Study points to high radon levels in Novi

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

The American Lung Association has recommended more testing after a series of home tests showed high levels of radon throughout southwestern Oakland County.

The study, unveiled last week, said Novi-Milford residents may be facing a health threat as serious as the radiation given off by 200 chest

X-rays per year.

However, the report has run into strong criticism since its release. The study is based on information gathered from approximately 30 test homes scattered throughout a 36 square mile area of southwestern Oakland County. Overall, the Lung Association compiled test data from approximately 300 southeastern Michigan communities. About four of those homes were actually located in Novi.

Radon is a colorless, odorless radioactive gas that seeps into dwellings from surrounding soils. It comes from decaying uranium deposits in the ground.

Prolonged exposure to high radon levels can lead to an increase in respiratory problems or lung cancer. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) estimates that radon exposure leads to 20,000 deaths from lung cancer per year.

"We saw a definite pattern emerging," said Alex Johnson, Lung Association project coordinator. "It's not like we're saying move out of Milford or Novi... but what we're saying is that people should test and take steps to reduce those levels."

"There is a false sense of security in Michigan about radon," he added.

The results are part of a voluntary program run throughout southeastern Michigan. Local residents sent away for the testing kits from the Lung Association about a year ago, then sent back results back earlier this summer.

About half the people who got the kits sent in the data, Johnson said.

"It's a voluntary result... people who responded probably had a slightly higher level of awareness," Johnson said. "We wouldn't be surprised to see numbers slightly higher than the rest of the county."

Johnson said residents can correct the situation by sealing cracks in basement floors and walls, near foundations, or in other areas where radon can leak into homes, like sump pumps. Several contractors are now beginning to specialize in the repairs. Residents can also order a testing kit by contacting the Lung Association at 559-5100. The kits are also available in several local stores.

It's up at last

Workers with the Oakland County Road Commission installed the long-awaited, four-way traffic signal at the Ten Mile/Beck Road intersection last Monday. Installation of the signal brought an end to several months of negotiations between city, county and Detroit Edison officials to improve safety conditions at the hazardous intersection. The signal will work 24-hours per day; there will be no blinking yellows or reds during early morning hours.

Novi officials favor further radon testing

By PHIL GINOTTI

City officials aren't scoffing at local radon test results — even though it appears that the results are based on data collected from about four area homes.

American Lung Association officials unveiled results of a year-long survey last week, indicating high levels of radon in 75 percent of the homes tested in the Novi-Milford area. The health risk named is equivalent to about 200 chest X-rays per year.

ed. "We see our role as kind of a facilitator... we want to get the test kits out to the public."

Radon, a colorless, odorless, radioactive gas, is linked to about 20,000 lung cancer deaths each year. It occurs naturally, entering structures through building foundations, basement cracks, sump pumps or other openings. Radon is produced as a by-product of the decay of uranium.

Seepage can be repaired by repairing basement cracks or other areas where the gas can enter homes, or by improved air circulation in basements.

City officials said they were unhappy with the way the study was released — and somewhat skeptical of the results — but supportive of further testing. Radon test kits will now be made available at the Novi Civic Center for $13.50.

Lung Association Project Director Alex Johnson called the study "non-scientific" in a presentation at the Novi City Council meeting Monday night, but urged residents to test immediately.

"I would have preferred that they release the information to us first so that we could have gotten together some answers for the public," Mayor Matthew Quinn said. "But I'm very pleased to see that we can now make the test kits available."

"When you look at the risk that may be involved, you're talking about some substantial health problems," Johnson said. "We're recommending that the people in Novi test... but we're also recommending that in Detroit, Royal Oak, Grosse Pointe and elsewhere."

"We're unhappy about it," said City Manager Edward Kriewall. "We asked for the study when it came out last week, and we still haven't seen it. There is some concern that it is based on only a few tests."

He said later: "There is a big concern that the public is getting ripped off here... but where I think people can get ripped off is in the repair and mitigation phase."

"But, under the circumstances, we're glad to participate," he ad-

Johnson said the Lung Association was providing the test kits as a

Video industry reflects variety

The Novi News this week begins a two-part series on video tape rental stores.

In part one, reporter Phil Ginotti examines overall industry trends and what they mean to consumers. Next week, the series will examine the hot titles, the "video experience" and what one should know before selecting a video store.

In fact, it's come full circle — into a renter's market of sorts.

Video renters can now pick and choose from the multitude of stores dealing in tapes, while proprietors slash rates or enact unique marketing strategies to keep a faithful lot of customers from going elsewhere.

Police suggest child safety tips

By PHILIP JEROME
managing editor

Police are urging parents to remind children of appropriate safety precautions after receiving two reports of attempted abductions of school children within the past week.

Old Dutch Farms is located within the South Lyon Consolidated School District.

An eight-year-old boy, who attends New Hudson Elementary School, reported that he was approached by a white male driving a burgundy car while he was walking home from the bus stop.

Although neither of the reports has been officially verified by police officials, Juvenile Officer Al Rasmussen of the Novi Police Department said it's always appropriate to remind children of the dangers involved in accepting rides from strangers.

The man reportedly turned into a driveway in front of the boy and offered him a ride, the boy told police. The boy said the man asked him if he "was sure" after the youth had turned down the first offer.

The first incident occurred on Oak Tree near Londonderry in the Village Oaks subdivision at approximately 3 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 22.

The suspect was said to be approximately 35 years old with red, curly hair, a mustache and freckles. He was said to be wearing a striped shirt. The boy told officers he had never seen the man before and did not think he was a resident in the mobile home park.

A 10-year-old boy told his mother he had been followed home from the bus stop by an unknown white male driving a light blue automobile.

Rasmussen offered several safety tips for parents to pass along to their children.

The boy told his mother that the man attempted to lure him into his car by offering him candy. The boy said he ran home, but was followed by the man who parked his car in front of the residence and remained outside until a Novi police car drove past the house some time later.

□ Never go anywhere without your parents' permission.
□ Never accept candy or gifts from strangers.
□ Never approach a car to offer directions.
□ "Buddy up" while walking to and from school.
□ Make sure to contact someone if you feel something or someone is suspicious.

The boy described the suspect as a white male, possibly in his 40s, with black hair. He was said to be wearing blue jeans, but the youth said he was unable to recall any other features.

□ Don't be afraid to talk to your parents about anyone who approaches you offering gifts or treats, or wants to take your picture.
□ Tell your parents if someone has asked you to keep a secret.

The second incident occurred on Ocher in the Old Dutch Farms Mobile Home Park on Monday, Sept. 26.

Success for school group

With a couple of years of experience under its belt, the Novi Educational Foundation is enjoying measurable success.

Formed in 1986 as a non-profit organization, the group seeks to provide funds for educational enrichment above and beyond the school district's operating budget.

Ernest Aruffo, a member of the foundation's board of directors, explained that the group is gaining community recognition and reported that contributions are on the rise.

When the foundation was first established, it was able to offer one or two scholarships. Now the group can provide four or five, Aruffo noted.

"We're a living, viable organization," he added.

To broaden its recognition and working base even further, the Novi Educational Foundation is organizing its first-ever formal fall dance. The event will be held at the Meadowbrook Country Club on Friday, Nov. 18.

Cocktails begin at 6:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. Dancing to the music of the Jerry Fenby Quintet is available following dinner.

Tickets are $55 each and a limited number are available.

Two $500 scholarships will be established during the evening. Those possessing winning tickets will be asked to specify what type of scholarship they would like to set up as well as choosing what type of criteria a student must display to qualify for the scholarship.

"The educational foundation is funded through individual and business contributions. Projects include awarding mini-grants for educational innovation and study, and setting up community seminars and programs.

It is governed by a volunteer board of directors. Members include Terence Jolly, president; Don Grevengood, Carol Mason, Pfl Superfisky, Michael Meyer and Christine Walker.

Under wraps

Librarian Mary Ellen Mulcrone has to work around books and records covered with plastic sheeting to protect them from dust, but the inconvenience is worth because the library renovation project is moving full steam ahead. The library is moving in-

Park survey work now wrapping up

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

Novi residents want more bike paths and more parkland, but aren't necessarily supportive of a large tax increase to do so.

That appears to be among the preliminary results of Novi's parks and recreation needs assessment survey, which is currently being boiled down into a report to be presented to the Novi City Council.

Parks and Recreation Director Daniel Davis said approximately 35 percent of the people who were sent surveys returned them.

Davis said "very preliminary" results from the survey indicate strong support for parkland acquisition, strong support of more bike paths in the city, but only "spotty" support for golf courses and city swimming pools.

"That's predictable, depending on the ages of the residents completing the survey," Davis said.

In addition, residents responding to the survey have indicated that any new purchases should come from existing city funds and not necessarily a new millage.

"On the surface, it appears as if they are opposed to a large tax increase," Davis said. "Residents basically said they want the funding to come from current sources or from very minimum tax increases."

Needs Assessment surveys were distributed to approximately 1,500 Novi residents in late August. The four-page survey asked residents about sports ranging from curling to tackle football — but also asked residents to identify exactly how much money they would be willing to spend on new programs.

The survey identified a golf course, swimming pool, bike/pedestrian safety paths, acquisition of parkland, gymnasium/fieldhouse, ice arena or tennis facility, then asked how much money — from $1 to $100 — residents would be willing to spend in tax dollars to obtain these amenities.

Davis said the raw data from the survey respondents will be studied for the next several weeks by the Parks and Recreation Needs Assessment Committee, then presented to the city council for review. The needs assessment committee is supposed to recommend possible funding strategies during that time.

Davis said it was still "premature" to speculate on how much funding might be needed or what types of programs would be recommended.

Insurance ranking could effect rates

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

With the addition of full-time firefighters, increased training programs and an extended water system, Novi fire officials are hoping for improvements in citywide fire insurance rates.

Novi officials are expected later this year to petition the Commercial Risk Services Company — a company which publishes ratings judging a community's ability to fight fires.

Municipalities are judged in their firefighting capability and given a rating from one to 10 — with 10 being the worst and one being the best. Those figures are given to insurance companies and usually play a part in determining insurance rates.

Novi currently has an eight rating in some areas served by fire hydrants, and a nine in other areas. Usually, it is impossible for a community to progress past a nine rating unless water service is in place.

"It's changed a bit," said Novi Fire Chief Arthur Leagahan. "They're using a new schedule and it's really based on... can you do it or can't you?"

"There probably are areas of the city that would be affected, and probably other areas that will remain class nine," Leagahan said.

He said petitioning the risk agency is probably a couple of months off. The city will probably wait for the completion of a water line on Beck Road, which will give the central portion of Novi a "looped" system. That means if one water source is suddenly cut, those homes can get water from a different pipe.

The classifications play an important role in fire insurance rates, though each insurance company uses them differently, according to risk management spokesman Fred Wilmer.

The ratings also play a more important role for commercial insurance than homeowners' insurance, although homeowners could notice a slight adjustment in their rates, he said.

"Generally speaking, if there is a lower classification number, there is going to be a lower insurance rate," Wilmer said.

There currently are no class one municipalities in Michigan. There are several class 10 cities, which have no fire safety protection at all. The City of Detroit, for instance, is rated class two.

Wilmer said fire fighting apparatus, field service, personnel, water supply and regular training regimens are all a part of the rating system.

Novi was last rated by the group in 1980, but since then has added nine full-time firefighters, a variety of new equipment, and new fire hydrants in different areas of the city.

The city approved spending over $30,000 to complete a "looped" system on Beck Road several weeks ago. Normally, developers extend water lines as new areas are developed.

Students observe 1988 homecoming

Novi High School students are in the midst of Spirit Week activities in preparation for the 1988 Homecoming game on Friday and the Homecoming dance on Saturday.

The 1988 Homecoming court will be introduced at a pep assembly in the high school on Friday afternoon, and the Homecoming parade is slated to get under way at 4 p.m.

Again this year the parade will begin at Nine Mile and Meadowbrook Road. The parade will head north to Ten Mile, then turn west and march down Ten Mile to Novi High School.

The parade will include floats from all four classes, the Wildcat Marching Band, cheerleaders and members of the 1988 Homecoming court.

The 1988 Homecoming king and queen will be selected by the student body from eight senior class candidates. Candidates for king are Ken Hendrian, P.J. Kee, Bryan Anderson and Brent Norton. Candidates for queen are Melissa Cooper, Pam Hsu, Melissa Haas, Kerry Parmley and P.J. Kee.

Cheese sale starts

Cheese and sausage lovers can smile with pleasure — the annual cheese and sausage sale sponsored by the Novi High School Band Boosters is under way.

The sale began Sept. 29 and will run through Oct. 10. Band students are expected to contact community members during the sale dates.

Those who were not contacted but would like to order cheese and sausage should contact any band member or call Mike McMartin at 476-3130 or John Jozwiak at 348-8314. McMartin and Jozwiak are co-chairpersons of the fund-raiser.

Items available for sale include cheese logs, cheese spreads, specialty mustards and smoked summer sausage.

SWOVEC gets new name

Remember SWOVEC, the Southwest Oakland Vocational Education Center located on Beck Road in Walled Lake?

It's not SWOVEC any more. The new name of the facility is the Oakland Technical Center — Southwest Campus.

Oakland County's four vocational/technical high schools have new names to better reflect what is happening in the southeast, northeast, northwest and southwest quadrants of the County.

Despite the name changes, the four technical centers, each with its own geographic designation, will continue to serve students from all of Oakland County's 28 school districts.

The original names, chosen more than 20 years ago, leaned toward geographic identity to help establish the vocational/technical center concept available for Oakland County students.

"Vocational/technical education has a vital role in the educational options for our students," said John C. Xenos, principal of the Oakland Technical Center — Southwest Campus. "As we strive to keep pace in helping our students prepare for their roles in our complex and increasingly technical society, we decided a name change was in order to help identify what we do for interested students and their parents."

Sewer project gets major boost

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

About 17 years after the first plans were laid on the table, funding for the "Super Sewer" project appears to have become a reality.

What that means for Novi is a promise of enough sewer capacity to accommodate full development and a possible resolution to the state-imposed sewer construction ban, which has slowed development in the city for the last several months.

Wayne County officials and U.S. Congressman William Ford announced Saturday that a federal grant laying out funding for the project has been secured.

"Super Sewer" is another name for the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley Sewer System, which has been on paper since the 1960s.

The total cost of southeastern Michigan sewer improvements is estimated at nearly $315 million. Of that amount, $142 million will be coming from the federal government — in three separate federal grants —

Neglich: 'It does mean that the program for the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley system is going to proceed now . . . and that's a big step forward. It's going to provide the additional capacity for Novi and the other communities.'

with the rest divided between the 12 participating units of government. The first phase work should cost approximately $78 million. Novi's share will be approximately $8.6 million. City officials are working on a financing structure that could involve no increases in sewer rates for current customers. (See related story.) Bonds for the project are scheduled to be sold by this winter, with bidding and the start of construction scheduled by spring 1989. Construction would be completed by 1993, according to the schedule currently being followed.

