Novi 'tax break' leaves budget $400,000 short

Taxpayers got off easier than they should have in July 1993 due to a mistake in calculating the City of Novi's millage.

Finance Director Les Gibson explained that in setting the millage rate to retire the principal and interest rates on city bonds, a .3 error in the taxpayer's favor was made. That was a savings of thirty cents per each $1,000 of state equalized valuation of property, or about $22 for the owner of a $150,000 home.

But the money has to come from somewhere. To keep Novi from defaulting on its debts, the city council Monday agreed to dedicate $400,000 from the general fund to the bond paybacks-but not without some grumbling.

"The financial health of this budget just two months into this budget is not encouraging at this point," Council Member Joseph Toth said.

"Who do we take to the backyard and shoot?"

"In this case, you shoot the messenger," Gibson answered.

Due to state tax laws such as the Headlee amendment, the city will not be able to roll the millage back up to compensate for the miscalculation. And future millage levels must be based on the lower precedent set by the accidently-reduced number.

The city goes into debt when it sells bonds for projects such as the voter-approved $18.8 million in road improvements and $9.9 million for park land purchases.

Gibson said the debt repayment millages are based on a payback schedule provided at the time the bonds are sold and that figuring out the numbers is normally "the simplest and most straightforward part of the budget." However, an error was discovered in this calculation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1994, in part Gibson said, because some of the payment schedules were based on the calendar year and were not converted by the city staff to the Novi school Board of Education members were not convinced Thursday a new middle school for seventh and eighth graders was the best solution to the district's overcrowding problem.

The recommendation to build that kind of school for 1,100 students came from the district facilities committee but got a lukewarm reception from the board.

The proposed plan requires a complete overhaul of the existing grade configurations with the exception of the high school. The four existing elementaries would become kindergarten through third grade schools while Novi Meadows and Novi Middle schools become homes to fourth, fifth and sixth graders.

Novi's Adult and Alternative Education and preschool programs would be housed in elementary buildings as space permits.

Board members voiced concerns over the plan because there was little evidence to support and justify the grade configuration—aware that there are many curriculum changes. Trustees also feared the move would spur an underutilization of the district's Instructional Technology Center.

Projected costs, bond election dates and deadlines were also a concern.

"This is an excellent report," said Board Treasurer Stephen Hitchcock. "I am quite confident in the (enrollment) numbers and projections. But one of the things we will have to struggle with is the issue between building a fourth and fifth grade building and a seventh and eighth grade building. There is at least a $6 million difference (in projected costs.)"

Hitchcock, also asked the committee to explain how the delivery of curriculum could be improved in a new facility or hindered by renovating the existing schools.

Committee spokesperson Carol Pasquerelli sald the committee wasn't asked to address curriculum issues, just facility uses.

'We didn't speak to curriculum," she said. "But many of us have sat on the (district's) long-range planning committee and we are changes coming down the pike.

"With a new building we thought we would give you the opportunity to build a curriculum around the new building," she said.

Her comment to the board contradicts one of the assumptions the committee used as a basis for its analysis. The assumption stated in the committee's report reads "The district's educational philosophy will dictate the type of

But what Pasquerelli was suggesting Thursday is that a new building would dictate the educational use of it.

That was an idea Hitchcock wasn't willing to ascribe to until he saw firsthand the merits of a seventh-eighth grade building and/or a fourth-fifth grade facility in operation.

The fourth-fifth grade facility was one of three options the committee had proposed a month ago. Hitchcock, obviously not sold on the idea of building a seventh-eighth grade building, used the example to indicate that a

Tired of getting speeding tickets on Taft Road? Or do you think everyone's whizzing by too fast on Nine Mile? "We get quite a few complaints from residents about the speed limits that vary on mile roads. You're driving along at 25 m.p.h., then it's 35 m.p.h., then it's 45 m.p.h. This is annoying to some motorists," City Manager Ed

Kriewall said Monday. "Some mile roads' speeds are too slow." When it comes to speed limits, what the Novi City Council is looking for now is not personal opinions but the objective analy-Mitzel said discussions this summer about speed limits on Eleven Mile Road prompted his "It became evident that city hard facts, but he warned his fellow council members: "When we get the results of the study, we can't keep picking it apart if it's based on facts."

