Union, Mason stuck by guns, council didn't

A last-ditch attempt get semiautomatic guns for the Police Department - backed by the union was shot down by the Novi City Council Monday.

Council Member Carol Mason, who won no votes to her side, asked that another $35,000 be sliced from the $165,000 the city has allocated for conferences, tuition reimbursement, memberships and magazine subscriptions in 1992-93 fiscal

"If there is any one reason to pay taxes, that would be supply people with health, safety and welfare and fire and police protection," she said.

Novi Detective Frank Barabas, president of the Novi Police Officers Association, said that the union would like the city to buy the weapons.

"We feel this is an issue the city council should reconsider. We are one of the only departments in the general area not equipped with semi-automatics," Barabas said.

But the equipment was low on a list of priorities submitted by Police Chief Douglas Shaeffer Shaeffer calculated that it would cost $114,000 to buy the guns and amCity property taxes will go up slightly this year, based on the sale of the second batch of voter-approved road bonds. The total millage to be levied by Novi shakes out to 10.9841 - almost $11 for each $1,000 of state equalized valuation of property. This leaves the owner of a $150,000 home roughly $22 more out-of-pocket. The story is on page 7A.

Humane society rep 'outraged' by cat kill

By CRISTINA FERRIER

The Michigan Humane Society has filed a formal complaint against the Novi Police Department in connection with a May 5 incident in which an officer used a control device to kill an abandoned cat.

According to a police report written by Novi Police Officer Greg Hundersmarck, a resident in the Village Oaks subdivision called in a complaint about the cat, which he said had been wandering around the area since winter.

Hundersmarck reported that the cat was "very dirty, skinny and losing clumps of hair and was lying on the ground unable to move when he killed it with a noose.

Novi Police Chief Doug Shaeffer said he is examining the incident. He explained that the noose Hundersmarck used is a metal pole with a loop at one end, commonly used by animal control workers to subdue dogs.

The device, also known as a "control stick," is designed so that the loop at the end can be slipped over an animal's neck, then pulled tight enough to remain in place. The pole keeps the animal from charging at or biting the user.

The sole purpose of the device is for control, but if the loop is pulled too tightly it will strangle the animal.

Humane Society Central Shelter Director Sherry Silk, who filed the complaint with the society's cruelty department, called Hundersmarck's action "ridiculous." She said the cruelty department will investigate the incident and might press for disciplinary action.

"Oh, my God," she said. "This is absolutely horrible. We are outraged. Why he would do that I don't understand. It was certainly not a humane thing to do."

Commissioner's letter shreds Wahl

By SUZANNE HOLLYER

A letter detailing concerns about the Novi Planning Department and Director James Wahl was released to the Novi News last week following a request made under the Michigan Freedom of Information Act.

The letter details concerns about Wahl and the planning department, including a perceived lack of leadership, poor administration and a proliferation of committee work.

On Wednesday, Wahl refused to discuss details of the letter, saying only that the comments about his department and planning policies are "inaccurate."

Authored by Commissioner Judith Johnson. the Feb. 21 letter was discussed briefly at a March 18 meeting of the Novi Planning Commission.

The letter was released by Commission Chair Ed Kramer after the Novi News submitted the FOI request to him. The request had been earlier rejected by Assistant City Manager Craig Klaver, who said he had seen the letter, but that it is not included in city files.

Commissioners were asked to respond to the letter, but Kramer said no written material was submitted by the commission in response.

Johnson said Tuesday the concerns listed in her letter were discussed informally among the commissioners with each commission member agreeing to the accuracy of the concerns. Commissioner Kathleen McLallen said during the March 18 meeting she had concerns about the amount and redundancy of paperwork brought to the commission. Johnson's letter said the city planning department has shown a lack of leadership with new ideas typically coming from lay planners rather than staff planners. The letter also said the staff has not answered questions necessary for progress, giving the example of the Town Center Steering Committee, said in the letter to be "drifting aimlessly, with no one 'steering anything, for months." "That's just not true," City Manager Ed Kriewall said Wednesday. The Selective Group has an option on land there and work has been done with that developer on potential projects. Kriewall also said that the steering committee is not headed up by Wahl. "But it's not true. We've been working on a number of things. There's been all kinds of things going on behind the scenes."

Wahl also has resisted attempts to get input on planning issues from new residents, Johnson's letter said.

"He is comfortable with the status quo, and doesn't want people 're-inventing the wheel,' " Johnson wrote.

Incorrect, out-of-order paperwork with missing pages, typos and repeated phrases has been provided to the commission, according to the letter. Scheduling conflicts and incomplete information also were cited as problems in the planning department.

For example, old site plans are put on the agenda for extensions without review to see if they meet the current ordinance. And necessary graphics have not been provided to help the commission reach a decision, the letter said.

The commission frequently has hearings on woodlands and wetlands, but the city woodlands and wetlands maps are not brought into the commission meeting room for reference, according to Johnson's letter.

Landlords pulled in on violation cases

By JAN JEFFRES

Dubbed by one council member "gestapo tactics." an ordinance adopted Monday requires landlords to either make sure a tenant's city code violation is cleaned-up or turn in that tenant's name to Novi - or face a misdemeanor charge.

Assistant City Attorney Dennis Watson said city ordinance enforcement officers sometimes have difficulty in reaching a violator because the property is not registered in his or her name and knocking on the door doesn't always do the trick.

A tenant - possibly a repeat offender - may be perpetrating something along the lines of parking a junk car in the frontyard, littering or cultivating massive crops of weeds, all violations of city code.

