Swan mate dies; four orphans rescued by volunteers

By SUZANNE HOLLYER

The mate of a swan killed in a personal watercraft accident last month died Saturday leaving four orphaned baby swans, despite the efforts of Walled Lake residents and a local veterinary clinic to save her.

The father swan was killed in an accident with a personal watercraft. The rider was absolved of wrongdoing, said Lakes Area Residents Association President Harry Judi Hedrich found the female swan on Friday laying on a grassy bank on the side of a channel leading into her Harbor Cove Condominium complex from Walled Lake. The four babies were swimming up and down the channel.

*Every once in a while she (the mother) would lift her head," Hedrich said. 'Finally we said, 'we have to do something.'

Hedrich called the nearby West Oaks Veterinary Clinic, which referred her to Oakland Emergency Veterinary Clinic.

At 8 p.m. Friday night, Hedrich and her husband, Dave, arrived at the Oakland Clinic.

They said to bring it in immediately, and not to worry about costs," Hedrich said.

The swan was treated, but efforts to save her were to no avail. Saturday night at 11:30, the mother swan died. Veterinarians said the death could have been from poisoning or infection. An autopsy will be performed at Michigan State University.

But the main concern was for the orphaned baby swans.

Michigan 50s Festival will heat up Novi for the weekend

'Rock and roll is here to stay'. . . at least through the weekend.

The Fifth Annual Michigan 50s Festival got under way Wednesday in Novi's Town Center and, with activities scheduled through Sunday, the event is expected to draw record breaking crowds again this year. The festival has come a long way since the first festival in 1988 when bad weather threatened to bring what was planned to be an annual event to a halt after only one. But the festival has grown and last year drew an estimated crowd of 60,000 over five days. According to city manager and festival committee member Ed Kriewall, the festival has become financially sound.

But Kriewall also said he questions how much bigger the festival may get in future years. He said there has been no thought of moving the festival to another location. The current site in the Town Center is wired with electricity and set up specially to accommodate the happy right where we are," he said. Still there is growth, and this year's festival will show some of it. The festival has added a second entertainment tent, to be called the Family Show Tent. The problem that arose in past years was that those under age 21 could not be admitted to the Entertainment Tent where the major shows on Friday and Saturday night were taking place because alcohol was sold there. The Family Show Tent will be a non-alcohol setting in which parents and children can attend the sock-hops together, in the earlier hours, and will have shows designed for teens and young adults under age 21 during the later evening hours. The Family Show Tent will have theater-style seating with shows in the two tents over the course of the five-day event.

The festival's car show and Grand River Cruise are also being expanded. The cruise last year drew more than 1,000 cars, which Kriewall said makes it the largest sponsored road cruise event in the state. And more cars are expected this

Thus, the car show itself has been expanded to include the parking lot of the Vic Tanny store in the Town Center, to supplement the space available in the Lakepointe Office Building parking lot. The Cruise itself has been expanded to three hours, from 6-9 p.m. Sunday evening. The newly-paved Eleven Mile Road will be used as a staging area for the cruise, to enable cars to exit the show area in a more orderly

Money held in water main investigation

Novi City Council Monday withheld $26,000 in payments to a contractor, South Hill Construction, and city engineer, JCK & Associates, for work done on a cityfinanced Novi Road water main, until an investigation into the rerouting of the job can be completed by Novi's attorney.

The main, originally slated for a straight-shot installment on the west side of Novi Road, runs on the east side of the road between Nine and Ten Mile roads and into the Mystic Forest subdivision, now under construction. The contractor who won the water main installation and the subdivision's developer are the same firm, South Hill Construction Co. of Wixom.

Joseph Kapelczak, president of JCK & Associates, said the company would make good any loss to the city caused by the engineer's changes to the design, veering the 16-inch main west. The city now has one less hydrant along Novi Road than it would have had if the original plans were followed.

"If JCK made a mistake putting that water main where it is today,

The council asked City Attorney David Fried to investigate the matter. Fried said he would need until Aug. 24 to do a thorough job.

"I want Mr. Fried to cover the benefits that the developer will gain having that main in on his property. I want him to cover that in detail,

Charity car washes targeted for review

By JAN JEFFRES Staff Writer

Several local automobile "beauty shops apparently think charity car washes at city hall are all wet.