Not everyone's convinced that the research is in order.

"I know what you're going to get," Council Member Robert Schmid cautioned.

"Speed limits a lot faster on Eleven Mile and Taft and Beck roads. You're going to get a whole house of people in here complain-

Candle left burning overnight starts fire

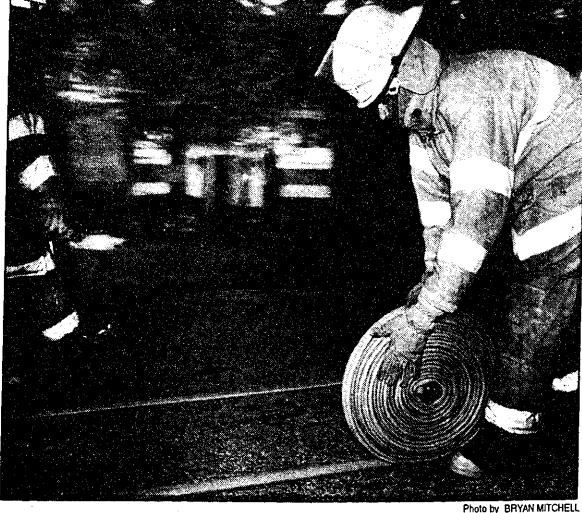

A lighted candle left unattended all night long led to a fire causing an estimated $9,000 in damage to an Orchard Hills home last week.

The Aug. 17 early morning fire was detected by a 12-year-old member of the family, who left the lit candle on the floor next to her bed after she fell asleep. The girl detected smoke and roused other members of the Harris household at 41831 Sycamore Drive, Novi Fire Chief Arthur Lenaghan said.

"Hopefully, people will be careful with things like that. She'd been instructed not to do that by her parents," Lenaghan said.

A smoke detector in the house did not go off because it needed a battery, he explained.

The family had safely exited the home before the fire department arrived at 5:00 a.m. and was under control in 15 minutes, the chief said, adding that most of the fire damage was confined to the second floor bedroom.

school districts. It is sure to be a controversial decision. It will surely generate a fair amount of comment, both proand con. But here is our reasoning. In years past, The Novi News has concentrated mainly on the Novi school district, and we did so believing that our resources would be best utilized was not prepared to answer had to by concentrating on that single district. At the same time, it left some of our readers, who live either in the northern or southern ends of the city, without information about their school districts.

Yes, we do already cover Northville schools through The Northville Record, so that information is available to us, if we have the space to run it. But getting news and information on the Walled Lake district was another matter. Not that the Walled Lake district was reticent to release it, just that our News.

You may have noticed reporting staff-which can already get stretched pretty thin trying to keep up with events in Novi something a little different in and the Novi school district-had little additional time to pick up the coverage.

But there has been a significant amount of growth in the northern end of Novi. Some 800 students from Novi already attend Walled Lake schools and with as many as 1,000 residences to be built in the vicinity in the next few years, adding the cover-

Needless to say, there are a number of Novi News readers who live in that area we refer to as No'ville, the Northville school district of Novi, and they've been asking for the coverage for some time.

Readers who live in the Novi school district will receive no less information about what is happening in their school district. We'll just have to get a little additional news space to accommodate the additional news generated by the Walled Lake and Northyille districts.

