Police expect arrest in heist

Novi police believe they are close to making an arrest in conjunction with the theft of almost $275,000 worth of diamonds from the J.L. Hudsons store at Twelve Oaks Mall. Novi Police Detective Jack Grubb said he anticipates an arrest shortly in the case pending receipt of additional investigative information from the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI).

Grubb also reported that $245,000 worth of the stolen diamonds have been recovered.

The theft occurred on Oct. 20, 1987, when a shipment of 57 loose diamonds and 27 gold mountings was received via Federal Express at the shipping dock at Twelve Oaks Mall.

Grubb noted that such shipments are unusual and that the package has been mislabeled. He said valuable shipments are usually delivered directly to the mall security office.

As a result of being mislabeled, the package was delivered to the wrong department at J.L. Hudsons. Store officials noted that the package was missing almost immediately.

Grubb said police subsequently launched an extensive search of the J.L. Hudsons' store and interviewed everyone who might have been involved with the disappearance of the diamonds.

On Oct. 27, seven days after the diamonds had turned up missing, Hudsons received a package through the mail containing 47 of the original 57 loose diamonds and 12 of the 27 gold mountings. The recovered property was valued at $245,000, leaving almost $28,000 worth of diamonds still missing.

Working in conjunction with the FBI, Grubb said several prime suspects have been identified. He said the recovered diamonds are currently in the possession of the FBI crime lab for analysis of finger prints. Federal authorities also are analyzing the handwriting on the package in which the diamonds were mailed back to the store, Grubb said.

Novi officials weigh options for park funds

By PHIL GINOTTI
 staff writer

Some clear favorites are emerging in the wake of the Parks and Recreation Needs Assessment report, unveiled last week in council chambers.

Mayor Matthew Quinn has already endorsed a funding alternative, while several city council members this week hinted that they have preliminary personal favorites.

The Needs Assessment report detailed four possible funding alternatives designed at raising approximately $2.4 million for parks and recreation program improvement and land acquisition.

They are:
 □ Increasing the millage rate for parks and recreation by a half-mill to one full mill. A millage increase would have to be approved by voters.

□ A bond issue of $3.4 million, which would also require voter approval.

□ Increasing general fund transfers to parks and recreation.

□ Earmarking state mid-decade revenue sharing monies to parks and recreation expansion.

The council could opt for one of the proposals, or a combination of several.

Quinn, in an interview Friday, said he favored the half-mill millage increase.

"Out of the alternatives they gave us, I would be in favor of increasing the Parks and Recreation Department millage from the present one-half mill to one mill," Quinn said in an interview with the Novi News. "That, of course, takes a vote. I am going to try and get that organized to the extent of getting it on the November ballot."

Planners okay CIP proposals

Improvements to Eight Mile and implementation of a Sidewalk Linkage Program will be priority items in the recommendations of the Novi Planning Commission are approved by the city council.

City planners settled on a revised draft of Novi's first six-year Capital Improvements Program, which will now go to the council for approval.

The planning commission is required by state law to prepare annually a Capital Improvements Program (CIP), which amounts to a six-year forecast of priority recommendations for the use of the city administration.

The revision represents the final draft of the 1987-88 CIP after December 1988.

Novi officials use the CIP as a guide along with the city master plan to avoid duplication of effort, allow phased projects in an orderly sequence and coordinate capital needs between departments.

Debate among commissioners

during last week's special session concerned whether or not the CIP was in effect a "wish list" of projects to be done in the six years or, as suggested by Planning Commission Chairperson Charles Kureth, a "fiscally responsible document."

Kureth charged that the CIP should contain only projects the city could feasibly complete in that time period. "For it to be of value, it has to be reasonably expected."

One addition the commissioners made before approval was inclusion of the Eight Mile upgrading, Commissioner Kathy McLallen was the project's biggest advocate.

"We can not wait to think about (adding) it. We have to work on our border roads ... statistics show that is our worst road," she said, explaining that if commissioners had waited to add the project to the next CIP, the city would have to wait a full year before putting in a request to Oakland County for matching funds.

Trustees study boardsmanship

By AMY ROSA
 staff writer

A little education never hurt anyone — not even the members of Novi's board of education.

The seven board members plus four administrators gathered last Saturday for a four-hour workshop on boardsmanship, which was essentially a review of roles and responsibilities for all board members in the state of Michigan.

Board President Michael Meyer said the timing of the workshop was appropriate since the board has two relatively new trustees: Sandra Thornton, who was elected last June, and Julie Abrams, who was selected to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Sharon Pelchat. Abrams will have to run in the June election to retain her seat on the board.

Meyer: 'If you want something to continue being good you have to take a look at the basics.'

After praising the board for its current work, Meyer said, "If you want something to continue being good you have to take a look at the basics."

Also attending were Superintendent Robert Piwko, Assistant Superintendent William Barr, Director of Special Programs Rita Traynor and Director of Special Services John Swallow.

The district hired a consulting team from the Michigan Association of School Boards — Richard Funk, Ph.D., and his wife Kara — to discuss the board's legal roles and offer suggestions for running effective board meeting and writing policies. Cost was $140.

The Funks each have a long history of educational boardsmanship service. Mrs. Funk has been a board member in another district for 10 years, seven of them as board president.

After listening to each trustee and administrator give their visions for the district, Mrs. Funk remarked that it wouldn't hurt to learn as much about each other as possible. "You cannot know each other too well," she said, encouraging social settings and gatherings.

By the same token she reminded them that any time a quorum of four is present, the potential for violating the state's Open Meetings Act exists.

Mrs. Funk remarked that Novi's board of education was "very professional" in comparison with other boards they have come into contact with.

Car takes plunge into Walled Lake

A Wixom driver and her passenger escaped serious injury Monday night when their car broke through the ice on Walled Lake.

Lisa Thomas, 18, was reportedly driving on the frozen surface of Walled Lake Monday night when her 1981 AMC Spirit hit a thin spot, causing the front end of the car to lurch forward through the ice.

The accident occurred at approximately 9:30 p.m.

Thomas and an unidentified passenger were able to get out of the car and get help before it broke through the ice and became submerged in Walled Lake.

Novi and Walled Lake police responded to the incident, but no reports were available by press time Tuesday.

Thomas received a cut above her eye when she struck the steering wheel. She received six stitches.

After the accident, the two walked to a nearby home to call for help. The car broke loose and became momentarily submerged underneath the ice when a wrecker attempted to free it.

Thomas, when contacted about the incident, said the car was a "total loss."

City utilizes road funds to buy Aladdin building

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

The City of Novi will use road funds to purchase a building in the Town Center district, but city officials say the move will pay for itself in the long run.

In October, city officials voted to enter into a land contract with the owners of the Aladdin Tool facility at 2320 Novi Road. The building is located south of Grand River Avenue.

A purchase price of $270,000 was agreed on at that time, with payments spread out through the land contract.

Exact details of the agreement aren't yet available.

The city will lease out the structure for 1-3 years, with the ultimate goal of razing it to make room for a proposed road which will encircle the city's Town Center district. The Town Center district is situated at the four quadrants of the Grand River/Novi Road intersection.

City Manager Edward Kriewall

said the city negotiated for several months in closed sessions then unveiled a land contract agreement in October. The agreement was not covered by The Novi News at that time.

The city then secured a waiver from the Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) on Dec. 6, allowing the Aladdin structure to be used as a warehouse. On Dec. 12, the city council approved allowing the administration to advertise for bidders to lease the facility.

ZBA approval was needed because warehousing uses are not permitted in the Town Center district.

City purchaser Carol Kalinovic said the city is seeking a lessee to take a one-year deal, with an option to renew every six months for the subsequent two years. The city is currently collecting bid offers at the Civic Center.

Kalinovic said advertisements were recently placed, offering the Novi Road structure as a warehouse. She said it will likely be several weeks before any lease agreement is finalized. No offers have yet been tendered.

Kriewall said the purchase will pay dividends in the future and that the city is likely to recover the road monies it puts into the project.

"We had a chance to purchase it now, rather than having to acquire it later with costs of condemnation and everything else," Kriewall said. "The monies will be stretched out over time."

He said city funds should be recouped through a special assessment district, when more properties in the southeast quadrant develop along the Town Center theme.

The Aladdin structure sits directly in the path of a future planned entry point to the Town Center district.

The city's acquisition of the Aladdin Tool facility is not the first time that dedicated road monies have been used for a purpose other than roads. The city is also using road funds to pay bond debt on a Department of Public Works garage.

Board members appointed to new school committees

By AMY ROSA
staff writer

Two new committees were appointed by the Novi Board of Education during its last meeting of 1988. Each committee is comprised of two board members.

Trustees Robert Schram and Julie Abrams were named to an Appointments Committee, while Trustees Raymond Beyers and Sandra Thornton were appointed to a Communications and Perceptions Committee.

Board President Michael Meyer said he asked the four if they would be willing to serve prior to the Dec. 22 meeting. In response to favorable responses, the board made the appointments.

Trustees Joan Daley and Stephen Hitchcock have been serving on a committee to establish a policy for out-of-district busing.

The Appointments Committee is charged with reviewing how the board makes appointments to the various committees of the district, said Meyer. Schram and Abrams will recommend a "clearer" policy for future board appointments, he said.

Beyers and Thornton have been given the chance to create a policy "to enhance communications" and "keep the lines of communication open to the people," explained Meyer.

The creation of the committee is in direct response to Thornton's prior request for improved community relations between the board and school district residents, Meyer added.

Both new committees and the Out-of-District Busing Committee will make policy recommendations to the board at its first meeting in April. At that time, said Meyer, the public will have the opportunity to give its input on the matters.

"Every effort will be made to allow for what needs to be heard," he said.

The board is tentatively scheduled to act on the committees' recommendations at its second meeting in April.

Suspect arrested for area break-ins

By PHILIP JEROME
managing editor

Police believe they have solved a series of break-ins in Novi, Northville and other suburban communities with the arrest of a Novi man.

Daniel Kulvelis, 32, of 21710 Rathione subdivision was arraigned on charges in the 52nd District Court on Dec. 15.

Kulvelis is charged with three counts of stealing and retaining without consent a financial transaction device, two counts of receiving and concealing stolen property in excess of $100 and one count of possession of stolen property less than $100.

Kulvelis stood mute on arraignment and a "not guilty" plea was entered on his behalf. A preliminary examination date was scheduled for Jan. 6, but has been postponed at the request of the defendant's attorney and has not been rescheduled.

Novi Police Detective Ralph Fluhart said Kulvelis was developed as a prime suspect in a rash of breaking-and-enterings which occurred in the Conenara Hills subdivision last August.

Fluhart reported that he contacted the Michigan State Police and arranged to have Kulvelis followed by an undercover surveillance team.

The surveillance team picked up the suspect as he was leaving home carrying a brown paper bag on Sept. 2 and followed him to the City of Dearborn where he was seen throwing the bag into a dumpster. Fluhart said.

After retrieving the bag, the undercover unit resumed the surveillance and followed Kulvelis to Redford where he allegedly was observed breaking into a residence. Kulvelis was arrested upon exiting the house, Fluhart said.

According to Fluhart, the paper bag retrieved by the surveillance team was found to contain several items stolen during a break-in of a Northville Township residence. Police subsequently exercised a search warrant for the suspect's home and seized a "large quantity of items," said Fluhart.

The items were put on display in the Novi Police Department and various breaking-and-entering victims were invited to review the recovered property. Fluhart said a Grosse Pointe Woods resident identified a camera, a Novi resident identified a radio and a wristwatch, and another Novi resident identified a Samsonite bag and Walkman earphones.

In addition, Fluhart said, police were able to determine that a Discovery credit card stolen from a Northville Township residence allegedly had been used by Kulvelis to purchase items from the Sears stores in Novi and Livonia. Fluhart reported that a witness identified Kulvelis as the individual who had used the stolen credit card at the Novi Sears store.

Resident scares off car thieves

An alert Applegate Condominiums resident frightened off two individuals as they were attempting to break into automobiles in the parking lot early in the morning on Sunday, Jan. 15.

The resident told police she looked out her kitchen window at approximately 1:35 a.m. and observed a white male wearing a grey hooded sweatshirt and cowboy boots walking through the parking lot west from Hoshan Drive.

When the man disappeared from sight, the woman noticed a second suspect inside her own car, a 1987 Ford Escort. The woman told police she ran outside her residence and yelled at both men. The man inside the car then yelled something to the first suspect, and the two men fled on foot in a southbound direction.

The man inside the car was described as a white male, approximately 19-21 years old, 5'8" tall and 170 pounds. He was said to be wearing a dark jacket with a hood, dark pants and dark gloves.

The complainant told police that

Police Beat

Unknown individuals entered the unlocked 1981 station wagon sometime between 11 p.m. on Jan. 14 and 8 a.m. the next day and removed the purse from the front seat. The responsible parties also searched the glove compartment, although nothing other than the purse was found to have been stolen.

Stolen along with the purse was a leather billfold containing some $81 in cash as well as several credit cards and pieces of personal identification.

PERSONAL PROPERTY valued at almost $475 was stolen from a 1989 Ford Town Car parked outside the owner's residence on Galway Drive during the night of Jan. 14-15.

