Doctor acquitted in Hyde's death

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Heidi Fernandez held on so tightly Monday to the hand of Tom Hyde's health care worker Calvin Thurman that he finally protested.

"You don't want me to go to jail, do you?" Fernandez asked, meaning that if she let out the big whoop of joy she was suppressing, she'd likely be cited for contempt of court.

The verdict was in on Dr. Jack Kevorkian. "Not guilty" of violating Michigan's assisted suicide ban when he helped Hyde, Fernandez's fiancé, die on August 4, 1993.

Detroit Recorder's Court Judge Thomas Jackson called in a mini-army of Wayne County Sheriff's Deputies to keep order when the decision was read. He'd been firm throughout the two-week trial that he did not want emotional demonstrations in his courtroom.

That couldn't keep Fernandez and Kevorkian's assistant and best friend Neal Nicol — both key defense witnesses in the trial — from

Parking problem triggers denial

By SHARON CONDRON

The attorney for Cort Furniture Rental failed to convince the Novi Planning Commission that his client does not need the number of parking spaces that city zoning laws require.

Despite repeated attempts by Cort's counsel to sell the commissioners on the plan, Novi planners denied the request for preliminary site plan approval on Wednesday, April 27.

Commissioners sided with Planning Consultant Brandon Rogers who argued that the building was too big for the lot and there was not adequate parking for the planned B-3 use.

Rogers contended the lot, north of Grand River Avenue between Maxm Office and the Cedar Ridge shopping center, is too small for the size of the building Cort Furniture envisioned there.

In addition, Rogers said Cort's plans fell 120 parking spaces short of what the city would require.

The rental company planned 80 spaces, but Rogers contended it has to provide enough spaces for the building in case it is ever converted to another use.

"If it goes to a retail use this property does not have enough parking," Rogers said. "You have more than a 120-space deficiency under the ordinance. You have only 80 spaces. You need enough for 200-plus spaces (as well as) handicap parking."

Cort representatives argued that the plan's 74-76 spaces was plenty for a business that attracts little pedestrian traffic. Since the majority of the business' square footage is reserved for warehouse and storage operations, there's little room for the showroom that would be open to foot traffic from the public.

But the commission wasn't buying. Rogers told the applicant he had at least two other options — build a smaller building or seek a variance.

Commissioner Eda Weddington agreed. "I agree that the building is over built and too large for the lot," she said. Planners denied the request, 9-0.

Husband fires shots at wife's beau

By RANDY COBLE

A West Bloomfield man was arrested and charged with attempted murder after he and his private investigator apparently tracked down his wife's alleged boyfriend and fired two shots at the man in Novi on March 29.

But since the victim invoked the Fifth Amendment and refused to testify against the suspect at an April 22 trial, the case was adjourned until May 20.

It will resume in 52-1 District Court in Judge Brian MacKenzie's courtroom.

According to the police report the suspect, Gioko Perkovic, found the victim, Nikola Luljuraj of Sterling Heights, seated in the passenger's seat of his wife's car on March 29.

His wife, Linda Perkovic was behind the wheel.

Luljuraj told police he and Linda Perkovic had just finished test driving a car he was interested in buying and were parked on Heslip Drive on the north side of Crown Lift Trucks discussing the vehicle.

During that time, her husband approached the passenger's side of the car and attempted to open the door. When he couldn't gain entry, Gioko Perkovic allegedly kicked the window of the woman's 1991 Acura Integra several times before Luljuraj noticed he had a Browning black semi-automatic, .45 caliber handgun in his right hand.

Luljuraj pushed the suspect away from the car with the passenger door so the two could flee the scene.

Gioko Perkovic then allegedly fired a single shot into the car which police later found behind the driver's seat. As the woman pulled away, her husband fired another shot at the car as he chased it on foot.

The two headed southbound on Heslip and then stopped a police sergeant for help.

Gioko Perkovic reportedly was picked up by Charles Martell, a private investigator he had hired, who was driving a maroon Ford van on northbound Meadowbrook.

Luljuraj returned with police to the scene to show officers the shell casings that were fired by the suspect. One casing was found near the Crown factory. A second was found in the middle of Heslip Drive.

Luljuraj returned to the station and filed a report against the Gioko Perkovic. Police later ar-

Council rolls back millage rate in '94-95

By JAN JEFFRES
Staff Writer

Novi has a 1994-95 budget, in part due to some "backroom" horse-trading council members engaged in during a break in a tense meeting last week.

The millage rate was set at 10.3543 per each $1,000 of state equalized valuation of property — in other words, a city tax of $766 for a $150,000 home. Last year's millage was 10.40, a $780 tax.

While the council handily passed the massive financial plan by a five-to-two vote Monday, it wasn't that easy on April 28, when Council Member Rob Mitzel kept pitching proposals until one finally stuck.

One key philosophical split focuses on whether the city should keep taxes at last year's level and live off of its revenue from new construction. This year, that's $500,000.

The state Truth-in-Taxation law rolls back the city millage based on the value of new construction, but the council has the option of rising above the formula following a public hearing.

"We're all suffering from the current taxation climate in the State of Michigan which has our citizens standing in front of us saying don't say 'tax' to us. I think we have to spend more money."

Mayor Pro Tem Hugh Crawford and Mayor Kathleen McLallen contend that keeping the millage down is hurting city services, although McLallen approved the budget.

"I've got to get a budget passed," she said Tuesday.

Accident evidence aides prosecution

By SHARON CONDRON

The motorist who killed the driver of an oncoming car and seriously wounded the passenger in Wixom on Sept. 7, 1991 is now serving 25-35 years in Jackson State Prison.

Wixom police officers who helped to convict the driver say evidence obtained at the scene was critical to the Oakland County's Prosecutors case.

The fatal accident case was used Wednesday night to illustrate the importance of accident investigations to students in the Lakes Area Citizens Police Academy.

The man was convicted on four felony counts including murder in the second degree and felonious driving. The other two counts were for fleeing an officer after causing serious bodily injury to another person.

The driver was legally drunk, Wixom Police Officer Alan Blashfield said, and traveling an estimated 93 miles per hour at nightfall.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Pontiac Trail and Indian Trail.

Blashfield said the driver of the other car obeyed the stop sign but pulled out in front of the speeding motorist who was traveling east on Pontiac Trail. She did not see the speeding car because its driver did not have the headlights on.

The victim died when her car was hit broadside with "violent force," the officer said. Her passenger was hospitalized for three weeks with a closed head injury and other serious wounds.

Blashfield was one of three guest speakers who lectured the citizens' class, now in its third week of an 11-week course. The academy is a joint venture of the Novi, Wixom and Walled Lake police departments. It is designed to give residents an inside view of police operations.

Blashfield told students Wednesday he pursued the case and sought the maximum penalty

Novi Police to host memorial services

By SHARON CONDRON Staff Writer

Novi Police will host a memorial service for three officers killed in the line of duty on May 16.

None of the officers being remembered were Novi officers said Novu Sergeant Bob Gatt. But that doesn't lessen the importance of the memorial service for anyone, Gatt said.

"It is an event we believe strongly in and an event we feel is very important," Gatt said Tuesday. "We've been very fortunate not to have any of our officers seriously injured in Novi during my career. But we know anything is possible. That's why it is important to support a ceremony of this type."

Michigan State Police Trooper Byron J. Erickson, Detroit Police Officer Norman E. Spruiell and Manistee Police Officer Robin Arnold will be the three officers honored.

Police officers from all over South-eastern Michigan are expected to attend the 10:30 a.m. ceremony.

Gov. John Engler will be the keynote speaker at the 14th annual memorial day event. Remarks will also be made by Detroit's Chief of Police Isaiiah McKinnon and Novi's own Chief Douglas Sheaffer.

"We are expecting a large police turnout," Gatt said.

The Novi High School Band will perform and there will be a 21 gun salute in honor of the slain officers.

There will also be an open house at the station for all who attend the memorial service.

Novu's event is being coordinated with the national memorial services for officers killed across the country which is being held in Washington D.C. on May 14.

The annual event is the 14th of its kind and is being planned as part of the 32nd annual anniversary of Police Week.

The week was designated 32 years ago by President John F. Kennedy under a presidential proclamation.

The former president declared May 15 the day the country would mourn the loss of those who gave their lives as police officers.

Woman racks up string of charges

Police News

Police arrested a woman for disorderly conduct and possession of cocaine after she allegedly got disruptive and violent in the Big Boy Restaurant at Eight Mile and Haggerty Road on April 17.

The woman who admitted to police that she had smoked cocaine before she entered the restaurant told police she had eaten someone else's food at the Big Boy before she started overturning tables there.

The woman also picked fights with three of the waitresses at the restaurant. Witnesses said the woman punched one waitress in the face, pulled the hair of another and showed a third in the chest.

Police pulled over the woman after she attempted to flee the scene at a high rate of speed. The woman appeared dazed when officers stopped her. A search of the car netted police a baggy with cocaine with a razor blade inside it. A pat down search of the driver revealed another baggy with cocaine and a large roll of cash inside.

Police also found an allegedly stolen credit card and an ATM receipt she apparently used to take money from another person's bank account.

The woman was arrested for possession of cocaine and disorderly conduct. A vein check indicated she had several other outstanding warrants against her from Farmington Hills and Livonia. She was booked in Novi and ticketed before police from Farmington Hills came to pick her up.

BREAK-INS: A LeBar homeowner believes a long-time friend of his who may have used a house key to enter his home and steal more than $420 worth of entertainment equipment.

The homeowner told police he realized on April 16 that he was missing a house key before he left the home for two hours with friends. When he returned home, someone had stolen a VCR and stereo.

The man told police he believes a long-time friend of his who has a key to his home may be responsible for the missing items since there was no sign of forced entry into the home.

MORE DOMESTIC DISPUTES: The victim of an apparent domestic dispute refused to cooperate with police after they arrested her boyfriend for assault and battery April 20.

The victim said she received a telephone call from a former boyfriend that sparked a verbal altercation between her and her current boyfriend. The couple took the verbal dispute into the bedroom to avoid playing it out in front of his friends. In the bedroom, the woman said the man pinned her down on the bed until a friend of his heard her cries for help and pulled him off of her.

The suspect called police for medical assistance because he thought he injured his girlfriend's arms. Police arrived at the home and arrested the boyfriend for abuse/assault and battery.

Once in custody, the boyfriend allegedly threatened to kill the woman, any of his relatives and himself. Police asked the victim for her statement but she refused after the man was taken to the station.

ASSIST MALL SECURITY: Police held a man in custody on the suspicion that he was in possession of marijuana at Twelve Oaks Mall on Sunday, April 17.

Mail security called police to the parking lot near Hudson's after officers there noticed a suspicious man sitting on the hood of a white Mustang. Police approached the man and questioned him before they were given permission to search the vehicle. A search of the car netted police five partial marijuana cigarettes.

The man was detained until the 30-year-old owner of the car returned from the mall and admitted that the cigarettes were hers. The woman was arrested for possession of marijuana. The man was released of the scene.

BREAK-IN AT TRAILER: A local landscaping supply company was the victim of a break-in on April 16. Police say an open window on the enclosed storage trailer was the point of entry. Company officials say more than $3,000 worth of landscaping equipment, tools and cash were taken from the trailer. Police have no leads in the case.

RECOVERED STOLEN MOTORCYCLE: The owner of a 1987 Yamaha motorcycle found his missing bike laying in a field behind his home on April 22. The handle bars were missing and wires on the bike had been tampered with, police say.

FAMILY DISPUTE: A father was arrested for assault and battery after he repeatedly choked his son in the family's home on April 21.

Police were called to the home and greeted by the father who admitted to grabbing and choking his son because he "pissed me off." The son had visible signs of the attack on his neck, head and ears when police found him. His sister confirmed the details as did the victim's mother and grandmother.

Police said the two were arguing in the kitchen when the father grabbed his son by the throat lifted him up and then threw him into the refrigerator. The man's wife tried to intervene to no avail. The son escaped into the living room but not before his father managed to grab him by the neck a second time.

The son freed himself and escaped through a bedroom window.

The father was arrested for assault and battery.

The father was arrested for assault and battery.

MORE DOMESTIC DISPUTES: A son, reportedly upset about his parents' recent divorce, allegedly dragged his girlfriend by the legs to the front door of the family's home and tossed her out onto the porch.

A neighbor heard the woman screaming and called police anonymously on April 29. According to the police report, the couple was at a local bar when the woman refused to leave. The man left her there and walked home. She returned later and was reportedly intoxicated. The man asked her to leave on several occasions but she refused. She told police he got angry with her and then dragged her out onto the front porch.

The woman didn't wish to press charges because she believed the man was angry at his parents not at her.

Police arrested him for assault and battery.

OTHER DOMESTIC CASES: A man said he feared for his life after he and his wife engaged in an April 18 conversation about death, dying and his need to be closer to Jesus.

The wife said she tried to talk to her husband about Jesus and tell him not to fear dying before he got angry and physically forced her out of the home. The woman was barefoot and in her nightgown when police found her next door.

She says he was angry about the content of the discussion but he says he feared for his life because of it. The husband told police he dragged her by her wrists downstairs and outside of the home because he was scared. He said the entire time she talked to him she was eyeballing a set of kitchen knives. He said he thought she was going to hurt him. But the woman said she never reached for a knife or threatened the man.

He was arrested for assault and battery.

Blood drive: The Orchard Hills PTO will be sponsoring a blood drive on behalf of the American Red Cross from 3-9 p.m. May 19 at the school. Walk-ins are welcome.

Spring and summer are the seasons when blood supplies are in the highest demand, because of injuries suffered while people active out-of-doors, explained drive organizer Mary Bohme. It is also the time when donations dip because many regular givers are distracted by those same outdoors activities.

