Novi district decries tax sharing plan

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Novi schools plans to actively protest a tax base sharing plan in the state house, said Superintendent Robert Piwko.

And he encourages local residents to do the same.

If the state school aid act passes with a plan to force districts to share 50 percent of industrial and commercial taxes in tact, then the district stands to lose one-half of a million dollars for the 1991-92 school year and more in future years.

The money taken from districts like Novi that will lose from tax base sharing will be distributed to districts considered poor by the state's funding formula. The plan is an attempt to equalize state funding of schools.

Piwko said the move in the state has been to shift funding of education from the state to local units of government.

Now, he said, the move is to transfer money around the state without providing any new money for education, and the tax base sharing plan is an example.

"At this point it has a negative impact, about one-half a mill this year, but in the long run it would be very devastating to the overall operations of the district," he said.

Novi residents have shown fiscal responsibility in seeking a tax base made up of both residential, and commercial-industrial development, Piwko said.

In a key test vote last week, the House rebuffed a suburban attempt to strip tax-base-sharing language out of the 1992 school aid package. The story is on page 5.

Residents of Novi should contact legislators if they are unhappy with the idea of financing poorer school districts with money from Novi's tax base, he said.

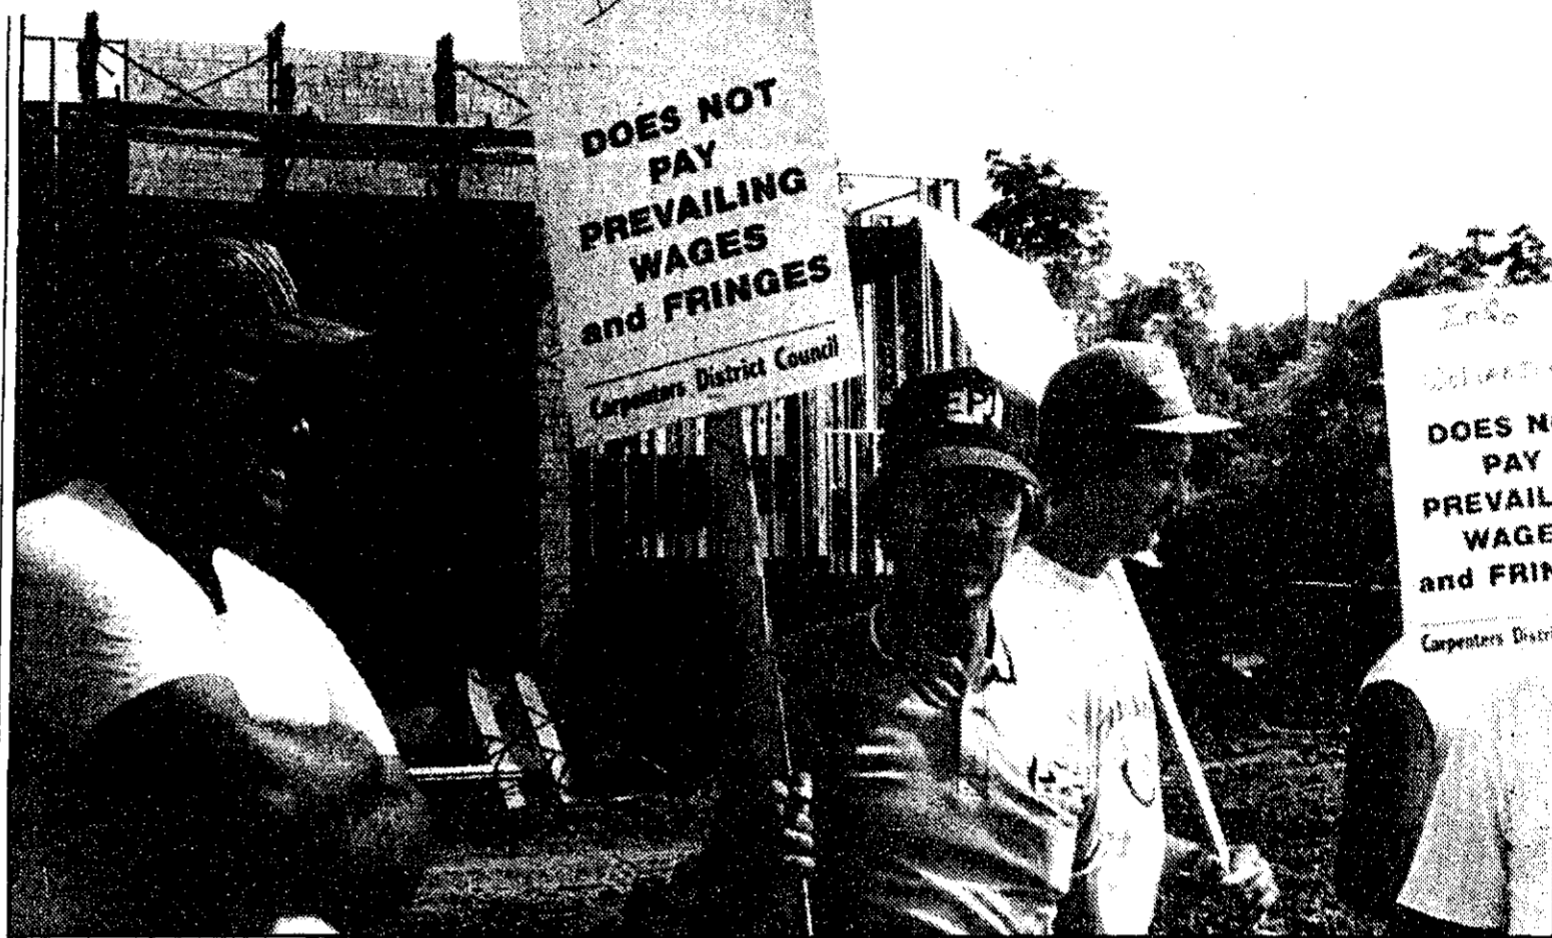

Although Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Highland, and Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, have said they are opposed to tax base sharing, Piwko suggests Novi residents write the two legislators to express their opinions.

Even more important is writing to Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, and James O'Neill, D-Saginaw, Piwko said. DeGrow and O'Neill are supporters of the tax base sharing plan.

"They need to let Dan Degrow know they're opposed to his constant attempt to redistribute money," Piwko said.

Piwko said once implemented, industrial and commercial tax base sharing will become a permanent part of school finance.

"Once it happens it doesn't stop. They continue to take it forever," he said.

Harvey Cooper (far left) and other members of the Carpenters District Council protest the use of non-union workers at a construction site on Eight Mile Road

Carpenters strike Novi work site

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

A Detroit-based carpenter's union is picketing the use of "scab" workers at the construction site of a medical office building in Novi.

Nearly a dozen members of the Carpenters District Council Local 118 were picketing at the Metro Medical Group site, located on Eight Mile Road and Orchard Hill Place, Tuesday. The carpenters claim that work on the site should be done by union members.

"We will picket until we get them out of here," said Harlow Tansley, of Local 118.

Harvey Cooper, a carpenter with the union, said five members of the local began work on the site last week. He said the project's builder, Stellar Building Development Inc. of Hazel Park, dismissed the union workers and brought in "scabs."

Steve Adams, president of Stellar Building, couldn't be reached for comment by presstime. Cooper said the local hopes to force the company to use union labor.

"This is our work," he said. "We are constantly battling with the non-union elements. We've done it in Novi before."

The local represents about 4,000 carpenters from Ann Arbor to Flint. Cooper said the local has battled recently with Singh Development in Northville over the MainCentre project.

Cooper said the local called the Michigan Department of Labor about allegedly unsafe working conditions by the non-union workers at the site. He pointed out a scaffolding that workers were using as unsafe because it lacked guardrails.

Patricia Meyer, a safety officer with the department of labor's bureau of safety and regulation, was investigating at the Eight Mile site Tuesday. She said a complaint had been filed against the contractor, but she declined to comment on the nature of the complaint.

Health Alliance Plan, which owns the site, works in conjunction with Metro Medical Group. Tansley said the union, which is insured by Health Alliance Plan, should consider dropping the company if the dispute isn't solved.

"Either you get them (non-union workers) out or we will pay our dues somewhere else," he said.

Plans for the 16,000 square-foot office building were approved by the planning commission March 20. Doctors offices and radiology units are scheduled to be included at the site.

Pharmaceutical and optical facilities may also fill offices in the future, said Cheryl Smith, of Donellon & Associates, architects of the building. She said foundation and footing work for the building was completed in December of last year.

Despite the union picket, work was continuing on the site Tuesday. Smith said the building should be complete by September.

Noise is worst of it says highway report

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

What will carving out a new six-to-eight-lane highway do to Novi and its neighbors?

The Michigan Department of Transportation and the Federal Highway Administration recently released their final environmental impact statement (EIS) for the proposed $60 million Haggerty Connector which will link Portiac Trail with the interchange of Interstates 96, 696 and 275.

The document is an update of a 1989 draft.

Like a tidal wave of progress, the new roadway will sweep through 28 single family homes, four commercial buildings and 76 vacant properties — leading to an estimated $13 million in acquisition and relocation costs alone.

According to the report, the connector will make life three times louder for an estimated five homeowners of Summit Hills subdivision, as well as residents of Country Cousins mobile home park. It could possibly make life significantly shorter for local Redside Dace, an endangered species of fish.

The proposed thoroughfare will not impact air quality, state and federal planners say.

But the connector will take a toll on surface and groundwater quality and require the destruction of 24 of the 300 acres of wetlands in its path. Twenty-nine acres of replacement wetlands will be built.

On the positive side, the report states, the thoroughfare will serve peak level traffic through the year 2010, improve the traffic on the existing Haggerty Road and the intersecting mile roads, speed up response time for emergency vehicles and provide a bike trail. It will im-

Outcall strip service grinds city officials

By STEVE KELLMAN
Staff Writer

The entrepreneurial spirit is alive and well in Novi, and justly demonstrated by the addition of several new erotic dance outcall services.

Though the spirit seems willing, the legal footing of these new establishments may be weak.

Three advertisements in a recent issue of a Detroit newspaper, under the heading "Entertainment Services," offer erotic dancing and massage on an outcall basis. The services are labeled "A Gentleman's Choice," "Fantasy Dancers" and simply "Fantasy," list Novi phone numbers, and offer the same services at the same rates.

As a litigating voice at "A Gentleman's Choice" explained over the phone, "We have a sexy, totally nude strip tease dance available, and a full body massage." Each service costs $145 for an hour, she said, with a special combination of the two available for $175.

A nearly identical voice at "Fantasy," which shares a phone number with "Fantasy Dancers," gave a nearly identical spiel in breathless tones.

"We can provide you with a totally nude strip dance or a full body massage in the privacy of your home or hotel room," the woman said. "Does that sound like something you'd be interested in?"

When the caller said that the services did indeed sound interesting, and asked for further details, she went on.

"We have quite a few women," she said.

"Our policy is to send you someone out within 45 minutes but we get busy on the weekends, and it's always good to plan ahead."

"We'll get to the bottom of this. We just don't need this kind of goings-on in our town."

Gerry Stupp
Novi City Clerk

Unfortunately, the owners of these establishments may not have planned far enough ahead themselves. Offering massages on an outcall basis is an apparent violation of the City of Novi's ordinances. Novi City Clerk Gerry Stupp said the business known as "Fantasy Dancers" is registered with the city, but not as a massage service. Stupp said the new business received zoning approval from the Novi building department on May 14.

She could find no business registration for "A Gentleman's Choice."

Fantasy Dancers is owned by Jose Garcia and managed by Susan Garcia, and lists 10 full-time and part-time employees, Stupp said. "It says, under where we ask for a brief description of the business operation, 'outcall dancing, bachelor parties, etc. and escort,'" she said.

"If it was a massage parlor itself, it would come under our massage parlor ordinance, (but) they didn't say on this application they're doing any massaging... that's something we would have to prove."

The City of Novi adopted a massage ordinance in 1987 that forbids offering massage services on an

Town hall wedding

Novi Mayor Pro Tem Ed Leininger performs the wedding ceremony for Patricia Kinzie and Jack Fritz Saturday in Novi's old town hall building, located just west of the Novi Library. At the celebration, Kinzie's father "played saw" for musical entertainment. This is the second wedding performed in the town hall since Novi's Historical Commission adopted a new use policy for the building. The historic structure, which can hold more than 100, is being made available to groups for gatherings. Events considered to be personal use, such as a wedding, require special approval of the commission.

Thief makes merry with Oldsmobile

A 1988 Olds Delta 88 was reported stolen June 16 from the Beachwalk Apartment complex in Novi.

The owner of the vehicle was away on vacation in Europe at the time. His brother reported the vehicle missing. He said the car was parked in the carport and that no one had permission to drive it. In addition, he said no one had a key to the car except his brother.

The vehicle was last seen on June 14, and was noticed missing June 16.

Police News

MOOP: A resident on Nardeer in the Old Dutch Farms mobile home park reported June 15 that someone smashed the passenger window of his 1987 Dodge Ram, Novi Police said.

LARCENY FROM VEHICLE: A resident in the Woodland Glen apartment complex reported June 14 that someone stole the two side covers from a 1987 Honda Hurricane motorcycle.

The side covers, which were designed to cover the engine, were the only items missing. Police said the engine did not appear to have been tampered with.

LARCENY FROM SHED: A resident on Moreau in the Chateau Estates mobile home park reported June 15 that someone stole a tent from a shed.

The resident told Novi Police the tent was taken from the unlocked shed between Friday morning and Saturday afternoon. There are currently no suspects or witnesses.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call the Novi Police Tip Line at 349-6887.

Correction: In the June 17 issue of this paper, a recipe for Grilled Chicken Breasts with Mandarin Orange Sauce was missing the amounts for two ingredients. They are 4 teaspoons of cornstarch and 1 tablespoon of brown sugar.

Also in the same section, an incorrect phone number for the Meyer Berry Farm was given. The correct number is 349-0289.

DARE Charity Ball: Stopping the supply and abuse of illegal drugs is nearly an impossible task. The demand for illegal drugs from all levels of society appears to be increasing. Children are becoming involved in the drug culture at earlier ages and in greater numbers than ever before.

In order to educate children about drugs, the Michigan Department of State Police, Michigan Sheriff's Association and the Michigan Association of Chiefs of Police have combined forces to support DARE, the Drug Abuse Resistance Education program. DARE equips fifth and sixth-graders with life skills needed to resist peer pressure to use drugs and alcohol.

On Saturday, Oct. 26, the DARE Charity Ball, a benefit and dinner dance, will be held at the Novi Hilton. For more information about DARE or the Charity Ball, call (517)336-8252.

Available at the front desk are discounted tickets for places like Cedar Point, the Michigan Renaissance Festival, Sea World, and the Detroit Zoo. Among the deeper discounts are $4.20 off on an adult (age seven and up) ticket to King's Island and $4 zapped off the $17.50 adult ticket to Bob-Lo. Children's fares generally are about $1 to $2 less with the bargain tickets.

Cruisers wanted: Organizers of Novi's Michigan 50s Festival are looking for "Cruisers" to assist in putting the program on. The Cruisers will be involved in operation of the information booth, the car show and cruise, the sock hop express, the entertainment tent, ticket sales and bar service. Cruisers are also needed for pre-festival set up and post-festival clean up. For the first year, Cruisers are asked to pay $10 to cover the cost of their t-shirts and name badges. Those interested can sign up by sending in their checks and application forms to the Michigan 50s Festival, P.O. Box 187, Novi, MI 48376. For more information, call 349-1950 or 349-3988.

Fifties memorabilia: Do you have any old photographs depicting life in Novi in the 1950s? Do you still have furniture — tables, chairs, lamps — from that era? The City of Novi is putting together a display/exhibit of such items for the Fourth Annual Michigan '50s Festival, scheduled for July 24 through 28. Photos will be copies and returned within two weeks. Novi plans to re-photograph all sites for a "Before & After 1950 — 1990" display. The furniture will be used to set up a 1950s house exhibit. Contact Gerrie Dent at the Novi Civic Center at 347-0475.

Gift of literature: The Republican Women of West Oakland, Michigan Federation, have continued a tradition of giving literatures at Novi High School.

Over the past two years, the organization has donated books to the Novi High School Media Center. This year's donation was announced by Marilyn Klefer, the high school media specialist.

The latest donation is a book titled "A Tale of Two Germanys," with text by Martyn Bond and photographs by Jons Michael Voss and Volker Doring.

Trial set for school sex lawsuit

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

A civil suit charging Novi High School with negligence in an incident of sexual relations between a former volunteer and a student will go to trial October 28.

A lawsuit was filed by a sophomore girl's parents against the district after Timothy McCoy Feirey pleaded guilty to having intercourse with the girl twice in 1987.

Pelfrey, a 23-year-old swim coach at the time, maintained the girl was a willing participant. The parents allege the school district was negligent in allowing the incidents to happen, according to their suit.

The suit charges that one of the coaches was aware of two advances toward the girl and failed to notify authorities or her parents.

One of the alleged advances involved masturbation in front of the girl in the school's weight room, the case said.

Both of the incidents took place several days before the two cases of sexual intercourse, called sexual assault in the lawsuit, took place.

In their reply to the case, the defendants neither deny nor admit to any of the claims.

Named in the suit are former swimming and diving coaches Harold Anderson and Meredith Somers, former athletic director John Osborne, principal Robert Youngberg, former assistant principal Milan Obrenowich, Superintendent Robert Youngberg and the Novi Community School District.

Pelfrey is also named in the suit, but is not represented by school district attorneys.

In November, Oakland County Circuit Judge Alice Gilbert granted a motion for summary disposition in favor of Pwko, Youngberg, Osborne and Obrenowich writing in her opinion that she found no evidence that the defendants could be found guilty of the statutory definition of gross negligence.

In May, Gilbert granted a partial summary disposition in favor of Anderson, Youngberg, Somers and the school district.

Both rulings have been appealed to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Records show two mediation attempts were made to settle the matter out of court. Both attempts were unsuccessful.

The circuit court trial is expected to begin October 28 at 8:30 a.m.

outlet basis. The only exception listed is if a client is physically unable to travel to the massage establishment "because of reasons of physical defects or incapacities or due to illness."

The new businesses may also violate other sections of the massage ordinance. Anyone engaging in "the business of massage" must first obtain a massage license from the city. Also, massage businesses may not operate between 10 p.m. and 8 a.m.

One section of the ordinance seems to speak against the special combination of services being offered by "Fantasy Dancers" and "A Gentleman's Choice."

"It shall be unlawful for any person in a massage parlor to expose his sexual or genital area or any portion thereof to any other person," the section reads.

Each of a massage establishments' masseurs or masseuses must obtain a permit from the city, providing previous work history, criminal history, a licensed physician's statement that the applicant is free of any communicable disease and written statements from five non-relatives "that the applicant is of good moral character."

The ordinance also makes it illegal "for any person holding a permit required by this chapter to treat a person of the opposite sex, except upon the signed order of a licensed physician, osteopath, chiropractor or registered physical therapist."

Stupp said the matter has been turned over to the Novi police department, which will investigate whether the businesses are in violation of the city's ordinances.

"We'll get to the bottom of this," she said. "We just don't need this kind of goings-on in our town."

Should suburbs share tax bases?

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

A school aid bill requiring local districts to share their business property taxes will be thrashed out in a legislative conference committee after being rejected by the state House of Representatives.

But in a key test vote, the House last week rebuffed a suburban attempt to strip out tax-base-sharing language inserted by the Senate.

Under the Senate bill, half the growth in commercial and industrial property taxes would be collected in multi-county regions and spread on a per-pupil base.

"A sneaky thing. A scam," said Rep. William Bryant, R-Grosse Pointe. "It's an incentive (for legislators) to vote less school aid."

Bryant lost, 36 to 61, his attempt to strip the sharing language from the $3-billion school aid bill.

Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Highland, who represents Novi, voted for the Bryant amendment.

Bryant made a long list of bad results that could occur from the principle of business tax-base sharing:

- "Tomorrow it may be residential property."
- "The next day it may be sharing between municipalities—we all need public safety and parks."
- "The day after, it may be all commercial and industrial property."
- "Only growth areas will be punished. Bridgman, the state's wealthiest per-pupil district with a nuclear power plant, would share nothing."
- "His own silk stocking area of Grosse Pointe would gain because it has no space for industrial growth.

Speaking for the House Democratic leadership, Rep. James Kostera of Canton called the Bryant amendment "irrelevant" and said the conference committee should handle the matter.

Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills, a vehement foe of tax-base sharing and another of Northville's representatives, said the conference committee may take weeks to iron out differences between the two versions.

Most likely leaders of the panel are Rep. James O'Neill, D-Saginaw, and Sen. Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron. They also are the state's two most outspoken advocates of tax-base sharing.

Faxon served on last year's panel and was particularly angry with DeGrow and O'Neill. The panel met only once for a few minutes on the final day of session, leading Faxon to conclude they worked together in secret.

So angered was Faxon that he has sponsored an amendment to the Open Meetings Act to include conference committees and their leadership.

Last year's bill stripped $72 million in categorical aid, a list of 19 mandated special programs, from out-of-formula districts. Some 51 districts, including Northville, are suing to recover it.

