Budget goes before council

By JAN JEFFRES staff writer

A nine-pound baby was delivered in Novi Monday: the city's proposed budget for fiscal year 1990-1991.

But it's the city council which faces seven weeks or so of labor pains as it sifts through the hefty document during a series of regular and special meetings in April and May. A public hearing on the budget will be held on May 7. By city charter, the budget must be adopted by the third week in May. The city's fiscal year runs from July 1 through June 30, 1991. For the upcoming year, it's estimated that Novi will have a general fund of $11,054,203. This year's (1989-1990) general fund is expected to total out at $9,330,430.

The city's property tax base has grown by $113 million to reach a total state equalized valuation (SEV) of $1.025 billion. This is a 12percent increase. However, the budget is based on the expectation that about $11 million will be lost to board of review and state tax tribunal adjustments.

The SEV increase is attributed to $57 million in new construction and 6 million in increased market valuation of properties. The new construction brought in 50 percent of the $400,000 increase in property taxes to be collected by the city in 1990-1991.

This increase in property market values will trigger a rollback of general-fund millage rates under the Headlee Amendment. Ultimately, the proposed budget outlines a millage reduction from 11.1761 to 11.0624 mills.

It is also anticipated that the city's millage rates will fall under the state Truth in Taxation law. Truth in Taxation requires local governments to maintain consistent property-tax revenue from year to year - or else to take a special vote to raise the revenue. Additional tax money from a growth in SEV results in either a millage reduction to keep revenue consistent, or a public hearing and specific city council approval of the increase. Over half of the city's revenue will come from property taxes: 44 percent, or $4,900,636 - plus an additional 13 percent, or $1,417,164, from the police and fire millage. Another 18 percent, or $2 million, will come from state revenuesharing funds.

Report supports dispatchers

By JAN JEFFRES staff writer

Dispatchers at the Novi Public Safety Communications Center contend that they are overworked and overstressed in a department that is underpaid and understaffed.

Agreeing there is a problem, at the request of Assistant City Manager Craig Klaver, the city paid $3,000 to Omnicom Inc., a Tallahassee, Florida-based telecommunications engineering company for a study of the center. The dispatch department handles Lyon, Lyon Township and part of Salem Township.

Omnicom essentially backed up with the dispatchers. But Klaver says he isn't sure how objective that conclusion is because the company's representatives did not speak to the city's or police department's administrative staff. Only the dispatchers were contacted during the Dec. 20 review of the communications department.

In a memo to city council, Klaver said that the Omnicom report is additional training and are paid 20 "one sided and subjective, focusing percent less than dispatchers in on opinions and attitudes. It is fur-neighboring communities. ther filled with inaccurate facts . . . the statistics themselves are not ob-position than any position in this ci-jective. This is because the dispatchers claim that during busy periods they did not record an additional 20 percent of the calls actually handled. Given their overwhelming interest in adding personnel, I emergency calls for Novi, South am uncomfortable accepting such Klaver recommended to the city council that two dispatchers and one administrative manager be hired, rather than the four dispatchers and one manager suggested in the report.

"The problems are clear. The difficulty is the answer," Klaver told the city council Monday.

Klaver refuted Omnicom's suggestion that the dispatchers needed

"There's more training for this ty," he said, adding the Novi dispatchers are paid about 10 percent less than their peers elsewhere.

The dispatchers are members of the Novi Police Officers Association of Michigan and have a union contract expiring in June 1991. They have a starting salary of $18,000 which rises to $22,571 after three years. Klaver said some of the more highly paid dispatchers elsewhere have undergone more recent contract negotiations.

Council Member Martha Hoyer agreed with Klaver's overall assessment of the report.

"It's a very one-sided study: I'm very disappointed that they didn't go on to the administration viewpoint ... It's very important not just to talk to the employees," she said. "We have the responsibility for dispatching for other communities. We do owe them the responsibility of having the best possible dispatch service . . . I think we do need some help. It needs a department head or a manager to facilitate or coordinate."

Klaver said there was a definite problem in the department which may be addressed as the city works through its fiscal 1990-1991 budget over the next month and a half. He suggested that adding part-time staff or working out a swing-shift program could address the difficulty the dispatchers now have in taking lunch hours and breaks.

Council Member Joseph Toth said the report "highlighted some holes in our system" — including a dif-ficulty in taking breaks and lunches and a seven-percent turnover in staff over the past two years.

"Evidently, they grab whatever (meal) time they get and there is no one to give them any relief. That's a serious problem . . . I'm surprised to hear the radio coverage is spotty. What they're saying flatly is there is no backup. That's a serious problem that has to be addressed by this council and this administration," he said, calling for a sixmonth action plan.

Park vote slated for Tuesday

By JAN JEFFRES staff writer

April showers or not, the City of Novi is hoping that its second park millage ballot question will bring voters to the polls Tuesday for a special election.

Or at least those voters who are prepared to say yes to a charter amendment raising the millage limit levied for parks and recreation from one-half mill to one full mill. With the approximately $512,500 in revenue the millage is expected to generate from the city's $1,025 million in state equalized valuation of property, the goal is to ultimately buy at least 500 acres of parkland by the year 2010.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at all precincts, and City Clerk Gerry Stipp said that voting should go quickly. This is the only question which will appear on the ballots - paper ballots to save the city money. Stipp added this is the first time she recalls the city having a special election of this nature.

The millage would increase annual property taxes by $25 a year for the owner of a $100,000 home.

The millage money would be used to create a wooded and wetlands area with nature trails within Novi, said Parks and Recreation Director Dan Davis. The city also hopes to buy land for fields for the parks and recreation department's growing softball, tee ball and soccer programs. Over 2,000 adults and 800 children participate in the softball and tee ball programs, while 700 kids play on the soccer teams.

At the city council meeting Monday, Mayor Matthew Quinn closed the session with a brief pitch for the millage: "I would certainly hope the residents of the city would get out and support the parks and recreation millage . . This may be a last opportunity to attain permanent funding for the purchase of parklands in Novi."

