Cool summer notes

All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, or so the saying goes. But the opposite is true, too. And even though summer vacation is in full swing, the students enrolled in the Novi Community School District's summer band program are putting in some heavy rehearsal time. Walling away on the saxophone in the picture above is Jay Thornton.

Residents cope with lack of rain

Novi News/CHRIS BOYD

A Novi resident provides her flowers with a little water

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

Violet Hubbell went with just seven tomato plants this year.

They're smaller than usual and just beginning to show buds, but she isn't too concerned. She's coping with it in a "que sera" sort of style that seems to be the rule in Novi these days.

Across town, Charlotte Peets is worried that her $2,000 worth of landscaping and sod runs a risk of being destroyed, but shrugs it off since it's pretty much beyond anyone's control.

Norm Kokko washes his car a little bit more than usual and waters his grass on the few cloudy days — kind of a backhanded plea for rain. Doug Hewitt does what he can to stay ahead and isn't necessarily concerned about the somewhat yellow pall of his lawn.

That's what just a few Novi residents are doing to cope with one of the driest summers in the state's history.

Overall, Novi lawns and gardens aren't doing that badly. Most residential lawns are getting some sort of regular watering, and gardens — though somewhat smaller and behind schedule — still dot the city.

Believe it or not, even the yellowed, most scorched lawn in the city might not be up against it yet. Extended summer dormancy may still save local dry spots. (See related story on Page 6A).

July Fourth activities planned

Not much — make that virtually nothing — is planned in the way of Fourth of July activities in Novi next Monday.

But, as usual, there will be a flurry of activities in Northville. And, also as usual, many Novi residents will be heading toward their sister city to the south to participate in the festivities.

One thing that's not "as usual" is Northville's July 4th fireworks display. Concerned that the pyrotechnics might lead to a fire as a result of the month-long drought conditions, the Northville City Council put the kibosh on fireworks last week.

The big event during Northville's Independence Day celebration, of course, is the parade which is scheduled to begin Monday at 10 a.m.

Parade organizer Bob Cummings asks that decorated bicycles and antique cars report to the staging area in the Northville Downs parking lot at 9 a.m. The Northville Jaycees, parade sponsors, are looking for convertibles for parade dignitaries to ride in. Anyone willing to lend a car to the cause is asked to call Cummings at 349-4528. The parade will follow the same route as last year: From Northville Downs east on Beal to Griswold, north on Griswold to Main, west on Main to Rogers, south on Rogers to Cady, east on Cady to Wing, south on Wing to Fairbrook, and east on Fairbrook back to the Downs.

The parade is only a part of the festivities, however. The holiday weekend kicks off with the usual Friday night concert in the bandshell in downtown Northville.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday, the Gazebo Band will present music from the early 1900s to the present.

Marches, Dixieland, big band and patriotic tunes will be performed by musicians from Northville, Novi and surrounding areas.

The actual Fourth of July activities will begin at 6:30 a.m. Monday, July 4, with the annual breakfast at the Northville Masonic Temple, 106 E. Main Street. The Masons plan to offer an expanded menu with serving continuing until parade time, 10 a.m.

The menu will feature "all you can eat" pancakes, scrambled eggs, ham, hash browns, orange juice, coffee, tea or milk. The breakfast costs $3.25 per adult and $1.25 for children through age 12.

Pre-parade activities continue with the Northville Community Recreation Department's fourth annual "Satin Sheets" bed race through the business district. Adult teams are welcome to enter and compete for the prizes of fastest time and best decorated bed.

Entry fees are $25 for new teams or $15 for returning teams which still have their beds. The fee includes the bed frame, but teams are responsible for decorating their beds and putting the wheels on.

All beds may participate in the parade after the race. For more information call Northville Community Recreation at 349-0203.

After the parade the action moves to the Mill Race Historical Village — on Griswold above Main — for the rest of the day.

The Jaycees will offer picnic dinners at the village starting at 11 a.m. and running to 2:30 p.m. A traditional chicken dinner will cost $4.50; bratwurst, $4; and a hot dog, $2.50, Cummings said. Dinners come with pop or coffee, a roll and butter, coleslaw and potato chips.

The buildings in the village will be open for an added attraction.

Census funds still not likely

The City of Novi probably won't see any of the $300,000-plus coming to it from last year's mid-decade census for a while, despite the fact that a State Senate bill restoring the funds passed last week.

State Representative Willis "Bill" Bullard (R-Highland) said the State House did not concur with most of the changes since they are a part of a budget bill containing several other provisions.

"The big question is what do you do with a budget bill that has 20 good things and 20 bad things in it?" Bullard asked. He said a senate and house conference committee is likely to work out the details of restoring the funding in the next several weeks.

The conference committee, an oftentimes lengthy process, allows a few members from each side to sit down and work out the differences for both bodies. Those agreements can be endorsed by the general membership or simply rejected out of hand.

"It could take a couple of weeks and perhaps a month before the issue is resolved in conference committee," Bullard said.

Novi and 37 other local communities were stripped of increases in state-shared funding by a gubernatorial veto — after the communities had undertaken mid-decade censuses in an effort to prove population gains.

Because the federal censuses are conducted every 10 years, revenue sharing funds may not keep up with the needs of rapidly developing communities, like many of those in Oakland County. The state's Revenue Sharing Act allows cities and townships to take their own censuses. If it shows a 15 percent increase in population since the last census, that local government is entitled to an increase in benefits.

Money is actually in the state budget to restore the funding this fiscal year, although the State Department of Management and Budget won't release it, Bullard said.

The censuses were undertaken between 1985 and 1987 in many southeastern Michigan communities, with those communities expecting to get the money in the current fiscal year. Novi lost approximately $340,000 in additional funds after showing a 25 percent increase in population between 1980 and 1986.

Bullard, who represents Milford and Highland in addition to Novi, sponsored an unsuccessful budget amendment to restore the funds last year.

The current senate bill restoring the funds would not take effect until 1989.

Johnson quits planning post

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
staff writer

After nearly a year of serving as chairperson of the Novi Planning Commission, Judith Johnson has resigned the position.

Johnson submitted a letter of resignation to Novi Planning Commission Vice Chairperson Charles Kureth on June 23, stating that she understood there were concerns from other commissioners about her leadership abilities.

The resignation became effective immediately.

Although she chose to step down from her seat as chairperson, Johnson plans to remain as a member of the planning commission. She was reappointed to the commission by the Novi City Council on June 20.

"Any chairman should have the support and confidence of other commissioners," Johnson commented in an interview Tuesday afternoon. "If that support and confidence isn't there, I think it's in the best interest of everyone that the chairman resign."

Johnson said she heard second-hand comments that several planning commissioners were unhappy with her performance as chairperson because she was "too abrupt and didn't treat developers fairly," prompting her to resign.

"At the time I wrote the resignation I was under the impression that there was a majority of the commission who were unhappy with my leadership. Since then, I've learned there were four people who felt uncomfortable with me," Johnson explained.

She added that the negative comments came as a "total shock" to her because nobody had ever voiced such concerns before.

In her resignation letter to Kureth, Johnson said she had been told commissioners were asked to guarantee that she would not be chairperson again if she was reappointed to the planning body.

Field day for hams

Members of the Novi Area Radio Club were among thousands of ham radio operators across North America who participated in the 24-hour "field day" exercise on Saturday and Sunday. The exercise is designed to teach hams how to operate under emergency conditions. Pictured above at the Novi field station are Don Kadar (left) and Mike Leach. The Novi club made between 500 and 600 contacts during the event.

'Shed' proposal goes to planners

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

The Novi City Council will let the Novi Planning Commission fiddle with the details of the city's proposed "shed" ordinance in hopes of getting a workable law on the books later this year.

The council passed the proposal along to the planning commission for review at its meeting on Monday, June 20. The ordinance proposal caps off more than a year of study and research by city officials, plus over three months of review by a city council committee. That committee, made up of Councilwoman Martha Hoyer and six Walled Lake area residents, was formed earlier this year to come up with a workable form of an ordinance regulating lakefront lots.

"The idea was to get the waterways as clean and unobstructed as possible," Novi Mayor Matthew Quinn said. "I'm sure the planning commission's public hearings are going to bring out a variety of different opinions. The planning commission may decide to recommend some changes before it comes back to us."

Currently, no structures are allowed on the lakefront lots, but that provision is rarely enforced. The shed ordinance would allow up to 10,000 sq. ft. of structures on lakefront lots which have stored wood, old cars and debris for many years. Novi Planning Commissioner Judith Johnson said she thought the shed ordinance proposal was "positive" for Novi. "If it is followed, it will make for some very pleasant views of the lake and, overall, improve the area," Johnson said. "After the change occurs, I'm sure some of the people who opposed the ordinance would support it."

Keeping cool

Novi youngsters have figured out numerous ways for beating the hot summer weather, but few are as effective and instructive as taking swimming lessons at the Novi High School pool. That's seven-year-old Andrea Meyer smiling at instructor Adam Gribb while working out on the kickboard in the picture above.

Project will be well publicized

Motorists will have trouble trying to claim ignorance when it comes to the long-awaited widening of I-96 in Southfield and Farmington Hills in mid-July.

"We're going to take a 'no surprises' approach," said Donn Shelton, communications manager for the Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG). "People just deal better with these things if they're not surprised."

When SEMCOG is done, no motorist should have an excuse for not knowing construction crews and equipment will be an everyday sight and difficulty along the freeway.

Signs, brochures, newsletters, a telephone hotline, community meetings and daily traffic announcements will be part of a SEMCOG motorist information plan accompanying the two-year, $34 million widening project, Shelton told members of an I-96 community task force in Farmington Hills recently.

Shelton: 'We're going to take a 'no surprises' approach. People just deal better with these things if they're not surprised.'

Another task force meeting is tentatively scheduled for Wednesday, July 6, at 9 a.m. to discuss the public relations campaign and other concerns. The meeting will be held in Farmington Hills City Council chambers at 3155 Eleventh Mile.

Plans call for the freeway to be widened from the existing two lanes to six lanes in each direction for 6.7 miles from Franklin to Southfield roads. Widening the existing four-lane I-96 will ease potential bottlenecks as traffic along the new eastern leg of I-96 flows into the existing four-lane freeway running through Southfield and Farmington Hills.

The existing median will be used to widen the freeway. The completed eight lanes should be open to traffic in the fall of 1989. Sound barriers to buffer residential areas along the freeway also will be constructed. The project also involves widening the I-96 overpasses at Drake and Inter roads and widening the Orchard Lake Road interchange. Although roadways won't be totally closed during construction, some will be reduced to fewer lanes of traffic. Adding to motorists' already hectic driving will be improvements to local and county roads — which might otherwise be used to avoid the construction zone — in the Farmington area. The SEMCOG information plan will be similar to last year's successful 'Lodgeability' program when the congested north-south freeway was under repair. But the I-96 project still lacks a catchy, informational name to distinguish it from continuing construction of the new eastern leg of I-96 from I-94 to Southfield, Shelton said.

"We're going to try very hard with our signage and public relations to divert traffic," Shelton said. "This project will be signed far beyond normal. We're trying to divert traffic

Group warns kids about strangers

SEMCOG representatives hope to divert motorists from the construction area by warning them far in advance. Though SEMCOG must be careful about detailing detours for motorists, most commuters will soon learn the best way to avoid the construction zone. The heavy use of signs are targeted more to the occasional driver who doesn't generally use the I-96 corridor, Shelton said. SEMCOG and Oakland County Road Commission representatives said they are aware of the confusion and frustration that will accompany the construction project. They are urging major employers to suggest alternate routes for employees or to use flex time as a means of reducing the congestion at the usual peak hour driving times. The media as well as daily helicopter traffic reporters will play a large role in keeping motorists abreast of continuing construction. A hotline will be available daily for motorists. Attempts will be made to post posters in retail stores to remind motorists of the construction. SEMCOG representatives will be available to meet with homeowner organizations and civic groups to discuss the project, Shelton said.

Group warns kids about strangers

Now that school is over and children are free on summer vacations, Consumers Power Company urges parents to remind their children, "Do not go with strangers." As the summer season starts, outdoor activities by young children will increase. The utility company recommends that parents be mindful of the following suggestions when discussing safety tips with their youngsters:

- Stay away from strangers.
- Don't accept rides, gifts or treats from anyone.
- Travel in groups, never alone.
- Make sure your parents know where you are.
- Be aware of suspicious looking people and cars.
- Write down the license plate number of suspicious cars.
- Don't go into public restrooms alone.
- Never hitch-hike.
- If anything does happen, remember as many details as possible.
- Be careful.
- Have phone numbers of two other people you can call in an emergency.

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation, is Michigan's largest utility serving almost six million of the state's nine million residents in 67 of the 88 Lower Peninsula counties.

Long-armed thief gets jewelry

Jewelry valued at more than $1,000 was stolen from a residence on Gordana in the Country Cousins Mobile Home Park by a thief who apparently never entered the home.

The complainant told police she left home on June 22 at 5:45 a.m. and discovered the robbery when she returned at 2:30 p.m.

The responsible party removed a screen from a window on the east side of the mobile home which enabled him to reach into the master bedroom. He then reached through the window and took three jewelry boxes from the top of a dresser.

Stolen property included a man's sapphire and diamond ring valued at $550, a Hamilton's man's digital watch, a Bulova man's watch, opal earrings and an opal necklace, a charm bracelet, another Bulova watch and a set of cufflinks.

Also stolen were a Kodak 35mm camera, a Kodak instamatic camera, a JCPenney's credit card and $500 in cash.

A LIVONIA MAN reported that the front window of his 1984 Oldsmobile was shot out while he was waiting for a stop light at the Grand River/Hagerty Road intersection on June 21 at approximately 10:10 p.m.

The man said he was stopped for the traffic signal on southbound Hagerty when a small, dark-colored vehicle passed in front of him east-bound on Grand River. As the vehicle was passing, the man heard something hit and shatter the windshield of his vehicle.

