Novi students show off their brains

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

That's the way to use the old noggin... literally.

Students in Novi High School's advanced psychology class recently put their brains to the task of building a brain — a larger-than-life, illustrated and illuminated version of the human cognitive apparatus.

"I think they learned a lot from the experience," teacher Bob Emerson said. "Just building the model helped in picking up the structural aspects of the brain, and the terms for the different areas. The students also learned a lot about cooperative effort and problem-solving as well."

The giant mass of grey matter is constructed of a wooden frame, chicken wire, cardboard, paper mache, paste, flour and water. It took class members nearly three weeks to assemble the brain.

But this cerebellum's full of surprises. Emerson explained that the students had put labels all over the model, detailing the brain's various structures and functions, such as the corpus callosum. There are even markings on the inside, he added, representing synaptic relays and, well, other complex brain functions most adults don't understand.

Reflective posterboard and a blacklight, combined with Silly String, created a guide to the inner areas of the brain, Emerson explained. Markings — complimented by Christmas lights — do the same for the exterior.

Students Melissa Stoddart, Julie Fahrner, Katie Herman, Jackie Anglin, Danielle Kuenzel, Allison Quinn, Jackie Perreca, Jenny Noland, Mary Lynn Melone, Derek Givan, Andy Moll and Jason Fischer all pitched in on building the model, guided by Emerson's eminent (but not necessarily as large) brain.

"That was the real beauty of the project," Emerson said. "Everyone had something to contribute during the building process. We learned about the brain and from each other. That goes for myself, too."

The model building exercise was an attempt to spark student minds in a way other than the traditional textbook-and-lecture method Emerson indicated. Getting kids involved as a group in a hands-on project, he continued, produced pleasing results.

"It was phenomenal," Emerson said. "By the time we got to the end, everyone was cohesive and cooperative. The ownership factor played into all this, too."

"I'm very proud," he added. "The real benefit of this was seeing young people learning together in a positive educational experience."

And what happens to the massive model? Emerson said that's probably going to be up to the class, but that it will likely remain on display for the rest of the school year.

"We see a lot of students and teachers stopping in to see it," he said. "It's quite a conversation piece."

Too large for the average coffee table, of course, but think of the dorm floor possibilities.

City may have to pay for cleanup

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

The city's role in creating a downtown near the southeast corner of Grand River Avenue and Novi Road could be more than just brainstorming the concept and courting interested developers — Novi may have to underwrite some of the environmental tidying up of the location as well.

It looks like a Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) supervised cleanup of city-owned land fronting Novi Road will be required before the southeast segment ring road proposed to unify the Town Center, Paul Bunyan Drive, can be built.

An environmental assessment of the land conducted this summer by consulting engineers JCK & Associates found soil and groundwater contamination on the city property, which includes the former Novi Fire Station on Novi Road just south of Grand River Avenue and, next-door, the former Aladdin Cutting Tool Company property, purchased by the city several years ago.

Novi will pay for the clean-up of soils left polluted after a leaking underground storage tank was pulled up from behind the fire hall in 1987, City Manager Edward Kriewall said.

Any other contamination may have come from the Aladdin property, he added.

"That's from an old industrial site where people years ago would go out the backdoor and throw their excess chemicals on the ground," Kriewall said.

"We believe the prior owners are liable. Since we haven't paid our land contract off yet, we're going to go after them."

Novi's Director of Public Service Anthony Nowicki said he will ask the city council Nov. 22 for approval to seek bids for a more extensive monitoring of the site.

"We're going to try to get away as cheaply as we can with that property and still do the job properly," Nowicki said.

DNR standards for a cleanup where a road is proposed are less stringent, Kriewall added.

A proposed work plan for site evaluation was submitted to the city Oct. 25 by consulting engineers JCK & Associates. The document notes that the remediation is due to the leaking underground storage tank and possible solvents and metals at the site due to the "historic use of the property."

Until the further research is conducted, the full extent of the contamination remains unknown.

"We're not so sure it's our property doing the polluting. There's some suspicion that might be coming from some of the other properties," Kriewall said.

Daggett to speak to Novi schools

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

By all reports, Novi's in for something special.

Dr. Willard Daggett, an expert in education reform, will address Novi Community School District staff and residents on Monday, Dec. 13, about how education must change to prepare students for the next decade and beyond.

Director of the International Center for Leadership in Education, Daggett is a nationally recognized leader in educational reform. He will discuss what he sees as the fundamental changes taking place in society today and how these changes affect the working world.

His special focus is how education must meet this developing scenario with varied and significant changes. Daggett meets school district staff from 3-5 p.m. on Dec. 13. He will then give a special presentation open to the community at large at 7:30 p.m. in Novi High School's Fuerst Auditorium.

Admission is free; the school is located at the corner of Taft and Ten Mile roads.

The district, its PTOs and the Novi Chamber of Commerce have teamed up to sponsor Daggett's appearance. Interested community businesses or individuals who want to help out that effort with a donation are asked to call the district's office of instruction at 344-8330.

Amoco site's pipes clean its soil, water

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

As part of the pact made with the City of Novi in 1991, an environmental clean-up is now under way at the former Amoco service station site on Grand River Avenue and Novi Road.

Once the property is purified, the city will then have an option to purchase the corner.

Observant drivers passing by last week might have noticed a series of what looked like white plastic tubes sticking up out of the ground at the busy northeast corner of Grand River and Novi Road — part of a sophisticated remediation system put into place to purge contaminants from the groundwater and earth.

"It cleans the soil and the groundwater from the spills of gasoline from the many years the site was a gas station. A lot of money goes into that, hundreds of thousands of dollars, more than the site is worth, and we're all paying for it in the price of gasoline," Amoco

City Manager Edward Kriewall confirmed that Novi has been notified of the environmental work.

High radon levels detected in homes

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Higher than average radon levels have been discovered in some of Novi's newest homes.

Novi Public Information Director Cindy Stewart said that this summer and early this fall her telephone was ringing steadily with calls from homeowners concerned about finding levels of radon exceeding 4.0 picocuries per liter in their residences — the point at which the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) recommends further testing and possible protective measures.

"I just keep getting calls. People told me they were getting levels of anything from 2 to 14 (picocuries). Chase Farms was having high levels. The builders are working with the people in Chase Farms to help them out," Stewart said.

"It is a problem." A homeowner in the Riverbridge subdivision, next door to Chase Farms, reported a radon level as high as 40.0 picocuries. Stewart said, while greater than average levels were also discovered in tests run in the new Woods of Novi and Greenwood Oaks subdivision.

Novi has nothing in its codes or ordinances requiring builders to take preventative measures to reduce the seepage of radon into the structure. Building Official Don Saven confirmed.

"We have tried to come up with something. There were certain concerns that were being realized as far

Residents split on service

"I find most of the problems are due rather to new subdivisions coming on line. We last for months at a time without any outages," Pangolf added.

Rita Pauli, who lives next to the infamous "hot house" Park Ridge Court in Meadowbrook Glen subdivision, says she's also had more efficient service since 1991.

Then, the line behind Pauli's back yard, later found by Edison to be too long because the poles were too far apart, twice fell and literally electrified her neighbor's house, causing extensive damage and creating a safety hazard.

In response to repeated complaints, Edison put up a third telephone pole topped by a lightning arrester, but Pauli says she has mixed feelings about the resolution.

"It solves the problem. We have gone through the storm season of spring and summer without having the lines come down or any problems," Paul said.

"There are huge trees all leaning towards lines and we know any day some are going to fall."

Edison spokesperson Lori Kessler explained that the brief power flickers occur if one line is going down and the customers are automatically switched to another circuit to prevent a total loss of power.

"It's Pangolf's fault," Pangolf, forester for the City of Novi, lives on Ten Mile road west of Novi Road. He says his electrical service at home leaves something to be desired.

Mall worker claims harassment

By CRISTINA FERRIER
Staff Writer

An employee at the Twelve Oaks Mall Sears store has told police that she wants to file charges against her supervisor for sexual harassment.

Police withheld the identity of the woman, who charges that the supervisor of her department has asked her several times to have sex with him, and hinted that a promotion could be awarded to her if she did so.

Novi Police Chief Doug Shoefield said it is unclear at this point whether criminal charges can be filed against the supervisor. The case has been presented to the Oakland County Prosecutor's Office for review.

Charges being considered include criminal sexual conduct, based on the fact that the suspect is in a position of authority, and possible ethnic intimidation. Police withheld information on the woman's race or religion.

"There is some thought to that criminal degree," Shoefield said. "The other thought is that it's oriented toward employer-employee relationships, not criminal in nature, and governed by the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EOC).

Shaeffer said it's hard to tell which way it will go at this point.

"We're looking into it," he said. "I might require additional information and investigation."

The supervisor, whose name has also been withheld, has already faced disciplinary action at the store, according to the police report. The woman who filed the complaint also filed a complaint with the Sears security department.

She told police Nov. 11 that she asked her supervisor for a work-related question and he told her to go into his office. Once in the office, she said, the conversation went from work-related to questions about her personal life.

For example, she said, he continued to tell her that he was attracted to her in a sexual manner, that if they had sex he would "keep it discreet," and that she was the "excitement" he was looking for.

Then he allegedly said, "I would really like to see you get that floor leader position." She told police that she asked about the status of that position, and he told her he needed to discuss it with someone else.

At that point, she said, she left the office and contacted a security officer.

Shirley Lamb, a spokesperson for the EOC, said the described incident would definitely fall under the category of sexual harassment, and if the woman contacted their office they would send an investigator to make a determination.

If the determination is favorable (meaning that the investigator determined that there was sexual harassment), he would recommend some type of relief," Lamb said. The EOC could have the authority to enforce the relief, which could range from transferring the employee or supervisor to another department to termination of a supervisor's employment.