Quinn added the developers are buying up all available land, pushing the prices upward.

Police charge bank suspect

By SHEILA PHILLIPS staff writer

A 40-year-old Fowlerville woman has been charged with the Oct. 5 robbery of the Comerica Bank on Novi Road. Patricia Anne Kozdron was arraigned in 52nd District Court on March 12 for the Novi robbery, in which $2,100 cash was reported

Police said that a woman approached a Comerica teller at 10:30 a.m. the day of the robbery. She handed the teller a black clutch purse and asked her to fill it with money. "The teller told us that the woman asked her to fill up the bag and not be stingy," Novi Det. Jack Grubb said. The suspect did not have a gun at the time of the robbery nor did she indicate that she had a gun, according to Novi police.

Witnesses told police that the suspect was a middle-aged woman wearing a light brown wig and

A woman matching that description was apprehended by Meridian Township Police on Feb. 20 after a high-speed chase on I-96 west of Fowlerville.

The Meridian police were responding to a 10:26 a.m. report of a bank robbery at the Capitol Federal Bank in Okemos, when they spotted a vehicle matching the description of a car reported to be involved in a string of bank robberies in the area.

Meridian Det. Robert Olko spotted the gray Pontiac Phoenix hatchback on Okemos Road six minutes after the reported robbery. He engaged in a high-speed chase down I-96 and called for backup.

Kozdron was apprehended after crashing into the back of a police car which was blocking her path, according to Olko.

AN OPEN INVITATION...

I'm excited for this opportunity to sincerely thank all whom are currently experiencing the quality of fresh food products at MANCUSO'S in Northville. For those who have yet to visit MANCUSO'S, I openly invite you to do so this weekend from Friday, March 30 thru Sunday, April 1.

WHAT TYPE OF MARKET IS MANCUSO'S? Mancuso's is a quality fresh food market specializing in fruits, vegetables, meats, deli and the personal service and respect people in this area deserve! MANCUSO'S offers premium in-season fruits and vegetables transported from all areas of the country and the world. At MANCUSO'S you will also discover what I believe to be the most unique meat/meal counter anywhere. Unlike other area stores which offer a seemingly endless aisle of meat counters, MANCUSO'S takes the confusion out of your meal and its preparation.

Over the years, as a wholesale produce purveyor for many of the area's top quality hotels, restaurants and institutions and working with several chefs, I always envisioned the concept of pro-prepared meals available for the active family. For example, try the popular oven ready Cranberry-Sage stuffed Chicken Breast; pick-up a fresh Caesar Salad (just one of many varieties of salads-to-go), a fresh bunch of California Asparagus, along with some Yukon Gold Potatoes and finish it off with Ben & Jerry's Chocolate Fudge Sundae Ice Cream. You can plan your entire week's meals at MANCUSO'S.

My offer to you is this: Stop in this weekend, with this ad, make a '10 purchase and will give you your choice of a Stuffed Cranberry-Sage Chicken Breast or a premium quality New York Strip Steak to signify my confidence in your guaranteed satisfaction. Discover MANCUSO'S!

Note: This FREE offer valid this Friday, Saturday and Sunday OU MUST PRESENT THIS ENTIRE AD TO RECEIVE THIS OFFER.

We chose Forethoughts

funeral planning It's one of those things that's so easy to put off, put out of your mind. And I guess that's what I was doing. But, once he started asking me questions about how I wanted my funeral to be, I realized how important it is for the people we leave behind to know these things. He had no idea that I wanted a simple eulogy, and just that discussion alone started us on all sorts of other topics. I found out he doesn't like organ music. We even had a few laughs.

Forethought is funeral planning...

before the need arises I thought planning our funerals together would be a terribly sad thing. But, actually, it brought us both a great sense of relief. Now we know neither one of us has all those decisions facing us in the future and we won't have to second-guess whether we did the right thing...did what the other one would have wanted. It's all planned and even paid for with the Forethought life insurance policy designed and approved specifically for Forethought funeral planning. And, there's a policy available to anyone up to age 100. Holloway registered with the county irrespective of the local community. We've had a lot of feedback from the residents in the community. I hope the county commission will give us a little respect and heed some of the comments we make," Kriewall said. The council resolution makes the following points:

☐ The council is opposed to the inclusion of the Holloway landfill site in the county's Public Act 641 plan. □ No community should be re guired to host more than one operating solid-waste facility at a time without consent of the local

☐ The Oakland County Solid Waste Management Plan should include a fast-track process for disposal facilities, similar to those followed in Monroe and Wayne coun quired to get approval from the community's government. Communities in which disposal facilities are located should be compensated by the county.

□ Disposal facilities should be limited to those needed for no longer than a 20-year time span (to avoid the state claiming a right to use a longerterm landfill site). ☐ Facilities needed for additional capacity should be determined during five-year plan updates. Before the Oakland County Solid Waste Management Committee agrees to place a site in the Public Act 641 plan, the host community must be notified in writing with sufficient time to respond to the committee before any requests are accepted. The question is whether the county will adhere to Novi's resolution. "I sure hope so; otherwise this would just be an exercise in futility. However, I don't think that one community has the power to change the 641 plan. I think it can only be done through several communities, but think this will at least get people thinking," said Chuck Kureth, who serves as chair of the city's environmental advisory committee and its planning commission, as well as co-chair of the county's Landfill Siting Advisory Committee.

Copies of the resolution will be sent to the Oakland County commissioners: County Executive Daniel Murphy; State Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills; and State Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Milford. Kureth said that the planning commission has not yet received any submittals from Holloway. The company was instructed by the council to submit its current plans for the reclamation of the gravel mining site as a landfill to the commission.

Drunk driving rises in city

John Zimmer looks over the confiscated alcohol in the Novi Police Department property room.

By SHEILA PHILLIPS

The Novi Police Department is sending out a message: don't drink and

And especially not in Novi, because local officers are waging war against drunken drivers In 1989, police officers arrested 317 people for driving under the influence of alcohol — an increase of 456 percent over the last 5 years.

