Having fun the family way

The Novi Town Center is smack dab in the middle of its second-annual Family Fun Festival. The event, which runs until May 23, features a carnival midway at the shopping center, located at the intersection of Grand River Avenue and Novi Road. Everyone's been having a rip-roaring time — just ask Jim Kirchoff with son Stuart, 4, and daughter Alaina, 6, shown above. The family got a kick out of the tilt-a-whirl ride. At right, Amanda Gold and Laura Namet, both 12, held on tight while riding "The Wipeout."

Appeals court deals setback to assault suit

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

A ruling by the state Court of Appeals last month is a setback to two lawsuits filed against the Novi Community School District. Its effect on the trial of those suits — which begins in two weeks — remains uncertain.

Both suits charge that district employees didn't take appropriate action in 1987 when a sophomore member of the girls' diving team said that a volunteer coach had sexually assaulted her.

The mother of the student, then age 15, filed suit in 1989, naming the district and six of its employees as defendants. The former student filed her own suit in February, naming only the district as a defendant. Both seek unspecified amounts of damages. Oakland County Circuit Court Judge Denise Langford-Morris will preside over the trial of both suits, which is scheduled to begin June 1.

Gregory Muller, attorney for the former student and her mother, appealed two of the court's decisions that dismissed several of the defendants from the mother's suit. On April 28, the Court of Appeals upheld both circuit court rulings. Langford-Morris in May 1990 granted summary disposition to the school district in May 1990 on the grounds of governmental immunity — eliminating the district as a defendant in that suit. A second court order in November 1990 granted summary disposition to then Novi High School Principal Robert Youngberg, then Assistant Principal Milan Obrenovich, then Superintendent of Schools Robert Piwko and then Athletic Director John Osborne, also on governmental immunity grounds.

Those decisions — and the court of appeals' decision — mean that the only remaining defendants in the mother's suit who are district employees are then-swim coach Harold Anderson and then-assistant coach Merideth Somers. Timothy Pelfrey, the man convicted of assaulting the student, is also a defendant, but the district has never represented him.

The dismissal of the school district from the mother's suit may effectively eliminate the student's lawsuit. It names only the district as a defendant, and uses the same facts and legal arguments as the mother's suit. Both sides agreed in March to "consolidate" the two suits — have them both heard in the same court at the same time — because of their similarities.

How the dismissal of the four district employees from the mother's suit will affect the cases against Anderson and Somers remains unclear. Attorneys for both sides in the case have not returned numerous phone calls by The Novi News.

Council is cool to lot size amendment

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

In early June, the Novi City Council will take a second look at proposed changes in the controversial adjusted lot size ordinance — but so far, some members don't like what they see.

In a recent first reading of the revamped regulation, a move to toss it out altogether failed.

However, the council did approve a measure which prevents a developer from gaining credit for saving wetlands which are already preserved by other state and city rules, like those under two acres in size.

Council Members Nancy Cassis and Robert Schmid denounced the entire ordinance, which, to preserve environmentally sensitive lands, allows as a trade-off a higher zoning density in subdivisions. The two contend that the ordinance in effect works against the creation of large-yard subdivisions in Novi.

"It absolutely does not work. My whole concept of large-lots is that we have them," Schmid said.

"Somehow somebody in the city administration got together with the developer and said, 'If you pave Nine Mile Road, we'll get you an ordinance you can't dislike.' The credibility isn't there."

But Mayor Matthew Quinn, Mayor Pro Tem Hugh Crawford and Council Members Joseph Toth, Tim Pope and Carol Mason did not agree that the ordinance be erased from the city's books at once.

Several council members pointed out that the intent of the ordinance was to preserve woodlands and wetlands, not to regulate lot sizes and suggested that it be "tweaked" into shape.

"The reason we adopted this several years ago was to help implement our woodlands ordinance and preserved wooded tracts. Also, quite frankly, to help us not border on a taking of property, which we did border on at times," Crawford said.

City recycling to be moved, staffed

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

The recycling center could be moved from its spot behind the Novi Civic Center as soon as July 1, if the City Council approves the proposed budget for fiscal year 1993-94.

Asked by the city administration to find ways to save money, Superintendent of Public Works Bruce Jerome says he recommended that the 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week operation be shifted to a Saturdays-only, staffed program at the department of public works yard on Delwal Drive.

Delwal Drive runs north off Eleven Mile Road, just east of Novi Town Center.

Up to $90,000 is spent by the city each year to run the existing center, which is served by Waste Management Inc. The proposed changeover would cost about $45,000 the first year and somewhat less the following years after the move is established, Jerome said.

Fewer users are expected to cut the cost of operating the facility. A staff member would be on hand for the 10-hour shift on Saturdays, to make sure that the recyclers do the job properly. That hasn't always happened in the past, despite signs the city has up to explain just what is and is not recyclable.

Since its inception in May 1989, the Novi recycling center has proved a popular city service. So popular that some city staffers were soon complaining about the improper use of the center by residents and businesspeople.

One plus of the move is that the number of "contaminated" loads is expected to be reduced, Jerome said.

About 1 to 2 percent of the loads are totally contaminated and must be landfilled, he estimates.

A contaminated load of recyclables doesn't mean that toxic wastes have been added to the bin, but that magazines and glossy inserts have been tossed in with what is supposed to be newspapers only. Or the newspapers may be bound with tape, another taboo.

"Every load of newspapers, glass and plastics has some materials we cannot take," Jerome said.

The containers are sorted through at a Waste Management Inc. materials recovery facility, where the recycling no-nos are removed and then sent to a landfill, at an extra cost to Novi.

"It's usually no problem. They'll pick through it by hand. If the load is half full of phone books, they might landfill it," Jerome said.

The major financial gain is expected through a reduction in the flow of recyclables, as not all residents will find the Saturday hours convenient.

"The biggest expense is the volume of material. We pay $150 everytime the newspapers are dumped," Jerome explained.

Every two to three days, the contractor Waste Management Inc., hauls away two 40-yard containers of newspapers at $75 per container. He predicts that in newspaper disposal alone the costs would be reduced $900 per year, as he anticipates one newspaper container would be emptied per month.

Jerome said he isn't sure what the recycling public's reaction will be to the cutback hours. But several garbage contractors already provide recycling — sometimes for an extra fee — to Novi neighborhoods they serve.

