Recall group to continue ouster effort

Although construction on the Haggerty Connector — the issue which first spurred talk of a recall election in Novi — is imminent, a group of residents say they will pursue a petition drive to pull Council Members Nancy Cassis, Carol Mason and Joseph Toth from office.

Art Cervi, spokesperson for the ten-member group, said Friday that they expect to have the wording for the petitions drafted this week. The language will then need to be reviewed for clarity by the county election commission.

"We're still going ahead. We're still very unhappy. It just isn't the Haggerty Road issue. It's the general issue about the way the council is going," Cervi said.

"We honestly believe they're not acting in the best interests of the city."

Cassis and Toth on the other hand question the motives of the recall and suggest that someone is trying to silence the opposition.

This is the second time in just over two years that a recall election has been threatened in Novi — and the second time Toth has been a target.

To get the issue on the ballot, the amount of signatures gathered on the petitions must be equal to 25 percent of the number of voters who turned out for the last governor's election. With a 44 percent voter turnout in 1990, 2,485 residents must sign the petitions.

Cervi said he anticipates no difficulty in getting the supporters.

But he said he hesitated to list the names of the ten people at the core of the movement until each has given his or her okay. They are irked by a series of actions taken by the council members, he said, including revisions this year to Novi's sidewalk ordinance.

Former Council Member Martha Hoyer has been working with the group.

"People come up and say please don't stop. That tells you there is some dissatisfaction with the city. It's people from the Eleven Mile and Taft area, it's people from all over the city. At church, people are coming up to me and saying, 'Remember, I want to sign it when you're

Novi district to ask voters for largest bond ever

By MICHAEL MALOTT
Managing Editor

The largest bond issue ever offered to Novi voters will go on the ballot Dec. 15 as a result of action taken Tuesday evening by the Novi schools Board of Education.

Asking permission from voters to essentially float a $31.9 million loan, the ballot question would launch a 5-year program to expand, renovate and add new technology to the district's school buildings.

Before a supportive crowd of parents, teachers and PTO members, the board voted 6-0 to place the question on the ballot Dec. 15.

But the cost would be relatively cheap for Novi taxpayers. Because the existing debt millage would be reduced as the new debt millage is added in 1993, district administrators say the additional cost would come to only $75 for the owner of a $200,000 home in Novi.

According to Jim Koster, assistant superintendent of business, the bond issue would actually equiate to 4.58 mills in the first year, but because of a reduction in the district's current debt millage rate of 3.823, the increase would be only .757 mills.

The need for the building and renovation program comes from the rapid growth in the school district's student population. According to school board president Ray Byers, the district's newest building, Parkview Elementary, reached capacity 2½ years sooner than anticipated.

"If this does not pass, we've holding classes in peoples' basements," he said.

The school district has estimated its student population this year at 4,257, some 150 over last year and a higher growth rate than anticipated for the year. Further, the City of Novi is experiencing an unanticipated building boom. Byers said. In the first six months of 1991, just over 300 building permits were pulled in the city. This year, despite a poor economy and a water tap

Water lines flushed with chlorine

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

In spite of an Aug. 24 flushing-out of the Country Cousins well system, followup tests found more coliform bacteria in the water.

So last Monday, Aug. 31, the Michigan Department of Health performed a chlorination procedure on each of the Haggerty Road mobile home park's wells.

According to Nathan Foote, an environmental health specialist for the Michigan Department of Public Health, the chlorination took place after a third battery of tests, which followed the system flush-out, still showed bacteria. Out of four samples, two were contaminated.

Residents in Country Cousins had been forced to boil their drinking water since July 20, when routine tests turned up a presence of coliform bacteria.

Coliform bacteria is a natural, generally harmless bacteria found in and on warm-blooded animals, decaying leaves and soil. Foote said the bacteria can become dangerous, however, if ingested in large doses because it can cause diarrhea and dehydration in infants, small children, or elderly people.

The reason for the Country Cousins contamination remains unknown, but it might have been caused by a temporary loss of water pressure at some time in the past.

Bob Long, administrative assistant for Oakland County Environmental Health Services, said coliform is a concern because it can sometimes be indicative of a possible outside influence, such as sewage.

He said there is probably a small amount of coliform in all wells, but that it should not regularly turn up in routine testing, which involves numerous small water samples.

Long said the reason for the Country Cousins contamination remains unknown, but that it might have been caused by a temporary loss of water pressure at some time in the past.

Foote said he had hoped the system flush-out, which should have removed any bacteria growth along the sides of the water lines, would do the trick because chlorination is a difficult process.

The chlorination procedure involved turning off one of Country Cousins' two wells and adding heavy doses of chlorine. Residents used the other well while the first one was being cleaned, then the process was repeated.

Each time, the chlorine was left in the turned-off system for 24 hours, then the system was cleansed of the chlorine. The chlorine is expected to kill the bacteria and clean the water lines.

Residents were notified before the chlorination procedure began that all of the chlorine might not be immediately out of the system when the water was turned back on.

Michigan Department of Public Health officials instructed residents to smell the water before drinking it or using it for cooking. Any remaining chlorine was expected to be out of the water within a few days.

Country Cousins was one of 26 mobile home parks across the state that was discovered to have contaminated water this summer.

Detroit Edison set to begin tree trimming in local area

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Detroit Edison will be in town this month to clear out tree limbs scragging its electrical lines.

The utility plans to spend $70 million through 1993 on line clearance. Edison spokesperson Lori Kessler said the work would likely be finished by the end of 1992 or the beginning of next year.

According to Detroit Edison, a study of areas where the work is completed indicate a 33 percent reduction in power outages. Even if a limb doesn't pull down a line, it can drain power by resting on the wire.

Kessler said the exact dates the crews would be in town could not be predicted.

The corporation is working under the eyes of Novi's city forester Chris Pargoff.

Edison will be checking yard by yard to see which tree branches are either within ten feet of the lines or are likely to reach that point within the near future.

The tree trimmings have sparked controversy in some communities including Trenton, where residents say the results are unsightly.

Branches or limbs are often clipped to the trunk rather than left in place for the tree's overall health, Kessler explained. A branch cut in half is more susceptible to disease and insect infestation, she added.

In the past, citizen committees have studied computer needs in the classroom, enrollment projections, building and site needs, school attendance area boundaries, mileage and bonding needs, transportation safety, high school graduation requirements and schools of choice plans.

At the district level, parent members of advisory committees focus on curriculum, gifted and talented and special education programming and services, and communication work with teachers and administrative staff members throughout the school year.