The Orchard Hills PTO had more than 30 promised donations before setting up the drive at the elementary building, located at 41900 Quince. But Bohme said she is hoping walk-in donations will boost the amount given in the drive.

Pet food drive: Through the month of May, The Olive Garden Restaurant at 43300 Crescent Boulevard in Novi is holding a pet food drive for the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society's animal shelter. The employees at the restaurant are setting up a display in the lobby of the Novi eatery featuring their own pets. As an added incentive to help homeless animals, The Olive Garden will be giving a free dessert to those patrons who donate pet food.

Information about the Michigan Anti-Cruelty Society will also be available at the restaurant. Bill Khoury, manager of The Olive Garden, can be contacted at 348-4279 for more information about this charitable event.

Creative minds: The Southwestern Oakland Cable Commission's Community Access Computer Group is looking for creative minds. You can be part of an informal and creative team.

The group is developing a database of graphic images on the Amiga platform. However, graphic images created on IBM or Macintosh systems are easily converted to use.

More information? Call Mark at (810)349-2666. Next meeting of the group is Tuesday, March 8 at 7 p.m. at 24021 Research Drive, Farmington Hills.

PTO opens doors to '94 Spring Fling

Board games will be the theme of this year's Spring Fling at Village Oaks Elementary on Friday, May 6.

In preparation for the event, school staffers have decorated the hallways to resemble the classic board games. Classrooms will be transformed into game rooms.

That means which ever hallway players pick a new game awaits. Pick the kindergarten hall and visit "Candy Land." Choose the first grade wing and step carefully around the "Chutes & Ladders." When stepping near the second graders hall, do not pass go and do not collect $200 because it's a "Monopoly."

Third graders will be filling their slates with wooden tiles in preparation for "Scrabble" and be ready to checkmate in the fourth grade Chess and Checkers hall.

The Spring Fling is an annual fundraising event hosted by the school's PTO. This year it's open from 5:30-9 p.m.

There will be a haunted house and Zippy the Clown will be on hand to make animal balloons. The PTO will be raffling off a bike, a 127 key keyboard, in-line skates, Tigers tickets and a host of other prizes.

Proceeds from the event will be used to sponsor special school events, buy books, playground equipment and computers for the students at Village Oaks.

It's a great night organizers say for the entire family with games, prizes, raffles and food.

Village Oaks Elementary is located at 2333 Willowbrook.

Taking aim

The games at the Novi Woods Fun Fair take a great deal of skill. That's why Novi kindergarten Kellie Walker slowly takes aim to get her best shot. Walker is a student in Mr. Nanase's kindergarten class as Novi Woods. The Fun Fair was held at the school last week.

Republican bill limits campaign contributions

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Legislative Republicans gleefully passed a campaign reform finance bill that will drastically curb organized labor's contributions to Democratic candidates.

"Thank partnership," said Sen. Jack Faxon, D-Farmington Hills. "This really does destroy the playing field. I think it is wrong. It makes me sick," said Sen. Fred Dillingham, R-Fowlerville, the only Republican to vote against the measure. A few days later, Dillingham, facing a stiff primary challenge, announced he would return from the Legislature.

"It will let people know who sponsors a PAC (political action committee)," said Rep. Frank Fitzgerald, R-Grand Ledge. No. 3 in the GOP hierarchy, "Groups under similar control will be limited to a $5,000 contribution to House members."

The guts of House Bill 5416, now on its way to Gov. John Engler's certain signature, are that a parent union would be limited to giving $5,000 to a candidate. Locals of the same union would be unable to donate. The bill also will limit union dues checkoff procedures.

"So there is one PAC limit for the entire union for the whole state," said Sen. Debbie Stabenow, D-Lansing. "That union can be working in thousands of corporations. Each corporation is allowed to set up their own PAC. So you have thousands of businesses that can each set up their own PACs and, at most, 100 PACs for unions."

A gubernatorial hopeful, Stabenow said the bill would limit United Auto Workers to one PAC but give Chrysler, General Motors, Ford and individual companies one PAC each. "So now every single insurance company in the state can have a PAC," she said.

Rep. Kirk Proffitt, D-Ypsilanti, said the GOP bill will make campaigns more corrupt.

"The primary cause of corruption," he said, "is the excessive amount of money flowing in exponentially increasing amounts into candidate committees and officeholder expense funds. This will actually increase the amount of money in the election process," said Proffitt, a declared congressional candidate.

The Senate passed the bill with 20 Republican votes against 14 Democratic and one Republican vote. Two Democrats were absent.

Late the same evening, the House took a dozen Democratic amendments and passed the bill by 54 Republican votes to 40 Democratic votes.

All area representatives voted with their parties.

Republicans kept one session going until 1:10 a.m. to pass another anti-Democratic measure, Senate Bill 3, which removes political parties, candidate committees and ballot issue committees from the list of charitable groups eligible to run bingos.

The 55-40 House vote also followed party lines.

That bill, previously passed by the Senate, is expected to cost Democrats from Oakland and Macomb counties millions in revenue. In most major counties, the Democratic Party outranks churches and civic clubs as the biggest operator of bingo games.

House action on the two campaign bills and the bill to curb teachers union bargaining power came while the GOP had a temporary 55-52 majority due to three vacancies in districts held by Democrats. Voters last week filled those seats with Democrats, restoring the 55-55 logjam that existed previously.

Bidding war

Ron Heslop, owner of Heslop's chinaware store in the Novi Town Center, will keep his name on that little road that circles the Civic Center for another year. But this time, he had to pay dearly for it. During the Novi Chamber of Commerce's charity auction and big band dance at the Expo Center April 16, Heslop got into a bidding war with Dr. Allen Tuchklaper over buying the name of the road. Heslop bought the road name last year, and he got it again but for a price of $3,000 this time. Or maybe it was the lunch with the mayor that comes with it that drove up the price.

INTRODUCING The New Life Center at Providence Park

Where families are born...close to home

A COMFORTABLE ATMOSPHERE
Imagine giving birth in a comfortable, home-like atmosphere where you make many of the decisions about your birth experience. And then, think about being able to go home within 24 hours after your baby is born. Well, the New Life Center at Providence Park in Novi offers all that, and it's just minutes from home.

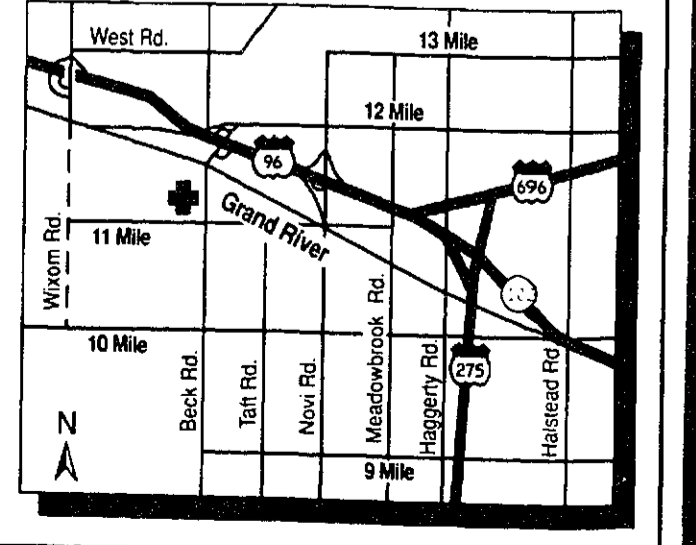

A UNIQUE APPROACH
It's a new beginning. A new way of thinking. And an alternative to traditional hospital births*. The New Life Center at Providence Park was born from the success of the New Life Center at Providence Hospital, where for generations, thousands of women have had wonderful, nurturing, family-centered birth experiences.

THE CHOICES ARE MANY
From the moment you choose to have your baby with us, many decisions are yours. You may choose to go natural or to have an epidural. You may also prefer to share the event with your loved ones. But the best part is giving birth in a relaxed, home-like atmosphere and having your baby by your side. What's more, a nurse will come to your home for private, follow-up visits. Because that's the kind of extra care, attention and education people expect from Providence.

COME SEE FOR YOURSELF. But don't take our word for it. Call 1-800-806-BABY for an appointment to see what the New Life Center at Providence Park has to offer expectant families.

Law seeks to restrict the MEA

Governor John Engler signed into law last week the bill limiting the bargaining power of teachers unions that caused a raucous state Senate session a week earlier and brought a strong reaction from educators across the state.

The bill would fine teachers a day's pay for a day's strike. It would also prohibit unions from bargaining to take away school quality measures that the governor pushed for last year.

The following are some typical questions about the bill readers may have:

Q. Are we correct that Republican support for this bill was soft?
A. Very. Republicans had a 22-16 Senate majority. One GOP seat was vacated when the lawmaker went to Congress.

Two Republicans—Fred Dillingham of Fowlerville and Jon Cisly of Saginaw—voted against the bill. Dillingham considers himself a philosophical Republican but for two years has railed, publicly, against the GOP stand on labor issues—MEA, unemployment comp, auto insurance. Dillingham will have a difficult primary this year. No less a GOP personage than majority floor leader Phil Arthurhuliz put up an amendment that would have eliminated many strikes on MEA power. He voted for the final bill but must have been holding his nose.

In the Senate, Republicans had to truck in the ailing David Honigman from his West Bloomfield sick bed to get their 19th vote. In the House, they had to delay the final vote until 11:55 p.m. to bring in one member from the airport.

Q. The metro media called it the "teachers strike" bill. Your paper omitted that. Is that a significant omission?
A. Teacher strikes are highly emotional but affect only two to 15 districts a year—of 562 public school districts. So strikes aren't that significant overall.

Most reporters failed to read the fine print that is so important to parents, taxpayers and school people. Gov. John Engler clearly has his eye on curbing MEA power to bargain control of school change.

The new law says flatly, "A public school employer has the responsibility, authority, and right to manage and direct" schools. MEA lobbyist Al Short noted that school boards have bargained away these rights. Well, the boards can't do that any more.

You can't make a contract, however willingly, contrary to public policy. Rich folks learned that lesson when Franklin D. Roosevelt took the U.S. off the gold standard and refused to repay bonds in gold.

Q. Engler talked a lot about "school quality" last year. What effect does this law have?
A. It prohibits MEA from even bargaining school quality issues covered by law. Examples:
■ School hours—The Christmas Eve laws say school will be extended from 180 days to more than 200 in steps. MEA can't bargain that.
■ School improvement committees—Site-based decision-making is the rage, and it's a big issue in right-wing circles. MEA can't bargain composition of those committees.
■ Public school academies—School boards can organize any number. MEA can't bargain how many. (On the other hand, the law Engler got says church-related groups can't get charters, and certified teachers must be used.) School boards come out ahead.

■ Experimental and pilot program staffing on technology and delivery of teaching services—MEA can't bargain it.

Q. We've heard talk of cost-cutting...
A. Correction: "Cost containment" is the official jargon. The big one is that MEA can't bargain the policyholder of an employee group insurance benefit. MEA can still bargain the level of benefits, but not the administrator.

Q. MEA types say Engler has awakened "a sleeping giant" which will retaliate against him.

Bank chair digs in heels, fights stockholders on sale

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

No sale, said Robert H. Mylod, embattled chairman of Michigan National Corp.

No special meeting of shareholders to discuss a sale.

No hiring of a consultant to negotiate a sale to eight or nine possible buyers.

"Our customers couldn't care less about all this merger talk," Mylod told shareholders April 19 in a 2 1/2-hour annual meeting in which he was under almost constant fire for the financial reports company's poor earnings service and shrinking number of bank branches.

But one-third of all shares were voted against the unopposed slate of directors supporting Mylod's team, dissenting stockholder Stamford C. Stoddard noted.

"No one told them to vote no," added another dissenter, Bill McMaster. "Your duty is to sell the company to the highest bidder."

Mylod refused to comment on what Stoddard called "the largest vote against management in the history of Michigan banking." But in a news conference afterwards in the Farmington Hills headquarters, Mylod said stockholder concern was "understandable. They were clearly expressing a high level of frustration. I've been disappointed in the last couple of years."

"It (in sale) is not in the best long-term interest of shareholders," added new President Douglas Ebert, saying the staggering bank had "the capability to create a long-term earnings stream."

Wrong, said Michael Price of Heine Securities Corp., the New Jersey-based owner of 5.5 percent of Michigan National's stock. "The underlying value of the corporation is far in excess of what it's trading for (about $63)." Price placed its value in a merger at $95 with the potential price of $115 to $120 by 1996.

"We are not going to stand by while values tread water," Price said. "We're not providing as much access (to consumers)," he said.

Ebert, the president, said consumers are increasingly using such services as Microsoft Money (an on-line computer service) and ultra-premium accounts (combining checking, savings, brokerage, and certificates of deposit in a single account).

While the number of ATMs is down, the number of transactions is up, said Ebert adding, "We're doing something right." He said MNC's focus will be Michigan consumer and commercial banking, deemphasizing real estate loans.

Stoddard, chairman of MNC until 1984, faulted Mylod's team for reducing the number of branches from 330 to 189 and the number of automatic teller machines from 650 to 350. "We're not providing as much access (to consumers)," he said.

Ebert, the president, said consumers are increasingly using such services as Microsoft Money (an on-line computer service) and ultra-premium accounts (combining checking, savings, brokerage, and certificates of deposit in a single account).

Aid in finding missing persons

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Jerry Vorva recalled the time when, as a Plymouth police officer, he saw a young man standing on a road overpass.

"I said to my partner, 'Let's check this out.' My partner hadn't noticed him," said Vorva, now a state representative.

"The young man took off. We didn't pursue him."

"Hours later, we learned he had died in traffic after falling from the bridge. We also learned his mother had filed a missing persons report on him that morning."

Vorva chatted in the House chamber as 98 other representatives perused his bill recently to require that law enforcement agencies immediately enter missing persons reports into the Law Enforcement Information Network (LEIN) computer system.

