Edison says it's working on its service

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

When the storm of July 1991 tore its way through southeastern Michigan, it left over a half-dozen downed electrical wires in Novi and some very disgruntled Detroit Edison customers in its wake.

Today, after negotiating a multi-million dollar service upgrade program with the Michigan Public Service Commission (PSC), Edison has made "remarkable progress," Maurice Vermeulen, the manager of the firm's Oakland Division says.

Edison—a $3 billion business—planned to feed more funds into service distribution in May 1991, but the storm, which put 290,000 of 450,000 customers in Oakland County in the dark, magnified the need.

"Whenever the clouds came over, I knew the phones would ring. It seemed there were pockets where some people had terrible service and other customers didn't. We don't see that today. The phone rings less, the repairs are quicker," Vermeulen said last week.

"There was an awful lot of catch-up. Circuits were heavily loaded so we couldn't transfer customers to an adjoining circuit when there was an outage or it would overload."

"We'd have some customers be very, very unhappy. Now, we're hearing customers are pleased."

"The utility submits a progress report to the PSC every six months.

Edison raised its Oakland Division budget for transmission and distribution from $24.7 million in 1991 to $46.7 million in 1992 and $47.3 million in 1993. That will go down to $34 million in 1994, because much of the upgrade has been done, Vermeulen explained.

Sixty new circuits were added to the system, crew hours were extended. Lightning arrestors were placed on top of electrical poles, and sturdier wires were strung. A line looping system with circuits which can be repaired by remote control was introduced. Edison increased the number of trunklines from 200 to 1,200.

To avoid the deaths and serious injuries that downed wires caused in 1991, the firm has trained 620 of its staffers to guard fallen lines. During a non-emergency, they are expected to relieve local public safety departments within 90 minutes. In an emergency, that stretches to four hours.

Novi Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan says he has seen a change for the better.

"Absolutely, there's a definite decline in wires down. They've done quite a bit of work. We've certainly noticed it," he said Friday.

"Before that storm, a lot of departments were upset with the response they'd gotten to incidents. On the ones we've had, their response has improved. I think the preventative maintenance has been the key."

Council dislikes computer building

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Fear of drive-through theft has led to designs for a windowless, brick-faced Computer City Superstore behind the Fretter Store in West Oaks Shopping Center.

But some Novi City Council members say the structure would be too unattractive for this town. "I don't like it. . . This is going to look like one rather large fortress sitting in the middle of that parking lot. This is a very grim-looking building and I don't think it represents Novi," Council Member Joseph Toth said.

The site plan for the gable-front store was approved Nov. 8, with the understanding that the developers, Fretter and Computer City, work out a way to punch windows into the structure.

Cliff Seiber, engineer for Computer City, said the windowless design is to prevent cars from crashing through the glass and flching pricey computers from the store.

Novi planning consultant Brandon Rogers suggested that the design be altered to permit show windows backed by walls to keep thieves on wheels from entering the store.

"We have particular ordinances. Is it compatible with the area? The best we can get is what we want or else they leave town," Council Member Robert Schmid.

"I'm tickled to death somebody's building there. I hope we can get a compatible building."

Main Street Novi coming?

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Novi's dreams of a Main Street may take another step towards reality Wednesday.

The city's Planning Commission will consider a request for rezoning part of the Town Center district's southeast quadrant. The move follows a request from the developer of the 55-acre zone.

Novi officials have tossed around the idea for years of creating an old-fashioned downtown in the city along the lines of Northville or Plymouth. They've discussed plans, drawn up a special zone of the city for it and helped in the creation of the Novi Town Center complex.

The effort takes a new turn now, however, as the city waits to see what happens next. Specifically, officials are looking to developer James Chen and Evergreen III, the company which last month purchased all 55 acres of the southeast quadrant of the Town Center district. The wedge-shaped parcel is located southeast of the Grand River Avenue/Novi Road intersection.

The company has filed a rezoning application with the city for sections of the property. The commission will hold a public hearing on the request on Wednesday, Nov. 17, and make a recommendation to the city council.

"The city has reviewed a number of proposals (for the town center)," Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers said when Chen discussed the subject with the commission at its last meeting. "This, however, is the first time a single developer wants all 55 acres there. He's putting his dollars where his heart is."

The rezoning proposal includes acreage zoned B-3 (general business) and NCC (non-center commercial), as well as TC (town center) and RM-1 (low-density multiple-family residential) zoned parcels. Evergreen II wants it all to receive a TC-1 district designation.

"We feel our concept will match with the city's desire and the current trends in the market for development of an old-fashioned look of a downtown," Chen said at the meeting.

Chen's already lined up a major concern to anchor the southern area of the quadrant: Vic's Quality Fruit Market.

The facility will offer a range of Megan Barton and the rest of the Novi High basketball team begin state tournament action tonight in Northville with districts. The Wildcats will play Livonia Churchill at 6 p.m. at Northville High. A win would send Novi to the second round against district favorite Plymouth Canton on Wednesday. The girls closed the regular season Thursday by beating Waterford Mott 55-50. The Wildcats enter district play with a 14-5 record.

Come ye to those olde days of yore

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

If thou dost wish to attend the Novi High School Choirs' Madrigal Dinner, methinks quick action is the wise course.

After all, gentlefolk, there remain but three and a half weeks to the event.

Thou wilt catch, resplendent in costumes approp for the gala, shall present their second annual Madrigal Dinner this December. Two evenings of food, fun and song to delight both maiden and man await: Friday, Dec. 10, and Saturday, Dec. 11.

For a paltry $21 per person ($160 reserved) a table for eight, you can join in the goings-on at ye olde Novi Civic Center.

Your money, by the way, canst do nothing but good. Proceeds doth proceed to benefit choir activities throughout the year.

The choirs doth re-create the pomp and pageantry of merry olde England with an honest-to-goodness medieval banquet, resplendent with the appropriate decor. Courtyard and castle gate do frame the entrance to the great hall, in which shall hang Renaissance banners. Almost 30 exquisite medieval costumes will adorn the players.

Wildcats shall play their parts, each to his own. Diners shall bear witness to the revelry of a king and queen, their court, bedazzled by bedecked singers and wandering entertainers. Directing the evening's music and drama will be High School choral director Paula Joyner-Clinard.

A special medieval meal, prepared by Maria's Bakery of Novi, will be on the menu.