Next year DeGrow proposes to give back the $72 million in categorical aid in return for a tax-base-sharing plan that will cost those districts $350 million over 10 years.

City, residents split on road connector?

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

The publication of the Michigan Department of Transportation's final environmental impact study (EIS) for the Haggerty Connector earlier this week moves the massive project one step closer to reality.

But comments published in the document from Novi residents, federal and local officials seem split on the question of whether the $80 million roadway should be constructed at all.

According to the EIS, six major categories of concerns were raised by those parties in their comments about the project. They include: wetlands impact, secondary highway impacts, water quality, highway design and traffic considerations, noise impacts and air quality impacts.

Representative of the concerns is a letter to MDOT from the residents of Summit Hill Subdivision in Novi. The subdivision, located between Twelve and Thirteen Mile roads, is directly adjacent to the proposed path of the

MDOT accepts EIS comments

The Federal Highway Administration's stamp of approval on the Haggerty Connector Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) is considered a major step towards the final groundbreaking on the project.

The availability of the EIS will be advertised in the "Federal Register"—a U.S. government document distributed to major libraries nationwide.

A 30-day period for written comments will then ensue. Government agencies like the Environmental Protection Agency will be able to submit comments.

The highway administration will then decide if it will proceed with the project.

If there is a stalemate among the assorted state and federal agencies involved with the Connector project, a final decision would be made by the Council on Environmental Quality, a quasi-governmental body.

If all goes as planned, the U.S. government is expected to pay 70 percent of the highway's $80 million bill.

Written comments may be submitted to the Michigan Department of Transportation, Bureau of Transportation Planning, P.O. Box 30050, Lansing, MI 48909.

government agencies, however.

Many of the communities around the connector not favored by MDOT. "Alternative 2," which suggested improvement of Haggerty Road instead of construction of a separate connector, was the residents' choice.

They said this alternative would "present (a) viable alternative to disruption of existing wetland areas." A total of 377 acres of wetlands would be filled under MDOT's current development plan, according to U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

In November of 1990, MDOT settled on an alternative known as "4a." This alternative calls for a six to eight-lane controlled access boulevard, between Haggerty and Meadowbrook roads, which would connect I-96 with Pontiac Trail at Haggerty.

The final EIS reports that the connector passed resolutions of approval, including Novi. The city's resolution was adopted in June of 1989.

Walled Lake, Farmington Hills, West Bloomfield, Commerce Township, Wolverine Lake Village and Orchard Lake Village all adopted similar resolutions. The Oakland County Board of County Road Commissioners, among others, also supported the connector.

connector.

The letter, dated June 6, 1989, gave support to a design alternative sound level would be tripled at the subdivision by the connector. The EIS proposes no mitigation for the increased sound level citing economic infeasibility of constructing a sound wall, for example, or the impracticality of limiting speeds on the connector.

Novi residents' concerns were echoed by several government agencies.

A May 1988 letter from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service said the connector would disturb 70 to 100 acres of wetlands. The agency said it couldn't support the connector for that reason.

A July 1989 letter from the EPA said the project would cause "serious adverse impacts to the environment and the residents." Despite that statement, the EPA didn't disapprove of the connector, saying only that wetland losses should be mitigated and noise abatement provided.

The project wasn't without support in statements and actions from prove traffic safety by providing U-turn crossovers to reduce left turn collisions and provide a median to reduce head-on collisions.

But residents within the project limits would see a substantial increase in traffic sound levels, according to January 1990 field testing conducted as part of the EIS.

Government planners say it would be feasible to build sound barrier walls for 61 mobile homes at $325,000 but would not be economically practical for residents along Twelve Mile Road.

Sound walls for homes in Summit Valley subdivision are also under consideration due to the distance of the five most-impacted houses from the road and the high cost of $175,000 to $875,000, the EIS says.

The Haggerty Connector is expected to be a highly-traveled state trunkline, with a 55 mph speed limit.

The planners found that federal guidelines providing for the insulation and air conditioning of private residences impacted by sound levels did not apply in this case.

In addition, the road building will cause the relocation

"We are further concerned about your ability to control the noise problem at all for the residents of the Summit Hill Subdivision."

A letter from Summit Hill Subdivision residents of some utility, water and sewer lines.

The connector may cause an increase in flooding in the region, created by more surface water runoff and higher stream flows. This could cause erosion and the clogging of streams and wetlands. Runoff from the highway will contain oil, grease, metals, de-icing chemicals, which could lead to more pollutants in streams and small creeks adjacent to the area.

MDOT and the highway administration plan to counter this by building retention basins between the wetlands and the connector to store the runoff to allow pollutants to filter out. Planners say this cleaned water will then be released into the wetlands.

The study predicts that the impact on groundwater is likely to be insignificant because the soil in the area is highly permeable. In addition, the connector ends just south of a wetlands area north of Pontiac Trail which serves as a source for most wells in the area. Design plans will convey highway run-off from the area to minimize groundwater impacts.

According to the EIS, wetlands in the area are not pristine but have been contaminated by fertilizer from past farming and toxins from road runoff. Some of the wetlands have been used for peat mines or dump sites.

MDOT and the highway administration are now reviewing seven possible sites for wetlands mitigation.

The planners predict that since the connector area contains numerous small wetlands, it would be a benefit to replace these with the larger, buffered and managed tracts the mitigation plans call for.

The Federal Highway Administration has determined that there is no practical alternative to the proposed construction in the wetlands and that the plans include all practical measures to minimize harm.

MDOT plans to comply with local tree ordinances to restore the rights-of-way and mitigation sites to compensate for loss of wildlife habitat.

But altering the wetlands will disturb the wildlife habitat and migratory patterns, the EIS found.

The only state endangered species in the area is the Redside Dace, which live in the Seelye Drain one-half mile southeast of Haggerty. While the EIS said the fish are not expected to be impacted by the connector, 200 of them have already been relocated to a stream near Ann Arbor. The rest are not expected to survive in the Seelye Drain into the next year or so, regardless of whether the connector is built, the EIS says.

However, plans call for soil erosion and sedimentation prevention measures to protect the dace.

Other aspects of the new roadway could have long-term consequences on local plant and animal life, the study found — noise, vehicle headlights, vehicle emission and roadworn runoff containing pollutants. These could discourage breeding, nesting and migration.

Banquet honors longtime Novi High band director

The last piece of gold in the state's treasury was used to print a seal on a special tribute to Novi High School band director Craig Strain. Sen. Jack Faxon joked at a June 13 band banquet.

Faxon, a Farmington Hills Democrat whose district extends into Novi, attended the banquet to present a special tribute to Strain.

The tribute, printed in red and black with a gold seal embossed upon it, said Strain "has been a most remarkable band director, and his expertise in the world of jazz music is renowned."

Strain, a Garden City High School graduate, earned a bachelor's degree from Eastern Michigan. He attended one semester at the University of Michigan law school before returning to Eastern for a master's degree in composition and applied music.

Strain has taught in Detroit Public Schools and at Andover High School. He has worked as band director in Novi since 1975.

Faxon relayed Strain's history to band students and parents in attendance. He said Strain was not being honored for any particular feat.

"He's not retiring. He's not leaving. We're honoring him to keep him here," Faxon said.

Strain said he didn't know Faxon would present the tribute to him or that Faxon would even be in attendance at the band banquet.

Also receiving recognition at the banquet were Principal Robert Youngberg, student teacher Jim Englebert and the Novi News.

Students were recognized including those receiving letters for their first year in band: Michele Adkins, Steve Bassett, Tamara Bolen, Anthony Dixon, Erin Gilley, Shelley Hahn, John Hardin, Darren Ho-Doug Householder, Yeh-Won Hwang, Pam Kalte, Shery Kemp, Sandy Kessler, Gretchen Kronsbien, Danielle Kuenzel, Danette Martin, Laurie Martin, Dana Nason, Andrea Parrell, Ryan Heffler, Jodi Pioszak, Tony Place, Adam Reicher, Sheta Shaw, Greg Smith, Kelly Sumiec, Ryan Thomas, Jay Thornton, Mike Toole, Jeff Van Nortwick, Libby Wade, Tracy Watkins, Matt Wickert, Marquitta Wilkerson, Edna Yang, Ryan Zolotkin.

Receiving certificates for their third year in band were: Mike Broz, Janine Bonner, Jennifer Crepeau, Ian Duffley, Jessica Fritz, Lisa Gait, Jenny Hussey, Murray Kamish, Jennifer Kellogg, Lynn Krohn, Becky Lanyon, Mary Beth LeMay, Amy Morgan, Jon Mutch, Tracey Pahl, Jeff Simanek, Amy Skaja, Sandy Sline, Joe Whitney.

Receiving plaques for their fourth year in band were: Stephanie Ahrens, Jennifer Buck, Brian Campbell, Becky Campbell, Andy Christlieb, Jennifer Crawford, Dave Evenhuis, Eric Haenke, Andy Jex, Hollie Kendra, Laura Kieban, Nicky Kuenzel, Adam Shulman, Cherie Stewart, Tony Stubbs.

Also recognized were first year color guards Megan Burke, Shery Kemp, Christy Charmichael, Heather Pylar, Susan Kehoe, Jennifer Fox, Stephanie Watson, Theodra Burke, Denise Suenkonis.

Third year colorguards were Keely Harris, Amy Morgan, Lisa Gait, Amy McMartin, and Marcia Ellis.

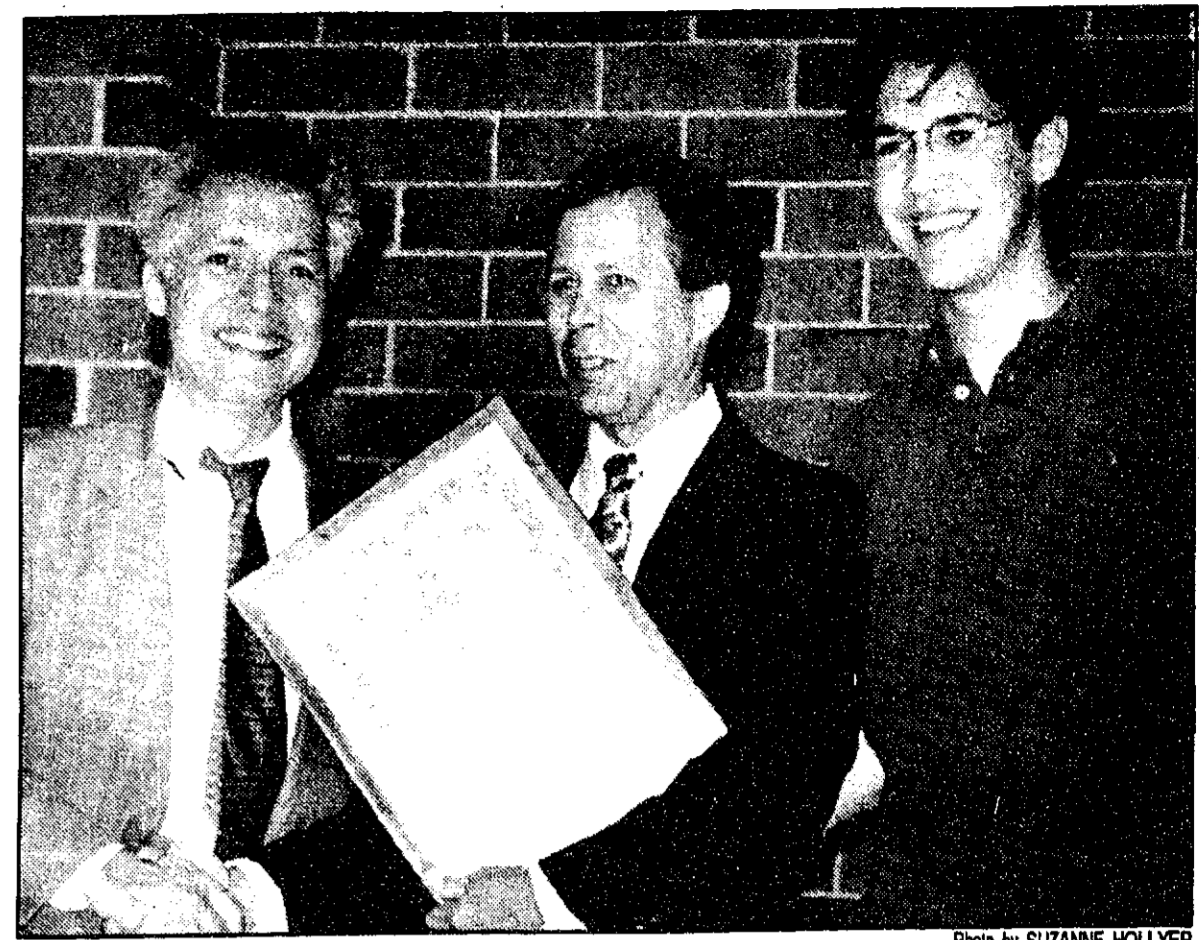

Fourth year colorguard, Jennifer Crawford, also was recognized.

Receiving the John Phillip Sousa award was Dave Evenhuis, a graduating senior. The director's award went to Brian Campbell.

Anthony Dixon was recognized as the concert band's most improved performer. Jesse Barrons was recognized for outstanding performance in the concert band.

Amy Morgan was recognized as an outstanding colorguard. Sherry Kemp was the most improved colorguard. Keely Harris and Amy McMartin were colorguard captains.

Eric Haenke and Jessica Fritz were recognized for their outstanding drum performances as a major.

ASPIRIN - GOOD AND BAD

If your child has a toothache, get him or her to a dentist immediately. If it is not practical, a proper dosage of aspirin will help make him feel more comfortable until you can get to the dentist. However, you should take precautions when administering aspirin. Aspirin and related compounds are a common source of burns of the oral cavity. White lesions can develop upsetting his stomach. Aspirin is the systemic drug; it relieves pain only after it has entered the bloodstream. So make sure it gets all the way areas may be removed leaving a down with plenty of water. I was raised Catholic but haven't attended mass for some years. May I be buried with my family at All Saints Cemetery?

Of course. One of the most important reasons for the existence of our Catholic cemeteries is to keep the family together—in death as in life. For this reason, both Resurrection and All Saints Cemeteries offer lower rates when you select a burial site for your whole family. We'll be glad to refund your money on unused grave sites if you move away or change your mind. But, meanwhile, it's good to know that your family's final resting place has been selected and paid for in advance. Time payments and credit card purchases are available. For more information about All Saints or any of the four Catholic cemeteries in the Mt. Elliott Cemetery Association, please call 623-9633.

School district report due in July

By SUZANNE HOLLYER
Staff Writer

Reports detailing the ins and outs of Novi schools are available one year after passage of a state law intended to improve education in Michigan.

Public Act 25 passed in March 1990 requires school districts to publish annual reports for every building in a district. They must also publish an all-encompassing district report.

Found in the reports is information about school improvement plans, core curriculum, student achievement, retention, the accreditation status of individual buildings, specialized schools and parent participation.

Novi schools has published seven reports on individual schools. A district report will be presented at a July 10 meeting at the Educational Services Building, 25345 Taft Road at 7:30 p.m.

Public Act 25 also requires every school in a district to become accredited. With the exception of the high school, no school in the district currently is accredited.

School reports all said the district is exploring the process of accreditation for elementary and middle schools.

Highlights of each report follow.

Novi High School:

The district's only high school has a population of approximately 1,100 students.

Of the professional staff, 75 percent have earned master's degrees.

The school has been chosen as a Michigan Exemplary High School twice.

In the class of 1991, 82 percent of students said they would attend college in the fall. 77 student qualified for the Michigan Competitive Scholarship and 30 students earned the Presidential Academic Fitness Award.

During the past five years, 1.54 percent of students have dropped out of Novi High School.

Students interested in state certification for certain programs can attend the Oakland Technical Center's Southwest Campus. This year, 50 students were enrolled from Novi High School.

An average 59 percent of parents participated in a fall conference with teachers. In the spring, 48.5 percent of parents participated on average.

Novi High School has been continuously accredited for 22 years by the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools and the University of Michigan Bureau of Accreditation.

Novi Middle School:

Novi Middle School serves 600 students in grades seven and eight.

The staff includes 31 professional teaching staff members, a media specialist and two counselors.

Also employed at the school are a psychologist, a social worker, a speech pathologist, a special education teacher consultant and a nurse.

Secretarial, custodial, paraprofessional and food service staff also work at the school.

Novi Middle School operates on the middle school concept of providing an opportunity for students to cultivate intellectual abilities, constructively and democratically interact with each other, achieve appropriate patterns of behavior, adjust to adolescent growth and learn role modeling in a time of social, physical and psychological development.

Novi Meadows Elementary School:

Novi Meadows serves 623 fifth and sixth graders whose average daily attendance for 1990-91 was 96.4 percent.

Fifth graders can participate in a three night, four day outdoor education experience. Drug Abuse Resistance Education for sixth graders is offered.

Students also can participate in intramural activities, academic competitions in spelling and math, an academic club, young astronauts club, student council, a talent show and field trips.

Thirty-seven classroom teachers including art, foreign language, vocal music, instrumental band, physical education, reading support resource room teachers, a psychologist, social worker, a speech and language specialist, school counselors, a library specialist, paraprofessionals, secretaries, custodians, food service staff and playground aids work at the school.

Novi Woods Elementary School:

Novi Woods Elementary serves 361 students in preprimary through the fourth grade.

Sixteen teachers and one learning resource room teacher instruct students in reading, writing, math, science, social studies and spelling.

Art, music and physical education teachers also instruct students at the school.

Novi Woods' staff teach in teams. Planning and implementation of the instructional program is done in teams.

Total staff involvement applies to budgeting and building-level decision making.

Teacher workshops held during the 1990-91 school year include lessons in cooperative learning, the writing process, nighttime safety, and reading and writing strategies.

Parkview Elementary School:

Parkview serves 382 students in kindergarten through fourth grade.

Eighteen classroom teachers work in the building with a media specialist, art, music and physical education teachers, a learning consultant, and a resource room teacher.

A speech and language teacher works at Parkview as does a psychologist and a social worker.

Non-certified staff include a secretary, teacher's aids, custodians, lunchroom workers, and a cook.

In fall and spring conferences with parents, 95 percent of parents participated.

Village Oaks Elementary School:

Village Oaks serves 516 students in kindergarten through fourth grade.

Twenty classroom teachers work with instructors in physical education, music, and art.

Other staff include a secretary, teacher aids, custodians, lunchroom workers, and a media specialist as well as a social worker and psychologist.

A Building Planning Team has provided input from the staff on budget considerations, staff development, curriculum changes and district test revisions. The group meets four times a year.

A total of 95 percent of Village Oaks' parents participated in spring and fall conferences with teachers.

Orchard Hills Elementary School:

Orchard Hills serves 438 kindergartners through fourth grade students.

Special programs for students include a fourth grade rocket launch, a science fair, a young astronauts club, assemblies, field trips and special recognition for students of the week.

The school employs 19 classroom teachers and three resource room teachers, a full time principal, media specialist, speech and language therapist and a reading specialist.

Other staff include a social worker, a psychologist, a counselor, custodians, cooks, an office assistant and a secretary.

As a result of a district policy to support site-based management, Orchard Hills' staff participated in staff development, curriculum changes, district test revisions and school goal selection.

A group of staff met three times in the 1990-91 school year to evaluate the school's progress with this year's goals.

Tighter Amoco contract sought

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

The city council Monday agreed to toughen up contract language in a deal which could lead to Amoco Oil Company vacating and purging its contaminated site in Novi's downtown in return for setting up businesses at two key Twelve Mile Road locations.

The land might then become a city park or could be acquired by the Trammell Crow Corporation, owners of the adjacent Novi Town Center.

Wednesday (after the Novi News' press-time) the planning commission and the city council were scheduled to hold public hearings on the rezoning of the southeast corner of Twelve Mile and Haggerty roads and the northwest corner of Twelve Mile and Novi roads to the general business category.

In addition, the planning commission was expected to consider for preliminary approval special land use and wetlands permits needed to place the combination gas stations, car washes and convenience stores on the two corners. A Cooker Bar and Grill is also planned for the Twelve Mile and Haggerty corner.

According to the contract draft now under consideration, the deadline for rezoning and preliminary site plan approval is June 24 if the city hopes to win land rights-of-way for road expansion along Grand River, Novi and Twelve Mile. This would be donated by Amoco. However, the city would not be held liable if the rezoning does not occur.

The trade-off proposed calls for Amoco to move out of its existing site—described as an eyesore by city officials— at the northeast corner of Grand River Avenue and Novi Road. The gas station would be demolished and soil and groundwater pollution would be cleaned up within five years after Amoco begins operations at the two new locations—or sooner if the site was declared a hazard by the city of the state and country health departments.

The Grand River Avenue location is owned by Leo Harwood and leased by Amoco. Harwood would trade that parcel for the site at the northwest corner of Twelve Mile and Novi Road. That .61-acre parcel is now owned by Amoco.

The city would then hold a $1 option to purchase the half-acre Grand River property, which bears a $250,000 cash price tag—the amount Amoco expects it will cost to clear out the contamination there, according to Novi's consulting engineer Joseph Kapelzak.