The complainant told police he was awakened at approximately 2:30 a.m. by his daughter who reported that the alarm on his car had gone off.

The man said he ran outside to find that unknown individuals had used a brick to smash the window of the Town Car and then removed a Novatel portable car phone from between the driver's and passenger's seats.

The girl later told police that she had heard two or three male voices outside the residence. She said she heard one of the men say, "Let's get out of here." After that, she heard the car door slam shut and the car alarm began to sound.

Investigating officers found two bricks on the ground next to the car, while the brick used to smash the driver's side window was found inside the vehicle.

The car phone was valued at $474, while damage to the car was estimated at an additional $600, according to reports.

THIEVES STOLE a girls bicycle from the garage of a residence on Cranbrook in the Lakewood Park Home Condominiums while the owners were out of town between Dec. 24 and Jan. 8.

The complainant reported that the theft was discovered when the family returned from a vacation. The responsible parties apparently gained entry by manipulating the electric garage door opener.

Investigating officers noted that nothing else had been stolen even though the garage contained several other bicycles. Stolen was a black-and-pink GT bicycle valued at $200.

FISHING EQUIPMENT was among the property stolen from a storage shed behind the owner's residence on Carolina in the Novi Meadows Mobile Home Park.

The complainant told police that unknown individuals broke into the unlocked shed sometime during the period from Dec. 1 to Jan. 8.

Stolen were a 3 1/2 horsepower outboard motor valued at $300 and an estimated $100 worth of ice fishing equipment.

A HOLLY WOMAN reported the theft of her 1981 Pontiac Grand Am from the parking lot at the Art Van Furniture Store on Wednesday, Jan. 11.

The woman, an Art Van employee, said she parked the car at noon and discovered it missing at approximately 9:45 p.m.

A 1978 OLDSMOBILE Cutlass was stolen from the driveway of the owner's residence on Henning sometime between Jan. 6 and Jan. 9.

The complainant said he was not home during the time the theft occurred. The vehicle was valued at $1,000.

PUBLIC INFORMATION Director Cindy Stewart said residents who didn't receive a calendar can pick one up at the Novi Civic Center on Ten Mile.

TWO DOORS were stripped from a 1981 Ford pickup truck parked in the fenced-in storage yard owned by Copeland Paving at 25509 Meadowbrook Road sometime during the period of Jan. 9-13.

The owner of the vehicle was a Novi resident who said he had leased space in the storage yard to park the truck. The man said he parked the truck on Jan. 8 and found it intact when he checked it at 8 a.m. on Jan. 9.

He discovered the theft the next time he checked the vehicle on Jan. 13 at 2 p.m. The responsible parties smashed out the rear cab window and stole both doors. Police noted that several tools inside the cab had been left untouched.

AN AM-FM RADIO was stolen from a 1987 Ford Ranger parked near the clubhouse on Carousal in the Chateau Estates Mobile Home Park during the night of Jan. 10-11.

News Interviews

It's been a little more than a year since Matt Quinn moved into the office of mayor.

With the start of a new year under way and with half his term completed, we sat down with the mayor last week to talk about what was accomplished in 1988 and what lies ahead in 1989.

What do you view as some of the major accomplishments for 1988?

QUINN: "Probably the biggest goal that we achieved in 1988 was the entering in to the sewer contract with the North Huron Valley-Rouge Valley wastewater treatment plant

(Super Sewer). "By doing that and agreeing to fund the $10 million necessary, we are pretty much going to be able to carry the city from now until the end of our development — the next 20 or 30 years."

"In 1988, we also entered into an agreement to expand the Walled Lake-Novi treatment plant for the northern portion of the city."

"Both of these projects are expected to be finished in 1992. "When we have both the northern and the southern portions of the city supplied by sewer, with water to follow, then it's just a matter of building out. Plus, we can also offer those people who are currently on wells and septic fields the opportunity to get into the system."

"Also in '88, we had the approval of the 1988 master plan. That was the first master plan major change since 1980. It will set the tone for our planning over the next 10 years. We've also undertaken some rezoning to conform to our new master plan."

"We've also seen the growth of single-family subdivisions. You go down the list of subdivisions either submitted or approved and it's simply breath-taking. "If we can solve our interim sewer limitations in 1989 and '90, we are going to see these subdivisions actually get started or finish building."

"We had 330 homes built in 1988, and that's consistent with figures from the last three years. We saw a decrease in apartment construction, but we had great increases in 1987."

"The city's philosophy is that the cornerstone of our development is neighborhoods. That's something that we have always planned to achieve and it's something that the people of Novi have always wanted to achieve."

Right now, there is very little empty commercial property left in the City of Novi.

"Now what we're seeing is that it is economically feasible to begin to finish the build-out of the residential neighborhoods of our city."

"We've had some office and commercial growth, but not as much as years past. "We also got our mid-decade census funds in 1988 — allowing us to put aside $180,000 for parkland acquisition and another $100,000 in sidewalk and safety path development. That will be something to watch in 1989."

"And, of course, we got the building we're in — the Civic Center. It's everything everybody thought it would be.

"City employees have surroundings that make their jobs more comfortable and I believe it definitely makes them more productive."

"The community center portion of the building is being used to the utmost — almost seven days a week. That was our goal, not to have something that would be empty, but something that would be used by all the citizens of Novi."

"The downside of 1988 was the drought we had this summer. It caused city administration many sleepless nights. It was unfortunate, but necessary that we had to put in place the limitations."

"We've enacted ordinances that

Stores fined for liquor law violations

Two local merchants have been fined by the Michigan Liquor Control Commission (MLCC) in conjunction with charges of selling alcoholic beverages to minors.

Penalties of $200 were assessed to the Novi Party Store at 43025 Grand River and the Golden Oaks Convenience Store at 24185 Haggerty Road following a hearing before an administrative law judge on Dec. 7.

Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole said police attempt to monitor local stores for selling alcohol to minors on an ongoing basis.

The Novi Party Store was charged with selling alcoholic beverages to a minor without any inquiry as to the legal or lawful age of the purchaser. The charges stemmed from an incident on April 22, 1988.

The administrative law judge noted that there were three previous violations involving the Novi Party Store in 1977 and established a total fine of $200.

A second charge against the store was dismissed due to mitigating circumstances.

The Golden Oaks Convenience Store also was charged with selling alcoholic beverages to a minor without any inquiry as to the legal or lawful age of the purchaser. The violation occurred April 16, 1987.

The administrative law judge noted that there have been no previous violations against the store since it was acquired by its current owner in 1986 and established a total fine of $200.

Forgotten subject

School holds geography bee

By AMY ROSA
staff writer

One Novi Middle School student has won the chance to compete for a $25,000 college scholarship, which is top prize in a National Geography Bee contest.

The contest itself is part of a program to correct the wrongs of how the subject of geography has been handled, or rather mishandled, in the nation's schools.

Eighth grader Jason Kirk won the middle school's qualifying round in the geography bee last week. Kirk will be notified in the coming months if he qualifies for the state finals competition in April, after results from a written test he took are reviewed in Washington, D.C.

If he makes it to that stage, Kirk would be a finalist for the national title. Other prizes include $15,000 and $10,000 scholarships, and seven prizes of $500 each. The contest is sponsored by World — the children's magazine of the National Geographic Society.

Gary Kelly, a history and geography instructor at Novi Middle School, said the contest for fourth through eighth graders is in its first year. In part, he said, the competition is an incentive to encourage the teaching and learning of geography

— a subject that was, all but forgotten in the nation's schools until recently. "Twenty years ago geography was put in the closet. It was like saying a dirty word," Kelly said, explaining how students lost their "geography literacy" in the country.

"We did it too; we're guilty," he added. Kelly said that administrators and school officials across the U.S. did not place much importance on geography for some reason — perhaps because, unlike math, for example, it is not an exact science. University and college geography curriculums failed during that time also, he added, saying schools with an actual major or minor in the subject were few and far between.

"Now we're repaying the price," But Kelly, who has been a teacher in the Novi district for 19 years, says things have been moving in a farward direction since about 1982. That was the year in which such organizations as the National Science Foundation and Association of American Geographers deemed this country's students were far behind their European counterparts and made a concerted effort to catch up.

American students still trail students in Japan and most Western European countries in geographic knowledge, Kelly said.

"I think we're doing the right thing now," he said. Since 1982, he explained, virtually all geography curriculums in the country were revamped, including text books. Now, he said, most schools teach the subject including the newly-compiled "five theories" of geography. Included in their studies today, students learn "global concepts" like the Warsaw Pact and NATO, in addition to the study of the earth and its inhabitants, Kelly said.

Of the contest itself, Kelly said teachers at the school felt the questions asked were good, and agreed their students need a better understanding of the subject.

That was evident by the fact that it took 87 questions to determine a winner between Kirk and the runner-up after nine other contestants had been eliminated an hour before the competition was over.

Most important, said Kelly, was the fact that the students who watched the competition wanted answers to the questions that were not answered correctly. Contest rules prohibited revealing the answers if not answered correctly.

"It's important to create an interesting environment for the kids, and I think we've seen that they want to learn these things."

Council grants approvals

for upscale furniture store

The Novi City Council granted preliminary site plan approval to a proposed Scott Shuprine furniture store in the West Oaks shopping center at its Monday, Jan. 9, session.

Approval means developers of the project can begin some preliminary groundwork, but that final construction is still several months away. The project must still receive final site plan approval before construction can begin.

A number of concerns, such as shared parking, were eliminated from the plan before it was brought back to the council for consideration Monday night. Council members have shied away from some shared parking projects due to a lack of adequate parking space in some approved projects.

Shuprine Furniture plans got 7-0 approval. The furniture store would be located near the current Art Van store, but would serve a different client base, according to developers.

Council members still voiced some traffic concerns, but opted for the project because of a predicted low-volume traffic during business hours. The council also waived a requirement for a minimum 50,000 square foot building in the area, which is required by ordinance. The store will be operated in conjunction with Art Van, with the combined building space meeting the intent of the ordinance.

The building is proposed to be built in a Georgian Colonial style of architecture, according to planning reports. It is also scheduled to have a higher elevation than the Art Van store.

Memorials to the Michigan or American Cancer Foundations or Mass offerings would be appreciated. EDWARD VALENTINE

Edward J. Valentine, a former Novi resident who had moved to Satellite Beach, Florida, died Jan. 11 in Fort Wayne, Indiana. Born in Dearborn, he was 57 at the time of his death.

A funeral service was held Saturday, Jan. 14, at the O'Brien Chapel of the Ted C. Sullivan Funeral Home. The Rev. Richard Henderson of the Faith Community United Presbyterian Church officiated.

Mr. Valentine earned a degree in Mechanical Engineering from Lawrence Institute of Technology and was employed as an engineer by the Ford Motor Company for 30 years before retiring in 1986.

He is survived by four daughters: Beverly Wilkie, Terry Pierce of Fort Wayne, Indiana; Laura Sobodash and Susan Valentine. Also surviving are two brothers, a sister and eight grandchildren.

Interment was at Oakland Hills Memorial Gardens in Novi. Memorial contributions may be sent to Fort Wayne Hospice, 227 East Washington Boulevard, Fort Wayne, Ind. 46802.

Shinnekai mixer: The Novi Chamber of Commerce is joining the chambers from Canton, Farmington, Farmington Hills, Livonia, Northville and Plymouth to hold a "Shinnekai Mixer" at the Sheraton Oaks tonight (Thursday, Jan. 19) from 6:30 to 8 p.m.

The "Shinnekai mixer" is a combination of the traditional Japanese shinnekai to greet the new year and the familiar American business mixer. Linda Lynch said the event has been scheduled to recognize the large number of Japanese-owned businesses which have located in the area in recent years.

"The six cities and chambers involved felt it would be advantageous to welcome the Japanese businesses and work to establish an atmosphere for sharing ideas and programs," she said.

Help for retailers: Copies of a book titled "A Retailers Guide to Preventing Shoplifting and Apprehending Shoplifters" is available through the Novi Chamber.

City eyes park funding choices

"When the citizens realize that it really only means an additional $20 or $30 on the tax rolls, it's a small increase for what you can get," he added.

Quinn said Novi parkland "wasn't getting any cheaper" and pointed to advantages of buying it now, rather than waiting for several years.

Council Member Joseph Toth said he favored a combination bond issue/millage increase to deal with parks and recreation needs.

"It's got some attractive parts to it," Toth said. "If a bond issue would allow you to buy the property all at once and pay off the bond over time."

Toth, who served on the Needs Assessment Committee, said he held out little optimism for two of the proposals — increased general fund transfers and the mid-decade census funds dedication.

"The mid-decade monies will run out as soon as the 1990 census is done," he said. "There's no long-term guarantee that we are going to get that money."

Toth said he thought the budget transfer would put undue pressure on the city budget and probably wasn't a realistic option.

"In many cases, what you have to do is take money from one pocket and put it into another," Toth said. "That's what we would be faced with doing."

Council Member Nancy Coveri said her preliminary favorite was increased general fund transfers, but that the issue would "have to be looked at."