In the last two months, Novi officers have arrested over 64 people for drunken driving "We are averaging over one arrest a day," said Capt. Richard Faulkner. "People are getting stopped for drunk driving all the time. "You hear about it in on TV: you read about it in the newspapers still, people just don't think it will

But the reality is that it can. It can take as little as one to two lrinks an hour to be legally intoxcated, according to police figures.
"People just don't think about the sequences," Faulkner said. "The reality is that they can have their dicenses suspended, taken away or

The first time someone is convicted driving under the influence of alcohol, it is a misdemeanor punishable with up to 90 days in jail and/or a fine of $100 to $500. The per son's driver's license is also suspended for at least six months but not ore than two years.

The second conviction within seven years can carry a jail sentence of up to one year and/or a fine of up to $1,000. The person's license is also 4 The third time in 10 years, the person is guilty of a felony and could spend up to four years in prison. Anyone pulled over for suspected drunken driving can expect to be given a sobriety test on the spot. "If an officer detects the odor of alcohol or if the person has been drivling erratically, he or she will be asked to get out of the car and walk heelsto-toe and to raise one leg at a time,'

"The individual will also be asked to take a preliminary breath test and their blood alcohol content is over 310, they are arrested, their car is towed away and their rights will be explained," he continued. The individual will be taken down to the booking room and asked to take a Breathalyzer test. If the person refuses, their license will be suspended and they will have to appear at a separate hearing before the state department, according to Faulkner problem," Faulkner said. "But the juestion is, what do we do about it?" He said the police department is engaged in a proactive battle against drunk driving – holding information resisions in the middle and high Nevertheless, drunken driving is still on the rise in Novi. · More officers on the road making rarrests and population increases were two reasons cited. But an increase in the number of establishments serving alcohol is probably the biggest reason, according to the captain. Prior to 1970, the City of Novi only had 10 liquor licenses, but 15 more were added during the '70s and 21 were added in the '80s. "There are more people out there o drink and more places for them to frink at," Faulkner said.

about a challenge issued by Borders Book Shop to children in the area. The idea was to get the kids to give up TV for a week, with the thought that they would read more instead.

Jan Jeffres interviewed some children who met the challenge, and who didn't find the sacrifice all that hard.

Willis As a bit of a TV junkie myself, I feel a little bit guilty about the whole thing.

Feeling guilty for watching TV is not a new emotion for me. It seems like ever since I became old enough to socialize with trendy people wearing grown-up clothes I've been apologizing for knowing all the words to the "Love Boat" theme song.

When I was in college and working in the dorm cafeteria, the pot-scubber team on which I proudly served was rather well-known for our stirring renditions of such popular theme tunes as "Green Acres," 'The Beverly Hillbillies' and that all-time classic, "Gilligan's Island".

TV was a unifying cultural identity for my generation. While my parents' generation had the big-band sound and Frank Sinatra hits to hum to as a group, my peer group related to TV.

Then they pulled the rug out from under us.

TV is falling out of fashion

Somebody decided that TV and its rather mindless hour after hour of sitcoms was not socially acceptable. People looked down their noses at you at parties if you dared to bring up what happened on Dallas. "I really don't watch TV at all," was the popular mantra.

Well, a lot of us went undeground with our addiction. Don't get me wrong - books, magazines and obviously newspapers play a very big role in my life. But I have been known to while away the time while watching some of TV's trashiest moments. I'm not proud of it but I am resigned to it.

But one thing the new-found sense of order has done is put TV in its place. It shouldn't be the first thing we turn to when we're looking for something to do. The children who gave up TV for a week found the time was easily filled with books, games, music lessons, sports and just using their imaginations in good-old-fashioned

A lot of us adults could learn a lesson from that.

As a person who makes her living writing, or at least pushing the written word off on people, I am thrilled there is a movement afoot to return to books and the gentle art of reading.

A couple of Sundays ago I stopped in at Borders Books in the Town Center and was pleased to see something that I normally hate to run into when I'm shopping. Crowds of people.

What a wonderful turn of events. This may be a trend I can get into.

The census form is taxing

We're told that, just like paying taxes and voting, it's our civic duty to answer the U.S. Census. (Actually, the government sends us the message that sending in that form is even more important than voting: it's illegal not to answer the census.)

I have every intention of answering the census. I want to Bob do my civic duty. I want to be Needham sure my city gets all the stateshared revenue that's due to it. I don't want to be convicted of a misdemeanor.

But wait a minute. Nobody told me it would be so

When, along with countless other Americans, I pulled the census form out of the mailbox last Friday, I felt just a twinge of uneasiness at its size. A visit to my parents' house confirmed my suspicions: I was one of the randomly chosen, one-in-six people who get to answer the long census form.

The Census Bureau is telling people that the long form includes 30-some questions and should take about 45 minutes to fill out. I don't know about the time estimate; I've been to scared to tackle it. But I do know that the announced number of questions is a cheap ploy. The questions end at number 33, all right, but they're interspersed with extra questions which have an "H" in front of them and a whole new series of numbers.

Plus, lots of the questions have all kinds of sub-questions. Like, you might not just have question 5; you might have question 5a through 5f. And a lot of the questions have to be answered separately for each person in the home; it's a good thing I don't have to count my

Don't worry, I'm going to fill in all the blanks. I'll send it back in time. I'm not, however, going to enjoy it.

I just don't know about this census stuff. It seems like the bureau might not get the rate of return they want with the approach they're taking: telling people they should answer the form. I haven't even started mine yet, and already the civic-duty argument is wearbackboards have been erected in Novi, the zoning ordinance does Public Information not permit structures within the front or side yard set back areas and therefore these poles were illegal.

This Ordinance designates basketball apparatus as an exception to this prohibition.

The ordinance regulates the location of these backboards and poles, specifying that they be located within the half of the total required set-back nearest the home. For example, if the set-back is 30 feet, the pole must be within 15 feet of the home. It must also be contiguous to the driveway.