School districts sponsored programs — such as Drug Abuse Resistance Education (DARE) for sixth graders or Quest, a middle school program that teaches students how to develop greater self-esteem, resist peer pressure and develop the skills needed to be successful as students and citizens — rely on volunteers who assist the staff. Contributions of time, money and supplies from a variety of sources, not just parents or local residents, have led to greater community awareness of student needs and student achievements.

There are some programs that are open to children throughout the district and not restricted to a particular school building. Odyssey of the Mind, a competition that is focused on creative solutions and teamwork, is a program that uses volunteer coaches who do not need to be parents of children who participate.

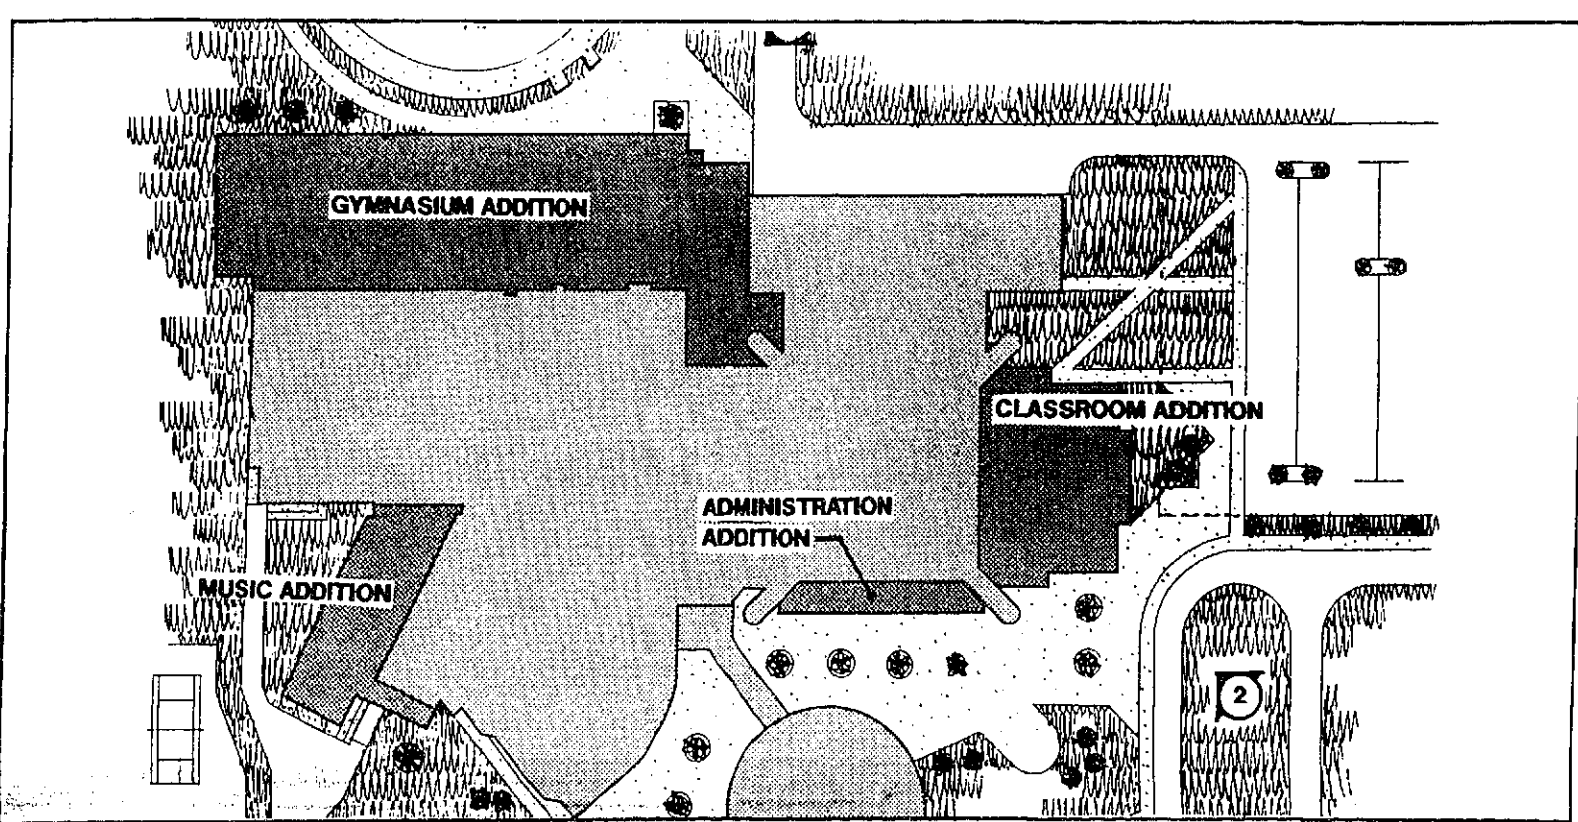

Each school in the Novi school district has at least one organization that serves to represent parents of children at that school and which plans and carries out activities to supplement the educational program.

Each school's parent-teacher organization is also represented on the PTO Inter-School Council, a group that meets regularly with Traynor and the superintendent, Emmett Lippe. The council meetings provide a forum for an exchange of concerns and information related to Novi schools.

that addition because of what they described as the poor condition of the playgrounds and equipment at those buildings.

The $31.9 million, to be repaid over 25 years, would fund improvements to five school district buildings and purchase new technology for all the buildings. The largest portion of the bond issue, $17.5 million, would be used for the expansion of Novi High School. Five additions are to be made there, including a 13-classroom expansion, an additional gym and running track, additional science classroom space, performing arts space, and additions for food service and student services. A series of renovations to classrooms, walkways, flooring, lighting, the auditorium sound system and tennis courts are also scheduled.

Parkview would get 10 new classrooms, worth $2.2 million. Orchard Hills, Village Oaks and Novi Meadows would get renovations. The most extensive work would occur at Orchard Hills, worth $1.4 million. There, new ceilings, new lighting, carpeting, re-roofing, air conditioning, new corridors and new boilers are to be installed. The building would also be hooked up to city water.

Village Oaks would get its courtyard repaired, be re-roofed, get new carpeting and be air conditioned.

Police look into shoe store assault

Novi Police are investigating charges of criminal sexual conduct by an unknown man who allegedly assaulted a young woman in the El Bee shoe store and grabbed her breasts.

According to police reports, the girl was shopping with her grandmother. The grandmother told police that she saw the suspect talking to a clerk when they entered the store, and that he was acting "hyper."