"A lot of new developments have gone on the tax rolls," she said. "I think before we do anything, we have to take a look at the new SEV (State Equalized Valuation)."

"After we do that, we can prioritize what we need," she said. Coveri said she was reluctant to support a millage increase until further study was done.

Council Member Martha Hoyer said she felt each of the options would get careful study in the next several months.

"We're looking at a millage increase... or transfers that amount to about nine percent of the general fund," she said. "We're going to have to take a look at what we can do."

City Manager Edward Kriewall said potentially little could occur with the question in the next few weeks. Council members will likely be faced with a decision of whether or not to put it on the ballot as the city gets closer to budget time in March or April, he said.

Some departmental budget figures are currently being drawn up for the 1989-90 fiscal year, set to begin July 1. Parks and Recreation Director Dan Davis said the Parks and Recreation Commission may consider endorsing one of the funding alternatives.

Alternate 4: Bond Issue
A bond issue to specifically address priority needs. This proposal would be for approximately 3-4 million dollars.

Council Member Nancy Coveri said her preliminary favorite was increased general fund transfers, but that the issue would "have to be looked at."

Board reviews 'typical' problems

By AMY ROSA
staff writer

As part of a weekend workshop, Novi board of education members watched video taped situations of a fictional TV school board, and responded to the predicaments.

A Saturday boardmanship workshop, presented by two consultants from the Michigan Association of School Boards, tested Novi's seven school board members on possible real life situations.

One taped situation apparently hit home for the trustees. It involved a parent who approached a school board member at a little league baseball game to ask for the member's assistance in getting his child advanced in a certain subject.

In the video, the board member awkwardly responded that he didn't know what he could do for the student.

"This happens all the time," said Trustee Sandra Thornton, during a break in the workshop. Even though she's only been a member of the board for eight months, she said she's encountered many situations where people want her to be influential or try to use her name for some purpose — particularly by individuals seeking a job with the district.

"I can tell them the superintendent's name and give them an address to send their resume," she said.

Trustee Robert Schram agreed, saying people have asked him before if he could arrange an interview with one of the administrators.

Board members also said, however, that they sometimes find themselves in the opposite situation, where they go out of their way to avoid being seen as exerting their influence.

The discussion drew a comment from Trustee Raymond Beyers on balancing the jobs of trustee and parent. "At times, I probably do a disservice to my kids by telling them to grin and bear it, whereas, if I were just a parent, I would ride in on a horse with a shield," he said, relating a scenario from his household when a conflict exists between his child and school.

"You're never a parent; you're always a board member," he added.

A second taped situation involved a newspaper reporter, who was particularly adept at getting a board member to make potentially damaging statements.

This predicament spawned laughter as trustees said the board member depicted should have had better self-control and shouldn't have

Beyers: 'It is abhorrent for any board member to solicit the press (for his own purposes), and it is just as abhorrent for the press to try to divide the board on an issue.'

Beyers talked about individual interviews on a stronger note. "It is abhorrent for any board member to solicit the press (for his own purposes), and it is just as abhorrent for the press to try to divide the board on an issue."

"Whether real or imaginary, controversy sells newspapers," he added.

Beyers referred particularly to a situation when a vote has occurred, but one lone dissenter tries to contact the press for "minority press coverage."

"When the vote is over it's over and you must go on about your business," he said.

One of the consultants agreed, saying to do otherwise makes for an inefficient board.

"At first I didn't want to talk about our funerals. But, now I'm glad we did."

We chose Forethought, funeral planning. It's one of those things that's so easy to put off, put out of your mind. And I guess that's what I was doing. But, once he started asking me questions about how I wanted my funeral to be, I realized how important it is for the people we leave behind to know these things. He had no idea that I wanted a simple eulogy, and just that discussion alone started us on all sorts of other topics. I found out he doesn't like organ music. We even had a few laughs.

Forethought is funeral planning... before the need arises. I thought planning our funerals together would be a terribly sad thing. But, actually, it brought us both a great sense of relief. Now we know neither one of us has all those decisions facing us in the future and we won't have to second-guess whether we did the right thing... did what the other one would have wanted. It's all planned and even paid for with the Forethought life insurance policy designed and approved specifically for Forethought funeral planning. And, there's a policy available to anyone up to age 100. There's a real peace of mind that comes with having it taken care of ahead of time with Forethought.

As We See It

Park needs report raises tough issue

Details of the Novi Parks and Recreation Needs Assessment Committee report are still washing out, but a couple of points are clear at this time.

For one, this committee appears to have done a pretty responsible, thorough job of studying the issue. They've come back with some funding options that have been well thought-out and carefully documented.

The options will make for some tough choices for the city council and, potentially, the citizenry of Novi, but that's to be expected with a study of this sort.

The study was completed over the course of approximately 11 months, with the group taking testimony from residents and embarking on an expansive survey of perceived needs.

It was unveiled before a joint meeting of the Novi City Council and Planning Commission January 11 — basically noting that the city is deficient in both "active" and "passive" parkland in various areas.

Active parkland refers to facilities actually being used for recreational purposes, like softball or soccer fields. Passive parkland is basically parkland that serves a less-intense purpose, like nature preserves or hiking trails.

The committee has recommended four different options: a half-mill increase, a bond issue, increased general fund transfers, or dedication of the city's mid-decade census monies.

Secondly, credit must be given to Dan Davis, director of the Novi Parks and Recreation Department, who, no doubt, knows the benefits of pursuing this matter in an open, straightforward fashion. Davis has been accessible and deliberate in his explanations

A record of service

It's hard to think about Don Grevengood as an "old-timer." He's too young, too active, too energetic and too involved to be labeled an "old-timer."

And yet the "old-timer" label feels appropriate for Grevengood who retired at the end of 1988 from his position with Security Bank and Trust at the age of 62.

Certainly Grevengood has not been around as long as the Russ Buttons, Leo Harrawoods, Fraser Stamans and Lee BeGoles who go back a decade or more longer than the retired bank president, but his influence on the development of the city over the past 15 years — a period in which Novi emerged from a primarily rural to a truly suburban area — have been significant.

On the right track

We'll never figure out why the Novi Code Enforcement Division went about it in quite the way it did or exactly who in city administration got their signals crossed, but, yes, we now believe a wood storage ordinance appears to be a good idea.

Last week, ordinance enforcement officials finally began shedding light upon why they really want an ordinance regulating the storage of wood. And, lo and behold, it began to make sense.

Previously, they had said the measure was designed to cut down on rat infestation.

of the nuts-and-bolts of the survey and the funding questions.

We're also pleased to see early debate among city council members and the mayor. We're glad to see them stating early positions on the matter, rather than saving their debate for the council table or elsewhere.

It's entirely appropriate for council members to "jockey" for their favorite funding alternative, even at this early date. That's the political process, and if residents want to impact it, now is the time to do it.

Various questions still need to be addressed, like whether or not parks and recreation is imminently more important than some of the other infrastructure concerns in the city, like roads. This study gives an adequate portrayal of parks and recreation in and of itself — not parks and recreation compared to other city needs.

But, ultimately, the priorities will be a political decision, one residents can impact by making their feelings known early on.

The issue is, clearly, whether or not Novi residents think highly enough of parks and recreation to dole out more money for it. But an important consideration that we hope doesn't get lost in the shuffle is simply whether or not residents want to buy parkland at 1989-90 prices... or wait. That's a very tough question.

'Old guys' fill the cords

Phil Ginotti

Notes, quotes and anecdotes on a slow, supposed-holiday, Monday afternoon...

Novi Parks and Recreation five-on-five basketball kicked off this past Sunday at Novi Middle School. Hate to mention this word (rats) again. But, folks, we've got some in Novi.

The classic "gymnis roden-tia" or gym rat.

Land sakes, there are some older guys who can really play in this league. Unfortunately, as with a lot of rec leagues, points scored and even name identification is tough to come by.

But a few players I recognized stood out:

PAT HARAN: This guy canned maybe five "treys" with a monstrous gash on his right hand. Got the gash at the Novi Chilly Willy Festival "sno-ball" tournament the day before, slipping as he passed first base. But Haran, a natural lefty anyway, hit four all-net three-point shots in the first eight minutes of game, then canned another late in the game as his team won. Incredible performance.

If he was a natural righty, this blurb was going to Sports Illustrated.

Another one: BRIAN SCHRAM. Schram hit a half-dozen nice driving layups and a pair of three-pointers, besides doing some rugged work on the boards. But Bri was at least 0 for 6 from the free-throw line. At least 0 for 6. Then everybody lost count. (Told him I'd mention that.)

And PAT O'BRIEN, who didn't do a whole lot of scoring, but quarterbacked his team to a victory in the

at the Sept. 2, 1987, and the June 1, 1988, meetings with respect to the planning and the wetland issues.

Thus, my input on the issues has not been lost to the public nor to the commission in this case. If there were other outstanding planning issues to be decided, then that statement would not be true because I would not be able to address those issues. However, the wetlands issue is the only issue remaining to be considered by the planning commission.

I believe that my record on environmental issues in this community is strong and clear. I felt that the City of Novi would receive a greater net benefit on the wetlands issue by bringing my position on the preservation of environmental quality in Novi to bear directly on the wetlands mitigation design.

Second, the decision to accept the Southlake job was not taken lightly. The point raised in your editorial and the letter from Sarah Phelps about the loss of my input on this issue was something about which I thought very carefully. I voiced my concerns

And good sports, too. Thanks for not doing out too much about to the referee/columist... me. See y'all next week.

Getting chilled: Editor Phil Jerome as "Old Man Winter?" Well, no.

After being goaded into joining in, Jerome set what is believed to be a modern day Chilly Willy festival record by getting straight zeros from at least one of the judges.

The ballots were top secret, so we can't disclose who the judge was. But it was Diana Cuntup.

Doug Watson, 62, and looking very much like an Old Man Winter in his orange jumpsuit, won the first place prize — dinner for two at Victor's Novi Inn. Come to think of it, it's a good thing Jerome didn't win after all.

The trials of having to be me

It's not easy being me. Hey, don't get me wrong. I'd rather be me than almost anybody. Except for Wayne Gretzky, of course.

But being me... being the managing editor of a hometown community newspaper comes with its disadvantages. Believe it or not, it's not all glamor, folks. Lately it seems like there are hundreds of people who would like nothing better than to see me tarred, feathered and run out of town on a rail. It's an occupational hazard.

At any rate, I exposed myself to a certain element of risk when I showed up at the Novi Civic Center for the second annual Chilly Willy Festival last week. And I got it in spades.

First of all, I was tricked into entering the "Old Man Winter Contest," and the judges made the most of the situation. Reporter Phil Ginotti, a snoop type, looked over the shoulder of one of the judges and reported that I had received scores of straight-zeros.

Wow, straight zeros? I'm afraid to ask what the categories were, but I can only guess. Looks? Personality? Wit? Intelligence? Charm? Straight zeros, eh? Not even a single point.

Frankly, it didn't bother me too much. If you can't accept the fact that some people think you're a zero, you might as well get out of the business.

But what did bother me was that I didn't even place in the adult section of the Chilly Willy coloring contest. Sure there were other good entries. But only one of them had a beautiful purple Chilly Willy pequin like mine, and the guy who won it — John Duneske, had a drab old black-and-white pequin.

What's worse, I didn't even put my real name on the picture, trying to trick the judges into not voting it down because of the artist. But my ruse failed; my picture didn't even place. Like I said, it's not easy being me sometimes.

Kureth explains consulting role

To the Editor:
After the article which appeared in the Dec. 29, 1988, issue and the editorial which appeared in the Jan. 5, 1989, issue of The Novi News, I feel that a response is necessary.

The purpose of this response is not to take issue with either the article or the editorial, but rather to correct a fact and to provide some insight into the reasoning behind my decision to accept the wetlands job at Southlake. First, in the Dec. 29 article, Mr. Ginotti states (in referring to the action on the preliminary site plan taken on June 1, 1986), "Kureth seconded the motion to grant approval..." and voted "yes" as the planning commission granted preliminary approval by 7-1 vote.

The minutes of that meeting show that I did second the motion (for the purpose of allowing discussion of the motion), but I voted "no" on the motion itself. The planning commission vote was 6-2 in favor of the wetlands mitigation design.

Second, the decision to accept the Southlake job was not taken lightly. The point raised in your editorial and the letter from Sarah Phelps about the loss of my input on this issue was something about which I thought very carefully. I voiced my concerns at the Sept. 2, 1987, and the June 1, 1988, meetings with respect to the planning and the wetland issues. Obviously, these are not the only reasons I decided to accept this contract. However, the other reasons are irrelevant to the point raised in the editorial. I do not expect that you will agree with the reasons I discussed above and I am not seeking such agreement. I did think it important to note that I did carefully consider the impact to the city and my role on the planning commission before making my final decision.

I would like to thank The Novi News for a factual article. Except for the correction noted above, the facts stated in the article were accurate. Finally, I would like to thank The Novi News for the many complimentary statements about my involvement in the city which were made in the editorial.

Mayor addresses 'state of city'

put specific procedures in place should this happen again. We don't have to do it by mayoral decree or by council action.