"It does mean that the program for the North Huron Valley/Rouge Valley system is going to proceed now . . . and that's a big step forward," said Frank Neglich of JCK and Associates, the city's engineering consultant. "It's going to provide the additional capacity for Novi and the other communities."

Most of the improvements will be within the system itself. Little actual work will be done in the City of Novi, Neglich said.

Currently, the Detroit wastewater plant services the central and southern portions of the city. The Walled Lake/Novi Wastewater Treatment plant services homes and businesses in the northern portion of the city.

Novi was placed under a sewer construction moratorium on the southern system earlier this year by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR). That meant new developments could not extend sewer lines, although developments with existing sewer lines nearby could be allowed to tap in.

Local officials are counting on "Super Sewer" to cut down on pollutant loads into the Rouge River basin, eliminate overflows of raw sewage.

FYI

Voter registration deadline: Time is running out for people not yet registered to vote in the upcoming Nov. 8 general election. The deadline for registering to vote is Tuesday, Oct. 11. The city clerk's office will be open Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. for the purpose of receiving registrations of qualified electors who are not yet registered. For more information call City Clerk Geraldine Stipp at 347-0460.

Rezoning on Clark Street: The Novi Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, Oct. 19, to hear a request from the R&Z Company to rezone property located near the southeast corner of Grand River and Clark Street.

Specifically, the R&Z Company is asking that the property be rezoned from its existing R-4 (single-family) and I-1 (light industrial) zoning designations to an I-1 (light industrial) classification.

The public hearing will be held in the Novi Civic Center beginning at 7:30 p.m. All interested persons are invited to attend. Written comments may be sent to the Department of Community Development in the Novi Civic Center until 5 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 19.

Vacancies on the EDC and ZBA: The City of Novi is accepting applications for filling vacancies on the Economic Development Corporation and the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Interested individuals may contact the Novi City Clerk's office at 347-0460 for applications or additional information. Deadline for receiving applications is Friday, Oct. 14.

Calling Social Security: The Social Security Administration has installed a toll-free number of area residents who would otherwise have to make a long distance call.

The number is 1-800-234-5772 (1-800-234-55A). Calls will be accepted 24 hours per day. Calls made Monday through Friday from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. will be answered by a live operator. People who call outside those numbers may leave a message which will be answered the next business day or at a convenient time chosen by the caller.

Office closings: Novi Parks and Recreation Department will be closed on Nov. 11, 24, 25, Dec. 23, 26 and Dec. 30 in recognition of upcoming holidays.

Meeting date changed: The Novi Board of Education has rescheduled its Dec. 15 meeting to Thursday, Dec. 22, at 6 p.m. The meeting will be held at Novi High School.

City might try unique financing plan

Novi officials are currently considering a funding package to cover the city's share of "Super Sewer" — a package which they say may not cost current users of the system so much as a dime.

Novi Finance Director Les Gibson said the city is working on a plan which would pass the costs on to future users of the system and not boost sewer rates for current users.

"It's a little premature right now, but we think we can get by without an increase to the current customer," Gibson said. The city's obligation for the multi-million dollar project is $8.6 million. Most of the improvements will happen on facilities located in other communities, although these improvements will greatly increase the capacity available to the City of Novi.

Gibson said the city would call upon Oakland County to sell bonds to finance the project, then repay those bonds with new revenues gained from future sewer tap-ins. Gibson said the amount of future tap-ins expected, and whether or not that will be enough to foot the bill, will still have to be studied.

Novi officials are hoping that the promise of future "Super Sewer" capacity will be enough for the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to release the city from the sewer construction ban. Novi has been under a new sewer ban for most of this year, which has slowed several development projects.

Engineering Consultant Frank Neglich said a meeting is planned with DNR officials within the next several weeks to try and resolve the sewer construction ban issue.

Construction of the new sewer system is expected to take place by 1993, according to current estimates.

City opposed to day care bills

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

The opposition is lining up against legislation that would block Michigan municipalities from banning day care centers in residential districts.

Sen. Jack Faxon (D-Farmington Hills) sponsored three bills which would require communities to accept small day care centers as residential rather than business uses. That package of legislation passed the State Senate last week by a split vote and is currently in the State House Social Services and Youth Committee.

"Local units claim they (day-care operators) are running a business out of a house," Faxon said. "Under these bills, they can't treat day-care homes as a business and disallow them."

But the bills have their critics — including a substantial amount from within Faxon's own senate district. Farmington Hills, in August, passed a resolution condemning the legislation. Novi has also sent a letter op-

Johnson: 'Licensing and regulation should clearly be done at the state level. But I'm opposed to the state saying they know what is best for the communities at a local level.'

posing the bills. State Rep. Willis "Bill" Bullard (R-Milford) said he will fight for its defeat in the House. "Generally speaking, I oppose any further state intrusion into zoning and local control," Bullard said. "We want to foster good day care, but not by doing this."

"Licensing and regulation should clearly be done at the state level," she said. "But I'm opposed to the state saying they know what is best for the communities at a local level." Faxon has maintained that bills would improve day-care facilities by allowing safety and health code inspections. It would also stop local units of government from closing existing facilities whose legal status is debatable, he maintained. "A woman who has been babysitting in her home for many years may register with the state and then discover that she is breaking the zoning law in her own city," Faxon said. "This is a situation that has to be remedied."

Novi Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers said he fears that the legislation could represent another state intrusion into local zoning matters.

"Certain 'preferred uses' — mobile home parks, churches, group homes — have been taken over by the state," Rogers said. "I'm a little concerned about adding another use to that list."

"Local communities, and certainly Novi, have shown themselves to be certainly capable of regulation," he said. "If communities prohibit them, then there are other remedies, like the courts."

Legislators will have several sessions in November and December to consider the Faxon package.

Band festival comes to city

Novi residents will have an opportunity to hear some of the area's finest high school marching bands this Saturday, Oct. 8, when Novi High School hosts the Michigan State Band & Orchestra Association's Marching Band Festival on the high school football field from 1:30 p.m.

Participating in the annual event will be the high school bands from Farmington, Fowlerville, Walled Lake, Hartland and Perendale in addition to Novi.

Novi was asked to host the festival because of the quality of its facilities.

Each band will be rated by three judges in the areas of musicianship, marching and overall effect. Each judge tabulates the scores and awards an overall rating. The ratings range from I to V. The three scores are then averaged to arrive at the band's final rating.

Last year Novi received a rating of I — the highest rating a band can achieve.

The Novi Band Boosters will sell refreshments throughout the festival on Saturday.

The 140-member Novi Wildcat Marching Band is scheduled to perform at 2:45 p.m.

The public is invited to attend performances at the high school football field throughout the afternoon. Admission is free.

Schools register student increase

By BRENDA DOOLEY
staff writer

There are 131 more students enrolled in the Novi Community School District this year than last year, bringing the total student count to 3,695. The increase was recorded for the school district's unofficial "Fourth Friday" enrollment count.

September 30 was the fourth Friday school was in session since the academic year began during the first week of September.

Last year's student enrollment was 3,564. School officials report that the majority of the enrollment increase — 117 of the 131 students — was recorded in the district's kindergarten through fourth grade student population.

Currently there are 1,539 students enrolled in the school district's K-4 program. While the elementary level student population is on the rise, Novi High School experienced a loss of 33 students. Novi Meadows School gained 44 students, while the middle school gained three students.

School officials have anticipated the growth at the lower elementary level as a new elementary school building currently is under construction on the school district's 80-acre campus near the Eleven Mile/Taft Road intersection.

City plans events for Halloween

"Tis the season for bright orange pumpkins, giggling ghosts and ghoulish goblins... the Halloween holiday is creeping near." Halloween falls on a Monday (Oct. 31) this year. And Novi officials are offering several parties and activities to celebrate the ghostly holiday.

On Saturday, Oct. 29, Novi residents of all ages are encouraged to participate in the city's annual Design-A-Pumpkin Contest by calling 347-9400 by Thursday, Oct. 27.

Another holiday event is a preschool Halloween party at the Novi Civic Center on Thursday, Oct. 27. The Pre-school Halloween Party begins at 3:30 p.m. and features games, costume contests, a Halloween safety movie and refreshments. There will be a $1 program fee collected at the door. If interested, register on or before Monday, Oct. 24, by calling 347-9400.

On Halloween night, Oct. 31, city officials will host the first annual "Great Pumpkin" party. Children are invited to attend the party to enjoy magic tricks, story-telling, a costume contest, free candy and refreshments. The party begins at 6 p.m. and the costume contest gets underway at 7:15 p.m. at the Novi Civic Center. Children and their parents are encouraged to drop by the Civic Center anytime between 6 and 8:30 p.m. on Halloween night.

Radon test kits for sale at Novi Civic Center

Radon test kits are now available from the City of Novi at the Novi Civic Center. The cost is $13.50.

Lung Association of Southeastern Michigan Project Director Alex Johnson said residents should set the small kits in their basement for 48 hours, reseal it and send it to the Lung Association for testing.

Results should be available in two to four weeks. The small metal canisters, about the size of a can of shoe polish, contain a carbon material that traps radon gas.

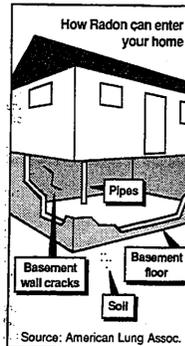

The Lung Association also has a more sensitive testing canister available, which is designed to be placed in the basement for several weeks. Its cost is $25.

Johnson said the test results will be most accurate if the canisters are laid in the basement during colder months of the year when the furnace is on and operating.

The Lung Association also recommends:
 □ Not testing in high humidity conditions. Turn off the humidifier.
 □ Closing up the home 10 to 12 hours prior to doing the test, other than enter or leave.
 □ Testing the center of the room from atop a chair or table.

For more information call the Lung Association of Southeast Michigan at 559-5100 or Novi Assistant City Manager Craig Klaver at 347-9445.

"public service" and that they "weren't making any money off of it at all."

Johnson said Lung Association officials have been deluged with requests for test kits or more information about the extent of the problem.

The group sent test kits out to southeastern Michigan residents last year and has been compiling the results for about a year. Their study showed a trend of high radon levels throughout southwestern Oakland County, with clusters of high radon test results in an area west of I-75.

The Novi results showed one test of less than 2 picocuries per liter in the Ten Mile/Taft Road area. That's about 10 times the average outdoor level.

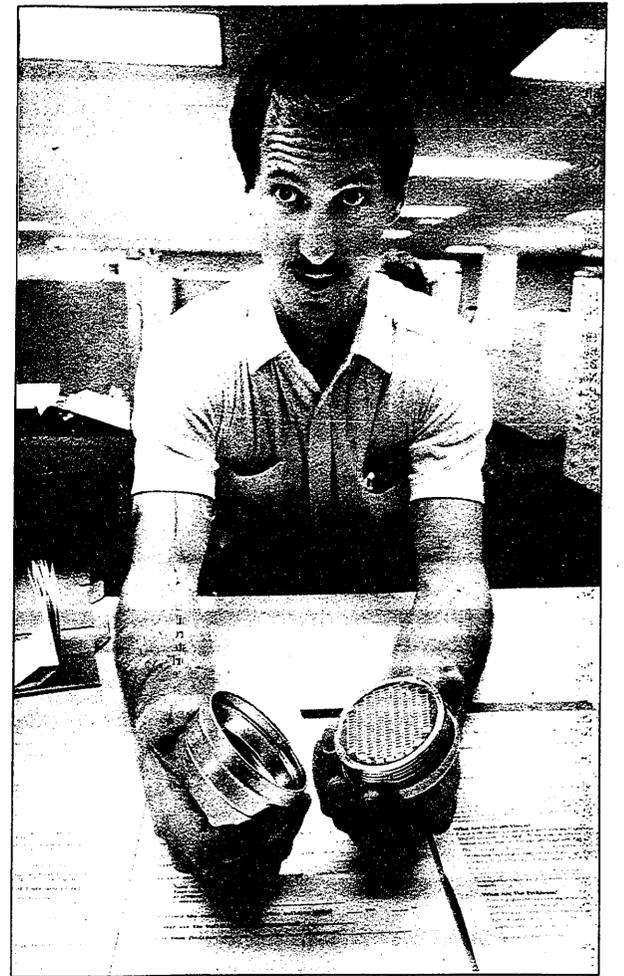

A picocurie is a trillionth of a curie, which is a standard measure for radioactivity.

Another test result in the Eleven Mile/Beck Road area showed a test result of over 20 picocuries per liter. That is equivalent to about 100 times the outdoor level, or the same health risk as a two pack-a-day smoker.

Two other test results at unidentified locations in the city, showed radon levels between 4 and 20 picocuries per liter, which is equivalent to the risk faced by a pack-a-day smoker.

But results have varied widely, Johnson said. Neighbors are coming up with vastly different results, so it is difficult to confine the problem to an area, region or city block.

Overall, the Lung Association tested approximately 300 homes in the tri-county area. Approximately 77 percent of the homes tested out below the four picocurie standard.

Bullard's law practice troubles senior group

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

Although State Rep. Willis "Bill" Bullard (R-Highland Township) is viewed as a favorite in his race with Democratic challenger Kurt Thornbladh, Bullard's fate with Milford area senior citizens doesn't appear to be as certain.

Several local senior leaders say they remember Bullard's decision last year to fight placement of a senior citizen home in a Milford neighborhood — appearing as retained legal counsel for a group of residents.

Bullard, a three-term veteran of the State House of Representatives, also runs a law practice.

He appeared at the Milford Village Council meeting March 18, 1987, fighting plans that involved renovating the old Milford High School and turning it into senior housing. Those plans were later turned down on a split vote of the village council, after Bullard argued that an application for special permit had not been filled out properly.

Thornbladh has been attempting to make that a focal point of the campaign. He has accused Bullard of "influence peddling" — for appearing before the council — as well as neglecting the needs of the area senior citizen population.

Last week, as Milford area seniors lunched at the Milford Presbyterian Church, the wounds still appeared to be fresh — despite Bullard's assertion that his actions are no longer an issue.

"We haven't forgotten it... none of us here have forgotten it," said Milford senior citizen Glenn Wickings. "I tell seniors from other communities what he did and they are shocked."

"Anytime a man comes in and represents five people when there are 80 of his constituents around the room... it stinks," said senior Louis Walsh.

"It's an old town, a Republican town," said senior Robert McFarland. "There are people who were born and raised here. Bill Bullard should be representing them, not people who moved here four or five years ago."

"I was disappointed, very disappointed," said Milford Village President Roy Danley in a telephone interview. "I certainly didn't think he was in such a situation that he needed a legal fee that badly."