The man said he believed someone in the dark-colored vehicle had shot a pellet gun at his car, causing the damage. He told police he did not see a weapon in the passing car, however.

UNKNOWN INDIVIDUALS broke into a shed behind a residence on Gordana in the Country Cousins Mobile Home Park on June 3 and stole $130 worth of lawn care equipment along with a tool box containing miscellaneous tools.

Stolen were an electric lawn mower valued at $130 and a Black & Decker weed eater valued at $50.

Police Beat

A BRIGHT PINK bow tie was the only apparel worn by an unknown white male who exposed himself to a Plymouth woman as she was walking into Twelve Oaks Mall on Saturday, June 18.

The woman told investigating officers she was walking toward the mall when the man drove up, beeping his horn and playing his radio very loudly. As the woman approached, the man exposed himself and then drove away, according to reports.

The woman said the man was driving a light-colored, mid-sized automobile.

POLICE BELIEVE a lone female may have been responsible for stealing more than $700 worth of personal property from a Thirteen Mile residence during a breaking-and-entering which occurred Saturday, June 25.

The complainant said he left the house at 12:30 p.m. to have coffee with a neighbor and discovered the break-in when he returned at 3 p.m.

The man said he observed the lone female sitting in a dark-colored sedan parked on the shoulder of Thirteen Mile as he was leaving his home prior to the robbery. He said the woman appeared to be approximately 25 years old and had dark, curly hair.

Police said the responsible party gained entry by kicking in the front door. Once inside, the thief rummaged through drawers in the living room, bedroom and a study, throwing the contents across the rooms.

Stolen were a television set valued at $450 and a Panasonic videocassette recorder valued at $250. Damage to the door was pegged at an additional $200.

HEAVY EQUIPMENT valued at more than $3,300 was stolen from a construction storage yard on the northeast corner of the Grand River/Beck Road intersection on June 21 between 6 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. The yard was being used for equipment storage by the Grassi Foundation of Farmington Hills.

The complainant said unknown individuals removed a master lock from a fence to gain access to the fenced storage yard. After gaining admittance, they removed another padlock from a built-in tool box on a Ford stake truck and proceeded to remove assorted tools.

In addition, they removed two backhoe buckets from the bed of the stake truck. The owner said the buckets are extremely heavy and that he uses a hydraulic lift when he has to move them. The thieves also removed the gas tank from the truck and siphoned 15 gallons of gasoline from the 30-gallon tank.

Stolen were a 12-inch backhoe bucket valued at $750 and a 20-inch backhoe bucket valued at $1,500 along with an estimated $1,000 worth of various tools from the tool box.

Police noted it was the third breaking-and-entering incident at the storage yard during recent months.

A DAVID WINTER plaster-of-paris house figurine was stolen from Churchill's at Twelve Oaks Mall on Sunday, June 19, between noon and 5 p.m.

The complainant said the figurine was last seen at closing time on Saturday, June 18, and was discovered missing at closing time the next day.

The figurine was valued at approximately $55.

APPROXIMATELY $80 worth of socks were stolen from The Wild Pair, a woman's shoe store, at Twelve Oaks Mall on Monday, June 20.

The theft was reported by a store manager who said he was approached by two customers wanting to make a purchase on an American Express card. When the manager asked for additional identification, the men responded that they had left their driver's licenses in their car and left the store.

After they left, the manager noted that 20 pairs of socks had been removed from a front counter. Both suspects were black males. One was described as being approximately 6'3" tall and having a stutter, while the second was said to be approximately 5'11" tall.

A MILFORD MAN reported the theft of his 1979 4-by-4 pickup truck from the Blue Lot at Twelve Oaks Mall on Friday, June 17.

The man said he entered the mall at 8 p.m. to go to the movies and found his truck missing when he returned at 11:30 p.m. The stolen vehicle was valued at $3,500.

JUVENILE MISCHIEF is alleged to be responsible for the sudden appearance of a large quantity of stolen property on the front lawn of a residence on Cherry Hill in the Meadowbrook Glens subdivision at approximately 1:30 a.m. on June 21.

The complainant told police she arrived home to find 17 signs, two chairs and two road warning devices thrown on her front lawn.

Among the signs were 13 election signs, two billboards, a banner from McDonald's and a garage sale sign. The property was confiscated by police.

A CELLULAR TELEPHONE was stolen from a 1986 Honda Civic owned by a Drayton Plains woman while it was parked outside the Novi Hilton on June 17 between 4:30 and 4:55 p.m.

The woman said the responsible parties gained access to the car by smashing into the left-front window and proceeded to steal the Nova-Tel cellular telephone from between the bucket seats in the front of the car.

The portable cellular phone was valued at $112, while damage to the car was estimated at $150.

VANDALS SLASHED a tire on a 1987 Dodge van owned by a Walled Lake man while it was parked outside a residence on Fountain Park on June 26.

In addition to all trailers (boat, camp, pole, utility, tanker), other exclusions from the registration fee are snowmobiles, historic vehicles, mobile homes, agricultural vehicles, road graders, bulldozers, earthmovers, mopeds and boats.

ATVs and ORVs which do not meet safety standards and which are not registered for road use are also excluded, Houghten said.

Novi Briefs

Sounds of summer: Novi residents will have an opportunity to hear Ron Coden live and in person tomorrow (Friday, July 1) as Novi's Summer Sounds Outdoor Concert Series continues.

The Ron Coden Show will be presented outside the Novi Civic Center from 7:30 p.m. Admission is free and residents are invited to bring a blanket or a lawn chair as well as their own refreshments for an evening of good entertainment.

The Summer Sounds Concert Series is sponsored by the Ford Motor Company Fund and Providence Hospital. The next event in the series is slated for Friday, July 8, when the Brookside Jazz Ensemble, featuring Novi's own Craig Strain, will perform outside the Civic Center at 7 p.m.

Trend setter? Jacqueline Lawrence was recently hired as the assistant principal of Novi Meadows Elementary School, a position newly created by the Novi Board of Education.

After the appointment was approved by the school board, School Board Member Joan Daley pointed out that Lawrence is the first female building administrator within the school district.

"Maybe this will become a trend," Daley suggested.

"Not as a kid, you didn't!" Assistant City Manager Craig Klaver was as surprised as the next guy when he came down with chicken-pox last week. "It was out of the blue," he said.

Klaver stayed at home and did minor gardening during his contagious stage.

Waiting it out: Mayor Matt Quinn reapointed current Planning Commission Chairperson Judith Johnson, but it didn't look that way for a while Monday night. Quinn announced each of his appointments individually and the council voted on each separately.

Charles Kureth was announced first. New member Enrico Digirolamo's name came up next. And Johnson came third.

"Wonder if there's a message there," smiled Johnson, who was sitting in the audience during the appointments.

Classes in high demand: Novi Community Education's 1988 Spring Session delighted residents of all ages — classes were attended by those ranging in age from preschoolers to senior citizens.

Clara Porter, director of Novi Community Education, reported that the most popular class among children was the Cabbage Patch Swim program. Another favorite among children was the organization's first spring soccer camp, which was attended by 27 kids.

Popular community education sessions attended by adults included a scarf-tying class and a "sneezing and wheezing" clinic for those coping with allergies. Porter also remarked that the community education's dog obedience class continues to draw a lot of interest.

A fond farewell: Outgoing Novi Board of Education Member Norman Miller was recognized for 10 years of service on the board at its most recent meeting, which was his last one. Board members presented him with an honorary plaque and gave him a standing ovation.

"I'll never forget a comment Norm made a few years ago. He once told me not to be like everyone else, not to fit into a mold," Superintendent Robert Pivko told school board members. Pivko and the rest of the school board members wished him good luck in his future.

Miller was elected to the school board on three different occasions. He was elected to a two-year term in 1973, a four-year term in 1980 and another four-year term in 1984. He chose not to seek re-election this year and will be replaced by newly-elected board member Sandra Thornton.

Miller said he wasn't good at good-byes so he didn't want to say good-bye. "I'd just like to say how proud I am and thank you," he said to school board members.

Chevy raffle: Tickets are still available for the 1987 Chevy being raffled by Novi Rotary in conjunction with the Novi '88 Festival. Tickets cost $1 and can be purchased from any Rotarian. For more information call Dr. Stephen Minns at 476-9121 or Gary Kelber at 349-1700.

Novi Rotary has purchased and restored a 1987 Chevrolet Bellaire. Its original paint color (matador red) has been applied at the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center. The car will be displayed in Novi's Memorial Day Parade and shown at area shopping centers and other '88 Festival events.

Fee boost vote won't effect trailers

PONTIAC — Trailers are excluded from a list of vehicles to which the proposed $25 registration fee would apply, according to Fred D. Houghten, chairman of the Oakland County Road Commission.

"This exclusion is based on an opinion from the Attorney General's office which was interpreted and reviewed by both the road commission and the Secretary of State's office," advised Houghten. It is estimated that approximately $18.6 million will be raised annually for local road improvements and services if voters approve the proposed registration fee in the Nov. 8 general election.

The fee would apply to automobiles, vans, pickups, commercial trucks, semi-trailers, hearses, ambulances, wreckers, taxi cabs, motorcycles, station wagons, carryalls, motor homes, buses, trucks and moving vans.

Truck-mounted cranes and similar truck-mounted equipment are included as are all terrain vehicles (ATVs) and off-road vehicles (ORVs) if they meet safety codes and are licensed for road use.

In addition to all trailers (boat, camp, pole, utility, tanker), other exclusions from the registration fee are snowmobiles, historic vehicles, mobile homes, agricultural vehicles, road graders, bulldozers, earthmovers, mopeds and boats.

Lawns lie dormant in arid conditions

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

That yellowed and crinkly grass isn't dead. It's not ready to dry up and blow away just yet. It's just sleeping — locked in a prolonged state of dormancy brought about by record high temperatures and little rain, experts say.

But how long it can stay that way before dying is a good question. Even the experts are scratching their heads over it at this point.

"I've been here 15 years and I can't remember it ever being like this, with few signs of relief in sight," said Greg Patchan, horticulturalist with the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. "I can't recall us ever having a drought situation that led to major losses of lawns."

Patchan said most lawns are able to come back from drought conditions during cooler, wetter periods. Most are able to restore themselves completely within a season or two.

But he said this prolonged dry season has researchers searching for answers.

"To be perfectly honest, we don't have much information on how long it can go totally without water before mortality," he said. "I don't know that that information is available anywhere in Michigan since we haven't dealt with it to this degree. The question is how long can it stay dormant?"

He said he will meet with turf researchers from Michigan State University later this week to knock around the topic and try to get some answers.

One thing researchers know for sure is that the drought won't be the only concern this year. The dry spell is likely to cause increased insect activity — activity that probably won't be evident until after the grass becomes green again.

Insects and burrowing grubs avoid moist lawns because the moisture often increases their risk of contracting diseases, Patchan said.

Unfortunately, that could mean lawns which are on their way back after the dry spell might never completely recover. If parts of the lawn are still spotted with unsightly yellow spots after a recovery elsewhere, chances are good that grubs or cinch beetles have paid a visit during the dry spell.

Grubs burrow in and disturb the roots. Cinchbugs, usually about one-eighth of an inch long with a reddish brown body and white stripe, suck on blades of grass. At the same time, they also inject a material which is toxic to grasses.

Another concern is plant stress, which also might not be evident for some time — perhaps several seasons, Patchan said.

A prolonged period of low temperatures may make plants, shrubs and smaller trees susceptible to diseases later, he said.

"On some of these things, we will just have to wait and see," Patchan said. "They will not be as immediate. They will be more secondary in nature."

Patchan recommended that residents water their lawns as much as possible while also staying off of it to avoid further stress.

It may not recover to the degree that it was before, but most lawns should be able to come back," he said.

Farmers hit hard by drought

By ANN E. WILLIS
editor

A dump truck driver who apparently didn't close his tailgate properly is believed to be at fault for accidentally dumping dozens of chunks of broken concrete on Novi Road last Tuesday (June 21) morning.

The spill snarled rush hour traffic, slowing some north and southbound traffic to a crawl. Commuters had to drive off onto the shoulders of the road to avoid the chunks of concrete, some of which were over a foot wide and several inches thick.

Novi Police Captain Richard Faulkner said witnesses described the truck as having a red cab with a blue box. He said it was traveling northbound on Novi Road just after 9:30 a.m. when it dumped a substantial amount of broken concrete near Michigan Tractor on Novi Road.

It then spilled more just north of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad tracks.

Faulkner said witnesses weren't able to supply a license plate number or any further identification.

"It's unfortunate," he said. "We would have liked to talk to him."

Police officers and several residents cleared the debris from the road Tuesday morning, Oakland County Road Commission workers carted it away later that afternoon.

The drought that has hit the lawns and flower beds of Northville may have residents out doing a little extra watering, but one phrase keeps creeping into the conversation, "Think about the poor farmers."

Well, the farmers at the Northville Farmer's Market last Thursday were doing just that — sitting and thinking beneath a clear, sunny sky while they sold what few vegetables are available early in the season.

Is the drought hurting them? Yes, came the answer from two of the three vendors last week.

Mark Prielipp who works a farm in Britton, about 50 miles away from Ann Arbor, said he is definitely seeing the effects of the lack of rain.

"It's bad... anything that we're not watering," Prielipp said they just bought "a bunch more pipes" to extend their well watering system to try to save more crops.

"We'll save some of it, and if it would rain now it's not too late to save more. But if it doesn't come within the next two weeks, it will be too late," he said.

Prielipp farms 80 acres of vegetables which he said they are trying to water and 700 acres of field corn and soybeans — which are impossible to water. The field corn and soybeans are used as animal feed and he noted, "the price of feed is already up," due to the drought.

Prielipp said the price of vegetables will be rising for the consumer, but shoppers will most likely see the increases in the supermarkets — not at the Farmer's Market.

