reasons. First, many of the facilities such as sewers and water pipelines were established around 1900 during a period of rampant urban expansion and were expected to last from 75 to 100 years.

Second, recent economic recessions were especially rough on Michigan and this caused infrastructure repairs to be put off.

Finally, there are now new environmental demands concerning environmental clean-up, more stringent government standards, and a

This leaves Michigan having to repair and expand a battered infrastructure with decreasing aid from a deficit-conscious federal government which has de-emphasized infrastructural spending since the mid-60s greater emphasis on safety. All this leaves Michigan having to repair and expand a battered infrastructure with decreasing aid from a deficit-conscious federal government which has de-emphasized infrastructural spending since the mid-60s. According to the Coalition, to meet all of Michigan's infrastructural needs over the next decade would require major investments totaling $34 billion. When only the "critical" infrastructure needs were assessed, the Coalition arrived at a more attainable investment requirement of $13 billion. Although more attainable, current revenue resources would fall short of this figure by about $3 billion. Politicians must now consider how to provide the additional funds to pay for these critical infrastructure repairs. User fees are a plausible solution, but could not be applied to all categories and would make up only a fraction of the deficiency.

A raise on motor fuel and vehicle registration taxes could help fund road repair which is the area facing the most critical shortfall. Environmental concerns and public education could be supplemented by temporary special assessment districts, a temporary regional sales tax, or a statewide sales tax increase.

At the present time these are simply possibilities. These and other solutions concerning the deteriorating infrastructure will be near the top of the priority list when the Michigan Legislature reconvenes.

The Michigan Tax Information Council is a non-partisan research and information organization that provides understandable information on Michigan's tax and spending policies.

NPOA's purpose is to help citizens

"Our sole purpose is to help the citizens of Novi in any way we can." According to Officer Bob Gatt, president of the Novi Police Officers Association (NPOA), doing whatever they are asked to do is exactly why the 22-member association was founded.

The NPOA is a voluntary organization of officers below the rank of sergeant. Once a year the organization hires an outside fund-raising firm to solicit help from Novi businesses and residents to support the organization. The NPOA uses the funds to help anyone in need.

Last year the NPOA gave money to the Novi Youth Baseball League, Novi Parks and Recreation Department and local churches who in turn channeled it to needy families.

"We also helped a private family where the head of the household was a victim of cancer and needed expensive treatments," Gatt said.

"Anytime a citizen is in need, they can contact us, and we'll provide whatever assistance we can," he continued.

The association is kicking off its 1987 fund-raising drive this week. An outside firm will solicit funds by telephone through the sale of tickets to a country western show that will be held this spring. Citizens who do not wish to purchase tickets may donate money directly to the association, Gatt said.

The drive will last six to eight weeks. Gatt noted that the NPOA netted $6,800 with last year's drive.

"We hope the generosity can be spread, and that other business groups in the city will help out," Gatt said.

The association recently gave $1,800 to the Novi Youth Baseball League for field maintenance and equipment. "One of our main objectives is helping kids," Gatt said.

Delores Vedra, treasurer of the Novi Youth Baseball League, said the money was a wonderful gift.

"There are 400 Novi children, boys and girls, who play baseball in our league. The police have been very generous and helped us in the past. They serve as wonderful role models to the children."

Desert talk slated

A program titled "Deserts of the World" will be presented by the Living Science Society at Novi High School (Lecture Room A) on Tuesday, Jan. 20, from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

The public is invited to attend the program which is presented by the Living Science Society, a non-profit, Novi-based organization dedicated to inspiring a deeper understanding and appreciation of the natural world.

"Deserts of the World" will explore organisms living in the world's deserts. These organisms encounter the most severe environmental conditions, including long periods of drought, drastic temperature variations, intense sunlight and occasional flash floods.

Living Science Society interpreters will offer an in-depth look at the plants and animals of the world's deserts and the adaptations they have to make in order to survive these hardships.

The program will be of interest to children and adults. Refreshments will be served following the program. For more information call the Living Science Foundation at 948-1985.

Library stats rise

While the demands placed on the library's services are likely to increase in the new year, Burrell said the expansion of the current facility should help staff members better serve their growing number of patrons.

The library's expansion to the east wing (now city offices) of the Ten Mile facility is expected to take place toward the end of this year. Burrell noted that city officials have promised to be out of the facility by Jan. 1, 1988, when their lease expires. The library board is continuing to work with an architect in designing the expanded area.

Wetlands study examines need for preservation

By ANN E. WILLIS
staff writer

"I want everyone to know of the wetlands in Novi and be proud of them. We should preserve as much of the natural environment as we can without impeding development. They can go hand in hand without harming each other."

So says Dave Worthington, environmental assistant for JCK and Associates, the engineering consultation firm for the city. Worthington has been tramping around the wetland areas of Novi for about six months working on the Wetlands Priority Study requested by the city as a follow-up to its Master Plan for Sensitive Land Use.

The study is an in-depth look at what is an extensive range of wetlands in the Novi area.

Worthington said the study is 90 percent complete. Within the next few months the firm will compile many statistics, field observations and maps and make recommendations to the city's planning commission and city council.

"The study is a positive step for Novi," Worthington said. "It is certainly not too late to save these areas. I am impressed with the number of wetlands in Novi and the number still quite intact and unaffected by man. There is still plenty of time for these wetland areas."

Worthington said the attitude of city officials is encouraging from an environmental standpoint. "We've shown some clear evidence of wanting to preserve areas in the past with the institution of the wetlands

Worthington: 'It is certainly not too late to save these areas. I am impressed with the number of wetlands in Novi and the number still quite intact and unaffected by man.'

ordinance and other preservation acts such as the woodlands ordinance. The concern is there."

The study was undertaken initially, according to Worthington, to field check the existing wetlands map with an eye to improving and updating as well as checking the map's accuracy.

"Once in a while I would find a wetland that is on the current map that doesn't in fact actually exist," Worthington reported. He also found that several wetlands areas were shown as much smaller on the map than they actually are.

The second goal of the study was to compile data on individual wetlands. This included listing the variety of species living in each area and what specific type of habitat the wetlands encompass, such as open water, marsh with emerging vegetation, or a forested wetland area.

As part of this process, Worthington made up individual maps of the Novi wetland areas showing the details of the habitat.

"I originally wanted to prioritize the different wetlands to see which ones are high priority and which are cludes evergreen trees, tamarac and black spruce trees."

The site also includes several species of unique plants including pitcher plants, carnivorous plants (insect-eating plants), unusual orchids and sphagnum moss, which is a very unique plant that is able to draw in water like a sponge and hold it, due to special cells.

In Novi, Worthington has come upon only two definite bogs. Bogs can be considered a rare habitat, although not necessarily rare in Michigan. "These bogs may be the only habitat in Novi where there might be any endangered or rare species," Worthington said.

Worthington has come to some preliminary conclusions based on his findings. "All wetlands are worthy of preservation and have important values that people can benefit from. It is perhaps well worth it to continue to study and find out more about them."

Worthington said the study began in mid-August and noted that many wildlife species do not exist year round. The seasonal changes observed in the wetland areas are very important to researchers and he would like more time to dig deeper.

"Wetland areas have different looks in each season. In spring they may be under inches of water, and have none in the summer," he said.

"One of my dreams for this study is to get the schools involved in studying wetlands," Worthington stated. "Middle school science teachers could develop programs where kids can study wetlands. They could take field trips and get involved."

Worthington said a number of values are attributed to wetland areas, but that for the most part they are subjective values that depend on a personal point of view.