Kings of old may have had the castles, but they dined not on cuisine which so delights the palate, accompanied by voices that would make the angels dream of trading in their wings to joineth the White and Green.

But seats are limited, so hesitate not I pray thee, call for early reservations now. For more information or reservations, call 349-1984 or 349-2899.

Board looks at new school use policy

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

Novi Community School District officials are considering a new, tougher policy on group use of educational facilities.

The Board of Education received a report from Director of Community Education Clara Porter Nov. 4 which recommended new rules on who may rent district school buildings and for what purposes.

The report, put together by the Community Education Advisory Council, also suggested raising hourly rental fees, saying that Nov's are far lower than those of surrounding communities. The board did not take action on the policy draft, and the matter will soon return for consideration.

The draft policy, Porter said, provides for goals not in the current policy for building use that the council thought important, including:

- Preference being given to district residents when renting facilities.
- Requiring any group renting facilities to be made up of no less than 75 percent district residents.
- Denying activities or functions that promote a product or result in profit.
- Requiring groups using facilities to be responsible for supervising their members.

Saddlecreek sees a rash of break-ins

By CRISTINA FERRIER

At least five different apartments in the Saddle Creek complex of Novi Road were attacked by burglars Nov. 5 and 6.

In most cases the unknown suspects broke into the homes and rifled through drawers and boxes, but didn't take anything.

Police are not sure whether the incidents are connected to other similar apartment break-ins around town, during which the homes were all entered through sliding glass doorways.

One resident on Citation reported Nov. 5 that he returned home to discover the sliding glass door open. The couch had been moved and several jewelry boxes without taking anything. Police were able to lift one fingerprint from the glass door.

On the same day, a neighbor resident on Sagebrush reported that she returned home from several days at a friend's house to discover her sliding glass door open and completely off its track. Her front door was unlocked, but closed.

She had been away from home since Nov. 3. Throughout the apartment she found drawers open, but the contents of the drawers were still intact. A metal box containing embroidery material had been dumped out on a table, but nothing appeared to be missing there, either.

In a similar break-in, another resident on Sagebrush reported Nov. 6 that someone pried open the sliding door and went through drawers and jewelry boxes without taking anything. Police were able to lift one fingerprint from the glass door.

New car dealer's sold on Novi

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

If you're in the market for a new car, you'll soon have another car dealership to choose from—but this one will be right in your backyard.

Ford Motor Company's Lincoln-Mercury division broke ground Thursday on the first new Detroit-area dealership in two decades... and it's located in Novi.

"This is really a great market," dealer owner Lou Stanford said. "It's really happening; the area is growing like crazy. You've got an unbelievable number of homes going into Novi, South Lyon—all around."

Stanford, one of four brothers who will own the six-acre Varsity Lincoln-Mercury dealership, to be located on the corner of Grand River Avenue and Wixom Road in west Novi, Stanford said he saw a niche for the firm to fill.

"We're fitting into the market here," he said. "There is no single line Lincoln-Mercury dealership between Farmington Hills and Howell. Going north, people have to go to Waterford to buy a Lincoln-Mercury. When you look at that and look at the population growth in the area, it's a great market."

Measuring some 35,500 square feet, the Novi dealership will become the 623rd Lincoln-Mercury dealership in America. It will offer a full line of Lincoln-Mercury cars, from the Tracer to the Grand Marquis luxury vehicles.

Customers can choose from nearly 800 new and used cars, Stanford said, and a full parts and service department will also be on the premises.

Spokesperson Carolyn Burke said that the opening, the first of its kind in 20 years in the Detroit market, is a symbol of the automaker's economic upswing.

"It was very special to us to be picked [for the dealership]," Stanford said. "There were seven dealers who competed for a year to get this. We think it speaks well for us and the kind of business we want to do."

Lincoln-Mercury, Burke said, this year accounted for 6.9 percent of all car sales. Stanford's sold more than a few of them.

The oldest of four brothers, Lou, Hank, Dennis and Mike own Varsity Ford in west Ann Arbor. They learned

'Harper Valley' star headlines police concert

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

If you're a country music fan, you might want to pick up the phone next time it rings.

It could be a caller selling tickets to the Novi Police Officers Association (NPOA) annual country music benefit concert.

This year's show will feature Jeanie C. Riley Feb. 27 in Novi High School's Forest Auditorium. Riley's hit "Harper Valley PTA" has sold 8 million records worldwide.

Callers employed by Community Events, a professional soliciting organization hired by the NPOA, have already begun calling local residents.

Novi Police Detective Frank Barabas, who is president of the NPOA, said callers will be asking residents to buy tickets to this year's show, or asking businesses to buy ads in the program.

"If you're not a big fan of country music, callers will also ask for a donation. Donors are given a choice between tickets to the show or a sticker for their car which reads 'I Support the Novi Police Officers Association.'"

The annual show is NPOA's only fundraiser. In past years, the NPOA has raised between $7,000 and $10,000.

In past years, funds raised by the NPOA during this event go toward the Michigan Special Olympics, the Oakland County Child Abuse and Neglect Council, Novi Youth Assistance, DARE, Novi Little League, scholarships for Novi High School students, 4-H Youth Camp, and Novi Parks and Recreation Youth leagues including soccer, baseball, T-ball and floor hockey teams.

The NPOA also uses funds to support the Tollgate Exceptional Equestrians program—a therapeutic riding program for the handicapped that is mostly for kids but also benefits handicapped people up to age 60.

"We want to emphasize that the proceeds for the sale of tickets and advertisements in the program book stay right here in the community," Barabas said.

Money from the fundraiser also goes into the NPOA for police equipment and organization of events.

Barabas noted that callers should specifically say that they are representing the Novi Police Officers Association and should not say they are police officers themselves. Anyone who receives a call that seems questionable, or who simply has questions about the fundraiser or the music event, should call Barabas at the Novi Police Department, 348-7100.

Family tickets for the concert are $35, couples tickets are $20 and singles are $10. The show begins at 2 p.m.

Rotary International, a group of more than 25,000 international service clubs with over 1,000,000 men and women members, celebrated the 75th anniversary of the Rotary Foundation in 1992.

Homeowner reports BB drive-by

A resident on Nine Mile near Napier reported Nov. 6 that someone drove past and fired a BB gun at his car while he was working on it in the driveway.

The man told police that the unknown suspect was driving an older model Buick Skyhawk.