Are you satisfied with the degree of support that you are getting from the state? Communities like Novi seem to be following through on Governor James Blanchard's promise of "jobs, jobs, jobs."

QUINN: "You have to give some credit to state government because they were one of the forces that made 'Super Sewer' a reality. They wanted, from a political standpoint, to get together the I-75 corridor for development. They couldn't do that without Super Sewer."

"They did apply some pressure to Wayne County and the cities who are now part of the waste water treatment pact."

"As far as roads go, the state has committed to the M-9 project at this point, to help open up this area and alleviate some of the traffic problems. When you have a road system like that, you're going to open up more development in this region."

"We should know a lot more about that in March."

"We're disappointed that the state didn't approve our joint economic development grant application for Twelve Mile Road, but we're going to go back and work on that again."

"The state is helping, but there is more that they can do. They have their economic limitations, but we're not going to let them forget about us."

"We're working with the people we know that have influence in the governor's office. That's how we chose to handle it — more behind-the-scenes negotiations and discussions rather than putting any public pressure on them."

"But as necessary — such as getting our mid-decade census funding — we will make public when public pressure is something that gets results."

Can you take a look at the major objectives for 1989?

QUINN: "The first major goal for 1989 will be to solve our interim sewer capacity problem — between now and when Super Sewer finishes, hopefully in 1992."

"We're under negotiations with Wayne County and with the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to increase our capability to purchase additional sewer capacity over the next three years."

"If this plan does go through, we will be able to build additional sewer capacity sufficient to build out these residential subdivisions and multiple family projects that are being planned over these next three years."

"We do enter into this agreement, any monies that would be charged would come directly from the developments themselves. I don't want anybody to be misled that we are going to spend any tax dollars for this."

"And another thing that is going to have to undergo a lot of work is solid waste. We are members of the Southwest Oakland County Solid Waste Consortium (SOCOSW) and we've authorized additional funds to study the issue."

Woman injured in crash

By PHIL GINOTTI
staff writer

A Lyon Township woman was seriously injured Friday when her car was broadsided by a car driven by a Pinckney man, police said.

The accident occurred on the Novi side of the Nine Mile/Napier Road intersection in the city's rural west end. It is the fourth accident to occur at the intersection of the two gravel roads in under a year.

Jeana Reynolds, 19, sustained head injuries when the car she was driving was hit broadside by a car driven by Rodney James Strunk, 19, of Pinckney just after 2 p.m. Friday.

Police said the accident occurred when Strunk either didn't stop or failed to yield as he traveled eastbound on Nine Mile. The Reynolds automobile was hit on the driver's side as it traveled northbound on Napier Road.

Two passengers in the Reynolds car — 20-month-old Anthony James Reynolds and Jeanne Marie Roy, 19 — were not injured.

Reynolds received numerous cuts to the face and head and will require some plastic surgery, according to her mother.

"She is extremely lucky to be alive today," said Sharon Reynolds. "If it wasn't for (Jeanne Roy's) quick thinking, she would have been dead right now."

Roy stopped the car after the collision, turned off the engine and immediately began applying direct pressure to a major wound on the side of Jeana Reynolds' head. Emergency personnel arrived several minutes later. They transported the injured driver to Providence Hospital of Novi, and she was later transferred to the main hospital in Southfield.

Residents said they are concerned about the corner.

"You should come sit in my living room some night and listen to what goes on out here," said Dorine Leland, who lives near the Nine Mile/Napier intersection. "They come racing through, fishtailing past the intersection . . . they just don't care."

"You don't know where they are going to end up," she said.

Leland said she has noticed an increase in accidents at the corner in the past year. She has lived in the area approximately 12 years.

Reynolds and Roy were both wearing seat belts. Anthony James Reynolds was strapped into a child safety seat. Another passenger in the Strunk car — a Pinckney High School student — wasn't seriously injured.

Three accidents have been reported at the corner since February 1988. One occurred Feb. 26 and another was reported Aug. 18.

One other road runoff accident was reported, but not verified, a Novi police official said. No date was given for that accident.

All three incidents were single-driver accidents and no injuries were reported.

Board members study roles

A review of state laws is necessary for any such political body, said Kara, because as members of the board of education they "tend to sit as judge and jury," like when reviewing a teacher's tenure or a student's expulsion.

State statutes 380 and 1282 were reviewed including the definitions of malfeasance, misfeasance and nonfeasance — official terms that are sometime used to "recall" board members from their posts. Malfeasance — the misconduct or wrongdoing by a public official — is typically the most damaging of the three, said Mr. Funk.

Though Michigan law gives state school boards a lot of leeway when it comes to making policy, he added, it also allows citizens to invoke a recall procedure fairly easily compared to other states. "In Michigan, it (recall) can be for anything."

Concerning policies and guidelines for student safety, Mr. Funk said that well-defined safety policies will be a must in the not-too distant future instead of the loosely-worded policies which some schools now have.

"You'll have to have the policies and procedures in place in order to get insurance for the board and avoid liability."

As far as running more effective meetings, the consultants suggested the board adopt a consent agenda format, whereby a list of items may be approved all in one motion.

The Funks also hinted that breaking up audience participation time into two segments might be helpful: one segment at the beginning for anyone wishing to speak about an upcoming agenda item and another segment at the end for anyone wishing to speak on a board action of that night or any other topic.

In response to a question from Trustee Raymond Beyers, Mr. Funk stated a public meeting is "not a meeting held for the public, but a meeting held in public."

Planners okay CIP proposal

Other revisions to the 1987-88 CIP include:

□ Earmarking $100,000 in the 1988-89 fiscal year for sidewalk linkage program, plus $50,000 for each of the five successive years.

□ Establishment of a tree planting program for the I-96/Novi Road area, and along Ten Mile and Novi Road.

□ A $4 million railroad separation at the C&O rail crossing on Novi Road.

City council's role with the CIP is to "fine tune" the plan after the commission sets the general priorities, the commission was told by Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers.

The city isn't the only beneficiary of the CIP, contend planners, who say Novi taxpayers benefit too.

According to the report, a CIP can provide substantial savings for the taxpayer with the advance purchase of land for public facilities at raw land prices. Also it gives taxpayers an opportunity to know where, why and when their tax dollars are being spent, the report continued.

The commission will complete the 88-89 CIP by June 30, 1989.

Funeral directors urge pre-funding

By JEFF CLEMENS

The death of a loved one can be one of the most difficult times in a person's life. Not only does that individual have to work through grief, but he or she also must make the necessary funeral arrangements.

A funeral home's purpose is to relieve the burden of these arrangements from the family and help minimize a painful situation as much as possible.

Lynch & Sons Funeral Directors have fulfilled this need and have taken it one step further.

Their funeral homes in Milford, Walled Lake and Clawson introduced the Guardian Plan program two months ago. The program provides for a way for people to pre-fund their funerals, said Tom Lynch, president of Lynch & Sons in Milford.

Until two years ago, most funeral homes in Michigan had problems guaranteeing the price of funerals due to state pre-need laws, he said.

It is illegal for funeral homes to be paid for services not yet performed. Therefore, while people could pre-arrange funeral details, any pre-funding had to be treated as an individual account rather than several people pooling into a trust.

The interest on the principal generated in the individual accounts didn't cover inflationary costs and more money had to be paid after the funeral, defeating its purpose, Lynch said.

The pre-need law in 1987 allowed funds to be pooled together in the programs such as the Guardian Plan, a subsidiary of Services Inc., International, a New York-based company.

The plan guarantees that money paid will cover funeral costs no matter how far down the road death may be.

The monies are placed in insurance funds or trust accounts, where interest rates are higher, thereby countering the effects of spiraling funeral costs.

According to Lynch, people can enter a funeral home, discuss with a representative what arrangements they wish, and establish a payment plan that fits their needs.

Business Briefs

CORA McLEOD and KAREN McGREGOR received Associate of the Month awards from the Big Wheel department store in Highland. They work in the hard line and receiving departments, respectively.

R. BRUCE ZALOBKY of Milford, vice president/general manager of Yale Tool & Engraving, Inc. in Plymouth, was named 1988 Business Person of the Year in the industrial/manufacturing category by the Plymouth Community Chamber of Commerce and the Plymouth Observer newspaper.

Zalobsky was presented with a plaque for his achievement at the 35th annual "Community Gathering" dinner at the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth. Former baseball great George Kell was the featured speaker.

Zalobsky was recognized for his efforts to help ease the shortage of personnel in the skilled trades. Yale Tool specializes in CAD/CAM milling, die cutting, specialty engraving and steel stamps - exacting and precision work that requires college-level aptitude and lengthening. He has been involved with the United States Department of Labor Apprenticeship Program, has hired students from both the Farmington and Michigan Technological University Co-operative Education Programs and has served on the state board for co-operative education.

Zalobsky also is a senior member of the Society of Manufacturing Engineers, a charter member of the Machine Vision Association of SME, a member of the Detroit Stamp Manufacturers Association and an elder in the Presbyterian Church. He has been married 25 years, and has five children and one grandchild.

Financial resolutions for the new year

Money Management

Make the coming months count by resolving to improve your finances. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, a few wise moves now can help you make 1989 add up to a year of prosperity.

UPDATE YOUR WITHHOLDING: Review the number of exemptions you claim on your W-4 form - especially if you have recently purchased a home, married or had a child. You may be able to decrease your withholding and increase the amount of money you have available each month for investing.

ORGANIZE YOUR TAX RECORDS: If you sit down with a shoe box of stray papers to do your taxes each April, you can easily overlook deductions to which you are entitled - and pay more than your share of taxes. The Michigan Association of CPAs suggests that you begin to organize your 1989 tax records immediately. One excellent place to start is by keeping a diary of your tax-deductible expenses.

BUY A HOUSE: Buying a house is one of the best investments you can make this year, especially since 1989 promises to be a buyer's market in many local areas. In addition, home ownership brings a number of valuable tax deductions - including mortgage interest and real estate taxes. Remember, too, you can always borrow against the 1989 mortgage to pay for other major expenses, such as a child's education.

MESC rulings no longer effect lawsuits

Employers can rest easy now that unemployment rulings by the Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) cannot be used in later wrongful discharge lawsuits.

"The decision means employer losses in the unemployment arena will no longer affect their success rate in later lawsuits," according to Steven J. Fishman, senior principal of The Fishman Group, a law firm representing management in employment law matters.

The recent Supreme Court decision echoed Fishman's earlier criticism of allowing MESC rulings on unemployment matters to be used in subsequent lawsuits for wrongful discharge.

"The high court ruled that the Michigan Employment Security Act specifically provides for confidentiality in employment determinations," Fishman explained, adding that "employers are the big winners with this decision."

"Employers have generally not approached unemployment claims with the same care given employment litigation," Fishman said, "even though it is common for claimants to retain legal counsel when opposing an employer."

"This, coupled with the fact that MESC has never been known as employer-friendly," Fishman said, "has left significant opportunity for employer losses, especially when wrongful discharge litigation is tied to the outcome of MESC decisions."

The Fishman Group specializes in labor law, employment litigation and employee relations matters. Copies of the new booklet can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to the BBB at 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, MI 48226.

Funeral directors urge pre-planned funerals

Funeral directors urge pre-planned funerals

The policy holder can either pay in monthly installments for a period of two, three or five years, or pay the monies in one lump sum.

"Most people pay it all at one time. It's a type of insurance," he added. Funeral service costs today average between $3,000 and $5,000, Lynch said.

"More and more people today recognize that through funeral planning in advance they can relieve their family of the burden of having to make difficult funeral decisions at a stressful time," Lynch said.

The advantages to the Guardian Plan are numerous. "It allows the person to pre-arrange every aspect of the funeral, from funds for flowers and caskets to transportation of the body back home," Lynch said.

About 35 people have opted for the plan in the first two months Lynch & Sons has offered it. Hundreds of funeral homes in the United States and Canada have endorsed the Guardian Plan program. The service is transferable to other participating funeral homes, according to Lynch.

Lynch & Sons is the largest family firm in the funeral business in Michigan, with funeral homes at 464 locations.

Select planner carefully

In the past two decades, financial planning has evolved into a multi-billion dollar industry with thousands of advisors who plan and manage investments for their clients.

To help consumers select a reputable financial planner who meets their needs, the Better Business Bureau/Detroit and Eastern Michigan has released a booklet titled "Tips on Financial Planners."

The booklet is the latest in the BBB's Consumer Information Series which offers helpful tips on more than 80 topics of consumer interest. Copies of the new booklet can be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business-sized envelope to the BBB at 150 Michigan Avenue, Detroit, MI 48226.

"Consumers should not take the process of looking for a financial planner lightly," said Detroit BBB President Thomas F. Ashcraft.

"The booklet gives advice on what to look for and what to avoid when selecting a financial planner, including a list of questions the consumer should ask."

"It also provides a section on the 'red flags' of fraud and abuse," he said.

Merrill Lynch Realty advertisement featuring multiple house images and descriptions: 'Overlooking pond, this luxurious Contemporary is situated on 2.25 wooded acres in NOVI...'