Bullard has insisted that he did nothing improper by defending the Milford residents.

"What I have said is that I did nothing illegal or improper," Bullard said. "The problem when you are practicing law is that if you take one side there are going to be people on the other."

Bullard said he did not think it was going to be an issue that will affect the campaign.

"If that's the only issue, he (Thornbladh) is leaning on a very thin reed," Bullard said. "My record on senior citizen issues has been very good," Bullard added. "I don't know of any problem with any vote I've ever cast on senior citizen issues."

Thornbladh, a South Lyon attorney, will challenge Bullard for the 60th District State Representative seat in the Nov. 8 general election.

City clerk offers some tips to help make voting easier

Novi City Clerk Geraldine Stipp is recommending that voters consider a few bits of advice before the Nov. 8 general election.

Stipp said residents should vote early and attempt to use absentee ballots if they can. Stipp also said residents who wish to vote must register by Tuesday, Oct. 11. The deadline is 5 p.m.

To cut down on congestion at the various precincts, residents should take advantage of the absentee ballot, Stipp said.

"In spite of predicted low turnout in the Nov. 8 election, I feel we will have good turnout in Novi," Stipp said. "The 'local' judge race, plus the county question regarding the $35 vehicle registration fee will no doubt generate a lot of interest."

"The election law allows all those 60 and over to vote by absentee ballot," Stipp added, "I would encourage all those eligible to vote by absentee ballot to do so, because I expect long lines at the precincts."

Applications for absentee ballots are available at the city clerk's office (337-0460). The last day to apply for a ballot to be mailed is 2 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 5. Registered voters may apply in person Monday, Nov. 7 until 4 p.m., however the ballot must be completed in the clerk's office and can't leave the building.

Stipp also recommends that voters get to the polls early.

"There will be long lines at 8 p.m. when the polls close if everyone waits until they get home from work and finish their dinner," she said.

Stipp said the area League of Women Voters has been assisting in voter registration and will make registration forms available to people who can't make it to the Civic Center.

Q: How well do you think the 52nd District Court interacts with the Oakland County Prosecutor's office? What areas can be improved?

TERRY JOLLY

The 52nd District Court has a good reputation with the Oakland County Circuit Court. The referral of civil and criminal cases is accomplished in an efficient, orderly manner. The court complies with all of the procedural safeguards afforded to a defendant charged with a felony. The transmittal of records and files is accomplished in accordance with the court rules.

Virginia Perry, court administrator, should be given primary recognition for a job well done. Mrs. Perry has put together a staff that is a credit to her, the judges and the citizens of the district.

As an active practicing attorney, I have witnessed that the civil and criminal staff are efficient, conscientious and hard-working. The direction and leadership of Judge Bulgarelli, Judge Batchik and retired Judge Boyle have contributed to that successful relationship.

As an active, practicing trial attorney in the 52nd District Court, I have had many occasions to observe the interactions between L. Brooks Patterson's office and the District Court. The prosecutor, in his role as the attorney for the citizens of the State of Michigan, functions well in the 52nd District Court. The judges, in turn, have responded well to the prosecutor's needs.

Communication can always be improved with both the prosecutor's office and the Circuit Court. Periodic meetings with the prosecutor's office and the involved police departments should be conducted with the court. Issuance of arrest and search warrants requested needs improvement. Constant communication with the prosecutor's office is a necessary ingredient to improving that relationship. The judge should always advise the requesting police official and/or the prosecutor of the reasons for declining arrest/search warrants. My 20 years as a business lawyer assisting small companies and clients in solving problems gives me the experience necessary to improve any flaws in the court system.

BRIAN MacKENZIE

When a crime is committed in Novi and police need an arrest warrant, they must travel to the Oakland County prosecutor's office in Pontiac, then to Walled Lake for a judge's signature, then back to Novi to make the arrest. Officers spend time on the road because there is no branch prosecutor's office in western Oakland County.

With a new prosecutor taking office in January, the considerable growth of Novi and the 52nd District Court must be recognized, and a senior assistant prosecutor assigned to our area.

Relations with the prosecutor's office are hampered by the considerable distance between Pontiac and the court, which causes delay and wastes taxpayers' money. With a prosecutor's office at the court, justice can be speedy and efficient, and with a senior prosecutor available to try the most difficult cases, inexperienced prosecutors will not face seasoned defense counsel in an unequal contest. My five years as an assistant prosecutor tell me we can do a better job.

Cooperation with the circuit court is extensive. While circuit court handles misdemeanor cases, Circuit Court tries felonies. Disputes over money of less than $10,000 are my responsibility and that of my district court colleagues, while larger cases are forwarded to the circuit court. Circuit court also acts as the appeals court for cases we try, and the district court handles arraignments — the preliminary investigation and rulings that determine whether a case will be tried.

The 52nd District Court, first division — Judges Michael Batchik, Harold Bulgarelli and myself — is thorough, and relations with circuit court are good. The court is seldom reversed. In my short tenure, I have tried to build on the court's record and have never been reversed.

As We See It

City moves wisely on radon findings

The American Lung Association of Southeast Michigan gets low grades for the way it chose to distribute information about the results of random testing for radon in this area.

But despite that shortcoming, we're happy to see an increased level of awareness about the issue. And we're encouraged to see the City of Novi taking a leadership position on testing and getting accurate information out to the public.

Preliminary indications are that further testing is definitely needed.

The Lung Association distributed its conclusions last week, summing up a year's worth of local radon testing. Despite the fact that very few tests were actually done in the Novi-Milford area, the association made some far-reaching conclusions on very little supporting data: Seventy-five percent of the homes tested had recorded high levels of radon.

To be sure, there was an air of panic, even though the group stressed that test results were non-scientific.

Novi will now make the radon test kits available to the public for $13.50, which includes a lab processing fee. The city purchased 100 kits from the Lung Association (for $13.50 apiece) this week, and will purchase more if the demand is high enough.

Novi officials also have shown a willingness to get involved in identifying problem areas of the city. The city is attempting to get copies of any tests done from now on, in an effort to identify any general areas that appear to be at risk. There may yet be some problems with that, because,

Environment

For obvious reasons, the tests are confidential.

Radon is a colorless, odorless gas that seeps into homes through cracks in basement floors and walls, sump pumps or other openings. It's occurs naturally — as part of the breakdown of uranium in soils.

The health threats from prolonged exposure appear to be great. High levels can subject residents to a risk as high as smoking two or three packs of cigarettes per day and greatly increase the chances of lung cancer. The lung association blames about 20,000 cancer deaths per year on radon.

The tests are very easy to do and inexpensive, considering the risks. Basement repairs can be done for several hundred dollars or less in most cases — if repairs are actually needed. In most cases, simply improving air circulation in basement areas can help eliminate most of the problem.

We recommend Novi residents invest in a kit and test their homes. We would also hope that residents share most of the test data with the city — but not necessarily names and addresses — so that general trends can be identified. Everyone should know the risks.

Proper procedures

A proposal to construct a $3.5 million, 27-hole golf course in Novi moved a step closer to becoming a reality at the Novi Planning Commission's Sept. 22 meeting.

But despite the seeming advantages of having such a recreational amenity in the City of Novi, it was tough and go for awhile as to whether the golf course proposal would get the go-ahead.

After considerable discussion, the commission voted 5-2 to approve the request from Matthews and Associates, Inc., for a special land use permit to develop the golf course on a 199-acre parcel on the southeast corner of the Ten Mile/Napier Road intersection. Dissenting ballots were cast by Commissioners Judith Johnson and Kathleen McLallen.

The objections expressed by Johnson and McLallen to granting special land use approval were procedural in nature. City Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers in his review of the request noted that approval of special land uses requires concurrent review of a suitable preliminary site plan. However, the "suitable preliminary site plan" submitted by Matthews and Associates was not delivered to city consultants in time for analysis and recommendations at the Sept. 22 commission meeting.

Consequently, the site plan was not available for the commission to review "concurrently" with the request for special land use approval.

The procedural shortcoming was noted by Johnson who asked that the request for land use approval be deleted from the agenda due to the absence of a suitable site plan to review. The commission requested a legal opinion from Assistant City Attorney Dennis Watson, who cleared the way for consideration of the request by stating that concurrent review of a suitable preliminary site plan was not an "absolute prerequisite."

The position taken by Johnson and McLallen was most certainly unpopular in addition to being in the minority. Both commissioners felt compelled to announce that they, too, could see the recreational advantages of having a golf course in the city. Where they departed from other commissioners was in what appeared to be rigid adherence to prescribed procedures.

Despite Watson's somewhat tenuous legal opinion, it appears that the city does in fact require preliminary site plans to be reviewed at the same time as requests for special land use permits.

The facts appear to be that the ordinance requires a site plan and no site plan was available. As a consequence, the matter was not ready for review and should not have been considered.

Despite the desire to obtain the benefits associated with a golf course, commissioners and city officials should be careful to follow proper procedures. Careful developers will not object to reasonable rules. In fact, a developer's willingness to follow proper procedures is a good indication of the type of work which will follow.

The root of the problem

Bruce Weintraub

It happened this week. I'm not sure why, but it happened.

For the first time in my life, to my utter shock and dismay, I got a gray hair. Yes, sadly it is true.

What's even more disturbing is that this event came on the heels of my 23rd birthday. No, I did not think that I would never get a gray hair, but I just didn't think it would happen so soon.

I mean, if I'm getting gray hair on my 23rd birthday, what will happen next year? Will I be drinking prune juice and putting my teeth in a glass of Ef-ferdent each night? Or will I all of a sudden get the urge to watch Lawrence Welk while soaking my feet in a tub of epsom salts?

All right, I know I'm blowing this out of proportion. But the year between my 22nd and 23rd birthdays has been an eventful one. And it has been a year in which growing older has become a reality.

Last year, on my 22nd birthday, I remember sitting in my apartment at the University of Michigan, sipping a darkly foamed beverage, and thinking I was on top of the world.

I remember thinking that I would work at the newspaper which bid the highest for my services. And as for working at a weekly newspaper, well, let's just say that I thought a major daily would have better suited my talents. Yes, I hate to admit it, but I did suffer from such delusions.

Everything except gray hair.

... if I'm getting gray hair on my 23rd birthday, what will happen next year? Will I be drinking prune juice and putting my teeth in a glass of Ef-ferdent each night? Or will I all of a sudden get the urge to watch Lawrence Welk . . .

What a difference a year makes! I'm happy here at The Novi News/Northville Record. No doubt about it. But I get goose pimples when I think of what it took to get here.

My first job as a reporter was spent at a desk with a portable typewriter at my side. No computer like at college, only a phone and typewriter to accomplish my tasks.

Now I'm covering Northville Township on a regular basis. No college apartment, no Thursday night parties, no taking a day off to see a baseball game.

But, besides fine-tuning my reporting skills, I've learned about life. Yes, even though I'm out of college, I've continued to learn. And, to be honest, I've probably learned more about myself in the past year than in my four years at Michigan.

I'm not sure if I want to be a reporter for the rest of my life. But this past year has shown me that I can deal with anything that comes my way.

One from the heart

Phil Jerome

In case you were wondering, the answer is "Yes, the George F. Jerome obituary appears in this week's paper is indeed my father."

Dad passed away early Thursday morning. He suffered from Parkinson's disease and his condition had deteriorated badly over the weekend. On Monday, we knew it was a matter of time. On Tuesday, we knew it was a matter of days.

By the time Wednesday rolled around, we knew it was a matter of hours. We sat by his bed Wednesday night, watching death close in. Hoping in a way that he knew we were there for him, but hoping even more that he was beyond the point of realizing what was happening to him.

Around eleven, Betty, his wife and our stepmother, said she would like to spend the final few hours alone with him, and we accepted her wishes. Death came two hours later.

This column of mine is a strange little thing. It's wrong, you know. I shouldn't write so much about myself. It's much too personal. Who cares anyway?

I write about myself more than the community I serve. More often than not, I try to write funny things that happen to me around town. Hoping that my experiences are relatively typical and others can relate to them.

Shortly after I became a columnist back in 1982, I wrote a Father's Day column in which I thanked my father for being such a wonderful father. I've always been glad I said the things I did while my father was still well and strong enough to hear them.

Father Kukulski, who participated in the memorial service Sunday, later used the column in a Father's Day sermon urging his listeners to tell their fathers they love them.

It's good advice. Personally, I recommend it.

Changing Times

Parent objects to sports story

To the Editor:
 I'm writing in response to your article on Sept. 29, which referred to the lack of offensive power on the girls' basketball team because of the absence of Lisa McCarthy. There is no question Lisa was an exceptional athlete for four years. I know Lisa and her family very well.

However, in conferring with several junior varsity and varsity girls' parents the night of Sept. 29 at the girls' Brighton game, we were all very upset. We originally had thought the information contained in the article stating Coach Harris wished Lisa was still playing, came from her. Confirmation with Coach Harris disclosed otherwise. This means the article came directly from your sports editor, Neil Geoghegan.

In my opinion, Neil apparently does not have any knowledge about the psychological impact such an article would have on the girls' current basketball team.

If Neil had been at the Brighton game he could have seen the impact. My girl read the article and was so upset, originally thinking it came from Coach Harris, that she and the whole team played one of their worst games of the year. A game they should have won but didn't, mainly because of the article they all read.

This team has been trying to shake the Lisa image and to be able to win on their own. In fact, they were doing quite well until they read the article. In fact, they were in all conference games until the last quarter when their lack of depth caused them to tire.

In any case, I do not dispute the fact that Lisa was a great offensive force and that we don't have a Lisa on the team this year; however, I strongly believe the writing of the article was in bad taste and reflects in poor journalism on the part of The Novi News. It also leads one to question the writing of other articles in the paper.

In addition, it was my understanding that good, honest writers investigate the articles they write. Somebody should inform Mr. Geoghegan that Lisa does not play basketball for Alma. She does, however, plan on playing softball. The point is the article was written incorrectly and in poor taste.

Only in their first game did these girls ever give up before half-time. Every game since, the team has given 110 percent and has never given up even though it was behind by 20 points, that is until Thursday's game with Brighton. In fact, this team plays together much better than last year's team. Why not write articles that give encouragement to these kids versus writing articles that degrade them?

Did it ever appear to anyone that it may be the fault of the community when teams have trouble winning? I believe we only have 27 girls on the freshman, junior varsity and varsity girls basketball teams. Perhaps the community should put more emphasis on the initial training programs for younger kids such as in the Parks and Rec system.

I realize this letter will not take away the effect the article already has had on the girls, however, I do hope The Novi News will be more concerned with and considerate of the psychological impact their articles will have on the individuals they refer to in their articles.

Letters

To the Editor:
 We are very disappointed with the article entitled "Senior housing financing eyed" by Phil Ginotti in the Sept. 22 issue of The Novi News.