The City has established a one year grace period to allow for the relocation of any existing poles. Effective October 16, 1990 notices of violations will be issued. Prior to this date we will be making every effort to further voluntary compliance.

most famous

Eddie Stinson, known as "the dean of American aviators," was a nationally known leader in the field who had an aircraft manufacturing company in Northville in the late 1920s. Coming from a high-flying family, Stinson first learned to fly from his older sister Katherine, reportedly the second woman ever to fly a plane. She was quite a celebrity in her own right. At the age of 16, in 1912, Katherine received her pilot's license and went on to become one of the great performers and inventors of stunt flying. She was a woman of firsts: she was the first woman to practice kywriting, the first to carry airmail for the S. Postal Service, and the first woman lot in the Far East. Katherine set an endurance record in 18, flying non-stop from San Diego to San rancisco, a distance of 610 miles. Another sister, Marjorie, became a plane designer for the U.S. Navy. Early in their careers, the Stinson family, along with brother Jack and their mother, set up a flying school in Texas. Eddie went on to establish himself, as had his sister before him, as a leading record-breaker. In 1927, Stinson became president of the Stinson Aircraft Corp. in Northville. The landing strip was located near Beck Road and Six

One of his planes, the Stinson Detroiter, set a world's duration record of over 55 hours, 36 minutes. This plane was one of the Church was recruited to perform the first mail planes converted for passenger ceremony. Other passengers included Stinuse. It was purchased by Northwest Airlines, son and his wife, Estelle; Stinson Company serving well into the 1930s.

Making the trip from Northville to Syracuse in two great pioneers in the field. hours, 32 minutes, Stinson cut 28 minutes off

One of Stinson's aircraft was also the scene of one of Northville's most unusual wedding ceremonies. Unwilling to wait for Michigan's re-

Pen pals

New design offered in dog pens

By MARILYN HERALD

Playpens for infants are fairly standard equipment in the homes of most young parents, even many grandparents, but "playpens" for dogs are quite new on the local scene.

Yes, dog owners have had pet carriers and pens to confine their dogs on various occasions, but few are as fancy or attractive as the ones Ursula Sass of Lyon Township now pens, there is no reason to walk or tie a dog," Sass added.

Fanfair Enterprises, maker of this new concept in the dog industry, offers pens in four different heights -24 inches, 30 inches, 36 inches and 45 inches — to accommodate all breeds of dogs, according to Sass.

What makes these pens different from the usual standard variety is wide panels and made of one-inch PVC plastic (plastic pipe often used for plumbing).

'They are really attractive because the panels come in three decorative colors - all white, grey and white, and mauve and white,

"For your escape-artist dog, the panels can be put on top to completely enclose the dog. These pens have no crossbars so the dogs cannot climb out, which is another unique feature."

The pens are lightweight. The panels swivel at the hinges and fold like an accordion for easy transport, Sass added. She said they are also guaranteed against chewing and can be hosed off for easy cleaning.

"These pens can be used in campgrounds, rest areas, recreational "With the availability of these new parks, condominiums and most everywhere," Sass said. "They are great for keeping your pet confined

The pens start at $121.50 for a 24that they are constructed of 24-inch- inch, 4-feet by 4-feet square, and

Sass said Fanfair Enterprises offers accessories which allow the pens to be expanded, subdivided, anchored, staked and covered.

In addition to the dog playpens, Sass sells "Rover Closers," which are portable gates for the home. They come in the same heights and colors as the pens and can be used to keep canine pets from wandering outside their limits in the house.

Sass will have a booth displaying Fanfair Enterprise items at the Livonia Kennel Club Show at the University of Michigan Fieldhouse in Dearborn on Sunday April 8. This allbreed show runs from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Sass will also be at the Saginaw Valley Kennel Club Show from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, April 7. The all-breed show will be held at the

Hamburg pair splits up work to create pots

By Phyllis Slillman

When Al and Hatzi Smith of Hamburg Township make their pots, they divide up what is a time-consuming process.

First, liquid mud, called slip, is pumped into molds, made of plaster of parts which absorbs the water. Hatzi and Al have more than 3,000 molds, some of which are collector's items over 40 years old.

"We use molds from a company in Texas and they have European designers for their pieces; so they're unique," Hatzi said. The slip stays in the molds for about six hours, while more moisture is drawn out. Then the piece is removed.

"At this stage this is just wet mud. same as the mud on your shoes when you come in from the driveway or from the yard. It has a few chemicals added to it, but basically it's just dried mud," explained Al.

After being removed from the mold, the piece is allowed to dry for about three or four days. At this point, the piece is called greenware and is still quite fragile. It is basically just dried mud. Al and Hatzi remove the seam lines with a scraping tool. Then they gently sand to remove imperfections.

Then Hatzi takes over. The piece is to get the kiln up to the right temperature (about 1,875 degrees Fahrenheit for most pieces), eight hours to come back down and eight hours for the piece to cool. When it emerges from the kiln, it is called bisque.

Colored glazes are then applied to the bisque and the pot is fired again, giving the piece its final appearance. Hatzi is the expert on glaze. Glaze, which looks like paint, is actually

When you put it in the kiln, the glaze melts and makes a coat of glass on your piece which is fired right into the bisque so it won't ever peel off." explained Hatzi.

The glazes are not the color they will be after the pot is fired. "I used to tell the students. Trust me, it will be green.' I always thought, one of these days a manufacturer is going to put the wrong label on a jar and I'll be saying, Trust me, it will be green,' and it won't be green."

Part of the obsession with ceramics may stem from the fact that you never know what you're going to find when you open up the kiln.

"Every piece comes out differently. I've got all my certification and I'm supposed to know it all," Hatzi said. "I kept asking why I did two different pieces and I did them both the same and one turned out different than the other. All I'd get was 'ceramics is not

We're not really a business, but we are. This is a hobby and it happens that some people like to buy the stuff," explained Hatzi.