On the morning of February 18, 1986, a 40-year old Dearborn man became annoyed at the barking of his sister's 9-year old German Shepherd, Toro. So annoyed, in fact, the man fashioned a spear out of an 8-inch knife taped to a 5-foot length of pipe and stabbed the dog repeatedly until he dropped to the floor. The stabbing was so severe, Toro later had to be destroyed.

But the cruelty didn't end there. Just 10 months later, the same man approached a 56-year old Dearborn woman outside a local shopping center. Throwing her to the ground, he attempted to gouge her eyes out and choke her. He proceeded to stab a responding Dearborn police officer and had to be shot twice before being apprehended.

Disturbing? Yes. Coincidental? No.

A recent study by Dr. Alan R. Felthous, M.D. of the University of Texas and Stephen R. Kellert, Ph.D. of Yale University concludes "a pattern of substantial animal abuse may conceivably be associated with a pattern of recurrent violence against people."

Granted, every case of animal abuse doesn't lead to human abuse. But too often, evidence shows that those who commit crimes against another human being have abused an animal in the past.

One such example is a 10-year old Boston youth who took perverse pleasure in trapping puppies and kittens in orange crates and shooting arrows into the box. The young man's name? Albert DeSalvo, later known as "The Boston Strangler."

Unfortunately, such animal abuse is usually unreported or ignored until it escalates.

The problem is that violence inflicted upon an animal, especially at the hands of a child, isn't always considered a problem. It's dismissed as a childish prank or rationalized as an error in judgment.

At the Michigan Humane Society, we do consider it a problem. Because animal abusers all too often grow into human abusers. That's why the MHS, as the only defense against animal abuse, is the first line of defense against human abuse.

That's why we continue to battle for stronger legislation, vigorous prosecution, tougher punishments and mandatory counseling of offenders.

The fact is, normal people don't abuse animals. Such actions are an early sign of deviant behavior. Recognized, it can be corrected. Ignored, it gets worse.

If you want to help prevent animal abuse, support the MHS with a generous contribution. If you're concerned about the increasing violence in our society, support the MHS.

Because if we can allow someone to commit an act of violence against an animal, we shouldn't be surprised when that individual strikes out against another human being.

The hard truth is, left unchecked, the next victim could be your pet, your child or even you.

The problems of animal abuse just get bigger...and bigger...and bigger.

Yes, I want to help prevent animal abuse. Yes, I'm concerned about violence in our society.

Here is my gift of $10 $25 $50 $100 other

Hats off to ETIQUETTE

You've heard it all before. . . Get your elbows off the table! Pick your feet up when you walk! Stand straight and tall! Cover your mouth when coughing, sneezing or yawning!

Simple rules of etiquette. Rules your mother forced you to live by. And long after you've learned that it's bad manners to prop your elbows on the table, there are other rules of etiquette to master. Here are a few rules that may not be so familiar:

Never drink from a soda pop can unless outdoors where no glass is available; your underwear should never be so outlandish as to trigger uncontrollable laughter in a hospital emergency room; there's no such thing as fashionably late — and don't expect your parents to know exactly what you do for a living. (Those helpful hints came from authors of "Esquire's Etiquette: The Modern Man's Guide to Good Form," and "Business Etiquette Today: A Guide to Corporate Success".)

For more points about what's right and what's not so right, read on.

Dating

There are three inevitables in life — death, taxes and dating.

OK, dating is a heck of a lot more fun than death and taxes. It remains the only method of meeting members of the opposite sex and we all know how fun those meetings can sometimes be.

Using Esquire's "Etiquette: The Modern Man's Guide to Good Form" by Glen Waggoner and Kathleen Moloney as a reference, here are a handful of etiquette suggestions to make dating less stressful.

Basically, a man still does the inviting and pays the bill. These standards are not written in stone and can be modified in some instances. But whoever does the asking reserves the right to choose where to go.

It's no longer considered necessary for a man to pick his date up at her place at the beginning of a date, but he should be prepared to see her safely home afterward.

For first dates, dinner on a weeknight is a good idea. A weekday lunch may be even better, depending on time constraints, convenience and location of the restaurant.

Six things not to talk about on a first date — your old girlfriend, sex, disease, professional wrestling, your work and money. Six things to talk about on a first date — her, your hometown, food, travel, movies and politics.

Men, if you never want to see her again, don't call and don't tell her you will if you don't intend to. If you would like to see her again, give her a ring the next day and tell her so.

For blind dates keep in mind the following — Things to Do and Not to Do — don't double date, don't plan too long an evening, don't choose anything too exotic and be on your best behavior, even if someone has made a Terrible Mistake.

Business

It's a Monday morning at the office. Your manager has just finished boldly grumbling to a handful of employees about his wasted weekend.

A trio of co-workers are engaging in a loud, heated argument over who should enjoy the last swallow of coffee in the office coffeepot. Another co-worker sits down and props his feet on his desk.

This office is not practicing acceptable business behavior. To maintain a professional appearance there are some basic office guidelines to keep in mind.

According to "Business Etiquette Today: A Guide to Corporate Success" by Jacqueline Dunckel there is a list of basic office etiquette rules, which includes the following:

Swearing is unacceptable in business. So is crying, shouting or other manifestations of loss of temper. Don't visit and chat when you're not busy. "Standing around the water cooler" can mark you as a lazy employee.

Don't entertain friends in the office. Don't drop into someone else's office unannounced — call first. Don't borrow money, equipment or supplies from the workplace unless absolutely necessary. Don't use nicknames in business.

Keep your personal office life and your business life separate. Keep confidences, both professional and personal.

Also, don't conduct personal hygiene practices in public — don't pick noses, probe ears and teeth with pens and pencils, clip or file nails, scratch scalps, belch or crack your knuckles at the office.

Above all, don't gossip.

Kids

Gone are the days when kids were meant to be seen and not heard.

And if you're a child who wants to keep this new status quo, here are a few words of wisdom that will make your parents beam with pride.

On table manners: Etiquette expert Miss Manners advises children to wait until their mother begins eating; to sit up straight with their elbows off the table; to keep their hands in their laps when not in use and to use forks, knives and napkins as God meant them to be used.

Miss Manners also suggests that children refrain from mentioning their dislikes on the menu, to pretend to listen attentively when others are speaking and to ignore the 'toy potential' of various food items.

And most importantly of all, children should not leave the table without permission.

On allowances: Emily Post, another etiquette guru, writes in her "Blue Book of Social Usage" that from the time a child is old enough to buy a candy bar or ice cream cone for himself, he should be given a small allowance.

Miss Manners agrees with granting children an allowance. However, she states in her "Guide to Rearing Perfect Children" that children shouldn't be paid for completing chores in their own households. "In her mind it is an ugly idea that a child should contribute his part to his own household for wages, while the parents do the greater work for free," the book states.

Random Sample

Q: Do you like your hot chocolate with or without marshmallows?

Three said: "Without"
Seven said: "With"

"With - Because it's sweet and gooey . . . and the kids like the melted sugar foam."

"Without - They get in the way . . . you take a big gulp and you get a mouth full of marshmallows."

Random Sample is an unscientific poll of 10 Northville/Novi area residents conducted by the staff of this newspaper.

Coxes volunteer for band boosters

If your children are in activities, you probably do what Rick and Diane Cox do. You volunteer your support.

The Coxes are doing that, currently by handling publicity in Novi Band Boosters for the Novi High School bands — marching, concert, symphony and jazz.

They have a daughter who plays flute in the symphony band and tuba in the marching band. And they have a son who plays trumpet in both marching and symphony bands.

Since August the Coxes have been sending out weekly press releases to all media — local and regional.

Also they have made and distributed posters around town. Well, they have arranged to have posters made and distributed. They recruit volunteers to do the art work and the printing, and they recruit volunteers to distribute them.

What is there to publicize? The answer is where and when the bands are performing.

"The symphony and concert bands," Rick said, "perform for the community from November through June." The jazz band is called on at various times, frequently at the opening of stores. And the marching band plays, not only at football games but, Diane said, "It competes in five different places within the state."

And there are other things to publicize, like fund-raisers.

There are two bottle drives a year, Rick said, and in the last one, they processed 40,000 bottles and cans, which A&P paid them for.

The other two fund-raisers, Diane said, were door-to-door sales of merchandise — cheese and sausage for one, and Florida citrus fruit was the other. "The kids take the orders, and the money they make is earmarked for the long trip they take every other year."

Womencenter gains new leader

FARMINGTON — Joann Graves is the new coordinator of Oakland Community College Womencenter's peer counseling service on the Orchard Ridge Campus in Farmington Hills.

The math teacher on campus said she was drawn to the Womencenter after hearing of all the good they were doing over there," and volunteered to coordinate the peer counseling program "after learning of the very real and serious needs" of those who come to Womencenter to talk about their troubles.

"The next session for training our peer counselors starts Jan. 19, and we're taking registrations now," Graves said. "I've taken the training myself and I can promise you it's a therapy for yourself. You've got to open up and deal with your own feelings first before you can begin to help others, and that's what the training does for our counselors."

Mary White, director of Womencenter, leads the training sessions that run on Thursdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. for a total of 30 hours. Each peer counseling class is limited to 12 women.

Fee for the training is $54 and three hours per week for one semester, after completing the class, serving as a counselor in Womencenter helping peers learn to help themselves.

White describes the completion of the training "as getting a degree in your own personal growth."

Graves' job will be to see that there are peer counselors on hand for those who choose to drop into the Womencenter in J Building, scheduling those drop-in hours, and making sure the phones are manned for those who call for a specific appointment.

"Often women call us for an early morning, after work or evening appointment outside of Womencenter's regular hours," Graves said. "We somehow always can get the peer counselor to meet those requests because we're all committed to what we're doing here."

What the peer counselors are not doing is giving advice.

"The peer counselors get training, theoretical and experiential, in listening, values clarification and problem solving. Their job is to get a new handle on the problem — whatever it is — with a lot of rethinking that deals with that person's feelings, first. Then you work with that before trying to find any solutions," Graves said.

"But we do not give advice. Maybe suggestions, or referrals, but not advice."

"There's no quick fix. You can only fix yourself, and you can't do that if you don't know yourself."

"More often than not there is so much build-up of emotion that's been going on for so long you can't discern what's really going on until someone else helps you start in clarifying it and straightening it out," she said.

"Something we all have to learn is to accept ourselves and Womencenter is a good place around — generally after a (life) transition — and now wants to share and help others."

For peer counseling training registration or information about any other service offered by Womencenter call 471-7602.

Engagements

Mr. and Mrs. Major Preston Cornett of Novi announce the engagement of their daughter, Carla Marie Cornett, to Douglas Edward Cook of Northville, the son of Mr. Larry Cook of Livonia and Mrs. Beverly Cook of Walled Lake.

The bride-elect graduated from Novi High School in 1982. She graduated from Oakland Community College in 1983, where she earned an associate's degree in word processing and text editing.

She has been employed for the last five years as executive assistant at Forbes/Cohen Properties in Southfield, a shopping center development company.

The prospective bridegroom graduated from Northville High School in 1982. He is a junior at Lawrence Institute of Technology, where he is pursuing a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering. He is presently working for an engineering company in Farmington Hills.

The couple plan an April wedding.

CARLA CORNETT and DOUGLAS COOK

MARGARET LYNN MacGREGOR and GREGORY ALAN MOWBRAY

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Douglas MacGregor of Oakdale, Conn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Lynn, to Gregory Alan Mowbray of New York, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Mowbray of Novi.

The bride-elect graduated from Montville High School in 1988. She attended the University of Connecticut for one year and is now attending the New London School of Business. She is working full-time as a private nurse assistant.

The prospective groom graduated from Novi High School in 1984 and attended Ferris State University for one year. He then enlisted in the U.S. Navy in September 1985 and was assigned to the USS WHALE, a nuclear-powered submarine out of Groton, Conn.

A summer 1989 wedding is planned.

Rules for hosting parties change

By PEG CAMPBELL special writer

A good host used to be someone who mixed a good stiff drink and continually refilled guests' glasses.

Parties of the past tended to have alcohol as a focal point, and gulping a few drinks helped ease tension and anxiety.

During the '80s people became more health conscious and more aware of the dangers associated with drinking and driving. The definition of a good host now implies someone who watches out for guests and makes sure everyone gets home safely.

A good host makes it easy for guests to make responsible drinking decisions.

A new etiquette is emerging for hosting parties with guidelines for making safe drinking decisions. Here are some things to consider in planning to host a holiday party.

Make your guest comfortable in selecting a non-alcoholic beverage. Offer a variety of attractive non-alcoholic beverages. Today there are many festive sparkling waters and sparkling fruit drinks available so it is possible to drink festively without consuming alcohol.

Make non-alcoholic beverages easily accessible.

Never ask a guest why they choose not to drink alcohol — there are many reasons why they choose not to or cannot drink alcohol.

Use discretion in serving alcoholic beverages. A person can absorb about one drink an hour. Let your guests decide when they would like another drink; let them ask for refills. Measure the drinks you serve; don't serve doubles.

It's also a good idea to have someone in charge of the bar rather than let guests mix their own drinks. After a drink or two, people tend to mix their drinks stronger.

Be sure to continue to offer guests the non-alcoholic beverages.