According to the department's figures, in March 1993 alone 60 tons of newspaper, 7,000 pound of plastics, 12,000 pounds of tin and metal, 1,000 gallons of used motor oil, ten tons of glass and 1,020 pounds of office paper were carted away.

Not all of the facility would be shifted to Delwal Drive. The 500-gallon tanks in place at the Novi Civic Center for used motor oil will remain there.

City still soliciting entries in upcoming Memorial Parade

Everyone loves a parade.

Marching bands, floats, clowns, animals, fire engines, police cars and marchers.

Well Novi, get ready for the 1993 Memorial Day Parade. The city is still seeking input from residents, community groups and local businesses to make this parade a success. Those interested in joining the parade can enter in one of five categories: Floats, Marching Unit, Specialty Vehicle, Bands, and Civic Organizations.

The parade date is Monday, May 31, at 10 a.m. The parade leaves the Novi Town Center and proceeds south down Novi Road to west Ten Mile and ends at the Novi Civic Center. The Marine Corps League will lead this year's parade followed by Armvets Post No. 76 and Post No. 19. A Memorial Service at the Veterans Monument in front of the Civic Center will immediately follow the parade.

Last year parade participants included the Armvets, American Legion, Novi High School Marching Band, Oakland County Sheriff Department Marine Division, Novi Special Race Car, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts and many more Novi Community groups.

Several new entries have been made in the 1993 parade, and the city is anxious for more response.

Call Novi Parks and Recreation at 347-0400 for a 1993 Memorial Day Parade entry form. Entry deadline is Friday, May 21.

Parades are fun for children, especially when they come well prepared with something to sit on, something to eat, something to sip, and something to cuddle.

Intruder IDed by Northville school district

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

Northville Township Police say the intruder who entered Moraine and Amerman Elementaries last month was convicted child molester Christian Todd Wall.

Wall, who was convicted and sentenced to 3-15 years imprisonment was paroled in December 1992. Since then, the 23-year-old sex offender has allegedly attacked three other children and may have attempted to snatch a fourth in the Metro Detroit area last month. Wall has also been seen in several other suburban school districts including Northville. He was seen in Moraine and Amerman Elementaries on April 22 — just five days before he allegedly attacked his third victim in Pleasant Ridge and then disappeared two weeks ago.

According to the township's police report, a man was seen in the boys bathroom at Moraine around 2:30 p.m. by a school custodian. The custodian asked the man if he needed help, he declined and reportedly left the school, but not before a Moraine teacher jotted down his license plate. The suspect then headed to Amerman where he was seen near the restrooms that same afternoon.

Northville Township Police Lt. Gary Batzloff said Friday he identified the intruder as Wall by running a check of the license plate from the teacher. After the suspect was identified, the lieutenant said he put the schools on alert and security measures were beefed up.

Batzloff said when Wall is found, the department will question him about the April 22 incident, but said it's unlikely there will be any charges filed against him here. He said Wall hadn't accosted anyone and left the schools without incident.

"Really the only thing we could do is charge him with disorderly conduct, but that would be a shaky case in my opinion," Batzloff said.

Batzloff said the misdemeanor would have little impact against felony charges that await Wall elsewhere. Police in Pleasant Ridge have a warrant out for Wall's arrest for an April 29 attack on a 7-year-old boy in the Ferndale school district.

"Our charge is relatively minor compared to what they've got on him," Batzloff said. "They aren't going to mess around with a misdemeanor."

"He's (Wall) probably looking at some long-term jail time," the lieutenant said.

Batzloff said he is working with detectives from Pleasant Ridge and Ferndale to help find the fugitive. He said he still wants to question him about the April 22 incident.

The Ferndale detective who is spearheading the investigation was unavailable Friday to comment on the case.

Northville Public Schools officials, township and city police are all working harder to protect the community by beefing up security measures. "We have tried to keep a car in the area when school lets out," Batzloff said. "We can't always station a car at every school, but we can try to be alert and make sure the kids and parents are aware."

The cyclist sustained minor injuries when he was struck in the rear area and fell to the ground. Police say the bicyclist was traveling westbound on Dunbarton about 20 feet west of the suspect vehicle when he was struck by the suspect vehicle. The vehicle was heading east.

The driver of the vehicle, described as a young white male, then reportedly sped up and drove away, turning through the stop sign at Foxton Drive.

As We See It

Council's budget delay smacks of 'bad faith'

There is nothing really wrong with delaying passage of the budget until the last minute. There is nothing improper about a couple of council members voting for the budget one evening and then changing their minds a week and a half later. But . . .

Novi City Council was all set to finalize its $12.3 million 1993-94 budget last Monday evening, and in fact the council had given a 6-1 tentative nod to the budget draft on the evening April 29. The administration was asked to go back and clean up the document, adjusting it for a few last changes, and turn it back over to the council for final consideration. So it looked as if things would go smoothly in the city council meeting May 10.

Instead, members Nancy Cassis and Carol Mason changed their minds. Since it takes five votes to pass a budget, the change of heart delayed passage that night. Council member Joe Toth also opposed passage last Monday, but he'd been the one to cast his ballot "no" back on April 29. At least he was being consistent.

The delay brought a severe reaction. Council member Hugh Crawford called it "irresponsible." Mayor Matt Quinn warned that the city charter sets the deadline for approval of the budget at midnight tonight (Monday, May 17). A failure to pass the budget by midnight might be misfeasance or malfeasance.

We're not convinced it is any of those things. Many other local governments miss their deadlines. If it is only by a minor amount, by a few hours, we have a hard time seeing the ill effect. The state legislature too has been known to miss its deadline for budget adoption. Usually lawmakers in Lansing will put a sheet over the clock so they do not really know what time it is, and therefore cannot be accused of knowingly going past the deadline.

Still, as other members of the council have pointed out, the charter sets the deadline at midnight and it was the charter they swore to uphold when they took their oath of office. Some members of council take that midnight deadline very seriously. And that is really to their credit.

Our primary concern, however, is with the ability of council members to work together. No, we are not looking for rubberstamps. We much prefer the independent thinking we see on city council to the don't-rock-the-boat style other government policy panels portray. And we fully expect the council members to be tough and hard-nosed about the city's budget document.

But when council members voted for approval on one night and changed their minds on another — without having uncovered some previously unknown information that threw the budget into question — it smacks of "bad faith negotiations."

The reasons given for this delay were almost equally distressing. Mason said she did not feel the police, fire and library budgets had been adequately dis-

They should negotiate in good faith with the unions, with the administrators, and with each other.