After two years of research by the committee members (50 percent of which are senior citizens), we are compiling our findings and will present our final recommendations to council when they are completed.

Once again, the Novi Senior Citizen Housing Needs Study Committee would like to extend an invitation to a representative of the Novi News to be our guest at any meeting, we would be pleased to answer all of your questions at that time.

Jean Rowe, secretary, and members of the Novi Senior Citizen Housing Needs Study Committee

Thank you

To the Editor:
 We wish to publicly express our special thanks to two individuals who helped us get satisfaction from a builder who abandoned the job after being paid in full even though corrections and completion of the work remained outstanding.

First, a special thanks goes to Carol Mason who directed us to the city for recourse, stating that, "Our city (Novi) does not tolerate builders such as ours in this community."

We might add that the advice came from a concerned person. She was not acting in her role as an agent for a commission. Thanks much, Carol.

Secondly, a special thanks goes to a dedicated city employee, Ken Marco, who serves us in the building department. Such an individual is exceptional indeed.

Ken stopped in several times to monitor the corrections and completions, following up with phone calls to the builder and to us to make sure the work was progressing satisfactorily. Thank you very much, Ken. It is a real honor to have you representing the existing residents.

Environment captures attention

A year ago, it would have seemed pretty unlikely to find a story about radon on the front page of this newspaper. Or any newspaper, for that matter. But here it is, along with an editorial on the same topic.

Specifically, citizens and officials are examining where it goes after it's thrown out, and how it can end up on a lakeshore.

More attention to the problems of trash disposal. People are slowly realizing that just dumping garbage is no solution at all, and that burning it creates a host of new problems. Maybe it's not totally unrealistic to hope that local recycling programs all across the Detroit area and the country are no far off.

A growing realization that global warming — the "greenhouse effect" — is a real concern. Some say this summer's drought was a result, and although that's a debatable point at best, the drought certainly suggested the kind of problems that may be just around the corner.

Improvements to the quality of water in the area, specifically the Rouge River. The long-awaited Super Sewer project is all set up and about to get under way, and the Rouge River is going to benefit. The related "Rouge Rescue" efforts are another good whack at the problem.

Discussions in the city about regulation of hazardous materials. They led to the passage of a special ordinance, and although new questions about the makeup of the board have cropped up, Novi seems to be working things out.

Several gasoline spills in the area. One large spill led to a closer look at the requirements to guard against these dangers.

All of these things were covered in this newspaper, most of them in considerable depth. Ten years ago, say, I don't think you would have seen much of this coverage, if any at all.

That's significant. Times are changing, and the environment is becoming a general interest rather than a special interest. It's about time.

In fact, it may be beyond time. Many environmental problems have been known for years — decades — without attracting attention beyond a group of activists. Many others have yet to receive widespread attention. But better late than never, I guess, and the fact that this is an election year makes this new awareness especially important.

There is no reason not to expect candidates for office this fall — at national, state and county levels — to be informed and concerned about the environment. And to have specific ideas to deal with the problems. Personally, I think that's a lot more important than which organizations a candidate is a card-carrying member of.

Video industry resembles old-fashioned 'gas wars'

Others are afraid of a market squeeze-out by the big chains, whose size and ability to stave off dwindling prices position them well for the future.

"The video boom has given way to wild diversification. Party stores, gas stations and supermarkets now get in on the act. And since these stores require no special licensing, it is difficult to get a count of new video stores that are opening every day.

Conservative estimates indicate a three- or fourfold increase in the last five years.

"Short of just going out and counting every one, I don't know how you are going to get a really good estimate," said Detroit Consumer

Griggs: 'The business has grown so fast that it's just catching up with itself right now. It's going to peak . . . some of the smaller stores are going out right now.'

Affairs Division Director Esther Shapiro. "And this is a relatively new industry. It probably isn't given the attention it deserves." In any case, the sheer numbers have meant deals for customers. "The business has grown so fast that it's just catching up with itself right now," said Scott Griggs, assistant manager of USA Video in Novi.

"It's going to peak . . . some of the smaller stores are going out right now."

"It's kind of like the old gas wars . . . a lot like that," he said. USA Video has modified its rental rates to more closely match up with demand — one of the many marketing strategies rental shops have undertaken. The store offers $1.50 specials Tuesdays and Wednesdays, three tapes for the price of two on Mondays and Thursdays, and $2.50 per tape rental the rest of the week.

Some stores are now going with systems where payment is made when the tapes are returned the next day. That no doubt has spurred impulse buying. TSV Video in Novi has kept in place a membership fee. However, that fee doesn't exclude non-members. It simply allows discounted rates for those people who have paid the fee.

Members pay a $19.95 fee, but receive about 50 cents off the price of each video rented. Store manager John McGill said the system has helped to keep a faithful customer base, besides saving renters money over the course of a year.

"There's almost no limit to what a video store can do," McGill said. "I expect it to go twofold."

"We've just now gotten into people's homes," he continued. "It's to the point now where the customers are getting more demanding . . . they definitely want the newer movies sooner or they want more services." McGill's store deals in VCRs, electronics and entertainment system equipment for the home. It will also soon expand into home video game rental, following the lead of several other area video stores.

Consumer complaints are pretty high, according to Shapiro.

"We have not gotten many complaints about the video business," she said. "Right now, there is kind of a good news/bad news effect. For a while, there is kind of a price war going on, but what also happens is that a lot of the smaller operators are squeezed out," she said. "The big guys, who are able to hold on, can dictate their prices."

But Shapiro said there is no indication of that happening in the video trade right now, and probably no strong possibility of that happening within the next five years.

News receives awards

The nine awards were by The News were part of a total of 29 awards earned by the six weekly newspapers in the Sliger/Livingston Publications chain. Other papers in the chain include The Northville Record, South Lyon Herald, Milford Times, Brighton Argus and Livingston County Press.

Managing Editor Philip Jerome commented that the overall total of nine awards helped compensate for the fact that The News was judged the second-place winner in the General Excellence category. The News had taken first place in General Excellence in both the 1987 and 1986 MPA competitions. The paper finished second in General Excellence in 1985.

On the other hand, Jerome said he was pleased that the judges awarded The News both first place and honorable mention in the Editorial Pages category.

"I felt that the quality of commentary on our opinion page was at its highest level in history during the 1988 contest year," said Jerome, noting that judges had indicated The News could have won first, second and third in the category but chastised the paper for being "hoggish."

Jerome also credited his staff and the community for the awards received by the paper. "Editors don't win awards; it's the reporters who win the awards and are fortunate to have some very talented reporters on our staff."

"We're also fortunate to be serving an educated community which has come to expect excellence," he said. "Striving for excellence to meet the expectations of the people we serve makes us a better newspaper."

The 1988 MPA Contest was judged by members of the Georgia Press Association.

Parent seminar offered

The Michigan PTA and the Michigan Department of Education will co-sponsor a Parenting Conference at the Novi Hilton on Saturday, Oct. 29, 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Unlike most parenting seminars today that deal with the negativism of 'surviving' parenthood, this day-long seminar promises to be a "celebration." Program planners are enthusiastically billing the conference as "Self-Development through Parenting — Growing Up as a Parent and Liking It!"

Keynote speaker for the morning session is Paul Pearsall, Ph.D., director of the Problems of Daily Living Clinic in the Department of Psychiatry at Mt. Sinai Hospital in Detroit.

Dr. Pearsall is a noted lecturer and author of several best sellers that deal with human sexuality and sensuality. His upbeat Edu-Concern, "In Celebration of Parenting: The Miracle of Us," will set the tone for the day as parents and educators take part in a variety of informational workshops facilitated by many experts in the field of parent education.

Working titles for some of the workshops are "Assertive Discipline for Parents," "The Michigan Model for Comprehensive School Health Education," "Media and Sexuality," "Special Children: Understanding Your Child's Unique Learning Style — and How to Help Him/Her Learn With It," and "How to Teach Your Child about Sex and Morality."

Other topics include "Stress Management and Children: Dealing with Life Challenges," "Education and Prevention: Easing Disorders Among our Young Teenage Partners: Substance-Free Fun" and "Balancing Parenting and Career." Each registrant will have the opportunity to select three workshops from the over 20 being offered.

Family provides romantic rides for special events

By MADELEINE GRAHAM

The carriage radiates a warm appeal with elegant red cushions. A carefully carved-out heart on the back of one of the benches is often used by newlyweds who hold hands, show their rings and have photographs taken.

The wooden-spoked wheels are painted bright red. The tires originally were made of iron, but have been replaced with rubber for a much smoother ride. The outside of the carriage is painted shiny black, and two lanterns on each side of the vehicle light the path.

Mike, Susie and their son, Benjamin, work hard to prepare the horses and vehicles for an occasion. "Preparation for a one-hour event requires four to five hours of

Carriage service offers romantic rides

Benjamin is responsible for the stalls and makes sure the horses have adequate food. Mike cleans the carriage and prepares the vehicle for the road. Susie cleans, grooms and French braids the horse's mane and tail.

Susie also appropriately fits bells, ribbons and a feather plume upon the horse. A wicker basket adorned with dried flowers is placed on the back of the carriage to match the occasion, and the vehicle is arrayed in ribbons that suit the event.

Depending on the occasion, Mike may be seen sporting a top hat and a dapper driving suit, a western tuxedo, or a formal tux. Susie wears a Little Lord Fauntleroy suit to greet the guests. Eleven-year-old Benjamin remains behind the scenes as a handyman and apprentice.

The Memorial Day Parade in Hartland, the Star Spangled Festival in Southfield and the Detroit Senior's Day are just a few of the events in which the Cinderella Carriage Service has participated.

"People rave when we are there. We love the people and the excitement aroused in children."

"People rave when we are there. We love the people and the excitement aroused in children."

— Susie Higginbotham,
Cinderella Carriage Service

The Cinderella Carriage Service also participated in a wedding at the Detroit's Ebenezer Baptist Church, where guests enjoyed the ride with a personal jam box that played rare music. "We are 100 percent customer oriented. We want to make the occasion special," Susie emphasized.

The Cinderella Carriage Service operates in Hartland and serves the Metropolitan Detroit area. The rate is $190 per hour which helps defray the costs of preparation and hauling. If the carriage service enters an area that is more than two hours from Hartland, there is a fee of 50 cents per mile.

The Cinderella Carriage Service does handle events where the rate is adjusted. If Mike and Susie are working an all-day affair, such as a festive, the rate for a five- to seven-minute ride is approximately $150 for children and $2 for adults.

The Higginbothams book about three or four events a week. When they're not booked, they free-lance.

"I'm the creative, innovative motivator, while Mike is the calm, level-headed individual who handles the scheduling and guides the horses," Susie said.

Farms and horses played a significant role in the lives of the Higginbothams. Mike trains race horses in addition to running the carriage service and farm. Mike also sells hay and leases storage area at the farm.

Susie is a regional representative with the Farm Bureau Organization and is in charge of six counties. She is responsible for 15,000 members—7,000 of whom are farmers. Susie's earlier childhood experiences gave her exposure to running a farm, and she took college courses in accounting to help her career and business.

Mike and Susie also operate a hayride service which allows for a group of 20 to ride at a time. The hayride is equipped with a stereo system to provide appropriate music.

At Halloween, the popular trend is to play scary music and dress for the occasion. A bonfire is provided, and individuals often bring cider and pop. The charge is approximately $125 per hour for a hayride event.

Owning a car's more expensive than you think, CPAs say

Forget the sticker price. Ignore the ads. To figure the true cost of owning a car, you will have to do a lot more than just comparison shop.

If you are like most people, you probably decide how much car you can afford by estimating the amount of your annual loan payments plus the cost of insurance.

But, according to the Michigan Association of CPAs, this method of calculation may land you in a financial ditch.

To find out how much your car really costs, add up all your operating expenses, including both fixed and variable costs.

In simple terms, fixed costs are those that remain the same whether you drive the car across country or just across town. Variable expenses are trickier to estimate, since they can soar or plunge depending on the type and amount of driving you do.

FIXED COSTS: In most cases, fixed costs fall into four basic categories: depreciation, insurance, loan interest and loan principal.

The Hertz Corporation reports that these auto expenses increased an average of 5.5 percent in 1987. Let's take a look at the specific items that can drive the cost of owning a car way beyond your initial expectations.

Depreciation is the amount by which a car's value falls during a specific period. Keep in mind that a car's value falls more rapidly in the early years and levels out after approximately four years.

Using estimated average depreciation rates, a car's value generally falls about 22 percent in the first year. The specific depreciation rate for your car may differ, but will follow roughly the same pattern. Depreciation is important to consider if you are planning to trade in or resell your car.

Insurance can represent more than 20 percent of your car's total operating costs, depending on such factors as the age of the car, the car model, the amount of your deductible, your driving record and the type of area in which you live.

For a new car, you will need collision and comprehensive coverage in addition to liability insurance. Michigan's no-fault statute also requires medical coverage and loss of income benefits, which adds to the cost of the insurance. Again, older cars are less expensive to insure—in many cases, you can choose to forego collision coverage entirely.

There are other ways to trim the expense of insurance. Choosing a four-cylinder family model over an eight-cylinder sports car can save you several hundred dollars annual-

Money Management

Increasing your deductible (the amount of money that you must pay before the insurance kicks in) can also shave hundreds off your annual premium charges.

As with any other product or service, shop around for the best deal. Find out what discounts your insurance agent offers. If you are an older person, drive your car fewer than 7,000 miles a year, move to a less-geared community, change your commuting patterns or regularly park your car in a garage, you may be eligible for lower rates.

If you need to insure your teenage children, make sure they complete a driver's education course. That single step could save you up to 25 percent of the insurance costs.

Loan interest is a cost of car ownership that few people considered in the past, perhaps because the interest provided a much-needed tax deduction. Unfortunately, you can no longer get the same mileage out of automobile loan interest.

In 1988, such interest is only 40 percent deductible, with that figure plunging to 20 percent in 1989 and to 10 percent in 1990 and zero in 1991. As a result, interest (which can easily add up to several hundred dollars a year) is once again an important item to factor into your car's financial bottom line.

Loan principal is a car's sticker price plus sales tax and minus your down payment. On a car with a sticker price of $10,000, four percent sales tax adds $400 to the car's cost. If you put $2,000 down, your loan principal is $8,400. The higher your principal, the higher your monthly payments. Once you've paid off the loan principal and interest, the cost of maintaining a car generally drops by a substantial amount.

CPAs say that if you pay to hold onto your car a year or two after your loan payments cease. During that period, deposit into a savings account an amount equal to your monthly loan payments. In this way, when it comes time to buy a new car, you will be able to make a larger down payment and avoid incurring an unnecessary amount of non-deductible interest. Remember, too, that the interest rates you pay on loans are bound to be at least a few percentage points higher than what your savings account earns.