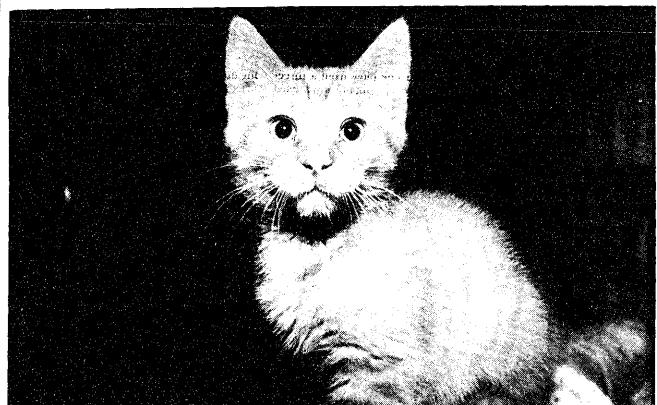

Of course, when space is limited, our emphasis will still remain on the Novi district. But we should be able to give our readers in north and south the

don't trap fireflies anymore

It's seems magical: little bectles flashing an eerie glow.

It would be less like summer without fireflies striking their sparks over an open field or in a backyard tree. As a young boy on my family's farm, a pasture often resembled the heavens with the twinkling of these little beetles.

Black Some people call them lightning bugs, light-up bugs or glow bugs. They are part of the Lampyridae family of beetles. And as I understand, they are looking for romance like everyone else.

Less romantic were the sheer tortures we as kids provided the vulnerable little beetles. My brothers and would smear their tiny glowing bodies over our hands, and pretend to be Frankenstein's monster. "It's alive!" we'd exclaim walking stiffly with our arms stretched forward.

Sometimes we'd swing our arms briskly in big circles, making our luminous hands seem larger. And as we played, speckles of cold light appeared on our jeans and tee-shirts. Mom never complained, it all seemed to our Ball or Mason lanterns with fireflies, scooping them from blades of grass and cupping them between two hands as they flew through the evening air. We'd hold the jars up close, watching as though scientists figuring out how they turned themselves off and on. We never discovered their secret.

As I grew older, I caught fewer and watched more of the luminous bugs from a distance. I would often sit with Mom, listening to a whipperwill sing and watching Swinging slowly in a glider that revealed several coats and colors of paint. Mom told stories of the "good old days." They were stories of her youth and tales of my childhood. Our conversations drifted to my latest loves, dreams and adventures and motherly advice.

And now I sit under a large oak, watching fireflies glow about me. They remain mysterious, winking off and on. I think about cupping one between two hands to watch his luminous body up close. But the fireflies' flicker would remain secret and would have disturbed the nest I've made under this tree. So, I will be complacent to watch and wonder.

With the coming of fall, the luminous beetles will vanish. I suspect I'll nestle under this tree again soon and bid them goodbye for a season.

PLANNING THE

NGIT TO BEMENDER

By MICHELLE HARRISON

t's the one magical night where sparks are exchanged between old high school flames. you're reunited with your freshman locker partner, and the homecoming queen and king don't look so much like royalty anyтоге.

"Going to your high school reunion is the only time in your life you can rekindle the memories, the friends-it's something that can never be replaced," said Lisa Muscio, class president of North Farmington's Class of 1981. You go back for one night and relive those special (memories). The nice thing about reunions is that in high schools that had a lot of cliques, when you go back to the reunion, they've grown out of Muscio is an expert of sorts on class reunions. She quit her advertising sales and promotion iob at AMC Theatres four years ago to begin Reunions Made Easy. The Novi-based business is planning 18 class reunions this

We take care of the two biggest things," Muscio said. "Number one, we handle all of the financial responsibilities ... and we locate the classmates."

Muscio said since her fees are built into the ticket prices, there are no upfront costs to the reunion planning committee. Of course, that involves some good guesswork.

Basically we're playing fortune tellers," she said. "We've been lucky, knock on wood, by guessing plus or minus up to 25 people. We really try to get a feel for the class. And we don't take on any (class) either."

A seven-step process is followed to locate classmates. The initial announcement is sent out nine to 12 months before the reunion date. A "lost list" is then compiled and sent out about three months later.

When the company receives any mail "returned to sender," Muscio's employees then turn to the database. They use CDROM's ProPhone, an intensified search using last names of residents living in the state. The computer has come in quite handy.

"Until that point we were going through phone books searching for names," Muscio said. "Now, on a normal list we'll add 20 to 30 more people where before we might have pulled 10 (from the phone directories)."