A word about 'news values'

Phil Jerome

Within the next week or so, I will be writing up something called "news values" to ship over to John Reddy, executive vice president in charge of editorial for Suburban Communications Corp., which owns The Novi News and the rest of the HomeTown Newspapers.

"News values" is pretty much what it sounds like — it's a definition of our values regarding news.

What is "news" in HomeTown Newspapers? What do the people in Novi regard as "news"? How does the definition of "news" in hometown newspapers differ from the definition of news at the Detroit Free Press, Detroit News, Ann Arbor News, Oakland Press or any other newspaper?

It may sound like a somewhat esoteric topic, but we think about it and talk about it a lot — because it is the type of news we print that differentiates us from all those other newspapers . . . it is the type of news that Novi residents find important.

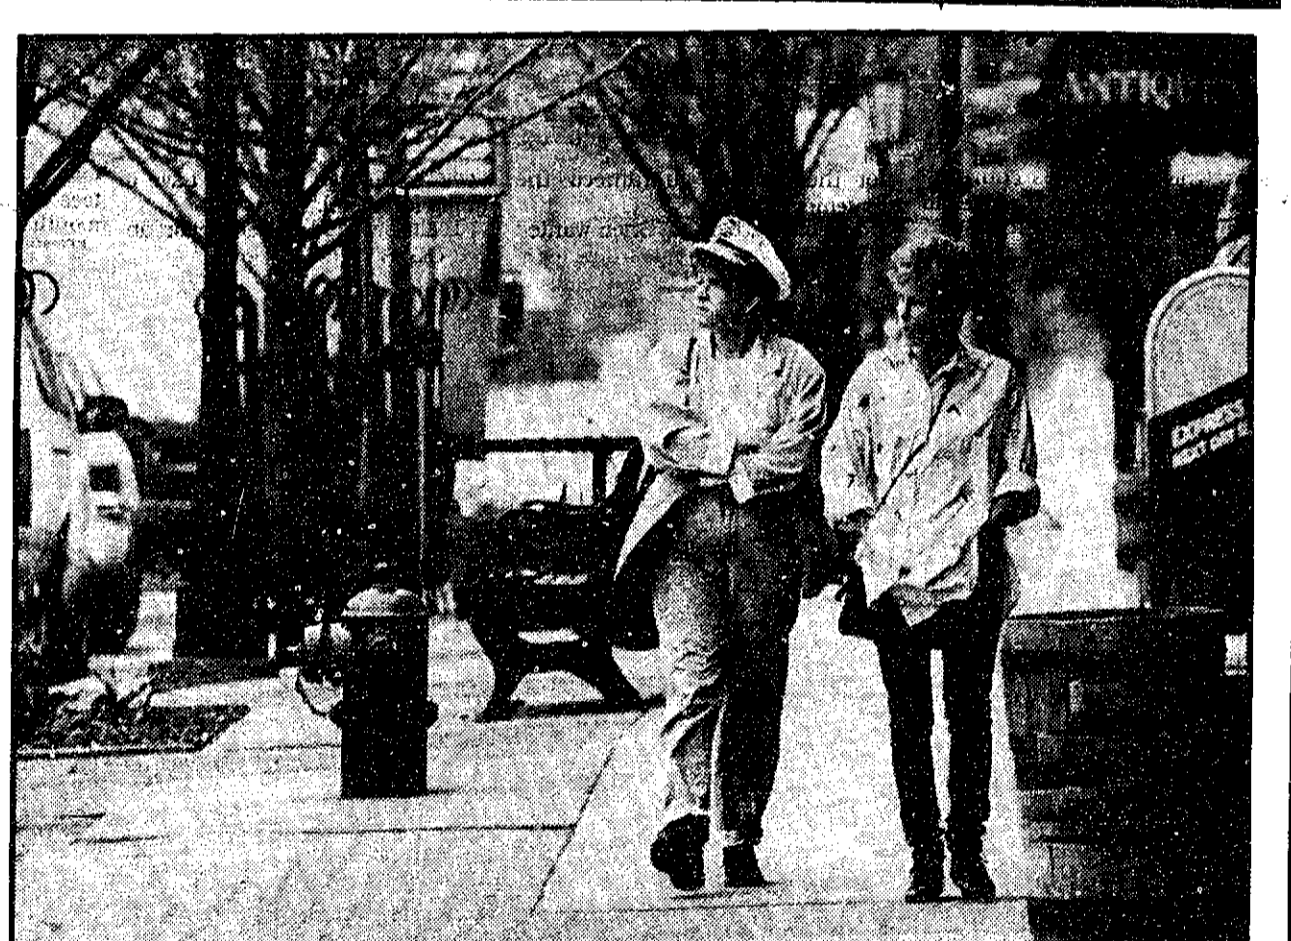

You can probably already guess some of our "news values." If you think about it for a minute or two. Devoting space to engagements, weddings and births is something that rates high among our values. Providing coverage of happenings in local schools is another highly-rated value. Coverage of Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, churches and various men's and women's clubs also is high on our list.

As I said a couple of graphs ago, "news values" is something we think and talk about quite a bit here at The News. And it was during one of those discussions that one of our editors hit the nail right on the head.

Phil Jerome is Executive Editor of The Novi News and HomeTown Newspapers.

A look at park land project

Rick Byrne

Let's look for a minute at Novi's park land project. Here's where we stand: In 1988, a parks study showed that Novi's "built-out" population of 70,000 persons would require over 500 acres of park land. The city already had 100 acres, give or take a few; not even enough for current population of around 35,000.

Last November, voters approved $9.9 million in bond sales to purchase park land. Novi has already bought two adjacent tracts to city-owned Lakeshore Park — the 171-acre former Novi Tree Farm, and the 115-acre Resco site — at a cost of $3.44 million.

Novi had its eye on a 105-acre plot owned by Peter Stana at Nine Mile and Napier roads. The two sides wrangled for months over the price, settling at $745,000. But in a strange twist of fate, the city nixed the deal anyway because the land was deemed too soggy to develop in a healthy manner.

Good move, I mean, can you imagine what unmentionable things could come bubbling up around second base if you tried to build a sanitary sewer in a bog, then place a ballfield on top of it?

On the other hand, the money could be rolled into the development costs for the land. The voters did, after all, tell the city to spend $9.9 million. If that means we get amenities like lighted ball and soccer fields, bigger and better grandstands, extra bathrooms or top-of-the-line soccer goals, hey, that's great.