City Manager Edward Kriewall said Monday that protests have been filed over the loan of the front of the Novi Civic Center, hoses and lots of water to the fundraisers. At least two local business owners say that the benefits take dollars away from their professional wash, brush and polish services.

Already scheduled for the Novi Civic Center are a July 29 car wash held to raise money for the Novi Youth Assistance Teen Center and an August 8 event for the Novi High School junior varsity cheerleaders. Other groups have already held car washes and the requests for city space keep floating in.

"We have a great location out front. We've had several already," City Manager Edward Kriewall said. We've had feedback from at least one car wash, maybe two, that we're infringing on their right to make a living.

The city offers civic organizations

"I would be more concerned about the liability. I know there's many businesses in Novi that allow them to do that, also churches, I'd like them to stay out of city hall," Council Member Carol Mason said.

City Attorney David Fried suggested the council view the matter as a policy question, rather than a liability one.

Opinions were divided as to how much of a threat the amateur scrubbers pose to the pros.

"It's a public property. A public facility. I can't believe it will put any car wash out of business,* Mayor Pro Tern Hugh Crawford said in defense of the practice. Council Member Robert Schmid sided with the car wash companies.

"This does cause some loss of business to a car wash. I question if this city should compete with businesses in any form," he said.

The council decided to instruct Parks and Recreation Director Dan Davis to contact other cities and see what car wash policies - if any they have.

Committee reviews construction noise limitations

It's not certain yet whether a move to control the sound of construction in Novi could lead to fury from the development community.

But a proposal to restrict construction hours, as requested by a group of Woodland Glen residents, will be considered by the city's ordinance review

City consulting engineer Joseph Kapelczak, president of JCK & Associates, said Monday he would provide the committee with possible cost impacts on contractors if the city cuts their work hours back to a 12-hour day. Last week, Novi City Council was presented with a petition signed by more

Novi Road or No-va Road?: For commuters who find traveling north on Novi Road to be less than a loy ride, relief may not be on the way

The Novi City Council Monday unanimously agreed to go out for bids on engineering services to widen and improve Novi Road between Twelve Mile and Twelve-and-a-half Mile roads. The city has won a $2.4 million Federal Highway Administration grant, which will pay for 75 percent of the project. Novi must foot the bill for the remaining 25 percent. The project is slated for a 1994 construction, after the Decker Road extension is built. Until then, the congested thoroughfare is, for those who speak Spanish, No-va (doesn't go) Road.

Additions: Two Novi High School students were inadvertently omitted from the second-semester honor roll listing. The list should have included eleventh-graders Ann Soper and Alan Stevens.

Mud flies 11th District race for Congress

Each side is accusing the other of mudslinging and negative campaigning after a weekend of critical ads between two Republican candidates running for U.S. Congress in the 11th District.

Parents of a 3-year-old boy who recently appeared in a television ad promoting Congressional candidate Alice Gilbert said they were outraged when their son's picture appeared in an ad for Gilbert's opponent, state Sen. David Honteman.

But Honigman supporters argue the boy was hardly visible in the ad and that Gilbert is making a "mountain out of a mole hill." Gilbert, Honigman and businessman

Joseph Knollenberg are running in the Republican primary for a seat representing the 11th District in Congress. She ran a television advertisement featuring a 3-year-old boy. In one portion of the ad, Gilbert is pictured holding the boy while an announcer says "commitment." In the next frame a picture of Honigman appears and the announcer says, "politics as usual."

The Honigman team used the frame featuring Gilbert and the boy in a television advertisement of their own. In the commercial, Honigman slams Gilbert's mudslinging tactics. Then Gilbert's commercial featuring the boy is shown on a television which has been tossed into a puddle of mud. Honigman staffers said the boy is difficult to see in the ad and his picture is visible for

I'm 35 years old and ust learned how to eat.

Losing weight was the hardest thing I've ever done. I tried everything...except eating right!

All my life I've been struggling to keep my weight down. I'd try the latest fad diet. Lose weight. Then put the pounds right back on. Then I found Weight Watchers.

At Weight Watchers, I began to feel in control of my body. I learned that there are no forbidden foods — just forbidden amounts of food. Every day, I was feeling more comfortable with me. And I found something I thought I had lost a long time ago.