The type of action, and whether there would be legal proceedings in such a case, would be handled on an individual basis.

The woman told police that she is afraid of the supervisor but will have a time avoiding him because he is her immediate supervisor. She has worked with him for two years and told police that, in September, there was another related incident when the supervisor told her she would have to "earn her way to the top." He allegedly asked her when she last had sex and what she would do if he asked her to have sex with him.

The woman filed a written statement with the police and the security department. The supervisor has refused to make any written statement in connection with the case.

aled all school operating property taxes in July, and the Dec. 31 deadline for replacing the revenue is fast approaching.

Who are the 14?

Democrats

■ William Keith, 64, of Garden City. In his 11th term, co-chair of the House Education Committee, former banker, former school board member, champion of voc-tech schools, among a handful of most potent lawmakers in school policy.

■ James E. O'Neill Jr., 64, of Saginaw. In his 14th term, former teacher and school administrator, champion of equity in school funding, writes the school and bill with Sen. Jim DeGroote each year.

■ Susan Munn, 42, Howell. In third term, former township treasurer, also a member of the Dobb—CPA with business practice, BLT, Taxation Committee, political centrist.

■ Willis C. Bullard Jr., 50, Milford, whose district includes Novi. In sixth term, co-chair (with Jondahl) of Taxation Committee, attorney, former township treasurer, ranks with Dobb and Munn among least vocal GOP lawmakers but emerging now that his party shares control.

■ Glenn Oxender, 50, Sturgis. In sixth term, member of Appropriations, co-chairs school aid subcommittee, former math and computer science teacher, proposed replacing all property taxes with income taxes, champions school funding equity for in-formula "poor" districts.

■ Donald H. Emerson, 45, Flint. In his seventh term, former field rep for AFSCME (public employees union), new co-chair of school aid subcommittee, now wears a suit and tie.

■ Ted Wallace, 51, Detroit. In his third term, attorney, started as assembly worker, emerging as one of most effective members of black caucus with choice committee posts, best known as author of bills to permit and regulate assisted suicide.

■ James Agee, Muskegon. Only freshman in the group, emerged quickly as vice chair of Education Committee, vocal in defending interests of public schools (against private).

Republican

■ William Bryant Jr., 55, Grosse Pointe. In his 12th term, attorney, former minority leader but now functions as "free spirit," unquestioned GOP master of school policy.

■ Barbara Dobb, 43, Union Lake. In second term, member of Taxation Committee, certified public accountant with business practice, leaped into prominence on Bipartisan Legislative Team (school equity), chaired fiscal committee.

■ Maxine Doman, 47, of Southfield. In her sixth term but fairly new to Appropriations, former teacher used to specialize in elections and tenant laws, defends out-of-formula districts ("not" property tax bases, no state aid), most frequently quoted on abortion.

■ H. Lynn Jondahl, 57, of Okemos. In his 11th term, co-chair of Taxation Committee, ordained minister, voted in newspaper poll as most influential member of the House, running for governor, rated one of the most liberal members.

■ Robert L. Emerson, 45, Flint. In his seventh term, former field rep for AFSCME (public employees union), new co-chair of school aid subcommittee, now wears a suit and tie.

■ Ted Wallace, 51, Detroit. In his third term, attorney, started as assembly worker, emerging as one of most effective members of black caucus with choice committee posts, best known as author of bills to permit and regulate assisted suicide.

End nearing in contract dispute

By CRISTINA FERRIER

Staff Writer

A 28 month battle between the Novi Police clerks and dispatchers union and the city to finalize a three-year contract is expected to end Dec. 12 — just in time for negotiations to begin again on their next contract.

The union filed for arbitration 10 months ago, and the third of a series of hearings was held Tuesday night. The final one is scheduled for Dec. 12, after which the state-appointed arbitrator will make a decision for either the union's or the city's offer.

The arbitration hearings are taking place under Act 312, which allows for compulsory arbitration for public safety employees in lieu of their right to strike.

"Each side has been submitting evidence of comparable pay and costs, and the arbitrator has been meeting with parties," said Assistant City Manager Craig Klaver.

"This is not a negotiation, not a mediation, there is no give-and-take at this point. He will pick the position of one of the two parties."

Novi Police Dispatcher Rene Matej, who heads the union, said they are expecting a final settlement by Friday. The settlement will expire at the end of June, 1994, so new contract negotiations will begin around April or May.

But, Matej said, there don't seem to be a lot of hard feelings between the two sides and she hopes the arbitration will actually make things easier.

"We were willing to accept the mediator's recommendation, but the city wouldn't accept it," Matej said. "We got tired of playing catch-the next time around.

"I was surprised," she said. "Arbitrators are going to be there, even though it's not a mediation, going through a trial with a court recorder, testimony and everything."

"I don't think there are any hard negotiations and I hope we'll be able to get over this stumbling block for better negotiations in May."

Matej and Klaver both agreed that negotiations between the two parties had been difficult. They were very far apart in the first place, although neither would discuss terms that have been negotiated.

up with every contract. We just wanted to be brought up to what comparable communities are making."

"When you're so far behind everyone else it looks like a big percentage increase, but really we just want to make as much as others do."

Novi police clerks, working under the expired contract, are making $17,655 to $24,094. Dispatchers are making $17,729 to $23,474.

Matej said she feels the arbitration is going to be there, but didn't want to make any predictions.

"It's difficult to say how the arbitrator will rule because there are so many different bargaining units. You never know which way it will go."

Novi Community School District officials are considering a new, tougher policy on group use of educational facilities.

The Board of Education received a report from Director of Community Education Clara Porter Nov. 4 which recommended new rules on who may rent district school buildings and for what purposes.

The report, put together by the Community Education Advisory Council, also suggested raising hourly rental fees, saying that Novi's are far lower than those of surrounding communities. The board did not take action on the policy draft, and the matter will soon return for consideration.

There are a wide variety of facilities available for rent, Porter explained. Everything from classes on crafts to Sunday church activities take place in Novi school buildings.

Groups can rent all or part of the gyms at Novi High School, Middle School, Meadows or the four elementaries. Also available are classrooms in each building, the High School Commons, the middle school, Meadows and Novi Woods cafés and Orchard Hills' community room. The libraries of the middle school, Meadows and the four elementaries are offered as well.

School coaches are available with or without the use of some equipment in them. The stadium, with or without scoreboard, lights and public address services, can be rented as Novi Meadows stadium.

The Fuerst Auditorium is available for rehearsals or performances, and the high school swimming pool can be rented as well.

The draft policy, Porter said, provides for goals not in the current policy for building use that the council thought important, including:

■ Preference being given to district residents when renting facilities.

■ Requiring any group renting facilities to be made up of at least 75 percent district residents.

■ Denying activities or functions that promote a product or result in profit.

■ Requiring groups using facilities to be responsible for supervising their members.

■ Limiting building use to specific times of day and number of hours per week.

■ Ensuring that no one uses facilities for private instruction for profit.

■ Limiting group rentals to a one-year duration.

Council members examined Novi's rental rates for all of these — which have not changed since 1977 — and compared them to other area facilities. That, Porter said, led them to recommend increases.

In most cases, she continued, Novi's rates were less than those of Farmington, Northville, South Lyon, Walled Lake or West Bloomfield, the comparison communities. Raising rates would bring Novi into line. Porter said, and would better reflect what's being offered.

"These are quality facilities," Porter said, "and they should be charged accordingly."

Novi currently charges $4 per hour for a classroom rental, compared to $7.50 to $20 an hour in surrounding areas. The draft policy suggests a $10 per hour rate.

■ Renting an elementary gym for an hour will cost you $6.67 in Novi. It will cost $15 to $20 in other communities.

■ Use of an elementary library will run $4 per hour here, versus $10 to $60 per hour elsewhere. The recommended fee in the policy: $15 per hour.

she added, such as scouting programs.

Specific issues such as the hours buildings will be available for rent, amount to be charged, and availability for a group rental will soon be addressed as well, Porter said.

Board members questioned some of the fee rates at the meeting, but otherwise seemed to favor the proposed changes. Their earliest opportunity for action on the matter will come Nov. 18, the date of the next board of education meeting.

The present owner, Anthony Rizzo, acquired the structure in 1974 after it had been scheduled for demolition and began a lengthy restoration. In 1991, the Rose Cottage Tea Room opened and quickly outgrew its "Tea Room" image and became a highly regarded luncheon facility. In 1993, "Tea Room" was dropped from its name, an 80-seat banquet room was added, a liquor license was pursued and the area's premier banquet house was born.

The Rose Cottage Banquet House and Restaurant can be reached at 349-0505.

Cause of fatal crash a mystery

By CRISTINA FERRIER

Staff Writer

An 80-year-old Farmington Hills woman died Nov. 9 after her car apparently veered off the roadway on Grand River Avenue near Meadowbrook and hit a tree.

Dorothy Rose Stout was returning home from a visit with her doctor in Howell, according to Novi Police Officer Keri Meier. The doctor had just pronounced the woman healthy and let her return to her Florida home for the winter.

Autopsy results on the woman were incomplete. The incident occurred just west of Meadowbrook, in front of 42001 Grand River.

The medical examiner said he couldn't find any sign of a heart attack or stroke, Meier commented.

Meier said there was no sign of skid marks or anything else that would have indicated the woman was aware she was driving off the road.

Police reported that road conditions at the time of the accident, which occurred at 3:30 p.m., were dry and the weather was cloudy. The speed limit was 45 mph.

Stout was not wearing a seatbelt, Meier said.

The woman was transported by EMS to Providence Hospital in Southfield, where she was pronounced dead.

MetroParks announce increased entry fees

The 1994 Metropark annual vehicle entry permits and annual boat launching permits are now on sale at all park and administrative offices of the Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority.