About four months before the reunion, classmate then receive the official invitation. A response card is enclosed.

"Trying to look formal is important," Muscio said. "We don't just want to send out a piece of paper that says 'hey, come to your reunion."

A confirmation card is sent to -classmates one to four months before the reunion before the final "hope to see you" card is sent out about four weeks before the Muscio said all of the mailings are important because people tend to procrastinate.

"We really try to encourage every single person to come," she

Besides handling the deposits on the hall, banquet and entertainment services, Reunions Made Easy also provides a memory address book, decorates in the class's school colors and puts together biographies on the class-

"Some people even want to add promotional items," Muscio said, explaining that older classes like coffee cups with their class years on them while the younger classes prefer beer mugs or squeeze

During the night of the reunion, Muscio's staff sets up a check-in station to greet guests. Sometimes they even pass around a cordless mike and begin "interviewing" the audience. Most of the time, they stay behind the

their night," Muscio said. "We don't want to take the limelight away from their night."

That's why Muscio loves her job so much. She gets to do all the planning, and then she gets to watch her hard work pay

"It's really neat, kinda like planning a wedding in a way because you work so hard," she said. "For most people, though, they're so busying planning their party that you don't get to enjoy it. It's cool to be able to just sit back and watch everyone but not really be a part of it."

And although she's planned numerous reunions, each one is different.

"It's interesting for us to see the differences in parties," she added, adding that some class will come decked out in tuxes and sequined dresses while others are more casual. Some classes will dance to the disc jockey while others are so busy gabbing that they don't even notice the dance floor until the last half hour.

At the Northville Class of 1972 reunion, a cordless microphone was passed around and a Desert Storm veteran and a classmate living in Australia told about their experiences. One classmate even got up and read a

"Some reunions have invited their teachers and one raised money and gave it for a new outfit for the school mascot," Muscio said. For those who want to venture on their own in planning a class reunion, Muscio has the following advice:

"You need a good year to plan,"

Halls have to be booked, menus have to be planned and entertainment has to selected.

> Any more than that will make decision-making a nightmare, according to Muscio

> > And, to make life easier, make sure you know where the contracts are at. For more information about Reunions Made Easy, call (810) 380-6100.

And that's why there is the Northville Area Senior Citizens Advisory Council, of which Lorraine Steimel is a member.

THURSDAY August 25,

Do your kids have acting talent? Maybe you're living with the next Tommy Lee Jones, Susan Sarandon, or Tom Hanks. Don't stifle that creativity ... get them involved in Novi's Youth Theatre. Performance Plus and Children's Annex make up the very popular Youth Theatre Program sponsored by Novi Parks and Recreation and auditions coming up for the Fall performances

In its third year, the program is so popular because it offers onstage performing PLUS the educational experience that accompanies every production. The performers not only rehearse their individual roles in he play, but also learn how to develop characterization, as well as other aspect of the production (promotion, set design, lighting, costumes, and make-up).

The Novi Youth Theatre consists of two entities, "Performance Plus" (ages 12 and up) and "Children's Annex" (ages 8-11). Performance Place will be featuring "One Act Festival" for their upcoming performance on Nov. 11, 12 and 13. This includes "Victor Hugo in Rehearsal," "A Doll's House." "Mirrors," and "Opening Night."

Auditions will be held at the Novi Civic Center on Aug. 30 and 31 at 7:30 p.m. After passing the audition, you can register at the Novi Parks and Rec office. The fee

8 to 11 offers instruction that is Tuesday, Sept. 13 and Thursday, Sept. 15 at 4 p.m. Rehearsals begin on Oct. 4.

This is an excellent, award-winning program and a main reason for Youth Theatre's popularity is director Linda Wickert. She brings 3 and 4. Auditions will be held over 20 years of teaching and directing experience to the program and has a genuine love for the students as well as the theatre. One parent said that thanks to Performance Plus her children have gotten roles in all of the high school plays, but they've learned so much more from Linda Wickert.