Amoco would be expected to pay for the preparation of the two Twelve Mile Road site plans, work which would be done by the city's consulting engineers. The city would extend water and sewer lines to the two sites. Amoco would then underwrite the costs by means of a special assessment district.

Council member Joseph Toth objected to the contract's terms calling for the city to pay cash upfront for the Amoco site.

"I don't know what the tax situation is going to be in a few years. To come up with $250,000 may be tough for us. I would prefer to see a five-year land contract," he said.

City Manager Edward Krewal said that the contract with Amoco would be the best security that the cleanup job is done. "If we end up with no agreement, then we rely on the DNR and we're fully aware of how efficient the DNR is in the state of Michigan. They (Amoco) really can't clean up the site until they demolish the building and take up the tanks. They may have to remove half the intersection."

But Council Member Tim Pope contended that the city's response to Amoco's pollution was to reward the oil company with two new sites.

"I'm at a loss as why the city is going to reward Amoco for that contamination," Pope said. "Eventually they're going to go away. They're not going to put in money to keep an antiquated station going."

Pope also objected to the initial stages of the Amoco deal, which took place in closed council sessions.

The Open Meetings Act allows government bodies to hold closed sessions on property acquisition, but Pope said that the city's plans to acquire rights-of-way along Twelve Mile was already public knowledge.

"I believe in a sense Amoco, by using an option, has benefited from a lack of public discussion on these sites being rezoned," Pope said. "I'm disturbed by that. I know it was not the intention of the council to do that, but I believe it gave Amoco an unfair advantage."

Council Member Martha Hoyer said it was council practice to discuss rights-of-way purchases in closed sessions.

"That's normal procedure. We were entitled to discuss it in executive session. If someone wants to ask for an opinion from (State Attorney General) Frank Kelley, I would have no problem with that because I think that would be his finding," she said.

Hoyer said the arrangement was a win-win situation for Novi and its residents.

"It has been stated publicly—and I have no reason to question the man's word—that this gas station would be a gas station in infinity. We had a man go down in a marlote there and collapse many years ago... I wouldn't depend on the DNR to clean any contaminated site," she added.

But to Cassis, the Amoco deal isn't necessarily a good one.

"This is becoming a rescue operation on the part of the City of Novi to rescue one particular businessman and a giant corporation, Amoco. It doesn't look like the deal is a win-win situation. The landowner cut deals for himself a few years back and wants the city to bail him out," she said.

"We made a deal of the opportunity here that if the city were to buy the land, they could sell it to Trammell Crow in exchange for a permanent festival site for the '50s festival," she said. "I think that said needs to be on the table. I could support this if the language were tight enough."

Cassis requested that soil borings be added to the contract to gauge the contamination of the gas station.

"We must guarantee to the public that we are not jeopardizing the health and welfare of the people," she said.

If the city does not exercise its option, a future owner of the land will have to abide by town center zoning, which prohibits a gas station at the site. The existing facility has been grandfathered in.

As its portion of the deal, Novi would pay for the preparation of the two Twelve Mile Road site plans, work which would be done by the city's consulting engineers. The city would extend water and sewer lines to the two sites. Amoco would then underwrite the costs by means of a special assessment district.

Council member Joseph Toth objected to the contract's terms calling for the city to pay cash upfront for the Amoco site.

Census woes slow redistricting

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Don't be in a rush to see the new congressional and legislative district maps. They'll take a few months.

"Some 100,000 people were not counted by the census in this state—maybe more," said Rep. Maxine Berman, D-Southfield, who chairs the House committee handling legislative redistricting. "Four hundred cities challenge their figures."

The secretary of commerce is to decide in July if there will be a census recount, added Rep. Willis Bullard, R-Highland, minority vice chair of the panel. If the federal government decides there was an undercount in 1990, a new total will be fed into the government computer, which will adjust those numbers by census tracts, he said.

Only then can lawmakers start redrawing maps.

Berman and Bullard say their committee will work on apportionment during the summer and fall.

Four new district maps—one from the Senate panel, one from the House, one from Republicans, one from Democrats—are likely to emerge.

A lawsuit—if any—will come about December in the state Supreme Court.

"It's not totally out of the question to agree," said Berman.

Bullard is less optimistic. "Conventional wisdom is that we will not have a plan approved by everyone," the Republican spokesman said. "In two of the previous three reapportionments, the filing deadline was postponed because the parties control the State Capitol in the 1960s and '70s largely through gerrymandering. Their unabashed goal is to take control of the House in 1992.

A separate pair of committees is handling apportionment of congressional seats. Its job will be particularly difficult because Michigan, due to population stagnancy, will lose two of its 18 congressional seats. Any judicial review is likely to be in federal court.

It's widely expected Detroit will lose one of its five state Senate seats. Probable gainer: an area on the Oakland-Macomb border.

Berman has held two hearings so far—in Detroit and Grand Rapids. In July she will hold three more—in Flint, Traverse City and Marquette.

So far, minority groups have asked that redistricting not dissipate their political influence.

The Supreme Court has given lawmakers no guidelines on what will satisfy their constitutional minds.

"We don't have any definitive guidelines," said Bullard. In 1982 the court said districts couldn't vary more than 16 percent plus or minus in population; districts were to be maintained within county lines so far as possible; and there were to be a minimum of breaks in city and township lines.

Bullard said Republicans asked the justices to reopen the case, but the court declined. Six of today's seven justices weren't on the court in 1982.

"We'd like to narrow the gap to 8 percent," said Berman. "We'd like not to split cities and townships, but in metro Detroit, you'll see more splits."

Health notes

Poison center modified: Children's Hospital of Michigan's Regional Poison Control Center, providing emergency assistance and information since 1958 for more than half the citizens of Michigan, will modify operations July 1. These modifications are due to loss of financial support from the state of Michigan.

The Poison Control Center will still be accessible to the community. However, to reduce expenses, calls will no longer be handled by a 800 number and will be toll calls outside the Detroit area. Staffing levels will be adjusted according to service volume. These modifications may cause some access limitations to this service. Regional center certification by the American Association of Poison Control Centers, however, will continue to be maintained.

Approximately 60,000 calls for poison information and treatment have been handled annually by Children's Hospital of Michigan. Emergency assistance has been provided 24 hours a day, seven days a week for children and adults who have been exposed to poisonous substances.

According to Thomas M. Rozek, president of Children's Hospital of Michigan, "The child between the ages of one and three is the most frequent victim of accidental poisoning." He stated that reducing services provided by Children's Regional Poison Control Center is unfortunate and explained, "There really is no other choice because the state established priorities in its 1991 budgeting process eliminating support for the Poison Control Center. These cutbacks in community service are a direct result of the budget decisions in Lansing," Rozek said.

State, county and city officials have been notified of the changes in operations at Children's Hospital of Michigan Regional Poison Control Center. Children's Hospital of Michigan depends on support from several sources, in addition to state funding, to sustain operations of the Poison Control Center, including insurance companies, member hospitals of the Southeast Michigan Hospital Council, other health care providers, volunteer groups and civic organizations, and the United Way for Southeastern Michigan. Rozek recognized the importance of and appreciation for this combined support which is critical to continue providing Poison Control Center service for the community.

"The mission of Children's Hospital of Michigan for more than a century has been to provide the finest pediatric health care available for youngsters from throughout our state, regardless of their ability to pay," Rozek said.

An engineer gauges Novi's growth potential

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

In few other communities does development play a more important role than in Novi. To get a perspective on how the private sector looks at the city—why it is attractive for development—the Novi News recently sat down for an interview with Cliff Seiber.

The White Lake Township resident operates a well known consulting engineering firm in Novi, Seiber-Keast & Associates, and is involved with many of the city's newest and biggest developments—such as the Meadowbrook Sports Complex and the Yorkshire Village Condominiums. Before starting the firm in 1985, Seiber worked with JCK & Associates, Novi's engineering consultants.

What is the perception of Novi in the development community?

SEIBER: Generally very strict. Sometimes the procedures seem very complicated to a developer who is beginning work for the first time in Novi. When they are handed the site plan manual, I think they are intimidated by the looks of it because of the long list of forms and different materials that are required to get a project started in Novi.

Is Novi an attractive area for developers?

SEIBER: Absolutely, yes. I think Novi is a very attractive area, although it's difficult to work in at times. But, many developers want to be here because the infrastructure is generally, for the most part, here.

With the interstate transportation systems and with public utilities being available, it makes it very attractive. Of course the Twelve Oaks Mall and the major developments here in the city also make it attractive as a residential community.

Will development be tied in with the Haggerty connector?

SEIBER: Not necessarily. I think more the connection would be the extension of water and sewer

"I don't think the recession has hurt Novi as much as the sewer and water moratoriums have. I think that those have helped to delay some development."

Cliff Seiber
Engineer

How much of the city's potential, in terms of profitable development areas, has been reached?

SEIBER: I think there is still a very large potential in Novi. A relatively low percentage of it is developed at this point. The areas west of Beck Road and even west of Taft Road are primarily undeveloped and utilities are beginning to be extended westerly in that direction.

I think the largest growth areas are to the north part of Novi and the western portion. I think we will begin to see a lot of development occurring along Eleven Mile Road, between Taft and Beck roads, and also north of the Twelve Mile and Meadowbrook Road areas.

Will development be tied in with the Haggerty connector?

SEIBER: Not necessarily. I think more the connection would be the extension of water and sewer utilities in that area. It would provide the biggest push for development of that area, more so than the M-9 construction.

Is the infrastructure, then, the main thing to bring a developer to a community?

SEIBER: Yes, absolutely.

Why?

SEIBER: Because there are many areas of Novi that will not support on-site wastewater disposal, or septic fields. It's really necessary to have a sewer system in place before those properties can be developed.

And, also, Novi has a community water system which is much more reliable than individual wells or a community well, which serves just one development. So, for those reasons, once utilities are extended in a particular area, that is really the driving force behind new development.

You mentioned Eleven and Twelve Mile as some of the "hot spots." What are some of the other hot spots?

SEIBER: The areas west of Beck Road are, actually, under construction right now. Greenwood Oaks subdivision is one that recently broke ground (as did the Warrington Manor subdivision). There are several other subdivisions in that area that will be developed within the next year or two.

What is development going to look like in the next few years?

SEIBER: I think, primarily, residential. I think the cross-section of jobs which we work on with the city are probably very representative.

Right now, approximately 70 percent of the developments we work on in Novi are residential. Either condominiums or apartments or single-family residential. The other 30 percent is either industrial or commercial.

Why is such a large percentage residential?

SEIBER: I think primarily because the financing is very difficult to acquire right now. The banks just aren't willing to finance projects unless a very large percentage of the space is pre-leased. Even in some cases where it's nearly 100 percent pre-leased development, even that is becoming difficult to finance.

It seems that the residential developments are generally, a little less expensive to develop and therefore a little easier to acquire financing for. In some cases, developers just finance themselves without a lending institution.

How does Novi compare to other communities in terms of the cost of doing a project?

SEIBER: I would say Novi is probably a little higher than most, primarily because of the woodlands and wetlands ordinances.

Particularly, the woodland ordinance becomes a very high cost factor to development of a project. That is because of the cost of surveys to locate trees and identify the types. Also, once those trees are located, the cost of the removal and payment to the city in fees for those removals or replacement of those trees.

Do you hear through the grapevine developers saying "I just can't afford to go into Novi?"

SEIBER: I have heard those comments, but it seems like most of the people that say that end up back in Novi anyway.

The community is just so overwhelmingly attractive that they come anyway?

SEIBER: I think that's pretty much the case.

Changing gears, how much do you think the recession has hurt Novi?

SEIBER: I don't think the recession has hurt Novi as much as the sewer and water moratoriums have. I think that those have helped to delay some development.

Right now the water moratorium has had some impact on how fast projects are developed. We have 30 projects in one stage or another, in Novi that we are developing. It has had the affect of slowing projects which we thought would have been under construction, say last winter, that are, as of now, not under construction because of the moratorium.

From what we've seen, of the developers that we work for, the problem hasn't been so much the recession or the ability to find tenants. It's just that the financing has been very difficult to acquire.

Are there signs that recession is easing at all?

SEIBER: No, not that we are seeing. We don't see financing any easier to secure right now. We don't see any indications that it will become easier in the future.

What does that mean for Novi?

SEIBER: I think they will see more residential development rather than commercial or office. Some light industrial developments may continue as a particular user wants to build their own building.

Has the transit mix strike hurt development so far?

SEIBER: No, not at all. From what I've heard, I thought the strike was limited to south of Eight Mile Road. I haven't heard of any holdups on any of the projects we work on.

I don't know where they are getting the concrete from, but it's not affecting the Novi-Farmington Hills areas.

Changing gears again, is Novi in your opinion a well planned community?

SEIBER: Yes, I think so. Since the city began in the late '60s, they've had professional planning consultants working with them. I think the result has been very positive.

I think they have a very good mix with Twelve Oaks Mall and the large industrial users in the city they have created a very good tax base. They have, therefore, made it a lot easier in residential areas.

Their future looks very bright.

Northville woman evades abduction attempt

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

An 18-year-old woman escaped an abduction attempt along Six Mile Road last week by scratching and fleeing from an attacker.

The woman told Northville Township police that a passenger in a bright red pickup truck—possibly towing lawn maintenance equipment in a mesh-sided trailer—tried to force her into the truck as she walked along Six Mile at approximately 2 p.m. Friday, June 14.

The alleged abduction attempt occurred as the woman walked along the south shoulder of Six Mile west of the Mobil gas station at Haggerty Road.

Police this week questioned drivers and passengers of several pickups towing lawn-care equipment. Police ask residents with any knowledge of the abduction attempt or of lawn maintenance crews with red pickups to call the township detective bureau at 348-5811.

According to police records, the woman parked her vehicle at the Mobil station after experiencing mechanical problems. She then began to walk home along Six Mile. The woman told police she was upset about her car problems and looked down at the ground as she walked.

A vehicle described as a "bright, shiny red pickup truck" pulling a trailer with mesh screen sides and traveling east, then cruised to a stop next to the woman, police said.

A passenger in the vehicle—described as a shirtless white man with blond, collar-length hair—asked the woman if she needed a ride, police said.

The woman reportedly refused the offer and began walking away from the vehicle. The passenger then grabbed her right arm from behind and reportedly said, "We're going to give you a ride."

The woman told police she then scratched the man with her left hand and ran to a residential driveway on the south side of Six Mile, where she hid behind a group of trees until the vehicle drove from the scene.

Other details of the incident are sketchy, police said. The woman could not recall the number of people in the pickup, did not see a license plate, and did not know if the passenger got out of the vehicle when he grabbed her arm.

As We See It

Tax sharing bill is an outrage to taxpayers

Outrage!

It is nothing less than an outrage.

The state Legislature appears to be on the verge of passing a bill which would hit Novi taxpayers exceptionally hard, unfairly and, and it is all being done without the benefit of public discussion or debate. It is all being done without the benefit of a thorough analysis of what the bill would really do.

Education

We're referring, of course, to the so-called tax base sharing provision that was added to the 1992 school aid package in the state Senate two weeks ago. The package came up for a vote in the House of Representatives last week, and while the representatives did not approve the overall bill, they did vote 61 to 36 to retain the tax base sharing language.

What that means is that the bill will now go to conference committee, where a handful of senators and representatives will hash out the final version — no public input to be considered, thank you very much. But since both chambers agreed to the tax base sharing provision, it's a cinch to figure the final version will likely include it too... unless lawmakers hear a very loud protest from the public.

Now, there are supposed to be rules to keep this kind of thing from happening. The state constitution prohibits changes to bills which alter their "meaning." Unfortunately, the Legislature has never abided by it and the courts have never enforced it.

The result is what's happening now. Tax base sharing, as a concept, has been kicked around for some time and some have thought it might possibly be a good reform to the state school financing system. Frankly, the idea has some merit, at least enough to warrant consideration and discussion.

But then, as the state school aid bill for 1992 was nearing completion — remember, that's the bill that is supposed to set the level of funding the state government will appropriate to K-12 education — Senator Dan DeGrow, R-Port Huron, decided to try tacking on a version of tax base sharing as an amendment. The Senate bought it, over the objections of suburban area lawmakers such as Novi's own Senator Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills. Representative Willis Bullard, R-Highland, who also represents Novi, tried to talk sense to the House, but his pleas also fell on deaf ears.

The problem (besides the sneaky-thief manner in which it is being enacted) is that, as written, it isn't even a particularly good version of tax base sharing. The idea behind tax base sharing is that there should be equality in the amount of money spent to educate students across the state. One student shouldn't get a well-funded education just because he or she lives in a wealthy district while another student gets a substandard education because he or she lives in a poor district. As a concept, that is pretty hard to argue against.

But this bill doesn't really achieve that goal. Instead, what it says is that the tax base to be shared is half of the revenue generated by future industrial and commercial growth. DeGrow claims that it will redistribute $400 million from rich districts to poor districts in the next 10 years. But the result really produces some interesting anomalies.

■ Bridgman Schools — the richest school district in the state on a per-pupil basis, due to the location of a nuclear power plant within its boundaries — would likely share nothing. Its tax base is already developed.

■ Romulus has a large industrial base, but also has many splintered families with low incomes. The result is that there are a lot of learning problems in the school district. But under this proposal, per-pupil spending would probably be likely make money on the deal because it is a primarily residential area with no room left for industrial development.

■ Likewise, Bloomfield Hills, a wealthy district with an astonishing $8,377 to spend for each student, expects to see very little commercial and industrial growth in the future. It wouldn't likely share much, but it does stand to gain under this proposal from development elsewhere.

■ It is not known how much Novi would stand to lose (which is part of our objection) but a betting man could safely lay odds that Novi will be one of the hardest hit communities — if not the hardest hit — in the state. Less than 40 percent developed to date, with a good deal of land left for industrial and commercial construction, Novi's growth potential is vast. One industry expert estimates that 30 percent of current construction in the City of Novi falls in one of those two categories.

And as we pointed out in another editorial on this topic this past Monday, planners are projecting that Novi will be the fastest growing community in the southeast Michigan region over the next 10 to 15 years. That means it is the fastest growing community in the fastest growing region of the state.

As we stated, Novi may be well off, but we don't think it is so wealthy that it can afford to have the state dump the responsibility for fixing the school finance system right in its lap.

The really astonishing thing about this bill is the way it is being passed the Legislature. Many significant reforms to the taxation and financing system have been proposed in Michigan over the past two decades, include several constitutional amendments. But the public has always had ample opportunity to debate and analyze those proposals. Often, they've put the proposal on the election ballot for a public decision.

This time, the Legislature is trying to slide a major "reform" past the public by tacking it on to the tail end of a routine appropriations bill at the eleventh hour and adopting it in a matter of weeks.

Adding insult to injury is the fact the state itself has done nothing to improve funding for education. Lawmakers have chosen this as their "reform," rather than restoring any of the financial support they have been withdrawing from local school districts over the past decades. They have simply formed a mob to raid a minority of school districts, ganging up to pick the pockets of "rich" districts rather than fulfill their own responsibility to pay for education out of Lansing's coffers.

What is needed now is a long and loud outcry from the public. Novi school district officials, already planning to fight this thing, should coordinate their efforts with other affected school districts and with local citizens. Novi city officials should make their feelings known as well.

Teachers in Novi schools should not hesitate to ask their union to represent their point of view in Lansing. PTOs and other school support organizations can make themselves heard, passing resolutions of dissent and sending them to the state. Individual citizens should put in their two cents, as well. Letter writing and phone calls to lawmakers should be the order of the day.

Novi outdid itself for party

Cristina Ferrier

The City of Novi really outdid itself a few weeks ago at a party honoring three of the city's outstanding public servants.

The retirement party for Novi Police Deputy Chief Richard Faulkner, Lieutenant Bob Starnes and Administrative Secretary Jeanne Clarke was an event that few attendees will forget.

For one thing, the guest list read like a "Who's Who in Novi." Everyone who's ever been involved in the city seemed to be there. Nearly everyone who's ever been quoted in this newspaper was somewhere at that party.

Some of Jeanne Clarke's Co-op students from the past 10 years or so came to the event from as far as Ohio. Jeanne was obviously delighted to have them there, because she hadn't seen them in so long. But more importantly, their attendance was a tribute to the way she has affected many lives throughout her career.

Bob Starnes seemed to enjoy swapping tales with co-workers and friends throughout the night. He's had one helluva career, including a harrowing night 23 years ago when a group of youths kidnapped him and shot at him with his own revolver.

And Dick Faulkner, whose pride and love for his family has always shown like a brand-new lantern, greeted guests with his wife, Irene, and sat with his children, Rick, Melissa, Todd and Nate through dinner and the presentation that followed. At first, people were wondering where Novi Police Chief Lee BeGole was. After all, as Novi News Executive Editor Phil Jerome pointed out, he hadn't been at the Memorial Day parade. But he soon arrived, just in time for dinner. One memorable part of the evening, for me, was a conversation with Novi Police Detective JOHN APRIL, who says he doesn't like having his name in the paper, about which job is more interesting — detective or newspaper reporter.

In addition to the evening of food and drink in posh surroundings at Hotel Baronette, guests were treated to a collection of speakers who honored Faulkner, Clarke and Starnes.