Provide a pleasant atmosphere. The holidays are a prime time for socializing and hosting parties. Social drinking is often associated with these activities.

Minimize alcohol as a focal point of your party. Consider a party theme or games to get people involved. Introduce guests to one another.

Serve snacks so people don't drink on an empty stomach. Don't serve salty foods that stimulate thirst. Some foods help to absorb or slow alcohol absorption. Low-calorie, high-moisture content foods such as raw vegetables are ideal, as are high-protein cheese. Make the food easily accessible.

Keep the area attractive, fresh and ventilated.

Don't let guests drive drunk. It stopped by police and a person's blood alcohol concentration (BAC) level is .10 percent or above, they are legally drunk and can be taken to jail. The penalties are severe and expensive, not to mention degrading and humiliating.

Generally, it takes about four drinks in one hour for a 150-pound person to reach a BAC of .10 percent. However, driving can be greatly impaired before the BAC reaches this level.

Sobriety up takes time. No cold shower, fresh air, black coffee or exercise will speed up the process; you just have to wait it out.

And once a 150-pound person with a BAC of .10 percent stops drinking, it takes more than three hours before the BAC would drop below .05 percent.

If a guest is intoxicated, don't let him drive. Arrange a way home with another guest or call a taxi. Offer the person a place to sleep. Take the car keys away. If necessary, ask others for assistance.

The easiest thing to do is to avoid problems through prevention. Do some planning ahead of time and let your guests know you really care about their safety and the safety of others.

Suggest car pools or designated drivers. Offer the opportunity to spend the night. Stop serving alcohol toward the end of your party. Instead serve coffee and dessert. Although coffee won't sober anyone up, it will serve as a replacement.

And when you're a guest, remember: You have a right to refuse a drink. If you do drink, plan a limit and stick to it. Sip your drink slowly and alternate with non-alcoholic beverages. Snack while drinking. And watch out for your friends.

The One On. This holiday season there is a major emphasis to raise awareness about the risks associated with drinking and driving. Everyone is encouraged to "Be One On" with the Mothers Against Drunk Driving (MADD) red ribbon campaign. Tie a red ribbon to your car as a reminder to anyone entering the vehicle not to drink and drive.

Fatal attraction

Instructor encourages long-term goals

As far as Bill Joyner is concerned, most of us "have a fatal attraction to short-term thinking."

That attraction is not the same kind as in the movie "Fatal Attraction." Even so, it does have negative consequences.

"We tend to lose sight of long-term goals," said Joyner, who teaches public speaking at Wayne State University. Most of us think in terms of immediate success, pleasure and need fulfillment.

"It has to happen right now." Even when we're watching a half-hour program on TV, we'll switch channels again and again, to see what else is on.

The tendency to think of short-term goals is having negative consequences... not only to us personally, but also for our nation and its businesses.

Joyner, who also teaches creative writing and business communication, served six years on the Wayne County Board of Commissioners.

One aspect of motivation is action, Joyner said. Having a positive attitude, being aware, and following through with actions are essential.

Joyner used the example of a Fourth of July parade, held at 10 a.m. in Anytown, U.S.A.

"Only in American do we have parades for anything."

Of the 100 people living in Anytown, about 60 don't know and don't care about the parade. Another 30 would like to go but don't know about the parade because nobody bothered to invite them.

The remaining 10 people include viewers, participants and leaders for the parade. Only two or so of that number will be leaders.

Those percentages of participation and leadership can be boosted, however, Joyner recommended that those at the meeting "touch the lives of someone else every day."

Doing that will help those people feel more a part of life.

"We don't do it enough, my friends," he said. Being aware of the needs of co-workers, neighbors, friends, families and others — and doing something to meet those needs — is essential.

Most of us don't make enough of an effort to involve people, in the workplace and elsewhere, according to Joyner.

"We don't involve people and let them make some of the decisions themselves."

Sometimes, it's enough simply to thank employees for a job well done, "making them feel good about the contribution they're making to the organization you belong to," Joyner said people should give some thought as to what motivates them. For many, achieving success — however that's defined — is the key factor.

Our basic needs start with food, clothing and shelter. Beyond that, a sense of security, including a daily routine, is important.

"We need to feel secure. Once we get that, what are we going to do?"

For Joyner, a sense of belonging is important. People also need a sense of self-esteem and self-fulfillment.

Joyner suggested that people think back to their younger days... at age 17 or 18.

"The barriers aren't up, the walls aren't up. We're feeling good about life."

That attitude doesn't have to disappear later in life, he said. We can feel good about life and don't need to adopt a negative, cynical attitude.

"Show people by doing, by attitude."

Church Notes

Holy Cross Episcopal: Holy Cross Episcopal Church will conduct its annual meeting on Sunday, Jan. 29. A potluck luncheon will follow the 11 a.m. service. Elections to the Bishop's office will be conducted at the annual meeting.

Northville Methodist: First Methodist Church of Northville will conduct a Systematic Training for Effective Parenting (STEP) series of group discussions and readings for eight consecutive weeks, beginning Sunday, Jan. 22.

Sessions will be held from 5-7 p.m. on Jan. 22, Jan. 29, Feb. 5, Feb. 12, Feb. 19, Feb. 26, March 5 and March 12 at First Methodist Church of Northville.

The STEP program is designed to show parents how to effectively communicate with their children. The courses offer a realistic, sensible approach to the parent-child relationship in a training environment. The course is open to the public but enrollment is limited.

Local instructors include Lane Norton and Jane Berquist, the church's director of religious education. For more information about the STEP program call the church's education offices at 349-1144. Reserved enrollment is required.

The Northville Methodist Church is located at Eight Mile and Taft Road in Northville.

Northville Presbyterian: Single Place presents "Anger," a special four-week workshop with Dr. J. Harold Ellens, beginning Jan. 19, 19, Feb. 26, March 5 and March 12 at First Methodist Church of Northville.

Sessions will be offered Thursdays, Jan. 19 and Jan. 26, Feb. 2 and Feb. 9 at 7:30 p.m. in Fellowship Hall of First Presbyterian Church of Northville. Childcare is available.

The Jan. 9 workshop is entitled "The Nature of Anger." The Jan. 26 session will be "How Should Anger Be Managed?" The Feb. 2 workshop is entitled "Constructive Uses of Anger," and the Feb. 9 session will be "Anger and Conflict Resolution."

Cost for the workshop is $22, which includes the "Anger Workshop Book" by Dr. Weisinger. For more information call 349-4911.

St. Paul's Lutheran: The Marriage Enrichment Film Series with Dr. Carl Brecheen and Dr. Paul Faulkner will begin at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Northville beginning Jan. 26.

The series continues for the next seven Thursdays at 8 p.m. The films are winners of the "Best Film Series Awards" given by the Christian Film Distributors Association. The public is invited to attend.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church is at 201 Elm Street in Northville.

Novi Methodist: The Novi United Methodist Women are selling 1989 "Entertainment" books to raise funds for church activities. "Entertainment" is Metro Detroit's leading dining and leisure discount book.

Each book contains a fine-dining section with a distinctive fine dining card plus hundreds of two-for-one coupons for family dining, informal and casual dining, movies, sporting events, special attractions and hotels with savings of 50 percent on almost everything. Jill Hoffman said proceeds from the sale of the books have been earmarked for the mission program.

The 1989 "Entertainment" books are priced at $30 and can be ordered by calling the church office at 349-3522.

Novi Rotary Club seeks host families

The Novi Rotary Club is seeking families interested in hosting a youth exchange student during the 1989-90 school year.

In hopes of encouraging international understanding, the Rotary Club plans to sponsor a student who has been selected and screened by the school district and club members.

Visiting students are required to understand the host country's language. They also must attend a local school and maintain good grades. The students are provided with spending money and are covered by health insurance.

Participating host families of an exchange student are asked to provide housing and meals.

For more information about the Youth Exchange program contact John Eckstrom, president of the Novi Rotary Club, at 349-7600.

Novi Methodist offers family dinners

The 1989 series of "Final Friday" dinners sponsored by the Novi United Methodist Church will begin Friday, Jan. 27, when Jan Talboys and her staff offer a menu featuring Swiss steak.

The family-style dinners are offered the final Friday of each month to encourage families to get together for dinner before heading out to other events in the community.

In addition to Swiss steak, the Jan. 27 menu will include parsley potatoes, cole slaw, rolls, dessert and a beverage. Donations of $5 for adults and $2.50 for children are requested.

The dinner will be served at Novi Methodist from 5:30-7:30 p.m. The church is located on Ten Mile, just west of Meadowbrook Road.

All proceeds from the series of "Final Friday" dinners are earmarked for the Mission Outreach program at Novi Methodist.

Everyone in the community is invited to visit the church and enjoy a home-cooked meal in a friendly atmosphere regardless of religious affiliation.

Genealogy group to host workshop for city residents

FARMINGTON — Novi residents have been invited to participate in a genealogical workshop at the Farmington Hills Public Library on Saturday, Jan. 28, from 1-5 p.m.

The workshop is sponsored by the QuakerTown Chapter of the Michigan Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR), which includes Novi, West Bloomfield, Farmington and Farmington Hills.

For more information call Bea Rodocker at 477-4453 or Kay Wilson at 437-6869.

Conducting the workshop will be Barbara Greene, DAR State Lineage Research Chairman of Birmingham. She will be assisted by Eva Collins of Rochester Hills, the state first vice regent.

The workshop is open to anyone interested in working on family lines. Reservations are not necessary, and family worksheets will be provided.

Those planning to attend are asked to bring any helpful data concerning their ancestors such as birth, death, baptismal and marriage certificates; land, probate and will records; pension papers and service records; family Bibles and genealogies; census records; obituaries; cemetery records and newspaper clippings.

Interested individuals are invited to attend any time throughout the afternoon.

Membership in the DAR is based on descent from a man or woman who served as a sailor, soldier or civil officer in one of the Colonies, or as a recognized patriot who rendered material aid to the cause of independence. Proof of lineage is required.

WINNERS CIRCLE

BY LAURIE KIPPE

Sales for the Michigan Lottery's exciting new instant game, "Fame & Fortune," started January 18. This 40-cent game covers special features of the game including its exciting new weekly TV show.

Q. What's so different about this game?

A. Six lucky lottery players will star on statewide TV each week and get a top prize of $50,000. It will be one of the richest game shows on television. "Fame & Fortune" replaces the instant game, which changed every 8-10 weeks.

In addition to that weekly $50,000 top prize, players will also find other cash awards up for grabs, as well as exciting prizes such as new cars, desert vacations and big screen TVs.

Q. How do you get in on the action?

A. Any scratched-off ticket showing three "TV" symbols qualifies you for the next weekly drawing when signed with name, address and phone number and mailed to: "Fame & Fortune," P.O. Box 30077, Lansing, MI 48909.

Q. When will these drawings be held?

A. After the first six contestants are drawn for the initial TV show on January 28, all drawings will be held during the "Fame & Fortune" TV show and names of the next six contestants will be announced on the air.

Q. What happens if your name is drawn but you miss the show?

A. All contestants will be called by a Lottery representative and invited to enter by Express Mail giving full details. We're sure you will also hear from friends who were watching.

Q. When will "Fame & Fortune" be on TV?

A. Beginning Saturday, January 28, it will appear every Saturday between 7:30-8:00 p.m. The broadcast will also include live drawings of the Daily 3, Daily 4 and Super Lotto games.

Q. What stations will carry the show?

A. All stations now carrying the Monday through Saturday night drawings — WDIV-TV Channel 4 in Detroit; WHTB-TV Channel 4 in Battle Creek; WZZM-TV Channel 25 in Flint; WZZM-TV Channel 13 in Grand Rapids; WILX-TV Channel 10 in Lansing and Jackson; WLUC-TV Channel 6 in Marquette; WGTQ-TV Channel 9 in Sault Ste. Marie; and WGTU-TV Channel 29 in Traverse City, as well as some local cable outlets.

Q. Will "Fame & Fortune" still have smaller prizes that can be won instantly?

A. Yes. Besides a chance to go on TV, millions of players can still win prizes of $2, $5, $25, $50 or $100. These are paid by any lottery ticket retailer.

For submitting a question leading to this column, Clara Rounds of Mt. Pleasant will receive 50 "Fame & Fortune" tickets.

Laser videodiscs offer quality

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

Very few consumers know that the predecessor to the compact disc — the laser videodisc — is the ultimate video format.

Laserdiscs have been around since the late '70s, but for several reasons they never garnered as much attention from the public as VHS or Beta video tapes. Ironically, laserdiscs run rings around either in picture, sound reproduction and versatility.

Laserdiscs (also called CDVs) are 12-inch circular discs that look an overgrown compact disc. A low-power laser scans a rotating disc encoded with images and sound, picks up the reflection, "reads" them as electromagnetic impulses, and converts them to pictures and sounds. Compact discs were actually an offshoot of the technology developed for laserdiscs.

The format is very popular in Japan (over 14 million units sold) but is also taking off in the U.S. — finally. "Goldmine Magazine" reports that there are nearly a million laserplayers in America, making it the fastest-growing video medium in the country.