"There were no questions. There was no debate. Vorva's bill sailed through 99-0."

"Different departments have different policies," said Vorva, whose district includes the city and township of Plymouth, the city and township of Novi, and part of Livonia. "If we do it for autos (enter auto thefts into the LEIN system), we should do it for people."

"Officers would hear it broadcast on the car radio. A hard copy would appear at every LEIN terminal."

"Often he (an officer) will stop a car, and something just doesn't look right. He may even see the missing person. But if the report isn't in the LEIN system, precious minutes are lost," he said.

Missing persons reports fall into two broad categories: errant adults off on a spree, often with a person of the opposite gender, and children.

"Many missing adults don't want to be found. When they are, they can just be deleted from the LEIN system," Vorva said.

Children are another matter. Vorva recalled a California case where a girl was reported missing and her suspected abductor fled to Livonia and part of Livonia. "If we do it for autos (enter auto thefts into the LEIN system), we should do it for people."

"Officers would hear it broadcast on the car radio. A hard copy would appear at every LEIN terminal."

"Often he (an officer) will stop a car, and something just doesn't look right. He may even see the missing person. But if the report isn't in the LEIN system, precious minutes are lost," he said.

Willow Run may win a new life

By TIM RICHARD
Staff Writer

Willow Run Airport could return to its World War II industrial glory days, if a local-state-federal dream comes true.

The dream is an international tradeport surrounding the airport and the closed General Motors Assembly Plant in Washtenaw County.

"A 6,700-acre Willow Run International Tradeport could conceivably create 25,000 new local jobs and another 75,000 related jobs across Michigan," Joseph D. Joachim told the House Economic Development Committee Tuesday in Lansing.

Joachim is the former economic development guru of Oakland County who was instrumental in creating the Oakland Tech Park in Auburn Hills. Now he's a part-time consultant for Wayne County and co-chair of a joint Wayne-Washtenaw Willow Run Airport Area Economic Opportunity Center—the group that hatched the dream.

"The Oakland Tech Park could fit into one corner of Willow Run International Tradeport," Joachim said of the new project. The Legislature would have to pass a law setting up the tradeport's structure and financing.

By way of comparison:

- The GM plant, closed last summer, cost 4,000 jobs and 14,000 "ripple effect" jobs.
- At the peak of World War II, 42,000 workers built bombers there.
- The site is a bit more than 10 square miles. It surrounds Willow Run Airport, a freight facility, and includes the Oakland Tech Park in Auburn Hills. Now he's a part-time consultant for Wayne County and co-chair of a joint Wayne-Washtenaw Willow Run Airport Area Economic Opportunity Center—the group that hatched the dream.

The boundaries are I-94 on the south, Michigan Avenue and the Canton Township border on the north, Belleville Road on the east and Ward Road on the west.

It would be the first of its kind in Michigan. There are tradeports in New Hampshire, Texas and North Carolina.

The sponsor of the legislative bills is Rep. Kirk Proffitt, D-Ypsilanti, whose district includes Salem Township. "No one looks at this as a Washtenaw-Wayne or even a southeastern Michigan project," Proffitt said.

"If approved, it will be the largest economic development project for Michigan. I know this sounds self-serving," said the 19th District congressional candidate, "but it's a jobs project."

"You've got companies all over Michigan that fly over Detroit to Chicago and truck products and materials back," said Rep. Greg Pitoniak, D-Taylor, committee chair.

Pitoniak hopes to have the bill through the House in May and into the Senate in June. Although Gov. John Engler's Commerce Department wrote the legislation, Engler himself has endorsed only the concept, Pitoniak said.

One bill sets up a governing structure that can acquire land and make infrastructure improvements—such as lengthening a runway to 10,000 feet.

The other bills create the 10-square-mile zone in which all new personal income taxes and single business taxes would be "captured" from the state treasury and used by the tradeport authority.

Each county government is potting up $250,000 for the tradeport. Joachim and his Washtenaw co-chair, Thomas Fegan, visualize public developments costing $126 million. These would be offset by governmental road and airport grants of $34.5 million. The captured income and single-business taxes would provide $91.5 million.

A business consultant identified users of the tradeport as manufacturers and assemblers of low-weight, high-value products in international trade: parts-bank operations; freight airlines and maintenance operations; scientific and research activities.

Preston Murray, owner and a pilot in Murray Aviation, said the project would be "synergistic"—stimulating other businesses.

Pros, cons to Main Street discussed in forum

The Novi Chamber of Commerce hosted its "Forum on Main Street" Wednesday, April 20 in the Novi Civic Center, providing a panel discussion of the downtown project proposed for construction in the town center area by Evergreen III.

James Chen, the developer, plans to put a 10-building, pedestrian-oriented shopping area south of the Novi Road and Grand River intersection. The project, if given the go-ahead by the city, would put an estimated $30 to $60 million worth of commercial buildings on about 13 acres of land.

To get the project going, city officials are proposing to trade city-owned land on Novi Road for the easement to Main Street, which would serve as portion of the Ring Road. That land trade however has run in resident opposition.

The panel consisted of Chen, City Manager Ed Kriewall, Doug Erwin of Erwin Farms and petitioner in opposition to the project, Tom Shull of the Heartland Institute and West Bloomfield planner Tom Bird.

The forum will be broadcast on MetroVision's Channel 12 May 13 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., May 18 from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m., and May 23 from 4-6 p.m.

What follows are outtakes of the discussion.

Feelings mixed on plan, survey finds

Most favor the City of Novi's proactive planning strategy, but they are less willing to accept government assistance to spur economic development, according to an unsolicited survey conducted by the Novi Chamber of Commerce following its "Forum on Main Street" program April 20 in the Novi Civic Center.

The following questions were put to those in attendance at the forum, and following is a tabulation of their responses. A total of 21 responded to the survey.

"Generally, do you favor the development of a downtown-like, pedestrian-oriented shopping area as proposed by Evergreen III in its Main Street plans?"

Yes: 12 No: 9

"Do you believe such a downtown area would have a positive economic impact for your or your business?"

Yes: 11 No: 9 Not Answering: 1

"Do you believe such a development would have a positive impact on the quality of life in the City of Novi?"

Yes: 10 No: 11

"Do you believe that the fact the developer's plans match closely the city's proposal for a ring road and for the construction of downtown parking make this plan more desirable?"

Yes: 12 No: 8 NA: 1

"In general, do you believe the government should lend assistance to private businesses where necessary to spur economic development?"

Yes: 6 No: 13 NA: 2

"Do you agree that the city's proactive planning strategy, in which city planners develop schemes and then seek out firms to implement them, produces higher quality developments in Novi?"

Yes: 15 No: 5 NA: 1

leant impact on economic growth in the sense of job growth, new firm location, etc." Shull said.

"And that raises, I think, a very important question, which is why? Why is it that when state has set out to lure someone into an area, they haven't seen the kind of economic growth that was promised or expected. And I think this is where the economists suggest the findings apply to the local level as well." Shull explained.

"One of the reasons is that subsidies of this kind distort location decisions. Businesses that simply are not viable in a particular area suddenly come into that area because of the subsidy. The subsidy is in and of itself an indication of economic inefficiency at that location. It is a sign that in fact that need for the project, in terms of consumers' willingness to bring a return to the investor who will do business there."

Tom Bird, on whether other communities would assist take similar steps:

"You are concerned in this area with creating value where more exists. What this ring road provides is opportunity and value which is separate from the thoroughfares. Take the example of Orchard Lake Road in West Bloomfield. That road is the access to all the commercial properties that are along there."

"What Novi has done is put about a half mile past it and go about the ring road and access your commercial development so you can go to the ring road and access your commercial development."

"When Trammel Crow put their project together, the size of that was such that they could do it on their own. Here we are looking at a much smaller parcel of land, a much smaller site. Once you've got the first or second element of your plan in place it may take extraordinary efforts to keep that development moving through that area."

"If the community has the opportunity to make this philosophy happen, to implement the master plan that they feel strongly about, if they have that opportunity, they would be foolish not to take advantage of it," he said.

Tom Shull, on government assistance to business:

"The Heartland Institute has done a lot of looking at what improves the business climate what causes economic growth. One of the questions that we have investigated in the past is whether selective business subsidies promote economic growth."

"Studies that we have cited in our past research by economists and other empirical researchers on economic growth have found—in both the '70s and the '80s—that in fact these selective business subsidies were not having a statistically significant impact on economic growth."

"We don't understand why one business person should be treated any different than another. This may have a lot of holes in it. I think we ought to pay you some money. It doesn't happen. . . . We are just trying to put things fair and square on everybody's shoulders the same way."

"Now we've got a lot of park land just recently purchased. If this land is to be developed, I feel it is worth—and don't know that because the study is not in, my guess is somewhere around a million dollars—if that is the case, that is a million dollars to outfit all the park land that we just voted for."

James Chen, on his need of the city owned land:

"As you can see, we do not have access from Main Street to Novi Road. So a few years ago, City of Novi purchased this piece of property in order to provide the access for this project into Novi Road. This was before we got involved," Chen said.

"In our view Vic's Market is the east anchor for the Main Street project. We have an east anchor here and we have been patient to set up a west anchor right here. The west anchor here is going to be multi-story. It is going to be something like 5 or 6 stories tall. In our view, the first floor, second floor probably will be some kind of retail space, or something. When you get higher, it's going to be professional offices, such as attorneys offices, doctors offices. When you get to the third floor and higher, it could be condominiums or residential, or whatever, which you know depends on the market situation," Chen explained.

Ed Kriewall on his vision for Novi's downtown:

"I don't think we are going to make any money on this deal but we believe that, first, you have to deal with the issue philosophically. This project goes back 10 to 15 years wherein prior city councils, prior interests in the area, envisioned that we would redevelop this area into something better than a normal strip development or an individual building site on an automobile dealership. . . . The dreamers, back 10 to 15 years ago, really envisioned Novi creating something special in this given area. Something special to augment and supplement Twelve Oaks Mall, west Oaks and the Town Center project," Kriewall explained.

"The Town Center—that's the Trammel Crow development on the northeast quadrant of the intersection—was an earlier attempt to create a downtown feeling or atmosphere by the town center committee and the developers that came to town, Trammel Crow. And the city was directly involved in building that project in terms of planning. We actually sat down at a committee level and involved council members and commissioners to make that project something more than a strip center or so a glorified convenience center," he said. "I think it has turned out a lot better than it could have."

"What has the town center project delivered? It has delivered a first class project that has had a lot of of the value, I should not make a comparison which one is more valuable. I'm saying we do have feasibility studies, we have a professional appraiser, which currently is doing the comparison of the two pieces here."

Doug Erwin, on his objections to the project:

"Tom owns that land now. They say that they need that land for a right-of-way. If that argument is to hold true with me, then you have to take a look at Trammel Crow that you have been talking about. This is a private developer, came to town, put his portion of the ring road in. If one developer can do it, why can't another," Erwin contended.

"I don't know that we quite accomplished what we wanted to do in the Town Center, and some people would say we didn't. But we went a long way above what normally would have been developed in that particular area. We called for a lot of amenities, we called for a quality project, and things are starting to happen."

"Now we are focused on the south-east quadrant, which is Mr. Chen's area. And I think we are trying to turn the heat up a little terms of what we expect in that area. Maybe we didn't get a downtown Northville or a downtown Plymouth in the Trammel Crow project, but we are going to try to get that here, or as close as we can get. I mean, we are never going to make an exact copy of a downtown Northville or a downtown Plymouth, but I think we want a pedestrian oriented theme. . . . supplemented by a residential project just south of the commercial area, and we have dreamed for a long time about doing this," he said.

"The city owned property is . . . about 2.4 acres, 106,493 square feet. Now, if we calculate the right of way from here, which is owned by Evergreen III. . . . this comes out to 139,072 square feet," Chen said. "So if you calculating area-wise, this area here is more than this area here. In terms

CITY OF NOVI NOTICE OF ADOPTION ORDINANCE 94-14C.05

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Novi City Council has adopted Ordinance 94-14C.05, an Ordinance to amend Section 32-36 of the Novi Code of Ordinances, and to add subsections 32-34(C) and 32-38(D) to said code to amend the standards for divisions of land. Said amendment will require in cases of unsplit land that resulting parcels not only have to comply with the Zoning Ordinance standards but also with reference to woodland and wetland regulations. The purpose is to prevent the creation of a parcel which is unusable as a result of woodland and wetland requirements.

The provisions of this Ordinance shall become effective fifteen (15) days after adoption. The Ordinance was adopted on April 25, 1994 and the effective date is May 10, 1994. A complete copy of the Ordinance is available for public use and inspection at the office of the City Clerk.

State gives farms big tax break

By TIM RICHARD Staff Writer

Nearly all agricultural property will be taxed at the six-mill homestead property tax rate under a controversial bill passed by the House of Representatives.

Business property and second homes will be taxed 24 mills under Proposal A, the school finance reform plan approved March 15 by voters.

"The bill defines farmland by its use," said the sponsor, Rep. Dan Gustafson, R-Williamston. "That is language tax assessors now use and that is understood at every level of government. That's the language used in this bill."

But city and suburban lawmakers protested that the bill would give an unfair property tax to farmers while giving rural schools a whopping increase in state aid. They, however, were on the short end of a 61-39 vote. Republican Willis Bullard Jr., R-Meredon, voted yes.

"The bill goes to the Senate, which is expected to pass it despite fiery debate. Gov. John Engler, during the Proposal A campaign, promised to support it in order to win the endorsement of the Farm Bureau."