So call Weight Watchers and give it a try. They did for me at 35 what nobody else could my whole life. They taught me how to eat.

now - when I picked up my first tional trauma. I learned then just how cruel people can be . . . even family. We were sitting down to dinner one Sunday and I was telling my grandmother how I was going to get a dog. My parents had finally given permission, so I was going to save up my allowance money and buy a pet. "Are you going to get him at the pound?" she asked.

"Oh no." I answered somewhat shocked. "I'm going to get the whole dog." Everyone roared with laughter, the whole family. I was horrifled. What could they possibly find so humorous about the idea of grinding up little pupples, wrapping them in cellophane and selling them over the counter like so much hamburger? It took me years to figure it out.

I'd forgetten all about the incident for perhaps repressed it) until last week. While on vacation I spent a lot more time than usual with my daughter, Samanatha, and I think she may be going through the same thing. At age 4, she is becoming very conversant, but she doesn't always get the words quite right. It certainly can make things

For example, we started off our vacation by heading to Crossroads Village near Flint for the 12th Annual Michigan Storytellers Festival. Sam's version was that we were going to the "story

I didn't really want to correct her on that. I would have paid big bucks see a talking tomato or something like that. But Mom and Grandma did the best they could to correct

About the time they got her to call the event a "story festibal," we arrived at the ticket counter. I was forking over the admission fee when the cashier looked in Sam's direction and pronounced, "She's free."

"No," Sam said, correcting her. "I'm four." Now whenever we go up to the Higgins Lake area, near Roscommon, as we did last week, my wife always insists that we make a few early morning runs to a little, out-ofway store on the west side of the lake known as Big Macs. They have a bakery there and they make all their own breads, doughnuts and pastries. If you don't get there early in the morning, just as these treats are coming out of the oven, you usually don't get any. They sell that quickly. Sam went with me one morning and, when I asked her what she wanted, she insisted that I should buy her a turnip, or a "turnup" as she pronounced it. Try though I might to correct her, she insisted it was to be a turnip or nothing. I bought her a turnover instead anyway, and that seemed to be satisfactory. But what really concerned me was the conversation we had at dinner one night. Dinner apparently is a dangerous time for a 4 or 5 year old to have a conversation. Mom was feeding our youngest, Charlie, and talking about apricots at the same time. Apricots, she noted, are relatively expensive when purchased as fresh fruit. But as baby food, they cost the same as any other fruit. Why is that, she asked? I was about to theorize that perhaps the baby food companies just overcharge us for all fruits when my daughter caught wind of the conversation. "I would never feed my baby leprechauns," she said. It dawns on me only now that we were laughing so hard we forgot to explain that we wouldn't feed our baby leprechauns either.

So I guess I'd better start a "shrink fund" for my daughter, which is kind of like a college fund except that it is to be used for psychoanalysis rather than education. That way we'll be able to afford it when, at age 18 or so, she starts waking up with the night-sweats because she's having dreams of her parents cackling as they stuff little. green-clad men into the food processor and puree them

For the first two days, every orator said the same thing: no discrimination on the basis of race, creed, color, gender or sexual orientation. Then suddenly a lid came down, and "sexual orientation" wasn't heard the last two days, when the TV audience was largest. New York 1992 was different. Democrats kept the theme alive all the way through. Day 3, Sen. Ted Kennedy: "Cabinet posts must be filled on the basis of talent, not sexual

For too long politicians told most of us that what's wrong with America is the rest of City where 15,000 of us. Them. Them the minorities. Them the liberals. Them, them, them. But there is not them: there's only us."

> Day 4, running mate Al Gore used a code word: "They have ignored the suffering of those who are victims - of AIDS, of crime, of poverty, of hatred and harassment."

The modern Democratic Party is pretty much the same creature Franklin Delano Roosevelt patched together 60 years ago: an attempt to make a majority out of many minorities -- small farmers, city laborers, ethnic minorities, academic liberals, the economically vulnerable; in later years, add government employees and homosexuals.

Since 1980, however, the once-tame bluecollar workers of America have rebelled. They haven't cared for the radical feminists, the flagburners, the perpetual welfare clients and those with a different sexual orientation. I have Day 3, New York's Mario Cuomo, sticking to a pamphlet from two "Transplanted Queer Mihis government-is-our-family theme, nomi- chiganders" demanding: "Stop strangling the nated Arkansas' Bill Clinton: "From wherever, Detroit Institute of Arts. The Republican code phrase is "family values." No one explains it, but I gather it means getting married to someone of the opposite sex before the baby is born.