The grandmother and granddaughter were in different sections of the store and out of sight of each other when the suspect allegedly walked up to the girl, said "you've got nice ones," and grabbed her breasts. He then allegedly walked behind her and did it again.

The clerk at the store, who also told police that the suspect was acting strangely, said he asked her for a particular brand of athletic shoe. She told them that they did not have it, so he left the name "Jay" and Phone number with her.

Police called the number but found that no "Jay" lived at that address.

VANDALISM: A resident on Thirteen Mile reported Aug. 28 that someone slashed the rear tires and dented the driver's side door of her 1987 Ford pickup truck.

She said she had no idea who might have done the damage. Police said the incident occurred some time during the night before.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY: Novi police responded to an assault and battery complaint Aug. 28.

At the scene, they discovered two female roommates who each alleged that the other had struck and beaten her.

Police said both women had signs of abuse and assault, but were undecided whether they wished to prosecute. One of the women was then arrested on an unrelated warrant.

STOLEN PURSE: A resident in the Pavilion apartment complex reported Aug. 27 that someone stole her purse from the club house.

The green purse, which was taken some time between 5:30 and 5:58 p.m., was discovered discarded in front of the building. Reported missing from the purse was $24 in cash.

STOLEN BICYCLE: A resident on Chipmunk Trail reported Aug. 26 that an unknown boy stole his bicycle from in front of his home.

The resident said he saw the suspect, described as a slim white male, age 16-17, with short black hair, take the bike. He chased the suspect for a short distance, but lost sight of him in the Meadowbrook Glens subdivision.

Police searched the area but did not find the bike or the suspect.

THREATS: Novi police are investigating a West Bloomfield man in connection with a reckless driving complaint that led to threats against an officer.

A Novi woman told police that she was driving southbound on Haggerty Aug. 27 and noted the suspect driving in a reckless manner.

She said when she passed him and looked at him, he swerved at her and forced her to slam on her brakes and go into the left turn lane. She told police she was frightened because she had a small child in the car with her at the time.

An officer made contact with the man, who at first denied involvement then reportedly changed his story. The officer, who was taping the conversation, reported that he also made threats over the phone.

LARCENY FROM AUTO: A resident on Sarah Flynn reported Aug. 26 that someone broke the vent window of her 1989 Camaro on Aug. 26. Police said the unknown suspect gained entry to the vehicle through an unlocked door some time between 1 and 5 a.m.

The would-be thief was unsuccessful at stealing this vehicle, but damaged the steering column in an attempt to start it.

ATTEMPTED STOLEN VEHICLE: Someone also attempted to steal a 1989 Camaro on Aug. 26. Police said the unknown suspect gained entry to the vehicle through an unlocked door some time between 1 and 5 a.m.

The would-be thief was unsuccessful at stealing this vehicle, but damaged the steering column in an attempt to start it.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call the Novi Police Tip Line at 349-8887.

Woman later told the officers that her husband choked her.

The husband was arrested and jailed. The woman refused medical attention.

DRUNK DRIVING: A 27-year-old Novi man was arrested for operating under the influence of liquor (OUIL) on South Lake Drive Aug. 26. He was stopped shortly after 10 p.m. while driving a 1984 Ford LTD.

DRUNK DRIVING: A 49-year-old Novi man was arrested for OUIL Aug. 26. Police stopped him at 11 p.m. on eastbound Nine Mile near Novi Road. He was driving a 1991 Buick Park Avenue.

STOLEN VEHICLE: A resident on Spring Lake reported Aug. 26 that someone stole his 1986 Chevrolet Camaro. Police said the vehicle was taken some time during the hours of darkness.

ATTEMPTED STOLEN VEHICLE: Someone also attempted to steal a 1989 Camaro on Aug. 26. Police said the unknown suspect gained entry to the vehicle through an unlocked door some time between 1 and 5 a.m.

The would-be thief was unsuccessful at stealing this vehicle, but damaged the steering column in an attempt to start it.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call the Novi Police Tip Line at 349-8887.

Suspect bound over in Meijer stabbing

By MIKE TYREE
Staff Writer

Rodney Christopher Humber was suspected of shoplifting about $500 worth of jewelry, grudgingly returned to the store at Beaubien's request just before the fatal stabbing.

Roe said the youth argued with the store detectives before "he turned and took his hands out of his pockets... he hit him in the chest real hard with his right hand."

Roe said Bebeau grabbed his chest and said she glimpsed a metallic object strike the floor.

"I looked down real fast... it was silver and looked like an ice pick," she said.

Roe was one of three witnesses to testify in the preliminary examination. Julie Gragats, another Meijer employee, and township police officer Matthew Mayes also responded to questioning from assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Gary LaBrec and defense attorney Robert Edick.

Humber said quietly throughout the examination. Judge James Garber bound the suspect over for arraignment in Wayne County Circuit Court. An arraignment date is expected to be scheduled for sometime in the next two weeks.

Car dealership gets the nod to start its project

After giving its approval to a request to fill wetlands on the property, the Novi Planning Commission Wednesday unanimously approved the construction of Lou Stanford Lincoln Mercury at the corner of Grand River Avenue and Wixom Road.

"Welcome to Novi," Kathleen McLallen, planning commission chair, told the Lou Stanford Lincoln Mercury dealership company officials, architects and engineers. The automobile dealership will sit astride the city's boundary with Wixom.

The commission approved the filling of two wetlands areas on the construction site.

The entire wetlands is three and half acres, but just a little more than three-fourths of an acre is in Novi, which will be filled.

Susan Teppati, water resources specialist for JCK and Associates, a consulting firm for Novi, said that her office did not object to the filling of the wetlands because it has low quality and little value. Teppati assured the commission that the wetland fill would not be harmful to the environment or to wildlife.

McLallen said that the wetlands to be filled in are not significant wetlands. "Its environmental features have pretty much been impacted," McLallen said.

The commission decided that the dealership would not have to construct a new wetlands area to replace the one being filled because there is no room on the dealership property to do so.

McLallen said that Lou Stanford Lincoln Mercury, which will extend into Wixom, will have to be approved by the City of Wixom before approval is finalized and the project can be started.

Sheraton to serve as pledge center

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

It's a 10-year anniversary for Novi's Sheraton Oaks Hotel, which first opened its doors in 1982.

And it's been that many years since the first Novi Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA) pledge center was set up there on Labor Day weekend.