One of those speakers was State Senator Jack Faxon, who would have been a hit at a Dean Martin roast. "There's a Queen Jeanne," he said of Clarke. "I haven't seen a head of hair like that in years."

"That's very important," he continued. "She had the extra for what Lee (BeGole) didn't have... I frankly don't know what the chief thinks he's going to do without her."

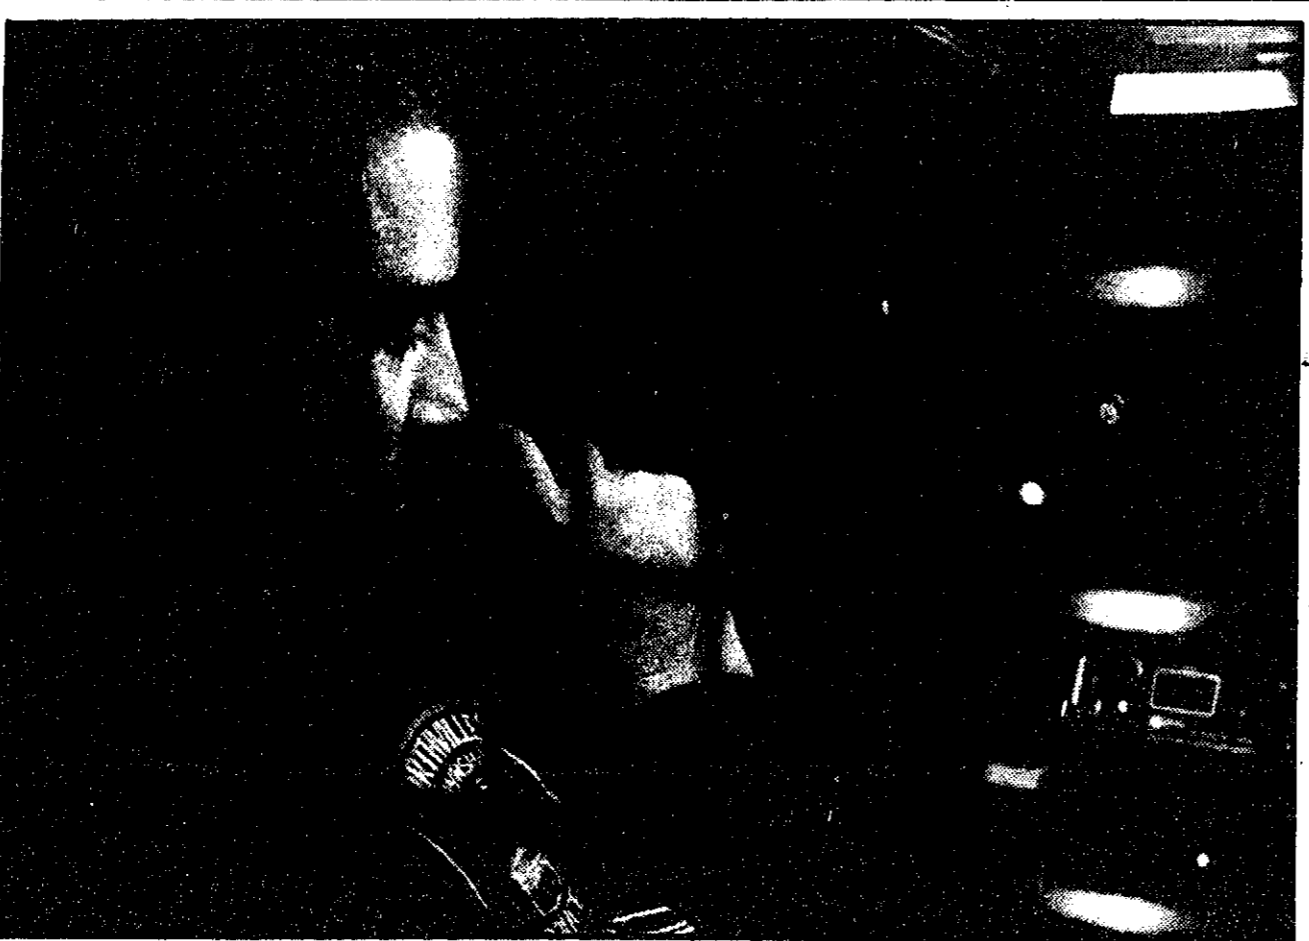

Clarke, who wears her long hair in a bun on top of her head, laughed. "I almost died," she said later, adding that she's only met Faxon once or twice.

Faxon also poked fun at his own hair during his speech. Apparently a kid walking through the Capitol recently pointed at him and said "Look, there's Einstein."

"Actually, I'm impressed they know what Einstein looks like," he said. "It's better than a few years ago when they always mistook me for one of the 'Three Stooges.'"

State heading for a tax hike

Tim Richard

I told you so last November, and now I'll tell you again. Michigan is headed for a hefty state tax increase. It may be a year or more away, but the pressures are building.

My prediction was based on the desires for a property tax cut plus several major lawsuits. If any two events occur, Michigan's $7.6 billion budget will be so far out of whack that only a major infusion of new revenue can balance it.

Last week they settled the Oakland mental health lawsuit. It's heavy reading, but you need to understand it. Lansing is required constitutionally (Headlee amendment) to give 41.6 percent of its budget to local units. Early in the 1980s, the state turned over community mental health programs to the counties and counted the money as part of the state's 41.6 percent share.

Oakland County called it a sham, sued, won in the lower courts and likely would have won in the Supreme Court.

Gubernatorial candidate John Engler vowed to settle the case, and Gov. Engler did settle, though not on terms he wanted.

Engler's people offered $25 million to Oakland County only. Nuts, said the county board — pay off everyone. Engler wisely agreed. It will cost the state $400 million in the fiscal 1993 budget.

Dick Headlee, though not a party to the suit, staged the signing ceremonies at his Farmington Hills corporate digs. "I feel vindicated," he said. He was correct.

Engler and House Democrats Friday cut a deal on the 1991 budget.

Few details were released, but the handouts said the deal relies on one-time bookkeeping changes. In other words, big budget cuts will have to be made in fiscal 1992 and the following years.

The deal calls for spending $316 million more in the current year than last year. Are you counting? By October 1992, the budget will be $700 million, or one-tenth, out of kilter.

Meanwhile, many folks would like a property tax cut. Headlee's Taxpayers United has petitioned for a 20 percent across-the-board cut, the state to make up the loss to local units. Engler proposed 20 percent for schools alone, which would cost 65 percent as much.

Engler's plan is dead in the Legislature. Headlee's petition drive was stalled in the Board of Canvassers, so his people are asking a court to force it on the ballot.

I happen to doubt TU had enough signatures, but suppose I'm wrong, suppose the courts put the $1-billion-plus property tax cut on the 1992 ballot, and suppose people adopt the "vote yourself a living" philosophy and approve the tax cut.

In two more years, the budget imbalance tops $2 billion. There's your state tax increase. No way out. Even if TU's tax cut dies, there's more budget trouble.

Plenty of other lawsuits like the Oakland mental health case are festering around. The state has to lose only one to be behind the eight ball.

The out-of-formula school districts deserve to win theirs. Lansing mandates special education, bilingual and 17 other services, but won't pay them $72 million to do the job. It may take them six years to win, as it took Oakland County six years, but their victory is inevitable.

Then there's the court funds suit. Lansing pays all costs of Detroit and Wayne County courts, and everyone else is cheated. If (when) they win, Lansing is out another $250 million.

Meanwhile, we're doing dirt to our poorer school districts. And so on. Don't think of me as a liberal advocating a tax hike. Think of me as a seismic geologist, studying the earth's movements and predicting a quake.

Tim Richard reports regularly on the local implications of state and regional news.

Finally, a gas station in north Novi

To the Editor:
Finally... a gas station in North-

Novi between Grand River and 14 Mile Road! On the surface, the plans are great! However, extreme caution is mandated by the Council in negotiations for the Grand River/Novi Road Amoco site. One needs only look to the old Boron gas station at 13 Mile and Novi Roads to see just such a situation in progress. As I understand the case, the present owner postponed removal of the old gas tanks for years. Upon removal, contamination was extensive, and this is recognized as a P.A. 307 site. For almost three years, there has been a large, open "pit" on this corner, choked with weeds, that continues to fill and drain with each rain. The clean-up process has been needlessly delayed with litigation, naming everyone connected with the site, including the City of Novi since it was apparently leased at one time for storage purposes.

One wonders just how extensive the contamination is, and continues to spread, as we hear of well problems in the subdivision to the southeast of the site, and watch the huge, old trees dying off to the Southwest of this site towards Shawwood lake. Coincidence? Maybe.

To state that the Amoco site at Grand River and Novi Road is served by City water, and ground-water contamination may not really be an issue, is out of line. If there is contamination of the ground-water and aquifer, responsibility must be placed and taken by the appropriate parties. The City would be well-advised, in this situation, to thoroughly look the gift-horse in the mouth.

To quote another cliché, buyer beware; in this case WE are the buyer and can ill-afford to assume the potentially gross liabilities associated with this site. Until such time as it's been cleaned, by Amoco — at their expense, and unless it can be guaranteed that the City would be ABSOLUTELY not "at risk" in obtaining this site, we have no business associating ourselves with it.

I sincerely hope rational minds will prevail.

Letters

Thanks to those who helped with Rouge Rescue

To the Editor:
The city of Novi expresses its sincere appreciation to the volunteers and donors who took part in the Friends of the Rouge annual campaign to clean up the Rouge River and its banks.

Sixty volunteers and 15 Novi businesses helped with this year's annual clean-up on Saturday, June 1, at 8:00 a.m. We want to thank Dunkin' Donuts, Hardee's, Andy's Meat Hut, Jack's Meats, Kroger, Malsano's, JOK & Associates, Farmer Jack, Guernsey Farm Dairy, Bates Hamburgers, Country Epicure, Mark's Bakery, Red Timbers, Novi Community Schools, and Barton-Aschman (Southfield).

Novi School Buses took volunteers to the work sites and because of the generous donors, breakfast and lunch were provided before and after the clean-up efforts.

News column trivialized Kennedy rape

To the Editor:
I normally enjoy Phil Jerome's column in the Monday edition of the Record, but he really blew it in his recent column of June 4. I am referring to his use of the term "womanizing" in conjunction with the recent rape allegations against a Kennedy family member in Palm Beach. I consider it an insult to rape victims and their families to trivialize rape allegations as "womanizing." Rape is a serious crime of violence, NOT sexual passion, and his use of the phrase helps to perpetuate old stereotypes about this type of assault and battery. The Kennedy's "womanizing" has led to a woman's death in Chappaquiddick and now this allegation of rape in Florida.

I am disappointed that a journalist of Mr. Jerome's experience and caliber could show such blatant insensitivity.

Policy changed without public input at school

To the Editor:
Most of us would agree that change is inevitable. Most of us welcome changes that result in improvement, particularly when it comes to the quality of our children's education. However, most of us are offended when changes occur without our previous knowledge...

Well folks, a change is in the works for Novi Woods Elementary School this fall and most parents don't know it. In fact, parent input on this issue was never solicited! Mrs. Jacqueline Lawrence, Principal of Novi Woods proposes to discontinue the current policy of teaming students from the third and fourth grade together on one team. She proposes to make each team uniform with one grade level per team. To the casual observer, this may appear to be a very simple, logical organizational tactic. To the parents and students who have had the privilege of participating in the Novi Woods Team process, this change carries some greater meaning.

1) Novi Woods is a critically acclaimed academic institution. Changing to one grade level per team makes Woods just like every other school.

2) Physically, Novi Woods is not like every other school. It is built and intended to be an open, dynamic school where education is not limited to books. Students learn from each other and put into action themselves the life experiences they share. Third graders are academically and socially challenged and fourth graders develop interpersonal and leadership skills.

3) It's working! Students who participate in the Novi Woods team experience are motivated. They're excited about learning! They are performing excellently, both socially and academically!

Obviously, these are some of my personal reflections. However, the situation remains. Mrs. Lawrence is planning a change for Novi Woods next fall and parent input has not been solicited.

Please, parents (taxpayers!) I urge you to take a moment and think about this. Talk to other parents who have had children participate in the team process at Novi Woods. Contact Jackie Lawrence. Talk to her. Write to Jackie: (Novi Woods Elementary School 25195 Taft Road, Novi, MI 48375). Let her know what we the parents and taxpayers want and expect for our children. Our opinions DO count. It only takes five minutes to send a note. It takes years to undo some changes!

Contract offer is rejected by drivers

By SCOTT DANIEL
Staff Writer

A revised contract offer was rejected by transit mix drivers June 15 sending a strike against concrete companies into its third week.

Members of the Detroit-based Teamsters Local 247 voted by a three-to-one margin to reject the offer and continue the strike, said Ben Mosqueda business representative and recording secretary for the local. About 600 drivers are involved in the strike, which is affecting development in five counties including Wayne, Oakland, Washtenaw, Macomb and Livingston. Local companies affected include Clawson Concrete, Lyon Sand and Gravel and Wixom Block.

The walkout, which was called against 28 companies represented by the Transit Mix Association, began June 1 when contracts for the drivers expired. Mosqueda said he wasn't sure when the strike would end.

"I believe it will last at least two more weeks," he said. "But it could be longer."

Mosqueda said the main issues in the dispute remain the same — increased wages for workers and medical insurance premiums.

The Transit Mix Association and workers have agreed on a $1.10 increase over three years. But, David Jerome, a Northville attorney representing the association, said the sides disagree in how the money should be dispersed over that period.

The association's revised offer was "not too much different," Mosequeda said. He said the offer did little more than "switch figures around" from previous proposals.

Jerome agreed with Mosequeda. He said the association changed the structure of wage increases in the three-year period, but didn't increase the offer.

The attorney did say that the association made a concession in medical premiums.

The union is asking management to pay for insurance if an employee works one day a week. Management previously said it would only pay the insurance if drivers worked more than one day a week.

Jerome said in the revised offer, management agreed to pay half of insurance costs if drivers worked one day or less.

No new talks between the sides are scheduled, he said. Jerome added that the association expected the strike last for a while longer.

"We expected it to go to July," he said.

Meanwhile, the strike is having varying effects on construction in Novi.

Cliff Seiber, who operates a consulting engineering firm in the city and is involved with many developments in Novi, said the strike has had little effect. He said he believes the strike is effecting development, but south of Novi's border.

June 20,
1991CREATIVITY
through hard work

John Martin

On Inspiration:

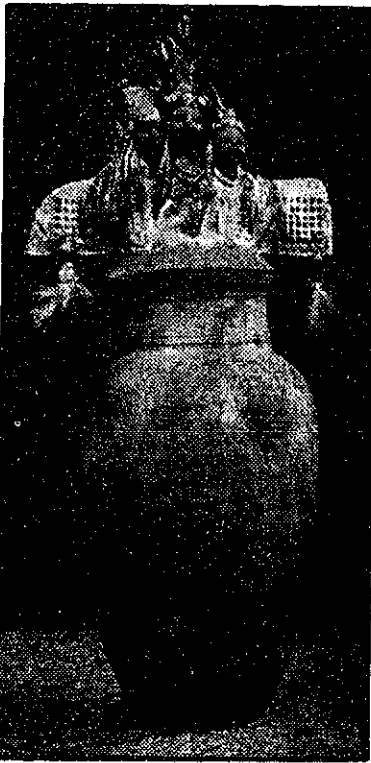

"I'm always looking for things. I take a four-mile walk along Northville Road every other day and I'm constantly looking for things, picking things up. One day I found a rusty old license plate, and I worked it into one of my pieces. It's at (Atrium) Gallery right now. It's called 'Northville Road.'"

On Creativity:

"For me, what I'm doing takes a lot of energy. Being creative is an effort. It's a gift, and I feel I have to do something with it. It's physically hard being a potter. You're constantly involved with hands and arms . . . You're really active doing this."

On Teaching:

"I think the most important thing is that they're open to ideas and suggestions. Not that I'm going to tell them what to do — but they need to be open to all possibilities. The number one thing is to develop confidence, in themselves. That's what you really teach."

Martin's work is inspired by life in the southwest

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

He's lived in Northville for 13 years, but artist John Martin is probably better known in Tucson, Ariz.

Martin spends much of his time in Tucson. He is based at the Tucson Museum of Art, and his works are displayed in many galleries there.

His pottery, which has a Southwest feel to it, is currently on display at only one Michigan gallery — Atrium Gallery in Northville. He does hope to get into more local galleries, but, he said, he hasn't had time yet.

"Right now I'm so busy I'm not anxious to get into more galleries," he said.

Martin, 57, who is a full-time artist, has found that marketing and selling his art is the part of his work he enjoys the least. Most of his time is spent in the studio, actually creating.

"I like to do the fun part," he said.

His specialty is an ancient oriental pottery form called raku. Raku is an ancient art form that was once used for throwaway teapots.

In raku, the firing is done outside instead of in a conventional oven. A low-fire glazing is done underground or in a large can. The method seals off the oxygen from the piece, creating an iridescent color.

"Each thing looks different, even if you use the same glaze, because it is affected by so many variables," Martin said.

Raku items are made strictly for looks only. "They would never hold water," he said.

Martin, who is a former teacher at Dearborn Public Schools and Henry Ford Community College, now studies under two different pottery teachers — one here and one in Tucson. He also continues to teach pottery classes in Tucson.

Although the walls of his home are filled with his original paintings, he plans to stick with pottery.

"I'm on a roll," he said. "I've had great teachers that have really inspired me."

"You learn something every day, and there are so many different ways to look at something."

Of his own students, he said, "I think the most important thing is that they're open to ideas and suggestions. Not that I'm going to tell them what to do — but they need to be open to all possibilities."

"The number one thing is to develop confidence, in themselves. That's what you really teach."

Martin finds inspiration everywhere, especially when he is in the southwest. One of his biggest inspirations is a Native American friend in Tucson whose father is a Deer Dancer and whose uncle is a Medicine Man.

"Being in the southwest, you just get inspired by the things around you," he said. "Such a great combination of people . . . The culture is vastly different. It's just a whole different way of life."

Martin began going to Tucson to visit in-laws back in 1987. He soon decided to retire early and move there, even though he really had no connections there.

"Everyone thought I was nuts — retiring early, deciding to move to Tucson," he recalled. But the move turned out to be good for him.

"I wanted to retire early because I wanted to have time to do something else," he said.

"For me, what I'm doing takes a lot of energy. Being creative is an effort. It's a gift, and I feel I have to do something with it."

"It does take effort. It's physically hard being a potter. You're constantly involved with hands and arms . . . You're really active doing this."

But Tucson is not the only place Martin finds inspiration for his work. He also finds it in his home town.

"I'm always looking for things. I take a four-mile walk along Northville Road every other day and I'm constantly looking for things, picking things up. One day I found a rusty old license plate, and I worked it into one of my pieces. It's at (Atrium) Gallery right now. It's called 'Northville Road.'"

A few days ago he found a rusty car door handle along Northville Road, which he plans to use in another piece.

The pieces he creates really have little to do with whether he is in Northville or Tucson, he said.

"It's more in your mind or your heart than where you are," he said. "You take all the things you experience and it just sort of filters through — assimilates — into what you create."

Quilts for AIDS babies

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

"I crochet, crochet and crochet," commented Betty Wright in talking about her quilt-making for infants and toddlers who are infected with the HIV (AIDS) virus.

She said she read in a paper last October that a woman in Huntington Woods, who was area coordinator of a national volunteer program called ABC Quilts, was appealing for quilt makers to fill a growing need for these children.

The article also said that more and more babies are being born with the AIDS virus and also with a drug addiction and a fetal alcohol syndrome.

At first in the program, she said, she made quilts for toddlers — 38 inches by 44 inches. "But now I make the smaller ones — 36-by-36 — for infants. That's the size that's needed most."

Material? Some of the yarn is her own, and some has been given to her by interested friends.

As for patterns, she said, "I use the same one until I tire of it. Everyone makes her own pattern, and some people even put pictures on them — balloons and teddy bears."

Colors? Betty Wright uses pastels and other light shades—in combination or alone.

A patch, which is sewn onto each blanket, is supplied by the organization. It reads "ABC Quilts," and the quilter writes on it in indelible ink her first name and her city and state.

She doesn't know who the recipients are. "I just give them," she said.

Anyone else who is interested in this volunteer quilt business may contact the area coordinator by sending an information request with a stamped self-addressed envelope to the area coordinator at the following address:

Linda Blondy, 8286 Huntington Road, Huntington Woods, 48070.

Meadowbrook Church 'kicks off' its fresh start

By JEANNE CLARKE
Special Writer

The Meadowbrook Congregational Church recently held a "kick-off" dinner to celebrate its entrance into the community and its plans for a new sanctuary. The 100-plus families attending the dinner were presented with a model of the new sanctuary constructed by Chris Broderick, a slide presentation of "Live At Meadowbrook" put together by John Sope, and a report from architect Ron Clelak. Mary Cope and Dick Dun-dun discussed the financial picture. Since the church's membership has grown to three times the original number, everyone is eager for a new house of worship.

The church recently hosted the Annual Spring Meeting for the Southeastern Michigan Association of Congregational Churches. Fourteen other churches were represented at this meeting. Prior to the business meeting, Mary and the Holy Spirit, a narration with music by Patricia Delany, accompanied by soprano Ellen Jones and organist Robert Delany was performed.