These permits make excellent "stocking stuffers" for the outdoors person on your Christmas list.

Metropark annual vehicle permit charges for '94 are $15, and $8 for senior citizens.

Metropark annual boating permit charges for '94 are $18, and $9 for senior citizens.

No permits are sold through the mail. For more information, call 1-800-47-PARKS.

State Bar holds charity drive

Lawyers, legal secretaries, staff, law students and others throughout Michigan will be asked to contribute food and clothing to those in need the week of Nov. 8 as The Young Lawyers Section of the State Bar of Michigan conducts its fifth annual "Horn of Plenty" drive.

The "Horn of Plenty" Project was introduced by the Ingham County Bar Association Young Lawyers Section in 1989 and has experienced enormous growth over the past four years. This year's project will be run statewide in nine counties, including Oakland. The other counties included are Kent, Kalamazoo, Ingham, Washtenaw, Saginaw, Genesee, Wayne and Macomb.

"We did a great job in 1992, netting over 10,000 items of clothing and 20,000 items of food statewide," said Horn of Plenty coordinator Robert J. Buchanan. "The sluggish economy and high level of unemployment have taken their toll this year on the state's homeless, so they and others need our help more than ever."

This year's project will also give aid to those affected by the massive flooding in the Midwest. International Aid of Muskegon has agreed to accept donations of food and clothing to assist individuals still suffering from the devastation of the floods.

Those interested in obtaining information, donations and drop-off sites can contact Oakland County area coordinator Carolyn Claerhout at 433-7348.

Twelve Oaks stores predict focus on ho-ho-homelife

Taubman Centers Inc., which operates 19 regional shopping centers in 11 states, conducted the annual survey. It is the fifth year Taubman has asked the national retailers to gauge consumer and merchandise trends for holiday shopping.

The retailers also predicted one of the decade's best seasons for holiday shoppers. They explain that growing sophistication among shoppers has forced them to re-evaluate everything about their businesses from inventory mix to price points.

As a result, they forecast strong holiday sales increases for themselves as well as welcome news for consumers: prices no higher, and in many cases lower, than they were in 1992.

Retailers surveyed predicted that because consumers have become highly sophisticated about value, many of this year's hottest holiday sellers will be traditional items like classic clothing, home furnishings and family entertainment that can be used over and over from year to year.

The Bonbay Company, for example, has seen its home furnishings sales climb consistently over the last 32 months and has tripled its store size to nearly 100 locations. Suncoast Movie Pictures reported that its fastest-growing category is children's entertainment, and Electronics Boutique this year introduced a new store-within-a-store concept, EB for Kids, featuring computers and interactive "edutainment" for children 3 to 7.

Twelve Oaks is also offering coat and package checking plus a gift wrap center located on the upper level, Center Court.

"Nearly 60 percent of our shoppers come from two-income families," explains Kah. "Time savings and convenience are important to them."

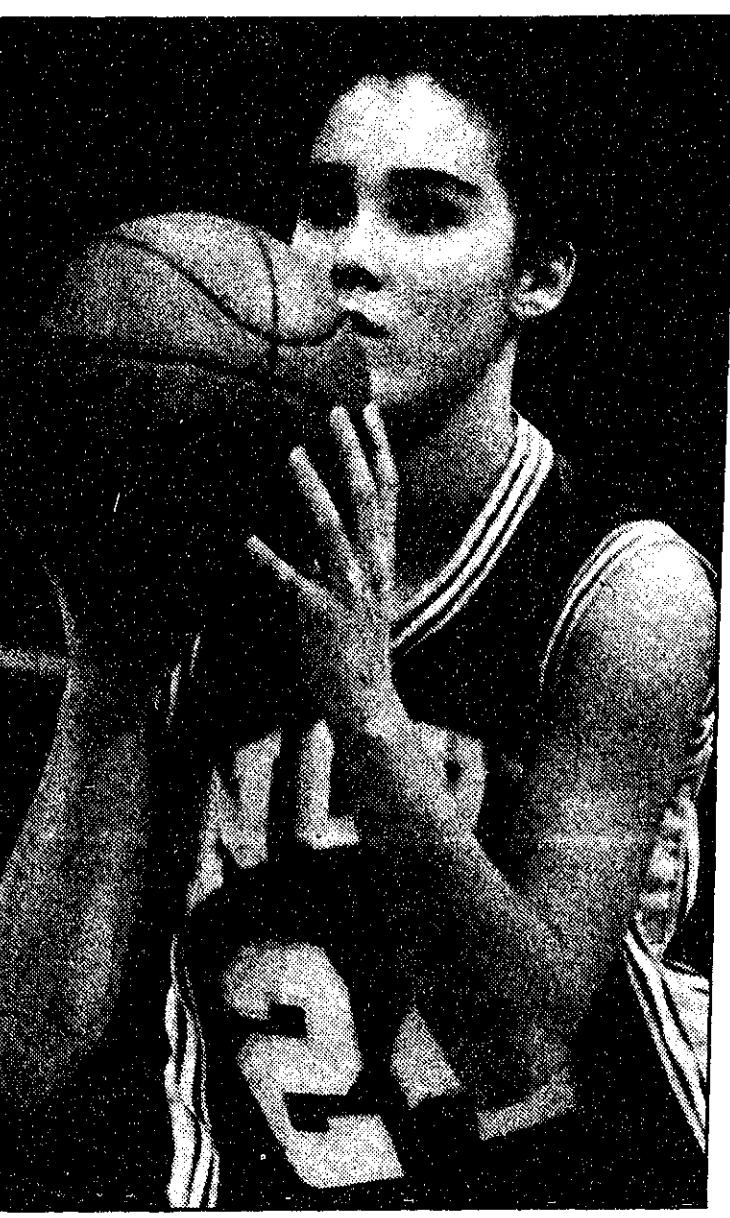

Twenty two new stores have opened at Twelve Oaks this year to provide an even broader selection. A second sport store, Christmas by Frank's, will offer holiday trim and accessories.

Besides home- and family-oriented gifts, other popular choices this year at Twelve Oaks will include anything with cartoon and movie characters; pamper products like fragrances, massagers and body lotions; retro everything from music to necklaces; and organizers like jewelry boxes, purses with compartments and storage units.

Retailers also note that consumers buy with the sensible gifts they've been giving in recent years, and showing renewed interest in quality novelty items that leave lasting impressions.

Some of this year's gifts that are much fun to give as to receive include men's silk Mickey Mouse boxer shorts from The Disney Store, aroma therapy from The Body Shop, and H2O Plus cappuccino/Espresso machines from Williams-Sonoma and The Coffee Beanery.

Twelve Oaks Mall, located at 18028 M-81 and Novi Road, features 180 shops and services along with Hudson's, Lord & Taylor, JCPenney and Sears.

Concentrate!

Concentration is one of the prerequisites of success, be it in life or at the free throw line. The Wildcats of Novi High School's girls' basketball team did this week, gaining a victory over opponent Churchill High School by a score of 58-40. The win came in the first round of district competition.

Safety experts advise families avoid fire through preparation

Fire safety begins with prevention. Because a fire can start easily and spread quickly, your best defense is to know and practice the do's and don'ts of fire safety. Protecting yourself and your family from potential fire hazards can save your lives.

The safety experts at Underwriters Laboratories Inc. recommends that you and your family avoid potential fire hazards by practicing the following fire safety steps.

■ Conduct a fire safety audit of your home.

Keep flammable items away from hot surfaces such as an oven, fireplace, space heater or barbecue grill.

Always follow the manufacturer's instructions exactly for the safe use of electrical appliances.

Never overload an electrical outlet or extension cord or run electrical cords under rugs. An extension cord should not be coiled or exposed to anything that will raise its temperature.

Place fire extinguishers in visible and accessible places: the kitchen, the hallway, the garage and workshops.

Know the difference between the three types of household fire extinguishers and when to use each type.

Using the wrong type of extinguisher may cause a fire to spread. Extinguishers marked for Class A fires are intended for use on fires involving combustible materials such as paper and cloth. Class B extinguishers are for use on flammable liquid fires such as kitchen grease. Class C extinguishers should only be used on fires involving electrical equipment. Multipurpose extinguishers marked ABC are also available which can be used on all three types of fires.

Inspect your fire extinguishers regularly to make sure they are in proper working condition.

Smoke alarms can put you and your family into a deep sleep. It's important to install smoke detectors on each level of your home—including the basement—and outside each bedroom and sleeping area, to alert you of a fire.

Test, clean and maintain your smoke detectors as instructed in the owner's manual. Familiarize your family with the smoke detector's alarm so they recognize its signal and know what to do when it sounds.

Install fresh batteries in battery operated smoke detectors at least once a year.

Develop a fire escape plan for your home.

Confusion during a fire usually results from fear and uncertainty about what to do. Part of an effective fire safety home audit involves establishing a fire escape plan.

Develop and practice emergency escape drills with your family. A good rule of thumb is to plan two ways out of every room in your home.

Practicing a fire drill at home will familiarize you and your family with the fire escape routes and help you get out fast if a fire should break out.

Establish a meeting place away from the home where you and your family can safely meet.

In the event of a fire, do not take shelter anywhere in your home (under a bed, in a closet, etc.). Fire spreads quickly and firefighters may not be able to find you in a smoke-filled room.

Once you are out of a burning building—stay out and immediately call your local fire department. Never re-enter a burning building—for any reason. Trained firefighters with proper equipment will check for family members still in the burning house.

Place fire extinguishers in visible and accessible places: the kitchen, the hallway, the garage and workshops.

Know the difference between the three types of household fire extinguishers and when to use each type.

Exchange students need a home

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

opening your home to a foreign exchange student.

High school students from Argentina, Brazil, Germany and Poland will arrive in mid-January to spend five months in a Michigan high school.