The new regulation, to go into effect within two weeks, allows Novi ordinance enforcement officers to forward notices of violations to the property-owner, who could then be

New police info policy is a major achievement

We should start by pointing out that in another city, with a different chief, with some other newspaper, the long dispute between the Novi News and the Novi Police Department over its socalled "News Media Relations Policy" would have likely deteriorated quickly into a lawsuit.

That might have made a few good headlines and would probably have made the Novi News heros within the journalism trade, but it also would have carried some real negatives for the community of Novi.

For one, it would have cost the city a great deal more money. Now, the process we went through hasn't been cheap for the city, although the police department has not put an overall cost to it. The policy did require a good deal of time from city attorneys (and they don't come cheap) and the police chief has contended he has had to set up a more exhandling police report paperwork.

Nonetheless, a lawsuit over a violation of the Michigan Freedom of Information Act would have been a good deal more expensive for the city. And probably for the newspaper, too.

Secondly, the result would not have been as positive. From the beginning, the Novi News wanted to have the entire policy addressed and rewritten. When we first learned of the existence of the policy a year and half ago, we believed there were no fewer that 10 sections which would violate the state FOIA if Novi police really followed it. And typically when FOIA lawsuits are filed, the issue is over a single document, a single violation. So a lawsuit would not likely have produced a total review and rewrite of that policy. So while it was never really in the paper's interest to go to court, because we wanted the entire policy addressed, we sure did enough sabre rattling and we held anonymously.

would have gone to court if we had to. At the same time, police chiefs and to suggestions, especially from the press, on how they conduct their business. In fact, the previous administration in the police department never even responded to our six month standing ofpolicy.

But Police Chief Doug Shaeffer was receptive. Not only that, Shaeffer expressed a philosophy of openness for the department that was impressive. To be better serve the Novi public. Already, we entirely fair, it should be mentioned that believe more and better information abalthough the Novi News pulled the stunt of filing FOIA requests for hundreds of missing police reports to get the policy review started, it was Shaeffer who pushed most recently to bring the matter to a conclusion and put the policy in

We should also mention the contributions of city attorneys Dennis Watson and David Fried. All during our talks, these two attorneys showed a real sensitivity to, not just the letter of the FOIA. but to the spirit and purpose behind it. It was Watson primarily to had to do the delicate work of balancing the occasional discrepancies and vagaries that exist between the FOIA and the state Crime Victims Rights Act.

What Novi got out of it, in our opinion, is a "Public Access to Information Policy" that we believe could actually serve as a model for police departments elsewhere in the state. Two particularly noteworthy aspects of the policy are that it follows as closely as possible the actual verbage of the state FOIA and that it applies equally to all members of the public. The press will not have access to information any other member of the public would not be allowed to see. At the tensive, and more expensive, system for same, if it open for some members of the public, the press will have it too.

There are areas of the policy with which we do not agree . . . and we have "agreed to disagree" with the department on these points. But these are mainly minor points, ones for which the FOI is not specific or for which problems are likely to arise only on rare occasions.

For example, one of the main points on which we have disagreed is the timing of the release of a criminal defendant's identity. The police department policy states the identity will be released when a criminal complaint is filed. We would prefer the identity was released at the time the defendant is taken into custody.

In most cases, the difference will be a matter of hours or days at most. But there have been instances in which defendants were arrested and held, for such things as mental observation, for a period of time before a warrant is issued. And we would not want that person to be Nonetheless, such incidents will departments are often not very receptive likely be rare. Likewise, the potential the police department will pick up an FOI complaint in such a case, from us or any other media, will also be rare.

Still, we recognized from the beginning that this would be the police departfer to sit down with them to go over the ment's policy, and it would have to adopt procedures with which it was comfortable. Were we to badly disagree, that

> In the end, we believe the policy will out police department activities is being made available to the public. And when it comes to crime, knowledge is the common man's best, perhaps only, defense.

> The policy also allows the public to more closely monitor the activities of their police department. Some officers may not be comfortable with that closer scrutiny, but we hope they recognize that the improved flow of communications has also resulted in some very positive coverage of the department's

In any case, the police department, chief Shaeffer and the city attorneys today deserve congratulations for a job well done on their public information terrible condition —

Novi News reporter Cristina Ferrier included the Item in the Police News column and that's how the Michigan Humane Society learned of the incident. Humane Society Central Shelter Director Sherry Silk said she was outraged with the officer's actions and has filed a complaint against him, asking for disciplinary action.

Well, before any of us get too excited about this situation, let me just say that I don't see any bad guys here so far . . . Just a lot of good people trying to do their jobs, trying to make the best of an already bad situation.

The bad guy, if you want my opinion, is the idiot who abandoned the cat in the first place. Now, I'm making a bit of an assumption here. We don't really know how the kitty came to be a stray in the Village Oaks area. But chances are pretty good that it was in fact abandoned, dropped off along the roadside by someone who either assumed some well-meaning person would come along and adopt it, thought it could fend for itself in the wild, or didn't care.

Cats rarely become strays by themselves. Animal behavior experts will tell you felines have amazing homing instincts and virtually never get lost...unless of course some human intervenes, either abandoning the cat somewhere far away from home, or pronouncing it lost and carrying it away. Abandonment is the cruelest way to treat animals. It condemns them to a slow, painful death, as this case clearly shows. Residents of Village Oaks have seen this cat in the area since winter. And from the description given, it sounds as if the cat had suffered quite a bit.