He said he heard the BB gun fire, then heard several pellets hit his car. The driver of the suspect vehicle then turned off his lights and drove away, heading westbound on Nine Mile.

The homeowner was unable to see the license plate number. There are currently no suspects.

LARCENY: A member of the Vic Tanny health club in the Novi Town Center reported Nov. 7 that someone stole her coat from the women's locker room.

The pocket of the coat contained the woman's driver's license, Vic Tanny membership card and keys.

VANDALISM: The owner of a 1993 Oldsmobile Acheva reported Nov. 7 that someone kicked or punched the driver's side door while it was parked at Twelve Oaks Mall.

Police noted a large dent in the door. There are currently no suspects or witnesses.

BREAK-IN: An employee in an office located in Pine Ridge Center on Novi Road reported Nov. 6 that someone broke in and stole a pair of skis that were located near the back door.

Police said the unknown suspects smashed the glass entryway and took the skis. The damage was discovered in the morning by a news-paper carrier.

The skis, described as Olin brand in fluorescent colors with Solomon bindings, were valued at over $423.

Police News

STOLEN VEHICLE: An employee at Yanke's Landscaping on West Road reported Nov. 5 that someone stole a 1991 Ford F-450 dump truck.

Police said the vehicle may have been unlocked at the time of the theft. There was no further information, and there are no suspects or witnesses.

BREAK-IN: A resident in the Beachwalk apartment complex reported Nov. 5 that someone apparently broke into his home while he was away.

He told police that he left the apartment at approximately 3 p.m. and returned at 8:30 p.m.

When he went inside he noticed that his door had been pried open and pulled away from the frame.

Once inside, police said, the unknown suspect moved about the apartment and opened drawers and boxes in the bedroom. The only items that appeared to be missing were two plastic jars filled with loose change.

DRUNK DRIVING: Novi police arrested a 24-year-old White Lake man for operating under the influence of liquor (OUIL) Nov. 6.

Police said the man drove his 1984 Oldsmobile station wagon off Haggerty south of Eleven Mile and landed in a ditch. He failed a series of sobriety tests.

VANDALISM: A resident on Manor Park reported Nov. 5 that someone used a softball-sized rock to smash the driver's side rear window of his 1987 Chevrolet Celebrity.

Police said nothing appeared to have been taken from the vehicle, and that the doors were still locked.

There are currently no suspects or witnesses.

LARCENY: A resident on Westgate reported Nov. 5 that someone broke into his 1989 Chevrolet pickup truck and stole a set of factory-installed speakers.

The unknown suspect apparently cut out the rubber housing for the rear window of the pickup, removed the window and placed it in the bed of the truck.

There are currently no suspects or witnesses.

LARCENY: A resident on Woodstone reported Nov. 5 that someone punched out the passenger door lock in his 1990 Ford pickup truck and stole his stereo.

The owner of the vehicle told police that his cassette player and speakers were missing. There are no suspects or witnesses.

LARCENY: A resident on Timberlane reported Nov. 8 that someone gained access to her storage area and that someone appeared to have rummaged through the items there.

The area was secured by a chain link gate. Police said the gate was locked but the bolts that hooked the latch to the gate had been removed.

Nothing appeared to be missing.

Novi Briefs

The incident could have occurred anytime between Nov. 5 and Nov. 7.

The homeowner said she has also received several phone calls at odd hours from someone who hangs up. Police were not sure if there was any connection between the break-in and the calls.

BREAK-IN: A resident on Solomon reported Nov. 8 that someone tried to break into his home by prying at a patio door.

Police noted that the unknown suspect apparently was unable to gain entry.

VANDALISM: A woman who was babysitting at a residence on Buckminster reported Nov. 8 that someone shattered the rear window of her 1993 Ford Aerostar van while it was parked in the driveway.

She told police she arrived at the home at 5:30 p.m. and discovered the damage at 11:30 p.m. when she returned to the vehicle.

Police found a small rock that may have been used to cause the damage. There are no suspects or witnesses.

LARCENY: A Novi woman reported Nov. 5 that someone stole her purse from her car while it was parked at Rainbow Racials child care center on Eight Mile.

She told police she left her car running and her purse in her car, because she was only stopping there for a few minutes. When she returned to the vehicle, the purse was gone.

The purse contained $400 in cash as well as several credit cards.

Citizens with information about the above incidents are urged to call the Novi Police Tip Line at 349-6887.

Arts and Crafts: The third annual Holiday Arts and Crafts Show co-sponsored by the Novi Arts Council and the Novi Jaycees is set for Thanksgiving weekend at the Novi Civic Center. The doors open for this juried show on Saturday, Nov. 27, at 10 a.m. and on Sunday, Nov. 28, at noon. The show will close each day at 4 p.m. Admission is $1. Food will be available and a raffle will be held throughout both days. Money raised will be used to support ongoing community activities of the Arts Council and the Novi Jaycees. For further information, please call 348-3121.

Concert set: The Novi Choralaires will present their annual Christmas concert at Meadowbrook Congregational Church, 21355 Meadowbrook Road, on Saturday, Dec. 4, and at Faith Community United Presbyterian Church of Novi, 44400 W. Ten Mile Road, on Sunday, Dec. 5. Both concerts begin at 7:30 p.m.

During the festive holiday concerts, Novi's Community Chorus will perform well-known songs such as "Frosty the Snowman" and "Go Tell It on the Mountain" and newer Christmas songs such as "Huron Carol" and "Unto Us."

Tickets are $4 each and can be purchased in advance at the Novi Parks and Recreation Department or from any member of the Novi Choralaires or Novi Jaycees. Tickets will be available at the door on the evening of the concert if seating is available.

The Christmas concert is sponsored by the Novi Jaycees. Proceeds will benefit the Needy Family Christmas Project of the Novi Jaycees. For over 23 years, the Novi Jaycees have provided holiday baskets for more than 75 area families during the holiday season.

The 50-plus member community chorus is under the direction of Janet Wasslak and is accompanied by Sue Nienhuis. For more information on the work done by the Novi Jaycees or to order tickets for the concert, call 348-NOVI (6684).

As We See It

Joint meeting needed to settle trails dispute

The City of Novi is deadlocked on the issue of installing nature trails in residential neighborhoods, as called for in its Natural Resources Design Plan.