Carl Prielipp noted that all yields are down about one-third to one-half because of the lack of rain. "If it continues (the drought) for two more weeks, it could be a disaster for the whole country, the national news is not exaggerating," he said. "It's very exasperating, very discouraging."

Carl Prielipp noted that the few days we have had where it has clouded over and sprinkled just slightly have been the most frustrating of all.

"The general consumer doesn't believe it's going to affect them. The American public is spoiled by having a full pantry at reasonable prices and can't get adjusted to the fact of a shortage," he said.

Mark Prielipp summed it up. "Every day without rain cuts the yields down even more," he said squinting into the sun.

Children's book fair: The Children's Ark day care center is sponsoring a children's book fair in the Novi United Methodist Church through this Friday, July 1. The fair runs daily from noon to 5 p.m. Books for the fair have been provided by Walden Ed and include the most popular titles from classes to best sellers. Nancy Cotter of the Children's Ark said the assortment of titles includes books that will appeal to people of all ages.

Also available will be audio-visuales, posters, bookmarks and calendars. The book fair is being held as a fund-raiser for the day care center and to encourage good reading habits during the summer, Cotter said.

Construction on I-696: Construction work on the I-696 freeway through the cities of Farmington Hills and Southfield is scheduled to begin in July. The project calls for 6.7 miles of I-696 to be widened from two lanes to four lanes in each direction, according to the Michigan Department of Transportation.

In addition to widening the road and adding concrete shoulders, the project includes reconstruction of the Orchard Lake interchange at an estimated cost of $23.2 million.

Help for motorists: Travelers on I-75 from the Michigan-Ohio state line to Flint will be able to tune their car radios to a special broadcast which provides highway construction information this summer. Motorists traveling south toward Detroit or entering the state and heading north can tune in the messages on their radios by dialing 530-AM north of Flint and 1610-AM near Luna Pier, just north of the state line. The radio information system is part of the Michigan Department of Transportation's "Mobility 88" program designed to minimize inconvenience to motorists in highway construction areas.

Workers prepare for 1990 census

Is there really a Pelecat Hollow? Yes, indeed, says Debora Hartenberger, and it's not in a comic strip either.

She found it on a West Virginia map in the Southfield office where she works.

"I found a lot of surprising things — some rural street, stream and town names," said Hartenberger, a geographer assistant with the U.S. Census Bureau's satellite office in Southfield.

A former Chicagoan who now lives in Detroit, Hartenberger earned a degree in geography at Northern Michigan University in Marquette in 1986. This is the first full-time job where she has been able to put her skills to work.

"This is the first time the census has ever used computer systems with census maps," she said.

Her work involves checking maps — starting with U.S. Geological Survey maps and correcting errors on street maps.

"We plat the census boundaries," she said. The maps that she and other staff members update are used by field workers — called enumerators — in counting the 24 million Americans.

Officially, the U.S. Census will be taken April 1, 1990.

In practice, the headcount of America's 50 states and territories takes 2 1/2 years of preparation and two more years of analysis.

"Our undercount has been declining," said a pleased Ross Forbes, a 26-year veteran of the decennial count. He is assistant manager of the center, a satellite of the downtown Detroit headquarters where a permanent staff conducts continuing surveys on health, income, jobs and crime.

Local communities will have a chance to do local reviews," Forbes said of the maps and lists.

Each enumerator will be responsible for a mapped area containing approximately 400 housing units.

When it's done, the census work will be stored on summary computer tapes in state college libraries. Individuals' answers are confidential, but the demographic material is a boon to commerce.

Federal aid and state legislative appointments also depend on census numbers.

Because 95 percent of Americans will reply to the census by mail, the bureau must have accurate addresses and maps.

Those facts are stored on computer tape and updated, updated, updated. Two or three shifts of geographers, computer specialists and clerical people do the work.

The census folks are conscious not only of public relations but local governmental restrictions. Population figures are translated into congressional and legislative representation — and into a horde of federal grant programs. There have been lawsuits over alleged under-counting in the past.

Pastor Richard Burgess stresses Christian values at the Novi Christian School

Spreading the word Novi Christian strives for quality

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

To pastor Richard Burgess, Eric Jacobs represents the entire package of dedication, honesty, moral character, industriousness. All parts of an education at tiny Novi Christian School, an evangelical Christian school that recently saw its 11th graduating class pass through its doors this past June.

Twenty graduates, the largest class ever, received honors in early June.

Novi Christian started out with 23 students in 1976 and has grown to 130 this year. Kindergarten through 12th grade classes are offered at the school, which puts its evangelical Christian teachings up front.

Burgess, who has been at the school since it began in 1976, points with great pride at "the book," not a Bible surprisingly, but rather a small spiral notebook kept by Jacobs over the summer months.

In Jacobs, a phenomenal scorer for Novi Christian's basketball team, details his off-season work — from push-ups, free throws and bench presses to Bible verse and scriptures studied.

Over a three-month period Jacobs has detailed free throws made and free throws missed, shooting at least 100 per day. He has taken great care to note what days it was "too windy" to shoot. He boosted his average close to 90 percent by summer's end.

Jacobs carefully noted weight improvements on the bench press. He jotted down a daily regimen of other limbering exercises, such as jump-

Library offers teen programs

The Novi Public Library is reaching out to teenaged readers this summer by offering two special programs designed to appeal to teen interests.

The Detective Club and Teen Read/Computer Pix have been added to the agenda at the library this summer as extensions of the popular Summer Reading Program, which encourages elementary school-aged children to use the library as a source of entertainment during the summer vacation.

The Detective Club is designed for readers in fifth and sixth grades.

In conjunction with the Detective Club, the library has designated Thursdays as Detective Day. Students going into the fifth and sixth grades are encouraged to register for the program. Detective programs are open to all students in fifth grade and up whether they are registered or not.

By registering for the Detective Club and reading six books in six weeks, students will be able to attend the Detective Dominoes Pizza party at the end of the program.

Thursday afternoon special programs include an animal detective, a weather detective, a fire detective and a police detective. No registration is required for the individual events. For more information, dates and times, call the library at 349-0720.

To keep teen readers busy this summer the library is offering a double feature of Teen Read and Computer Pix. By registering for Teen Read and reading six books in six weeks teens can win a free Argus poster from over 100 to choose from.

Computer Pix offers a special personalized computer print-out book list to each teen in seventh grade and up who fill out a selection form at the library. These two programs are separate, and teens can participate in one or both.

Flyers listing all scheduled events for all ages are available at the library. For more information call the library at 349-0720.

Subdivision plans spark debate

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
staff writer

The developer of a single-family subdivision named Hummingbird Estates drew fire from city planners in the first stages of review when it was learned he had already removed trees and performed earthwork on the site.

Novi Planning Commission discussed conceptual site plans for Hummingbird Estates, which is proposed for development on the west side of Beck Road, south of Ten Mile, at its June 15 meeting.

Upon consideration of wetlands and woodlands permits, planners were told by Environmental Specialist Susan Nayb and Registered Landscape Architect Linda Lemke that trees had been removed and a temporary culvert had been put in on the site.

Lemke estimated that 40 to 50 trees were already cut down. She explained that the woodland removal was a result of "miscommunication" between herself and the developer.

Trees on the site were first removed to allow a machine to do percolation tests for the project. Lemke, in a letter to the commission, said the developer — Leonard Waseznski — was advised about the city's Woodlands Ordinance after the violation took place and told that a permit would be needed to remove any additional vegetation.

She indicated that a second violation of the woodlands ordinance occurred when trees were removed in the roadway proposed as Red Robin Lane for a width of 25 feet. This violation, Lemke remarked, resulted from miscommunication between Waseznski and herself.

Since then, Lemke said no other trees have been removed and the developer is aware that he will be required to replace all the trees that were taken out.

When questioned by Commissioner Richard Clark, Lemke said she didn't believe Waseznski had openly and intentionally violated the woodlands ordinance.

Speaking in his defense, Waseznski told planners he never knew about the city's wetlands and woodlands ordinances. The property has been in the family for 25 years and he only recently decided to develop it, Waseznski added.

"I didn't mean to go in there and do anything wrong," he commented. "I didn't know that I couldn't do that (clear away trees for the roadway)."

Waseznski is from Lake Orion and indicated that he had not been involved in the development business very long. The name of his company is Greenbelt Developers.

Despite Waseznski's response, a few commissioners still expressed disappointment with the developer.

"This may seem like a good plan, but I have a real problem with a developer going out and working the land even though he knows about city requirements," Clark said. It was Clark's last meeting because his term on the commission expires June 30 and he decided not to seek reappointment.

"There's no way I can approve anything with this plan. If I were to do so, I would choose to table the site plans and ask the city to issue ordinance violations so the message gets out," Clark added.

He said the situation was potentially dangerous because the woodland got out to other developers who could possibly do the same.

"This has the potential to become one of the most beautiful subdivisions in the city," commented Commissioner Kathleen McAllen.

The developer has gotten off on the wrong foot by starting work on the site... with work, we could really have a terrific subdivision here. If you want to go further, don't touch anything else on the site," said Waseznski.

Novi resident Bruce Butske also urged planners to enforce regulations for developers, stating that they can't bring equipment on the site prior to preliminary site plan approval.

Hummingbird Estates is proposed as an open space subdivision, but in its initial plans, Waseznski is unable to meet the active recreation area requirements and exceeds the 25 percent maximum lake percentage.

Commissioner Charles Kureth called the active recreation area limitation a "silly requirement" in this case because there is too much wetland area on the site.

City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers recommended that a variance be sought from the Zoning Board of Appeals because existing wetlands and woodlands falls priority over the active recreation deficiency.

Planning commissioners voted 7-1 to recommend approval of the conceptual site plan to city council based on the conditions of consultant's letters. Clark cast the dissenting vote.

Planners also asked that Waseznski work out the proper ratio of open space before the plans are presented to city council. In addition, they asked the developer to obtain an affirmative recommendation from the Novi Fire Department on a proposed cul-de-sac in the project.

In another move, planners tabled wetlands and woodlands permits until future site plans are presented.

Area Briefs

Gun control ordinance: Birmingham city commissioners have tabled consideration of a local gun control law in order to obtain public input.

The proposed ordinance would bar most people from carrying unlicensed guns in the city. The proposal follows an April 27 incident in which a man carried an unlicensed, loaded shotgun over his shoulder along city streets to demonstrate what he called "our constitutional right to bear arms."

Birmingham currently has no law against anyone carrying a gun in public, loaded or unloaded, as long as it isn't used as a threat or isn't concealed. A purchase permit and registration are required for handguns, but not for long guns like rifles and shotguns.

Pay hikes for council? The Farmington Hills City Council will ask voters in 1989 to amend the 15-year-old city charter to allow creation of a compensation commission to set council members' salaries.

Council members' salaries were established in the city charter when the city was incorporated in 1973. Rates as provided by the charter are $1,800 for council members and $2,700 for the mayor. If the commission is approved, salary recommendations would have to be approved by a two-thirds vote (five members) of the council.

Supporters of the commission say salaries should be reconsidered due to increased costs. They also say Farmington Hills council members receive less than council members in other cities.

"It is not fair to have all these people put all this time and effort without proper compensation," said Council member Joe Altaeeb, adding that council members earn about 80 cents per hour.

Cooling systems require check-ups

Air conditioners and electric fans are safe and energy-efficient during Michigan summers — if you check them out before you plug them in.

Detroit Edison suggests several tips for the safe and efficient use of appliances during the cooling season.

Regarding air conditioners, the utility offered the following suggestions:

- Before attempting to do any work on an air conditioner yourself, make sure the electrical power is disconnected.
- Clean the condenser coils of dust, leaves, grass clippings, etc.
- Clean the fan blade annually.
- Make sure cracks around a portable air conditioner are properly sealed.
- Change or clean the air filters every 30 to 60 days during the cooling season.
- Install proper insulation, weather-stripping and caulking, to keep warm air out and cool air in.
- Keep storm windows in place and closed when cooling, and keep windows and doors leading to uncool-ed parts of the house closed. Keep draperies closed when windows are directly in the sun.

□ Have your central air conditioner checked once a year by a trained service contractor.

□ When central air conditioning is installed together with an existing furnace, make sure all unwanted openings in air ducts, including basement registers, are sealed. Check to see if the furnace filters are clean. Check for damage to the insulation covering on the tubing to the outside condenser unit.

The following are suggestions for the safe use of electric fans:

- To avoid personal injury or damage to portable fans, keep them out of reach of young children. Child-protection coverings may help ensure safety and can be purchased from your local hardware store. Make sure young children do not attempt to reach or tamper with ceiling fans.
- Check the cords on portable fans for broken or cracked wire insulation.
- For better circulation and safety when using window fans, make sure your draperies are secured and do not become entangled in the fan.
- To make these money-saving and safety tips work best for you, take advantage of Detroit Edison's free Home Energy Analysis. For an appointment call 1-800-482-2883.

A Detroit Edison energy consultant will provide a detailed analysis of the energy efficiency of your home with information on how to cut costs during both the heating and cooling season.

"If you get the energy audit done this time of year, you can pick up a few good ideas for energy conservation during the cooling season as well as plan ahead for the winter months," said Marsden M. Murphy, administrator, Customer Relations.

As We See It

Resignation based on unfair criticisms

In a surprise move, Judith Johnson has resigned as chairperson of the Novi Planning Commission. She resigned only the chairperson's position... not her seat on the commission.

Bruce Weintraub

Johnson submitted her resignation three days after she was re-appointed to a three-year term on the commission by Mayor Matt Quinn. The appointment, however, appeared to be designed to send a subtle message to Johnson. In announcing the names of the individuals to fill three vacancies on the commission, the mayor first named Charles Kureth, vice chairperson of the commission, and then named Rico DiGirolamo, a new appointment, before getting around to naming Johnson as his third choice.

The manner in which she was re-appointed in addition to the rumors that several commissioners are displeased with the way she runs the meetings appear to be the circumstances which led Johnson to resign from the chairperson's position.

