City officials blame Detroit for water crisis

By PHIL GINOTTI
 staff writer

Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall criticized the City of Detroit Monday for failing to implement a water restriction policy sooner — before parts of Novi ran out of water Wednesday and Thursday of last week.

Low pressure in Detroit lines could have led to a "back siphoning" situation, according to several experts. In that situation, water outside of the lines can be introduced through small cracks or cross connections into the pressureless lines, possibly causing contamination.

Kriewall said Detroit water officials failed to heed a warning from the Michigan Department of Public Health. That warning, sent last week to Detroit water officials, called upon them to enact a non-essential watering ban on communities using their water supply system.

"They ignored those actions... subsequently they ran out of water Wednesday night," Kriewall said. Several Novi subdivisions were left completely without water Wednesday night and Thursday morning due to the low pressure. "I don't know why they chose not to act."

Michigan Department of Public Health Deputy Director James Cleland confirmed that a warning letter had been sent to the City of Detroit early last week.

Cleland said the health department had several concerns, but that back-siphoning was the major cause for alarm.

"Under a pressure situation... if there is a leak, it leaks outward," Cleland said. "Where there is no pressure in the system or low pressure in the system you can bring in water that is not sanitary. That presents health problems."

Cleland said the health department letter also expressed concern about the amount of stress being placed on water department equipment as it pumps constantly to keep up with areawide high demand.

Detroit Water Department Deputy A.C. "Butch" Davanzio said a voluntary ban would have had little effect. He said the real problem involved getting water from high pressure areas to low pressure areas, such as Novi and West Bloomfield.

Davanzio said a lack of success in securing easements for the system in Oakland County and a lack of a complete network here prevented the water pressure from reaching all areas.

"That's being said by a lot of people, but it's being said by people who don't understand the system," he said.

"It's not like there is a long pipe and Novi and West Bloomfield are simply at the end of it," Davanzio added. He said as more construction occurs and more of a looped network is put in place, water pressure problems should be reduced.

Kriewall said immediate bacteria checks were done on the areas where water pressure decreased to zero pounds or less and that all the tests came up negative.

Halt called on senior housing

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
 and PHIL GINOTTI
 staff writers

Novi's Senior Citizen Housing (SCH) Zoning Ordinance has taken the form of a gigantic question mark in recent months.

To clear up the questions, city officials and planners are seeking a moratorium on senior citizen housing projects until the ordinance's intent can be addressed. Some planners are dissatisfied with the zoning ordinance because it is too undefined and broadly interpreted.

Planners say they are getting projects through loopholes that allow high-priced multiple developments which don't really serve the senior citizen population.

Novi planning commissioners voted 7-2 to direct a letter to Novi City Council, requesting that the process of establishing a moratorium on the city's SCH Ordinance begin as soon as possible.

The planning commission action took place at the commission's July 6 meeting. Commissioner Gary Phillips and Vice Chairperson Judith Johnson cast dissenting votes.

The council approved the moratorium at its Monday, July 11, session and vowed to proceed with a temporary repeal of the ordinance until modifications can be worked out.

Caught in the act

Six-year-old Andrew Leeds is caught in the act of copping a drink from a garden hose outside his home on Monday. Fortunately, Andrew will not be prosecuted for violating the city's ban on watering lawns for two reasons. First, the ban had already been lifted by

Monday. And, second, the odd/even lawn watering system does not prohibit drinking from garden hoses regardless of your street address or the day of the month.

'50s Fest highlights heyday of fun, music

By PHILIP JEROME
 managing editor

Will the Michigan '50s Festival be one of the world's all-time great parties?

Or will it be a bust?

Will more than 3,000 people turn out to attend the Sha Na Na concerts at 3 and 8:30 p.m. at the Novi High School football field on Saturday?

Or will the Michigan '50s Festival Committee take a financial bath after investing approximately $13,500 to bring the group to Novi and a total of approximately $30,000 to stage the two concerts?

After two months of near-drought conditions will the predictions of rain on Thursday and Friday come true and wash out festival events which are being counted on to recoup the cost of the festival?

Or will the '50s Festival be a smashing financial success regardless of the weather conditions?

Those questions and more will be answered in the days and hours

City water ban adds penalties

The Novi City Council put some teeth in its limited water ban Monday night, enacting penalties of up to $500, 90 days in jail, or community service for watering in non-approved times.

Council members enacted the Water Emergency Ordinance Monday night. They also passed a resolution calling for the City of Detroit to recommend an area-wide water use restriction.

Water pressure dropped to all-time lows in Novi last week, prompting city officials to enact a complete water ban. That ban was reduced to an odd-even restricted system Monday afternoon.

Residents with odd-numbered addresses are now allowed to water between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on odd-numbered days and 10 p.m. to 4 a.m. the next day. Residents with even-numbered addresses are allowed to water from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on even-numbered days and from 10 p.m. to 4 a.m. the next day.

Watering at other times can get you a ticket. City police and ordinance enforcement officers will be out enforcing the ordinance this week.

"I think it's going to work well," said Novi Mayor Matthew Quinn. "We'll see how it works. If it has an adverse impact, we're going to have to go back to a total ban."

Quinn: 'I think it's going to work well.'

City Manager Edward Kriewall said the ban will probably work.

"We're not out of the woods yet," Kriewall said. "But we're feeling a lot better with the system as we have it right now."

Police Captain Richard Faulkner said the police department will probably take a "verbal" approach before issuing any citations.

"We would like the general citizenry to be aware that the ordinance exists," Faulkner said. "We'll issue a verbal warning... and if we have a problem neighbor, we might have to take steps to educate them."

"But we've been receiving pretty good cooperation from the citizens," he added. "They understand the situation."

Council Member Joseph Toth pushed for the "community service" penalty to be added to the ordinance. The community service portion would be established by the judge hearing the case.

Women scare basement burglar

Police Beat

A woman and her daughter apparently frightened off a burglar attempting to break into their home in the Lakewood Condominiums during an incident which occurred Wednesday, July 6, at approximately 2:45 p.m.

The complainant told responding officers that her daughter reported hearing a tapping sound outside a basement window as if someone were attempting to open it. The two women subsequently called police and then proceeded to the basement where they observed that an unknown individual had removed a steel grate cover which had been affixed to the outside of the window.

The residence did not appear to have been entered and nothing appeared to have been stolen. Responding officers checked the neighborhood for possible suspects with negative results.

TWO INDIVIDUALS attempting to burglarize a home on Monticello apparently were frightened off by the unexpected arrival of a visitor. The incident occurred Monday, July 4, at approximately 10:10 p.m.

Police were summoned to the residence with a report of a possible breaking-and-entering in process. Upon arriving, the officers found two complainants standing outside the home. The two men reported that the burglars were trapped inside.

Officers searched the entire residence but were unable to find anyone inside it. In addition, nothing appeared to be missing from inside the house.

The homeowner told police his brother entered the residence shortly after 10 p.m., heard what sounded like two prowlers scrambling around inside, and called police.

The complainant also noted that he had left the windows on the south side of the house open, but returned to find they had been closed.

While searching the residence, police found a box of 22 caliber shells in the basement. The homeowner said the shells did not belong to him and he did not own a 22 caliber pistol.

Although nothing was stolen from inside the residence, two 10-speed bicycles were stolen from the front yard.

A 1982 CHEVROLET Camaro owned by a Novi woman was stolen from the Green Lot at Twelve Oaks Mall on Friday, July 1.

The complainant told police she parked the car and entered the mall to go shopping at 6:15 p.m. The car was gone when she returned at 9:10 p.m. The stolen vehicle was valued at $3,100.

A 12-SPEED BICYCLE was stolen from outside the owner's residence on Solomon Boulevard in the Highline Club Apartments sometime over the July 2-4 weekend.

The owner said the bicycle had been chained, but the chain had not been affixed to an immovable object. The Marush bicycle was valued at $355.

PERSONAL PROPERTY

A NOVI WOMAN reported the theft of $52 in cash from her purse while she was working at Linens & More in the Novi Town Center on Saturday, July 2.

The purse had been kept in a locker in an unlocked office for employees at the back of the store.

The woman told police she was sitting in the office when a black female suddenly entered. The intruder looked surprised and said she was looking for a bathroom, according to the woman.

The complainant later observed the suspect join a black male and a child in the front of the store and proceed to look at linens. Some time later, the complainant said she heard a locked door close in the office area and went back to investigate. When she arrived, the male suspect was standing outside the office but nobody was inside, reports indicated.

The woman found the money missing from her purse after the couple left the store with the child.

Police noted that a couple with a child also had been observed in the Sandie's Hallmark store in Twelve Oaks Mall during a similar incident earlier the same day. The two suspects were said to be in their early 20s. The female was said to be wearing a peach mini-dress, while the man had a mustache and was wearing a white shirt, according to reports.

THIEVES STOLE a Minnetonka 3 horsepower trolling motor from a boat stored atop a trailer in the backyard of a residence on Meadowbrook Road. The theft occurred during the night of July 3-4.

The complainant said unknown individuals stole the motor from the boat and also cut an electrical wire leading to the battery. The responsible parties also attempted to take an outboard motor from the boat, but were unsuccessful.

The trolling motor was valued at $215.

A CB RADIO was among the items stolen from a 1984 Chevrolet van while it was parked outside the owner's residence on Manor Park in the Top Meadows Apartments during the period of July 5-7.

The timely arrival of a police car apparently averted the theft of numerous items from vehicles parked along Carousal in the Chateau Estates Mobile Home Park on Wednesday, July 6.

While on patrol at 3:10 a.m., police found numerous articles lying on the ground outside a vehicle on Carousal. The list of items included two Garfield dolls, various pairs of sunglasses, three hair brushes and a radar detector.

Police subsequently learned that a white male suspect had been seen walking down the Carousal and checking a series of unlocked vehicles parked along the street. Officers theorized that the thief dumped the items in a pile and fled when he saw the squad car driving down the street.

PERSONAL PROPERTY valued at $1,650 was stolen from a 1986 Buick parked outside the owner's residence on Village Oaks Drive during an incident which occurred Thursday, July 7, between 3 and 10 a.m.

Stolen was a JVC videocassette recorder valued at $1,400 and a Samsonite suitcase containing approximately $1,000 worth of clothing. The suitcase also contained a Canon AE-1 35mm camera valued at $250.

PERSONAL PROPERTY valued at $2,950 WORTH of personal property was stolen from the area surrounding a residence on Celeste in the Chateau Estates Mobile Home Park during an incident which occurred after 1 a.m. on Monday, July 4.

The responsible parties removed a Sony AM-FM radio and an XEB stereo equalizer from a 1985 Ford and a Kenwood AM-FM stereo from a 1980 Oldsmobile parked in the driveway outside the residence.

In addition, they took a Mistral windsurf board valued at $350 from the side of the home as well as two pieces of luggage from a shed located in the rear yard.

Oh no you don't! Novi Mayor Matthew Quinn, known for running fairly tight meetings, botched one Monday night. Quinn came close to sending the ultra-controversial Civic Center liquor ban issue to the planning commission instead of the parks and recreation commission.

"Not with a 10-foot pole," said Planning Commission Chairperson Charles Kureth, chuckling.

Watering watch-out: Phones in the Novi schools administrative offices apparently have been ringing off the hook as residents voice questions and complaints about sprinklers watering school grounds. Elsewhere in the city, residents have been asked not to water their lawns.

School officials are quick to point out, however, that the water used to sprinkle the school grounds comes from the district's own wells, not from the city water system. An underground well system serves the district's 80-acre site. Two wells are located near the high school, according to school officials. Village Oaks Elementary is the only school not serviced by the school district water system. Lawns at Village Oaks are not being watered.

What about car washes? Police Chief Lee BeGole said several residents complained that commercial car washes remained in operation last week while the rest of the city was under a watering ban.

"They (the residents) were pretty mad," reported Novi's top cop. "They didn't understand why they couldn't water their lawns while the car washes were permitted to operate full-bore ahead."

So why were car washes permitted to operate during the watering ban? The answer, according to BeGole, is that the city cannot discriminate against commercial users. "If we shut down the car washes, where water is critical to their operation, we would have had to shut down the restaurants, too," he explained.

Ding-a-ling: Michael Meyer literally heard bells after being elected Novi Board of Education's president for the 1988-89 school year.

The jingling sounds came from Assistant Superintendent William Barr, who rang a strand of bells when Meyer was elected new board president, replacing Robert Schram who held the seat during the 1985-85, 1986-87 and 1987-88 school years.

Welcome aboard: Rico Digilromo, newly-appointed to the Novi Planning Commission, enjoyed his first commission meeting last Wednesday since being selected to serve a three-year term by Novi City Council on June 20.

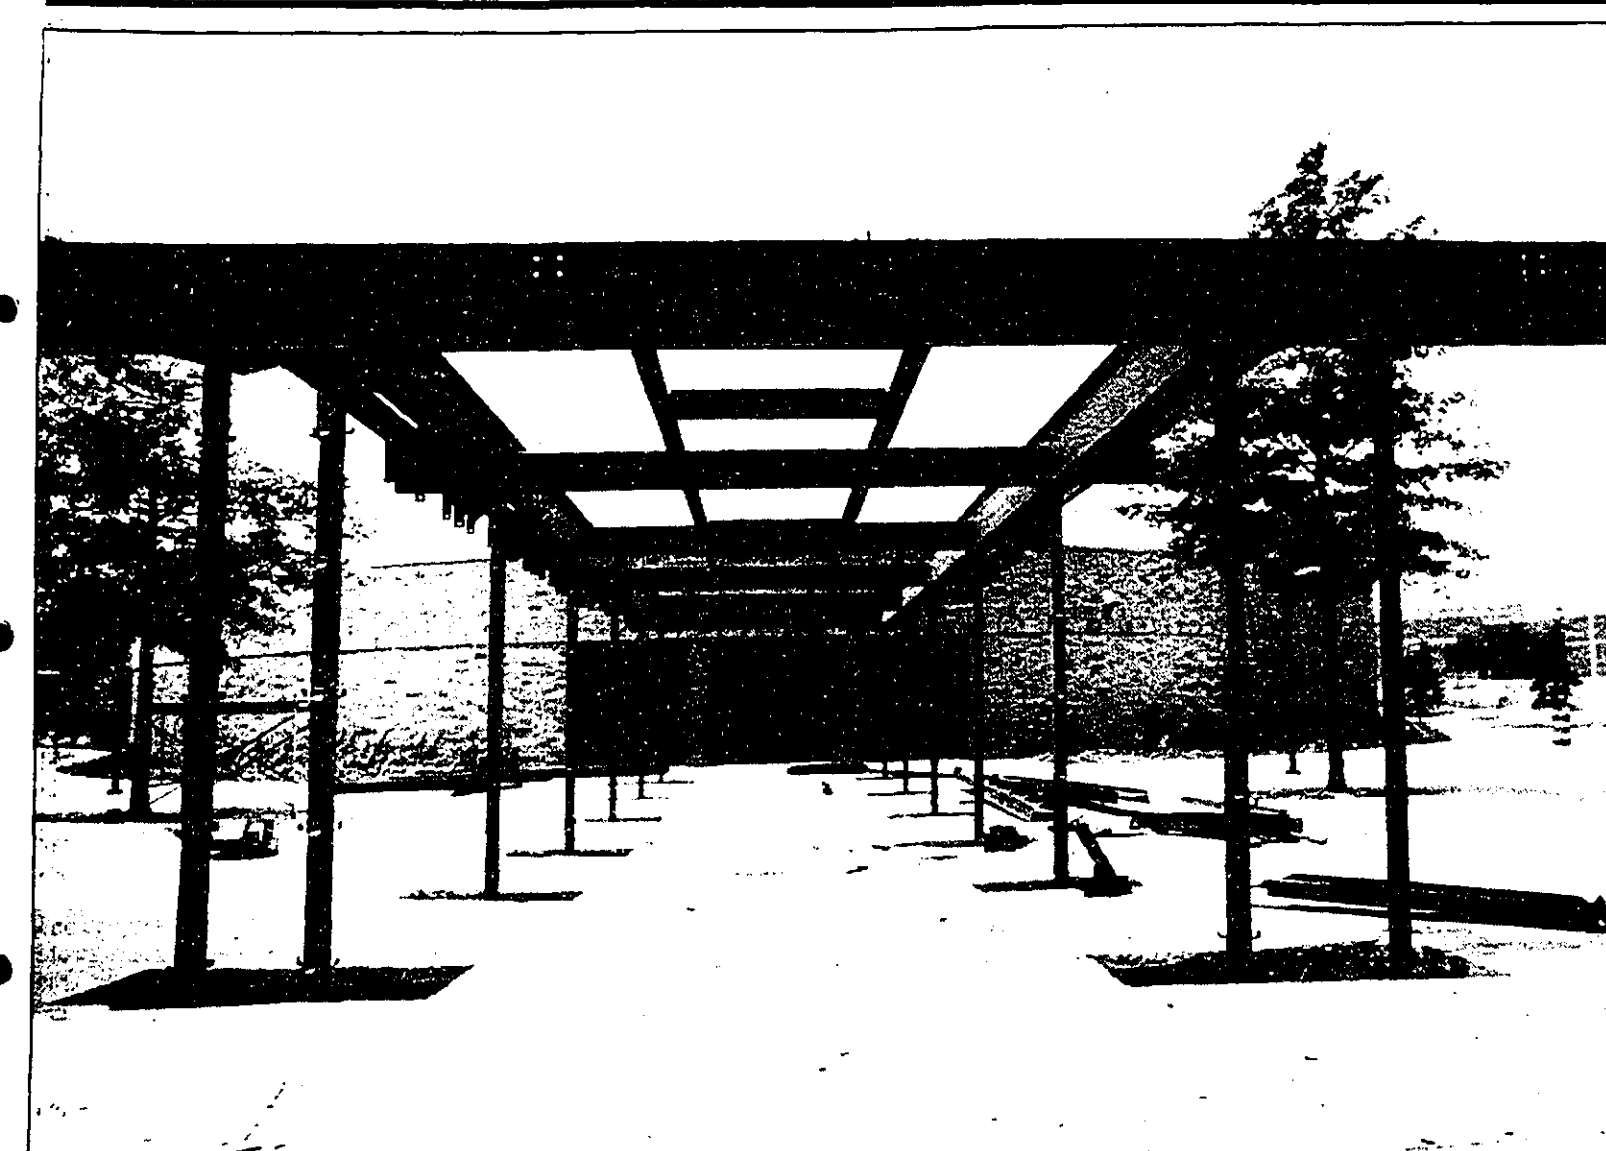

Upon welcoming him to the commission, a few of the commissioners jokingly remarked, "I hope you know what you're getting yourself into."

What deadline?: A new guideline recently added to the Novi Planning Commission's rules specifies that its meetings should not extend past 11:30 p.m.

At last week's meeting, however, commissioners found themselves faced with a handful of agenda items still to be discussed when the clock struck 11:30 p.m. So they voted to extend the meeting to 12:15 a.m.