As things stand, the city voted to delete the "Rhythms" trails system from subdivision commons areas back in August and will allow those trails to be established only on city-owned land, such as parks.

However, the Planning Commission voted recently not to take those trails off its master plan, yet it did vote to eliminate the scheme from a recently approved subdivision site plan.

In the meantime, the issue was back before the city council last week and this time its members voted to retain only some of the easements that have been granted to the city by developers for sections of the trail, and it could not garner enough support to return any of the easements to developers or landowners.

So what we have is a city program in limbo. It cannot proceed ahead, but it also cannot be dropped altogether. Developers and subdivision planners have no idea whether to include the trails in their plans. Homeowners buying into the community have no idea as to whether the trails will one day be a reality. And even current residents are in state of uncertainty about whether trails already constructed will be maintained or turned over to private landowners, or perhaps even be dismantled altogether.

At this point, the community needs to find some way of resolving the issue. Live or die, the trails system needs to be settled. We think it is time the city called a three-way joint meeting between the city council, the planning commission and the Natural Resources Design Plan committee. The meeting should include a presentation from the committee on the purpose and plan for the trail, as well as a public hearing to take comment from all sides of the issue.

We have always liked the plan and still support it. The idea was born back in the days when Novi had little parkland to speak of. There was a severe concern the city might be developed with very little parkland set aside for use by residents.

That's not good. Planners and city administrators, not just here in Novi but nationally, recognize the need for parkland in a developed city. Environment magazine conducted a survey a few years back which concluded that ecologically sound towns should be setting 10 percent of their land aside for parks. It viewed five percent as adequate. Without more land and without the trails system, Novi would have fallen short of both goals.

One thing has changed. Late last year, city voters did put up bond money to buy parkland, and the city now has plans for the ownership or purchase of adequate park space. But that does not eliminate the usefulness of the trails system.

Nonetheless, Rhythms was conceived in the pre-bond days of Novi. And back then, the idea of stringing 33 miles of trails through the common areas of subdivisions across the city had two basic purposes. First, if laid out properly, the trails system could take you from your subdivision to anywhere in the city. In a suburban community built around the automobile with a real lack of sidewalks, that seems like a great idea.

Secondly, the nature trails would give the city a park-like setting. Place-

The MEA's still rolling along

Phil Jerome

Gil DiNello, the Republican state senator from Macomb County, was bashing the good old Michigan Education Association (MEA) pretty heavily on radio recently.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not complaining. Some teachers have accused me of the same thing, believe it or not.

But DiNello was really rocking and rolling. I can't remember for sure if he used the word "liars" to describe the leaders of the MEA and National Education Association (NEA). But if it wasn't "liars," it was something close to it.

And I remember specifically that he said the MEA and NEA cared little about kids or education. The only thing they're interested in, said the senator, is the size of their pay checks.

DiNello's comments bothered me a little, but not for the reason you might think. The truth of the matter is that I agree with him, and believe that such opinions can be fully documented by the facts.

The thing that bothered me about DiNello's presentation was that he said the MEA and NEA cared little about kids or education. The only thing they're interested in, said the senator, is the size of their pay checks.

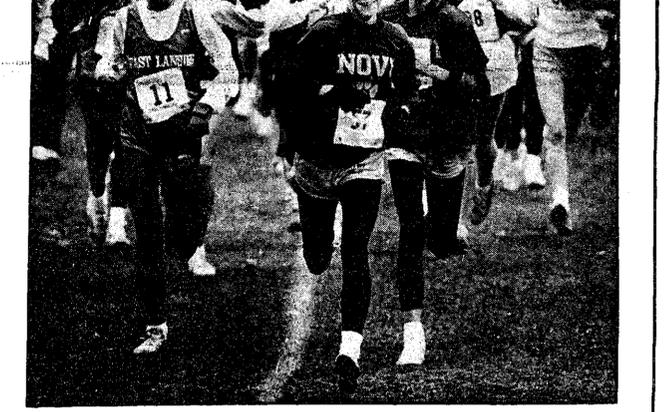

Perhaps, I thought, it's time to venture on to new topics. Find something to rail about other than the MEA/NEA and teacher salaries.

But then a couple of things happened which convinced me it's too soon to abandon this battle. The MEA/NEA problem is still very much alive.

Selling papers in suburbs

Rick Byrne

It amazes me the lengths to which the Detroit dailies will go to sell newspapers in the suburbs.

To read them, you'd think that Northville High School was a racial powderkeg with the lid ready to blow off. I'm sorry, but I've been to Willow Run, and I had a friend who taught in Southfield. Racial tension in Northville? I ain't buyin' it.

What happened between DeVaughn Little and Nicole LaLonde was a personality conflict, not a racial one. It could have happened anywhere. Feel free to mix and match the details, and downplayed others to create a racially charged story where none existed.

I find it ironic that, despite nearly a month to work on it, Detroit News staffers couldn't gather all the facts.

First I'll gloat and tell you that we had the story straight the same week it happened. Then I'll tell you that the Detroit News tried to paint LaLonde as the aggressor by saying that she slapped Little, practically forcing him to hurt her through a reinforced glass window, knocking her unconscious.

The Detroit News ignored the fact that Little, no stranger to local law enforcement agencies, was taunting and jostling underclassmen (apparently not for the first time, we're told). LaLonde protested vocally, and Little re-

Edison works on service bugs

City Manager Edward Kriewall agrees with the fire chief. "I think that the outages are starting to diminish a little. It may be because of more tree trimming or maybe it's the improvements," Kriewall said.

Edison's figures show a rising number of outages from 1988 through 1991, with the average annual outage per customer ranging from .91 in 1988 and moving up to 1.2 in 1991. That tapered off to .65 in 1992 and .42 in 1993.

While some Novi residents say their service has gotten better, others aren't so sure, pointing out that there has been no bad weather of the magnitude of the 1991 storm to test the Edison upgrade.

Ron Paull, who lives next to the Edison upgrade, said the company came to town last year as part of an areawide tree trimming program.

The past schedule for the ten-foot line clearance was every seven years; that has been changed to four years or less.

Vermuelen found residents of Novi on both sides of the tree issue—some requesting that the limbs be pared back and others protesting that the trees were massacred.

"Once in awhile, people feel we are butchering the trees. We feel we have more of an overriding responsibility to serve all the customers," he explained. "We take an aggressive position today that these are easements, governed by law, and we have a responsibility to maintain that clearance."