Democrats like Mario Cuomo haven't caught on. Cuomo spoke of "one great, special family the family of Americal" in the same breath with social programs.

But Clinton is a giant step ahead of Cuomo. Clinton doesn't speak of government as family but uses a slightly expanded Republican definition: "every traditional family and every extended family. Every two-income family and every single-parent family, and every foster

Clinton uttered the obligatory code word about AIDS but demonstrated he too will use the Republicans' and Dan Quayle's issue: "I do want to say something to those parents who have chosen to abandon their children by neglecting their child support: take responsibility or your children, or we will force you to do it. The modern maxim is that there is no single "right way" for teachers to teach or for children to learn. dawning of a new era. Changes in the education

When the children of the '50s reached high school they studied new math. They used workbooks produced by federally funded, university-based educational research programs. They learned foreign languages, often reitred courses, in laboratories using headseats to listen to tapes played on reel-to-reel tape players. They read contemporary fiction that shocked their parents.

Despite the need to understand the technology, schools were sometimes slow to employ it n the classroom. As recently as the '70s, many schools prohibited the use of hand held calculators fearful of creating a dependency on the technology that would prevent children from learning the basics. In today's classroom students use computers and a wide array of peripheral equipment to master those same

When our children look back, 30 or 40 years from now, will they remember this time as their good ol' days?" Or, will they wonder why we didn't utilize today's technology to greater advantages? Will they conclude that our resultsoriented, bottom-line society put too much emphasis on GPAs, and SAT scores?

These questions we can answer only for ourselves: Are we really doing the best we can for our children and our schools? Are or schools the best we think they can be? Or, are we already creating a myth about education in the 90s and our own role in it?

After fifteen years, we've got a lot to celebrate. And we plan to do it in style.

The Twelve Oaks Youth Pops Orchestra will be giving six performances, featuring medleys by Detroit natives Madonna and Bob Seger, as well as a Motown medley. And Goofy himself will guest-conduct two classic Disney songs. Performances are on Thursday, July 30th, at 11:00 a.m.; Friday, July 31st, at 2:00 and 7:00 p.m.; Saturday, August 1st, at 2:00 and 7:00 p.m., and Sunday, August 2nd, at 2:00 p.m. (Goofy's performances on Friday and Saturday only.)

But that's just part of the fun.
All your favorite Disney characters will be joining the celebration—Mickey Mouse, Minnie Mouse, Beauty and the Beast, Donald Duck, Goofy, Winnie the Pooh and Tigger, too! So bring the kids and the camera on Friday, July 31st, from 3:00 to 7:00 p.m. and Saturday, August 1st, from 11:00 to 4:00 p.m.

Plus, meet Stacia Martin, Disneyland Character Sketch Artist, Friday 3:00 to 4:30 and 5:00 to 6:30 p.m.; Saturday 11:00 to 1:00 and 3:00 to 5:00 p.m., in the Center Court.

To wrap up the festivities, we're throwing a Twelve Oaks birthday

"The first time there is a complaint . . . an usher will go in there and ask them to quiet down. If there is another complaint . . . usually we'll tell them one more time. After that, we will ask them to leave."

> Mindy Corrie Manager Movies at Twelve Oaks

By CRISTINA FERRIER

as this ever happened to You've been waiting for weeks to see this particular movie. The previews look great.

You settle back in your seat with a big box of popcorn (with extra butter), take a sip of diet cola, and relax as the movie begins. Then it happens. Voices from behind you invade your wellbeing.

"Is that the one that gets killed in the end?"

"No. The one in the red shirt does. All through the movie you'll think he's going to save the lady in the blue dress — but she gets killed, too."

It's amazing what a few rude people can do to a movie.

Some theorize that, with the advent of VCRs, people have forgotten how to behave in a movie theater. They associate watching movies with sitting in their own living rooms.

But others say the problem has been around as long as movie theaters have existed. Bothersome distractions also exist in the iorm of persistent coughing laughing in the wrong places, big hairdos, and people near the wall who leave their seats, disrupting everyone else in the row.

"I don't get bothered by too many distractions during a movie," said Lisa Sharonn, a Farmington Hills woman who was getting ready to see "Patriot Games" at the Movies at Twelve Oaks. *But I really hate when people sitting behind you or next to you talk all through the movie. And when someone keeps getting up during the movie - that's annoying, too. "I mean, if they can't sit through the movie, they should try and sit by the aisle."