Despite the existence of increased deadline pressure, the meeting wasn't adjourned until 12:30 a.m. Better luck next time?

The circus is coming: The Novi Jaycees have completed final arrangements to sponsor the appearance of the Franzen Brothers Circus at Lakeshore Park on Sunday, Sept. 4.

Neither rain nor snow . . .

Construction of the walkway between Novi High School and the Commons Building is moving ahead at a good pace this summer. Which is probably a whole lot of good news to students who have had to brave the elements to move from the high school to the commons area. In response to student complaints, the board approved construction of the $101,000 walkway last October. The structure is being designed so that it could be enclosed at an additional anticipated cost of $85,000 in the future.

Council resumes alcohol use debate

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

They debated the issue on a number of different fronts, but the central point was still the same. Should alcohol be allowed in the Novi Civic Center? Even for special parties, a toast or a brief wine-and-cheese reception?

That's a question Novi City Council members wrestled with again Monday night, although they admitted that they are no closer to reaching an accord. And, for now, the answer appears to be "no."

Council Member Hugh Crawford was the first to voice disapproval of a proposed civic center use policy Monday night. That proposed policy, recommended by the Novi Parks and Recreation Commission, included a complete prohibition of alcohol in the Novi Community Center.

The Parks and Recreation Commission is responsible for drafting policy recommendations for community center use. Community center booking and reservations are handled by the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Crawford, later joined by Council Member Joseph Toth, said the alcohol ban was "unreasonable."

"There are so many uses that lend themselves to a little toast or a little punch," Crawford said. "A senior citizens dance . . . a going away party for a city official . . . a judges reception."

"There needs to be a provision for some sort of limited, responsible use of alcohol," he added.

"I can drink in my home, I can drink in my church, I can drink in my clubhouse. Why can't I drink in my community center?" Toth asked.

Council Member Ronald Watson disagreed.

"It seems like all of those functions can be done without alcohol," Watson said.

Council Member Nancy Covert said alcohol use in the civic center was inappropriate since it puts the city in competition with local establishments.

"They have a right to support our hotels and restaurants," Covert said.

Parks and Recreation Director Dan Davis said it was unlikely the Parks and Recreation Commission would come up with any different recommendation.

"There was no clear-cut direction that the commission would take to make a policy on alcohol," Davis said. "The commission has stated their position that they desire no alcohol."

The issue first surfaced earlier this year when 52nd District Court Judge Brian MacKenzie asked to use the Civic Center for a swearing-in ceremony, with alcoholic beverages. That request came during a temporary, six-month alcohol prohibition. The council denied a request for a waiver.

Crawford said he went along with most of the other use policies drafted up by the Parks and Recreation Commission, but balked at the alcohol provision. Crawford recommended sending it back to the commission for further study in an effort to determine what sort of criteria could be established to allow the council to permit limited alcohol use.

Meyer becomes new school board president

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
Staff writer

Michael Meyer was elected president and Raymond Byers was elected vice president of the Novi Board of Education during its annual organizational meeting last week. Meyer replaces Robert Schram as president, while Byers assumes the seat formerly held by Sharon Pelchat.

Elections to the school board offices took place at the board's July 7 meeting.

"I consider this an honor to be recognized by my peers," Meyer commented after receiving unanimous support from the rest of the board. "I know my responsibility is to the citizens and the students in the school district."

"I hope to bring to the school district what Pat Riley brought to the Lakers this year..." he added. "I thank Mr. Schram for the very fine job he did as board president and I look forward to filling his shoes."

Other officers elected for the upcoming school year included Joan Daley as secretary, a seat formerly held by Byers; and Stephen Hit-chock as treasurer, a position he held last year.

Schram read a letter to the school board, highlighting its accomplishments for the 1987-88 school year. He stated that the 1987-88 school year was one of the busiest years in the school district's history.

Those accomplishments, according to Schram, included changing auditors for the school district, renaming the district's Upper Elementary to "Novi Meadows," making organizational changes at the fifth- and sixth-grade levels, defining the school curriculum, hiring an athletic trainer, "effectively" handling a confrontation with the city planning commission about plans for the district's maintenance facility and other construction projects, and improving communication with city officials and residents in the district.

Schram also listed all the district's ongoing plans for various construction projects as successes — the future Educational Services Building and new elementary building as well as renovations to Orchard Hills, Village Oaks and Novi Meadows. He described hiring E. & J. Inc. and TMP Associates Inc. — the district's construction management firm — as an accomplishment also.

Finalizing construction plans for a walkway at the high school after years of discussion and debate and hiring a director of physical education and assistant principal at Novi Meadows were among other accomplishments noted by Schram.

"I have been very proud to be your president this year and I thank you for your support," Schram told board members.

Schram served as school board president during the 1984-85, 1986-87 and 1987-88 school years.

Much to their surprise, Byers presented honorary plaques and gavels to all of the board's previous presidents, including Pelchat (1976-77 and 1980-81), Daley (1982-84 and 1986-87) and Schram.

Meyer also received a wooden gavel of his own, which he promptly tried out.

Before elections for officers took place, Byers and newly-elected member Sandra Thornton were sworn in as school board members for four-year terms. Thornton replaces Norman Miller, who chose not to run in the June 13 annual school election.

Dunbarton Woods subdivision plans approved

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
Staff writer

Drainage concerns and the possibility of paving portions of Nine Mile brought a few Novi residents to the most recent meeting of the Novi Planning Commission. Those issues arose July 6 during the commission's review of plans for successive phases of Dunbarton Woods Subdivision at the northwest corner of Nine Mile and Taft Road.

Mary Jane Brugeman, a Nine Mile resident, commented that the developer did a fine job of preserving wetlands and woodlands at the site, but she also asked what recourse she would have if drainage in the area adversely affected her land.

Her husband, John Brugeman, told commissioners a few of the lots cannot be developed as they're plotted because they're under water in the spring.

Chris Greene, another Nine Mile resident, expressed concern with the phasing schedule for Dunbarton Woods because Nine Mile is currently a dirt road. Because the 288-lot subdivision will add substantial traffic to the road, Greene asked when it would be paved.

City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers explained that paving Nine Mile between Taft and Beck Road is on the city's six-year road improvement plan.

Rodney Arroyo of Barton-Aschman Inc. (the city's traffic consultants) said a definite timetable would have to be worked out by the city because factors such as financing have to be determined.

John Brugeman recommended that there be some coordination between the subdivision's development phases and the eventual paving of Nine Mile because ditches and curbs would affect drainage.

Deborah Gosselin of JCK & Associates (the city's engineering consultants) explained that there are a number of ways a drainage route could be worked out to best accommodate the area. She said specific drainage patterns, however, would be resolved at a later stage.

Commissioner John Balagna asked Arthur Strader of Bektak Construction Company, developers of the single-family residential subdivision, if he would be interested in sharing the cost of paving Nine Mile, even though developers are not normally required to do so.

Strader said he would be interested in doing so. He estimated that construction on various phases of the subdivision would progress over the next five years, depending on the economy and availability of sanitary sewer extensions.

Planning commissioners unanimously approved wetlands and woodlands permits for Dunbarton Woods. They also agreed to recommend tentative preliminary plat approval to city council.

At the same time planners voted 8-1 to recommend that the city administration begin conceptual design and advanced engineering work on Nine Mile so any drainage problems can be addressed. Commissioner Thomas Kavanagh cast the dissenting vote.

Commission Vice Chairperson Judith Johnson expressed appreciation to Bektak Company for preserving the wetlands and woodlands in the area.

Residents oppose 'The Timbers'

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
Staff writer

A senior citizen housing development called "The Timbers" recently met resistance from a few Novi residents who argued that the project is not suitable for the site it is proposed to be built upon.

Novi Planning Commission continued a public hearing for special land use approval of the project at its July 6 meeting.

The Timbers — a 19-unit SCH-2 (independent and congregate living) development — is proposed on the north side of Eight Mile between Meadowbrook Road and Country Place Condominiums.

Novi resident Luis Mejia, who owns property next to the proposed development, told planning commissioners that quite a few Country Place Condominiums residents are opposed to the project, but didn't have enough time to prepare for the public hearing and were unable to attend.

Mejia said he wasn't opposed to senior housing, but suggested that this project would be better suited in a less crowded area.

"Senior citizen is just a sympathy title to gain special land use — what assurances do we have that they will remain senior citizen housing units," Mejia asked.

He said the property is too narrow to build 19 units and that construction would destroy the surrounding environment because the strip of land on which the development is proposed is crowded with trees.

"There's not a question that it's a narrow unit of land, but we have utilized it well," argued Roger Barton, developer of The Timbers.

"We've had a lot of interest in the project... Almost half the units have been tentatively spoken for. We've addressed a need for senior citizen housing in Novi."

City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers told planners the project would not have an adverse effect on the surrounding community and recommended approval of special land use permit.

"I think there is still a need for senior citizen housing in the city," Rogers commented.

Although residents complained that traffic in the Eight Mile area near Country Place Condominiums is already too congested, Rodney Arroyo of Barton-Aschman Inc. (the city's traffic consultants) said a traffic analysis of the site showed it would have no adverse effect on Eight Mile.

Novi resident Ruth Mejia characterized The Timbers as an affront to senior citizen housing in the Eight Mile/Meadowbrook Road area. Because senior citizens have slower reflexes, she said fast-moving traffic along Eight Mile would create hazardous conditions.

"I think there are better places in the city to put senior housing — leave it as it is or use the property for something else," she told the commission.

Commissioner Kathleen McLallen asked Barton to build a case for senior citizen housing in the area where it is proposed.

Barton said he understood that there was a desperate need for senior citizen housing in the city. He pointed out that the site is close to Haggerty Road — close to banks and stores — and was located on a good piece of property.

"I make more money if I sell to senior citizens," he added.

As discussion about the project progressed, Barton commented that he thought it was "discriminatory to write an ordinance that only serves the residents of Novi."

Other planners said they didn't feel comfortable making a decision to grant a special land use approval because information on how the project would impact on surrounding woodlands was not yet available.

The commission voted 7-2 to table special land use approval and consideration of wetlands and woodlands permits until more information is available. Commissioners McLallen and Phillips cast dissenting votes.

"I don't agree with the traffic consultant's figures," McLallen commented. "I'm not sold on the safety of this project at all... the property gives the city a breath of fresh air, and I don't see any reason to change it."

Commissioner Ernest Aruffo pointed out that multiple-housing units already exist within 1,000 feet of the proposed project, establishing and continuing a housing trend.

"By approving this, it will impact the entire section of the city. This is the wrong direction to go," Aruffo said.

Commissioners Johnson and Edward Kramer agreed. Kramer said the woodlands on the property provides a buffer between Country Place and other residential property.

Other planners said they didn't feel comfortable making a decision to grant a special land use approval because information on how the project would impact on surrounding woodlands was not yet available.

The commission voted 7-2 to table special land use approval and consideration of wetlands and woodlands permits until more information is available. Commissioners McLallen and Phillips cast dissenting votes.

Area Briefs

Late-night security: Concerned about late-night robberies, the Southfield City Council is considering an ordinance to improve security. Public Safety Director Rollin Tobin said the ordinance primarily addresses fast-food restaurants, gas stations and party stores open after 9 p.m. Requirements would include installing a drop safe, posting signs stating that the register contains less than $50 and placing cash registers so they're visible from the street. In addition, parking lots would be required to be well lighted and stores open after midnight would have to be covered by security monitors.

Tobin said more than 28 percent of armed robberies occur between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. "The ordinance will require extra security measures in late-hour, free standing businesses," he said, noting that the ordinance would be the first of its kind in Michigan.

Commercial zoning reduced: Bloomfield Hills has taken a cue from Birmingham by adopting new zoning aimed at reducing commercial density in the city. City Commissioner Donald Carlson said the measures come in response to a concern that the city is 98 percent developed.

The new zoning would guard against undue expansion of existing building and/or tearing down existing buildings and putting up over-sized structures. Height limitations of two or three stories for offices and two stories for retail are now in place.

The ordinances seek to limit proposed commercial and office buildings through a formula that defines the size of a building by calculating the amount of usable floor space in relationship to lot size with reference to parking.

When President Ronald Reagan stopped in Helsinki for four days before the summit meeting with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, it was more than a simple planning session.

Like many travelers, Reagan needed the time to adjust to the eight-hour time difference between Washington, D.C. and Moscow.

After all, if jet lag can disrupt a vacation, think what it can do to an international summit.

Common symptoms include disruption of sleep cycles and eating habits caused by a disturbance to basic body rhythms brought on by the change in time zones. If the symptoms occur, chances are your body has not had adequate time to adjust to the time change, said Cesar M. Briefer, M.D., director of The University of Michigan Health Service.

Jet lag can be curbed by getting enough sleep while traveling and by making sure your diet includes high-protein foods for breakfast and plenty of carbohydrates at dinner, Briefer said.

"Jet lag certainly is a major problem for people traveling to Europe," he said. "Many of the things served on flights, such as alcohol and caffeine, are disruptive and contribute to the problem."

Briefer said a short-acting sleeping pill could help. "It allows you to sleep for a few hours and avoid many of the things that contribute to jet lag," Briefer said, adding that travelers should consult their physicians before using the pills.

Briefer: 'Headaches and earaches are among the most frequent discomforts among fliers. The inability to equalize the air pressure between the cabin and the inner ear because of nasal congestion can cause severe pain for some people, and even damage the ear drum.'

If you are prone to motion sickness, consult your physician about proper medication and when to take it. Briefer said. To cut down on motion sickness when flying or sailing avoid alcohol and heavy eating. Seasickness can be relieved by a special patch treated with scopolamine placed behind the ear. Consult your physician.

The interruption of a normal routine while traveling also may cause constipation or diarrhea, especially when traveling great distances. Constipation usually can be treated by drinking plenty of water and, if necessary, taking a bulk laxative.

Briefer said travelers can help prevent diarrhea by avoiding tap water and other non-carbonated beverages, dairy products (unless you know how they were pasteurized), vegetables that may not have been cleaned, raw meats of any kind and meals that have had time to sit unattended, increasing the chances that bacteria may have accumulated.

Briefer recommends that if you are traveling in a Third World country, where sanitation laws are not as stringent as in the United States, it might be a good idea to avoid vegetables altogether. "I wouldn't recommend eating anything without skin on it," he said. "And remember that ice cubes are made from the same tap water that could be harmful."

Finally, enjoy your vacation.

If you are concerned about your fitness for travel, Briefer recommends a physical examination before you leave. This not only ensures your fitness, he noted, but might reveal any unknown ailments.

Also, immunizations should be current.

If you take prescription drugs, pack enough for the trip. It is also a good idea to prepare a list of the drugs using their generic names, especially if you are headed for a foreign country, because brand names vary from country to country and, in some cases, from state to state.

Information about any chronic medical conditions and emergency treatments for them should be recorded on something small enough to be carried in a wallet or purse, as should insurance information.

"Headaches and earaches are among the most frequent discomforts among fliers," Briefer said. "The inability to equalize the air pressure between the cabin and the inner ear because of nasal congestion can cause severe pain for some people, and even damage the ear drum."

To help relieve the problem, taking a decongestant prior to takeoff can help. And, of course, the old standbys of chewing and yawning also are recommended.

In November 1973, Cliff Shaw was stricken with cancer. Fortunately, it was detected early enough. And with surgery, Cliff was able to continue living a healthy, active life. There was a time when such a diagnosis was virtually hopeless.

But today, cancer is being beaten. Over the years, we've spent $500,000,000 in research. And we've made great strides against many forms of cancer.

With early detection and treatment, the survival rate for colon and rectal cancer can be as high as 75%. Hodgkin's disease, as high as 74%. Breast cancer, as high as 90%.

Today, one out of two people who get cancer gets well. It's a whole new ball game.

Novi police prepare for '50s Festival activities

By PHIL JEROME
managing editor

Not everybody in Novi is looking forward to the '50s Festival this week.

For Chief Lee BeGole and the members of the Novi Police Department, the festivities will create major logistical problems, not to mention significant needs for additional manpower which will necessitate the approval of overtime pay.

And the Novi P.D. may not be the only department which will feel the financial sting of having to put on additional officers. BeGole has requested that the Oakland County Sheriff's Department provide eight additional officers to help control the festival functions.

BeGole and his chief lieutenants held a special staff meeting in Novi Police Headquarters Tuesday morning to pinpoint the potential trouble spots.

Police are concerned about three events in particular — the Novi Rotary 10K race on Saturday morn-

Faulkner: 'We want everybody to have a good time, but we also want them to be aware that we will enforce the law.'

ing, the Sha Na Na concerts at 3 and 8:30 p.m. on Saturday and the "Cruise Grand River" event Sunday evening from 5-7 p.m.

And of those three events, it is the "Cruise Grand River" event which has police most concerned.

"It could be a real nightmare," commented one officer after hearing the extent of police involvement.

"Cruise Grand River" calls for Grand River Avenue to be closed from Novi Road to Haggerty Road on Sunday from 5-7 p.m. The road will be closed to permit vintage automobiles from the '50s to cruise between four "drive-ins" — the Red Timbers, the Appet'esser Country closed. "It's closed to through traffic," explained the veteran law enforcement officer. "If people want to get to their homes or visit one of the drive-ins, we have to let them through."

"And the drivers of those vehicles should be advised that they had better not be operating under the influence of alcohol or they will suffer the appropriate consequences," Faulkner added.

Although "Cruise Grand River" poses the greatest concern, police also are making plans to deal with the Novi Rotary's 10K Run and the Sha Na Na concerts on Saturday.

The Rotary Run is not a major concern, but extra police will be needed to allow participants to run along the routes safely with a minimum of vehicular interference. Police are planning to utilize the services of Novi REACT to assist with traffic control during the run.

The Sha Na Na concerts are a different matter, however. With anticipated crowds of 2,500 people at both the 3 and 8:30 p.m. concerts, police are worried about parking accommodations.

One officer noted that an estimated 1,000 people attended Novi High School graduation ceremonies in June and more than filled the available parking areas.

Adding to the congestion is the fact that the Ten Mile parking lots have been taken over by the carnival being sponsored by the Novi Jaycees at the same time the concerts are taking place.

BeGole told officers that he will secure free tickets for any of them who wishes to attend the concerts on their own time and be available as undercover officers for crowd control.

"We also will have two beer tents to control — one at the carnival and the other in the Town Center — this year," BeGole noted about the '50s Festival in general.

"And in addition to everything else we have to keep up our regular patrols throughout the rest of the city. It's going to be a big job."

Brass ensemble?

Sure there's a lot of brass showing in the picture above, but it wasn't a brass ensemble that performed a free concert outside the Village Oaks clubhouse last Friday morning. Novi residents were treated to the concert by students enrolled in the concert band segment of the Summer Band Program directed by Craig Strain and sponsored by the Novi Community Education Department. The lady with the cool shades in the center is Kelly Lind.

Resident presents city with charges

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

The latest series of charges leveled against city staff and administrators by Novi resident James Korte will be checked out, according to City Manager Edward Krewell.