Pargoff, who has kept an eye on the Novi phase of the tree trimmings, said the horticultural practices utilized by the company were "sufficient."

"There was a little bit of miscommunication between Edison and the people who perceived the trees to be theirs," he said.

The Wayne County Division of Edison, which operates south of Nine Mile in Novi, had "a little more control over their subcontractors," Pargoff added.

Southfield-based automated communications center. In the past, customers wishing to report power outages were frustrated by how difficult it was to reach Edison. In 1991, Edison's phone system could handle 2,300 calls per hour; now, that capacity has gone up to 40,000 calls.

"We can respond more quickly and intelligently," Kessler said.

Police and fire departments are given a special number so they can bypass the automated system and get directly to an operator.

"We caught a lot of hell from the fire departments. They were not able to get through to us," Kessler explained.

One major improvement made by Edison, public relations spokesperson Lori Kessler says, is its new foods, from fruit to meat to wines and other specialty items. It will also have an outdoor farmers' market and cafe. Work will likely begin in April 1994 and be completed by that autumn.

The half-mile road will sit on—sitting between Novi and Grand River—is slated to become part of a ring road linking the entire town center district together, the nucleus of Main Street Novi.

"We feel our concept will match with the city's desire . . ."

James Chen
Developer

Chen's overview indicated that Vic's would be one of nearly a dozen commercial buildings grouped around the Main Street area. The design plans for that area call for curbside parking, pedestrian courtyards, covered walkways, benches and street lights.

Tenants for the area aren't fixed yet, Chen said, but could include a sports-oriented bar, boutique-type shops, restaurants and a theater—all in more than 550,000 square feet of retail space.

There will remain an area for residential, multi-family development, Chen indicated, but that his company still has to decide what sort of housing to offer. (Following a question from a commissioner, Chen said that senior housing on the site was "not feasible.")

Whether the developer's request is feasible to city officials will be known after Wednesday's hearing.

Since 1984, Fretter has been under the gun to find another building for its land fronting Novi Road. The original zoning required a 50,000 square foot structure on the parcel, but Fretter got approval to build its 18,000 square foot building, with the understanding that a second store would be 32,000 square feet in size. Computer City is only 21,000 square feet—but council members and Fretter appear happy to have it, after several other plans for the property folded, included a furniture store and a Part-Giant. Computer City will sell—besides computers—software, books and magazines related to the technology, as well as a 12-person classroom. It will employ a staff of 15. Because it has taken so many years for Fretter to find a partner store, a hefty bond held by Novi to landscape the vacant site has long come due. A Fretter spokesperson has said that if the city gives up the landscaping and permits the site's development, it will give the $50,000 interest on the bond to help move the historic, but development-threatened, Novi Methodist Church.

Eleanor & Ray Heald/Wine Phelps reveals secret behind choice wines

With some regularly over the past few months we've recommended from Joseph Phelps Vineyards among our Wine Selections of the Week. That means we think they're head and shoulders above many of their peers in the marketplace.

It's 20 years since Phelps' first commercial crush of Johannisberg Riesling. A two-decade milestone makes Phelps one of Napa Valley's "older" wineries.

Maybe that's the trouble here. Older and established, not new, hot, trendy, splashy, shiny, with bells and whistles, just some consistently stylish, excellent wines with a high quality price ratio made by winemaker Craig Williams who's held this position with Phelps since 1976.

Williams understands the importance of quality grapes in the design of stylish wines. We made our own footprints in the vineyard along with Williams recently.

"Today, wineries must constantly redefine and prove themselves to the wine consuming public," Williams said. "The way is through quality winegrowing and delivering a consistent product to the consumer."

On the other hand, Williams contends that it is the consumers' responsibility to search for wines they personally like, and not be dependent on the ratings of wine critics. He also believes that there's been too much emphasis on how long a wine will age and not on how good it tastes upon release.

"There are very few wines made in the last hundred years that can age gracefully for over 20 years," he said. "It's such a minute fraction of all the wine that was made, yet some critics give it significant attention. This is not reality."

"I feel fortunate if one of the Phelps reds lasts 10 years. Let's face it, why would anyone want to stock up on hundreds of bottles of ponderous wine? Wine is meant to be drunk and enjoyed. This is the kind of wine I try to deliver."

Because of the major replanting necessary in the Napa Valley due to the current phylloxera infestation, California producers in their replanting efforts have begun to pay more attention to soil profiles.

"Our ranches have different soils and challenges and this is not the case in France," Williams, a frequent visitor to French vineyards points out. "A French vineyard is, generally speaking, one plot of soil with similar properties throughout."

"In Napa Valley, we have the inverse challenge of the French. What's done in France, doesn't translate to our vineyards. They've learned over hundreds of years the systems

WINE SELECTION OF THE WEEK

Some out-of-the-ordinary wines to try: Michigan-born Dan Moore, owner of Z Moore Winery in California's Sonoma County is doing some very creative winemaking with gewurztraminer.

The varietal is hard to pronounce, but in the Z Moore style, it's great drinking. Try 1991 Dry Gewurztraminer ($13.50), the very stylish 1991 Pinot Noir Select Gewurztraminer ($13.50) or the truly "new wave" Barrel Select ($16.75).

Ca'del Solo wines are brought to you by the imaginative Randall Graham, winemaker at Bonny Doon Vineyard. The 1991 Vintage of Malvaia Bianca ($10) is an intensely aromatic and dry aperitif sipper, while the Pescatore ($13.50) is dry, but complemented with barrel fermentation and suited for grilled fish.

Moscato del Solo ($10.50) is a low alcohol (7 percent) dessert wine that is simply delicious.

Clivo ($11) from Italy's Ruffino is a delicious blend of Sangiovese, cabernet sauvignon and pinot noir in a rose style. Also from Ruffino is Torgato ($9.50), a new-style sangiovese with lively fruit to be enjoyed young and fresh.

1992 Preston Vineyards Faux ($10) takes its inspiration from the blended red wines of the southern Rhone Valley. This is a great hamburger or pizza wine; a garlic-lever's wine and a red wine that's just plain fun to drink.

thing in our kitchen that we make in just plain old water. Rice for a paella is prepared in fumet, risotto for a chicken piccata in chicken stock and a polenta for short ribs in remoulade.

With fall upon us, we must all prepare for the change in the weather—and the transformation of our weekends.