So Hundersmarck was faced with the un-

Let's start by figur- pleasant task of deciding what to do with the ing out who the real cat, and now his actions are raising a number of questions. Among them are: Should Novi police officers take it upon themselves to euthanize stray, injured or sick

Novi Police Officer Greg Hundersmarck animals in the city? was called to a home I say "no." But I'm also not willing to condemn Hundersmarck. As cruel as the strangling of an animal to death may sound, the cat was in such bad shape that the officer's immediate action may just have saved it from suffering the extra hour or two it would have taken for Oakland County Animal Control to get here from Pontiac and do something with it. So I'm willing to concede Hundersmarck's contention that what he did was a "judgment" call. But I don't agree with the call he made for several reasons

For one, Animal Control and the Humane Society are the ones who know how to euthanize animals painlessly. And of course, we'd prefer that anytime an animal has to be put to death, it be put in the hands of those trained to do that kind of work. That is the only way we can be sure we'll minimize the suffering the animals have to go through.

Secondly, a police officer is not trained to diagnose an animal's health. That's a job that requires a veterinarian. And a vet might have disagreed. The Humane Society has a long list of cases in which they've taken abandoned. abused or neglected animals and nursed them back to health, allowing them to live happy lives after being adopted by some family. Certainly in the future, we'd want such calls to be left to vets or animal control, rather than have them made at the scene by a police officer. Finally, the cat may have been someone's pet. And that owner may have been looking for it through the animal shelters in the area. Pet owners are told to talk to the shelters, not the police, when their animals go missing. And I think an owner would have wanted at least to know what had happened to the cat, or better yet to have had the chance to nurse it back to health if possible.

A decision by a police officer to euthanize an animal at the scene eliminates the possibility an owner could find and reclaim his or her animal through the shelters. ■ Should the Humane Society be filling a complaint to the department about the officer? Well, I can't blame it. That's the society's job. But I'm not convinced the officer should be dis-scandal . . . and rightfully so.

ciplined. As I said, I think this was a judgment call, even if it is one I disagree with. I'm more interested in getting the Novi Police Department to work with Oakland County Animal Control in the future. Maybe it is not so much a discipline matter as a policy matter. Keep in mind, Oakland County Animal Control actually has jurisidiction in Novi, and I'd like to see the city working with the county on such matters in the future. From the sound of it, Novi police have a long habit of taking care of animal problems themselves through local veterinarians. There is another reason for working with Animal Control. Although we've not made an issue of it before, there have been two incidents in the past year in which Novi officers shot sickly raceoons which were foaming at the mouth and disposed of the bodies. This is not so much a cruelty issue as it is a public health

Foaming at the mouth indicates either distemper or rables, two serious diseases the Oakland County Public Health Department is concerned about and tries to keep track of. Had Animal Control been brought in on these cases, reports would have been made to the health department. As it is, we doubt these raccoon incidents were ever reported to the health

■ Was this really a subject appropriate for the newspaper to write about? Did it warrant the attention it got?

I'll make no bones about it, we got complaints from Novi residents who were disturbed by the report. Of course, the police department was none too happy with the attention it got

I still think it warranted the coverage. Newspapers serve as a watchdog on government agencies, and that includes the police department. And it is appropriate for the paper to monitor the police and question their actions.

In the long run, I think the coverage will serve to better the department. Taking care of the concern now will eliminate the possibility it could get to be a bigger issue in the future.

Can you imagine what would happen if this became the standard practice of the department only to be discovered a few years down the road when many more animals had been destroyed. Then, the result would be practically a

You mentioned my comment, "A supplement fall millage request may sometimes be necessary because our school budget must be approved by July 1, and the legislature does not determine their level of school funding until the fall."The spending cuts associated with the June 8 ballot proposals make it very unlikely that a fall millage request will be necessary. We have been playing a game of chicken with the Govenor and Legislature the last few years. A reserve fund to provide for a possible reduction of the approximately $1.5 million we received from the State for employee Social Security and retirement expenses was not developed. To ask for extra millage for a contingency fund during these difficult economic times did not seem wise, and monies set aside for possible reductions in State support would encourage those reductions, a self-fulfilling prophecy. This strategy followed by out-of-formula school districts, was effective in minimizing the reLetters

Plane sets down on street

By CRISTINA FERRIER

Heavy storms caused minor damage to a Cessna single-engine plane flying above Novi Sunday, leading the pilot to make an emergency landing on Venture Drive.

Tim Tarhanick of Westland guided his Cessna 182 to the ground around 5 p.m. after heavy turbulence shook the oil plug from his plane engine. leading to a sudden loss of oil pressure.

Tarhanick and his passenger, Reed Cappaert, also of Westland, were not injured. They and a friend, Ron Miller, repaired the engine Monday morning. Novi firefighters stood by as Tarhanick flew the plane out of Novi Monday afternoon, coasting about 100 yards north on Venture Drive, then taking off and circling toward the south.

Venture Drive is a long driveway surrounded by mostly vacant lots earmarked for industrial development. It is located northwest of Nine Mile and Meadowbrook.

Cappaert, who is also a pilot, said the landing was precautionary. The plane, he said, is worth $45,000 to $50,000 and its engine alone is worth $15,000. As soon as the oil pressure began to drop they knew they had to land the plane quickly.

The two men were enroute from Oakland-Pontiac airport to Mettetal Airport in Canton when the thunderstorm created intense turbulence and the oil pressure dropped. Tarhanick saw Venture Drive below, which length and width as the runway of a small airport, so he swung the plane fly now?" around from the south and landed, coasting into a field to stop. Novi fire personnel stood by during the landing, then helped the men push the plane out of the field.