Because they are semi-retired, she and Al are able to take the time to experiment with different techniques and different finishes, creating unique ceramic pieces which they sell to interior decorators, gift shops and even J.C. Penney.

And they maintain high standards of quality. "He (Al) won't let anything out the backdoor unless it's right, Hatzi said.

It all started when Hatzi saw a sign in a store window advertising 40 percent offall ceramics. When you see a sign for 40 percent off anything, you're going to go in and buy," Hatzi said. Then, after she had taken some classes and become more interested, she got her own equipment. "He bought me a kiln and I was afraid of it. I did two little snowmen. I took those out of the kiln and they were still warm. And if I say it, it sounds real hokey, but it was almost deaf people; of course, then you've

The obsession eventually turned into a business for Hatzi, who operated Hatzi Craft in South Lyon, where she sold ceramics and taught classes for eight years. She enjoyed it and still likes to brag about her students, some of whom took their work to ceramic shows. "And one year, we had six (student) entries and came back Hatzi said she is currently very excited about another project along those same lines. She and Al supply ceramics to an interior decorator from Iraq. When the decorator's family came from Iraq to visit, they saw the things Al and Hatzi were doing and decided they wanted to set up a similar business in Iraq.

Hatzi and Al have been researching what the family will need, trying to find distributors for them, and determine whether the family can get supplies in Iraq.

"They have no ceramic businesses in their country and working with them has been very interesting. I don't know how it's going to work, teaching someone through an interpreter, but it's exciting," Hatzi said.

Hatzi has had to overcome obstacles in her teaching before, and has found it very rewarding. "I've taught like I gave birth," she said. And the got paper and pencil when things get technical."

Design for smaller families

By James McAlexander

The Rainbow I has a deceptive exterior that only hints at the interior size and unique design features. The home is designed for the smaller family or singles.

The spacious garage features a built-in workbench and mechanical storage. It has its own door into the main entry/airlock.

The simple main entry leads into a hallway that serves to allow private access to both wings of the home. Temperature is controlled through the airlock concept.

The triangular den/guest room with large windows, closet and access to a full bath is to the right. To the left, a door gives access to an interior hallway that leads to the fully functional utility.

Just ahead from the main entry is the double-door entrance to the large "great" room. The living room space and dining area are featured here with a curved counter separating the

At the upper of the great room is a fireplace with a half-circle hearth. Flanking the fireplace are sliding glass doors that give access to the striking solarium.

To the rear of the home, on both sides, are near mirror image bedrooms with private master baths. One bedroom has sliding glass doors leading out to the solarium, while the other has large windows overlooking it. The unique feature, plus the entry halls, makes it possible for two single people to share the Rainbow I with separate private space. The utility and great room area would be shared

Some guys got it, Some guys don't

By Cristing Femier

"Why would anybody mind being bald? asked Herb Happel, a man who has never really had a thick head of hair.

There are some perfect heads and others that hav hair," he said. "Everybody tries to hide his mistakes. I think God hid his mistakes with hair."

Why, indeed, is there such an emphasis on hair in our society? Because our culture attachs so much emotional and physical significance to hair, dealing with its loss can be a stressful experience," according to an informational pamphlet for the hairrestoring product Rogaine.

Upjohn, the company that makes Rogaine, launched a nationwide ad campaign in late 1988 that showed a slightly balding man on a beach, talking about how bad he felt about being bald.

Then, the man said in the ad, he went to his doctor about it and learned ways to treat his hair loss. Now, he said, he has hope.

Happel is not buying the stereotype image that bald men are less attractive or less virile, and he thinks the guy in the commercial must have problems that go deeper than his scalp.

"First of all, I think the guy is a hypochondriac for running to his: doctor for something like being bald," he said. "Also, he's got an identity crisis.

I mean, look in the mirror. Either you're bald or you're not . . .

"Stand on a scale," he added. Either you're fat or you're not. Stand next to a ruler. Either you're tall or you're not."

Happel points to overall self confidence, not a full head of hair, as the key to a good self-image. "If you're comfortable with yourself, whether you're tall, fat, skinny. bald or not bald, you project that image to other people and that's what comes across," he said.

"If I were selling people something to get rid of baldness, I'd want them to feel guilty about being bald, too," Happel explained. "But I'm not, so I don't."

Lack of hair has not stopped Happel from doing anything. His many past experiences include blue-water sailing, white-water railing, flying airplanes, hunting, fishing and scuba diving. didn't have hair when I was doing any of those things," he said. "I didn't need it."

Not only that, he said, but baldness is an asset, not something that people should feel they must overcome.

"It's a real treat in the morning," he said. "Other people have to mess around with blow dryers and synthesizers and curling irons, when all I need is a little Mop-N-Glo and I'm on my way

"How can you feel the fresh spring breeze with all that hair on your head? he asked.

Hair today, gone tomorrow — dealing with baldness

By Marilyn Herald

The old saw about being bald as a billiard ball" isn't funny any more. It probably never was too comical to the men who go through life wearing a hat, a cap or even a beret to cover their head's nakedness.

Male pattern baldness (MPB). or alopecia androgenetica, is the most common form of hair loss and accounts for as much as 95 percent of the varying degrees of hair loss experienced by 30 million men in the United States.

Those are statistics published by The Upjohn Co. of Kalamazoo, the company which markets Rogaine, a prescription drug it says has been scientifically proven to grow hair on some men with MPB.

According to Upjohn, the United States Food and Drug Administration (FDA) rules which took effect Jan. 8 prohibit firms from making unsubstantiated claims that their over-the-counter products can grow hair or stop hair loss. Since Rogaine is a prescription drug, it is not affected by the ruling, the drug company said. And according to studies conducted by Upjohn, Rogaine is effective in producing some increased hair growth in about 48 percent of cases after a year's use.

But what causes hair loss in humans, not only in males but in 20 million females in the United States as well?