If so, maybe you should consider being a host.

Oh, we're not talking your Sunday afternoon tea party here—we talking about our students. All students have studied English for at least four years, will have full medical insurance and enough money to cover their personal expenses.

The program is sponsored by the Academic Year in America, a program of the American Institute for Foreign Study Scholarship Foundation, a nonprofit educational organization based in Connecticut.

Students from Argentina, Germany and France are staying with Novi and Northville families now, attending Novi, Northville and Walled Lake Central schools.

Flexible, open-minded, fun-loving families, with or without children of their own, are needed as hosts. If you're interested in receiving more information, contact Lynne Levenbach at 453-8562 or 453-6851.

Keep an eye out for deer crossings

Michigan motorists may get a break out of this year's firearm deer season, but it won't be guns that take the trophy. It could be the front end of your headlights.

While the unpredictable nature of the animal makes it difficult to eliminate car-deer crashes, AAA Michigan advises motorists to always wear safety belts, avoid alcohol when driving and heed the following tips.

■ Watch deer. Expand your field of vision to include more of the roadside environment.

■ Car-deer crashes most often occur on paved local and county roads, although freeway accidents are not exempt.

■ The hours just before dawn and just after dusk are the most likely times to have deer move from area to area. Hours of darkness account for two-thirds of all car-deer crashes.

■ If you see a deer, drive slowly, and assume that more are nearby.

■ If you should approach a deer in the road, do not take unsafe evasive action. It is usually safer to strike the deer than another object, such as a tree or other vehicle.

■ Be aware of eyes reflected from your headlights. Drive at a speed that allows you to stop safely within the range of your headlights.

■ Halogen headlights, which provide about 25 percent more light than conventional headlights, may reduce accident risks by increasing your ability to see deer.

■ Although many drivers are using ultrasonic warning devices and they feel they are effective in alerting deer, keep in mind that there have been no definitive studies which show they reduce car-deer crashes.

■ Should you strike a deer, report it to local police and your insurance company. If you choose to keep a deer, you will need a permit from the police department or DNR.

House flaws must be confessed

In January 1994, home sellers (even those not using a real estate agent) will be required by law to openly state their home's defects. Sellers must list everything from a leaky basement to a faulty furnace. Michigan's seller disclosure law now enforces a much greater responsibility on sellers and provides buyers with an honest picture of the home's condition before they sign any papers or move any furniture.

Sellers are required to state their home's defects on a standardized form which real estate agents can make available.

This law brings several questions to mind:

- What do both sellers and buyers need to know about their responsibilities and rights?
- How will this disclosure law affect the way homes are bought and sold in Michigan?
- How important is it that buyers still get the home professionally inspected?

■ Where does the burden of liability now fall?

■ Will this law decrease the number of lawsuits?

In addition to sellers disclosing defects, the law includes a provision that also requires real estate agents to disclose whom they work for. They must tell all parties whether they represent the buyer or the seller. This will reduce unnecessary confusion.

Real estate professionals feel the law will greatly affect the sale of every home in the state of Michigan.

Christmas workshop for children set

In the spirit of Christmas past, the Northville Historical Society will host its 15th Annual Children's Christmas Workshop on Saturday, Dec. 4, in the New School Church at Mill Race Village.

Again this year there will be a morning session from 10 a.m. to noon and an afternoon session from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., making it possible to accommodate 150 children.

Children in grades one to six are invited to participate in the opportunity to make hand-made Christmas gifts for the special people on the list. The intent of the workshop is to surprise family members with the gifts they have worked on and made themselves. So, parents are asked not to peek or pray at what the kids are making.

The children then truly delight in the mystery of surprise gift giving.

Enrollment will be accepted starting at 8 a.m. on Friday, Nov. 19, for Historical Society members at 218 W.

Dunlap. Non-Historical Society members may register starting at 7 p.m. Those who wish to support the Northville Historical Society by becoming members can join at Mill Race on Monday, Wednesday or Friday between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. or call 313-446-1860.

Registration will be accepted on a first-come, first-served basis for those who are present at registration (you don't need to have your children with you). People wanting to register children other than their own can only do so with a second turn in line.

The enrollment fee is $10 per child payable by cash or check made out to the Northville Historical Society.

No mailing fees will be kept because cancellations will often come too late to arrange substitutes. No unregistered child should come to the workshop hoping to get in on a cancellation as people will generally arrange a substitute on their own and the child will end up disappointed.

Shuttle off from mall to art museum

The DIA Shop & Shuttle, round trip express motorcoach service between Twelve Oaks Mall in Novi and the Detroit Institute of Arts, began its monthly service Nov. 17.

Once a month, on every third Wednesday, two regularly scheduled DIA Shop & Shuttle coaches will depart Twelve Oaks Mall and deliver riders to the DIA's Farnsworth entrance. Docent volunteers will meet each group at the top of the stairs to the American Gothic or Kresge Court. The DIA Shop & Shuttle motorcoach will then pick up at the Farnsworth door for the return trip to Novi. DIA Shop & Shuttle tickets are $5 for museum members, $7 for the general public. The price includes round trip transportation, admission to the museum, the docent-guided tour, plus a complimentary pass to the special exhibition Decorative Arts 1900: Highlights from Private Collections in Detroit running through Jan. 9, 1994. Tickets must be purchased in advance and are available at the museum shop at Twelve Oaks Mall. Seating is limited.

Tickets on sale for additional DIA Shop & Shuttle dates include Dec. 15, 1993; and Jan. 19, Feb. 16, March 16, April 20, and May 18, 1994.

For additional information, call 833-7971, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

I may not have agreed with Matt Quinn philosophically on all issues, but we both seem to share the same "crazy" idea that our founding fathers did — that the "sine qua non" of true democracy is free speech. Oftentimes we do not fully appreciate someone until he or she is gone. Well, Nancy and Matt, this is one of many citizens who appreciates your democratic stance now.

It is precisely on this issue of the importance of free speech that I strongly disagree with you, the editor of The Novi News. In your Nov. 11 editorial, you praised Ms. McLallen for not "hesitating to gavel down" the "bad boys of the classroom." You were speaking about two duly-elected councilmen, one of whom, Tim Pope, received the largest number of votes of any candidate in this recent election.

Space-Gard clears the air . . .

Cleans the air of particles you can't even see!

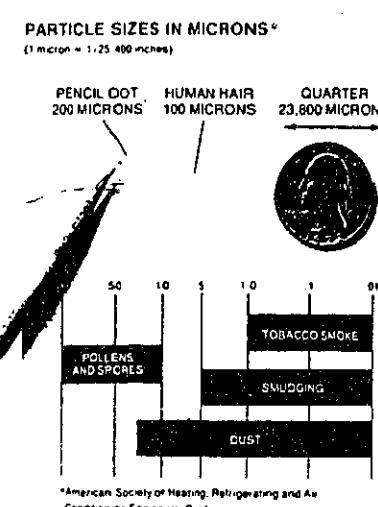

The air we live in and breathe is loaded with dust and pollen particles. About 50 million per cubic foot. Most of these particles are so tiny that only 15% of them are trapped by panel air filters. The remaining 85% are recirculated throughout the home. The Space-Gard air cleaner effectively removes the particles that ordinary filters can't.

Its effectiveness has been thoroughly tested using the Dust Spot Efficiency section of ASHRAE Standard Test Procedure No. 52-76 (the same test used to determine other high efficiency air cleaner performance). Utilizing this test procedure, at 100 cfm, the Space-Gard air cleaner's average efficiency is 45% and its efficiency increases as it loads to 88%.

To further substantiate the efficiency of the Space-Gard air cleaner, it has also been tested to accurately determine efficiency on various size particles. The efficiency of any air cleaner varies with the size of the particles in the circulated airstream. On 6 micron particles, for example, the efficiency of the Space-Gard air cleaner is very close to 100%.

The important advantage of the Space-Gard air cleaner is that efficiency increases as it loads—and it's 98% efficiency on particles as small as 1 micron.

Efficiency ratings of the particle size tests with clean, partially loaded and loaded media are reported in the table at lower right.

Staff Writer

British native Chris Jefferson has only been in the United States for a couple months, but it's been long enough for her to know she'll miss it when she's gone. Jefferson is here for 12 months as part of the Au Pair Programme USA, a government-authorized program designed to promote the general interests of educational and cultural exchange while providing live-in child care for approved host families.

"I'll never have an opportunity like this again," Jefferson said in her thick British accent. "I've learned a lot about American culture and the way people live . . . Each day is different. There's always something different going on. There's no hardfast schedule to stick to."

"This doesn't feel like a 9-to-5 job. You get up in the morning and you look forward to each day."

Jefferson, like all au pairs, works 45 hours a week with 1½ days off each week. Job responsibilities include general child care; fixing meals for the children; driving the children to school, helping with lessons, etc.; picking up after the children; doing the children's laundry; and straightening the children's rooms.

Serving as the au pair for the Snyder family in Northville, Jefferson learned of the program from a college friend in England. When she completed the two-year National Nurse Examination Board course, she thought the American nanny experience would help boost her career back home.

The 19-year-old plans to work as a nanny until she finishes three years of hospital training to become a mid-wife.

For the Snyders, Jefferson cares for 2-year-old Jack and 3-month-old Tommy during the day. Mom Kay Doheny-Snyder takes care of the children at night and oftentimes helps out during the day.

"My day is finished when the children go to bed, around 7:30 p.m." Jefferson said.

Doheny-Snyder is also the Detroit regional counselor for the au pair program. Jefferson is the third au pair hosted by the Snyders.