"You (Novi residents) have great, very cooperative police and fire departments," Cappaert said.

"You couldn't ask for nicer people." Miller agreed.

Tarhanick has been a pilot for 15 years and this is the first time he has had to make this type of landing. But he wasn't frightened, he said, because there wasn't time for that.

"I just (thought to) put it down, fix it and go back home," he said. "You can't get excited; you'll die. You've just got to land it and go on."

Cappaert agreed.

"You have to make a decision," he said. "There's no time to panic. You have to take each situation and evaluate it as quickly as possible.

"You train for things like this and if you never use it, that's great, but if you need it . .

Miller said Tarhanick is "the best pilot I've ever flown with in my life. I fly with him every weekend, flying down to Florida and everywhere

Tarhanick called Miller Sunday evening and told him about the landing. "He said, 'No problem, I set it right down." Miller said. "But when I got here he was really in the dumps. He was afraid (the engine problem) was something internal."

Tarhanick's wife, Kathy, said she wasn't home when her husband was forced to land the plane in Novi and found out about it later.

"But nothing surprises me anyhe said is approximately the same more - not after 17 years," she said. "He said, 'Are you going to be afraid to

She shook her head. "I said no."

Tutors use their senses to

By SHARON CONDRON

What do Albert Einstein, Thomas Edison, Nelson Rockefeller and Whitney Casterline all have in common? Dyslexia for one. But the similarities stop there. For the most part, those great minds worked hard at hiding the fact they couldn't read or write. Not so with

bring dyslexics up to par

This Northville 9-year old works hard weekly to break all the rules and destroy most myths people have about dyslexia. She celebrates her abilities and downplays what most consider a learning disability. Whitney's just one of many dyslexics who have found out that by learning to read and write "differently" from other kids she has as much of a chance to succeed as third-grader at St. Paul's Lutheran, Whitney and her language coach, Joyce Baack divert from conventional learning methods to use a multi-sensory approach to teach her to read and write.

For years students diagnosed with dyslexia - the inability of people with average to above average intelligence to read or write - were tagged learning disabled and referred to enrollment in special education programs. Now with recent adaptations of an age-old teaching method which employs multi-sensory techniques, students like Whitney have a promise for a future of success in mainstream classrooms.

The Orton-Gillingham method, which is used in the remedial language centers of the Michigan Dyslexia Institute, is a modification of an approach that's been on the books for more than 50 years. The method draws on all the senses - sight, sound, movement and touch and combines them with direct and systematic teaching techniques to teach the structure of written and spoken language and the relationships between letters and Proponents using the Orton-Gillingham method said it has been very successful in teaching dyslexics to read and write.

We are celebrating her learning difference," said Roxanne Casterline, Whitney's mom. "In the last four months, she's learned a lot. She just learns her way now. She's made so much progress since she started with the multi-sensory approach."

Two years ago the Casterlines, suspecting dyslexia. took Whitney to the Michigan Dyslexia Institution for testing. After Whitney tested positive, Roxanne - on the recommendation of the institute - sought help from a certified Orton-Gillingham instructor.

Hard to come by locally, Roxanne finally after two years found Joyce Baack, a certified tutor living in Canton.

"It took us two years to find a tutor for Whitney," Casterline said.

Proponents contend the public school system does very little in remedial training to help dyslexics learn. Supplemental education — like the Orton-Gillingham approach - is the only known successful remedial plan.

That fact alone prompted Roxanne to begin studying to become an Orton-Gillingham tutor. Since then other tutors answering the demand for remedial training have surfaced and started a support group here in Northville.

Demand for certified instructors is rising as the public begins to recognize that dyslexia - although not curable - is correctable. Gone are the days when dyslexics are tucked in special education programs, drop out from school, and are shunned by society. Ron Weger, board member of the Michigan Dyslexia Institute and author of the book "A Layman's look at Dyslexia," recently spoke to the Northville Rotary Club about dyslexia. Dyslexics, he said, are creative, intuitive people that make productive members of society - if they are taught in a way only they can learn. "They are extremely artistic and creative," he told Rotarians at their meeting May 5. "Dylexics see everything holistically and are extremely good at hands-on things. That's why the Orton-Gillingham method has been so successful."

Ann Medonis of Northville knows that. Of her six children, three of her boys are dyslexic.

"Andy (Medonis' fourth-grade son) was easy to spot." Medonis said. "I knew as a parent he had trouble with school. He couldn't get his thoughts and ideas organized in his head. He was feeling really frustrated, he'd be really upset with any thing that had to do with writing." At the end of second grade at Our Lady of Victory, Andy was substituting words he knew in books for words he couldn't read.

"He'd substitute words and create his own story to make it look like he was reading," Medonis said.

Medonis, a dyslexic herself, knew the pain, frustration and humiliation her children would endure if something wasn't done to correct the problem early.

For Andy's teacher, the problem was easy enough to solve, but the school's solution didn't agree with Medonis' solution. "Counselors suggested that we pull him out of Catholic schools and put him in special education in the public schools," Medonis said. "Andy wouldn't have

Fischer's partnership blooms in class, park

By DOROTHY NASH

"We're starting young to train people," said Gary Fischer, park manager of Maybury State Park, when he talked about the Northville Public Schools' Partnership for Education

We want the students to be aware of the needs of employers when they're looking for job opportunities."

He spoke as a member of the 29-person advisory council, which meets every two months with Jan Purtell, supervisor, to discuss ways to improve the program, which is now in its third year. Then he told how he and his staff at Maybury have been volunteering in the program. For openers, Fischer said, "We have a partnership with the Old Village School," which is elementary and special education.