The Women's Service Club has used proceeds from several fund raisers, including the recent Plant and Bake Sale, to purchase potted plants and crushed stone for the sidewalk entrance. Also, everyone is reminded that the church does collect Bill Knapp Community Points. These points can be obtained by eating at Bill Knapp's. The restaurant will give all patrons a receipt for the cost of dinner to be used as credit toward a variety of items. The most recent items have been a hand truck, and 12- and 18-gallon stainless steel stockpots.

The club's last meeting was at the home of Linda Jo Hare. Upcoming activities include the Church School Sunday, where Denise Parr will recognized for her duties as Superintendent. Following this service, there will be an ice cream social on the church lawn and then an afternoon picnic at Lake Shore park. The cost is $2 per person or $5 per family. Those attending are asked to bring a salad or dessert.

NOVI YOUTH ASSISTANCE
Novi Youth Assistance continues fund-raising activities for efforts such as operating a 10-week Summer Youth/Teen Center, sending students to summer camps, sponsoring sports teams, offering parenting classes and funding PLUS activities.

The group will hold its Annual White Elephant/Rummage Sale the weekend of July 28th at the Novi Town Center. A "Sneak Preview Sale" will be held on Thursday, July 25.

Admission will be by ticket only ($3.00) and will be available at the Novi Youth Assistance office in the Civic Center. The group needs the donation of unwanted items, such as clean children and adult clothes, kitchen items, small working appliances, small furniture, jewelry, drapes, bedspreads, decorative items, working electronic equipment, lamps, tables, office equipment, tools, toys, games, puzzles, and sports equipment. Their items are the well-known phrase, "one person's junk is another's treasure." Items may be dropped off at the Youth Assistance Center. Call the office at 349-8398 for drop-off times. Assistance can be given for heavy items.

The next meeting of the board of directors will be June 26 at the home of Judy Williams. Anyone wishing well as several upcoming projects. Including the Novi '90s Festival July 24-28, and the AMVETS State Convention at the Troy Hilton June 27-30.

The post also assists with bingo games and the distribution of prizes at the Ann Arbor Veterans Hospital on the second Friday of the month.

AMVET members are veterans from World War II, Korea, Vietnam, and Saudi Arabia 150 days consecutive service. They are looking for new members to assist in upcoming programs.

The post, named for Perry Kenner, the son of longtime Novi residents Rose and Myrtle Kenner, was originally founded in the 1950s with a membership of 500, the largest in Michigan.

Meetings are at 8 p.m. on the first Wednesday of every month in the old fire station on Novi Road.

Anyone wishing more information may call 349-2835.

NOVI CHARTER HOUSE
The Community Council of Novi Charter House would like to thank the Novi residents who participated in their recent Bake Sale — both those who brought items and those who purchased them. The $400 profit was unbelievable. The council will use it to help enrich the lives of the residents.

Charter House is looking into getting the "Love Bus" to take some of the mobile residents to special events like baseball games.

Volunteers are a big part of the program at Charter House, and many were honored by Mr. and Mrs. Shapiro at a recent luncheon. Residents honored for volunteering their time for various projects included Florence Adair, Eleanor Bardeleben, Florence Bowers, Mary Ellen Havrilla, Florence Hughes, Jane Martin, Fred Morin, Edda Wallon, and Mary Nowland. Honored community members who are relatives of the residents included Bernice Frederick, Kearney Kirkby, Ron Martin, Margaret Meyer, Gretchen Oppermann, Ann Oppert-Hauser, Fran Simo, Ellen Benfield, John Jones, Karen Timko, and Jeanne Clarke.

Sandy Spiro, administrator, is also donating to meet the clergyman in the area. At his special breakfast for them, Novi area participants were the Rev. Charles Jacobs, the Rev. Tom Shergar, the Rev. G. Stewart, the Rev. Gary Elmer, and Fr. John Budde.

There is need for additional volunteers to visit, read or write for residents, transport them to activities, help with bingo, help serve at Crunchy Toast and Coffee Hour and at any other special event, help with gardening, do simple crafts, set up bowling pins and keep score, play an instrument, conduct an activity, or accompany wheelchair residents on the out-of-town one wishing to help may call 477-2000.

Spring has also brought work, with projects such as the Memorial Garden walkway, the installation of screens, and the planting of trees and shrubs keeping parishioners busy on Workday. Lunch is being provided by the fellowship committee.

New classes include a 9 a.m. study on philippiana led by Associate Pastor Cy Simo and a new membership class through June, held right after the 10:30 a.m. service.

The upcoming Vacation Bible School will be entitled, "In Our Hands/In His Hands," and will be offered from 10 a.m. — 1 p.m. Registration is already being taken at $6 per child or $20 per family. Volunteers are needed in a number of areas, including nature guides, crafts, stories, drama, music, drivers for field trips, etc.

On Sunday, June 23, at 5 p.m., the Fellowship Center is sponsoring a cookout/get together at the Everett's on W. Le Boet. It is for college-aged young adults to get acquainted or re-acquainted with friends who have scattered over the country. There will be a barbecue, and RSVP should be to Mrs. Everett at 478-0982.

On Sunday, June 30, the 10:30 a.m. service will be at Lakeshore Park. Those attending are asked to bring a picnic lunch. After the service, there will be activities and games for all ages as well as a paddle boat rental, alcohol. A large tent has been rented in case of rain or extra-hot weather. FAITH COMMUNITY PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Faith Community Presbyterian Church is reviewing its plans for additional building, as the church's membership continues to grow.

Spring has also brought work, with projects such as the Memorial Garden walkway, the installation of screens, and the planting of trees and shrubs keeping parishioners busy on Workday. Lunch is being provided by the fellowship committee.

New classes include a 9 a.m. study on philippiana led by Associate Pastor Cy Simo and a new membership class through June, held right after the 10:30 a.m. service.

The upcoming Vacation Bible School will be entitled, "In Our Hands/In His Hands," and will be offered from 10 a.m. — 1 p.m. Registration is already being taken at $6 per child or $20 per family. Volunteers are needed in a number of areas, including nature guides, crafts, stories, drama, music, drivers for field trips, etc.

On Sunday, June 23, at 5 p.m., the Fellowship Center is sponsoring a cookout/get together at the Everett's on W. Le Boet. It is for college-aged young adults to get acquainted or re-acquainted with friends who have scattered over the country. There will be a barbecue, and RSVP should be to Mrs. Everett at 478-0982.

CROSSROADS

Some people travel by boarding a plane and flying across the world. Some people travel by staying home and letting the world come to them.

Both kinds of traveler are involved in the home stay programs that encourage students to live in foreign homes and locals to host students from foreign lands.

These programs come under many names, but the name that I am interested in at the moment is "Nacel."

"What does it mean?" I asked Evelyn Prince of West Bloomfield. She and her husband Julian coordinate the Nacel Cultural Exchanges in Michigan.

It's the short form of a French word, nacelle, that means the basket under a hot air balloon. It is our logo because it represents the adventurous spirit needed to explore new lands and cultures.

Jeanette Champine of Milford will be on her way to France and Jeffrey Harris of Howell will be on his way to Spain when the planeload of Michigan students takes off in July. There are still a few spaces for students who want to take part in a four-week summer homestay in Europe.

Homestays have added new dimensions to the lives of Elizabeth Carver of Howell and her two children, Susan and Alma. College and Christopher was still at Howell High School when they welcomed a Spanish student called Julien into their home five summers ago.

The following year, Susan visited Julien's family in Spain. "Julien warned his family to speak slowly because Susan didn't speak Spanish well, but Susan had learned a lot of Spanish by then and she surprised them all," Elizabeth said.

Nacel was launched by language teachers in France in 1957 and came to America in 1969. The non-profit organization organizes 17,000 international exchanges a year.

That didn't surprise me. What did surprise me was the effect "Desert Storm" has had on this year's arrangements. Everybody was canceling trips when the "Scuds" were landing in the "Middle East" last winter; families that planned to send their sons and daughters to Europe canceled their trips too.

As a result, Nacel still has openings on flights leaving Detroit in July and August for France and Spain. Nacel organizes summer programs in Europe and West Africa. The complete cost for students leaving Detroit is $1,435 to $1,820; in France or Spain, optional sightseeing is offered. Students aged 13 to 18 are invited to participate in three or four week homestays in France, Germany, Spain or the Ivory Coast.

"We need all kinds of families," Elizabeth said. "More boys than girls come to the U.S. so we are always looking for homes for boys. That can be difficult because the American students who express interest are often girls."

Each foreign student brings his own health and liability insurance and his own spending money. If you would like to host one of the 180 French, German and Spanish students, mostly boys, who want to spend four weeks experiencing American life this summer, call Evelyn or Julian Price at (313) 626-6641 or the national office toll-free at (800) 622-3533.

Better hurry up. French students arrive July 28. Spanish students arrive July 28 and again July 30. German students will be here July 20. They all speak English.

Insiders' tips for visiting Stratford

By IRIS SANDERSON JONES
Travel Writer

"Annas Bananas is a great place for dessert after the theater. We always stay at a bed-and-breakfast by the Avon River. Buy your festival tickets in February for the best seats."

"Village Studios has the best display of Canadian crafts in Stratford. I heard those voices in my ear as our tour bus drove into Stratford, Ontario, recently. And I loved it."

If you want inside information on a travel destination, ask somebody who has been there. Friends who picnic on the riverbank. Neighbors who stay at a bed-and-breakfast farmhouse. Readers who send insider tips.

It was late afternoon and the velvet sun was backlighting the ever-green grass, glowing on red barns and sculpting the horses, cows and farm silos common to southwestern Ontario.

By theater time, there was a glass gleam of setting sun on the Avon River, downhill from the famous tent-shaped roof of the Festival Theater. Four trumpeters stood on the roof to blow the signal: 10 minutes to showtime.

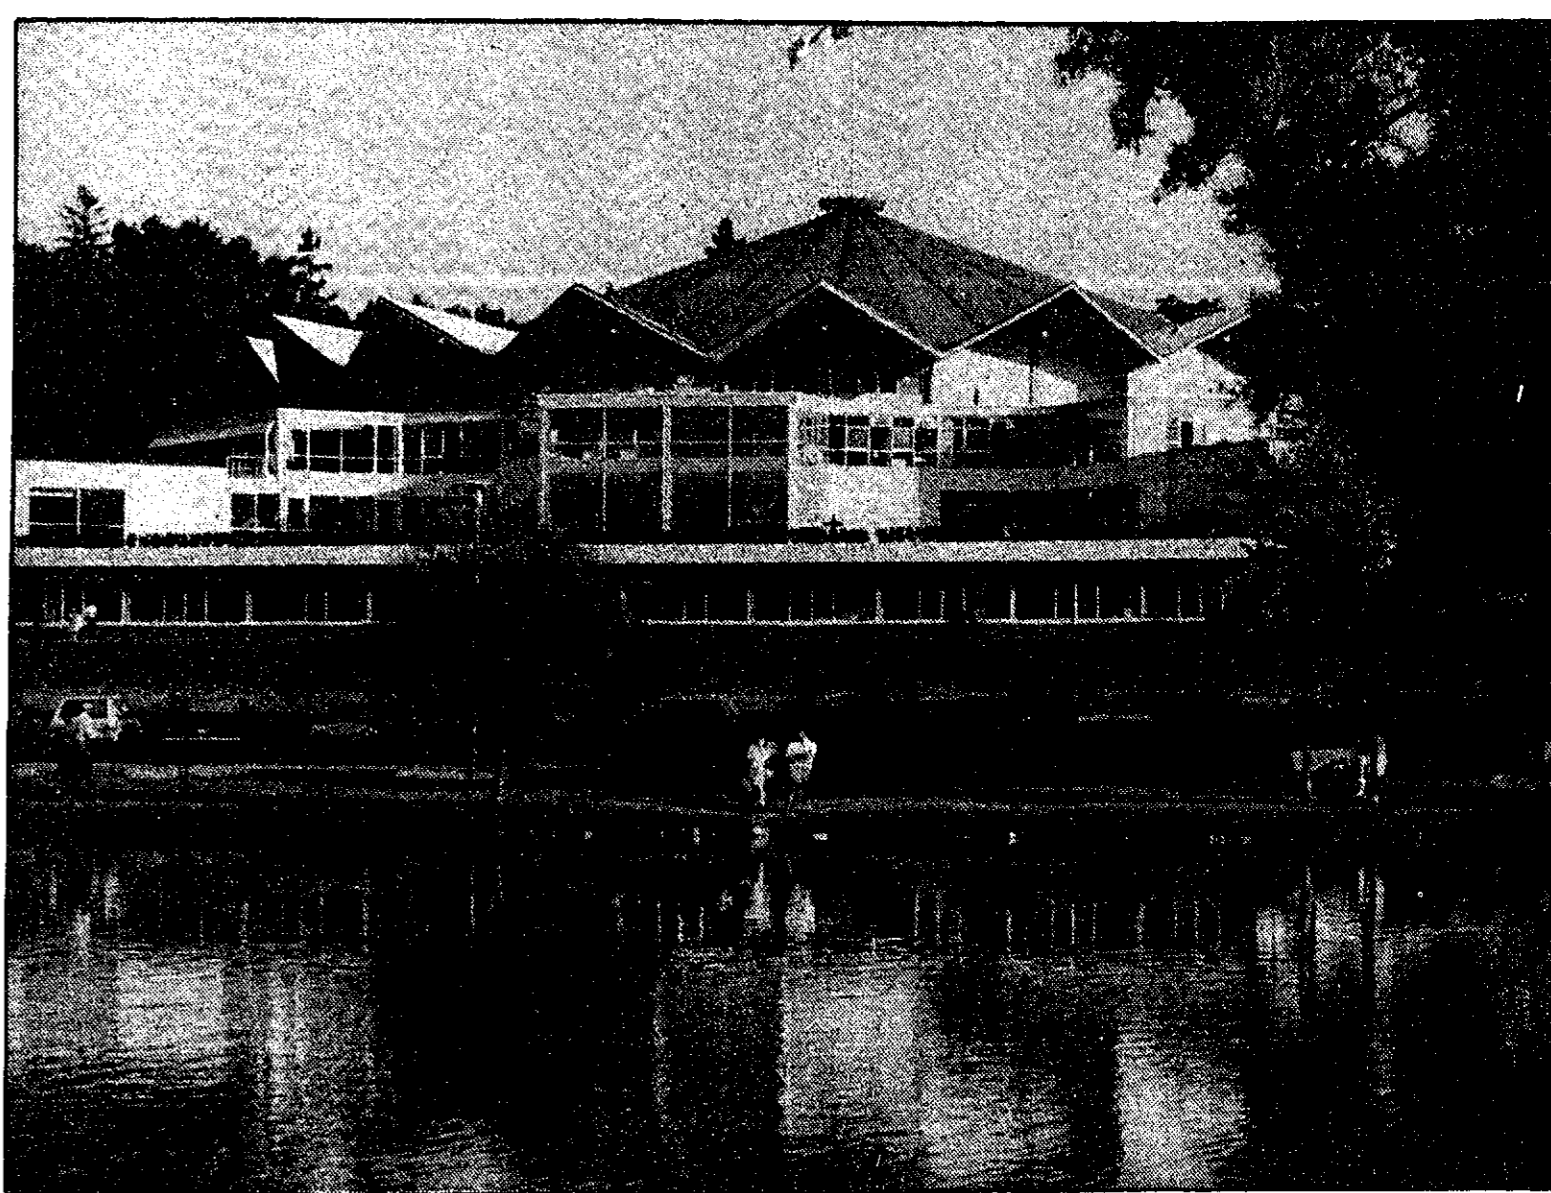

Most people in the lobby had tickets, but a few lined up for rush seats ordered that morning. Cary Gersh of Bloomfield Hills remembers when he traveled to Stratford as a high school student, slept in the car and bought $2 rush seats, sold on the morning of the performance. They're $25 now.

"Rush seats were at the top of the house, so they gave us a great view of the empty seats below. We would rush down at intermission and fill them."

Cary, a graphic artist at Skyline Studios in Southfield, comes to Stratford now with his wife Thoma, a psychologist for the Bloomfield Hills schools. They buy their tickets as soon as sales open in February.

"You can see pretty well from most seats, but when we come this far and stay overnight we want the best seats. Shakespeare is esoteric sometimes and we like to see the expressions on the actors' faces."

The Festival Theater has 16 rows in a steep semi-circle, with a seven-row balcony above it. There are no barriers, and you can see the stage quite well from any seat, but I went to the center seats downstairs and the front row of the balcony;

The Festival Theatre sits on the banks of the Avon River in Stratford, Ontario their least favorite were the least expensive seats on each end of the semi-circle. The lights went down and the audience hushed as a brace of lancers and laughing ladies began "Much Ado About Nothing" on the small circular stage. Carol McCloud of Howell was there, visiting Stratford for the first time. She loved "Much Ado" and the other plays she saw in Stratford, but most of all she enjoyed the experience of being there in that small riverside town in Ontario.

"It's like an oasis in the middle of the countryside," she said. "It's walkable, the people are friendly, the Church restaurant is an absolute must. I went for lunch, but I went back to the Bellify after the theater for a snack and a drink. It's a great place." It is easy enough to find your own way around the well-known parts of Stratford, which is built around the City Hall in Market Square.

The City Hall has been described as a great Victorian monster of red brick, frosted with white cupolas and a clock tower, but when developers tried to tear it down in the 1970s the citizens threw them out of town.

From City Hall you can see the Avon Theater, second of Stratford's three important theaters, the shops that circle the square and the park that fringes the Avon River at the end of Downie Street.

I followed the park path downhill past the flagged skyline of the Memorial Gardens, and the bronze triumphal and despair of the World War I Memorial, to the bright plastic colors of paddle boats on the Avon River.

Joggers and walkers and bikers have worn the path down both sides of the river. They photograph the 19th century bridge and the court house reflected in the early morning sun, picnic and play on the riverbanks beside the Festival Theater.

The Iris is the official Stratford flower, but foot soldiers explore the Shakespearean Gardens for 50 varieties of flowers mentioned in Shakespeare's plays.

Thoma Gersh advises: "Get a picnic lunch and sit by the river. You can bring your own or order from a list of places supplied by the tourist bureau. I recommend a great book store called Fanfare Books in an old Victorian house. Sometimes they serve tea in the back."

There is a visitor center in the small round building that hangs over the river near the war memorials. Ask for a list of the bed-and-breakfast places in town or the popular B-B farms just out of town.

Or write to Tourism Stratford, P.O. Box 1818, 88 Wellington Street, Stratford, Ontario, Canada, N5A 6W1. For Stratford Festival theater tickets, call their Detroit number: 984-4668.

Crossroads Village features rare 1910 ferris wheel

Crossroads Village and Huckleberry Railroad in Flint open and bring because AAA Michigan named it one of the top five family attractions in Michigan.

A rare 1910 ferris wheel has been added to the Village this year, a nice companion for the 1912 Parker Carousel. The village also opened a 7,000 square foot multi-purpose building, designed like a vintage railroad warehouse, to give better food and other services to groups.

The 50-foot 1910 Charles W. Parker "Superior Wheel" is the last remaining ferris wheel of its type and had a colorful history before being purchased by the Genesee County Parks and Recreation Commission last year. It ran in two Pennsylvania amusement parks and was once owned by a fire department. It was operated by the Lake Lansing Amusement Park until 1987, when it was put in storage.

The wheel features 10 ornate wire gondolas, each holding four to six passengers. Crossroads Village will also begin its second season of murder/mystery dinner theater presentations with "Manners, Mystery and Murder" June 8 and June 22. The "Musical Murders" will be featured July 13 and 27; "All Roads Lead to Murder" on Aug. 10 and 24; and "Assembly Line Murders" on Sept. 7.

Tickets are $25 for dinner and performance, or $80 for all four productions, each held at 6:30 p.m. Reservations at least 10 days ahead by calling (313) 736-7100.

Tickets for admission to Crossroads Village, which includes Huckleberry Railroad, are $7.50 for adults and $5.25 for kids 4-12. Kids under three are free. For more information, call (313) 736-7100.