VARIABLE COSTS: Variable costs include registration fees, maintenance and repair costs, replacement parts, gasoline and oil, and parking.

Registration fees represent only a small percentage of the cost of owning a car, but you should still budget for them. Included in this category are charges for vehicle registration and inspection.

Maintenance and repair costs are difficult to estimate, but national averages range from about $160 for a 1-year-old car up to about $60 for a 10-year-old car. Several publications, such as Consumer Reports, offer information on the repair records of specific models.

Replacement parts are likewise hard to estimate since you never know how much work your car may require in any one year. Reserve a minimum of a few hundred dollars as a contingency against the need for new spark plugs or a new battery. Gas and oil costs, on the other hand, can be calculated quite easily, even if you don't save receipts. To estimate your gas costs, divide the amount of miles you drive annually by your car's average miles per gallon (MPG), then multiply by the average cost per gallon of gasoline. For example, if you drive 10,000 miles a year and your car averages 20 MPG, you use approximately 500 gallons a year. At $1.10 a gallon, that comes to $550 per year.

Parking can be a substantial expense for people living in cities. Calculate how much you pay to travel to and from work over the course of one year. You may be surprised at how quickly those parking fees add up.

When you total all your expenses, you may suddenly view the slightly trusted family car in a new light. The Michigan Association of CPAs recommends that you carefully consider the costs of car ownership before deciding to buy a new car.

Former Michigan All-American Al Wistert chats with former Michigan State All-American Steve Juday.

State gridiron battle relived

Many years have passed since Northville's Alvin (Al) Wistert donned his maize and blue uniform to battle Michigan State on the gridiron, but he recalls those days like they were yesterday.

Wistert was a two-time All-American lineman for the University of Michigan in the post-war years of the late 1940s. Just like his older brother Whitey Wistert and his younger brother Albert "Ox" Wistert who also played at U-M, Al never lost to the Spartans.

After a one-year stint at Boston University, Wistert transferred to Michigan in 1947 and played for the Wolverines for the next three seasons. All three years, Michigan opened with Michigan State, starting with a lopsided 55-0 win in '47. It was legendary coach Fritz Crisler's last — and some say best — team.

"It was always the first game on our schedule," Wistert remembered. "Back then Fritz said he expected us to beat them just on physical condition alone."

The win on Sept. 27, 1947 before 97,000 fans at Michigan Stadium was the debut for both Wistert and legendary Michigan State Coach Clarence "Biggie" Munn. A year earlier, Munn's Syracuse team beat Wistert's Boston University squad and after the game, Wistert went into the Syracuse locker to congratulate Munn. But a year later, the situation changed dramatically.

"I thought it was only fair to go into the locker room and see Biggie when we won but he wasn't in a very good mood after getting beat 55-0," Wistert said. "He felt Fritz ran up the score on him and he never forgave him. They still say that '47 team was one of Michigan's greatest teams."

Steve Juday is probably the most talented football player ever to come out of Northville High School — and the most successful.

At Michigan State in the mid-1960s, Juday was an All-Big Ten and All-American standout. But he also has the distinction of being the last quarterback from a Division I college in this state to lead his team to the glory of a national championship.

As a Spartan from 1962-1965, Juday actually played in three Michigan State-Michigan showdowns and had a very diplomatic 1-1-1 record in those games.

As the starting quarterback for Hugh "Duffy" Daugherty's team for three years, Juday was a key figure in the tail end of a two decade period in which MSU dominated the series. From 1950 until Juday's senior season in '65, U-M won only three times in 15 tries.

The Spartans topped the Wolverines 28-0 during Juday's first season in 1962, but he never played a down that year because back in those days, freshman players were ineligible. The following year, the intrastate rivals battled to a 7-7 tie in Ann Arbor — one of five ties in the series.

"It was my third or fourth game as a starter and at that point I was in a little deeper than I thought I'd be at that stage of my career," Juday said. "I was a sophomore on a senior-dominated team and I was just trying not to make any major mistakes. In 1963, Michigan wasn't especially strong and we had a good team, so the tie was a disappointment for us."

"Duffy wasn't happy at all because he thought we outplayed them. He truly believed that a tie was like kissing your sister. That was the only tie game I ever played in and I remember leaving Michigan Stadium with a hollow feeling."

Q: Which team are you rooting for—MSU or U-M?

Four said: "MSU"
Six said: "U-M"

S vs. M

"Spartans all the way."
"I think U-M is better this year."
"Bo is mad because he lost last year."
"MSU has a better defense and they are the defending champs."
"I think U-M will win, but I'm rooting for State."
"The games at Ann Arbor, so I'll go with Mich."

Random Sample is an unscientific poll of 10 Northville/Novi area residents conducted by the staff of the newspaper.

Volunteer gathers parenting packets

By DOROTHY NASH
special writer

"Catch'em in the Cradle" is the title of one booklet in a packet which Carole Jean Stockhausen delivers to the parents of new babies in Northville — as a gift from The Friends of the Northville Public Library.

It's filled with useful tips for parents, who are interested in their child's development — not just size, weight, and coordination but emotional and intellectual development as well.

Stockhausen said this is a new service, which Betty Griffin, who was the Friends president last year, suggested. Stockhausen was the volunteer who said she'd like to work on it.

So all last winter she and the rest of a committee pooled their resources and came up with a packet of three available booklets. The packet also includes a schedule of first-year development accomplishments outlined by M-Care

Novi Girl Scouts launch annual calendar sales

By JEANNE CLARKE
Special Writer

Novi Girl Scouts will be selling 1989 Girl Scout calendars through Wednesday, Oct. 12. Both the wall-sized calendars and pocket-planner calendars are priced at $2 apiece. Anyone who would like a calendar and is not contacted by a Girl Scout can place an order by calling Dyanna Martin at 478-5469.

Linda Burton reported that all troops will celebrate the birthday of Girl Scout Founder Juliette Lowe at a special party on Saturday, Oct. 22, from 1-3 p.m. Admission is 50 cents and girls should come dressed in costumes. More details about the party will be provided at the next leaders meeting at Village Oaks Elementary School on Tuesday, Oct. 18, at 7:30 p.m.

Registration for new troops will be held at the Village Oaks School on Thursday, Oct. 13, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. More information is available from Gwen Dodson at 349-9419.

Those working as organizers at the schools this year are Barb Michaels (Orchard Hills), Carol Ellring (Novi Woods), Valerie Flannery (Village Oaks) and Jan Kuzinski (Novi Meadows).

Troop 3842 will begin meeting shortly under the leadership of Kathy Langham, Gwen Dodson and Linda Parker. The troop includes 15 fifth graders who will meet after school at Novi Meadows. Upcoming plans include a trip in November to see the Peanutbutter Players present "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown."

NOVI MEADOWS PTO: The Novi Meadows PTO will hold its annual Family Fun Fest on Friday, Oct. 14, from 6-9 p.m. There will be games and prizes, a food shop, a bake shop and a sweet shop featuring penny candy. There also will be a raffle with prizes of a 10-speed bicycle, a camera and a Novi shopping spree.

Volunteers are needed to help with the Fest: call the school office at 344-8316 if you can help.

Linda Foreback has been elected PTO president for 1988-89. Other officers are Ron and Ellen Witchevsky, vice presidents; Terri Galdo, secretary; and Gwen Hazeka, treasurer.

Novi Highlights

9306. Aimee Langford, Janet Field and Jennie Champion will be the hostesses at the next business meeting which will be held in the Civic Center on Wednesday, Oct. 26, at 1 p.m. More information about the club is available by calling 478-9306.

INTERACT: Albert Hwang has been elected president of the Novi High School Interact club for 1988-89. Other new officers are William Riedel, vice president; Jodi Knaus, secretary; and Grace Yee and Seung-Won Hwang, treasurers.

NOVI SENIORS: Morey and Shirley Gellerman are the new members of the Novi Senior Citizens Club which is continuing to grow under the leadership of President Al Weiss. The club had 45 members in attendance at its last meeting.

NOVI INTERACT: The Novi Interact will be the only high school club in Michigan for several years. New clubs now have been started in Royal Oak and Ferndale.

BLUE STAR MOTHERS: The Novi chapter of Blue Star Mothers, which was chartered in 1942, celebrated 46 years of service with a luncheon at Carl's Family Restaurant in Plymouth. The ladies also welcomed their new president, Betty Priest, who had been vice president until the recent death of longtime president Winnie Dobeck.

The ladies recently visited the Ann Arbor Veterans Hospital to sponsor bingo games and donate used clothing, books and games to the residents. They have scheduled another visit to the VA Hospital on Oct. 13 when they will again be sponsoring bingo games and providing refreshments with an assist from Alice Pepper, the state hospital representative from Lansing.

PERSONALS: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ackerman, former Novi residents, were in town last week to visit friends and relatives, including their son and his family, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Goodale. The Ackermans now live in Kalkaska.

Mrs. Alice Tank attended the wedding of her granddaughter, Linda Roman, to Tom Hogan at the Gazette in Plymouth. She hosted a reception for friends and relatives at her home following the ceremony.

SIXGATE SQUADRON: The Sixgate Squadron of Civil Air Patrol (CAP) is looking for new members. Students in grades 6-12 are invited to join and learn more about the club's activities by attending one of the "Personals" section may call her at the same number.

Mr. and Mrs. William Needham of California are visiting the Tom Needham family. The William Needhams are members of a fast-growing group of retirees who travel around the country. They currently are staying at Walden Woods.

Several members of the Sixgate Squadron assisted at the Air Show at the Selfridge Air National Guard Base where they were assigned to work with the fire, security and medical departments. Participating seniors were Louis Gombasy, Sue Ann F'Geppe and Linda Staten.

Several seniors also attended the Great Lakes Region State College at Charter Air Force Base in Royal Oak. Louis Gombasy, Noel Gregory, Sue Ann F'Geppe and Linda Staten attended the special management program which included classes taught by university instructors and management executives in such areas as creative speech preparation, problem solving, grantsmanship, time management, human resources management, group dynamics, stress management and performance appraisals.

Quilting party

Local residents are invited to review a collection of more than 60 quilts which will be on exhibit at the Novi Methodist Church on Saturday, Oct. 15, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Displaying a few of the quilts which will be on display in the picture above are (left to right) Sandy McIntire, Jill Hoffman, Jan Christman and Ann Jacobs. Admission to the event is $1 and all proceeds are earmarked for United Methodist's Mission Outreach Fund. The exhibit also will include a bake shop and donut shop as well as a silent auction for four quilted pieces.

Some health plans are like hospital gowns: They never cover as much as you wish they would.

When it comes to health care, traditional medical insurance leaves a lot to be desired. Because they only cover a portion of your costs, Health Alliance Plan, on the other hand, is much more comprehensive. We offer complete coverage for virtually everything from pediatrics to geriatrics. And this extensive medical coverage is available from over 1,600 physicians at 23 medical centers, 18 hospitals and hundreds of individual doctor's office locations.

To find out how you can become a member, call 872-8100. You'll learn why Health Alliance Plan is such a great way to cover your medical needs. And that's the naked truth.

Novi library hosts programs for kids

Fall activities don't consist exclusively of chattering at football games and visiting apple orchards. Staff members at Novi Public Library are welcoming the autumn season by hosting several fun-filled children's programs.

The library's fall agenda begins with the popular annual Design-A-Plate program this Saturday, Oct. 8. Children will be given the opportunity to create a design with paper and markers that will result in a finished plastic plate in time for the holidays.

Also scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 29, is "Spooky Scary Story Day" for children in second grade and over. It begins at 1 p.m. and runs for about 45 minutes. No costumes are required for this program and registration is not needed.

Juday recalls Spartan victories

For Juday, things got worse before they got better. In 1964, U-M came into Spartan Stadium, trailed most of the game, but put on a flurry in the fourth quarter and pulled out an exciting 17-10 win. The Wolverines went on then to win the Big Ten and earn a trip to the Rose Bowl behind star quarterback Bob Timberlake.

"The '64 game sticks in my mind more than the other two games I played against Michigan," he recalled. "That may have been the lowest of the low points of my playing days — even lower than the loss in the Rose Bowl in '66. We were winning for most of the game but we lost it at the end on a trick pass that went for a touchdown."

"I left as low as I've ever left Spartan Stadium. Duffy just didn't lose to Michigan and that was the first time we lost to them since 1955."

But all the frustrations quickly disappeared on Oct. 9, 1965 in Ann Arbor as part of a perfect 10-0 regular season. The Spartans topped Michigan 24-7.

Juday: 'Duffy wasn't happy at all because he thought we outplayed them. He truly believed that a tie was like kissing your sister. That was the only tie game I ever played in and I remember leaving Michigan Stadium with a hollow feeling.'

"If the loss the year before was a low point, the win in Ann Arbor was definitely a highlight," Juday said.

With time running out and MSU ahead 17-7, many of the second string players were on the field. With less than 10 seconds left and time ticking away, Juday assumed the clock would run out so he started onto the field to get the game ball — as he did in many big games. But in all the excitement, a Spartan player called a timeout.

"Once you're on the field, you couldn't leave, so I stayed in there and called for a little dive play to the fullback to run out the clock," Juday said.

But All-American Bob Apisa popped through the line, broke a couple tackles and rambled about 35-yards for a touchdown.

"It was a tremendous touchdown run, but it was unnecessary and Duffy was upset," Juday said. "When Bob got to the endzone, he fired the ball three-quarters of the way up into the stands, he was so fired up. I remember thinking as I was holding for the extra point that the whole play never should have happened."

Juday said that the football rivalry between the two schools is probably even more heated today than it was when he played, but he also pointed out that most of the passion comes from the students and the alumni.

"I'm convinced the rivalry is more student- and alumni-generated, rather than player-generated," he said. "There may be some hatred in the stands but if you watch the end of the game on Oct. 8, there will be more players from each team pairing up and talking with each other than at any other game of the season. They know each other and a lot of them are friends — they are just wearing different color jerseys."

U-M's Wistert enjoyed wins in big games with Spartans

The 6-foot-3, 225-pound Wistert started to get national recognition the next season under rookie coach Bennie Osterban. Wistert was a two-way tackle, but excelled defensively. The 1948 intra-state game was held at newly expanded Macklin Field (later Spartan Stadium) on Sept. 25 and was a doozy. The Wolverines pulled out a 13-7 victory, but Wistert could tell Munn was turning around the program in East Lansing.

"I say Biggie brought excellence to State's football program, and you could see the difference after just one year," Wistert said. "I've never a very tough opponent my final two seasons."

In 1949 — Wistert's last as a collegiate player — the Wolverines edged Michigan State 7-3 in another war at Macklin. The victory was U-M's 10th straight in the series, but it marked the end of Michigan do to in a tie in the B o Schembecher years in the 1970s. Under Munn and later Hugh 'Duffy' Daugherty, the upstart Spartans began to dominate the series in the 1950s and 60s as Michigan won only three of the next 18 games.