The rave reviews continue each and every season, and the students continue to perform to selfout audiences. People who want to see any of Performance Plus and Children's Annex productions are encouraged to buy their tickets in advance at Novi Parks and Recreation because they are all selling out. They have had to turn people away at the door. Call Novi Parks and Recreation at 347-0400 for more information on Children's Annex or Performance Plus.

The Fall Parks and Recreation Brochure should be on its way to your home right now. Check out all of the great fall programs. including Karate, American Ballroom Dance, A.B.C. American Basketball Camp, and Fitness Factory. Registration is also coming up for Volleyball, Floor Hockey, and Basketball. There are some great day and extended trips being offered. Take a much needed vacation this year. You can always find a great experience through Novi Parks and Recreation.. Check it out now. Call

Begin preparing for fall sports season approaching, it's time to begin preparation for the fall sports season. Whether your sport is team or individual. requires strength or speed, or stresses endurance or power, the demands placed on your body are the same. Preparing your body to meet these demands is very important to avoid injury, perform optimally and obtain success. Key components to a successful athletic season are:

Conditioning:

Proper conditioning is essential to give 100percent effort to your sport. A good conditioning program requires four to six weeks. Conditioning should involve components of aerobic, anaerobic and weight training activities. Swimming, biking slow long-distance running, interval running programs, sprints and weight training are examples of activities that can be incorporated into a conditioning programming. Remember, to increase your aerobic capacity

With summer slowly fading and fall rapidly—you must train at your target heart rate [THR] for at least 20 minutes. To find your THR, use this easy formula: THR=(220-age)x70 percent (use 80 percent for highly conditioned athletes). Your conditioning program should include sport-specific and cross-training activities.

Nutrition: An athlete's diet should include high-carbohydrate and low-fat food sources.

Rest: The body needs time to recover and repair itself —not just by sleeping at night but by resting from strenuous activity to enable muscle, tissue and bone to regenerate, remodel and repair to produce positive effects from your training program.

Now you are ready for fall sports. During the season, if you experience a breakdown, your body may respond with the following signs and symptoms:

1. Swelling.

2. Loss of motion.

3. Loss of function. 4. Discomfort with activity or motion.

Acknowledge these as warning signs and respond appropriately by:

1. Reducing your activity level. This does not necessarily mean stopping, but cutting back on the amount of activity you do. Avoiding the cause of the problem for a few days may allow your body to repair itself.

2. Treating the problem yourself by following the simple formula RICE:

R-rest; reduce activity. I-ice: apply directly to body part for 20 minutes as many times during the day as possible (20 minutes per hour is a good rule of thumb).

C-compression; support the injured part to prevent additional stress to the area. E-elevation; raise the body part to reduce swelling and decrease collection of fluids at the Remember-RICE is always the correct response. Do not apply heat to any new injury.

If self-treatment has decreased or eliminated the problem, slowly return to activity. Remember, slow progression to full activity helps keep the injury from recurring. You only have one healthy body-take care of it. When it talks to you, listen and it will respond to your demands. Have a safe, productive and healthy fall sports season. As that one famous shoemaker says, "Just Do It."

Exercise programs rarely last

What percentage of people who start an exercise program actually stay with it?

Franklin

Unfortunately, less than half. Exercise is like other healthrelated behaviors such as taking medication, quitting smoking and reducing weight. There are several things you can do, beyond relying on mere willpower, to maintain your motivation. • Learn all you can about the "why's" and "how's" of exercise. If vou thoroughly understand the reasons for following a regular exercise program, you are more inclined to stick with it.

· Minimize your chance of injury with a sensible exercise program. Too often adults become discouraged due to muscular soreness or injury from stepping up the pace too abrupt-

Broker goes to the airwaves to sell homes

By James M. Woodard Copley News Service

Real estate broker Etta Lanouette uses a unique method to market her residential listings. She pitches the home's merits on radio -to one family at a time sitting in their cars.