It's time for a day at the zoo

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

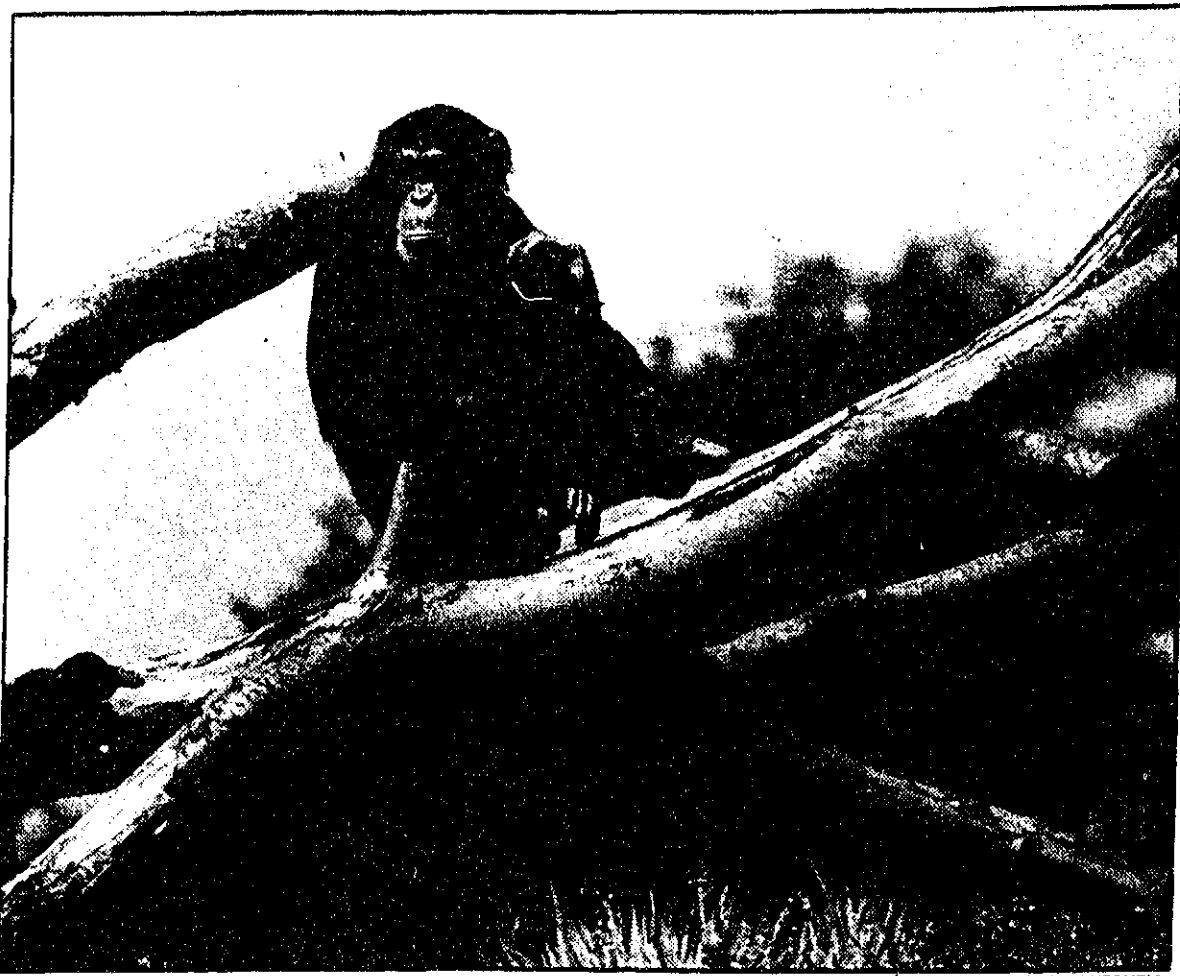

Monkeys, elephants, zebras, cotton candy, kids and a few adults, too. One of the best places to spend a warm summer day is at the Detroit Zoo.

Not only is the Detroit Zoo a good place to look at animals, it's also a place to enjoy beautiful gardens—all blooming right now—and fresh air. The air is even fresh near the hippopotamus, who's lounging outdoors these days.

The Detroit Zoo is located at the northwest corner of the intersection at Woodward Avenue and Ten Mile Road in Royal Oak. The best way to get there from Northville or Novi is to take I-696 to the Woodward Avenue exit.

One of the highlights of the zoo is the chimpanzee exhibit which, like the rest of the exhibits at the Detroit Zoo, provides a view of the animals in an atmosphere that is as close as possible to their natural habitat. The new chimpanzee exhibit, opened in 1989, is very different from the old one that closed in 1983. The chimps at the Detroit Zoo aren't dressed up in kids' clothes and trained to perform like clowns. Instead, a collection of chimps live and interact much as they would in the wild. The exhibit is designed to provide three environments close to their natural habitats: a forest clearing, a meadow and a rock outcropping.

Because they are very social animals, the chimps are usually seen in groups. They wander from rock to rock, swing from ropes, chase each other around and groom each other—just as they would if they had never spent a day in the zoo. None of the chimps at the Detroit Zoo, however, were taken from the wild. The best times to visit the Penquinarium are 10:30 and 11:30 a.m. That's when they are fed. Two other exhibits to linger at are those of the Japanese Macaque, which looks like a small monkey, and the polar bears. They are two of the exhibits that are currently sporting a few babies. It's sure to produce that "awwww" sound people tend to make when they see something cute. If you bring children to the zoo, be sure to stop at the farmyard—the one place where children can pet the animals—and the Log Cabin Learning Center, full of such educational displays as snake skins and fur to feel.

The Detroit Zoo's chimpanzee exhibit, which covers four square acres, is the largest of its kind in the world. Another point of interest at the Detroit Zoo is the recently renovated Penquinarium, which presents Blue King, Macaroni and Rockhopper penguins in three distinctive environments—again developed to give the creatures a home that resembles their natural habitat. The best times to visit the Penquinarium are 10:30 and 11:30 a.m. That's when they are fed. Two other exhibits to linger at are those of the Japanese Macaque, which looks like a small monkey, and the polar bears. They are two of the exhibits that are currently sporting a few babies. If you bring children to the zoo, be sure to stop at the farmyard—the one place where children can pet the animals—and the Log Cabin Learning Center, full of such educational displays as snake skins and fur to feel.

The Detroit Zoo is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. through October. Admission fees are $5.75 for teens and adults; $2.50 for children age 2-12; $3.50 for seniors over 62; and free for children under 2.

Amateur radio featured Saturday

Saturday, June 22, a complete working amateur radio field station will be set up on the grounds of Ella Mae Power Park on Ten Mile Road, behind the Civic Center. Over the next 24 hours, Novi Amateur Radio Club members will race to contact thousands of other amateur stations set up across North America.

During the devastation of hurricane Hugo and the California earthquake, the world depended on radio amateurs, using emergency power, to get reports into and out of the stricken areas. All are invited to visit the working amateur radio station and learn about the role "ham radio" plays right here in Novi.

Amateur radio operators are licensed by the Federal Communications Commission.

More information about this exciting community event is available by calling Rick Redoulet at 349-3928.

Novi sings: The 1991 "Sounds of Summer" concert calendar has been announced.

Leading off the series will be the Brookside Jazz Ensemble with Ursula Walker on June 20. Catch the "All Stars" Orchestra, featuring the Muzika Dancers, June 27.

Three dates are also set for July. First, the Janet Tenzel Quartet will perform jazz favorites on July 4. Next, July 11, family folk sounds will be featured with Pat and Bill Trottmaster. Rounding out the month will be One By One, featuring folk music from many lands.

All concerts are held at the Novi Civic Center at 7 p.m. For more information call 347-0400.

Karaoke: The Novi Hilton's Whispers Lounge is looking for a few good singers. It will be holding karaoke-assisted auditions on Friday and Saturday evenings. Singers are asked to reserve performance times. Phone 349-4000 to do so or for more information.

Fastest mule crowned in Flint

Michigan's fastest mule will be crowned at the 6th annual Michigan Mule Racing Championship to be held June 22 at Flint's Crossroads Village and Huckleberry Railroad.

Contenders will be divided into two classes, mules under or over 54 inches in height. Entrants will race in either 200 or 300 yard dashes and the championship quarter-mile open race which will determine the champion.

The course will be laid out along one of the Village's main dirt roads and post time is 1 p.m. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded to the winners of the prestigious event.

All riders must provide their own mule and participants will be registered up to noon on race day.

Race admission is included in the regular ticket price to Crossroads Village and the Huckleberry Railroad of $7.50 for adults, $6.50 for seniors, $5.25 for children 4-12, and free for children 3 and under. The Village and Railroad are located just north of Flint off I-475 at Exit 11.

For additional information, please contact race organizer Roger Holden at 349-8500.

Wildcat softball duo makes all area squad

Campbell, Yankowski selected

MARY GRACE YANKOWSKI

The Lakeland softballers won the Kensington Valley Conference title in a late-season runaway before advancing to the MHSAA Regional final where they fell to eventual state champs from Waterford Kettering.

As a result, the Eagles make up the majority of this year's Home-Town Newspapers All-Area East softball team as selected by sports-writers from the Midford Times, South Lyon Herald, Northville Record and Noct News. Novi and Northville hovered around the .500 mark this spring, but both were very competitive. With a 4- to 1 strikeout-to-walk ratio from workhorse pitcher Heather Campbell, Novi was always a threat. Laura Apligian — one of the premier underclass players in the state — paced the Mustangs.

Novi's Laura Jones in action

Midford and South Lyon struggled at times, with the young Redskins finishing with a 15-21 record, and the Lions at 11-17.

Here's a closer look at the first team:

DANA MARGIOTTA, pitcher, Lakeland: This feisty pitcher did it all on the mound for the Eagles this year, taking the team — with the help of her defensive teammates — to the league title, the district crown and the regional semifinals. She went 29-6 overall with a 1.70 earned-run average and struck out 115. At the plate, Margiotta had equally impressive numbers, driving in 23 runs and scoring 32 times, second only to teammate Amy Miller. "Dana is the second winningest pitcher we've had," said Coach Kent Griffiths. "Her stats speak for themselves. She's a great little athlete. She adjusted well to the position change we made (from shortstop to pitcher) and is a real competitor. This year she really became a pitcher instead of just a thrower."

HEATHER CAMPBELL, pitcher, Novi: A workhorse hurler for years, Campbell was Novi's key performer. If she was rested, the Wildcats were hard to beat. Campbell registered seven complete games where she allowed three or fewer hits and no earned runs. In all, she pitched 27 complete games. "Heather will be very hard to replace," Novi Coach John Peace said. "She's been our No. 1 pitcher for three years, and she's never really had a true back-up. That put a lot of pressure on her, but she always seemed to respond." Campbell was 18-16 with a 3.26 earned run average, but it was the number of innings pitched (215), the strikeouts (159) and the walks (35) that were extraordinary. At the plate, Campbell hit .280 with 12 RBIs. She also led her team in sacrifices.

LAURA APLIGIAN, catcher, Northville: One of the top underclass backstops in the state, Apligian was a superstar for the Mustangs. The junior led the area in key areas like batting average (.486), triples (8) and RBIs (34), and yet her team only played 26 games all season (Novi, by comparison, played 42). Apligian also delivered one home run, three doubles, 11 stolen bases and boasted a .792 slugging percentage. "Laura did it all," Northville Coach Gal Treplone said. "She proved to be our strongest offensive and defensive player. She is a definite college prospect — she's already been approached. She was very consistent, a player we could always count on." Apligian was also rock solid behind the plate with 17 put-outs and 16 assists.

In 1991, Novi pitcher Heather Campbell had 155 strikeouts and 35 walks in 215 innings

KARI HEINONEN, infielder, Midford: This senior second baseman finished the year among the Redskin leaders in hitting with a .392 average. She smacked four doubles, one triple and drove in 23 runs, scoring 26 herself for the team leadership in that department. "At the beginning of the year, we wanted her to be a starter and she became one. You could have put her anywhere and she would have shined," said Coach Mark Pflugton. "She improved tremendously at the plate. She also played solid second base and she was a quiet leader. Every chance she had she gave it 100 percent. She was all about the team." She was also rock solid behind the plate with 17 put-outs and 16 assists.

MARY GRACE YANKOWSKI, infielder, Novi: A versatile performer for Novi, this junior was a premier hitter who could catch as well as play a number of infield positions. Yankowski wound up hitting .320 after getting off to a slow start. "By the middle of the season, she really started hitting the ball," Peace said. "By the end of the season, she was a clutch hitter who always seemed to be involved in our scoring rallies." Yankowski also exhibited power, leading the area with two homers, and was among the area leaders in RBIs (28), doubles (12) and slugging percentage (.523). In addition, she scored 22 times, stole nine bases and collected four triples.

HOLLY FARMER, infielder, South Lyon: While she didn't have many extra base hits, Farmer — South Lyon's number two hitter in the lineup — batted .365 and drove in 15 runs. Defensively, the sophomore made 52 putouts and was in on 55 others, with only 14 errors, for a fielding average of .884. "Holly had a good year," said Coach Rick Shanks. "She was a good hitter. She doesn't have a lot of power, but she can get the timely hits. With the kids graduating from last year we knew she'd step in and play well for us and she did. She led us in runs scored (34) and will be a good addition next year."

Ladycat softballers exhibit increased competitiveness

By NEIL GEOGHEGAN
Staff Writer

In many ways, the 1990 Novi softball season was similar to the '90 campaign. The Ladycats had the same problem with consistency and played some of its best softball in weekend tournaments.

The big difference, however, was competitiveness. The '90 team went 4-20 in the Kensington Valley Conference, while the current squad more than doubled that output (9-15).

"We beat every team in the KVC at least once, including Lakeland — the champions," Novi Coach John Peace said. "We lost four times in the KVC by one run. So as you can see, we were much, much more competitive."

Despite 15 conference losses, the Wildcats came close to finishing at the .500 plateau (20-21-1). Credit a line 10-4 mark in tournament action for that. Novi placed first in two of five multi-team events, including wits at the Montrose Invitational and the Novi Early Bird Tournament.

"The girls always appeared to be much more relaxed in the tournaments," Peace said.

A lack of consistency plagued the team, however. It was commonplace for the 'Cats to play extremely well in one game of the doubleheader, but fall apart in the other.

"We can be very good one game and weak the next," Peace admitted. "We just don't have enough girls who play in the off-season to develop more consistency. We were much more talented than a year ago and we didn't beat ourselves as much as in the past. But we were still up and down."

With just three seniors, Peace won't have to patch-up his lineup, but he is losing three key performers: workhorse pitcher Heather Campbell, three-year starter Jennifer Sieradzki and two-year starter Jennifer Formwald.

Campbell, for instance, had a record of 18-16 this spring with 215 innings pitched. She fanned 155 batters and had an earned run average of 3.26. She was also Novi's only All-Conference and All-District first team pick. Formwald batted .333 and had an on-base percentage of .468.

"It will be hard to replace our seniors, but I'm optimistic," Peace said. "We have a good nucleus with 10 letterwinners expect back and we are getting more young kids in softball."

Sophomore Kelly Barton and freshman Julie Swinehart — two very promising young hurlers — will have to fill in for Campbell next season.

The top returnees include catcher/infielder Mary Grace Yankowski (.320, 2 homers, 28 RBIs) and outfielder Kristen Mathias (.319, 27 runs scored). Another key hitter is junior Jennifer Thal, who led the team with a .395 average, but missed 11 games, or nearly one-fourth of the season.

FRESHMAN REVIEW: With an impressive 15-3 record, Novi's ninth grade girls' softball team may have made a statement of things to come in the future.

Under the direction of Head Coach John Mayernik and Assistant Coach Mandy Watkins, the freshman team performed well as an organized and aggressive team with the aid of pitching ace Julie Swinehart. As an example, the hurler racked up 23 strikeouts in the last game of the season.

Rollerskaters take to the streets

It used to be that going to the roller rink was kind of a rite of passage as we were growing up. For many teenagers, the local roller rink was the place to be on a Friday night. Somebody's mom would drop off a carload of kids and somebody's dad would pick them up.

There was a certain romance about that time in our lives. Many teenagers experienced their first "crush" or "kiss" at a roller rink, choked on their first cigarette, or acted drunk off a can of beer split between three other people.

There also was the excitement of the "chase scene" as you and your friends whipped around in circles, playing tag, while trying to out-fox the guy with the whistle.

These days it's hard to say what 12-year-olds are doing on Friday nights. Roller rinks, as we knew them, faded considerably when disco music was liquidated. And as for the standard roller skates, the ones with four wheels situated side by side and sporting a toe stop, they've since given way to the "in-line" skates.

You've probably seen them. They look like hockey skates with wheels. They're faster and better able to handle rougher surfaces, like asphalt and cement, than a roller skate.

Kids deliver newspapers on them. Teens play street hockey with them. Adults use them for training, increasing the speed and excitement of the workout while decreasing the joint shock caused by running.

So what we've seen here is a new trend in roller skating that has taken people out of the roller rinks and allowed them to utilize the thousands of miles of asphalt veins that make up the metropolitan area.

And many of those who own these skates have, in the past, undoubtedly spun a few laps around that mirrored ball.

Well, guess what. The One on One Athletic Club in West Bloomfield has brought the old roller rink into the 1990s. On Sundays (5-9 p.m.), One on One kicks the tennis players out of their 25,000-square-foot, air-supported tennis bubble and the Surf's Up Shop from Kego Harbor provides the rollerblade-style skates for an evening called "One on One's Rock and Rollers... A New Fitness Adventure."

"This is really fitness equated with fun," said Kitty Elenbaas, One on

Skating at the rink has given way to rollerblading in the streets

One's fitness and aerobics director. "It helps with 'cabin fever' by getting you out of the house and into a nice big area to move around in."

In its first few months of offering the program, One on One has been averaging 20-25 people. Non-club members are more than welcome to show up, pay a reasonable fee, and cruise around on their own skates or try a pair of the demos that Surf's Up provides.

"We get a lot of calls on these skates," said Kurt Manecke of Surf's Up. "So we worked out a deal where we provide the skates and One on One provides the forum to use them."

And just like the old roller rink, One on One provides some games for the younger skaters. Gone is the "Shoot the Duck" game, which is nearly impossible on in-line skates. Couples skating? Go ahead, if you want.

A few of the people are there either to get a workout or to learn — or relearn — how to skate. The majority of the crew burns circles around those new to the sport, playing tag, throwing tennis balls back and forth and generally having a riot.

"We're really going to focus on the youth," said Ron Austin, general manager of One on One. "We'll have races, tag and freestyle games for the kids along with instructional skating sessions for everyone."

"I like Rollerblading because you get to go really fast and race against the other people," said Joey Slavik, 10, of Birmingham., while showing off the Surf's Up T-shirt he had just won in a race.

"This is totally RAD!" yelled Blair Byrnes, 11, of West Bloomfield. "These things are faster and more maneuverable than regular roller skates."

And when asked why he wasn't wearing knee pads like the other kids, 7-year-old Brandon Watzman of West Bloomfield confidently replied "That's because I hardly ever fall."

A couple of adults, including Austin, had only been on the skates a couple of times and seemed to be tapping on that roller rink style of the past while nearly remaining upright. And many of the skaters opted for safety equipment.

"It's optional, yet recommended," Manecke said.

Jeff Jones, 28, of West Bloomfield, had brought his nephew, Brandon Watzman, to skate. Jones, who used to play ice hockey, started skating with Brandon over the summer. He believes the new style roller skating is tougher than ice skating, "mainly because it's harder to stop in these things."

From a fitness standpoint, the in-line skates "are definitely a fat burner," Elenbaas said. "Not only do they work every muscle in your body, they also help healthy people develop coordination and agility."

Elenbaas added that the skates are a great tool for people who have had knee injuries because they are a "very low impact" training and recreation tool.

Back with the "Rock and Roller" skaters, when asked who could win a race between himself and his Uncle Jeff, Brandon said, "Sometimes me, sometimes him... unless there's money on it."

Elenbaas pulls up to a not-so-graceful stop on her skates.

"This takes me back to my childhood and how much fun I used to have skating at the roller rink," she said.

The young and the young at heart are having themselves a "rolling blast" in the One on One Athletic Club tennis bubble, showing off their moves and burning off the calories. The only ones who seem to be concerned are the tennis players.

Will Rollerblades take over the bubble? Stay tuned.

Recreation Station comes to Novi

Registrations are under way for a Recreation Station offered by the Novi Parks and Recreation. This six-week mobile recreation program offered to area children aged 5-12. Four sites have been selected for this pilot program: Village Oaks Clubhouse, Meadowbrook Lake Subdivision, Spirit of 76 Park and Lakeshore Park.

These sites will be visited by Parks and Recreation staff members who will have planned activities for children. All participants will have to register with the parks and recreation office. Any child within a reasonable radius of a site will be allowed to register.

The program will be held from July 8-Aug. 15 and cost is $38 ($45.00 for non-residents). The recreation station will be at Village Oaks Clubhouse from 9:30 a.m.-4:15 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays; at Meadowbrook Lake Subdivision from 1:30-4:15 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays; at the Spirit of 76 Park from 9:30 a.m.-12:15 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays; and at Lakeshore Park from 1:30-4:15 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Call 347-0400 for more information.

Livonia Spree Run: The Livonia Spree 8K Run and 5K Walk will be held on June 30 at Stark Road at Perth. Registration starts at 7 a.m. and the race begins at 8:30 a.m.

Fee is $10 before June 22 and $12 the day of the race. All participants receive a T-shirt and a pancake breakfast is available to all runners/walkers for $1.50. This event is to benefit the Hemophilia Foundation of Michigan.

For more information, call 1-800-482-3041

Novi Rotary Run: The Fourth Annual Novi Rotary Run, previously held in late July, has been moved up to June 29 this year. The event will start at 8:30 a.m. at the Running Fit store in the Novi Town Center.

There will be a 5-mile run ($9 before race, $12 day of race) and a 3-mile walk ($8 in advance, $10 race day). Entry fee includes one raffle ticket to win a 1990 Corvette.

Check-in time is 7-8:20 a.m. For more information, call 349-3960 or 347-4949.