Her friend Mike (who didn't want his last name in the paper) agreed.

"Big, fat people who sit right in front of you are bad, too," he added.

Marcia Smits, a Novi woman who was also getting ready to enter the theater, said the only recent time she can recall being annoyed during a movie was earlier this summer while watching the movie "Wayne's World" at a Dearborn theater.

Young moviegoers Norman, Kyle and Justin Nazaroff know how to behave in the theater. Just ask them.

Movie patrons air their grievances

There was a whole bunch of teenagers, or maybe college kids, I don't know, sitting behind me," she said. "And they had snuck in alcohol and they were sitting back there having their own little party."

The group got louder and was eventually told to leave the theater, she said.

Such distractions and annoyances occur not only in movie theaters. It seems that any place where an audience is assembled the potential arrives for one person annoying another.

For example, a recent survey by University of Michigan's University Musical Society, in conjunc-tion with Halls Mentho-Lyptus cough suppresant tablets, revealed that coughing, sniffling and whispering ranked first, second and third as the most distracting noises during symphony performances. Humming, buzzing beepers and rattling candy wrappers were also listed as annoyances to endure during the symphony. When those surveyed were asked what action should be taken against the noisy audience members, suggestions included the very severe ("choke them") to the embarrassing ("target spotlights at the offenders throughout the performance").

Another suggestion was to force the noisy culprit to attend a rock concert.

The symphony survey led to a program called "Silent Nights at the Symphony." During the cold and flu season, complimentary wax-wrapped cough drops are provided to patrons.

So what can be done about movie theater patrons who annoy their fellow audience members? "You can't do anything about them," Sharonn sighed. "You can get up and move, or you can complain to an usher and hope he'll do something about it."

Movies at Twelve Oaks Manager Mindy Corrie said that when patrons are creating a disturbance, they usually get two chances before they are kicked

"Usually what we do is, the first time there is a complaint or we notice they are making a lot of noise, an usher will go in there and ask them to quiet down," she said.

"If there is another complaint, or if we go check on them and they still haven't quieted down, usually we'll tell them one more time. After that, we will ask them to leave."

Pet of the Week

If the obnoxious patrons will not leave, movie personnel are forced to call mall security. Whether it gets to that point depends on the situation.

"If it's a late show on weekends, we have more problems because people come in and they're drunk," Corrie said. "The only time we've really had a problem is when we had the midnight show of

Volunteer

Ryan Oppermann

He's clowning around with a possible career

By DOROTHY NASH Special Writer

Testing a possible career by volunteering is what Ryan Oppermann is doing as a member of the Older Youth 4-H Clown program.

For five years he has been a part of a group, which now number three boys and nine girls in grades four through eight. They meet monthly at one another's homes or in the public library and they practice make-up, skits or walk-ins and they discuss costumes.

Oppermann illustrated the group's accomplishments with a fivefoot-tall cardboard triptych, for which the group won a blue ribbon at last year's 4-H Fair in Fowlerville. These 4-H clowns not only cavort annually in parades in Novi, Northville and Windsor, but they stage exhibitions at places like the Whitmore Lake Nursing Home and The First United Methodist Church in Northville during a hospitalization program for the homeless. Also after the Gulf War, Oppermann said, they were at the Novi Welcome Reception for the service

"We handed out balloons and shook hands with the troops," he said. Then he added, "We shake hands with the little kids," at the Northville Fourth of July parade, too. When it comes to the faces of clowns, not all are the same. In fact, there are three general types, Oppermann said - hobo (character), white face (serious) and Auguste (buffoon). A special thrill for the group came last year when they were invited to the Shrine Circus and "walked around the big ring with the clowns." Whether Ryan Oppermann gets into clowing professionally, he hasn't decided, but he admits, "It's fun."

If you want to know more about this 4-H program, call him at 348-4949. And if he's not there, his mom, who is group leader, can help

Michael Smith finds his niche

It's not everybody who gets called — by the New York Times, no less - "an overnight success at the age of 48." Michael Smith, the subject of that description a couple of years ago, takes it pretty philosophically.

"It's fun for me that people think in those terms. They use those phrases, 'overnight sensation,' and it really doesn't mean anything," he said recently. "I just get up every day, and hope my body works, and hope I get to write a song," he continued. "This is life ... That's all there is, and I'm lucky to have that."