The longest protest came from Rep. Richard Young, D-DeARBorn heights, Democratic co-chair of the House Appropriations Committee. "Previously, a large number of farm districts were spending approximately $3,200 per child. Under the new state law, the amount will be increased to $5,000 per child. "They (farmers) will be getting a 40 percent increase in state dollars expended on their children, and now we're going to lower the tax not only on their homesteads but on their entire non-residential property, namely their farmland in excess of 100 acres.

"The farmers will receive a 40 percent increase in spending on education for their children while those in urban areas will receive only a 3 percent increase. The farmer will receive additional tax relief; the city dweller will not receive the additional relief," Young said.

The original law, approved by the Legislature on Christmas Eve, gave the 6-mill tax break to owner-occupied farms where the land was contiguous to the homestead. But it charged the 24-mill rate to rented land, non-contiguous land and corporate-owned land.

Gustafson, whose district includes eastern Ingham and western Livingston counties, said his bill will continue to tax commercial storage, processing, distributing, marketing and shipping operations at the 24-mill rate. But it will make these changes:

■ Allow corporations with a single business tax (SBT) liability of less than $20,000 to qualify for the lower rate.

■ Allow family farm fruit and vegetable stands to be taxed at the lower rate.

■ Apply to rented and discontinuous land.

■ Cost schools $20 million in revenue.

Blood drive held at Orchard Hills

The Orchard Hills PTO will be sponsoring a blood drive on behalf of the American Red Cross from 3-9 p.m. May 19 at the school. Walk-ins are welcome.

Spring and summer are the seasons when blood supplies are in the highest demand, because of injuries suffered while people active outdoors, explained drive organizer Mary Bohme. It is also the time when donations dip because many regular givers are distracted by those same outdoors activities.

The Orchard Hills PTO had more than 30 promised donations before setting up the drive at the elementary building, located at 41900 Quince. But Bohme said she is hoping walk-in donations will boost the amount given in the drive.

Montessori Center holds a 10th anniversary open house

The City of Novi is inviting all residents to an Informal Open House Tuesday, May 17 from 4:30-7:30 p.m. in the atrium of the Novi Civic Center.

City departments and organizations will come together to give Novi residents an opportunity to find out about services, programs, activities and major improvements now underway in the community.

The open house will be an informal evening where citizens can walk around the atrium, speak with department heads and officials, and learn more about what's available in the City of Novi. All city departments will be represented, along with the Michigan Department of Transportation, JCK & Associates, Detroit Edison and Consumers Power.

Novi High School's radio station, WOVI, will broadcast live from the event.

For more information, call Public Information Director City Stewart at 347-0494.

Wixom hosts Walled Lake's annual Memorial Day parade

Due to road construction in the City of Walled Lake along Pontiac Trail, the City of Wixom will be sponsoring the 1994 Memorial Day Parade that normally is hosted by Walled Lake.

The parade will again be held on Memorial Day and begin at 11 a.m.

The parade route will begin at the Wixom Baptist Church (located on Maple and N. Wixom Road) and travel south to Pontiac Trail. When the parade reaches Pontiac Trail, it will move east on Pontiac Trail and end at Wixom City Hall where there will be a brief ceremony at the Veterans Memorial.

Literary tales come to life in Novi

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

It was reportedly quite a feat to get Novi Middle School youngsters seated in the high school auditorium for last Thursday's special performance of classic literary tales by the Chamber Repertory Theatre.

But once the seventh and eighth graders were seated their eyes and ears were glued to the stage.

The Boston-based Chamber Repertory Theatre tours the country bringing short stories to life for students. Novi Middle School's PTO was fortunate to catch the touring group for a private performance they funded themselves.

"It was phenomenal," PTO spokesperson Carol Elling said about the performance. "It was just so wonderful. The teachers were thrilled with the performance. There were raw reviews from the staff and the children just seemed so intrigued by it all."

The group brought to life some of the most popular works of W.W. Jacobs, Edgar Allan Poe, Mark Twain, Washington Irving and Guy de Maupassant.

One in ten men will develop prostate cancer.

If you're a man, you're at risk for prostate cancer. Prostate cancer is the most common cancer in men and the second leading cause of cancer death in men. This disease hits an estimated 165,000 men annually and takes around 35,000 lives each year. About 80 percent of these deaths may be preventable with early detection.

Screening exams are able to detect prostate cancer when it's the most treatable. An annual exam can detect an enlarged prostate, one of the symptoms of prostate cancer. Big bucks for best recycling plans

Making everything old new again requires creative thinking, but the state will pay $350,000 to find the best seven proposals on how to do it, three area lawmakers recently announced.

State Reps. Willis Bullard Jr., R-Milford, whose district includes Novi; Penny Crissman, R-Rochester; and Barbara Dobb, R-Commerce Township, said that counties, townships, cities or neighborhoods are encouraged to develop a proposal for cost-efficient recycling programs. Up to $50,000 will be provided for each project that is accepted.

"Recycling can reduce costs to businesses and communities," Bullard said. "It also makes good environmental sense and helps protect the natural resources that draw so many people to the state."

"Many innovative recycling programs are being started in communities across Michigan," said Dobb, who serves on the House Conservation, Environment and Great Lakes Committee. "Now word needs to get out so everyone benefits."

Program manager Barbara Chubb said the funds will help communities gather information about available recycled materials, learn about emerging technologies, and about industrial and wholesale applications of recycled goods.

"We know there are practical, effective things happening at an accelerating rate because there are at least 600 Michigan companies working in recycling in some fashion," Chubb said.

"Many of the things we throw away every day have alternative uses," Crissman said. "Newspapers can become insulation and some plastics can be remolded into picnic plates or children's toys. I urge groups with enterprising ideas to apply for a grant. Innovation will serve both local communities and state."

Groups are encouraged to submit a grant application to Chubb by May 13 at the Environmental Services, Division, P.O. box 30004, Lansing, Mich. 48909.

Federal dollars appropriated under the Resource Recovery Act will fund the program. The Environmental Services Division was formed through a partnership between the departments of Natural Resources and Commerce.

All three received award certificates for their achievement.

As the school's first place winner, Sophie Liao's name will be engraved on a plaque for permanent display in the school.

Sophie's first place essay now advances to the state level competition, from which the top 10 essays in Michigan will be selected. The top 10 statewide winners, who will be announced in May, will receive plaques and U.S. savings bonds valued from $500 to $1,000.

In addition, the top 10 essayists will be honored at a banquet in Lansing and at a meeting with Michigan's top governmental leaders in late May.

Several thousand eighth grade students from almost 450 Michigan schools participated in the 1993-94 America & Me Essay Contest, which was conducted with the help of Farm Bureau Insurance agents across the state. The topic of the 1993-94 contest was "My Roots in America and How I Can Nourish Them."

Dial state toll-free to report horse racing violations

Michigan Racing Commissioner Nelson Westrin has announced the installation of a new toll-free, confidential "hotline" for reporting horse racing rule violations, safety hazards and other matters that should be brought to the attention of state regulators.

The hotline, 1(800)973-5000, will be available 24 hours a day. Callers will reach a recorded message that instructs them to leave information pertaining to the rule violation or other information they wish to report. All calls are free of charge and will remain completely confidential.

The Office of Racing Commissioner (ORC) oversees and regulates pari-mutuel horse racing at Michigan's eight racetracks. The new service was installed to encourage people involved in the horse racing industry to help eliminate horse racing rule violations and safety hazards that sometimes occur at Michigan racetracks.

"Michigan's racing industry, for the most part, is filled with honest, hardworking people," said Racing Commissioner Nelson Westrin. "But, as in any area, there are some who give the entire industry a bad name. Our officials and staff do a good job in enforcing the state's rules, but they can't be everywhere at once. We hope that by installing this hotline, the people who work in the horse industry can help us help themselves, and in return help make Michigan's horse racing industry one of the safest and best in the world."

For more information about the hotline, please contact the Office of Racing Commissioner, 37650 Professional Center Drive, Suite 105 A, Livonia, Mich. 48154-1100, (313)462-2400 (voice & TTY), fax: (313)462-2429.

rested Gloko Perkovic and Martell after they found a live bullet in the van. Gloko Perkovic was arrested and booked that day. Martell was released pending a warrant which was obtained later in the week. The woman has refused to testify saying she knew nothing about the incident. Police were unable to locate the gun Gloko Perkovic used until a local businessman reported finding it on the ground two days later. The businessman said he found it laying on the side of Ten Mile Road near the ERA realty company. In the meantime, police have also arrested Luigjari for carrying two concealed weapons. Police found 9mm and .38 caliber handguns in his truck. The case will return in court on Friday, May 20 at 10 a.m. Gloko Perkovic is being charged with assault with the intent to commit murder, carrying a concealed weapon and weapons/illegal firearm. Co-defendant Martell is charged with being an accessory after the fact. He will be tried as part of the same case.

Road to budget rocky for council

she said Tuesday. "However, the slithering down of the millage has got to stop... Economically, it's probably better to go above Truth-in-Taxation." McAllen said Novi has added 2,000 residents who need services. Those council members who formed a core which finally drew the majority in — Tim Pope, Robert Schmid and Joseph Toth — refused to roll the millage up. Mason was against raising above the Truth-in-Taxation level but like Crawford opposed the budget. At the council's request, the city administration arrived at the April 28 meeting with a three percent cut. McAllen said Novi has added 2,000 residents who need services. Those council members who formed a core which finally drew the majority in — Tim Pope, Robert Schmid and Joseph Toth — refused to roll the millage up. Mason was against raising above the Truth-in-Taxation level but like Crawford opposed the budget.

McAllen then recommended that the council put its seal of approval on the altered financial plan, but it took hours of wrangling before that happened. "I've found this exercise to be just incredible..." McAllen said on April 28. "I have no idea what to tell the administration at this point. They have made every effort to accommodate seven capricious members. These seven people can't give them a budget."

Finally, all but Crawford and Mason gave the budget the nod. "It's the entire budget and the way it's done. To me, it's a waste of time. I thought it was presumptuous of the administration to throw in all the workshops and conferences the council cut last year and then want to cut seniors and use program fees," Mason explained. "I think all the administration is worried about is themselves and not the employees and citizens. It's a watered-down shoe-in four-to-three and that's where it is."

The council took a "working break" off-camera last week. City Manager Edward Kriewald said, to see if they could find enough support for doing something. The $13.98 million version finally approved calls for no increase in user fees for parks and recreation programs; a two percent decrease in all department line items labeled "services and supplies"; the $200,000 allocated for computers placed in the contingency fund for future council debate; $15,000 reinstated out of $30,000 originally proposed for a zoning ordinance text revision; and the total three percent cutback in the budget as worked out by the city administration.

About $10 million of the budget is allocated to personnel costs. Parks and Recreation Director Dan Davis had proposed the user fee hike to make up for $14,000 lost as part of the budget reduction process. This was a sticking point for Pope, who was opposed to the higher fees. Pope also said that the proposed $30,000 zoning text revision was part of the annual retainer paid to planning consultant Brandon Rogers and Toth backed him on this. They won the reduction in that sum to $15,000. Along with the cut, the city attorney will be asked to research if the work is part of Rogers' retainer. As another concession to Toth, line items for supplies within the budget were reduced to last year's level, with the understanding that if a department had a shortfall, the council could allocate the money at that time. Toth said he felt these line items were artificially "padded."

"In my opinion, it's not a good way to budget, but that's what it takes to pass the budget, we can do that," Kriewald said. Monday was one of the few times Toth has ever voted in favor of a city budget. "Schmid lobbied last week to keep more dollars for city planning in the budget, including the $30,000 zoning ordinance text update and accused Pope and Toth of 'making statements in front of the TV camera that are untrue.'"

"This is still a political budget. This is budget politicking at its highest form," Schmid charged. Crawford and McAllen both told the council they felt the budget should rise above the Truth-in-Taxation level, although McAllen approved the final version. Crawford referred to the council's budget style as "creating a monster" through "micro-managing."

"We're all suffering from the current taxation climate in the State of Michigan which has our citizens standing in front of us saying don't say 'tax' to us. I think we have to spend more money," the mayor argued. "I don't know how to move us forward, as many compromises as come forward, the coalitions fall apart." Crawford lobbied for adding two new police officers and fire protection officers to the city's payroll, but was overruled by his colleagues, who OKed one of each. The mayor pro tem said he wouldn't approve the budget. "If we don't get a budget, we don't get a budget. If we get recalled, we get recalled."

Police 'cadets' learn grim stats against the driver after learning what happened that night. The officer said interviews conducted after the accident and his field studies proved the man was driving recklessly and was more than negligent in getting behind the wheel that night. Evidence he obtained at the scene clinched the case against the driver, Blasfield said. Obtaining evidence at the scene is critical to the prosecution of the driver at fault, Blasfield said. That's why officers have to be thorough and exact in their study of accident scenes.

The more information officers can pick-up at the scene, the better their chances are to convict the driver in court. There is a science to accident investigation and Blasfield has attended numerous classes to learn and to become a top-notch traffic investigator. He is considered a valued resource by officers in Novi, Wixom and Walled Lake.

Whether police can obtain a criminal conviction often depends on the job officers do at the scene. "We look at the road surface and at the vehicles to gather as much evidence as we can to use in prosecution," Blasfield said. That means officers can take as long as they need to reconstruct the scene. They can spend hours studying the vehicles, road surface and any markings left on the road to determine who was at fault and why. Blasfield said a series of mathematical formulas help officers detect how fast motorists were traveling before, during and after impact. Road conditions are also reviewed. If alcohol is involved, Blasfield says he takes the results of a tragic accident one step further. "We take an active look and see what happened," he said. "We'll put a little pressure on neighboring party stores."

That is what happened in another case from which Wixom Police closed down a local bar owner after learning he served drinks to a motorist who later killed another driver. The man was reportedly helped into his car after consuming several drinks at a local bar. On route home, the male driver failed to judge a curve on a darkened stretch of road. His Monte Carlo collided with and mangled a Toyota Celica. The driver of the Celica was killed on impact.