The most important of these subjective values in Worthington's opinion is the fact that wetlands serve as a habitat for wildlife, both plants and animals, a wide number of which make use of the areas to survive.

In addition he sees wetlands as having many recreational values. "They can be used for different forms of recreation, from swimming and boating to bird watching, hunting and canoeing," he said.

One of the best known reasons for protecting wetland areas from an engineering standpoint is their hydrology values. Wetlands are used as natural storm water detention basins. Rain water flows naturally downhill and collects in low spots, where most wetlands are found.

The wetland areas slow down and hold the travelling rain water and release it in a haphazard way, so that there are no torrents of rain pouring over roadways. It greatly limits the effect of potential floods that could occur, Worthington said.

Wetlands also have important values for groundwater as the areas both feed into and are collecting points for groundwater. Worthington emphasized that groundwater was a complex issue about which not much is known at this time. For many people groundwater is a source of water and as such the proper preservation of wetlands is important, Worthington said.

The wetlands also have an obvious aesthetic value, according to Worthington. He said they are pleasing to the eye and break up the monotony of the landscape. "Wetland areas can be beautiful with wildflowers and animals such as wood ducks, deer, raccoon and great blue herons. You can experience wetlands with all of your senses," he said.

THE FARMINGTON HILLS COUNTRY CLUB is up for sale, according to James Culbertson, a club member and recent past president. The 135-acre golf course is located on the southeast corner of Twelve Mile and Haggerty Road, immediately east of Novi.

The Farmington Hills City Council voted recently to grant tax relief to the non-profit corporation which owns the golf course until a buyer for the property can be found. Under the terms of the abatement, the city gains control over development of the land, effectively leasing development rights for the term of the 10-year lease.

The abatement also permits the club to pay a residential tax rate, although the property is zoned for industrial research office (IRO). Plans call for the property to be developed with an office/industrial research park.

PLANS FOR A SINGLE-FAMILY SUBDIVISION have been recommended for approval by the West Bloomfield Township Planning Commission despite strong objections from local residents.

The proposed subdivision, Autumn Ridge Estates, will contain 103 single-family homes on 69 acres off Orchard Lake Road between Green and Walnut Lake roads. Developers say the homes will be more than 2,000 square feet and sell for more than $200,000 apiece.

Residents objected to the subdivision on the grounds that it will increase traffic on Green Road and impact school enrollments.

POLICE RAIDS ON TWO ORIENTAL HEALTH SPAS in Southfield have led to the arrest of five women on charges of accosting and soliciting. Three women were arrested at the Kimono Health Spa at 24445 Telegraph Road and two at the Shogun Oriental Health Spa at 23100 Telegraph Road.

Southfield police, working in conjunction with Michigan State Police and the United States Department of Justice, Immigration and Naturalization Service, conducted simultaneous raids at the two spas on Dec. 11 after a six-month investigation by the Southfield Police Department's investigation division/vice unit.

More than 60 health spas have opened in Michigan in recent years. A total of 125 women have been arrested on charges related to prostitution and illicit sex in Oriental health spas. Spas have brought alleged prostitution activities to the suburbs and appear to be tied through a loose-knit network. There is speculation the spas are linked to organized crime.

CHILD CARE PROVIDERS IN FARMINGTON HILLS are in violation of a city ordinance and may be subject to misdemeanor violations calling for 90 days in jail and $500 fines.

Opposition to the ordinance is being led by Darlene Feldman, one of 23 state-licensed home day care operators in the city and 955 in Oakland County who care for children in their homes.

Feldman is proposing an ordinance change which calls for "state-certified quality home day care" as a "permitted accessory use of land in an RA-1, or single family residential zone" and that "such use is not subject to special conditions."

Ron Fritz leads Novi grapplers at mat tourney

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

Novi wrestling mentor Tom Fritz was a very proud coach and parent following last Saturday's Riverview Invitational.

Fritz's son Ron paced the Wildcat team to a fifth-place finish in the 15-team event by snatching a first in the 167-pound weight division. He was later named the "Outstanding Wrestler of the Tournament" for his performance.

Scott Brown, the second seed in 119, lived up to expectations by finishing second. Brown made it all the way to the finals unbeaten (including three pins) but then dropped a 6-3 decision to Carlson's Tom Calhoun, an opponent he'd beaten earlier this season.

Nutt, Schuster and Don Welch all lost to the eventual champs in the early rounds, but each managed to fight back in the consolation brackets to take third place overall.

Nutt, the fifth seed at 105, met top-seeded Kelly Schimmel of Trenton in the semi-finals and lost a close 5-4 decision. Nutt then rebounded to beat Aaron Dohanoyos of Aquinas 10-4 in the consolation finals to go 4-1 on the day.

Schuster lost an 8-4 decision to Steve Rose of Grosse Ile, the eventual champ at 155, in the semis for his only loss of the day, but was awarded third place when Scott Rutherford of Carlson defaulted in the consolation finals because of an injury.

The success of Welch is hardly a surprise any more. After losing to Mark Szymankiewicz of Carlson in the semis of the 198-pound division, Welch took third place by pinning Aquinas' Jeff Hatfield in the consolation finals. Welch, normally a heavyweight, moved down to take the place of injured Bret Keir and the results were very pleasing to Fritz.

"Don is doing an outstanding job for us — again," he said.

Fritz was pleased with the seven who placed, but was disappointed in the rest of the squad. Wrestlers like after losing 19-10 to Troy Eddy of Gladwin. Freshman Rob Ahrens looked impressive at heavyweight, placing fifth overall with a sparkling 4-1 record on the day. Ahrens only lost once in the first round to Carlson's Owen O'Neill.

Fritz was pleased with the seven who placed, but was disappointed in the rest of the squad. Wrestlers like Andy Price (132) and Kevin Maedy (111) were both seeded in the top five and both failed to win a single match.

"I was kind of disappointed with the team's overall performance," Fritz said. "We were disappointing by fiat."

The Wildcats won't have any room to be flat tomorrow (Thursday, Jan. 8) as they must take on defending KVC champs Milford on the road.

Metropark offers winter activities for outdoorsmen

Kensington Metropark, one of the most popular winter playgrounds in southeastern Michigan, has facilities for ice skating, tobogganing, sledding, cross-country skiing and ski rental service, ice fishing, nature hikes, farm center activities and photography.

General skating and hockey rinks are located on Kent Lake in front of the Boat Rental Building. Skating hours are 10 a.m. to dusk Monday through Thursday and 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays (weather permitting). The building has a heated lounge, fireplace, restrooms and food service. Building hours are Monday through Thursday 10 a.m. to dusk and Friday, Saturdays, Sundays and holidays 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., with daily hours of 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. during Christmas vacation period (Dec. 23-Jan. 2).

The hilly slopes at the toboggan area are ideal for sledding and tobogganing with two runs and a separate area for beginning and advanced sledding. A nearby shelter has a fireplace and tables for snacks. Hours are 2 p.m. to dusk Monday through Friday and 10 a.m.

to dusk on Saturdays, Sundays and Christmas vacation week.

Cross-country skiing is very popular in Kensington Metropark with 15 miles of groomed trails covering all types of terrain radiating from the Ski Touring Center. Skiing also is permitted on the golf course, where the open space makes it appealing for novice skiers of all ages.

Cross-country ski rental service is offered (weather permitting) at the Ski Touring Center (located at the Golf Course Starter Building) with complete rental equipment available.