A small radio transmitter is positioned at the listed property. A front-yard sign asks drive-by viewers to tune their car radio to a certain frequency on their AM dial. When tuned in, they hear a brief prerecorded description of the house, along with price and special financing terms.

Lanouette's recorded message is played over and over, accessed by anyone in front of the house tuning in. The message concludes, with an invitation to phone the broker for a personal inspection

Lanouette calls these listed properties her "talking houses." She has invested about $1,000 in four of the special mini-transmit-

She started using the innovative communications idea at a newly listed home in a predominantly Spanish-speaking neighborhood. She immediately encountered a language problem. The message needed to be in Spanish. But Lanouette doesn't speak Spanish.

The property-owner's daughter, 11-year-old Cindy Flores, who is bilingual, agreed to record the message now heard in front of the listed home. Cindy describes the home in glowing terms in her message, mentioning that people who inspect the house should take special note of her room.

"It's always in dream condition," she said (probably with crossed fingers behind her back).

Having Cindy record the message resulted in giving the broker an unexpected marketing edge. Cindy has told all her friends about her radio debut. Those friends, in turn, are insisting that their parent drive them by the house so they can hear the broadcast. It gives the home more expo-

The Palmetto offer some bright ideas

By James McAlexander Copley News Service

Vaulted ceilings, skylights and a wealth of windows combine in the Palmetto to create living areas that are both bright and spacious.

This contemporary country plan has three levels. Gathering spaces, kitchen, den and master suite are on the main floor. Secondary bedrooms, family room, utilities, and a storage room are below, in a daylight basement; and a windowless bonus room, which could be finished or unfinished, is upstairs.

Light spills into the living room through a large picture window and beams down through three rectangular skylights in the vaulted rear portion of the ceiling. The ceiling is flat on the opposite side of the room and in the dining room. A fireplace radiates warmth and color in winter. Sliders access a deck that has a curved serving center for outdoor meals.

The sunny vaulted nook expands an already large country kitchen. Generous counter space and cupboard space are augmented by a triangular pantry. Standing at the kitchen sink, you gaze out a wide picture window across the deck to a vista or back yard.

A wide bay window expands the spacious master suite. And this luxurious space has such a high, vaulted ceiling that it already seems larger than it is. Light that enters through the bay windows is softened by the shade of the front

An arched window, tucked into a high dormer, provides additional natural light. Other features include a walk-in closet, home security system and spa large enough for two.

In the garage, workbenches line two walls. Additional storage space is also available here. A small bathroom just inside the house serves both the house and the garage.

Soiled laundry dropped down the laundry chute lands in the utility room below. The adjacent den could be a home office.

On the basement level, the family room and both bedrooms have direct access to a patio with a hexagonal hot tub. Utilities hide behind pocket doors in a huge utility room that could be outfitted as a hobby room or totally enclosed to create another bedroom.

ALTERNATIVE RECYCLING

the vegetable garden with plastic, which is a nuisance to put down and must be taken up again in the fall, try placing several layers of newspaper on the soil between rows

Putting your recyclables out for pick-up or taking them to the local recycling center is one way to keep out landfill materials that could be used again.

Another way is to use them yourself. Gardening provides lots of opportunities for recycling, said Mary McLellan, master gardener coordinator at Michigan State Uni-

Some of the more obvious are paper milk cartons, yogurt cups and other throwaway containers used to start flower and vegetable seeds. Once plants are in the garden, you can cut the bottoms out of plastic milk jugs and place the top portions over young transplants to protect them from the cold.

Leaves, grass clippings and vegetable parings and other non-meat, non-fat food scraps can be put into a compost pile or placed in trenches in the garden to decompose. They'll add organic matter and nutrients to the soil. Avoid meat scraps and other fatty foods-they'll attract dogs, raccoons, rats and other animals. Prinings from woody ornamentals can be chipped and used as mulch around trees and shrubs, perennial flowers and bulbs, McLellan suggested.

Instead of mulching in and around plants. To hold the paper down, cover it with soil, compost or a thick layer of leaves or straw. The paper will gradually decompose over the summer so you can simply till it under in the fall. In the meantime, it will help discourage weed growth and conserve soil moisture. Old carpeting and corrugated cardboard also make good mulch, but they must be taken up before the soil is tilled.