Korte, a resident from the Walled Lake area of the city, blasted city officials again at Monday night's city council meeting. He called the city to task about alleged unfair ordinance enforcement in the Walled Lake area, lack of action on several different projects, and of making errors on removal of an underground gasoline storage tank.

Just before the council meeting adjourned Monday night, Council Member Ronald Watson asked for a report on Korte's continuing series of allegations.

"He made some allegations, that if they are accurate, are a cause for concern," Watson said.

Watson said later that the charges "smacked of unfair treatment before the law" if the allegations turned out to be correct, and recommended that a report be passed on to the council about the latest series of allegations.

Korte has appeared before the city council on a number of different topics, most of which have to do with complaints about the north end, or Walled Lake area, of the city.

Colorful carnival hosted by Jaycees

Although the Michigan '50s Festival is receiving most of the publicity, the Novi Jaycees want to be sure everyone knows there is a carnival in town this week, too.

The midway will be set up on the grounds of Ella Mae Power Park outside the Novi Civic Center on Ten Mile. The carnival opened yesterday (Wednesday) and will run through Sunday.

The carnival also will rock "it" from noon to midnight on Saturday. The Jaycee Beer Tent will again be open for spectators wishing to attend before and after the Sha Na Na concerts on the Novi High School football field at 3 and 8:30 p.m.

The carnival will be in town for the final day on Sunday with activities scheduled to begin at noon and close at 7 p.m.

Proceeds from both the carnival and the beer tent will be used to support the numerous community service projects sponsored by the Novi Jaycees throughout the year.

'Image setting' plan unveiled

A good urban design plan reflects and creates the image of a city. Preliminary drafts of Novi's updated Urban Design Plan open with a statement that includes the phrase "image setting." The plan, which is being coordinated by Brandon M. Rogers & Associates, works toward creating the city's image by organizing sites, shapes, textures, numbers, colors and locations to give Novi a distinct form.

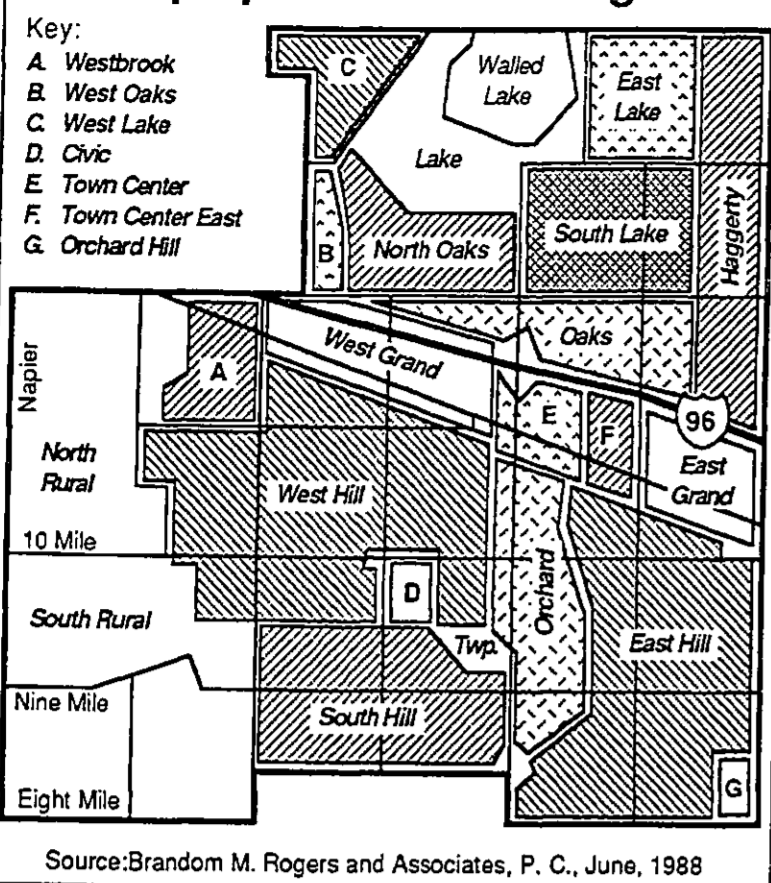

Part of the conceptual plan includes dividing Novi into 21 districts — West Lake, Lake, East Lake, South Lake, West Oaks, North Oaks, Oaks, Haggerty, Westbrook, West Grand, Town Center, Town East, East Grand, North Rural, South Rural, West Hill, East Hill, South Hill, Civic, Orchard and Orchard Hill (as indicated in the graphic).

Each district was analyzed according to 10 elements including architecture, right-of-way treatment, landscaping, natural features, boundaries, entry points, streets, transition zones, landmarks and planning considerations.

Detailed study and recommendations are expected to be issued for each district. The plan works with existing buildings, landmarks or features that make each district unique and suggests methods for improving them or organizing future developments to establish a sense of unity.

For example, following is a brief analysis of the East Hill District, which is located in the southeast corner of the city and encompasses Section 25 and portions of Sections 23, 24, 26, 35 and 36:

Novi's proposed Urban Design Plan

Source: Brandon M. Rogers and Associates, P. C., June, 1988

Architecture: This district has compact older stable residential housing with uniform setbacks, heights, texture and mass. Colors are harmonious. Roofs are slanting. Buildings are on small acre lots. Commercial areas are a mix of some old and some new, with a common height and building mass.

Right-of-Way Treatment: The majority of buildings are oriented toward the streets. There is no established design treatment existing along the streets. Open views occur at the corner of Meadowbrook and Nine Mile roads. Street-safety paths are proposed or existing along the west side of Meadowbrook and the south side of Ten and Nine Mile roads.

Landmarks: There are two landmarks within this district — the Gurnsey Dairy and Yerke House, both on Eight Mile.

Planning Considerations: The 1982 Recreation Master Plan indicates three proposed neighborhood parks for this area: a proposed city-wide park in Section 25 and a proposed city-wide park in Section 24.

Subsequent updates are expected to follow in the Urban Design Study to coordinate all districts in the city.

Landscape Treatment: No formal landscape treatment is present along either major or minor streets. The area lacks detail, color, texture or any sense of defined space.

Natural Features: The East Hill district contains three woodland areas (in the middle of Section 36) that are considered important and a few other woodlands of varying density. The Walled Lake Branch of the Middle Rouge in what is known as the Chase Property and in Section 25 is recommended for having passive recreation potential. This district is basically flat with steep slopes. There are two Act 301 hazardous sites within the district and one immediately to the east in Farmington Hills — the sites are located at the corner of Meadowbrook and Ten Mile on the northwest corner and immediately to the west. These areas contain a large subdivision and the Ten-Novi (A&P) shopping center.

Entry Points: Meadowbrook Road is the major access point to and through this district. Neither the north nor south entries are considered major or minor entry points to the city.

Landmarks: There are two landmarks within this district — the Gurnsey Dairy and Yerke House, both on Eight Mile.

Planning Considerations: The 1982 Recreation Master Plan indicates three proposed neighborhood parks for this area: a proposed city-wide park in Section 25 and a proposed city-wide park in Section 24.

Subsequent updates are expected to follow in the Urban Design Study to coordinate all districts in the city.

Water dries up, returns to subs in strange week

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

Novi water appears to have come back just fine from a water emergency that lasted approximately 14 hours last week.

Water pressure dipped to an all-time low in several subdivisions last Wednesday night and Thursday morning, leading city officials to enact a city-wide watering ban. That ban was changed to a restricted odd-even watering system Monday afternoon.

Pressure dropped substantially Wednesday afternoon when holdings in the City of Detroit's water reservoir virtually ran dry after three straight days of after three 80-degree temperatures. Water pressure in several Oakland County communities, including Novi, dropped to nothing, leaving some residents without water.

"We had our people out monitoring the lines... we just came up with big zeros," Novi City Manager Edward Kriewall said. "We enacted a sprinkling ban right then."

Kriewall said the Detroit water was coming in at approximately 20 pounds pressure. Usually, the water enters the city at about 90 pounds, he said.

Residents in the Simmons Orchard, Yorkshire and Dunbarton Pines subdivisions reported either total losses or substantial declines in water pressure. (See related story.) Other areas on Detroit water probably noticed some decline in water pressure, Kriewall said.

Novi Police and Water Department officials went into city subdivisions Wednesday night warning of the water emergency while asking residents to stop sprinkling their lawns.

That watering ban was changed to a restricted odd-even system Monday afternoon. Residents with even-numbered addresses are now allowed to water from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 10 p.m. to 4 a.m. on even-numbered days. Residents with odd-numbered addresses may water from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and from 10 a.m. to 4 a.m. on odd-numbered days.

For instance, a resident with a street address that ends in 5 may begin watering on July 15 at 10 a.m. and then proceed until 4 p.m. They may then continue watering that night from 10 p.m. to 4 a.m.

"We know there is a lot of new construction and new sod," Kriewall said. "We would like to see it have some sort of chance."

Kriewall said an all-out sprinkling ban would probably have little effect unless all the communities receiving Detroit water were able to follow it.

"They probably should have just banned it across the board... we recommended that they do that, but unless they do it for all of the communities it isn't going to amount to anything."

West Bloomfield and Novi, both on the farthest end of the Detroit water system, were hardest hit by the water pressure problem.

Novi water makes a comeback

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

All indications are that Novi residents handled last week's water emergency relatively well.

Residents in the Simmons Orchard, Yorkshire and Dunbarton Pines subdivisions were hardest hit, though water pressure seems to have come back strongly in those areas this week.

City officials enacted a comprehensive watering ban last week after water pressure dropped substantially during a 14-hour period Wednesday night and Thursday morning. The hot, dry spell came occurred during a three-day stretch that saw temperatures jump to over 100 degrees.

Residents from the three subdivisions said pressure appeared to be back to normal this week. They voiced few complaints.

"Everything is fine now," Simmons Orchard resident Barbara Funke said. "We didn't have any water... so we just went out for dinner."

"But it's scary when you turn on your faucet and nothing comes out though. We had no water at all Wednesday night," she added. "It was eerie. Very eerie."

Her neighbor, Lori Hayduk, said the inconvenience was "slight."

"Only to the extent that we have three small children who play very rough all day long," she said. "It was a surprise to turn on the tub and not have anything come out."

"Other than that, it wasn't a big problem at all," she added.

Cider Mill Street, in the Simmons Orchard subdivision, was hard hit by the water emergency. The street is located up on a hill in the far northern end of the development.

"The one day, I couldn't shower or anything," resident Ralph Moore said. "We just didn't have any water

"Prior to that, we had a continuing problem with slow water flows... a lot of sputtering and spitting," he said.

Moore said most of the water problems cleared up Thursday and Friday.

"Just air came out of the faucet," said Beth Patial, a child whose family lives on Cider Mill Street. "It went like a drizzle for a while... then it just stopped."

Patial said water pressure was back to normal this week.

Sharon Ferrara, a resident of Dunbarton Pines Subdivision, said the water shortage had little effect. Ferrara said they lost some water pressure Wednesday night, but still had enough for basic functions.

"About the only thing I noticed is that the washing machine took a little bit longer to fill up," she said. "It didn't affect us that badly."

Dunbarton Pines resident Paul Kirin said pressure has been good since the incident last week.

"The pressure has been up since the ban went in," he said. "I didn't see anyone watering their lawns."

Kirin said the area did have a continual pressure problem up until the ban Wednesday afternoon.

"The sprinkler heads would pop up, but there wasn't enough pressure to make them rotate," he said. "We didn't have a problem in the house as long as we didn't try to water the grass and take a shower."

But the drought hasn't stopped residents from wanting to move to Novi, according to Dunbarton Pines/USA Homes sales manager Pamela Converse.

Some of the newer homeowners in Dunbarton Pines are waiting out the drought before doing yardwork. Like sodding, said Converse. But sales of the homes haven't changed during the drought period.

"We sold five in the last 10 days," she said. "Sales are terrific."

Get involved!

Cropsey takes the word to Novi

By PHILIP JEROME
managing editor

"When the righteous are in authority, the people rejoice; but when the wicked bearth rule, the people mourn."

— Proverbs 29:2
... preaching the gospel of Christian involvement in government, State Senator Harmon Cropsey visited the First Baptist Church of Novi Sunday to tell parishioners to get involved ... to run for school boards ... and to run for city councils.

"The history of our country shows that our founding fathers were Bible-reading Christians," said Cropsey.

"Every session in the State House and every session in the State Senate begins with prayer," he continued. "The Supreme Court ruled that it's constitutional to begin our sessions in prayer. But the same Supreme Court ruled that we cannot teach our children to pray when they're in school."

Cropsey, a large man who was a farmer before beginning his political career, found a ready audience for his fundamentalist views during his visit to the church.

The First Baptist Church of Novi operates the Christian-based Novi Christian School, and Pastor Richard Burgess is deeply concerned about the possibility of legislation which will require state certification of preschool programs.

"How can they say there is a separation of church and state when the state constantly tries to tell us how to live our lives?" asked Burgess.

Cropsey appeared at the Baptist Church in conjunction with the celebration of "God and Country" on Sunday — a day set aside to place special emphasis on the need for more involvement of "Bible-reading Christians" and the exercise of Christian ideals in the government of the country.

Cropsey: 'If we can get the Christians of this country alerted to the fact that we need to get morality back in government, I believe we can get this country back to its senses.'

During the 11 o'clock service, Cropsey told the congregation he had heard a report recently which stated that only one percent of the 76,000 elected officials in the country are Christians.

"We don't have much influence, so we need to get involved," he said. "Take advantage of your freedom to run for public office. Most of the people I serve with in Lansing all started out as local officials — as precinct delegates, school board members, city council members and village council members."

Cropsey also warned the congregation to be skeptical of the media. "When you watch the news on television, do you ever wonder who decides what you're going to see and hear?" he asked.

Cropsey cited a survey of 240 journalists which, he said, revealed that 80 percent always vote for the Democratic candidate for president and 85 percent uphold the rights of homosexuals to teach in public schools.

"That gets back to the AIDS problem," he said. "AIDS is a medical problem, but the liberals want to turn it into a civil liberties problem." He also warned people about the state-funded abortion proposal which will appear on the fall ballot. "It will be on the ballot," he said. "I resent the fact that my tax dollars would be used to kill babies through abortion."

He also expressed deep concern about the state lottery and the gambling issue in Detroit. "The lottery teaches the philosophy of something for nothing," he said. "The idea that we can get something for nothing is going to destroy this country."

"Do you know what's the biggest day for lottery sales in Michigan?" he asked. "It's the day the welfare checks arrive in the mail."

Throughout his talk, Cropsey returned time and again to his central theme — Bible-reading Christians must get involved in government.

"We have a great country, but the only way it's going to be saved is if the people get right with the Lord," he said.

"We must do away with the killing of unborn babies and we must do away with gambling."

"If we can get the Christians of this country alerted to the fact that we need to get morality back in government, I believe we can get this country back to its senses."

Planners question noise levels FYI

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
staff writer

City planners and residents on Novi's Joseph Drive voiced mutual concerns recently about noise problems that could be generated by a proposed printing company.

Novi Planning Commission conducted a public hearing for special land use for Tutt & Associates, an office printing and warehouse facility, at its July 6 meeting.

The meeting was attended by several Joseph Drive residents who asked questions about noise, lighting and a detention basin at the site.

Special land use for Tutt & Associates was needed because the site abuts residential zoning. Most of the site at the south side of Grand River Avenue between Seelye Road and Joseph Drive is zoned I-1 (light industrial).

However, a 30-foot strip of land on the residentially-zoned portion of the site is proposed to be used to construct a berm and offer the required greenspace setback. The berm and greenspace setback is expected to act as a buffer between the neighboring residential and light industrial districts.

Planners expressed concerns about split zoning on the site and about potential noise levels caused by machines in the printing shop.

Officials of Tutt & Associates explained that the company's equipment is subject to state and federal regulations. It was indicated that some of the machines are equipped with sound buffers.

Commission Vice Chairperson Judith Johnson asked if walk-in business is allowed at the shop.

Company officials explained that most of their business consists of mail-order and over-the-phone customers. There are 32 employees at the current Farmington Hills location. Operating hours are from 6 a.m. to 2 a.m., with shifts changing at 3 a.m. The company prints mainly business forms with the federal government being its largest customer, commissioners learned.

Johnson noted that she was trying to determine if the printing company would cause an adverse affect on the abutting residential area by generating traffic and excessive noise.

Commissioners explained that there have been problems with industrial uses abutting residential districts in the past, making them cautious about such projects.

Company officials replied that the printing shop's warehouse would serve as a type of noise buffer. It was also noted that the building contains no exterior doors or windows for sound to leak through. Commissioners also were invited to visit the company's Farmington Hills location to see for themselves how it operates.

Commissioner Edward Kramer suggested that the commission obtain the opinion of a knowledgeable consultant to calculate anticipated noise levels that would be generated from the printing company.

Looking toward another solution, Commissioner Rico Digramma suggested that a berm be installed before construction begins to shield residents in the area from noise.

Deborah Gosselin of JCK & Associates (the city's engineering firm) explained that berms are usually constructed last because landscaping is done then. If installed any earlier, she pointed out that construction usually disturbs the berms.

A Joseph Drive resident asked if a detention basin on the site would be fenced for the safety of children.

Gosselin described the basin as a "dip in the ground" because it will have gentle side slope and normally won't contain standing water. She noted that such basins are not allowed to be fenced because of city ordinances. In this case she said the detention basin won't cause safety hazards.

It was also noted that lighting at the printing company would be shielded from the neighboring residential district.

Planners unanimously granted special land use approval, conditional upon an expert's report on anticipated noise levels being obtained by the city.

Preliminary site plans for Tutt & Associates also were unanimously approved, conditional upon a study by the city's traffic consultants determining if acceleration or deceleration tapers should be added.

School meetings: Novi Board of Education adopted a meeting schedule at its July 7 organizational meeting. The board will continue to meet on the first and third Thursdays of each month at 7:30 p.m., unless otherwise specified. Meeting places shift from the Administrative Services Building to the district's other schools.

Meetings will take place at the Administrative Services Building on July 21, Aug. 11, Aug. 18, Sept. 1, Oct. 6, Nov. 3, and Dec. 1.

The board's Sept. 15 and March 22 meetings will be held at Village Oaks Elementary School (2333 Willowbrook).

Orchard Hills Elementary School (41900 Quince) will serve as meeting place on Oct. 20 and April 20.

On Dec. 15, board members will meet at Novi High School. The board plans to meet at Novi Woods on Nov. 17 and May 18, and at Novi Meadows on Jan. 19.

If all goes according to plans, the new Educational Services Building will host the first board meeting on Jan. 5. Subsequent meetings are planned there on Feb. 2, March 16, April 6, April 20, May 4, June 1 and June 15.

The schedule does not include special board meetings.

Housing the money: Novi Community School District's bank depositors for the 1988-89 school year will continue to be the National Bank of Detroit, Security Bank of Novi, Michigan National Bank of West Oakland, Flint Commercial and Manufacturers National Bank of Detroit. The district has accounts and investments in each of the banks.