Later, police learned the man's blood alcohol level was twice the legal limit. Several bottles and cans of beer were found inside his car. The front end of his car was lodged inside his victim's vehicle. Her driver's seat was smashed into the back seat of her car. He served seven or eight years for her death, Blasfield said. The Wixom bar which served the man was shut down. Wixom police sought and won charges against the owner. Blasfield said it is the department's responsibility to educate the community by using accidents as an example to others. "We mount a positive campaign," he said. That means if teenagers are involved in alcohol-related accidents, police contact area high school students against drunk driving chapters and attempt to educate students of the dangers of drinking and driving.

Slides of accident scenes like the ones shown to the academy Wednesday are also being shown in driver's education classes. "We show accident slides to driver's education classes," Blasfield said. "Not with the idea of scaring people but with the idea of showing students that drinking and driving don't pay."

Officer 'justified' in shooting dog

By RANDY COBLE
Staff Writer

David Plante says there's no doubt about it: the Northville Township police officer who shot his dog April 26 overreacted.

That's not the case, police officials maintain. They continue to say that Officer Charles Cole had reason to believe he was in danger of serious injury on April 26 from Scooter, Plante's 50 pound German shepherd/Labrador mix. He reacted accordingly, officials say, and his actions met police guidelines on the use of force.

The officer shot Scooter once in the chest with his .45 caliber semi-automatic handgun on the driveway of the Plante's Cardene Way home. Plante and four other people—including his two-year-old son—were on the driveway when it happened.

In his report on the incident, Cole said that he feared the dog was going to bite him and possibly cause severe injury. After unsuccessfully trying to ward off Scooter with his police baton, the officer said he decided that using his gun was necessary.

Plante disagrees. His account of events differs greatly from Cole's, at times flatly contradicting it.

"There is no question about it—he overreacted," Plante said. "He did not have to do what he did."

"I think the man panicked," he continued. "When I saw the gun, my real concern was for my little guy. I love the dog, but that was my main concern."

"The police officer overreacted," William Donahue, another witness, said. "I told the officer out there, 'I think you acted a little too quick.'"

Plante and other neighbors said they feared what might happen in the future.

"What about the next time something like this happens? Does this guy have the wits about him to react like he should? I don't know," Plante said.

Police officials completely disagree with that characterization. Their investigation concluded that Cole had legitimate reason to fear being hurt and that his reaction was reasonable.

"It was evident that he was clearly threatened and afraid of serious injury that he felt he would receive from the dog if he didn't take action," Sergeant Michael Panagiotides' report said.

Some of Plante's neighbors say the dog had behaved very aggressively with strangers before, officials add, and needed to be leashed, which they say didn't always happen. Police issued Plante a ticket for "harboring a vicious dog" after the incident, a charge he denies and plans to fight later this month in 35th District Court.

"We are satisfied that he conducted himself according to the policy (on the use of force) and that he was protecting himself," Township Director of Public Safety Chip Snider said this week.

Cole declined to comment on the situation.

The evening's events began at about 6:40 p.m. A Scenic Harbour man complained to police that Plante had assaulted and threatened him, charges he denies. The man's allegations led to Cole's visiting the home, located on a cul-de-sac near Northridge Drive.

He parked near the home's driveway, Cole said in his report, got out and began walking up it. Five people were in the driveway, Plante said: himself, Antero Afonso, a Westland man visiting the home; Plante's mother-in-law and father-in-law; and his two-year-old son David.

As he walked up the driveway, Cole said, Plante unleashed Scooter.

secured to a spot near the garage. That and Plante's failure to control Scooter caused what happened next, police officials say.

He did unleash the dog, Plante acknowledged, because he was trying to get her to stop barking at Cole.

"Scooter will bark more when she's on the leash than off of it," Plante said. "Anyone in the dogworld will tell you that there are some dogs that just are like that."

The dog accidentally slipped out of his hands after that, Plante said. She then ran at him, Cole said, "barking and showing its teeth." He described the dog's behavior as very "aggressive."

Plante disagreed. "The dog wasn't walking towards him," Plante said, "but she wasn't running, either. I think she was excited to see people—her tail was wagging. No teeth."

He felt sufficiently threatened to take out his police baton, Cole continued, swinging once and missing. Scooter then "broke off the attack," he continued, and went behind a nearby parked vehicle.

She soon ran at him again, however, Cole said—again in a very aggressive manner. At no time did Plante attempt to call off the dog, he added—something Plante also denies.

"I did call for her," he said. "I told him (Cole) to put the stick away and that she wouldn't bother him."

As the dog came at him a second time, Cole said, he pivoted his body until it was safe to draw his weapon and fire.

When he saw the gun, Plante said, "I said 'Don't shoot!' but it was too late. The bullet was on its way."

Just three seconds elapsed between the time Cole took out his baton and drew and fired his weapon, Plante said. He also alleged that Scooter was 12 feet away from Cole and was moving away from the officer when he fired.

Cole said he shot at a downward angle into the body of the dog. The round was aimed into the grass next to the driveway and in the direction of a nearby wooded area, he added.

"That is not true," Plante said. "That is 100 percent not true. He shot her on the cement."

He feared that there could have been a ricochet, Plante said. While no person was in Cole's line of fire when he pulled the trigger, Plante added, the barrel of the gun "passed in front of everyone on the driveway."

The single shot struck Scooter in her chest but did not hit any bones or major organs. A veterinarian sutured the dog's wounds and she's now back home. Plante said Scooter "is doing exceptionally well, considering."

Joe Donovan witnessed the shooting from the window of his home and was also critical of Cole's actions.

"He never stopped walking toward the dog, and he was waving his stick at it the whole time," Donovan said. "A proper officer would have stopped."

"There's no reason for an officer to pull a gun in a neighborhood," Afonso said.

Mary Lou Donovan, who did not see the shooting, expressed serious concerns about the entire incident.

"This guy's a smoking gun," Mary Lou Donovan said. "There was a two-year-old there. What was he thinking?"

"What if this was a person he was confronted by?" she continued. "What's he going to do? Pull out a gun and shoot him?"

Plante said he has not yet decided whether to pursue legal action against the township over the incident.

"Our family is devastated by this," he said. "Right now my feelings are to get out of this mess and call it a day."

TOTALLY ...ALMOST

If only happens every 150 years, but a local optometrist is warning curious sky watchers not to look at the annular solar eclipse that will occur Sunday.

Timothy Kirk, an optometrist at Town and Country Eyecare in the Oakpointe Plaza in Novi, said vision loss and even blindness could result from viewing the various stages of the eclipse.

He compared the effects of viewing an eclipse to that of taking a magnifying glass and using the sun to produce heat intense enough to start a fire on an object such as a leaf.

"You don't feel anything (at the time)," Kirk said about people who may look at the eclipse. "People don't know it's happening, but the intense amount of light will break down and destroy the nerve cells."

Kirk called it solar retinopathy, another term for the scarring that forms because of the damage to the nerve tissue surrounding the retina.

"If somebody stares at it (the eclipse) long enough, then immediate effects will begin within the first 24 hours," he said.

Those effects would include distorted or blurred vision, he said.

"Now, these things aren't going to happen with a brief glimpse at the sun," he said.

A solar eclipse is caused by the orbit of the moon passing between the Earth and the sun, blocking all or part of the sun's rays. There must be at least two solar eclipses in a given year, but as many as five have been reported.

An annular eclipse, however, occurs when the moon does not entirely block out the sun and a ring of the sun is visible around the circumference of the moon. The last time an annular eclipse was visible in the Detroit area was in 1838.

"The eclipse will be the last one visible in North America until the year 2012," said Richard Teske, an astronomy professor at the University of Michigan. "The next 'big one' for Michigan viewers will take place in April 2024."

The May 8 annular eclipse will block 89 to 90 percent of the sun's light and will last approximately five minutes at its peak. The whole process will begin around 11:30 a.m. and should end at 3 p.m. The peak should take place from 1:12 to 1:17 p.m. Although the eclipse will be visible from Alaska to Panama, the best viewing will be along a 140-mile-wide strip from El Paso, Texas, through Toledo, Ohio, to Halifax, Nova Scotia, Teske said. Over Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Michigan and Lake Erie, the moon will be completely in front of the sun for six minutes and 15 seconds.

"The sun and moon will be almost overhead in Michigan during the period of deepest eclipse," Teske said.

Teske warned that it's also dangerous to look directly at the moon, too, while observing the eclipse. The moon will appear slightly smaller than the sun during the eclipse because it's almost as far away from us in its elliptical orbit as it ever gets, according to Teske.

"For this reason, Michigan observers living south of a line from Denton Harbor to Port Huron, including the Detroit area, will see a black moon almost centered on the sun, surrounded by a narrow bright rim of sunlight," Teske explained.

"North of this line, the dark moon will almost cover the sun, giving observers an excellent view of a partial solar eclipse. At Toledo, observers will see the moon exactly centered on the sun because the eclipse track will pass directly over their city." Although he wouldn't recommend any, there are ways to view the eclipse safely, Kirk said. He suggested making a shadow box, which portrays the image of the eclipse on white paper.

Kirk is making instructions of how to make the sunscope available as a public service.

The optometrist also suggested checking with college or university astronomy departments, astronomy clubs and planetariums which may be sponsoring "eclipse watches" as another way to view the eclipse.

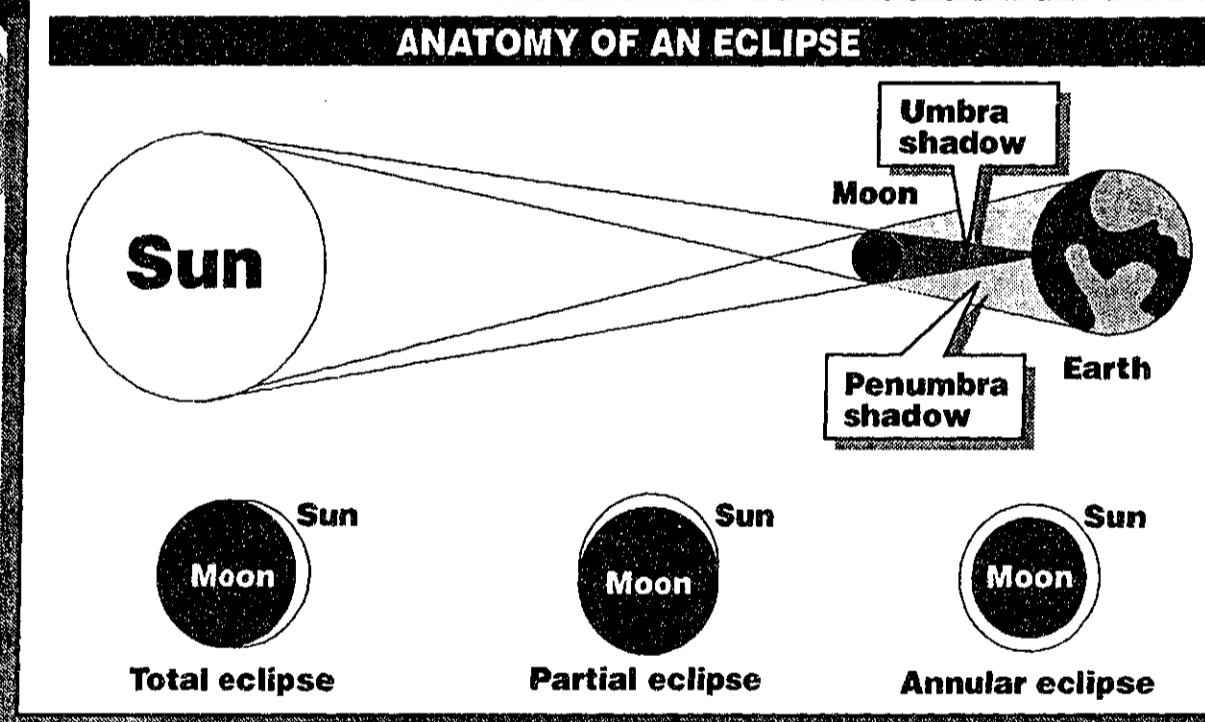

Do not, however, try to view the eclipse through smoked glass, sunglasses, photographic film, welder's goggles, photographic filters, binoculars or a telescope.

Even if you can't look at the sun, it's still safe to be outside, Teske said.

"Some people worry that dangerous solar rays are emitted during eclipses, but this doesn't happen," he said. "It's perfectly safe to be outside during the event, there are no rays or other side effects to worry about."

STORY BY MICHELE HARRISON

"The eclipse will be the last one visible in North America until the year 2012," said Richard Teske, an astronomy professor at the University of Michigan. "The next 'big one' for Michigan viewers will take place in April 2024."

Do not, however, try to view the eclipse through smoked glass, sunglasses, photographic film, welder's goggles, photographic filters, binoculars or a telescope.

Volunteer

Edle Christoph

No cooks required to help deliver program

By DOROTHY NASH
Special Writer

Even if you can't cook but can drive a car, you are qualified for the Meals on Wheels volunteer jobs that Edle Christoph has been filling for about two years.

Basically, she is "a helper" one day a week from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the kitchen at Allen Terrace where individual meals are assembled for the 37 to 40 homebound persons in Northville.

"The food—'it's cooked,'" she said—is brought in from the Wayne County Office of Nutrition Services in Westland, and her job is to help Marcy, head of the kitchen, make individual packages.

A three-compartmented aluminum tray will hold the hot food—for example, an apricot ham steak, sweet potatoes, and green beans—and several baggies will handle bread and margarine, milk, and a possible dessert of apple slices.

Everything has to be ready for the drivers to start out at 11:30 a.m. for individual routes that take 30 to 40 minutes. There are three routes, Christoph said, with 10 to 12 stops in each.