It also should be noted that Johnson resigned the post shortly prior to the final commission meeting of the 1987-88 fiscal year. The commission will elect new officers at its first meeting in July.

So what are the problems with Johnson's performance as chairperson? In her resignation letter, Johnson said the concerns as she understands them are that she is un-diplomatic, too assertive, talks too much, shows displeasure with decisions, keeps people off the agenda, makes decisions at Implementation Committee meetings that the commission should make, tries to do (Commission Development Director) Jim Wahl's job and spends too much time at city hall.

It's a lengthy list and, if true, contains several matters for concern. Part of the problem may be that Johnson is an extremely conscientious and hard-working commissioner. She often attends state and regional seminars to improve her knowledge of planning philosophy and practice.

If in her desire to serve well on the commission she has stepped into

Time for follow-up

The tornado that struck Novi's Chateau Estates Mobile Home Park last Father's Day was a tragedy. The wounds have not yet healed, and the questions about whether Novi residents and city services will deal with it better the next time around still linger.

Perhaps nothing could have prevented it, but all indications are that plenty can be done to lessen the blow if indeed a tornado does strike once again. The tornado pointed out that city services aren't infallible. That the people behind the badges or in positions of authority are just that — people. The well-thought out disaster plan on paper wasn't equipped to deal with the screaming people, crying babies and confusion that were part of the tragedy.

The disaster plan certainly has been improved. Police Chief Lee DeGole is to be applauded for discussing the weaknesses of last year's disaster plan up front. More medical personnel will be available, electrical assistance has been improved and telephone communications have been upgraded. One of the functions of the city's new public information officer will be to get word out to the public and press, freeing the police up for emergency operations.

The building department stepped forward to inspect and add more "tie-down" to Chateau Estates homes.

the areas of administrative responsibility, she needs to be told to back away... to be a commissioner, not an administrator.

Some of the other listed concerns are considerably less important if not downright inappropriate, however.

For example, the criticism that Johnson is too outspoken should be dismissed immediately. During the years she has served on the commission, Johnson has won our respect for straight talk... for telling things as she sees them, which, is often as they are. A former Novi mayor once said he thought his greatest asset as a public official had been his courage in being able to stand up in front of the angry crowd and tell them they were wrong — when they were wrong. Johnson has that same courage — it's an asset, not a liability.

When cordiality becomes more important than straight talk, the commission is in trouble.

While several commissioners serve the city and its residents particularly well, Johnson is definitely one of the most-able. She certainly is one of the best-informed, most-knowledgeable and hardest-working commissioners.

In retrospect, we wish she had not resigned as chairperson. Should she seek out more information about her perceived weaknesses as a commissioner? Yes. Should she evaluate that information and make changes where they are warranted? Yes. Should she have resigned as chairperson? No.

In fact, the most surprising thing about her resignation was the resignation itself. Johnson is a fighter. A person who stands up for what she believes in. A person who states her mind clearly and without concern for potential political ramifications. Resigning the fight before it's started is inconsistent with the performance we have grown to admire.

In the private sector, Chateau Estates also has made some improvements. They have at least increased the education level of their residents. More are informed about what they should do in the event of a tornado warning than ever before, even though indications are that few really are doing anything about it.

What's missing is a reminder to residents is that despite the best city plan, despite the highest degree of preparedness, the individual — first and foremost — must be prepared. The city can't be a catch-all or cure-all in a disaster situation.

The city council should get involved. Either through a subcommittee or simply by reviewing reports from city administration, the council ought to take a look at where the city is at in terms of disaster preparedness. It is time for them to take their own "year after" look at the tornado that struck Novi. A "snapshot," as such, of exactly where the city stands.

They should bring together all the patchwork improvements that have been made for review and discussion. Any study should also have a heavy emphasis on what the individual resident can do, and not just what improvements have been made in the disaster plan or various city departments.

'More than Twelve Oaks'

Bruce Weintraub

Okay, I admit it. There is more to Novi than the Twelve Oaks Mall and the Novi Hilton.

But, before you hang me by my thumbs or decide to throw me in the pokey, give me an opportunity to explain myself.

To me, no matter where I've lived or visited, city's landmarks have always been either hotels or shopping malls.

When I was a kid living in Southfield, my mother and grandmother would drag me off to Northland to buy that last piece of school clothing my mother was sure I had to have. And if I cooperated, I would be treated to a molasses cookie from Hudson's bakery.

And after we moved to West Bloomfield, my mother, ever the good samaritan, told my father she was spending too much money, and she would take it easy for awhile. Little did my dad suspect that Twelve Oaks Mall had just been built only 10 miles from our house.

So now it was off to Twelve Oaks, more molasses cookies and more shopping for clothes I really didn't need.

But, as the years went by, a miracle happened. I grew up! No more school clothes shopping trips. I became an adult and, what's better, a college student. And as a college student I could wear the same clothes if I felt like it, or (and I'm sorry, Mom) clothes with holes in the knee.

Thus, while going to the University of Michigan, I got to know the town and people of Ann Arbor, and (heaven forbid) I didn't enter a shopping mall for three years.

If you have any suggestions on what's interesting in the Novi community, give me a call. I'd love to learn more about this city.

But then, in August of 1986, I met Rachel. And after we dated for about a month, I found out that her favorite activity was shopping. Ugh! More often than Jack Morris gives up home runs, I began visiting shopping malls. And what's worse, she never bought me a molasses cookie.

Well, Rachel and I broke up awhile ago, and now I work for The Novi News/Northville Record. And guess what. I have been driving through Novi and there's more to this fine city than Twelve Oaks.

There are beautiful woods and farms throughout Novi, and the people I've been meeting have been incredibly friendly.

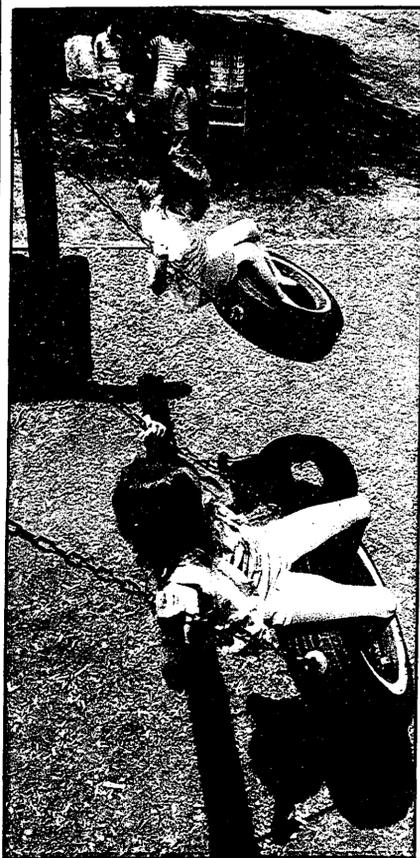

So, now I'm on a mission to learn all I can about Novi. I want to put shopping malls out of my mind for the time being, and just become a part of this community, like I did in Ann Arbor.

If you have any suggestions on what's interesting in the Novi community, give me a call. I'd love to learn more about this city.

But right now I'm going to have a snack, and, uh-oh, guess what, I'm in the mood for a molasses cookie.

Injury ends medal plan

Phil Jerome

"I don't feel sorry for you," she said, speaking with the same air of disdain she adopts whenever she sees thinks I'm looking for sympathy.

"I don't want you to feel sorry for me," I shot back. "I'm not limping because I want you to feel sorry for me; I'm limping because my leg hurts."

And then I tossed in the little zinger that I knew would really get her goat. "And it's all your fault."

"My fault?" she roared. "My fault? How can you possibly blame that silly little leg injury on me? I just want you to get in better shape by doing a little jogging. I even volunteered to jog with you — even though it forces me to slow down my pace considerably."

"If you hadn't insisted I go jogging before supper every night, I wouldn't have hurt my calf and I wouldn't be limping around like Long John Silver right now," I told her.

"But, nooooo. You make me go jogging. You tell me I'm starting to look like George Plumptre. You hide all the candy bars so I can't find them anymore. That's what kind of person you are."

"And I also told you to run on your heels... not your toes. But, nooooo, not Mr. Macho Man. You have to jog on your toes and tie your calf muscles all up in knots. If you'd run like I told you to run, you wouldn't be limping around here right now. It's your own fault, and I don't feel sorry for you."

It was my turn in the argument, but I really didn't know what to say next. So I tried a different tact entirely.

"You know what really bums me out about this injury?" I asked, trying to change the tone by sounding serious. "What really bums me out is that the Olympic trials are coming up and I really don't think I'm going to be ready to compete this year."

Woodland revisions make sense

To the Editor:
While there seems to be a need to fine-tune the proposed revisions to the woodlands ordinance in order to make it more fair and concise, I believe that modifying the ordinance in order to make it more effective in preserving the integrity of woodlands is not just trees — is a wise and good intention.

It's important that we provide everyone with a better understanding of the various elements that are valuable parts of a whole woodland and how they are interrelated and essential in maintaining a healthy ecosystem.

I also believe that the proposed amendment to the zoning ordinance, which would provide incentives for woodland preservation, is a positive approach which should be implemented.

If preservation of our natural resources is to be accomplished, I think that we need to be less demanding in certain areas and more willing to provide incentives and feasible opportunities for such preservation.

Achieving an adequate balance between development and preservation is a complex task which requires a mutual understanding and willingness to strive towards quality developments which are visually stimulating and enable all living things to thrive.

I enjoyed the article about the Thornton home on Nine Mile, which appeared in the paper.

My family called it home for four years. My husband, the late Robert Flattery, myself and our three children, Jane, Josephine and Dan, moved there in September 1982.

Jane was enrolled in the fourth grade at Our Lady of Victory School the first year it opened and Josephine in Northville's kindergarten. Dan was just nine months old.

Claude and Marie Cresse were the owners and lived in the lovely large home which is now the Home Sweet Home Restaurant. The farm house was surrounded by approximately 27 acres of property.

Frank and Virginia Besak, with their seven children, were our neighbors and beyond them were Art

Michigan, but the experience wasn't an ideal way to end an otherwise great vacation.

They returned home to Beachwalk Apartments in northern Novi unaware that more bad luck was around the corner. A few nights later, a neighbor fell asleep while cooking something on the stove at 2 a.m. and the flames went up the exhaust system and were trapped inside the wall. As (un)luck would have it, the Novi firemen arrived on the scene and decided to fight the fire through the Higgins' apartment.

As you might imagine, almost the entire apartment was gutted when it was all over. There was two inches of water on the floor and there was a huge hole in the wall — not to mention all the smoke damage.

Their pet cat 'Amadeus' hid underneath the water bed throughout the whole episode, too afraid to come out and too far under the bed for Rita to grab him and take him to safety. Thankfully, the cat came out of the situation unharmed, but he was mighty jumpy and smelled like a barbecue.

In what proved to be a wise move, Terry and Rita bought renters' insurance just

Johnson quits as planning chair

Novi Mayor Matthew Quinn, in a telephone interview Tuesday, said that after Johnson was reappointed to the planning commission on June 20, he was under the impression that she might not be able to generate enough votes among planning commissioners to re-secure her position as chairperson. The commission elects its officers each July.

However, Quinn indicated that he was not aware of any "guarantees" among other planning commissioners.

"It was a personal choice she decided to make," Quinn commented about Johnson's resignation. "I have all the confidence in her as chairperson and am convinced she could have continued her job effectively."

"I'm looking forward to her input as a commissioner for the next three years of her term," he added.

Quinn described Johnson as the most knowledgeable commissioner about the city's Zoning Ordinance.

"If there were any disenchantment among commissioners, it may have been about how she (Johnson) runs her meetings," Quinn said. "But that's up to the planning commission to decide."

In her resignation letter, Johnson stated: "The concerns as I understand them are that I am undiplomatic, too assertive, talk too much, show displeasure with decisions, keep people off the agenda, make decisions at (the) Implementation (committee) that the commission should make, try to do Jim Wahl's (director of community development) job, and am at city hall too much..."

None of those concerns were directly expressed to Johnson, a factor that disturbs her.

"I feel like I'm the only one losing sleep over this," she said. "I don't know what it is that I did to offend anyone... the whole point is that if they (the commission) would have come to me with their grumblings I could have tried to mend my ways and to set matters straight. But that didn't happen and it's unfortunate."

Grease fire causes $15,000 damage

Novi Fire Department officials believe a grease fire that spread quickly ended up causing over $15,000 damage to the Beachwalk Apartments early Friday morning.

A resident of the apartment also received a slightly burned hand during the fire, according to Novi Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan.

Lenaghan said the fire spread from a stove of one of the apartment units and up into a wall just before 2 a.m. Friday.

Fire fighters evacuated an undetermined number of residents from 16 apartment units.

"It got into the ductwork over the stove and spread to the walls," Lenaghan said. "It was just a matter of getting to it."

Apartment resident Thomas Pasekel, 23, was burned on the hand trying to remove the burning pan, Lenaghan said.

Four apartment units received damage totaling about $15,000, he said.

Novi fire fighters were on the scene for about two hours Friday morning.

Northville store reflects European flavor

By LISA VAN CAMP

The store, located in a 115-year-old building, previously sold only hand-made country knick-knacks, but now concentrates on more European merchandise.

The store also requires constant maintenance. The owners believe the merchandise must be constantly rearranged for "fresh looks."