Many fishing shanties dot Kent Lake during the peak winter months as fishermen try to catch bluegills, crappies and pike. In addition, the natural trails are open year-around with bird feeding stations and animal tracks of special interest in the winter time.

A vehicle entry permit is required for entrance to the park. Fees are $2 daily, $10 annually ($5 for senior citizens). For ice and snow conditions call Kensington toll-free at 1-800-24-PARKS.

Mustang star narrows choices

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

"There's no place like home." That, in a nutshell, is how Tony Briningstool is facing up to his selection of a college.

Northville's blue chip gridiron star said he'd narrow the schools he'll consider to attend by the first of the year, and he did. His decision should be regarded as good news for local football fans.

Briningstool says he will only make three official recruiting visits (the NCAA allows five) before making the big decision Feb. 11, and it's safe to predict that he will select either Michigan State or Notre Dame on that day. He announced Jan. 2 that those three would be the finalists in the Briningstool sweepstakes.

"I've decided to visit just three because I know I want to go to one of those three schools," he said. "I thought it would be wise to narrow it down; this makes it easier on everybody."

Briningstool said three others — were all in the running, but the distance factor aided in their elimination from consideration.

"I would have visited those schools if we didn't have such good college scholarship programs so close to home. I didn't want to give those others false hope when I have pretty much decided on either MSU, Michigan or Notre Dame."

The first visit, to MSU, was taken Jan. 5. Briningstool is being recruited by linebackers coach Norm Parker, a member of Head Coach George Perles' staff, and he reports that the visit to East Lansing was a success.

"It all went very well and it helped me a whole lot," he said. "I had a lot of fun."

Briningstool's next visit will be Jan. 17 to Notre Dame as the guest of quarterback coach Mike Skala, a former head coach at Eastern Michigan and now on Lou Holtz' staff. The final visit will take place Jan. 24 in Ann Arbor. Briningstool's U-M recruiter is Defensive Coordinator Gary Moeller, the former head coach at Illinois.

"The good thing about my recruiters from U-M and MSU is that both would be my position coach at that school," he noted. "After I've taken all the visits, I'll decide because it puts you right in the school's atmosphere and you can see what they are like first hand."

Published by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), the nation's largest statewide sportsmen's federation, "Michigan Steelheading" contains more than 90 pages of information on steelhead fishing in Michigan streams and Great Lakes waters.

Written by Mike Modrzyński of Oscoda, a U.S. Air Force Technical Sergeant and freelance outdoor writer and photographer, the guide is a standard reference for beginning and experienced steelhead anglers.

from former Northville stars like Steve Judy, who quarterbacked the Spartans to national prominence in the mid '60s under Duffy Daugherty, and Ernie Cook, currently a walk-on player for the Wolverines. Judy, who was being honored at the All-State High School Football banquet in December, talked to Briningstool about Michigan State and later visited over the holidays while in town visiting relatives.

"The All-State banquet was the first time I'd met (Judy) and that was the biggest excitement of the night for me," Briningstool said. "I've wanted to meet him for so long. Then a week ago he called me on the phone and has been a real help. I felt really comfortable with him."

Bock, who just completed his junior season as a cornerback under Bo Schembacher, was an All-Area honorable mention selection back in 1983 and graduated from Northville in 1984.

"He's been a big help too," Briningstool said of Bock. "I talked to him last week and he helped answer a lot of my questions."

Steelhead fishing is topic of guide

A comprehensive guide to steelhead fishing in Michigan is now available to sportsmen and women throughout Michigan and the Great Lakes area.

There are maps and guides to streams in all regions of Michigan's upper and lower peninsulas.

"Michigan Steelheading" is generously illustrated and covers the habits of the steelhead, along with tackle and tactics that anglers use to catch steelhead in Michigan waters.

MUCC is a non-profit corporation. All proceeds from the sale of the book will be used to further the organizations' conservation and education efforts in the Great Lakes area.

Coach's son coming on strong

Neil Geoghegan

Riverview Invite, and the undisputed star was Ron Fritz.

Most know by now that Ron is the son of Wildcat Coach Tom Fritz. It is also fairly well known in local wrestling circles that the younger Fritz knows his stuff — that he is an excellent wrestler. The fact that Ron is just a junior and still has a whole season of action ahead of him next year should tell you something.

Ron's dad is one of the most respected coaches in Michigan so it isn't very surprising to see his son excel in the sport. More and more in high school and college sports you see players who are the sons or daughters of coaches. According to CBS's Billy Packer, these kids generally make outstanding players in their given sport because they are being taught year-around from someone who really cares.

OFFSPRING POWER: It may have been a slow week in sports as most high school teams still enjoy the tail end of the holiday break, but area wrestlers got their traditional early start with tournament action last weekend. For Novy it was the Riverview Invite, and the undisputed star was Ron Fritz.

With such an accomplished teacher around all the time, Ron Fritz entered the high school wrestling scene far ahead of most anybody else. At Riverview, Ron dominated his opponent in the finals of the 167-pound weight division to take first place and the tournament MVP award. Ron's foe was 20-0 heading in and seeded number one but it didn't seem to matter.

This performance isn't anything new, but it may have been Ron's most prominent accomplishment so far — it's a good indication of his abilities. Being the coach's son can also put added pressure on a youngster because the expectations are so great, but Ron Fritz met and exceeded all that last Saturday. If he continues to improve, Ron could easily be one of the area's finest and possibly one of the best wrestlers in the state next year during his senior season.

MORE WRESTLING: While on the subject of Novy wrestling, the rest of the Kensington Valley Conference is starting to take notice. The Wildcats don't appear to be a weak sister this season in the league, but just how far up the ladder Fritz's squad can move still depends on a lot of factors.

Will Bret Keir recover quickly from his broken rib and how long will it be before he can get back into action? Can Fritz find the right combinations to make his line-up strong enough in dual meets to be competitive with the elite of the KVC? Will guys like Don Welch, Andy Price and Dan Brogan continue to improve and continue to provide solid support for the Wildcats in their supposed "suspect" weight divisions?

So far this season Novy has yet to lose a dual meet and has looked impressive in all four tournaments. The team's sixth place finish in the Oakland County Championships proves what this team can accomplish if it has the drive, determination and discipline to get it done. With Fritz as coach, that area shouldn't be much of a problem when the going gets tough — like against Lakeland on Jan. 15 or against Howell on Jan. 23.

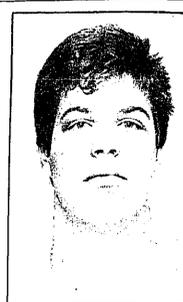

SCORING UPDATE: Novy basketball guard Joe Miskovich ranks among the top four scorers so far this season in the KVC (not including Brighton) with a 16.2 average. In the Wildcat's five pre-holiday games, the 6-3 senior scored in double figures in every one. The only players ahead of Miskovich are Max Strychar of South Lyon (19.8), Denny Butcher of Lakeland (18.2) and Mark Koronka of South Lyon (16.2).

Miskovich's backcourt mate, Jeff Tanderys, is averaging two assists per game more than any other player. After five games, Tanderys has dished off an average of 8.2 assists per game. The next highest is Hartland's Tom Creameans with 6. Other Novi players in the top 10 statistically are Dave Skown (10th in scoring with an 11.4 average and ninth in rebounding with 7.0 average) and Brian Schram (eighth in rebounding with 7.2 average).