On the other hand, wouldn't it be nice if the land could be developed adequately without the addition of any surpluses from land acquisition? Then the city could send a rebate back to the voters, or roll it into the general fund and trim taxes accordingly.

I'd be curious to know what you think, and I'm sure city officials would, too.

N'ville clears way for OIS tax break

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

Northville Township trustees Thursday night helped Wayne County pave the road to bring a new high tech manufacturer to town.

After little comment from the audience at last week's public hearing, trustees voted 7-0 to grant Wayne County's request to create a 30-acre industrial development district.

The district, which will be a Troy-based Optical Imaging Systems (OIS).

Creating the district is the first step in the move to grant a tax abatement. Without the district designation, the county could not apply for the 50-percent property tax break to bring OIS here.

The board's decision was good news for OIS representative Peter Walters who told trustees Thursday the company would move to Northville without the tax incentive.

Walters is from Novi's Cranford Industries, the parent company that bought controlling interest in the troubled OIS last year.

"We are clearly looking for a signal as to whether or not you would induce us to the site," he told trustees. Walters' comments came after some residents and trustees questioned the need for the tax break knowing OIS had just been awarded $50 million in federal grant monies.

Federal and state grants will fund the proposed $100 million manufacturing facility and contribute to the creation of a research center at the U-M.

The facility will be used to produce flat-panel displays, essentially fat TV screens, for commercial and military aircraft. The research center will expand the active matrix liquid crystal display technology.

The State of Michigan has also agreed to pay for the roads and sewers to support the Northville facility.

After hearing the county's pitch for the project, some trustees and residents seemed unclear on whether or not the district guaranteed the abatement.

Trustee Barbara O'Brien wanted Bill Wild, Wayne County's director of business development, to tell the board whether or not approving the district meant the township was obligated to grant the tax break. Wild told her and resident Dean Lenheiser that it was an unwritten understanding that an abatement would follow the superior (to the Japanese product.) "OIS has a manufacturing problem now. It isn't a profitable company now but it will be in the future," Walters said.

Resident Mary Braddock asked whether or not OIS would come without the tax cut.

"It is not their intention to locate in Northville if they don't get it," Wild said.

Treasurer Rick Engelland said he supported the project, but would only back the resolution if it were amended to reflect only the 30 acres OIS intends to occupy and not the 50 acre parcel the county included in its request.

Had Engelland not amended the resolution, the entire 50 acres would have been abated if and when trustees approve the abatement next month.

Lenheiser cited a recent report about OIS $5.7 million loss last year and questioned whether or not the American company could compete with its Japanese competitor in the consumer electronics industry.

Walters was quick to rebutte Len-

Board sets schedules of meetings

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

The Novi Board of Education has approved its 1993-94 meeting schedule. The schedule covers the period from this July to June 1994.

The board is expected to receive draft copies of the district's budget for the coming fiscal year at this Thursday's meeting on May 20. Board members will receive public input on the budget at their May 27 meeting; two regular meetings are scheduled for June 3 and 17. All will take place at the Educational Services Building, located off of Taft Road between Ten and Eleven Mile roads, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

The board may add additional meetings in coming weeks, depending on how work on the budget progresses and the outcome of the June 2 statewide vote on Proposal A.

Slate law requires that board members approve a budget by June 30. If board members have questions about the budget, or if Proposal A doesn't pass, it's likely the board will hold additional meetings over the next six weeks.

The schedule of meetings for the coming year is as follows:

- July 6 — Educational Services Building
- Aug. 5 — Educational Services Building
- Aug. 19 — Educational Services Building

- Sept. 2 — Educational Services Building
- Sept. 23 — Educational Services Building
- Oct. 7 — Educational Services Building
- Oct. 21 — Village Oaks Elementary
- Nov. 4 — Educational Services Building
- Nov. 18 — Parkview Elementary
- Dec. 2 — Educational Services Building
- Dec. 16 — Novi High School

Appeals court deals setback to lawsuit

for bills, physical and psychological pain the student and her parents say they suffered due to the events of 1987.

The suits allege that in the fall of 1987, Pelfrey offered his services as volunteer diving team coach. Anderson agreed, the suits say, and didn't conduct any formal interview or background check. He also let Pelfrey conduct unsupervised practice sessions with the four girls' diving team members, the suits say.

Pelfrey was verbally abusive to the team, the suits continue, and made sexually suggestive comments as well. Within a few weeks three of the four had quit, leaving only the plaintiff, the suits say.

During a morning practice session, they continue, Pelfrey sexually assaulted the student in the weight room of the high school. The student told Somers, the suits say, who told Anderson. Neither informed school officials, the girl's parents or police, the suits allege. They add that neither coach spoke to Pelfrey about the allegation, and that he was allowed to continue unsupervised practices.

Seven days later, the suits allege, Pelfrey again sexually assaulted the student, who told Anderson. Anderson confronted Pelfrey, they continue, who denied the student's claim. Anderson did not discuss the matter with anyone else, the suits say.

It was not until three days later, when the student told a counselor about the matter, that school officials, police and the girls' parents were informed, the suits allege. Pelfrey pled guilty to third-degree criminal sexual conduct and was sentenced to prison.

The suits say that the district should have had a policy in place governing how volunteers are to be investigated and hired. The fact that the district — as well as the high school's administration — didn't have a policy makes the district, Piwko, Youngberg, Obrenovich and Osborne liable.

The circuit court decided that the evidence presented didn't substantiate that charge, and dropped the four as defendants in the mother's suit. The court of appeals agreed.

The suits also say that the failure of the two employees to take proper action when the student told them about Pelfrey's activities contributed to the damage she suffered. That question is one that will receive an answer next month.

Council critical of lot rule change

"I think it needs work. I don't think it needs to be scrapped. To throw out this ordinance because you want large lots is kind of like throwing out the baby with the bathwater."

Under the existing woodlands ordinance, developers who remove trees must pay money into the city's tree fund for replacements.

"If we get a whole lot of money and no woodlands, that's not our intent here," Crawford explained.

Putting in a plug for the woodlands ordinance was city landscape consultant Linda Lemke. She said these ordinances manage to preserve 70 to 80 percent of significant tracts of woodlands.

"Basically, it works," she said.

Proposed revisions to the ordinance included allowing developers who save 50 percent of the small wetlands and woodlands to build a subdivision one zoning category less than what the land's actual zoning permits.