About 20 children come out, and "with help of the park staff" construct bird feeders and make a bird trail in the park. And they come out every week to fill the feeders. "Also with supervision," he said, "they sweep out the barn and feed small animals."

In the fall all of the Northville fourth-graders come out - "60 at a time," Fischer said, to spend a day on pond study and other nature work, including honey bees at the farm. And they go on a hay ride.

Before the children come to Maybury. Fischer said, "A ranger goes to the classroom to explain what they will do at the park."

Also, Fischer and his staff once worked out a program with the high school science department - "an environmental study," he said. About 25 students with some parent involvement, too, built a foot bridge across a creek.

Kelly Kearney, 14, of Novi, was recently named a finalist in the fourth annual Respec-Teen "Speak for Yourself" letter writing contest. She was one of 11,000 students from across the United States who entered letters they wrote to U.S. Representatives, stating their views on youth-related public policy issues. Kelly, an eighth-grader at Novi Middle School, wrote a letter to U.S. Rep. William Broomfield recommending research into the future of the Social Security program. She is the daughter of Myles and Patricla Kearney.

Now if you think interest rates are going to drop or remain flat, get a Rising

Rate CD with rates guaranteed to rise every six months over the next two years. With a minimum deposit of $1,000, your money will start at a bonus rate of 5 percent per annum and end up earning an attractive 61/2 percent for the final term.

On the other hand if you think the economy is going to make a speedier recovery, the FirstRate Fund is the right place to put your money. It gives you a great interest rate coupled with liquidity. You'll need to maintain a new minimum deposit of $10.000* to earn a bonus rate of 5¾ percent per annum on your money through July 31. After that, the rate is based on the 91-Day Treasury Bill, so if rates go up quickly you'll benefit.

Q: Do you know of any cruises for classical-music

New York Times Travel Syndicate

A: Seabourn Cruise Line has scheduled a 14-day cruise with music by violinists Igor and Vesna Gruppman, who have concertized in the United States and Europe, under the ensemble name Uno Duo. Their repertoire includes baroque, classical and contemporary pieces created especially for Uno

The cruise, which is set for Aug. 26 to Sept. 9, sails from Copenhagen to London, stopping at Helsinki, Finland; St. Petersburg, Russia: Tallinn, Estonia: Stockholm, Sweden; Ronne, Den mark: and Hamburg, Germany. For further information contact the Seabourn Cruise Line at (800) 351-9595. Information is also available from your local

Q: What can you tell us about Ybor City, the original Cuban settlement in Tampa, travel agent.

A: Ybor City is bordered roughly by Highway I-4, Fifth Avenue. Nebraska Avenue and 22nd Street. The restored 19thcentury area is home to Spanish Cuban and Italian restaurants and coffeehouses Ybor Square is a complex of shops, in a remodeled turn-ofthe century cigar factory. In one quaint shop experts demonstrate the art of hand rolling cigars: At the Ybor City State Museum (1818 E. Ninth Ave.) various exhibits trace the town's his tory and the growth of its cigar industry. A nearby replica of a cigar maker's house is furnished with objects of the era. For further information contact the museum, which is open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., at (813) 247-6323. Information is also available from your local travel

Q: We want to see the sights in San Francisco, but dislike commercial bus tours Any ideas?

A: A personal tour guide may be an excellent alternative to the large tourist excursions in San Francisco.

Elizabeth Kagan offers deluxe, customized visits throughout the Bay area. Tours may include a San Francisco Bay cruise or trips to the wine countries at Sonoma Valley and Napa Valley, as well as to Sausalito or Muir Kagan knows the city's antique stores, museums, out-of-the-way restaurants and discount shopping outlets. She likes to escort tourists on night trips to see the city's dazzling lights or into areas such as North Beach, Chinatown, Fisherman's Wharf and Golden Gate Park.

The price is $25 per hour plus the cost of a limousine service. For further information contact Elizabeth Kagan, 575 Throckmorton Ave., Mill Valley, Calif. 94941 or call (415) 388-7600. Information is also available from your local travel agent.

Q: Did Wisconsin get its nickname, the "Badger State," because it has a lot of badgers?

A: No, the state acquired its name during the "lead rush" of 1827, when miners built their homes by digging into the hill-sides like badgers.

By the way, Wisconsin's state bird is the robin, its state flower is the wood violet and its state tree is the sugar maple. A great time to see Wisconsin is during their massive state fair. This year it will be in Milwaukee from Aug. 6 to Aug. 16.

For more information contact the Wisconsin Division of Tourism at (800) 432-TRIP or the Wisconsin State Fair Park at (414) 257-8800.

Disney stars help Indianapolis get ready for '500' festivities

By NANCY KRIPLEN New York Times Travel Syndicate

The whole city of Indianapolis seems to swathe itself in black-andwhite bunting for the entire month of May in preparation for the Indianapolis 500-Mile Race. In addition to race day, Sunday, May 24, there is a full calendar of other activities that make up the 500 Festival.

The theme of this year's festival is the 20th anniversary of Disney World. Mickey Mouse and costumed pals will cavort at many of the festival

As for the race, begun in 1911, it still lays claim to being the biggest single-day sporting event in the world, with most estimates placing attendance at about 400,000. The start is a remarkable experience: the crowds, the bands, the thousands of balloons the celebrity singer delivering "Back Home again Indiana." All of this is enveloped in

A stingy defense and timely offense carried the Novi soccer team past South Lyon on the road Friday. The Wildcats got goals from Becky Pylar in the first half and Mandy McGlinnen in the second. Goalie Dianne Bassett played well and recorded her seventh shutout.