As counselor, Snyder's main function is to bring the girls in the au pair program together. Currently that group includes: Louise Downham staying with the Kaplan family in Farmington Hills; Marisa Palacios with the Chammout family in Dearborn; Sarah Scales with the Moores family in Plymouth; Susan Drewnicki with the Main family in Northville; Kelli Edwards with the Miller family in Brighton; Emma Allen with the Clapp family in Rochester Hills; Pascale Bechet with the Vogt family in Rochester Hills; Sharon Henson with the Myer family in West Bloomfield; Karen Sandiford with the Franks family in Northville; Louise Stephenson with the Fetters family in Novi; Guilleenette Terrier with the Rea family in Bloomfield Hills; Katie Bolton with the Williams family in Ann Arbor; Anne Lefeuille with the Bargerstock family in Livonia; Lene Ed-

"I am sensitized to the needs of senior citizens on a fixed budget, and I'm trying to make a difference," is the reason Laura Lorenzo gave for her being a member of the Novi Housing and Community Development Advisory Committee.

A description of the committee, according to a booklet put out by the city, reads like this:

"The City of Novi annually receives funding from Oakland County called Community Development Block Grant Funds. The Housing and Community Development Advisory Committee was formulated for the purpose of reviewing community development needs of the City in regard to these funds."

Of the five on the committee, "three of us are women, and there are two men plus Dan Davis," who is chairperson and has an office in Parks and Recreation, said Lorenzo. For the last two years the Committee has received between $87,000 and $98,000 dollars to spend.

A portion, Lorenzo said, "is given every year." The Public Services portion covers the van for senior citizen transportation and two-thirds of the salary of Jan McAlpin, the senior citizen center manager.

The rest is allocated to take care of the needs which senior citizens have reported they can't take care of such as "emergency rehabilitation . . . home repairs . . . things to make their homes livable."

"Basically all of these people," Lorenzo said, "live north of I-96."

"People contact Dan Davis," she said, and then the committee meets to discuss the needs, "prioritizing them." Lorenzo said.

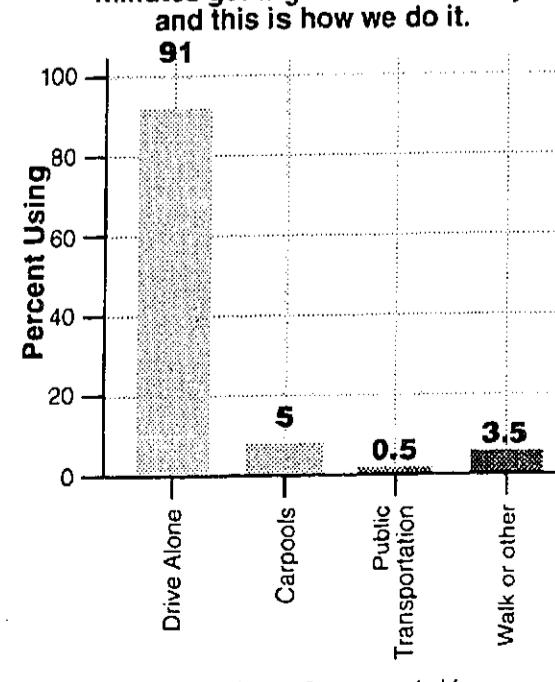

Usually the committee meets twice at the end of the year, and then a public hearing is held, followed by City Council approval. In December application is made for the funds, and in the following spring the funds are available.

"It makes you feel good," being on the committee, said Laura Lorenzo.

Novi First Baptist Church sponsors blood drive

By JEANNE CLARKE

Special Writer

The First Baptist Church of Novi will be sponsoring a Blood Drive Saturday, Dec. 4, at the Novi Christian School. Everyone in the community is encouraged to come and give a gift of life to someone at this season of the year. Appointments can be made by calling the church at 349-3477 or 624-0173. The church and school are located at the corner of Taft Road and Eleven Mile Road.

Each year the church family sponsors a Harvest Dinner. This year it will be on Nov. 19 at 6:30 p.m. in the school gym. Special guest speaker will be Rev. Dr. Charles Charlton of Brighton, who will be giving a series of his jungle ministry messages.

Admission will be at least one or more toothbrushes. Dr. Charlton will sterilize the toothbrushes and use them when he teaches dental hygiene to people who live in the jungle country on his upcoming trip. Reservations must be called as soon as possible as the turkey dinner will be prepared on Friday morning.

The Ladies Circle of Friendship watched a video by Gary Smalley entitled "Hidden Keys to Loving Relationships" at their November meeting. Coming up will be the cookie exchange and Christmas party on Dec. 14.

Last week the Sertoma Club in the church family joined with the Prime Timers sponsored by Northville Baptist Church. Together they took a trip to Frankenmuth with dinner at Bayview Inn, shopping, and a bus tour of the city of Frankenmuth and the cheese and pretzel factory. Coming up will be a trip to Perryville on Dec. 9 for dinner and professional theater "Christmas America."

Claire Langran/Robert Schrottenboer II

The bride is the daughter of Tony and Iris Langran of Northville. The groom is the son of Prudy Schrottenboer of Holland, Mich.

The bride's gown was white silk and taffeta, off the shoulder with a sweetheart neckline. The bodice was adorned with pearls and beads, the skirt was full with detailing along the bottom. Silk roses decorated the sleeves as well as the train and hemline. The bride wore a spray of lily of the valley from her mother's wedding gown.

The flowers for the ceremony were representative of a lush English garden. The bride's bouquet consisted of roses, for her grandmother, Rose, as well as stephanotis, tulips, and larkspur. The windowsills of the chapel were adorned with baskets of hyacinths, tulips, and other wildflowers. A single white rose was placed on the piano in memory of the groom's late father.

They will return on Saturday, Nov. 20, to pick up bags of donated canned goods from the porches of those homes. Residents are asked to put their "Can-Do" donations out by 10 a.m. for pick-up.

Brochure explains family leave laws

The Michigan Women's Commission has developed a brochure describing the features of the newly enacted federal Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA) of 1993.

Brochures are currently available to the public at large and serve as an explanation of the FMLA for both employers and employees. Specifically, the brochure articulates important aspects of the FMLA, including its eligible requirements of both employers and employees, and entitlements.

FMLA was signed into law on Feb. 5 and went into effect Aug. 5 for unionized employers. Those with union contracts will be covered by the law on Feb. 5, 1994, or upon termination of their contracts, whichever is earlier.

The Commission is extremely pleased that the Family Medical Leave Act has now gone into effect.

Noted author weaves story of romance in 'The Piano'

In "The Piano," acclaimed writer/director Jane Campion weaves a powerful and romantic story of a woman and the two men who love her.

Ada Hunter (Holly Hunter), her nine-year-old daughter and her piano arrive to an arranged marriage in the remote bush of 19th century New Zealand.

Ada's belongings, her husband (Sam Neill) refuses to transport the piano which is left behind on the beach. Unable to bear its certain destruction, Ada strikes a bargain with an illiterate tattooed neighbor (Harvey Keitel). She may earn her piano back if she allows him to do certain things while she plays, one black key for every lesson.

The arrangement draws all three deeper and deeper into a complex emotional, sexual bond remarkable for its raw passion and frightening disregard for limits.

Campion began writing "The Piano" in 1984, even before the making of her first feature film "Sweeties" (1989) and way before her direction of the celebrated "An Angel at My Table" (1990).

Although living and working in Sydney, Campion's imagination was drawn back to the colonial past of her country, New Zealand.

"I think it's a strange heritage that I have as a Pacific New Zealander and I wanted to be a part of it to tell our story," she said. "In contrast to the original people in New Zealand, the Maori, who have such an attachment to history, we seem to have no history, or at least not the same tradition."

"This makes you start to ask, 'Well, who are my ancestors? My ancestors are English colonizers — the people who came out like Ada and Stewart and Baines.'

Inventing three fictional 19th century forebears — Ada, Stewart and Baines, Campion set them into a highly charged love triangle. She was determined to explore the way that erotic impulses and the unpredictable emotions that can arise through their enactment, might have been experienced in another century and another landscape.

"I've enjoyed writing characters who don't have a 20th century sensibility about sex," she explained.

"They have nothing to prepare themselves for its strength and power. We grew up with all those magazines that described courting, giving us lots of little rules and ways of doing it. We grow up with so many expectations around it, that it's almost like the real sexual erotic impulse is lost to us."

"But for them . . . the husband

Stewart had probably never had sex at all. So for him to experience sex or feelings of sexual jealousy would have been personally transforming.

The impact of sex is not softened . . . it's clearer and extremer than that."

Three years after its inception, Campion showed the first draft of the script for "The Piano" to Jan Chapman. Chapman and Campion had worked together when producer Chapman invited Campion to direct the telefeature "Two Friends" in 1986.

Juggling other film projects, the two began to work with script editor Bill Mitchell for a series of script development sessions.

"One of the major changes to the script was to give the ending a more poetical, more psychological finish," said Campion.

"It really needs the right ending or it could have been too soft," added Chapman. "But basically Jan — with our help — came up with the idea of the erotic focus shifting for Ada from the lover Baines to her husband Stewart. I think this is the thing that makes the film modern actually and not sentimental."

Essential to the truth of the period was the inclusion of a "Maori" story.

Campion felt keenly aware of their place in any story authentic to the world of 19th century New Zealand and of the need of Maori advisers and writers to help create such a story.

The result of the collaboration is a large Maori cast who lend an extraordinarily rich collective presence to the film.

For what was to be a French-financed, New Zealand-based, Australian production of a New Zealand story, Chapman and Campion were keen to cast internationally. Campion, who has established a reputation for drawing strong performances from less experienced actors, was seeking another kind of challenge.

"I wanted to work with actors who would throw me into a different arena, to be called forth by the actors who were demanding and experienced," said Campion. "The characters in the script were to be 'owned' by actors who could take them on, control them and have the experience to do so."

In fact, the script itself was a large factor in drawing that experience.