Friendly weekend get-togethers will most likely be disrupted by the game of the week. Don't try competing with the talk of the town, but invite family and friends to a festive tailgate party meant to rally your team to victory.

Experienced entertainers should see the benefits immediately. Wear and tear on the home is eliminated, as is most of the post-party mess. Best of all, hosts need not worry about decorating, coming up with a theme or creating an ambience—a noisy, packed parking lot and a car stereo provide all that.

In this region of the country fall temperatures seem to drop faster than the leaves, so remind guests to dress warmly (in team colors, of course), and throw a few extra blankets in the trunk, just in case. Take along a folding car table on which to set up the feast. Ask guests to bring lawn chairs.

PREPARATION

Careful planning is not only wise but necessary when preparing for a party away from home. It will allow the host more time to enjoy visiting with guests, or to take part in the makeshift balgame or Frisbee throw.

More importantly, it is virtually impossible to wing it once the car has pulled out of the driveway. If you are not prepared by then, your guests will be heading for the concession stands before the game even begins.

However, don't be frightened because you must leave the microwave and refrigerator behind. Your first instinct may be to pick up a bucket of chicken or some take-out pizza. But with a little planning, you can prepare a delicious tailgate spread yourself.

Opt for foods that can be prepared completely in advance and aren't too troublesome to transport. Stay away from dishes that could end up making a mess of your back seat. A big pot of stew may sound delicious, but probably won't make it through the first traffic light.

LOADING UP

This may be the most crucial step—making sure that the wonderful meal you have created makes it to the game in good shape. Take the time to package food carefully, or your car's upholstery will never be the same.

Use containers with lids that stay in place, and don't count on a little tin foil and a paper plate to do the job. It's important to keep food at the correct temperature. Use coolers to keep chilled foods and drinks cold until time to serve them. Wrap warm foods in a layer of foil and pack them into a separate insulated carrier.

Gather all paper goods, flatware, the necessary utensils and condiments well ahead of time. If you grab these items on the way out the door, you could end up wiping your hands on your blankets.

MENU IN MOTION

Dare to try a colorful and creative pre-game party menu. Your gathering may well be in the middle of a ballgame, but that does not mean you have to settle for hot dogs, baked beans, sandwiches and other ordinary fare. After your guests could probably purchase those things from the vendors at the stadium.

Plan on serving a variety of hors d'oeuvres or finger foods in lieu of one main dish. Guests can then continue to eat for the duration of the party. After all, snacking makes it easier to socialize, which is the goal of most parties anyway.

When counting on hors d'oeuvres to tempt their taste buds, coordinate your selection of appetizers. Serve them in a variety of temperatures, shapes, colors and textures to create interest. However, take care when mixing in terms of cuisine.

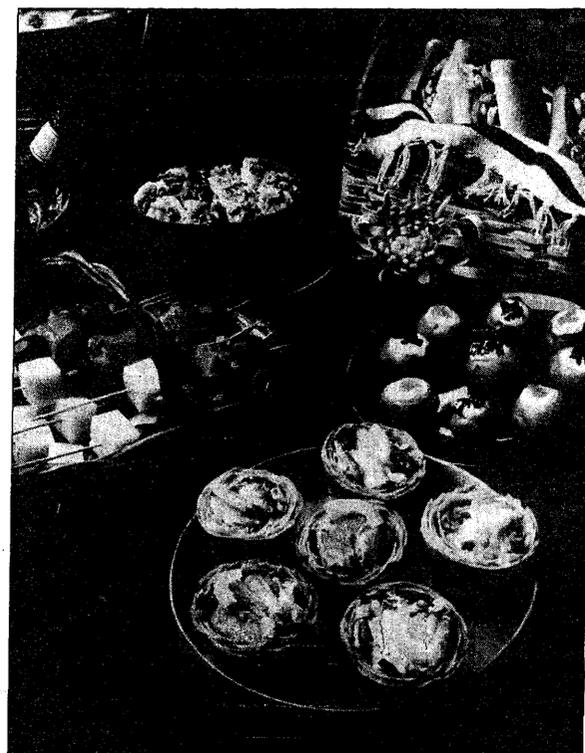

Decide on a particular style, whether you choose Italian, Latin- or Oriental-inspired dishes, casual or elegant tastes.

Don't worry too much about presentation. Tailgate parties are meant to be low-key. Leave your best serving wares at home, opting instead for non-breakable, reusable platters like the attractive ones many caterers use.

Recipes are from the Cole Group's cookbook, "The Art of Eating In," available from the publisher, 4415 Sonoma Highway, Santa Rosa, Calif., 95409, 1-800-959-2717, or your local bookseller ($11.95).

ARTICHOKEs WITH SPICY CRAB

- 24 baby artichokes
- 1 lemon
- 3/4 -pound fresh cooked crabmeat
- 1/4 cup whipping cream
- 1 tablespoon capers
- 1/4 cup finely chopped green peppers
- 2 tablespoons minced green onion
- 2 teaspoons Dijon mustard

An assortment of hors d'oeuvres and finger foods can replace the usual array of sandwiches at your next stadium meal.

- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1 teaspoon olive oil
- 3 tablespoons minced shallot
- 2 tablespoons white wine
- salt and pepper to taste
- Worcestershire sauce to taste
- Minced parsley
- Lemon wedges

- 12 ounces assorted caviar (golden, red and black)
- Sour cream
- Lemon wedges

Steam potatoes over boiling salted water until they are just tender when pierced. Dry them well, drizzle them with olive oil, then sprinkle with salt and lemon juice. Cut off top of each potato about 1/4-inch down; scoop out and discard some of inside pulp, leaving a firm, thick-sided shell. Wrap potatoes in foil and place in a tightly sealed container.

- 72 perfect walnut halves
- 1/4-pound ripe Gorgonzola cheese, at room temperature
- 3 tablespoons unsalted butter

Preheat oven to 350 F. Toast walnut halves on cookie sheet until they are fragrant and lightly browned. Cool completely.

Stocks are literally backbone of great taste

Back to stock fundamentals: stocks are the backbone for all cooking. They serve as a base for soups, stews, braises and a cooking medium for grains and vegetables.

Pasta is about the only thing in our kitchen that we make in just plain old water. Rice for a paella is prepared in fumet, risotto for a chicken piccata in chicken stock and a polenta for short ribs in remoulade.