"We've been doing this as long as I can remember, and I've been here as long as the hotel's been here," said Lori Blaz, Sheraton Oaks advertising manager.

Every year since the hotel was built, they have donated space and refreshments for hundreds of phone volunteers.

"We give the volunteers refreshments and whatever else they need," Blaz said. "After all, they are there working for 22 hours."

The Novi center is not televised like some of the other centers, although its purpose is just as important.

"Ours is an overflow center," Blaz explained. "When the phone calls come in, if there are more than they can handle at one center, they flow into ours. It's kind of a domino effect."

Most importantly, the Novi pledge center decreases the number of busy signals, thereby increasing the number of pledges that get through.

Mary Silk, district MDA director, said a direct line to the Novi pledge center will also be made available to area residents wishing to call in pledges. The number will flash across the bottom of the television screen during the telethon.

During the telethon, Sheraton Oaks also hosts a pajama party in the lounge. From 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Sunday night, partygoers enjoy live entertainment, disc jockeys, and pajama contests (including one contest for the sexiest pajamas).

The charges of $5 for those not wearing pajamas and $3 for those wearing pajamas went directly to MDA.

The pajama party is an event that has been held each Labor Day weekend at least five years, Blaz said. She said the hotel doesn't have financial figures that show how much the event makes each year because MDA volunteers work the door and collect the money, and it goes directly to MDA.

This year's Jerry Lewis MDA telethon is broadcast live from Las Vegas beginning at 9 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 6 and continues through 7 p.m. Monday, Sept. 7.

As We See It

Identities of recallers must be made public

It is absolutely essential, before the organization seeking to recall three members of Novi City Council, proceeds much further that the identities of those leading the recall are made known to the public.

The public will want to examine at length the charges levelled against the city council members — the "reasons for recall" as they are listed on the petition form — but they should also have an opportunity to examine at equal length the motivations of those making the charges.

And there should be no delay. That examination of the recallers' motives should be a part of the petition signing process, and not just the final election, should this movement ever get that far.

Fair is fair.

Art Cervi, who is serving as the spokesperson for a ten-member recall organization, announced last week that efforts to oust council members Carol Mason, Nancy Cassis and Joe Toth would proceed even though the original issue which caused talk of a recall — a delay in approval of the wetlands mitigation settlement for the M-5/Haggerty Connector — has since been resolved.

Cervi said last week the wording of the "reasons for recall" had not yet been completed, but he anticipated it would be sometime this week. Then, of course, the wording will have to go before the Oakland County Elections Commission for review before signature collection can begin. The commission will simply make sure that the "reasons for recall" are stated clearly, so that voters can understand them. It does not review the legitimacy of those reasons.

In fact, the state constitution makes it quite clear that a recall is a political process. It does not restrict the possible reasons for recall.

At the same time, Cervi declined to list who the members are of that recall committee. He said he wanted to wait until those members gave permission to have their names released. Former council member Martha Hoyer is known to be working with the group, but who the other eight members might be is not clear.

Making their identities known is a must. We could sit here and debate the pros and cons of the performance of these three targeted council members just about endlessly. Regardless of how well they've performed in office, it is quite possible to scrutinize their efforts and positions and find at least some fault with them. The same could be said of the council members not targeted for recall.

It's not fair to examine only that side of the question. It puts them entirely on the defensive. In puts the recall group in the position of firing off a volley of charges from behind a veil of anonymity.

But to really judge and weigh the validity of the charges, the identities of those making the charges must be known. Their motivations for seeking the ouster of city council members must also be examined.

Another point worth thinking about is that right now, with the membership list of the group unknown, Novi residents and politicians are engaging in a fair amount of speculation about who they are and why they are doing it. In the long run, with no hard information, the result is a spreading of suspicion. And that's not what the City of Novi needs at this point in time.

We don't know yet whether those motivations may be bad or good. We can't without those identities. Nonetheless, it is only fair to look at them in the process.

Frankly, we'd urge voters in this city to withhold their signatures from any such petitions until those identities are indeed known.

I knew it should be 2½ inches

Phil Jerome

My first mistake was not insisting we hire somebody to do it.

"They said it was really easy," she said. "They would be happy to send somebody out, but it was so easy that anybody could do it."

"I told them you're not exactly the most skilled guy in the world when it comes to putting up blinds, but they said it was really easy . . . they were sure just about anybody could handle it."

Right there — at that very point — is where I should have taken a stand about hiring somebody to install the fancy new blinds she had bought for the sliding glass door that leads from the master bedroom to the deck. But I didn't.

I allowed myself to be misled by her assertion that anybody could do it, and so we set out to install the blinds without professional assistance.

"The first thing we do is read the instructions; then we read them again to make sure we understood them the first time," I said.

So we both read the instructions and then we both read them again . . . just to make sure, reduce the possibility for error.

"What are you doing?" she asked. Not a question, more of an accusation that I was doing something wrong.

"I'm installing this bracket 2½ inches higher than the length of the vertical slats," I said.

"But the instructions say you only need to install it 2¼ inches higher than the length of the drapes," she said. "And then she showed me in the instructions where it said 2¼ inches."

"I know what the instructions said," I replied, trying to maintain a note of civility in my voice so this particular project did not escalate into war of words like all the others do. "But my problem is that I don't think 2¼ inches is high enough. I'm worried that the drapes will drag on the carpet instead of hanging loose like they're supposed to."

"Okay," she replied, trying just as hard as I was to install the blinds without getting into a fight. "We'll compromise. You want 2½; the instructions say 2¼. Just make them 2½ inches."

It seemed a reasonable compromise, even though my non-scientific mind still had its reservations. So we settled on 2½ inches.

The next three hours were spent trying to screw the brackets into the hardest wood in North America. I cursed. I cursed the builder. I cursed the damned fool who sold him the petrified wood in the first place.

And, at last, I had finished. Sweat poured from my brow as I announced that all the brackets had been installed . . . 2½ inches higher than the length of the vertical slats . . . just like she wanted them.

"It looks good, Phil," she beamed approvingly, trying to bolster my virtually non-existent home improvement ego. "Let's put up the blinds to see how it works."

And so we did. Started placing them in the little slots that hold them to the valance. And that's when I noticed it.

"You notice anything funny about the blinds?" I asked slowly.