"Those last two games I played in were very physical," Wistert recalled. "In the '49 game, I remember running downfield to cover a punt and seeing Michigan State's captain Bob McCurry out of the corner of my eye. I didn't think he'd be able to catch me but he did and he blindsided me with a tremendous block — I went down like an ox. I got up slowly and struggled to get up and back to the huddle but I didn't feel too bad because they carried him off on a stretcher."

Wistert admits that the Michigan-Michigan State rivalry has grown since his playing days. In the late 40s, Michigan State was just a small college and not yet a member of the Big Ten Conference.

"We really didn't look on the game as our biggest game of the season because it was a non-conference game," he said. "The rivalry is more keen now and has been since their entry into the Big Ten. I also think television has helped to make the game more of a big deal than when I played."

"Nowadays it's very intense — it's almost a bitter rivalry — because both sides are playing for bragging rights and pride."

U-M — 57 MSU — 27

Michigan leads the series 57-27-5 dating back to the late 1890s.

The first meeting between the two schools, on Oct. 12, 1898, was a 28-0 win for the Wolverines.

From the start of the series until 1949, Michigan went 33-10-3 including 14 in a row from 1916 to 1929.

Michigan State's first win came on Oct. 18, 1902. The score was 2-0.

There have been five ties in the series — in 1906, 1930, 1931, 1958 and 1963. The first three were scoreless ties.

Since MSU officially became a Big Ten member in the 1950-51 school year, the Spartans went 14-4 in the series, through 1969.

Under current coach Bo Schembecher, Michigan has a 15-4 mark against Michigan State.

Novi grad guides sailors' lives

Faulkner aids Navy chaplains

By FRED KLINKENBERGER special writer

Ten years ago, Richard A. Faulkner Jr. joined the Navy and became a quartermaster (QM).

QM's, in Navy vernacular, plot a ship's schedule and help steer that course.

Today, the 27-year-old Novi High School graduate helps shipmates plot a different course — the course of their lives. Faulkner is a religious programs specialist who assists the ship's chaplains aboard the battleship USS Iowa.

He is quick to emphasize that his assistance is administrative. He's not a self-styled preacher or religious zeal, a misconception about his career field held by people in and out of the Navy.

Faulkner readily admits there were many individuals who applied for the RP rating when it was established 10 years ago so they could use their positions as a personal ministry.

"I'll tell you what, when I got into it pretty early in its inception, I knew a lot of RP's who were real 'Bible-thumpin' guys," he said.

The "Bible-thumpers" didn't make it, however. They were phased out; they either left the rating or got out of the military.

"The RP has to be able to support everybody, regardless of what he (personally) believes," said Faulkner, the son of Novi Police Captain Richard and Irene Faulkner.

"If a guy walks in here and says, 'I hate God, I could care less about God, but I need to see a chaplain because I've got a problem...' and I'm one of those guys who says, 'Well, you're a heathen, etcetera,' then I can't serve that person."

Just what does a Navy religious programs specialist do?

"Only five percent of our work week is setting up for services," said Faulkner. "That is such a minor part of what we do. To take care of logistics, handle all the administrative workload, and take care of all those items they (chaplains) were so used to doing — acting as points of reference, referral assistance — all these things have been laid over to the RP's."

As the Navy became more aware of the increased counseling needs accompanying the entry of more women and single-parent families, the demands for Navy chaplains to offer spiritual and moral support to these groups took more of their time.

The RP rating was established to provide administrative support to chaplains.

"I should be making sure all the necessary reports are in, I should be projecting budgets and taking care of logistics," Faulkner emphasized, adding that chaplains no longer have the time to do their own administrative work and practice their ministries or provide counseling services, although many of them did until the RP rating was established.

Faulkner said he switched career fields from quartermaster to RP because he felt he lacked challenges while his second ship was undergoing an overhaul. That was eight years ago.

"I happened to be reading that the Navy was taking volunteers (for the religious programs specialist). I was kind of bored in the yards — we were doing rehab work but I wasn't getting to be a quartermaster — so I just put my request in."

"It came back approved. I didn't expect to get it because I had just come out of one 'A' school."

Faulkner also didn't expect to spend as much time in the Navy as he has. "My first enlistment was up in 1983, and we (both he and his wife) seriously considered my getting out and going back to school, but we put it off," he said.

"I had this opportunity for shore duty, so we went to shore duty. Then, I was supposed to get out in November, 1986, but I was up for orders that March," Faulkner explained.

Again, Faulkner and his wife had decided to get out of the Navy, but when his boss asked him what it would take to keep him in the Navy, Faulkner readily replied, "Battleship duty."

Now, with less than a year left on his enlistment, Faulkner is fairly sure he'll leave the Navy this time. "I want to finish my education and I want to teach high school biology."

He'll leave the service with a twinge of sadness, though.

"I'll be honest with you, I've got the sea in my blood. I really believe that," he said, reflecting on his undersea time. "I don't enjoy the separations, but I love being at sea, there's no doubt about that."

So, why is he getting out? He pauses before answering the question. "The separation is rough, that's one of the hardest factors."

Faulkner has some advice for those either already in the Navy or contemplating joining.

"Above everything else — no matter what happens to you, no matter what your experience — always be 100 percent loyal to those you serve. Then have fun, and you will have fun if you are loyal."

"If you're not loyal, if you're not a dedicated individual, if you're not committed to your cause, don't bother... just forget it because you're not going to be worth a nickel. "Loyalty is number one."

This story was provided to The News by Fred Klinkenberger, Jr. who is assigned to the Navy Public Affairs Center in Norfolk, Virginia.

Local folks enjoy exotic brews

By BOB NEEDHAM
staff writer

If you start the day with Maxwell House or Folgers, you may be missing a good thing.

Specialty coffees, popular for years, offer an alternative to the mass-market brews which continue to sell strongly in the area. People at two local stores specializing in coffee said the main reason for continued popularity is very simple — the gourmet stuff tastes better.

"There really is a difference. I personally taste the difference between regular coffee and gourmet coffee," said Diane Niess, manager of the Coffee Beanery store in Twelve Oaks Mall.

Elizabeth Burch, owner of Grandma Betty's Sweets and Treats on Center Street in Northville, said that while supermarket coffee brands may have their place, they also have their limitations.

"They're mass marketing. They have to buy in massive amounts," she said. And, as a result, "It's like having colored water in your mouth."

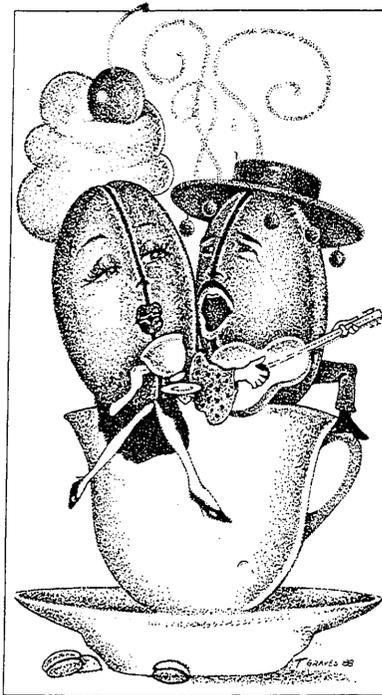

But you don't have to settle for colored water. And according to Niess, more and more people aren't. In fact, the Coffee Beanery chain now has 20 other stores in Michigan and Ohio, just 11 years after the first one opened at the Fairlane Town Center in Dearborn.

The Twelve Oaks store's business has dropped just a little recently because of a move within the mall, Niess said, but she and Burch both reported constant strong sales of specialty coffees.

Niess said the Northville/Novi area is the prime sort of market for gourmet coffee.

"We're looking for the middle to upper middle class, who are willing to try, and purchase," she said.

If someone is interested in becoming educated about coffee but doesn't know where to start, both Burch and Niess suggested the best way to learn is simply by going into the store and asking questions.

Sweets and Treats has a designated regular and decaf, feated variety of coffee brewed for sampling every day, and the Coffee Beanery may have five or six kinds going all at the same time. Although even tasting in the store may not be the best introduction. Said Niess: "Personally, I think coffee tastes best at home."

If you really want to get serious about coffee, you may want to invest in a better-quality coffee maker. Burch said some drip coffee makers are not good at all.

"One of the largest sellers is not a good coffee pot. For coffee to be a good coffee, the water has to be just below boiling," she explained.

The worst thing you can do to coffee is percolate it, Burch said, because the water boils and is sent through the grounds over and over.

A good coffee maker can run anywhere from around $13 to well over $100 for the state of the art. "There's quite a range," Niess said.

Both the Coffee Beanery and Sweets and Treats have several dozen varieties of coffee in stock from all over the world. Prices range from $5.50 a pound for the most inexpensive at Sweets and Treats to $27 a pound for Jamaican Blue Mountain at the Coffee Beanery.

"I think probably you start with something similar, but better than the supermarket kind," Burch said. From there, you may want to branch out in any direction.

"I have access to any coffee that's grown or made or sold," Burch added. "I taste any new coffee before I put it in the store. I can't see selling something to someone (without trying it first)," she said.

There are even a lot of options for those wanting gourmet decaffeinated coffee, both women agreed. Decafinated sales make up a relatively small, but still strong, share of their business at the local stores.

But the first step is just making the trip to the store and saying you want to learn about specialty coffee. The experts will help with the rest.

Wildcat defense muzzles Bulldogs, 27-0

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

It was supposed to be a key clash between two contenders for the Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) title — a tough test on the road for the undefeated Novi griders against a solid Brighton team. But the underachieving Bulldogs seemed didn't oblige at all, and Wildcat Mentor John Osborne couldn't be much happier about the outcome.

"Novi put on another awesome defensive display at Brighton on Sept. 30 — shutting out its third consecutive KVC opponent and registering a lopsided 27-0 win over the Bulldogs. It was the 'Cats 20th consecutive regular-season triumph. No KVC team has managed a win against Osborne's troops since October 1985."

"It was a great win," commented Osborne. "It was our best performance to date from an overall performance standpoint."

Novi jumped in front early, scored two touchdowns in each of the first two quarters and then pounded nails into the Brighton coffin with a third T.D. just before halftime.

It was the final blow as the 'Dogs rolled over and played dead in an uneventful second half.

"Our defense was really tough again," Osborne said. "We had great play up and down the line, and I give credit to my assistants Cole Rowcamp and Tad Kellepourey because they had the defense very prepared. Our defense really looks nice as a unit."

A bad snap on a punt attempt gave Novi an early break in the game and the ball at the Brighton 33. Three plays later, Scott Wladischkin caught a pass from Ken Hendrian and raced 27-yards for the score. It was the first of three touchdowns that Wladischkin would score on the night. Matt Koneda's kick made it 7-0 after one quarter.

In the second, the Wildcat offense bulled its way to an eight-play, 65-yard scoring drive. The big play was a 24-yard reverse by Craig Berry, which set up Wladischkin's 13-yard touchdown scamper and a 14-0 advantage.

Brighton continued to shoot itself in the foot offensively. Bulldog coach Bill Murray called for a fake punt at his own 44, but the strategy backfired as Novi took over with just a few minutes left. On the first play from scrimmage, Wladischkin raced 44-yards for his third touchdown of the half, and his 10th of the season.

"It was a great run by Scott," reported Osborne. "Almost everybody on the Brighton team had a shot at him, but he is so quick and elusive that he broke it all the way. It was nice because we got the upper hand right away, went ahead by three touchdowns and it was

Wildcats surprise Brighton runners

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

In attempting to calculate the outcome of the meet in advance, Bob Smith, coach of the Novi boys cross-country team, figured his team was in for a narrow 28-29 loss to Brighton.

But that was only on paper. When the two KVC teams actually squared off on Sept. 27 at Cass Benton Park, the Wildcats pulled out a 26-30 triumph, proving that wins are earned out on the course and not on paper.

"We threw a monkey wrench into the mock race," Smith said. "We match up well with Brighton, right down the line. There were two very evenly-matched teams, but I think we ran a smarter race than they did. We've learned how to race, not just how to run."

For the first time this season, Novi senior Rob Rasmussen didn't come in first in a dual meet. He was locked in a struggle with Brighton's Jim Hanners the entire race, but was out-kicked in the final hundred yards and had to settle for second. Hanner won the race in 16:44, while Rasmussen was three seconds behind.

"Rob was a little disappointed, but by the time the conference meet comes around, he'll probably be ahead of Hanner," Smith said. "Rob shaved 11 seconds off his personal best at Cass Benton, so his time was excellent. The two ran together the whole way, but Hanner just outspiced him at the end."

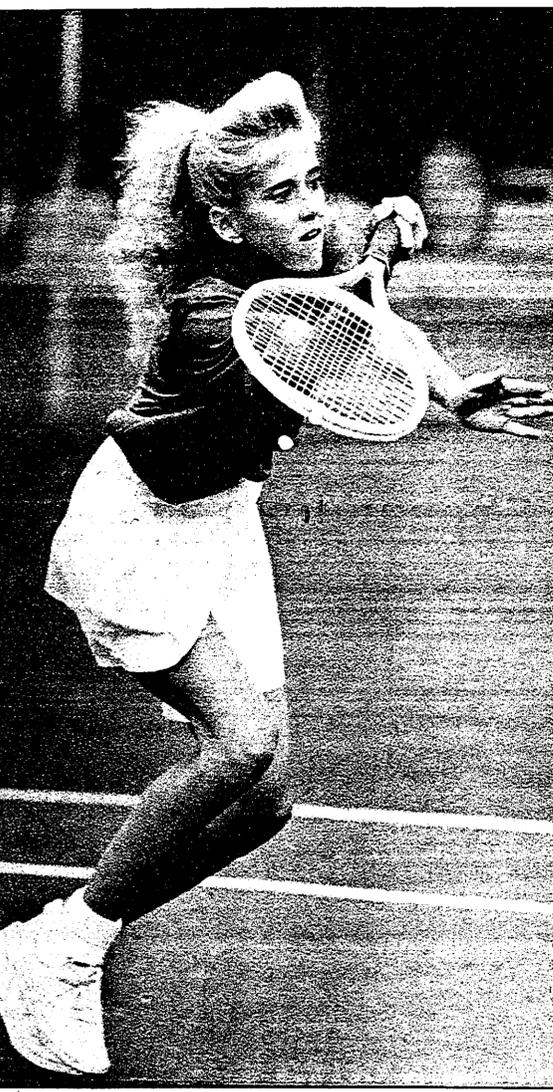

Bret Van Dyke won his confrontation with Todd Snyder of the Bulldogs and so did Rob Herman. Van Dyke (17:23) was third overall, Herman was fourth (17:33) and Snyder fifth (17:40).