And she knows about that part of the business, too, because occasionally when a driver forgets to show up or goes out of town and neglects to arrange for a substitute—even on the day she's on duty in the kitchen—Christoph hops into her car and delivers.

Also in the kitchen duty, Christoph said, there are about a dozen Allen Terrace and "over 60" city residents who eat in the dining room. She helps serve them. She brings meals to a few residents who are served in their rooms.

There's more. She helps clean up afterwards—take care of the trash, wash the counters and tables.

How did Edle Christoph get herself into this volunteering? "I saw a blurb in The Record," she said, "and I needed something to do."

If you would like to get into the program in either way, call Marcy at Allen Terrace—349-9661.

4-H sewing group earns achievement honors

By JEANNE CLARKE

Several members of the Novi Adventurers 4-H sewing group attended the Spring Achievement at McPherson Middle School in Howell. The following awards were received by the Adventurers. The Style Show pin went to Laura Aldins for workmanship. Shoshana Glick for intermediate sewing and buymanship. The gift certificate award also went to Daniel St. Clair for outstanding workmanship in young sewing. The modeling award was presented to Jessica Seif for excellence. She took first place in the young division. Laura Aldins took second place in the youth division.

The young people expressed their thanks to sewing leaders Gail Adams and Connie Lake Noble for their assistance on the projects.

The clothing group of the 4-H had dinner at Pizza Hut with their leaders in recognition of their community service efforts this year. They are also making plans to be present at the Memorial Day Parade.

The photography group has been invited to attend the field trip to Matthaei Botanical Gardens with the natural resources group this Saturday in Ann Arbor. The groups will be taking a guided wildflower walk as well as visiting the indoor greenhouses.

A report was heard at the April general membership meeting from some of the young men of the group who included Jesse Brennan, Ty Clark, Ryan Duffly, Nathan Jerome, Rocky Marshall and Andy Melanes about a five-day camping and hiking trip to the Great Smoky Mountains National Park in Tennessee.

Plans are being made for several upcoming activities including the 4-H Fair in July. Novi's club booth will have the theme, "Our Hands for Larger Service." Members will be making a banner depicting all their hands as a symbol of that helping. Registration is now available for summer camps starting in June.

NOVI NEWCOMERS AND NEIGHBORS

This club motto is "There are no strangers here, just friends who have never met." The group now has a membership of 203. Some 86 new members were added since June, 1993.

The newcomers will be starting a new year in June with new officers and a new interest group director, Jenise Mewhriter, who has a full schedule of activities planned for the year.

The first program being planned is a family event which will be a picnic at Maybury State Park on May 14 starting at 11 a.m. with a picnic lunch. Families are being reminded to bring bikes, strollers and to take advantage of the Petting Farm.

Another event is the annual Road Rally on Saturday, June 11, at 4 p.m. to another family program in August at the Lakeshore Park. Swimming, picnic facilities, volleyball court and many more activities for the little ones.

In the interest group activities, the Babysitting Co-op has now become so large there are two groups. Co-op I will have a meeting on May 26 at the library. Children are welcome. A story time by Miss Margie will be provided for their entertainment.

Novi Hilights

Co-op II will be held at a members home May 4. There is a playgroup planned for the children, so children will get to know each other prior to being cared for at a co-op's home.

Those wishing to play cards can do so by joining Bridge, Euchre, Pinchole and Bunke interest groups. The groups have both daytime and evening meetings.

The craft class will be having a mother/daughter class. The class will be weaving a crayon caddy. Coming up in the last class June 27 until September will be a home decorating demonstration.

Many other activities are being planned, include golf and a men's night out. A mom and tot's group will be going horseback riding. A June outing is being planned at Papa Romano's. A bowling league is planned for the fall. Morning coffee with kids, needlecrafting and out to lunch buddies are underway, as is the book club.

Reports have been heard of the great time had at the four-day music festival in Kentucky by 26 church members. In addition to all the activities, they were privileged to have communion with 14,000 Christians. The midweek Bible study group is continuing on the second and fourth

Tuesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. and is open to both youth and adults.

Other activities include the visitation program in which visits are made on Sunday afternoon to newcomers. The visitor carries a package of cookies.

The church family is looking forward to the next trip to the Cass U.M. Church in the Cass Corridor on June 25. There are many items they wish to take with them in addition to the food. The list is available by calling the church office.

Choralaires' spring sing set for Saturday

The Novi Choralaires will present its spring concert, "Makin' Music," at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the Fuerst Auditorium, Novi High School.

The Choralaires is a mixed chorus of approximately 50 people of all ages from Novi and the surrounding communities. Formed in 1974, the group is directed by Jan Wassilak and accompanied by Sue Neuhuis.

This year's spring concert is divided into four sections. The first, "Academy Award Winners," will feature a variety of award-winning familiar tunes, from 1944's "Swingin' On a Star" to the recent "A Whole New World" from Aladdin.

"The Age of Innocence" will showcase folk songs from many countries including "Cross the Wide Missouri," "Aloft Water (Flow Gently, Sweet Aloft)" and two Israeli folk songs sung in Hebrew, "Hava Nagila" and "Erev Shabbat Shoshanna." The song "Ching-a-Ring Chari," although it may sound foreign, is an American minstrel tune that uses the words "ching-a-ring" as a vocal substitute for a banjo.

"The Age of Aquarius" will feature songs from the 1960s, such as "MacArthur Park" and "Aquarius (Let the Sunshine In)" as well as more recent songs like "Last Night of the World" from Miss Saigon.

The last section, entitled "Walking in the Spirit," is a collection of spiritually-inspired songs, from the beautiful and well-known "Kumbaya" to a rousing rendition of a soulful "Hallelujah Chorus."

As always, a number of small ensembles will be featured. There will be some additional instrumentalists to enhance the songs, and choreography to keep things visually interesting.

Tickets are $5 for adults and $4 for seniors and students. They are available at the Parks and Recreation office, from Choralaire members and at the door.

'Hudsucker' satirizes big business

"The Hudsucker Proxy," Warner Bros.' satirical comedy about big business, follows the fortunes of Norville Barnes (Tim Robbins), a naive, good-natured young man who comes to New York to make his fortune and, within days, finds himself at the top of the corporate ladder at powerful Hudsucker Industries.

His amazing career move occurs because the company's founder, Waring Hudsucker, has suddenly committed suicide. The chairman of the board of directors, Sidney J. Mussburger (Paul Newman), in a nefarious scheme to drive stock prices down and acquire control of the company, plans to install an imbecile as president and watch havoc ensue.

But the open-faced Barnes turns out to have a good idea or two, and before investigative reporter Amy Archer (Jennifer Jason Leigh) can uncover the reason for the corporate hijinks, the company is surging ahead.

"The Hudsucker Proxy" was written and directed by Joel Coen, who received much critical praise for his first film, the stylish crime drama "Blood Simple," which marked his directorial debut. The film appeared on several of the 1995 top ten film lists, including Time Magazine, The Washington Post and USA Today, and was honored as one of the year's best films by the National Board of Review.

Coen's other films are "Raising Arizona," an original blend of screwball comedy and hyperbolic action film making, and "Miller's Crossing," a gangster film set in the Twenties.

Joel Coen is joined in "The Hudsucker Proxy" by his brother, Ethan who produced the film and assisted in writing the screenplay. In "The Hudsucker Proxy," Norville Barnes has arrived in New York fresh off the bus from Muncie, Indiana, a graduate of the 1958 class of the Muncie College of Business Administration.

Norville is ready to start at the bottom and work his way to the top of the corporate world.

Waring Hudsucker (Charles Durning), on the other hand, is heading in the opposite direction. At the very moment Norville lands a position in the mail room of the global super-company, Waring, the company's founder, leaps from the 44th floor boardroom window and lands a position on the pavement below.

The board of directors is in a panic. Hudsucker's death means his ownership interest will soon be offered to the public. There is one man, however, who remains surprisingly calm, Sidney J. Mussburger (Newman), Hudsucker's right-hand man, has a plan. He'll install a complete imbecile as president and devalue the stock so the board can acquire controlling interest for themselves. But where can he find such a guileless patsy who'll accept the job with no questions asked?

Enter Norville Barnes. Initially, the plan is a success. Under Norville's stewardship, the company begins its downward spiral. Before long, however, the situation attracts the attention of Amy Archer (Jennifer Jason Leigh), Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter who goes undercover to prove Norville the fraud she thinks he is. What she uncovers unexpectedly are some genuine feelings for the man she is trying to expose.

As for Mussburger, well, his plan might just hit a snag when Norville reveals that, in fact, he does have an idea for the company—an idea which is, as he puts it, "... you know, for kids"

Joel and Ethan Coen, known for making small, offbeat movies, have tackled a more mainstream project in "The Hudsucker Proxy" than in any of their previous works.

Their most recent success, "Barton Fink," which won the Palm D'Or at the 1991 Cannes Film Festival and was also nominated for three Academy Awards, was a decidedly dark and ambiguous meditation on creativity, human relations and psychopathic behavior, and it contained a fair amount of violence.

Their other films — "Blood Simple," "Raising Arizona" and "Miller's Crossing" — were also highly stylized, personal and eccentric creations. To be sure, "The Hudsucker Proxy" contains the unmistakable hallmarks of the Coen brothers' unique, hyperbolic and visually arresting style.

According to director Joel Coen, "The Hudsucker Proxy" is a somewhat traditional love story with elements of a fairy tale and the most mainstream movie we've ever done."

"This, their biggest production to date, was made under the aegis of Joel Silver, one of the most successful producers in Hollywood history.

'Bad Girls' takes new approach on male-oriented westerns

It is the American West in the waning days of the 19th century, and four women with no rights, no justice and no one to stand up for them are forced to stand up for themselves.

It is a dangerous time to be a woman. And a good time to have friends.

"I'm a fan of John Ford, Sam Peckinpah and Sergio Leone" Jonathan Kaplan

That's the setting for "Bad Girls," a Western in which four women of the old west become gunfighters to win back their money, their rights and their dignity.

Directed by Jonathan Kaplan, the film stars Madeleine Stowe, Mary Stuart Masterson, Drew Barrymore and Andie MacDowell.

"I had always wanted to make a western," said Director Jonathan Kaplan, whose films include "Over the Edge," "Heart Like a Wheel" and "The Accused."

"I'm a fan of John Ford, Sam Peckinpah and Sergio Leone, and I always wanted to see what it would be like to work in the genre."

In "Bad Girls," Kaplan breaks the mold of the conventional western with a story that puts a new spin on the courage, excitement and romance that are part of the legend of the American West.

For Madeleine Stowe, the film marks the satirical end to what had been a frustrating search for a vehicle that would challenge Hollywood's long reliance on the traditional male western. "I found it peculiar that westerns had only focused on men, when so much had happened to women during that time in history," she said.

Stowe plays Cody, a headstrong and defiant woman unjustly accused of murder and saved from the gallows by her three daring friends.

Anita (Mary Stuart Masterson), a recent widow, is about to have her land rights stripped from her by the male-biased laws of the day. Eileen (Andie MacDowell) is a New Orleans belle who at first seems to renege to withstand the challenges she and the others must endure. And Lilly (Drew Barrymore) is the helix of the group, a spirited daredevil who won't back down from any fight.

"Bad Girls" is about four women who for different reasons had no opportunities except to be prostitutes," said Mary Stuart Masterson. "They are struggling for their freedom and ultimately using their individual weaknesses. They aren't fighting for something political. They're fighting for their lives."

Production on "Bad Girls" began with the Echo City scenes on sets created just outside the gold rush town of Sonora, California, in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains. The company filmed there for two weeks before moving to the "big sky" country of Bracketville, Texas, for two months of shooting the Aqua Dulce and Rio Grande sequences.

Before the cameras rolled, the company devoted three weeks in Sonora to "cowboy camp." With stunt coordinator and second unit director Walter Scott in charge, the actors practiced riding, mounting, dismounting, tumbling, roping, riding while shooting, crawling on the ground with rifles, quick draw, fancy draw — even tobacco chewing.

"Cowboy camp was Lynda Obst's idea," said Scott, a 30-year film veteran referring to the film's executive producer. Scott's credits include Sam Peckinpah's "Pat Garrett and Billy the Kid" and "The Killer Elite." He also doubled for Clint Eastwood in "The Outlaw Josey Wales" and "Hang 'em High."

Scott saw his mission in "Bad Girls" as giving the actors confidence. "They developed to the point that they wanted to do everything," he said. "We allowed them time to sort through a number of horses until they found the right ones. They developed a working rapport with their horses and got to the point where they were driving teams."

Cats trounce Lions, lose to Hartland, Redford

By MICHAEL MALOTT
Managing Editor

It was a mixed week for the Novi High ball club, but the 'Cats brought their record to 5-4 last week, 4-1 in the league, and that should leave them in very good shape for what is to come.

"Our fate is up to us," coach Brian Howard said. "If we can win this week, we'll be in very good shape... we've scored important games coming up." Howard said over the weekend. The 'Cats were to face Howell, Brighton (who were co-champs with Novi last year) and Lakeland this week. All are league games. And then the Wildcats will face Clarenceville in a non-league doubleheader Saturday.

"But we are in a very good position for the season," Howard concluded.

Scheduled as a doubleheader, the contest against Redford Union at home Saturday had to be cut to a single game due to the limit on the number of league games a team can play. A doubleheader would have put Redford over the limit.

And Redford Union took that one 11-7.

Novi scored two runs in the first inning. Kevin Serra got on base with a single. Tom Grigg then singled and Andy Sill drove in a run. Angelo Fallone then doubled Sill 4n.

In the third inning, Redford scored four. Serra, pitching, gave up several walks and was "having trouble finding the plate," Brian Howard said. Then Redford capitalized on it by getting a couple of timely hits, he said.