Among those interested actors was Holly Hunter who said the script was one ingredient that almost every script she has read does not — "a vast dimension of things being unexplained to the audience or even to the characters themselves, and that's just a real haunting part of the story . . . very, very haunting."

There was a host of extraordinary possibilities from Australian actresses to a number of French, English or Americans," said Campion. "We could have been unimaginative enough to have not seen her because the Holly Hunter of "Broadcast News" and our Ada were two entirely different people," said Chapman.

"Jane (Campion) said very clearly what she wanted," said Sherratt. "Each location was to have its particular feeling and meaning — and she warned me, 'Beware of the Bland Old Bush!'"

Sherratt, the location finder, took some four weeks to cast the film's other great force — the beaches of black sand and clifftop, topped by bush of almost prehistoric density — and mud.

In fact, this landscape was to be a hybrid of distant and neighboring locations, jigsawed together to represent the lush diversity of New Zealand.

"Jane (Campion) said very clearly what she wanted," said Sherratt. "Each location was to have its particular feeling and meaning — and she warned me, 'Beware of the Bland Old Bush!'"

"She was a tall woman with a strong, dark eerie sort of beauty. But Holly's audition tape was just stupendous.

Sally Sherratt, the location finder, took some four weeks to cast the film's other great force — the beaches of black sand and clifftop, topped by bush of almost prehistoric density — and mud.

Through the 55-50 win over Waterford Mott, Novi may have typified the Wildcat basketball team's season — it's never won until it's over.

Novi High led all day in its final home game of 1993 but struggled at times, according to coach John Hoffman. The Wildcats built double-digit leads several times but couldn't keep the Corsairs down.

"We didn't play well by any type of game," Hoffman said. "But we always seem to play good enough to beat them."

Kelly Kearney and Kristin Kenny hosted the team's backs and carried them to the victory. Kearney, a sophomore, led all scorers with 22 points while Kenny poured in 21.

The Kensington Valley Conference race was won by Brighton. The Cardinals' lead near the bottom with a disappointing 2-4 league record. Novi was 4-5 overall.

Wildcat football season reviewed

By SCOTT DANIEL
Sports Editor

If you tried to describe Novi High's 1993 football season in one word, rollercoaster might be the one.

The Wildcats were inconsistent from the first to the last play of the fall campaign. Big wins were often followed by heartbreaking losses the next week.

Novi's Young named best soccer player

"He does things in a quiet way. But the kids have a great deal of respect for him."

Larry Christoff
Novi soccer coach

Melville knocked in five goals and added four assists this year. The injury impact is visible when you compare those numbers to his 1992 stats: 11 goals and 18 assists.

Defensively, Rob Nelson and Dave Rossing of Novi and Jason Howard of Milford anchor our team. Guarding the net is none other than the All-KVC goalie, Steve Cramer.

Here's a closer look at our choices:

CHRIS YOUNG
Forward, Novi

The junior had a phenomenal season in leading Novi to a 15-4 record. Young netted 22 goals and added 10 assists while often drawing the opposition's best defensive player.

"He was a marked man all the way," said Novi coach Larry Christoff.

The coach said Young added strength and more speed to his game this fall. Christoff said the forward plays like a bulldog.

"He plays hard and gives you 100 percent," he added.

Young led the Wildcats by example.

"He does things in a quiet way," Christoff said. "But the kids have a great deal of respect for him."

Young may get even better as a senior.

"I'm not surprised at what he did this year," Christoff said. "I hope he can do the same next year."

"He's got good goal vision."

KEVIN SITTS
Forward, Novi

The senior seemed to have a nose for the ball. Christoff said Sitts wasn't afraid to mix it up on the offensive end.

"He's one of the most recognizable players in the KVC," said South Lyon coach Bill Stenvic.

"He's got speed and super athletic ball well."

Joe Schmitz made all-area second team for his work at forward this fall.

Three Wildcats make second squad

With only three seniors in the lineup, the Novi News' East All-Area soccer second team looks to hold the future for many years.

A bevy of juniors and even a sophomore back the lineup to give the second team all-around skill and awesome potential for 1994.

Matt Schwagle and Joe Schmitz add scoring punch to our second team. Schwagle, from Northville, scored a half dozen while Novi's Schmitz netted nine. Lakeland's Paul Graves adds scoring punch to the forward lineup.

Four fighting fullbacks find their way into the squad, including Milford's Mike Canadaria, Brandon Worback, Lakeland's Aaron Rizak and South Lyon's Jeremy McDonald.

Goalkeeper Joe Myers was tough to beat in Mustangs would be able to take advantage of his skills more fully from that position.

PAUL GRAVES

Forward, Lakeland

A junior sub-captain, Graves spent the year coordinating the Eagle offense from midfield. We switched him to forward to take advantage of his quarterbacking skills and his knack for racking up points.

"He's a great player," said Northville coach Doug Lyon. "He has great skills and could be a superstar if he played all year."

Schwagle, who is one of Michigan's best high school tennis players, will likely move into the halfback slot full time next fall. Lyon said the

Young, Sitts earn first team honors

"He's a guy that does all the work to set up goals," he added. "He's a real steady player."

Sitts scored 10 goals and six assists from his halfback slot. Christoff said he was a good offensive player.

JASON HOWARD

Halfback, Milford

With graduation losses Milford was left with a big hole in the middle of the field. Howard moves up from sweeper to quarterback the team as center-midfielder.

This year he needed good midfield. Milford coach Robert Mazur said his job "went well."

Howard, a senior captain, had eight goals and 12 assists on the season.

"He's a very good player," Mazur said. "He has good speed, jumping and dribbling ability and he's always thinking."

BO FOWLER

Halfback, Northville

Fowler was one of the WLA's very best players. A senior, he was named to all the all-conference team scoring seven goals and six assists.

"He dominated games," said Lyon. "His biggest assets are his skill and determination. He really gave up."

Even halfback, Fowler was a main gun in Northville's offense. Lyon said forwards often passed the ball back to him to take the shot.

ROB NELSON

Fullback, Northville

Nelson, a senior, served as the Mustangs' stopper on defense. Even with his defensive role, he scored a respectable three goals and five assists.

"That's fantastic from that position," Lyon said.

The coach said Nelson did a good job of shutting down enemy goal scorers.

"He's a player well miss," Lyon said. "Rob is a tough and physical player."

Nelson was named to the all-Western Division team along with Tolstid.

DAVE ROSSING

Fullback, Northville

A two-year starter for the Mustangs, Rossing was rock solid at fullback. Although he didn't register a goal, he said he helped offensively by pinching in and providing another passing option.

Rossing's maturity as a player also helped to steady the Mustangs on defense.

"He's a tall and tough player," said Lyon.

Also a senior, he made honorable mention for All-Western Division.

STEVE CRAMER

Goalkeeper, South Lyon

A two-time All-KVC pick, Cramer was a record-setting stopper in 1992. With most of his defense from a last year lost to graduation, his stats weren't nearly as good.

He didn't have as strong of a defense as last year, Steven said.

"He's very good at placing the ball," he added.

JEREMY MCDONALD

Defender, South Lyon

This senior had his hands full and helped the South Lyon defense.

"He's a very strong player," Steven said. "He makes excellent decisions and he works hard."

YOUNG, SITTS

Forward, Northville

Lyon described the junior as an offensive halfback.

"His skill work is one of the best on our team," he said. "What he lacks in speed he makes up for in ball control."

Topous scored two goals and a lot of assists. Lyon said he earned a lot of points off of corner kicks.

"He's very good at placing the ball," he added.

JASON MACIVER

Halfback, Northville

A late season eye-injury slowed the junior. But Lyon said his two goals and nine assists were very respectable numbers.

"I think he would have done even better without the injury," he added.

TOPOUS

Midfielder, Milford

Topous was a record-setting stopper in 1992. With most of his defense from a last year lost to graduation, his stats weren't nearly as good.

He didn't have as strong of a defense as last year, Steven said.

"He's very good at placing the ball," he added.

DAVE ZYCZYNSKI

Halfback, Northville

A two-year starter for the Mustangs, Zycynski was a pillar of strength for the Wildcats. The senior played the demanding center half-back position with style.

"He played every game strong," said Christoff.

Zycynski managed five goals and 10 assists. Christoff said it often didn't take long for him to adjust his game to particular opponents.

Defensive back Mike Hicks was one of the bright spots for Novi this year.

Fumbles, penalties, dropped passes and interceptions characterized the play. Sill was one of the few bright spots of the game. He rushed for 120 yards on 34 attempts.

Fischer led a strong defensive effort with 15 tackles. Serra and Jeff Pahl also made interceptions.

SOUTH LYON 28, NOVI 27

So much for the defense. The Wildcats played their second straight road game and had a chance to win in the final minutes.

Trailing 28-27 with less than three minutes left, Novi moved from its own 27-yard-line to the Lions' 33. But an interception ended the Wildcats last-minute bid and absorbed the one-point loss.

Led by Serra, the offense did get untracked. He scored a pair of touchdowns while throwing for another. Serra completed 14 of 18 passes for 235 yards.

South Lyon scored the winning points on a two-point conversion.

NOVI 29, MT. MORRIS 7

Novi kept its offense in high gear for the home opener Sept. 17.

Coach John Osborne went back to an old staple — the option — for the game. Serra ran the offense to perfection waiting for just the right moment to pitch it to Sill or break off a run himself. In all, the Wildcats ran for more than 200 yards.

After a Mt. Morris touchdown on the opening play of the game, Novi rattled off 29 straight points.

Brandon Spence scored a pair of touchdowns while the Wildcats also scored nine points defensively on a safety and another Harrington interception return.

MILFORD 26, NOVI 7

Perhaps more than any other, this is the one that stung the Wildcats the most. Osborne planned on a victory over the Redskins but got a bad defeat instead.