Wildcats of the Week

RON FRITZ

DON WELCH

A lot is expected of Ron Fritz, a junior on the Novi wrestling team, because his father just happens to be the Wildcat coach. Last weekend, Ron didn't disappoint anyone with a truly outstanding effort in the Riverview Invite. Fritz helped Novy place fifth out of 15 teams at the tournament by winning the 167-pound championship. He was named the "Outstanding Wrestler of the Week" honor as well. Fritz advanced to the finals with three routine wins and then soundly beat Grosse Ile's Ray Jurecki on a 6-3 decision. Juriski entered the tourney as the top seed with a 20-0 record.

Don Welch's accomplishments in his first year as a wrestler were unique at first — now they are commonplace. The senior has given Novi a much-needed lift in the upper weight classes. At last Saturday's Riverview Invite, Welch, wrestling at 198 instead of heavyweight in place of the injured Bret Keir, placed third overall, his only loss coming to the eventual champion. The effort was enough to warrant "Wildcat of the Week" accolades. After losing to Gibraltar's Carlsson's Mark Szymankiewicz in the semis, Welch bounced back to pin Aquinas' Jeff Hatfield in the consolation finals to finish third.

Alumni game aided good cause

For the second consecutive year, the Novi Alumni basketball night provided a good work out for all the Wildcat cage teams, gave the fans a fun and exciting evening of basketball and helped to raise funds for the Varsity Club.

Osborne: 'The whole night was a lot of fun. The games were close, and it was a good work out. We want to continue this event next year if we can find an open day for it — but that may be difficult. We will try to work it out.'

Shankel seven and Steve Cody, Leonard Stachowski and Parsons each chipped in six.

For the varsity, Joe Miskovich led all scorers with 19. Matt Kamish was next with 16, Dave Skown added 10 and Brian Schram seven.

The second game featured a battle between the Novi varsity reserves and a combination faculty and alumni team. It was also a close game but the faculty-alumni squad squeaked out a 69-57 win. In the first game, the Novi junior varsity team defeated the Novi freshman squad.

The night culminated with a dunk contest, and 1986 grad Bret Gillen won his second crown in a row. Current Wildcat point guard Jeff Tanderys was the runner-up. Steve Shankel, a starter on last year's team, placed third.

"The whole night was a lot of fun," Osborne said. "The games were close, and it was a good work out. We want to continue this event next year if we can find an open day for it — but that may be difficult. We will try to work it out."

Featured on the card last Friday (Jan. 2) were three basketball games and a dunk contest. Wildcat Athletic Director John Osborne said the idea for the event came from Redford Union High School, which has been sponsoring a similar alumni game for several years.

"Last year we decided to try it," Osborne said. "We had an open Friday in our boys basketball schedule at the start of the year because our league has an odd number of teams (seven). It proved to be a good way to get our teams back into synch after the holiday layover and to set up a fund raiser."

Following two preliminary games, a group of former Wildcat players took on the current varsity starters in the featured attraction. In a nip-and-tuck affair, the alumni pulled out an exciting 59-58 win on a last-minute shot by Todd Parsons.

"It was a good one," Osborne said. "It was close all the way."

After four lead changes in the final four minutes, the varsity had a one-point lead until Parsons hit a jump shot with 25 seconds left to put the alumni team in front. The varsity then worked the clock down to 10 seconds, called a time out and diagramed a final play. It turned out to be a good play, but the Wildcats couldn't get the shot to fall at the buzzer.

Tully Gillick (class of 1985) and Lou Balough ('79) paced the balanced alumni scoring with 10 points each. Terry Haren added eight, Steve

Eggly realizes dream of new pastry shop

Joseph Eggly has had a dream since he was 15 years old. He wanted to own his own pastry shop.

It has taken Eggly nearly 20 years to turn that dream into a reality, but thanks to a supportive group of friends, his mother, wife and two young daughters, Eggly's dream has come true with the grand opening of Joseph's Pastry Shoppe in Northville.

'I fell in love with the town all over again and decided it was the perfect spot to open the pastry store.'

— Joseph Eggly

Eggly, 34, had hoped to open the store at 144 Mary Alexander Court, by Christmas — "just in time to have the wedding cake on order for a Dec. 21 wedding at Greenfield Village made at the new store" — but new electric wiring and some last minute plumbing repairs postponed the opening.

Eggly doesn't particularly mind the delay in opening his own bakery. He has used the time to familiarize himself and his steady group of 70 to 100 customers with the community he will be servicing, as well as to continue to experiment in his Ferndale home.

"It's kind of surprising that people on the west side aren't very familiar with Northville," Eggly says. "But I've been talking to my steady customers and they are willing to drive the extra distance to Northville. They're beginning to fall in love with the town, just like I did."

Eggly says he had some familiarity with Northville, since he used to ride his bicycle from Garden City, where he grew up, to Northville. But he admits it had been a long time since he had seen the community, and as an adult, he found it "charming."

It was almost accidental that Eggly found the spot to open his shop. Long-time friends Carolyn Dunphy and her daughter, Maureen Dunphy, had invited Eggly to lunch at Genit's.

"I fell in love with the town all over again and decided it was the perfect spot to open the pastry store," Eggly says. He adds that he had another impetus. "Rents were more reasonable than in Birmingham or Farmington Hills."

While Eggly admits he is the pastry expert, he also has familiarity with wiring, plumbing and even automobile repair.

"I learned all that from my mother. She's just one of those people who can do almost anything," he says. He adds that his friends, some gained during his school days and training at Oakland Community College, others through his career as a chef and baker at Jacques Le Petit Prince, Wayne State University and through his work with Joseph Decker and Yvonne Gill, have all contributed to make Joseph's Pastry Shoppe a reality.

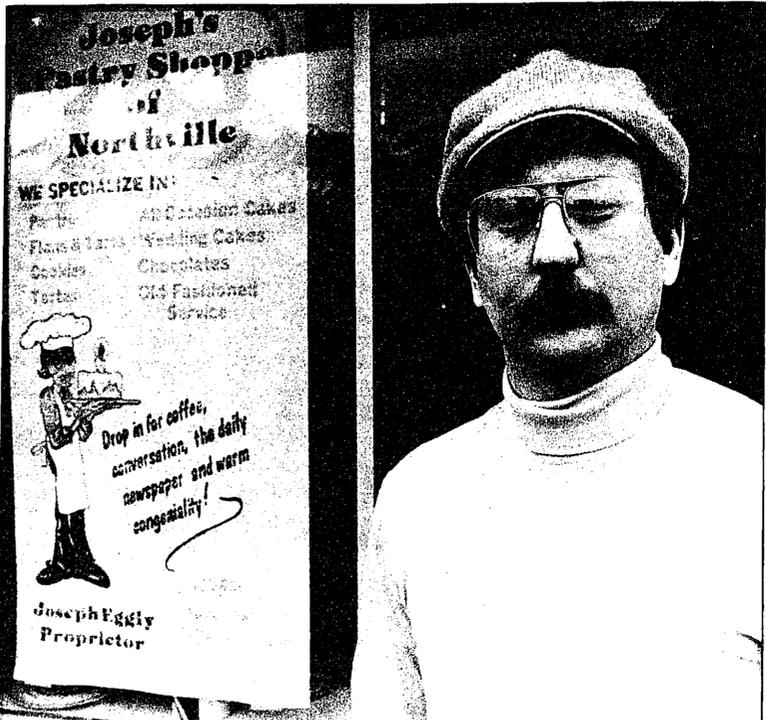

"One friend, who's almost a master electrician, helped with the wiring, another, who's an attorney, helped with drawing up the papers and some friends, whose training wasn't really relevant to the store, helped with child care so my wife and I could work at the store," Eggly says.