In the bottom of the third, Sill doubled, and John Wroe singled and drove Sill home.

In the fourth, Redford picked up two more. Howard explained that's when he brought in Wroe to pitch, but he also had trouble finding the plate, walking several batters. Then a single for Redford brought in two.

With two outs in the bottom of the fifth inning, Wroe walked three, Howard said. A single brought in one run. Then a home run finished off the Wildcats, bringing the score to 11-3.

"We made it interesting in the seventh inning," Howard said. Novi led off with a walk. Youichi Matsunaga singled to get on base. Serra singled a run in. Grigg singled in two and then scored on a passed ball.

Despite the four runs, the momentum stopped there and Redford walked away with an 11-7 victory.

Matsunaga pitched the last two innings with no hits, no runs, and two strikes outs.

"He never pitched before and he did very well in relief," Howard said. "He will pitch again."

and allowed only four hits.

Novi took the game on a score of 6-1, Howard said. That one run they got on an error.

Novi scored in first inning. Matsunaga led off with a single, followed by a double by Grigg and a hit by Sill. Jim Rose talked the RBI.

South Lyon tied it up in the third on a single and an error. But Novi pulled ahead in the fourth with two more runs. Rose singled, then stole second. Wroe doubled and Fallone collected the runs on a sacrifice fly.

In the fifth, Grigg doubled with two outs. Sill then drove him in.

In the sixth, Jason Fischer led off with a home run. Bryon Groom then doubled and Serra singled him in for the 6-1 win.

"We had only one error, a single to centerfield that got by the centerfielder," Howard said. "That was a very well played game."

NOVI 11, SOUTH LYON 3

The Wildcats also collected the second game, 11-3.

Novi scored four in the first inning. Matsunaga doubled on the lead off. Serra hit a home run. Sill was then hit by a pitch. Rose singled, and Wroe drove in both on a double.

South Lyon scored one run in the bottom of the first on a hit batter and a single.

The 'Cats had two outs against them before they started hitting in the second inning. Serra doubled. Grigg doubled him in. Sill then singled him in, bringing the score to 6-1.

In the bottom of second, it was three up, three down. Fischer, on the mound, struck out all three batters.

In the third, Novi scored three more. South Lyon's pitcher threw a walk, Groom singled, and Matsunaga doubled to drive in two. Serra got on in an error and Grigg drove him in, bringing the score to 9-1.

South Lyon scored twice in bottom of third, with a single, a double and another single.

But Novi answered in the fourth by scoring another two. Wroe walked, and Fischer followed up with a home run.

Novi missed one scoring opportunity in the seventh when Derek Gavagan, on base after being hit by pitch, headed home. But the run was called back when the umpire determined he'd missed third base.

"Jason Fischer was the story of that game. He pitched the whole game and threw nine strike outs. It was a great performance," Howard said. "He can pitch and he can hit. He had two home runs in those two games. He just did a great job."

Runners rack up personal bests

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

A series of personal bests gave the Novi High School boys track team the leading edge over district league rival Hartland last Tuesday.

After claiming the victory, Coach Bob Smith sent "watered-down" versions of his team on Friday to compete in separate meets in the Lakeland Invitational and against Madison High School.

The Wildcats finished fifth out of seventh at the Invitational and fourth against Madison.

The three competitions brought back some surprising results as many of the Wildcats outperformed themselves, he said.

It was a narrow 72.5-64.5 win against Hartland even though three team members set personal records there. The teams were nose to nose until the final event, said Smith.

It wasn't until junior Damien

Thompson out jumped the competition in the long jump that the Wildcats squeaked away with the district win.

"We won another squeeze," Smith said. "The score was undecided until the last event. And we managed to win it."

"Our kids really rose to the occasion," he continued. "We aren't the most powerful athletes in terms of experience but the kids are scrappers who can really find a way to win."

Tuesday's win keeps the Wildcats undefeated 3-0 in district league standings.

Thompson, the team's second best long jumper out jumped everyone in the 20'2" dash. The jump was just one of three personal bests for the senior that day. Among other records set were his 41.9 first place win in the 300 hurdles and 15.6 finish in the high hurdles.

Eric Norman's personal best 39-1/4" shot put throw helped the Wildcats to the win along with John Hardin's third place 112' discus throw.

"The meet was full of surprises," Smith said.

Senior Shady Sardy followed Thompson's lead in the long jump with a 20'-1/4" second place jump.

Adam Tymenski pole vaulted 10' to second place. Teammate Mark McBride tied for third with his 9'-6" vault.

First, second and third place sweeps in the sprinting events kept the team alive, Smith said.

Juniors Todd Pejakovich and Brandon Spence places first and second with respective times of 11.6 and 11.7 in the 100 meter dash. Freshman Scott Keys was on their heels with a finishing time of 12.2 seconds.

The Wildcats 800 meter relay team of Brandon Spence, Ryan

Keys, Josh Fricke and Pejakovich clinched the event in 136.7.

"We are undefeated in that race in dual meets," Smith said.

Adam Haggfors ran nose to nose against Hartland in the 1600 meter run, but the Wildcats managed to pull it out in the end for the 48.8 win.

"That was a good exciting race," Smith said. "He was just nose to nose."

The three-man 400 relay team of Ryan Keys, Pete Wickham and Pejakovich ran to a first place win with a 46.2 finish.

A change in Wildcat lineup for the 400 yard dash paid off when half-miler Sardy stepped in and grabbed a third place win with a time of 54.4.

Tim O'Flynn medaled third in the 300 hurdles two places behind Thompson. Freshman Jukes

Lisa Mott takes a chip.

Injuries take toll on Novi kickers

By MICHAEL MALOTT
Managing Editor

The Novi High girls soccer team's undefeated record was marred last week as injuries began to take their toll.

The kickers, however, did play well enough to hold on to second place in the RVC, bringing their record to 5-2-1, coach Larry Christoff said.

"The injuries are starting to hit us," he said. "We had a lot of players playing out of their normal positions."

The injuries showed by week's end when Novi confronted Northville minus four of its regular crew.

But the week had begun with Novi untouched, sporting a record of 4-0-1. Novi maintained the record Monday against Howell at home, winning 1-0.

Lisa Antuna collected the only goal of the game 20 minutes into first half.

Antuna usually plays goalie, but was brought out into the field with the loss of Erin Vogel, Novi's top scorer so far, to a knee injury.

Novi outshot Howell as they took only two shots on goal the entire game, Christoff said.

Golfers hold own in two regionals

By JAN JEFFREES
Staff Writer

The players on Novi High's girls varsity golf team are relatively new to the sport, but several hope that by the time they land jobs in the business world, they'll be old pros.

Meanwhile, their scores are getting lower and lower. Coach Debbie Harris says.

"Proof in point was their showing on April 25 in an Oakland County tournament held at the Pontiac Country Club.

Harris took five girls and four scores were counted. Coming in at number one was sophomore Alison O'Mara, who finished the course with a 124, followed by junior Lisa Mott with 128, junior Erin Willsie with 131 and Kelly Worgess, also a junior, with 133. The fifth player was Gretchen Harvey, who shot a 136 in the 18-hole round.

The Wildcats girls golf program is now in its second year. In the tournament, they were up against all the girls' teams in Oakland County.

"I won't know their standing on this until all the tallying is done. Their scores improved from the previous tournament by 20 plus as a team," Harris said.

"All of them are really brand-new players prior to going out for the golf team. They've come a long way. They're just kind of growing up."

More recently, the team traveled on April 29 to the Brighton Invitational at Oak Pointe golf course.

This time, Willsie took the lead with a score of 123, Mott and Worgess tied for second place with their 129 and Gretchen Harvey took fourth with 131. Freshman Johanna Meredith took to the green in her first ever competition. She shot 137. Her score was not counted, but her coach is impressed, Harris says.

An April 28 match with Northville High School was cancelled due to rain. But the varsity team planned to make it up Tuesday with a scrimmage on Northville's turf. Other matches include an at home game Monday at Pebble Creek golf course against Our Lady of Mercy High School and another home game Wednesday against Milford Lakeland High School.

On the schedule tonight is an away game with Walled Lake Western High School.

Trackers rack up personal bests

Namm took third place honors in the 800 meter run at 2:11. Pejakovich and Spences' first and third place wins in the 200 dash also helped bring home the win. The duo ran 23.5 and 24.4 respectively.

First and second place wins by Adam Hagfors and Scott Shepley in the 3200 meter run added to the total score.

On Friday, Coach Smith divided his team in half so the Wildcats would have a strong showing at both the Lakeland Invitational and Madison High School meet.

At the invite, the team finished fifth out of the seven teams competing.

The fifth place overall finish was indicative of the score the Wildcats would see in individual field event competitions.

High scorers for the day were the four man relay team of Spence, Ryan Keys, Frick and Derek Wladischkin finished fourth in 800 and 400 meter relays. Thompson placed third in the high hurdles at 1:5.69. He also finished fourth in the high jump and sixth in the long jump with respective leaps of 5'-10" and 18'-11.5".

"We weren't there to win it," Smith said about the invitational. "Instead, we needed to expose our kids to the format they'll see in regional competitions. We did pretty well considering we really didn't know what to expect."

Coach Smith said while the older half of his team was competing in the Lakeland Invite, his younger runners were burning up the metered track at Madison High.

Novi downs Hartland with record

By SHARON CONDRON
Staff Writer

The new school record set by the Novi Girls Track team in the 3200 meter relay race last Tuesday helped clinch the Wildcats district league win against Hartland.

The win went to the Wildcats 66.5 to 61.5.

Relay team runners Michelle Sueller, Lorna Camp, Katie Zimmerman and Jenny Hampton finished first in the 3200 meter relay at 10:11.5, 1.3 seconds faster than Novi's 1988 record of 10:12.8.

The Wildcats posted first place times in eight other races in the April 26 meet.

Audra Wolowiec, Dy Ahrens, Sarah Schmidt and Cheryl Carmichael captured first in the 800 relay at 1:53.1.

A sweep of the top three places in the 1600 meter run brought the Wildcats closer to the win. Hampton led the Wildcat pack at 5:32.2, Angela Pellitar finished second at 5:52.9, followed by Lauren Rice at 5:54.8.

First and second place finishes by Carmichael and Michelle Harrison in the 400 meter dash and by Hampton and Camp in the 800 meter run added to the overall score.

Carmichael also finished first in the 200 meter dash at 27.8. Camp, Harrison, Charly Salanker, Erin Leib and Carmichael returned second place finishes in the 3200 and 1600 meter runs. Camp placed at 12:19.3. The relay team posted a time of 4:21.4.

The team also fared well with second and third place finishes in the 110 hurdles and 110 meter dash. Katie Jettie's second place win in the hurdles at 16.9 and Schmidt's third place posted time of 14.0 in the 110 meter dash were notable races. Winning performances were also noted one first and two third place standings in the long and high jump.

Ursula Place jumped into first place with a leap of 5'-0". Jettie took two third place finishes in the high and long jump. Her 4'-8" high jump added her fourth place win in the 1600 meter run with a posted time of 5:40.04. Carmichael's 63.01 time in the 400 meter dash put her fourth in the lineup of 12 as did Harrison's 2:35.02 finish in the 800 meter run.

Harrison, Pellitar, Salanker and Carmichael's 4:28.63 finish in the 1600 meter relay also clinched a fourth place finish. Pellitar, Hampton, Camp and Zimmerman added second place wins in the 300 and second place wins in the first and second place wins in the 100 hurdles at 1:51.89 and 1:10 high hurdles at 1:16.87.

The team also posted third place finishes in the 400 meter relay, 200 and 3200 meter runs. The relay team of Lori Dewitt, Sarah McGillan, Ahrens and Wolowiec finished the 400 meter stretch in third at 55.31. Carmichael placed third in the 200 meter run at 28.09 and Camp did the same in the 3200 meter run at 11:59.85.

Six fourth place finishes kept the team competitive.

The 800 meter relay team of Place, Wolowiec, Ahrens and Carmichael finished in fourth at 1:56.04. Hampton added her fourth place win in the 1600 meter relay with a posted time of 5:40.04. Carmichael's 63.01 time in the 400 meter dash put her fourth in the lineup of 12 as did Harrison's 2:35.02 finish in the 800 meter run.

Harrison, Pellitar, Salanker and Carmichael's 4:28.63 finish in the 1600 meter relay also clinched a fourth place finish. Pellitar, Hampton, Camp and Zimmerman added second place wins in the 300 and second place wins in the first and second place wins in the 100 hurdles at 1:51.89 and 1:10 high hurdles at 1:16.87.

The team also posted third place finishes in the 400 meter relay, 200 and 3200 meter runs. The relay team of Lori Dewitt, Sarah McGillan, Ahrens and Wolowiec finished the 400 meter stretch in third at 55.31. Carmichael placed third in the 200 meter run at 28.09 and Camp did the same in the 3200 meter run at 11:59.85.

Novi lacrosse is taking control

By MICHAEL MALOTT
Managing Editor

The Novi boys lacrosse team is ready to adopt a Janet Jackson tune as its anthem—"Control."

The 'Cats downed all three of their opponents in the past week and, according to coach Kelly Kroll, they did it mainly by keeping control of the ball through most of the game. They had to play very little defense.

The streak brings Novi lacrosse to a 4-3 record overall, 4-1 in the league. That's good enough to get the team a second place ranking in the league.

The 'Cats won all three league games this week, beating Ann Arbor Huron 11-6 Tuesday, Lansing Waverly 5-1 Thursday, and Notre Dame 12-3 Saturday. Away at Ann Arbor, Novi scored three goals in the first period. Brad Ward, Mike Hicks and Chris Johnson collected the tallies. Mike Sill collected two more in the second.

In the third period, Novi's Mark Schaefer, Hicks, Andy Muzzin and Brad Muston all collected goals.