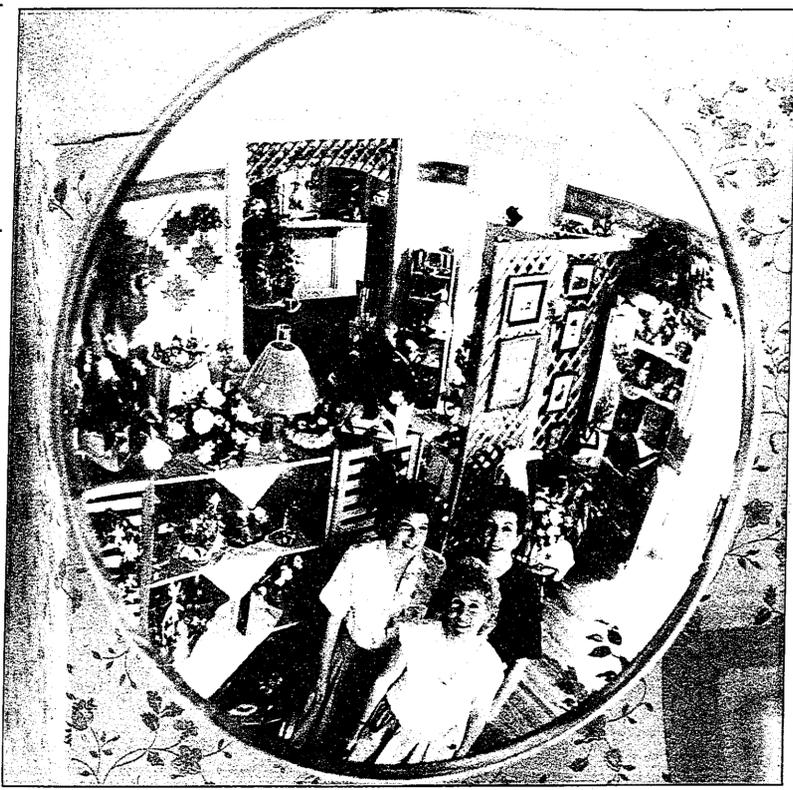

The store's location is both a help and a hindrance to business. Traditions is located on East Main Street and sometimes does not receive the attention of the stores located nearer the busier downtown streets. Since Traditions has regular customers and ample parking space, the location has not hurt business very much. "We're worth the walk," Bates said.

Traditions attracts customers from communities around the Detroit area including Grosse Pointe. The owners also are working to attract a larger clientele. The owners are currently concentrating on advertising.

"We would like to have more Northville residents," Bates said, noting that the prices on their merchandise are their own best advertisements. Unlike most department stores, Traditions' overhead is very low. The three owners are the only employees, and because MacDonald, Slack and Bates are the only people who buy merchandise for the store, the quality is very high.

"Our prices are 25 percent under mall prices, and we have a bigger selection," Slack said.

Traditions is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. In the fall, the store will be open on Fridays until 8 p.m.

Traditions by Emmy MacKay is a reflection of its owners — Karen Slack, Kathy Bates and JoAnne MacDonald

Business Briefs

LOUIS C. CHIARA, M.D., has opened a dermatology practice at 308 South Main Street in Northville to treat diseases of the skin, hair and nails.

Chiara is a board certified dermatologist. He attended medical school at the Universidad Autonoma de Guadalajara in Mexico and the Rush Medical College in Chicago, Illinois. He did his internship at Cook County Hospital in Chicago and did residencies at the University of Illinois, Peoria School of Medicine, and Wayne State University, School of Medicine.

After training at Wayne State, he has since served as Chief of Venerology and currently is a clinical instructor in the Dermatology Department.

Following an internship in Internal Medicine, Dr. Chiara completed four years of specialty training in the diseases of the skin, hair and nails of children and adults. He also has special skills in minor cosmetic surgery and the detection and removal of skin cancers.

PHILIP A. PALARCHIO, a special agent with The Prudential's Lansing office, recently received the company's Quality Service Award. He is a former Northville resident.

Palarchio was one of 33 Prudential employees from an 11-state area recognized for providing superior service to customers, according to Morton E. Spitzer, CLU, ChFC, president of The Prudential's North Central Operations in Minneapolis.

Since joining the company in 1979, Palarchio has received many awards for sales and service leadership. The son of Arthur and Rosemarie Palarchio of Northville, Palarchio is a graduate of Northville High School and Michigan State University, where he majored in marketing.

He and his wife, Terry, live in East Lansing. They have a son, Matthew, 3.

THE LAKES AREA CHAMBER of Commerce seated three new directors for 1988-89 at its annual meeting at the Bay Pointe Golf Club on June 16. Named directors of the organization were Jon Retherford of the Goddard-Talmay Agency, John Radenbaugh of Radenbaugh Insurance and Walled Lake City Manager J. Michael Dornan.

Included in the program were the presentation of outstanding "Citizen of the Year" awards to Wendell Allen of Mid-Oakland Building and Development Company and Fay Renchick of National Bank of Detroit. Allen was cited for his past efforts involving Winterfest and his present contributions to the community through various groups and the chamber. Renchick was honored for continued community involvement over a number of years and her chamber involvement, especially the Scholarship Committee.

In addition, five high school students were awarded scholarships — Lisa Marie Childers of Walled Lake Western, Joel Benjamin Diverno of Lakeland, Raquel Lynn Muncy of Waterford Kettering, Robert C. Wagner of Walled Lake Central and Matthew C. Waterman of Walled Lake Central.

Forty-five top sales and management personnel from around the world gathered at the annual Intracorp Gold Medal meeting to mark the success and growth of the company during the past year.

A senior account representative, Bartlett is a two-year veteran with Intracorp. He received the Gold Medal award for excellence in marketing rehabilitation and auditing services. Bartlett is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University and also has completed courses at the Insurance Institute of America in Property, Casualty and Liability.

Active in local industry groups, Bartlett is an affiliate member of the Michigan Self-Insured Association and an affiliate member of the Detroit Adjusters Association. He resides in Northville with his wife Heather and their two children.

Intracorp founded the private disability management industry in 1970 and has grown to be the nation's largest provider of disability management and cost containment services. Headquartered in Wayne, Pennsylvania, Intracorp provides rehabilitation, auditing, medical review and medical case management services to insurers and employers.

COMMUNITY FEDERAL CREDIT UNION'S Board of Directors and Management Team participated in a weekend planning conference at the Novi Hilton on April 15-16.

The weekend was highlighted by an Assets and Liabilities Management seminar given by Professor John Brick of Michigan State University, an expert in the field. Brick heads his own consultant company, John R. Brick and Associates, and is a member of Michigan State University Credit Union's Board of Directors, in addition to his teaching commitment.

James S. Cantrell, general manager of Community Federal Credit Union, termed the conference "a success" and said that "Dr. Brick's presentation was outstanding and he gave our directors and management staff some very thoughtful and practical ideas in the area of asset and liability management."

MARK STORM, a State Farm Insurance Companies agent in the Northville area, has been named to the Legion of Honor, one of the firm's most distinguished accomplishments.

Only about 40 percent of State Farm agents qualify for this designation. To qualify, agents must achieve high standards in all aspects of the insurance business, especially regarding the quality of their business.

Storm has been a State Farm agent since 1984.

State Farm is one of the world's largest insurance companies and sells auto, fire, life and health insurance. With corporate headquarters in Bloomington, Ill., the company serves customers with over 16,000 agents and more than 800 claims offices throughout the United States and Canada.

AL and CONNIE QUALMAN of Northville attended Amway Corporation's annual convention in Grand Rapids on June 10-11.

The Qualmans, local independent distributors of Amway products and services, participated in the two-day convention designed to educate and motivate distributors. They joined more than 6,000 other distributors from around the world to learn about new products, services and policies.

Amway Corporation, now in its 29th year, had estimated retail sales of $1.5 billion in 1987. One of the world's largest network marketing companies, Amway has one million distributors and operates in more than 40 countries and territories.

NANCY WARD of Northville won an all-expense paid trip to Hawaii for her home-based business of direct sales of Avon Products.

She was congratulated by Paul B. Markovits, president of Avon's U.S. Direct Selling Division. "You've shown that running your own direct selling business is one of the most profitable and personally rewarding options for women today," said Markovits in addressing this company's 500 winning representatives.

When asked what contributed to her success, Ward said the key is understanding her customers' needs and giving them to service and products they want.

Avon is the world's leading brand of cosmetics, fragrances and fashion jewelry. Its products are sold by over 1.4 million sales representatives to customers in more than 50 countries.

CPAs tell how to figure your net worth

Money Management

The Jones up the street seem to live like millionaires. They've got a new Mercedes in the driveway of their brand new house. And they always seem to be going out to dinner or on vacation. They must be wealthy.

Don't be too sure of that, says the Michigan Association of CPAs. Lifestyle is not always a reflection of wealth.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones may owe a substantial amount of money on their new car and home while sipping even more money into vacations and dinners that add nothing to their net worth. And net worth is the ultimate measure of wealth.

You, on the other hand, may owe only a small mortgage on your house, your car is paid off and you've got a small little nest egg in the form of an IRA, savings accounts and some stocks and bonds. In short, your net worth is probably much more than the free-spending Jones'.

What is net worth? Simply put, net worth is the difference between what you own and what you owe. For example, if you recently bought a $200,000 home, but owe $100,000, the house contributes only $100,000 to your net worth. On the other hand, if you own a $100,000 house and owe only $50,000 on it, the house contributes $50,000 to your net worth.

To calculate your net worth, add up the market value of all of your assets — home, car, bank accounts, investments and retirement assets. From this, subtract your liabilities: mortgage, car loans, consumer loans and the like. The figure you come up with is your net worth. But what does it tell you?

Net worth is, in effect, a snapshot of your financial standing at any given time. As such, it is most useful when compared to other "snapshots" taken at different times. The comparison allows you to gauge your financial movement — are you accumulating wealth or losing it?

If your financial goal is to reduce your debt load and build up assets, a semi-annual or annual net worth calculation will let you chart your progress. This is not to say you won't be able to learn anything from your first net worth calculation. On the contrary, it creates a benchmark against which all future calculations will be measured. Let's assume you've calculated your net worth and to your horror, you discover not only are you worth nothing, you actually have a negative net worth. Should you worry? Not if you are young and still paying off student loans in addition to taking on debt to pay for a new car and new furniture and all the other things required for setting up an independent household.

Remember, after all, most of us will build up net worth the way our parents did — slowly through savings. As a result, younger people tend to have a much lower net worth than older, established people.

In fact, the federal government estimates half of people below the age of 35 have a net worth of less than $20. CPAs recommend, however, that you should be saving at least five percent of your net income. If your savings account doesn't reflect that, you should consider boosting the amount you save.

Your net worth also allows you to identify financial problems so you can move to solve them. If, for example, your liabilities outstrip your assets and you have the negative net

Employers impressed by goal-oriented teens

Teenagers seeking a part-time job to earn money for college, a savings account, or new bicycle or car should communicate their goals to prospective employers who look for motivated young workers.

"There are many eager young people searching for part-time jobs, and the students with the best chances of getting hired are those who express their motivation in interviews," said Denise Litch Lites, vice president of Little Caesar's Enterprises, Inc. in Farmington Hills.

The company operates nearly 2,000 Little Caesar's Pizza restaurants across the country, most of which hire teens throughout the year, and especially during busy summer months.

"We have found that teens with direction, teens who have a purpose in obtaining a job, are the best, most productive young employees," said Lites. "When young people work toward a goal, they work with more care and dedication."

Whatever the case, the Michigan Association of CPAs recommends teens to begin to monitor your financial health by calculating your net worth. If nothing else, you may discover you're better off than you thought you were.

Top companies encourage consumer feedback

Companies want customers to come to them with questions, ideas, compliments and complaints.

Why? Because top management in businesses across the nation have discovered the vital importance of customer feedback — and a company's responses to it.

With each response a business reveals its level of concern for the quality of its goods and services, as well as its commitment to customer satisfaction. In a study conducted by the echnical Assistance Research Programs Institute ("EARP"), it was reported that the majority of customers don't bother to express dissatisfaction with a product or service to the firms concerned.

It also revealed that 70 percent of those who do complain and receive a satisfactory response continue to be customers. Only 37 percent of those who do not complain, on the other hand, are willing to give the product or service another try.

According to Elaine Glasser, Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service Home Economist, dissatisfied complainants tell twice as many people about their negative experiences as satisfied complainants tell about their positive interactions.

Based on findings that customers are more likely to be communicative with companies if they're confident of a positive response, firms are installing toll-free, easy-access 800 numbers in their consumer affairs departments. More and more consumers are calling. They're finding it easier, not to mention quicker, to ask questions or describe a problem over the phone than in a letter. Studies show that the number of complaints doubles, even triples, and inquiries increase three to 10 times when 800 numbers are made available.

Consumers may want to straighten out a billing matter, obtain information on product use and care, learn where they can obtain service. To discover if a company you wish to contact has a toll-free number, call the toll-free information operator at 1-800-555-1212.

Ann Arbor Art Fair

How to 'do' the fair like a true insider

Visiting the Ann Arbor Art Fair is sort of like taking a weekend trip to Disneyland—so much to see and so little time.

But if you know what you're looking for and where to find it, a trip to the art fair will be infinitely more enjoyable.

With that in mind, we'd like to offer this as an insider's guide to the Ann Arbor Art Fair, set for July 20-22 this summer. From where to park to where to eat to where the best art is located, we'll tell you everything you need to know to properly "do" the art fair.

ART

What is art? Well, that's a question that has troubled philosophers for ages. And while you might not find the answer at the art fair, but you're bound to find something you like.

The art fair is actually made up of three separate art fairs, each with its own specialty. To help you sort out who has what and to key in on what you're looking for, here's a brief description of each of the fairs and their offerings.

The Ann Arbor Street Art Fair—Located on South University and East University, this is the festival's oldest art fair (29 years) and bills itself as "the original juried art fair." That means artists have to submit entries to judges, who then select them to be in the fair.

"Even though all three art fairs are juried, I still feel we're the one that juries more completely... which helps to keep our quality high," said Susan Froelich, AASAF coordinator.

"We feel that the quality of our art is the highest and has been the highest for 29 years." The fair has 200-220 artists practicing in a wide variety of media, everything from clay sculpture to mixed media that combine prints with collage and painting.