The adjusted lot size ordinance could be kept, but restricted for use in more dense residential zoning categories, such as R-2, R-3 and R-4, Pope suggested. The regulation has the greatest impact on larger zoning categories, such as residential-agricultural, which calls for one-acre lots.

One problem with the adjusted lot size option, Schmid suggested, is that if the developer meets the requirement, the city must permit the down-zoning or face a possible lawsuit.

Novi is currently being sued by the developers of the proposed Haverhill Farms subdivision for just this reason.

Schmid has questioned a number of adjusted-lot-size submissions. In these instances, the developer has presented plans showing that a traditional subdivision would take many trees. But Schmid has questioned the accuracy of some of these plans, suggesting they were designed to back up the developer's point — and application of the adjusted-lot-size ordinance.

"We're saving a lot of scrub stuff that some of our planners call trees. Thank god for council, thank god for ordinances because I don't believe developers will do what's best all the time. The City of Detroit is an example of what would happen, a wasteland all the way out," he said.

Cassidy agreed, arguing that Novi already has wetlands and woodlands ordinances to save sensitive lands.

"My god, what a lawyers' and consultants' delight. That's been the whole problem from day one. It's been the interpretation. It's the game as to what to show them as the worst-case scenario, then the adjusted lot size can work wonders. It's also inviting lawsuits," she said.

"We may have to compromise a few trees and a few shrubs and gain in lot size. It's a wholesale allowing of rezoning each time someone comes in for an adjusted lot size under the guise of saving trees and we are not getting that much saved.

Make dried fruit your raisin d'etre

Remember that little box of raisins your mother would pack in your school lunch? Well, raisins aren't just for lunches anymore! Dried fruits are wonderful sources of potassium and iron, as well as fiber.

We already know they're great in cookies, cakes, and breads, but they're also fabulous as part of every meal, from start to finish.

Raisin-Onion Sauce is a tasty, versatile sauce. It can either be served warm over poultry or ham, or refrigerated and served as a salad dressing. In main dishes, like Chicken in Creamy Fruit Sauce, raisins perk up the taste with a touch of sweetness. Instead of plain rice, try Fruited Rice with Cinnamon.

You'll love this deliciously different combination. It is important, however, to keep in mind that dried fruits are also high in calories — so reduce the serving size when comparing to regular fruit.

As you try these raisin recipes, follow my tip for preventing the dried fruit from sticking to the knife while dicing — spray the knife blade with nonstick cooking spray. Now, how's that for "raisin" your raisin awareness?

RAISIN-ONION SAUCE

- 1/4 cup diced onion
- 1/4 cup golden raisins
- 1 tablespoon plus 1 teaspoon vegetable oil
- 1/4 cup water
- 1 tablespoon each rice vinegar, Dijon-style mustard, and honey

In small microwavable mixing bowl combine onion, raisins, and oil and stir to combine; cover with vented plastic wrap and microwave on High (100 percent) for 4 minutes, until raisins are plumped, stirring once halfway through cooking.

Transfer mixture to blender container; add remaining ingredients and process until smooth. Return mixture to microwavable bowl; cover with vented plastic wrap and microwave on High for 2 minutes, until flavors blend. Makes 4 Servings (about 1/4 cup each)

Each serving provides: 1/4 Vegetable, 1 Fat, 1/4 Fruit, 15 Optional Calories. Per serving: 95 calories, 5 g fat.

CHICKEN IN CREAMY FRUIT SAUCE

- 1 teaspoon olive oil or vegetable oil
- 1/4 pound chicken cutlet, cut into thin strips
- 1/4 cup sliced onion
- 1/4 cup sliced mushrooms
- 1/2 garlic clove, minced
- 1/4 cup canned ready-to-serve low-sodium chicken broth
- 2 tablespoons plus 2 teaspoons apricot nectar
- 3 dried apricot halves, cut into strips
- 1 tablespoon golden raisins
- 1 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
- 1 tablespoon light sour cream

In 9-inch nonstick skillet heat oil; add chicken and cook over medium-high heat stirring occasionally, until chicken is browned on all sides; about 3 minutes, add onion, mushrooms and garlic, and cook, stirring frequently, until onion is translucent, about 2 minutes.

Add remaining ingredients, except sour cream, and stir to combine; bring mixture to a boil. Reduce heat to low, add sour cream and let simmer until flavors blend, about 5 minutes. Makes 1 Serving

The bearable lightness of eating

Light meal of salads can satisfy

By JENNIFER PLANTIER
Special Writer

Whether dieting to lose those extra pounds, or just seeking respite from a heavy meal on a warm evening, a delicious dish that is light on fat and calories always fills the bill.

However, frustrated dieters and healthy eaters alike know that the use of the words "delicious" and "light" in the same sentence is, at the very least, suspicious.

Now you can revel in the knowledge that a little effort and attention to detail can reap fantastic culinary rewards.

Vegetables are the centerpiece of healthy cooking. Naturally low in calories and high in nutritional value, they can be molded into meals that are surprisingly flavorful.

Steaming, sauteing and stir-frying are the best cooking methods when it comes to retaining valuable vitamins and minerals and maximizing flavor without adding unnecessary calories. Remember also that raw vegetables boast the highest nutrient counts and are a source of healthy fiber.

Protein, also an essential dietary nutrient, is not exclusive to meat-based dishes. Low-fat, high-energy alternatives include beans, tofu and part-skim cheeses.

Rest assured that "light" does not mean simple or flavorless. Taking the time to experiment with the essentials of low-calorie cooking pays off in the form of gourmet-quality meals you'll be proud to serve and eager to try yourself.

Insist on fresh ingredients — fruit, vegetables and low-fat dairy products — to maximize flavors. Accept that the use of rich creams, fattening oils, lots of salt and other traditional additives is just not necessary. Count on flavored vinegars, fresh herbs and spices, non-fat yogurt, low-fat mayonnaise and other low-calorie foods to make your recipes sing.

Know also that health-conscious chefs saute their vegetables in sherry or wine (rather than oil or butter), which creates a type of "flavor seal" as the food cooks.

Perhaps the most effortless but potentially elegant light suppers are colorful and creative salads. A large salad, served with chilled soup and whole-grain bread or crackers offers up a satisfying meal for dieters or anybody looking for a healthy, high-energy alternative to fatty fast food.