New Attitude Aerobics: Northville Community Recreation is offering a fitness program designed for you: low- and high-impact aerobic alternatives with toning and shaping floorwork, fun and easy-to-follow workouts, morning and evening child care.

New Attitude Aerobics' summer season will begin on June 17 and registrations are now being accepted. The one-hour classes are year-round at the Community Recreation gymnasium on the following days: Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9:15 a.m.; Monday and Wednesday at 5:45 p.m.; Tuesday and Thursday at 7 p.m.; and Saturday at 8 a.m.

For registration or more information, call 349-0203 or 348-3120.

Fitness Notes

Open swimming: Northville Community Recreation will host open swimming at the Northville High School pool on Tuesday nights 8-9 p.m., Wednesday nights 7:15-8 p.m., Thursday evenings 8-9 p.m. and Saturday afternoons from 12:30-1:30 p.m. There is also lap swims following open swimming.

Large groups are encouraged to participate, but must notify the recreation department at 349-0203 in advance. A $1 fee is payable at the door.

Health Club: If you're thinking of joining a health club, Schoolcraft College has something for you.

The Livonia Junior college is offering its own health club, a Gym-and-Swim program. The health club is designed for families to enjoy unstructured activity in a modern, fully-equipped physical education facility. A nominal fee of $3 is charged per visit and you will have the use of gyms, racquetball courts, weight machines and saunas. The club meets on Sundays from 1-5 p.m.

The Gym-and-Swim program is offered on Thursdays and on Saturdays (from 8 a.m. to noon). This program costs $3 per visit on Thursday and $2 on Saturday, and utilizes facilities including: the pool, weight training equipment, handball/paddleball courts, gyms and saunas. Call 462-4413 for more information.

Rent a pool: For those who like to keep fit by swimming, the Novi High School Pool is available for rent. Groups may rent the pool on Fridays from 7:30-9 p.m. If interested, call the Novi Community Education office at 348-1200 at least one month prior to date requested.

Health screening: The Novi Parks and Recreation Department offers a variety of health screening events each week.

One is blood pressure screening for senior citizens. This free service is offered each Wednesday in the Novi Civic Center from 11 a.m.-noon.

Fitness over 50: A one-hour exercise program called "Fitness Over 50" is held Monday and Wednesday mornings at Twelve Oaks Mall. It takes place 9-10 a.m. in the Lord & Taylor corridor near the east entrance.

The program, conducted by the University of Michigan Division of Physical Education, is particularly aimed at older people and others who want to benefit from an invigorating but non-strenuous exercise program.

Fitness Over 50 welcomes all interested persons, regardless of age and current activity level.

Call the Twelve Oaks Management Office, 348-9438, for further information.

Yoga class: Seven-week yoga classes are being offered in Northville this winter. Diane Segel-Divita, past president of the Yoga Association of Greater Detroit, is the instructor.

The classes will be offered on Thursdays (7-8:30 p.m.) or Sundays (10:10-11:40 a.m.) at the Northville American Legion Hall. Yoga effectively trains the body to develop strength, flexibility and balance.

The cost is $28. For more information, call Segel-Divita at 344-0928.

Weight Watchers: Weight Watchers, the internationally recognized weight loss program meets every Wednesday at the Northville Community Center at 9:45 a.m. and 6 p.m.

Registration fee is $17, plus a weekly fee of $9. For more information, call Diana Kutzke at 287-2900.

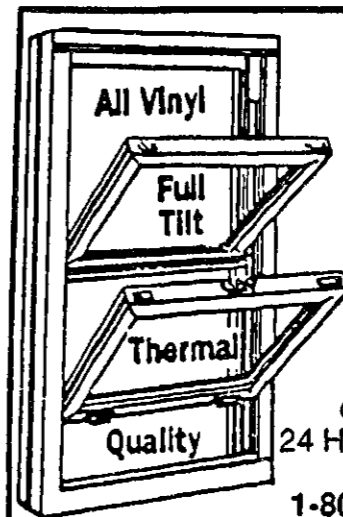

Aerobic Fitness Inc.: A fitness program called "Aerobic Fitness Inc." is now being offered. The one-hour program is designed to stretch, trim and tone. Six-week classes run continuously throughout the year.

Fee is $33 (two classes per week), $45 (three classes), $55 (unlimited). For more information, call 348-1280.

Ask-a-nurse referral: "Ask-a-Nurse," the new 24-hour health-information and physician-referral line sponsored by five Mercy hospitals in southeast Michigan, is offering a new speakers bureau to community groups. Program director Linda Hintze, RN, and registered nurses who staff the telephone lines seven days a week, 365 days a year, will be available to speak to groups of 15 or more about the calls they receive and how they help callers locate physicians and health or community information.

Requests should be made at least three weeks before the intended speaking engagement. There is no charge for the service and participants will give valuable information about how this service can help them day or night. For more information or to make a reservation, please call the Ask-a-Nurse office at Catherine McAuley Health Center toll-free at 1-800-526-MERCY (1-800-526-3729) or in the Ann Arbor area, (313) 572-5500.

"Ask-a-nurse" is a free community health information and physician referral service of five Sisters of Mercy Hospitals — Catherine McAuley Health Center-Ann Arbor, Mercy Hospital-Port Huron, Mercy Hospitals and Health Services in Detroit which includes Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital and Samaritan Health Center, and St. Joseph Mercy Hospital-Pontiac. REAL ESTATE CREATIVE LIVING

The Primrose 2 Light space is cure for the blues

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

High-ceilinged, bright and open, the vaulted family room and living room set the tone for the Primrose 2. Simply stepping into such a light, expansive space is a sure cure for the blues.

The basic shape of this totally contemporary home, forgetting the garage for a moment, is that of a soaring bird. The family room is in the head position, kitchen at the heart, living room at the feet and bedrooms in the outstretched wings.

While this floor plan includes a few odd angles, corners in most of the rooms are square, thereby avoiding decorating nightmares. The kitchen, pantry and utility room make good use of the few oddly shaped areas.

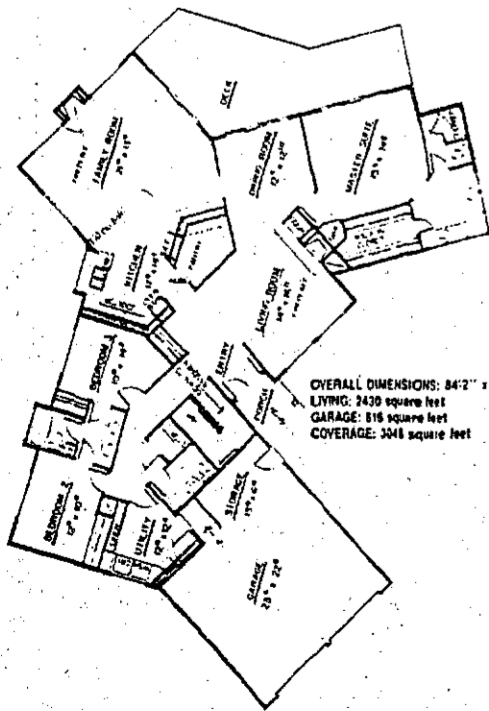

The large country kitchen is big enough for two, three and even four cooks to work in at once. An eating bar is all that separates it from the family room where there is plenty of room for a table for informal dining, doing homework, playing board games and the like. An herb garden, African violets and other plants will flourish in the garden window, and with the plants right in front of the sink, it's easy to keep them watered.

One-and-a-half-story-high arched windows flank the fireplace at the far side of the family room. Sliding glass doors open out onto the deck from here, as well as from the dining room and master suite.

The master suite has a huge double walk-in closet and space enough for a sitting area. Working couples, both getting ready for work at the same time, will appreciate the convenience of double vanities in the dressing room, separate from the shower and toilet.

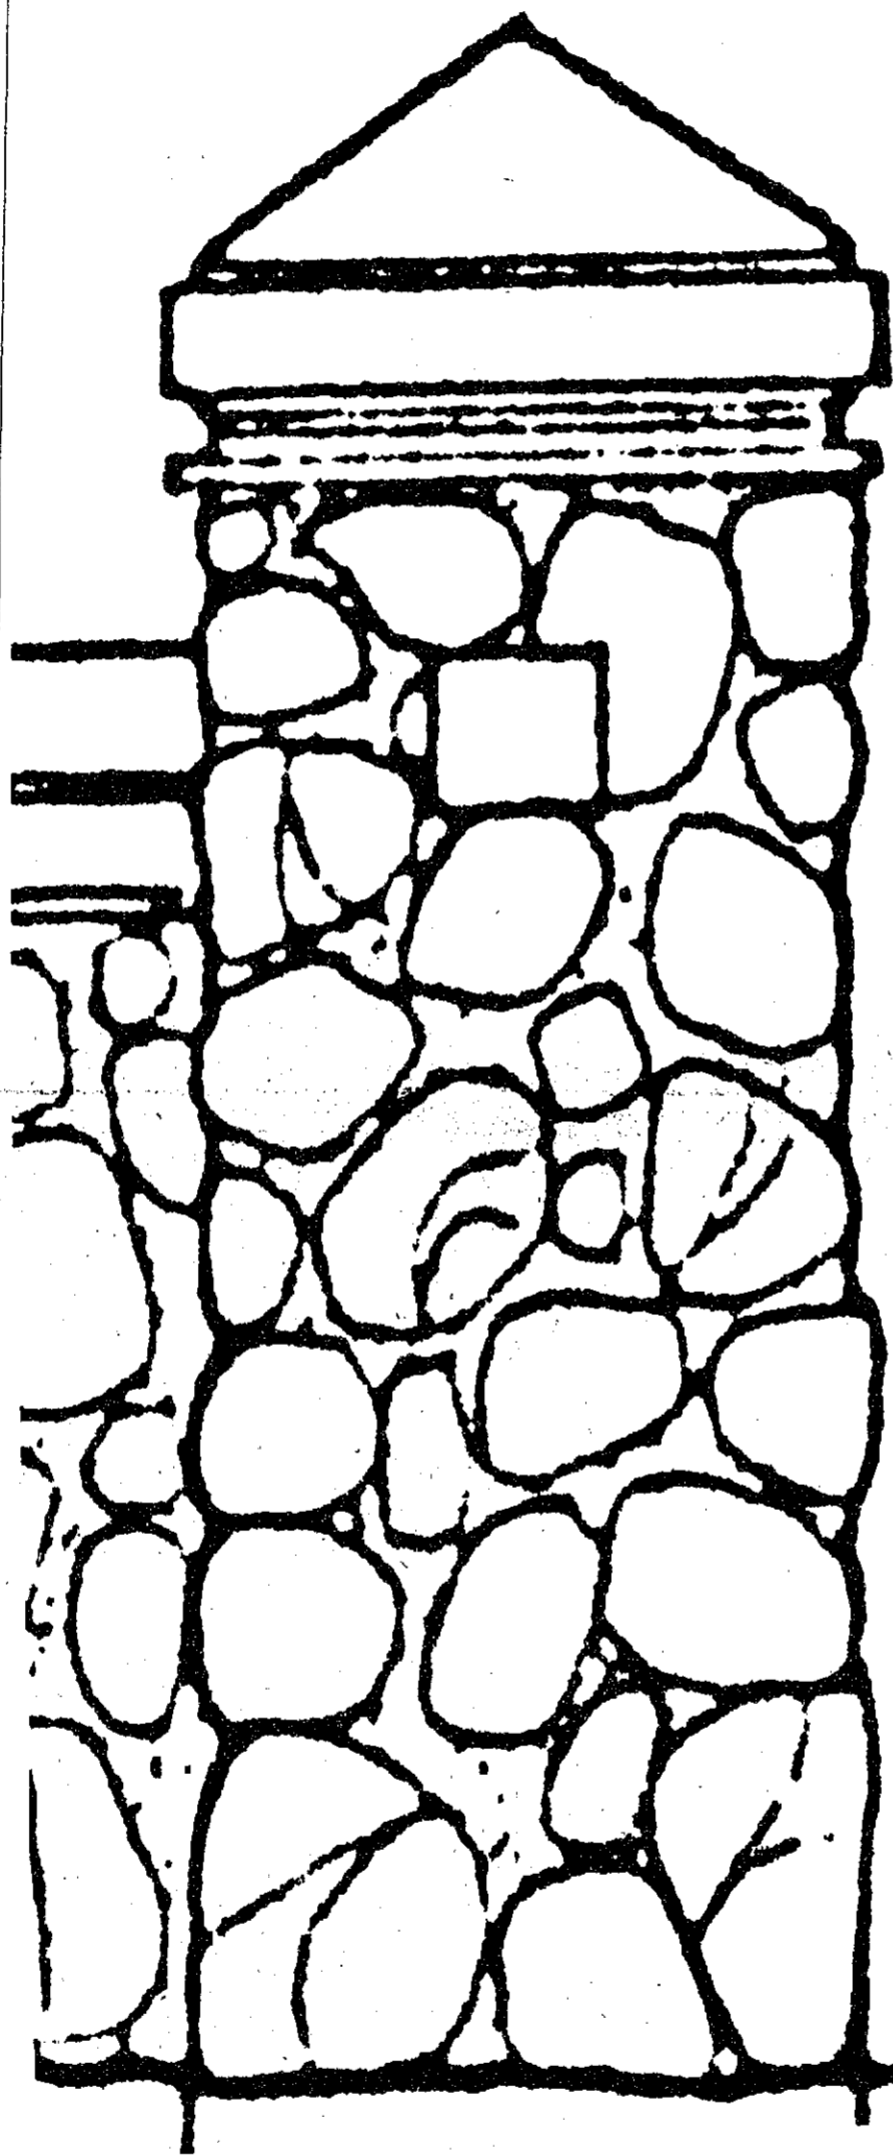

The bathroom that serves the bedrooms at the other end of the house is also compartmentalized and contains another set of double vanities, crucial when teen-agers share the space. A half-bath, for general use, is also handy to the garage.

If the home is built without a basement, the stairway would be eliminated in favor of a larger bathroom, storage space or whatever.

Traditionally Modern

By RICK BYRNE

The design of the grounds and entryways at the Country Club Village condominium development are something new for Northville Township, and yet at the same time, they're something old.

Developers of the site, Pulte Homes of Michigan and Real Estate Interest, and landscape architects from the Gibbs Planning Group, put their heads together to come up with a design that pays homage to the area's heritage, while performing an integral role in a modern development.

So successful was their work that the site, located at Haggerty and Six Mile roads, that it recently earned one of Northville Township's beautification awards.

"We're really proud of the beautification award from the township," said Bob Gibbs of the Gibbs Planning Group. "The design intent was to come up with something that would match the historic vernacular of the Northville area."

In its quest to capture and preserve the area's historic charm, the Gibbs Group started with the fences and entrances. White equestrian fencing borders the development on Haggerty Road, giving the development a Lexington, Ky., horse farm look.

"We thought there was kind of a historical farm feel in the area," said Gibbs. "So we came up with a historically accurate horse farm fence."

White wooden piers support the fence at intervals, and the stone columns contribute to the structural integrity as well. In keeping with the horse atmosphere, there's even a working farm gate at one of the entrances.

The farm image is taken a step further with the planting of an apple orchard, also on the Haggerty Road frontage.

"It will flower in the spring," said Gibbs. "The orchard's been planted so it will all flower at the same time. We've planted the trees on a grid, but we've kind of twisted the grid. As you drive down the road you can look down the rows of trees, and it really looks nice. You can see it from Haggerty and from inside the development."

Other plants around the site are indigenous to the region, and produce year-round flowering and fall colors.

"We used a lot of flowering shrubs and trees," said Gibbs. "We weren't looking for fountains or swimming pools or tennis courts like some new developments."

The entryways maintain the historical aesthetic aspects of the site. Genuine fieldstone columns, topped with carved limestone caps, are not over-whelmingly large so as to be intimidating to pedestrians. Instead they offer a warm and inviting introduction to the homes and golf course beyond. "We wanted something of a simple and understated entryway," said Gibbs.

Yet the simplicity of the design belies the complexity of the effort that went into producing the elements.

The limestone caps were crafted by true old-world craftspeople at Genesee Stone of Grand Blanc. Each cap was carved from a single piece of limestone.

"These fellows learned stone carving," said Gibbs. "They're third generation stone carvers, and they sculpted the details for us. They chiseled out our cove moldings with all the details just as it would have been done 100 years ago. As it weathers and ages, we hope it will look like something that has always been there."

The columns themselves are of split-faced fieldstone, indigenous to the Northville area, and were built by Creative Stone of Davidsburg.

"They're very good craftsmen," said Gibbs. "We looked to find good old world craftsmen that were careful with details."

"They were careful to have a mortar color that worked well with the stone. We also had a special design in the mortar so that it had a flush border with the stones themselves. The new trend is to inset the mortar, but in the old days it was flush."

Gibbs said homeowners and visitors at Country Club Village have given him lots of good feedback about the work that's been done, a tribute to the high quality standards of those who participated in the job. And with a beautification award from the township, it proves that good efforts don't go unrewarded.

REAL ESTATE

Good news for first-time home buyers

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

The real estate market is on an upswing in most regions of the country. Even first-time home buyers are taking action to fulfill their dream.

Those first-time buyers, while still far below repeat home buyers in market activity, have moved into a more progressive niche in the current market, it was revealed in a study by the National Association of Realtors. The new activity is sparked by lower prices, low mortgage interest rates and other home affordability factors.

The NAR report showed that in certain regions of the country, where there is a plentiful supply of housing at affordable prices, first-time home buyers are being inventive through financing alternatives and home options like condos and co-ops to make the switch from renter to owner.

"Because interest rates are declining, entry-level buyers have more leverage when it comes to entering the housing market," said Harley E. Rouda, NAR president.

He added that while affordability conditions are better now than in previous months, there still exists a disparity between entry-level buyers and trade-up buyers.

In some areas, home prices have been increasing in recent weeks. But those increases have been offset by interest rate declines, opening a window of opportunity for buyers.

Also, renewed consumer confidence after the war had a role in bringing first-time home buyers back into the market, the NAR report noted.

Inevitably, this growing activity is beginning to push starter home prices up in most areas. Nationally, those prices rose about $2,700 during the past three months. And average monthly payments have increased by $13.

Rouda said in today's market buyers have a real advantage due to a plentiful supply of affordably priced homes and the availability of low interest rates. He predicted that affordability conditions will continue to be healthy as long as interest rates remain relatively low.

Q. Considering the dip in home values over the past couple of years, is this now considered a risky form of investment?

A. As a long-term investment, nothing beats your own home.

Even during the past seven years, home values increased in almost every area of the country. For example, home prices in Chicago rose 54 percent; in Los Angeles, prices were up 79 percent; in New York City, up 96 percent; in Tampa-

St. Petersburg, Fla., up 29 percent.

As for the future, here is a perceptive statement recently released by Harvard University's Joint Center for Housing Studies:

"While it may be necessary to ride out a short-term down cycle, over time, home prices tend to rise at or above the general rate of inflation, making housing a solid investment and key component in the financial security of the current and future generations of Americans."

Q. Was the Realty World franchise organization recently sold?

A. Yes. Realty World was sold by the Resolution Trust Corp. to Bond Street Group, a Vancouver, British Columbia-based investment company.

The value of secretaries and banking

By James G. McCollam
Copley News Service

Enclosed is a photo of my side-by-side secretary. I would like any information you can provide about when and where it was made and the value.

The glass door and mirror are the original ones and the whole thing is in good condition. A. This asymmetric secretary was probably made in Grand Rapids, Mich., about 1900. Asymmetric means that the right and left sides are different. This would probably sell for $600 to $700.

Q. We have a Kodak camera that seems a little different from the run-of-the-mill models. It is a No. 4 Panoramic-Kodak Model D. It is a folding camera that takes single sheet film. Do you know when this was made and if it has any special value?

A. This camera, which takes wide-angle pictures, was made about 1910 and would probably sell for $65 to $75. It was used especially for group or team pictures.

Q. We need information about the porcelain bust of a young girl with flowers in her hair and a scarf around her neck. It is 20 inches high and marked with the inscription "Royal Dux Bohemia." A. This bust was made by the Dux porcelain factory in Bohemia, Austria, between 1900 and 1918. It would probably sell for $800 to $900.

Q. What can you tell me about the value of my mechanical bank? It depicts a lion chasing a monkey up a tree. When you give the monkey a coin, he throws it to the lion's mouth. A. Your bank was patented in 1883 by the Kyser & Rex Co.

Q. I have a Kodak camera that seems a little different from the run-of-the-mill models. It is a No. 4 Panoramic-Kodak Model D. It is a folding camera that takes single sheet film. Do you know when this was made and if it has any special value?

A. This camera, which takes wide-angle pictures, was made about 1910 and would probably sell for $65 to $75. It was used especially for group or team pictures.

The current market value is from $400 to $500.

Q. Enclosed is the mark on the back of each piece of a seven-piece cake set consisting of one large and six small plates. They are decorated with red and yellow roses and edged in gold. Can you tell me anything about the vintage and value? I am also interested in the identity of the maker.

A. Your cake set was made by C. Tilsch & Co. in Altavestra, Germany, about 1900. It would probably sell for $200 to $225.