While every artist has something special to offer, Froelich recommends keeping an eye out for these artists:

Patrick Dragon, a Florida-based artist who has an innovative firing technique for his clay work, Denise Lisiecki of Kalamazoo, in her first art fair ever, displays watercolor paintings that combine flowers and everyday objects in deep colors; Ken Schmidt, currently working on his doctorate in art education, uses some aerospace metals to create unique jewelry and sculpture; and Tiffany Hopkinson, a Florida man—"He does really beautiful, intricate wood sculptures," Froelich said.

She recommends visitors peruse the whole art fair, and take time to talk with the artists about their work. "The one thing I think people don't take advantage of enough is talking to the artists," she said.

Summer Arts Festival—Now in its 18th year, this is Ann Arbor's youngest arts festival. It's made up of 540 artists in booths on Main Street, State Street and a section of Liberty Street.

On those three streets, you can find everything imaginable in arts and crafts. "Our part of the fair has something for everyone," said coordinator Mary Strope. "You could buy something for $2 to $1,000 in our part of the fair."

Strope is director of festivals for the Michigan Guild of Artists and Artisans whose members make up the show. About half the members are from Michigan and the rest come from all over the country.

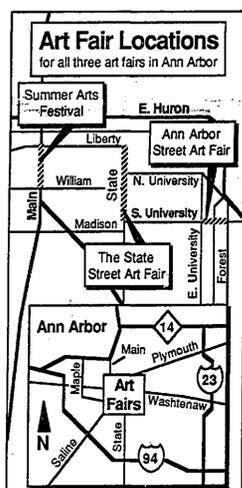

Strope said fair-goers can find fine arts, especially jewelry, at the Summer Arts Festival, but the list doesn't stop there. The show also offers leather goods, paintings, crafts and folk art, everything from glassblowers to colonial furniture makers. And don't miss the handmade stuffed animals on Main Street, and some special raku clay works on display.

The State Street Art Fair—This fair is the smallest of the festival, but don't overlook it. Now in its 21st year, the fair is located on North University and sections of Maynard, Liberty and William streets.

Last year, it featured metal working, mostly jewelry and sculpture, as well as clay works, fiber arts and photography. The State Street Art Fair also offers classical music noon to 3 p.m. at Liberty Plaza, at the corner of Liberty and Division streets.

SIDEWALK SALES

If you can't find an art treasure to take home, the least you can do is find some bargain item. The art fair is best known for its art, of course, but it's also a bargain-hunter's dream as local stores roll out the merchandise and cut the prices to take advantage of the crowds.

Merchants along Main Street traditionally hold sidewalk sales offering their usual merchandise at cut-rate prices. It's also a good time to duck into some of Ann Arbor's more interesting shops—like Peaceable Kingdom, full of interesting items—or After Words, a discount bookstore.

But if you're after real bargains, the place to go is State Street. Here you can score everything from a $4 Hawaiian shirt to a $1.99 bestseller. The sale usually includes every known item of University of Michigan clothing, as well as an array of discounted items like sunglasses, stationery supplies and record albums.

PARKING

The art fair brings 500,000 people to Ann Arbor, and nearly all come by car.

Since there aren't nearly that many parking spaces in the downtown area (where parking is notoriously scarce 365 days a year), it takes some ingenuity and planning to find a place to rest your roadster.

Don't think for a minute that you can park illegally on some obscure side street and get away with it. According to the Ann Arbor Convention and Business Bureau, the Ann Arbor Police impound 120 cars during the fair, and 5,000 citations are issued. Another 1,000 tickets are handed out for parking violations on the University of Michigan campus.

Many homeowners, churches, fraternities and sororities offer spaces on their lawns and driveways. All-day rates are whatever the market will bear—anywhere from $2-$8, depending on proximity to the fair, and the principles of supply and demand.

Private operators usually fill up by 11 a.m., and you may get blocked in for the day. Some box cars in, other don't. If you have any doubts, ask.

There's usually a lot of competition—and therefore lower prices—along Hill Street and along Washtenaw Avenue, southeast of the U-M campus. From there, it's less than a two-block walk to the fair on South University Avenue.

The university also offers parking in some of its lots and parking structures for $4-$5. This year, however, there will be less space available than for previous fairs. The space is needed for employees, and one of the structures is closed for repairs.

The best deal, in terms of cost and freedom from hassles, is the park-and-ride option offered by the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority. The AATA will operate shuttle buses from the parking lots at Pioneer High School and Briarwood Mall to the Art Fair for $2 round trip.

People who use the park-and-ride shuttles will also receive a complimentary free pass for

Boy Scouts preparing for camping expeditions

Novi Boy Scout Troop 407 continues to be active during the summer with a variety of activities. The troop now has 39 members as a result of the addition of 19 boys who graduated from Cub Scouts this spring.

The Scouts recently took a canoe trip down the Huron River, leaving from Rebel's Landing in Milford. The group spent the weekend in the Proud Lake Area under the direction of Paul Bennett to give new Scouts additional experience in camping and canoeing.

Final plans for two major camps will be made at the next meeting in the Novi Civic Center on Monday, July 11. The younger boys will leave July 17 to attend summer camp at Lost Lake near Clare. Older boys will leave July 14 for a High Adventure camping experience in the Minnesota Boundary Waters under the leadership of Paul Chirgwin and Gary Skodack.

New adult leaders on the Troop Committee are assistant scoutmasters Paul Bennett and Doug MacQueen. Steve Mills is the new recruit-ment chairman. Other committee members are Dennis Champine, Scott Hultman, Larry Laichalk and Wayne Vickland.

NOVI TROOP 54: Members of Novi Boy Scout Troop 54 have been trained for Scout Camp on July 3-9. Norm Ross is Scoutmaster and Jim Young is Assistant Scoutmaster.

The boys recently received CPR and first aid training from Mrs. Jay Simacek, who is employed at St. Mary Hospital. In addition, they have been able to purchase two new pup tents but still need a larger tent. The troop also has plenty of pots and pans, but needs cooking utensils such as wooden spoons and spatulas. The boys also are planning to raise money to purchase a larger trailer as well as some dining flaps.

The Scout Committee will meet at the Novi Methodist Church in August to make plans for the fall and to sponsor several fund-raisers to make money to purchase additional camping equipment.

GIRL SCOUTS: Some 186 Novi Girl Scouts and leaders attended an International Weekend at Camp Holly in conjunction with National Girl Scout Day (June 22).

The event had an international theme and featured food from foreign countries. Activities included workshops on boating, crafts, songs and nature study by Erika Brown, a naturalist. In addition, 60 girls were bridged from Daisy Scouts to Brownies and from Brownies to Girl Scouts.

Green Angel patches were presented to Kathy Langham, Gwen Dobson and Jeanne Clarke. Linda Burton received a Green Angel pin. Sherry Kemp was named the winning Scout Camp on July 3-9. Norm Ross is Scoutmaster and Jim Young is Assistant Scoutmaster.

The Scout Committee will meet at the Novi Methodist Church in August to make plans for the fall and to sponsor several fund-raisers to make money to purchase additional camping equipment.

GIRL SCOUTS: Some 186 Novi Girl Scouts and leaders attended an International Weekend at Camp Holly in conjunction with National Girl Scout Day (June 22).

The event had an international theme and featured food from foreign countries. Activities included workshops on boating, crafts, songs and nature study by Erika Brown, a naturalist. In addition, 60 girls were bridged from Daisy Scouts to Brownies and from Brownies to Girl Scouts.

Green Angel patches were presented to Kathy Langham, Gwen Dobson and Jeanne Clarke. Linda Burton received a Green Angel pin. Sherry Kemp was named the winning Scout Camp on July 3-9. Norm Ross is Scoutmaster and Jim Young is Assistant Scoutmaster.

The boys recently received CPR and first aid training from Mrs. Jay Simacek, who is employed at St. Mary Hospital. In addition, they have been able to purchase two new pup tents but still need a larger tent. The troop also has plenty of pots and pans, but needs cooking utensils such to lunch daily at noon. A $1 donation is suggested for the luncheons, but is not required.

In addition, the OLHSA Center offers a "Meals on Wheels" program and "Reassurance Telephone Calls" program. Meals on Wheels is available for homebound seniors who live alone, cannot cook or are recuperating from a stay in the hospital. As many as 40 meals a day are provided. More information about Meals on Wheels is available from Center Manager Jan McAlpine at 347-0414.

Volunteer Coordinator Glyda Berend is in charge of the Reassurance Calls program, which makes certain that someone telephones participants in the program on a daily basis. More information is available from McAlpine at 347-0414.

Special events at the OLHSA Center recently have included CPR training by the Novi Fire Department and the annual Fun Fest which brought more than 400 seniors from surrounding centers to Novi for a day of fun and programs. Special guests on Tuesday, July 12, and the University of Michigan M-Care Center will present a program on colon cancer screening on Thursday, July 14. The M-Care program also will include free blood pressure screenings.

The Strawberry and Cream Festival is scheduled for Tuesday, July 19, and the Clyde Cronier Band will perform live music for a dance at the Civic Center on Wednesday, July 20, from 14 p.m. A representative from State Sen. Richard Kessel's office will present a VCR program on how bills become laws at a program scheduled for Thursday, July 21.

The OLHSA Center provides programs for senior citizens Monday through Friday in the Novi Civic Center. Regular activities include pinocchio tournaments, crafts, bingo and blood pressure checks. The OLHSA Center also serves a

The Friends have formed a "Special Gift" committee in conjunction with the library's expansion into the east wing of the library building. The group will help move books and boxes into the new wing and present the special gift during an opening celebration.

NORTHWEST PWP: The Novi-Northville chapter of Parents Without Partners (PWP) has changed its name to the Northwest PWP. The group continues to work toward the goal of serving both children and adults from one-parent families.

Brian Murphy is president of the chapter. Other officers are Gene Kingsley, vice president/administrator; Paulette Brandenburger, vice president/programs and education; Linda Klenner, vice president/membership; Diane Grisdold, treasurer; and Julia Brun, secretary. Jackie Kennedy and Jane Hike are newsletter editors. Joan Pleszko is chairman of Amigos, and Don Phillips is chair of the Ethics and Grievance Committee.

The Rebekah Lodge is one of the oldest organizations in Novi and has been in existence approximately 70 years. The lodge formerly was located in a two-story building in what is now the Town Center.

The Independent Rebekah Club, in accordance with the wishes of regular lodge members, recently donated $1,000 to the Novi Historical Society to assist with the renovation of the Old Novi Township Hall.

Keumsum Suh at her Novi home with her two children, Youngtae, 4, and Mindy, 7

Novi woman learns English well

By PHILIP JEROME managing editor

"I studied English for many years, but I couldn't open my mouth. I always murmured to myself."

Those words were written by Keumsum Suh, a native of Korea who currently resides in Novi.

And what she is describing are her efforts to adjust to a new language in a new country. The words were included in an essay which she wrote in her English as a Second Language (ESL) class through the Novi Community Education Department...

Keumsum and her husband Dongsik moved to Michigan within two years ago. Her husband, she said, is a businessman with the Kia Motor Company.

Her daughter, Mindy, 7, has just finished second grade at Village Oaks Elementary School and her son, Youngtae, 4, will enter kindergarten at Village Oaks in September.

After living in Farmington Hills for a year, they moved to Novi in February 1987 and reside in the Pavilion Court Apartments on Nine Mile at Haggerty Road.

Despite her success in the ESL essay-writing contest, Keumsum says English is still difficult for her. Located conveniently on a coffee table in her apartment are an English-to-Korean dictionary and a Korean-to-English dictionary.

Located conveniently on a coffee table in her apartment are a Korean-to-English dictionary and an English-to-Korean dictionary.

"I need them both," she said. Keumsum is far more proficient in English than she at first seems. She speaks the language haltingly, but is far more proficient with the written word.

"I studied English many years in Korea," she said. "It is a very important language. But we learned English from Koreans and the pronunciations over here are very much different."

Although her pronunciation of English words has improved significantly, Keumsum said she still has trouble being understood on occasion.

"People have trouble understanding me, so I'm asked to spell things a lot," she said.

Another major difference between Korean and English is sentence structure. "In America we say 'I go to school,' but in the Korean language we say, 'I school go.'"

Still, her ability to read and write English has led to some amusing situations. Keumsum recalls going to the police station to apply for a drivers license. She said the officer had trouble understanding her, but was amazed at her ability to read and understand completely a sheet of information written in English.

"She (the officer) was very surprised that I was able to do it," she laughed.

Although Keumsum is still adjusting to her new language, her two children have made the transition easily. Both are bilingual, of course, but English is the language that is used when the youngsters play around the house.

The following is Keumsum's award-winning essay in the ESL competition:

When I came here two years ago, I worried about how to speak English with Americans. I studied English for many years, but I couldn't open my mouth. I always murmured to myself.

After I attended adult school, first of all, my fears disappeared. I learned many things from school, for example, American history, govern-

Ann Arbor art fair: An insider's guide

another special bus line which will be shutting passengers around the fair itself.

Mary Stroppe, coordinator for the Summer Arts Festival, expressed the feelings of many people connected with the fair when she said, "By all means, don't try and park, take the bus."

For more information on the AATA's fares and schedules, call (313) 966-9400.

RESTAURANTS

"You've gotta eat, right? At the art fair, you have two choices: elephant ears and hot dogs at one of the outdoor stands, or a nice sit-down meal at one of Ann Arbor's fine restaurants.

If you choose the food-stand route, you can grab some grub from vendors which usually congregate along the eastern end of South University Avenue, and the southern end of Main Street. Shish kebabs, falafel, corn dogs and even the old standbys, hamburgers and french fries, can be had.

If you're in the area of the Michigan Union (South University at South State), you can't go wrong at the indoor and outdoor food courts operated by the Michigan Union Grill (the MUG). Pizza, breadsticks, salads, deli sandwiches and Strohl's ice cream are just some of the items you can sample.

On Main Street, there's also the Oasis of Cafes, an amalgamation of outdoor cafes operated by the Parsonage, the Full Moon Cafe, Grazi and Trattoria Bella Ciao.