"On paper, I looked like another close dual for third place between Van Dyke and Snyder, but Bret pulled it out and so did Herman," Smith explained.

The rest of the Novi runners to score points included Brian Malley (eighth place in 18:33), Rob Neil (ninth in 18:40), Yash Rohatgi (10th in 19:02) and Brian Murphy (13th in 19:14).

"Each team placed in waves, but we got our sixth man in before (Brighton) got their fifth and that was the big difference," Smith said. "It was a matter of depth in the middle of the line-up."

The Wildcats (3-1 in the KVC) are currently in third place — behind Lakeland and Milford.

Novi tankers stroke to victory over Garden City

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

Novi swim coach Rick Anderson didn't think Garden City posed any serious problems for his team on Sept. 29 so he used just about every swimmer on the roster — many of whom were unfamiliar to him and that the "Cats" still came out a 112-56 dual meet winner.

"I was happy," Anderson said. "I ended up being more of a fun meet than anything else for our experienced kids. We had a lot of kids swim in a lot of different events because I didn't think we'd have any problem winning it."

The Wildcats' only multiple winner in the individual events was Ellen Surowiec who stroked her way to first-place finishes in both the 100-yard freestyle (1:00.03) and the 100 backstroke (1:11.55).

The other winners in individual events were Kristen Shaw in the 200 freestyle (2:29.26), Beth Surowiec in the 100 butterfly (1:04.30), Peggie

Balagna in the 500 freestyle (1:21.29) and Shana Cox in the 100 breaststroke (1:34.49).

Novi's other two victories came in the relays. The 200 medley relay team of Ellen Surowiec, Hayley Hoops, Beth Surowiec and Gwen Rowlands posted a winning time of 2:03.21, while the 400 freestyle relay team of Rowlands, Julie Sommers, Shelly Wasco and Beth Surowiec touched the wall first with a time of 3:53.08.

The seconds included Heather Morgan in the 200 IM (3:02.99), Sommers in the 100 butterfly (1:08.89), Tiffane Lenzi in the 100 freestyle (1:14.84), Balagna in the 200 freestyle (2:31.39), Nicole Pargolf in the 500 freestyle (6:58.00) and Hops in the 100 backstroke (1:15.96).

Posting third-place finishes for Novi were Lori Silverman in the 100 freestyle (1:36.42), Wasco in the 50 butterfly (1:10.01), Jackie Young in the 500 freestyle (7:51.42) and Morgan in the 100 backstroke (1:26.88).

FENTON RELAYS: Novi placed seventh out of 12 teams at the Fenton Relays on Oct. 1. The 'Cats took first place honors in three relay races and scored 154 points — 116 behind first place Northville.

"It was a good meet," Anderson said. "We got some firsts and set some records, and there were good teams there like Northville, Flint Powers and Grand Blanc."

Rowlands, Sommers, Ellen Surowiec and Beth Surowiec combined efforts to win the 400 freestyle relay. Their time of 3:56.51 set a new meet record.

The other wins came in the 500 freestyle relay, Balagna, Sommers, and Beth Surowiec qualified in the 100 backstroke.

Beth Surowiec and Rowlands teamed up to win the crescendo in 4:59.66 — also a new meet record, while Ellen Surowiec, Sommers, Balagna and Rowlands registered won the 200 free relay with a clocking of 1:49.98.

"The whole team actually swam well at Fenton," Anderson said. Novi (2-0 overall) will host highly-regarded Livonia Churchill next Tuesday (Oct. 11). So far this season, Gwen Rowlands and Beth Surowiec are the only two Wildcats to reach state qualifying cuts. Rowlands has the fastest 100 and 200-yard freestyle times in the state as of last weekend and has qualified in both events. Rowlands also has a state cut in the 50 freestyle. Surowiec has qualified in the 100 backstroke.

demonizing for (Brighton).
Novi added six more points early in the fourth quarter. The 66-yard march took 13 plays and culminated with a six-yard scoring run by Berry. The big play in the drive was a fake punt by Berry on an audible.

Brighton managed to threaten once in the second half, getting down to the Novi nine before linebacker Steve Tasman squelched the threat with a fumble recovery.

"This indicates that we are a legitimate contender (for the KVC title), and we may be closing in on the favorite position," Osborne said.

Wladischkin had another outstanding game as he rushed for 31 yards on just 10 carries. Berry added 88 yards, and fullback Joel Scheffer chipped in with 60.

In the passing department, Hendrian was 5-of-12 for 81 yards.

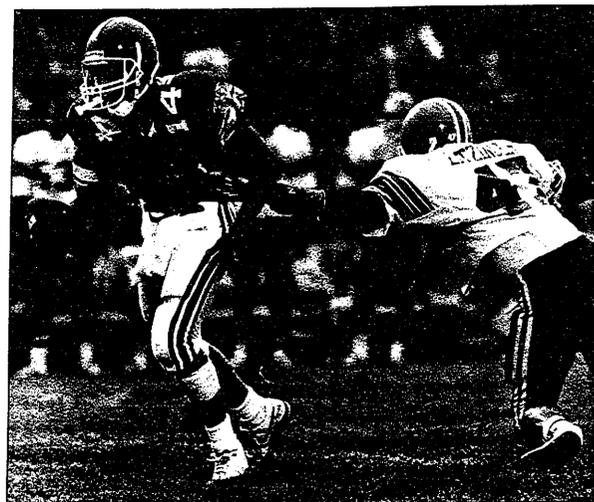

On defense, the front four had an outstanding game, led by Todd Gronowski (five solo tackles, seven assists) and Mark Davis (four solos, five assists). Tasman also had a fine game with three solos, five assists, a fumble recovery and an interception.

The Wildcats rolled up 334 yards of total offense while holding the Bulldogs to just 96 — only 27 of them on the ground.

"I expect our team to perform well and for the most part we did," Osborne said. "We've had a problem with offensive breakdowns earlier this season and even though we still have some things to improve, we are getting better. We had some nice, long drives and that's encouraging."

"The intensity we played with — especially defensively — was one of the most impressive things about the game. We executed our game plan very well."

Novi (5-0 overall and 3-0 in the KVC) will host Howell tomorrow evening (Friday, Oct. 7) in the 1988 Homecoming game. With key conference showdowns against Hartland and South Lyon to follow, Osborne is concerned that his team will have a mental letdown.

"Howell has certainly done well this season," he said. "They've been respectable, and they are not going to be easy to beat. Sometimes concentration suffers in a homecoming game and we can't afford to let that happen."

Scoreboard

KVC: Girls dominant in rankings

The Kensington Valley Conference (KVC) is dominating cross-country again in the State of Michigan. The Michigan Interscholastic Track Coaches Association has ranked the Brighton girls team second in the state.

Being ranked among the top teams in the state is nothing new for the Brighton girls, but some other KVC teams have been climbing up the cross-country rankings too.

Milford's boys are ranked No. 6 in the state, and Lakeland is among the honorable mention teams for the boys. The Redskins finished second behind second-ranked Redford Catholic Central at the Royal Oak Shine Invitational.

Despite winning their first three games of the season and outscoring opponents 61-14, the Novi football team didn't get much respect from the Detroit media.

But after a 36-0 win over Lakeland — the Wildcats' 15th consecutive regular season victory — sports writers from the Detroit papers couldn't help but take notice. Novi is now rated No. 10 in the Detroit News Metro North rankings and is being picked as one of the four state playoff qualifiers in Region II, even though the season is just half over.

The only other unbeaten KVC team — South Lyon — was ranked fourth in the Metro West list.

In the battle of KVC unbeatens, the Brighton boys soccer team knocked off injury-riddled South Lyon 3-0 last week on the Bulldogs' field.

Ladycat cagers continue search for first victory

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN staff writer

The losses continue to pile up. And the frustration builds and builds.

Just eight games into the 1988 season, the Novi girls basketball squad is winless and at the bottom of the standings in the Kensington Valley Conference, and there's no indication that the situation will improve.

Following lopsided losses to Howell and Brighton last week, the Ladycats are now 0-4 against conference opponents and have yet to take on solid teams like Milford and South Lyon.

Novi played some aggressive defense in the first half against Brighton on Sept. 29, but never seemed to get untracked offensively and dropped a 55-27 decision to the Bulldogs.

"We had a hard time scoring; no doubt about it," admitted Debbie Harris, coach of the Wildcat cagers. "The Brighton kids played well. After we played so well defensively, I thought we had a chance. But in the second half, (Brighton) went crazy and our kids just didn't respond."

The Bulldogs outscored Novi in all four quarters, but were in front by only six (17-11) at halftime. But a 16-4 advantage by Brighton in the third quarter sent the Bulldogs in front 33-15. And a 22-12 Brighton scoring advantage in the fourth quarter wrapped it up.

"We had trouble against their full court press," commented Harris. "That was the thorn in our paw. Especially in the second half, the press rattled us and that's when they took control. We adjusted, but Brighton played a more physical game than we did."

"We seem to be playing not to lose instead of playing to win."

No Novi player scored in double figures. Kathy MacQueen had a team-high seven. Jenny Krups led the Bulldogs with 16, and Amy Spinalde drew raves from Harris for her pressure defense. MacQueen also led the team with seven rebounds.

Brighton upends linksters

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN staff writer

All season long, the Novi linksters have been competing and succeeding because somebody always seems to rise to the occasion when others faltered.

But it didn't happen in a key KVC showdown against Brighton on Sept. 27, and the Cats dropped a heart-breaking three-stroke decision — their first conference setback in three tries.

Novi's poorest outing of the season, according to Coach John Peace, Steve Megesi and Brent Norton shared team scoring honors with a pair of unimpressive 45s. Brian Malloy (45) and Jim Dillon (47) rounded out the team's top four scorers.

"It was the first time we shot real poor all year," Peace said. "We've been shooting the back nine at Salem Hills real well this season, but this time nobody broke out of the pack to give us a lift. It was a series of weak rounds by everybody."

"It was a day where we went out and let the bad holes get the best of us," continued the Novi golf mentor. "Instead of keeping the ball in play, the kids were trying impossible shots. It was so disappointing because we've been playing much better than that."

It was Brighton's first KVC win of the season, but Peace feels his Wildcats handed the victory away by scoring about eight strokes over their season average of 170.

"It was a day where our average as a team, we would have won easily, but we didn't and that's why it was so discouraging."

"But I think the kids will bounce back," he added. "They won't give up — they aren't that kind."

OAKLAND COUNTY MEET: Ironically, the poor performance against Brighton came a day after Novi performed very well at the 44-team Oakland County Meet at Pontiac Country Club.

The Wildcats placed 13th overall with a total of 340 strokes — 36 behind first-place Bloomfield Hills Lahser.

Ladycats no match for Brighton

Novi News/CHRIS BOYD

Powerful Bulldogs demolish thinclads

By NEIL GEORGHEGAN
staff writer

When you're going up against one of the best teams in the state, it's beneficial to have a full compliment of healthy runners.

But unfortunately for Coach Norm Norgren and his Novi girls cross-country team, three key runners were absent with injuries when the Wildcats were matched against Brighton on Sept. 27 at Cass Benton Park.

Beating the Bulldogs would have been a huge upset, but without Kerri Sica, Amy Arhens and Patty Corbin in the line-up, it was an impossible task. Brighton went on to post a 20-39 victory and hand the Wildcats their first KVC loss of the season.

"(Brighton) is a good solid squad, and we didn't run very well," commented Norgren. "If we'd have had all our girls running, and everybody ran well, it would have been a lot closer. But anytime you go up against a good team, it's good for experience purposes. Our girls can see how good the competition is and what they have to do to get to that level."

Novi's top finisher was Jennie Galland (21:24) — who placed third overall — but remnants of a cold slowed her down considerably. The rest of the Novi contingent to finish the race were Cherie Stewart in sixth (21:45), Lisa Heath in seventh (22:11), Tony Sturm in 13th (24:41), Deanna Hayden in 16th (26:35), Jackie Phillips in 17th (27:14) and Lean Melosvick in 18th (28:02).

"Jennie was a full minute slower than she was a week earlier on the same course, so she was pretty ill when she ran," Norgren said. "These colds have been hitting everybody, and we can't seem to shake them. But to be 3-1 in the conference at this stage is very good. The efforts by the girls' have been very good and I'm pleased."

With Milford up next on the schedule (Oct. 11), Novi's task in the KVC isn't going to get much easier.

Wildcats of the Week

STEVE TASHMAN

TODD WISE

There have been many heroes on the defensive side of the football for the unbeaten Novi griders this season, but one of the most underrated has been senior linebacker Steve Tashman. In a 27-0 win over Brighton on Sept. 30, Tashman had a fine game with three solo tackles, five assists and two turnovers. In addition to picking off his second pass of the season, Tashman ended the Bulldogs' only scoring threat by recovering a fumble inside the Novi 10. The Wildcat defense has allowed just 14 points in five games so far and players like Tashman are the reason for such success. That's why he is a 'Wildcat of the Week' accolades this week.

It's not hard to tell which player is the top penalty kick converter on the Novi soccer team this season. The Wildcats turned back two Kensington Valley Conference opponents last week, and the game-winning goals in both matches were scored on penalty kicks by senior Todd Wise. In a 3-2 win over South Lyon on Sept. 27, Wise got the game winner with nine minutes left on the clock. And in a 3-1 triumph over Milford on Sept. 29, Wise pulled off the same feat at the 20-minute mark of the second half. Thanks in part to his heroics, Novi has a 7-2-1 overall record, and Wise has 'Wildcat of the Week' accolades this week.

Goggles help stop eye injuries

By BRUCE WEINTRAUB
staff writer

Next to his patented "sky hook," Los Angeles Lakers basketball star Kareem Abdul-Jabbar is probably best known for wearing goggles to protect his eyes.

Following Abdul-Jabbar's lead, other sports stars such as Roy Tarpley, Eric Dickerson and James Worley have donned goggles as a method of protecting their eyes.

But are goggles a necessary precaution to eye protection? Dr. Arnold Sokol of the Novi Vision Clinic said the type of eye protection used by an athlete depends on the sport.

Sokol said all individuals participating in racketball should use goggles not only to protect their eyes but also to prevent their cheekbones from being fractured.

He added that baseball players should wear some form of shaded lens to protect their eyes against glare and dust.

Dr. Martin Levin of the Northville Vision Clinic said people do not need to wear goggles during athletic activities in most cases.

"People who do not wear goggles during athletic activities are not significantly more vulnerable to an eye injury," Levin said.

He agreed with Sokol that individuals should wear goggles while playing racketball "because in many cases being hit in the eye by a racketball can cause much internal hemorrhaging."

Levin said he also strongly recommends that individuals wear protective eye gear when playing tennis and hockey. He said particularly in hockey, being hit in the eye by a puck, stick or elbow can cause real damage.