MPB accounts for an estimated 95 percent of all hair loss among males and is believed to be caused by a combination of three factors: age, heredity, and the male hormone testosterone.

There are a variety of other types of problems which account for the other 5 percent of hair-loss problems. These include patchy baldness (for which the exact cause is unknown) and such things as chemotherapy, thyroid disease, high fevers and other systemic problems.

According to the Hair Awareness Information and Research Service of Upjohn, the usual progression of MPB develops as the hairline begins to recede into an "M" pattern. Around this same time, or perhaps a little later, hair loss begins to become noticeable on the crown of the head as a smallish round spot.

Time passes and the point of the "M" continues to recede while the bald spot on the crown widens. Eventually, the two meet, leaving only a horseshoe-shaped fringe of hair encircling the back and sides of the head. The Hair Awareness Service explained that individuals who are predestined to develop MPB have normal hair follicles in that horseshoe-shaped fringe area of the scalp. The hair follicles in the area destined to become bald have a genetically predetermined sensitivity to a normal body compound called dihydrotestosterone

This is produced from testosterone by an enzyme called 5 alpha reductase. Genetically sensitive hair follicles shrink when exposed to DHT.

As these follicles become smaller, their hair-growing (anagen) cycles shorten and their resting (telogen) phases lengthen, Hair Awareness explains.

is called a "club hair." When the growth process resumes, the club hair falls out of the follicle and is replaced by a new, emerging hair. normal to lose as many as 50-100 strands a day this way, with the hair usually showing up in a comb or brush or at the bottom of the bathtub or sink after the hair has been washed."

Rogaine, currently the only prescription drug marketed for treatment of MPB, has been available since October 1938. According to Upjohn, it is the only product considered effective and safe in the treatment of MPB.

Dr. Ronald Kerwin, a West Bloomsield dermatologist assiiated with Huron Valley Hospital at Milford, prescribes Rogaine for use by many of his patients, both male and female, according to his office manager Daisy Paeprosante.

·Paeprosante said it is used particularly by the younger patients. "to help them stop losing so much hair. It has worked for my brother who is 22."

Paeprosante said approximately 10-15 percent of Dr. Kerwin's patients come to him because of baldness or thinning hair problems.

There are different nozzles on the Rogaine bottles, but it is applied much like hair spray in most instances," Paeprosante explained. "It's something they have to do every day, like brushing their Rogaine, according to Upjohn, is a "topical solution of minoxidil. Minoxidil in tablet form has been used since 1980 to lower blood pressure. The use of minoxidil tablets is limited to treatment of patients with severe high blood pressure."

Rogaine Topical Solutin has a low-level absorption of minoxidil in most persons (much lower than that of persons being treated with minocidil tablets for high blood pressure). Upjohn pointed out.

They continue to extend an open invitation to parents of young people who are in any of the athletic programs at the high school or anyone in the community who enjoys supporting the young people to come to the meeting and plan to become involved in their activities.

Their goal is just as their name suggests: to help boost the athletic programs at the Novi High School. They do this in a number of ways: by their support at the games and by having fund-raisers to obtain monies to purchase extra equipment for the students involved in the athletic program. Truffles re-opens

A quietly elegant spot in Oakland County has returned, bringing back superb dining. Truffles Restaurant, a favorite of many, closed some time ago, to the dismay of regular patrons. LEWIS Terry Ciotti, one of the original owners of Truffles, re-opened the restaurant a few weeks ago, with the addition of Chef Jeffrey Baldwin and Manager Joann

Baldwin has a long list of credits to his name including work at the Van Dyke Place and The Whitney in Detroit. He brings a new look to the menu, offering diners an impressive array of choices, all composed with fresh ingredients and a bow to several ethnic influences.

Perhaps one of the most welcome moves at the restaurant is the new addition of "petite" portions to the menu. Most of the menu offerings may be ordered in "petite" portions, allowing diners to sample freely from the menu hors d'oeuvres, soups and salads, without feeling overwhelmed with the main course.

Dinner guests are treated to a smooth complimentary portion of chicken and duck liver pate at table, upon their arrival. The open and well appointed dining room, actually two rooms, is done in subtle, country french colors, making a cozy, welcome ambience for diners.

Hors'd'oeuvres are nicely prepared and the presentation is elaborate. Specialties include the duck and Traverse City cherry wontons with a honey dijon dipping sauce, and roasted quail filled with wild rice and pistachio stuffing, resting in a potato nest finished with a truffle Maderia glaze. A thin crust pizza with zesty tomato sauce, mozzarella and fontinella cheese. grilled chicken, artichokes, fresh basil and sun dried tomatoes will tempt just about anyone. The menu features a fair amount of game dishes, fresh water fish and seafood specials.

Daily soup and salad specials are offered as Truffles on Haggerty Road offers daily specials The roasted rack of lamb with rosemary dijon crust and chevre cheese, served with a cabernet sauvignon sauce flecked with sun dried tomatoes is exquisitely prepared and presented. Accompanying asparagus and potatoes were lightly seasoned and complemented the meat. Sauces on entrees are light and blend well with the meat, but do not overpower. Daily specials are offered varying from a grilled veal chop to fresh fish and a game special of venison, quail or duck.

The service, like everything at the restaurant, is detail-oriented. Militello and Baldwin have instituted team-oriented managing at Truffles, and diners are served by a team of waiters, allowing for maximum service. The wait staff was extremely knowledgeable, both about the menu items and the wine list.

Wines are well represented at the restaurant. A significant, but not overwhelming list of California, French and a few German. Italian and Australian wines are listed. Only one Michigan, a 1988 Riesling, Chateau Grand Traverse, is carried.

Desserts are exactly what they should be light, fun, and sinfully rich. Bananas Foster is mousse finishes a wonderful meal. Guests who linger over dessert and coffee are often rewarded with a visit from the Chef as he tours the dining room checking on the reception his combinations received.