The visitors simply ran over, around and through Novi. Using a big size advantage, Milford scored each of its touchdowns via the ground game.

"They owned the line of scrimmage and were able to execute both offensively and defensively," Osborne said of the game. "They beat us in every category."

NOVI 36, LAKELAND 22

The Wildcats got their first KVC victory on Oct. 1 on the road.

Wroe and Csordas helped put the game away for Novi. With the game tied at 14 in the third quarter, Wroe scored on a 91-yard kickoff return.

Csordas followed with a nine-yard touchdown run on the next possession. He also scored on a 19-yard pass from Serra.

The game marked Novi's last time above the .500 mark for the season at 3-2.

BRIGHTON 28, NOVI 21

The green and white deserved better on Oct. 8.

Trailing 21-7, Serra led a great comeback by Novi. He connected with receivers Wroe and Gavigan to tie the score early in the fourth quarter.

Which broker is best for the buyer?

By James M. Woodard
Copley News Service

Many home buyers find and purchase their new residence through a real estate broker who legally represents the home seller-owner. In recent years, a debate has been brewing throughout the country regarding broker representation.

Are property buyers who work with a broker who legally represents the seller really getting a bad deal?

This question has puzzled many people when reading conflicting reports on the subject. It became such a big issue a few years ago that several states passed legislation that required real estate brokers to disclose to clients whether they legally represented the buyer, seller or were serving in a dual agency capacity.

For decades, a typical situation generally followed these steps: A family moves to a new city and needs a home. They see an interesting ad in the local newspaper and call the broker listed in the ad.

The family subsequently works with this broker in inspecting the property and negotiating a price and terms for purchasing the home.

In most cases, that broker legally represents the property seller (owner). He is either the listing agent, working under the terms of a listing contract with the owner, or a subagent to the listing broker.

There are often two brokers directly involved in the sale of a home. One listed the property and submitted it to the area multiple listing service (MLS). The other is the "cooperating broker"—usually a fellow member of the MLS—who sold the property. In most cases, both of these brokers legally represent the seller (the owner who signed the listing contract).

The recent fuss about representation has spawned a new breed of broker—one who represents the buyer exclusively. And many brokers now offer themselves in either capacity, as a seller or buyer representative. It's an open window of

Column entrance marks Splawn's grand design

By James McAlexander
Copley News Service

Grand. That word springs instantly to mind on viewing the Splawn's classic columned entrance.

Regal Palladian windows overarch a wide door flanked with stacked windows. The columns are capped by a high gable. Lesser arches trim the three garage doors, adding grace and unifying the exterior.

While the vaulted entry hall is equally dramatic, it also has its practical aspect. A coat closet is tucked into an alcove hidden by the open door.

A second-story bridge overlooks both the entry hall and the large, vaulted living room at the rear. Plants placed here trail down the walls, creating an arbor effect. The bridge leads to a single room that could be put to a number of uses, including artist's studio, recreation room or hobby space. It has a half-bathroom in one corner.

French doors on two sides of the living room open onto decks, the left one larger than the right.

A wood-burning stove angles across one corner of the room, providing a warm focal point on chilly days. In the large country kitchen, another set of French doors opens the bayed eating nook to the deck. Meals, and even the kitchen table, can be easily moved outside when the temperature rises.

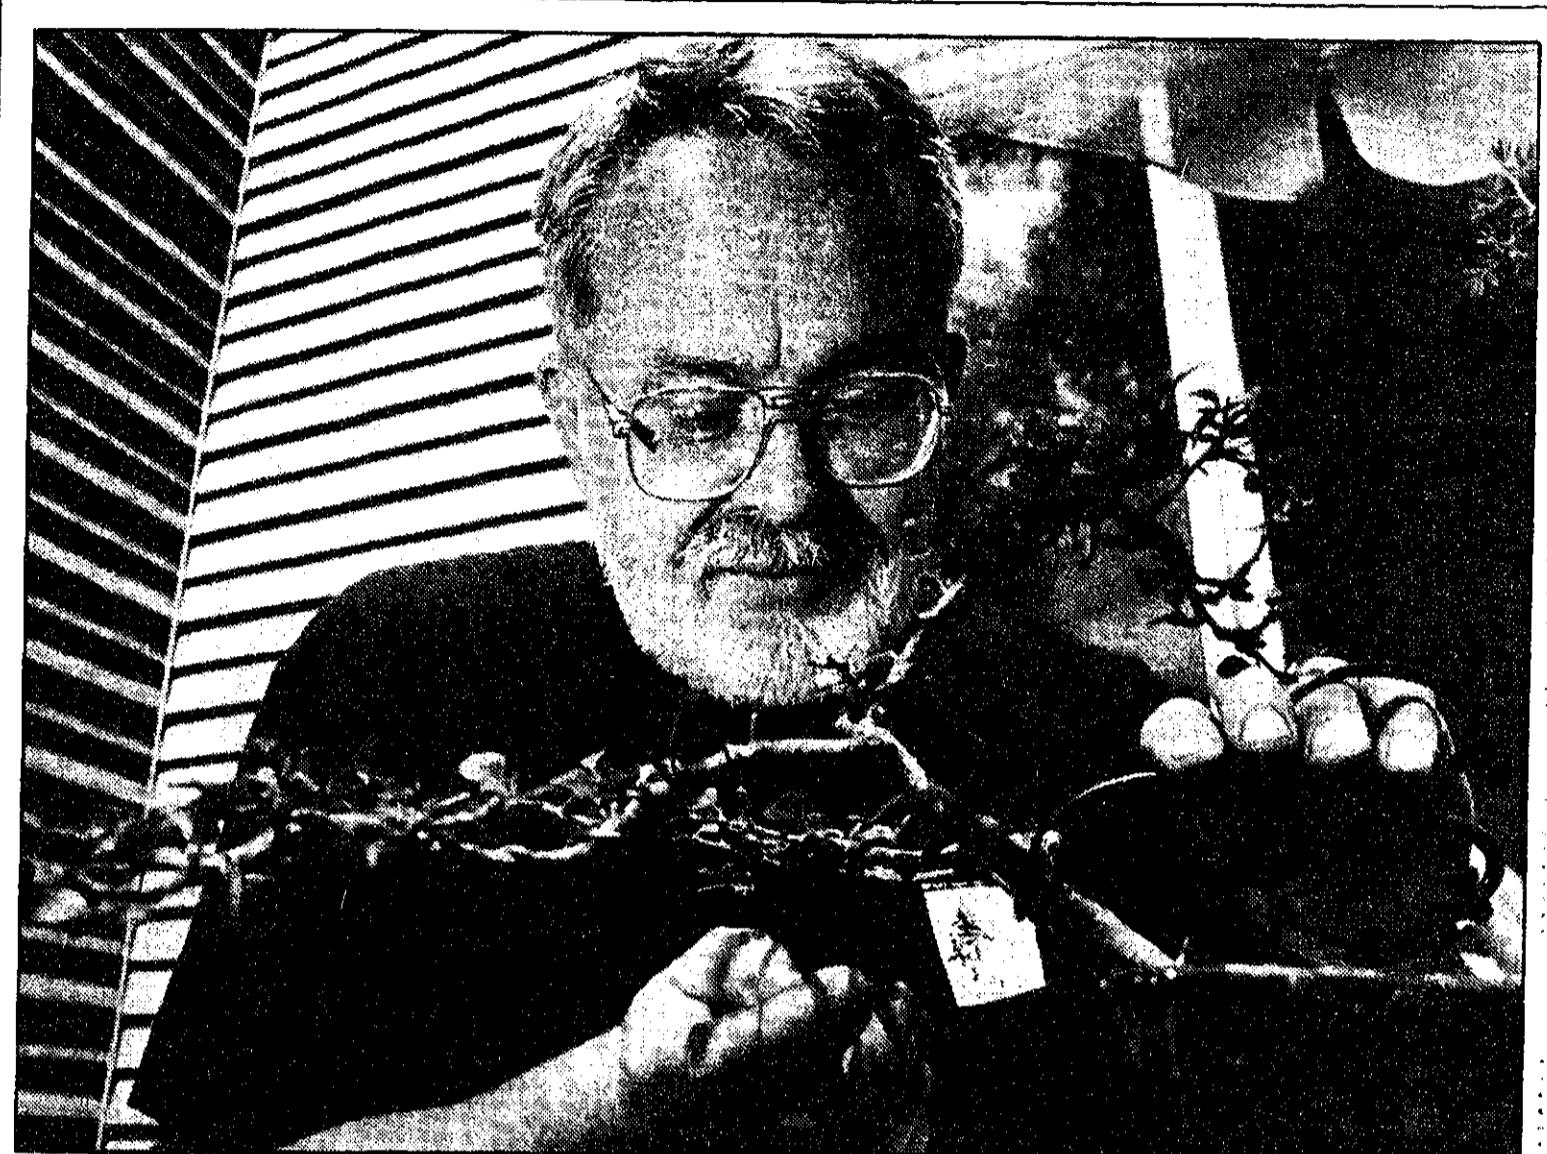

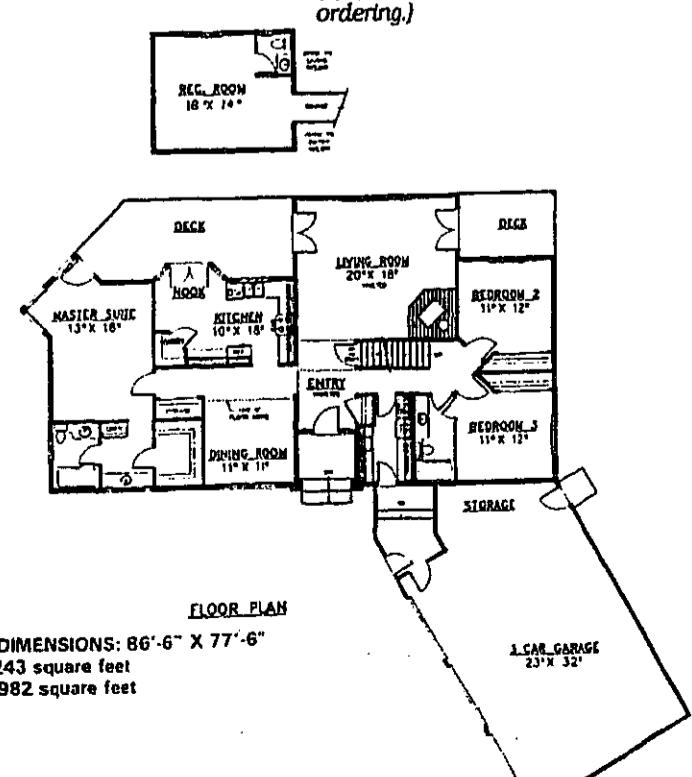

Other features include a built-in dishwasher, range and oven and a step-in pantry. A formal dining room is right across the hall.