Coach Larry Christoff was impressed with his senior keeper. "It's really saying something for her," he said. "That's half the season (her shutouts)."

The coach didn't get to see his teambeat the Lions, however. Christoff served a mandatory one-game suspension after being ejected from Novi's game with Milford two days

Christoff said he was ejected for questioning several calls by the In my view, I had a very good

Senior center offers residents variety

By CINDY STEWART

Novi Parks and Recreation offers something for everyone - from kids to senior citizens. Stop by the Novi Senior Center any day and you may be surprised at just what goes on there. It's not just bingo and card games. It's much more.

Movie Time is the second Wednesday of each month at 12:30 p.m. Cogging classes are Mondays and Wednesdays, Bridge is Thursdays and meets on Wednesdays at 10 a.m. and Blood Pressure Checks are done every Wednesday at 11 a.m.

The Novi Senior Center offers many exciting activities and programs like these all year long. Special Recreation Coordinator Kathy Crawford and Senior Center Manager Jan McAlpine work long hours to service our area senior citizens. The programs and activities range from education to information to counseling to health services to recreation, which is a very important aspect of the Novi

Senior Center. Whatever the season, you're sure to find something of interest at the Novi Senior Center. There's something for everyone. Softball and golf leagues, current events discussions, monthly dances, bingo, fitness, fashion shows and trips. The Novi Senior Van can even come to your home and pick you up for a great day at the Senior Center. Start your Monday off with some socializing among friends, try your hand at arts and crafts, then visit the Novi Library Bookmobile.

After finishing of a nutritious lunch of Hawaiian ham with pineapple, parsley potatoes, hot carrots, nochle tournament or get some exercise with the clogging class. And that's only the beginning.

Crawford has been involved in the Novi Senior Center for approximately 11 years. "I became involved with senior activities because of my grandparents," said Crawford. "I remember as they got older there was nothing for them to do in the way of daily activities and programs. The couldn't drive and get out on their own and that bothered

"I've known too many other people who grew up in Novi and then had to move away because there were no resources or services for them as senior citizens, such as transportation, low income housing, or senior recreation opportunities. Now at the Novi Senior Center we can provide a special service to all our senior citizens."

The center has expanded over the years thanks to Kathy Crawford and Jan McAlpine. They are also fortunate to have Doris Schultz, senior aide and Camille Kelley, the site hostess from Mercy Services for the Aging. Thanks to Camille, the wonderful aroma of homecooked food hits you as you enter the center each morning, with the neip of dedicated volunteers, she prepares nutritious meals to be delivered to the homebound seniors and for those dropping in at the center. "There's never a dull moment at the Novi Senior Center," said Jan McAlpine. "I feel so good after a long, busy day, because I have the opportunity to help so many seniors. Each day is different - on Monday I could be helping someone locate low income housing or finding medical services and on Tuesday I could be organizing a dance complete with live band, decorations and refreshments. I love it."

The seniors also love the Novi Senior Center. Just ask Joe Butler, Ed Kodym, Frances Verardi, Arlene and Victor Gillett, Mary Connell, Elizabeth White, Vince and Maxine Gillett, Mary Craig, George and Caroline Giese or David Schoefield . . . the list goes on and on. Besides coming to the center for programs and activities, most of these seniors volunteer everyday packing meals for the homebound seniors, cleaning the kitchen, running card tournaments, helping take blood pressure, calling or visiting homebound seniors, and decorating or serving refreshments at the many special events. Just ioi the month of April, 29 seniors volunteered 378 hours at the center.

"There's always something to do here," said Joe Butler and Ed Kody. "We enjoy packing meals, playing cards with our friends and two years ago we were in a fashion show. This place is great."

Dave Shoefleld is 86 years young and loves to sit at the center telling stories with his friends. "We enjoy each others company," said Shoefield. "These guys worked hard packing the meals that were delivered to me after I came home from the hospital. What would we do without this

Memorial Day parade on tap Monday

Parade: The Novi Memorial Day parade and related activities are being finalized for Monday. May 25 at 10 a.m. If you are interested in submitting a float entry or participating, please contact Dan Davis at 347-0400.

Senior Spotlight: Novi seniors host a feature-oriented half-hour show on cable Channel 12 Mondays at 6:30 p.m. Topics featured on the show have included health issues, Novi sports leagues and many others.

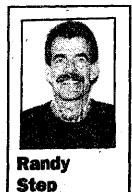

Rec Briefs

Karate: Spring-summer session for ages 8 and older began May 12 and runs through June 30. Beginners' class runs from 6-7:30 p.m. and the advanced class meets from 7:30-9 p.m. The fee for the course is $28 for residents and $33.60 for non-residents. Learn the "Tang Soo

Do" style of Korean karate under the direction of fifth-degree black belt, Master Bob Gordon, A qualified staff of black belts assist with instruction.

Novi Bike Club: Cyclists who are good with people, organized and who are willing to coordinate the organization for the club are being sought. The club was formed last year to support safe cycling. Primarily a recreational club, they intend to provide rides throughout the season to accommodate all levels and ages of riders. Call Marilyn at 347-0400.