Levin noted swimmers do not necessarily need to wear goggles. "Chlorine can be irritating but it is not debilitating," he said. He added that swimmers who wear glasses can obtain prescription goggles from their eyecare specialist.

As for contact lens wearers, Sokol said individuals who normally wear contact lenses can continue using them during sporting activities, especially if they are soft lenses.

"Soft lenses don't fall off as easily as hard lenses," he said.

Novi News/CHRIS BOYD

Protective eyewear is becoming a common sight on prep gridirons

Levin said in most cases soft lenses will not detach from the eye because of the way the lens conforms to the eye and the large amount of eye area it covers.

He added that there have been cases where contact lenses protected eyes by acting as a barrier to the eye getting scratched.

Sokol said while soft contact lenses are excellent to wear during any sport, he does not recommend wearing hard lenses "because they come out too easily."

Sokol said people who wear glasses should purchase a special pair of athletic glasses which have safety frames and polycarbonate lenses.

"Regular glasses are subject to easy breakage," Sokol said. "This type of athletic lens provides maximum durability while it protects eyes."

Levin said athletic glasses are usually constructed with hard rubber frames and break-hinges, which release rather than snap in half.

He noted the polycarbonate material is a strong enough plastic to withstand the impact of a bullet. "With the polycarbonate lens there is less of a risk of a lens cracking in half."

In addition to athletic glasses, Levin said it is a good idea to use a strap on the frame to "keep the glasses in place during sporting activities."

Alzheimer's disease affects millions

By JUDITH BEHN, M.D.
special writer

Alzheimer's disease (AD) is a progressive degenerative disease of the brain that results in impaired thinking and behavior. The cause is unknown.

AD was first described in 1906 by neurologist Alois Alzheimer, but widespread public awareness of the disorder has only come about recently. AD is common; at least 2.5 million adults are affected in the United States.

Progressive memory loss is the most obvious feature of AD. Initially, the symptoms may be subtle. With time an individual becomes more confused and agitated and develops marked behavior changes. Eventually patients become unable to care for themselves. The time course varies, but the average time from diagnosis to death is five years.

It is important that the diagnosis of AD be established. Currently there is not a specific test. AD produces characteristic changes in brain tissue, but this can only be determined after death. The diagnosis is made when the signs and symptoms of AD are clearly present and other causes of dementia have been excluded.

A variety of metabolic and neurologic disorders and even depression can cause altered mental function.

A person suspected of having AD should have a physical and neurological exam and blood work. Additional tests, such as a brain CAT scan or an electroencephalogram, may help to establish the diagnosis.

There is not yet a cure for AD. Medications can control the agitation and behavior changes, but do not halt the progression of the disease. Thus, a diagnosis of AD means significant changes can occur in the family structure. The individual with AD suffers loss of independence and family assumes new responsibilities.

Often the spouse or one of the children takes on the care of the person with AD. This can be an emotionally and physically demanding task. Sharing the responsibilities among different family members and utilizing community resources will ease the burden.

Community services are available. A visiting nurse can provide instruction in giving medication, dealing with maintenance and other potential problems. A home health aid can assist with bathing, feeding and transport. Day care may be available to allow the care-giver an occasional day off.

The Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association (ADRA) is a voluntary organization that provides education and blood pressure control classes. They will be held weekly from 7-9 p.m. at the Oakland County Health Division's South office in Southfield on Oct. 18 and 25 and Nov. 1, 8, 15 and 22. All classes are free but pre-registration is required. For more information call 424-7042.

Fitness facilities: Schoolcraft College's modern physical education facilities are available for community use on Thursdays and Sundays. On Sundays, the entire physical education facility will be available from 1-5 p.m. for the Sunday Health Club. Members of the club can take advantage of a full-competition swimming pool with a separate diving area, six racquetball courts, volleyball and basketball courts, a weight training room and muscle-soothing saunas. Schoolcraft College is located on Haggerty Road between Six and Seven Mile in Livonia. For more information call 591-6400, extension 540.

Open swimming: The Novi High School swimming pool is open for general use every Tuesday and Thursday night through Dec. 2. Open swimming runs from 7:30 p.m. and lap swimming is available from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. There's a fee of 50 cents per person (senior citizens swim free of charge). Collector's Cherry Celebrating 25 years of Thomasville craftsmanship.

Collector's Cherry by Thomasville has been America's favorite furniture choice since it was introduced a quarter century ago. Whether you choose the formal elegance of the Collector's Cherry Double Pedestal Table, Chippendale Chairs and large Tracery China or the charm of the Corner Cabinet and Queen Anne Table and Chairs . . . the craftsmanship is unmistakably Thomasville.

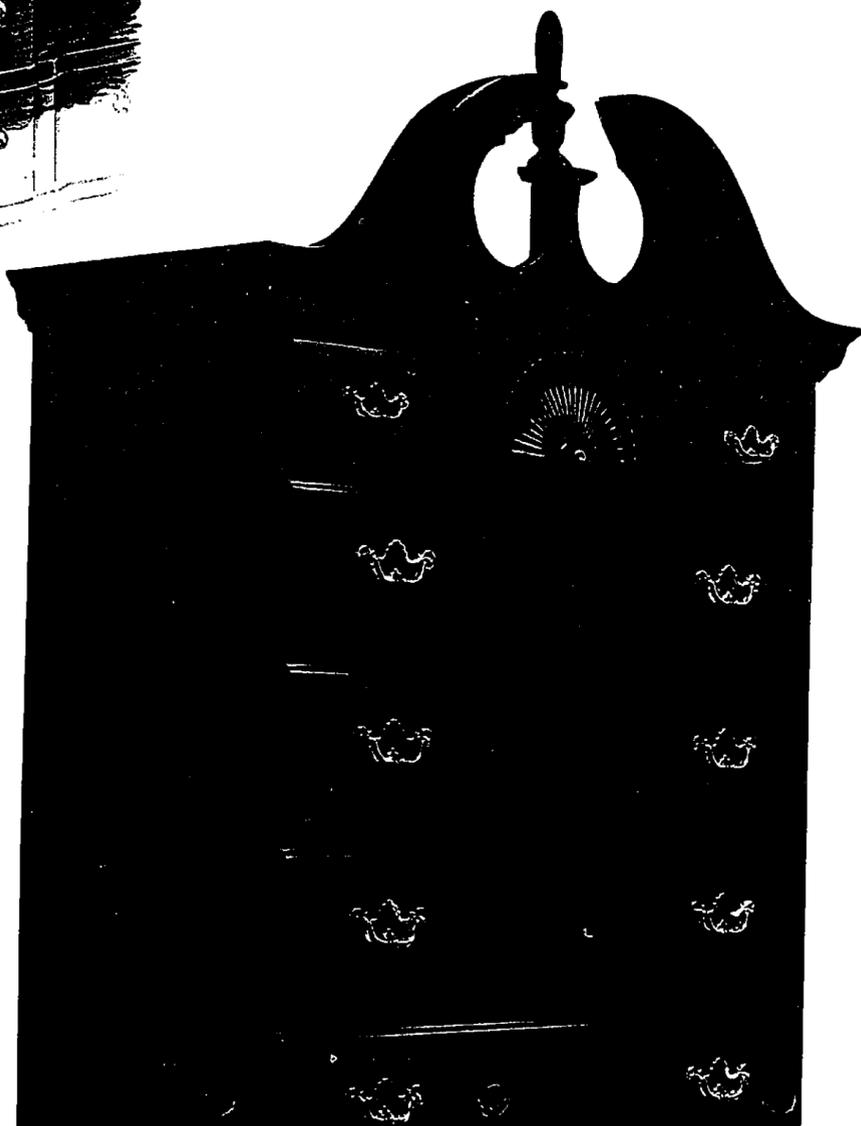

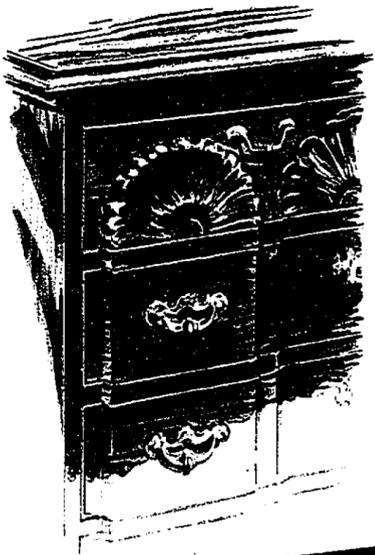

The gracious lines of the Collector's Cherry Oval Cocktail Table and the classic Chippendale styling of the Drawer End Table reflect the 18th century design heritage which is still as popular today as it was over two hundred years ago. Collector's Cherry occasional tables add enduring beauty to any living area.

A Classic Celebration!

Join us in celebrating the 25th Anniversary of Collector's Cherry by Thomasville . . . a celebration of style, craftsmanship and classic American design. Twenty-five years ago, Thomasville created this collector's choice of the finest in 18th century furniture design. Thomasville's master craftsmen captured the classic styling and authentic details, including scroll pediments, graceful cabriole legs, intricately carved shell motifs, and brass hardware.

Each piece of Collector's Cherry is expertly crafted from rich cherry woods and veneers, then hand-rubbed to a satin luster through a painstaking 21-step finishing process which brings the warm tones of the cherry wood to life. In honor of this Silver Anniversary Celebration, Thomasville has created a special Commemorative Limited Edition Silver Chest, complete with a beautifully embossed and numbered in-drawer registration plate and personalized certificate of authenticity. The classic lines of this fine commemorative piece, with its versatile lowboy design, gently curved legs, and brass hardware, make it a flattering showcase for your precious sterling silverware. Come visit our Thomasville Gallery today and see this special Commemorative Silver Chest. It will only be available for a limited time.

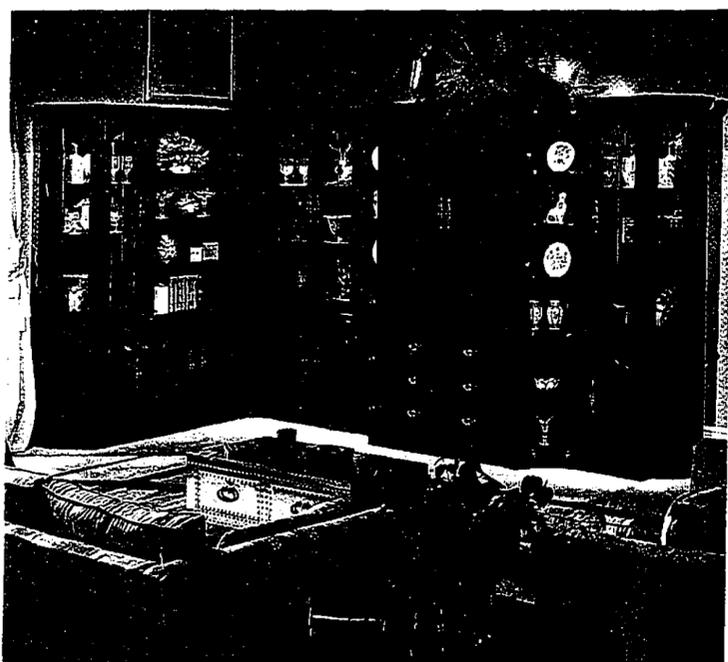

While at our Gallery, you can browse through completely accessorized room settings of Collector's Cherry by Thomasville. The dramatic cabinetry and beauty of the Collector's Cherry Highboy, shown below, is a must to see. Come celebrate with us and capture the charm of early America with a Collector's Cherry addition for your home.

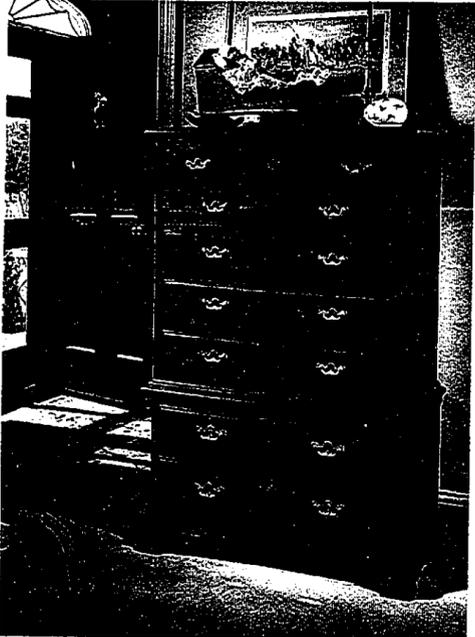

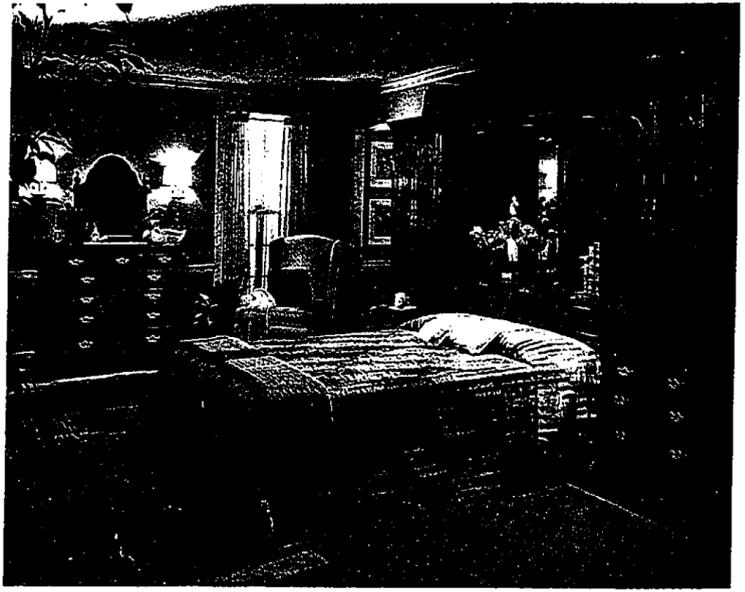

*Celebrate with a
for your home.*

A Collector's Cherry Wall System with its classic 18th century design, will become the focal point of your room. Add the Home Electronics Center for a masterful blend of beauty and function. Behind the sliding pocket doors, shelves are designed to accommodate any system of audio-video components and accessories, including most 27" TV's. For classic versatility, choose the Butler's Tray Table with its four brass-hinged leaves and superbly matched cherry veneers. The High Poster Bed is impressive with its scrolled pediment headboard and carved posts.

Breathtaking Collector's Cherry bedrooms combine the beauty of the past while accommodating your storage needs of today. The stately Chest-on-Chest with seven spacious drawers and brass hardware is a handsome addition to any bedroom. The Storage Headboard system is the epitome of functionality. A Tilting Vanity Mirror adds a charming touch to the seven drawer Dressing Chest. The Cannonball Headboard and Footboard feature sweeping curves and turned posts topped with richly grained cannonball finials.