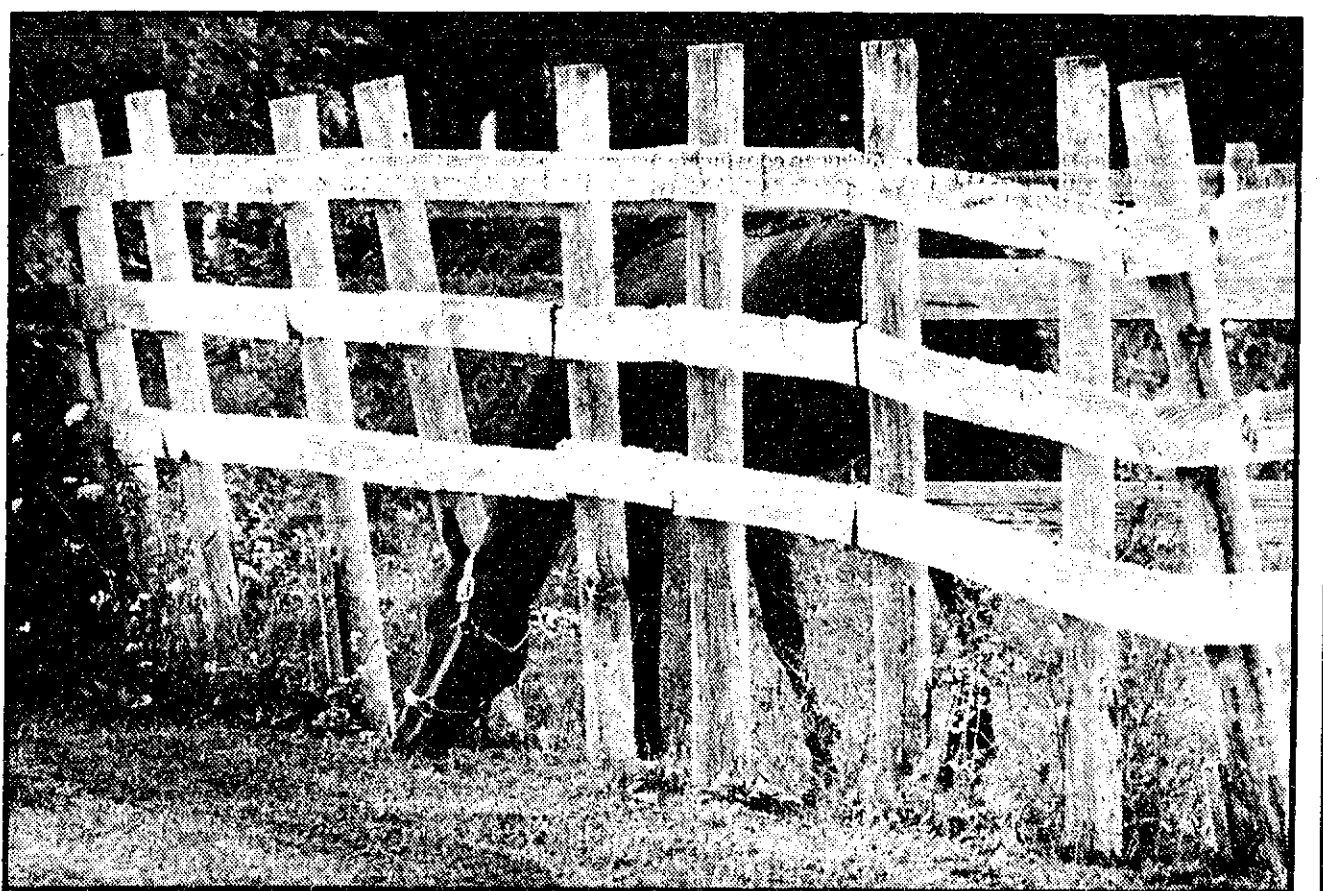

"You mean the way they're just slightly long . . . dragging just barely on the carpet?"

"Yeah, like maybe about ¼ of-an-inch too long. Like the difference between 2½ inches and 2¼ inches."

"I guess you were right," she sighed. "I guess we've just got to pull out those brackets and put them up a little higher."

In passing

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

This newspaper welcomes letters to the editor. We ask, however, that they be issue-oriented, confined to 400 words and that they contain the signature, address, and telephone number of the writer. The writer's name may be withheld from publication if the writer fears bodily harm, severe persecution, or the loss of his or her job. The writer requesting anonymity must explain his or her circumstances. Submit letters for consideration by 4 pm Monday for that Thursday's paper. We reserve the right to edit letters for brevity, clarity, libel, and taste.

The week prior to an election, this newspaper will not accept letters to the editor that open up new issues. Only responses to already published issues will be accepted, with this newspaper being the final arbiter. This policy is an attempt to be fair to all concerned.

Somebody will take care of it

Rick Byrne

Well, it looks like I've got a new job.

Oh, don't worry. You won't be missing my smiling face and wily witticisms in this space anytime in the near future. No, it's just that I've picked up some new duties around the office.

By default, I seem to have been both nominated and elected as staff handyman. I made the mistake of telling people that I did all my own car repairs and had a tool box that would make Tim Allen sit up and take notice.

Next thing I knew, I was up to my armpits in broken computer equipment.

I know what you're thinking. Tuning up an old Dodge has about as much relevance to fixing a computer as astrology has to fixing dinner.

But you have to understand that the computers in this office are so old (we were the first weekly chain in the state to computerize) and simple that you honestly can keep them slogging along with kitchen utensils.

So for the last nine months or so, with an assist from the manufacturer's customer service department in Wichita, Kansas, I've enjoyed some modest success in changing circuit boards, rewiring power supplies and replacing monitor screens.

Now, however, I'm branching out into other electrical repairs. Some fluorescent light bulbs blew out last week, leaving a couple of our reporters in the dark.

The affected parties didn't say anything, probably thinking "somebody will take care of it." Which means that nobody took care of it, and they made due by working in the glow of their carefully-maintained computer terminals.

Times being what they are, I didn't think the company could stand the expense of miner's helmets for everyone, so I took it upon myself to replace the blown lightbulbs.

I had the offending bulbs out in short order, but finding replacements was another matter. Bob Needham, who's worked in this office for nearly five years, heard a rumor that there were some in the hall closet. This same closet, however, goes by the nickname of The Tomb of the Unknown Reporter. It's thought to be a black hole in space, sucking in everything and allowing nothing — not even light (or in this case lightbulbs) — to escape.

Defying the odds, I found a huge box of fluorescent bulbs right away. But then my luck took a turn for the worse. As I plucked bulbs one at a time from a box of perhaps 20 of them and plugged them in, it became apparent that every single one of them was burned out.