Loads of lawyers: Four law firms, each with its own specialty, were again authorized to be used by the Novi school district administration throughout the upcoming year.

The district's attorneys will be Schwartz, Knauer, Meisner and Abrams; Thrun, Maatch and Nordberg; Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone; and Clark, Hardy, Lewis, Pollard and Page.

Keeping the books: The auditing firm of Doeren Mayhew & Co., was appointed as the Novi school district's auditor for the 1988-89 school year.

Help for motorists: Travelers on I-75 from the Michigan-Ohio state line to Flint will be able to tune their car radios to a special broadcast which provides highway construction information this summer.

Motorists traveling south toward Detroit or entering the state and heading north can tune in the messages on their radios by dialing 530-AM north of Flint and 1610-AM near Luna Pier, just north of the state line. The radio information system is part of the Michigan Department of Transportation's "Mobility 88" program designed to minimize inconvenience to motorists in highway construction areas.

MDOT has numerous road improvement projects along I-75, including six miles of recycling construction in Monroe County, 15 miles of improvements near Pontiac and 14 miles of repairs at Flint.

Cedar Springs to receive more study

After hearing a storm of protest from residents of the Cedar Springs subdivision, the Novi City Council has decided to send plans for Cedar Springs Estates Subdivision No. 3 back to the planning commission for further study.

Residents in existing phases of the subdivision said their children's lives may be endangered by the new areas, which currently plan a cul-de-sac, rather than an attachment to Eleven Mile on one of the streets.

Residents recommended widening and extending Sullivan Lane to Eleven Mile to divert traffic from traveling on other roads within the subdivision.

Developers have instead planned a cul-de-sac in the area, denying that the cul-de-sac will allow them to construct a few extra units.

Residents also argued that a previous extension of the project was granted improperly and that current plans should be voided.

Council Member Hugh Crawford said the issue should be studied carefully, with special attention to whether or not the earlier project extension was granted properly by the planning commission.

"There are still some things that need to be brought out," Crawford said. "We ought to see a recommendation by the planning commission."

Mayor Matthew Quinn said the developer needed to show "extraordinary hardship" under the ordinance before receiving an extension. He said the hardship issue isn't addressed in the minutes of the planning commission meeting when the extension was granted.

Cedar Springs is located on the north side of Ten Mile between Novi and Tait roads. Entrance to the subdivision is approximately opposite the Novi Civic Center.

Heat puts stress on heart

Heat stress can cause many medical problems, but proper precautions can make you more comfortable, prevent illness and even save your life, according to Edgar L. Doss, Metro Region manager for Consumers Power Company.

"Heat stress is the burden that hot weather places on your body, especially your heart," said Doss. He said most of the victims of high temperatures and humidity are the elderly.

"When it's extremely hot, Doss suggests people spend as much time in cooler surroundings, such as a cool room in their home, an air-conditioned shopping mall, senior center, public library or movie theater. The utility also offers these tips to seek relief from the heat:

- Use fans to create air movement and remove body heat
- Take cool baths or showers
- Wear clothing that is lightweight, light-colored and loose fitting
- Wear a hat or use an umbrella outdoors to shade your head and neck
- Drink fluids often and in reasonable amounts, even if you're not thirsty
- Slow down and take it easy; physical activity produces body heat
- Avoid hot foods and heavy meals
- Monitor your salt intake, don't take "salt tablets" without your doctor's permission
- Avoid alcohol, it can put a strain on your heart and interfere with your body's fight against heat stress

Doss said it's important to check with your doctor or seek other medical help if you experience some of these early warning signs of heat illness — dizziness, rapid heartbeat, diarrhea, nausea, throbbing headache, dry skin (no sweating), chest pain, great weakness, mental changes, breathing problems, vomiting and cramps.

High blood pressure is the greatest risk factor for stroke. Blacks are at a higher risk than whites. In fact, 38% of all black men and 39% of all black women have high blood pressure.

Council OKs final Civic Center bills

The Novi City Council on a split vote authorized final payments for construction of the Civic Center at Monday night's meeting, but several council members expressed concern over warranty items which have not yet been fixed.

The council approved a final payment of approximately $400,000, closing out the balance of the construction costs. The payment was made to DeMaria Construction Company of Novi, which completed the Civic Center Construction late last year.

Council Members Hugh Crawford and Edward Leininger objected to the final payment calling it "prematre" since some minor repairs still need to be made.

"We're giving up our last ace in the hole," Leininger said. "I think this is very premature."

Leininger said small cracks in the pavement outside the Civic Center, tarnished door handles and several other "bugs" still need to be repaired before the money should be dispensed.

City Manager Edward Kriewall said the city has a legal obligation to fix the items, which are covered under a one-year warranty.

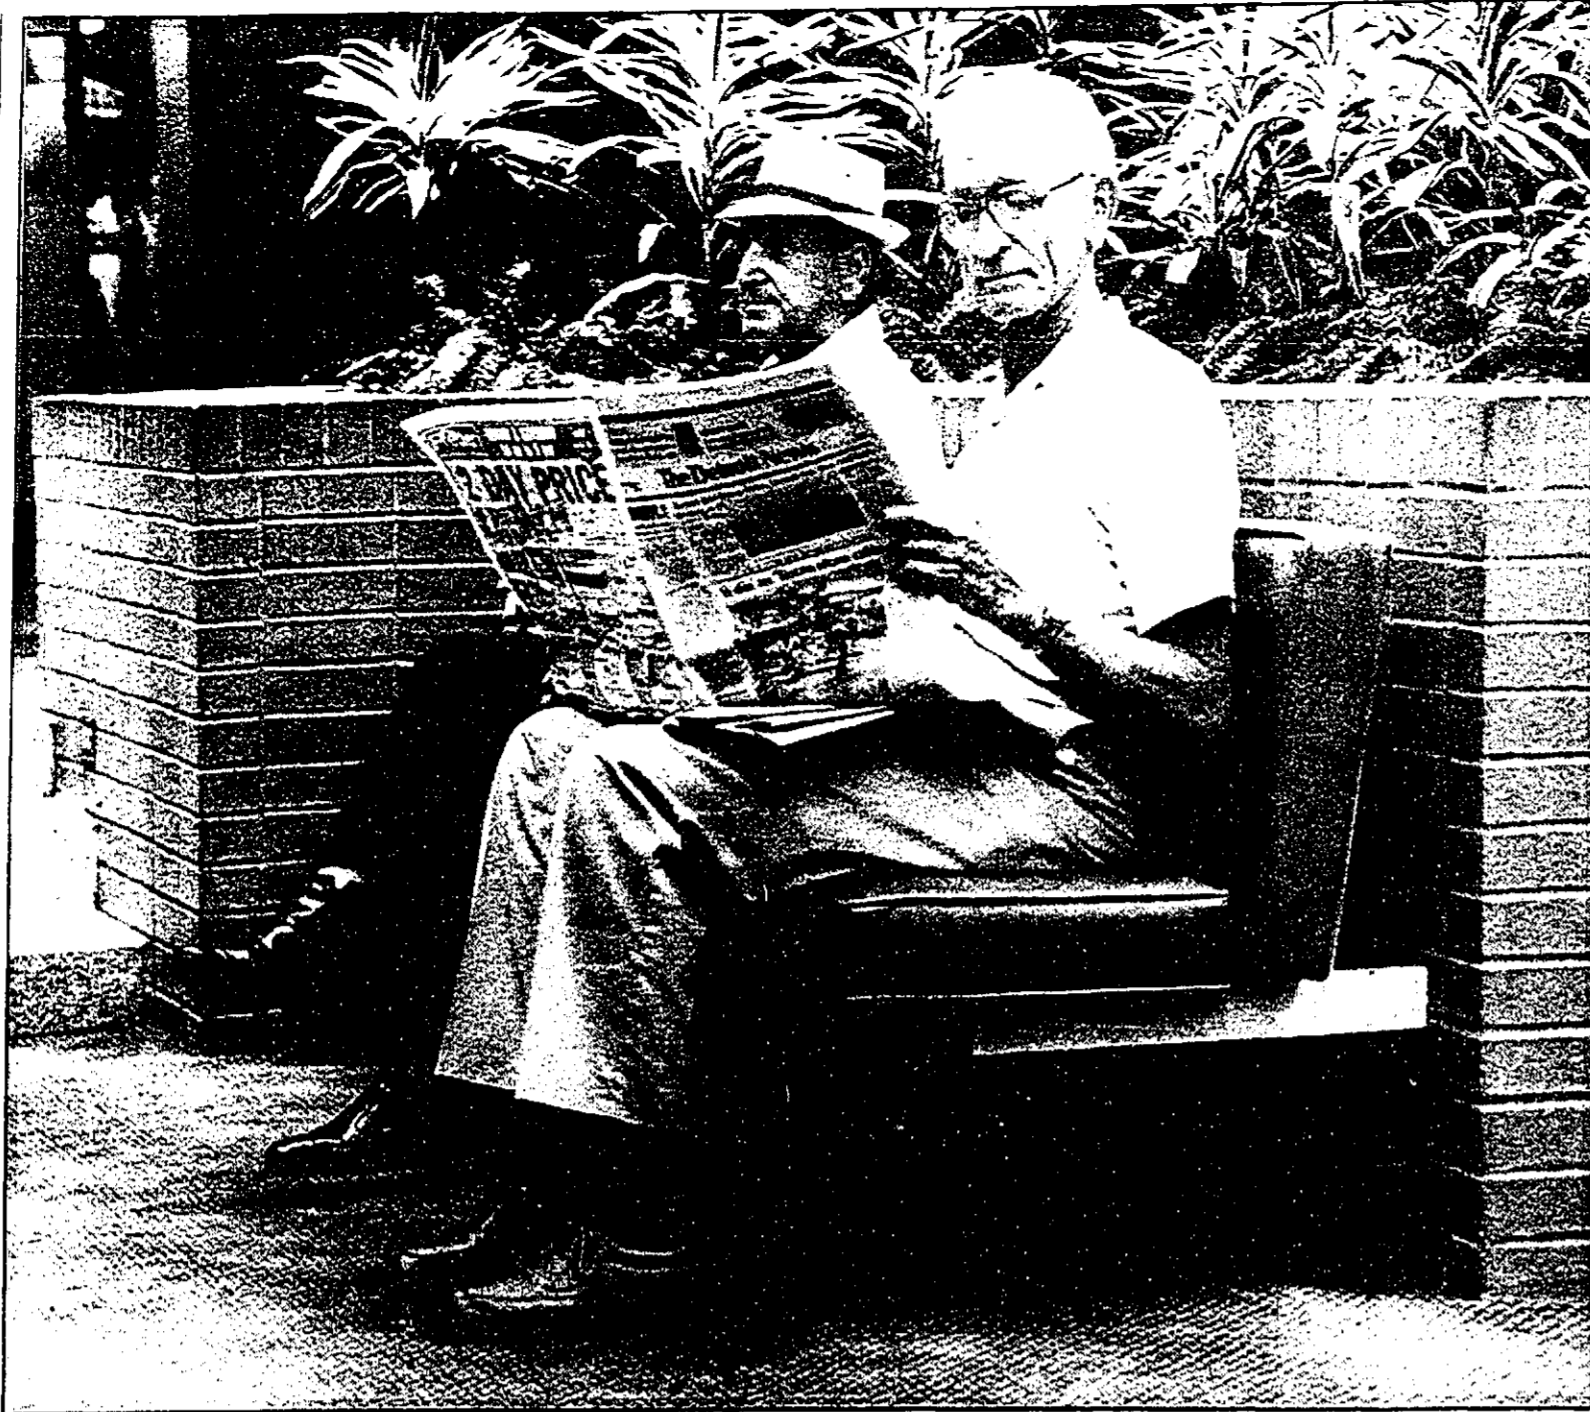

"We've had a good relationship with them and I'm confident we won't have any problems," Kriewall said.

Council Member Martha Hoyer said the city had a legal obligation to disburse the funds, since part of it was in an escrow account.

The city will dispense $401,000 with $280,000 coming from the escrow account with the construction company.

The city offices were moved to the new Civic Center on Ten Mile near Taft Road in November of last year.

Leininger and Crawford voted "no" on dispensing the funds as the measure passed by a 5-2 vote.

State introduces new travel map

The Michigan Department of Transportation has introduced its new Official Transportation Map of Michigan.

The map highlights Michigan's unique location at the center of the Great Lakes and focuses on its three national lakes "treasures" — Isle Royale National Park and Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore on Lake Superior and Sleeping Bear Dunes National Lakeshore on Lake Michigan.

Gov. James J. Blanchard, in his "welcome" message on the cover, refers to Michigan as "the crown jewel of mid-America."

The map is the most up-to-date available and can be obtained from the Transportation Department at no charge. Some two million will be published for free distribution over the next year, including several hundred thousand by the Michigan Travel Bureau. It is the state's most popular piece of travel literature and is widely used by Michigan's travel industry.

About 400 changes were made in the 1987 map to bring the 1988-89 edition up to date. Additions this year include the recently signed circle routes of Lake Superior and Lake Michigan and the general locations of Michigan's elk and moose herds.

A photo of the Blue Water Bridge at the foot of Lake Huron marks the 50th anniversary this year of the bridge which links Port Huron with Sarnia, Ont.

The map guides travelers along the 9,500-mile state highway system, on primary country roads and the major thoroughfares of the state's metropolitan areas.

It also shows locations of airports having lighted runways at least 3,000 feet in length, intercity bus terminals, both commercial and recreational harbors on the Great Lakes, ferry routes, freeway rest areas and roadside parks on the state highway system. Locations of rail passenger lines and stations and rail freight lines are included.

Hospitals offering 24-hour emergency service and MDOT's 11 highway welcome centers, located mostly at border points, also are shown.

There is information on Michigan historical markers, highway distances from city to city, locations and phone numbers for state police posts and district offices of MDOT, and fares charged on such facilities as the Mackinac Bridge. The map identifies all state parks and lists their types of accommodations and provides an index to Michigan cities and villages. Various state symbols such as the state bird (robin) and tree (white pine) are shown.

The new map can be obtained free of charge at numerous locations, including all MDOT district offices and welcome centers to Michigan cities and towns. Other distribution points include state police posts, district offices of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, local chambers of commerce, municipal government offices and regional tourist associations.

The Department of Transportation will mail maps to individuals upon request. Requests should be made on a post card (not in a sealed envelope) providing the name, address and zip code of the requestor. Post cards should be mailed to: MAPS, Michigan Department of Transportation, P.O. Box 30050, Lansing, MI 48909.

Beating the heat Mall sees increased traffic in hot weather

By PHIL GINOTTI staff writer

A mecca, of sorts. That's what Novi's Twelve Oaks Mall has become, as southeastern Michigan residents from miles around seek out ways to beat the heat.

A cool, air conditioned 88-degree climate, lots of green spots, and overall pleasant surroundings have plenty to do with that.

"There is definitely an increased number of people in the center," Twelve Oaks Mall General Manager Philip Morasco said. "The general foot traffic is up 15 or 20 — maybe 25 percent."

On the normal weekday, the mall usually does a steady "trickle in" sort of business, picking up in the late afternoon or early evening. Three days over the 100-degree mark changed that last week.

Mothers pushing strollers, teenagers and a variety of senior citizens and retirees crowded the mall Thursday, the third day over 100 degrees for metro Detroit. The favorite spots — the mall's many green areas, the cool fountains and the ever-popular carpeted children's play area located in the center of the mall, now running amok with diapered toddlers and harried mothers.

"It's unprecedented," said ex-Detroitier Louis Mega, who now lives in Naples, Florida. "This is the most temperamental climate I've ever seen in my life."

Mega, a retired aircraft designer who has worked in various parts of the country, called Michigan's latest heat wave "Texas style." He is currently in the second week of a four-week Michigan vacation.

"It's a very dry, dry heat, not like what we have in Florida at all," he said. "Actually, it's been cooler down there right now. I'm wondering why we're left."

On this Thursday, Mega was one of dozens of retired folks just sitting around taking it easy, perhaps doing a little shopping here and there.

"This is very comfortable," he said. "I'm just sitting here enjoying the sites as they go by... while my wife does a little shopping."

Liz Barrett, a customer service representative at the mall, said stroller rentals have taken off as mothers and young children get away from home for a break at the mall.

"We're renting out more now than ever before," she said. "There are lots more people, I know that for sure."

Restaurants and service-related business on the mall are reporting slightly increased business, while other business say trade is about the same.

Ice cream stores are mopping up.

"Super, super, super at this point," said Creme De la Creme owner Mac O'Rear. "A lot of people are coming here to enjoy the mall... we're getting all the buyers."

Creme De la Creme features a menu of frozen yogurt products.

"There are plenty of people here to escape the heat," Natural Cosmetics Manager Sarah Green said. "It's strange. We're getting people who aren't showing up for appointments and at the same time getting plenty of walk-ins to make up for that."

The cosmetics shop performs manicures, facials and facial hair waxing.

Planners pushing dealer's sidewalk

Standing firmly behind their commitment to establish a connected sidewalk/bike path system through Novi, the Novi Planning Commission agreed to require a local car dealership to install a sidewalk along its property.

The dealership, Marty Feldman Chevrolet, is required to install a sidewalk along its Grand River Avenue frontage, even though Feldman has requested waivers from doing so.

A waiver was sought — from both the planning commission and the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) — because representatives of Marty Feldman Chevrolet argued it would be extremely difficult to install a sidewalk around existing utility poles and through ditches on the site.

Even Deborah Gosselin of JCK & Associates (the city's engineering consultants) remarked that installing a sidewalk along the dealership's Grand River frontage would be very difficult and expensive.

Recognizing that the sidewalk will provide a vital link in the city's safety path system along Grand River, planners and members of the ZBA have denied the requests for waivers and demanded that the sidewalk be installed.

In previous discussion on the issue, Commission Chairperson Charles Kureth stated that the responsibility will fall upon the city if the Feldman Chevrolet dealership doesn't install the sidewalk. Because the sidewalk was one of the requirements and conditions of site plan approval, Kureth and other planners have held their ground on the matter.

Commissioner Ernest Aruffo

Because the sidewalk was one of the requirements and conditions of site plan approval, Kureth and other planners have held their ground on the matter.

remarked that "for the health, safety and welfare of the city and residents" the sidewalk should be put in.

City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers brought the matter up for discussion at the July 6 commission meeting. Rogers told planners that he wanted to reaffirm their stance on the issue because the ZBA had asked him for a written position from the commission regarding the sidewalk. Commissioners told Rogers to acknowledge that the sidewalk must be installed.

Rico gets to work on planning board

By BRENDA BONZHEIM staff writer

Being unanimously selected to serve on the Novi Planning Commission caught Enrico Digriolamo by a little bit of surprise.

"I'm tickled and delighted," Digriolamo commented about his appointment to the commission. "I'm also pleased in the confidence Mayor (Matthew) Quinn and the city council have shown in me."