Not that long ago, Smith held down a "real job" unrelated to music. And even though songs he wrote were being recorded by a gamut of performers from Jimmy Buffett to Steve Goodman, it took The Grapes of Wrath for the Times to take full

Smith wrote the music for, and performed in, a recent stage adaptation of the John Steinbeck classic. The show was awards for best play and best director in its New York incarnation. White strives spirits Expect to feel uplifted during Josh White Jr.'s main stage set at the Folk and Bluegrass Festival.

The singer and guitarist, familiar to audiences around the Detroit area for years, realizes there's an audience, and a commercial market, for negative songs sad songs — which might make people feel down. But he's just not very interested in performing songs like that, or in hearing them either.

"Sometimes the songs I do are not as commercial as they could be," he said recently, because he always tries to accentuate the positive. Even when that might be hard to do.

"If you have a good balance" in your life, he added, you'll be able to find happiness and contentment. "It's not the things that happen to you so much; it's how you think about the things that happen to you. "It's not a goody-goody thing," he continued. "I'd like people to feel better about themselves. That is a wonderful reward." Optimism finds a good welcome in the burgeoning field of children's music, which happens to be White's latest recording project. He and Ron Coden, another area folk music veteran, recently released My Favorite Toy, a recording geared to kids. The two will play a set together on the children's stage at the festival.

"There's very little difference in what I do for single-digit people than what I do for double-digit people," White said. The positive message is the same: the occasional singaiong will take place with both types of audiences. His only regret is that it took him so long to become involved with children's music: "I'm sorry I started so late ... For vears I've been told I would be good at it." White's career dates back to his own childhood. Born into the business - his father was the legendary folk singer Josh White Sr. — the young Josh started singing early on.

His early career took place largely on stage, and at age 7 was honored as the best child actor on Broadway for 1947's How Long Till Summer? He continued acting and singing both on stage and on television, and wrote the music for the 1967 documentary The Freedom Train. His recording career includes such albums as Josh White Jr., Sing a Rainbow, and Jazz, Ballads & Blues (A Tribute to Josh White Sr.)

Lately he has made his home in the Detroit area, frequently performing at venues all over the region. White headlined the very first Northville Folk and Bluegrass Festival 16 years ago, and has high praise for the event and Tom Rice, its organizer. "It's something that people look forward to every year. I think the dedication that is there is great," he said.

The members of Just Friends will make their second Folk and Bluegrass Festival appearance this year, and look forward to the return visit.

"We played several years ago when it just first started," recalled Lori Cleland, who provides vocals, guitar, banjo, and autoharp for the quartet. "I think it's great . . . We don't have too many folk and bluegrass festivals around the area."

Just Friends combines four women's voices with a variety of acoustic instruments. They play standards and originals; ballads, dance tunes and even some classical pieces. in the Genitti's/Masonic Temple pro duction of the classic musical Fiddle on the Roof.

On loan from the Masons, the 150 year-old Masonic Temple downtown hosts John and Toni Genittis' stage production of the popular Fiddler. The production bowed at Masonic Temple on July 17, but performances continue through Aug. 1.

"We've dabbled in theater before with smaller productions inside the restaurant," said Toni Genitti, coowner of Genitti's Hole-in-the-Wall. "But this is a full-fledged theater production with a 25-person cast and an eight-piece orchestra, which requires a much larger venue."

Diverting from their popular Murder Mystery dinners, this Genitti production offers patrons options for combination dinner-and-theater tickets or solo show tickets. Combotickets are $34.95 per person while show tickets are $15 per performance.

The temple, rich in decor with its crushed blue velvet seats, thirsty carpeting and dim lights, will accommodate 210 theatergoers.

With adequate accommodations and the capacity to seat a crowd, the temple was the ideal place for the Genittis' first production. Cast and crew members worked diligently to construct a stage and design sets to bring the musical to life.

"We are building a stage and bringing everything in," said Director David Nelson. "It's just a vacant room so we needed to build a stage, get lights and design the sets."

"It's a popular musical because everyone likes the music in it," Nelson said. The Jerry Bock-Sheldon Harnick score includes classics like "Tradition," "Sunrise, Sunset, "Wonder of Wonders," and "If I Were a Rich Man."