This, it appears, was the box for bulbs to be recycled. It had been left here with the idea that "somebody will take care of it." Which means that nobody took care of it, and our reporters were about ready to order their miner's hats.

A second foray into the Tomb did produce a box of good bulbs, and now we truly can say that the reporters are enlightened.

But I'm still left with a dilemma. More accurately, I'm left with a box of 20 (plus four) recyclable fluorescent lightbulbs.

If anyone knows where I can take them for recycling, please call me here at the paper. The phones, I'm happy to say, are still working fine.

St. Julian scores a double hit

St. Julian Wine Company scored a double hit in the annual Michigan State Fair wine competition after its 1991 Vidal Blanc Ice Wine was named best of show white wine and its 1990 Chancellor was named best of show red wine. The white wine is a dessert wine, the red a table wine.

Local wine columnists Ray and Eleanor Heald were part of the panel of judges that sampled the 123 Michigan wines entered in the competition.

The daylong event was held at the Machus Red Fox restaurant in Birmingham. Ten Michigan wineries were represented.

Here are the 16 gold medal winners, not including the two wines judged gold medal winners, and best of show.

Johannisberg Riesling Sparkling Brut, Chatau Grand Traverse; 1991 Dry Reisling, Good Harbor Vineyards; 1991 P.G.W. Pun, L. Mawby Vineyards; 1989 Johannisberg Riesling Ice Wine, Leelanau Wine Cellars; 1991 Vis-a-Vis Red, Leelanau Wine Cellars; 1991 Chambourcin, Lemon Creek Vineyards/Winery; 1991 Johannisberg Riesling, Fenn Valley Vineyards; 1991 Pinot Gris, Good Harbor Vineyards; 1991 Pinot Gris, L. Mawby Vineyards; 1991 Chardonnay, Leelanau Wine Cellars; 1990 Chambourcin, Lemon Creek Vineyards/Winery; Raspberry Champagne, St. Julian Wine Company, Inc.; Solera Cream Sherry, St. Julian Wine Company, Inc.; and Classic Demi-Sec, Tabor Hill Winery.

Another Michigan "find" is Michigan Fresh, a food-lover's guide to growers and bakeries, by Don and Mary Hunt. The guide lists Michigan's best bakeries, dozens of cider mills, has a directory of more than 200 farm stands selling fresh fruit and vegetables, a guide on how to forage for tasty wild plants like ostrich fern, strawberries, morel mushrooms and asparagus, and explains how to buy many kinds of grapes for winemaking direct from Michigan vineyards.

The book costs $9.95 and is available at most Michigan bookstores, or mail $12.95 plus $2 postage and handling to: Midwestern Guides, 504 1/2 Linden Avenue, Albion, Mich. 49224. The book will be updated regularly to provide up-to-date information about where to find fresh fruits and vegetables as well as exceptional bakeries.

Mark your calendars! Plan to attend the 1992 Great Wine Shootout 7-9 p.m., Monday, Sept. 14, at Glen Oaks on Thirteen Mile between Orchard Lake Road in Middlebelt.

For $15 per person, you can sample 40 to 50 wines with a good portion of nibbles serving as a light dinner. End the evening by voting for the year three favorite red and white wine to receive the Shootout Award.

This event is a bargain at the price, and is one of the most fun wine events of its kind in our area. For reservations, call Dennis Walsh, 852-5533. Hurry; the deadline is Sept. 9. Look for Shootout Award Winners in a future wine column.

Betty Crocker tip of the week: When a canning recipe calls for sugar, use white granulated sugar unless the recipe specifies otherwise. Brown sugar, corn syrup and honey may produce unexpected flavors.

Breads are enjoying fresh popularity, and creative variations can be made at home.

Completely baked
Breads keep gaining popularity, with many varied possibilities

American consumers are eating more bread each year, and consumption is predicted to increase annually through 1996, according to the industry weekly, Milling & Baking News.

Two other interesting facts are emerging from the statistics, said Gordon L. Davidson, editor of the Kansas City, Missouri-based publication.

First, bread consumers are closing the gap between white bread and all the other breads (called variety breads). We still eat more white bread but an ever-increasing amount of other breads, too.

Second, per-capita consumption of frozen bakery foods dropped almost 5 percent last year, continuing a trend that began in 1982, according to Davidson.

The bottom line is we want our bakery products fresh, it seems, yet the idea of working with yeast scares many cooks so much that they never attempt to bake bread at home.

Yeast breads often are considered difficult because they have the reputation of being risky, and there's the extra work of kneading the dough.

Kneading should be done on a lightly floured surface, a board or countertop; add a little more flour if the dough remains sticky. Knead eight to 10 minutes until smooth and elastic. The dough should have tiny air bubbles under the surface.

Here are some bread-baking tips:

- Turn the dough onto the lightly floured surface. With lightly floured hands, shape the dough into a ball and fold it toward you.
- With the heels of your hands, using a rolling motion, push it away. Give the dough a quarter of a turn.
- Knead eight to 10 minutes; dough should no longer stick and will be ready for a second rising as recipe directs.
- Assemble all the needed ingredients and measure them accurately. Too little flour or too much liquid or yeast can greatly affect the quality of the bread.
- Be sure that the temperature of your oven is accurate. It sometimes happens that an oven will be 10 to 25 degrees off.
- Follow the recipe.

Baking experts say the main causes of home bread-baking failures are over-rising, under-kneading or jarring the risen bread.

The secret to working with yeast is in the proofing. Water should be 110 degrees Fahrenheit — warm to the touch but not hot. You should be able to run it over your wrist without the skin turning red.

The temperature of the water is going to be reduced if you put it in a cold measuring cup and bowl. Warm them up ahead of time with warm water.

When the temperature outside is cool, yeast breads can take quite a while to rise. During cool weather, an alternative is to turn the oven on warm, cover the bread loosely with plastic wrap and a clean dish towel and leave it to rise for 50 minutes. Remove the bread, preheat the oven to 350 F and bake the loaf.

Here are some recipes to get you started.

HONEY-WHEAT RAISIN BREAD

- 1 1/2 cups whole-wheat flour
- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/4 cup uncooked, unprocessed oat bran
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup non-fat buttermilk
- 1/2 cup skim milk
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1 egg, beaten
- 3 tablespoons corn oil margarine, melted
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/2 cup raisins

Yields 16 slices.

Combine flours, oat bran, baking powder, soda and salt in large bowl; make well in center of mixture. Combine buttermilk and next 4 ingredients, stirring until well-blended; add to dry ingredients, stirring just until moistened. Fold in walnuts and raisins.