Digriolamo replaces Richard Clark, who served on the planning commission for three years. Clark's term expired at the end of June and he chose not to seek re-appointment.

As a result, Digriolamo was appointed to the commission by Novi City Council on June 20, after interviews of several prospective planners were conducted.

Planning issues aren't totally foreign to Digriolamo, who previously served on the Wolverine Lake Planning Commission and was eventually elected chairperson of that body.

Five years ago he moved his family — wife Kathy, daughter, Lynn, and son Joseph — from Wolverine Lake to the Meadowbrook Lakes subdivision in Novi and became involved in community organizations and activities.

His active participation included input and review of the city's Light Industrial Zoning Ordinance and providing improvements to his subdivision's park, including new walkway lighting and play structures for children.

Digriolamo admits that he enjoys living in Novi and is looking forward to becoming more involved in planning-related matters.

"I think the planning commission has done a good job with a rapidly-growing city," Digriolamo remarked.

When asked if there were any changes he would like to see adopted or observed by the planning commission, Digriolamo said it was too early to make such a determination.

Digriolamo is a manager for the corporate financial staff at General Motors Financial.

NOTICE

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE REQUIREMENTS OF THE SAFE DRINKING WATER ACT AMENDMENTS OF 1986, NOVI MEADOWS, AS YOUR WATER SUPPLIER IS PROVIDING THIS INFORMATION TO HELP EDUCATE YOU ON THE POSSIBILITY OF LEAD IN YOUR DRINKING WATER.

Since 1976, lead consumption by humans has been reduced significantly. We, as your water supplier, are cooperating in the effort to further reduce lead in human consumption. Your drinking water MEETS the lead standard of 0.050 parts per million as required by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Your system monitors and tests the lead content of the system's water to determine the levels of lead delivered to the service connections at your home.

However, lead piping and lead solder used in household plumbing may affect domestic water supplies. Lead content can be reduced by replacing lead pipe or connections with lead-free materials. Visual inspections by homeowners or a plumber can generally reveal the presence of lead in the plumbing system. Because lead is a soft, gray metal, pipes made of lead will scratch easily and the scratches will be shiny. People who may have concerns about lead from their household plumbing may want to have their own water tested by a reputable private laboratory as it comes from the tap.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead is a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest: —if your home or water system has lead pipes, or —if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and —if the home is less than five years old, or —if you have soft or acidic water, or —if water sits in the pipes for several hours.

Novi Meadows is advising you that you can take a number of steps to mitigate the problems of lead contamination in drinking water, including using only water from the cold-water tap for cooking or drinking, running the tap for a few minutes to flush the system before using water for cooking or drinking, or replacing lead pipes. Visual inspection can often reveal lead pipes or solder, though testing is the only way to be certain if your water is safe.

It is our concern that our residents are not misled by commercial groups offering expensive services to solve a possible problem which can be handled by common sense. We want you to know the facts.

For additional information the U.S. EPA has a toll free hotline dedicated to this subject—1-800-426-7291—and they have also prepared a booklet on this issue. If you have additional questions contact your local Health Department at 658-1280, or your Community Manager at 348-6966, between 9:00 p.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Bookstore takes unique approach for area readers

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

From MAD Magazine to "Conversations with Nietzsche" — Perhaps that's the reason Borders Books — in its relatively brief history — has risen to the top of a tough trade.

It could be the 65,000 fiction and non-fiction titles available, or the ordering philosophy: "As long as it's in print," says General Manager Sue Kennedy.

In any case, Borders Books has come to Novi. The company opened a store in the Novi Town Center Saturday. It's the third Borders store in Michigan, the fifth in the U.S.

That might not mean much to the average Joe, but for the avid reader — the one who goes to the bookstore or slightly beyond — it means a lot.

"The size of inventory that we have is very large," Novi store General Manager Sue Kennedy said. "They range from things that are highly popular to a little bit more obscure."

"We have the scholarly and less widely read titles... but we certainly carry the other," she added.

Tom and Louis Borders opened their first store in Ann Arbor 15 years ago. Since then, stores have been opened in Indianapolis, Indiana and Atlanta. A Birmingham outlet was opened in 1985.

Borders will go into Novi with a slightly modified approach, hoping to hone in on a children-laden population. The children's section will be expanded slightly, occupying about 35 percent of the store's 12,000-square feet of floor space. A one-plus year study revealed that Novi is "ripe" for a Borders store.

"We think the area, with the quality educational systems and demographics, will support something like this," she said. "It's a need here, and we think it will be a very popular department."

"The special children's section will place emphasis on reading or reading-related materials, like stuffed animals to go along with theme books. Clifford, the giant red dog, is on display. Borders also stocks the illustrated Beatrix Potter children's

Novi Fire has water, Conn says

Novi Fire Marshal William Conn says there is little chance of a fire burning out of control as a result of low water pressure in Novi.

Conn said the fire department is currently responding to runs with 4,000 gallons of water on hand.

In addition, Novi has a reciprocal tanker agreement with the Lyon Township Fire Department which will make available another 2,500 gallons of water in emergency situations.

"We have an automatic response system set up right now (with Lyon Township)," he said. "If we get a major fire, we'll go to a shuttle system, where one tanker will stay and the other will go to fill up."

The 4,000 gallons of water would last the fire department about 30 minutes during a fire, Conn said.

Conn said the chances of a fire burning out of control because of a lack of water were "slim."

Conn said fire officials noticed an increase in calls over the weekend, as dry conditions continued Friday and Saturday night. Department Secretary Pat Louzon said the fire department responded to about 25 calls over the weekend, ranging from medical runs to several small grass fires.

Senior's job line

Michigan residents 55 and older who are looking for jobs have a free service which will connect them to employers looking for prospective employees with a lifetime of experience and knowledge to offer.

The toll-free referral number to call from anywhere in Michigan is 1-800-922-3113.

Staffers answering the hotline exclusively for older workers will refer the callers to cooperating job placement and training projects in their area looking for older workers.

Project ABLE is a not-for-profit organization supported by funds from the Governor's Office for Job Training, the Community Foundation for Southeast Michigan, the C.S. Mott Foundation, Travelers Companies Foundation and corporate contributions.

Jazz singer

Everyone knows that title belongs to Al Jolson, but in the Detroit area the "jazz singer" is a lady named Ursula Walker. Walker enchanted the crowd when she performed with the Brooksidge Jazz Ensemble at the Summer Sounds concert series at the Novi Civic Center last Friday.

Novi Meadows evaluation gets extended deadline

By BRENDA BONZHEIM
staff writer

A study of the curriculum at Novi Meadows School will continue for a few weeks, despite a May 13 deadline previously agreed upon by school officials.

Novi resident Sally Marchak asked Novi Board of Education members about the status of a written evaluation or report on Novi Meadows at its July 7 meeting. Marchak pointed out that nothing had been heard regarding the report, even though a May deadline was established in December 1987.

An evaluation committee consisting of three professional educators, a citizen and a teacher heard the report, even though a May deadline was established in December 1987.

Marchak indicated that she had heard a report had been issued to school officials in early June and asked what had happened to it.

School Board President Robert Schram — recently replaced by newly-elected president Michael Meyer — explained that committee members asked the school board for an extension of the May 13 deadline to July 30. Schram added that the school board hasn't seen any type of evaluation report to date.

"We didn't see any need to rush through this issue," Schram stated. "We want a thorough report of the school."

Superintendent Robert Piwko said an upcoming meeting will be scheduled with Philip Kearney, one of the educators on the committee, to discuss the progress of the evaluation.

Marchak advised school board members to stick to their established deadlines.

"It's important that you follow your own black-on-white recommendations in the future or they won't mean very much," Marchak noted.

Marchak: 'It's important that you follow your own black-on-white recommendations in the future or they won't mean very much.'

Schram said he didn't agree with Marchak's criticisms.

"I'm reviewing existing organizational patterns and the educational process at Novi Meadows."

1. Review existing organizational patterns and the educational process at Novi Meadows.

2. Solicit input from students, parents, administrative staff and professional staff as it relates to the educational environment and organization of Novi Meadows.

3. Review educational achievement of students at Novi Meadows.

4. Report back, in writing, to the Board of Education by no later than May 19, 1988. The report should include the committee's view of the educational patterns, the educational process and student achievement at Novi Meadows. Deficiencies noted, if any, should be accompanied by recommended solutions.

At the time, some parents argued that students taking band would spend half as much time as other students in those "special" classes. Others opposed the manner in which the changes were developed and introduced, stating that the school administration should have sought more input from parents and teachers.

The school board accepted applications for the citizen's seat on the evaluation committee and a teaching position in the school board — Eric Center (a math and science teacher at Novi Meadows) — was chosen by the Novi Education Association. His appointment was announced in January.

Ten applications were received for the citizen's seat on the committee and three finalists were chosen from the ten — Julie Abrams, Jon Dostal and Craig Foreback. By a ballot process, school board members selected Abrams to serve on the committee and she was appointed in February.

Since then, committee members apparently have been studying issues at the school and expect to present a report to the school board sometime soon.

As We See It

City performed well during water outage

When the faucets of homes in the Simmons Orchard subdivision began letting out nothing but hot air and residents throughout the city began reporting extremely low water pressure, city administrators realized they had a problem on their hands. They did a good job dealing with a tough situation.

Government

So did Novi residents, who proved to be durable and sensible during the two-day water crisis. They took it in stride, though a few readily admitted having "the dickens" scared out of them.

City Manager Edward Kriewall, Department of Public Works Director Bruce Jerome, Police Chief Lee BeGole and other officials involved with ordering the ban get pats on the back here. Administrators immediately ordered a ban on outside watering Wednesday afternoon and got as many staff as possible out on the streets to let residents know about it.

Residents reported that police and DPW staff, for the most part, took a cooperative approach. Several complemented the police department for being friendly and helpful in informing them about what was happening.

Kriewall acted as an effective and responsible spokesman for the city with the Detroit media. He was unafraid to share his frank assessment of the situation — that the City of Detroit system should have asked its user communities to impose restrictions weeks ago.

Could Novi itself have prevented this from happening by going with a ban or restricted watering program earlier? No, probably not — that appears to be the judgement of the experts. The city is not allowed to set up a cross-connected backup system. It also isn't allowed to put any of the incoming Detroit water aside in a "mini-reservoir."

The problem was with the water coming into the City of Novi from the City of Detroit plant. There just wasn't enough of it, and what was there was came in at extremely low pressure.

The only thing that responsibly could have prevented the water pressure drop was an area-wide ban or watering restriction — on all southeastern Michigan communities which use Detroit water. That's just what the Michigan Department of Public Health had recommended to Detroit before the whole crisis started. Detroit, for whatever reason, opted not to follow that advice and instead pumped itself dry.

There were health risks associated with that decision to just keep pumping, which is why the Health Department got involved. Low pressure or negative pressure in the lines causes a rare "back siphoning" problem where outside water can actually get sucked back into the lines. Outside materials also can flow into the pressure-less lines much more easily through cracks and holes. Usually, with adequate pressure, any leaks would normally flow from inside out.

In addition, Novi users pay a premium for Detroit water. If Detroit isn't going to take the lead and call for area-wide restrictions, then Detroit ought to modify the city's rates for the time period of this latest fiasco. Water pressure seemed to be just fine elsewhere.

The right decision

A decision by Novi officials to temporarily halt consideration of senior citizen housing projects in the city comes at an important time.

As the senior citizen population throughout the U.S. steadily increases, people over the age of 50 deserve attention. Their housing needs, incomes and perspectives require the consideration of city officials and planners everywhere, including Novi.

The delay in reviews of senior housing projects in Novi was prompted by numerous questions surrounding the city's Senior Citizen Housing (SCH) Zoning Ordinance, which allows an overlay in zoning and permits a developer to construct multiple-units on residentially-zoned land. The SCH Ordinance was approved by Novi City Council in July 1987 as an effort to attract senior citizen housing projects to the city.

A Senior Citizen Housing Needs Committee met with several architects and developers last year before recommending the SCH Ordinance, which was intended to address varying segments of the housing market. Four separate categories of allowable senior housing projects were established and shortly afterward, developers began presenting a variety of so-called senior citizen housing project plans before the planning commission.

Often, nothing in those plans distinguished proposed senior housing projects from ordinary condominium developments. Few developers included any provisions in their plans which specifically addressed the senior citizen population. Although the city's SCH Ordinance contained no such requirements, planners started asking for more justifications that certain projects were indeed tailored to senior citizens, developers became confused and questions about the ordinance stockpiled.

Planning Commissioner Kathleen McLallen appropriately called for establishing a moratorium on the SCH Ordinance at the commission's July 6 meeting. McLallen and Planning Commissioner Ernest Aruffo have frequently expressed concerns that the city's SCH Ordinance wasn't serving its intent. Some planners support adding provisions requiring developers to include amenities in their senior housing projects and to provide affordable housing units.

Council members made the right decision in approving the planning commission's suggested moratorium until questions about the ordinance can be cleared up.

As a final note, it's important to understand that the moratorium on senior housing projects in Novi isn't meant to discourage senior housing in the city. Instead, the moratorium was sought to give city officials and planners more time to define the SCH Ordinance, to better address senior citizens' needs and to improve the quality of future senior housing projects in Novi.

Screaming for ice cream

Whew! I can't believe how hot it is this year. From the parking lot behind the newspaper office to my desk is about, oh, 600 feet.

Bruce Weintraub

But, last Thursday, those were the longest 600 feet that I have ever walked in my life. I was sweating so much after walking those measly 200 yards, that I drank a 32-ounce bottle of Gatorade in about six seconds flat (a new Gatorade-drinking record, I believe).

At this point it is sooooo hot that I must brainstorm to figure out why or how this impossible string of endless heat, sun, air stagnation and overall yuck-feeling days could be happening.

Before I start, I want everyone to know that whatever I come up with, this heat wave is entirely my fault. This devilish, unbelievable, inhumane heat wave is completely my fault.

My first hypothesis: Mrs. Katanick, my third-grade teacher, told me that if I ever thought about cheating on a test, I would burn for eternity. Well, guess what? In fourth grade, I accidentally looked on my friend's math test to find out what 10 times 11 equaled. Little did I know 14 years later it would be the high temperature for an entire week.

My second hypothesis: In Saudi Arabia, I've heard the government will discipline its citizens by taking off the piece of a person's body which was used to aid in his crime. Well, guess what? Years ago, when I was but a small tot, I gave a hot foot to the coach of my little league team. In some strange twisted way, my father is getting back at me (I'm still real sorry, Dad).

I just can't take it anymore. Imagine a home without air conditioning, no water pressure, no ice cubes! My gosh, even an overheated car gets a swig of water to cool off. What is an overheated person supposed to do?

My third hypothesis: There is a gorgeous woman who is burning after me and... oh well, it was just a thought.

My fourth hypothesis: This is it. I've got it now. There has and always will be a national plot to drive me crazy. Nature tried the snow storm of 1977, but I survived it. West Bloomfield's tornado of 1976 left me with nary a scratch. I even survived the hurricane of 1981 when our family decided to spend the wrong week in Puerto Rico. But, even though I've survived the worst that nature can dish out, this heat wave is unbearable.

I just can't take it anymore. Imagine a home without air conditioning, no water pressure, no ice cubes! My gosh, even an overheated car gets a swig of water to cool off. What is an overheated person supposed to do?

RING: "Hi Mom, I can't talk now, I'm right in the middle of writing my column. By the way, did you buy the four half-gallons of chocolate ice cream?"

Birthday card?

Duties ruin week of freedom

I'm free. Unattached. A bachelor once again.

Phil Jerome

What happened is that mi esposa was called out of town to perform a little family service work at her brother's home in Cincinnati.

"Bummer," I said when I got the news. "You're gonna be gone a whole week? Whatever shall I do?"

That's what I told her. What I thought is: "Awesome, dude. A whole week by myself. Come and go as I want. Get home whenever I feel like it. What's the toll in the Windsor Tunnel? What time does Jason's open? What time does Jason's close? There'll be fun, fun, fun till daddy takes the T-bird away."

I drove her to the airport last Saturday. Waved a tearful goodbye as she boarded the plane. And set out on search of high adventure and something cold to drink.

Unfortunately, things haven't worked out as planned. Being single — even for a week — has been a real bummer.

First of all, there's the food problem. How was I to know the toaster would break the first time I popped a slice of breakfast inside? Or the milk would turn sour as soon as I poured it on a bowl of breakfast?

And then there's the household responsibility problem. Does anyone know if the water conditioner is supposed to click all the time? Fortunately, I remembered that Wednesday is garbage day.

But most of all there's the household pet problem. Fresh water in the birdbath daily. Fill the hummingbird feeder. And, worst of all, the kitties get fed at 7 a.m. and let outside at 7:30 a.m. They return at 6 p.m. for supper and get outside privileges again at 6:30 p.m. They have to be let back in at 10:30 p.m. — if they feel like it. If not, you've got to stay up until they're ready to come in for a midnight snack.

There's been no Windsor. No Jason's. I'm tied to the home. Responsibility weighs heavy on my mind. There are chores to do. Kitties to feed. Hurry home, sweetheart. I want my freedom back.

Resignation called 'illogical act'

To the Editor:
I was disappointed to read of Judy Johnson's resignation as Planning Commission Chairman. It seemed to be an illogical act from someone I have observed to be one of the most logical people in Novi government.

Letters

After all, the commission was going to elect new officers in a week or two anyway, so why not just wait to see how it turns out?

I was elected chairman of that body twice, both times by a majority of one. And one or two commissioners were absent each time we held the vote. It seemed to me they would rather not vote than risk offending me or my "opponent" by voting against either of us.

Now to the point. A general problem, as I see it, in city government, is that many of those involved want too badly to achieve agreement in what they do. What's wrong with a little permanent disagreement? Disagreeing with someone doesn't mean you're their enemy; it doesn't mean you can't work with them effectively.

Disagreement in politics is healthy, and if conducted publicly, makes for good government. If conducted privately, it smacks of deals, and the public tends to lose confidence in their government.

The rumored arrangements regarding Johnson's reappointment and the possible assurances that if the council reappointed her the commissioners would not re-elect her as chairman are an example of this. If council didn't want her on the commission, they had the opportunity to not reappoint her. If the commissioners didn't want her to carry on as chairman, they would have had the opportunity to vote for someone else.

Some of the shortcomings of Johnson as chairman that were mentioned are silly. She is opinionated? How can you expect her to make decisions if she has no opinions?

She talks too much? Go to a council or planning commission meeting, sometime and listen to them babble on half the night about the most trivial details. My observation of Judy Johnson is that she sticks to the issue better than almost anyone else in city government.

She shows displeasure with decisions? Why not? That way you at least know where she stands. She tries to do too much at a committee level? Maybe so (I think my opinion on what level of involvement the commission ought to have in matters differs greatly from hers). But if the commissioners feel she is doing too much, why do they avoid discussing it publicly at a meeting? Commission procedures ought to be discussed and voted upon if necessary. Majority rules, and the minority ought not feel offended.