If it's an indoor, sit-down meal you want, the only problem is deciding which of Ann Arbor's great restaurants to go to.

You could go out of town to any of the air-conditioned spots along Washtenaw Avenue or South State, but then you'd give up your hard-earned parking space.

Or you could go to one of the popular eateries right on the fair route, like Cottage Inn or Heteroon Delight or Manic's. In that case, you'd be almost guaranteed a long wait and an invitation to "have a seat at the bar," from the hostess.

Then there are those little, out-of-the-way, oft-forgotten treasures that don't take too long to get to, but are far enough away from the crowd that you can get a seat fairly quickly. Here's a list of some good ones, in no particular order. Unless otherwise indicated, most places serve lunch from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., and dinner from 5-10 p.m.

Kans: 1133 E. Huron St. Wholesome you-name-it, it's there.

food, some hot and spicy; open for lunch and dinner; free parking.

Krazy Jim's Blimpies Burgers: 551 S. Division St. A campus-area greasy spoon, but with a little style. Burgers are the specialty, with an interesting variety of toppings; open 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Cedar Tree: 317 Braun Court, off N. Fourth Ave. Arabic and Near East foods; open 5-11 p.m., and may be open for lunch during Art Fair.

La Casita De Lopez: 315 Braum Court. Traditional Mexican specialties; open for lunch and dinner.

Fuji: 327 Braun Court. Japanese food, with both regular entrees and a sushi bar; open for lunch and dinner.

Southeast Grill: 640 Packard St. at State St. In addition to a wide range of lunches, this place is known for its huge breakfast portions; open 7:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Flo's: 333 E. Huron St. A hole-in-the-wall Mexican restaurant, with most items available vegetarian, and a unique chili served with your choice of ingredients; open for lunch and dinner.

Dominick's: 812 Monroe St. A favorite hangout of university professors, Dominick's has a varied ethnic menu (Thai, Vietnamese, Italian) along with some favorite standards; indoor and outdoor seating, but no table service (you place and pick up your own order from the kitchen); open 7:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.

DeLong's Barbecue Pit: 314 Detroit St. In addition to barbecued chicken, ribs, and so forth, there are other Southern specialties like sweet potato pie, carry-out only; open 11 a.m. to 1 a.m.

Argiero's: 300 Detroit St. Serving just about any kind of Italian food you can think of; open for lunch and dinner.

SIDESHOWS

If you're just in the mood to do some people-watching, the diag (located on the U-M campus, between State Street and South University) is the place to go.

Street performers are in abundance here, everything from mimes to jugglers. Another crowd attraction is the Hare Krishna tent. The Krishnas usually set up shop near State Street, playing their music and handing out literature.

Ann Arbor's well-publicized liberal side is on display on South University, near the Engineering Arch. That's where the political action groups set up their booths. Save-the-whales, gay rights, ban-the-bomb-school students have marched in the annual parade.

Robin Hunt, president of the Novi Middle School Band Boosters, encourages parents and area residents to attend the parade to offer the students their support.

Hunt explained that the Wyandotte parade is a competitive event in which several bands compete for cash prizes and trophies.

Middle School band in Wyandotte parade

Novi Middle School Band members will take a short break from their summer fun to make an appearance in the Wyandotte Fourth of July Parade.

Band members will be wearing their recently-purchased uniforms - green shorts and white shirts with green stripes - and toting quite a few new instruments in the parade. This is the first year the middle

Weddings

Karen L. Kavanaugh of Wixom was married to Thomas E. Peterson of Novi in an evening candlelight service at the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church in Farmington Hills on Friday, June 24.

Officiating at the nuptials were the Rev. T. Richard Marcus and the Rev. Richard Henderson of the Faith Community United Presbyterian Church in Novi.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kavanaugh of Wixom. The groom is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Peterson of Shadow Pine Way in Novi.

The bride wore a satin and lace full-length sheath gown with a V-neckline. The lace bodice was covered with iridescent sequins and pearls with a chapel train. The fingertip veil was held by a wreath of ribbon roses.

Attending the bride were Lisa McFarland of Walled Lake, Kathy Brunet of Novi and Nancy Damann of Northville. Their gowns were pink lace over satin teal-length dresses with high-low hemlines.

The bride and attendants carried long-stem natural bouquets of tiger lilies, roses and forget-me-nots tied with matching ribbon.

A special feature at the wedding and reception was a bagpiper who piped the bridal party out of the church and into the reception in a traditional ceremony.

The groom's brother, Jon Peterson of Seattle, Washington, served as best man. Users were Dan Kavanaugh of South Bend, Indiana, and Bill Withers of Farmington Hills.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Holiday Inn Livonia West.

The new Mrs. Peterson is a 1982 Novi High School graduate. She graduated from Lawrence Institute of Technology on June 5 with a Bachelors degree in Business Administration and has accepted a position with Holmes, Lowry, Horn and Johnson, certified public accountants in Vienna, Virginia.

The groom is a 1980 graduate of Novi High School and is employed as a helicopter flight instructor with Metropolitan Helicopters, Inc., in Manassas, Virginia.

The Star of Detroit

Fashion shows, moonlight cruises and more

By LUCINDA MORGAN

Fashion shows and moonlight cruises along the Detroit River are just two of the many attractions of the Star of Detroit.

The Star of Detroit is a cruise and dining ship celebrating its fifth anniversary on the Detroit River.

While aboard the Star of Detroit passengers can enjoy fine dining and dancing or relax in the open air of the upper observation deck.

Each cruise offers its own special elegance and atmosphere. Cruises depart daily from the foot of Hart Plaza in downtown Detroit.

The ship follows a route through the Detroit River up to Lake St. Clair and then back down the river past the Ambassador Bridge. After two or three hours of luxurious cruising, the Star returns to port.

Monday through Friday the Star offers diners the option of lunch on the river. The lunch cruises leave at 11 a.m. every morning and return to port at about 1:30 p.m.

All lunch cruises feature a piano player and a musical narration of the historical points along the Detroit and Windsor shorelines. Lunch on Wednesday has the added bonus of a fashion show sponsored by Detroit area stores.

Weekdays the dinner cruise aboard the Star is from 7-10 p.m. In addition to offering fine cuisine in the two enclosed dining decks, the ship offers visitors the romance of the river.

Passengers can dance to jazz and contemporary music mixture Tuesday through Thursday and enjoy completely contemporary music Friday and Saturday. Sunday and Monday dancers can enjoy the big band sounds of the Chuck Robinette Orchestra.

Friday and Saturday nights the Star of Detroit takes a moonlight cruise from 11 p.m. to 1 a.m. and Sunday the ship leaves the dock at 3 p.m. for a two-hour early dinner cruise.

The ship cruises the Detroit River and Lake St. Clair from mid-May to mid-October.

The Star celebrates many special summer events with a firm to design the Pacific Princess of "Love Boat" fame. The Star of Detroit was crafted in the renowned shipyards of Chesapeake Bay and accommodates 360 passengers for lunch, dinner and brunch cruises and 500 guests for cocktail cruises.

Each Star cruise offers a taste of local history and a touch of elegance.

The cruise line also books a lot of special occasions. Many feel the elegance and unusual atmosphere of the ships are perfect for weddings and receptions as well as other festive occasions.

For the business-minded person, the Star of Detroit lunch cruise is a place to get away from the hectic office to the more relaxing atmosphere of the river. The only interruption at a business meeting aboard the Star is the arrival of lunch.

Whether it's moonlight dancing in the open air or a business lunch in the elegant dining room, the Star of Detroit is an entirely new way to enjoy downtown Detroit.

Star of Detroit: A nice change of pace with a view

Dining aboard this blue and white luxury ship on the Detroit River during a warm summer night offers restaurant-goers a breathtaking view and a pleasant change of pace.

The Star of Detroit cruise can best be characterized as a mildly festive ambience for families and couples alike. An attractive hot and cold buffet is accompanied by the sights and sounds of life on the Detroit River. Passing sailboats and the revitalized appearance of the city's waterfront are key pictorial attractions.

As for the meal itself, the dinner menus vary each night with the exception of peel and eat shrimp. The palatial delights on this particular June night consisted of assorted garden salads, raspberry chicken, seared bass with dill cream, steamed buttered corn on the cob, boiled red skin potatoes, pearl and eat shrimp, cheese and fruit display and a chef's pastry tray for dessert.

During dinner a great deal of emphasis is placed on refilling the assorted trays of food promptly. The waiters and waitresses move swiftly to make sure no glass is half-filled. Mood music of the big band era filters down from the ship's top deck during dining hours.

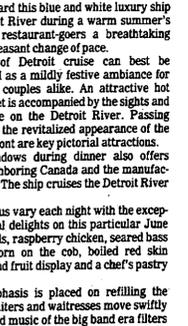

Each of the Star-Line ships in the Midwest region features a full bar and selection of American wines. On the Detroit ship Michigan wines also are available.

The wine selection includes sparkling wines such as Chateau Grand Traverse of Michigan and several California wines. White wines include White Zinfandel, Riesling, Sauvignon and Chardonnay. Michigan-made wines include Red Table and Fern Valley Raspberry. Wine can be purchased either by the bottle or glass.

Desserts consist of an assortment of beautifully-crafted pastries impossible to resist. Calorie watchers may want to caution themselves. All the food aboard the Star of Detroit is freshly prepared on board.

Perhaps the most typical way for passengers to conclude their trip on the ship is to head out onto the deck and watch the sun set on the Detroit and Windsor skylines. Some sound advice is to bring along a jacket if you plan to head outdoors. The temperature can get quite brisk on the water. Even on the hottest days of the wind and water are refreshing.

The boat cruises at a speed of 7.5 to 9.6 nautical mph and can travel as fast as 12 to 13 nautical mph, according to the crew. In short, the white tablecloth service, buffet meal and otherwise leisurely cruise make for an exciting alternative to the everyday restaurant. The ship caters to dining for individuals, groups, conventions and charters, according to Star-Line Corp. management.

Prices for the dinner cruise, Sunday through Thursday, are $39.95 per person and $14.95 for children 12 and under. The price includes meals only. On Friday and Saturday the charge for dinner is $44.95 per person; children, $14.95.

The Star of Detroit lunches cost $20.95 per person Monday through Friday; children, $9.95. The brunch on Saturday and Sunday is $24.95 per person; children, $9.95.

Moonlight cruises are also offered on the Star of Detroit. The price is $14.95 per person. Hors d'oeuvres are served on this cruise. Senior citizen and tour/travel operator discounts may apply, according to management. Passengers are asked to arrive at the Hart Plaza waterfront one-half hour prior to departure.

For more information about dining on the Detroit River call the Star of Detroit at 1-259-9160.

New A.D. stresses total athletic program

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

Some may wonder why John Fundukian would leave his post as athletic director of a large, two-high school district and take a similar post with just one high school and roughly half the number of K-12 students.

But the truth of the matter is that those are exactly the reasons for the move, according to Fundukian.

The Novi Board of Education announced June 23 that Fundukian, 51, would be leaving the Walled Lake Consolidated Schools after serving eight years as athletic director to become the first full-time Director of Physical Education and Athletics in Novi Community School District history.

He takes over the post held by long-time football coach John Osborne since Novi High School was opened in the early 1960s.

"By nature of design, the job I'm leaving and the new job I'm taking are different," Fundukian said. "The attraction in Novi is that it will be more of a hands-on post. Because it's a smaller district with just one high school, proximity-wise, I could be involved a little closer to a leadership role, and that's important to me. I don't want to get in the way, but I want to be able to lead and direct the coaches as much as I can."

Fundukian is currently very active in athletic administration at the county and state levels. He is president of the Oakland County Athletic Directors Association and a Regional Representative of the Michigan Interscholastic Athletic Administration Association, which covers Oakland and Macomb counties.

"The (Novi) program is not unknown to me," he pointed out. "We touch borders (Walled Lake and Novi school districts) and my kids go to Milford High School, which is a Kensington Valley Conference school as well. My job will include scheduling events, hiring officials and those types of things necessary to keep the program running smoothly. I'm an involved person, and I think the end result is what's good for the kids."

Fundukian said he's always been impressed with the Novi school district - from the coaching staff to the way Novi kids behave on the athletic fields and courts.

"It's an excellent school system," he said. "There is a care and concern from the school board that's sincere, and that is good for the athletic program. We need to continue to keep sound athletic and academic principles in focus. I believe involved students are better students - I think it's important in the kids' overall experiences in school."

"The priority should be family first, grades second and athletics third."

When Fundukian was offered the job, he requested that 'Director of Physical Education' be added to Athletics. He has a firm belief in that aspect of athletics and plans to promote proper health and lifestyle practices.

Fundukian: 'My philosophy is that everybody is important but no one is special.'

"The importance of physical education is a critical area," Fundukian said. "The kids need to have a sound understanding of proper health and lifestyles - we need to emphasize wellness - and we need to not just preach it, but model it. We need to repeat it and parade it."

Fundukian refused to make specific comments about possible changes in the athletic department for future goals, but he did say he'd talk at length with the coaches and see if any changes are needed.

"The worst thing I could do is make changes prematurely," he said. "My philosophy is that everybody is important but no one is special. As far as equal offerings for girls as well as boys, my position is that it's an area of sensitivity and I'll make sure it's guarded."