Once it opens, Joseph's Pastry Shoppe will carry pastries, cakes, tarts, cookies, croissants — all made fresh daily by Joseph, as well as chocolates and candies by Gayle's Chocolates.

In addition, Eggly says, tables will be provided so people can relax and enjoy coffees, teas and herbal teas along with their pastries.

Eggly says he tries to use locally purchased ingredients in his creations and adds that he intends to buy his creams from Guernsey Dairy and produce from local outlets.

Joseph's Pastry Shoppe will be open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. The telephone number is 344-1015.

Joseph Eggly's new pastry shop is scheduled to open on Mary Alexander Court in Northville this week

A Class Act

Whether you're selling dancing lessons, renting tuxedos or just looking for a new top hat, you'll need to pick the right partner before stepping out on the town. That's where we step in. We're Sliger-Livingston Publications, publishers of the Green Sheet classified ads.

Through the Green Sheet, we can give your act a receptive audience. For just $5.74 (non-commercial rate) we will place your 10-word classified ad in the Wednesday Green Sheet Plus Three. The Wednesday Green Sheet is the classified section which appears in each of our six community newspapers. The "Plus Three" includes three shopping guides in Fowlerville, Hartland and Pinckney.

With just one local phone call, we can place your ad in the Wednesday Green Sheet Plus Three and your advertising message can play in over 65,000 households in Livingston County, Brighton, South Lyon, Milford, Northville and Novi.

If you're looking to saturate a specific area on Monday with your advertisement, we have three other shopping guides, all delivered free to provide total market coverage. They are the Monday Green Sheet, serving Livingston County, South Lyon and Milford; the Green Sheet Shopping Guide, serving Dexter and Chelsea, and the Highland Shopping Guide. Again, just one phone call will put your ad in the spotlight.

For your convenience, you can place your classified ad in the Green Sheet or our shopping guides through any one of these local phone numbers:

It's an easy, classic dish

Story by Rick Byrne

If you listen to what the ads on television tell you, you know that "soup is good food." Just how good is it?

If you're talking about ease of preparation, soup is a godsend. Basically, if you can boil water, you can cook soup.

In fact, it's the oldest cooking technique in the world. Once our cave-dwelling ancestors discovered fire, they were well on the way to mastery of soup-cooking techniques. Ancient man heated stones in the fire, and put the red-hot stones in a hollowed-out tree trunk filled with water. The water would boil, the cook would toss in anything edible that was around and voilà, soup.

From primitive beginnings, soup has aged gracefully. Though most commercially available soups are marketed, researched and processed, there's still something nostalgic and wholesome about a can of vegetable, chicken noodle or cream of tomato soup.

Even if you're hopeless in the kitchen, you don't have to buy a can from a store to enjoy soup. Soup recipes are generally very forgiving, and you can make additions or deletions to suit your taste.

Best of all, most soups are prepared from familiar ingredients, and you can often prepare them well ahead of the time you want to serve them.

Soup leftovers store well, too. Except for recipes which use fish or a fish base (which will keep no more than a day or two), soup can be stored in the refrigerator for as long as a week.

Freezing increases the life expectancy to as long as six months. If the recipe contains potatoes, however, they will get mealy in the freezer.

Your best bet is to leave the spuds out, and add them to taste when you reheat.

One interesting technique we've heard for saving soup is to pour it into an ice cube tray, freeze it and pop the "soup cubes" into a bag. Then you can thaw only as much as you need, using three or four cubes per serving. Nutritionally speaking, soup can be a healthy addition to any well-balanced diet.

Patricia Roach, head dietician in ambulatory care at the University of Michigan Medical Center said, "Soups can be a good source of vegetables, and they tend to be lower in fat."

The one caveat Roach pointed out concerned the sodium content of soup.

"The main drawback to commercially available soups is that they all have high levels of sodium," she said. "A cup of canned soup can contain as much as one-quarter to one-half teaspoon of salt. If you were making your own at home you wouldn't use that much salt."

Roach said that while there is some controversy over how much sodium is healthy or unhealthy for adults, most health organizations put the upper limit at between 2,000 and 4,000 milligrams per day.

A cup (8 ounces) of soup will contain about 800-900 milligrams, and most regular-size cans contain two or more one-cup servings. If you're the kind who likes to finish off a can of Campbell's vegetable soup on your own, you should probably cut back and watch your daily sodium intake by reading labels.

According to Roach, you are better off eating homemade soup.

"If we were to rate the ways of preparing soup) the best rating would be for a homemade soup made with some kind of lean meat, low in fat and low in sodium," she said. "For creamy soups you can use skim milk."

Soup is good for those trying to lose weight, too.

Caloric content ranges from 40 calories per cup for a simple broth to as many as 180 calories per cup for a creamy, chunky, stick-to-the-ribs kind of soup. That is still considerably less than the number of calories in an average sandwich. The sandwich will, however, provide you with more protein than the soup.

"We work in soup in patterns for dieters, if it's something that they like," said Roach.

She added that canned soups are not a problem for dieters, because they are relatively low in fat.

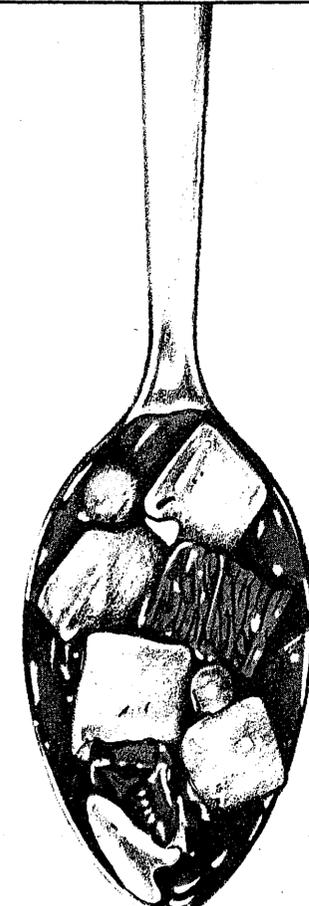

"Even if they have fat in them," she said, "you can chill the can before you're ready to cook it, and the fat will rise to the top. Then you can skim the fat off and save yourself 40 or 50 calories."

She added that soups which contain high-fiber ingredients will make you feel fuller.

So, unlike some of your other favorite foods, you can eat soup and do it with a clear conscience. Don't go overboard though.

"Soup shouldn't become a mainstay," said Roach. "We don't recommend that with any food. We recommend moderation and variety, using the four basic food groups, and soup can work into that concept."

Roach added that if you have any dietary questions about soup or any other food, the University of Michigan Medical Center operates a nutrition counseling service. The service's number in Ann Arbor is 936-7527.

Soups from the store also score

The only problem with homemade soups is that it takes time to make them.

And unless you're fortunate enough to have a big cauldron already stored away in the refrigerator waiting to be reheated, chances are you'll be denied the benefits of a steaming bowl of soup after coming in from ice skating or cross-country skiing.

Unless, of course, your cupboard is stocked with any of several varieties of commercial soups that can be heated up in just a matter of minutes. Here are four soups available in most grocery stores that will warm your cockles on cold winter days. Enjoyment is just a few twists of the can opener away.

Home Cookin' Soup: One of several special brands made by Campbell's, the Home Cookin' Soups feature full-flavored stock with plenty of meat and vegetables.

Rieber's Norwegian Fish Soup Mix: That's right. It's a mix, but it's just as good as many of the soups which go directly from the can into the pan. Rieber, Scandinavia's leading producer of fine quality soup mixes, catches fresh fish and shellfish daily from the waters off the Norwegian coast and rushes them to a nearby plant for processing. Add white wine and sour cream for a special treat.