She is unsympathetic to developers? Three cheers! We have a chamber of commerce mayor and a council that has consistently demonstrated its naivete in dealing with developers. If the citizens of Novi think development is too fast and intense now, wait until you get a chamber of commerce planning commission. (To their credit, council has shown enough political sense so far not to let this happen to any great degree.)

It is too bad that personal feelings got in the way of Judy Johnson's desire to remain as chairman. Some good will come of this, however. Judy will find she can be a more effective commissioner once she is no longer chairman. She will find she has more time to devote to the more important issues, a three-year term to do it, and no political alliances to foster.

She will also find she has a better feel for the "dynamics" of the meetings, having been chairman, and will be more effective at presenting her point of view as a result. So watch out, council and commissioners, and go to it, Judy.

Bill Briggs

'Just a minute!'

To the Editor:
Due to the lack of response in a timely fashion of our officials at city hall, we have all been placed under a watering ban until further notice.

Thousands of dollars worth of trees, shrubs and gardens could die at this rate, and the residents have to live with this situation.

Imagine my surprise when I called the police department and found that the ban only applied to the residential sector of our fair city and not the commercial or business properties.

Just a minute! Residents live in this community 24 hours a day and take pride in their homes and the surroundings they have spent so many dollars on to provide for the aesthetic beauty of this city. Why should they be under a total watering ban and the business properties can water at any time? This is not a fair or equitable situation.

If the city council is meeting to enact a permanent ordinance to govern this type of situation in the crisis and any other that may occur in future years, let's do it across the board.

When there is a watering ban, let it be for everyone. Columbus, Ohio, has the right idea. Watering is not permitted for anyone except for the preservation of shrubbery and maintenance of pets, and even the industries that require water have been cut back 20 percent in usage.

'Is water safe?'

To the Editor:
After reading the article "Weed

Control Spurs Debate." I feel very reluctant to let my children swim in Walled Lake. I did not realize any chemical spraying was done to the lake. How close to the beach area is spraying allowed? Is anyone who can afford spraying and wants it done allowed to apply chemicals? Is the city responsible for doing a chemical analysis of the lake water? More questions than it answers.

I'm sure city officials and the DNR will be quick to reassure us that only "approved" herbicides are used. But what is approved one year all too often proves to be carcinogenic the next.

I hope The Novi News can give us more information on this subject. With only one outdoor public swimming facility, city officials from both Novi and Walled Lake must insure that the lake water is kept safe for all users of the lake. Until I know more, my children and I will swim elsewhere.

Jacquie Meisenhelder

She's outraged

To the Editor:
It was with a sense of outrage that I read your editorial chastising Councilwoman Nancy Covert (May 19, 1988). As one of her loyal supporters, I'm proud that she is not another "yes woman" in Novi politics.

This is a woman who takes seriously her charge to protect the health, safety and welfare of all Novi residents, and who has the courage to vote her convictions and her conscience.

Covert's votes are based on extensive research into the issues and how they affect the majority of residents, not the minority. They reflect her perception of the long-range effects as well.

I'm proud to have Ms. Covert represent me on the Novi council. Keep up the good work, Nancy.

Let's try celebrity government

You probably heard about Stevie Wonder saying he might, at some time in the future, consider running for mayor of Detroit. At first, it sounded like a very offhand remark. But he's been asked about it a couple of times since then, and the man sounds serious.

When they mentioned it on the radio news here in the office, the idea was greeted with a few snorts and groans. Personally, if I happen to be living in Detroit at the time, I'll probably vote for him. I look for character, intelligence and a distinctly left-of-center philosophy in my politicians before I look for experience, and I bet Wonder would do just fine.

And anyway, Clint Eastwood and Sonny Bono have forcefully demonstrated that famous people can be mayors of cities without creating too much havoc. Carmel-by-the-Sea is still by the sea, right? It didn't fall in?

But that's beside the point. What really got me thinking was a column in one of the Detroit dailies, extrapolating an entire city administration made up of pop music stars, many with a Detroit heritage. The column was pretty tongue-in-cheek, but I couldn't help picturing the result.

It didn't look too bad. So I got to thinking (honest, I did): Could the same thing happen in the suburbs?

No offense to the fine musicians in the area's school and community bands, but Novi doesn't quite have the musical heritage that Detroit does. But maybe if we drew from the suburbs as a whole, we could work something out. After all, Wonder doesn't live in Detroit any more; he'd have to move back to run for office. Maybe the same thing could happen here...

For mayor, we'd have to go with our top gun, of course. Once upon a time that would have been Bob Seger. Ann Arbor native and re-entree of an office in Birmingham. But today we can do better. We have one of the biggest names in pop music today, a proven crowd pleaser. Born in Bay City and raised in Rochester, she put Oakland County on the map. Citizens of suburbia, I give you...

Mayor Madonna?

Hmmm. Well, maybe Seger could be city clerk or city manager. Former Berkley resident Marshall Crenshaw could surely do something useful. And The Spinners, who got together at Ferndale High School, could help fill out the administration.

That would bring us to Barbara Lewis. She grew up in South Lyon before finding fame and fortune — for a while, anyway — singing "Baby I'm Yours" and a couple other hits. Police chief? City planner? Something like that.

So far, so good. Next, we could have... uh, let's see...

Who could we have next? Maybe if we extended it into outstate Michigan? That would at least bring in Ted Nugent (Jackson), Tommy James (Niles), and, of course, Elvis Presley (Kalamazoo).

Sigh. Somehow, this just does not seem to be working out. I guess we have to face the awful truth: we're stuck with regular people as elected officials. Signed, sealed and delivered, they're ours.

Answer: Your neighbor and mine.

For exactly one year now we here at the Northville Record and the Novi News have been asking some fairly impertinent, somewhat silly and occasionally serious questions of the residents of our respective areas. Inquiring minds want to know — so we figured why not just ask?

To keep the matter in perspective we made sure that only 10 people were polled each week so that no one could possibly accuse us of trying to be scientifically accurate. Here's a quick breakdown of the "typical" Northville and Novi resident.

Your neighbor believes firmly that the Tigers will win the pennant, that red jelly beans are the only ones worth eating, that leaving town is essential for a summer vacation and that only pumpkin pie should be served at Thanksgiving.

If your neighbor is a woman she is less than excited about the return of the mini-skirt, and conversely (no real surprise here), if your neighbor is male he's anxious to see him rise.

This neighbor owns a dog and has no idea what the Pope's real name is. He or she is law abiding and almost always wears a seatbelt.

By the same token, this neighbor has great intentions when it comes time to vote. Our poll found that 80 percent of you thought you were going to cast your ballots in the local elections. On election day, however, a mere 22 percent in Novi, and 31 percent in Northville actually bothered to vote.

A majority of you believe in ghosts, will let your children play with toy guns, watch the Olympics and have smoked. Your spouse snores, your housing assessment is too high and you tend to tip in the 15 percent range when dining out.

The children of Novi and Northville prefer peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, and are "kind of" ready for school to start each September.

When it comes to your preferences regarding the weather you have strong ones. The majority of residents are never ready for winter (except for the smart-alecky one who said "I don't care I'm going to Florida") and find summer weather — even the balmy summer of 1987 — plenty hot enough.

When it comes to procrastinators, this area may have more than its fair share. 70 percent of you had not finished your Christmas shopping by Christmas Eve, and another 70 percent (it couldn't have been the same people, now could it?) had not done their income tax by April 14.

There are plenty of sports fans in the two communities, and most of them felt that there was too much fighting in hockey, that Tiger Stadium should be saved, that the Pistons could not go all the way and that Kirk Gibson would be missed.

Most of the people in this area are not satisfied with the two presidential candidates and believe that the 50s were truly happy days. Most are not in favor of casino gambling and planted a garden in this year of the drought.

The only thing a kid should be getting in school is smarter.

Unfortunately, what too many of them are getting instead is drugs. With your help, it doesn't have to be this way.

There is a program called "Schools Without Drugs: The Challenge" that can help you deal with the drug problem in your community or school.

Find out about it. The smarter you are about what works against drugs, the better chance our kids will understand how dumb it is to take them.

Five said: "No"

"What is it?"
"Never heard of it."

"It's a nice touch."
"No, I don't get the paper."
"Yes I do, last week they had more votes for yes."

Burton aids VFW

By DOROTHY NASH special writer

Has anyone ever helped you when you needed it most, and you had no way of repaying the kindness?

It happened to Linda Burton a long while ago, and this is basically why she has been volunteering in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary for almost nine years.

For the last two years she has been president, not only presiding at monthly meetings but also taking over six chairmanships when the appointees were unable to continue.

Do you remember the Northville Memorial Day parade? That was a project of hers. In fact she produced it for five years. Just after Christmas each year she started planning — writing to the marching participant groups and also the chaplain and the speaker for the cemetery service. Then she saw that it went off on schedule.

But maybe the actual repaying of the kindness shows up most in what is done with money raised from poppy sales, rummage and bake sales and donations. The poppy money stays in the community, she said, and is spent on Thanksgiving and Christmas baskets for needy people, not necessarily veterans.

The rest of the money buys American flags for schools, Boy and Girl Scout troops and the Chamber of Commerce. And it pays for canteen books which patients in the V.A. Hospital in Ann Arbor may use for the purchase of small items and necessities.

Also at the V.A. Hospital, the Auxiliary and the VFW put on a party every other month for the patients who can come to the social hall. "The men have bingo games, and we provide refreshments," Burton said.

In summing it up, Linda Burton said her Auxiliary work is for "a good cause, a constructive service to the community in which we live."

And it's open even to women who are not related to men eligible for membership in the VFW. The Auxiliary has an auxiliary called Special Friends. Anyone interested in volunteering time for it may inquire at the Post headquarters at 438 S. Main Street in Northville.

Novi 4-H to present clown workshop at library

By JEANNE CLARKE
Special Writer

The Novi Public Library is hopping this summer with a variety of special programs geared specifically for youngsters.

Members of the Novi Adventurers 4-H Club will conduct a clown workshop titled "Clownin' Around" at the library on Friday (July 15) at 1 p.m. Members of the 4-H Club's "Clowns Group" will talk about the art of clowning and present a skit titled "Krazy Clown Beauty Contest."

Other programs for youngsters include a "movie day" on Wednesday, July 20, with showings at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. as well as a crafts day at the library on Tuesday, July 19. Call the library at 349-0720 for more information on all children's programs.

Children's Librarian Jane Brown reported that approximately 300 youngsters are involved in this year's summer reading program which encourages young people to learn to use the library throughout the year.

Theme of this year's program is Australian Adventure. In conjunction with the theme, the library is now displaying more than 70 koala bears which were brought in by members of the summer reading club.

Children who would like to have an Australian pen pal may write letters and bring them to the library to be mailed. Youngsters also are participating in a "Feed the Crows" program sponsored by the Novi Jaycees, who will donate 3 cents to the Detroit Zoo's "Feed an Animal" fund for all books read during the summer reading program.

Featured in the library's display cases this month are Jack Rompel's "bunnykins" collection and Katie Rompel's Beatriz Potter collection. In addition, Emily and Sarah Papis are displaying an "American Girl" collection and Eric Kramer is displaying his car collection.

COMMUNITY ED: Not everybody's on vacation yet and there are still plenty of opportunities to attend enrichment classes offered by the Novi Community Education Department this summer.

For preschoolers a program titled "Special Me" is coming up in July and a program titled "Money See, Money Do" is scheduled in August. For teenagers there will be a babysitting clinic at Novi Middle School on Wednesday, July 20, when the special speakers will include Crime Prevention Officer Robert Gatt of the Novi Police Department. Other programs coming up in August are a clown workshop titled "Clownin' Around" and "Bears 4 You."

Also coming up at Novi Middle School in August is another cheerleading and pom-pom clinic.

The Super Summer Specials for children and adults will begin July 18 and run through July 28. The "summer special" series offers different classes for parents and their children at the same time and place. Children will be able to select from such classes as "yong basket," "crawly critters" and "crunch and munch."

Bruce Trout of Novi Oaks Golf and Sports Center will teach youth golf lessons beginning July 18. An adult doubles tennis tournament is slated for July 23 with competition in men's, women's and mixed doubles. Tickets are still available for a trip to a Detroit Tigers game on Aug. 6. Tickets are priced at $10 per person and include round-trip transportation as well as admission to the game.

Exhibitors interested in participating in the Arts and Crafts Fair should contact Novi Parks and Rec at 347-4400 as soon as possible. Deadline for applications is July 15. The fair is scheduled for Sept. 10-11.

NOVI JAYCEES: Terry Mercier has been elected president of the Novi Jaycees for 1988-89. Other new officers are Cheryl Compton, management development vice president; Colleen Gorman, community development vice president; Mike Majeski, individual development vice president; Becky Staab, membership development vice president; Don Goodwin, treasurer; and Liz Howie, secretary.

Directors are Mike Mattingly, Randy Oakes and Susan Oakes. The new officers were installed during ceremonies attended by Roy Annett, president of the Michigan Jaycees, at the Village Oaks clubhouse.

Pat Malac, Liz Howie, and Charlie and Becky Staab represented the Novi chapter at the National Jaycee Convention in Richmond, Virginia, recently.

The Jaycees currently are working to assist a boy from England who is terminally ill. Through the "Make A Wish" Foundation, the boy has said he would like to receive more postcards than anyone else in the world so he can be listed in the Guinness Book of World Records. Novi residents are asked to send postcards to M.C. Williams at St. Martin DePorres Infant School, Faturveys, Luton, Bedfordshire, England.

The Jaycees are now selling "glow" necklaces to raise funds for the National Kidney Foundation. They also are selling several types of perennial flowers (sundrops, oxbeds and labeia) to raise funds for the Michigan Cancer Foundation,

More information about the necklaces and the flowers is available by calling the Jaycees at 348-NOVI.

The Jaycees is an organization which provides leadership training through community service for men and women from 18-35 years old. More information about membership is available by calling 348-NOVI.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY: The Novi Historical Society is moving forward with the renovation of the Old Novi Township Hall under the direction of Mark Adams. The city has allocated Community Development Block Grant funds to be used specifically to purchase cedar shingles for the roof.

While bids on the shingles are being sought, the society is continuing to scrape the building in preparation for a new coat of paint.

Adams reported that the building is now bid on for electricity. In addition, Adams is seeking help from Boy Scouts and other community service organizations to assist in the landscaping. Any group or individual who can assist is asked to call Society President Frank Horenkamp at 349-3418.

Dan Williamson has donated a doll house to the society. The doll house currently is on display in the Civic Center. Society members will sell raffle tickets for the house as the begin July 25. The doll house will be a prize in the drawing which will be held Oct. 15.

The society will present a special program by Robert Brouwer on Oct. 15. Brouwer's slide show received a Medal of Freedom Award during the Brouwer Memorial event.

A plaque listing the names of individuals who have made donations to the Novi Historical Society is currently located in the Civic Center. The plaque will be moved into the Novi Historical Museum after renovation has been completed.

PERSONALS: Karrie Purcell has been honored at several bridal showers recently in anticipation of her August marriage to Jesse Cawthon. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Purcell. The bride-to-be was honored at a shower for relatives given by Mildred McDowell, Barb Hewison and Bonnie Bica. She also was honored at a shower for friends and neighbors given by Mary Kotrych and Donna Morgan at the Novi Meadows clubhouse.

Dr. and Mrs. James Travis were in Novi last week to visit Dr. Travis' mother, Mrs. Marie Travis. The Travises live in Blue Mountain, Mississippi where Dr. Travis is head of the Bible Department at Blue Mountain College.

Pastor and Mrs. Richard Burgess of the First Baptist Church of Grand Haven have been entertaining granddaughters Rebecca, 7, and Elizabeth Burgess, 3, from Whitesville, Mass. While in Novi, the girls participated in a Singspiration at the church and Rebecca performed several violin selections. Next week, the Burgesses will be visited by their grandsons Jonathan and Nathan Karnes of Fargo, North Dakota.

Huron Valley Hospital's Physician Referral Program.

Every formula for good health includes a good doctor. And that's especially true for senior citizens. But seniors frequently outlive their own doctors, or see them retire from practice. And sometimes they just want a doctor who has more time and who understands their special needs better.

But finding a new physician can be difficult. That's why Huron Valley Hospital created the Physician Referral Program. As close as the phone, our staff is ready to listen and help you find the right doctors. Of course, there is no charge for this community service.

And when you choose a Huron Valley Hospital doctor, you'll have the comfort of knowing you'll stay in the neighborhood if hospitalization is ever necessary, because you and your doctor are both part of the same Huron Valley Hospital family.

Phone 360-3300, Extension 3450. Weekdays between 9:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m.

Backpacking trips scheduled by LSF

Several backpacking tours of Isle Royale National Park are being offered this summer by the Living Science Foundation.

The first tour is a hiking expedition which costs $450 per person and runs for the week of Aug. 14-21. An Isle Royale canoe tour costs $550 per person, and a second hiking expedition at $450 per person is offered at the same time.

Anyone who is at least 14 years old and in good physical condition may participate. More information is available from the Living Science Foundation (LSF) at 478-1989.

All Isle Royale hiking expeditions cover five to seven miles per day through the island's beautiful unspoiled wilderness. The canoe tour features canoeing on the island's most inaccessible areas. All tours include an overnight stay in the historic copper mining town of Houghton.

There's a maximum of nine participants per tour. Tours feature the expert guidance of trained naturalists from the Living Science Foundation, a non-profit science education organization based in Novi. The LSF furnishes all meals, transportation and accommodations. Participants must provide their own backpacks, sleeping bags, basic camping supplies and extras, such as cameras, field glasses or fishing gear.

In its seven-year history, the LSF has become recognized statewide for its efforts in promoting science learning through personal experience. LSF interpreters have a thorough understanding of Isle Royale's geological history and diverse wildlife.

Isle Royale National Park is a beautiful roadless island 45 miles in length located just south of the Canadian border in Lake Superior. In addition to being Michigan's only national park, Isle Royal also is recognized as a United Nations International Biosphere Reserve, part of a program to protect endangered habitats around the world.

It is home to Michigan's only surviving wolf population, as well as moose, fox, beaver and other wildlife, and provides sanctuary to a host of migratory birds.

Tim Joslyn, LSF Director, said this year's dry weather conditions will make for ideal camping and minimize the problem of insects. Joslyn also noted that Isle Royale's moose population is presently at a high point and sightings of moose should be common.

The purpose of Rotary Foundation Scholarships is to further international understanding and friendly relations among peoples of different countries.

During the time of study abroad, Rotary scholars are expected to be outstanding ambassadors of good will to the people of the host country. Scholars also are asked to appear before local Rotary clubs, civic groups and other forums in their host country.

Upon completing their studies they again are asked to share their experience, especially with the Rotarians who sponsored them.

Video dating services are a better alternative than reading the want ads for singles looking for a date. Novi News/CHRIS BOYD

Dating services offer alternative

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB staff writer

Singles have long tried to develop ways to meet people of the opposite sex. Bars were the "in thing" for a while, but the creation of the video camera opened up new ways for people to meet that special someone.