And in the fourth, Muston and Sill tallied goals again.

"We had five or six players all cranked up and playing well," Kroll said. "It was a stand-out performance. We played well as a team. We beat them last year, and I think they lost a bit of talent while we picked up a bit."

When Lansing Waverly visited Novi, it was raining so hard the score-keepers could write down the goals, but Novi still ran up a 5-1 victory.

"We controlled the ball the entire game. We could do with the ball what we wanted to. We were on offense 95 percent of the time, and we played very little defense," Kroll said.

The 'Cats stuck with their game plan despite the weather, Kroll said, which was to control the ball and avoid having to go on defense.

"They don't call a game for rain," he said. "They only call a game for snow so deep you can't find the ball and lightning, because we all walking around with metal sticks... It was 35 degrees out there. I couldn't feel my hands at the end of the game."

Notre Dame came to Novi Saturday and left with a 12-3 defeat at the hands of 'Cats. The scoring was 1-1 at the end of the first period, but the action picked up a little after that.

Hicks collected four goals, three assists during the game, "a tremendous effort on his part," Kroll said.

Sill got two goals and three assists. Schaefer had two goals and three assists. Muston collected two goals. Jeff Ernst got one goal, one assist. And Johnson received one goal.

"They (Notre Dame) played a game filled with penalties on their, and we took advantage of 60-70 percent of them. They had 16 penalties. You can't be competitive when half the game you are a man down," Kroll said.

Injuries take toll on Novi kickers rated ninth, Christoff said. Add to that the fact that Novi was "hurting a little more from injuries" and Christoff said it was one of their toughest games yet, resulting in a 2-0 defeat.

"We had a number of good opportunities that we could not take advantage of," he said. Brighton scored late in the first half, and again 20 minutes into the second.

Antuna, back on goal, played well. Christoff said. So did Kim Blalock, who had a "superb game," even though she was out of position. Blalock, normally a forward, was in the back playing defense.

Another top performance was turned in by Cristy Jarvis on defense. NORTHVILLE 1, NOVI 0

Now missing four players—

Tennis club racks up two wins

The Novi varsity tennis club put two in the win column this past week, and left one match unfinished and tied 2-2 with Milford, called on account of rain.

The results left Novi with a record of 5-2 and in good shape for the season so far, according to coach Scott Davis.

Novi downed Howell at home Monday by a score of 7-1.

Novi's number one seeded player Rich Vandermaas defeat Brett Lebeck 6-1, 6-1.

Novi's number two, Curtis Speerschniederer downed Greg Bushby 6-1, 6-4.

In the number three position, Steve Bassett lost his match to Matt

Christie 3-6, 4-6.

At number four, Steven Tarazinski defeated Paul Dare 6-1, 6-1.

"He just crushed him," Davis said. Impressed with Tarazinski's performance, Tarazinski may be moving up in the future. He could be challenging for the number two position in the coming year.

In doubles, Kirk Baetens and Aaron Hitchcock defeated Howells Steve Barcoze and Ryan Schefke 6-4, 6-4.

At number two, Novi's Joel Mitchell and Scott Baetens downed Steve Mourade and Scot Ries 6-4, 6-4.

In the number three position, Matt Lund and Mike Marshall trounced Howell's Mike Soehl and Dennis Hall 6-1, 6-2.

Finally, Chris Nelson and Jem Tankersly downed Eric McLearn and David Franz 7-5, 6-2.

At Hartland Friday, Novi walked away with a stunk, 8-0.

Vandermaas beat Chris Morgan 6-1, 6-1.

Speerschniederer defeated Joe Larnave 6-1, 6-4.

Jay Crenshaw downed Sam Mack 6-3, 6-3.

Tarazinski defeated Kevin Henyer 6-3, 7-5.

In doubles, Kirk Baetens and Hitchcock took the victory over Keith Reynolds and Brad Charles 6-1, 6-3.

Scott Baetens and Steve Bassett downed Dustin Hansen and Darin Thompson 7-6, 6-1.

At number three, Lund and Marshall bumped off Carrey Pearsall and Matt Ganster 6-0, 6-1.

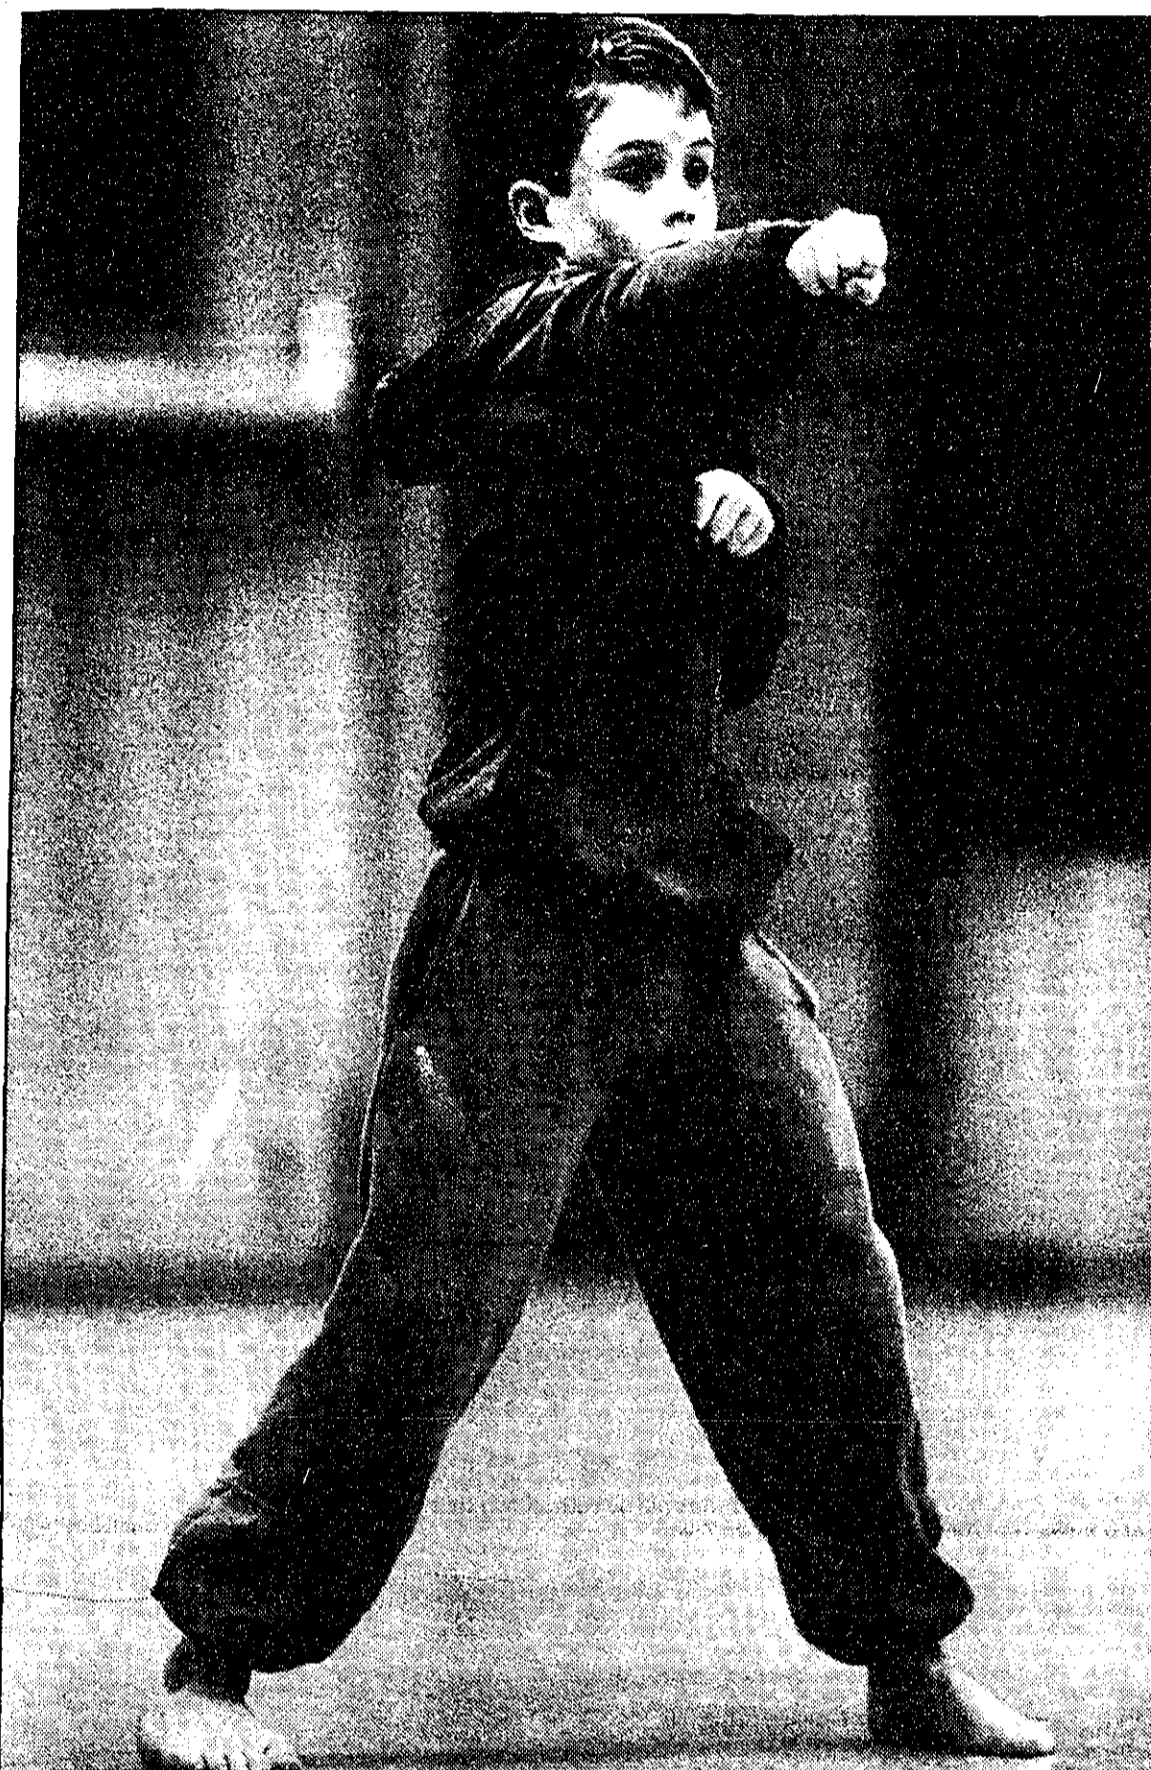

And Nelson and Tankersly walked all over Ron Andrade and Frank Dagenhart 6-0, 6-1.

The Milford contest was called due to weather last Monday. Only four matches had been completed, and the game was left in the air 2-2.

Davis said the matches will be completed May 11 when the two meet again, this time when they meet at Novi High for another regularly scheduled match.

Expertise carries responsibility

Barry Franklin

Several weeks ago I had an interesting experience while shopping for a Mother's Day gift.

The wind was just right that day, and the aroma of chili and hot dogs seemed to pull me like a magnet to a local Coney Island restaurant.

I stopped for a moment to gaze into the window of the restaurant. There were at least 20 mouth-watering coneys sizzling on the grill. On an adjacent counter, there stood a platter filled with chopped onions.

I decided that after my shopping was finished, I would return to the restaurant to treat myself to a coney and a diet Pepsi—realizing, of course, that a coney dog is not considered heart-healthy food.

As I continued walking from store to store, feverishly searching for an appropriate gift, the thought of a Coney Island hot dog, smothered in chili and onions, became almost an obsession.

I finally found a gift I was happy with, and she presented me with a menu. I sat, looking at it, feeling somewhat embarrassed by the entire situation.

A few minutes later, the co-owner of the restaurant approached me and asked if I had ordered yet.

"No, not yet. Why?" I responded.

"Well, I just wanted to see what you were going to order," he replied, as several interested diners now looked on.

The waitress then approached me and asked, "Well, Dr. Franklin, have you decided what you want?"

"Yes," I said. "I'll have a uh, um, let's see. I'll have a sliced turkey sandwich on whole wheat bread, an order of cole slaw and a diet Pepsi."

"Mayonaisse on your sandwich?" she asked.

"No thanks," I replied.

It's not easy being a health and fitness guru. I thought as I sat there eating my plain turkey sandwich.

Options available for incontinence

By RONALD SAN JUAN
Special Writer

Bed-wetting, or nocturnal enuresis, is a common problem affecting 15 to 20 percent of 5-year-old children. Many children grow out of it, but most physicians feel that persistent bed-wetting is abnormal in a girl more than 5 years old or in a boy older than 6.

A 1981 study found less than 40 percent of parents of children with the disorder actually seek medical advice. Common reasons cited for not seeking medical attention were the embarrassment to both the parents and the child, and the small amount of information available on such as urinary tract infection or irritation from a new soap or laundry detergent. The actual reasons for NE are unknown. However, many physicians accept the following common theories.

- Bladder instability—results from immature sphincter control or a small bladder.
- Arousal disorder—proposes that episodes of bed-wetting occur after intense stimulation during REM or non-rapid-eye-movement, sleep.
- Antidiuretic hormone deficiency (AHD)—a biochemical imbalance that leads to increased production of urine that exceeds the child's bladder capacity.

The treatment options available for NE range from counseling and education for the parents and the child to medications that physicians find effective in many cases. Usually, only counseling is needed to achieve nighttime dryness. Another successful method is using an alarm that goes off when it senses that the child has wet the bed.

Ronald San Juan is a medical student under the direction of Dr. Susan Lawrenter at the U-M Health Center in Northville. This column is coordinated by Peg Campbell and the staff at the U-M Health Centers.