Should the fiddler fly, Nelson said its success could clear the stage for "We want the first one to be a good

Christoff leads city soccer camps

By CINDY STEWART

Brazil may have Pele but Novi has Larry Christoff - former soccer pro, six time winner of the NJCAA "Coach of the Year" award and current head soccer coach of Novi High School.

Cristoff is once again gearing up for the 1992 Novi Parks and Recreation Soccer Camps which will take place July 27-Aug. 1 and Aug. 10-15.

"I love working with the kids, teaching them soccer fundamentals and watching them improve over the years," said Coach Cristoff. "As Novi High School's new soccer coach, I want to help improve their skills as they move up the ranks and ultimately reach our high school program.

Novi's Fifth Annual Soccer Camp will teach the basic fundamentals in dribbling, kicking, heading, goalkeeping and passing to boys and girls 6 to 13 years old.

Coach Christoff believes that camps like his help kids perfect the basic fundamentals so that by the time they get to high school they are playing on an advanced, competitive level. It must be working since the Novi High School soccer team was second in its conference this past

"Soccer keeps kids in shape physically and mentally and can always pay off in the future with college scholarships," said Christoff.

Coach Cristoff is a former head coach for Schoolcraft College. He spent 10 years with their program and was the main person responsible for bringing soccer programs to this area beginning with Stevenson High School in the early '70s.

With the experience Larry has and his intense willingness to share soccer knowledge with kids, the value of our camps far outweighs the cost," said Marilyn Troshak, Parks

"How does a home mortgage interest rate of 5.5 percent sound to you?"

That surprising comment came from Allan Stone, vice president of mortgage lending at a large regional bank. That interest, now available, is lower than the prevailing rate of interest when my wife and I purchased our first home in 1956.

At that time, we thought our 6 percent mortgage interest rate was a really good deal. And later, as rates zoomed into double-digit figures, we thought we'd never again see rates below 10 percent.

Of course, that current 5.5 percent quote needs to be examined carefully and compared with other loan types. It applies to an adjustable rate mortgage for the first year only. The rate then floats with an index tied to Treasury Bill

But today, at this writing, that would only bring the rate up to about 7 percent--still an amazingly low interest rate compared to a couple of years ago. "The interest rate on ARM loans are now so low many people are swinging over to them from the traditional 30-year fixed-rate mortgage," Stone said. There are a wide range of mortgage plans now available, including ARMs, fixed-rate. combinations and convertibles.

Stone noted that the fixed-rate 30-year mortgage loan is still favored by most home buyers and homeowners who refinance their existing mortgage loan. But recently ARM loans have become increasingly popular.

One reason ARM loans are becoming more attractive is the being used to qualify borrowers for these loans, according to Linda Mueller with Great Western Finan-cial Corp.

Many home buyers who can now qualify for an ARM loan would not qualify for a fixed-rate loan. Thus, today's ARM loans are making it possible for more families to purchase a first home, and others to move up to bigger and better homes, Mueller said.

However, many home buyers will never be happy with a home mortgage rate that "floats" with some index. They want the peace of mind that comes with a firm fixedrate loan. Many remember when interest rates shot up to stratospheric levels almost overnight.

If you do contract for an ARM loan, study the terms carefully. Take special note of the index used to determine the ups and downs of your interest rale. Some are more conservative than others in reacting to economic pressures. And consider the caps on annual increases in rates, and the lifetime interest rate cap.

Also note whether your ARM loan will allow you to convert it to a fixed-rate loan at some future point. In selecting a mortgage loan, there's a lot more to consider than just the interest rate.

Many borrowers who only consider a fixed-rate mortgage are taking a 15-year loan instead of the traditional 30-year term, according

"In some cases, homeowners are refinancing their 30-year loan with a new 15-year loan and making about the same monthly payment. This, of course, is possible because of the lower interest rate of the new loan," he pointed out.

Other borrowers, who like the Air conditioning technology has improved by leaps and bounds in recent years. New units are larger than you may be used to. They have more surface area to

The larger size allows use of a larger fan, which can thus turn at a slower speed and save energy used to turn the motor.

Compressors operate more efficiently too. By taking advantage of the "interruptable service" option offered by Detroit Edison, you can save anywhere from 25 to 40 percent of the operating costs of your old air conditioner by replacing it with a new one, Bergstrom said.

The new units, you'll notice, are quieter

"Even with the windows closed, an old unit could keep you awake at night," said Bergstrom.