Dominique's: These soups come from original recipes in Dominique's world-famous restaurants and contain no artificial flavorings or colorings. Recommended is the Lentil Sausage soup which features smoked bratwurst.

Hobo Soup: Is it soup or is it stew? That question is testimony to the amount of meat and vegetables to be found in Hobo Soup, which includes beans, potatoes, carrots, tomatoes, celery, onions, bacon and turnips.

Hobo Soup was born in the creative mind of Lem Kaercher, a small-town newspaper publisher in Ortonville, Minn., who ventured into the "jungle" of Ortonville in 1953 in search of a story on the legendary "King of the Hobos." He never found the King, but he was treated to some original hobo soup which he later began to market in 1960.

'Tis the season for homemade soup

One of the nicest things about winter is that it's the season for well "seasoned" homemade soup.

Nothing tastes better after a long drive home over slippery roads. Or maybe you've been out skiing, cross country or downhill, and you need to warm up fast. Soup's not a bad follow-up to an afternoon of ice skating or ice fishing, either. In fact, homemade soup goes great just about any time.

You may want to try these home-style soups on your loved ones this month — or this week.

PASTA VA ZIUL

Two medium potatoes (diced or cubed)
One-half pound elbow noodles (macaroni)
One medium can lima beans
One small can tomato sauce, or you may use a cup of left-over spaghetti sauce
A pinch each of basil and oregano
Parboil potatoes in 1½ quarts salted water. Do not overcook the potatoes, reduce heat and skin the water to clear it.
Add sauce, herbs, noodles (bring water to boil), reduce heat and simmer until noodles are medium tender (add more liquid to provide a soupy consistency). Lima beans may be added with the liquid from the can, making the mixture more like soup. Heat just until beans are warmed through. Remove from heat. Makes 4-6 small servings.

CORN SAUSAGE CHOWDER

One pound bulk pork sausage
One small onion diced
Two 17-ounce cans cream-style corn
One 12-ounce package frozen hash browns
Three cups water
One six-ounce can evaporated milk
One-half teaspoon salt

Four ounces shredded cheddar cheese
Cook sausage with onion until meat is browned, drain off fat. Add corn, potatoes, water, milk and salt and heat to boiling. Reduce heat, simmer covered 15 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Stir in cheese until cheese melts. Makes 6-8 servings.

CHICKEN RICE SOUP

Six cups chicken stock
One-half cup raw brown rice

One-third cup onion, diced
One-third cup celery, diced
Two tablespoons oil
One cup cooked, diced chicken
Salt
Tamari soy sauce to taste
Two tablespoons chopped parsley

Heat stock to boiling and add rice. Simmer 35 minutes. Sauté celery and onion in oil five minutes and add to soup. Add diced chicken and correct seasonings. Just before serving, top with parsley. Makes six servings.

CHICKEN STOCK

Three pounds chicken backs, necks and wings or one or two turkey backs (can also use one whole stewing chicken, if desired)
Cold water to cover and salt to taste
One medium onion, peeled and quartered
One stalk celery with leaves Place meat and bones in six-quart container with water. Bring slowly to boil. Reduce heat, cover with lid, simmer slowly for two hours. Remove from heat, strain, cool and refrigerate. When stock is cooled, remove hardened fat. Can be used in variety of recipes. (Published in Rodale Cookbook).

CREAMY CAULIFLOWER OR BROCCOLI SOUP

Two cups water
One medium head cauliflower (two pounds) broken into florets, or six cups cauliflowerettes
Three-quarters cup thinly sliced celery (use leaves too)
One-half cup chopped onion
One tablespoon lemon juice
Two tablespoons margarine or butter
Two tablespoons flour
Two and one-half cups water
One-two tablespoons instant chicken bouillon
One-half teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
Dash of ground nutmeg
One-half cup whipping cream (not whipped)
Grated cheese (optional)
Heat two cups water to boiling in three-quart saucepan, add cauliflower, celery.

Family activity

You don't have to look very far to find a wholesome activity for the entire family to enjoy if you live in Novi. Just head down to the Novi Public Library and you'll find all kinds of reading materials and activities geared for every age group. Novi's Burns family seems to have discovered that fact already as Michael Burns checks through the library's reference collection while children Pamela and Mike Jr. browse through books that they find of interest.

Michigan recipes featured

To celebrate Michigan's sesquicentennial, the Michigan Restaurant Association (MRA) is offering a collection of recipes from restaurants across the state. Participating restaurants were asked to submit recipes from two categories — those popular 150 years ago and those made from all-Michigan products. The collection features recipes from such notable establishments as the Amway Grand Plaza Hotel in Grand Rapids, Machus Red Fox in Birmingham, Periwinkle's in Brighton and Van Dyke Place in Detroit.

Unusual dishes such as string bean and grapefruit salad, watercress and lake trout bisque, and venison of snapping turtle with white beans are featured alongside old favorites created with two twists. Wild leek and potato soup, smoked stuffed tomatoes, and walnut-crushed breast of pheasant are some of the innovative variations on standard fare. MRA Chairman John Correll said the collection consists of over 60 recipes — everything from appetizers to desserts. Each page of the collection is copied from the original stationery of the restaurant submitting the recipe and reflects the personality and tastes of the various establishments. To order a copy of the collection send $3 (for postage, printing and handling) along with your name and address to Sesquicentennial Recipe Collection, Michigan Restaurant Association, 690 E. Maple — Suite 205, Birmingham, MI 48011.

Novi student earns VFW award

Craig Cowden, a junior at Novi High School, was one of two winners of the annual Voice of Democracy oratorical contest sponsored by Garden City Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 7575.

Cowden, the son of Ronald and Phyllis Cowden, entered the Garden City VFW contest because the Novi VFW post does not sponsor a contest. His father is principal of Garden City High School.

"The Challenge of American Citizenship" was the theme of the contest in which entrants provided a tape of three to five minutes for judges to hear.

Cowden will receive a certificate and a $100 U.S. savings bond as well as the right to compete for a college scholarship. This year's contest is the 40th sponsored by the national veterans organization.

Following is the text of Cowden's award-winning essay.

"The sun filtered through the rippling leaves of the giant maple silhouetting a pattern of dancing shadows against the white chalk of the starting line. I slowly jogged in place, reliving the knot of nerves uncoiling like a snake in my stomach and relaxing my tense muscles before the start of my last cross-country race of the season.

Repeatedly, I stretched my legs, deeply swaying from side to side, alternating with long bends from the waist to touch the ground. For I know by now that if I were not physically conditioned, no amount of mental concentration would produce the quick start and sustaining endurance I needed to complete the five kilometer race.

"I glanced around at my teammates' tense faces and saw that each of us was going through the same mental calisthenics and physical preparation. It didn't matter if it were the last race of the year or the first. What mattered was that each of us individually would rise to the challenge of doing our best.

"All the while, my mind was a kaleidoscope of recollection — remembering the season ritual of my dad and I going to purchase shoes and how we bent to the pressures of an animated sales clerk. After all, if we were going to be successful, we had to start with the proper equipment, my dad always boasted.

"I recalled how the luster of the new Tiger training shoes and the Nike racing flats faded under the grueling training. Every day, through pelting rain, under penetrating sun, on hard surfaces, through muddy bogs, up hills, down hills, we ran. First we accomplished three miles, then six, and then 10. And, when we weren't doing that, we were on the track, running sprints over and over again. The pace was exhausting and the inclination to quit was overwhelming. But, somehow I clung to the challenge to continue.