The master suite is expanded by a richly glazed sitting area that opens onto the deck. Luxury amenities include a large walk-in closet and a two-section bathroom with a linen closet and a second basin in the dressing area.

Another notable feature of the Splawn is the mud room, entered through a door that's located between the entrance and the garage. Placing a bench on the stoop would provide a seat for removing messy footwear as well as a place to stow those items while they dry out.

Interior doors open to the garage on one side, and a utility room on the other. The utility room has long counters for folding clothes.

For a study plan of the Splawn (40-1-38), send $7.50 to Landmark Designs, c/o HomeTown Newspapers, 323 E. Grand River Ave., Howell, MI 48843. (Be sure to specify plan name and number when ordering.)

Attracting beneficial insects

By C.Z. Guest
Copley News Service

Insects are amazing creatures. They can be found in every ecological niche and make up almost half of all living things on Earth.

Insects can affect man both directly and indirectly. While many people think of insects as destructive or obnoxious pests, most insects are beneficial. Without the pollinating services of bees and other insects, man would have few fruits, vegetables or field crops.

Commercial products, such as silk, honey and shellac, are insect byproducts. At the least, insects are important as scavengers and for food for birds and fish.

One area where insects are important is in natural control of pest insect species. Beneficial insects help keep pest populations in balance because many insects are predators, and others are parasites.

Predatory insects are free-living organisms, which attack and feed upon other insects. Predators are usually larger than their prey and require more than one prey to complete their life cycle. Ladybird beetles are a good example of a predatory insect.

Parasitic wasps (or parasitoids as they are properly called) live in or on the bodies of their hosts. They may be the same size or smaller than the host and will feed on the host insect, weakening and finally killing it. They require only one host to complete their development. Many species of wasps are parasitoids. These beneficial wasps do not sting.

The applied use of beneficial insects to control pest populations dates back to 1888 when the Vedalia lady beetle was imported from Australia to control cottony cushion scale on fruit in California.

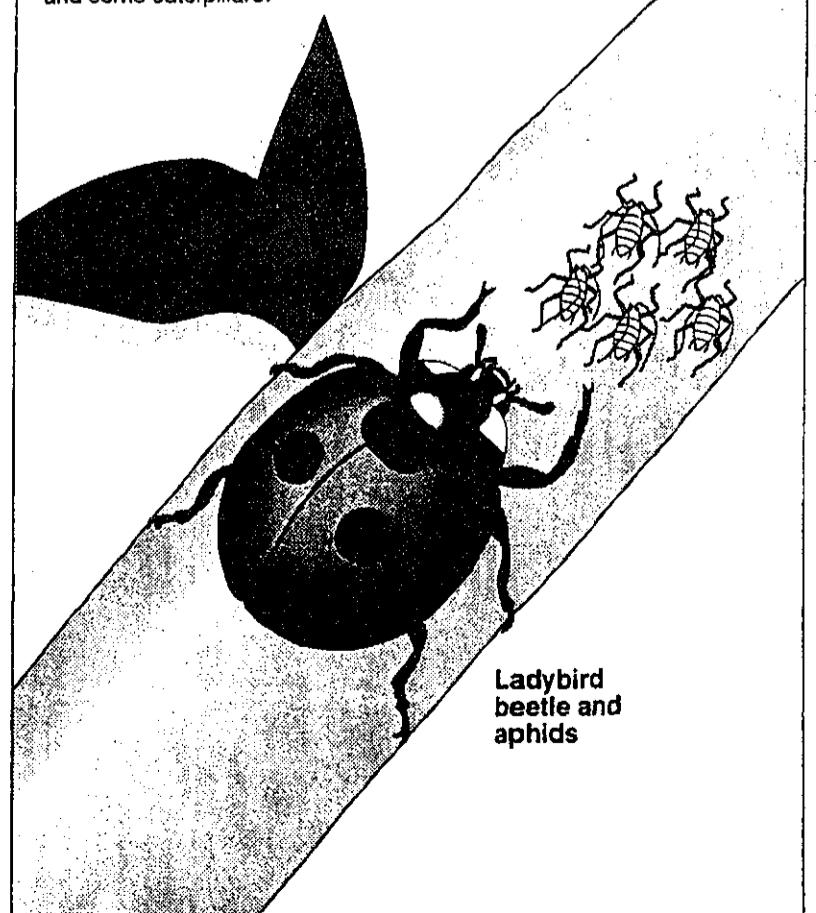

On a smaller scale, beneficial insects occur naturally where their host food source is found in sufficient numbers to support their populations. The home gardener can take several steps to encourage, conserve and enhance populations of beneficial insects.

Avoid measures that will destroy beneficials as well as pests. Try alternate methods of pest management such as hand-picking, sticky traps, insecticide soap spray or Bacillus thuringiensis (B.t.).

If an insecticide application is necessary, make a spot treatment rather than a broad-scale application. Try to select a material with a short residu-

Helpful insects

- Use hand-picking, sticky traps or insecticide soap spray to remove pests without harming helpful bugs.
- Plant a diversified garden to attract many different bugs.
- Ladybugs feed on aphids, scale insects, mealybugs and spider mites.
- Ground beetles hunt cutworms, earwigs and some caterpillars.

Northville Gourmet offers many tastes

"You can't work 100 hours in a week and say 'That was great,' unless you really enjoyed it."

"We've been in the states now for seven years, and I think we've found a home."

Or perhaps it has found them.

At the grand opening, a small ceremony was held outside the store. While a light drizzle fell, Cal spoke a few words to gathered visitors before a tree at the east end of the shop's parking lot.

The day we took the keys to the store, a gentleman came in and introduced himself as Gordy." Cal said. "He was the first one to tell us, 'Welcome to Northville.'"

Every morning and evening Gordy would drop in to pick up something, or just pass the time of day. Then, a couple of months ago, the man died.

"Gordy Karschnick is still here today," Cal said. "We see him every morning and every evening. He was a real inspiration to us and this business. We dedicate this tree and this plaque to him."

The plaque bears the inscription, "Gordon Lyle Karschnick. A true friend forever."

Network launches membership drive

The Farmington Hills chapter of "The Business Network", a nationwide business referral organization, recently elected new officers, and embarked on an aggressive membership campaign.

The chapter currently has 18 members from 10 neighboring communities. These business people, each from a different profession, meet weekly in an effort to increase their business, through a mutual referral system.

Newly elected officers are: President Mark Ephraim, Vice President of the New Brandy's Flowers in Walled Lake; Vice President Patricia Stahl, President of Stahl Associates Inc. in Birmingham; and Treasurer Mark Aretha, district manager for ADP in Allen Park.

The Farmington Hills chapter, which is one of 3 Metro Detroit area chapters, holds weekly, Wednesday morning meetings, at the Tollgate 4-H Education Center in Novi.

Founded in 1985, this unique marketing service has generated an unbelievable number of business leads. In fact, last year alone, members of the nationwide group passed on 177,000 leads to each other, which generated an estimated $55 million worth of business.

Locally, during just the past month alone, members of the Farmington Hills chapter exchanged more than 120 potential business leads.

For additional information and/or an invitation to one of the weekly meetings, please call 642-7725.

THE REAL COST OF CREDIT CARDS

The lowering of interest rates by banks and other lenders generally has not been reflected in the rates charged by credit card issuers. Interest rates on credit cards tend to be higher than the rates charged on some bank loans. What's more, the interest you pay on credit card balances and other consumer loans is no longer tax-deductible.

If you can't do without the convenience of credit cards, be sure you take the time to compare your cards' annual fees, interest rates, methods for computing interest, and grace periods with those of other cards.

How much interest you're actually paying depends, in part, on the credit card issuer's method for computing interest. Many companies charge an annual percentage rate using the adjusted balance method. This means you are charged interest on what you owe after subtracting your payment from the previous balance. Another way of computing interest and one that is less favorable to you is the previous balance method. With this method, you are charged interest based on your balance at the end of the previous month, regardless of any payments made during that month.

Some credit card issuers charge an interest based on your average daily balance. The credit card issuer will add your balance each day, divide it by the number of days in the billing period, and charge you interest on the average balance.

WHEN PERSONAL LOANS CAN HELP

If you're having trouble paying off your debts, you may want to consider taking out a personal loan to consolidate them. However, be aware that while personal loans are a valuable source of credit, they tend to be an expensive way to borrow money. The interest rates on personal loans can be several percentage points higher than the interest rates on home equity loans.

KNOW YOUR CREDIT LIMITS

Cards suggest that you limit the amount of your debt payments, excluding a mortgage, to 20 percent of your after-tax income. They also suggest that you keep track of your outstanding debts and make it a priority to pay off those with the highest interest rates first.