A modern air conditioner will also give you many more years of reliable service than an older unit, but the newer machines must be carefully maintained to operate at peak efficiency and insure their longevity.

Bergstrom again used the automotive analogy.

"It's just like when cars used to have carburetors," he said. "You could tune them over a wide operating range and they'd still work. Now you have a fuel

AIR CONDITIONING TIPS

Here are some safety tips for your air conditioner from Jared Goetz, Detroit Edison residential space conditioning

 Before servicing your air conditioner, make sure the electrical power is disconnected.

 Clear the outdoor condenser coils of dust, leaves and grass clippings. Make sure any cracks around portable air conditioners are sealed properly. Change air filters every 30 to 60 days during the cooling season. Have your central air-conditioning system inspected each year by a qualified service contractor.

 Don't overcool an empty house. Turn up the thermostat five degrees if you're going away for a few hours.

 When central air conditioning is installed with an existing furnace, make sure all unwanted openings in air ducts, including basement registers, are sealed. Check to see if the furnace filters are clean. And, inspect for damage to the insulation covering on the tubing to the outside condenser unit. Keep storm windows in place and closed when cooling, and keep windows and doors leading to uncooled parts of the house closed. Keep draperies closed when windows are directly in the sun. · Install proper insulation, weatherstripping and caulking to keep warm air out and cool air in.

TOMATO WILTS

Ask anyone about their vegetable garden and you're sure to hear about tomatoes. Nearly everyone who gardens grows them, and with good cause, because they're prolific and relatively easy to grow and full of flavor when harvested from the vine.

However, they also have their fair share of problems. The wilts are probably the most devastating of these, seriously damaging plants and yields. Below are descriptions of the two tomato wilts and measures for their control.

Fusarium wilt on tomatoes is caused by fungus. Symptoms include wilting, yellowing leaves and death of the plant. A wide range of herbaceous

"Nowadays, the outdoor unit and the itidoor coil are all matched to get that higher efficiency," Bergstrom said, "The older writs had to operate in a broader range of climates. conditioning system should give you up to 45 years of service. According to Bergstrom, however, there are many pitfalls that can shorten the life of your unit. To avoid a costly repair, pay careful attention to how well your unit is working. is it cooling well, and consistently? Is it making any strange noises when it cycles — the unit) which heats the oil. Here are some air conditioning pointers Bergstrom offered: Your air conditioner is equipped with a compressor which, like your car, has pistons, valves, and a crankcase filled with lubricating oil. In the spring, when you are ready to turn on your unit, make sure it receives electricity for at least 24 hours prior to turning it on. The crankcase is equipped with a heater (which runs con-this can cause an oiling problem wherein all the oil will pool in one end of the compressor, starving the other parts. Even if your unit was level when it was installed. the ground under it can shift. "I drive along Five Mile past subdivisions with walkout basements," said Bergstrom, "You can see the air conditioners leaning downhill where they've shifted."

 Keep your unit out of the path of rainwater runoff. Keep downspouts far away from your air conditioner. Water can gather under the unit and corrode the chassis from the bottom up.

 Shield your unit well for safety, but don't overdo it. You don't want kids playing around air conditioners, or dropping things into them, and you don't want the dog thinking it's his fire hydrant. Some barrier should be erected. Shrubs, however, should be trimmed away from the unit regularly as they will hinder airflow and decrease efficiencty

 Avoid playing constantly with the thermostat. According to Bergstrom, constant adjustments are hard on all the components in the system. Pick a temper-

"You have to get into a really highline luxury model to get one with a multispeed compressor." Set it for the temperature you want, and it will get there when

 When performing any maintenance on your unit, always cut off the power supply. The unit could turn on without warning, causing injury. And if you think it's hot without an air conditioner, wait until you touch a wrong wire.

 Maintenance you can do yourself is usually limited to cleaning the filters. "Cleaning filters is very important, particularly with high-efficiency units with paper filters," said Bergstrom. "If they get dirty, it restricts airflow and can cause the unit to gash for air. The condenser can freeze into a block of ice." Bergstrom recommends pulling out your calendar and marking the first Saturday of every other month as Filter Cleaning Day. Clean off the outdoor unit, especially

· Have a trained, certified, licensed contractor come and inspect your system every other year; more often if you have an older system. Bergstrom's performs an 18-point inspection that takes about an hour and a half, and costs around $45. It includes cleaning the filters and coils.