"At times, I would be devastatingly disappointed because there was so little public recognition of cross-country. There were no hoards of cheering fans or grandstands of enthusiastic spectators. But over these past three years, I learned that the reward for a runner was truly rooted in individual accomplishment, in the satisfaction of breaking physical barriers and of setting personal goals and meeting them.

"The ultimate realization was for each of us to weave that personal achievement into pattern of team spirit and pride. For the team was only as good as the commitment and performance of each of us individually. Doggedly, the challenge continued.

"As I reflect on the experience of my last race, I have become aware of how the challenge of running so closely parallels the challenge of American citizenship. For, as I see it, effective citizenship requires equipment, preparation, conditioning and, ultimately, the actualization of being a part of the American team.

"First of all, I needed the 'proper' equipment to learn to become a good citizen. My world history and United States history classes gave me not only a global awareness, but also an understanding of America's developmental and its place on the international scene. My government units provided me with information concerning the nation's and the community's operations and their political significance.

"Newspaper, magazines and books keep me informed about issues, elections and candidates. Television, videos and films visually present a panorama of the American setting. Continually, the challenge is to extract, assimilate and be aware of learning.

"Secondly, I need to use the equipment to prepare and to discipline myself to be a good citizen. That means becoming knowledgeable by studying issues and working for candidates in my community and in my school. It means being a part of a church as well as being in community and school activities to broaden my own experiences and to help those who need support. For the American spirit has always been most fulfilled when it is involved in humanitarian activity.

"Preparation means challenging my mind by taking classes that will prepare me to become an independent and productive member of society. Preparation means defending the freedom of another person to speak out. Preparation is becoming an individual and daring to say 'no' when peer pressure is great. It means facing adversity and hardships, but learning from the experience and rising again to the challenge. It means being ever conscious of the sacrifices of those that have defended this land and of being proud to sing 'The Star Spangled Banner' and chant the 'Pledge of Allegiance.'

"I have come to realize that citizenship is more than a birthright. Rather, it's a lifetime of conditioning and practice. Oliver Wendell Holmes once said, 'Life is action and passion.' Truly, he must have meant that action requires a dedication to discipline, individuality and commitment, tempered with humility. The reward is becoming a part of America's team. It means risk taking and learning how to fail as well as to win, for out of failure evolves the strength of purpose to continue the challenge.

"My mind snaps back to the present as I plant my foot at the edge of the starting line prone to lunge at the crack of the starting gun. One last clasped hands among my team solidifies the unity of the moment and serves as a reminder of the goal ahead.

"Whatever the outcome, I know that the discipline and training of the past have brought me to the present ready for action and confident of the challenge ahead. America is waiting and I accept the challenge of that race."

Place soup bones or roast in large, heavy kettle and cover with cold water. Bring to a boil and boil about five minutes. Skim off residue that rises to top of water. Add onion soup mix and tomatoes, bring back to boil and then turn heat to simmer for 2-3 hours, covered, or until meat is tender. Add barley for about last half-hour. You may add more water or tomatoes with bouillon if liquid cooks down too much.

Remove meat from cooking liquid and put in uncooked vegetables. Turn heat up enough to cook these (don't overcook vegetables so that they are mushy) while you cut meat off bones or cut roast into bite-size pieces. Add more water or tomatoes to kettle if mixture seems too thick. Return meat to kettle, add the leftover vegetables and seasonings to taste. Simmer briefly. Makes 6-8 good-sized servings.

If you make the soup a day ahead, you can easily skim off fat before reheating the next day.

EARTH QUAKE

How children coped with Mexico City disaster

BY ANN CHOWDHURY

They were the ones who had the regressions more than the children and we were expecting the adults to be able to support their kids.

"They just couldn't pay attention to the children's needs, to their regressive symptoms and the children started with anxiety reactions. They couldn't fall asleep; they didn't want to go outside or away from their parents. They were really hurting, but nevertheless, the adults would say, 'I need to pay attention to myself right now, what about me?'"

The psychiatrists noted that the children, left to their own devices, began to organize themselves and cope with the after effects of the earthquake in their games.

"They were taking the earthquake. Buildings, dramatized by them, were falling down and they were restituting themselves through this game playing."

A second earthquake hit the area the next day and many of the buildings that had been damaged, but had not fallen during the first one, now fell. Many adults took this as an omen that the city had to be totally destroyed.

"Mexico, being such a large Catholic country with such a low cultural and socio-economic population, is very fanatical in their religious beliefs," Katz said.

"They began to talk about Dec. 12 the day of the Virgin of Guadalupe, as the day the third quake would be and that it would destroy them because they had been such bad people."

Children, according to Katz, ignored such warnings of catastrophe and continued with their games.

After about three weeks, the schools opened again. The psychiatrists found the children, once back in school, asked for more pertinent and realistic questions about the earthquake than the adults had been doing.

"They really wanted the facts and were not prepared to accept fanatical beliefs. They asked what to expect if there were another earthquake and asked for drills to help them prepare."

Since earthquake drills have been the practice in Mexican schools, the teachers told them that perhaps it would be better to wait until "somebody" told them what to do.

Children, according to Katz, ignored such warnings of catastrophe and continued with their games.

After about three weeks, the schools opened again. The psychiatrists found the children, once back in school, asked for more pertinent and realistic questions about the earthquake than the adults had been doing.

"They really wanted the facts and were not prepared to accept fanatical beliefs. They asked what to expect if there were another earthquake and asked for drills to help them prepare."

Since earthquake drills have been the practice in Mexican schools, the teachers told them that perhaps it would be better to wait until "somebody" told them what to do.

They were the ones who had the regressions more than the children and we were expecting the adults to be able to support their kids.

"They just couldn't pay attention to the children's needs, to their regressive symptoms and the children started with anxiety reactions. They couldn't fall asleep; they didn't want to go outside or away from their parents. They were really hurting, but nevertheless, the adults would say, 'I need to pay attention to myself right now, what about me?'"

The psychiatrists noted that the children, left to their own devices, began to organize themselves and cope with the after effects of the earthquake in their games.

"They were taking the earthquake. Buildings, dramatized by them, were falling down and they were restituting themselves through this game playing."

A second earthquake hit the area the next day and many of the buildings that had been damaged, but had not fallen during the first one, now fell. Many adults took this as an omen that the city had to be totally destroyed.

"Mexico, being such a large Catholic country with such a low cultural and socio-economic population, is very fanatical in their religious beliefs," Katz said.

"They began to talk about Dec. 12 the day of the Virgin of Guadalupe, as the day the third quake would be and that it would destroy them because they had been such bad people."

Travel the World . . . by Film

By NICOLE ROBERTSON

Once they were society events at which the Detroit Institute of Arts turned away 1,000 people a night.

The travelogue isn't quite as popular as it once was, but it is still an easy, inexpensive way to see some exotic sites we might never see any other way.

A travelogue is an armchair visit to an exotic land, with a travel guide to answer questions and tell more about the sights they present. The word has come to be used for simple slide shows presented of interesting locales shared with friends, but true travelogues are full-length, color feature films with live narration by the explorers who filmed them.

Kenard Lawrence, director of the Detroit Institute of Arts World Adventure Series, said the program started by George Pierrot during the Depression is still alive and well in its 54th year. The stage which was once graced by adventurers such as flyer Amelia Earhart, polar explorer Richard Byrd, photojournalist Lowell Thomas and undersea explorer William Beebe.