One of the reasons it took over a decade for this system to really catch on is people mistakenly equated videodiscs with the old RCA Selectavision Discs. Three years after the videodisc was introduced, RCA spent millions to promote a competitive system (that was made of vinyl), was played by a needle, had poor picture reproduction and mono sound.

"The whole Selectavision system was really a backward step," said Robin Ward, an employee at LaserLand in Novi. "They were made of vinyl and very fragile, and the picture quality was no better than VHS. The replacement needle was $70 and eventually, the whole thing died."

"But because of its high visibility, people made the assumption that all video discs died — and that wasn't true."

Throughout the whole RCA fiasco, Pioneer Electronics kept the laserdisc format alive when almost all other companies were sinking their money and efforts into VHS and Beta video tapes — and that was good news for audiophiles.

The laserdisc system has many advantages. Because there is no physical contact between the playback mechanism and the laserdisc, there is no wear. A laserdisc looks and sounds as good on the 1,000 time you play it as it does the first — which is something a video tape can't claim.

"It definitely had a big advantage over friction formats," Ward said. "Like a compact disc, it was designed to be the best possible signal source and it cannot become obsolete."

Another perceived drawback with laserdiscs is that unlike video tapes, you can't record onto them — but, according to Ward, it is not a very valid complaint.

"That's kind of silly because you can't record onto video tapes you rent or buy either," he said. "According to surveys done by the Electronic Industries Association, only eight percent of all people who own VCRs tape shows anyway.

"People who buy CDs don't complain that they can't tape onto them."

There are currently over 3,000 different titles (movies, music videos, concerts, documentaries, etc.) available on laserdiscs — everything from classics like "Citizen Kane" to recent releases like "Beetlejuice." Prices are comparable — and in many instances — cheaper than video tapes. New videodiscs range in price from $19 to $49 with an average of about $29. LaserLand currently offers about 1,200 rental discs and 1,500 others for sale.

"If you don't count all the 'B' movies and bargain cheapies out on video tapes, there's not much difference in the number of titles offered," Ward noted. "In addition, the prices of videodiscs are as cheap or cheaper."

Laserplayers are quite expensive, but no more so than a good quality, four-head VCR. The price range is somewhere between $700 and $1,400, and the units are very versatile — they can play any size videodisc and well as compact discs.

"The Wall Street Journal called the laser videodisc player 'the VCR of the '90s,'" and Popular Science did a feature on it called "The Everything Machine," Ward said.

Students to perform 'Oklahoma'

Novi High School will present Rodgers and Hammerstein's classical musical "Oklahoma" Thursday through Saturday, Jan. 26, 27 and 28, at 8 p.m.

State-ranked Wildcats dunk Chelsea

Brother combos set pace

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

With front-line swimmers like the Cohen and Speerschneider brothers, the Novi tank team has been — and still is — a powerful squad capable of registering a streak of first-place finishes in quick succession.

But depth problems always seemed to hold the team back — until this season. An impressive group of underclassmen and a solid group of veteran returnees have provided Wildcat Swim Coach Larry Teahan with unprecedented depth, turning Novi from just a good team to a squad ranked among the top 10 in the state.

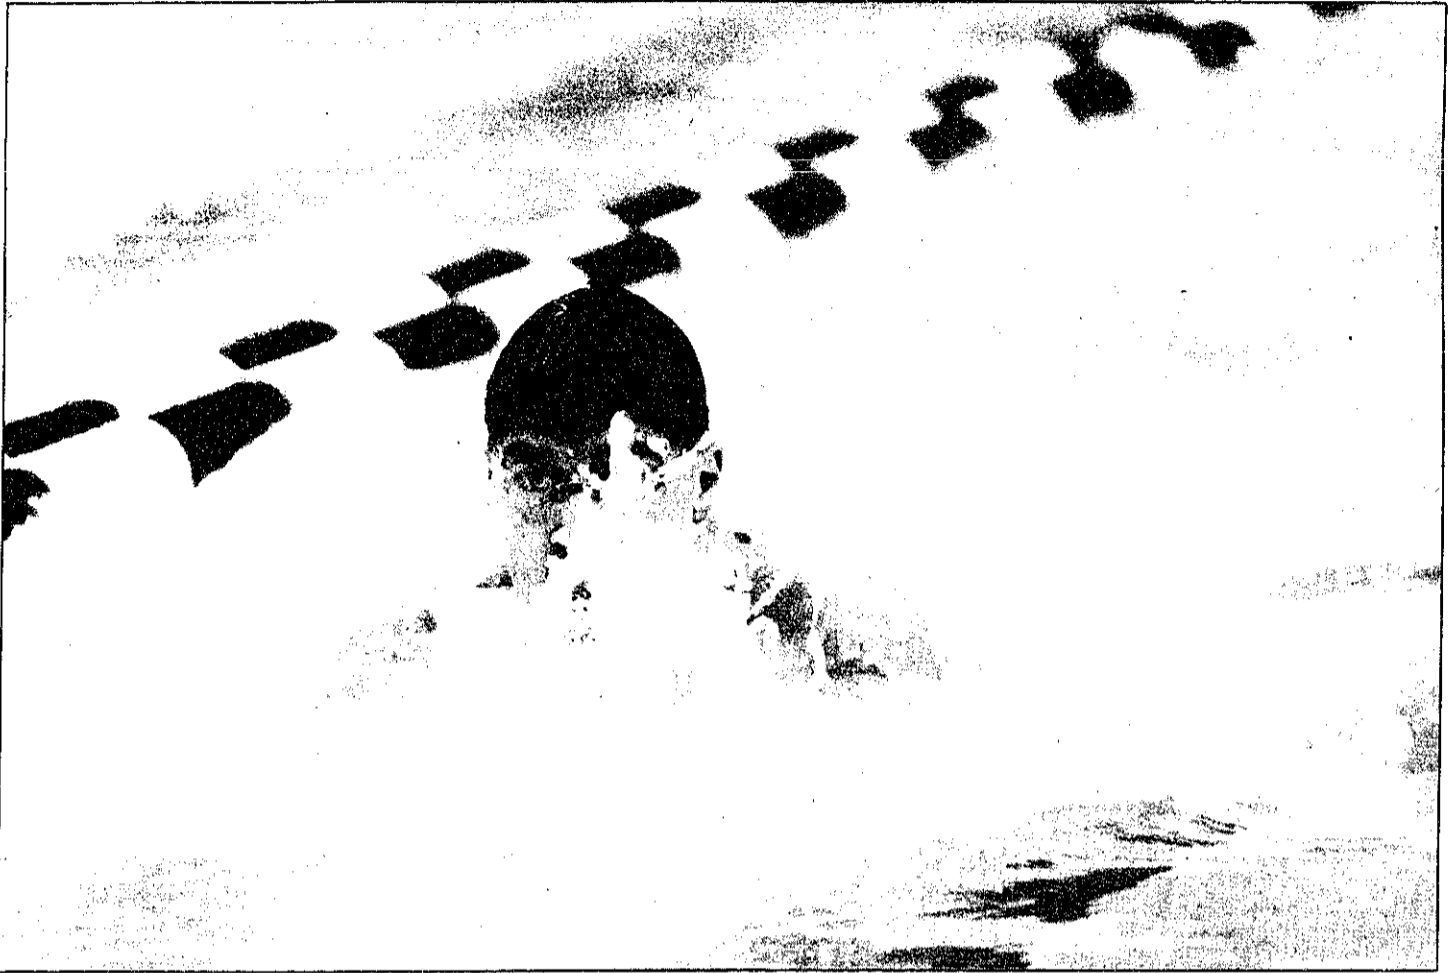

Novi showed quality depth as well as strength in the top of the line-up on Jan. 12 en route to a 109-63 thrashing of host Chelsea — a team the 'Cats usually struggle against.

"We felt pretty good about the way it went," said Teahan's assistant Rick Anderson. "Heading in, we really didn't have any concerns about beating (Chelsea), so we swam the kids in a lot of different events. It was a chance for us to get ready for some tough meets we have coming up."

The unbeaten Wildcats (5-0 overall) notched wins in nine of 11 events and added a multitude of seconds, third and fourths against the Bulldogs — which helped Novi build points toward a 43-point triumph.

One of the highlights was freshman Derek Speerschneider, who registered personal-best times in two events. Speerschneider took first place honors in the 100-yard backstroke (59.96) and then cut a full five seconds off his previous best time in the 200 IM (2:12.07) and placed second.

Steve Cohen was the only double winner for the 'Cats, taking the honors in the 200 IM (2:07.53) and the 100 butterfly (57.38).

from Jon Cohen in the 200 freestyle (pool record time of 1:45.78), Rudy Speerschneider in the 50 freestyle (23.30), Steve Strausberg in the 100 freestyle (52.71), Bob Bates in the 100 breaststroke (1:07.46), the 200 medley relay team of Derek Speerschneider, Jon Cohen, Strausberg and Rudy Speerschneider (1:44.88) and the 400 freestyle relay team of Jon Cohen, Steve Cohen, Mark Chirgwin and Rudy Speerschneider (3:24.76).

Wildcats swimmers who notched runner-up finishes were Chirgwin in the 200 freestyle (1:58.86), Jeff Leahy in the 100 butterfly (58.99), James May in the 100 freestyle (54.19) and Josh Matta in the 500 freestyle (5:14.30).

Registering third-placed finishes were Jim Luther in diving (128.45 point total), Chirgwin in the 100 freestyle (54.55), Phil Byers in the 500 freestyle (5:23.75), Strausberg in the 50 freestyle (23.81), Dan Sveller in the 100 backstroke (1:05.72) and Jon Mutch in the 100 breaststroke (1:12.09).

"It was exciting to see so many young kids do well," Anderson said. "It bodes well for the future."

The Novi tankers will not get back into action until Tuesday, Jan. 24, when they travel to Northville.

RANKINGS: The Wildcats are currently rated fourth in the state Class A rankings compiled by the Michigan High School Swimming Association.

ATHLETE OF THE WEEK: Sometime this week, WXYZ reporter and Novi resident John Gross is expected to be on-hand at a Novi swim team's practice, presumably to present Channel 7's 'Athlete of the Week' award to Wildcat star Jon Cohen.

Wildcat cagers winless for '89

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
staff writer

Missed opportunities down the stretch undermined the Novi basketball team's bid to end an 0-for-1989 losing streak.

The Wildcat cagers dropped two more games last week and are 0-4 this month and 2-7 overall (1-3 in the Kensington Valley Conference).

In a 71-58 loss to host Redford Union on Jan. 13 in a non-conference clash, Novi played a very sloppy game but still had a chance to pull it out in the final minutes, before falling by 13.

"We had so many chances, but we didn't shoot well and we had a lot of turnovers," Wildcat Coach John Cicchelli said. "We must have missed 20 shots inside the lane — and you only get so many easy shots like that. You have to convert them."

The Panthers opened a modest 16-11 lead after one quarter before Novi cut it to 29-25 at halftime. The first half featured ragged play by both teams as the 'Cats turned the ball over 14 times while Union was registering 12 turnovers.

Trailing by eight points with seven seconds remaining in the third quarter, Novi had an ideal chance to make a run when a Panther player was whistled for a foul and then was hit with a technical foul.

Unfortunately, the Wildcats were unable to take advantage of the situation and came away empty-handed.

"We had a whole bunch of free throws and possession of the ball," Cicchelli said. "We had a chance to get seven quick points and cut it to one heading into the fourth, but we didn't score a single point."

Union proceeded to turn the ball over on its first four possessions of the final quarter, but again Novi failed to take advantage of the opportunity.

Midway through the fourth, the Panthers increased the lead to 12, but a late-surge by the Wildcats narrowed the gap to five with a little over a minute remaining. It was, however, as close as Novi would get. Union hit a slew of free throws in the final minute to end the comeback bid.

Forward Brett Csordas led the 'Cats with 18 points, Mark Fisher added 14 and Ed Cote chipped in 10. Reserve center Brad Rockman also had a fine game with nine points and 10 rebounds. Joe Dellgaw paced Union with 24 points — all of them coming in the second half.

BRIGHTON 65, NOVI 63: The visiting Bulldogs have had more than their share of close defeats this season, but they turned the tables on host Novi and pulled out this heart-stopper on Jan. 10.

"It was a very tough loss to take," Cicchelli said. "We had numerous opportunities to win it at the end of the game, but we didn't convert. Those missed opportunities cost us the game."