Getting into shape — the smart way

Spring has arrived and all you can think of are the warm days ahead. This means you have to uncover that body you've been feeding all winter. The decision is made. This spring you will get into a fitness program and stick with it — forever. You have made this promise to yourself before but have always managed to slip back into your old ways. Yov've tried all the crash diets. They have made you tired, irritable and even sick. Obviously, exercise was the answer to get that body in shape. First you joined a health club and never went. Next you bought some cross country ski gimmick from an 800 number. It never worked but it was to difficult to repackage to lifestyle change. You must incorporate some send it back. One year ago you decided to train to run a marathon. That would have to get you in shape. After four weeks of more and more must promise yourself to keep. Setting realistic running, you developed knee, hip and ankle pains that finally stopped you.

The next time you start a running program. you're going to listen to your body to decide how ten down and a daily log must be kept. Seeing it far and how often you should run and you won't in writting adds to the commitment. be trying to stick with training schedule you clipped from a newspaper. Packing a gym bag and driving to a health club only to wait in line is anything but convenient; few people have that kind of time on their hands.

After throwing away money on a mail order piece of exercise equipment, you learned that not available in stores" means you wouldn't buy it if you could actually see it first. Like any major purchase, you now realize that buying from a specialty store with knowledgeable sales people may not seem the cheapest way to go but ends up the best value in the end.

Your body didn't get into this condition overnight and you were foolish to think anything was going to get you back in shape quickly. Now you realize to stay in shape will mean a behavior. What should you log? Everything you promise to do. I would also suggest that you log your weight daily.

Below are examples of lifestyle changes. Remember: one change per week is plenty. Once each of these changes becomes a part of your life, you may stop keeping track of it in your log. Be sure not to stop logging any information that is motivating to you, especially exercise totals and personal records.

Examples of exercise goals:

I will do sit-ups at least three days a week and will add one sit-up to my daily total until I am doing 50 sit-ups per session.

I will do at least 20 minutes of aerobic exercise a minimum of three days each week. I will keep totals of time or miles in my log. Personal records, such as the most time in one week or my longest walk, also be recorded.

Examples of diet goals: I will not snack at night.

I will not eat sausage or bacon for breakfast. I will only drink alcohol three days per week and will not have more than 10 drinks per week. I will not eat french fries.

By making gradual permanent changes your health and fitness program can be a lifetime success. Set realistic goals. Keep that log.

Problems in processing home mortgage loans

By James M. Woodard Copley News Service

Processing a home mortgage loan is like riding a roller coaster. There are many ups and downsparticularly in levels of frustration for the borrower.

But despite the problems, firsttime home buyers are entering the market in record numbers. In fact. it's the strong move by those young consumers with a homeownership glint in their eye that is propelling the current home selling and financing market in most regions of the country. And those fledgling home buyers are feeling the brunt of frustrations.

The recently introduced Community Home Buyers loan program is generating new opportunities for first-time buyers and lot of business for lenders. This is a relatively new mortgage loan program, structured by Fannie Mae (Federal National Mortgage Association).

the nation's largest buyer of existing mortgage loans.

This program makes it possible for a buyer to pay as little as 3 percent of the purchase price as a cash down payment. The lender loans 95 percent of the price, another 2 percent is provided by a family member or employer, and the remaining 3 percent is paid by the home buyer, plus closing costs.

To qualify, a home buying family must not earn more than 120 percent of the median income in the

Keep in mind, however, that this high-ratio (loan to value) loan requires coverage by private mortgage insurance. And this involves a significant cost. Typically, it costs the borrower 1 percent of the loan amount at closing plus an extra annual rate of .45 percent paid each month with the mortgage payments.

Unfortunately, roses have a reputation for being difficult to grow. In actuality, roses are very self-sufficient plants.

Roses come in many different sizes and shapes. Categorized by class, they range from tiny miniatures to lengthy climbers; within each class of roses, there is a variety of flowers, each with a name and patent of its own. Miniatures usually are 10 to 15 inches tall with proportionately sized blooms. They are available in as wide a range of colors as their full-size counterparts. Popular varieties include Cinderella (white) and Rise 'n Shine (yellow).

Floribundas grow to approximately 3 inches. Their hardy roses grow an abundance of small flowers in huge clusters on their short stems. Favorites in this group are Little Darling (pink-salmon), Europeana (red) and Sea Pearl (peach-

Hybrid teas are the most popular class of roses due to their wide color range and strong fragrance. These roses range from 2 to 6 feet in height. Commonly grown hybrid teas are Tiffany (pink). Peace (yellow with pink tips) and Chrysler Imperial (red).

Grandifloras are large, hardy shrubs that grow 8 to 10 feet tall. Their flowers resemble those of hybrid teas. but similar to floribundas. they grow in clusters. Popular varieties are Queen Elizabeth (pink) and Love (red).

Shrub roses are tough, lowmaintenance plants. Most grow to be 6 to 10 feet tall. Although they are not usually available in nurseries, they can be ordered from catalogs.

Tree roses can be trained to grow on stems of about 3-1/2 inches, but they are not hardy in Northern areas. It is important to keep this variety protected from the extreme cold and heat. Frequently available tree roses are Cherish (pink), Margo Koster (salmonpink) and Tropicana (orange-red).

Climbers can grow anywhere from 10 to 50 feet long. but they do not climb on their own. Unlike ivy, climbers do

Golf course joins the club

Offers dining, dancing

By DAWN NEEDHAM

Quick, name three things you can do at a golf course.

Golfing was probably first on that list. But did dinner and dancing follow golfing?

It should have, if you're talking about Pebble Creek Golf Club in Lyon Township.

Pebble Creek now offers dinners nightly and live entertainment three times a week in its expanded banquet

An addition in which to expand and move the pro shop was also constructed.