Spoon batter into 8 1/4 x 4 1/4 x 3-inch loaf pan coated with cooking spray. Bake at 375 F for 50 minutes or until a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Cool bread in pan 10 minutes. Remove from pan and cool completely on wire rack.

DILLY CASSEROLE BREAD

- 2 to 2 1/2 cups all-purpose or unbleached flour
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 2 to 3 teaspoons instant minced onion
- 2 teaspoons dill seed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 package active dry yeast
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 tablespoon margarine or butter
- 1 (8-ounce) carton (1 cup) creamed cottage cheese
- 1 egg
- Margarine or butter, melted
- Coarse salt, if desired

Yields 18 slices.

Lightly spoon flour into measuring cup; level off. In large bowl, combine 1 cup flour, sugar, instant minced onion, dill seed, 1 teaspoon salt, baking soda and yeast; blend well. In small saucepan, heat water, 1 tablespoon margarine and cottage cheese until very warm (120 to 130 F). Add warm liquid and egg to flour mixture. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat 3 minutes at medium speed. By hand, stir in remaining 1 to 1 1/2 cups flour to form a stiff batter. Cover loosely with plastic wrap and cloth towel.

Let rise in warm place (80 to 85 F) until light and doubled in size, 45 to 60 minutes.

Generously grease 1 1/2- or 2-quart casserole. Stir down dough to remove all air bubbles. Turn into greased casserole. Cover; let rise in warm place until light and doubled in size, 30 to 45 minutes.

Heat oven to 350 F. Uncover dough. Bake 30 to 40 minutes or until deep golden brown and loaf sounds hollow when lightly tapped. Remove from casserole immediately; cool on wire rack. Brush warm loaf with melted margarine; sprinkle with coarse salt.

The following recipes are from 1991 Best-Recipes Yearbook, published by Better Homes & Gardens.

WHOLE-WHEAT BRIOCHE

- 1 package active dry yeast
- 1 cup warm water (105 F to 115 F)
- 1/2 cup margarine or butter
- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 3 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups whole-wheat flour
- 24 whole almonds
- 1 egg white
- 1 tablespoon water

Yields 30 rolls.

In small mixing bowl, soften yeast in 1/4 cup of warm water. In large mixer bowl, beat margarine or butter, brown sugar and salt with electric mixer until fluffy. Add remaining warm water, 1 cup all-purpose flour and whole eggs. Beat well. Add softened yeast and beat well. Using a spoon, stir in remaining all-purpose flour and whole-wheat flour until dough is smooth.

Place in greased bowl. Cover; let rise in warm place until double (about 2 hours). Punch down. Cover with plastic wrap. Chill 2 to 24 hours.

Punch dough down. Turn out onto a lightly floured surface. Cut dough into 6 portions; cut each portion into 5 pieces. With floured hands, shape each piece into a ball. (You will have 30 balls of dough.)

Place rolls into greased muffin pans or individual brioche pans, using a sharp knife, cut a little slit in top of each roll. Place 1 almond sideways into each slit. Cover; let rise in warm place for 30 minutes.

In small mixing bowl combine egg white and the 1 tablespoon of water. Brush over tops of rolls and almonds.

Bake in 425 F oven for 12 to 15 minutes or until rolls sound hollow when tapped. Remove from pans. Cool on wire rack. Note: For variety, omit almonds on top and instead sprinkle with poppy seed or caraway seed after brushing with egg white mixture.

DOUBLE-OAT BUBBLE BREAD

- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1/2 cup regular rolled oats
- 4 1/4 to 5 cups all-purpose flour
- 2 packages active dry yeast
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 cup margarine or butter
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/2 cups oat bran
- 1/2 cup molasses
- Rolled oats, poppy seeds or sesame seeds

Yields 2 loaves, 9 or 10 servings each.

In medium saucepan, bring water to boiling; add 1/2 cup rolled oats. Reduce heat; simmer, uncovered, about 8 minutes or until water is nearly absorbed by oats. Cover saucepan. Let stand for 10 minutes. Uncover and cool cooked oats to lukewarm.

In large mixer bowl, stir together 1 1/2 cups of flour and the yeast; set mixture aside.

In small saucepan, heat and stir milk, margarine or butter, sugar and salt just until warm (120 F to 130 F) and margarine or butter is almost melted. Add to flour mixture. Add eggs. Beat with electric mixer on low speed for 3 seconds, scraping sides of bowl constantly. Beat on high speed for 3 minutes. Using a spoon, stir in cooled oat mixture, oat bran and molasses. Stir in as much of remaining flour as you can.

Turn dough out onto lightly floured surface. Knead in enough of the remaining flour to make a moderately stiff dough that is smooth and elastic (6 to 8 minutes total). Shape into a ball. Place in lightly greased bowl; turn once. Cover; let rise in warm place until double (about 1 hour).

Punch dough down; turn out onto lightly floured surface. Divide dough in half. Cover and let rest 10 minutes. Divide each dough half into 9 portions for square or round loaves or 10 portions for rectangular loaves. Shape dough into balls. Place 9 or 10 balls in each of 2 greased 8x8x2-inch baking pans, 8x1 1/2-inch round baking pans, or 9x5x3-inch loaf pans. Cover; let rise until nearly double (30 to 40 minutes).

Brush top of risen dough with water; sprinkle with rolled oats, poppy seeds or sesame seeds. Bake in 375 F oven for 30 to 35 minutes or until bread sounds hollow when tapped, covering with foil the last 10 minutes to prevent over-browning, if necessary. Remove from pans and cool on wire rack.

Mini Double-Oat Loaves: To make 4 smaller loaves, prepare dough and let rise once as directed. Divide dough into 4 portions, making 10 balls from each portion. Arrange into 4 balls in each of four 7 1/4 x 3 1/4 x 2-inch loaf pans. Let rise and bake as directed.

CHEDDAR CHEESE BOWS

- 6 1/2 to 7 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
- 3 cups shredded cheddar, Swiss, or Monterey Jack cheese
- 2 packages quick-rising active dry yeast
- 2 1/2 cups milk
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- Milk
- Finely shredded fresh Parmesan cheese or grated Parmesan cheese

Yields 48 bows.

In large mixer bowl, combine 3 cups of flour, cheese and yeast; set mixture aside.

In medium saucepan, heat and stir 2 1/2 cups milk, sugar and salt just until warm (120 F to 130 F). Add to flour mixture. Add FOODLAND FITCHES IN: Foodland Distributors and participating affiliated supermarkets are teaming with local schools to help supply books, computer equipment, athletic equipment and other materials.