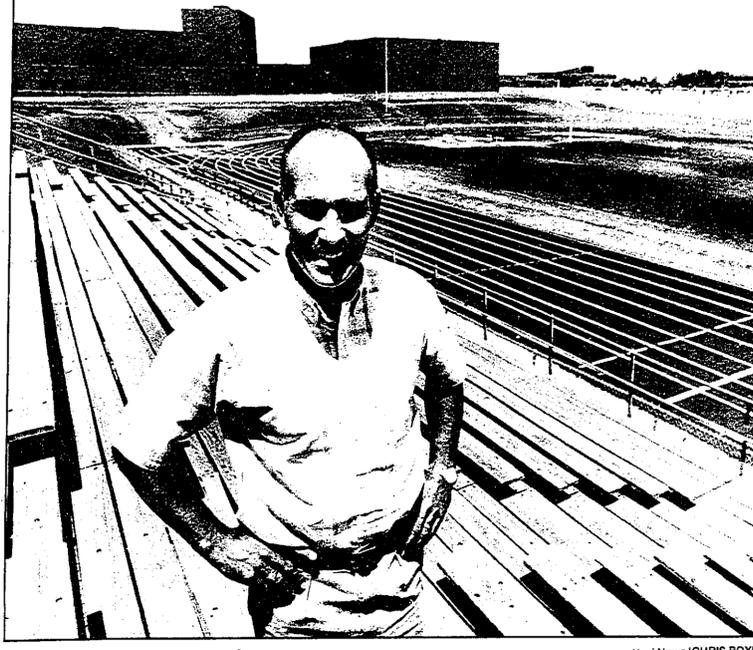

Fundukian has experience in athletic administration that stretches back to the early 1970s when he was athletic director at Highland Park High School. As the Walled Lake A.D. from 1984-88, Fundukian noted proudly that the athletic department developed 12 to 15 major improvements to facilities under his direction.

"Novi has all the ingredients," Fundukian said. "I'm extremely pleased with the quality of the coaches - the atmosphere as well as the facilities are impressive - and I think the support shown is conducive for a good program. I can guarantee one thing, you'll hear me harping about good athletes being good students."

"I'm looking forward to developing the athletic programs and support systems here in Novi. I think there is an extremely solid base already established."

Fundukian knows he's replacing John Osborne - the single most important figure in Novi High School athletics - but Osborne will stay on as the Wildcat football coach, and Fundukian is anxious to work with him.

"I've admired John Osborne as a fellow athletic director and as a visiting football coach and I'll tell you what, it will be nice to have him on my team," he said.

Osborne opts to coach gridders

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

John Osborne's lengthy tenure as the head of the Novi Community School District's athletic program has come to an end after over 25 years of service as the official and unofficial athletic director, giving credence to the old saying, "all good things must come to an end."

When the Novi Board of Education decided that the district needed a full-time athletic director, Osborne was given a choice - he could remain as either varsity football coach or athletic director, but not both.

As the only football coach and A.D. Novi's ever had, it was a tough decision for Osborne, but he eventually chose coaching - an activity he loves, even after 20 years.

"I obviously would have liked to continue to do both, but it's not what's best for me. It's what's best for Novi athletics," Osborne said. "It wasn't an easy decision because I enjoy doing both. But I think they're right - it was time to make the leap lighter because the job is very demanding. As it devotes to coaching, I am currently running a summer weight-lifting program for the Novi footballers and is coaching the Northville Connie baseball team - which includes his son Derek. In addition, Osborne was picked as one of only two head coaches statewide for the 1988 East-West Football All Star Game to be held July 30 at Michigan State's Spartan Stadium.

"It's a thrill and I'm real excited about it," he said. "It promises to be quite an experience."

The game will feature 80 of the top graduated seniors from the state. Osborne will be coaching the East team, consisting of players from the Metropolitan Detroit area. His coaching staff will include Novi's defensive coordinator, Cole Rowecamp and three highly respected head coaches from the area: James Reynolds of Detroit Martin Luther King, Bob Dezior of Detroit Mackenzie and Bob Keegen of Bloomfield Hills Lahser. Rowecamp will serve as a lineman coach, Reynolds will be the defensive coordinator, Dezior defensive backfield coach and Keegen an offensive receiver coach.

Local players who will be members of the East squad include Novi quarterback Brian Strang and Lakeland linebacker Mickey McBride.

"The team was picked in January and we will start July 21 with two practices per day," Osborne said.

Record hot temperatures leave Cabana nine cold

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

The extremely hot weather last week apparently cooled off the Novi Cabana Mickey Mantle team.

Coming off three wins in a row, Cabana lost three of four last week to even its season record at 5-5. And Coach Russ Timreck is worried again about hitting. Although his team did score eight runs in a game on June 25, the squad lost the contest 13-8 to Dearborn Heights Crestwood.

In the remaining three games, Cabana scored only six times while giving up 18. They included a 5-2 loss to Walled Lake Central on June 21, a 9-4 defeat against Taylor on June 22 and a hard-fought 3-2 victory over the Lincoln Park 'B' team on June 25.

"Right now we're in 10th place out of 32 teams so I don't feel bad about how the season is going," Timreck said. "I feel it's a good place to be because we have already played most of the powerhouse teams in the league."

Against Walled Lake, Cabana kept it close in the early going but were outscored 2-0 in the final five innings. Consecutive doubles by Mark Tolsdorf and Rick Timreck in the first helped Cabana knot the score at 1-1, and another run-scoring double by Timreck in the second helped the cause, but Walled Lake hung on to a 3-2 lead they would never relinquish.

"(Walled Lake's) pitcher was tough," Timreck said. "He struck out 11. The Walled Lake kids seemed hungrier and they capitalized on the mistakes we made."

For the game, Timreck (2-for-2 with two RBIs) and Tolsdorf (2-for-3) were the only batters with multiple hits. Starting pitcher Brad Lewis allowed seven hits and four earned runs and was tagged with the loss. He walked four and struck out three in three innings of work.

TAYLOR 3, CABANA 1: The hitting woes continued as Cabana managed just two hits and struck out 10 times. "We actually hit the ball pretty hard, but they seemed to get right at people," Timreck said. "They play good baseball down in Taylor, so it really wasn't that we played all that poorly. It was that they played well."

Cabana's only run came in the first inning when Mark Van Amedye knocked in Timreck after he walked and moved to second on a sacrifice. Taylor tied it in their half of the first, went ahead with a single run in the third and closed it out with a big seven-run rally in the fifth.

Lincoln Park scored in the opening inning and went ahead 2-0 before Cabana answered with a run in the bottom of the third inning on a Van Amedye RBI that knocked in Bruce Bekala. Cabana tied it with an unearned run in the fifth and then won it in the sixth as Yankowski led off with a triple and Timreck drove him in.

afternoon. Timreck started but left after one inning complaining of arm trouble. Rick Friedrich relieved and won the next two, but then he had himself taken out. Nate Faulkner finished up.

Both teams scored three runs in the first inning - Cabana's coming on a clutch, bases-loaded double by Brian Bartz - and by the end of the second, Cabana was in front 6-5. Heath Ruck and Van Amedye came through with big hits in the second.

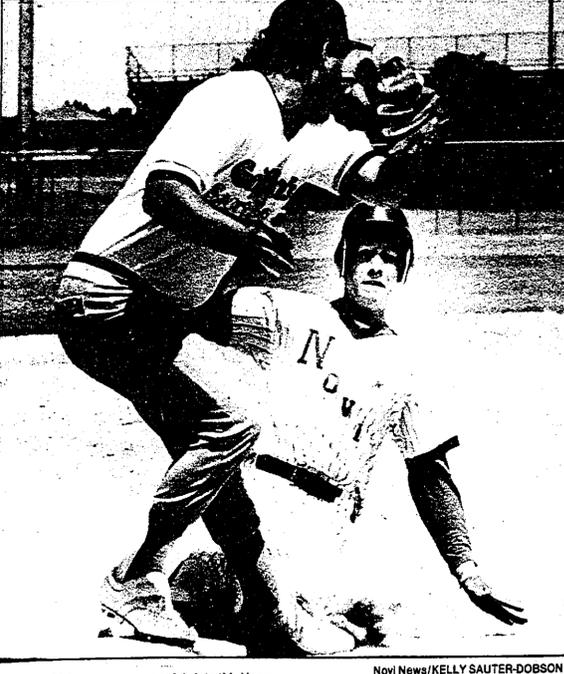

Dearborn Heights then crept in front with a five-run rally in the fifth. Cabana tried to keep it close with runs in the third and fourth on RBI hits by Friedrich and Mike Yankowski, but when Crestwood added three runs in the sixth, it was just too much to overcome.

CABANA 3, LINCOLN PARK 'B' 2: Cabana wrapped up a frustrating week with a much-needed victory at home last Saturday.

"The covered dugout at Novi High School helped keep the kids a little cooler and fresher," Timreck said. "We had plenty of water on hand but I thought we played much better."

N'ville run draws record crowd

NORTHVILLE — Despite record high temperatures at race time last Saturday morning, the Northville Rotary Club's eighth annual "Discover Northville" run drew an all-time record 302 participants, according to race organizer Dick Milder.

The first runner to cross the finish line in the 8K race was Northville's Doug Kurts (25:49), a nationally known marathoner who was running the race on a complimentary basis.

First place honors went to Van Savell of Ann Arbor, who navigated the course in 26 minutes, 27 seconds.

The first female to finish the race was Mickey Brasure of Northville (32:45).

The following is a list of the top-three finishers in each age classification for men and women:

MEN 17-AND-UNDER: 1. Rob Rasmussen (30:13), Novi; 2. Eric Bievernick (31:43), Southfield; 3. Marc Melville (34:15), Northville.

MEN 17-AND-UNDER: 1. Jennie Galland (41:03), Novi; 2. Lisa Brown (45:48), Northville; 3. Barb Cheaney (47:05), Northville.

LEONA BERGMAN of Novi registered a hole-in-one on the par-three, 14th hole at Mission Hills Golf Course on June 16.

CHRISTOPHER SHEPARD and DANIEL LOWES, both of Novi, split $900 in scholarship money after finishing in a tie for third place in the Michigan State Junior Bowling Tournament held at the Royal Scot Lanes in Lansing.

JASON EMMERT, another Novi bowler out of the Novi Bowl, placed 32nd in the 9th to 12th grade boys handicap division at the tournament and also will receive an award for the accomplishment.

When I worked in the plant 12 or 13 years ago, management was not caring to the needs of employees," he said. "I thought that if I was ever lucky enough to have my own company I would listen to the needs of employees. They thought that if (the workout facility) would be a good idea."

Walker also said by putting his employees through the workout program, it will "improve the mental shape and if I'm better in shape I won't get as tired and I can keep the pace up better," he added.

Ron Dring, a three-year pressman at Delwal, said exercising makes him stronger, which in turn, makes him work harder. "If (exercising) raises my endurance."

Walker added, jokingly, he also finds the exercising will give the employees an opportunity to release their hostility without attacking management.

In addition to eventually installing an outdoor track, Walker said his workout program has room for improvement. "I would think that our program leaves a lot to be desired and as we (Delwal) grow up I would like to add more equipment."

But, Walker said, smiling, he will stand firm against putting in a swimming pool — despite his employees' suggestions.

Mercy Center swimming: The Mercy Center, located on Eleven Mile between Middlebelt and Inkster roads in Farmington Hills, is offering a summer swim program.

Open swims will be held Monday through Friday from 6:30 to 8 p.m., and Saturdays from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. Call 476-8010 for more information.

Domino's slates five-mile race

Family fun, games and exercise for a good cause are part of the third annual MedSport/Domino's Run and Walk and Children's Festival.

The five-mile run and one-mile walk will be held Friday, July 8, at 7:30 p.m. at Domino's Farms near Ann Arbor. Proceeds will benefit Survival Flight, the University of Michigan City's emergency helicopter service.

While racers run or walk, children can enjoy games, prizes, hay rides, clowns and the petting zoo at the farm's festival, which begins at 5:30 p.m. Children under 10 must be accompanied by an adult.

Participants in the run and walk will receive a free T-shirt and complimentary refreshments at a physician.

MOSQUITO BITES AND BEE STINGS: These can be avoided by not wearing bright colors, flowery prints, shiny jewelry, perfume, hairspray, cologne and scented soap.

Insect repellent sprays may be used. If stung by a bee, remove the stinger immediately by horizontal grazing; do not squeeze. Then apply ice and topical anti-itch medications. If systemic reactions occur (hives, tightening of the chest, hoarseness, wheezing, thickening of the tongue, facial swelling, dizziness, fainting or shock), seek medical help immediately.

BICYCLE SAFETY: Since most bicycle injuries are head and neck injuries, a plastic helmet is the best protection. Also:

Make sure your child knows how to get on and off the bike, can ride in a straight line, and brake properly.

Specify the places and times of bike rides depending on the child's age and experience.

For biking with children between 6-12 months old, use a backpack carrier.

For children from one to four years old, make sure their hands and

Delwal 'banks' on healthy crew

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB staff writer

William Walker, owner and president of the Delwal Corporation in Novi, is literally "banking" on the idea that exercise is good for both the body and mind of his employees.

"If a man is physically capable of working out, it means he is strong and will have an increase of eight to 10 percent more efficiency in his job," said Walker, who installed an employee workout facility in his new factory and offices, which were completed in August, 1987.

Walker, 47, said all his employees must participate in a one-hour workout session every other day, because "that's what I do and I'm 20 years older than they are."

He added an employee must be with Delwal for at least one year before they can receive workout room privileges. "I want this to be like a private club, and to make this private club we have to find out if an employee is worthy or capable of joining the club."

Walker noted that Delwal has experienced an increase of eight percent in production since installation of the workout facilities.

The workout room comes complete with the latest in high-technology equipment, ranging from a modern stationary bicycle to a computerized rowing machine, that pits the user against a computer in a simulated rowing tournament.

In addition to the exercise equipment, Walker also provides employees with a spacious lunch room, loaded with numerous vending machines, a pool table and two video games.

"We didn't spare any expense on the equipment because we felt if you give the employees something you show them that management is behind them," Walker said.

Walker said he got the idea to put in a workout facility at Delwal, which produces metal fabricated welded assemblies for General Motors, Chrysler, Ford and Mazda, from his days on the assembly line years ago.

"When I worked in the plant 12 or 13 years ago, management was not caring to the needs of employees," he said. "I thought that if I was ever lucky enough to have my own company I would listen to the needs of employees. They thought that if (the workout facility) would be a good idea."

Walker also said by putting his employees through the workout program, it will "improve the mental