Q. I have a drive-by with a scratchless scoring pad. Occasionally rubbing the surface with a light machine oil will help remove surface water stains and restore shine.

Urethane or polyurethane is a liquid plastic that comes in a gloss or satin finish. This coating is very durable and with proper care you should not have any great problems with scratching.

Wood and water do not mix. In time, the top coating of urethane will wear down, normally after three to five years, depending on use. When this happens, the floor should be lightly sanded and a new coat of urethane applied if your urethane coating was applied by the manufacturer, get his advice prior to recoating.

Urethane should never be placed over a prefinished floor or a floor that has any wax in it whatsoever. The wax or floor dressing becomes a contaminant to the urethane and the urethane will peel off.

Q. I need some suggestions regarding oak plank flooring that was already coated with polyurethane when we had it installed.

This flooring was installed only six months ago and already the finish is chipping. We are concerned about the long-term effect.

You should also request advice from the manufacturer on the proper care he recommends for this particular flooring. As far as general care, we recommend the steps described above.

Removing stubborn stains from not-so stainless steel

By Gene Gary
Copley News Service

I have a stainless steel work counter and have been unable to remove several stains from it. I have used a scratchless scouring powder and other cleaners, but the rings remain. The counter looks shiny and clean when wet; when it dries, the marks are noticeable. Do you have any suggestions on how to restore the smooth, shiny stain-free surface?

A. These may be marks from salts and acids in foods. Try rubbing the marks with fine stainless steel wool and whitening, then polish with a soft cloth. Or try special cleaners made for stainless steel pots. Be sure to follow manufacturer's directions carefully.

I have found Bon Ami soap effective in removing minor staining when used with a scratchless scouring pad. Occasionally rubbing the surface with a light machine oil will help remove surface water stains and restore shine.

Usually, stainless steel should be cleaned only with hot, mild soap suds, followed by thorough rinsing with clear water and wiping dry with a soft, clean cloth.

Another recommendation for shining metals is to generously sprinkle flour on a clean, dry cloth and rub into stainless steel or chrome. Gently dust off flour with another dry cloth to bring back the shine.

Q. We have just installed a new hardwood floor which we had finished with a satin polyurethane coating for protection.

The floor has a beautiful satin sheen now, but I would like your recommendations on how to keep it looking great. I have had numerous people tell me that it will be very susceptible to scratching and will become duller with age.

A. You are wise to consider proper maintenance now while your floor is glowing and picture-perfect.

Many people think that urethane coatings do not require any special care. They do if you are to preserve that brand-new look. Urethane or polyurethane is a liquid plastic that comes in a gloss or satin finish. This coating is very durable and with proper care you should not have any great problems with scratching.

Wood and water do not mix. In time, the top coating of urethane will wear down, normally after three to five years, depending on use. WE ALSO NEED TO KNOW HOW to care for this flooring properly. A. Your first step is to contact the flooring manufacturer, since you state that this is a flooring that came with the polyurethane finish. Six months is much too soon to have the problems you describe, unless the floor has been greatly abused.

As soon as possible you should have a manufacturer's representative inspect the flooring to see if the flooring was defective prior to installation.

You should also request advice from the manufacturer on the proper care he recommends for this particular flooring. As far as general care, we recommend the steps described above.

Send inquiries to Here's How, Copley News Service, P.O. Box 190, San Diego, CA 92112-0190. Any questions of general interest can be answered in the column.

Global ReLeaf comes in all shapes and sizes.

Global warming. The Greenhouse Effect. The continuing decline of our air and water. One of the best and most effective ways to respond to our growing environmental crisis is to plant trees. In fact, you can even get started today, right in your own community. You see, Global ReLeaf is more than a name. It's Americans like you — of all shapes and sizes — who understand that every new tree can make a difference.

Trees provide shade, beautify our town and country landscape, and reduce heat-trapping CO2 build-up in the earth's atmosphere. And those are only a few of their benefits. So grab your shovel. By planting even one tree, you'll be making a positive contribution to the world we live in . . . and the kind of future we leave behind. You can make a difference right now by calling our special Action

Line — 1-900-420-4545. The $5.00 charge actually pays for planting a tree while supporting Global ReLeaf action across the country. And, we'll rush you detailed information on Global ReLeaf. You can make a world of difference.

Repair, recycle are bywords for Kensington shop

By DAWN NEEDHAM
Editor

Ask owner Steve Gronow to describe Kensington Motors in a few words and he has a hard time doing so.

Not because he isn't good with words but because the business, located at 7428 Kensington Road in Brighton, is too versatile to be defined in just a few words.

Kensington Motors Inc., owned by Steve and Patricia Gronow of South Lyon, concentrates on three areas: collision service for late-model cars, selling Ford-Lincoln-Mercury parts to dealers, garages and home mechanics and some selling of repaired cars and trucks.

Kensington Motors opened in 1978 on Dixboro Road in Green Oak Township, but recently the company completed its move to a new facility on Kensington Road just off Silver Lake Road. An open house is planned for 2-6 p.m. Saturday, June 22.

The new 23,000-square-foot facility replaces the old Dixboro Road facility, which was a farm converted to use for auto repair and parts sales.

"About half of our business is selling Ford-Lincoln-Mercury used parts, mostly to dealers," Gronow said.

In an area that looks like a showroom, Kensington Motors Inc. currently displays a boat, and sometimes a car or truck, that has been repaired and is for sale. "The bulk of our sales are repairables," he said. Kensington Motors often buys vehicles from insurance companies that have been damaged in accidents or during a theft or sometimes repossessed.

"We get the opportunity to buy from the insurance company, fix it up and resell it," Gronow said.

The retail end of the business is one thing Gronow hopes to expand in the new facility.

Despite a national downturn in the economy, Gronow reports that his segment of the automotive market is going well; he said his company recently did a record $95,000 worth of work in five days.

Kensington Motors sells vehicles in two ways: sometimes the company makes the repairs and then sells the vehicle, or someone can buy the vehicle as is, along with a package of parts necessary to repair it.

"That's kind of a do-it-yourself package," Gronow said.

While the front of the business is devoted to retail and parts sales, there is also the body shop in the back of the building. All of the frame work is done in-house, and the company specializes in late-model insurance work.

Because the company performs so much insurance work, the new facility was designed with office space

RE/MAX countryside Inc. recently opened offices in South Lyon at 417 South Lafayette, near D&N Savings Bank. Broker/owner Randy Clark and his staff welcomed the community to an open house, arranged for a hot air balloon bearing the RE/MAX logo to be present and gave away a hot air balloon ride to a lucky customer. STEVEN MARTIN BRISBEY recently completed the Federal Aviation Administration's 9-week Air Traffic Controller basic course at the FAA Academy in Oklahoma City, Okla. Brisbey is the son of Thomas and Irene Brisbey of Northville.

Before coming to the Mike Monroney Aeronautical Center in Oklahoma City, Brisbey passed stringent written and physical examinations under civil service. Normally, only 60 percent of students complete the intense course, which teaches air traffic procedures and handling of large and small aircraft in the nation's airspace system.

Completion of the screening program gives Brisbey a civil service rating of GS-9. Most graduates stay for additional training before entering an apprenticeship. Upon reporting for duty in FAA's Great Lakes Region, the new graduate will work toward the air traffic controller journeyman classification.

The Federal Aviation Administration, under the Department of Transportation, is the nation's regulatory agency for aviation. The FAA Academy is the agency's principal source of technical training, with 300 resident courses.

The FAA is still seeking air traffic controller students. Those interested in becoming an air traffic controller should send a postcard to the FAA, Department AC, Box 26650, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma 73126. Candidates must not be over 30 years old.

ANITA K. KREMER of Novi has formed a business that provides marketing expertise to the multi-family housing industry. Kremer shows apartment owners and property management companies economic ways to control high vacancies, low sales closing ratios, and reductions in prospective renters.

Kremer has formulated monthly seminar programs called "Apartment Leasing in the '90s" to effectively train leasing consultants. Kremer served as director of new market development with Village Green Management Company in Farmington Hills and as vice president of redevelopment with First Property Management Company in Chicago.

For more information contact Anita Kremer at 948-9550.

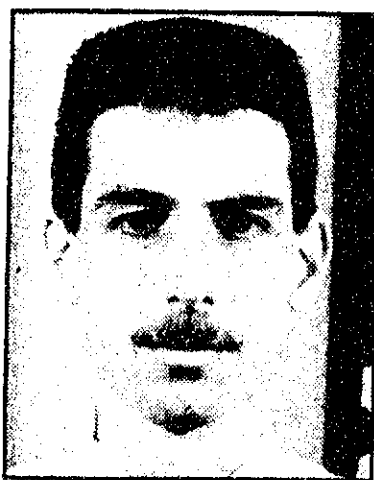

GARY WACHLER, co-owner of David Wachler and Sons Jewelers in Novi, and March of Dimes "Golden Mile" Retail chairperson, joined Goodwill Ambassador Jamie Zuccaro in the 1991 "Golden Mile" fundraising event recently.

Proceeds from the "Golden Mile" event, a symbolic one-mile walk for Detroit area executives, benefits the March of Dimes campaign for healthier babies and is designed to increase awareness of the 25 kilometer WalkAmerica, a nationwide March of Dimes activity, which took place April 28.

For the second year in a row, "Golden Mile" walkers competed for a diamond and gold brooch designed and donated to the event by David Wachler and Sons Jewelers. The exclusive piece of jewelry, valued at $3,000, was awarded to the walker who raises the most money. For information about the March of Dimes, call at 423-3200.

MICHAEL HOWE, President/CEO of Young and Rubicam Detroit, recently announced the appointment of three new employees.

In the traffic department, Rod Radosevich was named traffic coordinator for the Lincoln-Mercury Division account. Radosevich graduated from Michigan State University where he earned a master's degree in advertising. Nick Koupparis was hired as a traffic coordinator

In the media department, Northville resident MICHAEL YAEKLE was named media purchase service assistant for the Lincoln-Mercury Dealer Association account. Yackle graduated from the University of Michigan, majoring in marketing.

Young and Rubicam Detroit is the second largest Y and R office in the United States, with such clients as Lincoln-Mercury, E.I. Du Pont de Nemours, and Michigan Consolidated Gas Company.

NANCY SHOBE, formerly of Northville, has joined the Crane School as the director of development. Crane School is an independent, not-for-profit, K-8 school located in Montclair, Calif.

Shobe joins Crane with prior experience in the development field. She formerly was the assistant director for the Webb Schools, two independent, not-for-profit, secondary boarding schools located in Claremont, Calif.

Prior to her tenure at Webb, Shobe served as the director of marketing for a theater located in Claremont and coordinated the special events for the Performing Arts Division of the Mutis Center of Los Angeles County.

Shobe holds a bachelor's degree in communications arts and sciences from Michigan State University. Richard and Barbara Shobe, her parents, reside in Northville.

Shobe and her daughter, Allison, reside in Santa Barbara, California.

CHARLES KANELOS, a Northville resident, was recently honored as an attendee at the Wausau Insurance Companies' Sales Leadership Conference held in Cancun, Mexico, at the Fiesta Americana Coral Beach Hotel. Conference participants were recognized for high levels of professional achievement.

Philip L. Wirtanen, vice president of direct sales commented, "Wausau's Sales Leadership Conference is attended by a select number of qualifiers who have met the highest standards of performance in meeting our customer needs."

Kanelos is an account executive for the firm's Southfield office.

Open house slated for relocated shop that Gronow hopes to use as an insurance company for use as a driver's claim center.

"It would really be a convenience to the customer, because estimates and inspections could be done right here," Gronow said.

In its new facility, Kensington Motors Inc. recently became a CarStar franchise. CarStar is a national network of high-quality collision repair centers.

"There are 60,000 body shops in the U.S. and less than 5 percent of them qualify for CarStar," Gronow said.

He said to become a franchisee the establishment must meet many requirements, including installing an extensive amount of high-technology equipment.

"The people from CarStar even came to visit us during the construction of the facility to see how we were building it," Gronow said. "I'm real excited about us being in the franchise."

"They're on the cutting edge in this industry, 50 feet ahead of the rest of the world of collision repair, setting standards of repair."

Gronow would like Kensington Motors to become a place customers think of when they need collision repair.

"We did no outside work in the body shop when we were over there (on Dixboro Road)," he said.

"The body shop is equipped with the latest machinery to perform repairs, including a smokeless welder and an airtight painting booth."

All of the tools in the body shop plug into a vacuum system which removes dust and stores it in a central tank. That removes all of the dust from the air and also from entering the mechanic's lungs, Gronow said.

The laser equipment used for frame-straightening equipment is also state of the art, more precise than that used at the factory, he added.

Gronow said it measures precisely to the millimeter and can guide the mechanic to bring the unibody back into its original position.

"This could mean the death of the old saying 'Once a car has been in an accident, it's never quite the same.' The margin of variation at the factory is eight to 10 millimeters," Gronow said. "Our equipment brings it back to zero."

All of the paint is mixed on the premises, and Gronow said the new paints are harder and more resistant to chipping than ever.

The entire painting area is sealed to prevent dust and dirt from entering and paint and fumes from leaving the booth.

"Once the painter goes in to mix the paint, it's a sterile environment," Gronow said. "He never enters one door until the other one is closed. This way, there's no dust or dirt in the paint at all. The air comes in from the ceiling and goes into an air passage tunnel underneath the floor. The painter has his own air supply of outside air as well."

Once the car receives its two coats — a base coat and a clear coat — it is baked at 180 degrees. "It's faster and it gives the car a factory-quality finish," Gronow said. He demonstrated how carefully the cars are taped to produce a professional finish.

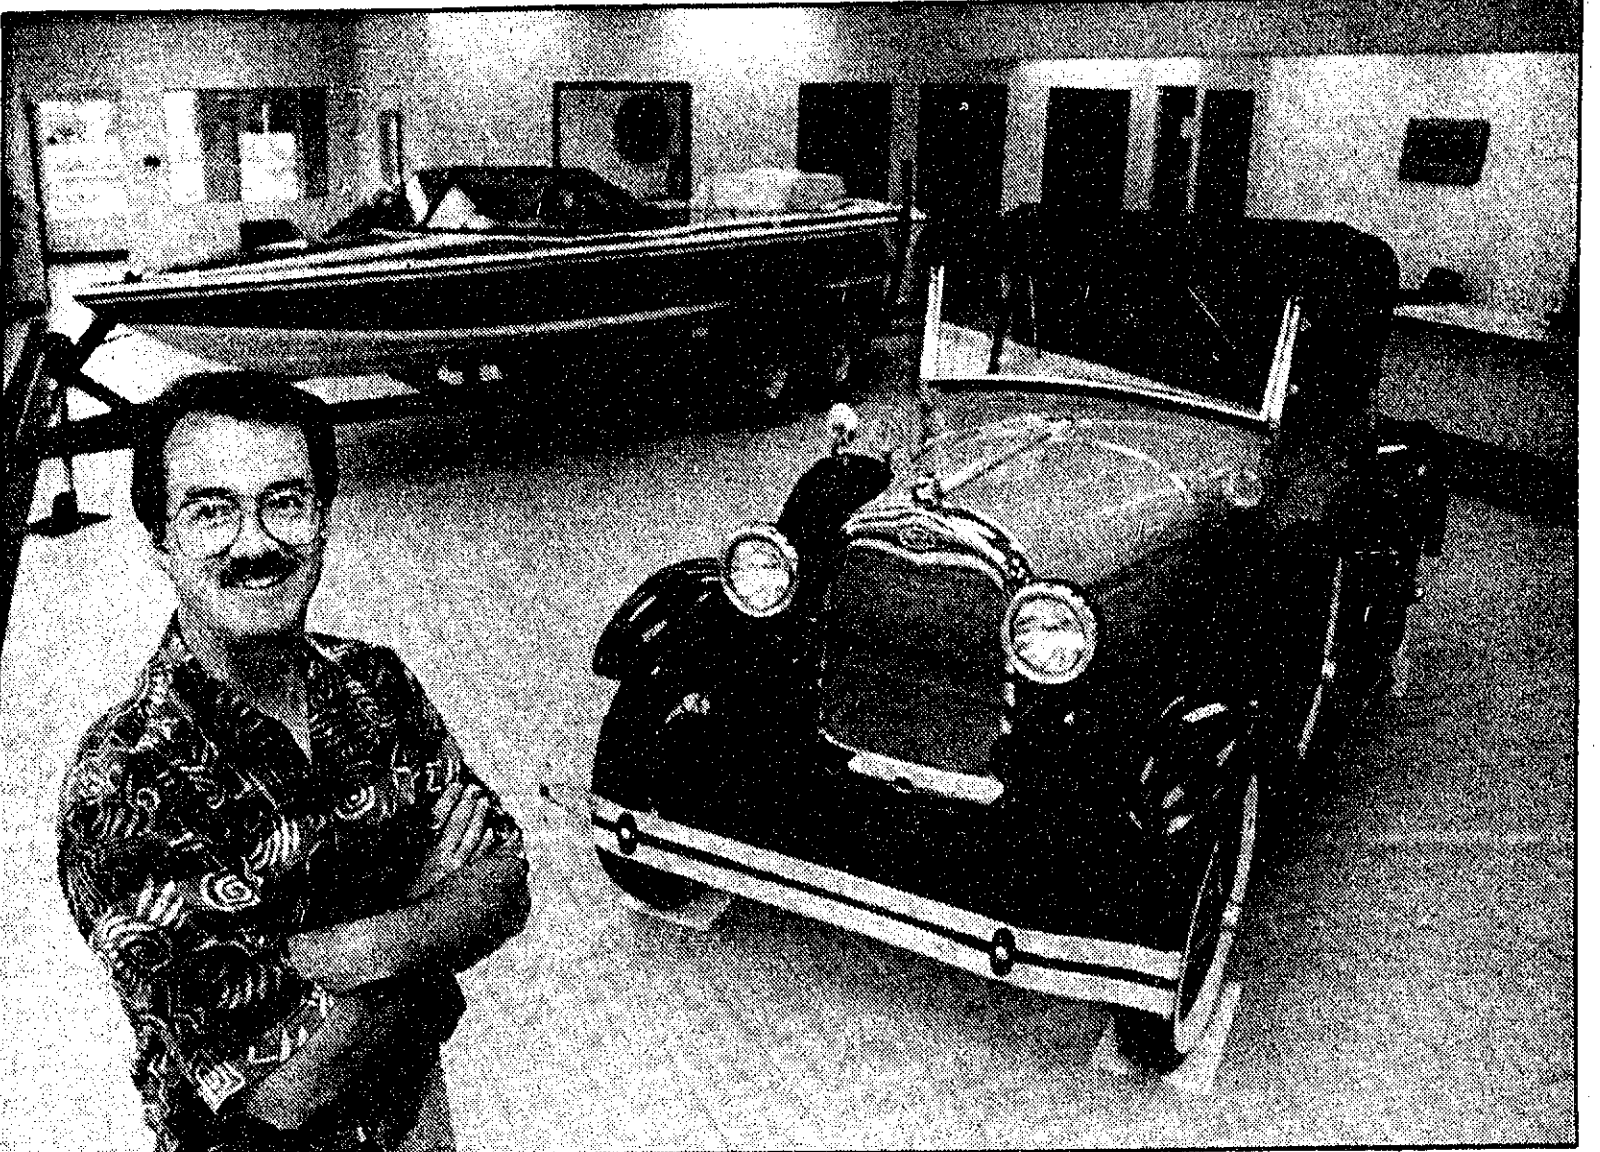

"When this car is done and leaves my shop, you could never tell it's been repaired," Gronow said. "You could get an expert and he wouldn't be able to tell. We use two full rolls of tape on each car."

Aside from retail sales and body work, the company also sells used parts. "We buy 10-15 cars a week for parts," Gronow said.

When those vehicles enter the lot, the first step is to drain all fluids. Kensington Motors utilizes innovative methods of recycling automotive fluids, a fact of which Gronow is proud.

The antifreeze goes into a recovery tank next, it is filtered and eventually sold for use in another car. There are also recovery tanks for oil and gasoline.

Gronow said to his knowledge, his is the only such automotive recycling system in Michigan. He worked with the Livingston County Health Department and the Green Oak Township fire chief to develop the tank system of recycling automotive fluids. After the fluids are drained, the autos are dismantled by certified mechanics. The parts are stored and logged on the computer so they can be easily found when a customer comes in looking for a part. Kensington Motors sells parts to three kinds of customers: Ford-Lincoln-Mercury dealers, to whom a half-dozen deliveries are made each day; walk-in customers and garages and service centers.

"We sell many of the same things as an auto supply store, but people don't think auto recycling center when they need something," Gronow said. "We sell most of our parts at half the price. Think used, don't think new or rebuilt." Kensington Motors Inc. has 23 employees. Gronow said when the body shop is fully open the company will have 32 employees. Parts are delivered in a new brand of delivery trucks. Gronow said Kensington Motors is moving into a new building, selling delivery trucks called Aeromates.

Gronow said he ordered several for himself and "was so impressed with them that we took the line." It's a Ulimaster Motor Corp. truck with a Chrysler power train that gets about 17 mpg, he said.

An open house at the facility will be held Saturday, June 22 from 2-6 p.m. For more information, call Kensington Motors Inc. at 437-4163.