If cutworms have been a problem, you can recycle waste cardboard into cutworm collars to protect peppers and other transplants. You can use cardboard tubes from paper towels and toilet paper or cut strips of cardboard from cereal boxes or shirt inserts.

At transplanting time, slip a cardboard tube over each seedling and push it into the soil so that it reaches two to three inches above the soil surface. Cutworms looking for a tender seedling to munch on can't get past the barrier.

At harvest time, use old wire twist ties to organize bunches of herbs or flowers for drying. Simply twist one end of the tie around a bunch of stems and hook the other end over a wire clothes hanger.

If you plan on freezing vegetables, fill milk cartons and juice concentrate cans with water and freeze to make blocks of ice for chilling blanched veggies. Plastic jugs can likewise be filled with water and frozen. The resulting block of ice can be used in picnic coolers or taken along when you travel-or go out to work in the garden-for a ready supply of ice-cold drinking water.

Perhaps the easiest type of recycling around the house is to return grass clippings to your lawn. Mow grass often enough so that you remove no more than one-third (about 1 inch) of the vertical grass height so clippings can drop down among the grass plants. When clippings pile up on the lawn, you've let mowing go too long. Grass clippings returned to the lawn can provide up to 25 percent of your lawn's total fertilizer needs.

Waterwise landscaping

By C.Z. Guest Copley News Service

Increasing difficulties in managing water resources are causing most people to rethink the way they use water. Xeriscape is simply a rally word for water-efficient landscaping. Planning is the most important principle because it allows you to install your plantings step by step, which minimizes initial expenses. The principles of water-wise landscaping are not new. They have been tried and tested by home gardeners and professionals for years.

The following tips serve as a basic introduction:

Soil improvements. It allows for better absorption of water and improved waterholding capacity of the soil. Soils that have organic matter also provide beneficial nutrients to plants for proper growth. It's best to improve the soil prior to the installation of any irrigation system. • Efficient irrigation. This means well-planned sprinkler systems that save water. Plantings should also be grouped according to similar water needs. Grass is best watered with sprinklers while flowers, shrubs, trees and ground covers can be watered correctly with low-volume

• Use mulches. Mulches cover and cool soil, minimize evaporation, reduce weeds and slow erosion. Organic mulches are bark chips, chipped leaves (oak is best), pine needles and grass cuttings. Never use plastic sheeting in planting areas.

· Proper maintenance. Maintenance preserves the beauty of your plantings and saves water. Proper pruning, mowing, weeding, pest control, fertilization and irrigation are the key to waterwise savings.

For example, patio space needs little or no water and adds value to any house. while mulched pathways provide an excellent alternative m Refinishing bath fixtures is a fairly tough project. Repainting is hard enough, and refinishing is better left to the professional. Epoxy or polyurethane paints can be used to repaint, but follow directions carefully. These paints are really plastic coating systems.

What to do with ugly fixtures

The refinishing process requires that the entire surface be cleaned, sanded and chemically etched. Rust is chemically removed. Cracks, chips and pits are filled and sanded smooth. Several coats of primer and the final finish coat is sprayed on.

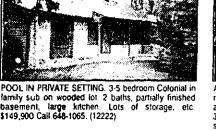

These new coatings are available in several colors and custom colors can be mixed. Check with firms that specialize in repairing and refinishing bathtubs and sinks.

Another method of refurbishing unsightly bathtubs is to have a new bathtub liner installed over the older fixture. Re-Bath Tub Copley News Service/Dan Clifford Liners (P.O. Box 15453, Phoenix, AZ 85018) is one manufacturer of plastic liners.

When contracting with a firm for refinishing or installation of a bath liner, it is best to check several suppliers to obtain price estimates and information on the type of guarantee provided prior to making a decision. The cost of the professional porcelain refinishing or the bath liner is usually less expensive than the replacement of the entire fixture.