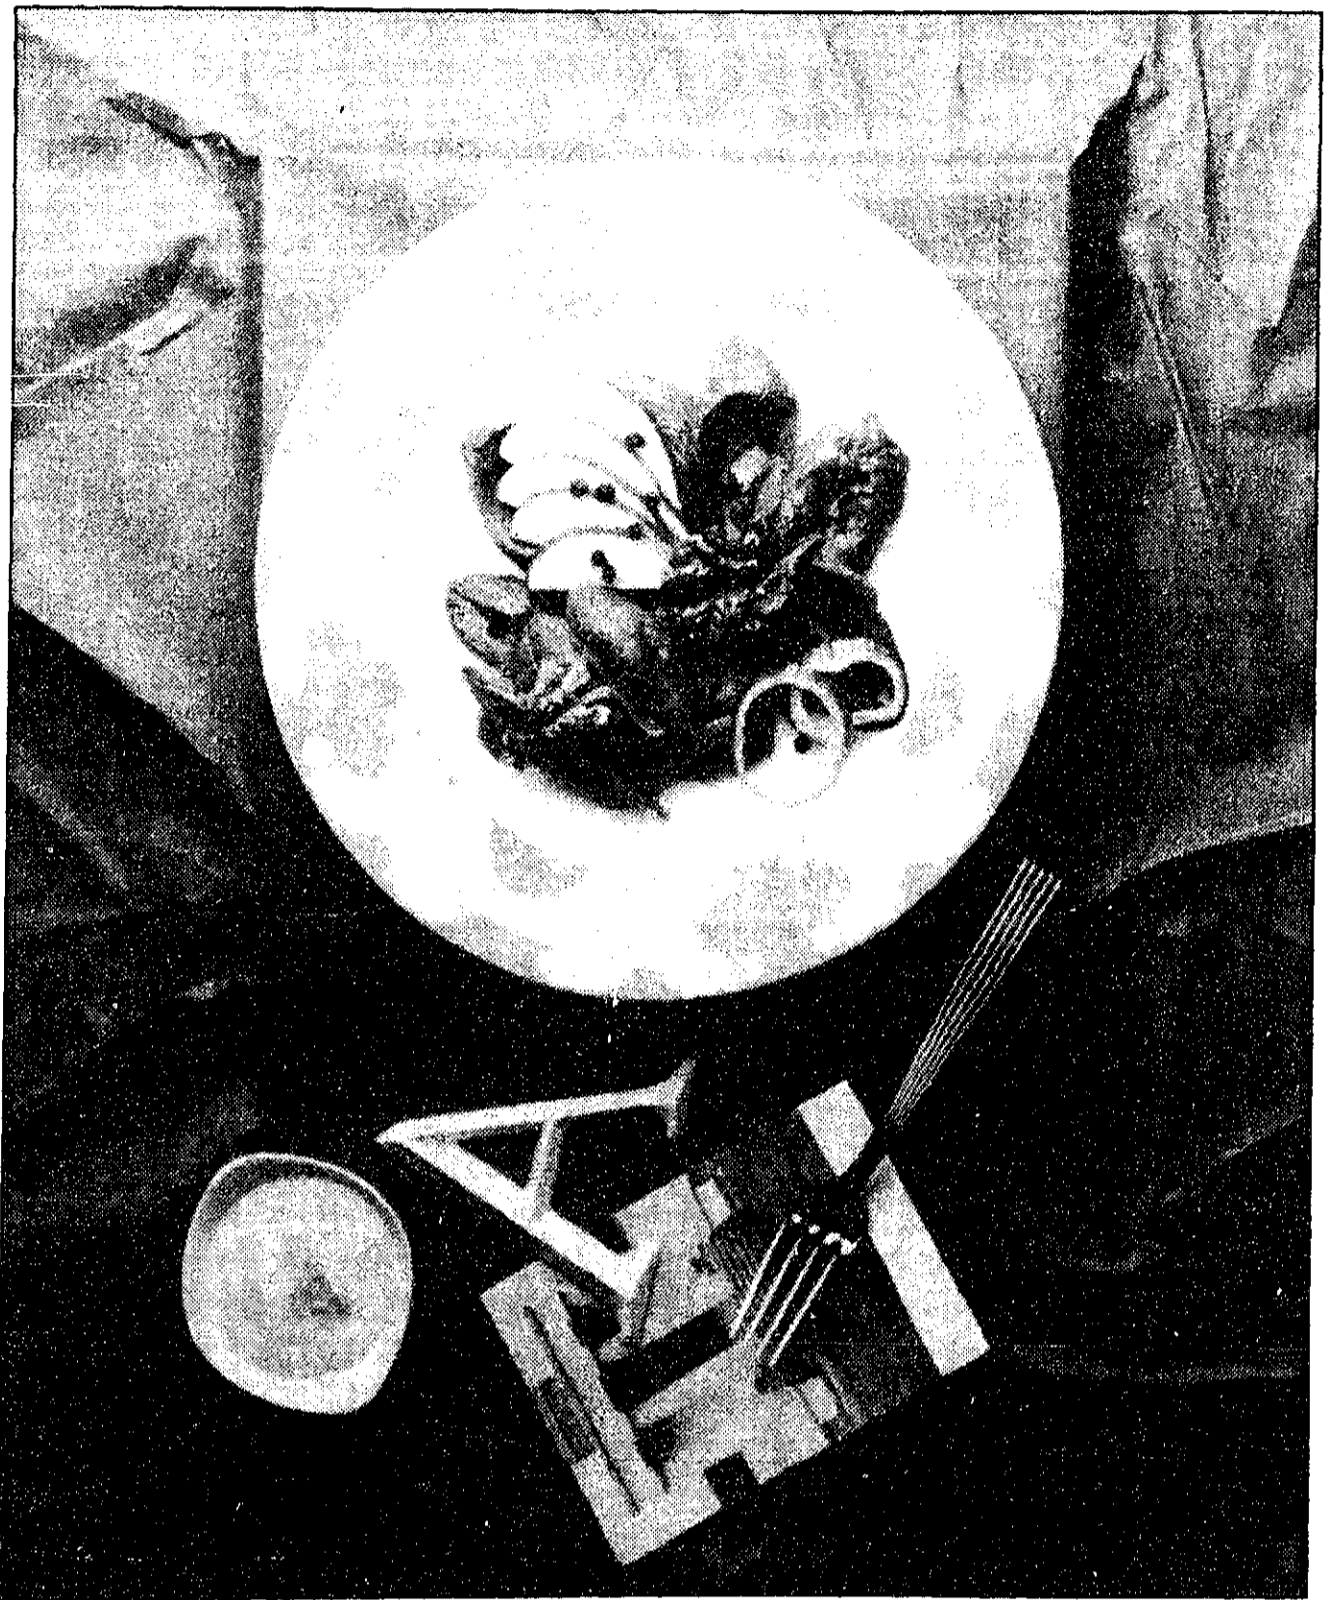

A plain lettuce and tomato version, on the other hand, would leave even the most experimental meat-and-potato eater untempted. Lure them to the light side by tossing in a variety of veggies, fruit, pastas, beans, rice and other healthy foods. Combine different colors, tastes and textures to render a salad heartier and more satisfying.