With coq au vin we'll oven braise the chicken in a mixture of stock and red wine. Lamb shanks are enriched with a bit of veal stock and salmon poached in a delicate saffron essence—enhanced with shrimp and lobster shells.

I can't imagine cooking in anything but one of the flavorful liquids we call stocks. Chicken, veal, vegetable and fish.

The fish stock I wrote about last week and, I'll admit, is my favorite. . . or equally favored with vegetable. These are also the most delicate in flavor.

Any stock's taste should be subtle enough to allow recognition without knocking you off your chair with a taste of the main flavoring ingredient, i.e. in the case of chicken, chicken, or beef in beef, and so on. There are also various styles of stocks. A white stock is clear and achieved through the gentle simmering of bones (chicken, veal, beef) in water to extract the proteins that provide flavor. Brown stock, on the other hand, is an amber liquid made from browned bones and vegetables simmered in water.

A fumet is generally made with fish bones. The vegetables are first sweated, the bones cut into small pieces to allow the most gelatin to leech out and the addition of water or fish poaching liquid. For instance, when we poach our shrimp, the court bouillon, an aromatic vegetable broth with a touch of wine, is saved for the making of fumet. This allows more depth to the end product.

A glace is a reduced stock that acquires a jelly like texture with extremely condensed flavor. Broth is the liquid obtained from simmering meat. This can be used, as a court bouillon, as the base of a stock instead of water.

And finally, remoulade, a re-wetting or second stock from the same bones. After straining our veal stock we pour cold water over the same bones and simmer for an additional six hours. The effect is not nearly as pleasing as the first stock but this liquid is marvelous for braising, reducing for soups or for use as the basis for the next veal stock.

Bones, at least in the quantities that we use them, are not reasonable. A "double stock" is mandatory. It is important to remember that the more surface area on the bones, the more flavorful the outcome. Also note that a stock is only as good as the ingredients used. The worked in kitchens that save onion peels, carrot shavings and cuttings from vegetables that belong in the garbage in their "stocks." Forget!!!! Throw it out and use fresh.

On the other hand, when poaching chickens for chicken salad and pot pies we'll add the bones to augment the raw chicken backs and feet. The poach liquid becomes the "water" in the recipe and the succeeding outcome is heavenly golden and intensely aromatic.

Last night walking out of the restaurant after locking up I caught a fragrance that can't be beat by any perfume. A veal stock in the final hours of reduction. What a way to end a day!!!

In small bowl, work cheese and butter together with wooden spoon. Sandwich two nut halves with a dab of cheese mixture. Refrigerate briefly to firm cheese. Serve cool but not cold. Yields 3 dozen.

ANTIPASTO SKEWERS

1 large OR 2 small seasonal melons, peeled and cut into 36 cubes
 1/2 pound prosciutto, sliced paper-thin
 1 pound Italian fontina cheese, cut into 36 cubes
 36 best-quality olives
 Olive oil
 Freshly ground black pepper

Wrap each cube of melon in a piece of prosciutto. On each of 36 skewers, thread a cube of cheese, an olive, and a prosciutto-melon cube. Place skewers in lightly sealed container. At serving time, drizzle with olive oil and dust with freshly ground black pepper. Yields 3 dozen skewers.

PANBALE

1 pound cooked tiny shrimp
 2 red onions, coarsely chopped
 1/2 cup olive oil
 3 tablespoons lemon juice
 1 tablespoon minced fresh oregano

salt and pepper to taste
 6 (8-inch) day-old French rolls
 3 ripe tomatoes, thinly sliced

In small bowl, combine shrimp, onions, 2 tablespoons olive oil, lemon juice, oregano and salt and pepper to taste.

Slice rolls in half lengthwise. Moisten each half with a little of remaining olive oil. Arrange tomato slices on bottom half. Spread shrimp mixture over tomato slices and add top half of roll. Wrap each sandwich tightly in foil.

POLYNESIAN SHRIMP

3 pounds large prawns, boiled and shelled
 2 tablespoons minced parsley
 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
Plum Sauce:
 2 pounds purple plums
 1/2 cup lemon juice
 1/2 cup red wine vinegar
 1/2 cup Japanese plum wine or sake
 1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
 Cayenne pepper to taste

Preheat oven to 350 F. Lightly oil 8-inch square baking pan. In medium skillet over medium heat, saute onion and garlic in sherry until soft but not browned. Lightly beat egg whites until soft peaks form. Spoon into bowl and mix with whole egg, bread crumbs, parsley, dill, cayenne, cheeses and artichokes. Add sauteed onion and garlic. Pour into prepared baking pan.

To make plum sauce, cut a cross in bottom of each plum. Plunge into boiling water briefly, then into a bowl of ice water. Peel the plums (skins should peel off easily) and pit them. In food processor or blender, combine plums and lemon juice and process until smooth. Stir in vinegar, plum wine or sake, and mustard. Season with cayenne pepper and salt.

Arrange prawns on serving platter. Combine parsley and lemon peel and sprinkle over prawns. Serve with plum sauce and cocktail picks.

Avoid uneven microwave cooking

"The microwave oven has become a common household item which can be a real boon for saving time," said Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service. "There are some very simple yet effective tips to help you cook safely with your microwave."

The main concern is ensuring that food is completely cooked, yet not so hot that it may burn a baby's mouth.

Cold spots can occur because of the irregular way the microwaves enter the oven and are absorbed by various foods.

"Learning placement and special microwave techniques is a good idea," adds Treitman, who suggests either buying a microwave book or taking a class. Some tips to help with safe microwave cooking:

- Turn food several times — or stir or rotate dish during cooking.
- Observe standing time when called for.
- Use utensils made for the microwave.
- Avoid use of cold storage containers, like margarine tubs — they can melt.
- Never use brown bags or newspapers which can catch on fire.
- Heat leftovers to at least 165 degrees.
- Use caution when warming baby food and formula — stir and taste before serving.

If you have other questions on microwave safety or other Food and Nutrition concerns call the Food and Nutrition Hotline, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 958-0904.

Phelps Vineyards marks 20 years of taste

That work, Phelps and others have only been growing grapes since the early 1970s.

From the 1970s through the 1980s Williams believes the California focus was on winemaking, not on grapegrowing. "This is the great challenge of phyloxyera," he said. "Today, we're paying much more attention to soils and matching the variety on the correct phyloxyera resistant rootstock within its proper soil profile. The world has yet to see the great wines of California."