Truffles is open for lunch. A wonderful selection including omelettes, pasta, and "American Comfort Foods", including chicken pot pie cassolette and a beef and veal cassolette with vegetables and potatoes in an onion cabernet sauvignon sauce with a delicate pastry, is available. A Sunday brunch is extensive and a step beyond the usual brunch menu, offering eggs Benedict, omeleites, beef and veal pot pie cassolette and much more in a four course set

Truffles is located at 2750 Haggerty Road at the corner of Pontiac Trail. Lunch is served Tuesday through Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. Dinner is served Tuesday through Thursday from 6-10 p.m. and Friday and Saturday from 5-11 p.m. Sunday Brunch is served from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. MasterCard and Visa accepted. Fisher named to all-area first team

"Mike was probably the best rebounder in the (Kensington Valley Conference)," Eagles coach Bob McFarland said. "He's a quick leaper, plus he has no fear of being injured when he goes up in a crowd. "As a scorer, he was real difficult to stop when he got the ball close to the basket. He developed an excellent turn-around jumper . . . and he scored on a lot of second shots as Bolling led the area in rebounding and was fourth in scoring. He also ranked fourth in field goal percentage (.522), fifth in free throw percentage (.688) and 10th in assists (43). "Mike's the type of player who has his best basketball in front of him," McFarland said. "The more he plays, the better he'll get. He has a lot of pure talent."

SCOTT MEREDITH, Northville, center: This 6-foot-6 senior had a solid campaign in only his third year of organized basketball.

"I think Scott has great potential as a player," Mustangs coach Omar Harrison said. "He has very limited experience, and I believe if he had one more season of high school ball, he'd be an excellent player." Meredith led the Mustangs in scoring for most of the season, but ended up second to Joe Kaley with a 14.4 average. He was Northville's leader in rebounding (10.1 per game) and field-goal percentage (.507).

"He's very mobile for a big guy," Harrison said. "We depended an awful lot on him for inside scoring

MIKE LANG, Northville, forward: With Scott Meredith in the middle and 6-foot-6 Lang at power forward, the Mustangs had an impressive inside attack. Just a junior, Lang was among the area leaders in scoring, rebounding and free throw shooting, and will probably be a force next season.

"Mike was a key underneath the basket for us." Northville coach Omar Harrison pointed out, "He has shown a lot of improvement and he knows the game well. Mike's verv young for a junior, but he has all the tools. He just needs to work on his game and he'll be a big inside force for us next year. Lang was third among his teammates in scoring (9.6 per game), rebounding (4.6) and free throw percentage (.645).

RANDY SEYMORE, Milford, forward: Prior to the season, Milford coach Don Palmer felt this 6-foot-4 senior would be a key for the Red-

"With Scott (Armstrong), we felt we had the best player in the conference, and with Greg (Petru), we felt we had one of the best point guards," Palmer said. "But Randy was the key kid. He was a swing man who could do a lot of things. With him having a good year, we went from a pretty good team to a very formidable team.

"Basically, Randy's problem in the past is that he didn't work as hard or concentrate as much as he should have. He alleviated that for the most part this year." the coach added.

Day care enters fitness realm

By STEVE KELLMAN staff writer

Whether working or working out, one of the most pressing needs of new parents is day-care service. Several area fitness programs are in the forefront of the effort to provide such

Marilyn Troshak, supervisor of the Novi Parks and Recreation Department's day-care program at the Novi Civic Center, described such day care as "a definite trend for the

"Basically, we offer our babysitting for our daytime Fitness Factory moms," she explained. The Fitness Factory is an aerobic program offered through the Novi department. The program — and the day care - are offered weekdays between 9-10 a.m. and between 10:15-

Though the parks department is considering day care for other situations, the aerobics day-care program is the only one offered presently.

The fitness classes draw about 35 people each while the day-care program itself draws an average of 10 children a class, Troshak said. 'Sometimes we only have four or five kids, but other times we have 15 or 20," she said. Two staff people supervise the day-care program.

Parents pay $1.50 an hour for each child. "At this point, that money goes right to the baby-sitters," Troshak

"This is for people who are in our program at the time it's going on," she added. The fact that several parents have tried to drop children off at the center while doing other errands is a testament to the need for day care.

Children of all ages use the program as well. Though the average child's age is between two and four, she said, "we've had children from six weeks to 12 years old."

"Being a mother myself, I do know that there's a need," Troshak said. "Being an organization that's service-oriented, we're going towards that. We're even thinking about doing something for our employees for child care. That's just an example of what the trend is.

"We have to be providing these things for the members of our community, or they won't be able to come out and use our programs."

Novi Parks and Recreation baby sitter Kathy Cassie attracts an audience while moms are busy with aerobics

Day care is also provided at the Vic Tanny fitness club in Redford. Kris Nichols, supervisor of the club's daycare service, described it as a model program for the chain. "We're the only Vic Tanny that has the nursery right now," Nichols said.

Nichols sees a real need for, as she put it, "child care in general for people who work and people who work

"They've had a lot of people in the club who have asked if one could be started in other clubs," Nichols said. "We're hoping that in the future the clubs that they build for Vic Tanny will automatically have a room set aside for day care."

Parents consider the day care an extremely valuable service, Nichols saids. "With the nursery right here at the club, they don't have to worry about their children." The cost - $2 per hour per child — is also more than competitive with traditional baby-sitting fees.

The nursery service is also available most of the hours that the club itself is open. The day care is a carry-over from when the club was a Richard Simmons Anatomy Asylum, she added. The busiest times for the program are between 9-11 a.m. and between 5-7 p.m., during the club's most popular aerobics classes. There are as many as 20 to 25 children in the program at one time, as the classes change over.

There are two people on duty nearly all the time in the nursery. Five of the day-care program's six staff members have children, and the one who does not has had years of experience as a baby-sitter. "As far as I'm concertned, the best experience you have is to have raised kids

The club opened as a Vic Tanny two years ago, Nichols said, but the center has provided day care since it was a Richard Simmons health club. "Every single one of his clubs had nurseries," Nichols said.