Work on the additions started late last year and was completed earlier this spring. The banquet room, with its turquoise and gray color scheme, is also a restaurant where patrons can get meals from 7 a.m.-10 p.m. Three times a week, Pebble Creek offers entertainment in the form of house band Magic Touch. Bonnie Edwards, manager and one of the owners of Pebble Creek, said the band consists of people from all over who play music as a form of

The band comes on at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday and plays a variety of music, from top 40 to oldies from the '50s and '60s.

"It's a nice band — you can sit and carry on a conversation while they're playing, not like some of these bands," Edwards said.

There's also a dance floor for those who like to get up and move a little before or after dinner.

"We built it partly because we like to dance," Edwards said, referring to herself and husband and co-owner. Harold. "But also because there's nowhere (locally) you can go to have a really nice dinner and dance. It's something that's lacking around

With the addition of the banquet hall, Edwards said, the owners aim to keep Pebble Creek open year-round, not close through the winter as it has in the past.

"Some people don't think of going to a golf course when they're going out to dinner," she said. "They think they have to golf to go there. But once

Money Management

Learn your education deductions

Whether you're driving all over the state seeking new customers, closing an important business deal over lunch, or looking for a new job, it's not unusual to fund yourself digging into your pockets to cover your expenses. But Uncle Sam allows you to put some of that money back into your pockets by making various business and job-related deductions available to qualified taxpayers.

Just what business expenses are deductible and how do you deduct them? The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants provides the following answers.

DEDUCTING YOUR EXPENSES

For employed workers, most unreimbursed business-related expenses are considered miscellaneous itemized deductions and are deductible only to the extent that together with other miscellaneous expenses, they exceed 2 percent of adjusted gross income.

EMPLOYMENT-RELATED DEDUCTIONS

In order to deduct employmentrelated education expenses you need to meet one of two requirements: The courses you take must help you to maintain or to improve your present work skills, or your education must be required by your employer or by law to keep your present job.

TRANSPORTATION

Whether you are in your own business or you are an employee whose job requires a car, you may deduct the business-related costs of owning and operating your car. In most cases, you have a choice of two

IT'S NOT YOUR traditional classroom but neither is their work. Keeping trees and limbs out of high voltage power lines is a risky task. Consumers Power Company gave "diplomas" to nine employees who recently passed forestry school. One of the graduates assigned to the Flint service center is Leonard Alvarez who resides in White Lake.

Alvarez was among the graduates of a six-week school in Midland which trains employees in safe and environmentally sound forestry methods. The course is intensively staffed with one instructor for every two students. Subjects include tree species identification, the standards for trimming and removing trees set by the National Association of Arborists, and equipment operation and safety.

These new tree trimmers will play a vital role in helping Consumers Power Company achieve its goal of improving the reliability of electric service to homes and businesses throughout our service territory," said Clark S. Gallagher, the utility's community services manager. He added, "We are very proud of these employees. They have graduated to tree trimming through demonstrated professionalism and dedication to customer service.

Northville Realtor touts buyer agents

Home buyers: Did you know that agents who take you around house to house legally and ethically represent the seller - even though they may never have met the seller -- absent any contract to represent you? Fred Richter, a Northville Realtor.

wants to change that He gives seminars advising agents to sign representation agreements with buyers before starting their legwork. The purpose is to end confusion about who represents whom and to bring more balance to the negotiation process. *Once it catches on, everyone loves it and it works well, "Richter said. "It's so much more truthful and so much more natural.

There should be no commission problems with buyer agency because agents involved in transactions now typically split commissions paid by the seller, he said.

The difference isn't who pays whom or who handles the money. Richter said. The buyer's agent is able to represent the buyer by having a contract with the buyer." "It's coming, it's growing and it's going to be used," said David Wood, a matter of time. lawyer for the Western Wayne Oakland Association of Realtors. The biggest potential for conflict between buyers and agents in a traditional relationship where all agents. legally represent the seller centers. around exactly what to offer as a purchase price And that, of course, is the key part of the deal

The only time we're in an uncom fortable position or an uncomprom ising position is when we're asked what we feel the house is worth and what the seller would accept for the house," said Dennis Wolf, president of Hall & Hunter Realtors of

Seminar

Sat., May 30th

9-11 am & 12:30-2:30 pm

Birmingham "We know the seller will take the listing price," he said. "We don't know...

how much less."

Agents must be fair to both buyers and sellers. Wolf said. We have a code of ethics we live by It's not really slanted in the direction of the seller only. We have a moral obligation to treat both parties fairly," he said

An agent firmly in the buyer's corher might be a little more forthcoming with research and advice. Richter suggested. The Realtor isn't in this awkward position any more."

Buyer's agency slowly but steadily will make its mark here. Wolf and Richter agreed. Tradition and lack of knowledge have been the major roadblocks.

"We don't see it a lot now," Wolf said. "Most people aren't aware of it and, in most cases, a buyer feels comfortable enough with the arrangement the way it is.

"As of now. I think it's a very confusing issue," he said. We need to be more thoroughly educated. It can be good for the industry if everyone is inormed and educated * business owners may find that they do not have an employee within the organization who will "fit" the available position. Often these owners will then resort to irrelevant criteria (such as length of employment or employee career goals) in finding a probable candidate for promotion.

This is a mistake. If you cannot objectively come up with the name of at least one employee who would be a strong, qualified candidate for the promotion, it is then appropriate to look outside the firm to hire a new employee.

Advancing an employee into the wrong position because it seems convenient at the time will only create problems, headaches and bad feelings at a later date. The key to promoting the right employee is to take the time necessary to identify and evaluate the position and the candiate(s), while developing criteria to create the best match between the two.