"We're the premier presenters of travelogues," said Lawrence. "What we offer is vicarious travel."

"Our audiences fall into three categories: those who have been to a place come to relive their memories or see something they may have missed, those who are planning to go somewhere and want (a preview), and those who are travelogue aficionados who would come regardless of what the program is."

The travelogue season at the Detroit Institute of Arts runs from October to March with weekly shows Sundays at 2:30 p.m. and Thursday matinees at 10:30 a.m. Admission ranges from $2.75 to $4. Upcoming programs at the DIA include the following:

Jan. 11, "London to Katmandu—Following in Richard Halliburton's Steps;" Jan. 18, "Brazil in a Nutshell;" Jan. 25, "Scandinavia—Europe's Last Frontier;" Feb. 1, "The Black Hills;" Feb. 15, "Journey Aboard the Orient Express;" Feb. 22, "Himalayan Odyssey;" March 11, "Voyage of Columbus."

Thursday shows include: Jan. 15, "Argentinian Adventure;" Jan. 19, "Europe's Teacup Countries;" March 19, "Alaskan Wilderness."

"As you can see, there's a little adventure and a little natural history thrown in there," Lawrence said. "I think they're some truly superb additions to the cultural community. There's nothing violent or sexy in them."

He said it is interesting to note that the shows' audiences seem to lose the children when they reach age 12, then get them back again when they are older, in their late 40s and early 50s.

Another renowned travelogue series, held at the Michigan State University auditorium, is the World Travel Series, now in its 44th season, according to Jimmy Hilburger.

"It's one of the finest in the country," he said. "We go to yearly conventions to book all these travel films; ours is one of the most respected in the business."

The cost for a full series is $25-$15, but like the World Adventure Series, it is half over. A special price of $17.50 is offered for the remaining 10 films. Films begin at 8 p.m. Saturday evenings and last about two hours each. Individual admission is $4 per adult, and one child under 12 per adult may get in free. Upcoming programs include:

Jan. 17, "Bermuda," with cinematographer-narrator Ralph Gerstle; Jan. 24, "Russia," with cinematographer Clay Francisco; Jan. 31, "Continental Divide—Mexico to Canada," with cinematographer Jim Cole; Feb. 14, "Great Britain's Great Canals," with Fran Reldelberger; Feb. 28, "Taiwan," with Ed Lark; March 7, "Tahiti," with Chris Borden; April 4, "Singapore to Bali," with Thayer Soule; April 10-11, "Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Labrador," with Don Cooper; April 25, "Discover Spain," with Willis Butler; May 1-2, "Queen Elizabeth II Sails Australia and New Zealand," with Doug Jones.

Season tickets can be purchased by phone and single tickets are available a half hour before show times at the door. Ticket information is available toll-free at 1-800-WHARTON.

E. G Nick's: Well worth the time

out
KOVACS

Can a restaurant named E.G. Nick's make it where Win Schuler's did not?

The answer to that question appears to be yes... an answer all the more surprising in that E.G. Nick's is located in the former site of the Win Schuler's restaurant on Maple Road in trendy West Bloomfield.

Actually, E.G. Nick's is an unusual amalgam, blending a definitely yuppie flavor with an old-fashioned family approach to dining with a decidedly Greek influence.

Interestingly, the seemingly disparate influences work well together... due in large part to the fact that E.G. Nick's diners some unusual treatments of traditional foods at very reasonable prices.

Anyone who dined at the former Win Schuler's site will have little trouble recognizing the new surroundings. The floor plan and most of the decorative elements remain unchanged. In fact, the primary change has been the hanging of grape vines and placing of decorative baskets of assorted fruits and vegetables around the restaurant, evoking a feeling of the Greek town of Semendre from which the parents of the owners of E.G. Nick's originally hailed.

The biggest change involves the menu. The somewhat more formal fare of Schuler's has been replaced with more casual offerings, featuring a strong Greek influence exemplified best by E.G. Nick's selection of "gourmet" pizzas.

And the biggest draw on the menu at E.G. Nick's is indeed its selection of seven unusual varieties of pizzas. One of the pizzas features fontina with white cheddar cheese, mozzarella, broccoli, snow peas, tomatoes, carrots, fresh spinach and pesto sauce. While another features shrimp, caramelized onions, artichokes and fresh thyme.

The "star" among the varieties of pizzas, however, is called "The Semendre" — an unusual and tasty combination of lamb, sausage, kasseri, goat cheese, mozzarella, calamato olives, sweet peppers and snow peas lopped in commendable quantities atop a layer of grape leaves.

Adding to the unusual selection and flavor of the pizzas is the fact that they're cooked in a wood-burning, brick oven which stands in the center of the main dining room.

Although pizzas are the mainstay at E.G. Nick's, the menu offers considerably more. Also available are nine entrees of more or less traditional offerings, spiced up with an interesting selection of marinades, as well as a selection of fish choices which changes daily, seven tasty salads and six varieties of pasta.

An entree called "Nick Papatheodore's Famous Lemon Pepper Chicken" is a tasty combination of breast of chicken basted and baked in lemon and butter. Also featured are barbecue ribs, baked on a rotisserie and basted in a tangy sauce, and chicken teriyaki, boneless breast of white meat chicken marinated in a special teriyaki sauce and char-grilled.

Entrees are accompanied with soup or salad; potato, spaghetti or vegetable; and hot bread sticks. For $1 extra, the standard dinner salad can be replaced with a very fine Greek salad which features feta cheese, beets, cucumbers, calamata olives, artichokes, red onions and tomato slices. It's well worth the cost.

Also noteworthy are the bread sticks, served spicy and hot at the start of the meal.

For dessert, E.G. Nicks offers a selection which changes daily but tends to feature a variety of cheesecakes — an Oreo cheesecake one day, a chocolate/peanut butter cheesecake another in addition to the more traditional offerings.

E.G. Nicks is an interesting combination of an old-fashioned Greek family restaurant serving an up-beat, yuppie-oriented clientele. The food is definitely tasty, making a trip to West Bloomfield well worth the time and effort.

E.G. Nick's, 6066 West Maple Road, West Bloomfield. Open Monday through Saturday for lunch and dinner and Sunday for dinner. Liquor license. American Express, Visa, MasterCard. 851-0805.

- 2. ATTITUDES that people give and do not expect to receive in return, only that they go out and return the favor by being kind to someone else, because "that's what makes the world a better place to be."
- 3. FAMILY and food go together as the Marino and Barron in-laws and their families both live in the Novi-Northville area and enjoy stepping out to Genilli's and MacKinnon's in Northville for the atmosphere, the food and a cozy, crazy get-together.

© 1987 by COTTER & COMPANY, CHICAGO, IL 60614. 100% Member-Owned Warehouse Distributors & Merchants.
 Because this is a syndicated publication prepared in advance by Cotter & Company for distribution by over 6,000 independently owned and operated retail store members, some merchandise illustrated may not be immediately available on demand. However, any item that is available can be ordered in full carton by the member store from a regional warehouse. Many items in this circular come unassembled. Individual stores are not responsible for assembling merchandise unless stated. This circular must be prepared months in advance of the actual distribution period. At times, an advertised item may not be available because of sales above anticipated demand or because of circumstances beyond our control, while we try to avoid such situations, we have no control over our manufacturers' delivery problems. We reserve the right to limit quantities, correct pricing errors & require central credit office approval of line payment sales. Proving taxes will be added to prices. This catalog is distributed by True Value members who own their own stores and set their own retail prices.