'Fitness for the '90s' class offered

The Novi Parks and Recreation Department is offering an eight-week 'Fitness for the 90s' class. Aerobic conditioning is combined with progressive resistance exercises using weight machines to reduce body fat and acheive good muscle tone.

Information pertaining to nutrition, diet and stress reduction is provided to complete the total fitness program. Students must be at least age 17

The program starts on April 23 at the Novi High School Wrestling Room. The Monday/Wednesday sessions cost $25; the Tuesday/Thursday sessions cost $27. For more information, call 347-0400.

Earth Day Fun Run: A 10K run and a two-mile walk will be among the activities taking place at Maybury State Park on Earth Day, April

The run begins at 10 a.m. and the walk at 10:15 a.m. All participants will receive a finisher's ribon, a canvas tote bag, continental breakfast and will be eligible for a drawing for other prizes. Awards will be presented to first, second and third place winners in the men's and women's categories in ther 10K run.

Entry fees for the run are $7 for the 10K and $5 for the two mile walk until April 13. After that, late fees are $10 and $6. Call 349-0203 for an application.

Fitness notes

Open swim: The Novi High School Pool will, be open for swimming from now until June 14. Open swimming on Tuesdays and Thursdays will be from 7-8:30 p.m. and lap swimming follows un-

Fee is $.50 and senior citizens are free. Children age 10 and under must be with an adult. The pool will be closed on April 17-19.

Half marathon: The annual West Bloomfield Half Marathon has been scheduled for 12:30 p.m. April 22. This will be the 14th running of this Athletics Congress-certified race which is sponsored by West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation. The race begins in the front of West Bloomfield High School, Orchard Lake Road at Green Road, and winds through the scenic residential streets of West Bloomfield Township.

Annually the race attracts runners from many midwest states and Ontario, Canada. A new course record was set in 1989 by Doug Kurtis, 37, of Northville, with a time of 1:07:32. Cheri Sly, 24, of Dexter set the women's course record at 1:15:57.4,

The 1990 race looks to continued excitement in long-distance racing and high quality in race organization. Categories this year will include walkers and wheelers in addition to the many runner divisions.

For an entry form, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to West Bloomfield Parks and Recreation, 3325 Middlebelt Road, West Bloomfield, MI 48033. Entrants in the 1989 race will automatically receive an entry form. Registrations are taken up until one-half hour before race

Entry fee for the event is $11 through April 13. This early registration guarantees the runner a Tshirt. After April 13 and through race day the fee is $14. There are no guarantees on a T-shirt with a

For further information, contact the Parks and Recreation office at 334-5660. The West Bloomfield Half Marathon is directed by Sally Slater Pierce.

Walk Michigan Program: The Novi area is participating in the 1990 Walk Michigan Program, and Twelve Oaks Mall is the site for the next two events. On April 19 and May 15, walkers will be meeting at the Lord and Taylor mall entrance at 8 a.m. There will also be three other events this summer.

Fitness Tips

Some hot facts on the old-fashioned cold

By MARIA PASSALAQUA special writer

If your mother and grandmother are anything like mine, you've probably been told a million times not to go outside in the winter with wet hair; to stay in bed and drink lots of fluids when you have a cold; and to stock up on chicken noddle soup when your nose starts to run. Moms are generally smart people, but just how much fact do these cold myths hold?

Here's the hottest research on old-fashioned colds: □ Cold viruses don't "attack" you if you walk outside with wet hair or without socks.

To catch a cold, the virus must physically come in contact with your upper nasal passages. They can do this in three ways:

1. They may travel through the air from someone sneezing or coughing. 2. They may be transmitted through direct contact (shaking hands with a cold carrier, then touching your face). 3. They may spread by using the same telephone, towel or cup as a degrees.

☐ Garlic around your neck won't spare you.

The most effective way to keep yourself healthy from colds is simply by frequent hand washing. Also avoid touching your nose and eyes when around those with colds. Obviously, avoid those objects used by coughing and sneezing family and friends.

☐ If mom insists on making her homemade chicken soup - graciously agree.

Scientific studies have shown that hot drinks, especially chicken noodle soup, increases the flow of nasal secretions and helps you feel better, and the taste, aroma, and hot vapors don't hurt the therapy. Also, say "yes" to the tea with honey, but "no" to hot toddies, since alcohol dilates blood vessels and may produce more nasal congestion. ☐ It's true: there is nothing a doctor can do for a cold.

Some symptoms should tip you off that your average cold may be something more serious.

1. Oral temperatures above 103

2. Fevers over 100, lasting three days or more.

3. Severe pain in chest or head with or without enlarged neck glands. 4. A severe cold that doesn't get better in a week.

5. In a child: difficulty breathing, marked irritability, and lethargy. □ All these fluids won't wash out your cold.

They do, however, ease dry throats and make you feel more comfortable. But drink only as much as you want. No need to force yourself; it won't flush out the cold any faster.

☐ Save your money on advertised cold relievers.

Colds will come and go on their own - although you can make yourself comfortable in the meantime. Pain relievers (aspirin or generic) can reduce fever and muscle aches. Don't look for your cure over-thecounter. Decongestants may dry up secretions temporarily - but can have a rebound effect that's even worse. Antihistamines may also make cold congestion worse.

Cover your mouth. Please do cover when coughing, but don't try to suppress coughing if it is a wet, productive cough. Go ahead and cough, unless it keeps you awake at night — then try hot drinks, steam, or hard candy. However, if it is an irritating, dry, unproductive cough, a cough medication may help you get a good night's sleep.

☐ To exercise or not to exercise? Although it isn't possible to "run off" a cold or "sweat it off," it might not hurt you, if you feel up to it. Never force yourself if you're too tired, or if you have a fever. Some activity might make you feel better, or maybe you just need extra rest. Listen to your body.

☐ It's tempting, but hibernating in bed won't cure it.

Use your own judgement. If you feel too worn out or too ill to tackle your daily routine; take the extra time and rest that your body needs.