However, don't sabotage a healthy creation with fattening store-bought salad dressings. Make your own flavorful dressings by pureeing fresh vegetables like tomatoes, celery, bell peppers and onion and mixing them with flavored vinegar and fresh herbs and spices. Replace sour cream, heavy cream with non-fat yogurt, low-fat mayonnaise or even tofu in creamy dressings.

When it comes to preparing sophisticated, satisfying, low-calorie meals, knowledge is key.

Look into the book "Elegant Low-Calorie Cooking," for a wealth of ideas on light cooking and a number of recipes that would make any light supper shine.

The following salads, both with a unique combination of flavors, prove that fat and other unhealthy additives are not

A delicate curried dressing anoints this tasty salad, making it appropriate for special occasions. Serve in summer with chilled soup and crusty bread. The dressing can be made up to four days in advance; refrigerate it in a tightly covered container.

- 1 clove garlic minced
- 2 cups plain, non-fat yogurt
- 1 tablespoon curry powder
- 1 tablespoon frozen apple juice concentrate
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cardamom
- 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon grated fresh ginger

Place spinach in large salad bowl. Decorate with onion rings, apples and

TACO SALAD

- 2 cups crumbled firm tofu
- 2 teaspoons ground cumin
- 2 tablespoons chopped cilantro
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
- 2 teaspoons herbal salt substitute
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 2 teaspoons safflower oil
- 6 corn tortillas
- 3 cups torn leaf lettuce, such as romaine or green leaf
- 3 large, ripe tomatoes, cored and coarsely chopped
- 1/2 cup minced red onion
- 1/2 cup seeded and diced cucumber
- 1/2 cup grated part-skim mozzarella cheese
- 1/2 cup fresh salsa

of my kitchen staff . . . Sharon, Theris and I had our own little outing last week. We did the Eastern Market "thing" and then had lunch at the traffic jam on Canfield and Second.

T.J.'s is celebrating paying off a 25-year mortgage by rolling back prices 25 percent. They are unique in the fact that they've survived in the city of Detroit. Also, the owners are innovative and not afraid to take chances. They make their own cheese, beer and ice cream. All three are wonderful.

While munching away, we spoke of our menu and what changes to make for spring. Menu revisions are difficult for a couple of reasons. First, everything sells well. There are no "dogs." Secondly, it is very hard to keep personal feelings out of it. What we like may be totally different from what you, our customer, prefers.

So the dilemma is to change or not to change. We are lucky enough to work with lots and lots of different foods so the boredom level is minimal. Each day specials are a part of the majority of guest selections, so variety is not a problem. We hemmed and hawed and finally decided on items that would withstand transfiguration.

Our Dijon and pepper crusted salmon was first to go under the microscope. It has been a best-seller since day one, and we've changed the accompaniments before. Now, for the summer at least, the rissoto is gone, along with the tomato red pepper sauce, and a wonderful roasted barley and baby bok choy will take its place. Essences of tomato basil and curry oils will provide a trio of flavor matchings hard to beat.

Next to be scrutinized was the white-fish. You must understand that I never really liked this dish, but have kept it for those who prefer a lake fish. Well, today it fell victim to the delete key on the computer.

In its place, a wonderful lake trout filet topped with crumbled bleu, fresh tomatoes and scallions, presented with jasmine basmati rice and a sundried tomato butter sauce. This dish was the first fish to ever find a place on a Brady menu. That was 15 years ago. We've run it as a special since and now it has earned a permanent spot.

Two appetizers were sent to food heaven too. No more oysters or risotto until the fall. It was time. A superb "Euro" sampler plate will take their place. Marinated manchego cheese, Spanish in origin, spicy niçoise and picholine olives, roasted red peppers and freshly baked focaccia, mix the best "tapas" from Europe on one plate.

I love it! Healthy, good-for-you food.

Next in line for overhaul are the desserts (we've got some great ones in the works), some salads and pastas. Our motto is light, simple and elegant.

So anyway, getting back to the trek around Kensington . . . Pat, our day sous chef, rode along with me and started talking about changing the lunch menu. "Let's take Lillian off and put on a spinach with shrimp." "And the stromboli needs a face lift for the summer." "And . . ." Here we go again.

Mary Brady is the head chef at Diamond Jim Brady's in Novi and an instructor of culinary arts at Schoolcraft College.

As summer rolls around, changes abound

The Refrigerator Door

"The Refrigerator Door" is a list of coming events and short notes about food and drink. If you have an event planned or a brief announcement you would like included here, send it care of this newspaper, 104 W. Main Street, Northville, Mich. 48167. Photos and other artwork are welcome.

HAPPY 25TH, BIG MAC: McDonald's is honoring the 25th anniversary of its number-one selling large sandwich with Big Mac values. During the Big Mac Silver Anniversary, customers who buy one Big Mac can get a second Big Mac for 25 cents.

The sandwich was created in 1968 by Jim Delligatti at the McDonald's franchise in Pittsburgh. The original selling price was 49 cents, excluding tax.

TAKE TIME FOR BREAKFAST: Take time for breakfast. Recent research suggests that eating a good breakfast not only enhances your ability to concentrate and do physical work in the morning hours, but also may help you maintain or lose weight.

Well-nourished 9 to 11 year-olds made fewer errors in problem solving when they ate breakfast than when they skipped it. Children who skipped breakfast ate more heavily later in the day and were more likely to be obese than children who regularly ate breakfast.

Both high school age and adult breakfast skippers were more likely to have high blood cholesterol levels than regular breakfast eaters.

PARKING LOT BARBECUE: Mark your calendars—Word of Mouth Foods and the Porterhouse Meats, 1058 S. Main, Plymouth, is hosting their 2nd Annual Parking Lot Barbecue, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, May 22.