Video dating isn't the only method used by dating services though, as some cupid consultants employ mail-order or advertising methods. And, still other dating companies use the old fashioned approach of pairing people together.

However, finding these dating service companies may be as much of a struggle as finding that special someone. Out of the eight dating service companies listed in the yellow pages, five had disconnected phone numbers, making the dating service business seem like a dying fad.

But, alas, for the singles who want to change the usual night of solitude into gin rummy there is hope. While two of the reputable firms don't make any promises about the number of dating or marriage prospects, both have had great success in putting couples together.

Amy Schiff, owner of Sincere Singles in Ann Arbor, said her organization is not a dating service; rather, it is a monthly publication magazine containing personal ads.

Schiff said the ads, which appear in an attractive 40-page booklet, are divided into geographical sections of the metro Detroit area, making the service more personalized than the companion ads found in many newspapers.

She added the procedure is all very private, as no names or phone numbers are used in the ads. If a person wishes to respond after reading an ad, they send a letter and a $2 fee to Sincere Singles, and the letter is forwarded to the individual.

Subscription to the magazine costs $15 per year.

Schiff said placing an ad in the magazine costs $25 for 20 words, "but a normal ad is usually 40-60 words which costs between $35 and $40."

She added the popularity of the magazine is heightened by people feeling more comfortable by having their first contact on the telephone.

"This is a safe service because people are not hanging around bars, and they can feel secure by not having to expose themselves," Schiff said, adding that the service caters mainly to professional and white-collar people.

To contact Sincere Singles call 478-6110 or write to Amy Schiff, P.O. Box 1719, Ann Arbor, MI, 48106.

Video dating is the newest method of companion connecting, but even this new wave style of meeting people requires the matchmaking touch.

Paula Winkler, owner of Today's World dating service in Allen Park, said she created the idea of the service approximately 18 months ago after being asked by friends to introduce them to other acquaintances.

Winkler said each of her clients behind the Georgian mansion. The center is an independent, non-profit organization. For more information call 477-8404.

members of the opposite sex, and if a person interests him/her, the client will view their video tape.

Winkler added she then will call the person who was viewed and arrange for that person to see the video tape of the interested party. If the people involved consent, Winkler said she will arrange for them to contact each other.

She noted the dating system seems to be successful, as five couples have married through her efforts.

An advantage of joining Today's Way is its qualification of each member being free from communicable diseases, according to employee Vicky Cherry.

"That's why people come to us, so they are provided with a disease-free environment," Cherry said.

In addition to clients choosing their own dates, she said that Today's World employees also work to put together people with similar interests.

For more information on Today's World call Paula or Vicky at 381-5656.

Setting sail for Mackinac

Nine-man crew ready for Port Huron-to-Mackinac race

By NEIL GEORGHEGAN
staff writer

When "Hot Ticket" takes to Lake Huron this weekend for the annual Port Huron-to-Mackinac race, Northville will be well represented once again.

Six members of the nine-man crew aboard "Hot Ticket" are Northville residents, including skipper Robert Kirkman and his sons Bob, 19, and Michael, 14. Kirkman is a stranger neither to sailing nor the Port Huron-to-Mackinac race. He's been involved in the sport for 19 years and this will be his sixth Mackinac race.

"We've been sailing for a long time; this is our third boat," he said.

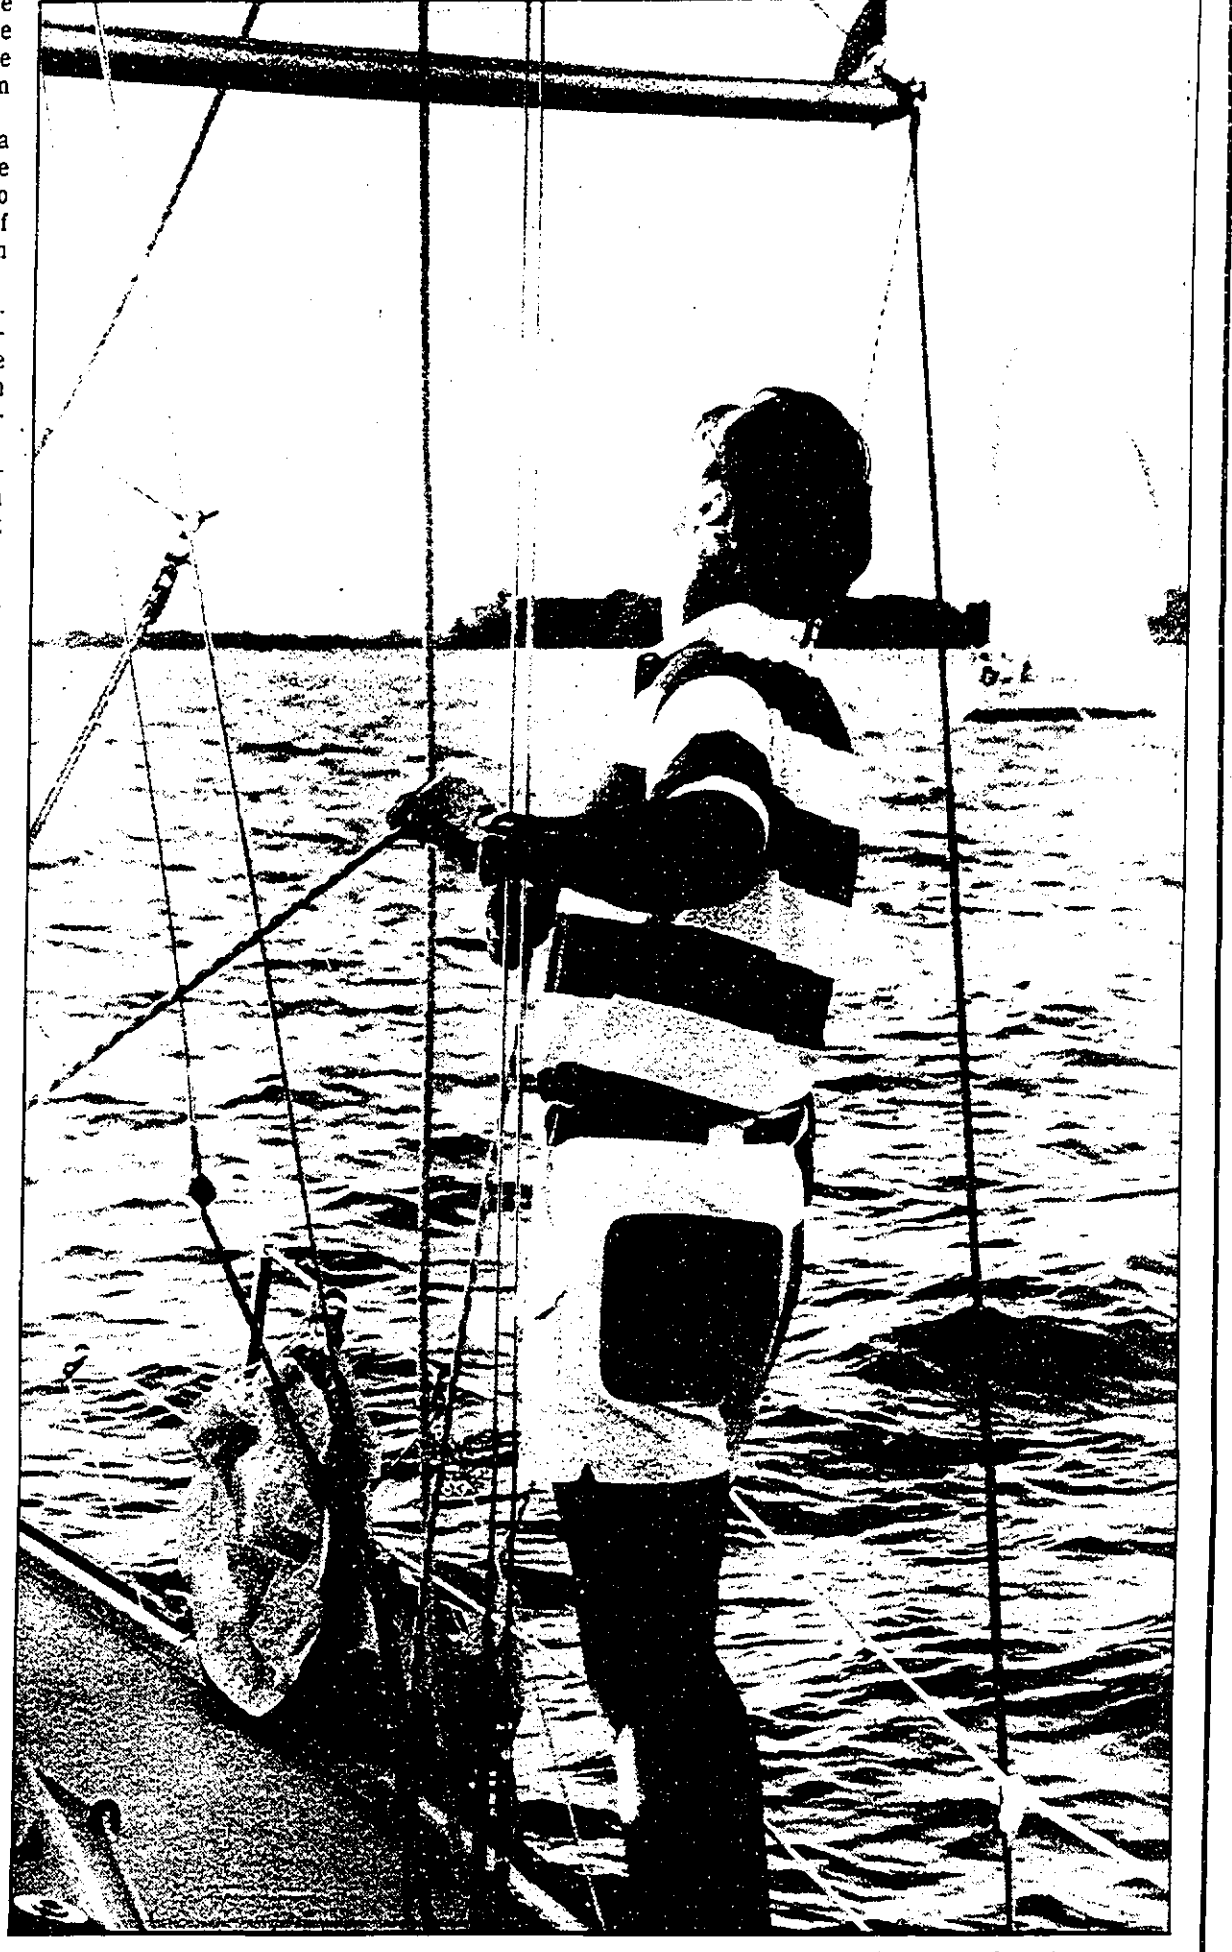

The rest of the Northville connection includes Rob Baidas, Bill Spagnoli and Ted Mutch. The crew will be rounded out by Sean Foran of Livonia, Frank Mikiciuk of Dearborn and navigator George Thompson of Livonia.

"Normally we race with about nine-to-11 crew members," Kirkman explained. "We are sticking with nine because in the Mackinac race, you want as few as possible for weight purposes but you need enough for two separate shifts."

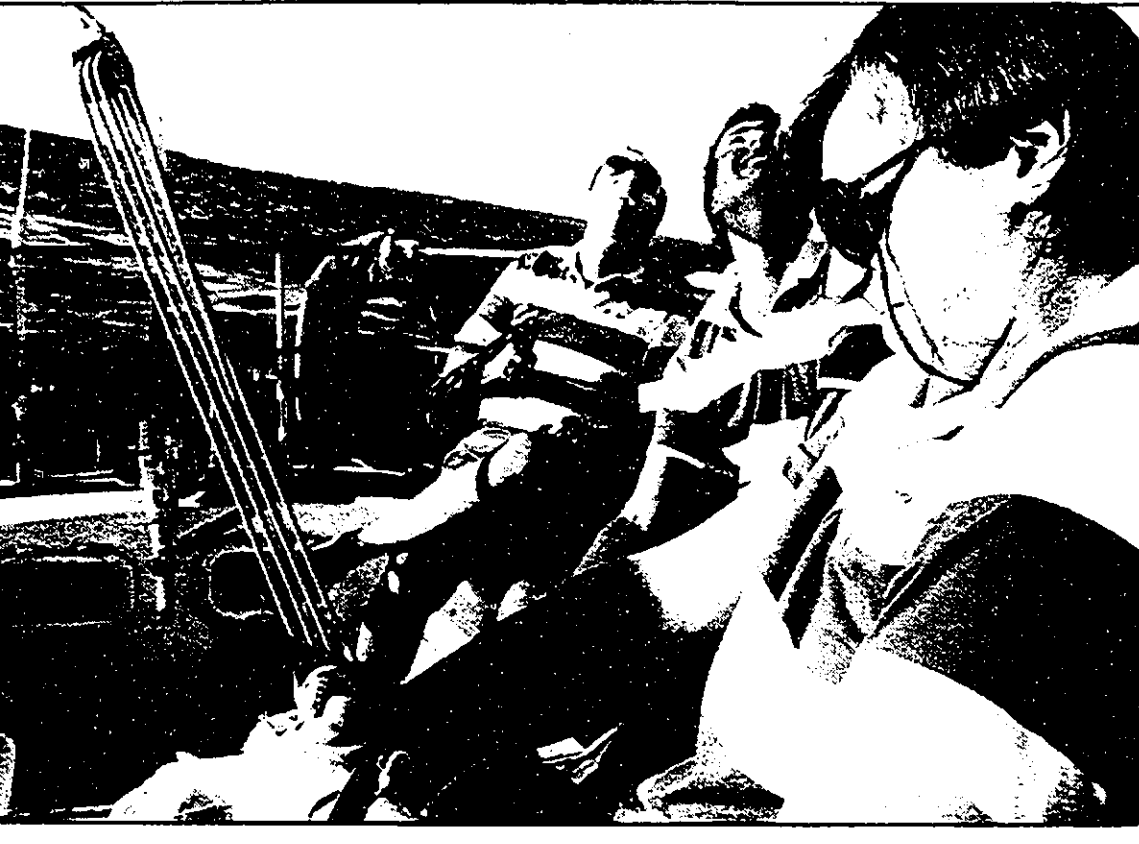

Most of the crew members know each other because of their participation in another sport — hockey.

"Many of us are in a hockey program in Livonia and that's how we first met," reported Kirkman. "There are a lot of fathers and sons, and we just have a good time." Kirkman, his son Bob and Rob Baidas are the helmsmen. They will each take turns running 90-minute shifts throughout the race. The rest of the crew will work in three-hour shifts until the multi-day event is completed. The race will start in Port Huron early Saturday (July 16) afternoon and will probably end in the afternoon on July 18 off Mackinac Island's Mission Point.

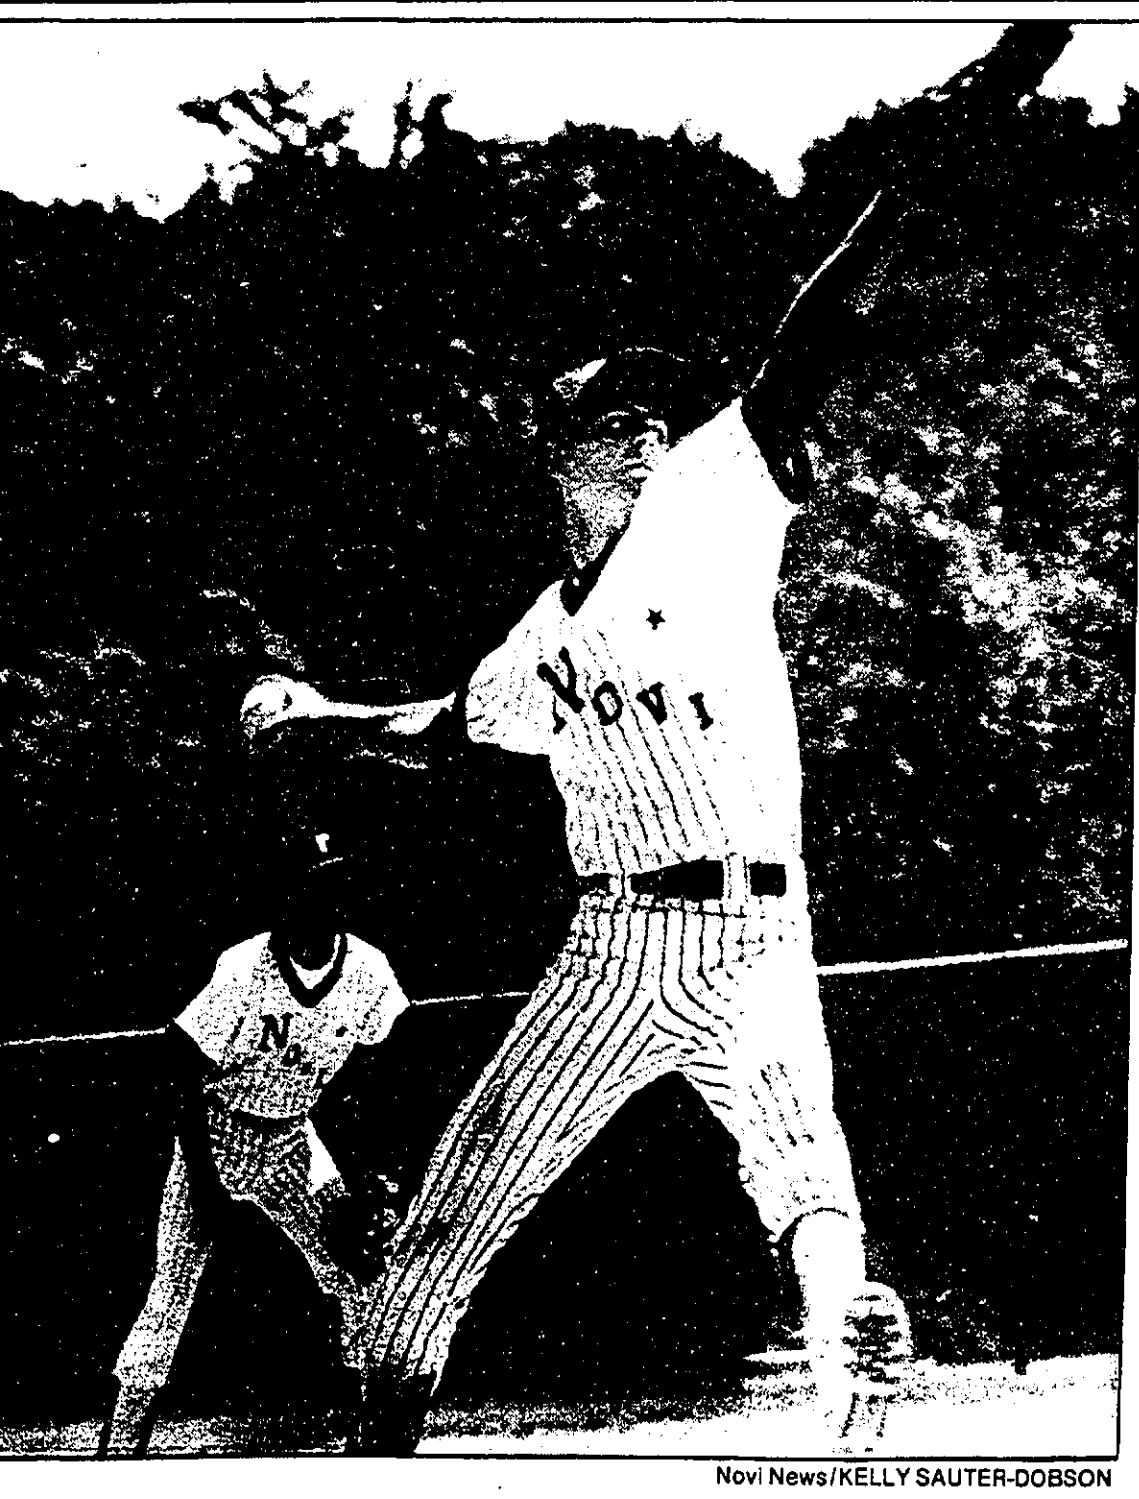

The boats must travel from Port Huron to the Cove Island bell buoy in the northwest corner of Lake Huron

Cabana squad struggles after 8-3 win over West-7

By PHILIP JEROME
managing editor

Things went from good to bad to worse for the Novi Cabana team in the Mickey Mantle Division of the Little Caesars Amateur Baseball Federation last week.