"Cash for the Class" is a program that gives schools five cents for each UPC (Universal Product Code) symbol collected from Nature's Best, Homebest, Topmost and Bi-Rite brand products. These private label brand products are available at affiliated Foodland supermarkets.

Students simply bring the UPC symbols to their school, and Foodland Distributors will pay the school five cents for each symbol redeemed. The program will begin Sept. 1 and continue through June 30, 1993. The program is available to any class, grade K through 12, public, private or parochial.

Participating in this area are Larry's Foodland, 33151 Plymouth Road, Livonia and Union Lake Food Center, 8040 Cooley Lake Road, Union Lake.

HOME CANNING TIP: Here's a tip for canning tomatoes from Sylvia Tretman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. The acidity level of varieties of tomatoes may be too low to assure a safe canned product. Therefore the USDA recommends adding 2 tablespoons bottled lemon juice or one-half teaspoon citric acid to each quart of crushed, whole, halved or sliced tomatoes. Add directly to jars before filling them with tomatoes.

For pints use one tablespoon bottled lemon juice or one-quarter teaspoon citric acid.

Do not forget to process all tomatoes according to the latest USDA recommendations. The Ball Blue Book 32nd has the latest recommendations and can be purchased at stores carrying canning supplies.

FREE INTRODUCTION TO WEIGHT WATCHERS: Weight Watchers has announced that its main centers are now open for free introductory consultations.

"We want everyone to know that Weight Watchers teaches people how to live healthier and eat better, no matter how much weight they have to lose," said Florine Mark, president and chief executive officer of W Group, the largest franchise of Weight Watchers International.

"Many people don't realize that they can come to Weight Watchers even if they only have five pounds to lose. They'll learn new ways of eating, how to make healthy choices and how to keep their weight off without changing their lifestyles."

Weight Watchers staff will be available to explain what Weight Watchers is all about and will give out free recipes and information as well. The following centers are available for this service: Ann Arbor, Dearborn, Farmington Hills, Royal Oak and St. Clair Shores. For further information or to set up a special appointment, please call 1-800-487-4777.

AMERICAN HARVEST REOPENS BOON: Schoolcraft College's American Harvest Restaurant closed for the summer on April 30. The on-campus restaurant, which features gourmet specialties prepared by Schoolcraft's Master Chefs and Culinary Arts students, will reopen shortly after Labor Day. Watch this space for an update on the exact date of opening.

GROCERS SUPPORT CHARITY: Look for "Abeles of Smiles" in your favorite grocery store through Sept. 11. Manufacturers of select products have agreed to donate a portion of each purchase to Muscular Dystrophy.

CULINARY EXTRAVAGANZA COMING: The Schoolcraft College Foundation will present a "Culinary Extravaganza" on Sunday, Sept. 20 from 2 to 5 p.m. in the College's Waterman Campus Center. Over 50 of the finest restaurants from the Detroit metropolitan area will be present. The event will feature a variety of gourmet dishes, live entertainment and a silent auction. Tickets are $10 per person. For more information, call 313-487-4777.

Michigan goodies catch on

In the Houlihan's Culinary Traditions Ltd. kitchen, Caroline weaves her mom Elaine like an expert. Elaine cooks like her Italian mother, but with her hands and eyes.

Not a mother if you're cooking for one, but a big one if you're cooking for the masses.

"We're standardizing all our recipes," said Elaine Houlihan of Bloomfield Hills who started Houlihan's Culinary Traditions Ltd. about 2 1/2 years ago. Houlihan's, based in Auburn Hills, makes preserves, appetizers and olive oil pasta sauces. The Italian gourmet products are under the name Elena's.

When they were making a new line of Elena's olive oil pasta sauces with fresh herbs, Caroline stopped her mom to weigh ingredients, so I push came to shove, she could get the orders out on time.

The time came. Mom had to fly to New York unexpectedly when her mother became ill. Caroline and her siblings who help out at the family business, made the sauce and got the orders out.

This kind of attention to detail, quality, and caring make Michigan food products special. "Most of us are family owned businesses," said Elaine Houlihan. "We're giving the country the absolutely best quality. We don't know any different."

Businesses like theirs are growing and starting up everyday. Houlihan's employs 10 people. Caroline, a graduate of Michigan State University, is her mother's assistant and takes care of marketing. Her sister Jill, who earned a bachelor's degree in finance, and now attends Detroit College of Law, takes care of the books. Her brother John who will be attending Oakland University in the fall to study education, helps out in the summer.

Last year, Elaine Houlihan started the Michigan Specialty Food Manufacturer's Association to promote and help manufacturers of specialty foods in Michigan.

To be eligible for membership in the association, companies must be in business at least six months and have six wholesale accounts. Membership is $125 a year. For membership information, call Michele Marshall of Mucky Duck Mustard Company at (313)683-5750.

Many of the people who started these companies did so with encouragement from family and friends who raved about their products. Besides Houlihan's here are the other charter members.

Michaelene Hearn makes gourmet granola. She's contributing a portion of the profits from her Rain Forest Gatherings, a granola made with papaya, pineapple, mango, banana chips, cashews and Brazil nuts to the preservation of rain forests.

Cecilia Warner (Celia's Sweets) began making pizzerias (an Italian cookie) 10 years ago when her mother-in-law gave her a pizzelle maker. Now her daughter, son, and husband help her make 10,000 pizzelles a week.

Jack and Kristin Trube of Word of Mouth Foods in Plymouth developed their business from their small butcher shop in Plymouth. They began to sell their pasta sauce in a shop, and customers bought it, and then their friends to the same. The company also makes barbecue sauce and seasonings.

Judy McConnel of Wenchow, Ltd. makes Jezebel Sauce, a sweet hot sauce, hot chili mustard, natural herbal vinegars, herbal blend and mulling spices.

First cousins Jack Ridley and Gail Jacob started making tie breads for Jackie's husband at Mark Ridley's Comedy Castle. Soon a wholesale business developed. In 1990, they bought a retail muffin shop and developed tie muffin chips, available in six flavors, and distributed across the United States.

Michele Marshall of the increasingly famous Mucky Duck Mustard Co. in Franklin uses a family recipe to make Mucky Duck Mustard. She recently published a cookbook with 170 recipes. With the exception of the first chapter of all chocolate desserts, each dish is made with Mucky Duck Mustard. The cookbook is available at Merchant of Vino in Birmingham and Troy.