There's been a lot of well-deserved attention given to California's planting of Rhone varieties. Phelps is one of the leaders in this emerging wine category. Four of these Rhone-styled wines are under the Vin du Mistral label. 1992 Grenache Rose ($10) is not a wimpy wine. It's actually more delicious than many stemming from France's Rhone Valley. Light-bodied and refreshing, its raspberry fruit makes it a terrific match with a variety of Mediterranean dishes.

Motto for this year's holiday baker: 'be prepared'

Delight in the holidays, don't dread them. Start your ovens now and bake a little at a time so you won't feel overwhelmed.

Cookies, except those with custard or cream fillings, freeze well. It's a lot to try to bake and decorate cookies in one day," said Jackie Sheehan, senior editor of Pillsbury's "The Complete Book of Baking." (Viking, $25, hardcover). "Don't decorate until just before you're ready to use them."

Sheehan and I talked about baking holiday cookies Thursday while she was visiting metro Detroit to promote the cookbook.

When you're making cookies, take time to measure accurately, and don't substitute diet or whipped margarine for butter and regular margarine in recipes.

Whipped margarine contains air, and diet margarines have water in them. They don't work," said Sheehan. Be careful when reducing the amount of sugar in a recipe too.

"Sugar adds sweetness. It helps the product brown, and adds to the tenderness. It plays a very significant role," said Sheehan. "It's safe to cut the amount of sugar in a recipe back to 1/2 to 3/4."

For more advice on holiday baking from home economists, call the Land O'Lakes Holiday Bakingline toll-free number, 1-800-782-9608 through Dec. 24, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. All bakingline callers will receive a free "Bake a Holiday Tradition" recipe lead. Baked with traditional favorites from around the world plus helpful baking tips.

"Each year, we receive calls from people who are looking for new recipes for need help preparing family favorites. We're here to lend a helping hand," said Lydia Botham, director of consumer affairs and test kitchens at Land O'Lakes, Inc.

Pillsbury also offers a toll-free hotline to help consumers with baking questions. Look for it on all Pillsbury products.

Sylvia Treitman, home economist for the Oakland County Cooperative Extension Service, offered these guidelines:

• Baking powder — Keep no more than six months. To test if your baking powder is still good, measure one teaspoon of baking powder and put into 1/2 cup hot water. It should fizz and bubble.

• Baking Soda — Up to 18 months. • Flour — Refrigerate whole wheat flour, toss white flour that's more than a year old.

• Sugar — Is fine as long as it hasn't solidified. Here are a couple of ways to loosen brown sugar — put the box in a microwave oven with a cup of water on the side. Microwave on high for two minutes. Or, put the brown sugar in a Tupperware container with a piece of bread or slice of apple. It will loosen up in a couple of days.

• Vanilla and other extracts — Won't spoil, but will start to lose their flavor in three to four months.

• Vegetable shortening — Toss after a year.

• Butter — Keeps frozen for six to nine months, refrigerated a few weeks beyond expiration date on the box.

• Margarine — Keeps refrigerated four to five months.

• Chocolate chips — Dark chocolate is good up to a year, milk chocolate six months.

• Eggs — Toss three to four weeks after expiration date on the carton.

To prepare Oatmeal Crust — heat oven to 350 degrees. Combine oats, flour and sugar; mix well. Add margarine, mix well.

Reserve 1 cup of crust mixture; set aside. Press remaining mixture onto bottom of 8 or 9-inch square baking pan. Bake 15 to 18 minutes or until light golden brown. Cool slightly.

For filling, in medium bowl, combine blueberries and flour; mix well. Stir in preserves and lemon peel. Spread evenly over crust. Sprinkle with reserved oat mixture, pressing lightly. Bake 20 to 22 minutes or until light golden brown. Cut into bars. Store loosely covered. Yield 16 bars. Can be frozen.

Heat oven to 375 degrees. In large bowl, combine flour, 1/2 cup sugar, brown sugar, baking soda, salt, shortening, peanut butter, milk, vanilla and egg; blend at low speed until stiff dough forms.

Roll out dough on well floured surface to 1/4 inch thickness. Cut with 2 1/2 inch cookie cutters; place 1-inch apart on cookie sheets. Bake for 5 to 8 minutes or until edges are lightly browned. Cool completely; sprinkle with powdered or decorator sugars or decorate as desired. Yield 4 dozen. Can be frozen.

Recipe from Land O'Lakes.

PEANUT BUTTER BLOSSOMS
 1 1/2 cups all purpose flour
 1 cup butter, softened
 1 egg
 2 tablespoons milk
 2 teaspoons vanilla
 Powdered sugar
 Decorator sugars

1 cup sugar
 1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
 1 teaspoon baking soda
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup shortening
 1/2 cup peanut butter
 2 tablespoons milk
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 1 egg
 Sugar
 48 milk chocolate candy kisses

Heat oven to 375 degrees. In large bowl, combine flour, 1/2 cup sugar, brown sugar, baking soda, salt, shortening, peanut butter, milk, vanilla and egg; blend at low speed until stiff dough forms.

Shape into 1-inch balls; roll in sugar. Place 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheets.

Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until golden brown. Immediately top each cookie with a candy kiss, pressing down firmly so cookie cracks around edge; remove from cookie sheets. Cool completely. Yield: 4 dozen. Can be frozen.

RISING RATE CD®
 Annual Percentage Yield

3.25% 3.50% 3.75% 4.75%

1st Six Months 2nd Six Months 3rd Six Months 4th Six Months

A guaranteed rate increase with a no-penalty withdrawal option every six months.

Whichever way interest rates might go, the Rising Rate CD is a smart investment bet. Because if interest rates remain flat or drop, you'll still get a guaranteed raise in your CD rate every six months. But if interest rates begin to climb, the Rising Rate CD gives you the liquidity to pull out once every six months of its initial two-year term without penalty.

The rate earned for each six-month period rises as the chart above indicates, climbing to a 4.75% APY during the final six-month period.* You have the option of withdrawing all of your investment within the first ten days of any six-month interval during the initial two-year term without penalty. Or you can take out any portion of it as long as a $1,000 balance is maintained.

The Rising Rate CD. The liquidity you want, the guaranteed interest growth you need. To open yours for as little as $1,000, call or visit any participating bank office.