Coach Russ Timreck's sluggers started strong, hammering out an 8-3 victory over West-7 on Tuesday. But that was the lone bright spot of the week for the Cabana nine which proceeded to drop an 8-5 decision to Dearborn Heights No. 7 on Thursday before being clobbered 15-1 by Southgate on Saturday.

The results dropped Cabana's record to 8-7 on the season. The Novi squad entered the week in sixth place with a 7-5 slate. Westland Federation leads the Mickey Mantle Division (17-and-under) with a perfect 12-0 mark.

Cabana had little trouble in the 8-3 conquest of West-7 on Tuesday as Brad Lewis turned in another fine performance on the mound to raise his record to 5-1 on the season. Lewis was touched for 10 hits, but scattered them over six innings, and also retired six hitters on strikes while yielding just three walks.

Novi opened the scoring in the first as Rick Timreck led off with a three-bagger and trotted home on a single off the bat of Kelly Justus. Novi upped its lead to 2-0 in the third when Rick Friedrick singled home Lewis, and then broke the game wide open with a six-run outburst in the fifth. Big blow in the six-run uprising was a bases-loaded triple by Darnell Krause.

The surge gave Novi Cabana an 8-1 lead and the outcome was never in doubt after that.

In addition to Krause, the hitting heroes were Timreck (two-for-four with a double, triple and an RBI), Brian Bartz (two-for-four with two RBIs) and Mark Cleary (a triple and one RBI).

"Brad (Lewis) pitched another strong game," reported Russ Timreck, coach of the Cabana squad. "He got touched for 10 hits, but he scattered them pretty well and we helped out by getting a lot of runs."

DEARBORN 8, CABANA 5: A two-run homer by Rick Timreck in the top of the seventh helped narrow the gap, but the outcome was never in much question as Dearborn Heights No. 7 slapped an 8-5 setback on Cabana on Thursday.

Mark VanAmeyde got the starting assignment and bore the brunt of the abuse. After retiring Heights in the first, the Cabana hurler was touched for four runs in the second, another in the third and three more in the fourth before giving way to Rick Timreck who completed the game.

Cabana, meanwhile, was able to muster only five hits off the hard-hitting Southgate squad had banged out a total of 14 hits.

"I give them all the credit," commented Russ Timreck. "They're well-coached, well-organized and they hit the ball well. They didn't have any homers, but they were banging the ball off the fence the whole game."

SOUTHGATE 15, CABANA 1: Southgate demonstrated why it's undefeated with a perfect 11-0 record by handing Cabana a lopsided 15-1 defeat on Saturday.

The one-sided victory was made even more impressive by the fact that it came with Brad Lewis, Cabana's top hurler, on the hill.

"There's no question that Brad is our ace, and I tried to get two games out of him last week by holding him to six innings on Tuesday," reported Russ Timreck. "The strategy backfired because he got hit pretty good by Southgate."

Which is a little like saying Michael Spinks got hit pretty good by Mike Tyson. The first two Southgate hitters banged triples off the fence as Southgate scored four times in the first. Another four-run outburst in the second made it 8-0 and the game was over for all practical purposes.

By the time it was done, the hard-hitting Southgate squad had banged out a total of 14 hits.

"I give them all the credit," commented Russ Timreck. "They're well-coached, well-organized and they hit the ball well. They didn't have any homers, but they were banging the ball off the fence the whole game."

Novi Legion nine remains in race despite setbacks

By PHILIP JEROME managing editor

Carl Geistler wants to know what in the world is going on. "It was definitely a strange game," reported Geistler. "We were up 12-2 going into the seventh and then things fell apart. By the time it was over, they had scored 10 times to see their record dive from 9-4 to 10-7."

Novi/South Farmington managed to pull out the victory by scoring in the bottom of the eighth. Two walks and a hit-batter loaded the sacks for Brian Daniels who delivered a single to drive in Reid Gough with the winner.

"It was definitely a bad week," admitted Geistler, the Novi/South Farmington skipper. "We played poorly and it showed. The bright spot is that we're still only two games out of first, so we're still in the thick of things as far as the race for first is concerned."

Actually, there wasn't much mystery about what happened to the Novi/South Farmington squad last week. There's an old adage in baseball that says something like you beat yourselves more often than the other team beats you.

And that pretty much sums up what happened to the Legion nine. Plenty of walks and lots of shoddy fielding proved too much to overcome just when the team appeared poised to make a major move on the league leaders.

Legion's only victory of the week came in the first game of a twinnit against Royal Oak on Sunday, July 10. And even that victory was something less than impressive as Novi/South Farmington squandered a 12-2 lead before coming back to salvage a 13-12 triumph in the bottom of the eighth. "It was definitely a strange game," reported Geistler. "We were up 12-2 going into the seventh and then things fell apart. By the time it was over, they had scored 10 times to see their record dive from 9-4 to 10-7."

Age no barrier for elder athlete

By BOB NEEDHAM
staff writer

When Art Glinz says "I just like to play sports," it's something of an understatement.

That's because the number of sports he likes to play is a little awe-inspiring. A retiree for several years, Glinz now has more time than ever to enjoy his sports — and he's making the most of the chance.

Glinz pitches softball for the Novi Old-Timers and the Northwest Parks and Recreation Association Senior Citizen Softball Program, and was a founding member of the team. He also plays tennis between three and five times a week. When he's not doing one of those, he might spend time with horseshoes, ping-pong or pool. He also likes bowling and basketball.

"I don't have time for golf any more," he added.

Glinz has been active in various sports throughout his life, sometimes in leagues or sometimes more informally. He's suffered a little — for example, breaking his nose in a basketball game — but that hasn't stopped his enjoyment of the game. Or games.

One of the main attractions of sports is companionship, Glinz said, and also keeping fit. But his wife suggested there's something else, too. "He likes the competition. I'd say competition is number one with him," Lorna Glinz said.

Nowadays, Glinz said he probably plays more tennis than anything else. In the winter he'll play at the Redford

YWCA, but in the summer he enjoys playing outside. "Any park you want to mention, I'm there," he laughed.

He's very competitive at tennis, and has been for much of his life. In high school he was among the top 10 players in the City of Detroit. And last year at the YWCA, he won the most games in the Monday night league.

For the past several years Glinz has competed in the Michigan Senior Olympics, bringing home several medals to add to an already-extensive trophy collection.

"You could only enter three (events) and one year I won all three," Glinz said. His sports in the Senior Olympics are tennis, horseshoes and ping-pong.

"No matter how old you are, there's people to play you," he said.

Throughout his life, Glinz has been deeply involved in different sports at different times. "I like them all when I get going in them," he said. At one time the main interest was bowling. "Four nights a week he was bowling. Good thing I like cards," his wife laughed.

Although Glinz plans to skip the Senior Olympics this year — a format change is making it harder to get to the different events — he shows no signs of letting up on his level of activity. "They said yesterday on the tennis court, 'You were us all out,'" Glinz said. "I was the first one there and the last one there."

Art Glinz can't decide which sport he likes the best

Summer fitness camps planned

Registrations are now being accepted by American Health and Fitness for the 1988 Summer Fitness Camps. There will be a women's camp July 21-24 and a new co-ed session Aug. 18-21.

This year's camps will be held at the Echo Grove Camp, near Oxford. Featured speakers will include Colleen Gensler, nutritionist and author of "Emotional Weight," Colleen Dodt, herbalist and radio personality, and Dr. Stephen Friedman, M.D., from Pontiac Osteopathic Hospital, on body composition and cardiovascular fitness.

In addition, the mobile testing unit from the hospital's Community Health Center will be at the coed camp to provide body composition analysis and cholesterol screening for camp participants. All exercise classes are taught by certified instructors, and there will also be some free time in the afternoons to partake of some of your favorite recreation or to get to know your fellow campers better. Meals are specially prepared for the campers, and are nutritionally sound and low in fat.

The price of the camp is $199 for the Women's Camp and $219 for the Co-ed Camp. More information about the camps is available by writing American Health and Fitness at P.O. Box 52489, Livonia, Mich. 48152, or calling 537-7343. Each camp is limited to 55 participants, so call to make your reservations soon.

Cholesterol Screenings: The staff of the Henry Ford Medical Center in Plymouth is offering $5 cholesterol screenings the fourth Wednesday of each month from 3-7 p.m.

Experts warn against sun exposure

By EILEEN MURPHY, M.D.
special writer

With the summer months upon us, it is likely we'll be spending increasing amounts of time in the sun. As a result, many of us will be increasing our risk for the most common cancer in Caucasians — carcinoma of the skin.

An estimated 500,000 Americans get skin cancer each year. This results in more than one in seven Americans developing some form of skin cancer in their lifetime. Although it is not responsible for all carcinomas of the skin, chronic exposure to ultraviolet rays of sunlight is the single most important cause. Hence, most of these cancers occur on the areas of skin that remain uncovered when an individual is fully clothed.

Although less common, overexposure to X-rays or certain chemical carcinogens, such as arsenic, can increase your risk of skin cancer. Fair-skinned individuals who burn easily have an increased risk, as well as those who work outdoors and are exposed to considerable sunlight.

If you had a severe childhood or adolescent sunburn, your risk is higher. Individuals who have unusual moles or suffer from genetic diseases characterized by sunlight intolerance (albinism) are at higher risk for skin cancer.

Finally, those individuals with immunologic deficiencies, such as those associated with lymphoma or immunosuppressive therapy, are more predisposed to malignant skin lesions.

The most common types of skin cancer are basal cell carcinoma and squamous cell carcinoma. Basal cell carcinoma accounts for more than 75 percent of all skin cancers. Although these tumors rarely spread to other parts of the body, they are locally invasive. If neglected, they may invade underlying structures and cause considerable damage and disfigurement.

Like most tumors, they are remarkably painless in their course. They usually appear as slow-growing, raised, translucent, pearly nodules that, if untreated, may crust, ulcerate and sometimes bleed. They occur most commonly on the head, face, neck, hands and trunk. If detected and treated early, there is a 95 percent cure rate.

Squamous cell carcinoma is the second-most common form of skin cancer. These tumors have a variable tendency to spread depending upon their size, extent of invasion, location and whether they arise from a premalignant lesion, a burn scar, chronic inflammatory condition or from apparently normal skin.

Squamous cell carcinomas usually are raised, red or pink, opaque nodules or wart-like growths that ulcerate in the center. Typically, they develop on the rim of ears, the face, lips, mouth, hands and other sun-exposed areas of the body. The cure rate is high. Ninety-five percent of all squamous cell carcinomas can be cured if detected and treated early.

Primary malignant melanoma is the most serious form of skin cancer and the leading cause of death from all diseases arising on the skin. Its incidence has doubled alarmingly in the last 10 years, possibly due to increased "weekend" exposure to sunlight, especially among persons in professional and managerial positions.

Persons in the South, where sunlight is more intense, are especially at risk. While malignant melanoma can strike anyone, Caucasians are at far greater risk than individuals with darker skin. Among Caucasians, certain individuals are at higher risks than others. These include:

1. Individuals with a previous melanoma; your risk is 900 times greater in the first three years after diagnosis.

2. Individuals with unusual moles have 22 to 30 times increased risk.

3. Fair-skinned individuals have seven to 10 times greater risk.

4. Excessive exposure to sunlight in the first 10 to 15 years of life increases your risk threefold.

5. Your risk increases eight to 10 times if your parent, sibling or child has had melanoma.

shades resulting from their mixture with brown or black. Lesions, however, may be uniformly colored, such as blue, black or bluish red.

The second distinguishing factor is its irregular border, which is often "notched." These lesions frequently appear on the upper back, torso, lower legs, head and neck. If detected early, surgical removal of melanomas can cure the disease in most cases.

As is the case with many of the problems related to sun exposure, exercising good sense goes a long way toward preventing skin cancer. Minimize sun exposure especially between the hours of 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Always apply a sunscreen when outdoors, even on cloudy days. A Sun Protection Factor (SPF) of at least 15 should be used by those with fair skin for protection against skin cancer.

Since sun exposure damage accumulates during a lifetime, be sure to apply sunscreen to infants, children and teen-agers. Finally, examine your skin and your children's skin regularly for any changes in moles, freckles or skin discolorations, and consult a skin specialist if you become concerned.

The Novi News is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Sha Na Na performs the best of '50s music

Sha Na Na, the group which has become synonymous with music from the '50s, will perform two concerts at the Novi High School football field on Saturday, July 16, in conjunction with the Michigan '50s Festival.

Concerts are scheduled at 3 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets are priced at $15 for reserved seating, $10 for bleachers and $5 for lawn seating. Tickets may be purchased in advance at all TicketMaster outlets as well as the Novi Chamber of Commerce and the Novi Parks and Recreation Department.

The "Larados," a group billed as the "Deacons of Doo-Wop," will be the opening act in front of Sha Na Na for both concerts.

Sha Na Na was "born" in 1969 when a small group of undergraduates at Columbia University in New York City decided they were having more fun singing "acapella" versions of classic '50s rock 'n' roll songs than the music they were singing with the university glee club.

Encouraged by the demonstrated enthusiasm of their fans at the clubs they sang at, they began touring other campuses, creating the same enthusiasm every place they sang. Their seventh appearance was at the now-famous "Woodstock Festival" in upstate New York.

In over 17 years of dedicating itself to the classics of rock 'n' roll and celebrating the memory of that music by performing with their original instrumental and vocal sounds, Sha Na Na has made its name a permanent part of rock 'n' roll Americana.

"The Michigan '50s Festival is proud to have a group with the credentials of Sha Na Na and its obvious ties to the music of the '50s," said

Tickets for the "Sock Hop Express" are priced at $12 per person and include transportation aboard the buses as well as admission to the various hotels.

In addition to the two featured events, the '50s Festival will include a wide variety of activities throughout the five days it is in action.

Official grand opening ceremonies were held at Festival headquarters in the Novi Town Center on Wednesday, July 13, at 5:30 p.m.

Another major attraction promises to be the carnival sponsored by the Novi Jaycees outside the Novi Civic Center throughout the festival. The carnival has been scheduled to coincide with the festival and replaces the former "Gala Days" celebration sponsored by the Jaycees.

Connie Mallett, president of the Michigan '50s Festival Committee. "Sha Na Na goes beyond the '50s nostalgia for which it is best known and become an American institution," she said.

"The concert promises to be a super opportunity to sing your favorite oldies and we have an added

'50s Fest loaded with five days of fun

Throughout the five-day festival there will be a variety of sidewalk sales and crafts shows in both West Oaks and the Novi Town Center.

Scheduled for Sunday, July 17, from 7-9 p.m. is an event called "Cruise Grand River." Classic automobiles from the 1950s will be on display in the West Oaks shopping center and the Town Center on Sunday afternoon, and Grand River will be closed from 7-9 p.m. for a "cruise" of '50s cars. The event is sponsored by the Red Timbers, Victor's Novi Inn, AppleTeaser Country Epicure and Kosch's Deli-Pub in the Town Center.

The Red Timbers will be renamed bonus to our already great show with the Larados," she added.

Mallett also said the Festival Committee was pleased to have the Larados open the show. "They're the No. 1 '50s group in Detroit, and we are extremely happy to have an area group of their stature as part of the '50s Festival," she said.

Band from 5-9 p.m.

"Twist Away" will be the name of AppleTeaser's Country Epicure during "Cruise Grand River." Kevin Wetzel will provide '50s style entertainment and there will be a variety of contests including twist contests for adults and children, a dirty dancing contest and a hula-hoop contest.

Kosch's Deli-Pub will become "Car Hop Service" for the "Cruise."

Throughout the five-day festival there will be a variety of sidewalk sales and crafts shows in both West Oaks and the Novi Town Center. And the first-ever '50s festival will be culminated with a giant fireworks display at the Lakepointe Office Center in the Town Center on Sunday at 10 p.m.

"Everything ought to come off well," reported Mallett.

HISTORY OF H.A. SMITH LUMBER & SUPPLIES

It was in the spring of 1946 that Helen Smith and Bayard Tupper (sister-in-law and brother-in-law) both with vast experience in the lumber industry, opened their own lumber yard at the present location. At that time the company was called Smith-Tupper Lumber Company. The two knew if their business was to succeed, prosper and be successful, some good fundamental business practices would have to be followed, such as: quality materials, business practices would have to be well balanced, product line, be of service to the community and most of all, never forget, the customer is always number one.

Using this philosophy, the company has been successful and grown from the original little office and store, to what we have today, a well stocked, modern lumber yard and store, carrying a complete stock of lumber, plywood, paneling, doors, windows, hardware, paint and hundreds of other items too numerous to mention.

Helen Smith passed away in 1973. Bayard Tupper, although no longer with the company, continues to be an active Farmington businessman.

Robert VanEvery, nephew of the founders, current owner and president of H.A. Smith Lumber has been with the company since 1946. Bob is a life-long resident of Farmington. He graduated from Farmington High School in 1945, served in the Navy in W.W. II, is a member of the Farmington Elks, Kiwanis Club, Exchange Club, American Legion, Chamber of Commerce and served as president of Marlyn, reside in the City of Farmington. Bob and his wife Marilyn, are in the City of Farmington. Both give generously of their time and efforts in community projects.

If you are already a customer of Smith Lumber, we want to thank you for your past patronage and look forward to serving you often in the future. To those of you that we have not had the opportunity to serve, we want to be your lumber supplier and hope you will give us an opportunity to serve you in the very near future.

Strangers are only friends we haven't met.

Sincerely,