The barbecue is a benefit with all free will donations going to Scampi, a summer camp in Oakland County for special needs children with all types of disabilities.

Everyone is welcome to come and sample Word of Mouth Products including two new flavors of barbecue sauce, the Veggie Pasta Sauce and the new—"Call it Complete Seasoning."

They will be grilling homemade sausages, chicken and ribs. Last year the company raised about $1,500. This year they hope to double it.

KITCHEN GLAMOR CLASSES: Novi's Kitchen Glamor store hosts a series of drop-in classes Tuesdays at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. during the next several weeks. The fee for most of the classes is $3.

With all of the classes, recipes are provided free, and there will be small portion tasting. Everyone is welcome.

Kitchen Glamor is located in the Novi Town Center. Call 380-8600 for more information.

HOME CANNING: If you've promised yourself each year that you would learn how to can foods properly, this is the time to start.

The Oakland County Cooperative Extension is now offering a seven-week correspondence Food Preservation Course for $15 to cover mailing and printed charges.

The various lessons include complete information on food safety; canning of low acid and high acid foods; pickling and jam and jelly preparation; freezing and drying of foods. The lessons are mailed every two weeks to your home so you can work at your own pace. Complete background materials and recipes are provided. There is even a quiz at each lesson's end for you to see what you have learned.

For enrollment information and other food and nutrition, food safety and food preservation questions, call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, Monday-Friday, 8:30-5, 858-0904.

NEW SALSA: Enjoy the just-made fresh taste of Sonora Valley salsas, cheese sauces and dips, found in your grocer's refrigerated case. New Sonora Valley Guacamole is made with 100 percent California black-skinned Hass, the finest avocado available. Look for them at A&P, Farmer Jacks and Kroger.

DOODLE TWISTERS: Doodle Twisters are hitting grocery store aisles everywhere—quickly becoming the latest snack craze from Borden. These new chips are bursting with Nacho Cheese and Hot Salsa flavor. Borden took a plain, ordinary corn chip, twisted and seasoned it to get the uniquely shaped Doodle Twisters with zesty flavor.

OLIVE OIL HOTLINE: If you've ever wondered about the "heart-healthy" benefits of olive oil, call the International Olive Oil Council hot line. The hot line is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, Eastern time. Call 1-800-232-6546.

GET A QUESTION? CALL THE HOTLINE: Have you ever wondered if some of the leftover food in your refrigerator is safe to eat? Or were you puzzled over directions in a recipe? What's safe to take to a picnic?

"Ponder no more," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service.

The Food and Nutrition Hotline is ready and willing to answer all of your food-related questions. "We are all ready with the very latest USDA recommendations," said Treitman. So if you haven't "canned" for a while and are unsure of what to do, just give them a call 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday at 858-0904.

Big, bold flavor marks meal soups

Hearty, whole-meal soups with big, bold Texas flavors can be mid-week menu mainstays. Served with crusty bread, corn bread or warm tortillas, they make super, speedy soups.

Two new crowd pleasers from the Pace Picante Sauce Test Kitchens are great-tasting examples. Ready to serve in about half an hour each, the colorful combinations of readily available ingredients speed the way to Lone Star State flavor with San Antonio's own Pace's Picante Sauce.

Select mild, medium or hot, as you prefer, for just the desired degree of garden-fresh jalapeño "heat."

San Antonio Smoked Turkey Soup streamlines preparation with smoked turkey from the deli department and a bright mix of canned and fresh vegetables. Serve it with help yourself toppings of sour cream, shredded cheese, cilantro and additional picante sauce for a casual Rio

Grand-style supper.

'Dogs nip 'Cats in KVC track showdown

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

The Novi High boys track team fell to Brighton May 6 by a 77-69 margin, but coach Bob Smith said the meet was extremely close.

"It came down to the last couple of events before the 60 points" were accumulated by Brighton to secure the win, Smith said. "They gave them a hard fight. From the time going in, we really put up a fight."

And, he added, the boys are looking to get some sweet revenge on May 25 at the Kensington Valley Conference meet.

Top performer at the May 6 meet was Tom Hanton, who took first place in the 100-meter dash with a time of 1:16.6. Hanton set a new school record with that distance, Smith said.

Other top field events performers were Damien Thompson, who placed first in the pole vault with 5'10" and Chris Miodanski, who vaulted 12 feet in the pole vault competition.

Long jumpers Shady Sard and Jason Simace placed second and third respectively, with distances of 20'3" and 20'2". Jason Simace placed second in the pole vault competition with 11'6".

"After the field events, which are sort of the benchmark, we were holding our own," Smith said. "We had 22 and they had 23, which was pretty much a tied ballgame."

Bob Smith
Novi Track Coach

But the Wildcats were unable to come out ahead in the running events.

High performers on the track were Thompson taking first place in the high hurdles with a time of 15:59; the 800 meter relay team of Troy Helnick, Jeremy Watkins, Jason Simace and Todd Pokajowicz with a time of 13:47; John Crawford in the 1,600 meter run with a first place time of 4:33.9; and Vince Meehan with a first-place finish in the 3,200 meter run with a time of 10:12.61.

Troy Helnick also took second place in the 100 meter dash with a time of 1:13.8. Vince Meehan placed second in the 1,600 meter run with a time of 4:46.1; the 400 meter dash with a time of 43.9; Crawford placed second in the 800 meter run with a time of 2:01.62; and Helnick took second in the 200 meter dash with 23.80.

On Saturday, May 8, the ninth and tenth grade members of the team competed in a Kensington Valley Conference junior varsity meet and placed third with 98 points. Smith said the team members who competed in the meet demonstrated that the Wildcats have a bright future ahead of them.

Eric Brandon placed first in the pole vault with 11 feet, and Damien Thompson placed first in the high hurdles with a time of 16:30.

And second place finishers included Todd Pokajowicz in the 100 meter dash with a time of 11:60; Adam Hagfors in the 1,600 meter run with 4:46.1; the 400 meter relay team consisting of Ryan Keys, Matt Buck, Chris Gos and Todd Pokajowicz with a time of 46.4; and Josh Frick in the 200 meter dash with 43.9.

"Our freshman and sophomore classes are really solid," Smith said. "We've got some really good kids, and I'm expecting big things in the next couple of years."

A meet scheduled for last Tuesday against Howell was postponed due to an electrical storm.