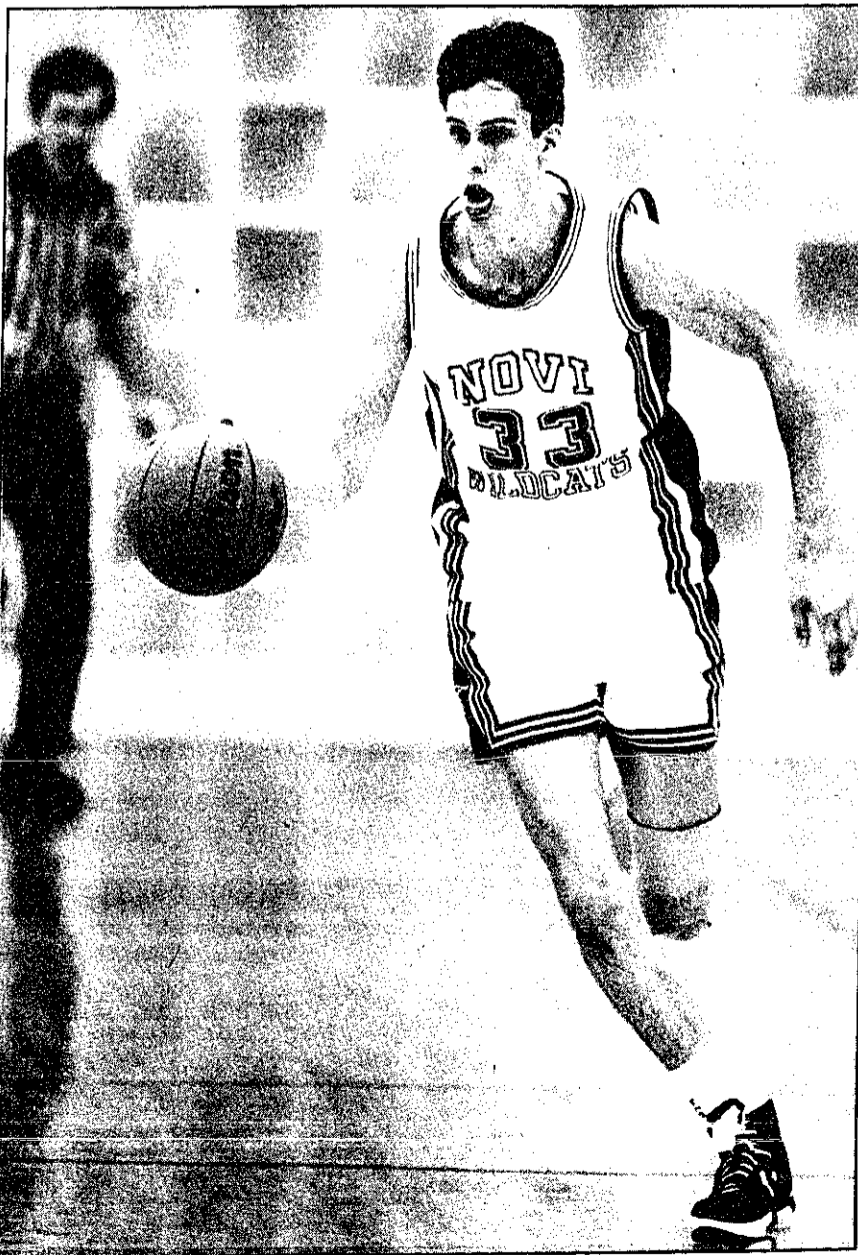

In a very evenly-played first half, neither team amassed much of a lead. The Wildcats had three chances in the final 30 seconds of the first half to take the lead but turned the ball over all three times and had to settle for a 31-30 deficit.

In the third quarter, the lead changed hands seven times and it became obvious that the outcome would be decided in the final seconds.

Cote hit a clutch basket with a minute left in the game to pull Novi within one at 61-60, and, after the 'Cats called a time out, Cicchelli immediately set up a half-court trapping defense.

The strategy worked as the Bulldogs turned the ball over the next three times they had the ball, but once again the Wildcats failed to convert.

Cote led all scorers with 23 points and five steals. Fisher added 18 points, while Csodas contributed 12 points and 10 rebounds.

Kelly sparks Bobcat tankers

Erich Kelly garnered a string of top finishes when the Novi Bobcat Swim Club took to the water at the Bulldog Aquatic Club's annual 'A' meet at Livonia Churchill High School last weekend.

Competing in the boys 10-and-under division, Kelly sparked the Bobcat tankers by posting top-six finishes in seven events. He was first in both the 200-yard freestyle (2:15.74) and 100 backstroke (1:14.57); second in the 200 IM (2:38.20), 100 freestyle (1:02.58) and 100 breaststroke (1:25.37); third in the 100 IM (1:14.65); and fifth in the 50 freestyle (28.99).

Kelly has now qualified in every event offered at the state meet.

Swimming in the boys 11-12 age group, Shawn Kelly finished third in the 50 backstroke (35.17) and fourth in the 100 freestyle (1:04.92).

In the girls' 11-12 year old division, Christy Tokraks was fifth in the 100 butterfly (1:17.04).

"We had a great outing as a team with every swimmer dropping their times," said Bobcat Coach Brad Burget. "That's what it is all about."

CLARENCEVILLE TANKERS: Local members of the Clarenceville Swim Club also performed well in the same competition.

Jeff Sieving (10-and-under division) was first in both the 100 breaststroke (1:21.41) and 200 IM (2:33.87); second in the 100 butterfly (1:09.77) and the 100 IM (1:13.42); and third in the 50 butterfly (31.77), the 100 freestyle (1:04.32) and the 200 freestyle (2:20.07). Sieving also was a member of the 200 medley and the 200 freestyle relay teams, which both registered third-place finishes. In the girls' 13-14 year old division, Teri Juhasz was fifth in 200 butterfly (2:29.19)

Young girls should avoid diets

By AMY ROSA
staff writer

How young is too young to diet? Most health professionals admit there are occasions when overweight teens need to follow a weight-reduction program. However, they also agree that the concept of "dieting" can get out of hand when undertaken by a youngster, particularly a girl who wants to shed pounds for no other reasons than to look or remain svelte-like.

Dieting is not only not recommended by most in-the-know, but is seen as down right dangerous in some instances. Tales of anorexia and bulimia are too rampant for anyone to doubt the seriousness of the problem.

Not only does society's — including the media's — image of the slender model-type exacerbate the problem, but peer pressure is a factor too, according to Pediatrician Dr. Henry Marcus.

Marcus deals with the teen and dieting issues from his Livonia practice routinely. He said some teens just look at their classmates and "decide they want to be as skinny as them." Then they end up neglecting their bodies to achieve the unhealthy goal, he added. He discourages that type of "dieting" at all costs.

With children who actually could benefit from losing weight, he said behavior management is the key. "We don't like to refer to it as a diet. It involves a change in their attitude," he said, explaining that nutrition, exercise and counseling are part of the package he offers for teens needing to reduce.

Novi Middle School Home

Economics teacher Nanci Olgren has seen similar situations with her students. "In the past I've had girls come into the foods and nutrition classroom and tell me they couldn't eat the food we were preparing because they were on a diet."

Olgren says she hasn't heard those comments much lately, but admits it is a concern. "I tell my students that now is the time their bodies are developing. Now is the time their bodies are growing, and now is the time their bodies need lots of different kinds of food."

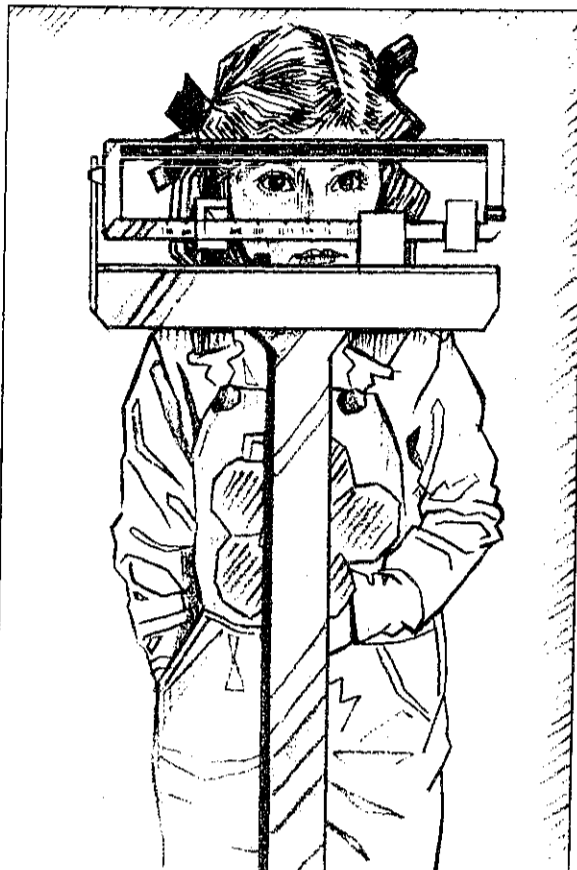

Olgren discounts remarks from "self-proclaimed experts" on nutrition, who say individuals don't need certain food products and that the basic four food groups is passe. "I don't believe that."

Mostly, said Olgren, she has encountered a positive approach to food among her students. For instance, upon preparing food dishes for class, "We very seldom have any food left over," she said.

"I'm talking about preparations such as carrots, broccoli, muffins, granola and fruit salad," Olgren added, dispelling the myth that all teens want to eat is "junk food" or sweets.

She also tells students that a treat now and then is okay, she said, explaining that pizza — a highly popular food with youngsters — isn't a bad food choice. Only when someone eats pizza several times a week does it cause a problem, she explained, because that causes important foods to be left out of their diets.

"When mother talked about three square meals a day, she meant three meals planned from the basic four," she said.

MedSport schedules health tests

MedSport is offering a health tests at local Kroger stores on Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 24-25, and Monday and Tuesday, Jan. 30/Jan. 31, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m.

The test will include cholesterol and blood pressure screenings. Nutritional advice also will be offered. Cost is $7. For more information call 763-7400.

Expectant parent class: The Oakland County Health Division will offer a series of six Expectant Parent Classes beginning Feb. 9, in the Bartlett Friendship Center Room 116, Community Education, 350 School Street, South Lyon.

Classes taught by public health nurses will be held from 7-9 p.m. The classes are free, but pre-registration is requested due to limited enrollment.

Topics will include maternal physical changes, good nutrition, growth and development of the fetus and the baby, labor and delivery, infant care and parenting. Parents are advised to enroll as early in the pregnancy as possible.

Establish a mind set for happiness

By SYLVA DVORAK, M.S.
special writer

"People say they want to be happy, yet real happiness seems like the impossible dream. Everyone reaches for it so desperately, but for many of us, it never seems to come any closer.

What are we doing wrong? Is it the times we live in? Do we expect too much? Do we want the wrong things?"

The preceding excerpt from How to Be Your Own Best Friend (Newman & Berkowitz, 1971) points out some valid questions. Think about them for a little while, but don't let them get you down.

There are many people who are happy with their lives. You have probably met people who radiate a certain energy and you may have wondered what their secret is. Happiness, that is the answer; too many of us have not mastered the art of being truly happy.

Often we pursue "things" which we believe will make us happy. This could be where we get sidetracked. Once these things are reached or attained, we expect happiness to just happen to us. And maybe, for a short while, it will. But eventually we realize we've been looking for happiness in the wrong place. True happiness is not outside us; it has to come from within.

What is this really saying to you? It means we hold the key to our own happiness, to fulfill our potentials, our dreams. We are responsible for how we live our lives. We control the switch to the choices we make and whether we have a good time. But, remember, if you are angry or upset, you have a right to feel this way.

You need to go through certain emotions, both good and bad; yet there is no need for negative thoughts to take over your life. It is easy to get swallowed up in our own sorrow or self-pity, because it's safer not to change your behavior. Security, after all, is comfortable; it makes our world easier to manage.

But to be truly happy, we have to take that step forward. Take the challenge of life, climb that mountain, make that speech. How else will you ever know you can do it? Stop using the words, "I can't."

If you decide to help yourself, you can choose to do those things which make you feel good about yourself. It's time to stop putting yourself down. Be kind to yourself, look at your achievements, find the things you like about yourself, and continually remind yourself of them.

Believe in yourself, praise yourself and visualize yourself being truly happy while striving for your goals.

Affirmations are one way to change the negative "tapes" your subconscious plays continually. You know the ones I'm talking about: they tell you how rotten, unworthy, unlovable and stupid you are. Affirmations are always positive and, eventually, they all come true.

The following are some affirmations you might want to use. Repeat to yourself 10 times daily: "I am healthy, strong, powerful, loving, successful and happy."

Or you might say: "I am a good person."

Another is, "I like myself — a lot."

Yet another you could say is, "I can fulfill any goal I set for myself." If you have trouble saying affirmations out loud, start by writing them in a journal. If you tape your affirmations, you can listen to them while driving, exercising or even falling asleep.

Just think what a different world we would all live in, if we all loved ourselves. As Venice Bloodworth wrote in his book Key to Yourself (1972): "True happiness is a state of mind and must come to you through recognition of your own power and the finding of your own place in the world."

The Novi News is working with medical authorities at the University of Michigan Medical Center (M-Care) in Northville to provide up-to-date information on a variety of health-related topics. The series is coordinated by Peg Campbell of the M-Care staff.

Traveling This Winter?

the Honeywell Winter Watchman

HONEYWELL WINTER WATCHMAN

... You can provide your neighbor with an easy, convenient way to make absolutely sure your house is warm while you're away. The Winter Watchman eliminates the chore of daily trips into your house. Instead, your neighbor just looks for a light in your window. If something should happen and the indoor temperature falls, the Winter Watchman turns on a lamp to signal your neighbor. Then, corrective action can be taken before freeze-up occurs. As long as your neighbor sees no light your house is warm.
